Pipe co.'s expansion plans put on hold

Responding to residents' concerns, Independence Township Planning Commissioners postponed voting on whether to allow a local pipe company to start manufacturing in the community. Commissioners tabled Thursday the Premarc Corp.'s requests for special land use and site plan approval. The pipe company, located on White Lake Road at Clement, is zoned for heavy industrial and is currently being used as a storage facility for concrete pipe made elsewhere.

However, the company is seeking to build a facility that would enable them to do manufacturing. As currently proposed, Premarc's expansion would include construction of a 65-foot silo, which exceeds the township's height requirement of 35 feet.

The motion to table the request. which commissioners Todd Moss and Richard Oppmann voted against, followed a steady stream of opposition from residents who live near the Premarc site, which directly abuts residential areas.

Residents' complaints ranged from frustration about noise levels, truck traffic and hours of operation to concerns about road erosion, and air and land pollution.

Some residents, however, did voice appreciation for Premarc's recent efforts to reduce noise levels.

"I appreciate Premarc's proactive efforts to reduce noise currently," said Mark Wilson, who lives east of Premarc on Paula Road.

Noise levels at the site were determined to be acceptable by both a consulting company hired by Premarc and urrounded by the bobbing heads of little children, splashing waters, and a chlorine-scented breeze, Natalie Bowerman saunters into the shallow end of the wave pool.

Though it looks more like a vacation at first glance, the Clarkston resident encounters the same scene each day at work. By working as a lifeguard and swimming instructor at Waterford Oaks Waterpark, Bowerman said she's found a rewarding and challenging way to spend her summer. "I've wanted to be a lifeguard," she said, enthusiastically. "I've been swimming all of my life." As a water safety instructor, Bowerman underwent aggressive training and can swim with perfection. She's used those skills for the past four summers at the park. Every weekday, from 8 a.m until 4:30 p.m., Bowerman is responsible for the safety of students and swimmers alike.

The more people who visit the park, she said, the more challenging her job becomes

Commissioner Joseph Figa also said he would not support Premarc's request to erect a 65foot silo on the property. Furthermore, he said, regardless of the site's zoning, "I think the problems (that residents have) need to be cleared up ... Something has to be worked out with the hours of operation."

The R.E.I. designation is given to a select group of Real Estate professionals who offer extraordinary service to home sellers. In addition to all the ordinary tools Realtors use to sell homes, Tope also provides home-sellers with an extra service called Talking House.

Talking House allows the home-buying public to get instant information about a home for sale, right over their car radio. They just stop out front of a home for sale, tune in on their radio and hear all about that home. Talking Houses stand out in a crowded real estate market.

Just over 10,000 agents nationwide have been awarded the R.E.I. designation. There are approximately 725,000 members of the National Association of Realtors in the U.S.

The ball's in his court now

Clarkston's Thomas Raguso settling in as new magistrate hen the ring from Thomas Raguso's telephone wakes him at 1'a.m., he's quickly reminded of his new responsibilities as a district court magistrate.

Raguso, recently appointed as magistrate in Clarkston's 52-2 District Court, can expect to be contacted at all hours of the night to sign a search warrant. It's just one of his new duties. "It's not really unusual," he said, smiling behind the elegant wooden desk in his law office.

A magistrate presides over civil infractions, such as traffic tickets; small claims cases, and informal hearings where lawyers are not present. Magistrates also have the authority to set bonds for arraignments. The court has three magistrates who each work one day a week.

Approved by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, the Michigan Supreme Court and District Court 52, Raguso began his magistrate duties on June 8. The private-practice attorney and Clarkston resident still practices law out of his downtown Clarkston office.

"You have to know the law, be people-oriented, be patient enough to hear their positions, and be fair," said Raguso about what it takes to work in the field of law. "You have to let them

You have to know the law, be people-oriented, be patient enough to hear (people's) positions. and be fair. You have to let them express themselves."

express themselves." When he graduated from Michigan State University in 1960, Raguso didn't imagine himself sporting the robes of a magistrate. Holding a bachelor's degree in economics, he began working as a sales representative for a manufacturing company. Noticing his skills at sales, a "a pretty good attorney," he said. With the idea lingering in his mind, Raguso began law school at Wayne State University. After four years of working during the day and taking classes at night, he passed the bar exam and began practicing law in Hazel Park. Thirty-one years later, Raguso has tried cases in divorce, murder, accident, child support, and even bankruptcy. "You name it, I've done it," he said. "I have a lot of trial experi-ence, especially in Oakland County."

