Residents rally to fight golf course

By JAN JEFFRES

Staff Writer

Former scoutmaster George Forsythe says he's tired of watching as stands of trees are bulldozed in Novi and would like to see a place where people can enjoy what remains of the city's natural environment.

That's why he's become involved in PARKS - People About Reserving Kids Space - a two-year-old organization that is slipping into high gear again to fight a golf course proposed for the North Novi Park.

"I feel we're being duped a little bit here. We voted for parks and hiking trails and playing fields for everyone, then all of a sudden now we're having this golf course shoved down our throats," Forsythe, a former golfer, said.

"I don't see why we have to take one of the natural places we've got left and turn it into a golf course."

Forsythe and other residents are hoping to head off at the pass plans for an 18-hole golf course on the 443-acre park.

On Monday, Nov. 23 at 6 p.m., the Novi City Council and Parks and Recreation Commission will meet in the Activities Room at the Novi Civic Center. They'll be looking at potential uses of the park land purchased with a voter-approved bond issue. Along with the $6.5 million, 180-acre golf course, that could include picnic

City of Novi is key north-end landowner

The City of Novi owns 713 acres of land in an area bounded by Twelve Mile Road on the south, South Lake Drive on the north, West Road and the CSX railroad track on the west and Dixon Road on the east.

The $8.407 million package was purchased by a combination of park bond money and road bond money. In addition, some of the land was donated.

Prior to the purchases with the bond money, the area already included the Oakland County Wastewater Treatment Plant and the 30-acre Lakeshore Park.

A mile-long, $7 million extension of Taft Road (most likely with a new name) will travel north/south through some of the property, which was purchased with road bond dollars. Wetlands mitigation for city projects, including 17 acres of wetlands mitigation to compensate for the new road, will be done on this land.

Future plans for the 443 acres purchased by the 1993 park bond money are under discussion, but currently city officials are considering a golf course for the site. This chunk of property includes 19 acres of Shawood Lake.

Spoils of war

Above, Novi football players gather around the glorious Baseline Jug towards the end of a Nov. 12 evening banquet for the guys, their parents and coaches at the Novi High School cafeteria.

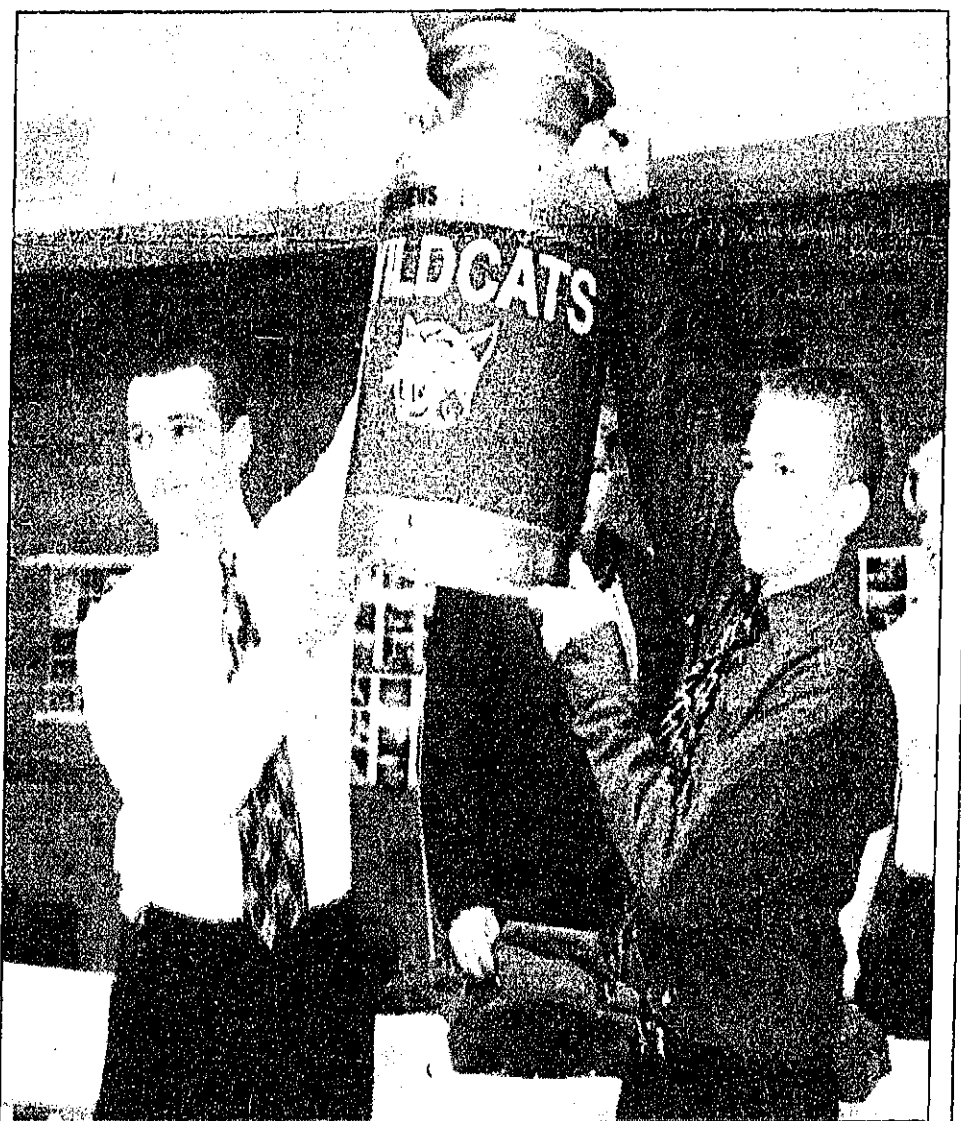

The jug was presented by Novi News Editor Mike Malott in honor of the Wildcat's stunning victory against the Northville High School Mustangs.

At right, two of the four Novi Varsity Football Team co-captains Jason Hill and John Gauruder hoist the trophy, which will be presented each year by The Novi News and The Northville Record. Expect to see this icon of sportsmanship, which is a glorification of a milk jug donated by Guernsey Farms Dairy, around town and in all kinds of interesting places in the year to come. The Stanley Cup's travels will have nothing on this globetrotting award.

The new, improved version was painted by Northville artist Jeff Von Buskirk and features the logos of each high school.

Library installs 'kid friendly' computers

By JAN JEFFRES

Staff Writer

Only a handful of parents complained in Novi about the undesirable detours they hope their children won't take as they enter the Information Highway.

But their concerns about the convergence of kids and pornography at the public library echoed those heard nationwide.

Since the issue was raised last summer, an ad hoc Internet committee met with some parents and suggested some changes in how the library's Internet service - which attracts 3,000 users a month - is offered. Among them is the installation of KidsNet, six computers that default to filtered search engines designed to protect children from obscene material.

"We consider this to be evolving. We are not going to be done with the Internet and the changing laws and technology. This is going to be evolving for many months," said Library Director Brenda

"Those communities that have been the most successful in resolving the conflict of values are those that have good, creative solutions that balance the need for the public's access to knowledge to knowledge and protecting children."

Last week, the library's existing 12-computer Internet station was reconfigured, to make it more difficult for other library patrons to eye the screens - and a possible glimpse of something objectionable.

Cynthia Sheppard penned a letter to the Novi City Council in June, after she observed a young teen watching graphic sexual material on a computer at the library. Sheppard said she didn't feel comfortable sending her kids to the public library, because she feared they'd be exposed to pornography.

In response to letters from both

Teens from St. James Church spent a cold night outdoors.

Teens experience homeless lifestyle

By JAN JEFFRES

Staff Writer

Sleeping outdoors on a cold November night, with a cardboard box as the only shelter, isn't how most local teens spend their weekend.

But for youngsters from St. James Catholic Church, the goal wasn't to have a good time that Friday evening, but to learn about how homeless people live.

Not only did they raise money (over $500) for the Pontiac Rescue

Mission, but they honed their own skills of compassion and empathy.

"It's just the experience. It's kind of like walking in someone else's shoes. I kind of like to experience about what things feel like for other people, to learn other perspectives," said Sean Gregory, a tenth grader at Brother Rice High School.

After a dinner cooked by parents, the kids settled into their

Class gives a sample of workplace technology

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Staff Writer

Students at Novi High School are getting a taste of technology's impact on their future career choices.

Katie Caudry, who teaches "Introduction to Career Technology" at Novi High School, oversees several high-tech modules in his classroom designed to give students a taste of technological careers from now to the future.

Students in the class can use the modules to learn the intricacies of high-tech fields.

Caudry said he believes it is not just his class that is in touch with technology, but the entire high school.

But, not many classes give students a chance to test the arduousness of a career in a field that is constantly changing.

Other technological areas covered by the class include: anatomy, mechanics, automation, biotechnology, computer-aided design, computer graphic design, desk top publishing, electronic music, exploratory, electronics, fiber optics, and lasers, light simulation, and robotics.

This wide range of areas gives the students plenty of chances to try their skills and discover which technology they enjoy the most.

Caudry said each module varies in enjoyment and depends on the student's opinion of the topic covered by the equipment.

It is a student is not excited about a module, Caudry said he reminds them they only have to be in that section for five days, then they can move to another.

Modules differ greatly from one another. While students in the desk top publishing module design cards and posters, students in the bridge building module are spending five to six hours designing and building a small wooden bridge, only to break it in two minutes on the module.

There are a total of 21 different modules, each dealing with different technological aspects of careers.

Students in the class are placed into two person teams. Caudry said he tries to pair 4.0 students with students not doing as well.

By doing this, it gives students more incentive to do better on their projects and learn more.

Caudry said the class is exploratory and designed for ninth and tenth grade students looking for possible careers to pursue. The class also gives the students guidance by pointing them to classes at Novi High School that will give them more education in jobs they may be interested in.

"This class is kind of like a feeder," he said. "It gives a kid information of maybe what mom and dad may be doing for a career."

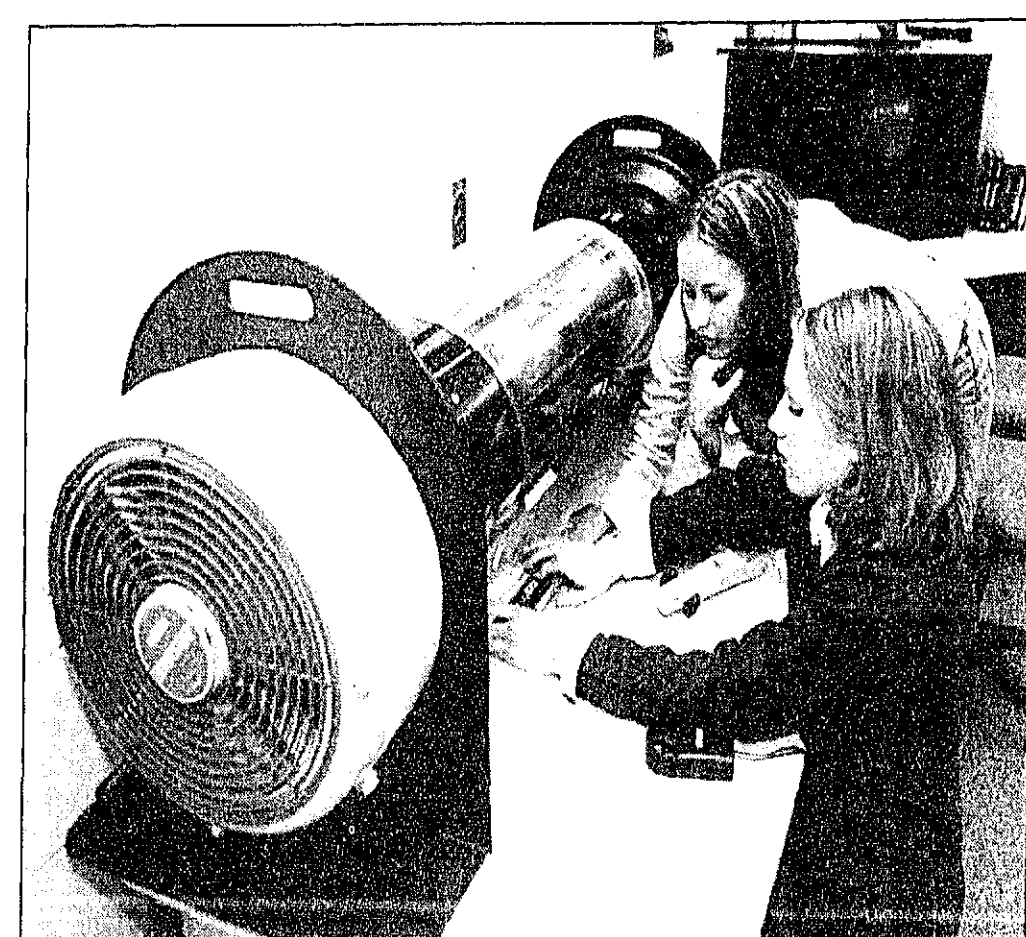

While the class gives students a taste of technology, Caudry said the equipment is already three years old and many modules are out of date. Some modules are at least two years behind in technology.

