Mayor sees bustling year ahead for city

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Here's a few tips for navigating through life in Novi this year, straight from Mayor Kathleen McLallen.

Be patient, there's going to be a lot of road construction coming up.

Be prepared, it's going to get interesting in this town.

Be ready to have fun and share the excitement in 1998.

Tuesday afternoon, McLallen delivered her fifth "State of the City" speech to the Novi Chamber of Commerce. In the years she's been at the helm, McLallen said she's watched the community become "infinitely better."

"There's an excitement, an enthusiasm, all you have to do is talk to anybody on the street," she said.

"The news from the city is good, in fact, it's utterly amazing."

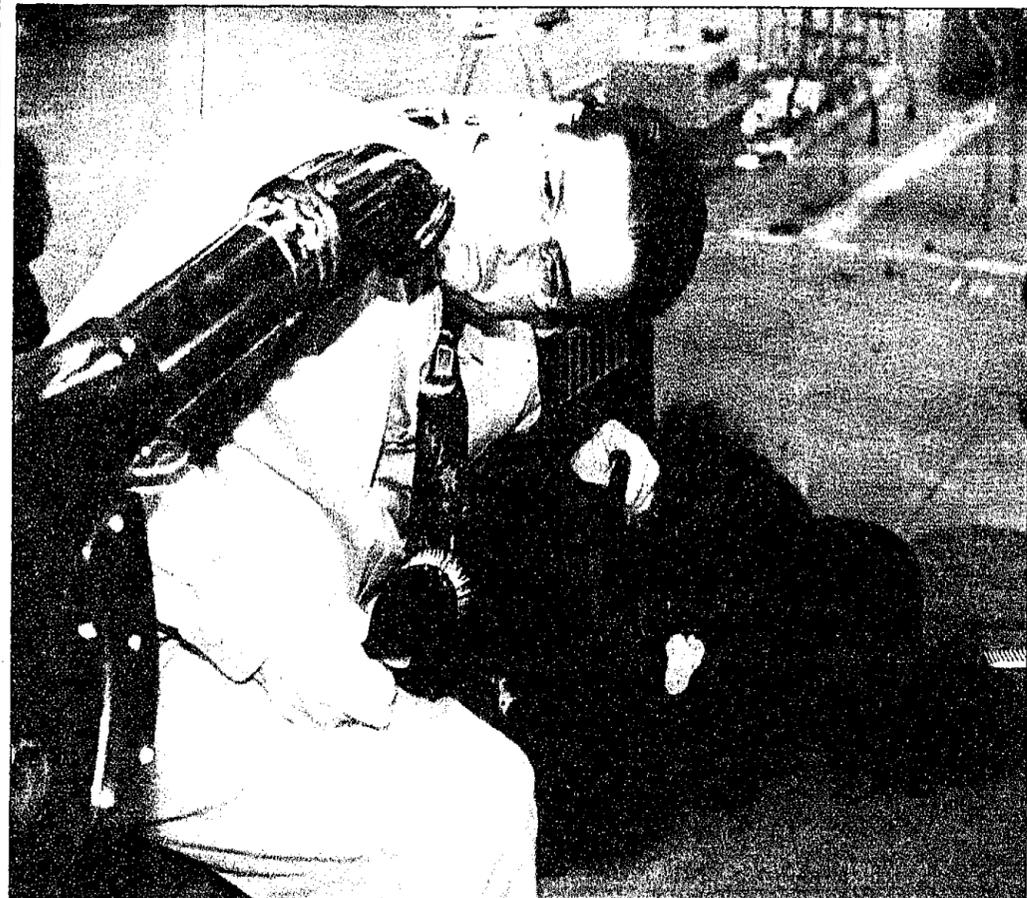

If you thought 1997 was an active development year, watch out. 1998 will beat it, the mayor predicted. With interest rates low, development is expected to continue at a staggering rate.

As the fastest growing city in the state, "it's a significant challenge," she added.

"There's going to be more going on in the community than there has been in a long time. And in this community, that's quite a tough thing to say," McLallen said.

For members of the business community, part of the good news is that the city is holding in March its first Economic Summit Conference. The session will bring together the city's staff, city council.

Mutt's a fighting word at Novi Expo dog show

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Friday morning, Hitchhiker was taking a snooze.

The day before, he'd traveled from Burlington, Wisconsin to Novi. Then, earlier on Friday at the Novi Expo Center, he strutted his stuff in front of the judges and took a Third Place yellow ribbon.

So while his companion human, Debbie Hanson, was discussing his future, the 20-month-old North American shepherd - a scaled-down version of the Australian shepherd - was content to get his beauty sleep. And what a future Hanson hopes it will be.

"I guess if I find him a suitable mate, it would be interesting. Having a male and female in the house at the same time, I'm not sure I'm ready for that," Hanson said. "I'll keep him intact for awhile and see if anybody's interested in having him as a stud."

She has his eyes and hips regularly checked, to see that they're developing appropriately. In the show dog world, a guy's gotta be in perfect shape if he's going to be a father, so bad traits aren't passed on through the breed.

She also takes him out to a friend who owns sheep so he can get a workout.

"I'm kind of afraid of sheep, but he has a great time," Hanson confessed.

Hitchhiker was representing one of some 25 different breeds that turned out for the Federation of Rare Breeds show over the weekend. Also taking over the Expo Center was the American Kennel Club affiliate, the Livingston Kennel Club.

The rare breeds range from those familiar to most people such as the Parson Jack Russell Terrier and Ral ferrier, to more exotic varieties, including the Tibetan Mastiff and Owczarek Podlanski.

These dogs have the same appeal as the more common breeds - alert eyes, wet noses, wagging tails - but also give their owners a chance to have a dog that's a little different than their neighbor's lovable mutt.

Carolyn Brooke of Morristown, Pennsylvania, was sold right away on the Coton de Teleur, a small breed from Madagascar, when a friend brought a few home from Europe, where they're popu-

Chamber questions balance of growth

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Novi's astonishing growth in residential isn't being matched by development in the industrial sector.

That was the conclusion of "Novi At The Crossroads of Development," a report by the Economic Development Committee in 1995.

That's the conclusion of an updated study released this week by the Novi Chamber of Commerce at their Tuesday luncheon.

Why should the average homeowner who lives in Novi care?

Because while only 15 percent of the land in Novi is dedicated to non-residential use, that 15 percent contributes over 42 percent of the city's income from local taxes. Should non-residential growth not keep pace with the hundreds of new homes sprouting up, the tax burden could shift.

"We feel the implications for Novi's future are serious, with residents paying higher taxes," said Bud Scott, chairman of the committee.

Ideally, the few, i.e., major industrial and commercial development should pay for the many, the 85 percent of Novi now set aside for residential.

But the concern of the committee is that attractive, light industrial development - of the sort that makes few demands on city services such as police, fire and parks and recreation - is leaping over Novi, especially to Wixom.

From 1995 to 1996, Wixom saw a 27 percent increase in industrial growth, while Novi

Movie-goer harasses young girls

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

A young girl sits in a dark movie theater, entranced by what's on the screen, when suddenly she notices a strange man sitting next to her. He begins to masturbate, and says suggestive words to her. Too shocked to move or speak, the young girl stays still, waiting for the incident to be over. Silently, he stands up and leaves.

According to Novi Police reports over the past year, it's a scenario that's happened more than once. On at least three different occasions a white male in his mid-30s sat next to an adolescent girl during a movie at the Novi Town Center Cinemas and began to masturbate in his seat. In the most recent incident, on Jan. 10, the man tried to hold a conversation with the girl, speaking in dirty language.

While police don't want to cause a panic, they do suggest parents be aware when taking youngsters to area movies. And if someone sees this sort of behavior occurring, to leave the theater at once, alert management and call 9-1-1 immediately.

"The best thing to do is get up and walk out. Then notify management. Don't confront the person," said Lt. David Butler.

Certain steps were taken last summer by police to prevent further incidents and catch the suspect, but were unsuccessful. However, police will keep an eye on the situation, Butler said.

Movie theater management said it's taken the necessary precautions for its guests comfort.

Chuck "Rocky" Rachwitz, general manager Joe Crowell and Steve Allen are ready for diners.

Dinner is served at Steve & Rocky's

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

In just a half-hour Monday, eight drivers stopped their cars at Steve & Rocky's to see if the new Grand River Avenue eatery was open yet.

The would-be lunch crowd was just a few hours early; the grand opening was 4 p.m. that day.

And what a change it is in the building that formerly housed Fuddrucker's. Owners Steve Allen and Charles "Rocky" Rachwitz sunk over $1 million in the new decor and have prepared a menu that's far from the hamburgers-only fare of the other business.

"I'm very excited. We had 25

A little help from their friends

Benefit will raise money for bone marrow transplant

By WENDY PIERMANN MITZEL
Staff Writer

Sheryl Carroll gets goosebumps every time she thinks about how much her friends have helped her out in the past weeks.

After a bout with non-Hodgkin's lymphoma six years ago and some time in remission, Sheryl's husband Doug began feeling lumps once again. Except this time, despite intensive chemotherapy, the cancer had spread into his bone marrow.

"It was devastating," she explained. "We thought he was doing well. This was the last thing we thought it was going to do."

A good candidate for bone marrow transplant surgery, Doug's brothers were tested but a match was unsuccessful. That left the family with one option - pay thousands of dollars for a bone marrow search.

"I think when my parents showed up, I knew something was going on," Woodruff said.

At the event at the Embassy Suites Hotel, two awards were given by the Novi Chamber and the Novi school district to local companies for their work with the schools. Dr. Tom Kirk of Town & Country Eye-care was honored for his visits to every second grade class in Novi to talk about science.

The Partnership in Education Merit Award went to The Novi Middle School and a team of teachers at the Novi Middle School, who helped 70 middle-schoolers produce their own paper, the Novi Middle School Scrap, in 1997.

The teachers are Lynn Seretson, Cathy Rogers, Teri Marble and Kim Osmonson. Novi News staffers

DOUG CARROLL BENEFIT

The benefit dinner and auction for Doug Carroll and family will be held at Kosch's Tavern and Eatery in the Novi Town Center on Wednesday, Jan. 28 from 7-10 p.m.

The cost is $25 per person for a prime rib dinner. A silent auction features autographed Barry Sanders, Steve Yzerman, Grant Hill, Joe Dumars and Chris Osgood jerseys as well as many other sports memorabilia and other items.

Joe Falls, columnist for the Detroit News, and the Kosch family will host the event, which will contribute 100 percent of the proceeds to the Carroll family for a bone marrow search. Doug Carroll, a 15-year Novi resident, has been diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, a form of cancer.

The restaurant will be open to other customers during the benefit. To make a reservation or donation, please call Doug Kosch or Ed Sapla at (248) 348-8232.

"When we got the letter a week and a half ago that the health insurance would cover the transplant but not the search... We said we don't have that kind of money lying around," explained Sheryl. "We were overwhelmed. Our hearts were spinning. We didn't know what we were going to do. That would wipe us out financially."

That's when her friends stepped in. Neighbor Kathy Collings teamed up with Sheryl's boss, Doug Kosch, to quickly organize a fundraiser and auction for the search. Sheryl is a manager at Kosch's restaurant in the Novi Town Center.

In a matter of just days, the Novi Chamber of Commerce honored members for outstanding contributions to the local community.

Tom Woodruff, manager of Diamond Castle jewelry store on Grand River Avenue, was chosen as Small Businessperson of The Year.

"He's a gem of a guy. You can set your watch by him. His watch is as good as gold. He's a diamond in the rough," said new Chamber President Barry Moore, of Mesa International, who was sworn in to the office minutes earlier.

Moore said Woodruff's support of local causes, such as Novi Youth Baseball is more than just window-dressing.

