Locals seek to lure new firms to townBy JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Enough people concerned about the lack of growth in Novi to fill an auditorium? You've got to be kidding.

Well, not really. Last week, local officials, Realtors, developers and business people turned out to hear state and county economic development types talk about how to lure new businesses to town.

While it was generally conceded that Novi has no dearth of commercial/retail operations setting up shingles here, lacking is what's widely regarded as the plums, light industrial and research and development corporations.

Novi has what are described as key features sought by corporate site selection personnel: access to freeways, customers, markets, suppliers and an educated labor force; available land zoned industrial and a prestigious address, as well as good schools and housing. Yet, high tech industry seems to be leapfrogging over the city.

"We certainly have been very busy in our office in the past year or two. Over the last year, we have been thinking, what's going on with Novi?" said Dan Hunter, Supervisor of Business and Development, for the Oakland County Development and Planning Division.

Latin cool

Lunar Octet, with its own brand of Latin jazz, opened the Novi Parks and Recreation Sounds of Summer concert series June 20. Behind the shades and on the horn is Brandon Cooper. Tonight at 7 p.m., catch the Dixieland sounds of the Cosmopolitan Band. There's no show on July 4, but on July 11, enjoy vocalist Cecilia Lee and the Tollgate Cloggers. The free concerts are held rain or shine Thursdays at the Novi Civic Center.

This Jeep wreaked havoc on the Karlavage's home.

School board told to make exit saferBy WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL

Residents in Orchard Hills subdivision think the Novi Community School District is on a crash course for disaster.

After a June 13 accident in which a Jeep barreled down the sloped exit drive from Orchard Hills Elementary, hit the curb and crashed through a neighboring house, the residents want to see action.

"I don't want to wait for a fatality," said Jim Karlavage outside his Quince Street home last week.

Nearly a week after the accident that caused $12,000 damage to his garage and more than $3,000 damage to three vehicles, things are just now calming down for the family.

The garage is boarded up and Early deadlines set for July 4th

Due to the Independence Day holiday, next week's issue of The Novi News will come out a day early, on Wednesday, July 3. As a result of the early publication, all deadlines will be moved up one full day.

All letters to the editor and news releases should be submitted to the newspaper by 4 p.m. Friday, June 28. The deadline for Monday and Thursday Greensheet advertising is 3:30 p.m. Friday, June 28.

Have a happy and blessed Fourth of July.

Recognizing the need for financial prudence, Novi Community Schools' teachers and other union groups agreed to a one percent raise on the pay scale along with a one percent optional bonus in the spring and newly added co-pays on prescriptions, according to school officials.

The Novi Board of Education voted 6-0 on the consent agenda which included a recommendation to ratify the three-year contracts that will go into effect for the 1996-97 school year.

"We thought the entire settlement was very fair," said Teri Mobin, Novi teacher and part of the bargaining team.

More than 300 members, or 85 percent, of teachers in the Novi Education Association approved the contract, according to NEA president, Martha Franchi.

"We got what we needed," she said.

The NEA contract, the Novi Educational Support Personnel Association contract, the Transportation, Custodial and Maintenance and Foods Service contracts were set to expire June 30 or shortly thereafter, according to Superintendent Emmett Lippe.

The one percent raise and one percent bonus are in addition to the raise each teacher will receive as they move up the step scale.

For instance a first year teacher with a bachelor's degree in 1995-96 will move $3,029 from the first step of $29,556 to the second step of $32,585 plus the one percent increase of the second step, or another $326. With another one percent bonus in the spring of $329 the entire raise for that teacher is $3,594.

The one percent is low compared to the four percent increase in the 1995-96 school year and raises more than six percent in the early 1990s.

"What we appreciate is all of

Novi couple wins senior honors

Caroline Giese is a good sport, but she'd had just about enough sprawling in an unpaved street for the umpteenth take on a cable TV commercial for the Novi Senior Transit Service.

"I finally said to him, I'm 81 years old. That's the last time I get down and roll in a dirt road," she said.

For that same Novi Senior Center spot, her husband, George, posed in blackened and tattered clothes, with a rocket strapped to his back. Anything for the cause.

The Gieses' spirit of volunteerism wowed Novi Parks and Recreation Coordinator Kathy Crawford, who works with the Senior Center, so much that she nominated them for the 1996 Michigan Recreation & Park Association Margaret Whitehead Senior Citizen Of The Year Award. This was the first time the City of Novi submitted anyone for the recognition - and the first time out, the Gieses won. They'll get a free trip to the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island in October, to pick up their award.

"George and Caroline bring a whole new meaning and interpretation to what it means to be a senior citizen. Most people regardless of their age would never do what George and Caroline do," Crawford said.

"They're the kind of people who are always there doing what needs to be done."

What needs to be done, according to the Gieses is to commit their time to their community and church, help other seniors and have fun together. They lead weekly Bible study groups and sing-a-longs at The American House senior residence. He directs the choir and plays the organ at St. James Lutheran Church in northwest Detroit, she's one of the singers. He also tickles the ivories

HEALTH NOTE

DOWN AT THE HEELS

Achilles tendinitis is usually characterized by a dull or sharp pain along the large tendon that connects the two major calf muscles to the heel bone. Other symptoms may include limited ankle flexibility, redness or heat over the painful area, and for the appearance of a lumpy buildup of scar tissue (nodule) on the tendon. All this can be brought on by tight or ill-fitting call muscles which transfer too much of the burden of running to the Achilles. The road to recovery from Achilles tendinitis begins with a cessation of running, taking anti-inflammatory medication, icing the area for 15 minutes at a time several times daily, and massage. Once the nodule disappears, a stretching program should be undertaken to stretch the calf muscles. The return to running should be gradual.

Physical therapists are qualified to test and measure the function of the musculoskeletal, neurological, pulmonary and cardiovascular systems. At Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc., our registered therapists focus on improving patients' muscle strength, function, and coordination. Call 349-3816 to schedule an evaluation, or see us at 332 E. Main Street, Suite A. Our clinic now treats open wound patients. These include burn patients, post-surgical wounds, lacerations, and stasis ulcers. We use a Pulsavac machine to help debride wounds and promote healing.

P.S. Achilles tendinitis may be prevented with the use of motion-control running shoes or orthotics to correct foot overpronation.

Grassroots, Playboys fill bill for '50s Fest

By JAN JEFFRES

They used to sing, "You can call me up and have a date, any old time."

Now you really can mark that down in your appointment calendar. Motown's first "girl group," The Marvelettes, will appear at the Michigan '50s Festival on July 26. Organized in 1980 by Inkster High School students, the vocalists hit the charts in the very first years of the decade, with tunes such as "Please Mr. Postman," "Beachwood 4-5789" (the date song) and "Playboy," as well as "Don't Mess With Bill" in 1966.

But The Marvelettes aren't the only sixties group which will illustrate the '50s Fest with the rhythms of a later era. Headliner acts for the July 24-28 event are also The Grassroots and Gary Lewis and The Playboys. Both bands recorded some of the most popular 1960s softer rock, the sound moms and dads didn't really mind the terms leaping to.

"Fifties, sixties, it's kind of fuzzy, some of the groups overlap," said Novi City Manager Ed Krawell, who's on the festival board of directors. "It's really like it's a music festival."

Lewis is one of the original "Jerry's Kids," he's the son of the comedian Jerry Lewis. Produced by Leon Russell, several trade magazines voted the group "The Most Promising Vocal Group of 1965" after their chartbuster "This Diamond Ring." Among other hits were "Save Your Heart For Me" and

"Everybody Loves A Clown," but when Lewis was drafted it slowed down the act.

On the scene when music was turning psychedelic, The Grassroots even had a star player. From 1966 until the early 1970s, their string of top 15s included "Where Were You When I Needed You," "Midnight Confessions," "Things I Should Have Said" and "Sooner Or Later."

States, okay, but Krawell said when he suggested the '50s-era group he was overruled by the other board members. "I tried to get them to book The Guess Who's, they're playing again. They're one of the favorite groups."

The festival happens into Novi on Wednesday, July 24 and continues through Sunday, July 28.

Here's the line-up:
July 24, Teen Angels
July 25, The Grass Roots and Steve Nigro and The Playboys.

Man flees eatery after birthday meal

A Westland man and an unidentified male friend ran up a $29 lunch tab, June 16, at T.G.I. Fridays in the Town Center and ran from the restaurant without paying.

Police said the man told them it was his birthday and ate, drank and was merry. But the fun stopped when he and his friend ran out of the restaurant with employees in tow demanding he pay his bill.

Employees told police the men hopped in a black Thunderbird and drove recklessly through the parking lot, almost hitting three employees. The car exited the lot without stopping and sped the wrong way roadbound on Crescent Boulevard.

The employees did obtain a license plate number and Westland Police tried to contact the car's owner but met with no success. The unknown male is described as having a shaved, bald head, a tattoo on his right arm, a limp in his walk and a goatee.

Police are seeking warrants for fraud and reckless driving against the Westland man.

STOLEN JIMMY

A Highland man's green GMC Jimmy was stolen from the parking lot of Orchard Hills Place where he works. He told police he is sure he left it locked that day, June 17.

CASH BACK

A woman called police, June 17, after she encountered problems getting a refund at Fretter's in Novi.

Police said officers met the woman and her mother in the store's parking lot where they relayed the story. The woman said she bought a refrigerator on June 12 from the store at a cost of $498. She paid in cash and the store was to deliver the appliance on June 15. She said when it didn't arrive by June 16 she called Fretter's but met with "excuses."

On June 17, she went to the store because she still had no refrigerator and requested a full refund. She told police she was told "they did not have the cash in their drawer to give a refund."

The officer spoke with the cashier on duty and she said they would give a full refund. The refund was given and no further action was required.

BROOMSTICK BUMMER

Officers responded to Lakewood Parkhomes on a 9-1-1 injured person call June 19.

Police said a young man fell over a broomstick and landed on a trash bag containing a broken plate which caused a gash in his buttocks. His 15-year-old sister was watching him and washing dishes at the time of the incident.

He was taken to Providence Hospital for stitches.

THEY CALL HIM THE WANDERER

Police responded to a call, June 20, from a Sterling Heights resident who told officers a black Labrador dog was in her yard again. It is a continuous problem, she said.

When the officer arrived the dog had wandered over to a home on Hunting Cross. The officer said he asked the resident there if she had seen him before and she said he is there almost daily.

County health offers clinic

The Oakland County Health Division will be offering immunization clinic for Farmington and surrounding areas at the Clarencville United Methodist Church, 20300 Middlebelt Road (south of Eight Mile road), Clarencville, on Wednesday, July 10 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Village Oaks loves a parade

While it's just for their subdivision only, Village Oaks puts on Novi's biggest Fourth of July bash. The parade starts out at Village Oaks Elementary School at 9 a.m. and works its way through the subdivision before arriving at the community clubhouse for lots of fun events. A fleet of kids on highly-decorated bikes is a popular tradition for the sub, but the Novi Fire Department will turn out, as will Mayor Kathleen McAllen.

Lisa McLeod, activities chair person for the Village Oaks Council said the festivities are for Village Oaks residents, but they're allowed to invite family members. Even with that restriction, with its 578 homes, the sub can throw one big party.

Tonight, tonight

Think the Beck Road and Wikom Road interchanges on I-96 could be better? The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) is holding a public meeting today at the Novi Expo Center's Adel Hall to gather input from those who use the exits. The drop-in session runs from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. While no final decisions have been made, people can look at proposed concepts on the design boards and have their say.

Veterans of the force

Three members of the Novi Fire Department are celebrating their job anniversary in June. They are Lieutenant Donald Dominick, 17 years with the department, as well as Fire Marshall Bill Conn and Fire Fighter Phillip Jenkins, both on the job for 11 years. Combined, that's 39 years of service to the community.