Because of this, the class will be getting new equipment upgrades soon.

Jim Koster, assistant superintendent for Business and Operations, said the upgrade will cost $12,337. This will basically fund new computers and monitors for the classroom.

Koster said this cost was budgeted into the general fund.

Caudry said he would like to get the class more into robotics. This will keep the students more up to date with the manufacturing industry, which is using more robotics in its factories.

Novi High School students Sarah Corless, left, and Meghan Ruhl run some experiments through the school's technology center's wind tunnel on a recent Wednesday morning.

Caudry said in the past, workers stood on assembly lines putting together products. Now, the workforce has been cut and there are just a few workers sitting in chairs running the robots that put the cars together. Regardless of the technology, Caudry said what makes his class special is the students involved with it. "I enjoy working here. I hope I can say that 20 years down the road," he said.

HEEL PAIN

Heel spurs, have their name for good reason. The bone growth that forms on the bottom or back of the heel often has the sharp, pointed appearance of a spur, and like that, it can irritate the soft tissue of the heel. In mild cases the discomfort of heel spurs may be eased with warm soaks, rest, prescription orthotics (shoe inserts), injections, strappings, or oral medication. If the growth has reached the stage where such measures are ineffective surgery may be necessary. Fortunately, improved techniques have made such procedures less traumatic and recovery quicker. Using a tiny lighted tool called an "Endoscope" a podiatrist can both examine the deformity and treat it through the smallest of incisions. The heel spur surgery can be performed in our office.

If you are the victim of heel spurs you don't have to let foot pain slow you down. The relief you are seeking is available. Our facility is fully equipped and our staff is particularly skilled in helping with all kinds of foot conditions including bunions, corns, calluses, nail problems, warts, heel pain, sports injuries, hammertoes, diabetic feet, and ankle problems. For an appointment for foot care for adults and children please call FOOT HEALTH CENTERS for Total Foot and Ankle Care. We specialize in all types of foot surgery including laser surgery.

P.S. One of the advantages of endoscopic surgery is the minimal amount of postoperative scarring, which can be a source of pain and irritation.

Oak Pointe CHURCH

Church Like it Oughta Be!

What is Oak Pointe Church?

A church you and your family can look forward to attending! Our services are relaxed and informal, a place where anyone, no matter what your past or present situation may be, can feel comfortable and welcome.

What are the services like?

Our topics are timely and relevant, with a special focus on the issues that are most important to you. Every Sunday, our music team helps focus our attention on God with high energy, high quality praise and worship music. Each week's topic is reinforced with live performances of songs from the pop and Christian charts.

Will my family enjoy it?

Absolutely! From nursery care and "Adventure Land" for kids through the fifth grade on Sunday mornings, to our active and exciting Junior and Senior High Youth Groups, to small group meetings for adults, there's something for everyone at Oak Pointe Church.

Where and when do you meet?

We meet every Sunday morning at 10:00 am in the Northville High School Auditorium. For more information, call the church office at (248) 615-7050, or e-mail us at oakpointe@flash.net.

Woman threatened, car vandalized

A 45-year-old White Lake woman was threatened around 6:30 p.m. Nov. 10 in the parking lot of TJ Maxx on Crescent Boulevard.

The woman said she was attempting to park her vehicle near the entrance to the store when she noticed a dark-colored van parked in a parking space with its break lights on.

The woman waited for the van to move, but it did not. So the woman pulled her vehicle into the space next to the van.

Since the van was parked at an angle, the woman spoke with the driver of the van, a white female around 30 years old wearing dark-colored clothing and asked her if she was going to move.

The driver then became very upset and began making threats at the woman.

The female driver said, "It's people like you that get people with guns after them."

The White Lake woman then left her vehicle, entered TJ Maxx and contacted the police department. An officer responding to the call could not locate the van, but did find the White Lake woman's car with a fresh scratch running along the entire length of the passenger side.

CAR STOLEN

A 19-year-old Redford woman's 1991 Pontiac Sunbird was stolen sometime between 10 and 11:30 p.m. Nov. 11 from the 20000 block of Woodland Glen.

The woman said she was in the area visiting friends and parked her car around 10 p.m. But when she returned at 11:30 p.m. her car was gone.

The woman said she locked her vehicle. There was no evidence at the scene of a break-in.

EQUIPMENT STOLEN

Items valued at $13,000 were stolen sometime between 1 p.m. Nov. 8 and 8 a.m. Nov. 9 from W-S Equipment Company on Henslip Drive.

A 1996 Intrepid Trailer valued at $4,500 and a 1988 Scissor Lift valued at $8,500 were stolen from the business.

The owner of the business said he left the lift on top of the trailer and placed a lock through the trailer hitch to prevent it from being stolen.

According to the police report, the three men made several purchases throughout the mall with the card. On one of these purchases a check of the card revealed the three men were not the owners of the card.

They were subsequently arrested.

MAN ARRESTED FOR SHOPLIFTING

A 17-year-old Farmington Hills man was arrested Nov. 9 after he was caught trying to steal merchandise from Lord and Taylor in the Twelve Oaks Mall.

The man was observed by employees over closed circuit television concealing a Fossil brand wallet in his pocket.

The man then attempted to leave the store through the lower level exit, but was stopped by employees.

He was later arrested by the Novi Police Department.

Citizen with information about the above incidents are urged to call the Novi Police Department at 348-7100.

Novi Briefs

Christmas In April

Every April, metro area volunteers dedicate a Saturday afternoon to fixing up homes for people who need the assistance, as part of the national "Christmas in April" program.

On Monday, at 7 p.m. in the Novi Civic Center, a cake and coffee reception will be held to honor Novi participants in "Christmas in April."

A number of Novi residents, especially elderly citizens, have been beneficiaries of the volunteer event. Anyone interested in getting involved in next year's "Christmas in April" is encouraged to attend the reception, plus a presentation on the program at the beginning of the Novi City Council's 7:30 p.m. meeting.

In addition, if you know someone who may qualify for assistance, applications will be available Monday.

Youth Assistance meeting

An introductory information meeting for parents who have children who have received treatment for Chemical Dependency will be at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 19 in the Novi Youth Assistance office.

Focus will be on identifying what care support services are needed in the community.

Please call (248) 347-0410 for further information.

Two new teachers

Walled Lake Consolidated School District have hired two new teachers. At the Nov. 19 meeting of the School Board of Trustees, members will be asked to approve the hiring of Bethany Bean, as a music teacher at Commerce/Keith Elementary and Kathleen O'Brien as a teacher consultant at Banks Middle School.

Bean's hiring was effective Nov. 2, while O'Brien's will not be until Nov. 30.

Police take on the Lions

The Novi Police Officers Association and the Detroit Lions will take on each other in basketball.

The game will be Feb. 18, but tickets are on sale now.

For tickets call 347-3430. For more information contact Officer Diane MacGregor or Officer John Nelson at 348-7100.

All proceeds will go to the Novi Police Officers Association.

Novi School Board Meeting

The Novi Community School Board will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Novi Woods Elementary School.

The Novi Woods Quality Team will be making a presentation and the board will be updated on the Communication plan.

Driver hits tree after collision with another vehicle

Later she worked for Sen. I. Gov. Dick Posthumus on the Senate Commerce Committee, then for Rep. Paul Hillegonds when he was House speaker in 1995-6.

Two vehicles were involved in an accident around 8 p.m. Saturday near the intersection of Eight Mile and Haggerty roads.

The accident occurred when a 1999 Ford driven by Norman Alan Silverman, 52, of Grosse Pointe, turned left onto Eight Mile Road from Haggerty Road.

No one was hurt.

Students collect for the needy

Orchard Hills Elementary School is getting into the spirit of the season with two donation drives going to the less fortunate.

Paul LePae, principal of the school, said they are collecting toiletries for homeless victims of Hurricane Mitch.

LePae said his students collected toilet paper, shampoo, toothbrushes and many other hygiene essentials.

As of Monday, the students had collected six boxes of personal hygiene products. Collections started Nov. 11.

Michele Sankovic, Orchard Hills PTO president who came up with the idea, said she was taking up a collection for the victims.

The company, Empire Electronics, is stationed in Troy and has an office in Haggerty.

Sankovic said she called the company and offered to have the school help them in their collections.

So far, Empire Electronics has filled five 40 foot containers with supplies for the victims from their collection drive.

The supplies, donated by the students of Orchard Hills for the hurricane victims, were picked up Tuesday by representatives of the company.

But, this is not the only helping hand the school is offering the less fortunate this season.

Orchard Hills is also collecting outerwear, such as winter hats, gloves and coats, for the Clothes Closet at the Church of the Holy Family.

This is the fifth year the school is collecting winter supplies for the church, she said.

Regardless of the final amount they end up donating, LePae said the most important thing is what the students learn from giving.

"They really get excited about it. They like the feeling they get from helping people," he said.

City at first stage of expansion plan

By JEREMY McBAIN
Staff Writer

Novi City officials will soon go looking for an architect for the Novi police department expansion project, approved by voters in a bond issue on the ballot earlier this month.

Craig Klaver, Novi Assistant City Manager, said he will give a notice of intent to the City Council at its Dec. 7 meeting to inform the council of the need for an architect. He said he has one in mind already. It will then be up to the council to decide whether to use that architect or open a bidding process.

Klaver said his architect did the preliminary drawings for the expansion to give voters an idea of what was needed before Nov. 3.

The architect, Dennis Dundon, also was the original designer of the current Novi Police Department building. This gives him knowledge of the current building's history and the design style used.

Klaver said it will be up to the city council to decide if they want to go with someone who knows the history and style of the current building or a new architect with new design ideas.

He added that like any building in Novi that undergoes an expansion, the Novi Police Department expansion will go through the city's site plan review process.

This means all preliminary and final site plans for the project must be approved by the Novi Planning Commission.

"We are hoping to deliver a product to the voters as soon as possible," Klaver said.

However, Klaver said he is still considering asking Dundon to take part and does not even know if Dundon wants the job. He said he may ask Dundon soon if he would like to submit a proposal.

Regardless, Klaver said the city is hoping to begin the bidding process for the project and to be ready to break ground by next spring.

Driver fails to stop, causing four-car crash

Three vehicles received minor damage after they were pushed into each other by a fourth vehicle, around 1 p.m. Nov. 11 on Novi

Road near Tux-Tax Drive.

The accident occurred when three cars were lined up stopped for stopped traffic at the intersection and the fourth, a 1998 Olds Bravada driven by Nancy Ann Mal-bourne, 47, of Northville, ran into the rear of the vehicle in front of it.

This caused the vehicle in front of Malbourne's 1998 Bravada to be pushed into the rear of the vehicle in front of it and that vehicle into the rear of the vehicle in front of it.

There were no injuries, but Malbourne was issued a citation for failing to stop within an assured and clear distance.

Cassidy impresses House Speaker Perricone

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Rep. Nancy Cassidy has two special pages in House Speaker-elect Chuck Perricone's scrapbook.

"I want the original copy. I didn't know what you were going to say until you said it. It was great," said Perricone.

At the beginning of the House 57-member caucus of the House GOP class of 1998.

"Quite an orator," agreed Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, putting Cassidy on the back. "And she's going to do great things on tax policy."

Perricone was picked over Rep. Mark Jensen of Grand Rapids in the closed-door, secret vote of Republican members-elect on Nov. 10.

Cassidy, R-Novi, didn't seek a leadership post, but don't be surprised if she lands a key role on the House Tax Policy Committee through a Perricone appointment.

"A family man, a skillful fighter for our Republican caucus, a true friend and a charismatic leader," is how she described Perricone, 38, who will lead the House in 1999-2000.

"Yes, at times forthright - some would say blunt - but with a frankness that lets you know what's on his mind," she went on. "From the beginning, my class benefited from his inclusive style when he brought us together two years ago and urged us to come together."

Cassidy, finishing her first full term in the House after serving on the Novi City Council, revealed it was Perricone who gave her "the shove" to challenge Democrats in 1997-8 on the hot topic of income tax cuts.

Democrats preferred cuts targeted to specific segments of the population, Cassidy pushed the Republican agenda - an across-the-board personal income tax cut of 0.1 percent per year until the rate drops to 3.9 percent after five years. Result: a stalemate, with no tax cut.

The GOP's takeover on Nov. 3 will put Cassidy in the center of the 1999 tax cut drive.

"Isn't this the mark of a leader? Someone who can bring us together. Listen, roll out the welcome mat, open the door to our individual and collective strengths?" a fired-up Cassidy told the caucus.

Perricone, himself an accountant, has a reputation as a hard-nosed partisan who will be less inclined to compromise and prefer to use his 57-53 majority to flatten the opposition with the GOP caucus agenda.

In an interview afterwards, Cassidy noted that the new set of leaders has far more diversity than past Republican chairs with their heavy emphasis on Grand Rapids and Holland members.