"He was one of the few sponsors I know who would try to make the games to see his kids play," he added.

It was all supposed to be a surprise for Woodruff as part of the Novi Chamber's annual installation dinner on Jan. 16 - but wasn't.

working on the project were Carol Dipple, John Heider, Jan Jeffers, Gary Kober and Wendy Pierrmann Mitzel, as well as former sports writer, Scott Daniel.

Novi Commissioner Ernie Aruffo was selected as the 1998 honorary member of the Novi Chamber of Commerce, based on his years of service to the community. Aruffo, a former planning commissioner, served on the Town Center Steering Committee from 1984 to 1994, helping to plan the Main Street project.

"I think it's been an exciting thing to be a part of this city," Aruffo said.

"I have an idea what it means to be an honorary member, but I think you'll probably let me know," New Novi Chamber of Commerce officers, along with Moore, are chairperson-elect Woodruff, Vice friends pulled together a Jan. 28 fundraiser to begin at 7 p.m. at Kosch's. The cost is $25 per person and the event features a dinner of prime rib and an auction with plenty of autographed sports memorabilia.

Collings' uncle Joe Falls, a Detroit News columnist, will host the event.

"When she told me about this tremendous expense I said 'Don't worry about it, we'll find a way,'" explained Collings.

"She's been a best friend to me since she moved into her house 14 years ago," she said. "It's wonderful. We've been so close and she's helped me through trying times (although none like this before) and she's always been my right arm."

Doug Kosch said the staff of the restaurant is volunteering to work for free that night, so 100 percent of the money can go to the family.

"I don't mind absorbing the cost for Sheryl who's been a great friend and manager for me," said Kosch.

Kosch said he's hoping for 150 people to attend the dinner and for the auction to raise at least $2,000.

"Sheryl remains strong. I'm so proud of her. I don't know how she does it," he said.

In return, Sheryl said she can't say enough about her friends. "It was very moving, very touching," she explained. "I was very emotional. You hear about situations with other families on TV and then here we are, a family with our hands Collings said she's learned that many people are willing to give of their time and resources. All it takes is someone to ask.

"It's been the most rewarding thing I've ever done, besides give birth to my kids," she said.

Sheryl and Doug Carroll are grateful to friends who organized a benefit to raise money to pay for a bone marrow match. Doug has Non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma and needs a transplant.

ALTERNATOR REALITIES

The alternator is the electrical component that provides electricity for an automobile as soon as the engine starts. Symptoms that nearly always signal the alternator's failure are illumination of the charge warning light or a discharge indication on the ammeter. Before a decision to replace the alternator is made on the basis of these signs, however, the alternator drive belt should be checked for looseness and the voltage regulator examined to see if it is working properly. Either of these conditions could cause either the charge warning light or the discharge indicator on the ammeter to appear. Another indication of a failed alternator is a small noise that increases in pitch as engine speed increases. This noise can be caused by a bad diode, the failure of which can reduce the alternator's maximum output.

If your vehicle exhibits the symptoms described here, it may need a new alternator. Call MARTY FELDMAN CHEVROLET at 348-7000, or visit us at 42355 Grand River, Novi for more information or to schedule an appointment. Our A.S.E. # Near miss nets ticket for OUIL

A 25-year-old Warren man who beat the train on Novi Road, Jan. 16, didn't get past a Novi police officer who spotted him speed through the flashing red lights about 10 p.m.

According to the report, the man's pickup truck missed the oncoming train by about 100 feet. The officer was on the opposite side of the tracks, stopped for the train, when the man flew by. He turned around and pulled him over near Elm Street.

The officer said the man was visibly intoxicated and both passed and failed several sobriety tests. A breath test measuring the legal blood alcohol limit of 0.10 was enough to arrest the man for drunk driving. He was taken to the station, cited and released upon detoxification.

NUDE DEVELOPMENT

Novi police turned over to Royal Oak police Jan. 14 a series of what could be called perognathid photographs developed by a Novati firm.

The Novi firm develops film for various stores and discovered a set of prints of a woman who appears to be between the ages of 15 and 19. In some she is having dinner in a restaurant, then drinking alcohol, then partially clothed, then nude, then having intercourse with an unknown man. The firm called the police when they realized the woman might be underage.

Police said they turned the film

DISORDERLY CUSTOMER

Novi Police arrested a 38-year-old Farmington Hills man after he began yelling at a Land & Taylor clerk and acted a group of five to seven women to yell along with him.

March date set in Ford Wixom trial

Gerald Atkins, the man accused of a fatal shooting spree at the Ford Wixom Plant in 1996, is set to begin trial on March 30 in Oakland County Circuit Court in front of Judge David Breck.

Atkins, 29 at the time he was arrested, faces 26 charges, including one count of first-degree murder for the murder of plant supervisor Darrell Izzard of Brighton, 9 counts of assault with intent to murder, 12 felony firearm charges, two counts of felonious assault, one charge of firing a weapon by a convicted felon, and one count of unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle.

He was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court in Pontiac

Oct. 3 by 52-1 District Court Judge Harold Bulgarelli and remains in the Oakland County Jail. Seventeen witnesses testified during preliminary hearings that Atkins rampaged through the Ford Wixom Assembly plant Nov. 14, 1996 beginning at 11:30 a.m., shooting off several dozen rounds of ammunition.

He says he was attempting to rescue the woman he loved from what he called a prison.

Atkins eluded police from more than four communities until he was captured in a drainage tunnel about 4 p.m. Oakland County Prosecutors expect Atkins to use an insanity defense.

Young movie-goers harassed at theater

 Brian Callaghan, spokesperson for General Cinema, said employees are aware of the incidents and have a description of the alleged culprit.
 "We recurrently patrol who notice any behavior or illegal activity that would make them feel uncomfortable to immediately notify management," said Callaghan.
 "We want to know if there's a problem of any kind so we can confront a patron who might be taking part in any kind of inappropriate behavior."
 He said it's unfortunate the victims didn't react sooner in the theater and said movie watchers shouldn't be afraid to cause a commotion.
 "We want everyone who comes to our theaters to have a positive and safe experience," he explained.
 Callaghan pointed out however, that the occurrences have been rare.
 "Nearly all the people who come to the movies are terrific; they're out to enjoy a night out with friends," he said.
 "If there is an occasional bad apple in the movies, we want it taken care of because it's not helping us out any," he said.

A HISTORY OF INCIDENTS
 • JANUARY 12, 1997 — A Highland woman and her 15-year-old daughter reported that an unknown man had unzipped his pants and fondled himself next to the girl during an afternoon screening of the movie Evita at the Novi Town Center Movie.
 They told management and police the man got up and left when the girl turned to tell her mother of the indecent exposure. The man was described as a white male with short hair and glasses, in his 30s.
 • APRIL 19, 1997 — Three 13-year-old Novi girls witnessed a man masturbating at the Novi Town Center General Cinema. Police said one of the girls felt a man's foot touch hers about five minutes before the end of the movie, Devil's Own, and looked at the man seated next to her. She and the two friends saw the man reclining in his seat, with his eyes closed, masturbating. They walked until the end of the movie and found one of the girl's parents who were seated elsewhere in the theater. The parents alerted the theater management, which called police.
 Officers could not locate the man, described as a white male with dark hair in his mid-30s wearing a dark leather coat and khaki pants.
 • JANUARY 10, 1998 — A 14-year-old Hartland girl was too shocked to react when a man sitting next to her in the movie theater began to masturbate and ask her sexually explicit questions, police said. According to reports, the girl told police the man next to her in the Novi Town Center movies began to crowd her in her seat and ask dirty questions during a 7 p.m. screening of Titanic. When she looked over she saw he was masturbating and had a handful of napkins in his hand. He got up and left about 40 minutes before the end of the movie.

Dental training offered at OCC

ORAL REPORT
 "We do not diagnose. We do not prescribe. We gather information for the dentist," said dental hygiene student Mary Barnes.
 The mother of four and a para-professional in special education for Rochester public schools, Barnes outlined the dental hygiene curriculum for Oakland Community College (OCC) trustees. The board schedule a report from a student each month.
 "Classroom work, clinical experience, blended with high technology, form a total oral experience," she quipped.
 Barnes showed how lab reports, X-rays, visual exams and photographs showed a woman patient had a lump in her jaw, a clicking, and was a carrier of Hepatitis B.
 Dyes are used to color plaque. With one 11-year-old boy who brushed badly, she said, rather than waging her finger, she gave him photographs of his own stained teeth to remind him to brush properly.
 Dental hygiene is taught at OCC's Highland Lakes Campus at Union Lake. It's called an extended program because it requires 73 credit hours rather than 60.

 Enrollment is limited to 30 by laboratory space. Graduates are accredited by the American Dental Association Commission on Accreditation.
 Course requirements include dental office procedures, dental anatomy, dental embryology and histology, clinical techniques, radiography, periodontics, public health dentistry, and four courses in clinical dental hygiene.
FAREWELL TO 2
 Holiday parties will also be farewell parties for two top Oakland Community College administrators.
 J.P. Adams, director of purchasing, will leave Jan. 23 for expanded responsibilities in the Grand Blanc school district, Chancellor Richard T.
 Thompson told the board Dec. 15. "He's the finest we've had," said Thompson, whose own tenure at OCC goes back 30 years.

Northville kicks off centennial celebration

In grand formation, a string of cars paraded down a very cold Six Mile Road Friday, marking the beginning of Northville Township's centennial celebration.
 A home near the entrance of the suburb provided the backdrop for the remainder of the celebration.
 Wayne County executive Ed McNamara made a brief presentation at the Eldersberry home.
 "In a real history buff, so this celebration means a lot to me," McNamara said, adding that the Township's close proximity to Livonia — the city in which McNamara got his start in local government — made the event particularly close to his heart.
 Area clergy from a variety of faiths each delivered a prayer addressing the Township's many needs, both past, present and future. Three cakes greeted the visitors in the basement of the home following the reception. The cakes were decorated with images of homes located along Six Mile built during different eras.

School officials wary of HSPT date changes

By WENDY WHITE
 Staff Writer

Put your pencils down. Northville and Novi High School juniors originally set to take the High School Proficiency Test at the end of January will get a four-month reprieve.
 For school officials however, the work has just begun as they scramble to reschedule the statewide test.
 "It's frustrating because philosophically I think the test is a good thing," said Novi High Principal Dr. Jennifer Cheal. "But by the state changing the timing at the last minute, it's frustrating for us."
 Not only is May a time for prom activities and many school trips, Novi High had already signed students up for the test and scheduled other activities for the rest of the classes.
 In addition, Cheal said the state is unsure of when exactly the test will be rescheduled that month. "The date is so in flux it's hard for us to plan anything else," she explained.

After a lengthy review process in reaction to complaints about the original test, a number of changes to the test were signed into effect by Gov. John Engler Dec. 29.
 The changes include administering the test later in the school year, returning scores to students sooner and affixing "practical" endorsements to students' transcripts instead of to their diplomas.
 The length of the test was also reduced from 11 1/2 to eight hours, although it will continue to measure reading, writing, science, math and social studies skills.

However, Cheal notes the state has given little explanation of what the reduction in testing hours means to the students.
 The changes are being lauded by Northville School Superintendent Leonard Reznierski, who said even more needs to be done to improve the test and define its purpose.

The Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency (OLHSA) is currently helping kick-off the event at walkers or inline skaters for its eighth annual "Walk for Warmth" on Saturday, Feb. 7, at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Walk for Warmth planned for Feb. 7 at Pontiac Silverdome

Registration begins at 9 a.m. with a short breakfast and a kick-off rally hosted by Detroit Lion Luther Elliss. The event steps off at 9:30 a.m. and will be concluded with a light lunch and family entertainment.
 The walk is a local effort to promote awareness for people who are experiencing heart-related emergencies in Oakland County and raise funds on their behalf. This year's goal is $55,000.
 Helping kick-off the event are Thomas Feary, president of St. Joseph Mercy of Oakland, Thomas Knuble of the General Motors Foundation, Robert Davis, president of Medical Center of North Oakland, and community advocate, Tom Anderson.
 OLHSA is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping low-income, elderly and disabled residents gain the knowledge and skills to become self-sufficient and improve their quality of life.

