Threat of fiscal disaster forces change of heart

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Sometime in January, the Southern Michigan Oil Company (SOMOCO) plans to sink its second oil well in Novi on 75 acres just west of Echo Valley Estates subdivision.

Saying a refusal threatened Novi with economic disaster, the City Council "reluctantly" granted a drilling permit for the venture in a four-to-three vote Wednesday.

So may end a six-year battle which began when the Traverse City-based oil company approached Echo Valley residents for oil and gas leasing rights, wound its way through Novi's Planning Commission, city council and Zoning Board of Appeals and missed by just one vote a final resolution in court.

The council originally denied the permits in Oct. 1990. Two key factors were cited in the council change of heart. One was the city's zoning board of appeals (SOMOCO)

April approval of a land use variance for SOMOCO.

The second was a possible precedent set by the Michigan Court of Claims September decision awarding $89.5 million to Miller Brothers Oil Company and its associates in compensation for a state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) ban on drilling at western Michigan's Nordhouse dunes.

Judge Brian MacKenzie dispenses justice before Novi High School students

A view of justice in action

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Some Novi High School students were scared straight Thursday before they even had a chance to travel into the fast lane.

Judge Brian MacKenzie brought the 52nd District Court, First Division to Novi High School for a day.

Drunk drivers and other accused criminals were among the cast of characters who agreed to show high school students what could happen if they found themselves on the wrong side of the law.

Prior to the judge's third session of the day, a group of students who organized the event discussed what they had learned so far.

Rebecca Chinn was surprised how many people went to jail for their second drunk driving offenses. In the next session, Chinn would be even more surprised when MacKenzie sentenced a drunk driver with no prior convictions to 14 days in jail.

"I didn't realize they were so strict," she said.

The judge joked with students between sessions, but when a defendant was brought before him the joking stopped.

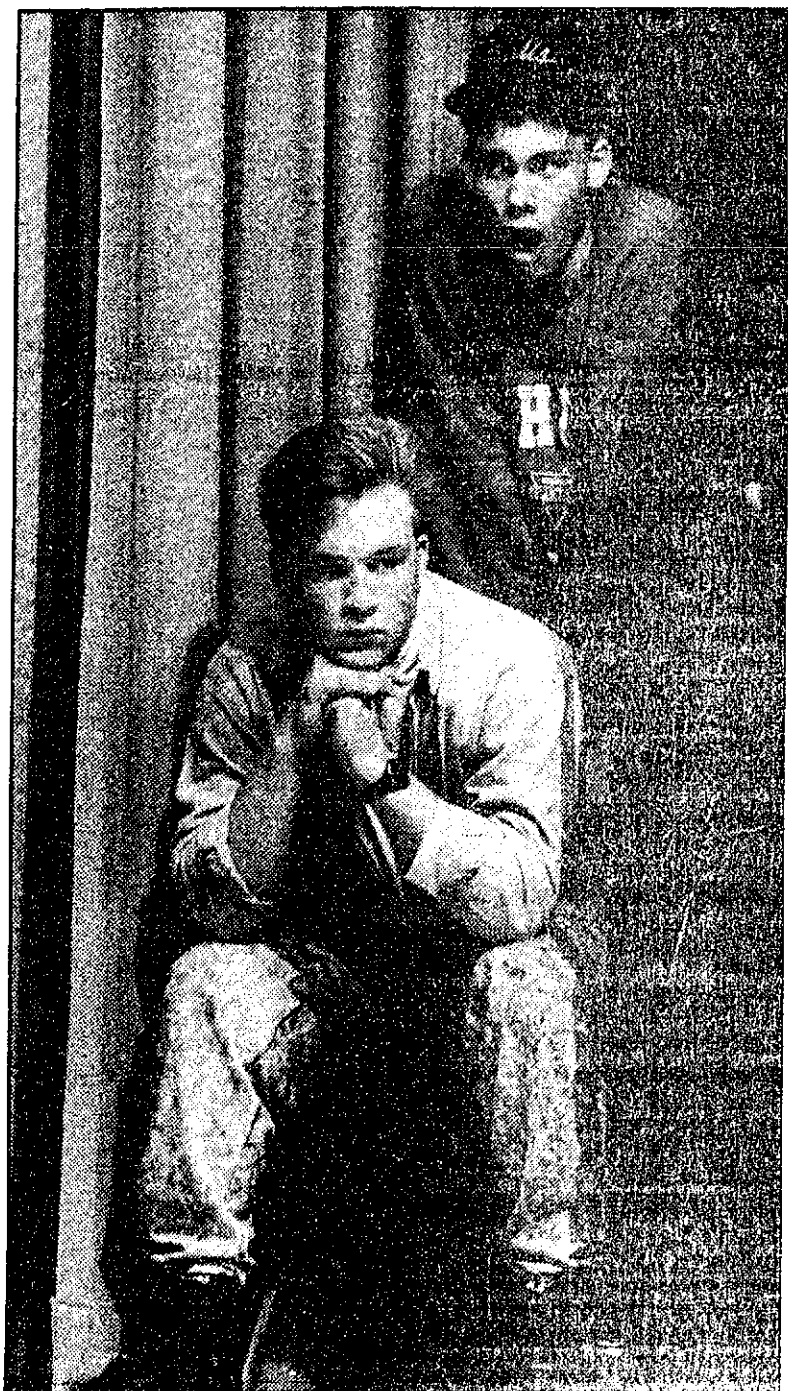

He lectured drunk drivers about the effects alcohol has on their physical appearance. He told them they were a menace to society.

"You're addicted to alcohol," MacKenzie told a tearful woman accused for the first time of drunk driving.

"You're a threat to society. When I send my kids out at night, I don't worry they might get shot. I worry that someone like you could kill them."

Student Michelle Thomas decided MacKenzie's routine was an act.

Board weighs district tax hike

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

The Novi school board will decide tomorrow, Nov. 26, if it should raise taxes.

A meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Parkview Elementary, 45825 Eleven Mile Road, for the board to decide if it should raise the millage from 27.63 mills to 28.44 mills.

On Nov. 19, a divided group of nearly 20 Novi school district residents and one non-resident turned out at a school district hearing to give input on both sides of a proposed tax hike.

The school district legally is permitted to raise taxes as high as 29.72 mills. It currently levies 27.63 mills.

But school district administrators proposed raising the tax levy to 28.44 mills to account for a $2.5 million shortfall expected next year.

The proposed increase would cost the owner of a $200,000 home, assessed at $100,000, an additional $81 a year in property taxes.

The state Legislature last year approved a tax freeze that will hold property assessments at their 1991 levels. School districts and municipalities also will not be permitted to raise the levy without a vote.

Following the hearing, school board members discussed alternative proposals they would like the administration to address at a Nov. 26 meeting.

Following a break, board members discussed possible alternatives to the tax increase.

Trustee Sandra Thornton said the board should not fall into the "either / or fallacy."

"I seem to be hearing either we pass (the increase) or we don't pass it. There are other options," she said.

Trustee Raymond Byers said he is not convinced the full 28.44-mill levy is necessary.

Byers said he is not sure if the proposal could get the necessary 4 votes on the school board to pass.

If the tax hike does pass, Byers is afraid voters might reject a 13-mill renewal scheduled for February or March.

"The renewal could fail, and if it does we are essentially out of business," he said. "It's something that really could happen."

Treasurer John Streit said he is concerned about the board's credibility. He is concerned the increase would not cover the district's needs next year.

"I'm worried we'll have to come back next year for more money," he said.

Complaint angers Novi school board

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Members of the Novi school board responded to complaints by the former Novi mayor that the school's concession stand flooded at a recent football game.

Trustee Raymond Byers called a letter to the editor from former mayor Pat Karevich a "cheap shot" at a Nov. 7 meeting.

Karevich wrote in a letter to the editor in the Novi News that sewage backed up into the concession stand at Novi High School on Nov. 1.

She said a similar problem occurred the last time she worked in the stand.

Karevich should have brought her problem to the board this time, not the newspaper, Byers said.

"I cannot tell you the last time I was in the same room as the woman," Byers said.

In her letter, Karevich said she was "verbally abused" by the school board the last time she brought the problem to its attention.

Byers responded that only one board member, Vice President Robert Schram, was on the board the last time Karevich voiced a complaint.

"I think it's a cheap shot. I think it stinks," Byers said.

Schram said the situation was addressed when Karevich brought her complaint to the board. He said the "very difficult problem" with sewage backups in the concession stand have not occurred in many years.

He also criticized the former mayor for using her time in the concession stand to campaign.

Karevich and other workers wore T-shirts in support of Novi City Council candidate Diana Canup. Canup lost in the Nov. 5 City Council election, coming in 12 votes behind re-elected incumbent Joseph Toth.

"I have been in (the concession stand) with water up to my ankles," Schram said.

Karevich declined to comment on the board's reaction to her letter. She said that as a former public official she did not want to banter with the school board.