"How's this for diversity?" she said, pointing to Andy Raskowski of Farmington Hills as majority floor leader, Speaker pro tem Patricia Birkholz of Saugatuck, associate speakers pro tem Judith Scranton of Brighton and Bruce Patterson of Canton; assistant floor leaders Mary Ann Middelkauff of Paw Paw and Paul DeWese of Williamston, caucus chair John Pappageorge of Troy, and assistant caucus chair Charles LaSala of St. Joseph.

Aiding Perricone in the transition will be a familiar Oakland County face - Suzanne Miller Allen, raised in Farmington Hills. As a Young Republican 10 years ago, she drove national convention delegates to and from the Dallas airport.

Allen will move onto the staff of Sen.-elect Ken Sikkema, R-Grandville, the former House minority leader.

Target donates $4,500 to Novi parenting workshop

By JEREMY McBAIN

Staff Writer

Novi Community School District recently received support for its Focus on Families Workshop from Target Stores in the form of a $4,500 grant.

The grant is awarded to community programs based on two criteria. Herb Vanderploeg, Eight Mile and Haggerty Target store team leader, said a program must meet an art criteria or a social action criteria to receive a grant.

A program that meets the art criteria is one that is designed to bring art to families. A social action program is one that helps parents improve their parenting skills, as the Focus on Families Workshop does.

Target stores usually donate about five percent of pretax dollars to surrounding communities based on these criteria.

Debbie Brauer, director of community relations for Novi Community School District, said the Focus on Families Workshop is designed to help with parenting.

She said it gives parents information on how to deal with nutrition, exercise, stress management and internet access, as well as many other topics with their children.

The workshop will be March 20 and is open to parents and community members.

Brauer said the grant from Target will take care of a great deal of the cost of the workshop. The rest of the costs will be covered through other grants.

The is the fourth year the workshop has received grant money from Target.

Students host a Madrigal evening

Take a step back in time to old England with the Novi High School Madrigal Dinner at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 12 and 12:30 p.m. Dec. 13 at Novi High School.

Paula Joyner Chisard, choir director for Novi High School, said the event is a lot like an old English feast with traditional Renaissance-style music, food and drink.

Students in the choir, school band, Wildcat Choir and Jazz Cats will be dressed in period costumes and portraying various characters from a Renaissance feast. Guests will be greeted by characters such as a king and queen, knights, jester, a traveling play troupe, boy men and clowns in distress.

Seniors Brent Craverilla and Jessica Kellogg will be portraying the king and queen of the event.

"It is a large undertaking because students have to be in character for 3 to 4-and-a-half hours," Chisard said. "There is quite a bit of practice needed to make sure we are prepared."

Students began practicing for their parts shortly after the choir's fall concert in early October.

Participants will start their Madrigal experience with about 45 minutes of pre-dinner entertainment in the King's Forest — which is commonly known as the high school commons area.

After this, they will be taken to the King's Banquet Hall — high school cafeteria — for a complete four-course meal, followed by a theatrical presentation. The dinner will be catered and Chisard said she will be able to serve over 600 guests.

Chisard said it is very difficult to explain what a Madrigal Dinner is to people who have not been to one, but she assured it is quite an experience and the school undergoes a massive transformation.

"The cafeteria doesn't even look like a cafeteria. It looks like a castle hall," Chisard said.

One important aspect of a Madrigal Dinner, she added, is the guests are not passive observers, but take part in the festivities.

Each guest must observe a set of rules, or the Kings Rules of Etiquette. If they do not observe these rules, they must help entertain the rest of the guests.

Chisard said it is not uncommon to see an entire table full of guests, who have to stand up and sing a song to the rest of the hall because one of them failed to follow the rules.

"The guests take part and quite frequently," she said.

Tickets for the event are $25 dollars each and payable by cash or a check made out to the Novi Choirs.

Computers not only mess in millenium

By WENDY WHITE

Staff Writer

As government and business employees scramble to get their computers Y2K compatible, some people are facing a more low tech problem with the approach of the year 2000.

Namely people who pre-purchased tombstones with "19—" engraved as the year of their death — that now find themselves alive and well at the turn of the century.

Although Sue Senne, a receptionist at Northville's Inch Monuments, hasn't taken any calls from people concerned about the problem, she said she's sure they're out there.

"I don't know if they're panicking yet," Senne said. "But when the year 2000 rolls around, we'll see."

Sue Senne will have to deal with the quandary herself.

Senne's grandmother ordered her tombstone at age 50, when her husband died in 1958.

Although she inscribed the year of her death in the 20th century, with the year 2000 just 13 months away, she is 97 years old.

"She doesn't plan on going anywhere anytime soon," Senne said. Edith Troumley, who lives in Hillsford Commons in Farmington Hills, "She's not worried about it. She'll leave it for the grand kids to deal with."

Her boss may be able to help.

Richard Cardinal, owner of Inch Monuments at 580 S. Main St., said although no one has approached him yet to fix a stone, the memorial business is well aware of the problem.

To avoid it, he said, forward-thinkers stopped engraving "19" on stones decades ago.

"When I started in this business at 16, we were no longer putting 19 on markers in 1968. If people were 60 or 70 years old then, chances are they're not alive today, but some are," he said.

The easiest remedy is to cover the date with a bronze plaque engraved with the year of passing and affixed to the granite stone.

Another option is to fill the "19" with a resin and powder mixture that matches the stone. When it hardens, the stone can be re-engraved.

"I don't know if they are panicking yet. But, we'll see when the year 2000 rolls around."

Sue Senne

Receptionist at Northville's Inch Monuments

Employees for Inch Monuments can do both procedures on-site for about $200, depending on the size of the job and the type of granite.

"The problem is, granite will last forever," Cardinal said. "The repairs won't."

Resin, for example, can discolor or crack. Bronze plates may corrode or loosen.

What about shaving off the face of the stone and re-carving it?

Like complex electronic equipment, extensive repairs cost more than replacing stones, Cardinal explained.

"The only permanent solution is to get a new stone entirely," he said. "But who's responsible for it?"

A mixture of quartz, mica and feldspar, granite is mined around the world and has the strength of diamonds.

Colors include American Black from Pennsylvania, Jade Green from Canada and Missouri Red.

While the finest, most consistent granite is mined in Barre, Vermont, none is found in Michigan.

Granite has replaced marble and sandstone as the material of choice for burial monuments, making up about 98 percent of markers.

At his showroom and workshop (which still bears the Allen Monuments sign from the previous owner), Cardinal sandblasts names and patterns onto pre-cut and polished stone delivered from around the world.

The fifth largest in Michigan, his shop carries stones ranging from $200-$12,000.

Whether customers opt for a new stone or a simple repair, Cardinal said he can help the living solve the problem of an incorrectly engraved stone.

"Let us take a look and we will recommend to you the proper way to do it," he added.

Northville Park right on target

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

"This is our biggest undertaking yet though and we need some help."

Mary Gans
Friends of Northville Parks & Recreation Pres.

The block work complete, column workers are now moving into the next phase of construction at Northville Community Park.

"We're moving right along and doing really well," Gans said Thursday. "This is our biggest undertaking yet though, and we need some help."

The group is refurbishing the restrooms, concession areas, storage facilities and installing lights at the park. The cost of all the work is expected to top $250,000, according to Gans.

While it's hoped that the park will be complete in time for a spring grand re-opening picnic and playground dedication, a substantial amount of materials are still needed. Gans said the group was seeking roof and shingle materials, ice and water block, roll up doors, quarry tile, a tile setter and landscaping material.

The majority of the Friends' money is generated through its once-a-year dinner auction, which netted nearly $50,000 this past April. Gans stated a similar auction is slated for 1999.

The Friends have already raised thousands of dollars for other Northville and Northville Township park improvements. Gans said the group has used $18,000 for resurfacing tennis courts and Fish Hatchery Park, added a $10,000 arbor to Fish Hatchery Park and placed a roof over the maintenance building and purchased lawn mowers for Northville Community Park.

In addition, Gans stated $71,000 in renovations have been made to Ford Field and $20,000 were spent on Northville's playground.

For the current work at Northville Community Park, Gans explained that pledges of nearly $50,000 have been secured from Northville soccer and baseball programs.

"Everyone's been such a big help to us, and we definitely appreciate their support," Gans said.

Friends of Northville Parks & Recreation is a 501(c)(3) organization. For more information on making contributions or volunteering your time, contact Gans at (734) 462-4413.

Third-graders say 'thanks' for their playground

Last week, the girls and boys of Orchard Hills Elementary School swarmed onto their brand-new playground.

If the laughs and happy faces weren't enough of a thank you for any Novi taxpayer who happened to be passing by, Orchard Hills third grade teacher Lois Gdowski wants to get the word out that the kids are grateful.

"I explained to my third grade class that the people of Novi agreed to pay extra taxes so that it could be built," Gdowski wrote The Novi News.

"We all wanted to thank the people for providing us with a safe, fun and first-class playground."

Who can say no when a teacher asks that her students letters be printed? Following are thanks you notes to the taxpayers of Novi from Lois Gdowski's third grade class.

Josh Goings
Dear People of Novi,
I really like the playground that you gave us. It is really cool and I would like to thank you for the money that you gave to us to have it. I play tag every day with all my friends. I like this one best. My favorite part of the playground is the whole thing.

Hilarie Anne Denomme
Dear People of Novi,
Thank you for helping us have our new playground. I really like it. I like the tube slide. I like the tunnel. I like the whole thing.

Devan Clements
Dear People of Novi,
I just wanted to say thank you for the new playground. I really love it. I love the tube slide. It is fun to play on. I push people on it. I also play on the slides.

There are good and bad points for 35th District Court

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

The good news: bads are being accepted for contracts to build the new 35th District Court.

The bad news: it takes more than a year to build the new 35th District Court. The estimated construction cost is $12 million. The building will be a modern, three-story structure with a modern design. The building will be a modern, three-story structure with a modern design. The building will be a modern, three-story structure with a modern design.

Concluded, these three elements were making Judge Ron Lowe rather nervous.

Everything right now is in such a state of flux, Lowe said Friday. It's a real period of uncertainty for us.

But given the gung-ho nature of the construction trade, Lowe said some are beginning to have serious doubts that the building as planned can come to fruition within its present budget.

The concern we have now is that we're not the only job out there looking for a bid, Lowe said. The health of the economy is making the cost of some projects go way up.

Plans call for the new court to be constructed on the same land as the old court at Haggerty and Plymouth Roads. Compared to the old court, it will have one additional courtroom and be situated on less than a half-acre of land.

The original courthouse was destroyed in a July 1997 fire caused by a powerful electrical storm. Before setting up shop in its present location at Five Mile and Cherry Hill roads, the court had held sessions in several communities in the area.

The court is one of the busiest in the state, handling thousands of cases each year.

The court was able to lease the land upon which the court is now operating from nearby Thuisys. The company gave the court a lease which will run through November of next year.

An extension of the lease to the court is entirely dependent on what happens with the sale of the land, according to Lowe. If a buyer for the Five/Cherry Hill property is found, any lease established with the court would be set up with a new business partner.

Ring in the holidays at local events

With the holiday season opening, residents of Novi have a variety of happenings to choose from in both Novi and Northville to help launch that holiday jolly mood.

Friday, Nov. 20
Hometown Holiday Light Parade: As the official start of the holiday season in downtown Northville, Santa Claus will be holding court at a 6:30 p.m. parade will wind through Main, Center and Hutton streets. For the season, the historic downtown will be decked with new banners, as well as yards of garlands, lights and lights.

Free carriage rides will be offered, plus kids can whisper their Christmas lists to Santa Claus at his brand-new house.

The grand marshal is Chuck Gaudin, weather anchor of WDIV-TV.

Saturday, Nov. 21
Twelve Oaks Mall, plus the Rockettes: In Novi, Santa Claus will be putting in an appearance with several of the Radio City Christmas Spectacular Rockettes on Saturday, Nov. 21 at Twelve Oaks Mall.

Joining Mr. Claus and high-stepping dancers at the 12 noon event will be radio personality Big Al Muskatovic, from Partan's People on WABC-FM.

Big Al, the Rockettes and Santa will lead a sing-a-long of holiday songs for children, then will flip the switch to light the spectacular 30-foot tall tree in the mall's Center Court.

The tree is at the middle of the mall's brand-new take on Christmas, which includes animated penguins performing in their own band in the "Polar Lounge" ice cream parlor, flying reindeer and lot of other cool stuff.

After the lights are on, the Rockettes and Big Al will be on hand until 2 p.m. for photographs and autographs, while Santa will be holding court in his "Polar Palace" from Nov. 21 through 4 p.m. on December 24.

The folks at the mall suggest people plan to visit St. Nick early to avoid long lines.

Going along with the penguin theme, customers who accumulate $400 in receipts on a single shopping day can show them at the Center Court Information Desk and pick up a free musical National Geographic Penguin Snowglobe. Offer good while supplies last.

