Ducky in the middle

They say "three's a crowd." And that certainly proved to be the case last week when three mallard ducks found themselves meandering thoughtfully in the middle of the intersection at Main and Washington. Probably trying to decide whether or not to swim in the Mill Pond on West Washington or Parke Lake off East Washington, the ducks circled and paraded for several minutes while careful drivers attempted to

Neighbors oppose day care center

■ Independence Township residents visited the planning commission Thursday to vigorously oppose a proposed day care center for the northwest corner of Clarkston and Pine Knob roads.

Not in my backyard, said residents who turned out for an Independence Township Planning Commission meeting Thursday to oppose a day care center proposed in their neighborhood.

More than 10 residents voiced opposition to the proposed project — a 6,000-square-foot facility on six acres at the northwest corner of Clarkston and Pine Knob roads.

Anybody can make a mistake, right?

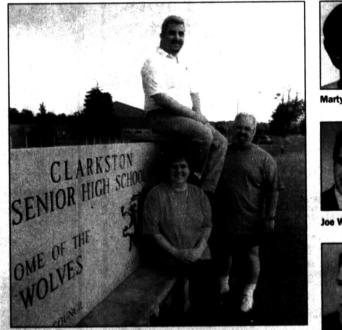

When reporters make them, they're a lot more public, though, — being out there, so to speak, for the whole world to see.

Pity the poor reporter who this week typed: "The Springfield Township Board expects a larger-thanusual crow at a July 14 public hearing..."

The computer spell check would have let "crow," which should have been "crowd," go into print and infinity — not knowing the difference between the two words, much to the reporter's chagrin.

reporter's chagrin. Our reporter is savvy, though. She doesn't roly completely on spell check anymore. She learned her lesson the hard way a long time ago when she encouraged her readers to attend a "pubic" hearing! Hey! Whoa! That should have been public.

Clarkston High School will cease to operate as a high school after June, but some students who walked that building's halls during its 38-year run say they will not forget from where they graduated.

In the following recollections, CHS alumni perhaps attest to the notion that any truly successful institution ultimately transcends the confines of time, bureaucracy, bricks and mortar.

Any truly successful institution ultimately reflects the spirit of its humanity.

Laura (Acton) Phou — Class of 1979

"I just always felt that I was well-prepared by the Clarkston staff. I went on to Alma College and I did well against kids from Midland, Saginaw and lots of other places.

Today, as an instructional support specialist in math at Pine Knob Elementary, I still find myself on many committees with teachers I had in high school!

My fondest memory of my time at Clarkston High School was being in the band under (band director) Cliff Chapman. I twirled a rifle on the rifle line and I thought that was pretty exciting. I also played bass clarinet in the wind ensemble.

I remember that I ran track under coach Gordie Richardson. I was a sprinter, a relay person and a long jumper. (For a while, I even held a school record as a sprinter!)

Sheila (Goins) Hughes — Class of 1963

"I remember all the great teachers that were there in 1960-63. We were a very small school and they knew each one of us. One of the things that stands out most in my memories are the dances that we had every Friday night after all the home football and basketball games. Everyone was there you never missed a dance. They were held in the cafeteria. During the summer time, we had dances on the 'old tennis courts' that are now a parking lot. Our teachers worked for the parks and recreation department and helped put on and Cynthia Lohmeier.

In contrast, planning commis-sioners earlier in that evening voted 6-1 to grant a special land use and conceptual site plan approval for another day care project. Commissioner Dan Travis abstained because he was not present during the project's ntation.

To be located at Calvary Evan-elical Lutheran Church on Bluegrass Drive just off Main Street in an area where several other commercial buildings exist, the Christian-based day care center doesn't raise the same issues as Jackson's project.

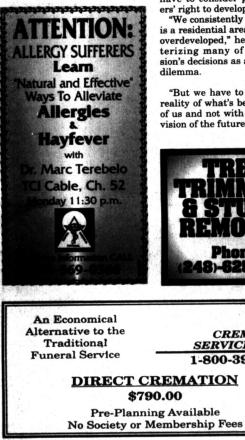

contrast underscores residents' strong desire to preserve the rural character of the township, particularly in residential areas, and fear that commercial development cannot be contained within designated areas.

Many residents said they wed to the community precisely because they wished to live in a relatively private, rural set-

Allowing a commercial day care center to go up in a residen tial district threatened that and was unnecessary since other locations, like the Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church, could accommodate such services.

"When we first moved there, we saw cows," said Cindy Keil, who lives on Greenview Drive. "Many of us moved here for that ... I'll drive to Foodtown, but I

n't want to live there. Resident Beverly Morey, who stood cradling an infant throughout the discussion, said she opposed the project because of potential traffic volume increas-

We have to deal with the reality of what's being requested of us and not with our glass ball vision of the future.'

Steve Board -planning commission chair

es "Put in a day care center there, (and) at prime times you're going to have a ton of cars

While commissioners Dan Travis and Jill Palulian both said they felt the center was inappropriate for the area, other members of the Planning Commissioner talked about finding ways to make the project work, given the need for day care service

"I have no problem with the use as long as certain issues get addressed," Lohmeier said. "That's (within residential areas) where the need is."

"Having these facilities in the area where people use them is an advantage," Oppmann said. "We're all intelligent enough to know that we're going to need day care in that area," Jackson added, offering to conduct a traffic study and redesign the day care center to look more like a house.

Board requested that a demographics study also be conducted to determine who would use the center and from where they would be traveling.

Board said he empathized with sidents' concerns, but that the Planning Commission would also have to consider property own-ers' right to develop their land.

"We consistently hear that this is a residential area that is being overdeveloped," he said, characterizing many of the commission's decisions as a struggle and dilemma.

"But we have to deal with the reality of what's being requested of us and not with our glass ball vision of the future."

the dances in the summer." (Hughes, a long-time Indepen-dence Township, serves on the Clarkston School Board.)

Tim O'Rourke — Class of 1996

"My brother, my sister and I all had Mr. (Dave) Bihl for psy-chology. That covered us being in his class for 11 years! He was a great teacher. He probably influenced me the most during or time in high school. He my time in high school. He taught me interesting ways to k at life ...

I also remember being at basketball and football games cially being up 'in the jungle' ... I still have this image of me coming back to the same old gym someday, but it won't be the same. The new school's gym will be one that I have no connection to

Marty (Madison) Wilson -Class of 1964

Jim Wilson — Class of 1962 Joe Wilson — Class of 1986

"I was in the first Marty class to go all four years through the 'new' high school. I just remember that it was so big. And it was brand, spanking new I especially can recall being in Mills' world geography class Bob in 11th grade when the Kennedy assassination was announced the P.A. It was my brothove er's 15th birthday that day.

I don't remember any girls earing slacks in school. But with the short skirts we wore, sometimes 'short' was too short. If the school thought someone's skirt was too short, there would be a check. You'd have to kneel down and your hem had to touch the floor ... The music you could understand. And there were great dances after home games. There was a lot less pressure on kids back then."

Joe — "I remember my friends, my drama teacher Barb Gibson, my vocal teacher Grayce Warren — and the stage."

(White Lake Township residents, Marty and Jim Wilson, have been married for 30 years and are the parents of Joe.) Ben O'Rourke - Class of

"After being cut for three years in a row, I made the basketball team in my senior year. I basically BEGGED my way on it! I remember the excitement for basketball, hearing AC/DC's You Shook Me All Night Long and Ozzy Ozbourne's 'Crazy Train' at the home games. Ít was such a ritual every Friday night ...

I was friends with the janitors because they'd let me into the gym to shoot baskets after games. Dave Merz and Andy Pinner, in particular, were great guys. And one janitor — who shall remain nameless — once gave me a tour of the tunnels underneath the school!

.. Our senior class picked Nancy Needham to be homecoming queen and I'm still proud of us for doing that. She wasn't the typical 'prettiest-girl-in-theschool-who-usually-gets-picked. It's not that she wasn't pretty. But we picked her for who she was -- someone who was a good person to everyone - and I think that said something about our class.

(O'Rourke lives in San Diego today and is an officer in the U.S. Marine Corps. In his second tour of duty, he recruits college students at Camp Pendleton become officers in the to Marines. Nancy Needham, 1990's homecoming queen, is a well-liked elementary teacher in the Clarkston School District.)

Scott Meyland - Class of 1985

"I remember that while I was at CHS, Kaari Peterson, class president of 1980, painted murals of Bob Seger and Boston on the lockers ... And I remem-ber that Miss (Jan) Modesitt, Mr. (Ned) Burdick, Mr. (Jim) Wenger and Mrs. (Carol) Arend were all great teachers. Mrs. Arend, my French teacher, would kill me if I didn't mention this: When I was a senior, we (the French class) went to Paris on spring break and that was just a wonderful experience . - I remember that our assistant principal, Mr. (John) Kirchgessner, was killed in a plane crash the year after I graduated. He was a really good guy. (Meyland is a Chrysler engineer today. He and his wife Sue, another 1985 CHS grad, live on Clarkston's Main Street.)

Billee Hampshire Silva -Class of 1982

"Sixteen years have passed. Life pushed me on to new school colors and new school songs, but my memories of CHS are monumental. Drama club. the mime troupe, Junior Miss, football games, the excitement in 1980 when Tim McCormick led the Clarkston basketball team to the state championship ... the spe-cial teachers ... the long-lost friendships ... As the new senior high school prepares to open in August, I can't help but feel a little bit of melancholy. Clarkston High School is not only a memory, but a part of who I am. The education I received there prepared me for the rollercoaster we call life."

(Silva faxed her recollection from Edison Community College in Fort Meyers, Fla.)

Karen (Willson) Roe — Class of 1974

"On 'unofficial' senior skip day, six or seven cars of kids went to the zoo. But it was closed when we got there! It was a Monday and we hadn't realized the zoo was closed on Mondays! remember Mr. Bonner taught us to memorize the U.S. presidents in 11th-grade American government ... And our class song was 'Time in a Bottle,' by Jim Croce.

The girls still wore skirts and the strip still were skirts and dresses to school, but there were also a lot of jeans. We used to stop at a shop on Main Street after school and drink sodas. (Roe lives in Auburn Hills with her husband and four children.)

Cricket (Embrey) Bishop

Class of 1965 "We used to use the high school tennis courts in the summer for dances ... The '60s music was the best — it'll never be repeated. Bill Mackson was my biology teacher. He was wonderful! ... And I'll always remember the high school gym. I was a cheerleader on those floors. We just had a good time. It was wholesome fun. It was so simple back then."

(Bishop moved away from Clarkston after high school graduation, but returned 18 years later with her husband and children. She works at the Parsonage on Main Street.)