Karevich was Novi's mayor prior to Mayor Matthew Quinn's election. Quinn was re-elected Nov. 5 to serve his third two-year term.

In her letter, Karevich wondered if the Oakland County Health Department was aware of the flooding problem. She also wondered if the building was up to code.

As mayor, Karevich supported requiring school officials to submit school buildings to the same review process followed by other developers. The school district has long contended that it is not required to follow zoning procedures, and a law passed in 1990 backs them up.

A county health official said she was unaware of the problem, but added any complaints made against the building are not part of the public record.

District interviews first of three

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

The first of three candidates for the position of Novi school superintendent said only a few school districts could draw him away from his current position.

Emmett Lippe was interviewed Thursday in a public meeting.

Lippe has been superintendent in the Williamston Community School District since 1976.

"There are very few school districts I would leave Williamston for in terms of quality of education," he said. "No one's forcing me or running me out of town."

He still has a job, Lippe said, if the Novi school board does not hire him.

Lippe arrived in the district at 1 p.m. to tour some of Novi's school buildings with the board president before his formal interview with the full board.

Lippe told the board he implemented a merit-pay system for administrators in Williamston. Administrators in Williamston can receive up to plus or minus 3 percent on their total salary depending on how well they reach pre-established goals.

Similar standards cannot be established for teachers because of tenure laws. That position led an audience member to question whether Lippe would give an exemplary administrator a low evaluation because he or she had not met certain goals.

Lippe said the goals would not be unrealistic. Administrators also would play a role in establishing goals.

"I wouldn't use the goal to play games with him," Lippe said.

On a personal note, Lippe said when he is not working he likes to golf, water ski, play basketball and vacation with his wife and three sons.

The second candidate was interviewed after presstime Friday, Nov. 22 at the same time and place.

Kenneth Harper, superintendent in Zealand Public Schools, followed the same schedule as Lippe. Harper has worked as superintendent in Zealand for 13 years.

The school board's final interview will be with Jon Reynolds, a superintendent in Lansing's Waverly Community School District.

Reynolds will be interviewed Dec. 5 at the same time and place as the previous candidates. Reynolds has served as superintendent in Waverly since 1983.

Following the initial round of interviews, the school board will schedule a second interview with the top candidates or candidate.

They will meet in public session on Dec. 7, a Saturday, at 9 a.m. to discuss the candidates. Time will be allotted for public input.

The second interview is expected to include an informal meeting and possibly a visit to the candidate's current school district.

Council allows oil well to avoid financial disaster history has had. I really have had the best of my previous decision pulled out from under me," Mayor Matthew Guinn said.

"I have to heavily rely on the legal opinion we have... We do have to consider the 33,000 residents of the city when we have a decision of this magnitude. The possibilities given out previously in the matter are probabilities. We are looking at the possibility of economic disaster for the city."

Looking at the Miller case, Guinn said the city could be asked to pay SOMOCO more than four times the limit set by the city's insurance company — a sum equal to three years of the city's budget.

The annual general fund budget is $11.75 million for this fiscal year. "The only way that money could be recovered would be special assessment districts throughout the entire city," he added.

In the Miller lawsuit, now under appeal by the state, the court ruled that although the DNR correctly withheld the drilling permits, the company and its associates would still have to be compensated for the revenue loss.

The permit was granted with the provision that SOMOCO engage in no secondary recovery at the now-vacant well site without a public hearing and city approval. Secondary recovery is when a chemical substance is pumped into the well to aid in lifting out the petroleum residue.

"The second court hearing was requested by attorneys for the city's insurance carriers, Risk Management Authority, Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Rudy Nichols gave Novi until Nov. 28 to hold the meeting."

SOMOCO sued the city in December 1990.

When the direction the council was leaning became clear, Echo Valley residents — who fear their well water could be contaminated by the oil recovery — spontaneously marched out of the council chamber in a mute protest before the final vote was taken.

"I am mad, bitter and disillusioned with the city administration's inability to serve or protect the citizens affected by this," Frank Brennan, president of the Echo Valley homeowners' association said after the meeting.

"Apathy got a shot in the arm... It's a sad day for Novi and a troubling precedent for our future."

"Litigation blackmail ironically ended up being the reason for the vote, in my eyes."

Brennan said he had given city officials a copy of a newspaper article on the Miller lawsuit but had no idea this would result.

SOMOCO vice-president and land manager Gary Gottschalk predicted the 10- to 12-day drilling process will begin in January. The Traverse City-based oil company estimates it has an 85 percent chance of tapping into a $50 million black gold reserve.

"I'm going to do this to the people who helped me get where I'm at and I'm

Conditions placed on oil well permit

By JAN JEFFRES

In granting the Southern Michigan Oil Company (SOMOCO) permission to seek oil in a Niagaran reef below Novi, the city tagged on a list of stipulations.

Wednesday, the City Council insisted that no secondary recovery take place at the Ten Mile Road site without a public hearing and a permit from the city. In secondary recovery, chemicals are pumped into the oil reserve to help pump up the drops of the petroleum pool.

SOMOCO will soon appear before the Planning Commission to seek woodlands and wetlands permits.

In April, the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) approved a land use variance for the project but required a weekly check of the 1.5 mile long pipeline leading from the Ten Mile Road site to a production facility on the Delta Trucking property at Eleven Mile and Wixom roads.

Beyond state requirements for the oil well, the company has promised the city it will do the following:

- Place hospital quiet mufflers on the drilling rig.
- Line the entire drilling location in containment dikes.
- During the drilling, water the road if necessary to control dust.
- Hire at their own expense an independent consultant to provide oversight to city during the drilling

- Submit the proposed drilling company's qualifications and safety record to the Novi fire marshal for approval before work begins.
- Cement all well casings to the surface.
- X-ray 100 percent of the steel pipeline wells, as well as use a double-thick pipeline.
- Monitor ground water and air for pollution.
- Make the well a closed system to prevent odor escape.
- Place vapor monitoring points along the pipeline.
- Install vapor tight seals and a vapor recovery system at the Delta Trucking facility.
- Install safety shutdown valves and an extensive protection system on the Ten Mile Road well.
- Pay $500 to a fund designated by the city for each day after drilling when hydrocarbon odors coming from the parcel are verified by the city.
- Take out and keep up a $3 million seepage and pollution policy on the well.
- Abide by all orders or remedial measures issued by government agencies, including the state health department.
- Construct a bike path along Ten Mile Road.
- Pay the city's tree fund $3,750 for 25 trees to be removed from the site, as well as protect or replant where necessary shrubbery on the land.

and construction period.

Every bone in my body tells me this will disrupt the orderly development of the city. It will disrupt the area. I think it will disrupt the values of the land and of the homes. I don't think it's good for the city," Schmid said.

"I think it's a terrible choice to have to make. Based on what evidence we have, based on what can potentially happen if we don't allow this, I'm going to support it."

A year ago, the council denied SOMOCO a land use variance and the permit based on health, safety and welfare considerations, also citing a potential adverse impact on the orderly development of western Novi. Then, only recently retired Council Member Martha Hoyer gave her approval.

This time around, City Attorney David Fried advised that the zoning board's day of the drilling on a unperturbed it... SOMOCO is unethical. Very unethical. I guess that's the 1980s," Pope said.

"I said I wouldn't be blackmailed by litigation. I didn't know I'd be blindsided by the zoning board of appeals — an appointed body — by taking out from underneath our case, what the planning commission and city council set as policy."

"I'm not going to hide in the minority... I'm not going to do that when I know what the potential impacts will be. I don't want to vote this way. I can't want SOMOCO to have a permit. I am faced with a legal counsel that I trust. I hope my vote is understood."

Gave added he was "disturbed" that two years ago, the "council changed the gas and oil ordinance, technically they loosened it up in preparation for this." He also accused the city of not going to the final end of the well to uncover enough information to deny the permit.

Toth and Schmid agreed they were persuaded by the attorneys' argument.

"Every bone in my body tells me this will disrupt the orderly development of the city. It will disrupt the area. I think it will disrupt the values of the land and of the homes. I don't think it's good for the city," Schmid said.

Toth and Schmid agreed they were MOCO's application met the requirements. Cassis had no comments during the meeting but voted with them against issuing the permit.

"Property values may appreciate but who could tell if they might have appreciated even more... It's going to have a detrimental impact on the development of the neighborhood, any development that might come in will be adversely impacted. Common sense tells me these two items have to be considered," Crawford said.

"Understand there could be some far-reaching consequences to the city but I have to go with what I feel is best for that area of the city."

According to research done by the city assessor, the well would not likely lower home values.

But Mason, a real estate broker, agreed with Crawford's prediction of a downward jolt to Echo Valley property values.

"If you go to the multi-lists, the houses in Echo Valley do not sell, not since October 1990. The two that did were down $30,000," Mason said, adding that she couldn't feel $9.99 per square foot sure the operation would lead to no health, safety and welfare risk.