District Judge Gerald E.

52-2 District Court magistrate McNally recommended Raguso to the position of magistrate for the 52-2 District Court. He said Raguso is well-qualified and has "He's public-minded and a nice addition," said McNally, who has served as judge for 30 years. In 1972, Raguso, along with his wife Sherrill and three children, moved to Clarkston. He says he likes the atmosphere and the people in Clarkston.

"I like being downtown where, you can grab a cup of coffee, walk down the street, and people say hello," he said. "You know people by name."

Members of the community may know Raguso as the cantor at St. Daniel Church, a job he has performed for 10 years. He also sings at fund-raisers, naming songs by Frank Sinätra as his favorite to perform.

Though living and working in Clarkston is more convenient now that he's established a home in the area, he said the practice of law is similar in every area he has worked – which includes Bloomfield Hills, Pontiac and Hazel Park. Raguso will not hesitate to meet a client on a Sun-Thomas Raguso day because the office is near his home and his church.

> Raguso said magistrates are responsible for knowing the laws that apply to both the plaintiff and defendant in the cases. He is able to look at these cases from another point of view in his new position

Area law professionals said he's suited to the new job.

"He's the perfect guy for the position of magistrate," said Leo James, a sole practitioner in Clarkston who has known Raguso for 10 years.

James describes Raguso as a kind man who listens and tries to help others.

"There are certain magistrates who don't even listen to you," James said. "He never gets upset and lets both sides speak fully to make the right decisions."

Dennis Kacy also has a private practice in Clarkston. As a friend and colleague for more than 10 ears, he is confident in Raguso's abilities.

"I think insight is something you gain from years of experi-ence," said Kacy. "He can bring a fresh face to the system."

McNally said the courts couldn't be open without the help of magistrates.

They're really like a second pair of hands," he said.

But a magistrate is more limited in his work than a judge. A judge can sentence an individual to jail, oversee jury trials, hear civil cases involving up to $25,000. Judges are elected or appointed by the governor. Raguso said if, in the future, he is approached with an opportunity to become a judge, he would be interested.

"Now that I've had a taste of it. I think I'd like to do something like that," he said, grinning

On the bench: Clarkston's Thomas Raguso is the new magistrate at 52-2 District Court.

Commission shakeup possible

tions

The Oakland County Commission faces the potential for a large turnover in this year's election

With four open seats, and 14 incumbents being challenged in the Aug. 4 primary, the fall election could result in many new faces on the commission.

County Executive L. Brooks Patterson said there definitely seems to be more interest in county commission races this year.

"Up and down the line there seems to be a lot of people jumping into the race," Patterson said.

If that leads to new people on the commission, it wouldn't be a bad thing, he said. "New faces are a positive thing," Patterson said. "Cliques develop sometimes with the majority party. A shakeup every once in a while can be a good thing."

Of the 25 commission districts in Oakland County, only seven incumbents have uncontested primary races. In nine races, as many as three or four candidates are running against each other for their party's nomination. Republican Dan Devine Jr., who represents the 14th district, is one of those candidates running unopposed in the primary.

Devine attributes the large number of candi-dates to the state's term limits law, which is forcing the retirement of many state legislators this year.

Because of term limits, he says, more county commissioners statewide are retiring and running for the state Legislature. In turn, more people are taking a shot at open commissioners' seats.

And some retiring state legislators are even looking at running for county commissioner. Two of the four retiring Oakland County commissioners, Ruth Johnson and Gilda Jacobs, are running for the state House of Representatives.

"I think it's great that so many people are running. It's healthy," Devine said. "I think we'll see a lot of people on the commission who represent the average citizen." Democrat Vincent Gregory, of Southfield, districts, will represent a 16 percent change in the commission. "Even with four new faces on the commission, it'll be a whole new commission," Devine said. And it's appropriate, considering the new direction in Lansing (because of term limits).

But Patterson said he doesn't agree that incumbent commissioners have an edge, mostly ecause the county commission is fairly low-profile.

What also seems different this year, Devine

"Most people don't even know who their coun-ty commissioner is," Patterson said. "So to say the incumbent is favored loses its clout when you're talking about the county commission."

He said he thinks some incumbents are being targeted this year because they are seen as vulnerable.