Cliff Chapman — CHS band director from 1977 to the present

In a recent band booster newsletter, Chapman described the passage of CHS this way:

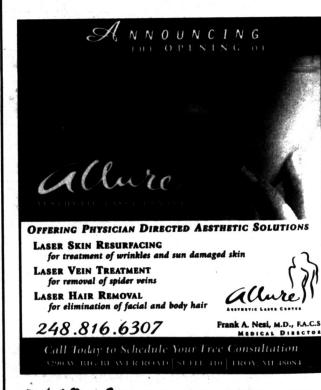

.. Our greatest asset will always be the people, not the building, and I sincerely feel that these 'ghosts' (memories of the past) will indeed travel with us to the new school, fully deserving of all it offers ... I sincerely hope that we will not forget from where we came, that our appreciation remains most for the students, parents, staff and community

I know that when we play on the new (CHS) stage for the first time, two thoughts will cross my mind. One, would only it be pos-sible to have every former student enjoy that same experience, and secondly, the 'ring' of the Kirchgessner Theater ghosts resonating within the hall along with our students and friends. What a wonderful event it will be, and one that tweaks my impatience and stirs just a bit of reluctance. After all, we are letting go as we move on.'

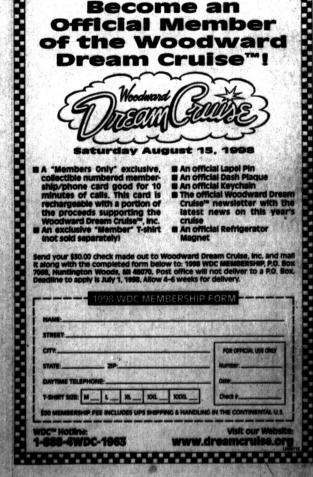

Good-bye, Clarkston High School. May your people continue to carry you forward in their hearts.

2 candidates seek 1 seat on school board

Charles Hensley and Sheila Hughes are com-peting for one four-year term on the Clarkston school board. Hughes is an incumbent. Hensley is running for the first time. Voters will be is running for the first time. Voters will be asked to chose between the two candidates in a June 8 election.

Charles W. Hensley

Age: 38 Educational background: laude); MBA in 1996 (honors graduate)

Career history: 1990-present, General Motors Saturn Corp., senior project engineer; 1986-1990, Chrysler Corp., qual-ity engineer; 1978-1982, U.S. Army 82nd Airborne Division, Sergeant (E-5)

Family info: Married since 1979 to high school sweetheart Pamela J. Hensley who works for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan as a security systems integrator; one daughter, Misty Dawn Hensley, a Clarkston High School senior graduating with honors in June. Misty will attend Albion College in August.

Previous elected offices held/community involve-ment: Member of Lake Orion Masonic Lodge No. 46, member

(past treasurer) of Pine Knob Missionary Baptist Church in Clarkston

Number of years living in school district: Nine plus years in Clarkston

Why are you running for school board? I believe that I can have a I believe that I can have a positive influence on the Clark-ston schools. My decisions would be made using sound logic, fairness and honesty.

What makes you qualified to serve as a school board member?

I firmly believe that I have truly developed a strong problem solving skillset that I have developed over the course of 12 years in the automotive industry. I work in future car engineering, and the top priority is to resolve problems that can affect a diverse customer market. I believe that my master's degree provides me the fundamentals to review and suggest improvements in the yearly budgets for the Clarkston school system. I believe that education and hard work are the ways that we can defeat poverty. Every child deserves the opportunity to succeed! I believe that I could work well with the current board for the next four years.

How many school board meetings have you attended in the past 12 months? I believe the number is approximately three to five meetings. What do you believe is the biggest issue that will face the Clarkston school district

The biggest issues facing the district will be planning and dealing with the continued growth in the district. The ability to offer the right classes and maintain smaller class sizes will be a great task. We must work to offer a safe environment for both the students and teachers. Our teachers are one of our greatest assets, and we must never let them forget it.

On what or whom will you base the majority of your decisions for the district?

My decisions will be based upon what is fair and equitable for the majority of the students and the community. I believe that schools must continue to improve the education being offered to the students. I am proud of my Christian, conservative background and I do not like to spend money foolishly. I will encourage input from all members before decisions are made.

Have you reviewed the district's budget? Do you believe it's fiscally responsible?

Yes, I have reviewed the budget. The board (with Mr. Kahler's help) has done a good job with a very large budget. Can they do better? I would say that we can always do better ... I promise you as a board member that we will have full cooperation and disclosure when it comes to spending money in the Clarkston School District.

School officials are currently examining the addi-tion of foreign language instruction - most likely Spanish - at the elementary level. Do you believe elemen tary foreign language should be a top consideration in the formation of next year's budget?

I would like to see foreign language offered at the elementary level, but I do not believe that it should be a top considera-tion. I ask you, what good is foreign language to our children in elementary that can't do basic reading, writing or basic math? Why don't we make teaching the basics a top consideration and once we are successful at the first to six grades on these, then let's move foreign language up on the priority list.

Pepsi will advertise its products on soda pop vend-ing machines at Clarkston's new high school. That contract will save the district $40,000 on six fountain-type dispensers. Would you support additional commercial contracts at the high school?

This is an area that needs careful evaluation and consideration. I could support commercial advertising contracts for areas involving food and drinks; however, sports and athletics are something else. We should not

Is the Clarkston School District doing an excellent, fair or poor job involving parents in school improve ment and other decisionmaking committees? Why?-

The opportunities are available if parents want to become involved. However, the challenge before all of us is how to get the parents of the average and poor students to become more involved. The challenge is to find a way to encourage participation from all parents. There is to easy answer for this today.

Do you believe the district is doing an excellent, fair or poor job ensuring students' safety at school?

I believe that the school is doing an excellent job. Let's not forget that safety is everyone's responsibility, not just the faculty's! Parents and students have to be involved in keeping safety measures and ensuring that these measures are enforced. By working together, we can have a drug-free and violence-free environment in our schools. Our teachers have to feel that their environment is safe in order for them to teach effectively.

poor job ensuring students' safety at school?

I believe that we are doing a good job. We have not had some of the problems that other districts are having. The board did not have any issue involving student violence reach our level this spring, or year that I recall. With the number of students we have in some buildings, one would think there would be more problems. Our staff does a great job of teaching respect to our stu-dents. They try to deal with the issue as it comes up.

Sheila (Goins) Hughes

Age: 53

Educational background: Clarkston High School

Career history: Accounts payable clerk for Parda Federal Credit Union

Family info: Married to James; two sons, Scott, a junior at Michigan State University, and Jason, a junior at Clarkston High School

Previous elected offices held/community involve-ment: Member of the Clarkston Area Optimist, Clarkston Foundation and the new Clarkston Alumni Association. Served on the Vision 20/20 for Independence Township, parent volunteer for more than 15 years and member of the Athletic and Band Booster.

Number of years living in the school district: More than 30 years

Why are you running for school board?

I have served on the board for the last eight years and during that time, we have passed three major bond issues for the children of the district. The last bond issue will be starting to take place in the next year and continue until year 2000. I want to see that to_completion and also make sure that all of the new programs-we are starting and studying are carried out. The bottom line for our board is the students of Clarkston and how we can prepare them to become productive citizens as and served as PTA/PTO officer at elementary, middle and high school. I attend as many student events as time will allow, and I am certified by the Michigan School Board Association.

How many school board meetings have you attended in the past 12 months?

We have averaged two to three meetings a month this year. That would make at least 36 meetings or more. During my eight years on the board I have only missed one meeting and that was not a regular meeting. My commitment to this district is very strong. It takes a lot of ' time, and not just "a board meeting once a month.

What do you believe is the biggest issue that will face the Clarkston School District in the next five years? unding wi alway base the majority of your decisions for the district?

During the last eight years, all of my decisions for the district have been based on what is best for all the students; that is the bottom line. That will continue to be my focus - the education of the students, after all, that is the business that we're in. A board is made up of seven individuals. They may not all think alike, but they must think of what is best for the students of Clarkston.

Have you reviewed the district's budget? Do you believe it's fiscally responsible?

Yes and yes. There's a lot more to the budget than just reviewing it. You have to understand where the dollars come from, the number of students. how the per-pupil allocation works. Just reading the budget doesn't make you an expert on how the district is run.

School officials are currently examining the addition of foreign language instruction - most likely Spanish - at the elementary level. Do you believe elementary foreign language should be a top consideration in the formation of next year's budget?

Foreign language instruction at the elementary level should be considered in the budget for next year. Should it be a top consideration — that's a question that can only be decided once the study is completed and the details are presented to the board.

Pepsi will advertise its products on soda pop vend-ing machines at Clarkston's new high school. That consave the district $40,000 on six fountain-type dispensers. Would you support additional commercial advertising contracts at the high school. The board has always had guidelines on advertising in our district, and we have added to those guidelines. We will not be advertising names of products. at this time, on our score boards. etc. As I stated before, what is the best for our kids, and our district. Any benefits from adver-tising, partnerships, joint ventures must be for our whole dis-

What makes you qualified to serve as a school board member?

As stated earlier, I have been a parent volunteer for over 15 years, and prior to running for the board for the first time. We have to be creative with the money, along with having a strong plan for the future. We are a growing dis-trict, and I hope with the new elementary and high school along with the additions to the existing buildings - we will be taking care of the space issue for sometime.

Perk up the patio

BY DONNA MULCAHY

When it comes to knowing where to buy patio lights, I'm completely in the dark. I'm not talking about landscape lights that you stake in the ground, but strings of lights that you can hang around a covered porch, patio or deck. You know, the kind that look like white Christmas tree lights or colorful plastic Chinese lanterns or cabana lights. Those kind.

Anyway, I had no idea they'd be so hard to find. I searched for them at Sears, Franks Nursery & Crafts, Builders Square, Target, Kohl's, Hudson's and Crowley's -to no avail. When I couldn't find them on my own, approached salespeople at each of those stores, and they all told me the same thing, "We don't carry them." I guess the MULCAH I guess the moral of this story is to buy patio lights at

Home Depot, ACO Hardware, Kmart,

Christmas time when they're easier to find. Oh well. While I was looking for those lights, I came across some other things to help make relaxing outdoors even more enjoyable.

If you like sitting around a campfire or cozying up next to a fireplace, then you'd probably like a chiminea. What's a chiminea? It's a Mexican terra cotta fireplace that you can place on your patio or deck. (But please follow the directions carefully and keep children and pets away from it because the exterior can get very hot.)

Chimineas provide welcome warmth on cool evenings, add ambience and burn aromatic wood to keep mosquitoes away. Estes Park in downtown Rochester is one store that carries them ($125-$175). For more information, call Estes Park, which specializes in unique furnishings for the home, cottage and garden, at (248) 656-4443.

Most people know that citronella candles are useful in repelling mos-quitoes. But did you know that citronella is a tall aromatic grass grown primarily in Sri Lanka? I didn't, until I read it on a sign at Cost Plus World Market, which has stores in Rochester Hills, Westland and a new location in Troy, opening June 4.

You can find citronella candles in a variety of whimsical shapes, sizes and colors, at stores like Cost Plus World Market. Pier One Imports. Crowley's, Kohl's, etc. At Cost Plus World Market, you can even get one in a clay bowl with a mosquito pin stuck on top, for $4.99. (Hopefully, it will be the only mosquito you'll see once the candle is lit.)