ACUPUNCTURE WITHOUT NEEDLES
 Shiatsu, which literally means "finger pressure," is probably the non-Western bodywork technique with which Westerners are most familiar. This Oriental healing system involves the application of pressure by the practitioner on specified points along the patient's body that lie along channels of energy called meridians. These pressure points are the same points into which acupuncturists insert needles in an effort to encourage the flow of life force energy (qi) through the meridians, thereby animating the body. The stimulating effect of acupuncturist's hands on these points is the same as the stimulating effect of points along the meridian helps to rebalance the flow of energy to promote health and well-being. Shiatsu may also be utilized to improve energy flow. The entire staff at Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc. is dedicated to addressing the unique needs of our patients and their physicians. It involves a non-Western therapy, such as Shiatsu, we are glad to accommodate you in any way we can. For more information, or to schedule a consultation, call 349-3816. REAL ESTATE UPDATE
 by John Goodman
 Coldwell Banker Preferred
WATCH OUT FOR THE CREDIT CARD TRAP
 It is not unusual for first time buyers to be free of debt. They have been saving for their first home for many months or even years. Soon after they moved into their new home, they are deluged with pre-approved credit card applications from banks and stores they have never heard of. Before they realize what is happening, some new homeowners can get over their heads in debt.
 The consumer credit agencies know that mortgage companies do thorough checks before approving a loan, and those who have passed through that process are considered good credit risks. They also know that new homeowners often need to make major purchases of furniture and appliances at a time when they may have depleted most of their savings accounts. Years of disciplined savings, now owners may be faced with a tremendous temptation to just say "charge it" for the things they need. If you have just purchased a home, be aware and wary when those applications start pouring in.

NEW RULES FOR NEW TEST

Changes to Michigan's High School Proficiency Test that were signed into law by Gov. John Engler include:
 • A change in the date the test is administered; from January to May of a student's junior year.
 • A reduction in the length of the test; from 11 1/2 hours to under eight.
 • A change in the scoring of the test; in previous years students were ranked "proficient," "novice" or "not yet novice." Now, students will receive numerical scores from 1 to 100. Those scores will be grouped into three new categories: "outstanding," "above average" or "basic competency."
 • Endorsements will be affixed to the transcripts instead of the diplomas of successful students. The numerical scores will also be included.
 • Scores will be returned to students by the end of the summer instead of during senior year, in order to ensure prompt and timely feedback.

The High School Proficiency Test began to be administered two years ago and has met with controversy as the kinks have been worked out," Reznierski said. "This is better but we can even do better yet. We should assess what students know before they graduate and then offer them some remedial help in correcting it."
 Reznierski said he would prefer to get the test results back at the end of the school year instead of the end of the summer.
 "If you don't get the feedback soon enough, it doesn't mean anything. You take a test and you want the results back so the staff, students and parents can work on it," Reznierski said. "Otherwise you're in limbo."
 But Cheal said the logistics of the test are taking precedence over making it better. "The focus should be in how to make it a reliable tool to show how students achieve," she explained.
 According to Northville High School principal Dr.

Tom Johnson, local administrators are frustrated by a lack of information from the state regarding the test.
 "To organize administering this test takes a considerable amount of time," Johnson said. "There is so much impact on the day-to-day scheduling and calendar for the year."
 Johnson said although the district knew that changes to the test were being reviewed by state lawmakers, teachers had to continue planning to give the test Jan. 24.
 Just two weeks before that date the district was informed that the test would have to be rescheduled to the first two weeks of May.
 The change will cause the HSPT to overlap with the already-scheduled Advanced Placement tests taken by juniors and seniors in May, according to Cheal.
 For Johnson, it's placing the schools in a rough spot.

"It's a little awkward not to have information that is accurate, and information given in a timely manner so that each high school can plan for the year accordingly," Johnson said. "Not being able to get that information to students, staff and parents is real disconcerting."
 And for parents seeking information on just what the scores will be used for Johnson said that's still unclear.
 At the extreme, the test could become comparable to New York's Regents Test, which all high school students must pass in order to graduate.
 Johnson said that's unlikely.
 "It seems that the government's purpose in these tests, in my opinion, is to effect some sort of report card on each high school in the state," Johnson said. "We always do well, but there's an inquiry that the test generates for districts that aren't as financially well off. I think when you invest money in students the scores of the tests will reflect that."
 With students' scores printed on transcripts, the HSPT could eventually be used by universities to evaluate applicants.
 "It's a relatively new discussion at our level," said John Winter, director of University Admissions at Wayne State University. "It is in a flux state because of the changes that are being made."
 Winter recently joined admissions officers from public universities across the state to discuss the topic. He said he doesn't think any of these universities have yet created a policy for handling the undergraduates. He said they will continue to meet in order to come up with guidelines within the next few months.
 "My guess is that it might never have any implications for a high school student as far as admission to a university is concerned," Winter said. "At this point I have no indication that it is to be used as part of the criteria for admission to college. That's true as we speak but it might not be true in the future."
 Staff reporter Wendy Petruski Almetz contributed to this report.

Peeking at gun records not invasion of privacy

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

The State Court of Appeals has ordered Michigan State Police to file the real names of persons who have been convicted of gun offenses.

The court ruled that the State Police's claim that opening records under the Freedom of Information Act would be an "unreasonable invasion of personal privacy."

"We conclude that the ownership of a gun does not reveal intimate or embarrassing details of an individual's private life," the panel said in a 3-0 decision Dec. 15.

Defendants State Police and FOIA officer John McCarthy do not point to - and we are unaware of - any customs, mores, or ordinary views of the community that would lead to the conclusion that gun ownership is an intimate or embarrassing detail of an individual's private life."

It was signed by Judges Michael J. Kelly, Maureen Polke Kelly and Kathleen Janssen.

The state has 21 days to appeal to the Supreme Court. The odds are against the state, however, because: 1) The Court of Appeals opinion was unanimous; 2) the Supreme Court already has ruled on what constitutes an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; and 3) the high court must grant leave to appeal.

Mager sought a recent known as "MSF" Form 10-11, Safety Inspection Certificate. It is issued when local police departments perform safety checks of a pistol.

A copy is sent to State Police headquarters for a central file.

Prior to Nov. 1, 1995, the forms were kept on index cards. Since then, they have been stored in a computer. Mager insisted it is a simple matter to run a copy of the computer tape.

Mager supports a bill by Rep. Alan Cropsy, R-DeWitt, to eliminate the 83 county gun boards' discretion in issuing permits to carry concealed weapons (CCWs). In police jargon, "I want to see the decision - came in the cases of Bentley vs. Saranac Board of Education and Lansing Area

He said gun owners can take some credit for the 1996 defeats of Reps. Jim Ryan, R-Redford, and Eric Bush, R-Battle Creek - defeats that helped Democrats regain control of the Michigan House.

Also on his list is Rep. Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, who announced he's seeking the GOP nomination for attorney general.

"I'm not a hunter," Mager said. "I carried a rifle in 1967 in the boondocks (Vietnam). I'm a certified instructor and a political action force."

For eight years Mager has delivered for Delta's Pizza in Detroit, a job that "pays well" but exposes him to some danger. He would one man who tried to rob him. The man was facing a court appearance the following Monday morning on armed robbery charges.

Mager is a member of Brass Boat's Michigan Gun Owners and the Council of Responsible Gun Owners. "I undertook this on my own," he said, without help or approval from the groups.

"The police involved. That's the main reason (State Police) don't want this out of the bag," he said.

Mager said he already has obtained some of the records by filing FOIA requests with county clerks. "About one-third complied," he said.

Counties were Macomb, Kent and Washtenaw counties.

He said Livingston, Isabella and Midland counties refused.

Wayne and Oakland counties sent him lists of names (11,000 from Oakland alone) but blacked out the addresses, making the records useless for his purpose.

One reason Michigan State Police cited in refusing his FOIA request was that the list would contain three million names. Mager said that in Florida, a larger state, the total list was 259,000 names.

He said he sent the Indiana State Police a check and got the same kind of list promptly in the mail.

Mager started his suit early in 1996. But his case got a major boost last July when the Michigan Supreme Court defined privacy holders of hunting and fishing licenses "does not open the doors of one's home to the public at large."

The Court of Appeals disagreed, noting that case law allows a union to obtain names and addresses of security guards, and a newspaper to obtain "mug" shots of defendants awaiting trial from the Oakland Sheriff's Department.

School Administrators vs. Lansing School District.

In those combined cases, teacher Christine Bradley and the Lansing principals sought to block release to parents of their personnel records, especially disciplinary records. The high court ruled the records were public property and couldn't be exempted from a FOIA request.

Mager's attorney is Daniel G. Bamberg of DeWitt. Fighting the "privacy" argument, Bamberg's brief said the state routinely issues the same kind of information Mager was seeking on hunting licenses, fishing licenses, marriage licenses, divorce records, motor vehicle ownership, driver's licenses, private security guards, civil service supervisory and managerial personnel, registered voters, dog owners, and campaign contributions.

Courts have even held that the city of Pontiac had to reveal the identity of Silverdome stadium box holders, Bamberg noted.

Defending MSP, assistant attorney general Thomas Quasranoff said records of law enforcement personnel's names and addresses are exempt under FOIA, that many police officers obtain CCW permits, but that the records don't aggregate names of police from others.

Quasranoff said uncovering the identities of permit holders would reveal "the places and locations of firearms," firearms owned and possessed by private homeowners, gun collectors, antique gun collectors, private detectives and security guards, jewelry dealers and business persons generally, gun dealer inventories, gun and hunting club members, prosecuting attorneys and law enforcement officers who register their pistols as a safeguard in the event of theft, and others."

Opening the records, he said, would open "a Pandora's box by creating a virtual shopping list for anyone bent on the theft of firearms... and whatever else the criminal mind might evoke."

In contrast, he said, revealing holders of hunting and fishing licenses "does not open the doors of one's home to the public at large."

The Court of Appeals disagreed, noting that case law allows a union to obtain names and addresses of security guards, and a newspaper to obtain "mug" shots of defendants awaiting trial from the Oakland Sheriff's Department.

For Novi students dropping out is hard to do

Drop out rates are low for Novi High School

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

Novi Community Schools Dropout Rates as reported by the Michigan Department of Education were down slightly from last year, and ranked among the lowest in the tri-county area.

Dropout rates for Novi Community Schools for the past three years were:

- 1993-94 0.95
- 1994-95 1.71
- 1995-96 1.21

The 1995-96 district retention and drop-out rates were calculated using the fall 1995 enrollments for grades 9, 10, 11 and 12. Students who entered the school during the year who added to the starting figure and students who transferred out of the district during the year were subtracted from the figure.

The 1995-96 adjusted student count was then compared with an actual count one year later in the fall of 1996. The difference between the two counts then became the basis of the retention and dropout rates.

THE COST OF DROPPING OUT

• 82% of America's prisoners are high school dropouts (The demographics of school reform, 1990).

• Students from low-income families are 2.4 times more likely to drop out of school than are children from middle income families, and 10.5 times more likely than students from high income families (NCES, 1994).

• 40.9% of the 16- to 24-year-olds who dropped out of school reported being retained in grade more than once (NCES, 1994).

• Each year's class of dropouts will cost the country over $200 billion during their lifetimes in lost earnings and unrealized tax revenue (Cattell, 1985).