"In some races, the incumbent is seen as controversial," Patterson said, "so the challenger says they think they can do a better job."

Besides the possibility of fresh faces, this year's race could elevate public awareness of the commission and what it does.

With a $530 million annual budget, the commission oversees county departments such as the local court system, the mental health department, parks and recreation and the social services board

Gregory said in his short time on the commission, he's learned that many residents don't really know what the county commission does.

So any extra exposure can't hurt, he said.

"It's easy for the local government officials. People see them around, and they know that what they do affects them." Gregory said.

"On really busy days, when I'm standing on deck, it's really hard to watch everyone," she said But lifeguards at the park rotate their locations every 20 minutes once the park opens at 11 a.m. Bowerman may begin the day standing alongside the pool, then move to Ragin Rapids waterslide to help guests in and out of the tube, and then go to Slidey vinder, to make sur watersliders are safe while on their water mats. The 19-year-old doesn't plan to make a career out of her work at the park. As a sophomore ttending the University of Michigan – Flint, she studies biochemistry and is considering medical school. Her summer job has taught her skills she finds valuable in both school and life. "The most important thing I've learned here is that we have to work really good as a team," she said.

In addition, there are other benefits to working at the park. "You get to be out in the sun all day," she said. "You get to jump in the water whene ver you want and go down the slides.

But Bowerman said the most rewards come from working with children. She teaches two skill levels of swimming classes beginner's level three and, the most advanced, level seven. While working with a group of children, ages 5 to 11, she teaches them how to do a front and a back crawl how to dive into the deep end, and later play a swimming version of freeze tag. She's watched some of her former students become competent swimmers.

"From three years ago, I'll see some of the kids (I taught)," she said. "I really get attached to some of them.

Bethany Line, 6, is a student in Bowerman's swimming class. During a recent lesson, Bethany said her favorite activity was splashing around like we did today.

Working with children is a significant part of Bowerman's job. "She works very well with the kids," said Stacie Scheib, a seasonal program specialist. When it comes to helping swimmers in danger, lifeguard-ing is second-nature to Bowerman. She expects to have seven or eight moments during the summer when she will help save a swimmer. "I don't even think about it." she said. "I just jump in, save them. My adrenaline really takes over.' Scheib said lifeguarding and instructing swimming courses require a great deal of responsibility.

Before becoming an instructor, employees must be certified and experienced as lifeguards. To work as a lifeguard at the park, managers like Scheib look for individuals with strong swimming skills, patience and a friendly nature. She said that even people who may not have the strongest skills are considered if they show a lot of initia tive to improve and work well (Always the doctor, O'Neill picks up the phone.) Dr. O'Neill? Who's this?. What milligram are you? (O'Neill quickly offers his patient some advice, hangs up and our conversation continues.) We used to ride in rodeos. And my father did not want us to ride in rodeos. We were right by Yellowstone right on the Montana border. So we went up to Montana once ... and we figured there's no damn way he'll ever know we're up here. (The phone rings again.) We were riding these very, very wild, wild horses. And I don't know what I was more terrified of - the horse I was riding or looking over and seeing my father there. (O'Neill picks up the phone.) Yeah? How old is he? Give him two to start; he's pretty big, isn't he? It is - two stat and one a day. Okay. (He hangs up.)

Question: Would you do it again?

Answer: Yeah, I still ride horses. On Wednesdays, I go up to Camp Tamarack ... Periodically, we take all the stable horses - you know, stable horses get naughty. They won't do a damn thing, they won't cross the water, they won't go back through fences - so they give us the spoiled brats ... and we go up and ride them and make them work again. Yeah, it's nice to get a beautiful horse that's raising hell and get the horse all straightened away. So the next kid who rides it will do what he wants...

Question: If you had to give up one of your five senses, which would it be?

Answer: Smell probably. That's not a hard choice.

I feel very sad about what's happening in this country right now. have great love and faith in the American people in this country, but I think it's being sold down the river on a lot of fronts, to say the least.

Question: Describe your childhood home?