Another way to keep those pesky insects away is with mosquito net-ting. At Pier One Imports, you can get a mosquito net for about $55. According to the package, the white, 100 percent nylon net can be "hung over a bed for a decorative touch, or outdoors over patio furniture." The net is 8 feet 2 inches tall, has a circumference of 41 feet 9 inches, and is attached to a white plastic 25-inch diameter ring at the top, so it's plenty big. And when you're under it, you can pretend you're in the jungle. Pier One Imports has locations in Farmington, Farmington Hills, Novi, Rochester, Royal Oak, Pontiac and Westland. Here's a little problem most everyone can relate to. What do you do when you're sitting outside in a lawn chair and want to set down your can of pop or glass of iced tea and there's no table around? You could put your drink on the ground and risk someone coming by and tipping it over. Or you could use something like The Beverage Butler or The Amazing Clamp-It. Both are cup holders designed to clamp around lawn chairs without any tools. The Beverage Butler is made for plastic lawn chairs and is sold in sets of two at Kohl's for $6.99. The Amazing Clamp-It is made for most lawn chairs and baby strollers, according to its label, and can be mounted horizontally, vertically or on an angle. I found it for $2.33 at ACO Hardware in Westland. Hmmm. I bet Bronner's in Frankenmuth or Old World Canterbury Village in Orion Township would have those lights with its art-inspired inventory.

Cozy is quaint but there's something to be said for wide open spaces. And that's just what DeCillis has in her new digs -- a contemporary light-filled gallery with 5,000 square feet of dis-play area.

For her grand opening in June, DeCillis will celebrate in Parisian style. An exhibit of original posters from Willi's Wine Bar in Paris debuts June 1 at the Gallery. The posters are imported directly from the wine bar, an intimate 30-seat bar and restaurant on the fashionable Rue des Petits Champs behind the Palais Royal gardens

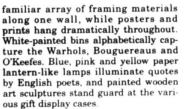

Each year the enterprising owners of this popular watering hole commis-sion and publish a new poster from a different artist to advertise their estab-lishment," says DeCillis. "The resulting images are always dynamic and bold and are printed in France on a heavy stock of museum-quality paper as stone lithographs or serigraphs."

Many of the posters have become highly collectible, including the original 1984 print by Cassandre from a design he created in 1935, but never used. A collector suggested that this fabulous example of graphic art should be brought to life. Cassandre agreed and Willi's first poster was born in a print run of 2,000.

The artist is chosen each year around grape harvest time, and the images all reflect the ambience of the wine bar. This year's poster, by Sophie Herxheimer, portrays a whimsical drawing of a mermaid emerging from a wine glass filled with tiny everyday folk art objects -- flowers, birds, a shoe, a chair, lips and musical notes.

"Advertising art has really grown in popularity," says DeCillis. "It began in France and continues to flourish there." DeCillis also has Dutch and Italian posters. "If you look at the room settings on television shows, you'll notice large advertising posters. They're hot," she says, "especially cigarette, cigar, wine and perfume ads."

DeCillis' new shop displays the debuts at The Print Gallery on June 1.

DeCillis proudly points to her Asian corner -- a snug self-contained area devoted to the ritual of tea. Cafe tables flank a built-in buffet stocked with Serendipitea herbal teas, Stash Japanese green teas and other exclusive therapeutic blends. Tiny Chinese enamel artist teapots share shelf space with fused glass sushi plates and saucers.

"I wanted a little place where guests could relax and enjoy a cup of tea," says DeCillis, who is particularly enamored with decorative and functional items from the Far East.

Prepare for a bit of culture shock when Japan meets gay Paree at The Print Gallery official grand opening, date to be announced. Though the shop may be fragrant with incense and herbal teas, DeCillis plans to create a bistro feel with French pastries and cabaret music. And, of course, Willi's art posters add the requisite joie de

Call the hot line for answers to food questions ichigan State University offers a telephone hot line to answer those "nagging" questions on food, food safety and nutrition. This service is ready to take your calls 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday. Call (248) 858-0904 for answers to your questions. Here's a sample of a few of the questions and answers.

Q. How do I store mushrooms? A. Mushrooms need moisture so they don't dry out. After purchasing, put mushrooms in a paper bag or in a dish with a moistened paper towel over the top. Don't wash mushrooms before storing. Mushrooms need air circulation.

At best, mushrooms will remain fresh four to five days. Dried mushrooms will keep for months as long as they are kept in a tightly closed jar. Dried mushrooms can be refrigerated or frozen

Q. How do you freeze fresh strawberries?

A. Strawberries can be placed on a cookie sheet and frozen. Remove them from the sheet and put in freezer bags, return to freezer. This method allows the berries to be frozen individually so you can easily measure out the amount you need.

Don't let strawberries soak in water while you are washing them, they will become soggy. Make sure strawberries are dry before freezing. The water can break down the cells and make the strawberries mushy. Froze strawberries are soft when thawed. They will never be as perfect as they fresh

Q. How can I pick out a ripe pineapple? A. When a pineapple is ripe, it is golden, orange yellow or reddish brown depending on the variety. Look for the right color, and ease of how the "spikes" or leaves can be pulled out from the top. Pick out a pineapple that is heavy for its size. Avoid any that are bruised or moldy, or have a dull yellowish green color.

A really green pineapple will be fibrous and not very sweet. Take your time picking out a pineapple, you can't ripen them at home so choose a good one in prime condition.

Q. My aluminum springform pan discolors from my cheesecake. Is that safe?

A. The sides and bottom of the cheesecake may discolor as the cooling cake reacts with the aluminum. It is safe, but not attractive.

To prevent your pan from discoloring, line the bottom and sides of the n with parchment paper. Then co

Q. How do you make onion juice?

A. Slice an onion, sprinkle lightly with salt, let stand a moment and then scrape the surface with a knife. Make sure you do this on a plate. If you need a quantity of onion juice, purchase it from the store.

Q. Are eggs dairy?

A. No, eggs are poultry products while dairy are milk products. Apparently, this becomes an issue because both are purchased in the dairy case at the grocer. Eggs are not in the dairy group on the USDA food guide pyramid. Eggs are in the meat (protein) food group.

"People will do the dumbest things," said Nancy remembering the person who put a chicken on a rack in the oven, just like the recipe said, but didn't put it in a pan first. What a mess that made!

"Kevin was afraid not to follow a recipe," said Nancy. "He had plenty of anxiety in the kitchen."

27, Kevin began cooking out of Nov necessity, not because he wanted to. His restaurant lifestyle was draining his savings. Not having anything at home to eat was also inconvenient. There aren't too many restaurants open at 2 a.m. Over the phone Nancy explained how to roast a chicken. Kevin had good results, except for the burning plastic. "After a quick call home, I stuck a fork inside the chicken and pulled out the heart, liver and other unmentionables, plus a lot of red juice. Mom, said to throw away these giblets and cook the chicken for another 30 minutes, and it worked."

Kevin said he wouldn't have stuck with cooking if it had been difficult.

In fact, he's written a second book with his mother - "Help! My Apartment Has A Dining Room" that will be published in the spring.

Please see HELP, B2

"Once you feed yourself you have to feed your friends," explained Nancy. "We're keep-ing the same format." Kevin tested all the recipes.

"He would have various accidents and would call me to ask all these questions," said Nancy. They got the idea for their first cookbook in 1993, and spent nine months working on it. It was published on April 15,

Nancy describes herself as the practical one, Kevin is the funny one. A budding sitcom writer, Kevin takes a humorous approach to cooking that makes

"Help! My Apartment Has A Kitchen," is written in plain, simple English and serves up over 100 recipes - everything from appetizers, soups and sal-ads to main dishes and desserts with tips from mom. You'll find basic stuff like pancakes and chili with some surprises such as Caribbean Jerk Chicken or Tofu and Spicy Potato Quesadil-

You won't find fancy words like "sautéed," Explanations for cooking terms are part of Mom's Tips. "Kevin said nobody would take the time to look up these words if we put them in a glossary," explained Nancy.

Recipes are divided into cate - Very Easy, Easy, and Not So Easy. Recipes are accompanied by foolproof instructions.

The first chapter offers suggestions for getting started -"read the whole recipe before you start," suggestions for use-ful packaged foods to have on hand, how to "Convert a dish for a carnivore into one for a vege tarian?" and what do to if you only have one pot. "Kevin said the book is like having your mother in the kitchen. But you can close the book, and not have to deal with her," said Nancy. "It's written in his language." This cookbook is anything but something for old fogies. There aren't any beautiful pictures of what your finished product should look like, but there are references to movies, TV shows, Led Zeppelin, and other things you'll relate to.

"Help! My Apartment Has A Kitchen" is a more thoughtful graduation gift than a pen, it's something they can use and won't lose.

Newlyweds will appreciate it too. In fact, reading this book might lead to marriage.

'My son is married to a vegetarian," said Nancy. They were dating while Kevin was learning how to cook, and writing the book. "He does all the cooking, and she proposed to him. She's in medical school and doesn't have time to cook. He's gotten very confident in the kitchen. and does the grocery shopping

Cut the chicken into strips 1/2inch wide and 2 inches long. Add the chicken to the bowl and marinate in the refrigerator for 1 to 2 hours so the flavors penetrate the chicken. If you're in a hurry, you can marinate the chicken for just 15 minutes. It won't be quite so tasty, but if will have more flavor than if you hadn't bothered at all.

Preheat the broiler. Make sure the top oven rack is in the highest position, just under the broiling unit.

If you have metal or bamboo skewers, thread the chicken strips onto the skewers and lay the skewers on the baking sheet. If you don't have skewers, place the chicken in a single layer on a baking sheet. Discard the marinade. Broil the chicken 3 to 4 minutes

Sing-along: "A Kids' World," a CD of 10 songs, combines catchy melodies with positive messages.

Heading west with a plan and a dream

he house is sold. The car is packed and idling in the drive-way. Time to buckle up the kids Then, all that will remain for B.J. Leet of Bloomfield Hills is to get behind the wheel and drive westward to the point where the mountains meet the ocean. While some never find the time or will power to leave the routine of their lives, Leet has set aside a 20year sales career and the comfort of familiar environs for pursuing his dream in the shade overlooking Palm Springs.

In typical adult career-minded fashion, Leet is giving his musical dream two months to succeed.

By then, he estimates, the newly released CD, "A Kid's World," will be filling the racks at Walmart, Target and Toys 'R Us stores around the country

With an additional 100,000 copies of the CD ordered to meet emerging demand in countries as far away as Australia and Thailand, Leet may not see the sunshine too often this summer.

Positively persuasive

The delightful singalongs and lullabies on the 10-song CD are produced by Smokey Robinson's former bass player Wayne Tweed, who founded the recording label, Tree House Records, based in Idyllwild, Calif.

Leet, who managed Tweed's early musical career, gives a simple reason for packing up and becoming marketing director for Tree House Records.

"It's the music," he said. "When you see kids react to the music, you can't help but feel excited about the possibilities.

Lyrics and a hum-along melody, contends Leet, are powerfully persuasive to callow minds.

"There are enough problems with simply growing up without listening to the suggestive stuff in gangsta rap," he said

In Leet's thinking, music is the panacea to build self-esteem, and to combat self-destructive noise. For instance, in "Do the Best You Can," lyricist Staci Spector relates a simple, but timeless message: "If it's not right the first time/ go for it a second time/and if you need another time/well, that's OK, its' still fine./But just you remember stick to your plan/and do the best you can."

