Proposed city budget expected to see cuts

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

Most Novi City Council members concurred that the proposed 1988-1989 budget handed to them by City Manager Edward Kriewall is a tight one, but council members still had their own set of cuts in mind as budget work wrapped up this week.

The council was expected to meet Wednesday night to put the finishing touches on an $8.7 million proposed city budget. A public hearing is scheduled for May 9 at city hall.

Council members hashed over certain areas of the budget at a pair of meetings in the last week, handling budgetary requests from a variety of different city boards and departments.

"It's a good effort," Councilman Ronald Watson said. "The administration has done a good job in presenting it. Obviously, though, there are going to be some areas that are cut before we're finished."

Council Member Martha Hoyer characterized the proposed budget

as "tight."

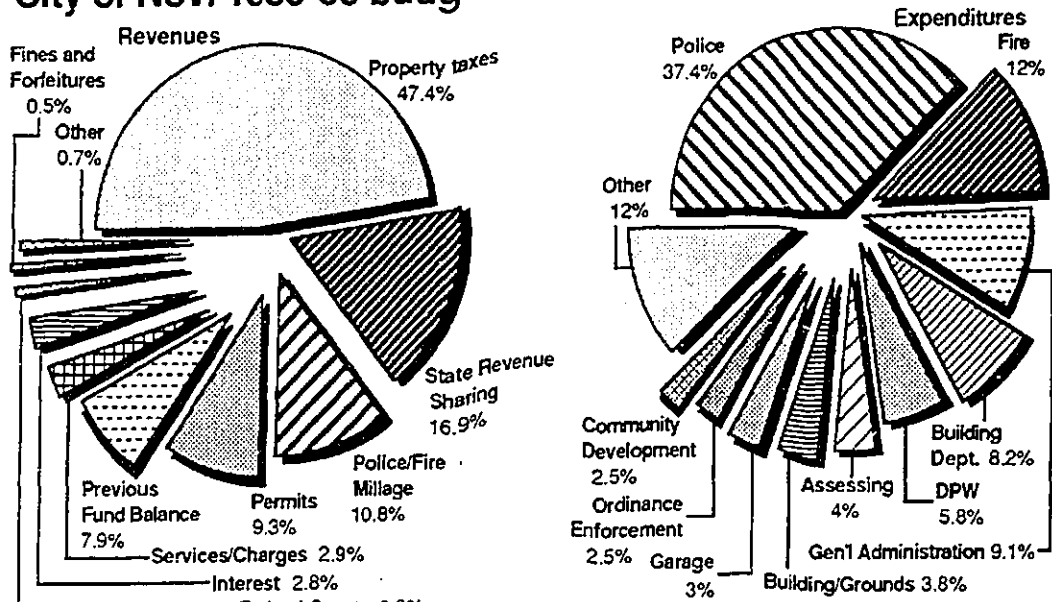

"I think the city does a good job with the budget," she said. "The schools are getting 68 cents of every dollar we take in. People have to remember that."

Council Member Nancy Covert said she is looking for further cuts in the millage rate proposed to be levied for 1988-89, as a result of new growth in the city.

Attack on duck irks pet owner

By PHIL GINOTTI

Daisy the Duck is on the mend, the victim of an alleged attack by a dog on April 13 that left her near death. Her owner, Claudia Clark, is upset enough to try and do something about it.

Clark has asked residents for increased awareness about dog laws currently on the books and redoubled efforts among dog owners to control their pets.

Clark has also recommended that the City of Novi investigate hiring a full- or part-time animal control officer to guard against the possibility of future incidents.

Novi currently has several animal control ordinances on the books, most of which pertain to noise and cleaning up after dogs and cats. Other regulations, including cruelty and so-called "leash laws" are state laws, administered by the Oakland County Animal Control Division.

"It's not just Daisy, loose dogs are a city-wide problem. Maybe we need an animal control officer to work 20 hours a week," she said. "I'm sure half the residents of this community have called the police department with an animal complaint at one time or another."

Clark said she thought an animal control officer would help to keep residents informed about pet issues and also increase the degree of compliance with licensing requirements. Those licensing requirements are currently divided between governmental agencies, leaving questions about who is responsible for enforcing which ordinance. The level of compliance among dog owners is also questionable.

"An animal control officer would increase people's awareness," she said.

City sewer taps become scarce

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
staff writer

Development in Novi may soon be coming to a sudden stop.

Novi planners learned last week the process of granting sewer permits is grinding to a halt and sewer taps for developments within the city are severely limited.

The planning commission received a memo from Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall stating that no further sewer permits will be issued until there is definite funding or construction of "Super Sewer."

Commission Chairperson Judith Johnson read the memo aloud during the planner's April 20 meeting.

Novi is currently waiting for further development of the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley ("Super Sewer") project. City officials consider "Super Sewer" to be Novi's best chance at increasing sewage capacity.

"A lot of projects we're approving now we probably won't be seeing for a while then," Commissioner John Balagna commented.

When asked what effect the memo would have on the planning process, Johnson suggested the commission conduct "business as usual" as long as developers have faith that they will receive sewer permits.

Assistant City Attorney Dennis Watson told planning commissioners they might be granting a lot of project extensions in the future as sewer taps eventually become available again. Commissioners estimated that certain projects and developments within the city may be delayed for two or three years if and when work on Super Sewer progresses.

Anticipation about the current situation has been building for months.

In early February Roy Schrameck, district supervisor of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, indicated that Novi would likely be facing a slow down in development because of the impending lack of sewage capacity.

At that time, Schrameck stated that projects well into the planning phases would be considered for sewer taps. However, projects just starting out in the process would probably have to wait, he said.

Likewise, the city administration, planning consultants and city engineers began telling potential developers in February that it was very likely no sewer taps would be available for projects entering into the planning process.

Planners approve Town Center plans

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
staff writer

The city's version of a "downtown" area, otherwise known as the Novi Town Center, is routinely scrutinized by city planners and officials to make sure it conveys a quality image.

The most recent "quality control" check occurred April 20 when the Novi Planning Commission discussed revisions to final site plans for the Trammell Crow Company development.

Novi planners approved the plans on an 8-0 vote. Revised final site plans are now expected to be considered by the city council at its May 2 meeting.

Last week's review was conducted to coordinate landscaping and architectural plans and to resolve any outstanding concerns.

Novi Town Center's newest addition is expected to be General Cinema, an eight-screen movie theater equipped to seat 2,400 patrons.

Traffic rises at Novi intersection

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
staff writer

Frequent commuters traveling through the Novi Road/Grand River intersection were most likely included in a set of statistics compiled by Barton Aschman Associates Inc.

Barton Aschman, the city's traffic consultants, recently conducted a traffic count at the intersection at the request of the Town Center Steering Committee.

Rodney Arroyo, senior associate of Barton Aschman, told Novi Planning Commissioners that traffic at the intersection has increased 12½ percent since 1985, allowing for a 4 percent increase in volume each year. He noted that most of the growth in traffic has occurred on Novi Road.

The highest volume of traffic occurs around 5 p.m. on weekdays, Arroyo said.

Arroyo: Traffic at the intersection has increased 12½ percent since 1985, allowing for a 4 percent increase in volume each year. Most of the growth in traffic has occurred on Novi Road.

Commission Chairperson Judith Johnson pointed out that the Novi Road/Grand River intersection is the most hazardous intersection in the city. As traffic increases at the intersection, she said city and planning officials will have to talk to Oakland County Road Commission about widening it.

The future of the intersection will have an impact on existing and future developments, she noted.

Arroyo agreed with Johnson's observations by noting that 35 accidents occurred at the intersection in 1986, a projected 38 accidents occurred in 1987, and 19 mishaps already taken place in the area this year.

He attributed the intersection's hazardous condition to three inherent problems, including the fact that it doesn't intersect at a 90 degree angle, the lanes are much narrower than the normal 12-foot width and existing buildings at the corner obstruct the view.

Arroyo said all of these factors make changes at the intersection difficult or nearly impossible. In order for the intersection to be considered by the Oakland County Road Commission, Arroyo said improvements would have to be included on the county's priority list.

Adding a right-turn lane at the intersection was suggested by planners as a way of improving traffic flow, but to do so would require removing a bay from the existing Amoco gas station.

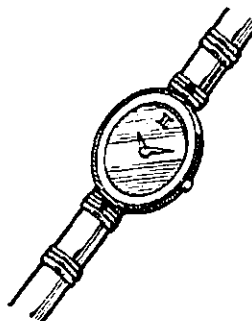

"Sooner or later the road is going to have to be widened," Commissioner Ernest Aruffo stated. "It will probably have to be one of our long-range goals."

Children's programs at library

Two programs designed specifically for children have been scheduled at the Novi Public Library.

A program about the United States Coast Guard will be held at the library this Saturday, April 30, at 1 p.m. and a Mother's Day Craft Class will be held next Saturday, May 7.

More information about either program is available by calling Children's Librarian Jane Brown at 349-0720.

Lt. Michael Bradley of the U.S. Coast Guard will discuss the duties of the Coast Guard on the Great Lakes in the April 30 program. The program will include a discussion on what ships the Coast Guard has and other interesting facts about the organization.

The program is free and open to children seven-years-old and older. Fathers and grandfathers are also encouraged to attend.

The Mother's Day Craft Class on May 7 is the last craft class of the spring season at the library. Children will make personalized cards for their mothers. There will be a class for four and five-year-olds at 1 p.m. and a second class for children six-and-over at 2 p.m.

Registrations for the craft class are required and will be accepted beginning Monday, May 2. There will be a fee of $1 to cover the cost of materials. Call the library at 349-0720 to register.

Esser set in concert

Tickets are still available for the Phil Marcus Esser concert at the Novi Civic Center this Saturday.

The multi-talented singer, director, composer and producer is scheduled to perform at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are priced at $10 and can be obtained at the Civic Center. For more information call 347-0400.

Esser is a Detroit phenomenon who has received rave reviews for over 20 years for singing and producing cabaret-style shows throughout the Detroit area. He is currently starring in a one-man show, "Heart and Soul," at Norm Tremont's in downtown Detroit.

The Novi Arts and Culture Committee is sponsoring Esser's local show as a fund-raising effort. Proceeds will be used to purchase a baby grand piano for the Civic Center.

Two students get 'business' trip

Two students from Novi's Business Office Education Club (BOEC) have become the fortunate delegates for a trip to Louisville, Kentucky.

But the trip won't be strictly for the purpose of pleasure because the students are making the trek to participate in a national business competition.

Novi High School students Grace Yee and Melanie Molina qualified to compete at the national competition in Louisville April 27 through May 1 by placing in the Business Pre-Advertising Contest in a recent state competition.

Costs for the students and their advisor, Barbara Clift, to take the trip amount to $1,102.32. Because the club only has $400 in its treasury, Clift asked the Novi Board of Education to pick up the tab for the remaining $700.

School board members discussed the matter at their April 14 meeting and agreed to pay for the entire trip except for the cost of meals, or $98.72. Board President Robert Schram cast a dissenting vote.

Board Member Michael Meyer said he thought the club shouldn't have to use all of its $400 for the trip.

"This is a national competition and I think we, as a district, should be honored that we have two students going," Meyer stated.

A breakdown of the costs for Yee and Molina to travel to Louisville includes a chartered greyhound bus fare at $60 each, or $120; a registration fee of $55 each, or $110; insurance at $2 each, or $4; three tours of local sites at $48 each, or $144; and lodging for four nights at $69.89 per night, or $279.56, for a total cost of $609.56.

Expenses for Clift to take the trip total $499.36, including bus fare, registration fees, insurance, tours of local sites, lodging and meals.

Board members agreed that school district money shouldn't be used for the purposes of tours because they are a form of personal entertainment.

In addition to the travel expenses, the board also agreed to underwrite the cost of a substitute teacher to fill in while Clift is gone.

The BOEC originated six years ago to prepare students for the business world. For the past two years students have qualified to compete at national levels. Last year, six students competed in Des Moines, Iowa. Likewise, in 1986 four students traveled to Columbus, Ohio, for the national competition. In each of the competitions, Novi had a national winner.

For both previous trips, the school board voted to pay for all of the students' expenses except for meals.

Novi fire may try new night policy

A unique "sleepover" program may allow the Novi Fire Department to have more people at its disposal without necessarily increasing the number of full-time firefighters.

Novi is expected to bring two paid-on-call firefighters up to full-time status this week in accordance with the recommendations of a citizens committee made last year.

In addition, Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan is seeking approval of a new program, which would have paid-on-call firefighters stay overnight at the fire station to respond to calls. The firefighters would do the sleepover once every few weeks, Lenaghan said, noting that specific details have not yet been worked out.

The program, which is not used extensively in Michigan, is used in several eastern states, Lenaghan said.

Lenaghan said the idea for using the program in Novi came from City Manager Edward Kriewall when the two were discussing fire department needs earlier this year.

"It would help us get some better coverage and it would also allow some of our paid-on-call people to get a little bit more involved," Lenaghan said.

Plans for an addition to Fire Station No. 1 on Grand River Avenue — another recommendation by the Police and Fire Protection Needs Committee last year — also were brought forward last week. Lenaghan said dormitory space would be needed to house the additional firefighters.

The needs committee had recommended the addition of five full-time firefighters this year. Two were added this week with three more recommended to be hired by July. Those hirings, combined with the sleepover program, could greatly increase the amount of firefighters housed and available for fire runs, Lenaghan said.

District Governor Mav Sanghvi presides over the District 538 convention at the Novi Hilton Saturday

Novi News/PHIL JEROME

Local Rotarians get big honors

More than 500 Rotarians from southeastern Michigan and Canada met at the Novi Hilton last weekend to attend the District 538 Conference of Rotary International.

It marked the first time since the Novi Rotary Club was chartered approximately 27 years ago that District 538's annual convention has been held in Novi.

Novi physician Dr. Mav Sanghvi is District Governor for District 538 which includes the 53 Rotary clubs in Oakland, Macomb, Livingston and Washtenaw counties as well as Kent County in Ontario.

"The district convention is the most important event of the year for the district and it was a real honor to have hosted it in Novi, just as it's a real honor to have a member of our local club (Sanghvi) be elected to serve as district governor," commented Robert Maynes of Novi Rotary.

Maynes noted that only one other member of the Novi club, Leo Harwood, has been elected district governor in the local chapter's 27-year history.

Featured speaker at the district conference was U.S. Senator Carl Levin who addressed Rotarians Saturday morning on the subject of arms control and nuclear disarmament in conjunction with Rotary International's stated goal of achieving world peace.

Other featured speakers included Dr. Robert Poole III from Pennsylvania, the personal representative of Rotary International President Charles C. Keller, and Richard D. "Rick" King of California, a director-nominee of Rotary International.

King delivered a stirring address on the need to support Rotary International's PolioPlus program, an international campaign to eliminate polio and other crippling children's diseases from the face of the earth through a world-wide immunization program.

Novi Rotary also made two special presentations during the district conference: □ A special award was presented to Novi Rotarian Floyd White for making a personal donation of $10,000 to the PolioPlus Program. White is chairperson of the PolioPlus campaign in Novi which has established the goal of raising $100,000 over the next three years for the world-wide campaign.

In accepting the award, White said he is dedicated to the concept of world peace and believes the PolioPlus campaign can help achieve that objective. □ Philip Jerome, managing editor of The Novi News, was named a Paul Harris Fellow, the highest honor in Rotary. A local club must make a minimum donation of $1,000 to Rotary International for the privilege of awarding a Paul Harris Fellowship.

Novi High School teacher Janey Baird was named a Paul Harris Fellow by Novi Rotary earlier this year. Baird is the founder and faculty sponsor of the Novi High School Interact chapter, a Rotary-sponsored organization for high school students.

Other special guests at the conference were individuals involved in programs sponsored by Rotary International, including the Group Study Exchange program, which trades "teams" of women with Rotary clubs in Australia; the Rotary Foundation Scholars, a program which provides scholarships which enable students to continue graduate studies in foreign countries; and the Rotary Youth Exchange Program, which enables high school students to attend a year of school in a foreign country while living with Rotary families in other lands.

Maynes reported that a highlight of the conference was a multi-religious ecumenical service on Sunday morning. Participants included Anis Ahmed of Novi, who talked about the Islam religion; Sanghvi, who talked about the Hindu religion; Michael Meyer of Novi, who talked about the Catholic religion; and Ron Smeenge, who talked about Protestant religions.