Analysis

Novi's city codes will soon undergo a thorough look-through by a lawyer with the Municipal Code Corporation. The chapter-by-chapter review is expected to pinpoint conflicts, inconsistencies and obsolete regulations. The Novi City Council recently approved this $3,375 housecleaning. Once the work is done, a recommendation will be provided to the city attorney for possible further action.

Hour Martinizing store on Novi Road.

The robbers gained access to the store by punching a hole in the 16-inch thick wall separating the shopping center's control room from the store.

Police said the robbers broke into the safe and stole more than $1,000 in cash and checks. The morning manager found the store ransacked the next morning.

GOOD DEED

An unknown woman came to the Novi Police Station to return $421 she found in an envelope outside a shop in the Novi Town Center, June 17. Police said the money was returned to its rightful owner.

BREAK-IN

A new mobile home owner on Ocher drove back to Ohio to pick up her pets only to return to Novi, June 16, and find her new home broken into.

Police said the front door was ajar and unknown suspects stole two bags containing various items including a camera, phone, necklace and autographed Grant Hill Pistons jersey.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call the Novi Police Department at 348-7100.

Northville man to face charges

A 20-year-old Northville man will face embezzlement charges after he was captured on tape by state police surveillance cameras stealing money from the cash register of a Northville party store.

Neil Craig Lokey was arraigned in 35th District Court Tuesday. He pled not guilty to the felony charges and posted 10 percent of the $4,000 bond. Lokey's preliminary exam is scheduled for July 1.

According to Northville police, Lokey may have stolen more than $25,000 over a 10 month period from the cash registers at Good Time Party Store on Seven Mile where he has been employed for the last year.

Party store owner Jim Roth told police he suspected Lokey of stealing money from the registers since October 1995, and "had been attempting to set the man up with phony liquor buys on several occasions."

Northville Police, with help from the Michigan State Police Department, set up surveillance cameras and allegedly caught Lokey in the act.

Twelve Oaks' 'Be True' campaign raises money for Novi High School

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

Novi High School was the school with the mostest this year in the local "Be True to Your School" campaign.

According to Elaine Kah, Twelve Oaks marketing director, the school received the highest number of credits out of the 3,100 schools that signed up to participate.

School officials said the high school came out just a little shy of $3,000.

"Obviously the tremendous support of the community, parents and the kids, because they participated, too, is gratifying to the high school," said Principal Arthur Miller.

Miller said the high school put together a small committee of students and staff who led through catalogs to pick out computer software.

"It's surprising how little software one gets for $3,000," said Miller.

Kah said the company itself does not want to release individual school amounts.

"We did a lot of research before we started this and one of the things both principals and parents cautioned us against was not to make the program competitive against other schools."

The entire seven-month program brought in $203,000 for Michigan schools, according to Kah. Some of Novi's schools accumulated more than $500, according to district information.

The program allowed shoppers at three local malls to turn in their receipts at special stations in the mall to go toward credits for their selected school.

Each $200 in receipts netted schools $1.

Schools have a choice of several educational suppliers to choose resources from including National Geographic and PBS Video. They also received an additional discount from many of those suppliers to buy books, videos, computer software and other reference materials.

Novi High School purchased materials for the high school media center.

The program was so successful, said Kah, that it will add Briarwood Mall in Ann Arbor to the three shopping centers already in the program. Those are Twelve Oaks, Lakeside in Sterling Heights and Fairway in Dearborn, all owned by the Truhman Company.

This time around mall customers won't have to wait long to start turning in those receipts again. The program will launch the new school year campaign earlier this year on July 29 in time for back to school shopping.

"We said let's start it earlier and get those credits rolling," said Kah.

Fire losses jump in Novi for first six months of 1996

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

It's been a hot time in Novi this year. Really hot.

In the first six months of 1996, the city's fire losses have been ten times higher than in the first half of 1995. Fire Chief Art Lenaghan reported. The dollar figure on the destruction from January to June reached the $1.617 million mark, while last year it only totaled $199,000.

"It's just been kind of a busy year. There was the apartment fire, there was the plastics plant, the rest were houses and cars," Lenaghan said.

"It just happens. We're keeping an eye on it."

Eighty fires struck this year to date, as opposed to 68 in the same time period in 1995.

Subtract the toll of just two fires and that figure goes down substantially. In April, it's believed an arsonist started two Portsmouth Apartment buildings under construction, leading to $500,000 in damages at the Pontiac Trail site.

Next, an estimated $400,000 in destruction to the building, roof and interior contents was caused by a May 18 inferno at Mutual Plastics on Grand River Avenue. While the Western Wayne County Hazardous Materials Team was called to the scene due to the nature of the materials, the firm's preventative maintenance system prevented any run-off of toxic materials.

The number of total runs logged by the department for this year is 1,025, while last year it was 936. Three firefighters and one civilian have been injured in 1996, while last year that count was one firefighter and no civilians.

Runs include rescues, 620 in 1996 as opposed to 612 in 1995 and false alarms, 142 in 1996 compared to 100 the year before.

The program will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. July 22-24 and 9:30 a.m. to noon on July 25.

The final day's event will include a picnic (children will bring their own lunch and drink) and make-your-own ice cream sundaes.

Wixom store labelled 'Meijer's of the 21st Century'

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

It's the Meijer's of the 21st century.

Done in green and gray muted tones with splashes of purple and teal, the new 200,000-square-foot store on Wixom Road and Grand River shows only traces here and there of the trademark Meijer red.

Gone are the smocks and vests. Employees now wear trendier, casual outfits.

Even the cash registers have changed. Computer screens were made just for the customer to watch their items being scanned through the checkout.

Customers will be able to see for themselves when the store opens in early August of this year.

The new Meijer is still the same "everything in one 24-hour store" but with changes in society there are more things customers need and thus more things the store has to offer.

For instance, during the past several years the new stores include a Grand Food Court offering choices of several restaurants including a pizzeria, a Chinese restaurant and a 1950s style burger joint.

"Lifestyles have changed and people are on the go so much," said John Zimmerman, director of communications for Meijer. "Now people can do their shopping and grab their take-out on the way home."

Not to mention it will be convenient for employees at the Wixom Ford Motor Co. plant just across the freeway.

Also, the stores are trying to get back to the traditional style of the way things were. The bakery is open and expanded and will bake all day long. The products will be fresher and "this place is going to smell great," said Zimmerman.

Even the meat department will take a step back in time. No more glass separations between customers and the butchers. That will lead toward better communication and the ability to say "Hey, can you have that beef a little thinner" without having to first tap on the window.

Plus, said Zimmerman, "everything's open so you can see how sanitary everything is."

The store also features a gourmet coffee area, a larger bulk foods selection, a portrait studio that will have the finish product in an hour, an expanded pharmacy and randomly placed self-scanners throughout the store.

The one thing it won't have, though, is a video rental section.

"We're seeing more people are buying videos than renting them," said Zimmerman.

Instead the store will carry more for-sale videos and a larger computer software selection.

"With each new store we're constantly changing to improve on service," Zimmerman explained.

Lack of grocery stores means Meijers will serve Novi

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

Can't find a place to grab a gallon of milk or order shop for gourmet dinner?

Make a run for the border.

With only one grocery store in the City of Novi, the addition of a new Meijer's on the Novi and Wixom border is a prime location for many west-side residents.

"We are definitely under grocery-stored for a city of 40,000," said Ed Kriewall, Novi city manager.

Former Jack at Meadowbrook and Ten Mile is the only full-size grocery store within city boundaries. On the perimeter, however, is a Meijer's and Shopping Center Market in Northville, a Kroger on Pontiac Trail.

In keeping with the growing population in the western edge of metropolitan Detroit, Meijer Inc. is taking its store on the road and adding one more on the fringes of Novi, located at Grand River Avenue and Wixom Road.

Construction began last spring and everything is on schedule, according to store director Gordon Venema. The new store will open in early August with a lot of fanfare and grand opening celebrations.

"It should be very exciting," said Venema. "They are a lot of fun."

Novi residents may be looking forward to the 200,000-square-foot shopping addition, but what about local business and city services?

The $10 million store will offer Novi residents on the west side an alternative to braving the Novi Road traffic to reach a grocery store and will bring in customers from South Lyon, New Hudson and Commerce.

Meijer offered no actual customer numbers but said there are 15,000 parking spaces they hope to fill.

Kriewall said there will be some traffic increase down the Grand River Avenue corridor as well as the Wixom and Beck Road corridors. "Of course some of it will be our own residents trying to find their way to a grocery store," he said.

Meijer's will also provide an opportunity for employment. The company needs to hire 500 to 700 people between now and August in order to get the shop in shape.

According to Venema, the benefits and pay are quite competitive to what the Twelve Oaks and Town Center area in Novi offer. In addition, many retirees are taking positions at the store part-time.

Interviews began in May but there are plenty of opportunities left, he said.

Kriewall said while job opportunities are always good, existing stores in Novi already have a difficult time finding staff. He explained many people in this area aren't interested in service jobs. They want high-paying career jobs.

Kriewall also said there will be some burden on the Novi police force.

"Any time there's a major facility right on the border, in terms of emergency problems or somebody trying to escape a robbery we might get involved in pursuit," said Kriewall.

One of the grocery stores serving part of the area Meijer is moving into doesn't appear to be too worried.

Joe Cornwell, store manager of the Kroger on Pontiac Trail in Commerce Township said he's sure there will be some effect but there's no way of knowing for sure until the store opens.

"I hope there's enough business out here for all of us," said Cornwell.

At one time, the store was interested in locating across the street in Novi, but resident protest moved into Wixom, according to Kriewall.

"Looking back it could've gone to Novi but it didn't happen," he explained. "I guess there's no point in crying over spilled milk."

Planners say no to Society Hill complex

Senior housing rejected

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

Although consultants say development under the current zoning is more likely to destroy a heavily wooded parcel at Twelve Mile and Novi Road, Novi Planning Commissioners voted 6-1 against a rezoning that would put an upscale senior housing complex on the property.

Their reasoning: the development increases density in the area and too much of the natural environment is destroyed.

However, Commissioner Kim Thomas Capello, the only commissioner to support the rezoning, said this is the best alternative and will cause less damage than the current zoning of large lot residential.

"My whole argument is there will be less intrusion even though we have higher density," Capello maintained.

Commissioners Peter Hoadley and Michelle Bononi were absent from the June 13 meeting.

The commission also is sending a negative recommendation to City Council in regards to the Solomon Group's preliminary plan to develop a 10 building, 301 unit apartment complex on 34 acres of property, 90 percent of it lush with high quality trees and wetlands that acts as part of the city's core reserve path for wildlife.

The complex would be three to five stories in height, which is intended to leave more of the surrounding area intact.