That kind of common wisdom set to a catchy melody also offers a reminder to adults.

Tuesday-Satur-day, (248) 647work to describe 2552 how they create their lush collages and sensuous abstract-figurative paintings, respectively. In form and feeling, however, Bernard and Febbo's sophisticated works in "Two Painters" at the Posner Gallery in Birmingham are distinctively different.

On the surface, it seems that the artists have little in common. Their styles do not intersect or come from a similar tradition. Nor do they share a preference for materials or self-evident motifs.

For his well-wrought collages on wood, Bernard appears much like a dogged excavator sifting through a pond of memories to create his own vibrantly colored associations.

And for her passionate free-flow ing female nudes, Febbo considers herself much like a traveler on the Montana range searching for the open vista. "I feel like I'm getting away from past restrictions," she said. "Everyone is searching for a sense of freedom, to get to the real meaning in life.

That journey for Bernard and Febbo is documented in their paintings

Thrill of discovery

diminishes to his work.

"You don't want to be too con scious of what you're doing," said Bernard, a professor of contempo-rary art at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit.

In a 10 year period from the mid 1970s, Bernard was recognized as one of the most prolific and innova tive video artists along with Brakhage and Accond

"It all comes back to painting, pulling things together," he said. Much like arranging and rearranging memories.

"In some cases, I'll bury an image, then sand down to it and bring it back. The thrill is in the discovery." Meanwhile, Febbo, who taught printmaking at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center, has moved into a new direction. Her intent in painting abstract female nudes, she said, is to portray the inextricability between a subject and background

In technique, she lays down the gestural lines in charcoal of her sub-ject, then blurs those lines by painting over them.

The effect is quietly engaging. "The mystery, for me, is how we're all ever-changing," said Febbo.

Layered: The paintings of seph Bernard, left, and Helen Febbo are distinctively different, but the integrity and depth of their work offer complementary perspectives of artists searching for deeper meaning in their lives.

Depth of experience

Too often, in the art world, much like in life, there's a perception that anyone approaching 60 is slowing down, preparing to retire. Don't talk to Bernard, 56, and Febbo, 57, about acting their age. They haven't even broken a sweat. While their creations are clearly influenced by post-modernist artists like Susan Rothenberg's sensual abstractions and Julian Schnabel's reconstructed collages, Bernard and Febbo are secure with their own expre

Neither pays too much attention to the latest trends.

"I stick to what I know," said Febbo. "Everything you do in art has to do with your life."

Each painter has found ways to recommit themselves to their art. In early June, Bernard will make his annual pilgrimage to the shores of Provincetown, where he'll spend days collecting seaweed and those waffer-shaped organic elements that form the centerpiece of his collages.

In the next year, Febbo expects to cutback on teaching to spend more time in her Pontiac studio, where she plans to adapt her abstract human forms to sculpture. Bringing together two of the Gulf War Syndrome docu-drama looks eerily familiar

Smoking gun? Actual war footage is included in the docudrama that explores the struggle of veterans suffering from Gulf War Syndrome.

In the span of weeks during January 1991, a tidy aerial bombing campaign disabled the Iraqi army occupying Kuwait. Soon, the U.S. military's hightech tactical efficiency during the short-lived Gulf War was widely praised. Accordingly, bellicose rhetoric and victory parades followed.

For many veterans, however, the real war began when they returned home. And the enemy became an all-toofamiliar behemoth - the U.S. Pentagon.

The onging struggles of Gulf War veterans suffering from mysterious postbattle illnesses, known as Gulf War Syndrome, is the subject of Showtime's controversial "Thanks of a Grateful Nation," which airs tonight and Thursday, June 11. While soldiers began complaining of chronic fatigue, rashes, headaches and digestive problems shortly after returning from the Persian Gulf, it wasn't until then Democrat U.S. senator from Michigan Don Riegle conducted formal investigations that there was an eerie sense of history repeating itself.

"When we began getting into our investigation, it was 'We've been here before," said Riegle, referring to the Pentagon's reluctance to admit that U.S. soldiers in Vietnam were exposed to agent orange, a toxic herbicide Riegle of Birmingham retired in 1994 after serving three terms in the senate and five terms in the House of Repre-sentatives. He currently serves as deputy chair of Shandwick Internation al, a worldwide public relations firm with a local office in Southfield.

Initially, the Pentagon explained the ailments as side effects from the anti-nerve-agent pills which troops were ordered to take.

Popular speculation is that soldiers were exposed to low levels of serin, a nerve gas carried by southern winds from Iraqi chemical plants that were bombed by U.S. planes.

As the investigation broadened. Pentagon estimates of the number of soldiers possibly affected increased from a few hundred to 20,000. Riegle estimates that it's probably closer to 100,000.

The Pentagon's reluctance to admit that soldiers may have been exposed to toxic chemicals is a combination of stonewalling, and an unwillingness to pay health benefits to injured soldiers, said Riegle.

In addition, some claim, if the Pentagon admits the devastating consequences to U.S. troops, potential foes such as Iraq, Iran or North Korea might be further encouraged to develop chemical weapons

Riegle is quick to point out the irony. "These biological germs were shipped from the U.S. to Iraq," he said. "That's too embarrassing for the Pentagon."

the issue

A reworked bill proposed recently by state Sen. Michael Bouchard (R-Birmingham) would amend the Metropolitan Council Act, which established a board to oversee the disbursement of tax revenues generated by a millage. Voters would have to approve of any mill increases.

"The clock ran out on the tricounty tax," said Bouchard. This new bill is more politically viable.'

Cultural tax

In theory, however, the intent of a plan for a cultural tax for a .5 mill property assessment remains intact. The funds would be earmarked to cover operating expenses at the region's 14 tierone cultural institutions, such as the DIA. Meadow Brook, Cranbrook art and science museums and the Detroit Zoo.

Without apologies, "Thanks of a Grateful Nation" is a catharsis for Gulf War veterans, and stinging indictment of a government that turns away from the same people who stood in the line of its defense.

"I never imagined that they'd make a movie," said Riegle. "But this is a way to help the American public understand what's happened to many veterans. "All that was heard after the war was 'We won, we won," said Riegle. "When these vets went to VA hospitals, they were told the nothing was wrong with them. But their lives were taken away.

Only if the Pentagon faces the facts and "comes clean," according to Riegle, will there not be a likelihood that a situation like Gulf War Syndrome will occur again.

As a politician, he recognizes the potential of "Thanks to a Grateful Nation" to compel the American public to demand answers.

Birth trauma examined at future event

When Ruth Anya McGinnis first heard about reliving the birthing process to untangle emotional problems, she thought it was far-out mumbo jumbo. Then, while treating a male patient in her Southfield psychotherapy practice, McGinnis said, she watched him re-enact his birth. "For a moment in the therapy session, he was reliving it and was able to remember," McGinnis said. "Before that I thought this was all California craziness. But that convinced me. My journey began in my efforts to try to help him as his memory was beginning to emerge."

This was the first step, she said, in reliving her own birth and to begin dealing with emotional and physical problems. "The thinking behind this is very different from the basic logic that babies don't remember what we do in the very beginning, especially pre-natally," said McGinnis, a Southfield resident, who has since retired from her practice

In fact, McGinnis said, reliving her birth has helped her overcome dyslexia and paved the way to understanding and coming to terms with her mother. McGinnis refers to herself as a "colleague and in training" with William R. Emerson, a teacher, writer, lecturer and leader in the field of birth psychology

"Birth trauma may be caused by a baby's own character and personality in response to birth complications," Emer-son wrote in "Indepth News," a newsletter for Indepth, the Northwest Institute for Bonding and Perinatal Psychology.

Parents with children who are unexplainably tense, as well as professionals who work with children, are invited to a lecture and workshop conducted by Emerson next month. A lecture, demonstration and open discussion will be held from 7-10 p.m., Thursday, June 4, at the Birming-ham Unitarian Church in Bloomfield Hills. The event will introduce participants to "the widespread problem of birth trauma as a major cause of stress, behavioral problems and learning problems during childhood," according to a brochure

Local workshop

Emerson will conduct a workshop Friday-Sunday, June 5-7, in St. John Center in Plymouth Township. The focus is the "prevalence and negative effects of birth trauma, and ways that birth trauma can be evaluated and treated.

"The only determinant of the degree of traumatization is their own character and personality and how they respond to the birth complications," Emerson wrote. In the "Indepth News" article, Emerson described "participation trauma," using a beby who clenched her fists and had a cry that was distinctly angry. The parents told him that her birth was pleasant and uneventful, except that during the delivery the baby's mother became angry at the do tor, because he arrived late and gave her a drug she didn't want.

"As the mother discussed these issues with me, her jaw and fists became clenched and she cried in rage," Emerson said. "Her newborn daughter was sleeping next to her and as the mother released her feelings, the jaw and fists of the sleeping baby also relaxed, and she slept longer than she had ever slept.

Emerson has treated thousands of parents and professionals using what he refers to as "fail-safe techniques. The local workshop will also include treatment demonstrations. The results of reliving your birth are amazing, said McGinnis, adding that it has helped reverse her dyslexia.

"There have been many things that have been helpful," she said. "But this has been essential. I got my Ph.D. it almost destroyed me physically, the stress of doing that. Now, I'm reading and writing with near normalcy. The work (Emerson's) has been a modern-day miracle for me."

McGinnis said when she began experiencing memories MCGINNIS SAID When she began experiencing memories of being inside her mother's womb in 1943, her recollec-tion was from a baby's perspective. This experience, she said, has also made her feel a closeness with her mother, now deceased, that hadn't been possible before.

Felt estranged

"Earlier experiences left me feeling estranged from her and I don't feel that anymore," McGinnis added. Although mother always told her her birth was normal, nis later learned it was much more traumatic and was nearly fatal for both. Since her own revelations, McGinnis has become a disciple, disseminating information about birth trauma and how it affects behavior in children and in the emotions of adults. Signs of birth trauma are crying for otherwise unexplained reasons; an unusually inflexible child; sleep disturbances; eating problems and the baby going through intense periods of upset at particular times of the day

View the world more clearly

BY BARB PERT TEMPLETON SPECIAL WRITER

A chance to view the world without glasses or contact lenses.

That's what physicians at The Laser Center, Inc. hope to bring to patients who have undergone high-tech laser procedures at their outpatient clinics.

Since 1987, TLC facilities around the nation have performed over one million such procedures in a unique partnership between optometrists and ophthalmologists. TLC opened it's first Michigan location in Farmington Hills last November.

Today there are 43 centers across North America. Several weeks ago TLC announced that their facilities would offer a first-of-itskind-in-the industry Lifetime Commitment policy. The plan pledges free enhancement procedures to ensure the best possible visual stability for qualifying patients who undergo pro-cedures with TLC doctors and return to their own eye doctors for annual exams.

"The Lifetime Commitment demonstrates TLC's confidence in the long term visual stability of laser vision correction and reinforces its unswerving commitment to our patients," stated Dr. Michael Wallace, Executive Director of the new Farmington Hills offices. The local TLC has two surgeons on staff who share the work load, each spending one day a week at the center.