"Rotary International is an organization which transcends religious and political boundaries in its goals of service to humanity and world peace," said Maynes. "The ecumenical service helped illustrate that we are all one people on this earth regardless of our religious beliefs."

Rotary International is comprised of 23,000 clubs in 162 countries and territories of the free world. The 23,000 clubs are divided into 460 chapters.

Maynes reported that efforts currently are under way to extend Rotary into the USSR and other Iron Curtain countries. Sanghvi and Maynes attended a conference in Indiana earlier this year to discuss further the goal of extending Rotary into Iron Curtain countries.

Planners' budget gets a close look

staff writer

Novi officials say they don't expect any hard feelings in the wake of several disagreements over how much money the Novi Planning Commission should get for the new programs in the next fiscal year.

The city council, in a budget study Monday night, balked at several major planning commission proposals in the 1988-89 budget. The council discussed changes Monday and was scheduled to meet again Wednesday to work out final details. Results of that meeting were not available by press time, but several council members indicated that some of the suggested planning programs would be left out.

Among the new proposed programs council members disagreed with was a northeast sector study, which would look at possible land uses near M-9 when that project finally goes through. (See related story.)

Several council members also gave what looked like a preliminary thumbs down to a natural resources education program, coordinated through the school district, and a fiscal impact study, which would take a look at whether or not the community now has the right mix of zoning to pay for itself in the future.

Council members, though not taking a vote at the Monday night meeting, also voiced disfavor with several other planning commission budget proposals.

The planning commission and community development proposed budgets would account for slightly over $600,000 of the city's $8.7 million total package.

Council Member Martha Hoyer indicated that the council was likely to make cuts in the overall amount of money allotted to the planning commission but not cut specific programs.

"We would probably just make our cuts and allow them to come back to us," she said.

"I certainly wouldn't expect any hard feelings," Mayor Matthew Quinn said. "A lot of people get that feeling when they see us debate certain programs."

"I feel that they (the planning commission) understand," he added. "We're trying to sort out in our minds what we believe is needed now and what can wait until next year."

City council members took the planning commission to task on a number of the requested items. Some council members questioned the $26,000 northeast sector study.

Quinn: 'I certainly wouldn't expect any hard feelings.'

Others voiced disapproval of the $11,000 fiscal impact study, the $8,000 natural resources education program, $12,000 more for Town Center planning, and $5,000 for an architectural review consultant.

Planners said the fiscal impact study would allow the city to plot a course for its future land use, knowing how much revenue to expect from that land.

But several council members disagreed.

"I really can't support it," Councilman Hugh Crawford said. "What if the study comes back and says we can't afford ourselves. What are you going to do, tear it down?"

"It should have been done a long time ago... before we did $24,000 worth of rezonings," said Councilman Joseph Tuth.

The city recently approved a priority list of rezonings and is moving towards enacting most of those changes. The money to accomplish these city-initiated rezonings — $34,000 — is included in the 1988-89 budget.

Planners said the study would allow the city to know what kind of revenue to expect from its vacant land. Quinn and Hoyer indicated some support for the study.

Crawford and Council Member Nancy Covert also objected to the amount of new consulting services, and other studies asked for in the budget.

The planning commission and community development budgets call for new consulting services for architectural design and traffic study.

Planners said they currently don't have enough expert advice in architectural design at hand, which has hindered them.

"It's becoming an exact science," said Community Development Director James Wahl. "It's needed in Novi."

But Crawford disagreed. "We're bringing in a consultant for every little thing in the city when we have staff, consultants, and citizens' committees that deal with the same issues," he said. "You don't need a consultant to tell you... I can tell you if it looks tacky."

TIPS FROM TUCKKLAPER
Novi Dental Center

PREVENTING SPORTS INJURIES

No one would think of playing tackle football without wearing shoulder pads and a helmet. Yet, far too many youngsters play contact sports without wearing protection for their mouths. This results in all too many cases of split lips, broken, chipped and knocked out teeth. For example, fifty-two percent of all football injuries occur in unprotected faces and mouths.

The best way to prevent all this mouth damage, is to wear a mouth protector. Bars across football helmets don't do the same job. They don't protect the teeth and jaws from an upward blow on the chin — only from a blow straight against the face. Dental injuries to football players wearing proper mouth protectors have been almost completely eliminated.

Most old-style mouthguards, such as those we see boxers using, are not very easy to wear because they are bulky. Talking is just about impossible. Many players prefer to talk and be comfortable and risk the chance of injury rather than wear one. However, a modern mouth-guard, made to an accurate model of a boy's mouth doesn't interfere with mouth breathing, stays in place when the mouth is open, allows clear speech and is comfortable.

"WHERE QUALITY COSTS LESS"

Communities urged to improve communication

By BOB NEEDHAM
staff writer

The City of Novi, Northville Township and the City of Northville should improve communication between the three, officials said recently.

Speaking at a forum sponsored by the Northville branch of the American Association of University Women, Northville City Manager Steve Walters, Northville Township Manager Steve Brock and Novi Planning Commission Chairperson Judith Johnson agreed that their communities should improve communication to insure strong planning and future development.

There is a lot of potential for communication between the three municipalities, Walters said at the meeting. When planning issues are discussed, inter-community communication is important, he said.

Walters also suggested the future may hold an expansion of the idea of shared services — like the library and the recreation commission — between the city and township of Northville.

The shared service concept "probably is going to have to get used to a greater degree rather than lesser," Walters said. "There probably are some other opportunities in the long run."

One possibility might be a shared building department, once the building activity in the city slows down, he said.

Brock agreed that communication is important, particularly between Northville and Northville Township. "We plan on communicating quite freely," he said.

Johnson said an arrangement between Novi and Farmington Hills under which each community notifies the other of proposals along Haggerty Road, the common border — has done a lot to improve communication. "It does give you some advance warning," she said.

Johnson also said, "One thing that we need to cooperate on is severities. That can have a great impact on the residential you're hoping to see developed."

Cooperation between the three municipalities was the last of five topics the officials were asked to address. Other issues included an overview of each community, a review of growth over the past decade or two, and the effect of surrounding growth on each community.

The three communities have all seen a lot of development over the past 10 to 20 years, the officials said, although Novi and Northville Township remain mostly undeveloped.

Johnson said Novi is in the process of reducing the allowed densities of development for much of the western half of the city.

One common thread running through any city you deal with."

But the freeway system has produced changes, she added. "Suddenly it's very easy to live here and work there," she said. In addition, "Companies now want to locate their office or headquarters close to where their employees want to live."

While the City of Northville is almost totally developed — and the one large vacant parcel, off Sheldon and Seven Mile, is being built up — both Northville Township and Novi are interested in tempering at least the intensity of development, the officials said.

Johnson said Novi is in the process of reducing the allowed densities of development for much of the western half of the city.

"We, too, are trying to curtail densities. It's a sensitive issue," Brock said.

"We are in a position of having a lot of developers come to us... There are very few ways you can say no to anyone."

Another issue to face in the future is traffic, the officials said. "Traffic is a big problem that you're trying to deal with and it's a very frustrating problem because you don't have the money," Johnson said.

Walters said the City of Northville's problems in the future will likely be more reacting to things that take place, for example, the future of sites like the Ford plant and Northville Township's future. "Those are all speculative problems for us. We're trying to hedge our bets," he said.

County road officials campaign for ballot proposal

PONTIAC — The campaign for a $25 vehicle registration fee in Oakland County could turn into dozens of local campaigns for roads.

That's because the Oakland County Road Commission (OCRC) is canvassing 58 cities, townships and villages for their priorities and trying to address them individually.

"We're not publicly campaigning yet," said OCRC chairman Fred Houghton of Rochester Hills. As a public agency, he said, it can't spend tax money to campaign for the $18.6 million issue on the Aug. 2 ballot.

Private groups are expected to raise campaign money, particularly in areas with traffic jams due to economic growth.

"Nobody had to ask OCRC to get in," said Lawrence Littman, another member of the three-man road panel.

CORE is Committee on Road Enhancement, an outgrowth of the Troy Chamber of Commerce.

"There's a 'son of CORE' out in Rochester," added Houghton.

Two countywide tax campaigns have been run in recent years. In 1984 the Parks and Recreation Commission raised private money to renew its property tax millage. In 1986 the Oakland Intermediate School District ran an almost invisible campaign, contacting only people with school connections, to win approval of a tax increase for special education.

The County Board of Commissioners on March 24 voted 20-4 to place the proposal on the primary election ballot.

"There was good bipartisan support," said Littman of Troy. "I didn't understand why they had an argument over the election date."

Voting to place the issue on the ballot were 17 Republicans and three Democrats. Four dissenting Democrats argued that a Nov. 8 vote would allow more campaign time and also asked in vain that the board of commissioners endorse the proposal now.

Houghton wasn't disappointed, however, that the 27 elected commissioners didn't endorse the plan immediately. "It's premature to expect an endorsement at this point, but I hope we'll get one later. They want to see our overall plan," he said.

"A lot of Novi is still very rural atmosphere," Johnson said. "Novi likes changes. That seems to be the

This year's survey of the communities is a follow-up to the 1985-86 survey in which communities placed economic road needs at a total of $750 million over 10 years. That needs list prompted the road commission to ask for several local-option taxes. The Michigan Legislature allowed only one — the $25-per-vehicle registration fee on the ballot.

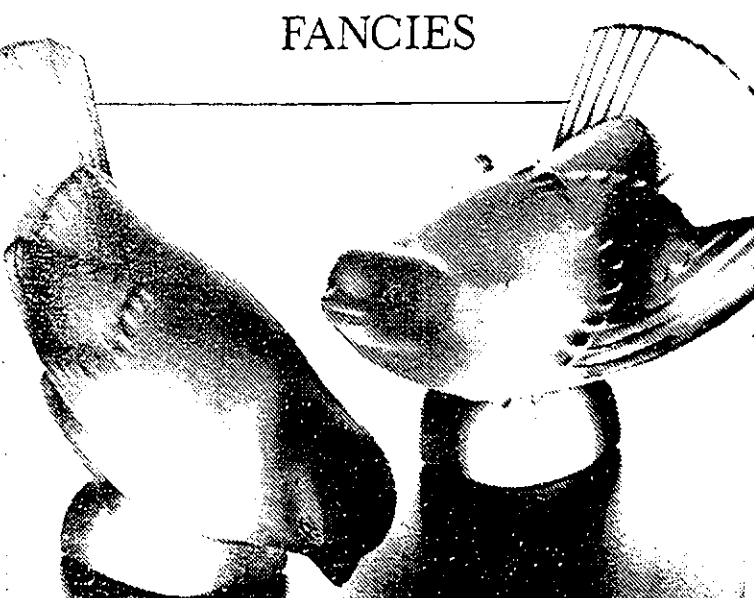

Bair said communities are coming up with pretty much the same needs list as two years ago.

"They're really not making a wish list. They're listing lots of the same priorities. It's rather consistent. It shows they have legitimate needs, not a wish list."

"In general the response has been very good. They are supportive," Bair said.

The road commission will put all the lists together in a program by June 1. That will leave campaigners two months to reach voters.

Board awards construction bids

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
staff writer

Construction workers are in the process of breaking ground for a new school to serve future generations of Novi kindergartners as building materials begin arriving by the truckloads.

Meanwhile, Novi school officials remain optimistic that costs for construction and materials will remain within or under previously budgeted amounts.

Novi Board of Education recently awarded two sets of bids to various contractors so construction within the district can begin on schedule. The action, which occurred at special meetings on April 14 and 21, will allow essential materials to be ordered for the first phases of construction of the district's new elementary school.

A major portion of bids also were awarded for work to begin on renovations to Novi Meadows School, where six classrooms will be added.

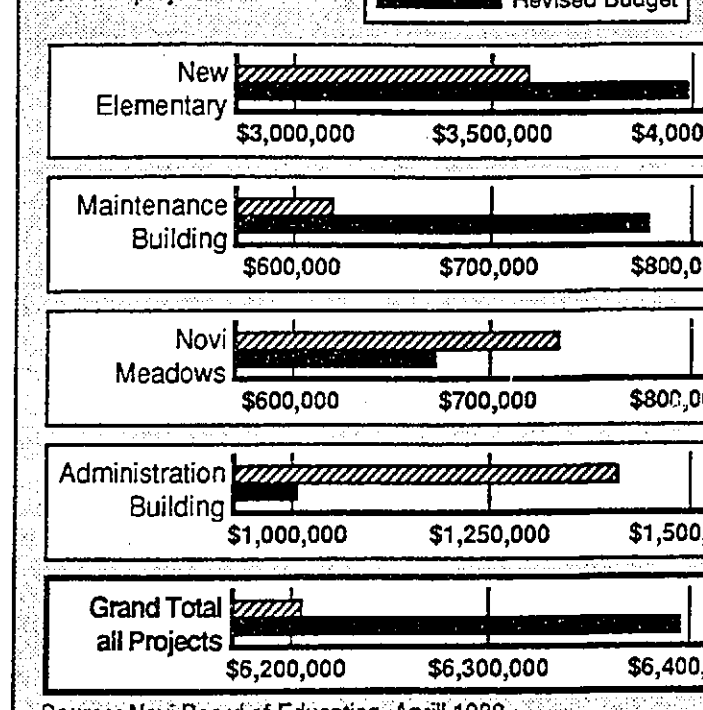

The school district's construction management firm, E&V Inc., tabulated 62 individual bids that were received at an April 7 meeting and interviewed interested bidders before making recommendations to the school board.

Kevin Smith of E&V Inc. explained that the bid packages will allow initial construction work to begin on the site. Further bid packages will be awarded for subsequent stages of construction.

Construction Fund Report

Novi Schools' 1988 Construction Fund Reports

Note: Scale varies according to each project

The first package of elementary school bids awarded on April 14 amounted to $1,057,715. Current cost of the school is estimated at $3,916,376.

This bid package provides for earth moving, erecting steel, utilities and for supplies such as concrete, foundations, masonry, steel joists, steel decking, carpentry and gypsum wall board.

Since first proposed, the elementary school has been increased by 5,000 square feet, to 45,000 total square feet. Superintendent Robert Piwko indicated that minor expansions to certain areas were made as plans were laid out for the school, resulting in the extra 5,000 square feet.

Board President Robert Schram noted that although the elementary building's size increased 12 percent, there was only a 9 percent increase in bid costs.

In addition to the elementary school costs, bids totaling $340,526.43 were awarded for initial renovation work at Novi Meadows. The bids allow for demolition, masonry, miscellaneous steel, aluminum frames, glass, glazing and gypsum drywall.

Total cost of the renovations to Novi Meadows is estimated at $672,168.

A second bid package awarded on April 21 totaled $523,040 for hardware, flat roofing and electrical work for both the elementary school and Novi Meadows.

Piwko pointed out that total building cost estimates may be adjusted as construction progresses. He also noted that bid costs might change in the future, although he expects the figures to decrease rather than increase.

Additional bid packages will be awarded for the remainder of construction work to the two projects as the building process moves along.

Traffic volume rises at intersection

Arroyo reminded the commission about planned road improvements near the corner that may lessen problems at the intersection. These improvements include construction of a ring-road around Town Center, which is expected to divert traffic away from the intersection; modifications to the I-96/Beck Road interchange, which may draw heavy truck traffic away from the intersection; and Haggerty Road improvements.

Community Development James Wahl explained that the traffic study was requested to analyze how traffic flows through the intersection. It was coordinated at a time when a lot of road construction is occurring within Novi Township.

In a written report to the planning commission, Rolf Kilian, principal associate at Barton Aschman, outlined the status of Town Center traffic improvements.

Town Center is a Trammell Crow development at Grand River and Novi Road. Completed traffic improvements except for cleanup include:

- ☐ Town Center Drive construction.
- ☐ Ingersoll Drive construction.
- ☐ Widening the east side of Novi Road.
- ☐ Widening Grand River Avenue at Town Center Drive.
- ☐ Closure of a bank driveway on Grand River.
- ☐ Modification of "old Eleven Mile Road" to serve as a bank driveway.
- ☐ Construction of secondary driveways on Grand River and Novi Road.
- ☐ Installation of a traffic signal at

Novi Road and Crescent Drive. Ongoing traffic improvements include installing a traffic signal at Grand River and Town Center Drive, which is still being studied; widening the west side of Novi Road at Crescent Drive, expected to be completed this summer; modifying traffic signals required to reflect the widening and future lane usage at Novi Road and Crescent Drive; and interconnecting all the Novi Road traffic signals south of I-96 to Grand River — part of the system ties into the system currently under construction north of I-96 to Twelve Mile.