As a fundraiser for the Salvation Army, the Twelve Oaks Gift Wrap service will presents purchased at any of the stores. The service is located in the Lord & Taylor corridor, near Panera Bread, from noon to 9 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays. Sunday hours vary through the holiday season, for information, on the gift wrap service, call (248) 348-9400.

Novi Newcomers Holiday Shoppe: Find an assortment of home party products, including Discovery Toys, Pampered Chef, Longaberger Baskets, Candle Lite and Dorching Kindersley Books. From 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For information, call 344-7112.

Sunday, Nov. 22
Northville Annual Christmas Walk: From 12 noon to 5 p.m., the includes free horse and carriage rides with Santa Claus. The pick-up point is in front of the Marquis Theatre.

From 12 noon to 1:30 p.m. at the Northville Bandshell, the Center State Dance Company will perform while at 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., the Northville Christian Assembly Church will sing the carols.

During the day, non-profit groups will be selling wreaths, hot cider, nuts, pumpkin bread, hot chocolate and baked goods. It's all sponsored by the Northville Chamber of Commerce.

Tuesday, Nov. 24
Main Street, Novi Holiday Walk: For the third year, the City of Novi will officially step into the holiday season with a stroll down Main Street. A mystery holiday guest will appear (like the guest dresses in red velvet and has a long white beard).

As in other cities, there will be songs, good cheer and a free lighting. But where else but Novi will merry-makers get to chow down on free Marquis Burgers, served up by the Novi Lions?

Plus, the award-winning Novi High School Marching Band will be performing, as well as the Senior Variety Series Group. From the Oxford Inn Tavern, singer Joe Ann B and the band impact 7 will set the scene with holiday tunes.

When the walk was first launched, not much was built at Novi's new downtown but the street and sidewalks. Now, businesses are sprouting up and new businesses are moving in.

Each winter at the Van's World Class Market lot or the Red, Hot & Blue lot.

Friday, Dec. 4, Saturday, Dec. 5 and Sunday, Dec. 6
Novi Theatres presents "The Nutcracker"

One of the season's most-loved traditions will be presented by the Youth Theatre. Tickets are $7 in advance at the Novi Parks and Recreation Department or $8 at the door.

The show is at 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights and at 3 p.m. on Sunday.

For information, call 347-4400.

Monday, Dec. 7
Light Up The Holidays At the Novi Civic Center: A favorite with kids and their parents, this annual Novi tradition begins at 6 p.m. at the Novi Civic Center with hot chocolate on the plaza and the chance to see a real, live reindeer.

Following is a concert by the Novi Middle School Girls Select Chorus. Mayor Kathleen McFallen will greet the holiday makers and a group sing-along follow.

At 7:10 p.m., Santa Claus will arrive in a fire truck to light the tree at city hall. Music, entertainment for kids, visits with Santa and snacks will round out the evening.

To spread that holiday cheer, bring a canned or boxed food item for the Novi Goodfellows Needy Family Christmas Program to the Civic Center that night.

Pining for you

Furniture features ornate stylings

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

The real thing or reproduction?

At Antiques And Pine Design, that's a typical question. The mix of furniture at the new Grand River Avenue and Novi Road shop ranges from 100-year-old plus Dutch cupboards and English armchairs to new mahogany pieces from North Carolina ornate enough to look like fugitives from Meadowbrook Hall.

Owners Lou Nantais and Patricia Allen moved from Florida to Michigan to launch their store, which opened in October. Novi's become the place to be for home furnishings retailers.

"I knew Novi was just exploding. I just felt Novi needed something like this. They say this is going to be furniture row," he added.

"What I wanted to bring to this area is the quality and the right price."

If the furniture's not vintage European, it's a reproduction, crafted in solid wood, no veneers or pressboard here. The pine pieces come from England, while the mahogany is made in North Carolina with old-fashioned style details.

Allen — a nurse practitioner from Florida now adjusting with some difficulty to the Michigan climate — is the buyer for china, teapots, fabric baskets, antique English luggage and other accessories at the store.

"It's fun to pick it all out, it really is," she said.

Nantais is an investment broker who grew up in West Bloomfield, before moving to Florida. But after 20 years in that business, he wanted a change. A visit to a similar store in Florida sold Nantais on the idea of going into the furniture business.

"The idea was to sell a quality product at the right price. I like to have things that nobody else has. I want people to walk in and say, 'I've never seen that before,'" he explained.

"I want the people to feel at home when they walk into the store."

Sheer coincidence is how he found just the location he wanted for the shop. He called Paul Korman, owner of Red Lighting, to ask about getting lighting installed in a location Nantais was eyeing at a nearby shopping mall.

"I said, 'I really want your building and he said, 'you can have it,'" Nantais said.

Red Lighting has since moved to another Grand River Avenue location.

For someone doesn't care for the natural wood look, a piece can be given a cracked, distressed paint surface or something even more customized.

The store will commission Florida-based artist Dana Witt, who has been featured in "Victoria" magazine, to paint whatever a customer may fancy.

"She'll do anything you want, if you sell show her a pillow or piece of furniture, she'll copy it," Allen said.

Much of the furniture offered is substantial in size, from armchairs, home chests, kitchen tables to a leather-topped executive's desk. With the trend towards larger homes, bigger furnishings are needed, Nantais said.

With the natural wood and hand-carving, the new pieces may well become the antiques of the future.

"You just don't see this craftsmanship today," he added.

Stefan Chmielewski and Jean Moran show off their footwork.

Dancers in the swing once again

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

Triple step, triple step, rock step. Break it down to basics and you've got a simple dance move any couple can master.

Embellish it with sweetheart wraps, low kicks and partner spins and you've got an upbeat, impressive set of moves that make up the latest dance craze.

Swing dancing is sweeping the nation, and the trend landed in Northville in September with beginner classes at the Northville Community Recreation Center.

Dance instructor Elaine Kallio said she suspects swing has gained popularity due to movies like "Swing Kids" and "Swingers" and a Gap commercial with khaki-clad twenty-somethings performing acrobatic swing.

"Things take a while to trickle into Detroit," Kallio said. "Swing is replacing country as the newest hottest dance."

Big band revival bands are hitting the top of the charts and bars are hiring swing dance instructors to spread the trend, but for people who'd rather get the basics in an alcohol- and smoke-free environment, studio classes may be the best option.

The rec center has offered country line dance lessons for years but program director Pat Brown was inspired to start a swing class by her daughter Ellen, 16.

"My daughter's in high school and she came home and said 'Mom I want to take swing, it's really in,'" Brown said. "It's having a resurgence."

Fifty-five people signed up for the fall classes, and Brown had to close enrollment and start a waiting list.

Those that got in learned the basic swing step on the first day, and added an average of two moves to their repertoire every Wednesday evening.

"It's very, very popular," Brown said.

Swing began in the thirties with the music of Count Basie and Glen Miller. Now, bands like the Union Square Orchestra and Cherry Pop-pin Daddies, or more locally, the Starlight Drifters, add a modern twist to the old swing style.

The latest swing dancing is based on the jitterbug and the Lindy Hop, variations that were considered vulgar when they first evolved.

"Swing gives you a ton of freedom compared to a lot of other dances," Kallio said. "Most ballroom dancing is very structured. You start a certain way, you hold your head a certain way. Swing lets you bring in your own styling and your own personality a lot more than the other dances do."

Depending on your age it can be very athletic, too, but if you don't dare dips and aerials it's fit for any age.

The community's interest gives Kallio hope that formal dancing will gain over free-style.

"Free-style dancing has been around for a long time because people don't have to make any effort or investment. Swing dancing is infinitely harder," Kallio said. "If you learn how to dance and you like it, you'll probably find some way to dance your whole life."

So many teens called looking for classes before the Homecoming Dance that the rec center is planning a special teen workshop in the spring.

Junior Mindy Marburger confirmed that swing has made a comeback at Northville High School within the last year.

"Since more bands have come out with that kind of music, it's in," Marburger said.

Partnered in the class with her friend Alex Christopoulos, Marburger learned the lead role, which will make it easier for her to teach the dance steps to both guys and girls.

"We were at a party and someone put on swing. We tried but since we learn to country music, it was a little fast."

Since her students are of different abilities, Kallio uses different styles of music to vary the dance tempo, including some songs from the country line dance class she also teaches.

To make the next session of swing lessons suitable for both beginner and intermediate dancers, Kallio said she'll teach at a beginning level, but stress different moves.

Some couples that progressed quickly during the fall session said the class gave them a great foundation, and realized they for more advanced instruction.

The class teaches you the basic steps. From what you learn there you can go on and get more advanced moves. You can do nothing but improve," said Jim Grove, 26.

His partner, Rebecca Emerson, agreed.

But Emerson expects to see other dance trends gain popularity as well.

"I think the general trend is country dancing. It's not just swing, but I think swing is close to rock and that's why it's getting more publicity," Emerson said.

"Couples dancing is back."

State book focuses on wetlands

Stroll along a Great Lakes shoreline and you may find yourself near one of the most dynamic ecosystems in the entire region — a Great Lakes coastal wetland. These shoreline wetlands harbor an impressive diversity of specially-adapted plants, shrubs and trees and are essential to the health of the Great Lakes.

Now educators, amateur naturalists and anyone interested in wetlands can learn more about these unique ecosystems in "A Field Guide to Great Lakes Wetlands," published by the Michigan Sea Grant, a joint program of the University of Michigan and Michigan State University.

The 165-page book features 134 illustrations and brief descriptions of the most common wetland plants, shrubs and trees in a Great Lakes basin.

The new field guide was written by Michigan Sea Grant Extension Agent Walter Hoagman, who is based in East Tawas, Mich. Hoagman has spent his lifetime studying and researching wetlands and shares some of this knowledge in the field guide.

"As I did my research," said Hoagman, "I realized you need to talk about the ecology of Great Lakes wetlands to really gain an understanding of them."

In simple terms, Hoagman explains how water levels in Great Lakes wetlands change with lake levels and how these changes affect wetland plants. The book describes the seven different types of Great Lakes coastal wetlands, typical plant zones, and the role these wetlands play in keeping the Great Lakes healthy. Charts and graphs in the book's first section illustrate many of the concepts that affect these wetland ecosystems, and maps in the index show where these unique marshes are located in the Great Lakes region.

The new field guide is a companion publication to Hoagman's "Great Lakes Coastal Plants," published by Michigan Sea Grant in 1994, which describes plants typically found in the drier areas along Great Lakes shorelines.

Single copies of the wetlands book cost $9.95 and may be purchased from Michigan Sea Grant, 2200 Bonisteel Blvd., Ann Arbor, MI 48109-2099. Contact Michigan Sea Grant at (734) 764-1116.

Coalition of mayors confront Bullard on revenue sharing

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Sen. Bill Bullard Jr., R-Milford, voted last June for a drastic change in the state's revenue sharing formula to favor townships. And Bullard refused to back down when 10 southern Oakland County mayors visited him in Lansing.

"Any change will take away from Detroit," the first term senator and former township supervisor said in the phone Nov. 12 confrontation in the State Capitol.

"I have a track record of sympathy to Detroit and other urban areas," he said, citing the tax program to help Detroit expand its Cobo Hall convention center.

The mayors, however, urged Bullard to work for a new formula that doesn't shift money from Detroit and Detroit to rural townships, thus subsidizing urban sprawl.

"Townships don't have needs," said Novi Mayor Kathleen McAllister. "And we serve as a regional center, with a regional mall, exhibition center and commuter traffic."

"We're concerned about Detroit and Pontiac," said Farmington Hills Mayor Aldo Vagstad. "In the long run, we will become an older city, too."

"They (townships) don't have the same costs," protested Southfield Mayor Donald Frassetti, whose city's population triples as people from many towns come to work in offices there during the day.

"Two-thirds of townships don't provide anything in the way of police protection," said Dan Gilman, lobbyist for the Michigan Municipal League and former Livonia resident.

"Troy is anxious for money, but not at the expense of its neighbors," said Mayor Jeanne Stine. "The cities argue that most townships provide little more than volunteer fire departments, rarely police departments, more rarely libraries and parks. So townships don't need the money."

Moreover, say the mayors, cities find it costlier to replace 70-year-old water mains. Giving the money to townships would encourage paving of greenfields.

But Bullard said legislators are looking at other ways to help Detroit besides giving it the lion's share of state shared revenue. "Detroit is a big winner under Proposal C," the voter approved $675 million environmental bond issue," he said.

"Look at West Bloomfield Township in my Senate district," Bullard added. "It's almost indistinguishable from a city. It has to help urban areas in other areas — not reverse revenue sharing."

State revenue sharing began in 1971. Chief revenue source is 15 percent of the first 4 percent of the sales tax. Total pot is $1.4 billion. The Senate in June passed SB 1811 by Glenn Steil, R-Grand Rapids, to correct what outside Michigan considers a rank injustice: Detroit with 10 percent of the state's population gets 25 percent of the pot.