After the meeting, Cassis explained in a telephone interview that she felt it was up to the city to set the policy of not permitting the drilling on residential land, leaving the courts to interpret that decision. She contents that since the Miller case is under appeal, the final outcome is not known.

"I wasn't going to be scared away by a court action... I questioned whether the courts would put the whole municipality at this kind of risk. I wasn't willing to go on those ambiguous grounds," Cassis said.

She added that she wasn't convinced that the oil well will jeopardize the environment and the Echo Valley homeowners.

It's not yet known, how much, if any gas and oil lurk in a fossilized coral reef thousands of feet underground. Some of that reserve could lie under Echo Valley.

SOMOCO has a drilling permit from the DNR and state law permits "capture" of petroleum from neighboring lands.

Brennan said he could not yet disclose what — if anything — Echo Valley homeowners could do now. Most of them refused longer to lease their mineral rights to SOMOCO.

"About the only satisfaction about last night was my showing my utter disgust by walking out before the vote. Once Tim (Pope) and Bob (Schmid) threw in the towel, that gave Matt Quinn the change to be the unifying vote," he said.

As Gottschalk sees it, Novi may find this has been much ado about nothing.

Lockerroom thefts reported in Novi

Three thefts from lockers at Varsity were reported Nov. 19.

The first theft occurred between 9:15 and 10:30 a.m. Nov. 19, when the unknown suspect reportedly removed the padlock from a locker in the men's locker room and stole $50 from a wallet inside.

The second occurred between 11:20 a.m. and 12:50 p.m., when someone reportedly stole $40 in cash and a $60 personal check from a locker that the victim left unlocked while taking a shower.

Finally, a pair of boots were reported stolen shortly after 4 p.m. The owner of the boots said he left them

The locker around 11:15 and discovered them missing when he returned.

LARCENY FROM VEHICLE: A resident on Rousseau in the Chateau Estates mobile home park reported Nov. 16 that someone broke a door window from his 1990 Chevrolet and stole a radio detector.

The owner said he parked his car in front of his home around 9 p.m.

and returned at 10:35 a.m. to discover the damage.

MOOP: A resident on Kings Pointe reported Nov. 19 that the sign at the entrance of the Meadowbrook Glens subdivision had been vandalized.

Police said the sign had been torn from its post and split in half by unknown means.

There are currently no suspects or witnesses.

MOOP: A resident on Carriage Hill reported Nov. 19 that someone shot several paint balls at his house while driving by.

A resident on Galway also reported Nov. 19 that someone drove by and shot approximately 12 balls at his house.

The paint washed off, the man said, but this is the third such incident to his home in the past year.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call the Novi Police Tip Line at 349-6887.

Students gasp at driver's sentence

"I've been to other judges. They're not that mean," she said.

But student Angela Pawlowski doesn't want to risk ever facing MacKenzie in a courtroom.

"I'd be very uncomfortable. I'd probably start bawling," she said. Despite what the students might think, MacKenzie said he treated Thursday's cases no more harshly than any others he has decided.

If anything, MacKenzie gave fewer lectures on Thursday than he would have in his Walpole Lake courtroom.

"I can get real ratty," he said. Defendants must agree to have their case heard at the school. No one would have agreed, MacKenzie said.

If he was unusually harsh. The program at Novi High School is in its third year.

Novi Youth Assistance Director Karen Bartholomew, who also is engaged to MacKenzie, supported his claim that he was not pulling on a show for the students.

"He is usually more dramatic in the courtroom," she said.

MacKenzie believes in using jail to punish and teach convicted drunk drivers.

"It's my approach that jail has a function," he said.

If a person has been convicted of drunk driving once, then MacKenzie often sentences the driver to a short jail term, around two weeks, to send the message that he or she has a problem.

A repeat offender must be taken off the road, he said. District court judges can sentence drunk drivers for up to one year in jail, which MacKenzie often does.

A man convicted of drunk driving was sentenced Thursday at the high school. He and his attorney told the judge he had changed. The man admitted he was an alcoholic and told the judge he had successfully completed rehabilitation.

He agreed to have his case heard at the high school to warn students not to follow the path he had followed. MacKenzie was not impressed. He sent the man to jail for one year.

"You seem to think you're above the law, that the law doesn't apply to you," MacKenzie said.

"You're, I assume, going to lose your job, your house and your car," he said. MacKenzie told a uniformed officer.

An auditorium full of students gasped when they heard the sentence.

"I can't believe he's going to jail right now," Pawlowski said. "They just took him away. His girlfriend is right there watching."

Bartholomew said that kind of lesson is one students will remember. "There's no better way to drive it home," she said.

"If you're going to irritate people, you're going to irritate those that are going to be irritated if you increase the taxes at all. Period," Barr said.

Barr was instructed by the board to investigate five alternatives to his proposed increase. He will report on his findings Tuesday.

Calling former band members: The Novi High School bands are in need of uniforms and only former band students and their parents can help. Uniforms are in short supply for both symphony and concert bands. Through the years, some students have failed to return uniforms upon graduation, causing a serious shortage for current students. If you have one or part of a uniform, or know someone who does, call Paula Joyner-Clinard, 344-8300 or Nina Harris, 347-0054.

Paper out early: The Novi News edition dated Nov. 28 will actually be distributed Wednesday, Nov. 27, due to the Thanksgiving holiday. As a result, all deadlines for news and advertising in that issue will fall 24 hours earlier than usual.

Holly jollies: The city's ninth annual "Light Up the Holidays" tree lighting ceremony will be held Monday, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. Children of all ages are especially welcome to join in on the festivities at the Novi Civic Center.

The celebration will include a community sing-along, a visit from Santa and light refreshments. To share in the holiday spirit of giving, everyone is asked to bring a canned/boxed food item for the Jaycees Needy Family Christmas program.

Joining in the city in sponsoring the tree lighting are the Novi Jaycees, Novi Co-op Nursery and Novi Newcomers.

Sporting Life: The 11th Annual Used Sport and Recreation Equipment Sale is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 7 at the Novi Civic Center from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. The parks and recreation department provides the space and residents are encouraged to bring used equipment to sell.

Hot sellers include skis, skates, hockey equipment, balls, bikes and sporting apparel. Parks and recreation lake reserves 15 percent of the sale price.

Register your equipment on Thursday, Dec. 5 or Friday, Dec. 6 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the civic center.

Board mulls school tax increase

Vice President Robert Schram and Secretary Craig Foreback said they think the full increase might not be necessary.

Trustee Michael Meyer, who was the only board member who voted against holding a tax hearing, said he still remains opposed to the increase. Meyer said he feels the anti-tax sentiment has reached Novi, citing the failed proposal to build a Veterans' facility. The plan would have cost taxpayers an additional 28 mills. The proposed school tax increase is nearly three times as large.

"I just think it's not going to fare well with the citizens," he said.

President Stephen Hitchcock said by not voting "many taxpayers have delegated their decision."

He said he does not want to leave the fate of the school district up to those 500 voters expected to show up in a June election if the decision was postponed.

Delay sought in DNR reorganization debate

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Republicans on the House Conservation Committee want two more months of negotiations to give Gov. John Engler and environmentalists a Department of Natural Resources they all can live with.

"We've polarized," said Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, after the House voted 69-35 disapproval of Engler's executive order reorganizing water and air quality boards under the DNR.

"The Senate's not going to pass it," said Dolan, a member of the Conservation panel.

Likely results: Engler's order would stand; a Democratic lawsuit would charge Engler exceeded his powers; heavily Republican areas in Oakland County would think Engler ignored them; and there would be months of inefficient uncertainty in the DNR.

Under the state constitution, both chambers must disapprove an executive reorganization plan within 60 days, or the plan takes effect. Deadline is Jan. 8.

Engler last week rescinded one executive order in the face of bipartisan opposition—the one eliminating the Science Advisory Board under the new "polluters pay" law.

An 11-0 vote in the House Conservation Committee Nov. 19 convinced him to back off, even without votes of the full House and Senate.

The morning of Nov. 20, House Conservation Chair Tom Alley, D-West Branch, reported out a resolution disapproving the order abolishing the other four boards. That afternoon, the full House passed it 33-33, with more than a dozen Republicans voting for it and against Engler.

Republican Willis Bullard of Highland (whose district includes Novi) voiced no objection.

Dolan is joining Rep. Donald Van Singel, R-Grant, in asking Engler and other lawmakers to hold up the orders and suits and allow two more months—until March 7, 1992—for a fresh legislative look at the problems.

The two key problems:

■ Engler's argument that DNR is slow and inefficient in issuing permits. He wants to abolish many boards—such as the Water Resources Commission, Air Pollution Control Commission, Hazardous Waste Site Review boards, and the advisory board for the Clean Michigan Fund. He would have work done by staff and all policy made by the parent Natural Resources Commission. (Dolan notes many Oakland politicians call DNR the "Department of No Response.")