We don't do any routine primary care here," Wallace said. "Patients see their own eye doc-tors, some who are affiliated with us, and are then they are recommended to the center."

TLC has about 300 doctors across Michigan who work with them and regularly refer patients to their facility.

Patients scheduled for surgery usually spend a couple hours in the center that day. Procedures are done on at outpatient basis without general anesthesia and progress of the eye is monitored in a series of follow-up visits. Photorefractive Keratectomy (PRK) and

Laser In-Situ Keratomileusis (LASIK) are the two latest surgical procedures being performed at TLC for correction of myopia (nearsightedness).

During the PRK procedure, the protective upper layer of the cornea is removed before computer-controlled laser pulses are applied to the surface of the cornea to change its shape. The process generally takes less than five minand is normally painless. utes

In the LASIK procedure, utilized for patients with higher prescriptions, doctors use the excimer laser to remove tissue instead of a a scalpel. The laser pulses then reshape the surface of the cornea. LASIK takes 10-15 minutes to complete.

After the pre-surgery numbing eye drops wear off, the patient might feel like they are having a bad contact lenses day for 24 hours or so. Or in some cases they get a gritty-type feel-

"With the PRK we like to say good vision in a week or great vision in a month," Wallace said. "With LASIK the gritty feeling is gone in about seven or eight hours, so we say good vision in a day or great vision in a week.

Once the surgery is done the patients need only take it easy for a couple of days.

That includes some rest, medication and eye drops. They are also expected to keep their appropriate follow-up appointments and/or monthly visits, said Wallace.

TLC finds candidates for the surgery in about 90 percent of the patients they see. The rare exceptions are those who have only one healthy eye, extreme myopia or a thin cornea.

"If they have any other eye diseases at all we don't want to jeopardize the situation," Wallace explained.

The cost for the surgery, which isn't always

Helping hand: Dr. Anthony Sensoli performs LASIX laser surgery on Ron Wisser on Thursday. LASIK and $2000 per eye for the PRK.

"Patients have to look into exactly what their own insurance allows, but I know some health insurances cover it," said Wallace. "Like the Detroit Police and Fire Department see it as an occupation health benefit."

The average TLC patient is a male or female between the ages of 35 and 45 who want to give up their glasses for good. Most patients opt to have both of their eyes done at the same time.

Recently, a similar surgery for those suffering hyperopia or farsightedness has been introduced but has yet to be approved by the FDA in the U.S.

that approval the physicians In lieu of surgery and appoint a surgeon to the task before sending the patient to a sister clinic in Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

Touting their center as "the place where doc-tors go for laser surgery," Wallace relays that he has had the procedure himself adding, "We all want that freedom from glasses and contacts too.

To those considering the surgery, Wallace recommends they trust the opinion of their own eye doctor and get a recommendation to the center if possible. Those who don't have a regular doctor are welcome to call the center directly for a consultation.

To contact TLC for an appointment, call (48) 489-0400. The center is located at 34405

This is an indication the child is experiencing and try ing to communicate about something – crying is an attempt to communicate," McGinnis said. "They're crying to let the adults know there is something the matter. If a baby cries for a supposed unknown reason, we need to look at what they are trying to communicate

"Maybe they're trying to communicate something about something they are remembering at birth or an earlier experience

For the most part, a natural birth results in much less trauma to the infant, she said, because there is less intervention with anesthesia, forceps and monitoring. "Of course, there are many times that they are essential for the safety of the mother and baby," McGinnis added. "But there are also many times these are used more out of habit, or out of an attempt to control legal risks. Emerson works on transforming that "trauma."

For example, one of the ways infants are traumatized is that they experience the birth alone and they don't have the sense of being in a fully empathic environment.

When revisiting the birth, the child and adult can receive messages that they aren't alone and that people do care about what they're experiencing

Prepare against food contamination

Tow that warm weather has arrived, we see a lot of having picnics. It's wonderful to be able to get outdoors and enjoy a meal, but it's important to be careful with food preparation and handling at this time of year.

Bacteria breeds in warm temperatures which is why we must be dili gent about foods that can contaminate our kitchens and other foods. Some high-protein foods like meat, eggs, cheese and dressings are highly susceptible to housing a variety of bacteria. If they are not stored frozen or refrigerated between 34 and 40 degrees, just one bacterium can multiply to one trillion bacteria in just 24 hours.

The speed at which bacteria multiply is a particular problem for picnickers that may have chicken salad sandwiches or salads in their baskets. A better choice might be to bring a fruit salad and breadsticks or a bagel for your picnic lunch. Plus it's lower in fat! If you still opt for the chicken salad be sure to wrap it well and store it in a cooler with plenty of ice.

The preparation and tools used for barbecuing make it another viable breeding ground for bacteria. Many people spear raw meat with a fork to put it on the grill, and then once it's cooked use that same fork to remove the meat. That can be a dangerous practice because the raw juices are still on the fork and could contaminate the cooked meat

Another danger zone is how you serve meat off the grill. Never serve cooked meat on the same plate used to carry the raw meat to the barbecue. In order to kill the bacteria, you must cook ground meat and poultry until they're no longer pink and the juices run clear.

Proper food handling and storage could save you from getting food poisoning. Millions of food poisoning cases could be avoided each year if people were more careful about keeping hands and cooking surfaces clean

Unsuspecting diners may enjoy a delicious meal that tastes, smells and looks the same, but the con taminated food can cause chills. fatigue, achy muscles or indiges tion

These simple tips can help keep your kitchen and food from becoming contaminated with common bacteria like salmonella. E coli and staphylococcus:

Wash hands before, after and during food preparation with antibacterial soap and hot water for at least 20 seconds

Wash hands after using the bathroom, diapering a baby, blowing your nose or touching a pet.

Sterilize cutting boards or other surfaces that have had contact with raw meat or poultry with two teaspoons of chlorine bleach in a quart of water.

Cook meat – especially ground meat - and poultry thoroughly.

Discard any leftover marinades after using, rather than reheating as a sauce

Don't let cooked foods sit at room temperature for more than two hours. Store leftovers in the refrigerator immediately.

Thaw frozen meat in the refrigerator, not on the counter. If you are strapped for time, defrost the meat in the microwave and cook at once.

Raw meat, fish and poultry. should be stored toward the back of the refrigerator shelf. This is the coldest area

You can enjoy a relaxing picnic or an evening barbecue safely by following these guidelines. It's actually quite easy to store and prepare foods to avoid contamination; it's just a matter of being aware of how to do it. So fire up the grill and have a fabulous meal

County sponsors sports camp

Oakland County Parks offers a sports sampler" at its week-long Sports Camp, sponsored by The Sports Authority.

Athletes ages 8-13 are introduced to sports that encourage teamwork and sportsmanship. Daily activities include a mix of soccer, street hockey, flag football, kickball, volleyball and more. Parents/guardians are invited to attend the Sports Camp Information Day June 11 at 6:30 p.m. at Waterford Oaks Court Games Complex.

Camp dates are set for June 15-19; June 22-26; July 6-10; July 13-17; July 20-24; July 27-31; and Aug. 3-7. Camp hours are 9:30 a.m to 3:30 p.m. For more information call (248) 858-0916.

New soccer league

The Oakland Developmental Soccer League is Oakland County's newest youth co-ed soccer league, providing an opportunity for children who want to compete at a level above recreational soccer.

The ODSL will provide experienced trainers for each age group, and will consist of ball skill development, speed and running development.

Open registration will be conducted June 1 to July 15, and will be accepted on a first-come basis. Registration forms can be picked up at Global Soccer (formerly Soccer World) in Lake Orion, RARA Office in Rochester and the City of Auburn Hills Recreation Department on Squirrel Road across from Oakland University.

Whitt camp

Dates have been set for the annual Ernie Whitt Baseball Academy, designed to provide youngstesr ages 7-18 with an opportunity to learn more about the game and to improve their baseball skills through positive reinforcement. The camp is run by Whitt, a 14-year major league veteran best remembered for his years with the Toronto Blue Jays.

The camp will provide instruction in several areas, including rotational hitting, pitching and throwing mechanics, catching, infield and out-field mechanics and baserunning and sliding.

The camp will be held in Harper Woods June 15-19 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and at Macomb Community College (South Campus) June 22-26, also from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. For more information call (810) 465-1095.

In-line skating

Independence Township Parks and Recreation offers a two-hour course designed to make in-line skating easy. The course teaches stopping techniques, several turns, hazard avoidance and skate tips, and is designed for beginning through advanced courses.

Both sessions take place at Clintonwood Park. Session II takes place 10 am to noon

Wolves ride pitching into district

The Clarkston Wolves won 16 games (with one darkness-induced tie) this season, and entered the baseball dis-trict at Lapeer West as at least one of the favorites to claim a title.

Results weren't available at press time, but if the Wolves - who played Lake Orion in a district semifinal — did indeed win the district, it would be right to assume senior pitcher Josh Clark played a key role.

The mistake would be assuming he played the only role on a pitching staff that begins with Clark and carries on into unknown, but talented, territory

Everyone knows about Clark, the senior righthander who has already signed to pitch for Western Michigan next year. But few knew the virtues of the rest of Clarkston's unsung pitching - until lately. staff

The Wolves have gotten solid perfor-mances from lefty Jared Thomas and sophomore Chris Mitchell in starting roles.

They've also gotten quality innings from several other players on their way to a respectable 16-10-1 season.

"It's a mistake to think (Clark) is all we've got," said longtime Clarkston coach Roy Warner, who is retiring after this season. "If we only had one pitcher, we wouldn't have as many wins as we have now, and we wouldn't have even been in some of the close games we didn't win." Judging strictly by wins and losses, Clarkston's best pitcher has had an un-Clark-like season.

The senior won just three of seven decisions, although he did strike out 73 in 58 innings.

Warner is quick to point out the cal-iber of competition Clark has faced this season. Warner has sent his top arm against some of the state's best: defending state champion Rochester, Oakland Activities Association Division I toughie Troy and Rochester Adams, three teams that have combined for about 80 wins.

"(Clark's) record is deceiving," Warn-er pointed out. "We put him up against a lot of tough opponents, especially early in the year when we weren't scor-ing many runs. I tihnk he's had a very good season. He actually became a better pitcher simply by setting people up

That lack of production offensively is what thrust the spotlight on Clarkston's pitching to begin with. When the Wolves weren't scoring runs to start the season, the pitchers came through.

Thomas was a little shaky to start

he Clarkston Wolves were rolling along just fine this softball season, thank you, contending for an Oakland Activities Association Division I title

Then came the team's worst week of the season, and suddenly the Wolves were looking at everything in a different light.

Clarkston trailed division-leading Brandon by just a game going into the looked bad in that game, making 11 errors and dropping a major decision to Brandon, then looked equally unsettled in a doubleheader loss to Waterford Kettering two days later.

Suddenly, the Wolves were reeling and, going into Saturday's district tournament at Lapeer West, unsure whether they could pull out of such a steep dive in time.

Clarkston was cruising, overcoming the loss of key players either to other sports or to injury. For instance, promising Candace Morgan didn't play this season, opting instead for yearround basketball.