Answer: Absolutely the most idyllic, great childhood in the world. ... My first remembrance is of just running out and - we still have wild mustangs out there but just jumping on a horse with no saddle, nothing. And grab the mane and run like hell, and just going in the Badlands. ...Kind of doing whatever we felt like doing. I mean we were very disciplined but in a way of responsibility ... We worked hard ... But it was wild; it was fun. And we just felt like we could do whatever we wanted. And we usually angels and why or why not? Answer: Yes, very strongly. I think angels are a very real thing ... I think if you look at the creation and order of the universe - and that's what pains me about the United States. This nation was founded under God. And this was a profoundly Christian nation. We keep trying to separate God out of life - there's no such thing as God, there is no such thing as absolute truth, there's no such thing as angels or the other side. I don't see the other side as very far away ... It's very close. I've been at the deathbed of many, many people ... I have seen people die in just tremendous equanimity and some people in great fear ... You know what amazes me about people is they are so astounded and they call it the occult. What's so occult about miracles? I see them everyday. And there are profoundly good angels and there are bad angels ... If there is something that is good and true, there has to be something that isn't good and true.

Question: If you were an actor, would you do a nude scene? And if so, with whom and where?

Answer: No. No, I wouldn't. Personally, I think the human body is beautiful, both male and female. But there is a certain modesty, and that comes with the loss of our innocence in the Garden of Eden. Before that. man was not ashamed of their bodies. There's a little shame now, but I think, especially with women, there's a certain preciousness. And they give it all away.

Question: What's your favorite ice-cream flavor? Answer: Probably strawberry. Yeah, strawberry.

Question: If your house was on fire and all your loved ones were safe, what one item would you grab? Answer: Probably none of them. Maybe pictures or something, but not really.

Question: What's your shoe size?

Answer: 10-and-a-half.

Question: America is...

Answer: The great shining city on the hill. The greatest place in the world. It really is. It's hope. America is hope.

Question: If you were on death row, what would you request for your last meal and what might your last words be?

Answer: My last words would be - I'm going to a better place. I would be sure of that. And my last meal would probably be what I grew up on in North Dakota. Some grits and greens.

Question: Do you drive or exceed the speed limit? If you go over, by how much? Answer: I drive very slowly And one of the great penalties in life for my grandkids is - if you aren't good, you're going to have to ride with Grandpa up north. And he drives slow, and he gets lost, and he drives off and looks for cows and old tractors and farms

Legal Notice WORKERS DENIED OVERTIME LAWSUIT

Past and present non-union employees of Ameritech are invited to call to discuss their legal rights in a pending; national class action lawsuit filed against Ameritech on May 29, 1998 in Wayne County Circuit Court for alleged violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act, to-wit: failing to pay overtime.

The Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. Sec. 207, requires most employers to pay employees time and a half for each hour worked over 40 hours per week. Ameritech and other major employers have failed to pay overtime. This class action lawsuit has been filed to recover lost overtime for the thousands of employees who have been short-changed.

Non-union individuals who worked for Ameritech and other companies between 1994 and the present and, who did not receive pay for hours worked in excess of 40 hours per week, may call or submit a letter with their name, address and telephone number to:

Smashing success Popular band Pumpkins raise $100,000 for HAVEN

A visit this week from the rock band Smashing Pumpkins left the staff and residents of HAVEN crisis shelter feeling a little overwhelmed and extremely grateful.

The internationally-popular band visited the Oakland County shelter Wednesday afternoon before playing a benefit concert for HAVEN that evening at the State Theatre in Detroit. Wednesday's concert raised more than $100,000 for HAVEN, an Oakland County family shelter

"I can't tell you how grateful HAVEN is," said Pam Berklich, president of the HAVEN board of directors. "To have these angelic people come in and donate six figures ... it's very unusual."

It was the fifth concert in a 14stop tour in which the band is donating 100 percent of ticket sales to different charities -– an unusual move in the music industry

Members of the alternative rock band said they wanted to visit HAVEN in order to get a chance to meet the people they are helping. During their stop, the band took a tour of the facility, then met with about 30 women and children who are currently staying at the shelter. CD jackets were signed, questions were answered - and there were even a few hugs.

Angie Goryl, 22, has been staying at the shelter for two weeks. She showed off a personalized message, on a piece of scrap paper, that singer Billy Corgan wrote for her brother.

"My brother's in the hospital getting chemotherapy right now. He isn't going to believe this," Goryl said, shaking her head in amazement. "He's a huge Smashing Pumpkins fan."

Berklich said the kids especially were "ecstatic" about the visit. "It's a big event for any kid, let alone these special kids," Berklich said. Band members Corgan, D'arcy, and James Iha then sat down to answer questions from the media. To protect the shelter's anonymity, the event was not open to the public.