Steil and the GOP argue that the 1971 formula, still in effect, rewards "relative tax effort" — subsidizing cities that impose high taxes for inefficient bureaucracies. Steil's SB 1811 shifts to a per capita formula. It won 30-6 Senate approval, winning all Republican votes and more than half of the Democrats. But Steil's bill has received opposition in the House. Tax Committee, controlled by Democrats and chaired by Kirk Pratt, D-Detroit.

Detroit lawmakers support House Bill 5989, sponsored by Nick Caramanico, D-Bloomfield. It follows population by awarding growth in revenue on a per capita basis.

Caramanico's bill was introduced just before the House's summer break. It hasn't emerged from committee.

No action on either bill is expected in the Legislature's lame duck session, scheduled for three days after deer hunting season.

Republicans take control of both chambers Jan. 1.

Here is how the bills would impact various kinds of local units, according to the independent Citizens Research Council.

• Townships: $91 million more under Steil; $41 million more under Caramanico.

• Cities: $96 million less under Steil; $45 million less under Caramanico. The Steil bill would cost Detroit $143 million, but help many suburban and outstate cities.

Steil calls Farmington Hills, in particular, a winner under his bill. • Villages: $5.1 million more under Steil; $4.7 million more under Caramanico.

The mayors held a news conference that morning in Farmington Hills before boarding a bus for Lansing.

But because both chambers were in lengthy sessions, they got only two lawmakers to attend their meeting in the Capitol Building — Bullard and Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township.

"I agree with you 100 percent," Peters told the mayors. "If you pull that revenue sharing from older areas, you pull the rug out from under them."

Then Peters sat back and smiled as the mayors joked on Bullard.

Group rallies to combat North Novi golf course

at a meeting and taking out banners that say the remaining land.

PARKS led an organizational meeting last week in the home of the group's president, Chuck Tindal.

"The majority of them come from the southern end of the city, from Ten and Beck and Ten and Talcott," Tindal added.

"We're just trying to recruit people through the city who would want to join us in opposing the golf course," Tindal said.

The group's initial goal will be to attempt to convince the Novi City Council to place the golf course on the ballot.

"We want to see this thing taken to a vote of the people. If the majority ity of the citizens of Novi want a golf course, I'm not going to stand in the way," he added.

"The first thing we'll be looking at is changing council's mind and have them assure us they will take this to a vote."

If that doesn't succeed, talk of a referendum election is in the air. Backers of the golf course say it would bring in much-needed funds for the city's parks and recreation programs.

Should the city pursue the golf course plan, council members have expressed an interest in a design that would be sensitive to the land's woods and wetlands, environment and continue to provide a habitat for wildlife.

But for Forgive, that's not enough.

Even if the woods are not destroyed, hikers won't be able to access them from a golf course, he said.

"The whole thing about the park was to have a natural site, to just go out there and study nature and sit on a log and watch. I can't go out and observe nature on a golf course, there's too much activity, with golf carts running around," he said.

"What we have left in this town is going to be lost."

PARKS can be contacted by calling Chuck Tindal at (248) 689-9716.

Boxed in Teens show solidarity with homeless

cardboard boxes in the parking lot of the Ten Mile Road church.

Greg Gustonski, Director of Youth Ministry at St. James, had organized a similar night at another church and brought the program to St. James.

The National Alliance for the Homeless estimates that on any given night, some 750,000 people are without a home in the U.S.

Gustonski said he wanted the youngsters to have an insight about what that might feel like.

"You wake up really sore and you really have a conception of what it's really like to sleep on concrete. It's an eye-opener," Gustonski said.

"It was really cold, about 2 a.m., and I was up and poking my head out and it was snowing."

Kids piled on layers of clothing to keep warm and brought sleeping bags and blankets.

Kathryn Lukowski, 14, said her parents weren't too keen on the idea, but let her go ahead and join the sleep-over.

She is in the ninth grade at South Lyon High School.

"It was cold. It was very cold. I'm fortunate that I have a home and roof over my head. I feel bad for the homeless people," she said.

"I think there is more I could do for them. It had never affected me as it does now that I did this."

Kathryn layered on several shirts over a big flannel shirt, and pulled on some gloves, but her legs were cold. She also found the inside of the box offered very cramped space.

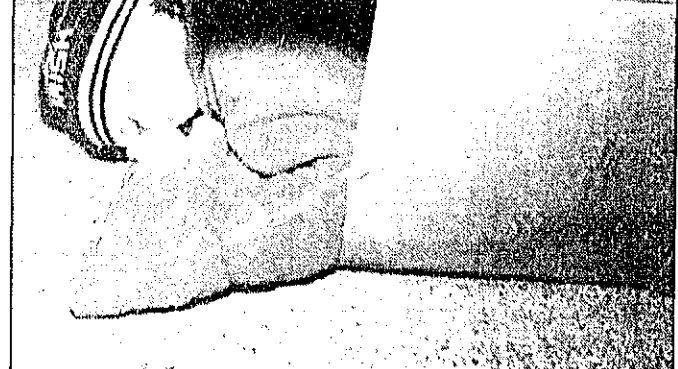

"We had them dress as warmly as possible and wear a lot of clothes. They all seemed to weather it really well. One young girl was asleep by 9:30 p.m., but a couple were up until 1 a.m. to 2 a.m.," Gustonski said.

Parents cooked a breakfast for the teens.

Seem, 15, was one of the kids who was not early to bed. He only slept four and spent the rest of the time "keeping everybody else awake."

"I feel what we learned is that not everybody has in life what we take for granted. It wasn't fun, it was boring, which is basically what homeless people have to live with," he said.

"It was like we were homeless, we had no TV. The only thing that we had that was technically advanced was hand warmers."

Katie Seidl, 13, of South Lyon, settles in for a night in a box.

St. James youth raise $500 for homeless

For many Americans, home sweet home is nothing but a dream.

The National Alliance for the Homelessness cites these statistics:

- An estimated 750,000 Americans are homeless on any given night.

- During a year, as many as 2 million people are homeless for a period of time.

- The homeless live in the streets, in cars, in shelters and in campgrounds.

- Reasons Americans are homeless include a shortage of low-cost housing and incomes that are too low to cover increasing living expenses.

- Thirty-six percent of the homeless are families, typically an unmarried mother with two or three small children, often living in domestic violence.

- About 30 percent of the homeless suffer from mental illness.

- Anywhere from 25 to 40 percent of the homeless have drug or alcohol abuse problems.

- A 1997 survey found that emergency housing could not be provided for 27 percent of the requests for help.

Library heeds Internet concerns

Shppard and Sue Campbell, the library set up the committee, composed of library board members Victoria Jackson and Jim Evans, Evans and Assistant Director Pauline Drevich.

Shppard was one of several parents who met with the committee. "It's sounds like they're moving in the right direction," she said Monday.

"I think this is something our community was unaware of and I think we were able to make some changes."

Since the library installed the computers in 1996, a policy was drafted stating that ultimately, it is the parents' responsibility to supervise their children's access to the Internet. Each year, some 900,000 web sites are called up at the Nov library.

A library is on shaky ground when it starts to limit the public's access to information, Evans said.

"Libraries are held to the highest test of access to free speech because we are considered a public forum," she explained.

"Any action that is taken to limit content is considered like taking books off the shelf for reason of content, which is something libraries are not allowed to do."

The committee consulted with Assistant City Attorney Dennis

Watson before recommending changes that also include Internet education classes and the posting of a sign advising computer users that a state law bars willful distribution of obscene material to minors.

Setting up a modular arrangement the main bank of computers came with a $3,125 price tag. The library spent $18,450 for the children's computers and furniture, which will be placed near the children's non-fiction section in the east wing of the library.

In addition, the library will hold a series of educational classes about the Internet, using some $2,775 worth of staff time.

"Youth friendly" computers will feature home pages that default to these browsers with filters: Yahoo! Kids, Ask Jeeves For Kids, KidsClick, Safe Search, Lycos Kids and Super Swinger. However, this equipment will mostly appeal to those under age 12.

Shppard finds this only a partial solution.

"I'm not as concerned with the children who are in the third grade and under," she said.

"The middle-school aged children aren't going to go and sit in little chairs with Yahoo! Kids. They're going to sit where the adults sit, so children still have access to pornography."

And even with filters, Evans warns that once the kids are online, they may find ways to circumvent the safety of the library's Kid-Safe browsers and enter the entire web, especially if they have an address they want to plug in.

"They don't want the children to accidentally open a web site that is offensive. That won't happen if they stick with these indexes," Evans said.

But filters provide a false sense of security, she added.

Watson advised the committee that the child-friendly computers will not violate First Amendment rights.

"It is readily apparent that the library will not be restricting access to the Internet, but instead will utilize those tools to direct or guide children to suitable web sites," Watson wrote in a legal opinion to the committee.

The proposal (KidsNet) does not appear in any respect to act as an actual prohibition on access for either minors or adults.

Protecting other library patrons from viewing material they might not wish to see won't be easy. Librarians aren't police officers, Evans said, and not judges.

Under consideration is posting signs at the computer monitors stating that Michigan Public Act 33 of 1978 bars knowingly distributing obscene material to minors. But both Watson and Evans say that is virtually unenforceable in the context of library Internet usage.

"By the time we're able to get to the computer that from will be gone. A person has to knowingly disseminate the material. It's very easy for a person to say 'I didn't know that existed. This isn't the site I was looking for. It accidentally showed up on my screen,'" Evans said.

"We could not position people behind every computer everyday to monitor what people are watching."

But Watson suggests the sign could have a deterrent value.

"The value of posting the notices is not that it will necessarily result in successful prosecutions under the statute, but rather that it will hopefully have an impact on the primary conduct of library patrons," he noted in his legal opinion.

Ultimately, the decisions on Internet use fall to individuals and their families, Evans said.

For Shppard, greater public awareness of what's out there on the World Wide Web is part of the solution.

"Our best answer is to educate the public on the availability of pornography on the Internet and how to make parents responsible," Shppard said.

Time to register for winter at Walsh

Students can begin registering for winter semester classes at Walsh College beginning Nov. 30 at any of the college's four campuses: Troy, Novi, University Center in Clinton Township and Port Huron. Winter 1999 semester classes begin Jan. 6, 1999.

In addition to its regular business course work, Walsh will offer several classes via the Internet this winter.

Walsh College offers bachelor degree programs in accounting, computer information systems, finance, general business, interactive marketing, management and marketing. The college also offers six graduate degrees, including the MBA and master of science degrees in accounting, finance, management, taxation, and information management and communication.

Currently the college enrolls nearly 3,120 students. For more information contact Walsh College in Troy at (248) 689-3252; Novi at (248) 340-5454; University Center at (810) 263-6630; and Port Huron at (810) 984-4444.

Northville Township resident Karen Groves is more than a co-worker — She's a friend. So, when she was diagnosed with cancer, the office pitched in to help ...

Walk Way

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

I was one of those things they couldn't, and wouldn't, sweep under the rug.

Cancer is a topic people don't want to talk about, especially in the workplace.

But since Northville Township resident Karen Groves' cancer came back, her co-workers at on-line graphics inc. have been there for her.

They organized a team of people to go on the breast cancer walk on Oct. 17 on Belle Isle to raise money and awareness of the disease.

They let Groves in on some of their plans, but not all of them, because they wanted to surprise her.

Being an organized person, which landed her the job at on-line graphics in the first place, she offered to help get things moving.

No, they told her, they could manage. She, however, had her concerns. Groves had a few suggestions such as name tags, or wearing the same color T-shirts.

They just assured her again that everything would be fine.

Groves tried to reassure herself that they could manage to pull it off without her help.

"With her organizational abilities, I think it was tough (for her)," said Joan Blough, owner of on-line graphics.

The morning of the walk, Groves pulled up in her car. The day was warm, but overcast. The first person she saw was Blough, who had on a T-shirt she hadn't seen before.

"Wow, look at those T-shirts," Groves remembers thinking. "It was a shock, I cried."

All 21 people who walked the 4.7 miles donned the shirts written by co-worker and customer service representative Kristin Shrader. A big pink ribbon with "Team on-line graphics, inc." was imprinted on the front and "Making Strides Against Breast Cancer. I am walking for Karen Groves and the other 180,300 women and men diagnosed with Breast Cancer this year" on the back.

"It was a perfect day for walking," said Blough. "There was a little breeze blowing off the lake."

Groves was first diagnosed with breast cancer in July 1996.

When Debbie Pletzer, head designer, saw a flyer about the walk for breast cancer in a store, she thought it would be great if they could put together a team for Groves.

"I'd just been wanting to do something to feel like I could help her, because there's really nothing you can do when it's cancer except be a support," Pletzer said. "When I saw this I thought it would be a good way to show her how much we love her and care about her and a good thing to do for others, too."

How can you help a co-worker who has cancer?