■ The environmentalists' and local governments' view that public input before a citizen board is essential. "With the elimination of the Air Pollution Control Commission," wrote Rochester Hills Mayor Billie Ireland, "residents of my community as well as citizens throughout Oakland County will be deprived of a scheduled public hearing on the proposed Oakland County incinerator." Voters recently approved a bond issue for the 2,000-ton-per-day incinerator, to be located in Auburn Hills, upwind from the Rochester area.

EMEAC (East Michigan Environmental Action Council), headquartered in Bloomfield Hills, charged Engler's action "will change the present process of open review and public input to one where bureaucratic decisions made behind closed doors will be the basis of environmental policy."

As We See It

Don't hike taxes to pad savings account

It comes down to this . . . the Novi school board is considering whether it should take money out of taxpayers' savings accounts so that it can set the extra money aside in its own savings account.

Ultimately, such a move would be ill-advised.

The purpose of the Novi school district is to provide educational programs for Novingtonians, not to act as a banking institution or investment firm. If it is a choice between whose account the money should sit in for the next year, we would choose taxpayers' accounts.

And then, if indeed the extra money is needed next year—and by all rights, it likely will be needed—the Novi school board should go to the public then and simply ask for it. If the district deals squarely with Novi voters now, they should rest assured that the public will remember it, appreciate it and come forward with the cash when it is in fact really needed. The school board should show faith in the public. That is the relationship the school board has always had to Novi voters in the past. It has worked for the board, and we see no reason to part with tradition now.

The meeting follows a truth-in-taxation hearing in which the board took input from the public on whether it should raise the millage rate from 27.63 mills to 28.44 mills. On Nov. 19, nearly 20 residents turned out at the hearing and were split in their opinions about 50-50.

The school district legally is permitted to raise taxes as high as 29.72 mills. It currently levies 27.63 mills. School district administrators are proposing to raise the levy to 28.44 mills to make up for a $2.5 million shortfall expected next year.

The proposed increase would cost the owner of a $200,000 home, assessed at $100,000, an additional $81 a year in property taxes. And that is no small chunk of change.

Next year, if more is needed, it should simply ask then.

Some members are also concerned about an anti-tax sentiment which seems to have arrived in Novi. They are concerned that voters might not be willing to pay for school programs when they are asked.

But nothing is likely to exacerbate anti-tax sentiments like levying taxes that aren't really needed. In fact, most would suggest that it was the levying of excessive taxes that caused the anti-tax movement in this state in the first place.

Besides, Novi voters have always shown a willingness in the past to approve taxes when they are really needed, and when they are going to get their money's worth.

In the end, it is a matter of who gets to save the money, the district or the taxpayer. We think it should be the taxpayer. And the school district should ask for no more than it takes to run its programs this year.

Incinerator on hold while DNR reorganizes

Oakland County is stymied in its plans to implement the solid waste program narrowly approved by voters Nov. 5.

The governor's plan to restructure the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and problems with the Oakland's 641 plan — the legal blueprint for its solid waste program — have made it impossible for officials to move, rapidly or otherwise, said Roger Smith, county deputy director of solid waste management.

"But we hope to get the revised IGAs (intergovernmental agreements) out to the individual communities by the end of the year," said Smith. "They will have until April to act on them."

Smith and others had hoped to move more rapidly to implement the recycling portion of the solid waste program approved last week 70,908 to 70,685. But changes in Lansing make it difficult.

"We can't just move ahead, even though we got a yes vote," Smith said. "We can't even get going on recycling."

Gov. John Engler surprised Oakland County officials — and others — last week by announcing he wants to reorganize the DNR. Among other things, the governor would eliminate the Air Pollution Control Commission, the agency that was to hold public hearings on Oakland's proposed incinerator before acting on its operating permit.

That's a significant change, said Smith. If only because county officials — as well as those still opposed to the incinerator proposed in Auburn Hills — don't know what agency would perform that function.

"We've been in contact with the governor's office," Smith said. "They said the changes (in the DNR) are too extensive to fax and they'd mail them to us. So far (Wednesday morning) we don't have them yet."

Smith said he is also concerned about changes DNR officials have told him they want in Oakland's 641 plan. He hasn't seen the proposed changes. Furthermore, Smith said he is confident they can be made. "But it adds to the uncertainty," he said.

Residents concerned that Oakland might be forced to import trash to keep the incinerator operating will be encouraged by one change Smith said the DNR wants.

"They (DNR officials) want specifics on our import-export policies," Smith said. "They want specifics about the trash Oakland imports and exports."

Currently the county's 641 plan states Oakland is striving for a point at which it will neither import nor export trash, Smith said. "But we let the market forces operate. We don't impose restrictions."

"The DNR wants specifics about when and how trash will be imported or exported," Smith continued. "Otherwise the DNR will close the borders."

Another specific the DNR is asking for, Smith said, is our emergency plan. The county has contingency plans to take its trash to other counties if that ever becomes necessary.

Money sought to fund recount

A recount of key precincts in last week's election on Oakland County's solid waste program will cost $2,000, according to the head of a group opposed to the proposed Auburn Hills incinerator.

That recount would target areas such as Bloomfield, West Bloomfield and Waterford townships where paper ballots were used in the Nov. 5 election, said Diane L. Pederson, president of Help Oakland Preserve the Environment.

HOPE was scheduled to meet with other anti-incinerator groups Wednesday evening to discuss strategy and how to finance the recount, said Pederson.

"But there's definitely going to be a recount," she said.

Those interested in challenging the results of last week's election — one of the closest in county history — have a tight schedule.

The election results were expected to be certified Tuesday. After that, challengers have six days — or the close of business Nov. 25 — to request a recount.

On the ballot Nov. 5 was a proposal on financing the proposed $500 million Oakland County solid waste program, including a controversial incinerator in Auburn Hills.

Uncertified results showed the proposal passing 70,908 to 70,685, a difference of 223 votes.

The election set two benchmarks in county history. The most ambitious — and expensive — public project in county history was approved by the narrowest-ever vote margin. "I checked the records back to 1912," said Stuckley. "That's the closest county-wide vote on record."

"Several people — including Pederson — have asked about recounts," said Stuckley. "They were interested in the communities that used paper ballots."

Pederson confirmed that HOPE is considering a limited recount focusing on communities that used paper ballots. "I believe we can focus on about 200 precincts," she said, "and still get an accurate reading."

A recount costs $10 per precinct, which means double checking all of Oakland County's 559 precincts would cost $5,590. A recount limited to the 200 or so precincts at which paper ballots were used would cost about $2,000.

"I think we could raise that much," said Pederson. "But I don't want to discuss it until after tonight's meeting."

Bloomfield, West Bloomfield and Waterford are among the bigger townships that used paper ballots, along with communities such as Highland and Millford.

Vote's impact on Novi still unclear

The top official of Novi's regional solid waste authority says his group is unsure what impact the $500 million bond issue recently approved by voters in Oakland County will have there.

To date, members of the Resource Recovery and Recycling Authority of Southwest Oakland County have received little information on how the county will approach the plan, which calls for a controversial incinerator to be built in Auburn Hills, a county-wide recycling program and a landfill to serve the county.

Voters countywide approved the measure by only 223 votes.

"I guess it's kind of up in the air," said Robert Deadman, Farmington city manager and chairman of the recycling authority. "Everybody's waiting for the county to come back to us."

County officials have said they will first approach the recycling portion of the program, then attempt to get inter-governmental agreements with local communities which will pledge their tonnage to the incinerator.

The recycling authority represents the cities of Novi, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Southfield, Wixom, Walled Lake and South Lyon, plus Lyon Township. The regional group previously rejected an inter-governmental agreement with the county and developed its own plan to deal with the waste stream. It already has begun curbside recycling programs.

High on the list of questions, Deadman said, is how local communities who buy into the county program will pay for it, especially in light of criticism by Farmington resident Patrick Anderson and his group Taxpayers' United.

The group contends mandatory user fees for such programs are unrealistic. Anderson has criticized the communities of Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills for the user fee concept, which he claims is really a tax.

Deadman said the recycling authority communities would not likely participate in the county's recycling program because most have their own, and any consideration of using the county incinerator would be based on economics and looking at the scope of the entire project.

The job of handling the county's garbage is difficult for groups like the authority, Deadman said, because many of the rules change midstream. "We're trying to hit a moving target, whether it be the county, the DNR or the EPA," he added.

Deadman said he believes the emphasis on recycling and getting word out about the garbage space problem helped the issue pass, although by a narrow margin countywide. Voters in Novi rejected the measure.

"I really believe all of these recycling programs and discussions played a major role," he said. "They (residents) recognize we've got to have somewhere to take the trash."

Deadman said the authority is "not in a crisis situation," so can afford to wait for the county to fine tune its plan.

Just what do they mean when label reads reserve

Value-laden descriptors adorn the modern-day domestic wine label. The consumer is faced with Reserve, Proprietor's Reserve, Private Reserve, Private Selection, Cellar Selection, and Special Selection to name a few. If vineyard designations and proprietary names are added, the array of descriptive words borders on bewildering.