Asked how the idea for the tour was conceived, Corgan said they wanted to do something "radical" this year, to mark their 10th anniversary.

A lot of bands do benefit concerts, he said, but it's unusual to donate 100 percent of ticket sales. It means the band is paying for all expenses, such as facilities, lighting and sound, out of their own pockets.

Corgan said they chose organizations that serve children as a theme, in the hopes it would gain national attention and encourage other people to get involved in charities.

This way, nationally it will add up to a picture that says, 'This is what we think is important," Corgan said. "We want it to gain momentum."

While HAVEN's staff felt overwhelmed by the attention, the band members themselves shared some of those feelings. "Just going to these places, these sites — it's very over-whelming," D'arcy said.

compiled a list of non-profit organizations that benefit Detroitarea children, and HAVEN was chosen from that list. Founded in 1975, HAVEN provides emergency shelter, counseling and therapy for victims of domestic violence and their children, as well as counseling for the abuser and preventative education in schools. It has an annual budget of about $2.6 million.

Birmingham: ice cream and fresh flowers

The thing to know about down-town Birmingham is that it's big. Really big. It has four parking garages! That's how big it is.

So if you plan on doing much exploring there, wear comfortable walking shoes and leave plenty of time to look around.

Now, it's true that many of the things I've seen there are out of my price range. For instance, at one shop I found a cute little sundress and thought about getting it for my 2-year-old daughter until I saw the price tag: $146. Puh-lease.

But it is fun to look around in Birmingham and you never know what kind of bargains or treasures you might find. My best "discovery" yet: the huge ice cream cones at Willy's Place, located at 327

Hamilton Row; phone (248) 644-2044. Customers have about 35 different flavors to choose from, including Guernsey Farms ice cream (if you've never had it, you have to try it; it's made in Novi and is delicious!), Savino Sorbets, and Heart Smart soft yogurt.

and with three gen-erous scoops on top, it's more like a large. A small cone is $2, with two heaping scoops on top. Willy's Place recently added a deli (it opened July 6), so now you can get soups, salads, sandwiches and pizza there, too. Hours are 11 a.m.-10 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 11 a.m.-midnight Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Two of my favorite places to visit in downtown Birmingham are Blossoms Home Store, located at 175 West Maple, and Paterson Carney Florist, located at 239 Pierce Street. Walk into either of these lush floral shops and you'll hear tranquil music combined with the trickling of water fountains. You will be surrounded by beautiful plants, topiaries and flowers some real, some artificial but very realistic – plus unique gift items. Blossoms Home Store is open from 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Thursday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. the rest of the week (Monday-Saturday), and closed Sunday; phone (248) 644-4411. Paterson Carney Florist is open from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Thursday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday-Saturday, and noon-5 p.m. Sunday; phone (249) 647-7477. I also like Michigania, located at 205 Pierce St. It's similar to Michigan Made Inc. in Plymouth, which I wrote about last week Both stores carry food, artwork and gift items representative of Michigan. Michigania doesn't carry the small lighthouse figurines that I collect. But Michigania carries Mackinaw fudge, whereas the other store doesn't. So which is better? You be the judge. I like them both. Michigania's hours are 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday-Saturday, closed Sun-day; phone 1-800-443-9284. Cargo Hold, located at 202 E. Maple, sells lots of different things for the home, but I especially like its greeting cards. Some of them feature black-and-white pho-tographs that have been culled from old family scrapbooks and then hand-colored. Hours are 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 10 a.m.-8:30 p.m. Thursday and Fri-day, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Saturday and closed Sunday, Phone (248) 642-8661.

Sidewalk Stroll Feel the buzz and bustle of Birmingham irmingham exudes a certain resort-like refinement, a taste Dievel that emanates from its distinctive boutiques, classic clothiers and contemporary galleries. Open-air cafes, a cadre of coffeehouses and a restored theater add to the casual cachet.

Though posh surroundings often seem intimidating, merchants here are warm and welcoming. Don't come uptown seeking the ordinary or the whimsical. Rather, celebrate the area's forward-thinking style and well-edited collections, but know that dogs, strollers and jogging shorts are as appropriate around town as cell phones and Armani suits.