- Accept the person as they were and still are.
- Let them take the lead in talking about the disease. If they want to talk, be a good listener. Listen to what is said and how it is said as well as what is meant but not said. Give them realistic support and reassurance.
- Respect the wishes of those who choose not to talk about their illness. Others may want to talk about it one day and not another.
- Try to feel comfortable when there is a conversation lull. People can sense discomfort in others. Silences can help focus our thoughts. Don't feel you have to say something.
- Touching, smiling, looks that convey affection show the co-worker that, even though they are ill, they have not changed in your eyes.
- Cancer patients do not always want to think or talk about their disease. It adds to the quality of life to laugh and enjoy the things around you.
- Continue to involve the co-worker in activities now that you did before the diagnosis, if they are able.
- If they are off work, continue to visit or call, if you did so before the illness.
- Be yourself, don't worry about whether you are doing things "right."

Blough believes they raised several thousand dollars although "we didn't stop to count it."

Both Pletzer and Blough also have family members or friends who are battling breast cancer.

Groves had met Blough and Pletzer many years ago but was asked to work for on-line graphics during a big project.

A few days later Groves told Blough "you know you really do need me here."

Blough knew Groves had fought breast cancer but that it was now history.

"I quite honestly didn't even think about it," Blough said when hiring Groves as a project manager about a year ago.

"She is a great organizer and it's really made a difference. She's had a big impact on one portion of my business here that has been very important. It was good that we maintain that in an orderly way. It's very complex and she came in and did a good job, saved a lot of headaches," Blough said.

Blough founded on-line graphics inc. 11 years ago out of her home and now employs nine people in an office tucked away behind the Plymouth Landing Restaurant in Plymouth.

"We don't talk about it every minute of the day but we do talk about it," Blough said. "We don't pretend it's not there and it's not serious, then we also have to work and make our living, and keep clients happy. It's a good distraction."

Prior to coming to on-line graphics, Groves had been a Northville Township clerk for one and a half years. She is taking a break from the Plymouth Theatre Guild for the time being. Groves figures she probably worked about 60 hours a week for 10 years straight for the theater group, seven of which as president.

"I need to focus on (my health) and my work," Groves said. "I'm doing fine with that."

Several months ago, when Groves received word that her cancer was back, she was home alone, but not for long. Blough and Pletzer wrapped up what they were doing at work, and drove to her home.

"There's always a major event in people's lives that hits, and you need accommodation to that," Blough said.

Pletzer had been told by Groves' friends that she didn't want to hear from her friends, but found out that was not true.

"Don't be afraid to embrace them and tell them you're there for them because they need that support," Pletzer said.

Blough said that although in a small business like on-line graphics it's hard to separate personal lives from business lives because they spend eight to 10 hours a day together, a larger company should be no different.

"We cry a lot but we laugh a lot too," Blough said. "We tease her. I think that that helps us all."

They rib her about never having a bad hair day.

"They're just jealous because I have a wig and I don't have to do my hair," Groves said.

Groves received word from her doctor on Oct. 27 that the new treatment she is receiving, which consists of chemotherapy, as well as a variety of drugs including the new FDA drug Herceptin, is working.

"I was like the second one at U-M to receive it," Groves said.

Groves has been married to Tom for 28 years.

"My husband is thrilled that I am doing this. He thinks it is the best thing for me and I agree," said Groves.

They couple have lived in Northville Township for 22 years and have a son and a daughter.

"I think that it's really important that people know they options they can do for other people in the workplace," Blough said. "There's a lot you can do in the workplace. I've seen it in bigger corporations where people will get ignored. It is so important that people deal with it and talk about it."

Randy Juip was selected to be a contestant on "Jeopardy."

Alumni to be contestant on show

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

If you watch "Jeopardy" on Wednesday, Nov. 25, you will see a familiar face. Randy Juip, a 1993 graduate of Novi High School, will be a contestant on the show.

"I've really enjoyed that show," said Juip who's watched "Jeopardy" since middle school. "I've always wanted to be a contestant on the show but never thought it was going to happen."

This past summer, Juip saw a notice tacked on to the end of a "Jeopardy" show announcing a contestant search in Detroit, the first time such a search had been held in Detroit for many, many years.

"When I saw that I was incredibly excited and fired off a postcard," said Juip, who lives in Detroit.

Juip received a letter saying he could participate a few weeks later.

On June 17, Juip went to the Renaissance Center in Detroit and was among 75 people who completed a 50 question written exam on 50 different subjects.

"I knew they did tryouts in other cities but had never seen them do a tryout in Detroit," Juip said.

One of 15 who passed the test, he was then given a screen test, which included playing a game of Jeopardy.

"Just the preliminary examination was quite an experience," said Juip whose name was added to the contestant pool.

Juip was home one night studying evidence when the phone rang. On the other end of the line was a Jeopardy representative who asked him if he wanted to be a contestant.

Juip, along with his parents Brian and Micki, his sister Christy, and his girlfriend Maureen Hindelang, flew out to Culver City, Calif. for the Oct. 6 taping.

Unlike in the past when the television show paid the air fares for the contestants but did not guarantee them a spot, Juip said that this year the contestants paid their own air fare but were guaranteed a spot.

So the Juips made a vacation out of it. They went to Las Vegas the weekend before the Tuesday taping and then drove to Culver City.

"It was great," Juip said. "The trip was phenomenal."

Jeopardy's domestic audience is 17 million viewers, according to Juip.

"They told us that just before the taping so it was quite a bit of pressure knowing that there was 17 million viewers on the other side of the camera," said the first-time television contestant.

Contestants do not receive any notice as to the subjects at all, according to Juip.

"It was a lot more difficult than I thought it would be," Juip said. "When you sit at home you can answer the questions off the top of your head — no pressure. There is no science to the buzzer."

During the taping, the actual buzzer mechanism is hard to get working, according to Juip. Then there's the lights, television cameras and audience.

"I was still very aware that I was on a game show on TV," Juip said. "It got a little easier but there was still that realization."

Behind the scenes, the show's host, Alex Trebek, is quite a joker, according to Juip. He would sing and dance, and even do a little operetta for the audience.

"He seems so stern on television but he is actually a very jovial guy," Juip said.

While in high school, Juip was very active in the debate team, the marching band, and student government. He is a 1997 graduate of the University of Michigan where he majored in political science and history. Juip is currently a second year law student at Wayne State University.

Christy, 20, is a student at Eastern Michigan University studying art and aviation.

Randy and his family lived in Novi for 10 years. His parents, Brian and Micki Juip, now live in White Lake, Mich. They still own the Frame Peddler on Novi Road in Novi.

Lions Club to begin annual candy cane drive

By JEANNE CLARKE
Special Writer

The Novi Lions Club annual candy cane drive will start on Saturday, Nov. 21, and will continue through Nov. 29. The project will be co-chaired by Dick Stojinski and Otto Griener, a Lion transferee from Pennsylvania. Each year the Lions work to make this annual fund raiser more successful than the year before. This year's challenge is to beat last year's collection of over $9,000. Anyone wanting to assist in the drive should contact one of the co-chairpersons.

This event usually contributes about one-third of the monies donated to charitable programs. Recently purchased by the Club was an Optelec Spectrum Color Video Magnifier for the Novi Library. This magnifier is located in the rear of the library in the senior citizen section, where large print books can also be found.

Additional outside-the-community programs include the Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester. This program involves the placement of trained and qualified dog guides with the blind. The program has served over 10,000 such teams around the world. Presently, the facility is in need of more dogs to continue this service.

Breeds commonly used include German Shepherd, Labrador Retriever, Golden Retriever, standard Poodles, and some cross breeds. No dogs are purchased, all are contributed. Ages required are between 1 and 2 1/2 years old, no sexual preference, size must be at least 24 inches at shoulder, and no papers are necessary. If interested, contact a Lions Club member or call directly, 777-5332. Additional charitable causes include Penickton Church, Welcome Home for the Blind, and more.

NOVI CHORALAIRES

Considered by many Novi residents as the first in many family Christmas events is the Novi Choralaires concert. Many are planning to attend one of the three performances that are currently in the making. Proceeds from these popular concerts will be given to the Novi Homebound seniors and the Novi after-school recreation program. Scheduled appearances are: Friday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m., at the Farmington Methodist Church; Saturday, Dec. 5, at 7:30 p.m., at the Meadowbrook Congregational Church; and Sunday, Dec. 6, at 4 p.m., at the Church of the Holy Family. Tickets, $7 for adults and $6 for seniors and children 12 and under, can be purchased at the Novi Parks and Recreation office, at the door, or from one of the Choralaires.

The title for this year's program is "Christmas Is Here Again." Included in the program will be the Talacoda Handbell Quartet along with a variety of selections including secular songs, traditional carols, spiritual, a Caribbean carol entitled, "The Light Came Down," also March of the Kings, etc.

Director Jan Wassilak is celebrating 22 years with the group. She has a bachelor's degree in music education and a master's degree in applied voice from Boston University. Accompanist Trena McGraw is in her second year with the Choralaires. Her background includes working with the University of Michigan Jazz Ensemble and Mercy Chorus. In addition to the Redford Youth Theater.

Plan to stop by the Novi Library and view the interesting Christmas displays prepared by Gail LeVary and Pat Brown. Displayed are pictures of members and past performances. In addition to historical facts.

The Choralaires are taking orders through Parks and Recreation for their annual live wreath sale. There are 24 inches at $15, and 36 inches at $25, with choice of Poinsettia ribbon, red or plaid. The wreaths will be complete with pine cones and ready for pick-up at the Civic Center on Monday, Nov. 30, after 12 p.m.

Novi Highlights

MEADOWBROOK CHURCH
Holiday news at Meadowbrook starts with a harvest dinner on Sunday, Nov. 22, a tradition held this time of year. In charge of serving the meal will be the Hospitality Committee. The price for adults is $6 and $3 for children ages 5-12. Those attending are asked to donate a canned or non-perishable food item. All dinner proceeds and food items will supplement the Thanksgiving envelope contributions, donated to adopted holiday families.

The annual congregational Thanksgiving Eve service will once again present a Pilgrim family in costume and a "Tithing Man" to keep order and collect tithes. The service will start with a "ringing in" of the service at 7:30 p.m. The WSC will have their "Treats and Treasures" sale on Saturday, Dec. 5, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. The sale will feature holiday cookies, other baked goods, candy and other treats from the kitchen, floral arrangements, attic treasures, jewelry, cutlery, and cookbooks. There will be no admission charge.

On Sunday, Dec. 13, the Board of Christian Education will sponsor their traditional Christmas Workshop. The occasion is for all ages and will be held from 11:15 a.m. to 3 p.m.; a light lunch will be available. There will be crafts for all ages - to make and take home. Volunteers will be present to help instruct in the making of Christmas decorations.

This Sunday, Nov. 22, the children will receive empty gift boxes and will be asked to fill them with non-holiday items for children ranging in age from 4-12. Collection of gift boxes will be made on Dec. 20 and sent to the Indian Trails Mission in Mesa, Ariz.

NOVI MINISTERS ASSOCIATION

Holy Family Catholic Church recently hosted the monthly meeting of the Novi Ministers and finalized plans for the annual Ecumenical Thanksgiving service. This service will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 25, at 7:30 p.m., at the Faith Community Presbyterian Church.

Included in this program will be the Rev. Louise Ott, United Methodist Church, presenting the sermon, other clergy members will present scripture, etc., and a combined choir led by Diane Miller will present the musical portion of the service. Not only will clergy from Novi United Methodist and Faith Community Presbyterian be represented, but also clergy representatives from Spirit of Christ Lutheran Church and the Church of the Holy Cross Episcopal will also be present. This is a community service and all are welcome to attend. An offering will be taken and for the Novi Food Bank - a project providing for needy families in the community. Most churches have food bank containers in their vestibules to receive donations of paper products, non-perishable items (i.e. canned goods). These items are then taken to Faith Community Presbyterian Church and sorted by volunteers. Distribution is done on two Monday mornings of the month. For more information, please call the church office at 349-5666.

Another community project is the Clothes Closet located at Holy Family with access from the southern driveway. Carol Ann Donnelly is in charge of this program and is assisted by volunteers. To find out what hours are available to drop off clothing on Mondays, first and second Thursday of the month, please call 349-8553. For those wishing to obtain clothing, please call for an appointment.

The Novi Ministers Association is open to any clergy member within the community. They meet on the first Monday of the month and information is available by calling the Rev. John Budde, 349-8847.

Novi Highlights is written by Jeanne Clarke. Should you wish to contact her with information for this column, call 624-0173.

Church Notes

An Advent Service of Lessons and Carols will be held at HOLY CROSS EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 46200 Ten Mile Road in Novi, on Sunday, Nov. 29, at 4 p.m. It is a quiet service of Bible readings and music to prepare us for the birth of Jesus Christ at Christmas. The community is invited to attend.

Sunday School is held during the 11 a.m. service. Holy Cross also has a 7:45 a.m. service. Please call the church office weekdays at (248) 349-1175 between 9 a.m. and noon for additional information.

MEADOWBROOK CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, 21355 Meadowbrook Road in Novi, will hold the Treats and Treasures

Sale, sponsored by the Women's Service Club, on Saturday, Dec. 5, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Holiday cookies and other baked goods, Christmas decorations, jewelry, attic treasures, cutlery and more will be available. There is no admission fee.