Do the host of wines bearing such designations merit the mark of distinction they confer? Are these loaded terms persuasive marketing devices for the uninitiated wine drinker?

Italy has particular laws governing the use of the descriptors riserva and riserva speciale on the label. Riserva wines are aged in wood one year longer than a non-reserve wine. Riserva speciale wines receive two to three years' additional aging in wood before bottling.

Domestic wine laws do not regulate the use of reserve label designations and only a few wineries employing them make an effort to inform consumers of their meaning. Are these phrases a guarantee of high quality or merely a sales gimmick?

Sonoma County's Simi Winery looked to Webster's to define their focus. "Reserve means to set apart or to hold for the future," says president Zelma Long. "This clearly expresses our intention — to create wines of exceptional quality that will age well."

Jim Clendenen, winemaker at Au Bon Climat Winery, Los Olivos, Calif., says, "The concept of a reserve wine is always relative to the producer's regular line of wines. It means nothing in relation to products produced by other wineries. The only thing a well-intentioned winery can guarantee is that their reserve wine will be closer to an optimal expression of their stylistic intentions than will any of their regular bottlings."

Beringer Vineyard's winemaker Ed Sbragia says, "Private Reserve has traditionally designated our best wine. We want to be able to put our best lots of wine into a blend in order to make the best wine possible in a particular style."

Winemaker Paul Dolan of Fetzer Vineyards says, "Developing reserve wines gives us a chance to take small quantities of the very best wines we produce and craft them into special wines with no compromises. Instead of just disappearing into our regular wine program, they provide us with a challenge and enhance our image as a winery producing a super-premium product."

If the reserve designation does not correspond to a special quality in the wine, then it is just a marketing tool, successful or not, depending upon the public's gullibility.

Certainly, the term reserve has been degraded by some wineries seeking to justify a higher price rather than greater quality.

Special designations have been overused on wine labels, and the public has been misled in certain cases. How about Reserve White Zinfandel or Reserve White Grenache? Give us a break!

"Let the consumer beware!" says one winemaker. "The consumer paying $5 a bottle for a reserve wine is having delusions of grandeur. The customer paying $20 plus buys by the reputation of the individual product."

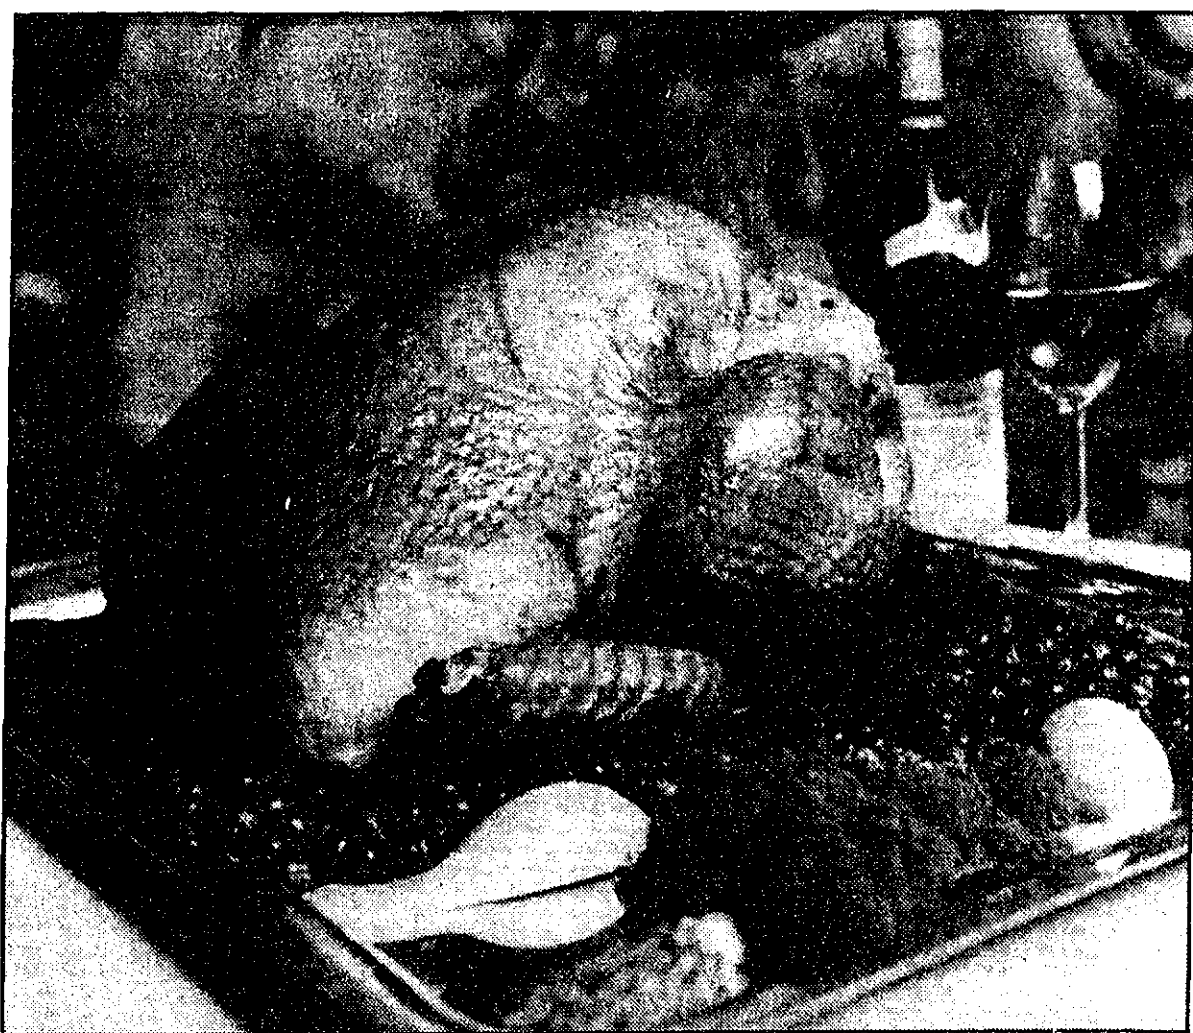

Understanding of what reserve wines mean has been lost in large volume, inexpensive wines that use the same designations. If they haven't been lost, they've been debased.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

1990 Mitchellton Coldridge Estate, Semillon-Charbonnet (SS). This Australian white wine is the best value we have listed recently. Made principally from Semillon, the most widely planted white variety in Australia. It boasts fresh fruit character and good body with no oak to mask the fruit.

1987 Beringer Private Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon, Napa Valley (SS). Speaking of reserve wines, here is one of the very best in California. Blended aromas emphasize spice and blackberry with hints of cranberry and leather glove. Everything bottled on the nose is delivered on the palate.

1987 Oregon Vineyards Cabernet Sauvignon, Red Hills (SS). Represents a delicious example of what is being produced in California's Central Coast. Blackberry and black cherry characters are enhanced by attractive oak in a complex, mouthful for the money.

The choice is yours: go for the traditional trimmings, or try turkey with a new twist

Turkey two ways

Follow these steps to cook a traditional bird

Here are directions from turkey-cooking pros on preparing and storing a flavorful, golden brown bird.

1. THAWING

(If turkey is not frozen, begin with step 2.) Do not thaw poultry at room temperature. Leave turkey in original packaging and use one of the following methods:

No hurry: Place wrapped turkey on a tray in refrigerator for 3 to 4 days. Allow 5 hours per pound of turkey to completely thaw.

Fastest: Place wrapped turkey in sink and cover with cold water. Allow about 1 1/2 hour per pound of turkey to completely thaw. Change water frequently.

Refrigerate or cook turkey when it is thawed. Refreezing uncooked turkey is not recommended.

Commercially frozen stuffed turkeys should not be thawed before roasting.

2. PREPARATION

All equipment and materials used for storage, preparation and serving of poultry must be clean. Wash hands thoroughly with hot soapy water before and after handling raw poultry. Use plastic or acrylic cutting boards to prepare poultry. Instead of wood, which can harbor bacteria.

Remove plastic wrapping from thawed turkey. Remove giblets and neck from the body and neck cavities.

Giblets can be simmered separately on top of the stove for addition to giblet gravy, if desired. Use small pan to which water has been added.

To remove neck, it may be necessary to release legs from band or skin or wire fastener. (Wire fasteners can be hard to remove; use pliers, if necessary, to unhook.)

Rinse turkey inside and out with cool water, pat dry with a paper towel and return legs to wire fastener or band of skin, or tie loosely.

Tuck tips of wings "akimbo" under back of turkey. Neck skin should be skewered with poultry pin or round toothpick to back of turkey to provide a neat appearance for serving whole at table.

3. ROASTING

Place turkey, breast side up, on flat rack in shallow roasting pan, about 2 inches deep. Insert meat thermometer deep into thickest part of thigh, next to body, not touching bone.

Brush turkey skin with vegetable oil to prevent drying. Turkey is done when meat thermometer registers 180 F to 185 F and drumstick is soft and moves easily at joint.