Environs

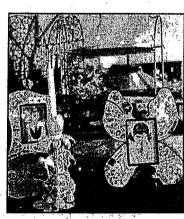

Downtown Birmingham is situated just west of Woodward Avenue between Lincoln Road and Oak Street. The Avenue becomes S. Old Woodward as it veers off into downtown proper, and 15 Mile Road, or Maple, narrows to two lanes and intersects Old Woodward at the city's center. Shain Park, Baldwin Library, the Townsend Hotel and The Community House form the nucleus of the downtown area. The Community House offers an ongoing schedule of special events, classes and seminars, as well as patio dining at the Bates Street Cafe. Join residents for weekly concerts in Shain Park during the summer months and annual outdoor celebrations all year long. And treat yourself to tea at the posh Townsend Hotel.

Birmingham is booming - on the cusp of becoming a shopping, dining and entertainment mecca. When you visit, take the time to explore all of its side streets and tucked-away boutiques. The following "Sidewalk Stroll" suggestions are but a fraction of what you'll discover.

Art & Antiques

Home to a burgeoning fine art community, Birmingham's streets are lined with galleries that feature all manner and media of art. The venerable David Klein Gallery, 163 Townsend, is showing paintings by William Glen Crooks and Lester Johnson through Aug. 15. The Robert Kidd Gallery, 107 Townsend, exhibits new paintings by Winifred Godfrey and sculpture by Chris Berti through Aug. 15. G.R. Legislature reforms harsh 'drug lifer' law

BY TIM RICHARD

'No longer does Michigan's '650 drug lifer' law mean 'death in prison,' but it still will be tough for inmates convicted of carrying 650 grams of heroin or cocaine to get out) For 20 years, Michiganians, have either boasted. about or deplored the harshest drug penalty in the nation: mandatory life in prison with no hope of parole for those caught with 650 grams. (2.2 pounds) of a controlled substance. The Legislature modified the law in the closing hours of its July 2 session and sent it to Gov. John Engler for signing.

here is nothing 'soft' about a penalty that is still more severe than that for second-degree mur-der,' said Laura Sager, director of Families Against Mandatory Minimums, FAMM argued that instead of putting drug 'kingpins' out of circulation forever, the law was harshly penalizing young, naive 'mules' of the trade. More than 200 are currently serving life terms.

The new law will say: The penalty is 20 years to life, at the judge's discretion.

Current convicts are eligible for parole after 15 years if they have cooperated with the prosecu-

Current lifers with no other convictions for serious crimes are eligible for parole after 17 years; six months; 20 years if they have been repeat offenders.

convict played a key role in the trade, whether the offense involved children 17 or younger, or committed the offense in a drug-free school zone.

Urging modification of the 650-lifer law were ex-Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, who spon-sored it, and ex-Gov. William G. Milliken, who signed it.

The final version was tougher than a House amendment offered by Rep. Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake, but milder than the police-oriented bill preferred by Sen. William VanRegenmorter, R-Jenison.

The Senate passed the main measure 26-9 with two not voting. Here is how area senators voted: YES – Bill Bullard, R-Milford and Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield.

a formal protest in the Senate Journal, saying the reductions "are not called for I don't believe-first-time offenders, which is the misnomer that has been applied to some of these individuals, are given that amount of drugs any first time I think the correct label would be 'first-time convicted ''' "Petitions to repeal this law were recovered in a raid on a drug dealer's home. Finally, for those who say drugs are a non-violent crime, the Depart-ment of Justice concludes that about 70 to 75 percent of all crimes are related, either directly or indirectly, to drugs." Rogers further asked that his name be removed

Bouchard, joined by the other dissenters, placed

The Observer & Eccentric/ SUN-

s a sponsor of the bill. Here is how Eccentric area lawmakers voted:

YES - Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake, Patricia Godchaux, R-Birmingham, Shirley Johnson, R-Royal Oak, Nancy Quarles, D-Southfield, Penny Crissman, R-Rochester

NO – Tom Middleton, R-Ortonville, Andrew Raczkowski, R-Farmington Hills. ABSENT - Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills.

In a news conference in Southfield, Republican senators said they had done a good job in rewriting state sentencing laws. "It's one of the most impor-tant things we've done this session," said majority leader Dick Posthumus, R-Alto.

"There will be some truth in sentencing," said Mike Bouchard, R-Birmingham, "What does 4-10 years in prison mean if they're out in 2 1/2? I arrested a home invasion and armed robbery sus-pect who got 6-20 years (as a sentence) and was out in four,' said the former police officer. Generally, the new law increases penalties for the more serious crimes. The intent is to keep vio-lent offenders behind bars. There has been a reduction in crime with swift, certain, predictable ounishment. The longer you keep them behind pars, the less time they have to commit crime.

wasn't the first time the state had tried to stiffen the meaning of judges' sentences. In 1978, Oakland's then-prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson led petition drive to prohibit parole for violent crimes until the court-imposed minimum sentence was served.