Legislators approve bills to guarantee four-day holiday

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Tourism got a couple of slices from the full loaf when the Michigan Legislature acted on bills to push the starting date of school after Labor Day.

On its final day of the fall session: • The Senate barely passed a bill, 20-16, to guarantee a four-day Labor Day weekend. It wouldn't order school districts to push the starting time after Labor Day, but it would plunk an immediate disruption in the schedules of those that do.

• The House defeated, 71-35, a bill to require that public schools don't open their doors until after Labor Day, the first Monday in September.

This legislation is supported by business interests but not by a majority of the constituents' representatives," said Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, summing up the opposition. "By a 3-1 margin, constituents have urged me to defend local control. Accordingly, I vote 'no' on this bill."

The House bill was sponsored by Rep. Pat Gallagher, D-Drummond

Administrators pointed out last year the tracking process for the students was somewhat unreliable in the past and could skew results. However, schools are keeping better and more accurate numbers and can document which students simply switched schools instead of dropping out, according to Novi High Principal Dr. Jennifer Cheal.

"Frankly, we're doing a better job of tracking where students go," she said.

According to the Department of Education's December report: • 13 districts had a greater than 15 percent dropout rate for 1995-96. • The statewide dropout rate for 1995-96 is 6.4 percent. • The state's graduation/completion rate for 1995-96 is 77.7 percent.

• The state's retention in class (not promoted rate) for 1995-96 dropped to 3.6 percent. • Statewide, the percentage of dropouts grew from 4.97 percent in 1994-95 to 6.37 percent in 1995-96, while the statewide growth rate dropped to .09 percent and student transfers also dropped to 2.07 percent.

Special attention keeps kids in class

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

Novi has never had much of a problem with students dropping out of school. But even though the State of Michigan reports Novi's 1995-96 dropout rates at 1.21 percent, Novi High Principal Dr. Jennifer Cheal thinks the school rate is more.

"Until we have 100 percent of students graduating I won't be satisfied," she said. "I believe every student needs a high school education to reach whatever plans they set for themselves."

While the common causes for dropping out, including poverty, pregnancy, falling grades and lack of interest in school, are not running rampant in Novi Community Schools, there are some students who fall into those situations.

"We do have students who lose interest or have attendance problems or outside factors that take priority in their lives," Cheal said. "But I believe our dropout rates are low because we have individualized attention."

"Until the numbers mean we will have more work to do for individual students out there," she added.

The district offers an alternative education program which focuses on the state curriculum but meets in smaller groups at more flexible times of the day and night for students. In addition, Cheal said the high school can work with Walled Lake Schools and the teen mother's program there for students who don't want to stay in the traditional high school atmosphere, although they are welcomed in. Young men who face child care issues can also find a solution, Cheal said.

Last year, Cheal mentioned the new block schedule at the high school could make a positive impact on retaining students as well. This year, although it's difficult to measure, Cheal believes students and teachers are forming connections that mean more individualized attention.

During the weekly seminar period, students meet with their assigned teacher to go over homework, get additional help or complete enrichment projects. Because they are assigned to the same teacher for all four years, the students and teachers really get to know each other. And that makes for a better relationship and chance to spot any problems in the student's education, Cheal explained.

Committee evaluates goals, plans for Year 2003

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

Superintendent Emmett Lippe has been asked to appear at the Michigan Association of School Administrators National Conference Jan. 28 to share some of the techniques used by the Novi Community School District to set vision statements and goals.

"I'm honored to share what we've done," said Lippe who will travel to Florida to give his presentation.

Locally, the district is prepared to share the most recent update of the Long Range Plan for the years 1998 to 2003 with the community. Rita Traynor, assistant superintendent for instruction, gave the Novi Board of Education a sneak peek at the eight-point quality plan at the Jan. 8 board meeting.

Nearly 70 people met for a series of meetings throughout October, November and December to review the previous plan and identify new goals. The group included teachers, administrators and parents. Ten of the group were brand new to the process, Traynor said.

Traynor said it was a good time to review the plan, and noted many of the previous goals had been completed.

"We are undergoing a great many changes in how we want to give instruction," said Traynor. Already the district moved to team teaching and the high school block schedule as proposed by the former long range plan, she explained.

The long range plan brochure will be sent out to the community next week and describes the various goals for the district over the next five years.

By topic, they are: Technology, K-12 Instructional Patterns, Staff Development, Diverse Population, Curriculum Integration, Financial Issues, School/Community Relations and Facilities and Infrastructure.

Traynor explained a few highlights to trustees:

- The district will continue to focus on community relations and with newly hired Debby Bruar and Lisa Burr the district will work to strengthen and expand communication throughout the city and to outside organizations and agencies.
- While Novi schools are not particularly diverse, the district hopes to teach students to appreciate the various cultures which are represented in the student population and outside the community. The long range plan will put the variety to use in the curriculum with various programs and projects. This topic not only includes variety in culture but also in learning and teaching styles, something teachers and students need to recognize and appreciate, Traynor said.
- Technology is evident everywhere in Novi schools, however in order to keep it running smoothly and keep it current, maintenance will be a big focus of the long range plan.

- "We won't be able to be one of the outstanding districts in the country if we don't find a way of maintaining the resources and technology we have," Traynor explained. Setting aside funding for upgrades and maintenance are a must, as is teacher training for optimum use of the computers.
- "The committee said a priority for the district, although a $5.5 million bond proposal was rejected by voters last year. The school board has already discussed putting the issue back on the ballot this spring.
- "In no way can we improve a district without improving staff development," Traynor said. So a district plan will address learning and training needs of all staff and create improved capacities of all teachers.

Gunman robs stores, evades capture

By BRYN MICKLE
Staff Writer

One man is being sought as the culprit in a series of grocery store robberies in Oakland and Livingston counties.

Police believe the same man who robbed a Brighton Township grocery store at gunpoint last October has been committing the same crime at grocery stores in Farmington, Harland and South Lyon.

The suspect is described as a white male in his mid-20s, about six feet tall, 170-180 pounds with a stocky build. In each robbery, he has worn dark-colored clothing and a dark ski mask.

The string of robberies began around 8:50 p.m. Oct. 27, 1997, when a man with a handgun popped out of a walk-in freezer at the Gordon Food Service store in Brighton Township and ordered the store's six employees into an office. Armed with a silver revolver, the gunman then ran off with a green bag full of money from the store's safe.

Police believe the suspect followed the Brighton Township robbery with a second hit a few days later when someone robbed the Shawerman's IGA in South Lyon Nov. 5, 1997.

After a two-month layoff, the same gunman is suspected of striking again with a Jan. 4 robbery at the Harland Township Foodtown and a Jan. 5 heist at Mike's Market in Parsippany. In the most recent robbery, police believe the man was responsible for the Jan. 11 hold-up of a Big K Kmart in Farmington.

In each case, the suspect has hidden himself in the store prior to closing time and ordered employees to turn over cash at gunpoint. Investigators said the suspect is police and harassing to his victims and his speech indicates the robber is well-educated.

Police have information on the robbers or a possible suspect should call one of the following police agencies:

- Livingston County Sheriff Department at (517) 546-2440.
- Brighton post of the Michigan State Police at (810) 227-1051.
- South Lyon Police Department at (248) 437-1773.
- Farmington Police Department at (248) 474-4700.

Local skaters will compete in US event

The Plymouth Skating Club is preparing to host the 1998 United States Figure Skating Association (USFSA) Midwestern Precision Team Sectional Championship at the new Compuware Sports Arena on Feb. 6-8.

This is a qualifying event for every USFSA precision team in the midwestern section. The highest placing teams at the event go directly to the USFSA National Precision Championships held in San Diego, CA in March.

The Midwestern Sectional Championship is the largest, in number of teams, of the three geographical sections in the country. The club expects to have over 145 teams and approximately 3,000 skaters at the competition.

There will be 21 skaters from the Northville/Novi area competing at the event. They are: Danielle Hesk, Christina DeVincent, Nicole Hicks, Megan Hughes, Allie Karasz, Pam Karasz, Nicole LaBelle, Julia Lee, Kelly Molez, Margaret Molez, Sandya Nath, Heather Quick, Katie Lynn Repeck, Katie Schuenk, Amy Simkins, Andrea Sulek, Sierra Voelker, Katie Ward, Margaret Wilson and Brittany Zuerlein.

Capital Capsules

Catching up with the Michigan Legislature:

LAWS ENACTED
Two smoking bills are about to become law. Minors caught smoking in public or on school grounds may see their cases moved more quickly through the courts under a bill sponsored by Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville. Senate Bills 537-539 give local district courts concurrent jurisdiction with the family division of circuit court in cases involving minors in possession of tobacco.

Gov. John Engler signed a bill authorizing the Department of Treasury to require a state tax stamp on individual packages of cigarettes. Sponsored by Rep. Kirk Proff, D-Typhunt, it's aimed at cutting smuggling into the state, which cost the school aid fund $25 million in 1997.

State lottery winners can collect large prizes in a lump sum instead of waiting 20 years for gradual payouts under a bill awaiting the governor's signature. Sen. Bob Geake's Senate Bill 596 will allow winners to assign their annual payments to a third party (such as a bank) after obtaining a judicial order.

CRIME VICTIMS
Crime victims may see restitution faster under a Senate-passed bill sponsored by John Chery, D-Clio. Senate Bill 780 would allow a judge to make a defendant's sentence depend on whether he paid restitution to his victims.

Criminals would be prohibited from suing their victims for personal injuries under a Senate-passed bill sponsored by Geake. Police, prosecutors and "good Samaritans" would be protected under Senate Bill 718, which passed the Senate unanimously. The bill was supported by the National Rifle Association. The bills go to the House, where they are likely to be assigned to the Judiciary Committee. Refer to bills by their number when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

NEW SENATE BILLS
• Senate Bill 826 — raises the personal exemption in the income tax to adjust for inflation over the past 30 years. Sponsor Loren Bennett, R-Canton, said it would place the exemption at $3,700 for the 1998 tax year versus the actual $2,800. It was assigned to the Senate Finance Committee.

• Senate Bill 838 — shortens the hearing process available to a prisoner before being transferred to another state. The bill says an inmate is not entitled to a hearing prior to relocation at another facility. Sponsor Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, said it will speed up state efforts to ease the prison bed shortage.

The Engler administration estimates it will need 2,500 more prison beds by the end of 1998 and 6,400 by the end of 2001. It was assigned to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Community college plans future technology program

From the ground up. Or, more precisely, from the student up.

That's how Oakland Community College will put together its learning technology program over the next five years.

"Last time around, we were a budget-driven institution. Now we're a planning institution. We'll start with the student," said OCC Chancellor Richard T. Thompson as the board on Dec. 15 approved, 6-1, a professional services agreement.

"Tonight we're talking about intellectual services," the chancellor said of the $8.7 million (tops) deal with SCT Software & Resource Management Corp. of Malvern, Pa.

"Over five years, we'll purchase a software system, a hard drive and PCs (personal computers)," Thompson said. He estimated OCC will need to spend $8 million to $10 million a year out of its $120 million budget to keep "technologically afloat."

"That's an industry standard — 5 to 8 percent of budget," he said.

The SCT pact is for advice only — teaching faculty, building plans to revamp the curriculum, setting up a "student technology assistant support program," designing solutions and so on.

A major job for SCT will be to assess the current skill of the college staff and analyze what future skills will be required, according to the contract outline.

Ruth Cross, a counselor who chairs the OCC Academic Senate, said that group endorsed the college's progress so far and is "looking forward" to the new programs.

Thompson said it was better to hire SCT for a five-year consulting job than to add staff who, at the end, "wouldn't fit into the system."

The contract calls for six full-time top SCT people on OCC's five campuses and central office.