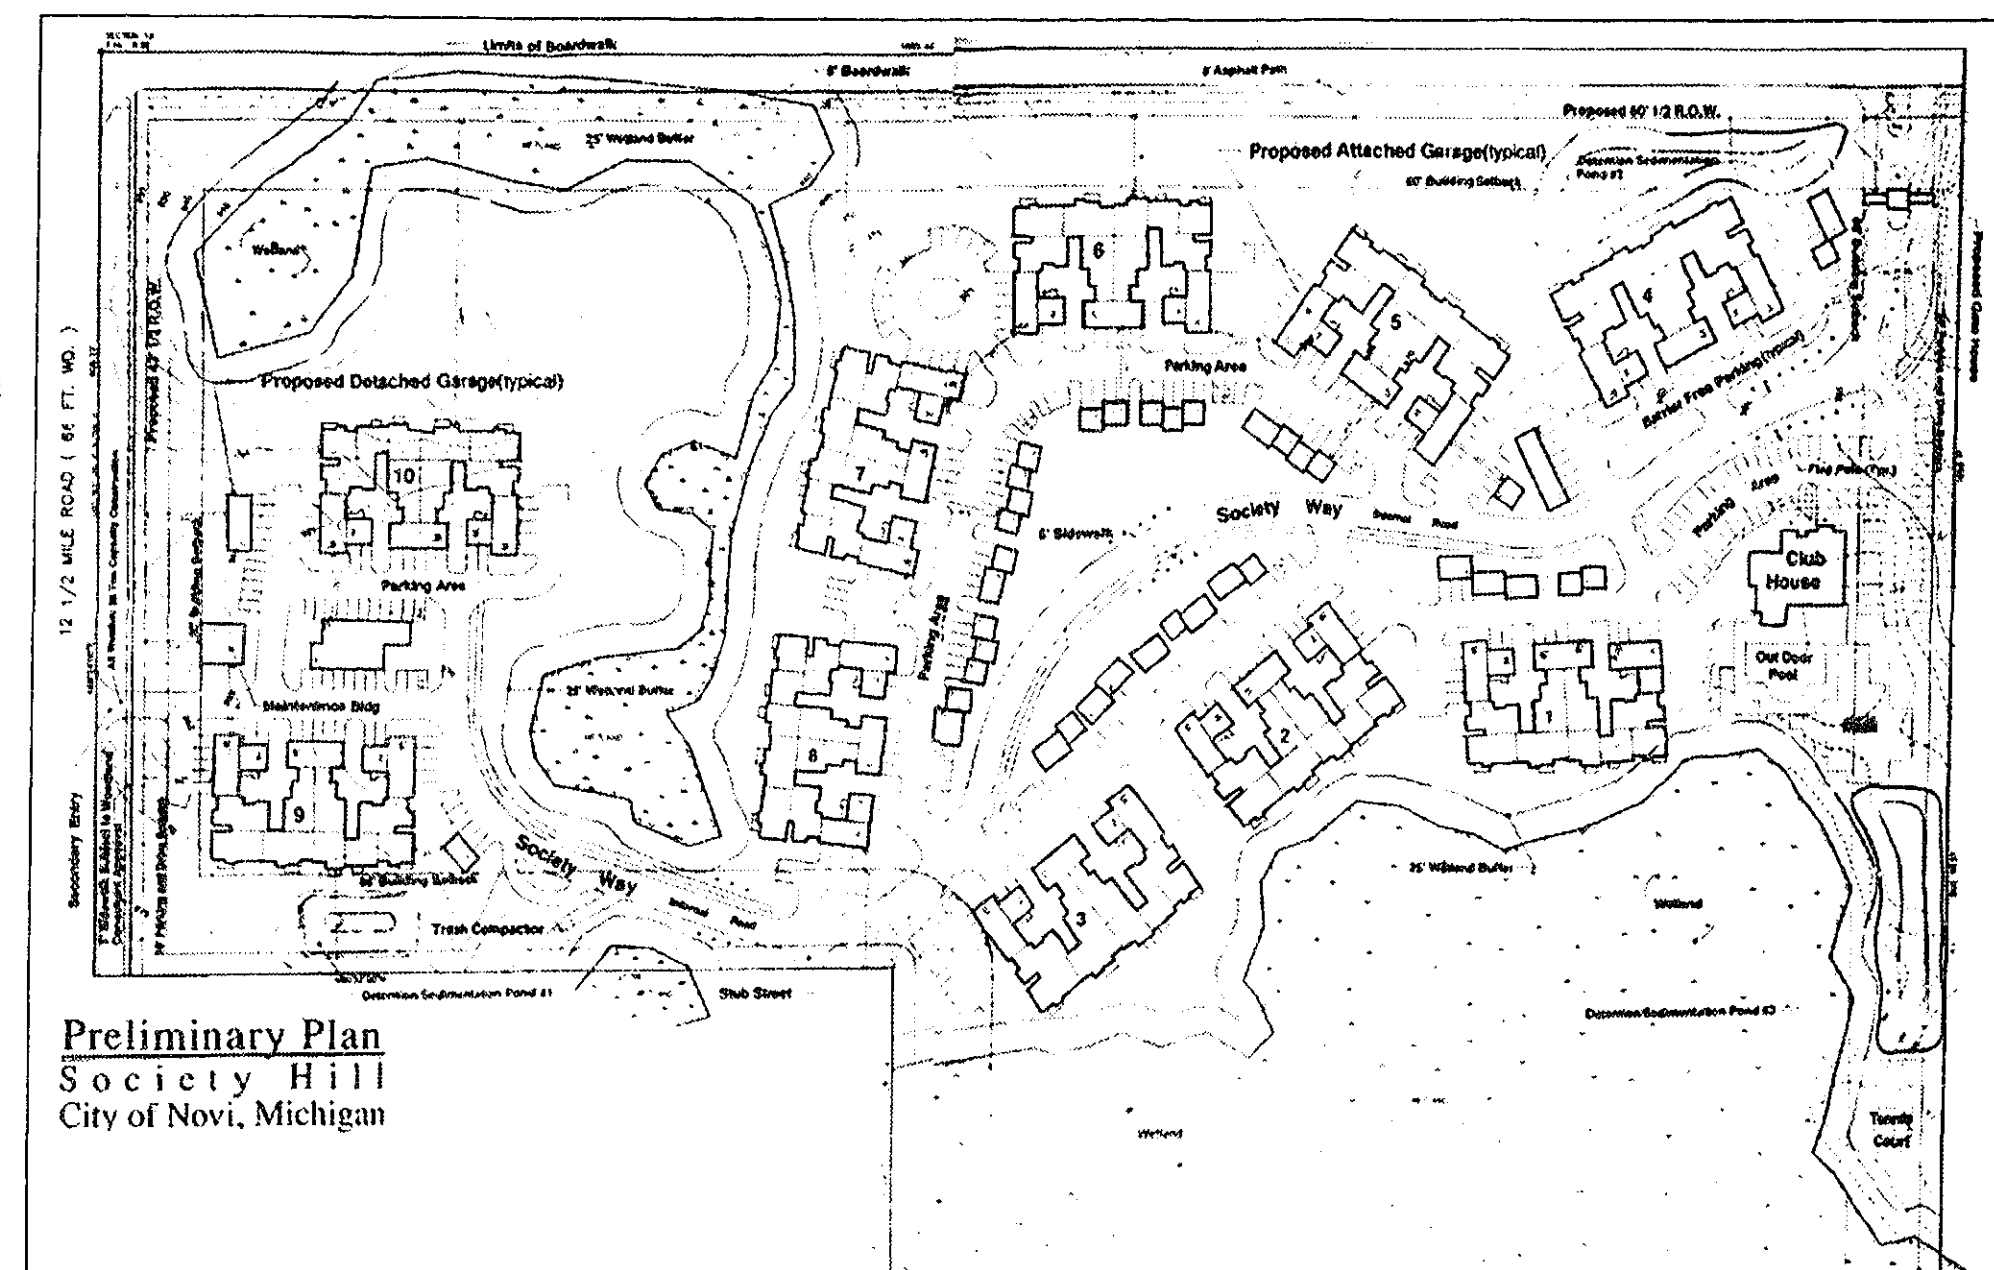

But commissioners thought the plans just weren't good enough.

"It's important to remember with such a large piece of property once we've destroyed a piece of property we'll never get it back," said Gwen Meehan. "I hate to see so many trees taken down to pave parking spaces."

The property is currently zoned for 12 acres of multiple housing and 22 acres of one-acre lot residential homes.

In order to build the complex, the developer is requesting the 22 acres be rezoned to multiple housing (RM) with a PD-1 option, that would allow increased density in exchange for saving more of the environment.

However, commissioners weren't happy with the amount of density involved and the amount of destruction to the environment. Although they commended the developer for making some changes, both Linda Lemke, woodland consultant, and Chris Pargoff, city forester, opposed the plan as it would have likely to see additional buildings removed.

Solomon Group has redesigned the plan, eliminating buildings several times to accommodate city consultant wishes and says there's no more concessions to be made.

"We are unable to do that and deliver this project as it is currently planned," said Joseph Galvin, attorney representing the main developer Enrico Sasson.

He said the luxury complex offers many choices of apartment plans, which runs up the cost of development. "It fits the community and its vision of itself," he said.

"It's materially better and more sensitive than a number of previous plans approved by the city," said Galvin. "Mr. Sasson has pushed his project to the limits."

City Consultant Brandon Rogers and some nearby residents at the meeting said the development would create a nice transition between the mall and the small lot residential neighborhoods in the north end of the city.

"It's a natural progression from the commercial, the office, the park at Twelve and a Half Mile," said Sarah Gray, a member of the Southeast Shawood Homeowners Association near the development.

"Please rezone it RM. You will never have large lot houses in this area, it won't sell."

Novi resident Andrew Mutch, whose property is near the development and the PD-1 Option, said the development would break up a natural green belt that's been created north of Twelve Mile including Tollgate Farm, Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens, the Novi Tree Farm and Lakeshore Park.

By designating a PD-1 Option on the parcel the city was setting itself up for this kind of problem, he said.

"It's a failure on the city's part to engage in land use planning that respects the environment of the land," said Mutch.

Other aspects of the plan, the commissioners didn't like were the breakaway gate at the second entrance at Twelve and Half Mile Road, the fact the developer can tap into the nearby water main when other new development is subject to a water moratorium that forces them to dig wells, a maintenance and storage facility in a portion of the woodlands which would contain toxic materials.

The Solomon Group will head onto City Council in the next weeks, carrying that negative recommendation with them.

"We're very disappointed," said Galvin. "We hoped the commission would recommend favorable, but we believe we have compromised as much as we're able to."

Court of Appeals rules wetland protection constituted 'taking'

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A state Court of Appeals panel stunned the Department of Natural Resources by ruling it must pay $5.3 million to an Oakland County builder for "taking" 28 acres of his property by declaring it a protected wetland.

Joseph Kosik, his J.F.K. Co. and his Resorts and Co. wanted to build a restaurant on 55 acres of land zoned commercial on M-59 just west of Pontiac in Waterford Township. DNR refused a permit in 1988. DNR also refused Kosik's later proposal to fill in 3.17 acres and convert 5.36 acres of upland to wetland.

"This is a very important decision," said Kevin Smith, assistant attorney general representing DNR. "There have been other cases where trial courts found there had been a taking, but the others were reversed by the Court of Appeals. This is the first case where the Court of Appeals found there had been a taking."

Smith was unsure whether the state solicitor general would recommend appealing to the state Supreme Court. "If the decision is not reversed, it will have a significant impact for the wetlands program. The DNR will have to consider the impact of all permit decisions."

"The crucial issue," said Michigan's second highest court, "is whether there is a taking within the meaning of the Fifth Amendment to require just compensation."

It said there was. "The decision to build a restaurant, or a request to fill in wetlands, do not constitute nuisances that a government may abate," wrote Judge Kathleen Janssen. She was joined by Judges Clifford Taylor and J.P. Noecker in upholding a Court of Claims ruling.

They said "the legislature's declarations in the Wetlands Protection Act and the Michigan Environmental Protection Act ... do not constitute background principles of nuisance and property law sufficient to prohibit the use of plaintiffs' land without just compensation."

The state court relied heavily on a 1992 decision of the U.S. Supreme Court in Lucas v. South Carolina Coastal Council. "While property may be regulated to a certain extent, if the regulation goes too far, it will be recognized as a taking," Janssen wrote.

Court of Claims Judge William E. Collette awarded Kosik and his companies $3.2 million for the property taken, $1.6 million in interest and nearly $400,000 for a temporary taking of part of the land.