And catcher Corinne McIntyre missed much of the season with a hand injury.

Sure, Clarkston's veterans continued to contribute. Senior Tiffany Honey did an amazing job behind the plate during the weeks McIntyre was out, and has played well since readjusting to her natural shortstop position upon McIntyre's return. She also had an outstanding season as Clarkston's leadoff hitter.

Senior outfielder Aimee Giroux has also been outstanding, shifting into the No. 2 slot in the batting order without losing a beat and playing tremendous outfield defense. Carmen Lund has been a vacuum cleaner at first base, anchoring a defense that has, at times, been young and inexperienced

"Tiffany and Aimee have played excellent defense," Land said. "We were playing excellent defense. All the pieces were in the right places."

The loss of Morgan and the injury to McIntyre opened up spots in the lineup for some youngsters, who went on to provide Land with his biggest and easily his most pleasant - surprise of the season.

Mandy Harrison played tremendous-ly at shortstop when Honey was catch-larly on defense, where she shone at second while McIntyre was out, and at third since the big catcher's return. And Warchuck is developing into a dynamite hitter.

'Mary is one of our best hitters," Land said. "And Lindsay might be one of our best overall players. The way the freshmen have played has been the biggest surprise. Lots of times you see nerves in players that young, but you haven't really seen any of that out of them. They haven't let us down at all.

"I expected the veterans to perform," he added. "I wasn't sure what the kids could do. (But) the freshmen have been the key to our team.

Despite the recent rocky times. Land said the one thing that has stayed the same is the attitude. The Wolves are friends on the field, and they're friends off the field.

"The way they play is the way they are off the field," he said. "Usually you have one or two attitudes that infect the team. That hasn't happened with this group. That's the one thing about this group: they care."

The Wolves haven't given up on themselves, said Land, who noted "the desire and the effort are there." The players themselves have taken a closer look, and are confident they can turn it around.

"We've worked hard in practice," said Giroux, the soul of the team. 'We talked about what we need to do. We took a look at ourselves and reassessed our goals. I think we can get it back."

Clarkston was an odds-on favorite to win the district, which also featured Lapeer West, Lapeer East, Grand Blanc and Lake Orion, none of whom et the baseball world on fire.

And if the Wolves did win it. Warner thinks the effort of his veterans — guys like Clark, Thomas, Mike Little and Phil Johnston — played a heavy role in the team's success this sea-

...but, we'll bet someone does.

Is your attic or basement or garage filled with stuff you don't want anymore? Maybe you don't have anything quite as weird as our toy Martian, but like most of us, you may have some odds and ends you can do without.

You may not want it...

Our 3-2-1-SOLD! offer is just what you need when you have things to sell for under $200.

Here's how it works:

1. You get 3 lines to describe your item (remember, you have to be asking less than $200)

2. You get to run your ad for 2 days (one week)

3. You get 1 low price-just $19.95.

You could say our 3-2-1 plan is as easy as 1-2-3! Call us today.

Grand Prix will send your heart aflutter

CAReport

Anne Fracassa Avanti NewsFeatures

Approaching the Grand Prix in the parking lot, it invites you, screaming: we're going to have a lot of fun today.

And fun I had in this peppy Pontiac, a sports car that was totally redesigned just one year ago to give it a wider, more aggressive stance. The funny thing about it is that the Grand Prix was a great car before the redesign. And now its even better. I have to say I was taken aback by the

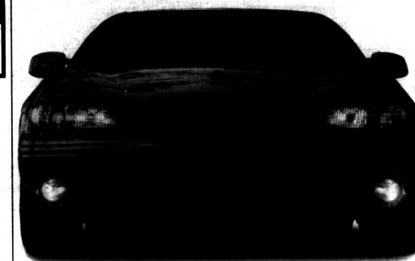

I have to say I was taken aback by the pricetag of the Grand Prix GT: Just under $23,000. But if you want fun, power, response and this kind of comfort, you've got to go with the GT version of Grand Prix. I hate to repeat what the automakers say about their products. But with the GT, this is true excitement.

New for 1998 are little things, like a traction control indicator on some models, oak as a new interior color, three new exterior colors and better airbags. Let's start with what's under the hood. No

Let's start with what's under the hood. No scrimping here, that's for sure. The 3.8-liter 3800 series II V6, mated to a 4-speed automatic transmission, is a dream to drive. It steps up to the plate, nails it, and you're sailing over left field and outta the ballpark before you know it. I didn't drive the supercharged version of the 3.8 liter, which gives you 240 horses. The 3800 series I drove only had a measly 195 horsepower. But it didn't disappoint me in the least.

For 1998, cars with the 3.8 benefit from an upgraded transmission and electronically controlled clutch, which improve performance. And thatis the whole point of owning a Pontiac, right?

On the freeway, on the street, down my block, it gave me more power than I deserved. It was quick in acceleration, quick in passing and quick enough to maybe get me in trouble. Thank heaven it didn't. A n d the surprising thing about all this is that the GT I drove was the sedan — not the two-door coupe. Regardless, this is a fun car to drive.

Pontiac Grand Prix GT Vehicle class: Sports sedan (coupe available). Power: 3800 series engine or 3.8-liter supercharged V6. Mileage: 19 city / 30 highway. Where built: Kansas City, Kansas. As tested: $22,669.

get to the interior. Never mind that the Let's cockpit centers around the driver, the one who matters the most in the car. Never mind that its backlit red instrumentation i quite a sight on a warm summer night. All controls are large enough for a gorilla to use. Everything is angled toward the driver. Thereis a idriver information centeri that tells you just about everything you need to know about the car - including whether your tires are inflated to the proper pres-sure. It'll also tell you if the traction control system is on, whether the door or trunk is open and whether you need additional vasher fluid or an oil change. I wonder if the next Grand Prix will fix you a sandwich. The bucket seats are oh, so comfy. Even the rear bench seats are comfortable. There's a center console storage area that can hide a six pack — maybe even 8 — without a prob-

I did have one complaint. The keyfob is designed to unlock and lock the doors, as well as the trunk. There also is a little red button for a panic alarm. I had to press the trunk button about 25 times before it opened. And the lock and unlock buttons were a pain as well because they wouldn't do their job on the first push. It seemed like it had a brain hiccup or something.

Speaking of the trunk, it's large. How large? Well, on a family outing, it carried a crock pot, a laundry basket full of goodies, two fairly large coolers, an oversized duffle bag full of bathing suits, towels and clothes and two Pyrex lasagna-sized dishes.

Lo and behold, I was many miles from home when it hit me that I forgot the hotdog buns on the kitchen table. So I flew into the nearest Meijer, where I put in four packages of buns, two large Tostito chip bags and a couple of clearance bathing suits — and I still had plenty of room. The cargo net came in real handy for the crock pot full of baked beans. I've got to mention the rear sout pass-through. That allows the center of the rear seat to come down in case you have — oh, I don't know — a pair of skis or something else just as long to transport. While the seat is down, two people can comfortably sit in the rear seats without so much as a whimper.

Much as a winner. Again, I have to mention the styling on the Grand Prix GT. Its "wide track" stance is really appealing. The rear treatment is striking. The sides seem to just melt into the rest of the car. Its lowered hood line really make you feel like you're in a small juicy sports car. And, again, we're talking sedan here. I've got to mention the standard list, because at the starting price of $21,215, you've got to expect a lot.

Let's take a look: 16-inch touring tires on aluminum wheels, 4wheel independent suspension, traction control, variable-effort steering, power windows lockout, daytime running lamps, programmable power door locks, fdg lamps, power mirrors, air conditioning, power windows, full instrumentation (tach included), AM/FM stereo with cassette and cruise control. That's it, folks.

The Grand Prix GT tested had about 2 grand in options, including a rear defogger, steering-wheel radio controls, 6-way power driver's seat, keyless entry, head-up display, compact disc system, rear deck lid spoiler, child seat, full overhead console, cargo net and security system. The bottom line was $22,669.

If you want wheels that beckons to you as you approach them and don't disappoint you when you're driving them, the Grand Prix GT is for you.

onaer. Michael S.

A. You can break a job search down into component parts, each with a set of rules and objectives. All assumptions and the conventional wisdom need to be examined before launching these various sub-endeavors. What are you really trying to accomplish in networking, responding to advertisements and contacting recruiters? What do you really want out of an interview? What's the goal?

The knee jerk response is: "To get an offer." I disagree.

Let's use life's great metaphor, baseball, to illustrate the point. Would it be realistic or even advisable for every batter to establish the goal of hitting a home run each time at bat? That is, chalk up one in the failure column unless the batter jolts it out of the park. Never mind a good single or a terrific bunt that advances the runner. Success is spelled HR and that's it.

That's silly. Most runs are scored by players who advance in smaller increments. Home runs are good, but wouldn't it be a little better to define the purpose of going to the plate as just getting on base or, at least, furthering the cause of scoring runs?

A first-interview job offer is a grand slam. An invitation to advance to the next step-usually another interview-is a solid base hit.

In the employment business, I don't see too many grand slams anymore. The days when you could walk out of the initial meeting with a decent job offer have almost disappeared. It is much more likely that, after a good first interview, you will be invited to come back and meet additional managers. If that goes well, you might be invited to take a test or go to lunch with the president. Next, you could have your references checked or be asked to take a physical exam. Finally, your next boss might call you at home and make a first pass at an offer. You've scored.

Don't swing for the fences. In an interview, structure your presentation around getting an invitation to proceed to the next step. Conclude with something like: "I'm very interested. The job matches my interests and I think I could make a major contribution. Could I come back to continue the discussion?"

Most interviewers will attempt to end the first meeting with: "We have a few more people to meet before we make any decisions" or "Thanks for coming in. We'll try to let everybody know sometime next week."

Don't leave the decision in the hands of the umpire (analogies can get old, can't they?). Come back with: "Well, gee, I'm excited. If I don't hear anything by Tuesday, I'll call you."

One more thing, Mike: Try to get to the plate more often and don't wait for the mother of all perfect pitches. A "couple interviews" in seven months is not a lot. Being selective is fine, but what do you want-egg in your beer? (We used to yell that from the bench).

Q. I have been working my network, but I would like to get some recruiters working for me as well. I'm at a loss, however, to determine who to contact, what disciplines they cover and how aggressive or effective they would be for me. I have heard that headhunters would prefer to be referred to potential candidates and work hardest for those that are still employed. Picking names with the biggest advertisements out of the yellow pages doesn't seem to be the best strategy.

Timothy W.

A Employ a dual strategy when trying to identify effective recruiters. First, use a high volume approach. Let your fingers do the walking, but call both the big firms and the little guys in an effort to identify people who inspire some confidence. The larger contingency firms usually have a person or two working "desks" that are dedicated to a specific discipline, such as accounting, MIS or engineering.

Find out who, if anyone, is working the desk in your area. It will be difficult to screen the recruiter over the phone and, in fact, that would be inappropriate. You are the one looking for help. Remember, the recruiter doesn't really work for you, but for the client paying the fee. Once face-toface, however, find out how long the person has been in business and try to gage how well-connected she is. A good question might be "How many people in my field at my level have you placed?" But don't automatically write off a newer person. There is something to be said for a neophyte's enthusiasm.