When the skin of the turkey is golden brown, shield breast loosely with rectangular-shaped piece of lightweight foil to prevent overbrowning.

(Turkey can be placed in a commercial browning bag following manufacturer's directions, or completely enclosed in foil, which is opened and folded back just before turkey is done so bird can brown.)

4. STUFFING

Spoon prepared dressing loosely into body and neck cavities of turkey just prior to roasting. The stuffing should reach an internal temperature of 160 to 165 F to be sufficiently cooked.

Remove stuffing from turkey immediately after roasting. Extra stuffing can be cooked separately in a covered casserole in the oven.

5. STORAGE

Refrigerate turkey as soon as possible to prevent spoilage, no more than an hour or two after removing from the oven. Cut turkey meat from bones before storing. Cooked turkey will keep several days in covered containers when refrigerated.

Wing it with progressive '90s-style Thanksgiving

Only in America — a holiday dedicated solely to eating! But even in America the Thanksgiving picture is changing.

Fewer get-togethers resemble the Norman Rockwell ideal — the extended family gathered around the groaning board. Grandma dishing out her secret recipe dressing. Aunts, uncles, cousins — apple-cheeked, shiny-eyed, knives and forks at the ready.

Families today tend to be smaller and more mothers work outside the home and don't feel like spending the whole day in the kitchen while Dad watches football games. All that work just for the sake of the traditional feeding frenzy.

And there are more singles now than ever. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, more than 73 million adults were single in 1990, a stunning increase of 35 million from just two decades ago. "In fact, the percentage of adults who are not married has increased from 28 percent in 1970 to 41 percent today.

So, if you are a small, busy family or a single person, or just want to do something more simple for your Thanksgiving celebration and a big bird doesn't fit into your holiday picture, consider preparing a meal starting turkey portions. Put your microwave to work and pare your menu by using turkey parts.

If you want to do something radically different from the turkey, dressing, cranberry routine, how about a Thanksgiving barbecue? Turkey portions (drumsticks, wings, thighs, breast) can be partially cooked in the microwave and then transferred to the grill for final cooking. Precook pieces by microwaving 2 1/2 to 3 pounds of parts for 15 minutes at medium high (70 percent power). Then grill for 20 to 25 minutes, basting frequently with barbecue sauce.

A bone-in or boneless breast is all white meat, if that is your preference. Or try turkey breast tenderloins, the muscle from the center breast; they're boneless, skinless, tender, practically fat-free, and a snap to microwave.

If you have fond memories of gnawing on the drumstick at family gatherings in days gone, you no longer need to buy the complete bird in order to indulge in this nostalgic feast. Drumsticks can be purchased separately, as well as hind quarters (thigh and drumstick attached), perfect for dark-meat aficionados.

How much to order? Allow about 1/2 pound boneless turkey meat per person. If serving in meat, figure on about 3/4 pound per serving.

Refrigerate turkey parts at 40 F one to two days after purchase, or freeze up to 6 months. Because you can't tell exactly how long meats will stay fresh, these are conservative, short-time estimates. You may keep the turkey longer, but risk spoilage. Vacuum-sealed packages should keep for two weeks in the refrigerator, but use within several days after opening.

This year, microwave your way to a new tradition.

Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK:

For best results, before cooking any turkey in the microwave, always defrost thoroughly, trim excess fat, rinse well and pat dry with paper towel.

Beer lover's simmered drumsticks
2 1/2 to 3 pounds turkey drumsticks
1 cup bottled barbecue sauce
1/2 cup beer
2 tablespoons dark brown sugar, packed
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Yields 4 servings
Preparation time: 10 minutes
Cooking time: 1 hour and 15 minutes to 1 1/2 hours.

Oven setting: High (100 percent power); Low-Defrost (30 percent power)
Wash thawed drumsticks and pat dry. Arrange in oblong microwave-safe backing dish with meatier ends facing outward.

Message of thanks is best recipe for holiday

As the story begins, a long, long time ago, I was a student of veterinary medicine at Michigan State University.

Throughout my high school years and subsequent college days I always worked in a food-service-related job. The first was in the kitchen of a nursing home where large quantities of cans were opened and heated. I wasn't considered a cook — I was the pot and pan washer.

The chef, I use the word loosely, was a sizable woman who was an incessant smoker. Not of a very redeemable temperament either. It was the only job I ever hated so much that I wanted to walk out. Thanks to the fine work ethic that my parents installed in their children, I didn't.

From that point, I worked as a breakfast cook in a major hotel, then as a waitress. I finally decided to spend my career with food instead of animals, and transferred to hotel and restaurant management. I still love animals, and always will. Rosie, our spoiled feline, can attest to that.

In addition to the required classes for HRIM, I was allowed to take at least one elective class per term. I took Latin for four years in high school in anticipation of a medical career, and it opened my eyes to the proper use of the English language. That along with my grandfather's constant and kind reminders of correct dialect, directed me toward journalism classes. By the end of college, I had a sizable number under my belt.

I have always enjoyed the relaxation of writing. What a wonderful way to be able to communicate with others. I still would rather sit down to write (not word-process) a letter to a friend or relative than pick up the phone.

As a child and young adult, I wrote to my grandfather and great-aunt Ell, and they to me on a regular basis. I cherish and reread those letters to this day. What a gift to be granted, the freedom of the pen.

All week I have been reading recipes and tidbits about Thanksgiving. Frankly, there was nothing that knocked me off my feet. We all know what to do with leftover turkey, and squash and dressing and . . . So I thought I would take this opportunity to be truly thankful.

Thankful that I am not one of the homeless, hungry people that are fed in soup kitchens daily in our country, or who are forced to sleep on the street. It's not for me to judge their fate — just to be aware of it and to have the freedom to help.

Thankful to have a family that is healthy, supportive and loving. Grateful that my husband shares the same goals that I do, and that we are able to work toward them together.

Appreciative of all the wonderful opportunities that I am given on a daily basis. To recognize a remarkable staff that strives to satisfy not only me, but each individual that walks through our doors.

Thankful for the old friends that we see each day. Pleased for the many new friends that we have made over the past several months. Appreciative of the compliments that they bestow upon us. They kindle a fire in each and every one of us to come back and do it again.

My recipe this holiday is one of thanks. Peace.

The Refrigerator Door

TURKEY TRIVIA: Domesticated turkeys cannot fly. Wild turkeys can fly for short distances up to 55 miles an hour and can run 24 miles an hour.

According to the National Turkey Federation, in 1991, about 300 million turkeys were raised. They "guessimate" that 45 million of those turkeys were eaten at Thanksgiving, 23 million at Christmas and 19 million at Easter.

As far as feasts go, Thanksgiving is one of the most economical. The American Farm Bureau Federation reported that the traditional Thanksgiving meal cost $28.85 to serve 10 people in 1990. The menu included turkey, stuffing, sweet potatoes, peas, rolls, cranberries, a relish dish, beverages and pumpkin pie with whipped cream.

KEEP UP THE CONVERSATION: Talk with your children during dinner, and they just might grow up to be scholars. A survey of National Merit Scholars found that these outstanding children come from homes where conversation is the heart of the daily dinner hour. Positive conversation, not just eating should be the focus of the meal.

TIP OF THE WEEK: From Betty Crocker, Thanksgiving turkey will taste best if roasted on Thanksgiving Day. If you're trying to save time, mix all dry ingredients — bread crumbs and spices for stuffing and have them ready to mix with remaining ingredients just before stuffing the turkey on Thanksgiving Day.

HOLIDAY APPETIZERS: Judy Antishin teacher, gourmet cook and caterer, brings her experience to Southfield with "Nibbles for the Holidays," 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 4 and Dec. 11 at the Burg Site Art Center, 20500 Civic Center Drive, at Berg Road. Antishin will teach the art of whipping up hot and cold appetizers, which in the past have included burgundy meatballs, and sherry-based seafood-medley pasta. She has been teaching cooking since 1976 in several cities. The cost for both classes is $25; one class is $15. Early registration is encouraged, call 354-9528.

GINGERBREAD HOUSE CONTEST: Northville Merchants Association will sponsor a Gingerbread House Contest this holiday season.

Entrants can be individuals or families. No culinary arts students, professional caterers or restaurateurs, please. Contact Ronnie Cambra at the Kitchen Witch for instructions if you need them.

The Northville Historical Society will also be offering a class in gingerbread house making at the Kitchen Witch. Call 348-0488 for more details.

Contest rules are available at the Kitchen Witch, 107 N. Center.

NEW FOOD GUIDE: Bring on Healthy Food Choices! Oakland County Health Division has updated the American Red Cross Food Wheel for healthful eating. The revision is the work of the Health Division's registered dietitians. The colorful one page handout features plenty of grains, fruits and vegetables.

Are you confused about fats? Where are they hidden? How do make trade-offs? The new Food Wheel will show you how. A special section describes fat serving sizes.