Collette in 1991 ruled the DNR wetlands restrictions "rendered the property essentially worthless as commercial real estate, and that plaintiffs were therefore entitled to just compensation." The base award amount to about $60,000 an acre.

"The parties do not question that the state has a legitimate interest in preserving and protecting wetlands," said Janssen's opinion. The question was money.

The trial and appellate courts found unconstitutional a section of the statute limiting the landowner's recovery to twice the state-estimated value of the property (half the supposed market value).

Janssen's opinion noted "the 28 acres of wetlands is irregularly shaped within the 55-acre parcel. Thus, it is not possible to simply leave the wetlands area undeveloped and build on the remaining 27 acres ... Here the plaintiffs could not develop the remaining 27 acres because of the configuration of the wetlands within the parcel."

She added, "Defendant (DNR) has not shown that the Court of Claims' computation of damages was erroneous or excessive."

The Michigan Association of Home Builders joined the case as an "amicus" on Kosik's side.

The case is part of a nationwide battle between landowners, who say government is taking their property by regulating its use, and environmentalists, who insist wetlands are essential to the ecosystem. The 1982 Republican national platform came out squarely for the landowners' side.

Ingham circuit judges constitute the Court of Claims and hear all suits against state government. Ironically, Michigan Republicans contend Ingham jurists are politically too liberal.

Wangler lost OCC race, but now he mulls recount

As the Oakland Community College trustee election recount begins today in the Madison Heights school district, where there was a tie vote and another request for a recount, the founder of OCC called for sitting board members to be "tolerant of each other's views."

George Mosher, who was among the college's first trustees and was reelected for 14 years of service — six of them as board chairman — said the atmosphere on the board must be "more fair and friendly. It was a disgrace that board members in the minority were not allowed to say anything" during meetings when former chancellor Patsy Calkins was terminated.

It was that ouster that finally severed two factions on the board and prompted Mosher and others to become instrumental in encouraging the state of John Wangler of Bingham Farms and Jeanne Towar of Royal Oak to oust incumbent Sandra Ritter in her reelection bid after 18 years seated on the board.

"I didn't want to be part of the operation of [OCC]. I left that 20 years before," Mosher said. "But sometimes things get so bad."

The result was that on June 10 Towar took first place and Wangler second. Ritter, placing third, was unseated — or so it was thought. Unknown to the candidates until June 18 was that absentee ballots were double tabulated in Royal Oak. Correct totals still left Towar in first place; however, Wangler and Ritter exchanged rankings, returning Ritter to office July 1 with a 130-vote lead over Wangler.

"With regard to July 1, I think we need to look ahead," Ritter said Friday. "What I heard from the candidates was that everyone was focused on doing the right thing. I'm an optimist. We'll come together."

So Ritter is expected to be sworn in when the board holds its organizational meeting on July 1 — despite Wangler's request for a recount of all 284 voting precincts, including 24 absentee ballot counting boards and two precincts in the Warren Consolidated School District.

"I didn't have any choice," Wangler said. "I could have opted for a partial recount, but I have to bring this to closure. I have to roll the dice and let come what may."

Personally, I'll feel better losing on an accurate vote count than an inaccurate count."

Ritter said she had talked with the county elections division and was told that with modern technology, a reversal was not expected.

Wangler said he had talked with trustees and had expressed his willingness to work with all of them. When Ritter apparently had lost, said Wangler, it appeared both sides had lost something. Now, with Ritter on the board, it "soured the whole situation," he added.

Trustee Anne Scott, who jumped up and down in the board meeting room when it was thought Wangler won, is checking with an attorney to see whether Ritter can be blocked from taking her seat until the recall is completed.

It's a move that Mosher objects to. "I don't really favor that. It's not a good procedure," Mosher said, adding that he does support the recount. "The public and the candidate deserve to know and then whoever wins wins." He said that if there was one error, there could have been others.

What is needed is to make sure the (vote) is accurate," he said.

It's expected to take well into July before the recount is over. Mary Jo Hammond, Oakland County director of elections, said OCC's last recount in 1988 was for 70 precincts and it took eight days. Differences in equipment or voting may make a difference, she added. By law, the recount must be completed within 30 days.

Hammond said Ritter would be allowed to be seated on the board.

It is costing Wangler $2,810 for the recount, $10 for each precinct. That doesn't, however, cover the entire cost for the four-member board of canvassers and a minimum of four additional workers to be hired to help out, according to Hammond. Per-diem costs of $117.34 for each canvasser, plus expenses and mileage, will be billed to OCC. A college spokesperson said the money will come out of the general fund as part of election expenses and that money was available to cover the cost.

Wangler said he would be talking with attorneys over the weekend to have someone able to provide training for "challengers" who will observe the recount. He paid out-of-pocket through his campaign fund for his share of the recount cost, and he is hoping for donations to cover it. Donations may be mailed to Committee — John Wangler, 29600 Bristol Lane, Bingham Farms 48025.

On Tuesday the canvassers, who are appointed by the county Board of Commissioners — two Republicans and two Democrats, will move on to the Union Valley School District for a recount.

The recount may give the OCC board more chance for discussion within itself. Said trustee Scott: "If Sandra Ritter is a trustee, I believe the rest of us have to get along better and communicate better for the good of the college."

Ritter appeared to be in agreement. "When we take a vote, it's not the end of the discussion. It's the best time to communicate. There is a lot of experience and a lot of ideas on the board. We have to listen to the chancellor and not help but trust each trustee."

Northville records low drop-out rate

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

New student programs and increased student assistance are getting the credit for keeping students in school until graduation.

Northville High School, for the second straight year, posted the second lowest drop-out rate of any high school in Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb counties, according to statistics released this week in a report by the state's Education Department.

Northville High School reported a drop-out rate of 0.17 percent for the 1993/94 school year — a decrease from the 0.59 percent posted by the school in 1992/93 school year. Only the Redford Union School district posted a lower rate, just 0.02 percent less than Northville.

Neighboring Novi High School posted a 1.73 percent drop-out rate for 1993/94 — an increase from the 0.85 rate the school posted in 1992/93.

This year, Northville High School graduated 280 seniors, with 160 of those students graduating with grade point averages (GPAs) of 3.0 or higher.

School district officials reported that more attention on student programs and stronger involvement by parents is responsible for keeping students in school. According to Assistant Superintendent Dolly McMaster an intense focus on students and programs has saved quite a few students who were considered "at risk."

"Student programs like student assistance, peer mediation, Students Against Drunk Drivers, and our involvement with Oakland Vocational Technical Institute are just a few of the programs that have helped our students," she said.

Eatery site plan extended by city for the fifth time

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

For the fifth time in as many years, developers of the Andris-Romain Restaurant to be built on a 2.42-acre site across the street from Walled Lake requested an extension of its revised preliminary plans.

Although the request was for a sixth-month extension, the North Planning Commission, June 19, said 30 days should be plenty to get the final plans in place and presented to them before the end of July.

"The city of Novi has been very reasonable and accommodating. There comes a time when you need to put something in stone or move on. This is it," Chairperson Laura Lorenz said.

The commissioners voted 6-0 to give a 30-day extension with an option to extend the plans longer if necessary. Michelle Bononi and Peter Hoadley were absent.

The 8,000-square-foot, 250-seat restaurant is planned for the corner of East Lake Drive and Fourteen Mile road.

The site is across from property Andris-Romain owns on Walled Lake. Plans for the restaurant have taken nearly six years in the making because the Andris wanted to use the lakefront property for the restaurant.

The city said no to a rezoning and a court lawsuit by Andris-Romain didn't have an impact. The lakefront dining idea drew criticism from neighboring residents who complained of increased traffic.

The restaurant has been in the works since it was first approved by the commission in 1991. Since then its had several revised site plan extensions.

The most recent extension lasts until July 1 but although plans for final site plan have been submitted to the city, they were not reviewable by the commission's June 19 meeting.

Therefore the developers requested another site plan extension to carry them past the July 1 deadline. They hope to present final site plan on July 3.

Terry Jolly, attorney for Andris-Romain, said the developer needs the sixth month extension as a safety cushion. Without it the plans would have to start from scratch.

"The only purpose is one never knows what can happen with any set of plans," Jolly said.

Residents in the Lakes area have just about had it with all the extensions and have protested the development since the beginning. Now, they say if Andris-Romain can't get its act together it should have to go back to the beginning.

East Lake Drive resident Pat Hughes expressed frustration to the commission.

"He's had plenty of time to do what he needs to do," Hughes said. "It seems like we've been playing around for some time now with the building."

"I just hope you people will stop and think how long been going through what we wanted to achieve," said Asa Smith, requesting the commission make a concrete decision.

"Build, not build or do something," he demanded.

Smith said if they want to, developers can meet any deadline. They just must not be working hard enough, he said.

"I think this can be done by burning the midnight oil on the part of the parties involved," Smith explained.

The residents are also mad that

THE HISTORY

The history of Andris-Romain restaurant and the site plan process

■ January 9, 1991 - Planning Commission approves Preliminary Site Plan and requests the Final Site Plan be returned for the review and approval.

■ July 1, 1992 - Planning Commission approves revised preliminary site plan. Applicant requested the approval because the original approved plan expired on Jan. 9, 1992.

■ July 7, 1993 - Planning Commission approves one-year revised Preliminary Site Plan extension.

■ March 16, 1994 - Planning Commission approves one-year revised Preliminary Site Plan extension.

■ June 21, 1995 - Planning Commission approves one-year Preliminary Site Plan extension.

■ Sept. 21, 1995 - Greg Capote, staff planner, administratively approves Revised Preliminary Site Plan after review by city consultants and staff. Capote found changes to the plan were minor. The building was slightly smaller and the conceptual facade design was different than previously proposed.