The size of the firm has little to do with a recruiter's ability to be helpful. Some of the very best headhunters are independents and even one-person shows. Just like in the real estate industry, there is simply no connection between quality of service and the size of the office, its furnishings, signage or name recognition. It just boils down to the person you happen to get.

Next, use your network to identify particularly effective recruiters in your field. Ask your contacts: "Do you know of any good headhunters?" Also, make networking contacts out of recruiters who don't work in your discipline. some of us are incredibly specialized. For example you might stumble across firms that don't go outside of the dairy industry. But you will find these recruiters are often happy to steer you toward someone working in your area.

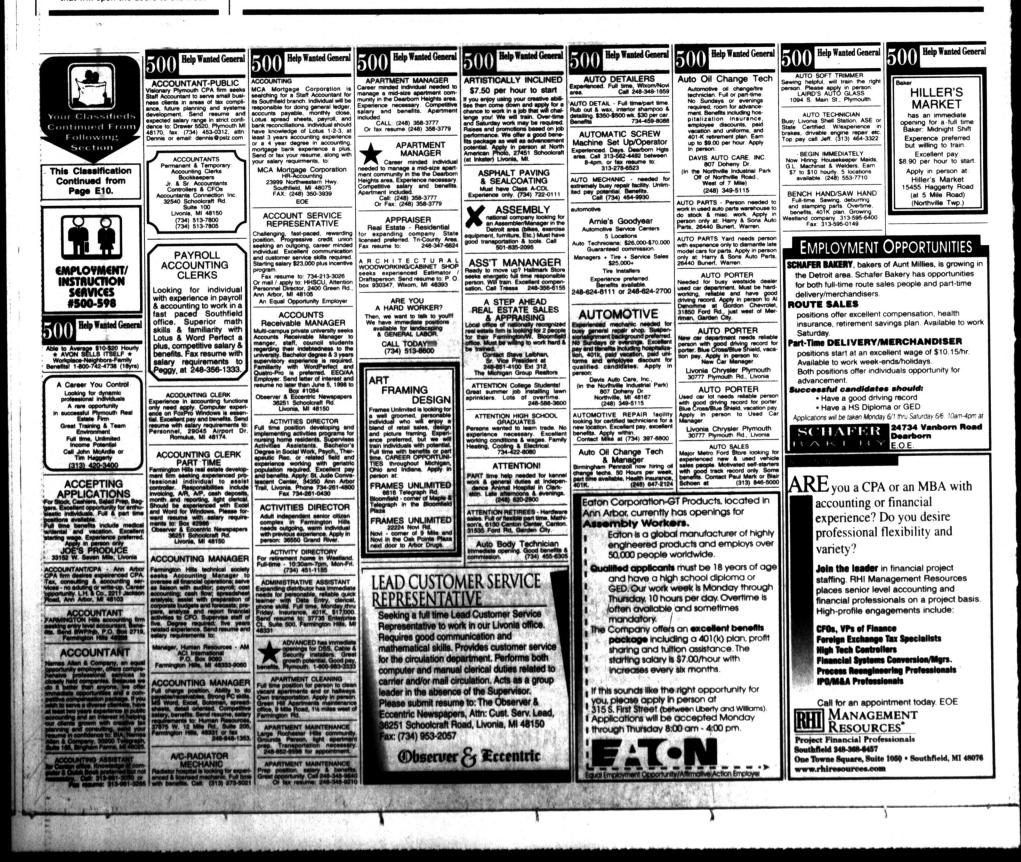

There is a high level of stress permeating the job market right now and recruiters are taking a lot of unjustified heat. Remember, the industry's sales cycle begins with job openings. Filling them is how the recruiter eats.

Client companies have heard that the labor market is "a little tight," but they need qualified candidates NOW. to sustain growth. Acceptable lead times for filling openings are inversely related to the supply of candidates. See the problem? Some recruiters; have gone from being their clients' heroes two years ago to incompetents who couldn't fill a pail on the beach.

So, this should make recruiters want to work closely with all candidates, right? Not necessarily. Speaking for myself, I am less, not more inclined to actively market individual candidates. If a recruit or respondent to an ad doesn't match a specific assignment, I have to look for somebody else who does-fast. Remember, I get paid for finding people for jobs, not finding jobs for people. So, the candidates who didn't think much of me two years ago are probably even less enamored today.

Trips to computer superstores Trips to computer superstores come next. There, commission-salespeople won't ask a lot of questions about what you really need. Even if they do, you'll be guided toward what the store has in stock or what's on sale. Then there are the priced given packthere are the price-driven pack-age deals that include PC, print-er and monitor. Never mind that the printer is last year's model and you'll need glasses and bright lights to read the monitor. And how about those deals on last year's, or in many cases last month's, PC? Price is important, but you won't get what you really need to succeed if it's your only guideline.

How can you hack your way through the technology jungle? Here's expert advice from Mary Walker, Program Director, IBM Home Solutions.

O&E Sunday, May 31, 1998

Your choice of PC depends on the type of business. If it's truly work-from-home, then buy a desktop. If you make PC-based presentations to clients, then a laptop is a better choice. If you duride on a horter make sum it decide on a laptop, make sure it has an active matrix/TFT screen so your presentations don't look washed out and fuzzy. Also, buy a monitor, keyboard and mouse to convert your laptop to a desktop when you're home.

Regardless of your choice, buy the fastest model because it won't become obsolete so quickly. Also, new software will require faster speeds. That means a 333Mhz desktop or 266Mhz lap-top. 32MB of RAM is the absolute minimum. 64MB delivers outstanding performance.

What about type of chip inside? Walker says all the chips used by major PC manufacturers deliver the same performance and are of equal quality.

When it comes to a hard drive, a 4GB hard drive would be the minimum for a desktop. The best you can do in a laptop right now is 3.2 GB. Don't think you can squeeze more space out of your hard drive by compressing it. What you gain in drive space you'll lose in time when trying to access the programs.

As for multimedia stuff that allows you to run the latest games, Walker believes less is more. She said that IBM's studies show that multimedia video drivers and especially joysticks can do funny things to PC's. She's also quick to point out that kids can do even funnier things to PC's, so a home-office PC should not double as the kid's gaming

PC. Relative to CD-ROM, any speed if OK, because non-gamers will only use it to load software and play music.

When it comes to printers, choice again depends on type of business. If you do hard-copy graphics and presentation trans rencies, you'll need at lease a parencies, you'll need at lease a 720dpi color printer. The cost? $400-$500. If you don't use color, buy a quality black & white laser printer for $200-$300. They're fast. That's something to consider if you print lengthy documents.

How about a fax machine and a copier? Walker says that PC's come with fax capability and can double as a light-duty copier if you buy a scanner. The choice of B&W or color scanner depends on your business. If you make a lot of copies, buy a stand-alone copier. Multi-purpose machines get a lukewarm reception from Walker. If they break your business screeches to a halt.

What about a monitor? A 15-inch is the minimum.If you'll be spending hours at the PC, buy a 17-inch

The bottom line? With usability and speed in mind a first-rate, desktop-based office will cost about $3,300 and a laptop-based ?; office about $4,300. #7

ASK THE EXPERT What is temperature of hot water?

BY POPULAR MECHANICS FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Q: Most hot-water tanks have a dial for water temperatures at their bottom. They read hot, warm and normal. What would be the minimum temperature and the next temperature and then the hot temperature? I have heard of a code in most places that the minimum temperatures should be 120 degrees Fahrenheit and the maximum 140 degrees Fahrenheit.

A: Not all water heater manufacturers use the same names for the thermostat settings. Nevertheless, the settings are basically hot, medium and warm. On some water heaters there is also a vacation setting. According to the manufacturers, the respective temperatures are 160 F, 140 F, 120 F, and 60 F. These temperatures are not too precise as there can be a difference of 10 degrees Fahrenheit or more between the dial setting and the water's temperature.

The thermostat for a tank-type water heater is at the lower portion of the tank. Since hot water rises, the temperature of the water at the top of the tank (where the hot water outlet pipe is located) will be higher than the water surrounding the thermostat.

You must also consider that as the hot water flows through the distribution pipes, some heat will be lost. Consequently, the water temperature discharging from the various faucets will be lower than the water temperature at the top of the heater tank

For the most part, a thermostat setting that produces a water tempera-ture of 140 F will be adequate for household appliances such as clothes washers and dishwashers. However. when dishes are to be washed by hand or when bathing, a water temperature of 120 F is probably too hot for most people and needs to be tempered with a bit of cold water.

Subdivision is near 2 college towns

The Village of Hickory Pointe is a short drive from two college towns, Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, and less than a half hour via the freeway system from the western and northern suburbs here. The platted development of 258 lots in Pittsfield Township will feature a community pool, several open green spaces and prices that start at $154,990 for a brand new house.

"I have 21 sold and we've only been open a month and a half," said Patricia Shea, vice president of Rock Homes, which is based in Bingham Farms. "It's definitely because we come in at real low prices.

The subdivision, about a mile from the Michigan Avenue exit off I-94, would be especially attractive to folks who want to move up from Ypsilanti and those who grew up in Ann Arbor but can't afford to buy there now, Shea said. Prospects also have visited from the Canton area.

"This area is so populated with young families," Shea said. "All our studies out here showed ... kids, young families.

Many of the Hickory Pointe's ameni-ties are designed with families in mind. "Right in the middle we put in a neighborhood swim club," Shea' said. We didn't invent the notion, but it's so successful. The whole idea is a neighborhood gathering place.

"The Ann Arbor schools have a good reputation. Certainly, we're taking advantage of it," she added.

Four basic floor plans are available. They range in price from $154,990 for a raised ranch (bi-level) of 1,949 square feet with three bedrooms and two baths to $184,990 for a colonial of 2,262 square feet with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

All contain at standard price two-car garage; basement or lower level; oven, refrigerator and dishwasher; separate tub and shower in master suite; and carpeting throughout.

A package including wood burning fireplace, air conditioning, two skylights, deck and carpet pad upgrade can be ordered for $9,520 or optioned "It's just a tremendous value," Shea said. Models of all four plans are under construction.

The raised ranch (bi-level), nearly 1,950 square feet, situates the garage, a finished recreation room, utility room and storage room at ground level.

Colonial choice: The colonial plan at Hickory Pointe, with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths, can be ordered with or without a family room.

dining room, great room, kitchen/nook, three bedrooms and two full baths are on the main living area Sloped ceilings and walls with unusual angles are throughout.

The colonial, 2,262 square feet, features a two-story foyer, living room, dining room, family room with cathedral ceiling, first-floor laundry, kitchen with island and walk-in pantry, and a half bath.

The master suite with cathedral ceiling has a pair of walk-in closets. Two other bedrooms and a full bath also are up.

A smaller colonial without the family room, 1,970 square feet, carries a base price of $167,990.

The Cap Cod, 1,784 square feet, contains a great room/ dining area, kitchen/ nook and master suite on the first floor, two bedrooms and a full bath upstairs.