"I find this expensive for consulting," said board chair Judith Wiser of West Bloomfield. She calculated fees that amounted to $100,000 annual salaries for eight months' work.

"I agree with the principle, but I don't like the fees. I couldn't get the information I wanted," she said as she cast the lone dissenting vote.

Attorney Kathryn Ossian, of the college's law firm of Miller Canfield, said the contract was designed to prevent litigation. "I have litigated computer contracts," she said.

Ossian said that if the agreement yields new developments, they will be jointly owned by SCT and OCC, and the college may recoup its development costs.

The contract may be terminated during the first three years, but the college would have to pay the total three-year cost of $6.7 million. Wiser noted, however, that OCC would have paid the biggest bulk of the cost by that point.

 conversations this morning and there's really no word out yet," Allen said.
 "I keep thinking that it's Fuddrucker's. I forget that we own it, that's how new it is."
 Before realizing his dream of owning his own restaurant, Allen was the executive chef at the Golden Mushroom in Southfield, where he worked for 15 years. Rachwitz owns and operates Rocky's of Northville and Rocky's of Brighton.

"Our motto is simple food done well, with quality ingredients and doing nice twists with them," Allen explained.
 "We want to make it casual fine dining... Food that's going to speak well for ourselves."

Just out of high school and only 17, Allen originally wandered into the Golden Mushroom because he was looking for any kind of job.
 "Like most young people, they are not really sure what their future is. They wait until they get out of high school," he said.

Then, Allen realized he belonged in the kitchen.
 "He ended up as an apprentice to Chef Miles and studied cooking at Schoolcraft College and Oakland Community College. From there, he took a six-month course at Eugene Les Bain in the south of France, under Chef Michel Guerard, the founder of Cuisine Minceur, or light cuisine."

"At one time, he was known as the best chef in the world," Allen said.
 Rachwitz, who hunts with Chef Miles, let his friend know he was interested in opening another restaurant, if he found the right partner. At the time, Allen had worked his way up to executive chef at the Golden Mushroom. That's how Steve met Rocky.

 "If you don't find the right person, you're in trouble," Rachwitz said.

Rachwitz started out in the business washing dishes in a delicatessen "as a kid." From there he moved up to prep cook, then cook, studied at OCC and in 1976 started with the Chuck Mier Corporation at what was then Northville. He worked as the executive chef in 1982. He bought the restaurant and converted it to Rocky's of Northville.

The result of this new partnership, is not, as Rachwitz said, a burger place, although the lunch menu includes a certified black Angus Burger with Rosemary Cheese for $6.
 Lake and ocean fish, roast duck and filet mignon, are featured on the menu.

Rocky's is known for stringing game. Expect to see that on the menu in Novi, too, but probably not much more than venison at this time of year.
 "We definitely will be serving game. Most people like to enjoy game in the fall because it's when the hunting season is. Game doesn't go over too well in July or August," Rachwitz said.

Steve & Rocky's encourages diners to try a little of this and a little of that. If you can't make up your mind which soup to order, for example, you can get a taste of all three, in demitasse cups.
 A specialty is the tapas bar, a Spanish tradition of serving a variety of tasty little foods for grazing than launching into a multi-course meal.

 "We wanted to make little tastes of different food. If you're not hungry enough for a main dinner," Allen explained.
 To get rid of that chain restaurant look, the building was entirely gutted.
 Allen and his sons chef Joe Shaeffer started working on the interior last February. The two did much of the painting. Allen finished out the ceramic tiles that floored Fuddrucker's.
 The 230-seat Steve & Rocky's now features a relaxed, colorful interior designed by Ron Rac, including a 135-gallon freshwater aquarium, built-in glass bar, a burger place, although the lunch menu includes a certified black Angus Burger with Rosemary Cheese for $6.

Strip mall proposal raises resident ire

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
 Staff Writer

A rezoning request that could pave the way for a new strip mall near the southwest corner of Haggerty and Six Mile Roads in Northville Township has apparently raised the ire of residents living near the already congested intersection.

Township planning commission chairperson Dirk Allen said he expects to hear an oral from residents regarding the rezoning at the meeting next Tuesday. The planning commission meets at 7 p.m. in Northville Township chambers.

"I'm sure it'll be an overflow crowd this time," Allen said.
 The request is being made by Farmington Hills developer Grand Sakwa, the same group that developed Northville Centre and several residential subdivisions in the township.

"They're not new to the area," Allen said. "Grand Sakwa has been here before."
 The city's newly-released master plan recommends the land in question to be zoned as a mixture between office and residential space. Sakwa is requesting the parcel be rezoned to I-3, which is zoning shorthand for general business.

Large black and white signs announcing the proposed rezoning have been posted in the front yards of residences along the strip mall site.

The Six Mile-Haggerty area has been the site of large amounts of development in the last two years with the construction of Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church and a new McDonald's restaurant.

Allen said he was keenly aware of the strong feelings held by residents in the rezoning area, but pointed out that each development request, whether popular or disliked, was entitled to a hearing.

"Planning isn't a personal issue," he said. "Developers have the right to ask for a presentation in front of the planning commission, and the planning commission has the obligation to recommend or not recommend their approval. That's the way it works."

"Through the planning commission is purely an advisory board," he said. "Developers have the right to ask for a presentation in front of the planning commission, and the planning commission has the obligation to recommend or not recommend their approval. That's the way it works."

Among those who were less than thrilled about the rezoning request was township resident Christine Bach, who lives in very close proximity to where the strip mall is proposed. A resident since 1989, Bach said traffic at the Six Mile-Haggerty intersection is already treacherous and would be compounded by the opening of Ward Church.

Anything more, she said, would make the drive just plain scary.

"I really feel that adding any more traffic and you're really risking it," she said. "It's not as if Ward will be operating from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., either."
 Tuesday afternoon telephone calls to Grand Sakwa were not returned.

Mayor sees 1998 as next boom year

the planning commission, the Novi Chamber of Commerce, the Economic Development Corporation and business leaders.
 One little word sums up Novi today, according to the mayor, in terms of opportunities for residents and new businesses. That's premier.

Developers are bringing multi-million projects to town, like the West Oaks Galleria, two Marriott hotels at Eleven Mile Road, a Tanbun Company plan for the mall and Main Street, she explained.

In June or July, the Grand River bridge will be torn down and rebuilt, a process that could take as long as two years.
 "Hang in there. It's going to be a tough year. Someone said, 'The dust never settles.' It's going to be fun," McCallister said.

"Get your creative driving patterns out and when the driving is too much for you, get out and walk. Enjoy our park system."

But with all that development, local government is now looking at the visual elements of design and implementing an architectural review as part of the site plan process.

 Novi officials will also continue to explore how the site plan process can be more "user friendly."
 Roads, always, will remain Novi's biggest challenge.

As part of its road bond program, work will begin this year on the Tall Road connector, north of Twelve Mile Road.
 Meadowbrook Road north of Twelve Mile will be paved.

From Millard to Novi, I-96 will have a new lane added in each direction.

Council will set goals for new year in two sessions

As they do each year, the Novi City Council will roll up their sleeves and set their priorities for the year ahead.

This year's goal-setting sessions are set for Thursday, Jan. 22, from 6:30-10:30 p.m. and Saturday, Feb. 7, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The two pow wows will be held in the Activities Room at the Novi Civic Center and will not be televised. Council Member Laura Lorenzo held out for having the two meetings on cable TV last week, but was overruled by the council majority.
 "You wouldn't want a goal session on TV. It's not a pretty thing," said City Manager Ed Kiewall. "The environment is not right in this room (the council chamber) for setting goals."
 Seventy-four percent of the households in Novi have cable TV, Lorenzo said.
 "City council meetings are the most-watched of public access programs," she added.
 Members of the public are urged to contact council members with their input into the goal-setting process and to also speak out on the topic during audience participation at the Jan. 26 regular city council meeting.

Name Novi's hockey teams and win Red Wings tickets

Novi Youth Hockey, part of Community Clubs of Novi, is holding a contest to name the teams and design the logo for youth hockey in Novi.

Contest applications and details were sent home with students of the Novi Community School District.
 Contest forms are also available at the Novi Parks and Recreation offices. A winner to be selected in early February.

 The winning logo and team names will be used by the more than 700 children expected to become involved in Novi Youth Hockey during the first year alone.

Novi teams will practice and play in the new Novi Ice rink scheduled to open this summer.
 This state-of-the-art facility has two ice rink surfaces, locker rooms, concession and pro shop facilities.

Players can register with Novi Youth Hockey on Sunday, Feb. 8, during an Open House from 2-5 p.m. at the Novi Civic Center.

Police conduct sting of Northville area bars

By WENDY WHITE Staff Writer

Despite a professed community-wide "Zero Tolerance" for underage drinking, three out of four Northville bars sold beer to an 18-year-old decoy in a recent police sting.

The Starting Gate Saloon, located at 145 N. Center St., was the only establishment that carded the female decoy and refused the sale. Bartenders at Poble's Tavern, the Wagon Wheel and Eagles Aerie 2504 supplied the police decoy with beer on request, without checking her ID, according to Northville police chief Jim Petres.

"I'm a little surprised that it happened because we've done these operations before," Petres said. The sting was led by officer Richard Rogowski who wore plainclothes the evening of Jan. 14 to observe the events.

Around 9:30 p.m., Rogowski entered Poble's Tavern at 157 E. Main St. and sat at a table where he could observe the bar. When the bartender served the decoy a beer without checking her identification he cited her for selling to a minor.

"There's no doubt in my mind that we were wrong. We're not in the business of selling to minors but we were very uncomfortable with them sending in an 18-year-old that looks about 30," said Mary Poble, who owns the tavern with her husband Richard. "I've got teenagers myself. I'm certainly not encouraging minors to drink."

An hour and a half after leaving Poble's, Rogowski watched from a vehicle as the decoy entered the Eagles Aerie at 113 S. Center St. According to police, the door of the private club is usually locked and members must either use a key or be buzzed in by the bartender.

On this night the door stood open and the decoy was given a police radio and instructed to signal Rogowski if she was served alcohol.

Because it's a private club frequented by members, Smith said he rarely has to card anyone. When the decoy walked in, an intoxicated regular approached her and vouched for her at the bar.

Selling alcohol to a minor carries a misdemeanor charge and is punishable by a fine of up to $500, up to 90 days in jail or both.

My Delivery. My Physician. My Hospital.

"St. Mary Hospital offered so many choices for me, my baby and my family."

When I first thought about where to have my baby, I was sure of a few things: I didn't want to be moved from room to room, I wanted my family to stay with me, and I wanted the best of a full service hospital. St. Mary Hospital's new Miracle of Life Maternity Center offered me the choices I was looking for.

My doctor told me about the new maternity center's private, single-room suites, designed to help me feel at home. I'll stay in the same room for labor, delivery, recovery and postpartum care — they're called DRPs. My best friend, Nancy, and her little girl can visit when it's convenient for me. I can even have someone stay overnight in my room.

And, the hospital's new Maternal Women's Center offers education like Infant Care and Safety classes and a Breastfeeding Program to help us make the adjustment to home life.

For my peace of mind there's 24-hour obstetrical coverage, and neonatology service is available if my baby needs it. State-of-the-art technology includes epidural anesthesia for comfort, and advanced fetal monitoring. All the while feeling very much at home. Close to home.

That's why St. Mary Hospital is my hospital.

Going to the dogs

Canines take over Expo for exotic breed show lit on the counter. Cotton is a descriptive name for her adorable Arline, with his white, silky coat.

"Our love just kept growing," said Brooke, who now owns five Cotons de Leon.

Standing amiably on a table next to Brooke's little lot of fluff was another, Precious Munchkin, the only Havana breed to breed from Havana, Cuba at this show.