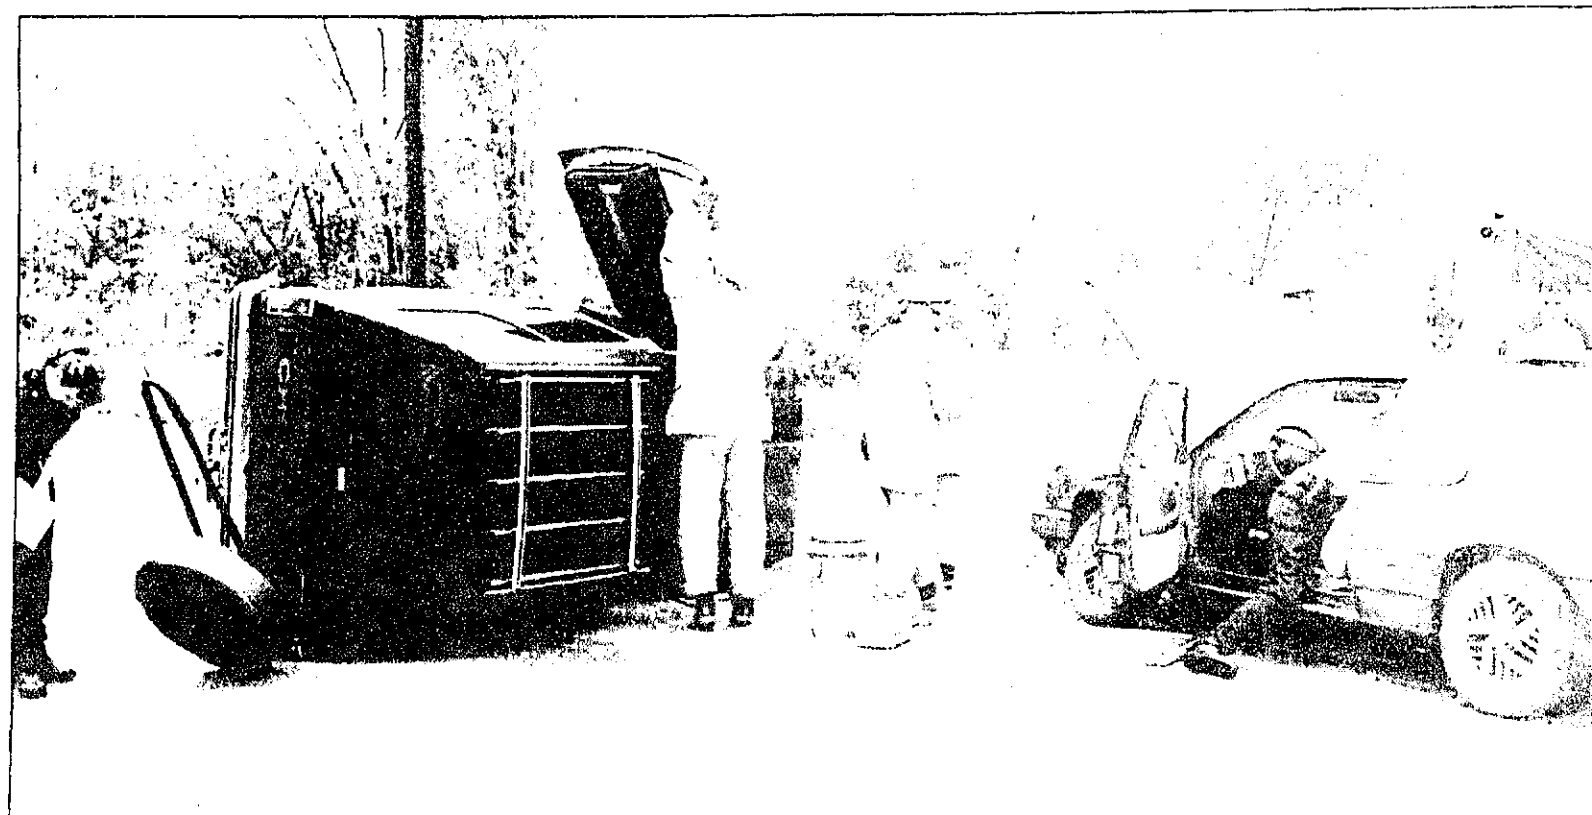

■ June 19, 1996 - Planning Commission grants a 30 day extension on Preliminary Site Plan. Applicant requested six-months. Applicant has submitted final site plan drawings and is expected to appear before the planning commission this summer for possible approval.

the past few extensions have been reviewed administratively as have some changes in the facade of the building.

"This site has not been before the public since at least 1992, and possibly 1991. We feel that it is time for us to have a say again," stated a letter from Sarah Gray, president of the South East Shadedwood Homeowners Association.

According to Greg Capote, staff planner, the extensions and approvals have been in accordance with the ordinances. In addition, he said the extensions before the commission were on the consent agenda and could have been pulled for discussion at any time. Therefore, the issue was before the public.

According to Brandon Rogers, the site plan is still generally the same as the one approved in 1991 and 1992.

Homes sought for cultural exchange

American International Student Exchange is currently accepting applications from families in this area who are interested in hosting a foreign exchange student for the upcoming school year. Families may choose to host a student for a full year or a semester. These high school students, all proficient in the English language, will arrive in the United States in August and attend local high schools, while living as members of their American host families. All AISE students have completed a lengthy screening and interview process with representatives in their home countries and come highly recommended by school principals, counselors, and teachers.

Host families provide students with a bed, meals, and a loving, family atmosphere. AISE provides students and their host families with counseling and support throughout the exchange experience, and all students have made call insurance and spending money for the duration of their stay.

CELEBRATE NORTHVILLE - JULY 4, 1996

CELEBRATE NORTHVILLE!

The Northville Fourth of July parade has been a popular favorite for years and draws hundreds of people into the city. Above, members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012 advance the colors down Main Street at last year's parade.

Stars to come out at '96 Fourth of July events

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

Northville is getting ready to roll out the red carpet for the good ole U.S.A. and honor the world's oldest democracy on its 220th birthday.

And what a day it will be. Following up on many of the traditions it established last year, Celebrate Northville, the Independence Day organizing committee, has set a full table of events and activities for Thursday, July 4.

In addition to the parade, the centerpiece of the Fourth of July celebration, the classic auto show will make a return appearance this year, fresh off its successful 1995 debut.

Mill Race will open for a host of children's games and historic reenactments. Later, during the late afternoon and early evening hours, two free concerts will take place at Beck Road Community Park between Five and Six Mile roads.

The always popular fireworks display will provide a stirring finale to the daylong series of pageantry and play.

The day gets under way prior to the start of the parade with a farm breakfast at the Masonic Temple in Northville. Next up is the parade itself, which will begin at Northville Downs and wind its way through the downtown.

Mill Race Historical Village will open and offer children games, puppet shows and Civil War reenactors.

The classic auto show, featuring vintage autos from all eras, will run from noon to 4 p.m. at the R&D Enterprises building.

Two concerts at Beck Road Community Park will prepare the mood for the fireworks display, which will conclude the activities.

Here's more on each of the major events:

• Farm breakfast, Masonic Temple, 106 E. Main.

For just $3.50 ($2 for children under 12) you can get a bellyful of tasty grub, including scrambled eggs, pancakes, hash browns, ham, orange juice, and coffee, tea or milk. Come and get it anytime between 8:30 a.m. and parade time, approximately 10 a.m.

It's all you can eat, so be sure to bring your appetite.

• Pre-parade warm up. You didn't think they'd go into a monster event like the famed Northville Fourth of July parade without some lead-in activity did you?

Between 9:30-10 a.m. the Flying Aces Fro Frisbee Team will be back performing their aerial wizardry near the Main Street clock area.

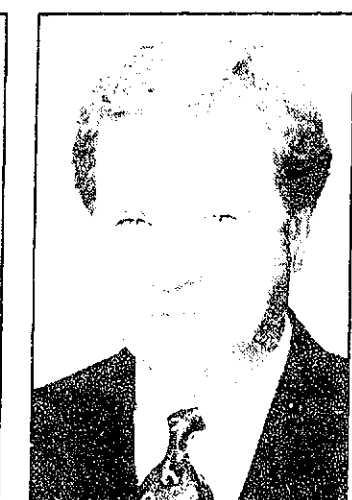

Following the demonstration the National Anthem will ring out from an amplifier and day's activities will be officially under way.

• Parade. A seemingly endless stream of floats, bands and specialty acts will loop through the city, beginning and ending at Northville Downs.

The parade will last about an hour and will feature a variety of marchers, Pet and bicycle parades will be included, and the best bicycle entry will win a free bike from Meijers.

This year's grand marshal is Allen Terrace resident Bill Klope, who turned 100 earlier this year. Klope, who recently received write ups in The Northville Record and The Detroit News, will ride through the downtown in an antique automobile.

Three Detroit media celebrities will also participate in the parade, including WJR radio personality Jimmy Barrett, Channel 50 news reporter Cynthia Canty, and local meteorologist Jim Madus.

• Mill Race Village. Northville's own historic village will bustle with activity from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Parade goers will find a Punch and Judy show at noon, a performance by magician Ming the Magnificent at 12:15 p.m., and a ventriloquist's show by John Osborne at 12:45 p.m.

In addition, The 5th Michigan Regiment will perform in concert from 1-3 p.m.

Throughout the day, craft demonstrations will be offered by the Mill Race Basket Guild, the Mill Race Weaver's Guild, and by blacksmiths Owen Createau and Frank Cunningham.

Dulcimer music and children's games (with prizes) will also be featured.

The Northville Rotary Club, the Northville Historical Society, the Elmwood Station Quilters and the Northville High School Cheerleaders will sell food.

• Classic car show. From noon to 4 p.m. vintage automobiles will be on display at R&D Enterprises, Griswold, and Main. Sponsored by Woolly Bull's and Ramchargers Performance Centers, the show will feature sparkling cars from all eras and in several categories.

Vote for your favorite in the People's Choice balloting.

• Pre-fireworks Concerts. Northville Community Park at Beck Road near Five Mile will fill up with the exciting sounds of concert performers. From 4:30-6 p.m., local group Baked Potato will rock the place during a Young People's concert.

The 70-piece Schoolcraft Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Jim Nissen, will then take the stage from 7-8:45 p.m. for an evening of patriotic music, including the 1812 Overture and tunes by popular favorite John Philip Sousa. Admission is free.

• Fireworks. Starting at dusk (9:45-10 p.m.) the rockets red glare land every other color tool will be seen from miles around as the Zambelli Fireworks Co. lights up the night sky with a starburst of colorful explosions.

This year's launch site is the big hill at BFI's Arbor Hills Resource Recovery facility at Six Mile and Napier Road.

Northville Township police say the fireworks should be visible anywhere west of Sheldon Road. For good seats, go to the concert at Community Park and remain there for the fireworks show. Bring lawn chairs and blankets. Porta-johns will be available.

Others can park at the field on the southeast corner of Six Mile and Napier, or in the Midwest Radio Control Society Club Field on Five Mile Road between Beck and Napier.

The bicycle parade will be back this year and this time the judge's choice will win a new bicycle.

Novi couple honored for volunteerism for No Man's Hand, which enters talent at senior centers. They both perform with the Novi Senior Center's comedy troupe, the Skits-O- Frantics. They pack lunches weekly for 75 homebound seniors and serve meals at the Novi center. Not to mention their involvement with the Chorodales, the Lions Club... the Gieses are so busy, they're rarely home.

"I can't just sit here and do nothing," Caroline said. "After the church youth group they led did a little matching, the Gieses were named over 20 years ago. This is his first marriage, her third. George is retired Hudson's tailor, Caroline was a nurse at a doctor's office."

She's 81, he's 71. "How about that? See how smart I am," Caroline said. "The main thing is we're happy together. We like to do everything together, which is unusual in most families."

George, who has no children of his own, through marriage became a father of three, grandfather of six and great-grandfather to four. "They're her kids, but they're mine now," he said.

Heard all the high-profile stuff, the couple find time to visit 30 seniors in their 90s, originally from their American House study group, who have since moved to nursing homes due to failing health. They also grocery shop for a 96-year-old friend who can't get around much.

"Getting involved and working with other people and helping other people is satisfying. I think," George said.

"You walk in the door and their faces just light up. You've come to see me. That's when you get the benefit of what you're doing. I get so much more out of it than I give," Caroline added.

Then there was the time a 101-year-old man at the American House wanted to hear the song "Grenada." The Gieses drove all over town to find a quest find the sheet music.

"I sing so much that when I get through I can hardly talk. But it's fun and it makes them happy," Caroline said.

One of the interests the couple share is their love of ballroom dancing. At 81, she still steps out in spike heels. Can't dance without them.

George and Caroline Giese pack lunches for senior citizens, just one of the volunteer efforts for which they were honored.

Residents want attention to safety the shrubbery is back in.

Now they're ready to speak out. The Karlavages and their neighbors are asking the school board to take them seriously. In fact, according to the residents, they've asked the district several times to look into ways to stop traffic from barreling down the exit drive and speeding through the subdivision. The accident is the proof in the pudding.

"I'd give anything for speed bumps," said Nancy Natsali, who lives next door to the Karlavages. She said the district told her it wasn't an option because of snow plowing.

Ed Kriewall, Novi City Manager, said the city would be willing to look into signage but not speed bumps. "We've had some bad experiences with speed bumps. It's a hazard to plows and motorcycles," Kriewall explained.

He said he personally hasn't heard about any complaints regarding this matter but is willing to begin dialogue.

Residents also wonder if the district could run a road off of ten mile and close off the access from both sides of the narrow street.

"I think with the growth of this school they should find an alternative entrance," said Teresa Karlavage.