Base price without the optional sun room is $169,990. The ranch, 1,787 square feet, showcases a great room, dining area, three bedrooms - the master and the other two on opposite sides of the house two full baths and first-floor laundry. Base price is $164,990. Primary exterior materials are vinyl siding and brick. "One thing they (visitors) are very impressed with is high ceilings," said Terry Neumann, sales representative.

"It's a very grand look, very grand feeling when you walk in. "With the site, they're not only impressed with the parks, but also the swim club," she added. "We're just a stone's throw from I-94 and U.S. 23." The Village of Hickory Pointe will be serviced by city water, sewers and sidewalks.

The property tax rate currently is $38.18 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $165,000 house will pay about $3,150 the first year.

The annual association fee to maintain the pool and common areas is projected at $300 per house. Ben and Patti McGiveran, who ordered the smaller colonial, will be the first to move into the development. "We wanted to stay somewhat close to Ann Arbor. We both work in Ann

Match your mortgage to your needs

Today, home mortgage lenders offer an astounding choice of terms, repayment plans and interest rate options. Mortgage shoppers must be prepared to sort through a growing list of financing alternatives. To help potential home buyers with this process, the Michigan Association of CPAs (MACPA) has created the following profiles to familiarize you with some of the different types of mortgages available.

The lifer

You've found your dream house and you plan to stay put - at least until retirement. Your long-term plans make it worthwhile for you to pay "a premium" to lock in a fixedrate on your mortgage. With a fixed-rate mortgage, your interest rate and monthly payment (for principal and interest) stay the same for the life of the loan, and your monthly payments steadily reduce your principal balance. For many homebuyers, this predictability outweighs the lower rates adjustable rate mortgages have to offer. On the down side, if interest rates fall, you'll need to refinance if you want to take advantage of lower rates.

The mover

You found a house that is fine for now, but a promotion, transfer or your sense of adventure is likely to have you moving within the next two or three years. Your shortterm needs make you a likely candidate for an adjustable rate mortgage (ARM). With an ARM, your willingness to share the risk of changing interest rates is likely to get you a rate two to three percent lower than that offered on fixed-rate loans. To provide some degree of protection, most ARMs come with "caps" that limit how much the interest rate can change per year and over the life of the lean.

ARMs also are suitable for some first-time homebuyers. Since initial rates on ARMs are lower than those on fixed rate loans, qualifying for an ARM is easier and lower monthly payments enable buyers to get more house for their money.

The income climber

¹You just started a job with a promising future, or perhaps you have just one more year of tuition payments for your twin daughters. The graduated payment mortgage (GPM) is designed for homebuyers with modest. incomes and great expectations. With a GPM, monthly payments are lower than the interest rate requires in the early years, then rise gradually over a set period, say five or ten years, before leveling off for the duration of the loan. Even though the payments change, the interest rate is usually fixed. The lower initial payments enable you to buy more house for your money, but bear in mind that if your income doesn't rise as expected, you may have difficulty meeting increased payments.

The well-heeled buyer

You're well established in your career and are willing and able to take on extra-large monthly payments to pay off your mortgage before you retire. A shorter-term mortgage might be your best bet. Because there is less long-term risk, lenders charge lower interest rates on 15- or 20-year loans. A shorter-term mortgage means you pay off your loan

E For many homebuyers, the predictability of the traditional mortgage outweighs the lower rates adjustable rate mortgages have to offer.

faster, own your home sooner and save tens of thousands of dollars in interest costs. If you want to shorten the term of your loan but are reluctant to lock yourself into a high monthly repayment schedule, you can make additional payments toward your principal by writing a check for a larger amount than what is due.

This accomplishes the same objective, but gives flexibility to revert to your original monthly payment if money gets tight.

The first-time buyer

You're anxious to latch onto the American Dream, but you haven't been able to save enough for the standard 20-percent down payment. Many lenders offer special mortgage programs for first-time buyers with low to moderate incomes, some of which may include special financial counseling components. If you're steadily employed and your debts aren't too high, you may be able to buy a home for as little as three to five percent down. But, unless your loan is backed by a government agency, such as the Federal Housing Authority (FHA), be prepared to pay for private mortgage insurance, which protects the lender in case of default.

How to use extension ladders sensibly

By READER'S DIGEST BOOKS

FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Ladders themselves rarely malfunction, but ladder users do.

Ladder safety is 50 percent common sense and 50 percent taking the time to do it right. Here's some advice, most of which is emblazoned on the side of every extension ladder sold today: Check overhead for electrical wires. Aluminum or magnesium ladders are particularly hazardous, but dirty wood and fiberglass ladders can conduct electricity, too.Stabilize both the top and bottom of your ladder. ■ Face the ladder as you go up and down. Wear soft, rubber-soled shoes - leather soles

Wear soft, rubber-soled shoes - leather sole can slip.

■ Maintain three points of contact: Two feet and one hand or two hands and one foot should be on the ladder at all times.

 Avoid overreaching. Your hips should remain between the ladder's two side rails.
 Select the ladder that's the right height and sturdiness. Here's how to raise and lower a ladder:

Get someone to help you. Four hands

■ Get someone to help you. Four hands are better than two, when it comes to raising extension ladders, especially those over 28 feet long.

■ Place the bottom of the ladder against the base of the wall. Then, starting at the top, walk the ladder up, hand over hand, until it is vertical.

■ Next, pull the ladder's feet out slightly from the wall and extend it to the desired height. Be sure the locks are fully engaged.

■ Set the feet of the ladder at a 75-degree angle. You should be able to stand with your toes against the feet of the ladder, your arms and back straight, and your hands on the rungs at shoulder height. To further check the angle, for each 4 feet of ladder used, the base should be 1 foot from the wall.

■ Secure the base. There are movable feet at the ends of the legs. On grass or loose rock, use the ladder feet in the spike position. On hard, stable surfaces, use the feet in a flat-foot position. When in doubt, have a helper hold the bottom.

■ Use a ladder stabilizer bar – a device with two legs that holds the upper part of the ladder out from the wall – to prevent damage to siding and gutters, to span window openings and to provide better stability.

Never set a ladder on sawhorses or boxes to extend its reach.

Never work on a ladder outdoors during windy or inclement weather.

Use a tool belt or your pockets to carry tools and supplies, or a bucket and rope to pull up your tools after you've climbed up.

When working on a roof, the ladder's side rails should extend 3 feet above the roof edge to provide a good handhold as you climb on and off the ladder. Step onto the roof from the side, rather than over the top

When moving your ladder from one spot to the next; lower it hand over hand and carry it parallel to the ground.

■ Never store a ladder outside or in an unlocked garage. A burglar may use it to reach a window that would otherwise be out of reach.

Log exterior great for woodsy setting

You'll hardly notice the Sylvan, nestled ck in the Unless, that is, the owners choose a bright color for its metal roof. Or rays of the setting sun are glinting off the V-shaped window bay.

The warm, natural beauty of this home's log exterior blends right in with the sur-rounding landscape. It looks like it belongs

Log homes are noted for having impressive natural insulating qualities, longevity and ease of maintenance. But this is no rustic cabin. It's a three-bedroom, two-bathroom home you could actually live in yearround if your needs are simple

Light washes into the cathedral-like, vaulted living room through huge windows, stacked three high. If you enjoy observing seasonal changes in total comfort, this is the right place to do it.

A small dining room connects the living room and kitchen. The front door opens onto a wide deck, ideal for outdoor dining when the weather is inviting. The fully enclosed sun room at the rear of the kitchen could be outfitted as an eating area, or furnished as a place to relax, read and nap.

The upper level master suite is actually a loft. It's open at the front to the majestic view, while a side-facing dormer offers yet another vista. Amenities here include a large walk-in closet and a small private bathroom with two basins and a shower. Attic storage is accessible through openings on both sides.

Each of the Sylvan's secondary bedrooms has a closet. A bathroom is close by, along with a stacked washer and dryer unit tucked in a hallway alcove.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, Ore. 97402. Tending to those pesky spring gardening chores (NAPS) - Just when a gardener would like to sit back and enjoy a cold drink on the patio or spend a day at the lake, the press of lawn and garden tasks seems to hit its peak. Weeds threaten to crowd out the plants, while pests and diseases give rise to doubts as to their very survival. In a season deficient in rainfall, wilting plants demand irrigation. Starving plants must be fed if they are to live up to their promise.

Never fear, however, there are simple and easy ways to attack all these problems, so that you have plenty of time to relax and joy the fruits of your labors. Yes, you can pull weeds and cart them off to the compost pile, but that takes time and can be hard on your back. It makes more e to apply mulch to smother the weeds and eliminate most of the backwork. For the flower border or vegetable garden, organic mulch such as partially composted leaves, buckwheat hulls or straw will provide control and can be worked into the ground at the end of the season to improve the soil. Around trees and shrubs where permanence is desired, use wood chips, pine bark or gravel. A plastic or fabric weed barrier beneath the mulch will prevent persistent weeds from pushing their way through the mulch.

Many chemicals are available for both pest and disease control, however, if your concern for the environment dictates that you avoid these materials or at least serve them for the most stubborn situations, consider less stringent means such as handpicking or washing insects off the plants with the garden hose. Infected leaves or an entire plant should be destroyed to prevent the spread of disease to healthy plants. Biological controls such as the release of friendly predatory insects or an application of Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacterium that only affects insects, are among the increasing number of safe controls

Setting the thermostat so its temperature exceeds 140 F is wasteful of energy and will shorten the life of the water heater. Water temperature in excess of 160 F is a potential hazard because of the possibility of being scalded while showering if the shower's mixing valve is faulty.

Q: I built a retaining wall of used railroad ties. In a few areas the rot is creating holes. Is there any way I can remedy this situation besides rebuilding the entire wall?

A: There really isn't much you can do about repairing the rotting sections in your retaining wall. There are epoxy fillers that are used to rehabilitate rotting trim in houses but they are not intended for retaining walls. If you only have a few sections that are rotted, and if the structural bracing for the wall (tie backs and dead men) has not deteriorated, then reconstructing the entire wall should not be necessary. You can remove the extensively rotted ties and replace them

Rotten used railroad ties are not unusual. This is because the species of wood that are used for railroad ties are difficult to impregnate with creosote. Consequently, there is quite a lot of untreated wood and moisture in the interior of the ties. When the ties dry, they check and split, exposing the interior portion to some decay.

#30-023

The Sylvan

Furthermore, creosote consists of hundreds of components, some of which are soluble in water. Over time, the creosote retained in the tie is depleted as these components leach out. Eventually decay occurs in the ties.

Want to get rid of it?

We can't blame you.

How about joining the 3-2-1—SOLD! club?

If you've been out in the garage, down in the basement or up in the attic recently and said to yourself, "Gosh, I'd love to get rid of some of this stuff, but it would cost too much to advertise it?"

Our 3-2-1—SOLD! offer is just what you need when you have things to sell for under $200. Here's how it works:

1. You get 3 lines to describe your item (remember, you have to be asking less than $200)

2. You get to run your ad for 2 days (one week)

3. You get 1 low price-just $19.95.

You could say our 3-2-1 plan is as easy as 1-2-3!

Call us today.