Precious Munchkin, owned by Candy Gandy of Lorain, Ohio, breeds everybody and assumes they return the compliment. (And they usually do.)

"My dog is terribly happy," Gandy said.

At a larger end of the Rare Breed spectrum are dogs as American as punch: the Louisiana Catahoula Leopard Dog.

Breeder Vicky Loudenlager, who lives in Iowa, was looking for a good — but unique — watch dog.

"We have five to seven prisons within 30 miles of us that's why we wanted security," she explained.

With family in New Orleans, she had a difficult time tracking down a dog, which is a blend of the mastiff brought to the New World when the Spaniards owned Louisiana and a local red wolf, domesticated by a Native American tribe, the Catahoula. She's since sold show dogs to both Lee Ann Sims, also of Iowa and Cassandra Yong of Ypsilanti.

Yong said she was originally attracted by the novelty of the breed.

"I like their personality, they're kind of clownish," she said.

Intelligent and individualistic, as well, Sims chuckled.

"I tend to like dogs a little more independent. I get frustrated with them, but I like them," she said.

"They're not as common as labs and Golden Retrievers. I think the less universally known a dog breed is, the breeders tend to be a little more careful with what they produce."

Dogs in the AKC show ranged from those seen in any typical neighborhood, like the dachshund, poodle and Shetland, to some more unusual variations of the canine species.

For sheer majesty and beauty, too, a Borzoi owned by Jon Stevie of Saginaw is an eye-catcher. Lee stands 32 inches at the shoulder and weighs a trim 105 pounds. Stevie was putting the final touches on Lee's four-hour show prep, which included a wash, a brushing and a whittener to even out the tangles of the dog's fur.

"The spritzing is to get the coat to lie down, to get rid of the static. It's so dry in here," he said.

For an event with dogs in every direction, the show was remarkably hairless, with several small, very small exceptions — a cluster of Chihuahua owned by Rod Murphy of Detroit. These long-haired pugnacious dogs, once beloved by the Aztecs, were yapping up a storm.

Four cages of them were parked next to a calmer Golden Retriever pup.

"My girl looked at them and she thought that's got to be the best collection of squeaking toys," she wanted to take her pick," said Golden breeder Rhonda Horan of Akron, Ohio.

Chihuahuas are the tiniest dog in the world, said Murphy, whose collection of 20 includes Champion Charming Oh's Cheyenne, the Number Two long-coat Chihuahua in the U.S.

"They're small, but they have the heart of a big dog. They don't know they're small, they think they're ferocious," he explained.

"You look for them to have a lot of spirit, a lot of courage and a lot of attitude."

And a pretty head, he added.

On the opposite end of the spectrum from the Rare Breeds is Horan's Clubhouse-fascinated Golden Retriever, Fern's Courting Disaster with Taischel. Otherwise known as "Courtney," the ten-month-old pup is the daughter of the number one Golden Retriever stud in the U.S., Ch. Fara's Future Classic.

Showing one of the most popular breeds in America is a bit of a challenge, the breeder said, because there's a lot of competition. Horan is a judge who also writes for the "AKC Gazette" and "Golden Retriever News."

She has her own take on what makes the breed so hugely popular.

"They're just very easy to live with and very trainable, very people-oriented. They're the push button dogs. They do what you want," Horan said.

EXOTIC DOGS

The Federation of Rare Breeds, based in Linden, MI, was founded in 1996 for the preservation and continuation of what are classified as rare breeds.

Membership runs the gamut of dog-dom, from toys to henners, terriers to working canines. Many reflect the shrinking size of the world, as dogs, often of ancient varieties, find their way to the United States from Asia, South America and Europe.

Included among these are the Argentine Dogo, Fila Brasileiro and Dogue de Bordeaux.

Others are all-American breeds, refined on these shores, among them Toy Fox Terrier, American Eskimo Toy and the American Bulldog.

These breeds are not affiliated from the American Kennel Club, some by choice. Many of the breeds also belong to the United Kennel Club.

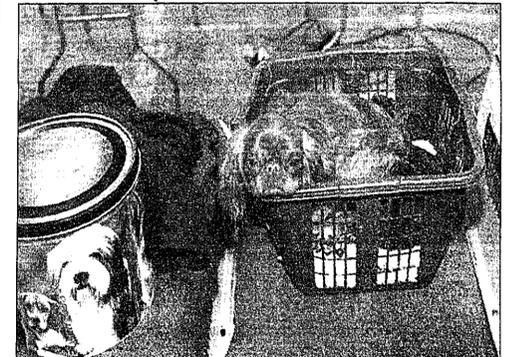

The Federation registers both individual dogs and litters, certifies pedigrees and holds shows.

For information about the Federation of Rare Breeds, call 810-735-6506.

As We See It

Goal setting may be ugly, but it sets council's tone

First let's give out some credit — Novi City Council members will hold this week, and again Feb. 7, a goal-setting session to talk about what they want to accomplish in the coming year. This is a great idea. Not all municipal governing bodies do this sort of thing, and it seems to us like they should.

This will be an opportunity for the council to set for themselves a list of priorities and objectives for the coming year. It's too easy to get caught up in a fast-paced town like Novi in the immediate projects, the developments and issues that seem to be urgent, that gotta be addressed right now.

Annual goal setting sessions help keep council members' heads above the fray, help them stay focused on where the city is heading.

And we really can appreciate the desire to not have these sessions broadcast on local cable TV. Such sessions are seen as an opportunity for council members to float their trial balloons and let them get shot down. One would not want a council member to suggest, off-handedly, say a People Mover for the Main Street/Town Center area and, if shot down by the rest of council, have folks think that was a serious proposal or anything more than an idea.

But, those concerns aside, we believe there are strong reasons why such sessions should be broadcast.

Mind you, we are not accusing the city of some violation of the Open Meetings Act. The goal-setting sessions will be open to the public. And the public will get time for input. Council has asked that any citizens who want to give their thoughts about goals to make their comments during the Jan. 26 city council meeting.

Why should the residents of the city care? Because it will have an impact on their pocketbooks. If the city does not have an industrial and commercial tax base on which to draw, the burden of taxes needed to support the level of services city residents want will fall mainly on homeowners.

Here are the numbers. In 1989, industry comprised 10 percent of the city's state equalized valuation, or tax base. As of 1996, that number had dipped to 8 percent.

In 1989, commercial development (stores and malls) made up 30 percent of the city's tax base. As of 1996, the number had dropped to 23 percent.

So the residential — that's homeowners ... you and me — contribution to tax base grew, from 47 percent in 1989 to 58 percent in 1996.

Should the Chamber's committee be alarmed about those numbers? Well, it's not the end of the world perhaps, but if the trend is not reversed or at least halted, then Novi would be essentially locked in to its tax base once this community reaches build-out. When the city is completely developed — and as readers are aware, the city is growing at a staggering pace — then it will be much more difficult alter those percentages.

At build-out, city residents would be permanently put in the position of carrying the burden of paying for city services.

We don't suppose you have to be alarmed about it, but there is a strong motivation to act quickly to alter these trends.

The numbers were part of the "1998 Update, Novi at the Crossroads of Development" report issued by the chambers committee this week in conjunction with Mayor Kathleen McLallen's State-of-the-City Address at

Staff worked hard on Scoop

Michael Malott

Delegation is a wonderful thing, isn't it? You get other people to volunteer for a project and then you get to collect the credit when they get it done. Better yet, if the project goes very well, you might just pick up some recognition for it, like an award.

I had the honor of accepting, on behalf of the news crew here, the Novi Chamber of Commerce's Partnership of the Month award for a project The Novi News did last year with the Novi Middle School as a part of the Partnerships in Education program.

The Chamber handed out the award during its annual Installation Dinner last Friday evening at the Embassy Suite Hotel.

The project was very cool. Some 70 middle school students worked together to produce a six-page newspaper called the Middle School Scoop, which was published inside The Novi News last May. The students came up with their own stories, wrote the assignments, took the pictures, produced advertising and, basically, put together the paper.

When they were done, they published news, sports, feature and opinion pages containing some 26 articles, eight photographs and 12 advertisements.

So, no small amount of credit goes to those students for their hard work.

Of course, their work was carried on under the guidance of teachers Lynn Serousou, Cathy Rogers, Teri Mable and Kim Osmunski. It turned out to be a massive task to get that many students all working together on the same project, coordinate with an outside group and get the project done on time and in good shape.

These teachers truly do deserve the recognition. Congratulations.

Here at The Novi News, I can't take much of the credit for the project ... well, except for that delegation thing I talked about earlier.

The real credit goes to Staff Writers Wendy Pierman Mitzel, Carol Dipple, Jan Jeffers, Photographer John Heider and Sales Manager Gary Kelber, as well as former sports reporter Scott Daniel.

Wendy of course deserves some special acknowledgment because she coordinated project for our staff. That job alone took a good deal of work, as you can imagine, trying to coordinate the efforts of all those students, teachers and journalists.

Carol, John and Jan spent hours working with students on their stories and photographs, giving them tips, revising and re-revising the stories.

Gary of course is the manager of the advertising department here at The Novi News and he worked closely with students on the advertising portion of the project. And that really helped bring the project together and turn it into a real world experience for students.

Good job everyone. You all deserve credit for a project well done.

Better off with one transit system

Phil Power

Public transportation in Michigan, the home of the automobile, has always had a tough time making a go of it.

Back in the 1920s, the City of Detroit ran the DSR (Department of Street Railways) in the city and for a few miles out into the suburbs.

There's strong evidence that General Motors in the 1930s actively wanted to squash public transit in the Detroit area. The thought, evidently, was that people who could get to work on streetcars wouldn't be good customers for cars.

In the 1950s and 1960s, transit needs of the booming suburbs were served by a network of private bus companies — Bee Lines, Martin, Great Lakes and so forth. But the service routes were uncoordinated, the equipment shabby and, given the car buying ambitions of most customers, profits were thin.

But the fact remained. People without cars absolutely need public transit to get to and from work.

So in the mid 1960s Gov. George Romney and the Legislature created SEMTA (Southeastern Michigan Transit Authority), a seven-county body that was supposed to develop plans for a coordinated public transit system, including rapid rail transit, to serve the entire region.

Hopes of merging Detroit's system, by then called D-DOT, with the suburban system crashed. SEMTA was chronically under funded, while D-DOT was supported by city general fund revenues.

Finally, in the mid 1980s, the region's Big Four — Detroit's Mayor Coleman Young, Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy, Wayne Executive William Wasieleski and the chair of the Macomb County board — decided to create a suburban transit system, designated SMART (Suburban Mobility Authority — Rapid Transit). The idea was to let Detroit operate its own system and fit it together with inter-suburban routes served by SMART.

Eventually, under the leadership of deputy Mayor County Executive Mike Duggan, voters agreed to a one-third mill tax support for SMART. The taxes were collected for the third and last time in December 1985. Counties will need to renew them in 1998 to keep SMART going.

So when D-DOT last week decided it would no longer run buses outside the city and, therefore, to shut down 14 suburban bus routes, the decision was just one more in a long, sad and tangled history. SMART officials say they have no plans to duplicate the canceled routes.

Workers without cars, mostly living in Detroit, are now unable to get to and from their jobs in the suburbs at sleeping malls such as Twelve Oaks in Novi and in other corridors such as along Big Beaver in Troy.

At the Montgomery Ward store in Livonia's Wonderful shopping center, manager Phil Harrison said: "The whole mall is feeling this. I have employees with 30 years of service who will now have a very hard time getting to work."

Suburban job recruiters, already facing the tightest labor market in generations, will now find it even tougher to find qualified workers.

Transportation is the "to in Welfare to Work," says D-DOT director Al Martin. "Our economy is moving away from a manufacturing economy to a service economy. These service positions don't pay as high as some manufacturing jobs. Many of these workers cannot afford an auto."