The neighbors also said parking is a problem. On special event nights, the cars are parked on both sides of the narrow street. The Karlavages and the others wonder if people are so busy these days that they can't take the time to slow down.

"Residents need to remember this is a residential area," said Teresa. "And the school needs to take responsibility to safeguard the neighborhood."

Larry Childerston, president of the Orchard Hills Homeowners Association, agrees. "This hill is a launching pad. They fly right down here," he explained.

Jim said they thought there would be a benefit to living near an elementary school. "It's nice having it in the subdivision but not having the traffic dumped in," he explained.

Even the school buses don't brake as they come down the drive, residents say.

"I don't want to find some kid run over by a school bus," said Richard Kieffer. "Those school buses barrel down that hill. There's no way they're going 25 miles an hour. Isn't a school zone supposed to be 15 any-way?"

The Karlavages appeared at a June 20 Board of Education meeting to alert the school board to their concerns and the recent accident. Board members were shaken and expressed a desire to see the issue looked at carefully.

President John Streit directed the administration to find a solution.

"It is something I am certain we'll take a look at," said Streit. "Rest assured we're concerned about it."

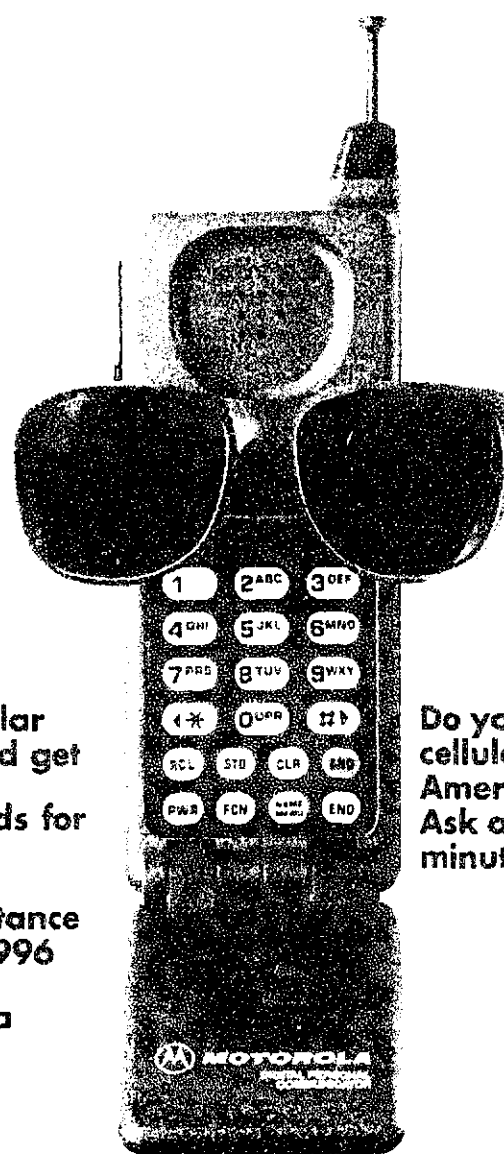

Meanwhile, the Karlavages and the residents will keep their eyes and ears open.

They just don't want to see anyone get hurt. The recent accident was just a warning, they say.

I walked in and gave my kid a big hug that day," said Jim.

Parents pleased overall with schools

By TIM RICHARD

Staff Writer

Public schools are great. Not perfect, but not deserving such blistering criticism, and certainly better than private and parochial schools and most foreign schools.

Government and industrialists are plotting to make American kids dumb by teaching whole-language instead of phonics. The plot follows Nikolai Lenin's Soviet plan that children are human resources for industry rather than reservoirs for memorizing knowledge.

So went Oakland County's "bread and butter" about the future of public education," as sent to the State Board of Education by way of Mike Williamson, an assistant superintendent of public instruction. Williamson, Northville Township resident and former Wyandotte superintendent, listened Monday evening to two and one-half hours of testimony in the Oakland intermediate district auditorium in Waterford.

"I'm disappointed no State Board of Education members are here," said Carolyn Dax, a Farmington mother defending special education. Lynette Sisson of Royal Oak and Barbara DeMarco of West Bloomfield agreed. Neither president Clark Durant or any of the other six State Board members (there's one vacancy) attended the Oakland hearing, although some had attended others.

MOST ARE HAPPY
If the 29 speakers weren't exactly a cross-section of Oakland opinion, a school official said scientific polling data indicate a high degree of happiness.

Rick Simonson, assistant superintendent of Oakland Schools and its legislative agent, said 15 percent give public schools an A, 34 percent an A, B or C, and "parents are more positive than the average."

"Parents of students in private and parochial schools are more positive yet because of the technology and facilities available in public schools," Simonson added. As for trends, 24 percent say their public schools are getting better and 10 percent worse.

Added Royal Oak Superintendent Fred Esch: "The quality of instruction is far superior to what I provided when I started in this 37 years ago — and I'm proud to say it." But he added there never has been as much criticism.

Criticizing the lack of phonics (the use of sound in teaching reading and spelling) and the "school-to-work" program were Patricia Raelzer of Troy, Deborah DeBacko of Troy, Laura Erpelding of Lapeer, Mary Ann Lessner of Lapeer, Betty Lepor of Lapeer, Katy Mast of Clawson, Jennifer Kirby of Oxford, Sue Stickle of Troy, Charlene Fominineo of Troy and Barbara Skurnowicz of Bloomfield Hills. Some also got in blows at witchcraft, pagan allars, socialism, social programs and John Dewey.

PARENTS ARE KEY
Julie O'Reilly of Bloomfield Hills criticized the adult ed class because of their impact on young mothers. "We're missing an opportunity to reach families," the Southfield teacher said. Young mothers learn to read by reading to their small children — and even writing stories for them.

"If people have complaints, they should get involved in PTAs and PTOs," said Dax. "Michigan children are the fastest and most out-of-shape kids in the U.S." because of lack of physical education requirements.

Salaries up for teachers 1 percent

the bargaining units showed concern for the district maintaining the type of district we provide," said Robert Schram, personnel director.

The one percent bonus will be paid to teachers and secretaries in March and to the other employees in June depending on the revenues brought to the district through the state foundation allowance.

"It's like giving you a Christmas bonus, only it's not Christmas," said Schram. "Currently the foundation allowance is set to go up $155 but the district is budgeting $140. If the Gov. John Engler writes and executive order during the school year to lower that amount the revenues may not be there for the bonus."

Should that be the case, the district may need to adjust the number of staff development days. Staff is increasing the number of teacher development workdays ahead of the Michigan School Code schedule. "Everybody recognizes the need for more staff development times," said Schram.

Last year teachers spent 185 days in school. Next year that will go to 187 days. In 1997-98 and 1998-99 the teachers will work 188 and 189 days respectively.

"All recognized the need for co-pays. They all recognized that's not the real world ... There were no hot topics at all. Nothing people were passionate about."

Robert Schram

Students will attend one additional school day each school year beginning with 181 school days in the 1996-97 school year.

The unions agreed to small changes in the current health care system, also. The teachers and secretaries will go from a no co-pay on prescriptions to a $2 co-pay. Also they will switch from no deductible to a $100 single and $200 family deductible.

Transportation, maintenance and food service, under Blue Cross/Blue Shield will switch from a $1 co-pay on prescriptions and $50 and $100 deductible to a $5 co-pay and a $100 and $200 deductible.

"All recognized the need for co-pays," said Schram. "They all recognized that's not the real world."

The employees do not pay monthly health insurance payments. For the school year, the $40 million school budget includes $6.8

million in fringe benefits including health care costs, life insurance, retirement costs and FICA (Federal Insurance Contributions Act), the 7.65 percent of each paycheck paid on both the part of the employer and employee for Social Security and Medicare programs.

Both the administration and the unions are planning to jointly develop a "caterpillar plan" to allow for more options. Schram said they plan to have the details worked out in December and begin implementation in February. This plan would supersede the current system and change the health insurance numbers.

The secretary staff and maintenance pay scales were also adjusted to add extra steps in the scales. Negotiations began with all unions in February and the first contracts were solidified in May.

"There were no hot topics at all," said Schram. "Nothing people were passionate about."

Schram said the talks got off to a good start when Koster held an informal state of finances session with all parties involved.

"Everybody had a base of knowledge going into negotiations. It was really helpful. That was key," said Schram, who explained much of the negotiations are based on the financial situation of the district and comparative with neighboring districts.

Franchi said the session gave all parties a place to start. "It's important we all understand where everyone is coming from. It gives everyone the proper perspective," she explained.

The average for teacher salaries in 1995 was $56,736, a high average because the district has many senior teachers with master's degrees, according to Jim Koster, assistant superintendent for business. With ten teachers retiring this month and their replacement with younger teachers lower on the pay scale the average will be lower for the 1996-97 school year, he explained.

The 1996-97 school year's salary schedule indicates the lowest paid teacher will make $29,852 without the one percent March bonus and the highest paid teacher will make $66,329 not including the March bonus.

Novi man convicted in Ypsilanti murder

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A former Novi resident convicted of murder will spend a long time behind bars.

Laquan Jones had a big, bright future in front of her, a future which was blown away by a bullet. Blakely, who until his December arrest on homicide charges lived in the Woodland Glen apartments on Eight Mile between Novi and Meadowbrook roads.

Last week a Washtenaw County Circuit Court judge found Blakely guilty in connection with the death of Jones, 24, and the wounding of her mother, Beverly on Dec. 26, 1995. Judge Donald Shelton sentenced the 22-year-old to a total of 24-35 years in prison on six separate criminal counts.

Court officials would not specify what the six charges were. Blakely was charged with murder, attempted murder and felony firearms counts.

Washtenaw County prosecutors say Blakely shot Jones, his ex-girlfriend, and her mother because the younger woman would not agree to leave her Ypsilanti Township home with him. The two had broken up some weeks before, according to reports.

Laquan and Beverly were each shot once with a handgun, the mother allegedly hit while trying to intercede between Jones and Blakely.

Both victims were taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Superior Township, where Laquan, a 1989 graduate of Ypsilanti High School, was pronounced dead an hour and a half after the shooting. Beverly, 43, remained in the hospital for several days.

According to prosecutors Blakely shot at but missed Laquan's brother, Tremaine Jones, 19. He then fled the house, avoiding police for two days but eventually surrendering in Ann Arbor to Washtenaw sheriff's deputies with his lawyer on Dec. 28.

Blakely was held in the Washtenaw County Jail without bond until his trial was complete. He has since been turned over to the Michigan Department of Corrections to serve his sentence.

Blakely had no previous arrests or convictions in Michigan.

Village Oaks first graders grow green thumbs

Summer is here and the first graders at Village Oaks will prove it. There was some doubt that the summer would actually arrive, but the first graders were asked to plant from seed, their very own flower or vegetable.

The project began in late April, with direction work sheets for all students to keep track of the progress of their growing seeds. Students cared for the plants and learned how seeds develop.

The Junior Master Gardeners

proudly displayed their progress at the First Grade Plant Show held June 15 in Village Oaks gymnasium.

The little gardeners grew everything from forget-me-nots to cilantro.

The most popular plant this year for the show was the heavy sunflower.

Many gardens in Novi are now home to the baby plants. Be on the lookout for this truly home-grown verdure, the greenness of growing vegetation.

By Ruth Ann Jurasek

First graders beam with pride over their plantings during the Village Oaks First Grade Plant Show held June 15 in the gym. The students began with a seed in late April and logged the plant's progress throughout the next couple of months.