Interest in golf courses grows

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

While golf has remained one of the strongest outdoor sports, increasing in popularity year to year, the amount of new course construction has only recently shown signs of picking up.

Experts say new golf course construction is currently in the midst of a major revival, shaking a 30-year trend which has seen annual decreases in the number of new courses since the early 1960s.

But right on the heels of that revival come new challenges for much of the rapidly-developing sections of Oakland County. Increasing assessments, scarce lands and tempting development offers are jeopardizing the futures of currently existing golf courses.

Several local communities, including Novi, have lost or are in the process of losing golf courses to development. Developers, having run out of totally vacant land, have sought out the next best thing.

"That's not something that is a new phenomenon," Golf Course Architect Jerry Matthews said. "We've seen it in a lot of different areas. When the property values become such that operating a golf course is no longer feasible, you'll see the land go on the market."

Development plans already have been undertaken for the Bob-O-Link Golf Course on Grand River, capitalizing on the rapidly increasing property values in the 1460 corridor. Other communities such as West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills are either losing or have lost major golf courses to development.

The owners of the Shenandoah Golf Course in West Bloomfield, facing another round of assessment increases, at one point had made a decision to sell the course earlier this year. Citizens groups, who were going forward with a recall of two township officials, immediately reacted and threatened to fight the development plans in court if necessary.

Owners of that course are currently considering a final decision on whether or not to sell, but could not be reached for comment this week.

"There is no question that development just overtakes golf courses," said Gary Whitener, a golf professional and manager of the municipal courses Idyl Wild and Whispering Willows in Livonia. Whitener said high assessments and great walk-in offers make sales of private courses a very attractive option.

Whitener has proposed to develop a 27-hole course in Novi, near Ten Mile and Napier Road.

"If you get taxes up to where they are approaching $100,000, it makes it a very definite consideration," Whitener said. "Taxes have just doubled and it's not surprising at all to see a lot of courses in neighboring communities go out onto the market."

"The other thing is that you get people who just come in and make an offer. The money being paid for golf courses is just incredible."

Whitener said only a few local communities have made a commitment to retaining public (privately-owned) golf courses that are headed the way of development.

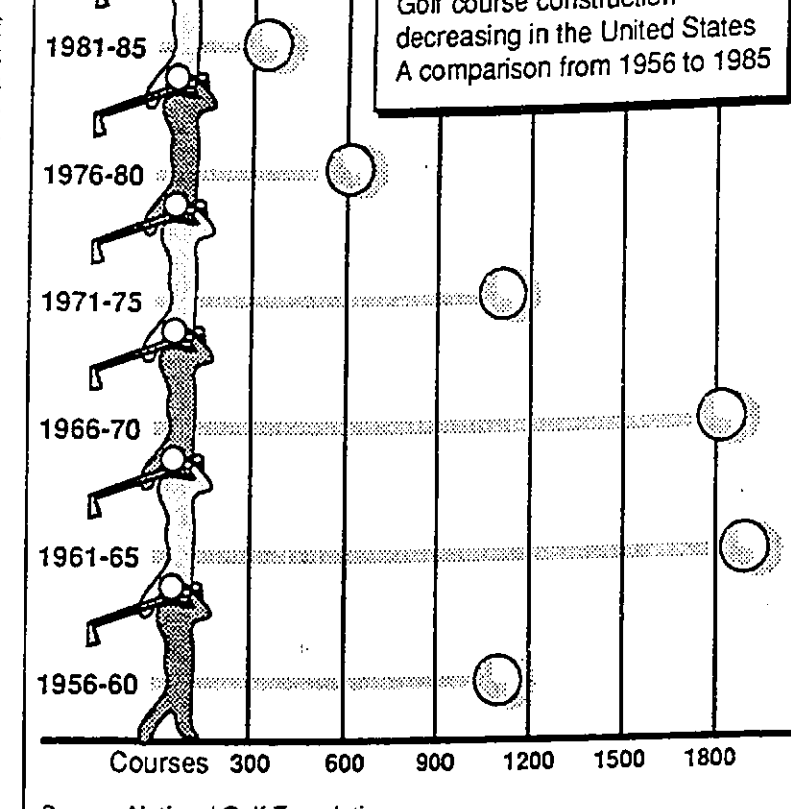

The National Golf Foundation, a clearinghouse of support for golf course owners and operators, has estimated major shortfalls in golf course availability over the next several years. The group has estimated that a lack of new construction, combined with the increasing popularity of the sport, could cause major gaps by the year 2000.

They estimated that one course would have to be constructed each day until the year 2000 to accommodate the number of people taking up the sport.

But Matthews said that may be a liberal estimate. He said his Lansing-based firm is probably having its busiest period since the first major "boom" of the late 1950s. The new "boom" isn't likely to show up in the statistics for quite some time.

"Right now we're busier than ever before," he said. "New course construction and design is going very well."

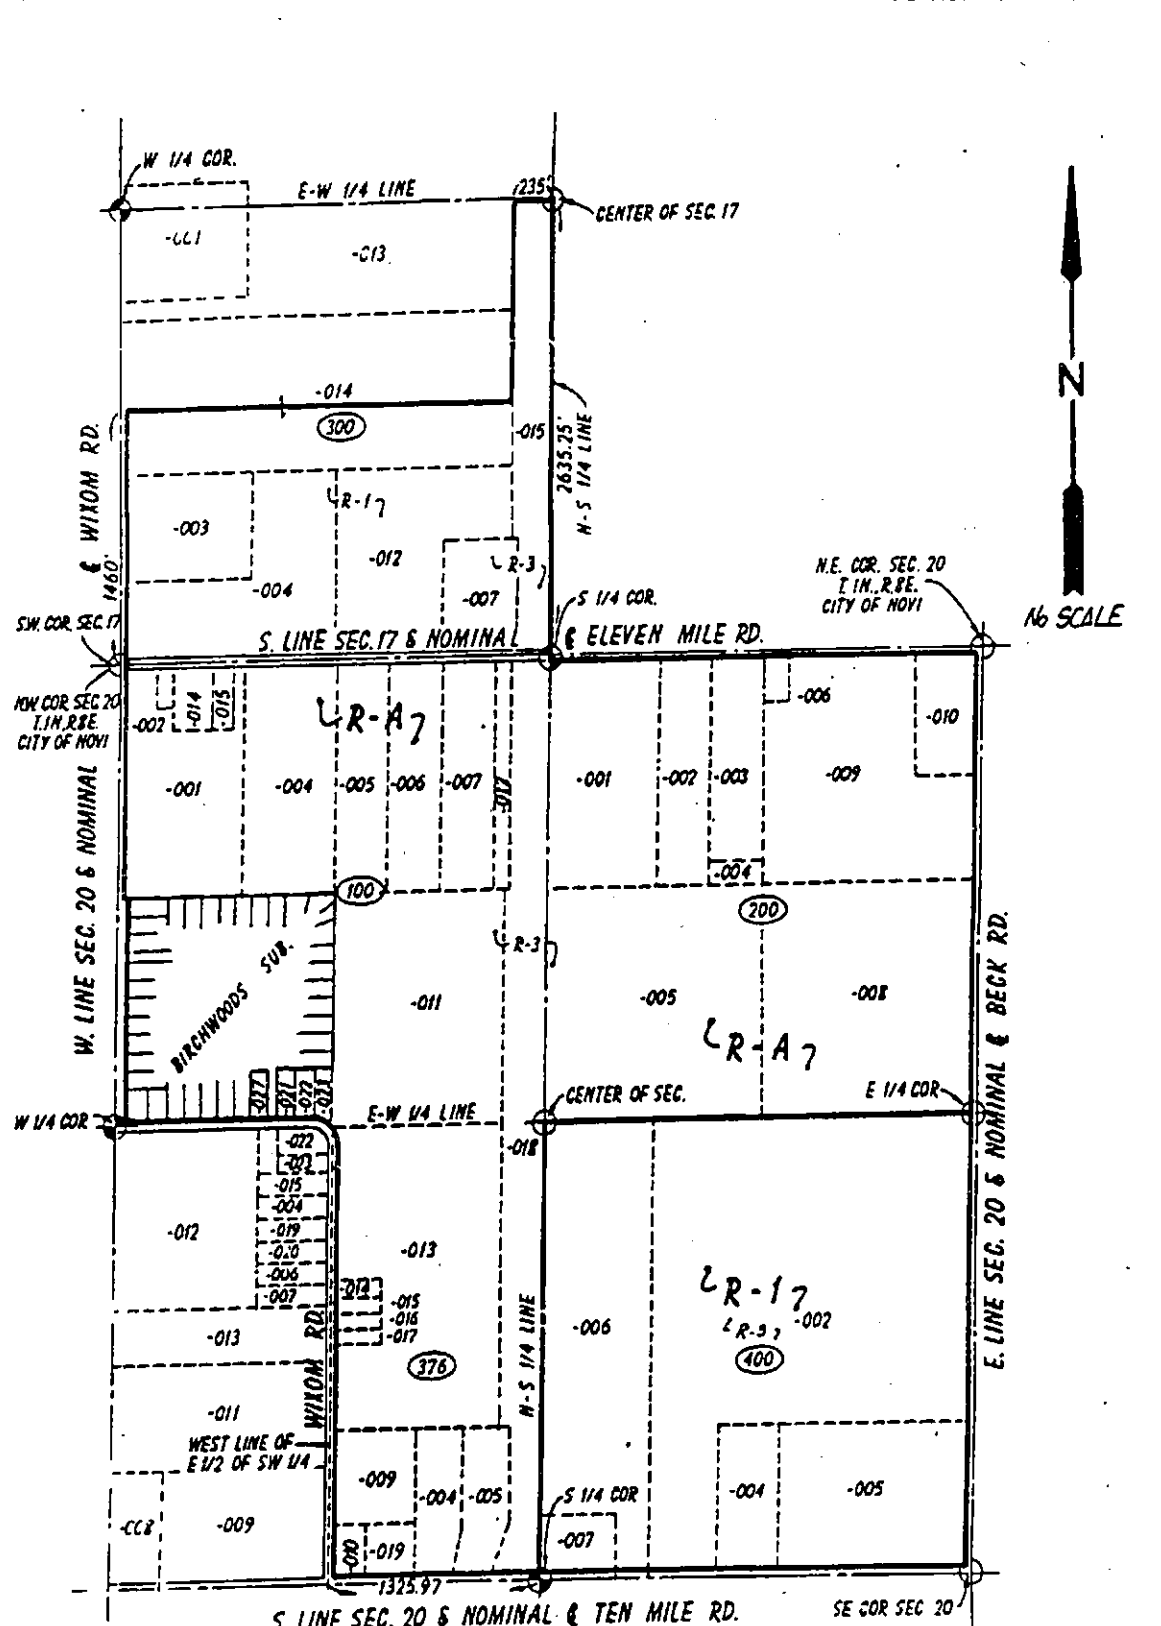

"In the last 3 to 5 years, I think you've seen it pick up quite a bit," said Whitener.

Final site plans for Novi Town Center approved

Planners raised concerns about proposed site plans for the cinema because its facade plan doesn't indicate that brick will be used on all four sides of the building.

City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers commented that the only site not planned to be surfaced with brick is the one facing the inside courtyard. He said the wall is expected to be painted so it will coordinate with the existing facade.

With more traffic expected to visit the development, city planners asked that a traffic study be conducted to insure that there is adequate parking in the Town Center.

Rodney Arroyo of Barton-Aschman Associates Inc., the city's traffic consultants, said available parking areas for the existing Vic Tanny and the proposed cinema will coordinate well because the peak traffic hours for both facilities are different. For example, he anticipated that peak hours for the theater will occur at 10 p.m. on Fridays and 8:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

The retail areas, on the other hand, enjoy peak hours at 6:30 p.m. on Fridays and 2 p.m. on Saturdays, Arroyo said.

He estimated that parking congestion may occur during the summer months and the Christmas shopping season, causing some inconvenience. On the whole, he said there will be adequate parking to serve the cinema and the stores.

Arroyo suggested that several modifications be made to the site plans, including installation of two new additional pedestrian links across from the cinema; pedestrian walkways be constructed to connect Vic Tanny and the adjacent parking lot; a future pedestrian connection be included at Town Center Drive and Grand River when a traffic signal is put in; and that an additional 15 feet be added to the curbing around Kupperman Men's Clothing at Crescent Boulevard.

Commission Chairperson Judith Johnson asked about the status of constructing a double left turn lane on Novi Road at Crescent Boulevard, which would require some road widening.

Joseph Kapelczak, the city's engineering consultant, said hopefully the construction will take place this year although it may be held up because of funding technicalities.

Plans for proposed artwork within the development have not been finalized, but Andy Tracey of the Trammel Crow Company explained that he has been in contact with the Center For Creative Studies for help in selecting a sculpture for the development.

Planning commissioners expressed disappointment that plans have not yet been submitted for the artwork.

Commissioner Charles Kureth asked that a concrete timetable be established for the artwork and that plans be presented to the Town Center Steering Committee, the planning commission and the city council before any action is taken.

"We don't want a fait accompli," Kureth commented. "We want some input on the matter."

A park is proposed within Novi Town Center near Grand River and Novi Road, but it is not expected to be completed until 1991.

Tracey indicated that Trammel Crow officials will seek a final "certificate of occupancy" for Town Center in about six weeks. At that time all phases of the development are expected to be bonded, including the park and artwork at twice their actual cost.

City officials debate land use along M-9 roadway

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

Routine budget talk spurred a renewed debate Monday night as members of the Novi City Council and Planning Commission disagreed over how to handle development of property near the state's proposed M-9 trunkline.

The proposed M-9 trunkline is the new name of the former I-275 roadway. The road would basically travel north, roughly parallel with Haggerty Road. The planning commission wants to study the effect that extension of M-9 would have on property between Meadowbrook Road and the next thoroughfare.

Fearing that the area could turn into another dense commercial strip when the road goes through, planners have asked for a $26,000 study on potential land use in the 1988-89 budget. Planning commissioners believe they will get a flood of rezoning requests when the road goes through, since most of the land is currently tagged with strict residential zoning classifications.

But some city council members balked visibly at the proposed study.

"I don't see the need for it to change from a residential area," Council Member Martha Hoyer said.

Hoyer: 'I don't see the need for it to change from a residential area. You're already saying developers are going to come in and ask for major changes. It's master planned (residential). I don't see any reason for it to change.'

"You're already saying developers are going to come in and ask for major changes. It's master planned (residential). I don't see any reason for it to change."

Council Member Hugh Crawford said the area should stay residential, but agreed that a study might be needed.

"We've got that area residential," he said. "This would probably be best in next year's budget."

Judith Johnson, chairperson of the planning commission, said the need for a study on the area is needed in light of what has occurred near other main thoroughfares such as Northwestern Highway and Orchard Lake Road through West Bloomfield Township.

Those major roads spurred large-scale rezoning requests, court cases and major losses of lands that had previously been zoned residential. Most of the areas now contain dense commercial and office strips.

"We're talking about either side of a well-traveled roadway," Johnson said.

Community Development Director James Wahl said the study would help the city plan ahead.

"We would like to have some answers," Wahl said. "We would like to be projecting rather than reacting."