Voters said yes, 2.1 million to 711.000 - a 3-1 margin.

Senators at the news conference were unable to say why that law wasn't working.

Veg-out with salads fresh off the grill can't speak for all chefs and cooks, but for myself, once I leave my kitchen for the day, often after having worked in heat that registers in, and over, the 90°F mark, the last place you will find me at home is in the kitchen.

Over the past decade I have joined the ranks of millions of Americans as our backyard Weber Warrlor of sorts.

My prerequisites for summer dinner menus are cold food: the more fresh summer produce the better, and if it can't be cooked on the grill, it won't be cooked at all. I have become a fan of entree summer salads.

Nutritionally speaking, greens could be your best friend in the fridge. Fresh greens of most varieties are loaded with vitamins including C, E and A, which are loaded with mega antioxidants and soluble fiber, linked to lowering bad cholesterol. Greens are so low in calories that you can munch to your heart's desire without fear of weight gain.

Fine are no set rules for grilled alads, but I'll give you a few ideas and guidelines to help you on your way.

Rules

The first rule is there are no rules. Be creative and experiment with a variety of vegetables, marinades and dressings.

★■ Although some greens do well on the grill like radicchio, endive and bok choy, most greens and herbs can't take the heat.

take the heat. Root veggies should be grated or sliced 1/8 to 1/2-inch thick. Use a lower bact and lower stelling time lówer heat and longer cooking time. ■ Add a smooch of olive oil, a sprinkle of kosher salt, and freshly ground pepper to your prepared vegetables to add flavor, prevent them from drying out and sticking to the grill.

■ All vegetables cook a little differently. Keep a close eye on them, keep moving them around the grill, turning often to prevent them from burning? You want your vegetables to be crisp on the outside, tender on the inside.

Experiment with vinaigrettes and marinades especially with larger items such as portabella mushrooms. Balsamic vinegar works well with portabella mushrooms and root vegetables.

■ Think of wood as a spice as well as a fuel; apple, oak and mesquite are just a few suggestions.

Grill tomatoes and peppers whole.

Cut most squashes and eggplant 1/8-inch thick to grill.

Get moving for your health

BY PEGGY MARTINELLI-EVERTS

t is important to take responsibility for your health by participating in physical activities. Along with being physically active, you need to eat responsibily, as well. An evening walker, a weekend golfer and a marathon runner have different diet and training requirements. However, there are some important principles common to all athletes

a marating indicating the second state is a second state in the second state is a second state in the second state is a second state in the second state is a second state is

Athletes who participate in endurance sports should eat lots of complex carbohydrates (60-70 percentrof calories) like grains, potatoes, peas and corn which the body will store as an easily obtainable fuel called glucagon. Carbohydrate loading is a two-phase process whereby musclescare depleted by glycogen then supersaturated right before the event. However, repeated loading can have side effects such as depression; lethargy, loss of muscle tissue, chest pains and abnormal electrocardiograms. An an an an an abnormal electrocardiogram and a high carbohyrate diet throughout the training and taper off approximately seven days prior to the event. Such rigorous diet programming is beneficial only for athletes in endurance sports (who exercise vigorously for more than 90 minutes straight), and should be utilized only three or four times a year. School-age children and teens and athletes with diabetes or high blood fats (hypertriglceridemia) should be discouraged from this type of regime.

this type of regime. Athletes need a little bit more protein than nonathletes but certainly not the mega doses recommended by some body builder "nutritionists." Ten to 20 percent of calories should come from protein or 10-15 g per kilogram of body weight abscess protein, not immediately needed for repair of muscles, gets "sconverted to fat for long-term storage in the body. A diet that is too rich in protein puts a strain on your kidneys as they work to filter the blood and get rid of all the excess nitrogen from protein that your body doesn't store.

All athletes need plenty of clear, cool fluids to keep hydrated. Drink before, during and after training. Sports drinks contain lots of sugar along with the minerals and are not nutrionally necessary. The exception is for ultra-endurance athletes in extremely hot weather. Avoiding fluids is never a good idea for athletes who need to make weight," (like wrestlers).