I Am

*I am spirals of light spinning though space.
A star sending light
in all directions.
The universe that holds all objects in my grasp.
Light, penetrating the dark and then fading away.
A galaxy, following the path that was set for me.*

By Eric Saurer, 7th grade

Flower Child

*I wish I were a tulip flower
Holding a baby born,
I'd keep the baby warm at night
And wake her in the 'morn.
I'd help her grow through rain or shine
And through the winter snow,
I'd care for her so very much way more than you could know.
I'd listen to her every thought
And help her through all her fears,
I'd feel happy all the time
And not show any tears.*

In a dream I was a fireball

*In a dream I was a fireball
a flying star fallen from the sky.
a streak of red, gold and green burning, charring everything.
Green becoming black
(all turns black)
Against the deep and endless sky
I was a flash,
a streak
of red, gold and green.*

Have brochure, no need to travel

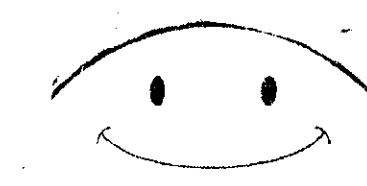

Students cite plenty of sites in Novi

Third graders at Orchard Hills Elementary studied the history and of Novi this spring and created travel brochures to show off all the neat things to see and do in the city.

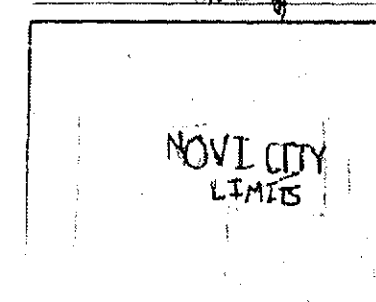

Some of their favorite sites were the Twist n' Shake, the Mall and the Movies.

Safety tips while living or visiting the city of 40,000 plus residents included "Watch for cars while crossing the street and "Buckle your seatbelt."

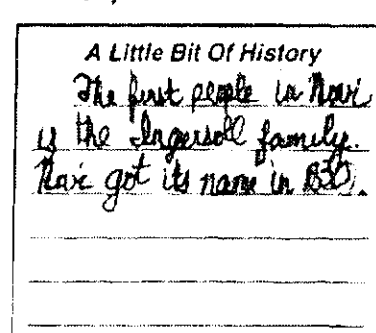

Some special notes about the city included "There aren't many criminals" and "Novi has nice people."

Sixty-five years of celebrating birthdays sounds like a lot, except when time flies with your...

Friends

By CAROL WORKENS

Staff Writer

It wasn't written in blood. No one spit and shook hands. It was just a vow that a group of school girls made in 1931 to meet once a month.

Sixty-five years later, the "school girls" Jennie (Dombek) Jablonski, Jo (Khalil) Seghi, Irene (Kosowski) Wygonik, Monica (Stowers) Skubis, Betty (Pepp) LeButt, Florence (Hoelt) Hutton, Helen (Matusz) Golec and Katherine (Kerr) Sparks still meet, once a month.

The original members of the group, Wygonik and Hutton began chumming around in kindergarten. Followed by Skubis and LeButt in second grade. Sparks, who just moved to Detroit from Germany and didn't speak a word of English also joined the group in the second grade.

Seghi and Jablonski became members a year or two later.

All except Golec were students at Oliver Wendell Holmes Elementary in Detroit. Golec joined the group when she was in junior high.

"When we were little it was during the depression," Wygonik said. "We went to Halloween parties, and for summer time recreation, we played baseball and soccer in the grade school playground."

Hutton's father had a grocery store on Michigan Avenue and she used to bring in candy.

"Nobody had a penny," Wygonik said. "That was a rough time during the depression."

Of the eight, Hutton lives in Novi. Skubis lives in Northville, and LeButt, Seghi and Golec live in Northville Township.

Sparks lives in Saline. Wygonik lives in Allen Park and Jablonski lives in Dearborn.

"We never thought of it as being unusual, we thought of it as being fun and enjoyable," LeButt said. "We can't imagine that we've been getting together that long."

Having lived within a few blocks of each other, they became playmates starting in kindergarten and grade school.

"We were such close friends in school, when we did things we did them together," Wygonik said.

All graduated from Chadsey High School in 1941, except Jablonski, who graduated from Fordson High School in Dearborn.

The original premise of the group was to celebrate birthdays. Monthly dues went into the cultural fund and for birthday gifts.

"When the fellas were gone (during World War II) that is when we started to get together to celebrate each others' birthdays," LeButt said.

Prior to the war, transportation to Birthday Club meetings was via street car or bus. It wasn't until after the war that each bought their first cars.

Jablonski and Hutton were hospital aids during the war and were also hostesses for the USO in the recreation hall in Detroit.

Through the years the women have participated in sports together, including bicycling in Rouge Park, canoeing at Belle Isle, golf and tennis, and a boat trip to Cleveland during

Now the person who has a birthday usually selects the location, unless she wants to switch with someone.

When they were mothers of young children and money was tight, they would have their monthly meeting at each others' homes during the evening.

For a few years, the women, along with their husbands and young children, went to Hutton's cottage once a year.

As their children grew up, each returned to work. Skubis is the only member still employed.

"We are very careful when we talk about husbands or grandchildren," Golec said. "We do have some sensitive members and we are aware of each other's feelings."

Nowadays, the husbands join the women, the men sitting at one table, the women at another.

"The men seemed to fill in with the group and it is family to them too," Wygonik said.

Those who are in town during the summer will get together. When the weather makes driving hazardous they may change the date. Rarely do they cancel.

After 65 years, there's even more to talk about than in the beginning.

Made up of conservatives and liberals, the group talks about "everything and nothing," Seghi said.

Karen Olson is the president of the area's AAUW branch.

Olson strives for equal recognition

By DOROTHY NASH
Staff Writer

"Them with us, not against" is basically what motivates AAUW (American Association of University Women), and Karen Olson is president of the Northville-Nowi branch which is composed of 115 women who have a baccalaureate or higher degree.

Working toward a goal of equal recognition and opportunity for women and men, members in the area raise money for the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College and for scholarships which the national organization awards in post-graduate work.

The Resource Center helps displaced women homeowners who "never got on with their higher education," Olson said, and suddenly they were left stranded because of divorce, illness, death. They need suggestions on how to proceed.

Nearer home and younger,

Olson said, they provide "a day of fun for the fifth and sixth graders" at Maybury State Park. The girls work on experiments in natural habitat wildlife. "It's science, an interesting hands-on-things project."

To support these projects, Olson said, they don't sell used-books as many branches of AAUW do. Instead, they sell tickets for a tour of five or six homes in Northville during the Victorian Festival.

Last year - "It was a perfect day," she said - they sold 800 tickets, all for scholarships and whatever expenses they have.

The whole group meets monthly to hear speakers talk on various subjects, and individual members meet monthly in study groups on things like investments, computing, and foreign policy.

If you are an eligible woman and want to be a part of AAUW, call Karen Olson at 347-4299.

For all those who love clogging, the Cloggers are sponsoring a summer party on July 12 from 7-10 p.m. at the Civic Center. To those who like to watch, a special invitation to be a part of the audience.

The Cloggers are also having open dancing for any age group during the summer on Wednesday from 12:30-3:30 p.m. at a cost of $3, and on Friday from 12:30-3:30 p.m. at $3. The Cloggers will also be a part of the Michigan 50s Festival on Thursday, July 25 in the refreshment tent as a band leader. They will also be at the ice cream social on July 26 at the Civic Center to perform, and again on Sunday, July 7, for the pancake breakfast at the Expo Center. Performance will start at 10 a.m.

The Sixthgate Cloggers is a senior citizen dance group which was started in 1988 and is sponsored by Novi Parks and Recreation. Throughout the year they perform for school and civic groups, private clubs, nursing homes, and local festivals. Some of past performances include appearances at the Newburg Methodist Church, Mercy Center Senior Salute Day with Verna Davis, announcer, and Dorothy Hinkle as D.J., and the Independence Township Senior Center. A workshop was held and attended by over 100 people with several from the Sixthgate group performing "Every little Thing" as a demonstration.

Other spring performances were held at St. Anne Made in Southfield, Romeo Senior Center, and Westhaven Manor in Westland where their performance was of a Mediterranean theme.

Several appearances were held at the Novi Civic Center during the Senior Center Week Celebration. Over 400 guests from other centers were expected to attend this program entitled Novi Pen Pals. The list continues, in July, the Focus House Children's Center, and later in the fall, the Arts and Apple Festival in Rochester, Festival of Trees at Cobo Hall in November, in addition to other appearances scheduled for later this summer and fall.

MICHIGANDER SMOCKERS

The service project for this year will be each member donating (handmade or bought) back-to-school clothing for school age children. These items will be given to the Holy Family parish clothing distribution center. This is a Novi-based center that provides clothing for families in need; the school clothing seemed to be the biggest need at this time. All donations are to be in by Thursday, July 18 morning meeting.

The Smockers are meeting during the summer months as they find more time for sewing. Meetings will continue to be twice a month. Monday, July 1 they will meet at 7 p.m. The project will be a hem-stitched needle holder with a program by Sharon Schlemmer. Those attending can purchase a kit for $4 or a list of items that can be brought to the meeting is also available.

On Aug. 5 an evening meeting will be held with Laura Kurbach demonstrating the fagotage stitch. She will be working with the group. On Sept. 9, date changed because of the holiday, those attending should bring their own project to work on.

The morning meeting met on June 20 and worked on a Batterbury face daily with a program presented by Sharon Schlemmer. The July 18 meeting will be at 10 a.m. with Tina Knebel presenting the "Duplicate Stitch." On Thursday, Aug. 15 a field trip to Lansing with a special visit to "Country Stitches" in East Lansing is planned. Lunch will be at the Cappachino Cafe. In the afternoon maps will be provided for visits to several shops in Williamston. Carpentry is being planned. In September, the morning group will work on a smocked hanger to be presented by Barbara Shrader. For information on the group call the Novi Library.

FAITH COMMUNITY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Summertime brings changes in schedules. Worship schedule for the summer will be for one service at 10 a.m. for July and August with church school at the same time. Nursery facilities are available.

The church is sponsoring a summer Sunday School Spectacular starting June 30 and continuing through Sept. 1. All Sunday School classes, preschool through grade six, will meet together for an exciting all school assembly. Programs to be included are Kids on the Block, puppets, Larry Molloy, explorer; Margaret Schmidt, animals; and May Kay Davis, storyteller. In addition there will be a magician, ventriloquist, movies, crafts and much more. For additional information, call the church office at 349-5666.

Vacation Bible School was held this past week with the theme "Seaside with His Savior." The groups visited Bethesda, Caesarea, Capernaum and other locations. The traditional program was held in the morning hours for children entering kindergarten through sixth grade.

Other activities included the annual church picnic recently held at Maybury State Park in the Hickory Shelter area. A regular 9 a.m. service was held at the church followed by an 11 a.m. outdoor service with scriptures, hymns, and prayers all emphasizing the natural world. The sermon text was "The Lord who formed the earth did not create a chaos but formed it to be inhabited." Isaiah 45:18.

Children's games and contests during the picnic were organized by Jo Morgan with sports activities organized by Ron Benn and Roger Wilgong. The afternoon included horseshoes, volleyball and softball.

During July, the co-ed team will meet on Friday nights at Power Park. Also in July, a group will meet to participate in the Habitat for Humanity program. Later on, the church will be going to Stratford, Ontario, Sept. 13-14, for the Shakespearean Festival.

Through thick and thin, chums after six decades

"We are all avid talkers, readers, like to live life and we don't let academics stop us," Gole said. "We mostly agree to disagree." Gole said, "I have an opinion. I don't ask you to have the same opinion."

"We all came from rather humble beginnings," Lehart said. "It has been so exciting to see the kids progress, fathers and to see their children flourish and become professionals."

Like an extended family, they have celebrated each others' weddings and the births of their children as well as recognizing other memorable milestones.

"It is nice just knowing these people and their families, that has been the most interesting."

said the only widow in the group, Skibis, whose husband died in 1970.