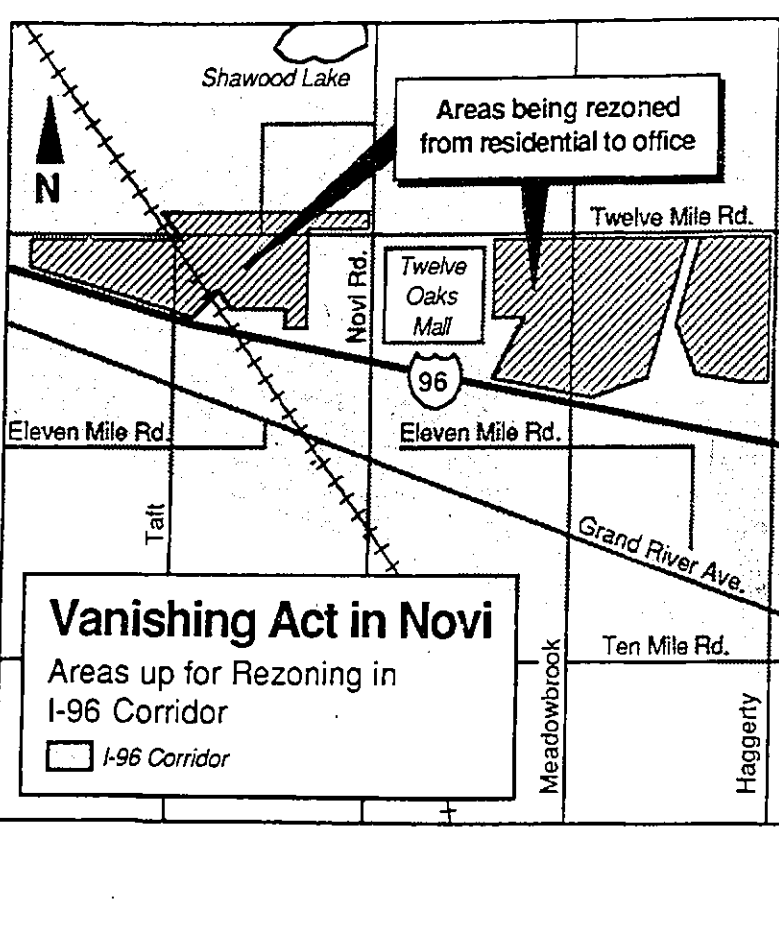

Councilman Edward Leininger agreed with Wahl. "We don't want to have to react," he said. "We should identify potential sites and study it."

Hoyer said she was unwilling to support further losses of residential lands north of I-96 for fears that many additional areas may be lost via a "domino theory," as often happens in zoning.

The city council is currently working on a priority list of rezonings to be undertaken by the end of the 1988-89 fiscal year. Those rezonings would change much of the land near the I-96 corridor from residential to office space, since planners are convinced that developers probably wouldn't be interested in putting a residential developments in that area.

Hoyer has said the city should probably draw the line in that area and not allow office and commercial zoning designations to creep further north.

"That is the thing we keep hearing over and over again from the residents," she said. "They want it kept residential. It's residential now, and I don't see any reason for it to change."

engineer at the Fisher Body Division of General Motors prior to his retirement.

Area Briefs

Recreation district zoning: The West Bloomfield Township Planning Commission is considering adoption of a new zoning district to protect recreation areas.

If approved the recreation district zoning classification will create a separate category of land use within the township, incorporating both public and private lands of more than 10 acres that are now used for recreational purposes.

The property could not be used in the future for anything but recreation. Currently, those lands are zoned single-family residential and reflect special-use approvals for that zoning. Properties that could qualify for the recreation district zoning designation include parkland owned by the township, private golf courses and country clubs, recreational beach clubs, boat docking and launching facilities, and archery ranges.

No more vals and vals: The days of valedictorians and salutatorians may be numbered. Several area high schools already have dropped the valedictorian/salutatorian designation in favor of a broader recognition program for top honor students, and the West Bloomfield School District may soon follow suit.

Schools that already have done away with the designation include Birmingham Groves, Troy Athens, Bloomfield Hills Lanier, Southfield-Lathrup and Bloomfield Andover.

A prime objective of dropping valedictorian/salutatorian designations is to remove the pressure on students to concentrate on grades. Instead, they would be encouraged to get the best education possible under a wider recognition program for high achievers. Specifically, students would be encouraged to take harder classes rather than protect grade point averages.

Retiring school teachers: The Southfield school board figures it will have to replace about 25 percent of its professional staff over the next five years. Roughly 25 percent of the district's 630 teachers are expected to retire by 1992.

School Board Member Harold Bussey said he expects black teachers will be aggressively pursued to fill some of the vacancies. Currently there are about 40 black teachers in the district, while Southfield High now has 64 percent black students and Southfield-Lathrup is 26 percent black.

A mill represents one dollar of tax for every $1,000 in assessed value.

Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall said the new millage rate should keep city taxes about the same for most residents. He said residents would have needed to sustain more than a 10 percent increase in assessed value on their property before paying more in taxes than they did last year.

"We've seen some assessments going up 10, 20 and 30 percent," he said. "You would have had to go up more than 10 percent before you would see increases."

The average Novi assessment climbed 10 percent last year, according to Novi Assessor John Mer-field, although it is difficult to sort out the new construction and simple property value increases. New construction and new structures going on the tax rolls increased the city's tax base approximately 28 percent, which also figured in the reduced millage rate, Kriewall said.

Under state law, municipalities are required to roll back the millage rate when they get increased revenue above and beyond the rate of inflation.

How the school district, county, community college and other levies will be affected by that rollback isn't yet known, according to Merfield. Slightly over $4 million of the $8.7 million budget will be raised through property taxes in the 1988-89 fiscal year.

Homeowners who saw their assessments jump from $389 to $355,000 last year and paid approximately $45 more in taxes, despite the decreased levy.

Homeowners experiencing a jump from $100,000 to $110,000 in valuation would pay approximately $68 more in taxes to the city.

Budget work was expected to wrap up Wednesday night (after The News' deadline). Kriewall said he doesn't expect a change in the recommended millage rate levied as the council works out final budget details.

Driving program aids area seniors

Drivers over 65 and under 24 of age have one thing in common — their rate of accidents per miles driven is the highest of any other age group.

Since the number of Americans over age 65 is forecast to increase by a whopping 25 percent by the turn of the century, the accident picture of older drivers is bleak.

At the same time, the loss of a driving license can be devastating to a senior citizen, leaving that person alone and isolated.

Thus, a unique effort is underway in Oakland County to help senior citizens sharpen their driving skills and learn to maintain driving mobility for as long and as safely as possible. The program is offered by the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County (TIA) in conjunction with local senior citizen groups.

The Oakland County Senior Citizens Driving Retraining Program, federally funded through the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning, will be offered at 12 locations throughout Oakland County beginning April 25 and running through September. The program is unique in the United States because it combines classroom activities with confidential on-the-road performance, evaluation and psycho-physical testing.

The classroom portion of the program, 55 ALIVE/MATURE DRIVING, was developed by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) and has been taught to over 500,000 senior citizens nationally. The course is specifically geared to the needs of older motorists and covers such topics as the effects of aging and medications on driving, techniques for compensating, defensive driving skills and accident prevention measures.

Seniors can also take a series of optional psycho-physical tests and a driving performance evaluation. The results of these evaluations will be known only to the student and instructor, and no records of results will be kept.

The psycho-physical testing measures such factors as brake reaction time, glare recovery for night driving, visual acuity, and other elements important to driving. The results of performance evaluation allows seniors to drive their own cars with trained evaluators present who will point out possible problem areas in driving behavior and suggest corrective techniques.

Research shows that the physical changes of aging create difficulties for many older drivers when yielding the right-of-way, backing, turning, changing lanes and entering and leaving expressways.

However, research also indicates that older persons can improve their driving abilities through additional training, attention and practice, enabling them to maintain their driving licenses longer while driving more safely. This is the ultimate goal of the Oakland County Senior Citizens Driving Retraining Program.

Courses will be available in Novi on June 29-30 and in Farmington Hills on July 18-19. Additional courses will be scheduled in August and September.

Persons age 55 or older are eligible to participate. The course fee is $7 and pre-registration is required. To enroll call Carol Tomczak at 334-4971.

As We See It

Sleep-over program merits close watch

Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall and Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan have proposed a unique "sleep-over" program which would enable the fire department to have more people at its disposal without necessarily increasing the number of full-time firefighters.

The proposal would have paid-on-call firefighters stay overnight at the fire station to respond to calls. The firefighters would do the sleep-over once every few weeks, Lenaghan said, noting that specific details have not yet been worked out.

In proposing the program, Lenaghan said it would improve fire protection and allow some of the paid-on-call volunteers to get "a little more involved."

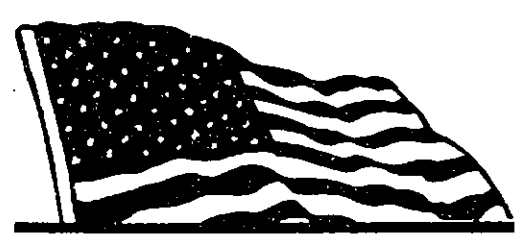

The sleep-over program has some admirable objectives. Certainly, improved fire protection is a desirable goal. But the proposal also has some inherent liabilities which the city council must examine closely before making a decision on whether or not to approve it.

The number of fulltime fire department personnel has increased significantly in recent years. The department now has 10 fulltime employees — a chief, an inspector, a fire marshal, a clerk and six fire protection officers (FPOs). The FPOs have been added within the past year as a result of the recommendations of the Police and Fire Needs Committee.

In addition, three additional FPOs are scheduled to be added during the 1988-89 fiscal year according to the schedule established by the Needs Committee and approved by voters in the November 1987 election. The three new FPOs will bring the number of fulltime fire department employees to 13.

We have no complaints with what has happened thus far. We endorsed the findings of the Needs Committee and we endorsed approval of the millage to accomplish those objectives before the last election.

At the same time, the proposal for a sleep-over program throws up a red flag which signals that it might be appropriate to slow down and assess additional needs with great caution.

First of all, implementation of the sleep-over program would require an addition to the fire station which would include barracks for the paid-on-call volunteers who are spending the night. Additional expense would be incurred because the volunteers could not reasonably be expected to spend the night away from home to be ready to respond to whatever situations might arise without some form of financial remuneration.

How large would the barracks be? Would they be large enough to provide sleeping quarters for three or four volunteers? Or would some far-sighted individual suggest they be over-sized in anticipation of the day when additional sleep-over personnel are deemed necessary?

What city officials must be careful to avoid is a situation of "creeping institutionalism." Too often the pilot programs of today become the budgetary obligations of tomorrow.

At this point we are not taking a position on the sleep-over proposal one way or another. The program may prove to be very beneficial, improving response time and saving property.

What we are saying, however, is that the city council must examine the program with great caution, weighing costs and benefits with an eye on the possibility that it could be another step toward a fulltime fire department and another burden on taxpayers.

Leashing a problem

Are unleashed dogs becoming a problem in Novi?

The answer to that question appears to be "yes." Several weeks ago the Novi City Council received a letter from a citizen who complained that the city is not enforcing its existing "leash law," which requires that dogs be restrained and under the supervision of their owners whenever off their own property.

It's a difficult problem, she said, because the only apparent recourse in law is to file a formal complaint against the neighbors — a course of action which rates low on the scale of winning friends and influencing people, not to mention maintaining harmony among neighbors.

A similar complaint happened a couple of weeks ago. Claudia Clark claims her pet duck, Daisy, was mauled by a dog which ran into her yard while it was being walked without a leash by its owner.

Daisy and her brother, Donald, had been rescued from the Michigan Humane Society by the Clark family 13 years ago and were loved as dearly by the family as others love their cats and dogs.

Upon receipt of the first letter, council members agreed that unleashed dogs are indeed a problem in Novi — a problem that will continue to increase as more subdivisions are built and more people move in.

It also appears that the responsibility for enforcing the "leash law" is not well-defined. Both police officers and ordinance enforcement officers would prefer that complaints be referred to the other. And Oakland County's animal control officers are not readily available.

We don't propose to have a long-term solution to the problem, but we do suggest a couple of interim steps that could go a long way toward making a harsher solution unnecessary.

First, police and ordinance enforcement officials might consider issuing "courtesy citations" whenever they observe a dog being walked without a leash. A second warning could result in more official action.

Secondly, pet owners should police themselves. It's against the law in Novi to walk a dog without a leash. No matter how gentle the family dog might be, it's still illegal to allow them to be unleashed when off their own property. Some basic courtesy and common sense could go a long way toward alleviating unpleasant situations and, ultimately, make stricter regulations unnecessary.

Gardener waits for spring

brought in sunshine and clean smelling breezes — it was easy to think about doing a little gardening.

It all started at the office. Brenda, Bob and I were sitting around leafing through the Northville Community Recreation bulletin. I don't know what you do when things are slow in your office, but that's the kind of thing we do. Well, I came across an entry which offered would-be gardeners the chance of a lifetime — or so I thought. Northville has set aside a plot of land for a community garden. For $6 those who long to feel the dirt beneath their hands but don't have any dirt to call their own, can rent some dirt in Northville Township.

The whole idea appealed to me. I described it to Brenda and Bob. It appealed to them. We would have a garden, we decided. We would rent this plot from the township and we would plant tomatoes, green peppers, corn, green onions, lettuce, green beans, carrots and pumpkins (so we could each have a jack-o-lantern that we grew ourselves). We were very excited.

For 15 minutes we described the garden of riches we would plant. Each of us imagined sunny afternoons spent in the cooling breezes nurturing our little plants — the watering, the weeding and the all important harvesting. Our mouths watered. Bob suggested that we could forget our normal lunches once summer came. He said we would probably just take our forks and go to the garden and feast on fresh vegetables. We laughed at the thought of our former potato chip binges at noon. We would be healthy — we would be gardeners!

I of course couldn't wait to tell the members of my family about it. They would, I told them excitedly, soon be sharing in the bounty of my vegetable crop. Forget those store-bought tomatoes, I told my brother, soon you will feast on garden fresh tomatoes. He looked skeptical.

My mother was even less enthusiastic over the project. "You don't have time now to water your plants, how are you going to have time for a garden?" she asked in what I could only call a rather dispirited tone. I huffedly replied that that was ten, this was now. I had changed. I was a gardener and she would eat her words — or my vegetables, rather, when August was here.

Only my grandmother was charitable toward my new enterprise. She is a gardener from way back and she did not discourage my latest hobby. In fact, she volunteered to help pull weeds — if I would only take her to the garden in the evenings when the sun was gone for the day. That's the spirit, I thought to myself.

Well since that glorious day, Michigan has once again gone from spring to winter, forgetting summer altogether. The wind outside the window is cold and the radio talks of snow. Vegetables seem comforting only if they're in a hot soup right now, and the sun seems like a mirage from years gone by. I'm still determined to have the garden — but Grandma had better grab her sweater, not her sun screen at this rate.

Rotary cites All-Pro jerk

Phil Jerome

638's annual conference as the personal guest of Mav Sanghvi, the Novi physician and devoted Rotarian who is district governor this year.

Mav told me several years ago that Rotary is the most-nearly perfect organization he knows because it truly transcends political and religious differences in the interest of world peace and service to humanity.

At any rate, I was at the conference as Mav's personal guest. I heard U.S. Senator Carl Levin speak, attended the luncheon, heard some more speeches and then stepped outside to shoot some pictures.

Now comes the part about the All-American jerk. While I was outside, Boots Grevgood came rushing up and told me to get back inside right away. "Run," she said.

I got back in time to learn that Novi Rotary had made me a Paul Harris Fellow. This is no small honor, folks. It's the highest honor in Rotary. Paul Harris was the fellow who founded Rotary in 1905, and to be named a Paul Harris Fellow — well, it's an honor that only a handful receive — a handful who practice the ideals of Rotary over a long period of time.

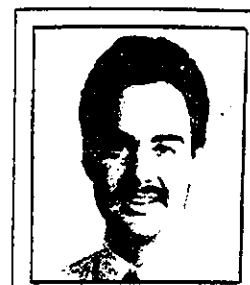

So selective is the Paul Harris Fellow award that a local chapter must pay Rotary International at least $1,000 for the right to bestow it. That's what Novi Rotary and Mav Sanghvi had done for me — and I'm not even a Rotarian.

And I hadn't even been in the room when Mav made his speech about me. I'd been outside taking pictures. An All-Pro jerk.

Afterwards, I asked Gary Kelber, a Novi Rotarian, what Mav had said about me. How had he justified presenting this prestigious honor to a non-Rotarian who is not at all deserving of such recognition?

"He said you were controversial, but you're basically a pretty good guy and you try hard," said Kelber. I decided to leave it at that.

New 'eyes' offer brighter outlook did — but recently I've grown to appreciate it even more.

About three years ago, after many months of prodding, I finally went to get an eye exam. I knew the tests would reveal that I needed some sort of corrective eye wear, but I was dead set against wearing glasses. I don't like to wear jewelry so I knew that getting used to glasses would be a hideous chore — after all, it took me months to get used to my wedding band.