The Harvest Dinner will be held on Sunday, Nov. 22, at 4 p.m. Reservations are needed. The Thanksgiving Eve Worship will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 25, at 7 p.m. This will be a traditional Pilgrim Worship service complete with a Pilgrim Family and Tithing Man.

The Novi Choralaires will be presenting a concert on Saturday, Dec. 5, at 7:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the Novi Parks and Recreation office, 45175 West Ten Mile Road, or at the door the night of the performance.

For information, call the church at (248) 348-7757.

The Gay Spiritual Support Group will meet at the NORTHVILLE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, Eight Mile and Tait roads in Northville, on Monday, Nov. 23, at 7 p.m. in the lounge. Parking is available in the upper lot, which is closest to the lounge.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 45201 North Territorial Road in Plymouth, will present a "Walk Thru the Old Testament" seminar on Saturday, Nov. 21, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The international seminar uses interactive learning techniques to help people absorb and remember key characters, geography and major themes of the Old Testament.

Separate seminars will be held for adults (seventh grade and up) and children (ages 5 through sixth grade), making this a great family activity. Fees are $15 for adults, $10 for children and includes all materials. Participants may bring a sack lunch for the mid-day break.

A Community Thanksgiving Service will be held Sunday, Nov. 22, at 7 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, 200 E. Main Street in Northville. Call (734) 453-5280.

Parks and Rec brochure no longer mailed to every home

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

The Winter Novi Parks and Recreation brochures are in the mail. But don't be alarmed if you don't get one.

In a cost-cutting measure, the Parks and Recreation Department has switched from bulk mail to direct mail, according to Marilyn Troshak, deputy director of the department.

With the rate of growth at Novi, Parks and Rec had 22,000 copies of the fall brochure printed, 20,000 for the bulk mailing.

In a cost saving measure, the department is mailing directly to participants and those who are interested in information, Troshak said.

With direct mail, only 7,000 to 10,000 copies of the winter brochure will be printed.

"Studies have shown that your actual participating numbers are less than 10 percent of what you're sending out, if you're doing bulk mail," Troshak said.

There will be distribution points where residents can pick up a brochure including the Novi

"We're not trying to eliminate anyone from getting the brochure but eliminate unnecessary printing and mailing costs."

Library at 45215 Ten Mile Road, the Novi Ice Arena on Novi Road between Ten and Nine Mile roads, the Soccer Zone at 41550 Grand River, and, of course, the Novi Parks and Recreation office at the Novi Civic Center at 45175 West Ten Mile Road in Novi.

"We're not trying to eliminate anyone from getting the brochure but eliminate unnecessary printing and mailing costs," said Troshak. "With this procedure we're saving over $18,000 each year in printing and mailing costs."

Even in the bulk mailings, many of the 28-32 page brochures ended up undeliverable to residents because routes change in between the time the route number is assigned and the brochure is printed, according to Troshak.

"What we're also trying to do is get the people who may fall through the cracks," she said. "These residents involved in the special interest activities such as youth and adult leagues and Novi Youth Assistance can call to be placed on the mailing list."

The mailing list has been generated from people who have utilized the programs during the last two years. If residents want to continue receiving the brochure, they can call and get their names added to the mailing list.

Troshak said the department will try direct mail for this brochure and next and if it ends up not working out, will go back to the drawing board.

Brochures are being mailed out this week. If you don't get one and would like a current brochure, call the Novi Parks and Recreation Department office at (248) 347-0400 and one will be mailed to you.

Birth

Emily Margaret Richmond

Dale and Kim Richmond of Novi announce the birth of their daughter, EMILY MARGARET, born Oct. 2 at Huron Valley Sinai Hospital in Commerce, Mich. She weighed 8 pounds, 4 1/2 ounces. Also awaiting baby Emily's arrival was her sister, Elizabeth, age 3.

Maternal grandparents are Tom and Marsha Bryant of Pleasant Ridge and paternal grandparents are Dale Heilmann and Glinnie Geunty of Orionville.

Clothes Closet hours change

Wedding

David and Kimberly Strange

Mr. and Mrs. William Szur of Novi announce the marriage of their son, David Martin Strange, to Kimberly Ann Fisher of Farmington Hills. Their wedding was held June 6 at the Novi Methodist Church.

Engagement

Catherine Page/Michael Ellis

Both are graduates of Western Michigan University. They met in Florida and five years later on a beach in St. Maarten, David proposed to Kimberly. They now reside in Novi.

Register now for youth basketball

The Winter Youth Basketball League registration ends Monday, Nov. 23. There is a $10 late fee for those who register after Nov. 23.

Registration fees for the 11-game season for girls and boys 7th grade through 12th grade is $78. Fees for Northville School District residents in Novi is $81. The non-resident cost is $85.

All players must fill out a personal data form at the Community Center Building to be used in forming teams.

There will be a coach's meeting on Monday, Dec. 10. The season's games are held on Saturdays from Jan. 9 through March 27, 1999. There is a possibility that there will be two to three mid-week evening games. Practices will be held one to two times per week in the evening according to coaches availability.

For details, call Northville Parks and Recreation Department at 349-0203.

Native Americans to hold pow wow

Buffalo Spirit Native Dance Troupe, Canada's premier Native dance troupe, will entertain an expected 20,000 festival-goers at the 6th Annual Native American Festival and Mini Pow Wow on Saturday, Nov. 21, and Sunday, Nov. 22, at the Novi Expo Center.

Their interpretation of traditional dances will set the stage for a weekend of Native American culture, crafts and cuisine.

This pre-Thanksgiving celebration will provide families with a look at the nation's Native American heritage. Dancers, musicians and singers from several tribes across the United States and Canada - including Mohawk, Apache, Oneida, Cherokee, Ojibwe, Navaho and Chippewa - will meet to share their cultures and traditions.

The different styles of dances like the grass dance, fancy dance and jingle dress dance will depict distinctions among tribes and similarities in their movements.

At the center of the festival is the "Sacred Circle" where the performances and the pow wow take place.

The Sacred Circle represents the cycle of life and other things sacred to Native Americans: the sun, the earth, the moon and the drums - "the heartbeat of our nation," according to Jerry Laing, a lecturer and elder in the American Indian movement and event consultant.

More than 100 trader tables offering authentic Native American arts and crafts will surround the dance area.

Hungry festival-goers can feed their appetites for Native American fare and feast on fry bread, corn soup, Indian tacos and other delicacies.

Children under age 12 will make five crafts, including dance sticks and kachina dolls. Kids and their parents will learn about Native American culture from storytellers and artisans demonstrating basket weaving, bead weaving, wood carving and more.

Display areas set up for viewing include a jewelry, tribal regalia, weapons, robes (furs, beaver, caribou) and more.

Free entry key rings made of four colored beads will be given away to children ages 3 to 12, while supplies last.

Specially designed commemorative patches will be available for purchase. Scouts can earn badges by participating in the festival.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 21, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 22. There will be Native American drumming, dancing and storytelling throughout the day, with ceremonial grand entrances on Saturday at 11:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. and Sunday at noon.

Admission is free for ages 2 and under, $6 for ages 3 and up. Group tickets are available in advance for groups of 10 or more for $5 each by calling (248) 392-0699. Parking is $5.

The Novi Expo Center is located off I-96 at exit 162 and Novi Road in Novi.

Last year's event attracted more than 14,000 people from across southeast Michigan. This festival is produced by Metro Parent Publishing Group, Inc. and North American Indian Association of Detroit and is sponsored by SelectCare, Comerica, WEDU/ALN50 and WDRG 93.1.

COOKE MIDDLE SCHOOL

The Cooke PTSA met on Nov. 5. Students submitted 113 stories and 14 poems for the "Scary Story" contest. The winners in the Story Division were: sixth grade - Joni Gress, seventh grade - a tie between Devon Bapley and Emily Ruz, and eighth grade - Gerard Breitenbeck. In the Poetry Division, the winners were Melissa Doyle and Milena Soc.

During the month of November, the Media Center will accept donations of canned food instead of money to pay past-due fines. The food will be donated to a local charity.

Erica Johnson and Diane Cavichioni were selected to participate in the Regional and State Honors Choir. They will perform in January at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor.

The next Choir concert is Dec. 8.

The Academic Enrichment students in sixth grade are reading "The Golden Goblet," a historical novel about Egypt. They will soon be creating their own pyramids.

The eighth grade students just finished their hurricane forecasting experience through an on-line unit from the University of Michigan. Over 200 schools in the nation participated in this unit. The group of Erica Johnson and Shenna Killam had the best score of all participating schools for Hurricane Lester. Students also forecasted Hurricane Mitch.

The 6A team is involved in the Big 2 project while studying about Egypt.

The 6B team is going on a field trip to Eddy Geology Center in Chelsea on Nov. 12. The 6C team has been working on the beautification of Oakwood Cemetery.

Mejers of Northville and Brickspoke donated the 200 daffodil bulbs the students planted. Danman Hardware also donated tools for this job.

The 7B team will read "Waiting for the Rain," along with the study of Africa. In math enrichment, students built toothpick bridges. The first place bridge could withstand over 800 grams. Students participated in the annual Cooke cook out. Other garden produce was donated to the senior citizens.

In a special presentation, Alan Shanoski talked to PTSA about a program the 6A team is involved in called "Kids Helping Kids." The class is learning about Afghanistan country and culture. They will be helping the children to get an education and build a school. Mrs. Nedum spoke on the history and invasion of Afghanistan and the idea to help build a school through fund raisers and other activities.

An optional DARE program for the sixth grade will be offered starting Jan. 18. This 17-week program will be held before school from 7:30-8:10 a.m. Officer Mays will distribute flyers to the sixth grade.

Make a Difference Day was very successful. A big thank you to the Dunkerly's for the benches in the front of the building.

In November, the Student Council will participate in the student council exchange. The Science Fair will take place from Dec. 14-17.

Dwight Siegreen has been nominated for the WDIV Teacher of the Year.

IOWA test results are expected by Thanksgiving.

Anyone who has a suggestion for a support group topic can contact the counselors.

The Cooke Carnival was a big success and the profit was $5,552. Many students were unchaperoned at the Carnival.

For PTSA membership, 75% of Cooke families and 62% of the staff has joined PTSA.

The deadline for the Reflections contest is Dec. 18. Entries can be made in the following categories: literature, music, photography, and visual arts. The theme is "Suddenly You Turned Around and..."

The Safe Home program is in need of a volunteer to represent Cooke.

Anyone interested in being on the nominating committee to help select a slate for next year's officers should contact PTSA President Diane Houren.

Students caught being good are: Dominique Desira, Jimmy Engstrom, Laura Rogers, Andrea League, Matt Melvin, Katie Blake, Theresa Adkins, Kathleen Egan, Sarah Manley, Amy Knuth, Travis Orenbua and Stephanie Kinsman.

Citizens of the Month are: Team 6A - Shannon Zingle and Mike Tasse; Team 6B - Tasha Vardya and Mac Siler; Team 6C - John Mase and Shannon Farris; Team 7A - Justin Hagan and Mary Schubert; Team 7B - Jacob Vitale and Katie Keisel; Team 8A - Nikki Watts.

Stephanie Kinsman and Alex Karcho; and Team 8B - Ben Sherman, Susanna Klineck and Jim Rich. Colleague of the Month is Christine McDonald - Brando Resources. The next Cooke PTSA meeting will be held on Thursday, Dec. 3, at 9:15 a.m.

OWL Chapter plans holiday brunch

The Farmington Chapter of the Older Women's League will begin the holiday season with a festive buffet brunch at historic Boisford Inn on Sunday, Dec. 6, at 11:30 a.m.

The brunch will feature a silent auction and the raffle of a $100 Shadowland gift certificate and a beautiful, hand-made Christmas wreath. The Extension Chords, an ensemble from the award-winning Sweet Adelines East Pointe Chorus, will entertain with a variety of traditional and new vocal selections. In the spirit of the season, they will conduct a brief sing-along.

This is the principal fund raiser for Farmington OWL, and proceeds enable the Chapter to continue the vital work of advocating for a better quality of life for older women.

Tickets are $20 and must be paid in advance by Nov. 29.

For information, call (248) 478-2635 after 6 p.m.

Guests invited to attend meeting

The Northville Woman's Club will meet on Friday, Nov. 20, at 1:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, 200 East Main Street in Northville.

Guest speaker Ruth Ann Melikan's topic will be "Fairlane, The Henry Ford Estate." Chairperson of the day is Karen Poulos.

This is a guest day. If you are interested in attending, contact a Northville Woman's Club member or call president Lorna Lemmon at (248) 348-2587.

Residents attend DAR meeting

The Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter of the DAR met for their 71st Birthday Luncheon last week at the Hawthorn Valley Country Club in Westland.

Northville and Novi residents who are members of the Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter include Phoebe Hull, Patricia Keyes, Kathleen Leo, Mimi McDonald, Toni McDonald, Ardis Meled, Rebecca Miller, Susan Petres, Paula Stuart and Barbara Tremble.