Those that have celebrated their 30th wedding anniversaries are Lehart, Hutton and Gole's. Jablonski will celebrate hers at the end of the month.

"When you get together as long as we have you have to be a person of substance and have a good sense of humor," Gole said.

"The way people meet about today, it is impossible. Our children will experience what we did," Lehart said.

Missionary from India will be guest speaker at church

Rev. Andrew McCabe, who has worked to help India's children for more than 45 years, will be the guest speaker at Northville Christian Assembly on Sunday, June 30, at the 10 a.m. service.

Rev. McCabe began his missionary service to India in 1950. Since 1963, he has served in Nawabganj as manager for the James Harvey Memorial School, a resident school near the border of Nepal.

In recent years, the school has enrolled 1,000 children from primary grades to high school. Students come from both North India and Nepal. In 45 years of service, he has had the opportunity to influence thousands of young people.

Rev. McCabe, a Scotsman, was born and raised in India by missionary parents. He attended All National Bible College in London and Cliff College in Sheffield, England. After graduation he entered missionary service in India. In 1991, Rev. McCabe was made a member of The Most Excellent Order of the British Empire. The honor was conferred at Buckingham Palace in London. Queen Elizabeth II personally presented him with a medal and certificate of honor.

When asked about the award, Rev. McCabe said, "It was a wonderful experience. The Queen was genuinely interested in our work in Nawabganj." But, he added, what was happening in the lives and homes of the students he has taught is his greatest reward.

The public is cordially invited to hear Rev. McCabe at Northville Christian Assembly, 41355 Six Mile Road one mile west of I-275, on June 30 at 6 p.m. For information or a schedule of other events call (810) 348-9030.

Steven Spiegel (right) ate enough pasta to win Santino's pasta eating contest and a high five from Van Earl Wright.

Pasta raises dough for children

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

The pasta king for the second year in a row is Steven Spiegel from West Bloomfield who ate five and three quarters pounds of pasta, topping his previous year's feat of five pounds of pasta at the Third Annual Pasta Eating Contest held by Santino's Place for Pasta in Novi.

The Pasta Eating Contest raised $879 which was donated to the

Make-A-Wish Foundation. Last year, almost $800 was raised for the American Cancer Society.

About 120 employees donated their day's wages along with 100 percent of the restaurant sales.

"We hope to triple that next year," said Scott Longas, owner.

This year's Master of Ceremonies was Van Earl Wright, sportscaster with WDIV Channel 4.

A popular new addition to the fund raiser was the celebrity dunk tank, which was filled with water by the City of Novi Fire Department. Alan Schwartz, singing window washer/impersonator, and Terry Foster, sports columnist for the Detroit News were this year's celebrities.

Along with Spiegel, the other contestants were Victor Geratti, Kevin Vaughn, Brett Barringer, Kevin Doshman, Mike Letzer, Cam

Sixt, Robert Grant, Dave Gang and

Will Juntunen. Interested contestants dropped their names into a bowl, from which the ten contestants were chosen. The pasta was cooked with a little olive oil and butter substitute. Contestants were allowed to put anything they wanted on the pasta to make it palatable for the 30-minute contest.

"We were slow Monday and Tuesday," Longas said. "I think they all waited for Wednesday."

Attendance at the third annual Northville Garden Walk is expected to be the best ever.

Garden walks are 'in'

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

The Country Garden Club of Northville has seen a steady increase in attendance at its annual garden walks. Now in its third year, the walk will include eight gardens on five stops. Hours for the walk on Wednesday, July 17, are from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Last year's ticket sales numbered 600, up from 400 the first year.

June and July are pretty prime time for garden walks," said Pat Allen, past president of the Country Garden Club of Northville and coordinator of the Third Annual Garden Walk.

Most of the private garden's homeowners are on hand to answer questions.

"People like to come up to them and talk to them about a perennial," said Allen. "It is a nice day for them to see the homeowners. They like to hear the compliments. There is a certain amount of pride there."

In addition to the complementary refreshments, cookies, and fruit offered at Mill Race Village at hour's end, Garden Walk attendees will be entertained by strolling musicians. Plants and garden accessories will be also available for purchase along with copies of the garden club's book, Back Fence Gardening.

"Everyone who picks one up to look at it just has to buy it right then," said Allen of the club's book.

Mill Race Village buildings will be open and staffed by docents and the gardens are also ready for visitors.

After lunch at 4 p.m., a table will be held. Raffle items include a stone bird bath, a designer sweat shirt, a silk floral design, a statted quilt called "Gloria My Dreams." Raffle tickets will be available at each home and at Mill Race Village for $1 each or 6 for $5.

Pre-sale tickets for the Third Annual Garden Walk are available at the Northville Chamber of Commerce, 195 S. Main, and at Gardenviews, 202 W. Main. Mail order tickets may be obtained from Barb Williamson, 39614 Greenbriar Court, Northville, MI 48167, or by phoning (313) 420-3562. Advance tickets are $7.

On four day tickets will be $8 and may be purchased at Mill Race. Gardenviews and the Chamber of Commerce.

The Garden Walk is the club's only fund-raiser. All the funds are turned back into the community through high school scholarships, support of the beautification committees, and two gardens the group maintains - Hunter House at Mill Race Village and the garden at Allen Terrace which they turned from a scrubby hillside into the colorful garden it is today.

Film embraces intelligence

George's life in the small town of Harmon, Kansas, George Malley (John Travolta) is a young man who is a good kid and a good student. But on his 20th birthday George begins to change.

As a result of an extraordinary encounter, George's seemingly remarkable life takes a surprising and wonderful turn. George has a sudden insatiable appetite for learning, and begins to comprehend the beauty and intelligence of the universe.

Suspicious about the new found power of George's intellect, and apprehensive about the middle he has become, George's life long friends begin to turn away from him.

But with the love and support of the cautious, yet caring, Lacey (Kiera Sedgwick), George is able to see the larger picture of his place in the scheme of things, and to trust the remarkable path of his life in the hands of fate.

Discussing his immediate attraction to the project when offered the assignment, director John Dahl says, "One of the things that intrigued me most about the screenplay was that it asked the question, 'what does it mean to be intelligent?' Not merely about how much you know, but to understand things, or how you deal with it. It is a new twist. It has a detailed view of compassion and a spiritual basis for living."

"So many times we see, say, isn't it great to be stupid? Often, even in drama, it's the fool who is the wise man, or it's a child who actually sees the truth."

John Travolta, who stars as George Malley, says, "Phenomenon looks at genius in a less cynical way. This is a new twist. It explores the issue of one's genius, the heart and mind and soul."

Through George, Lacey learns about her potential for love and she recognizes the part of herself she thought she had closed forever. She's vulnerable again for the first time. George teaches Lacey that what really is important in life is love.

Kiera Sedgwick, who previously appeared in such features as "Something to Talk About" and the Emmy nominated made-for-television movie "Miss Rose White," was immediately attracted to the role because of Lacey's strength and sense of humor.

"I felt like she was a character who, when you meet her on screen, there's a mystery behind her, and you want to get to know what that is."

Soccer Camp

Larry Christoff, current girls varsity head Soccer

Wildcats shutout on area second softball team in '96

If experience counts for anything in softball, and it usually does, Novi's annual second team, the Novi Area Softball Second Team, has a big leg up on the competition.

Seven of our 10 second teamers were seniors this spring and played major roles in leading their respective teams. Start with Northville.

While the Mustangs didn't win their conference title they did return to respectability after a horrendous 1995 season. Seniors Jenny Sheehan, who caught and batted over .300, and pitcher Andrea Moretti, turned a veteran, solid battery for Northville.

Other seniors like South Lyon's Carolyn Kovala and Milford's Barb Chockley delivered key hits and were among the Kensington Valley Conference's top run producers. They made Novi Area Softball Second Team. Let's take a closer look at each 1996 selection as picked by the sports editors of the Novi News, Northville Record, Milford Times and South Lyon Herald.

ANDREA MORETTI
Northville, senior pitcher
After pitching well her junior year, Moretti came in as Northville's top hurler in 1996.

On most clubs, she would've pitched full time. But coach Karen Baird decided to break up youth and experience in order to prepare for coming seasons.

Moretti did not end pitching most of Northville's "big" games this spring. In limited duty, the senior posted a 5-4 record, averaged six strikeouts per game and posted an earned run average under four.

"She's very competitive," said Baird. "She liked to lose."

The coach said Moretti never "let up" on the mound.

"She always gave it her all," Baird said. "She was one of the mentally toughest pitchers I've ever seen."

JENNY SHEEHAN
Northville, senior infielder
A three-year varsity player, Sheehan came along way this spring.

After a slow start, she closed the season by hitting .324 and knocking in 12. Baird said Sheehan's real strength was as a receiver, however.

"She showed great leadership behind the plate," she added. "She's a real talker."

Sheehan also wasn't afraid to make the big play, it wasn't uncommon for her to whip a throw down to first base to try and pick off a runner.

"She's one of the most aggressive catchers I've seen," said Baird. Sheehan made honorable mention All-WLAA this spring.

NANCY SCHULER
Milford, junior infielder
Even though she was only a sophomore, Schuler carried the responsibilities of a veteran catcher for the Redskins this year.

Milford coach Julie Seets had enough confidence in Schuler to allow her to call all the team's games this season and by the end of the year she also was carrying a big load on offense.

Schuler batted .370 this spring and she had 17 RBI for the district and regional champions. She also struck out only six times all season and only four times in the KVC, where she faced such imposing throwers as Harland's Erica Strutz and Lakeland's Mindy Dwyer.

JENNY FRISBIE
Northville, senior infielder
This senior went from unknown quantity to clean-up hitter this year. Frisbie led Northville in several offensive categories. But, more importantly, Baird knew she could rely on her clutch hitting.

"She was a good hitter with people on," the coach added. "Her strength was her bat."

Frisbie hit .354 with 16 runs batted in and 23 hits.

"She was very consistent," Baird said.

Frisbie was named All-WLAA honorable mention.

TAMARA DOMINICK
Lakeland, junior infielder
The Eagles needed Dominick to come into her own in her third year on the varsity team and she did not disappoint.

Her great range and powerful arm made her a valuable weapon on defense and she developed into a well-rounded offensive player as well this season.

Dominick batted over .300 and she was second on the Lakeland team with 24 RBI. She also featured more power at the plate than she did in year's past and she experienced batting left in certain situations for the Eagles.

"She was more of a complete player this year," Griffiths said. "And I defy anyone to show me a shortstop with a stronger arm."

Dominick was an all-KVC second-team selection this year.

Mammograms help beat breast cancer

It's a medical fact that of all the types of cancer that strike the female body, one of the deadliest is breast cancer. But it's also a fact that if breast cancer is detected early enough, chances are it can be cured.

This is why early detection is so vital and why every woman should examine her breasts on a regular (preferably monthly) basis and why check-ups by a doctor are in order, as well as periodic breast x-rays, or mammograms.

A mammogram is simply a low-dose x-ray of the breast in order to detect any tumors - even before they can be felt by hand.

In most cases, whether detected by self-examination, an examination by a physician or by a mammogram, lumps in the breast are benign or non-cancerous.

However, if there is a possible malignancy or cancer, a biopsy might be carried out. A biopsy is safe and performed with only minimal discomfort. A sample of the questionable tissue is withdrawn in a hollow needle for further examination under a microscope and a diagnosis made.

In the fight against breast cancer, early detection is the key to success. Monthly self-examinations, periodic examinations by your physician and regular mammograms are all called for.

All of the above services are available at Providence Medical Center-Providence Park in Novi. For additional information, feel free to contact one of the following women's imaging center locations:

Mammograms are helpful in detecting breast cancer early, according to doctors.