When the tests revealed that my eyes did indeed need some help, I decided to try contact lenses but I still refused glasses. As you might have guessed, they were hard to get used to and the chemicals used to clean the lenses started to bother my eyes. I switched my cleaning method from the chemicals to heating, but the damage was done.

The chemical residue bothered my eyes if I left them in for more than a couple hours. This went on for months and after a while, I abandoned the lenses. I only wore them on special occasions when I really wanted to see clearly — like to a sporting event. Although not 20-20, my eyesight wasn't bad enough to prevent me from driving without the lenses, except at night.

For the next couple years, I went through life in a blurred haze. Anything more than a couple feet away was fuzzy. If I needed to see a street sign at 55 miles per hour or the clock on the far wall at a restaurant, I turned to my wife. She became my eyes for just about anything that was any distance away.

After a while, I didn't really miss not seeing clearly. I forgot how the colors jump out at you when the leaves are changing in the fall on Beck Road, just how beautiful the swans on Wolverine Lake are and how picturesque the bright sailboats are on Walled Lake in the summer. They say you don't miss what you don't have.

Because I rarely wore them, the contacts didn't wear out. So rather than go out and spend the money for a new pair that I could wear, I continued with the old ones on a part-time basis. When my tax refund money came back in March, I decided to use the extra cash to finally — after three years — get a new pair. My wife rejoiced, but I was still leery of the darn things. Prior experience made me that way.

Well, my new lenses now give me 20-20 vision. But more importantly, they are comfortable and I am able to wear them all day with very little red eye in sight. Everything is very clear, sharp and defined. I feel like a new man, but also a foolish one for living for the last three years in what Jimi Hendrix called a "Purple Haze."

Now, when I see something that I didn't before, I appreciate it much more. I can actually see buds on trees, the clock in the office and the driver in the other car.

Sight is certainly a biggie.

The new Wyndham Novi Hotel is now open for business in the Novi Town Center near Vic Tanny's

Wyndham Hotel to open soon

Novi's third major hotel is now open for business.

The Dallas-based Trammell Crow Company has announced the new Wyndham Novi Hotel has been completed and opened ahead of schedule on Monday, April 18. The new facility marks the Wyndham Hotel chain's first entry into Michigan.

Featured as a garden hotel, the emphasis is on an environmental blending of residential accommodation, amenities and lush landscaped garden areas. The Wyndham Novi is the chain's fourth garden hotel in the United States and is located in the Novi Town Center, parallel to I-96 and just east of Novi Road.

"We are really excited about the hotel. All of us connected with the project cannot wait to show the public what all this unique construction finally looks like," said Cheryl Madean, Director of Sales and Marketing for the Wyndham Novi.

"We are sure the concept of a spacious garden hotel with residentially-scaled design will entice those guests tired of the impersonal atmosphere of many large hotels," added Madean.

Amenities featured in the Wyndham Novi include a full service cafe restaurant off an informal lobby lounge, indoor swimming pool with sauna and jacuzzi, plus advanced fire/life safety systems.

Madean: "We are really excited about the opening. All of us connected with the project cannot wait to show the public what all this unique construction is finally going to look like. We are sure the concept of a spacious garden hotel with residentially-scaled design will entice those guests tired of the impersonal atmosphere of many large hotels."

The two-story structure features 152 guest rooms of which 112 are king-sized or larger. A total of 12 suites and executive parlors are also available.

Meeting room features include a full-windowed, high-ceiling, 2,100 square foot assembly room suitable for corporate meetings, receptions and trade shows. It is designed to permit partitioning into three 700 square foot rooms for smaller group usage.

Conference provisions include full banquet and catering services, house phones, light dimmer controls, audio-visual equipment, etc.

"A major feature is the convenient location across from the Twelve Oaks Mall," said Madean. "Shopping and recreation will be just a heartbeat away from the affordable amenities that will be offered by the Wyndham Novi. It is also easily accessible."

Distance from Detroit Metropolitan Airport is estimated at 30 minutes (22 miles). Several main travel arteries including I-75, I-96/98, Grand River (M-102) and Novi Road are all located within one-half mile of the hotel entrance.

The Wyndham chain is comprised of 21 hotels featuring three different hotel formats: the Wyndham Resort and Wyndham full service as well as the new Wyndham Garden concept. Three other hotels, all in metropolitan areas, make up the Wyndham Garden division: Wyndham Las Colinas (Dallas), Wyndham Vinings (Atlanta) and Wyndham Wood Dale (Chicago).

"We've been assured the Wyndham Novi will not be the last. Each has been constructed in selected environmentally appealing complexes," said Madean. "In addition to the exterior emphasis on a garden setting, room interiors feature traditional furnishings in mahogany with marble and brass accents creating an intimate corporate environment." Like the hotel, the entire Novi Town Center development will embrace an environmental concept utilizing gardens, fountains and landscaped lakefront atmosphere.

Dog laws sought by duck owner

Dog owners currently must license their dogs with the county Animal Control Division, although those permits can be taken out at the treasurer's office at city hall. Dog owners must show proof of a valid rabies vaccination at that time. A local copy is kept, but all paperwork is then shipped on to the county.

Currently, it costs $7.50 per year to register non-neutered dogs and cats and $5 to register neutered animals. A $15 late fee goes into effect in May. Clark said the attack on her duck reportedly "wrestled" Daisy to the ground and dragged her through the creek before releasing her.

The 13-year-old duck sustained a collapsed air sack, a punctured eyelid, and heavy bleeding because of the attack, Clark said.

"She's still very lame and we don't know what we can do with it," Clark said. "She doesn't come out anymore. She's an old duck."

Clark said Daisy now spends most of her time inside the "coop" with her mate Donald, now afraid to come outside.

Daisy was allegedly attacked in her spacious, fenced-in yard, by a Staffordshire Terrier, one of the breeds commonly referred to as a "pit bull," according to animal control officials.

The owner of the pit bull, whose name has not been released, has not been charged with an offense. He could not be reached for comment. Clark had scheduled a Wednesday meeting with Oakland County Prosecutor's Office officials to discuss if any violations had occurred.

Clark said the dog was able to get in under a fence near a creek that flows through her yard. The dog reportedly "wrestled" Daisy to the ground and dragged her through the creek before releasing her.

for itself but allow us to return some of the benefits of that growth to the people," she said. "I'm looking looking at what portions are sufficient and what parts can be further trimmed."

Novi residents will actually get a half-mill decrease in the city millage rate, although it is unclear whether or not that will actually result in a tax cut for anybody. New growth and jumps in assessments increased the value of the taxable properties on the rolls by 28 percent.

The budget calls for a millage cut from 12.978 mills last year to 12.437 this year — a drop of .541 mills. The proposed decrease in the millage rate includes a police-fire levy which voters approved last November. The city is scheduled to levy 1.2 mills of the 1.8 mills approved last year, basically for increasing personnel in the police and fire departments.

Decreases in the amount of debt service millages and decreases which are required by state law because of increased assessments have allowed the cut in the overall millage rate.

Residents whose assessments increased by approximately 10 percent or more would actually pay more taxes, despite the decrease in the millage rate.

For example, a homeowner whose home increased in SEV (state equalized valuation) from $40,000 to $50,000 would pay approximately $102 more in taxes to the city.

The council had another budget study session scheduled for Wednesday night; results of that session weren't available by press time.

Under the proposed budget submitted last week, property taxes would account for approximately $4 million of the $9.7 million budget. The budget also expects $1.4 million in state shared revenues.

Major proposed expenditures include $3.2 million for the police department and $1.04 million for the fire department. Both of those figures are up substantially as a result of the police-fire millage.

She continues to attend two night classes a week at the fire department and has enrolled in emergency medical training classes to qualify for Novi's "First Responder" program. That program gives Novi firefighters training to allow them to respond to medical runs and give treatment before ambulances or emergency life-support vehicles can arrive. The program is run in cooperation with the local emergency medical services company, Community EMS.

"I'm glad that the fire department is getting some recognition though," she added.

Hultman first heard about the Novi Fire Department when Chief Arthur Lenaghan gave a speech to her son Eric's Boy Scout troop. She followed it up and completed most of the basic classroom training, written testing and limited participation — mostly situations. Novi firefighters, who are said by the call, also are required to receive emergency medical training, as well as ongoing fire suppression training.

State guidelines call for 60 hours of training, though Lenaghan said Novi firefighters probably receive closer to 90 by the time the training program is complete.

"She hung in there," Lenaghan said. "And they didn't give her any slack. She did a good job."

"We think it is going to work out very well with Gwen," he added.

Hultman said she is looking forward to emergency medical training to complement her training as a licensed nurse. She also said her availability in the daytime hours could be an asset for the department.

Several Oakland County communities, including Novi, have had some difficulties getting full response to daytime runs since they are staffed primarily by men, most of whom work outside the community during the day.

Hultman said she has no complaints thus far.

"I feel like I've been treated as an equal," she said. "We work as a team when we're out there. The guys have been really good about it."

Hultman said she is not concerned about the safety of the job. A female volunteer was killed during a training exercise in Milford last October in an incident that is regarded as the worst training accident in U.S. history.

"It can be dangerous, but I think I knew that going in," she said. "It is a very high level service to the community and it is something you have to have people to do"

New jewelry shop helps to continue a family tradition

By BRENDA BONZHEIM

Gary Weinstein is living proof that dreams can indeed come true. Weinstein's mother had a dream that he should open a jewelry store in Novi. And that's just what he did.

"My mother woke up one morning and told me she had a dream about a 'Weinstein Jeweler of Novi,' no kidding. So the next day I came out here and started looking for a store. It took me about six months to find a spot I liked and I'm really happy with it," Weinstein commented.

Gold, silver, precious metals and sparkling gems have played an important role in Weinstein's life throughout his upbringing. His father and uncle originated the reputable Weinstein Jewelry Store located in the Metropolitan Building in downtown Detroit during the early 1940s.

Eventually, the first Weinstein jewelry stores grew into catalog showrooms, where everything from diamonds to toys to blenders and other appliances were sold. The catalog showrooms — in Dearborn and on the city's east side — enjoyed success in the 1950s and 1960s. Rising crime, however, forced the closing of the shops, and a jewelry store in Bloomfield was the only one to remain open, Weinstein explained.

As a child, Weinstein said his father took him to the jewelry shop when he

'IRAs are still valuable retirement tool'

Money Management

Remember the good, old days when you could trim your tax bill simply by contributing to an individual Retirement Account, affectionately known as IRA?

Well, Congress decided to do a little trimming itself and, in the process, stripped off IRA's wings. The new IRA is still an excellent means of building retirement funds, but tax reform and a roller coaster economy make watching over earthbound IRAs a little more complicated than in the past.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, tax reform has returned the IRA to its original purpose: providing a retirement fund for lower-to-middle-income Americans.

IRA DEDUCTION RULES: If you and your spouse did not actively participate in a retirement plan at work for any part of the taxable year, an IRA will still work its old deduction magic. You can contribute and deduct up to $2,000 or 100 percent of your earnings, whichever is less. If you have a working spouse earning at least $2,000, you can deduct an additional $2,000; a non-working spouse up to $1,000 or 100 percent of the allowable deduction by $250.

If you or your spouse are covered by a retirement plan, the deductibility of your IRA contribution is based on your adjusted gross income (AGI). How do you know if you are an active participant in a qualified retirement plan? The simplest response is check the information box on your W-2 form or ask your employer.

Don't make assumptions. If your employer's pension plan says you are eligible for coverage, then you are considered an active participant. In fact, even if you changed jobs and your current employer doesn't offer a retirement plan, the IRS still considers you an active participant if you were eligible for coverage at your previous job for any portion of 1987.

Participants in retirement plans do not necessarily lose the IRA deduction. Married couples with an AGI of $40,000 or less and singles with an AGI of $25,000 or less are still entitled to the full deduction.

Once your earnings exceed those limits, however, your deduction whittles away. For every $1,000 income over the ceilings of $40,000 and $25,000, you lose $200 in deductions. The deduction is completely eliminated for married couples with an AGI greater than $50,000 and for singles with an AGI greater than $35,000.

WITHDRAWALS: If you suspect the change in the rules for depositing money into an IRA affects the rules for taking it out, you're exactly right. Previously, withdrawals from IRA accounts were taxed as ordinary income. Clean and simple. If you don't make a non-deductible contribution, the rules remain the same. But the game plan changes as soon as you make a non-deductible IRA contribution — because these funds have already been taxed.

From now on, distributions from IRA accounts will not be taxable only to the extent of non-deductible contributions. To insure that you will not be taxed on withdrawals of funds that have already been taxed, you have to inform the IRS of any non-deductible contributions made between now and the time you receive the entire sum of your IRA funds — in other words, for life.

Most of the other rules governing IRA withdrawals remain intact. Unless you are permanently disabled or die, any withdrawal of IRA money before age 59½ will suffer a 10 percent penalty tax in addition to any regular tax due. On the other hand, you must begin withdrawing funds from all IRA accounts no later than April 1 of the year following the year in which you turn 70½.

Remember that you can make as many direct transfers between IRA trustees or accounts as you deem necessary. If, however, you actually withdraw your IRA funds and close your account, the transfer is considered a rollover (you are allowed one a year) and must be re-deposited in a qualified IRA account within 60 days. If you miss the 60-day deadline, the amount withdrawn will be taxed and, if you are under 59½, will also be subject to a 10 percent early-withdrawal penalty.

In spite of the withdrawal penalties and the tax-deduction restrictions, IRAs remain one of the most widely recommended tools for building a retirement nest egg.

The Michigan Association of CPAs suggests that you compare the tax advantages of IRAs with those of other tax-deferred or tax-free instruments before making a final investment decision.

Realtors note shortage of single-family homes

A shortage of single family home listings may prove the biggest deterrent to growth in this year's local real estate market.

Metro MLS, the state's largest multiple listing service, said the 12 percent decline in homes coming on the market in 1987 has been followed by another five percent drop so far this year.

"Our sales-to-listing ratio was nearly 57 percent in February, but an 8.4 percent cut in listings from a year ago helped reduce sales more than 12 percent," said Marjory R. Pickett, Metro MLS president.

"With mortgage interest rates down and other market conditions favorable going into the month, we expected to see more sellers entering the market. While about one-in-four sales this year are for homes priced at $100,000 or above, the most active markets in February were those well below this."

The February sales ratio was 86 percent in Westland where prices averaged $54,934; above 83 percent in Livonia at $88,903 and 80 percent in Redford at $49,276.

"The median price year-to-date figure last month was $68,080. "The average price of $81,561 set a new record for our 1,600 square mile territory."

Pickett attributed part of the price jump in February to lower interest rates helping many buyers qualify for larger loans. "While we do expect local prices to continue to rise, the 6.3 percent jump from January doesn't reflect the real trend," she said.

"The year-to-date average of $79,505 is only $1,354 or 1.7 percent above this time in 1987."

Pickett said the continuing price growth should encourage more prospective buyers to begin their search as spring weather moves in. Sellers hoping to take advantage of higher buyer volume should now be putting their homes in top sales condition, she added.

While ranking eighth in thenation last year, Michigan sales of 169,660 existing homes showed a drop of 9.1 percent from 1986.

"The market varied considerably throughout the state as it did in the Detroit Metropolitan area," said Marjory R. Pickett, president of Metro MLS, the state's largest multiple listing service.

"Within our 1,600 square mile territory primarily in Wayne and Oakland counties, we sold about 10 percent of the state total. Our decline from 1986 was 10.6 percent. At the same time we experienced a 12.8 percent drop in single-family home listings as their average price rose 8.4 percent to $79,225."

"But, there was no common trend throughout the area. We saw considerable differences in listings, sales and price among the varied communities we cover."

"The market varied considerably throughout the state as it did in the Detroit Metropolitan area," said Marjory R. Pickett, president of Metro MLS, the state's largest multiple listing service.

"Within our 1,600 square mile territory primarily in Wayne and Oakland counties, we sold about 10 percent of the state total. Our decline from 1986 was 10.6 percent. At the same time we experienced a 12.8 percent drop in single-family home listings as their average price rose 8.4 percent to $79,225."

HOT TIPS

You've checked into the hotel and the bellhop has deposited your bags in the room. You know a tip is expected, but you're not sure how much. You don't want to look cheap, but you don't want to be handing out all your spending cash in tips either. You decide to give him a $5 bill. Did you give him enough? Did you give him too much?