Somewhere between Los Angeles and New York, student finds true meaning of Christmas

Jonathan Taylor Thomas stars as Jake Wilkinson, a self-absorbed college student, who, just days before Christmas awakens to find himself stranded in the middle of the California desert — wearing a Santa suit and a white beard glued to his face.

The butt of a pay-back by the football team who thinks he double-crossed them by not providing the correct answers to a finals exam, Jake has to find a way to get to New York by 6 p.m. on Christmas Eve — and catch up with his girlfriend Alle (Jessica Biel) who is on the road with the school stud Eddie (Adam Lovagor) — or risk forfeiting the vintage Porsche his father (Gary Cole) promised if his son comes home for the holidays.

As Jake desperately hitches a ride with his girlfriend Alle, offering her the ride home for the holidays that Jake failed to provide.

As he hitchhikes, free-lances, cons, lies, crawls, races and bullies his way east, Jake sets in motion a comedy of errors involving a series of eccentric and amusing characters who both help and hinder him on his way.

Will he make his deadline to New York City — and Brings You...

Pipas, 2nd doubles team named HomeTown all-area

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

For years anyone interested in playing club tennis in the Northville and Novi areas had to travel to Farmington, West Bloomfield or Ann Arbor to satisfy their appetite.

But when the Novi Sports Club opened up this fall, a whole new window of opportunities popped up. Now girls and boys, men and women now have a place to play when Michigan's weather turns nasty, without traveling great distances to do so.

"We've already got all of our girls playing there," Northville coach Uta Filkin said. "Usually the kids take a break from tennis and concentrate on school or other activities, but it seemed like the girls started playing inside the day after states."

Northville and Novi players used to have to travel to North Farmington or Ann Arbor to play during Michigan's bad seasons. With the Sports Club located just off Novi Road between Nine and Ten Mile roads, players from both communities as well as South Lyon, Milford and Lakeland High Schools can cut down on travel time.

Eventually the quality of tennis in the immediate area is going to rise, it's just a matter of how long from now.

At least for now, HomeTown's all-area squad still is. But as the interest in tennis begins to peak as head into the surrounding South Lyon, Milford and Lakeland communities, it won't be long before those schools start catching up.

Just as the Mustangs and Wildcats have done.

Here's a look at HomeTown's first team, which reflects the great season turned in by both Northville and Novi, both state finalists.

Sarah Pipas Novi senior

The Wildcat's No. 1 singles player had one of the most impressive seasons in team history, posting an incredible 21-5 record at the toughest level in tennis.

She won the Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) championship, leading her team to its third-straight league crown, and finished as a regional finalist in the Division 1 regional at Livonia Stevenson.

As a captain, Pipas won her first match at the state meet before falling to the state semifinalist from West Bloomfield in the second.

"I think you can say she did a tremendous job for us," Novi coach Jim Hanson said. "In terms of dedication and preparation, she's one of the best players we've ever had at this school."

Jessie Mills Northville junior

Aside from a few of her teammates in practice, little stood in the way of Mills this year on the hard court. The junior finished the season with a 23-3 record after winning both conference and regional championships.

After receiving a bye in the first round at the Division I state meet, she went on to win her second round match before bowing out in the quarterfinals. She's a repeat first-team selection at second singles.

"I think she was greatly improved (from last year)," Filkin said. "She's getting more and more tournament experience and she's starting to find the resources she has within herself."

Lauren West Northville freshman

West posted a 23-3 record in her first year on the varsity. She, along with fellow freshman Marta Walasek, took the area by storm by winning a regional championship and finishing runnerup at the Western Lakes conference tournament.

"I knew she was coming," her coach said. "She is an all-around player with no weaknesses. There's a lot of adaptation at the high school level and it's always a big step for a freshman to come in and play singles. She's really going to push Kerry (Woolfall) and Jessie (Mills) next year."

Marta Walasek Northville freshman

The other half of the Mustang freshmen duo, Walasek thrived at the fourth singles flight. She finished 23-3 en route to conference and regional championships. She was second third at the state tournament and lived up to it, making it all the way to the state semifinals before losing to the eventual champion.

"Marta is just half a step behind Lauren in match experience," Filkin said. "Once she gets a little more match experience, she'll be a force."

Julie Glock Northville senior

Kara Anderson Northville senior

Although Filkin rarely lets her doubles teams play more than a year together, how could she say no to this pair? Anderson and Glock earned all-state honors a year ago and performed every bit as well in their senior season.

The two posted a 22-4 record while winning both the conference and regional titles. Glock and Anderson lost just three games total in each tournament.

At the state meet, the pair was seeded second and reached the semifinals before losing to Birmingham Marian 6-7 (6-0, 5-7).

"They've been so powerful and so good for two years now," Filkin said. "Julie has a big serve and great ground strokes and Kara is great at the net. They were a good combination. I'm going to have a big hole in my doubles lineup."

Trent Schneider, senior defenseman, Matt Day and Ryan Major, junior forwards, Dan Sorega, Jeff Goff and Jason Perras, sophomore forwards, Kurt Russell and Angelo Barbra, sophomore defensemen, Justin Harvey and freshman forward Geoff Papette.

The team will play a 24-game schedule, 12 of which will be against Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) foes. The team will also face Northville, West Bloomfield and Dearborn Heights Crestwood twice each.

"I know that Brighton and Milford are going to be tough. They are perennial powerhouses," Phelps said. "I think this year the KVC will be a very competitive title to shoot for."

"I think we'll be very competitive. This is a first-year program. I think it's going to take time for these kids, but to get to learn to play with each other," Phelps said. "As a coach, all I can ask right now is that they go out there and give me 100 percent every time they are on that ice. If they're doing that we feel that our success rate will be there."

After tomorrow's game with Northville, the Cats are off until next Wednesday when they travel to Compuware to take on South Lyon.

"Everybody has been super with me as far as supporting this team," Phelps said. "Dr. Cheal, John Lawrence, Chuck Hughes, John Fundukian, all of them have been very supportive and we want to put a good product on the ice for them."

*Denotes - Kensington Valley Conference Game

McDONALD FORD SALUTES NOVI ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

Kristen Kearney - Senior

Kearney helped her team to a season-ending 63-53 win over Lakeland to claim sole-possession of third place in the Kensington Valley Conference. The senior earned first-team all KVC honors this past weekend in a vote by conference coaches. Teammates Kelly Bendernagel and Kristen McGlennen were second-team selections.

Novi all-state soccer players

Several soccer players earned all-state honors last week in voting by the states coaches.

Senior midfielder Alan Lyskawa earned "Dream Team" honors as one of the 11 best players in the state, regardless of class. Along with that honor, he was also an all-state, region, and district pick.

Seniors Derek Ornekian and Rusty Herbst were also named Division 1 first-team all-state. The two were among the top 14 players in the state. Seniors Matt Smith and Doug Gibson received honorable mention all-state status. Along with those honors, the pair were all-region and all-district selections.

Novi won its first-ever state championship in soccer this season with a 4-0 win over Brighton in the finals.

The televised taping of the game will be aired this Sunday by Time Warner cable in Novi.

Five Novi flights make 2nd team

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

As the quality of tennis continues to grow in metro-Detroit, every flight seems to get deeper and deeper. Thus, HomeTown has put together a collection of talent worthy of second-team honors.

Kerry Woolfall Northville sophomore

After winning a state championship at third singles last year, Woolfall lost to the eventual state champion this year. Despite the second-round exit at the state meet, Woolfall still finished with an 18-8 record at the games' toughest flight.

She finished as a regional semifinalist and runnerup at the Western Lakes Activities Association tournament.

"For her to come from third singles to first singles is quite a jump," her coach Uta Filkin said. "I think last year was a case of the under dog syndrome for her."

Judy Namm Novi senior

Just like any coach would draw it up, Namm saved her best tennis for last. The senior won a regional championship and went on to finish as a state quarterfinalist.

"She's a very, very athletic and quick player," Novi coach Jim Hanson said. "You know that she's going to give you 110 percent every match. It's nice to have a 1-2 punch like that."

Namm finished the season with a 14-7 record and a second-place finish at the conference tournament.

Jodi Berg Milford senior

Confidence was the name of Berg's game this season. Berg was 10-5 in her matches this year.

"This was a real coming of age year for Jodi," Milford coach Rich Kynast said. "Once she had a couple of wins, her confidence kept rolling."

Berg finished runnerup to Brighton at the Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) meet.

Taeke Nakazawa Novi junior

Nakazawa turned in a similar season to that of her teammate, Namm. The junior finished second at the KVC tournament, but came back to win a regional title a week later.

She lost in the first round at the state meet, but still managed to put together a 22-5 record, second best on the team.

"She was a pleasant surprise for us this year," Hanson said. "Taeke's role next year will be much bigger. She has a lot of potential."

Rebecca Rittner Novi senior

Tara Stevens Novi junior

There wasn't a flight on HomeTown's all-area teams closer than this one. Rittner and Stevens fell in three sets to Kara Anderson and Julie Glock of Northville and went on to finish with their team's best record. Stevens played one more match than her teammate, and finished with a school record 23 wins against just three defeats. Rittner was 22-3.

The pair won the KVC title as well as the regional championship at Livonia Stevenson. "As a doubles team, they are one of the better ones I've ever had," Hanson said. "They are an aggressive doubles team which worked well together."

Kristin Potchynok Northville senior

Angela Trappell Northville junior

Despite winning the fewest matches in Northville's starting lineup, the duo still finished with an impressive 15-4 record.

Potchynok and Trappell won the conference tournament and went on to win a regional crown as well. Potchynok was the steady force who made very few mistakes, while Trappell used her flat ground strokes for consistency.

Maureen Vermeulen Novi senior

Jill Buckman Novi senior

This pair of seniors were the best in the KVC, winning the third doubles championship. Vermeulen was 19-6 and Buckman 18-6 and the two finished as regional semifinalists. They went on to receive a bye at the state tournament before bowing out in the second round.

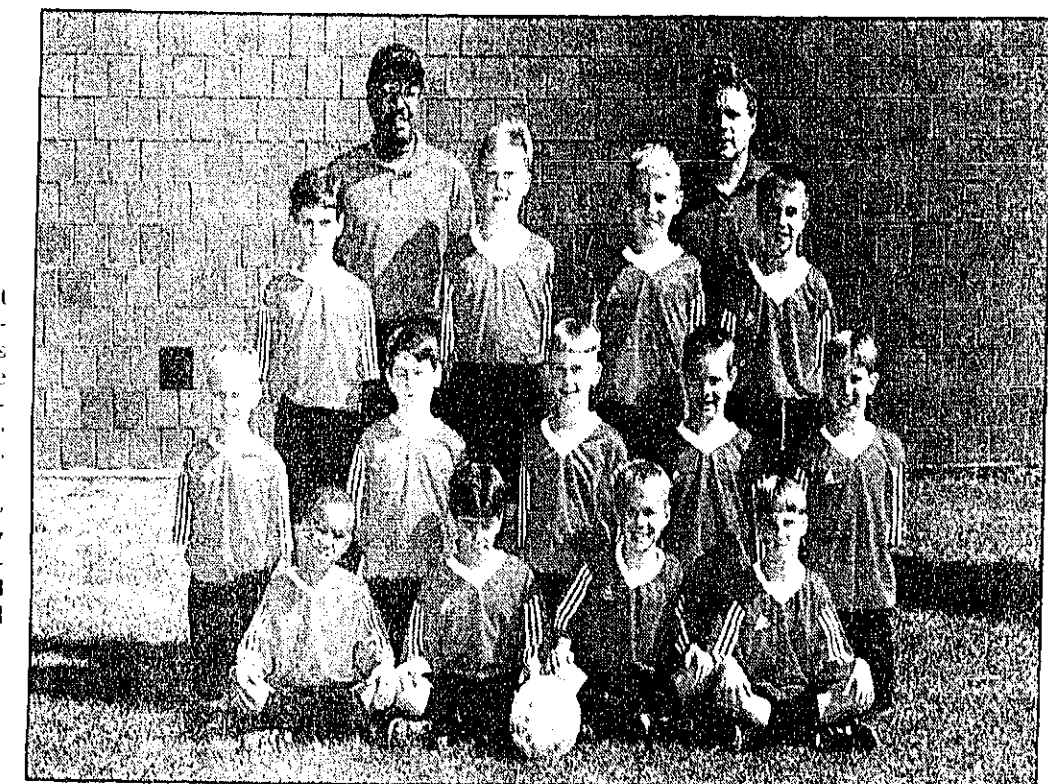

"These two got better every match this year," Hanson said. "By the end of the year they were playing excellent tennis. These two will be missed, as all the seniors will be."

Lindsay Pahl Novi senior

Christina Cypher Novi sophomore

Pahl won her second-straight KVC title at fourth doubles while providing a good mix with her sophomore partner. Pahl was 17-3 in her first season on varsity.

"Lindsay is such a steady player," her coach said. "I know exactly what I was going to get from her each time out. It's tough sometimes getting two players to play well together, but this team really worked out well."