The guide is based on the new U.S. Department of Agriculture and Health and Human Services Dietary Guidelines for Americans and the American Cancer Society recommendations. The daily plan is easy to follow. It shows suggested numbers of servings from each food group for different ages.

For your free copy, if you're an Oakland County resident, send a self addressed stamped (25 cents) business envelope to:

Food Wheel, Materials Center, Oakland County Health Division, 27725 Greenfield Road, Southfield 48076.

DIETARY GUIDELINES: The federal government has updated its nutritional guidelines to help consumers sort out conflicting nutrition advice. They are offered in "Dietary Guidelines for Americans," a free booklet that includes suggested weight charts and advice on controlling weight and reducing fat in your diet. To obtain the booklet, write to Consumer Information Center, Department 514X, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

"The Refrigerator Door" is a list of coming events and short notes about food and drink. If you have an event planned or a brief announcement you would like included here, send it care of this newspaper, 104 W. Main Street, Northville, Mich., 48167. Photos or other artwork welcome.

Spoiled bird can spoil holiday

Defrosted on the counter, pre-stuffed, slow-baked, partially cooked, stored whole without carving.

If any of these situations sounds like your usual Thanksgiving dinner preparation plans, you may be putting your turkey in jeopardy.

Over the last six years, USDA's staff on the Meat and Poultry Hotline have faced many challenges trying to save Thanksgiving turkeys that have been prepared in questionable ways. "It's difficult to advise consumers on Thanksgiving Day that the turkey they have worked so hard to serve may not be fit to eat," said Susan Templin Conley, Hotline manager.

According to Conley, there are six basic problems that Hotline staff members hear every year. Read on to see if you may unknowingly be creating any of these scenarios.

MISTAKE 1. Defrosting at room temperature.

"We've always done it that way... There's no room in the refrigerator... We forgot it in the trunk of the car... It's in the cold basement." While there are many reasons why consumers find themselves with turkeys defrosted at room temperature, some planned and some unplanned, the result is the same — a potentially unsafe turkey. Bacteria grow rapidly at room temperature. Bacteria will begin to grow on the outside portion of the bird that defrosts first. These surface bacteria can multiply to dangerously high levels that cooking may not destroy.

Instead, plan on one day of refrigerator defrost time for every 5 pounds of turkey. A 10-pound turkey will take approximately 2 days to defrost in the refrigerator, a 15-pound turkey 3 days and a 20-pound turkey 4 days.

Some callers worry that a frozen turkey will spoil if left in the refrigerator for four days. Don't be concerned. Even after a turkey fully defrosts, it is safe in the refrigerator for an additional 1-2 days.

If you forgot to take your turkey out of the freezer early enough, don't panic. You're not in hot water yet, especially if you remember to use the Cold Water technique. Even a 20-pound frozen turkey can be defrosted in 10 hours using the cold water defrost method. Submerge the wrapping bird in cold water, adding ice or new cold water ever 30 minutes.

MISTAKE 2. Prestuffing a turkey the night before.

It's okay to prestuff Christmas stockings, but not Thanksgiving turkeys. Stuffing a turkey the night before is risky business. The cavity of the bird actually insulates the stuffing from the cold temperatures, and can keep the stuffing in a temperature range that encourages bacterial growth.

Instead, prepare dry stuffing ingredients the day before. Tightly cover and leave at room temperature. The perishables — butter, or margarine, mushrooms, oysters, cooked celery and onion, broth — should be refrigerated. Combine the dry and wet ingredients and stuff the bird immediately before the turkey goes into the oven.

MISTAKE 3. Cooking at low temperatures overnight.

Some time-savers are safer than others. Partially cooking a turkey is not one of them. Interrupted cooking can actually increase the possibility of bacterial growth. The turkey may be heated long enough to activate bacterial growth, but not long enough to kill it.

Instead, cook the turkey completely in one operation. Several other ideas for SAFE time saving include using oven cooking bags, baking, stuffing separately from the turkey, cooking and carving the turkey 1 to 2 days before the holidays, and storing it in the refrigerator for reheating on the big day.

MISTAKE 4. Partially cooking a bird the day before.

Some time-savers are safer than others. Partially cooking a turkey is not one of them. Interrupted cooking can actually increase the possibility of bacterial growth. The turkey may be heated long enough to activate bacterial growth, but not long enough to kill it.

Instead, cook the turkey completely in one operation. Several other ideas for SAFE time saving include using oven cooking bags, baking, stuffing separately from the turkey, cooking and carving the turkey 1 to 2 days before the holidays, and storing it in the refrigerator for reheating on the big day.

MISTAKE 5. Cooking a turkey ahead of time and leaving it whole in the refrigerator.

Cooking the turkey a day or two before the holiday is fine, but refrigerating the bird whole, without carving, is another form of turkey jeopardy. A cooked turkey, stuffed or unstuffed, is too big and dense to cool down quickly and efficiently in a home refrigerator. In addition, reheating the turkey the next day in a slow oven to prevent drying out could allow even more growth of potential food poisoning bacteria.

Instead, Roast the turkey 1 or 2 days before the holiday. Use a meat thermometer to make sure that the bird reaches 180 F. Remove stuffing immediately after taking the bird from the oven. Allow the turkey to sit for 20 to 30 minutes so that the meat juices can settle. Carve the bird into appropriate serving slices. Arrange turkey slices in shallow baking pans. Cover and refrigerate. Reheat Thanksgiving Day in a conventional oven or microwave. Make sure that meat and stuffing are reheated to "steamy hot," 165 F.

MISTAKE 6. Power failure. The oven breaks down, an ice storm, downed power lines, there's a no gas for the gas grill. You can't keep your bird hot... or you can't keep your bird cold.

These unplanned situations do arise through the fault of no one. Besides causing anxiety and stress, they are also lead to an unsafe bird. Solution: Time is of the essence. If you find yourself in any of these situations for over 2 hours, your turkey could become risky. After 2 hours the turkey enters the "danger zone" where food poisoning bacteria can multiply rapidly. But to discuss your unique situation, call one of our food experts on the Meat and Poultry Hotline.

Smaller families call for smaller portions

In small dish combine all remaining ingredients; stir to blend well and spoon evenly over drumsticks.

Cover baking dish with vented plastic wrap and microwave for 15 minutes. Turn drumsticks over. Microwave, covered, for 60 to 75 minutes, rearranging occasionally until meat is tender. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving with sauce.

GLAZED TURKEY TENDERLOINS FOR TWO

2 turkey breast tenderloins (about 6 ounces each)
1/4 cup seedless raspberry preserves
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon grated orange or lemon zest

1/4 teaspoon dried sweet basil
Salt to taste
Yields 2 servings
Preparation time: 6 to 7 minutes.
Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Rinse tenderloins and pat dry. Combine preserves, vinegar, mustard, citrus zest and basil in shallow 2-quart microwave-safe dish; stir to blend well. Add turkey, turning to coat with sauce.

Cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave for 3 minutes. Turn tenderloins over and rearrange, with uncooked portions toward outside of dish. Microwave, uncovered, for 3 to 4 minutes longer, or until thickest portions of meat are no longer pink in center. Season with salt to taste.

MICROWAVED TURKEY BREAST
1 (2 1/2 to 4-pound) turkey breast
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
Poultry seasoning
Paprika
Fresh parsley (for garnish)

Yields 6 to 8 servings
Preparation time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 14 to 16 minutes per pound; 4 minutes per pound defrosting plus 30 minutes additional defrosting time; and 10 to 15 minutes standing time.

Oven setting: High (100 percent power); Medium (50 percent power); Defrost (30 percent power).

To defrost frozen turkey breast: Microwave time: 4 minutes per pound at defrost. Let stand 30 minutes to allow inside of turkey to completely defrost.

Rinse and pat dry defrosted turkey breast. Brush with oil and sprinkle generously with poultry seasoning and paprika. Place, skin side down, on microwave roasting rack. Cover loosely with plastic wrap.

Allow 14 to 16 minutes per pound. Divide time in half. Microwave for 5 minutes at High setting. Reduce power to Medium and microwave remainder of first half of cooking time. Turn skin side up. Baste and season as above. Microwave for last half of total time at Medium, or until probe inserted in meatless area registers 170 F.

Tent turkey breast with foil and let stand 10 to 15 minutes. Garnish with fresh parsley.

CARVING WHITE MEAT

1. Hold turkey breast firmly on cutting surface with fork. Place knife parallel and as close to wing as possible. Make deep cut into breast, cutting toward ribs. This makes a base cut. Each breast cut will stop at this horizontal base cut.

2. Slice breast by carving downward, ending at base cut. Keep slices thin and even.

CARVING DARK MEAT

Remove drumstick and thigh by pulling leg away from body. Joint connecting leg to backbone will often snap free or may be severed easily with knife point. Cut dark meat from body by following contour carefully with knife.

1. Place drumstick and thigh on cutting surface and cut through connecting joint.

2. Tilt drumstick to convenient angle, slice down toward cutting surface.

3. hold thigh firmly on cutting surface with fork. Cut slices evenly and parallel to bone.