It's your anniversary and you've decided to take your wife to a nice restaurant. You order a good bottle of wine, the waiter brings it to the table and — after all the rituals of waiting and accepting it have been completed — prepares to leave. Are you required to tip him? You don't want to look cheap, but you don't want to be handing out all your spending cash either. You decide to give him a $5 bill. Did you give him enough? Did you give him too much?

It's been a rotten day. You decide to have a drink before heading home and stop off at your favorite watering hole to knock one down and wash away the memories. You sit at the bar and have one drink. You know the bartender should get a tip, but what kind of tip is expected for one drink? You don't want to look cheap, but you don't want to be handing out all your spending cash either. You put a $1 bill on the bar and leave. Did you give him enough? Did you give him too much?

Tipping. Who, what, why, when, where and how much? An estimated 13.5 percent of the American work force is categorized as "service workers" — people who derive a significant portion of their income from the gratuities they receive for performing services. You know it's proper to tip those people. But there's also something inside you which is a bit resentful, too. You recall reading somewhere about the fellow who makes $6,000 a year waiting tables at a posh restaurant.

At the same time, many people are afflicted with an innate fear of appearing "cheap." You don't want the bellhops, valets, hat check girls and waitresses talking about you behind your back. "Look out for Mr. Shallow Pockets in 503." "The last of the big spenders just gave me a quarter for parking his car." So what is appropriate in the way of tipping? Who gets tipped? And how much? In the interest of promoting savoir faire throughout the community, we conducted our own poll around the Novi/Northville area.

THE WAITRESS

The general rule is that waitresses receive somewhere between 10 and 20 percent of the bill depending on the quality of the service and the type of restaurant.

Gail Cotton, restaurant manager at the Sheraton Oaks, said the general policy at Anthony's is 15 percent, extending to 20 percent for excellent service.

"Of course, we get some people who don't leave any tips at all," she reported.

Although 15 percent seems standard, the expected gratuity may be a bit higher at a restaurant like Chez Raphael's. "Our waiters usually receive 15-20 percent because of the type of restaurant we are and the emphasis on outstanding service," said Chef Raphael's business manager, Kevin Aspinall.

THE BELL BOY

When the bell hop carries your bags up to your hotel room, the appropriate gratuity runs from $1 to $5 depending on the amount of work involved.

"You usually get $1 per bag for a light trip," said Shaun Saunders, who has worked as a bell hop at the Novi Hilton for two years. "If there's a lot of luggage and you have to use a cart to carry it all, we usually get $3 but we like to see $5." The same scale holds true at the Sheraton Oaks. "For a couple of bags, it's usually $1," said Mark Elker, office manager at the Sheraton Oaks and a former bellhop. "If a bell cart has to be used, it can be as high as $10 for a load of 20-30 bags."

"If you're looking for a general rule it's this — 50 cents per bag or $1 per person. It's usually $1 in and $1 out for light trips with a couple of bags."

THE HAIR STYLIST

How much should you tip the person who cuts your hair?

"Fifty percent," laughed Joe Coshatt, a hair dresser at the Hair Affair in Northville. That, at any rate, would make him very happy. But both Coshatt and Regina Lavagnino of Main Street Hair Design, also in Northville, agree that 10-15 percent of the bill is appropriate.

"It's appropriate to tip the person who cuts your hair, but it's not required," said Lavagnino. "If the stylist is pleasant and you're pleased with the hair cut, 10 to 15 percent is an appropriate tip." The same amount is also appropriate for a manicure.

THE CAB DRIVER

Ten to 15 percent is an appropriate tip for a taxi cab driver, according to the man who answered the phone at the ABC Cab Company, which serves both Novi and Northville.

"It depends on how much you appreciate the service," said the man who asked to be identified only as John, the Cab Driver. "The tips are not what they used to be," he added. "Maybe people are a little tighter with their money than they used to be," he added.

The length of the drive doesn't make any difference because the proper gratuity is a percentage of the overall fare.

THE VALET

One dollar is the appropriate tip for the person who parks your car, according to both Elker of the Sheraton Oaks and Gary Seibert, general manager of the Novi Hilton.

"And you tip when the car's returned," said Seibert.

Elker suggested there may be occasions when you tip the valet a bit more. For example, you might want to give the valet a couple of dollars before he parks your car as an encouragement to find a good space and keep an extra eye on it.

Something more than a dollar also would be appropriate when there are unusually bad weather conditions, Elker suggested.

THE MAITRE D'

"Tipping the maitre d' is not a requirement, even though it's common, according to Aspinall at Chez Raphael's. "The amount of the tip depends on how much service he provides your party," said Aspinall.

Seibert agreed. "At some restaurants, there's tip pooling and the maitre d' gets a cut of that," he said. Seibert said maitre d's generally do not get tipped unless they provide a special service. "If he holds a special table for you or gives you a table near a window with a good view, it would be appropriate to give him $5," Seibert said.

THE WINE STEWARD

Aspinall and Seibert also agree that it is not necessary to tip the wine steward. "A customer may tip him directly, but more often he gets an indirect tip from the server," said Aspinall.

"It's usually the server's responsibility to make certain the wine steward and the bus boys receive a gratuity for providing their customers with good service," he added.

Seibert said he often tips the wine steward 10 percent of the cost of the bottle of wine because he provides a specialized service. "But he has to be good," added Seibert. "If he doesn't know Liebfraumilch from Black Tower, then no. But if it's obvious that he knows how to present wine properly, then a tip is appropriate."

Greenfield Village sets antique show

Spring weather means more than just a chance to plant flowers and mow the lawn for folks in the Novi/Northville area. Warmer weather also heralds the arrival of the spring antique season. While many collectors have already made their first excursions of the year, no better show exists to kick off the season than the annual Village Antiques Show at Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village.

The Village Antiques Show is rated as one of the top five antique events in the country with 47 exhibitors from Maine to California presenting a wide variety of items reflecting the quality and scope of the museum collections. Exhibits include selections of furniture and accessories, paintings, jewelry, toys, clothing, glass and ceramics, textiles, clocks and watches — all priced to a wide range of tastes and budgets.

A Young Collectors Booth, presenting antiques priced for the beginning collector, once again is slated for the show. All the affordable antiques in the booth, from accessories to larger items, will be provided by the show exhibitors.

A Preview Night is planned Thursday, May 12, for those wishing an opportunity to view and purchase the assembled antiques before the show opens to the public. Benefactors ($125 per person) will be admitted at 6 p.m. and Patrons ($100 per person) one hour later at 7 p.m. Both will enjoy a lavish gourmet buffet dinner and cocktails served in Lovett Hall, the beautifully decorated show site.

The Village Antiques Show will be open Friday, May 13, from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, May 14, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and Sunday, May 15, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets are $5.

All proceeds from the show and related events will go toward Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village educational programs.

This George III English mahogany corner chair (circa 1780-80) will be among the distinctive antique merchandise available at the Village Antiques Show (May 13-15).

Local poet releases new work

NORTHVILLE — Copies of "Town One South" are now available, and the Northville Arts Commission is inviting the public to a publication party to celebrate the event.

"Town One South" is a collection of historical poems written by Northville resident Kathleen Ripley Leo, who has published several other books of poetry and often lectures to area schools.

The publication party will be held at Northville City Hall this evening (Thursday, April 28) from 4-7 p.m.

The book is illustrated by local artist Allen Berlinski, who created drawings of several scenes around town.

Leo took her inspiration for the book from Northville's history, using printed works as well as interviews with longtime residents as sources for her poems. The book's title, "Town One South," comes from the original survey designation of the Northville and Plymouth township area.

Village unveils Firestone Farm

By JEAN DAY
special writer

Cars bearing Ohio, Illinois and Wisconsin license plates—as well as others from as far away as Texas—are parked at the entrance to Greenfield Village in Dearborn every spring weekend.

Local residents who haven't visited the village and Henry Ford Museum recently will find new attractions in the village as well as the much-publicized "Automobile in American Life" exhibit in the museum.

April and May are good months for Michiganders to enjoy the village before summer crowds arrive. Ideally, it's best not to combine tours of the 254-acre indoor, outdoor museum and village, but to savor the experiences of each separately.

For a day-long visit to the village, start at the village entrance building shortly after the 9 a.m. opening. Wear flat, comfortable shoes suitable for country walking along cobblestone or brick paths and dirt roads.

Save the first building inside the village, the Great American Emporium, for your return or you'll be carrying souvenirs throughout the day.

Instead, stroll east along the main road to the fence-enclosed walkway on the left which leads to the newest and largest-ever addition to the village, the Firestone farm. Decision to move the farmhouse, barn and furnishings to Greenfield Village from 200 miles away in Columbiana, Ohio, was made in 1983.

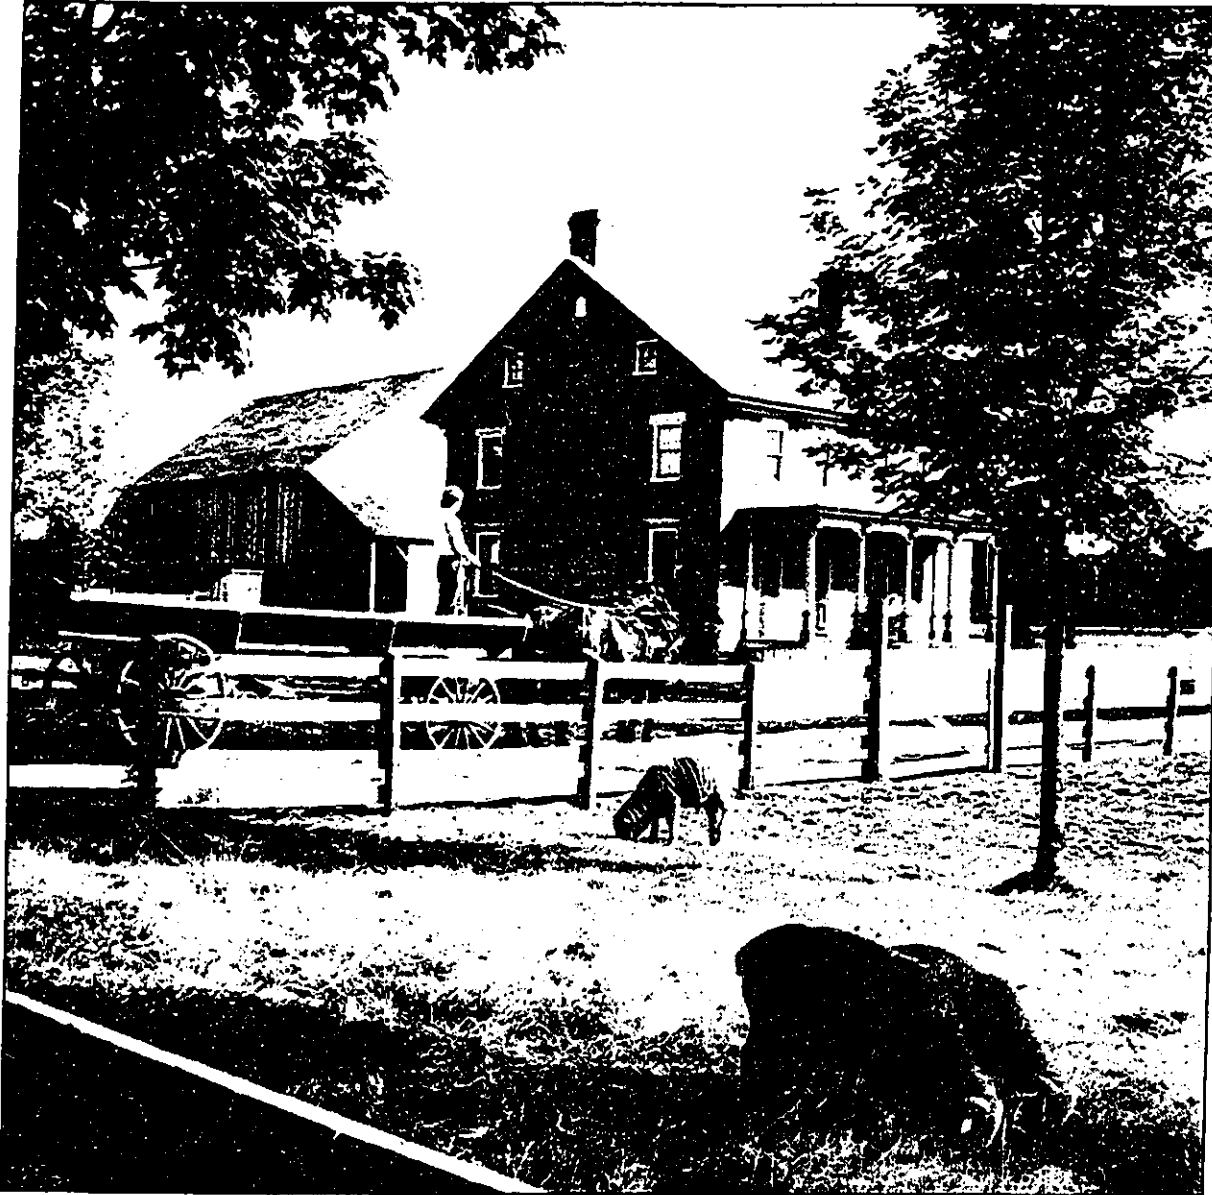

Raymond C. Firestone and Leonard K. Firestone, surviving sons of rubber pioneer Harvey S. Firestone, spearheaded the drive to move the buildings to the village founded by Henry Ford, a close friend of the senior Firestone.

Harold Skramstad, president of the museum and village, points out that the Firestone birthplace, restored to its condition of 1882, as working farm has a major role in telling the story of America's transformation from a rural to an urban nation.

Now situated on seven acres in the village, the farm is comprised of the two-story brick house, a large Pennsylvania barn, outbuildings, a small orchard and fields for grazing and farming.

Adjacent to the farm is a cluster of buildings—the Marvin and Edna Ford home, the Mary and William Ford home, the Trapp Up and Down Sawmill, Harahan Sugar Mill and manufacturing buildings where glass, pottery, printing and textile demonstrations are given.

Taking a fork to the right, visitors view the Henry Ford birthplace, modest farmhouse home of the auto industrialist. Nearby is the Miller

The Firestone Farm is the newest exhibit at Greenfield Village in Dearborn

School. In the next block is the Wright brothers' home and cycle shop.

Sir John Bennett's store, where Gog and Magog regularly chime the time, now is a refreshment stop for cookies and coffee. But, if you're spending the day, don't spoil lunch at the Eagle Tavern, which opens at 11 a.m.

Costumed hostesses place visitors at the long, plank tables and request that diners "use the knife blade and not fingers to take salt."

The wine list ranges from claret and burgundy to hock, madeira, sherries and ports, tawny or ruby. "Cock-tails" include one made with Michigan corn whiskey as well as Jersey Lightning.

Temperance drinks include gunpowder or mint teas, hot cider, cherry, orange or strawberry drinks and coffee.

Entrées feature roast beef smothered with onions ($7.25) baked chicken breast in celery sauce ($7.75) and fried trout ($7.95). If a full meal seems too much at lunch, there are soup offerings, which on a recent Saturday included pea or Scotch barley broth at $1.75 a bowl. Add a dessert like Apple Pan Dowdy at $1.75, which will be accompanied by dried fruit and peanuts. It's easy to envision travelers stopping at the Eagle Tavern in the 1880s for food, drink and overnight stays.

Continuing east, at the crescent of the road is the Martha-Mary Chapel where village visitors are likely to catch a glimpse of a wedding party on weekends.

At the back of the village is the street of homes—a double wing, Ann Arbor House, the imposing Noah Webster House, Secretary Pearson House and the Cotswold Cottage buildings.

Here also are a Connecticut Saltbox House, Plympton House and the Susquehanna House. Those who furnish their homes with antiques find the homes a "living library" of ideas for placing and using their treasures as well as ways to decorate and curtain rooms.

Before leaving the village, a stop at the Great American Emporium, a museum store, can yield mementos of the day's visit. The bookstore section stocks books on antiques and Americana.

It's possible to buy a variety of reproductions of Early Americana, including stencils. Most unusual are small brass stencils in kits complete with brush, paints and instructions.

Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum are open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is separate for each. Daily admission for either is $9.50 for adults, $4.75 for children 5-12, $3.50 for seniors over 62. Children under 5 are free. Annual passes are $20 for adults, $10 for children. The village is located at Oakwood and Village Road and can be reached by following signs on the Southfield expressway.

HISTORY OF H.A. SMITH LUMBER & SUPPLIES
It was in the spring of 1945 that Helen Smith and Bayard Tupper, a law and a doctor, both with experience in the lumber industry, opened their own lumber yard at the present location. At that time the company was called Smith Tupper Lumber Company.

Hot and cold Kickers net first victory

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

The Novi girl's soccer squad notched its first victory of the season last week — a 7-1 win over South Lyon, but the Wildcats also dropped a pair of matches — losing to Milford and Expressway League foe Ann Arbor Pioneer.

For the season, the Wildcats are now 1-3-1 overall and 0-1 in league play. The highlight of the week was the lopsided win over South Lyon. Novi thoroughly dominated play, outshooting the Lions 41-4 on the day, but things were too close for comfort in the first 25 minutes of the first half.

"As we started to play, it became evident that it was a game we should win," said Nick Valenti, coach of the Novi squad. "We didn't get off to a quick start, but once we settled down we played well and the goals started to come in bunches."

Three minutes into the game, Nichole Burchard and Joanna Pucetti set up Stephanie Groom who opened the scoring with a goal. But about 12 minutes later, South Lyon tied the score on an unassisted goal, and Valenti started to worry.

Groom came back at the 25-minute mark to score her second and make it 2-1 on an assist by Jennifer Forwald and then several minutes later Forwald put one in the net following a pass from Nichole Parmley to make it 3-1. At the 37-minute mark, Jennifer Dillon made it 4-1 on a pass from Groom and soon after that the first half ended.

At the two and 19-minute marks, Parmley scored twice and both were assisted by Groom and the lead grew to 6-1. With four minutes remaining, Parmley completed the hat-trick to round out the scoring. Burchard and Ann Webster were credited with assists on the last goal.

"It was a nice win, but I wish I could have some of those extra goals and use them later," Valenti laughed. "Parmley and Groom have proven in the past that they can score and they proved it against South Lyon. They were constantly around the net with good scoring opportunities and they were in on all seven of our goals."

ANN ARBOR PIONEER & NOVI 1: The April 21 game against Pioneer was almost a complete reversal from the South Lyon game. The Wildcats outshot the 'Cats 22-9 and dominated the game.

"Pioneer is a very strong team," Valenti said. "They are the best we've played so far. It was just that they made very few mistakes and they controlled the play. We learned a lot from playing them."

Onofrey leads Ladycats past Northville, 82-46

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

The Novi girl's track team needed something to boost morale and provide a little confidence, and they found it against Northville on April 21.

The Wildcats performed well and gave rookie coach Mary Anne Wizinsky her first win, 82-46. The victory overshadowed a lopsided 87-38 loss to KVC foe Milford on April 19, but spurred the team on to an impressive outing over the weekend at the Belleville Relays.

Against the Mustangs, Novi dominated things with nine firsts and a handful of seconds and thirds. As usual, senior star Tammy Onofrey was a winner in all four events she entered. She won the high jump (4'6"), the 800-meter (2:32.08) and the 1,600-meter run (5:47.46) and was a member of the winning 1,600-meter relay team (4:37.07) along with Denal D'Ambrosio, Lisa Kukukze and Wendy McBride.

Another two-time winner was freshman Amy Quinn in the 110 hurdles (2:16.16) and the 300 hurdles (59.01). The rest of the Novi firsts came from Jennie Galland in the 3,200 (12:35.21), Danielle Michelson in the discus (76'9 1/4"), the 400 relay team (which won by default), and the 3,200 relay team (11:09.81) with Heath, Galland, Andrea DiCola and McBride.

Dawn Arbour paced the second place finishes with a pair in the shot put (25'4") and discus (75'11"). The remaining runner-up finishes for the 'Cats included Lisa Heath in the 1,600 (6:02.24) and the 3,200 (13:10.12), McBride in the 800 (2:43.05), Kukukze in the 400 (70.4) and Michelle Smith in the high jump (4'4").

Patty Corbin chipped in two thirds in the 100 (13.7) and 200 (30.49). Quinn added a third in the long jump (11'11 1/2") and Gina Knight was third in the 400 (70.10).

"Quinn, Knight and Corbin are really coming on, and they are all freshmen," Wizinsky reported. "Overall, it was a great confidence-builder for the girls. When we started winning, everybody's spirit started dropping dramatically."

Novi managed five wins and very few seconds and thirds against Milford, however. Onofrey was again the star with victories in the 1,600 (5:51.6) and the 800 (2:35.32), and a third in the high jump (4'8"). But the only other wins were from Corbin in the 100 (12.6), Galland, the 3,200 run (12:41.51) and the 3,200 relay team (11:14.12) of Heath, Galland, Kukukze and McBride.

Amy Quinn registered the team's only second in the 300 hurdles (58.93). The 'Cats added four thirds including Corbin in the 200 (29.55), Kukukze in the 400 (72.2), DiCola in the 800 (2:44.88) and Heath in the 1,600 (5:56.0).

"It went pretty well for us," Wizinsky said, "so I felt we fared pretty well against Milford."

At Belleville, Novi placed six relay teams in the top three overall and ended up placing fourth in the five-team event with 56 points.

"It went pretty well for us," Wizinsky said, "so I felt we fared pretty well against Milford."

Novi added second-place finishes in the high jump relay and the distance medley. Onofrey (5'0"), Michelle Smith (4'0") and Jenny Smith (4'0") combined in the high jump, while McBride, D'Ambrosio, DiCola and Galland teamed up in the distance medley (14:09.78).

In the distance relay, the Wildcats placed third with Michelson, Arbour and McBride. In addition, the two-mile relay team of Kukukze, Smith, Galland and Onofrey placed third (11:26.59) and so did the mile relay team of D'Ambrosio, McBride, Knight and Onofrey (4:32.51).

"All in all, it was a pretty positive week," Wizinsky said. "We got a win and that makes everything seem better."

BRIGHTON 99, NOVI 29: Perhaps feeling a little like General Custer at Little Big Horn, the Novi girl's track team was badly outnumbered when they travelled to Brighton to take on the Bulldogs in KVC action on April 12.

With 80 members strong, the Brighton team managed to subdue the Wildcat contingent of just under 30 with ease, 99-29. But Wizinsky left the meet feeling good about her team because she saw vast improvements from just about everybody.

"Almost every one of our athletes ran the best times of their lives, so there were a lot of bright spots," Wizinsky said. "(Brighton) had a very big team so they were able to specialize and rest their top performers — we don't have that luxury. We need quite a few of our girls to compete in a lot of different events and that wears you down."

Onofrey made her season debut a memorable one with two individual wins and a third. She won the 800-yard dash (2:33.84) and the mile run (5:40) and was third in the high jump (4'8").

The only other Wildcat to notch a first was D'Ambrosio in the 400 (68.61). Corbin continued to impress with a pair of seconds in the 100 (12.3) and the 200 (29.56) sprints in highlight runner-up finishes. Galland added a second in the two-mile (13:07), and McBride chipped in with a third in the 800 (2:41.75) to round out the top-three finishes for Novi.

MILAN RELAYS: The 'Cats also competed in the six-team Milan Relays on April 16, and even though the team finished last with 38 points — 65 points out of first place — there were several more noteworthy performances. The four-by-1,600 meter relay team of Heath, Galland, McBride and Onofrey registered Novi's lone first place finish in a time of 22:34.33.

"We won that one by a nice distance," Wizinsky said. "Wendy McBride isn't even a mile, but she went out and had a nice split of 6:10 and that may have been the key."

The distance medley relay team — featuring McBride, Heath, DiCola and Galland — added a second (14:20.49), and the co-ed relay group with Onofrey, D'Ambrosio, D'Ambrosio and Galland added a second (2:38.1). The team also included Randy Parker and Andy Fitzpatrick of the Novi boy's team.

The only other Novi combo to place in the top four was the 800 relay team of D'Ambrosio, Knight, Corbin and Onofrey (1:58.17).

"Our times were better than they were against Brighton," Wizinsky noted.

hurdles (16.87), Richardson in the long jump (18'9 1/4") and Morrison in the 400 (55.72).

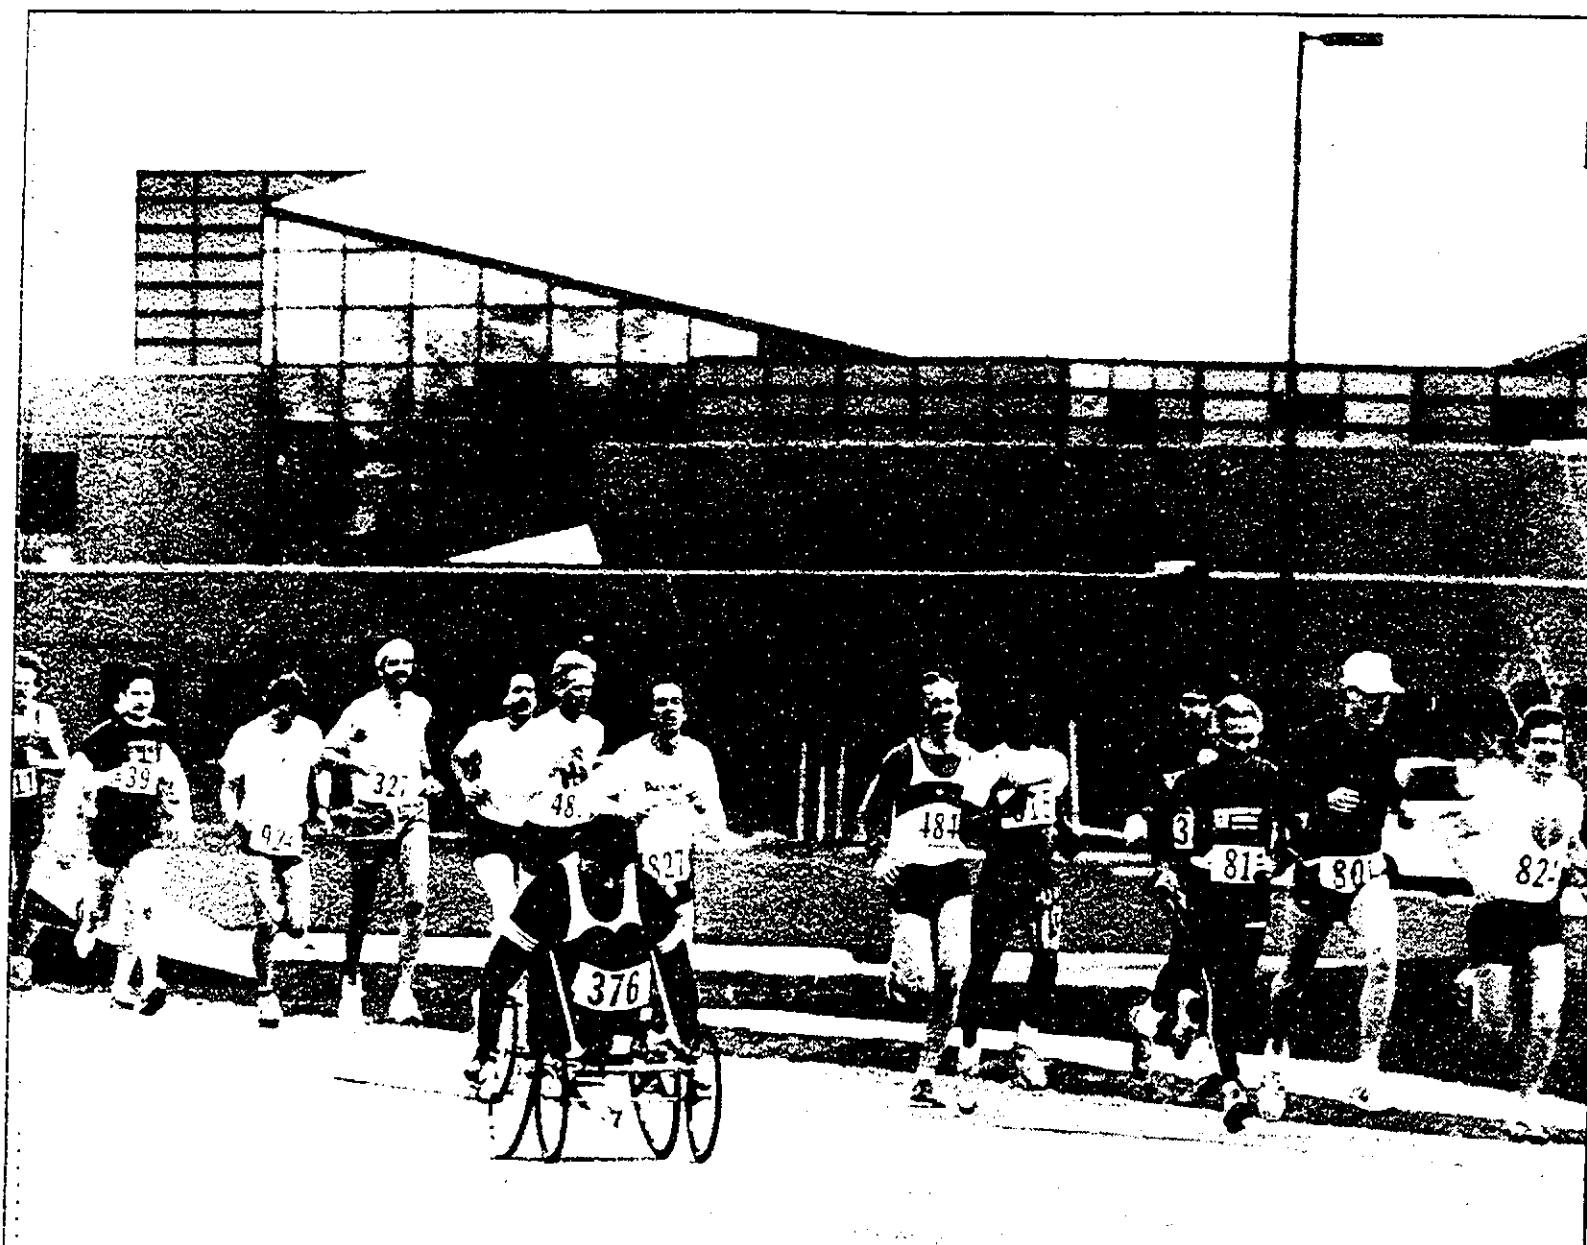

"Milford is one of the better teams in the KVC so I'd consider our team a definite darkhorse contender," Smith observed. "Against Milford, it was a battle of our speed and their distance runners — our speed won out."

NOVI 70, NORTHVILLE 57: There's no denying that the boy's track programs at Novi and Northville are on the rise. So when the two neighboring schools hooked up in the track April 21, everyone was expecting an interesting meet and that's exactly what happened.

A year ago the Wildcats buried the Mustangs by a bunch, but this time around it was much closer. Novi ended up winning the meet 70-67 but it was Northville which received a heap of praise — especially from Bob Smith.

"They were a pesky team," he said. "We had a good line-up in there and they were tough. Northville was a lot stronger than I thought they'd be — they are a solid team."

Darren Johnson took a pair of firsts in the shot put and discus to lead the Wildcats. The rest of the wins included LaFontaine in the long jump, Saman and Mielke in the pole vault (tied at 11'6"), Koneida in the 300 hurdles, Lethemon in the 100, Fitzpatrick in the 200, Morrison in the 400, Cowden in the 800 and the 800 relay team of Lethemon, Parker, Jeffress and Fitzpatrick.

Bats come alive as 'Cats win two

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

The Wildcat baseball team is on the prowl, attacking anything that moves — especially hanging curves and not-so-fast fastballs.

After struggling at the plate in the first four games of the season, Novi has turned it around and is now pounding the ball all over the place. In action last week, the 'Cats belted out 27 hits and scored 25 runs in just two games.

"What's happening is our winter hitting program is finally paying off," said Novi Coach Gus Frantz. "A lot of these kids have had over 4,000 swings since January."

"The kids are a little arrogant when they go to the plate now. It's not, 'am I going to get a hit,' it's 'am I going to get a single or a double?' You like to see your hitters go up there with that kind of confidence."