In the complicated mix of money (remember the SMART millage up for renewal, an election year politicians love to squeal against), turf (suburban communities versus Detroit) and history, it's hard to pin down just who's at fault.

The only hope I have in this sad and outrageous situation is that people will finally get so fed up with poor public transit as to realize that everybody is better off with one integrated system and sit down to put it together.

If you believe that, I've got a nice big bridge I can sell you. Cheap.

Phil Power is chairman of HomeTown Communities Network, Inc., the organization across this newspaper. He welcomes your comments, either by voice mail at (734) 953-2047, ext. 1880, or by e-mail at ppower@tonline.com.

Should have heard entire statement

To the Editor:

Re: Article titled "Novi trends back to the future," Jan. 15.

This letter is written to try to clarify some of the city council's discussion in our meeting Jan. 12.

When Chairman David Schmidt made his statements of concern about the process noting that "you've got a lot of special interest groups on the committee" and that they can make a positive difference or that they have ideas that other city leaders' just can't see — this is your chance. If you have ever considered serving on a committee or running for local office but just could not commit the time over a period of years — this is your chance.

Many of our city's future leaders may participate in this process and that may include you. I think it shows a lot of commitment from someone who is willing to roll their sleeves up and work to create a better city on a volunteer basis even if that person runs for the high-paying office of council.

I will be heading this process only until a Steering Committee of volunteer leaders can be assembled. If you are interested or know anyone who would be good for this, please call me at (616) 500-3259.

With 4,000 abortions each day in the United States, and 36 million abortions in 25 years of killing, abortion has turned into "birth control."

One of every four women has been a victim of the abortionist. We've lost a whole generation. The average completed family in the U.S. has 2.1 children. A nation needs 2.2 just to replace itself. Fortunately, immigrants into our country will help to increase this number to replacement levels.

Thank you St. Paul's Church in Northville for affirming God's gift of life and recognizing Jan. 22 as a dark day for our nation. I salute their public witness for living their flag full staff, mourning these vulnerable, innocent lives lost to abortion.

The advertisement taken out in The Northville Record/Novi News stated publicly that their American flag would be flown half staff beginning on Monday, Jan. 18, for the week to give attention to the Roe versus Wade decision. I mourn with them.

May our nation turn to prayer and repentance and choose the culture of life. Thus affirming God's gift of life. We can then truly be a nation with "liberty and justice for all." May God have mercy on us all.

May God have mercy on us all

To the Editor:

What will you do? Will you be a witness for the culture of life which affirms the sanctity of God's gift of life or will you be an adjunct for the culture of death?

Jan. 22 marks 25 years of abortion on demand through nine months of pregnancy, now including infanticide ("in partial birth" abortion, the baby's body is delivered; the breast birth position has been forced. The abortionist then jams scissors into the baby's skull, still inside the womb. The scissors are then opened to enlarge the hole. Then the scissors are removed and a suction tube is inserted. The child's brain is sucked out, causing the skull to collapse. The dead baby is then removed in our field of the free and home of the brave. This tragic decision has had profound consequences.

Squeezing slime

Novi's most eligible bachelor got up and hitched this past weekend.

Some of you might know my brother-in-law Robert Mitzel. The former Novi city councilman, who just finished his term in office this year, was married this weekend to a wonderful young woman named Heidi.

We hopped a plane to Portland, Oregon to witness the event. Heidi is from that area, but the newlyweds will make their home in Novi after a brief honeymoon in Hawaii.

After years of asking me when Rob was going to get married, many people were surprised to hear the event took place. Rob isn't much for pomp and circumstance and didn't make a grand announcement. And as for the wedding, it was a lovely night filled with family and friends.

Many people in the community, from schoolteachers to city government heads, asked me to pass along good wishes to the couple. I'm sure we all wish for them the very best and a long and happy life together.

The trip gave me an opportunity to meet the family

Chautauqua now a thing of the past

Barbara Louie

Customs come and customs go. In the late 19th and early 20th centuries, a popular American institution was known as the "Chautauqua."

The name is unfamiliar to most of us today, but long before the television era, it was a frequent diversion combining education with entertainment in the form of concerts, plays and lectures.

"To all boys and girls who earn their own money to buy the season ticket," noted The Record, "will be given an honor badge of special distinction."

Our first-time special features of the 1917 event included a concert of Negro jubilee singers, under the leadership of W.A. Ham, giving soulful tunes of the old plantations and the wonderfully soothing melodies of the southland.

"Band Day" was another "thrilling event." Our band this year is the best we have ever had on the Chautauqua," boasted The Record, "led by Francesco Pallaria, who is dynamic, dramatic and decidedly spectacular." It was surely an occasion to one would dare to miss.

A featured choir was the finale of the week, consisting of both "maestros of sacred music ... and popular gems from light and grand opera."

After the whirlwind week, the results were in: "1917 Chautauqua Grandly Succeeded," proclaimed The Record. Northville's fourth Chautauqua was a great, overall, as the "best ever." Though there were some disappointments, The Northville Record chattered these by claiming that the uncommonly high quality of the first program given by the Mrs. Wilbur Starr Concert party made everything else pall in its shadow.

Despite any misgivings, however, the event concluded without a deficit — much to the relief of the Chautauqua planners — and a good feeling throughout the community.

"This season's event," The Record claimed, "has left Northville with a fine collection of memories that our town cannot afford to do without the Chautauqua as an annual event."

Alas, as with other customs, the Chautauqua has been replaced — by motion pictures, television and videos — consigned to remain a thing of the past.

Tax cuts are in your pocketbook

Tim Richard

A reader asks: "You write about these 24 state tax cuts. Where are they?"

Short answer: In your wallet. Medium-sized answer: Five will take effect in 1998. You won't see them until income tax returns. Some may not apply to you at all. Those include:

• An increase in the exemption on your personal income tax from $2,500 to $2,500 per person.

• An additional $600 personal exemption for each child up to age 6 and $300 for each child aged 7-12.

• An increase in the college tuition tax credit to 8 percent of tuition, to a maximum of $375 provided the college limits its tuition increase to the rate of consumer price index (CPI) inflation.

These tax cuts will reduce the Department of Treasury's intake by $224 million a year.

Gov. John Engler boasts of cutting taxes a total of 24 times. The revenue cost is $2 billion a year.

That's about 12 percent below what revenues would have been. The state still takes in $17.2 billion (estimated for fiscal 1998).

Here's the list since 1991, the Engler years, as supplied last week by the Treasury Department:

• Property tax: frozen temporarily; permanent cut from Proposal A, including both rate cuts and assessment caps.

• Single business tax: filing threshold raised; lower SBT alternative tax passed; filing threshold raised; second time alternative tax rate cut; overall SBT rate cut; some factors removed from SBT base; apportionment formula changed; SBT small business credit added.

• Inheritance tax: repealed.

• Unemployment comp tax cut.

• Income tax: rates cut; pension exemption increased; personal exemption increased; college tuition credit passed and then increased.

Michigan, where they would underpin northern economies with their purchases of homes, visits to restaurants, hospital stays, and purchases from local stores.

One can argue that the boom in northern Michigan real estate is due, in some part, to people who don't transfer their permanent residences to the sunbelt.

Most complex answer: Some revenues have gone up.

• Sales tax rate up 2 percent to 6 percent.

• Cigarette taxes up astronomically.

• Some voted property taxes are up — public transit, school construction and renovation, school technology.

• Filled tax up 4 cents a gallon.

• Fees. These are a sore point. Engler doesn't figure the fee increases for college tuition, vehicle licenses, occupational licenses, state park entries, and amusement.

Engler and Republicans argue that the reduced cost of government has made Michigan more attractive to "job creators," as the charter of renounce recalls bosses, to the point that we have an unemployment rate below 4 percent. Democrats argue the credit goes to President Clinton's handling of the national economy. Take your pick. But next time, please ask an easier question.

Saving Samaritans from lawsuits

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Pop quiz — you see a person lying on the pavement, obviously having some sort of severe medical problem. What do you do?

While the altruistic response would be to assist the victim, the harsh reality is that in the lawsuit-happy 1990s, people might be deterred from providing potential life-saving care out of fear of being sent to court.

It was that very scenario the American Heart Association wanted to address last Friday, particularly in the realm of automatic external defibrillators. They're the machines that send an intense electrical shock to the heart of victims of cardiac arrest in an effort to get the heart beating in a regular rhythm.

Heart Association volunteer Fred Moeller met with Northville Fire Chief Jim Allen, Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville, and other department rescue personnel in the hopes of winning state support for a bill which would allow users of AEDs to be free from civil damages from side-effect injuries derived from use of the machine, except in cases of "gross negligence or willful and wanton misconduct."

The so-called "Good Samaritan" law is already in place for those who administer cardiopulmonary resuscitation, but the use of AEDs isn't covered by the law. Cities across the United States, as well as both American and Delta Airlines have expanded their use of AEDs.

The machine is comprised of a phonebook-sized box and a pair of electrical wires. Only three buttons are on the machine. The AED is powered by a heavy-duty battery. A machine self-check each day verifies that the AED is in proper working order.

According to Moeller, the machine takes away nearly all the thinking needed for application of electrical shock to a person, as both visual and audio instructions are given to the user of the machine.

"For a layman to use, it'll tell you what to do," Moeller said, while a computer voice uttered the words, "Stand clear" and "Shock now."

"As I understand it, you can't make a mistake," he said.

Similar to defibrillators used by professionals, the AED stores information on the medical condition of the victim.

Geake listened and ask questions of the medical pros and operated both dummy and working models of the AEDs. Geake said he believed the subject "seemed like a good idea for a bill," and said he would take the matter back to Lansing for consideration.

Moeller said AEDs are priced at around $3,000 per unit, but should be dropping soon as a larger number of manufacturers begin producing them.

Belt usage down despite PR campaigns

Despite intense national and state efforts to increase safety belt use, Michigan's safety belt use dropped slightly, down to 70.1 percent from 70.8 percent a year ago, according to the Michigan State Police, Office of Highway Safety Planning (OHSP).

The belt use figure comes from a direct observation survey conducted in September by the University of Michigan Transportation Research Institute, which conducts the annual survey.

"Belt use of 70 percent is still good news," said Betty J. Mercer, OHSP division director. "The drop, however, is somewhat surprising given the high level of enforcement and education that has taken place over the past year, and the prominence of the Air Bag Safety Coalition, high-profile crashes involving unbelted celebrities in Michigan and internationally."

Belt use in Michigan had increased steadily since 1988. More detailed information from the survey is not yet available.

Hot Spots Cool Fun

There are plenty of local outdoor activities to keep the winter blahs at bay

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

The weather outside may be frightful to a Floridian, but it probably won't stop a snowbird from pursuing winter activities.

Many popular sledding hills may be highly kept secrets but there are a few in Northville and Novi worth mentioning.

In Northville, Amerman Elementary School at 867 N. Center Street and "Beer Hill" located one-half mile from the city on Hines Drive in the Cass Benton area are known hot sledding spots once the snow settles.

Although there are parking restrictions for those who head south on Sheldon to the top of the hill for sledding, there are other areas to park.

Sledding is not allowed in Northville on streets or where no trespassing signs are posted.

In Novi, there are hills at Orchard Hills Elementary School, 41900 Quince Road, and at Novi Woods Elementary School, 25195 Taft Road.

Before packing up the gear to go to any of the following areas, it's always advisable to call ahead for weather conditions.

Snowmobilers, like Kelth Ulker, can't wait for Walled Lake to freeze over.

Ella Mae Power Park

Ice skating will be plentiful on the pond at Ella Mae Power Park, located just behind the Novi Civic Center at 45175 West Ten Mile Road. Sledding is also possible and, as with the open ice skating, it is an "at your own risk" activity because the area is unsupervised. Call the Novi Parks and Recreation hot line at (248) 347-0473 for daily ice conditions.