HOROSCOPE

By C.C. Clark

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
You may have to butt heads with the establishment in order to get your needs recognized. Be creative in your endeavor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
Things will finally begin to go your way. There will be a delay in plans concerning entertainment, but things might work out better.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
It seems like the whole world is trying to create extra work for you. This is one time when you wish you could be incognito.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)
You don't have to take a bully's mean treatment. Tell them exactly what you think about their behavior, and whatever you do, don't back down.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Work and love relationships will be more on an even keel for you. You will handle with aplomb most anything that comes your way.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
You will more than likely face a challenge for which you are readily prepared. Be determined in your efforts.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Turmoil and confusion seem to rule your life at the moment, but it won't last for long. Work hard and there's not much anyone can say.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
The stars are in your favor this week, and the result is good luck for you. Stability will return to your life, and you will experience peace.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
Problems with family members will grow worse before they get better, but everything will turn out for the best. Communication will improve.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
As long as you've done your work this week, you just can't lose. Everything will fall into place and you will feel quite content.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
Don't waste time worrying about a situation you cannot control. Look at the situation from an objective viewpoint and cut your losses.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)
There is a good chance a secret you've been keeping will be out in the open by the weekend. Avoid expenses by planning ahead.

"One Against the Wind" recalls wartime heroism

Davis, Neill solid; script, direction excel

By Steven Alan McGaw

The name of Mary Lindell may mean little today, even for students of history. But for hundreds of Allied soldiers and airmen downed in occupied France during World War II, the name "Marie Claire" meant everything—it meant freedom.

Defying Nazi threats on her life, Lindell was unswerving in her commitment, even after a dismal nine-months' imprisonment. By war's end, her "Marie Claire" line had helped hundreds of otherwise-trapped Allied servicemen to escape from German hands.

Now, the prestigious Hallmark Hall of Fame, in its 170th production, brings Lindell's dramatic story to life in "One Against the Wind," airing Sunday, Dec. 1, on CBS. Assembling the production team for this project was a labor of love for executive producer Karen Mack, who resolved in 1987 to bring this dramatic story to the screen. Larry Elikann, known for the powerful "I Know My First Name Is Steven," directed the movie from a script by Chris Bryant ("Young Catherine"). Judy Davis ("A Passage to India") heads the cast as Lindell, with fine support from Denholm Elliot ("A Room With a View") and her co-star from 1979's "My Brilliant Career," Sam Neill.

Neill, who is known for his taut performances in films like "Dead Calm" and "The Hunt for Red October," plays James Leggatt, the first man whom Mary Lindell helps to escape. Later an intelligence officer in the British army, Leggatt aids Lindell in her efforts, and their obvious mutual attraction only increases their devotion to their cause.

In preparing for the role, Neill did the usual amount of research, reading the archival materials the filmmakers had prepared for him. He also had an advantage in his personal life. "People asked me, 'How did you prepare to play a British army major?' I said it wasn't difficult—I grew up with one."

Neill's father had, indeed, been a major in the British army, but had never discussed his experience until shortly before his death. "He finally did describe that critical period of his life to me," the actors says gratefully. "It was an accident, really," he says, that his father's reminiscences dovetailed with work he would shortly begin on "One Against the Wind." The information was especially helpful, says Neill, because the real James Leggatt is deceased. "I couldn't find out a lot about him," he says.

Davis' preparations for playing Lindell were aided by the presence of Lindell's son, Maurice (played superbly in the film by young Christien Anholt). Davis particularly treasures Mr. Lindell's reactions after first watching a scene she was in. When the cameras stopped, he rushed forward to say how accurately she had portrayed his mother. "It was a very emotional moment," says Davis.

Filmed in Luxembourg ("a slightly schizophrenic country," jokes Neill, "It doesn't know if it's Belgium or France or Germany."), this latest Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation is full of very emotional moments, all the while retaining an accurate historical atmosphere and never feeling contrived. Bryant's teleplay does a masterful job of compressing a lot of information into a brief period of time.

It is the performances of the actors, however, that give the film its strength, especially Davis' rich, human Mary Lindell. Neill is quietly powerful as Leggatt and Elliot's portrayal of a pragmatic priest passionately dedicated to Lindell's work is up to his usual standard of excellence.

Amid a constant barrage of "searing, true-life dramas" and "sweeping historical epics," it may be easy for viewers to miss projects such as this. That would be a shame, for "One Against the Wind" is first-caliber filmmaking. Both entertaining and educational, it sheds light on the life and work of a woman fiercely dedicated to the idea, and the reality, of freedom.

SOAP TALK

Lionel and Cassie not related

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I love Santa Barbara! I'm curious as to what the relationship between Cassie and Lionel is. —Thanks, L.S., Farmington Hills, Mich.

Dear Reader: Cassie found out last March she is Minx's daughter, which now means she is Lionel's sister. Now if only someone would tell Warren that his father is not Lionel, then he and Cassie could live happily ever after—or as happily as one can on a soap.

Dear Candace: The Bold and the Beautiful needs to end the scenario with Brooke and Ridge once and for all. They should let Eric leave Brooke, but not go back to Stephanie. I'd like to see Eric and Margo together and Bill and Stephanie together. Then Taylor should pass out in front of Brooke and Ridge. Taylor would go to the doctor and find out she is several months pregnant. Meanwhile, Blake would find out he is sterile. Brooke would find out about Taylor's pregnancy and she would keep it from Ridge. Ridge would find out Brooke has been lying to him and then dump her for good. Brooke would then find out she is pregnant and run to tell Ridge, hoping to put a wedge between his and Taylor's relationship. Later on, Eric would find out the baby is really his and let Ridge know. Finally, Ridge would be free of Brooke and he and Taylor could be happy together. —Thank You, B.C. in Sparta, Calif.

Dear Reader: Some of your ideas may actually happen over the next few months.

Dear Candace: I am disgusted with The Young and the Restless story line of Nikki drinking and taking pills. It has gone on much too long. They shouldn't encourage those in pain to seek solace in drugs and alcohol. We need to boycott such stories for the health of American pain sufferers. The Y&R writers have gone bonko, and we're fed up. —Ruth Barker, Corning, N.Y.

Dear Reader: You do have a point. The Young and the Restless is known for dragging out bad story lines.

BITS AND PIECES

Jean Smart to become 'Girl in the Song Title'

Jean Smart (Designing Women) will star in The Girl in the Song Title, a new NBC movie that began production last week. In the film, Smart plays a small-town schoolteacher whose life changes drastically when a rock 'n' roll superstar, her former classmate, writes about her in his latest hit. The problem is his lyrics aren't true. The Girl in the Song Title will air this season.

Jean Smart

Fans of NBC's daytime dramas Another World, Days of Our Lives and Santa Barbara can now see their favorite stars on the pages of a new magazine titled Daydreams: The Inside Story on NBC Soaps.

The publication will be made available to viewers who call a special "Soap Scoop" 900 phone number. It will also feature a contest in which readers can win a trip to the 1992 Daytime Emmy Awards ceremony in New York City.

CNN has been awarded a $3.5 million grant to develop innovative programs covering the 1992 election process. The Markel Foundation provided the grant that will be used to create awareness-increasing "Democracy in American" programming to augment CNN's regular coverage. Free curriculum-support materials will also be provided to schools.

Two CBS dramas received Nancy Susan Reynolds Awards from the Center of Population Options, which recognizes outstanding portrayals of family planning, sexuality and reproductive health. Abby, My Love, a CBS Schoolbreak Special dealing with incest in a suburban family, was cited in the category of children's programs. It was originally broadcast April 12. Absolute Strangers, based on the true story of a husband's decision to abort his unborn child in order to save the life of his comatose wife, won an award in the entertainment special category. It first aired April 14.

Don't spoil nature . . . leave only footprints.

TIME OUT

Up-and-coming Daley
tees off for the Skins

By Steve Paschal
Golf's rising star John Daley goes up against three of the best ever to play the game on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, when ABC presents live coverage of the ninth Skins Game from La Quinta, Calif.

Daley, the youngest player ever to take part in the Skins Game, tees up against two-time defending champion Curtis Strange, U.S. Open winner Payne Stewart and Jack Nicklaus, the PGA's Golfer of the Century and winner of this year's U.S. Senior Open.

Daley became the hottest story in golf earlier this year with a storybook finish in the PGA Championship. The 25-year-old tour rookie was added to the 151-man field as the ninth alternate less than 24 hours before tee time. He put on a long-drive exhibition to walk away with the $230,000 first prize. Daley ranks first in driving distance on the PGA tour with a 287-yard average on his tee shots.

Strange, who will be going after his third Skins title in four tries, has pocketed nearly $500,000 in his past two appearances.

Hall of Famer Nicklaus is the only golfer to take part in all nine Skins Games. He captured the 1984 event by winning $240,000 on one hole and ranks second only to Fuzzy Zoeller on the Skins Game earnings list.