Novi clobbered Dearborn 11-1 on April 19 to break out of a team-wide hitting slump and then continued the hit-parade in an exciting 14-9 extra-inning triumph over a good Redford Union team. The Wildcat's season record is now 3-3.

Against Dearborn, Novi jumped out to a 6-0 lead after two innings and then cruised from there. The big rally came in the second when the Wildcats pushed five runs across the plate on four hits. The inning started innocently enough as the first two Novi batters were retired, but a single by pitcher Bernie Fornwald, a walk and a two-run triple by Scott Wladishkin opened the scoring. Steve Ross then drove in Wladishkin with a hit, Dave Skown followed with a run-scoring double and Ken Hendrian drove him in with a single. In all, 10 batters went to the plate in the two-out rally.

Fornwald gave up a run in the top of the third and it came without a hit, but the 'Cats got it back in the bottom of the inning on Wladishkin's second extra-base RBI of the game and added another in the fourth on a run-scoring hit by Rich Friedrich.

Novi wrapped up the scoring in the sixth with three more runs. Hendrian knocked Steve Ross and Skown in with his second hit of the game and later scored on another hit by Friedrich.

Fornwald cruised through the final four innings, giving up just two more hits and no runs and was awarded the win. For the game he limited Dearborn to four hits and struck out seven.

"Fornwald is a real competitor,"

Frantz said. "He wants to win really bad. He threw well — the only bad inning he had was the fourth when he walked a couple."

The hitting stars were Wladishkin and Skown. Both went 2-for-3 and each drove in three runs. Ross (2-for-3) and Hendrian (2-for-3) also had multiple hits.

In the Redford Union game, the Wildcats drew first blood as Hendrian delivered a two-run single with two men on in the first inning. Union got one back in the second off starter Brian Schram, but Novi made it 4-1 in the top half of the third on a two-run homer by Skown.

In the bottom half, Redford strung together three hits and scored two more off Schram. It remained 4-3 until the 'Cats scored three more in the fifth, and again Hendrian and Ross caused most of the damage with RBIs.

Schram exited the game after the fourth, complaining of a stiff arm, so Hendrian took over in the bottom of the fifth and was promptly rocked — he lasted just two-thirds of the inning. Union sent seven batters to the plate and six of them got hits before Ross came on to extinguish the fire. But by that time, the damage was done and Redford had taken the lead for the first time, 8-7.

Novi scratched out single runs in the sixth and the seventh innings to tie the score each time and it was 9-9 at the end of regulation play. In the top of the eighth, Wladishkin, Ross and Skown all got on base and Hendrian clouted a grand slam for his third hit of the day. Another run made it 14-9 and Ross closed out the win by setting Union down 1-3 in the bottom of the eighth.

"(Union) is a very good ball club," Frantz said. "That was only their second loss of the season. I thought Schram pitched well enough to get the win, but Ross did a great job in relief."

The Wildcat's top four hitters — Wladishkin, Ross, Skown and Hendrian — had phenomenal numbers in the game. The four combined for 13 hits in 16 tries, two homers, 13 runs scored and 11 RBIs. Ross and Skown each went 4-for-4 with four runs scored, and Hendrian drove in seven runs.

"The bats are coming through — especially our top four hitters," Frantz said. "The bottom of our order only generated two runs so we need them to contribute a little more."

Novi opens conference play this Friday on the road against Milford.

Base wars

There was plenty of action on the base paths last week as the Novi baseball heads into the key part of the season. That's Dave Skown sliding into second with a stolen base in the picture above, while second sacker Steve Ross takes a relay too late to tag out a Dearborn runner in the picture on the left. It was a good week for the Wildcat nine as they pounded out two victories in as many outings to square their record at 3-3 as they prepare to begin their defense of the Kensington Valley Conference title.

Top PGA pros to appear in Meadowbrook tourney

Some of the PGA's top money winners will be coming to Northville. On Monday, May 23, Meadowbrook Country Club will host the Metro Buick Dealers Charity Golf Classic. Tournament director Roy Gaddey has lined up 14 pros, many of whom have already topped the $1 million mark in career earnings, including Payne Stewart, Hal Sutton, Dan Pohl, Fred Couples, Steve Pate (winner of tourneys already this year), Chip Beck, Roger Maltbie and Wayne Levi.

Wildcat kickers rip Lions

Novi fell behind 4-0 at the intermission, but avoided the shutout at the 11-minute mark of the second half when Groom scored an unassisted goal. Unfortunately, it was the only offense the Wildcats could manage.

"I take my hat off to (Pioneer)," Valenti said. "They have a quality program and it showed."

MILFORD 3, NOVI 1: The loss to Milford was difficult to take, according to Valenti. The game pitted two evenly matched teams and even though the Wildcats seemed to generate more good scoring opportunities it was the Redskins who scored three times.

"We missed many real good scoring chances," Valenti reported. "We had more clean chances than (Milford), but their goals came on several weak shots that somehow went in."

Milford's Carol Reuther opened the scoring at the 15-minute mark, and Heidi Puska made it 2-0 seven minutes later on a direct kick that trickled in. Novi's only goal came just before halftime on an unassisted tally by Burchart.

Midway through the second half, Milford's Gwen Foster added an insurance goal, and the Wildcats never seriously threatened again.

"It was a disappointing loss," Valenti observed. "If we would have played a strong game without so many silly mistakes and so many cheap goals, it would have been a lot closer."

Proceeds from the tournament will benefit the St. Vincent Sarah Fisher Center and the Evans Caddie Scholarship Foundation.

Each foursome in the Pro-Am will be sponsored by a Detroit area corporation. One foursome is still available. Interested individuals should contact Gaddey at 540-8155.

Advanced discount tickets are available through TicketMaster, J.L. Hudson and AAA outlets for $10. Tickets are also available at the gate the day of the tournament for $15. (Discount corporate ticket packages are also available by calling Gaddey.)

Wildcats of the Week

KEN HENDRIAN

Junior Ken Hendrian almost single-handedly propelled the Novi baseball squad to a close 14-9 extra inning win over Redford Union in non-conference action last week. He also had a tremendous day at the plate against Dearborn in another Novi win (11-1) and we think "Wildcat of the Week" honors are in order. Against Union, Hendrian went 3-for-4 including an eighth inning grand slam home run that broke a 9-9 tie. He batted in seven runs in the game and added a steal and a walk. For the week, Hendrian went 5-for-7 (.714 average) in two games and drove in nine runs.

STEPHANIE GROOM

If the Novi soccer team was scoring a goal last week, chances are junior forward Stephanie Groom was a key performer on the field for the Wildcats at that moment. In three games, Groom accounted for three goals and three assists, which was one-third of Novi's total offensive output in that span. For her efforts, Groom has been chosen as a "Wildcat of the Week." In a 7-1 win over South Lyon on April 18, Groom registered two goals and fed teammates for tallies three other times. In an 8-1 loss to Ann Arbor Pioneer on April 21, Groom scored Novi's only goal on an unassisted play.

Novi netters seek first win of year

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN staff writer

The Novi tennis squad has yet to win in four tries this season. The team managed to win just one match in each of its three outings last week. But Wildcat Coach Jim Newbold isn't disappointed or discouraged yet because he believes his team is playing hard and doing the best it can.

On April 20, Novi was very competitive against Kensington Valley Conference favorite Brighton — especially in the doubles flights — but had to settle for a 6-1 defeat. On April 22, it was basically the same story as Milford downed the "Cats 6-1 despite some very intense matches. Novi then wrapped up a consistent week on the short end of a 6-1 score against Garden City.

"All week the scores didn't reflect how hard and how competitive the kids played," Newbold said. "Most of the matches were very close, but we didn't end up winning many of them. I'm not disappointed because everybody played hard and nobody gave up."

The lone winner versus Brighton was the No. 2 doubles team of Phil Hutchins and Mike Everett, who topped Shannon Brown and Chris Holmes 2-6, 6-2, 6-3. At No. 1 doubles, Brian Anderson and Rick Mathias fell to Paul Brown and Jeff Cowell (2-6, 1-6) and the No. 3 team of Josh Matta and Ed Dadds lost a close 6-4, 2-6, 4-6 decision to John Lutz and Craig Peterson.

The singles matches weren't nearly as close as all four Novi players lost in straight sets. Chris Cottam was drubbed by Randy Harmon 1-6, 2-6 at No. 1. Tom Wigley was defeated by Dave Burke 2-6, 0-6. Matt Mitchell lost to Won Ho Kim 2-6, 1-6 at No. 3 and Brad Taube bowed out in a hurry against Scott McBride 0-6, 3-6 at No. 4.

"Brighton is a very senior-oriented team and I knew they'd be strong because they beat Northville, which beat us 8-0," Newbold said. "There were some good matches — including three three-setters — so I think we did rather well."

"My doubles teams did an excellent job, but the singles looked a little weak for some reason. I still have high hopes for our doubles teams."

Hutchins and Everett were the only winners against Milford, but again there were numerous matches that were close and could have gone either way. The Hutchins/Everett duo slipped past Glen Bleau and Willis Bullard 7-5, 4-6, 6-2, but Anderson and Mathias lost a tough one to Hans Diltner and Jim McDonald (6-7, 5-7), while Matta and Dadds dropped a three-setter to Joel Salia and Jeremy Kendra (6-3, 4-6, 4-6).

In singles, Cottam didn't compete for an undisclosed reason and that further weakened Novi's line-up. Wigley moved up to No. 1 and fell to Jeff Johnson (2-6, 4-6). Mitchell lost to Jason Kirke (1-6, 1-6). Taube had all sorts of problems against Greg PUNCHES (1-6, 0-6) and Bill Benton fought hard but came up short against Jeff Ruth (0-6, 5-7). In doubles play, Anderson and Mathias lost to John Olejuzak and Mike Riha 4-6, 2-6, while Hutchins and Taube were beaten 3-6, 1-6 by Doug Westor and Jim Wasielewski. At third doubles, Matta and Dadds won a set but lost the match (0-6, 6-4, 2-6) to Fred Mance and Mark Strong.

"If we can keep the doubles together, we will be able to pull some points down there," Newbold predicted. "The singles are hustling but not winning and I have no qualms with the effort. They give their all and they never give up — I'm hoping it will be enough to help us win some matches as the season progresses."

Golf's on right course to fitness

By ANNE WILLIS
editor

There is little doubt in the minds of those people who live with an avid golfer that the sport is an addiction. Anyone who has watched a person who normally grumbles about getting up early each work day, eagerly set the alarm for 5:30 a.m. on a Saturday to get the 7:30 early tee-off, knows that this is not a passing fancy. This is serious. This is golf.

But in an age where games are played not only for enjoyment, but also for the healthful benefits of exercise, the question remains — is golf good for you?

While therapists and doctors tout the benefits of exercise programs in lowering stress levels and in aiding cardiovascular systems, the sport of golf is seldom seen on the list of recommended programs.

While it is true that golf may not give a player an aerobic work-out (although players who have missed two-foot putts may disagree), most long-time players will talk for hours about the beauty of a golf course early in the morning and the work-out they received by walking up and down the hills for four hours or so during their 18-hole round of golf.

The truth of the matter may be that golf is a form of exercise — in the same sense that a walk of approximately 4 or 5 miles is a form of exercise, for that's about what the average golfer will roam during 18 holes.

"Golf is good exercise — as long as you walk and don't ride," said Joe Tank, golf pro at the Westbrook Golf Course in Novi, referring to the golf carts which are very popular with some duffers.

Most golf courses have more than a few hills to make the courses interesting — and tougher — for the golfers, and those same hills can add an element of exercise to the game. Add the weight of a full golf bag, either carried or pulled, and the average golfer may feel the stress in arms and legs after the game is over.

A seniors mixed league at Brooklane Golf Club shows 'legging it' is good exercise

Bob Silagyi of Brooklane Golf Course in Northville said the game of golf is "definitely" exercise both in the walking and in the swinging. And both Silagyi and Tank said the game can have a decidedly positive impact on those looking for a way to reduce stress.

"I don't care how much they complain about their golf game," Silagyi said, "it's relaxation." He said he has been golfing "about 50 years" and the game has been good for him.

While golfers who have watched so-called perfect drives slice toward the trees or chip shots landed in the water or sand may disagree — overall both experts believe the game of golf is relaxing.

"It's not stressful," Tank said, "it might be mentally stressful somewhat, but physically it's not. And it's not really stressful unless you're really serious about the game."

First-time golfers and those who hit the links after a long winter's layoff will normally experience some stiffness and soreness, both from swinging the clubs and from walking.

Most pros agree that easing into the game with some pre-season stretching and a few visits to the driving range can help to avoid any muscle aches or pulls. And the exercise and warm-up also help the golfer's game.

Golf professionals also stress that golfers who have suffered any heart disease or other ailments should check with their doctors before attempting the long walk associated with a full round of golf. While those wishing for a little healthy exercise are encouraged to walk — others may find a golf cart is the best way around the course.

Learning more about breast cancer

By EILEEN MURPHY, M.D.
special writer

Breast disease is a concern for many women. Although most breast disease involves benign conditions, breast cancer continues to be a leading cause of death in females. Because of this, it is important to learn as much as possible about breast disease.

The breasts undergo many changes as we age. The adult breast is composed of approximately 16-20 lobes. Within each lobe there is a branching system of ducts surrounded by fatty connective tissue. These structures respond to hormones produced with the menstrual cycle, pregnancy and menopause. Not every lobe within each breast responds in the same way to our hormones. This can cause irregularities or lumps in the breast. In addition, each lobe is not necessarily the same size, so it is common for one breast to be larger than the other.

Irregularities in the breasts are most prominent right before menses. This is in response to the hormones, estrogen and progesterone. The breasts tend to become more full and nodular. Because of these hormonal changes, it is best to examine the breast after your menses. The importance of monthly self-exams should not be underestimated. Menopause with the declining levels of estrogen and progesterone is associated with breast involution. These changes first occur peripherally and then in the central regions of the breast.

As mentioned, most breast conditions are the result of benign disease. The most common benign disease involves fibrocystic changes. These changes usually occur in women between the ages of 25-50 years. They are most pronounced before menses and can cause a significant amount of discomfort. Dietary changes such as removing tea, coffee, cola drinks, chocolates and other foods with methylxanthines can help improve this discomfort.

If an abnormality persists through a menstrual cycle, it is important that it be evaluated. Four common methods of evaluation are mammography, ultrasound, thermography and biopsy.

Mammography has been shown to be a very effective means of detecting changes in the breast. This method uses a very minimal amount of radiation and is an important adjunct to the breast exam. It can also detect malignant changes which are not yet palpable, but it cannot replace the physical exam. Additional evaluations, such as a biopsy, may be needed.

At the present time the general recommendations for mammography are: 1) baseline mammography between the ages of 35-40; 2) mammography every two years between the ages of 40-50; 3) yearly mammography after the age of 50.

Ultrasound, which involves sound waves, is another useful form of evaluation. This may be more helpful in younger females who have dense breasts with fibrocystic changes.

Thermography is a diagnostic procedure which operates on the premise that tumors give off more heat than normal tissue. This method does not have a high rate of accuracy and, therefore, is not a normal screening test for breast cancer.

Biopsy is the only accurate way to determine the exact nature of the lesion. An excisional biopsy involves removal of the lump and is generally done in a hospital or outpatient surgical clinic. A second form of biopsy involves needle aspiration. This involves numbing the area with local anesthesia and aspirating the lump with a needle. In both instances the fluid or tissue is sent to a pathologist for examination.

Of course, a woman's greatest concern with the identification of a breast lump is breast cancer. This will occur in one of every 11 women, and is a significant cause of female mortality. The most important factor in curing breast cancer is early detection. Self-breast exams and mammography cannot be emphasized enough in attaining this goal. It is important for a woman who locates a breast lump to seek medical attention. By all means, don't ignore it!

The things that put you at risk for breast cancer include a first degree relative with breast cancer, age of 50 years or greater, first child after the age of 35, no children and a previous history of breast cancer.

In order to increase your knowledge about breast disease the University of Michigan M-CARE Health Center in Northville will be sponsoring two lecture series. The first one will be held May 10 and will focus on benign breast disease. The second lecture will be held May 17 and will focus on reconstructive surgery and self-image after mastectomy.

Please call the health center for further information at 344-1777. A step-by-step guide to self-breast exam is also available.

The Novi News is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.