Brookfarm Park

Ice skating is available, weather permitting, at Brookfarm Park, adjacent to Village Oaks Elementary School off Ten Mile Road between Meadowbrook and Haggerty. Skating is an at-your-own-risk activity because the area is unsupervised. Call the Novi Parks and Recreation hot line at (248) 347-0473 for daily ice conditions.

Ford Field Ice Rink

A new manufactured liner was purchased by the Northville Action Council to contain water for an ice skating rink at the field in downtown Northville. Skating is at-your-own-risk, weather permitting, although it will be supervised by volunteers during the hours it's open.

Ice conditions will be available by calling the Northville Parks and Recreation recording at (248) 349-0203. There will also be signs indicating whether the rink is open.

Maybury State Park

Cross country trails are open from 8 a.m. until dusk seven days a week at Maybury State Park. Rentals are available from the concession stand from noon until 5 p.m. weekdays, and 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekends.

Talented rodents steal the show in 'Mouse Hunt'

Upon the death of their father, down-on-their-luck brothers Ernie and Lars Smuntz are surprised to learn that their inheritance is a crumbling, old mansion that both assume is worthless. But they couldn't be more wrong. In fact, the dilapidated homestead is an architectural masterpiece and worth millions.

But just as the hapless Smuntzes are all set to cash in, they discover there's one very small problem keeping them from life on Easy Street — the house is occupied by a tenacious mouse, who has no intention of vacating the premises. Two grown men versus one teeny, weensy mouse. It's not contest...for the mouse.

From ferocious feline to deranged exterminator...the only thing Ernie and Lars might catch in their "better mousetrap" is themselves.

The brothers are about to learn that "Are you a man or a mouse?" is a trick question as they engage in a battle of wits with the wily little rodent that may just bring down the house.

DreamWorks Pictures presents "Mouse Hunt," starring Nathan Lane as Ernie Smuntz and British comic sensation Lee Evans as Lars Smuntz. Also starring are Vicki Lewis, Maury Chaykin, Eric Christmas, Michael Jeter, William Hickey and Christopher Walken.

Screenwriter Adam Rifkin cites a very early influence in his life as the inspiration for his characters and story: the cartoons he had watched as a child.

"Those images have been haunting me throughout my adult life," he laughs. "The mouse in 'Mouse Hunt' possesses the mischievous cunning of Tom & Jerry, the Road Runner and Bugs Bunny, all rolled into one. He's the perfect film hero, because he's able — with a beam the size of a pea — to outsmart two grown men. It's the classic David and Goliath scenario."

The script eventually landed on the desks of producing partners Alan Riche and Tony Ludwig. Riche and Ludwig read it, and they loved it. It was fresh...it was unique.

"It just had so much delightful naivete to it, that I knew right away this could be a really fun film," agrees producer Bruce Cohen, who completes the production triangle.

Rifkin shaped the characters of bumbling brothers Ernie and Lars in the tradition of such classic film comedians as The Three Stooges and Laurel and Hardy. He notes, "They just can't get it together and kill the damn mouse; they become irrational and start tripping themselves up. And with two giants trying to kill a cute, furry thing, you just have to root for the furry thing."

Working with casting director Denise Chamion, the filmmakers began to compile their "wish list" of actors.

Topping the list for the role of Ernie was Broadway and film actor Nathan Lane, who had earned acclaim for his hilarious performance in Mike Nichols' "The Birdcage" and a Tony Award for his stage hit "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

"Ernie Smuntz is a man with a dream," Lane quips. "He has these delusions of grandeur and then everything comes crashing down on him. But the real hijinks begin when he and his brother inherit this old house from their father."

For the role of Lars Smuntz, Verbitski wanted to cast someone who was the complete opposite of Lane in both looks and mannerisms to really set up the contrast between these two brothers. British comedian Lee Evans, who had received widespread praise for his performance in Peter Chelom's film "Funny Bones," fit the bill.

From the moment he read the script, Evans was captivated. "It was just a visual feast of things happening," he declares, adding of his role, "Lars is a failure, but he's more and more impossible.

They just can't continue with their renovation because of the mouse. They bring in a ferocious cat, they hire a very disturbed exterminator...but nothing seems to work. This little mouse is undermining their entire existence."

A clever mouse takes the spoils when he foils another of the Smuntz brothers' plans to trap him in 'Mouse Hunt.'

Brothers Lars (Lee Evans) and Ernie (Nathan Lane) Smuntz literally trap themselves into a corner when they try to catch a parasitism mouse who has taken up permanent residence in their house.

Complex narrative and dry humor make 'Jackie Brown' a Tarantino classic

Written and directed by Quentin Tarantino and based on Elmore Leonard's 1995 bestseller Rum Punch, Jackie Brown is at once a comic crime caper and a story of real people who step over the line of legality from time to time. Five charismatic characters are chasing a half million dollars cash, and there's only one question...who's playing who?

Jackie (Pam Grier) supplements her meager income as a stewardess by smuggling cash into the U.S. for gunrunner Ordell Robbie (Samuel L. Jackson) — until the day an ATF agent (Michael Keaton) and an LA cop (Michael Biehn) bust her at the airport.

The cops pressure her to help them bring down Ordell, threatening prison if she refuses.

With a sympathetic bail bondsman (Robert Forster), who understands her restlessness only too well, Jackie arrives at a bold almost foolhardy plan to play off these opposing forces against each other.

Matters are complicated by Ordell's confederates, Louis Gara (Robert De Niro) and Melvin Paltan (Bridget Fonda) who have agendas of their own. By appearing to cooperate with both sides, Jackie attempts to outfox them both and walk away with a half million dollar payday.

"Jackie Brown" is a Miramax Films release of A Band Apart production, directed and written by Quentin Tarantino, based upon the novel "Rum Punch" by Elmore Leonard.

"Jackie Brown," Tarantino's first script adapted from a novel, marks an evolutionary development in Tarantino's thinking about character and conflict.

"Pulp" fans will recognize the writer-director's trademark salty dialogue and his deft handling of a complex narrative, but as Tarantino puts it, "The film is as much about what motivates these characters as about what happens next."

Pam Grier makes a vivid comeback in 'Jackie Brown.'

to yourself. "This is exactly the way it would really happen. I wanted my movie to feel that way too, and this is one way I could be really confident of doing that."

Secondly, he decided to cast

70's icon Pam Grier as the protagonist Jackie Brown, a role which in "Rum Punch" was a white woman named Jackie Burke.

Notes producer Bender, "Quentin has been a Pam Grier fan forever...and she was just perfect for the role. She's got some extra no one else could have really brought to it, she embodies the essence of the character.

"Jackie's a gorgeous woman in jeopardy."

Health Column

Focus on your health, not weight

With the holidays well behind us, many of us are climbing back on the weight scales to "assess the damage."

With average weight gains through the holidays ranging from 7 to 10 pounds, many of us will be establishing our plans of attack. Before you consider this plan you may want to consider factors outside of the traditional weight scale.

First and foremost you may want to get focused on a more healthy you versus a lighter you. The U.S. National Center for Health Statistics surveys show that over 50 percent of adult women in the U.S. report that they are dieting to lose weight. The dieting mania is even more prevalent in teen girls in the with 60 to 75 percent reporting that they are dieting to lose weight.

"Lose weight" is the key goal to examine here. Appearing thin may not necessarily indicate health. More important is a person's body composition, what percentage of our body is fat, water and lean body mass (muscle, bone ligaments and organs). In other words, what makes up a person's weight.

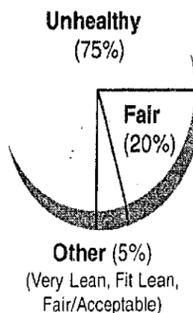

Take our client 28-year-old Dan Hales. Dan, an amateur mountain bike racer and triathlete, appeared to be in great shape but was shocked to find his body fat percentage in the fair to unhealthy category. And although Dan's weight may have been fine by weight standards alone, his body composition needed some improvements to achieve better health.

Dan has since combined the proper components of fitness to lose over 9 percent body fat while maintaining his lean body mass. Without looking deeper than the weight scale, Dan may never have realized this. Unfortunately, most of our clients as well as the general population start in the unhealthy body fat categories, many times totally unaware.

Many people are beginning to ignore overall body weight and looking to body fat tests for accurate information. You cannot determine body fat by looking in the mirror, there are tests ranging from using a mild electrical charge, to using special callipers to pinch key points on the body to average your overall body fat. Healthy ranges for men are from about 11 to 17 percent, and for women, about 18 to 24 percent. Remember this is key, since the

Condition	Men	Women
Very Lean	<11	<19
Fit/Lean	11-14	19-22
Fair/Acceptable	15-17	23-27
Fair	18-22	28-35
Unhealthy	>22	>35

The above charts show that most Water Wheel members are in the unhealthy and fair categories.

more muscle you have the more efficiently your body runs and the higher your metabolism, allowing you to more easily lose unwanted body fat. We have had clients drop two dress sizes and not show much decrease at all on the scale. This can occur when the person loses 4 or 5 pounds of fat and gains 4 or 5 pounds of muscle ... the scale indicates no change while the body has made a dramatic change.

Add this important statistic along with cholesterol and blood pressure to your plan of attack and strive for a more healthier you in '98.

Social life of adolescent can affect health

As children mature, they become much more interested in, and capable of, assuming responsibility for their own health needs.

They also become keenly aware, inquisitive and concerned about body changes and functions. When children reach this stage, pediatricians prefer to see them alone and will renegotiate the doctor-patient relationship so the adolescent will think of them as their physician.

The psycho-social content of the doctor-patient interview will reflect the developmental issues facing the adolescent. Confidentiality will be stressed at these visits. For some adolescents (as well as adults), the opportunity to organize observations and questions prior to their visit leads to greater efficiency and satisfaction.

During these years, psychological and social independence from the family is increasing, sexual identity is more firmly established, and plans for future education and employment are developing. This independence may be difficult for parents to understand.

Adolescence is divided into three stages - early, middle, and late adolescence. Early adolescence is a period of rapidly changing physical and sexual development and psychological change. This can result in a separation from authority figures. Middle adolescence is associated with intense psychological and physical involvement with peers. Late adolescence is characterized by emancipation from parents and preparation for career and more intimate relationships.

It is important to recognize that an adolescent's social and/or emotional life can greatly influence his or her physical health. Conversely, adolescents with chronic illnesses may have significant psycho-social concerns. In adolescents with chronic illnesses, for example, a pattern of risk-taking behaviors is frequently observed.

Parents and physicians must respect the adolescent's privacy. It is important, however, to provide opportunities for open discussions about all questions, including sexual attractions and behaviors.

It is also important to be willing to discuss alcohol, tobacco and drugs and personal responsibility. Open communication and role modeling are the keys to successful adolescent relationships with parents. Parents will still have a high need for physician advice and support, and problems should be discussed within limits of confidentiality.

The adolescent may have many concerns about his or her body, and physicians will begin to instruct them about taking responsibility for their own health. For example, physicians will instruct girls about breast self-examinations.

Safety is another important subject for adolescents, including the use of firearms, power tools and water sports. Driving safety, such as seat belt usage and the ill effects of alcohol and drugs on a driver, should be discussed with the middle adolescent.

Adolescents also have a variety of interests and issue that parents and physicians should be aware of. Sports participation is an important issue with an adolescent and the affects on overall health, muscle strength, and joint flexibility should be discussed. A life-long physical activity program, proper nutrition and weight control should be encouraged. It is also important that an adolescents has proper sleep habits, with an average of eight hours a night.

Crash diets, medications, laxatives, alcohol, nicotine and anabolic steroids are to be discouraged.