There are many reasons to participate in sports including improved mood, heart health, weight control and better sleep. There are lots of "everyday" activities to get you started such as using the stairs rather than the elevator, using your speaker phone and moving around during phone calls and walking every chance you get. Just remember the old "new" adage – "walk the dog, don't watch the dog walk."

Play it cool with poached salmon and summer sauce

MAIN DISH MIRACLE Driving home from the office one night last week, I felt very-smug. Neither the temperature nor the traffic changed my mood. I thought of the evening to come, the invited guests and the poached salmon and sauce in the fridge, and smiled.

I'm one of those people who looks forward to summer, but only for the flavor of homegrown tomatoes and the other wonderful tasting fruits and vegetables of the season. I wilt in the heat. Even though I love to cook, I try to avoid the stove, even the grill, when temperatures rise to

Poaching has become one of my favorite cooking methods. A few minutes in the morning or late evening can yield enough fish, shellfish or chicken to help me sidestep the kitchen for two to three days. You see, I take a famous president's advice quite literally. "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

This recipe should be a delicious addition to your quick fish repertoire. Poaching is one of the easiest, most flavorful ways to get moist, tasty fish, once a few poaching myths are demystified.

First, you don't need one of those fancy, expensive poachers. They look pretty, but an ordinary roasting pan, or even that old black cast iron skillet will do. If you're cooking a large piece of fish, you may even want to wrap it in cheesecloth so that it's easier to lift out of the cooking liquid.

Second, you've read about/Court Bouillon in poach- fish. Re ing recipes, but that's nothing more than flavored water. I'm going to give you my secret poaching liquid recipe that I use to cook my fish in this recipe for salmon. It's really suited to almost any fish. Adjust quantities of liquid according to your poaching utensil because you want the fish covered.

You're probably well aware of the nutritional virtues of fish and shellfish and their role in helping prevent heart disease. However, there are more studies being reported on the effect of Omega-3 fatty acids on reduction of triglycerides – the fats circulating in the blood. These reports also suggest that the Omega-3's may influence the course of arthritis and help to prevent cancer. Omega-3 fatty acids are found

EATING YOUNGER POACHED SALMON WITH SUMMER SAUCE

1/2 to 1 quart liquid per pound of fish (I use 1/2 white wine and 1/2 water)
2 onions, sliced
2 cloves garlic, minced
3 tablespoons pickling spice
4 sprigs fresh dill or 1 tablespoon dried
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 teaspoon suger
1 pound salmon fillets or other fish
Bring liquid and all of the ingredients, except salmon, to a boil. Reduce heat to simmer. Immerse fish in liquid to cover. Cover pan. Cook 10 minutes per inch thickness.

For a half or whole fish fillet, allow 10 minutes per pound. Test doneness before removing from liquid. Drain fish. Refrigerate. in the fatter fish – sardines, salmon, whitefish, white albacore tuna, herring, mackerel and shellfish. Though these fish are higher in fat, they are monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fatty acids not artery-clogging saturated fats.

Besides the nutritional positives, this recipe has much taste appeal for jaded summer appetites. Do use the Summer Sauce. It's cool – there's no cooking involved. Serve the salmon with some "nuked" tiny new potatoes and a salad with a wonderful homegrown tomatoes, chopped fresh basil and a misting of good olive oil. Summer eating doesn't get much cooler or easier, unless you're not doing the cooking.

SUMMER SAUCE

1 cup fat-free sour cream (I like Land O'Lakes) 1/2 peeled cucumber, diced 2 tablespoons chopped fresh dill 1 tablespoon white horseradish Mix all ingredients. Adjust the horseradish to taste. Catchy melody of art, icons and '90s commerce

"What a long, strange trip it's been." Lyrics from "Truckin," circa early 1970s

- Grateful Dead f course, maybe, just maybe, the long, strange trip hasn't ended. Actually, it's far from over. Time has been rewired.

And if you need any convincing, consider this week's artwork exhibit of John Lennon, Miles Davis and Jerry Garcia at the Michigan Ballroom in Ann Arbor. (See related Ann Arbor Art Fair chart for details)

OK, dead artists often have exhibits. Monet, Picasso and Leger come to mind. But Lennon, Davis and . Garcia were pop and jazz music icons. Their great works are recorded on CDs, right? Maybe.

Did these great songwriters and musicians also make great works of visual art during their lives? Or is the exhibit about something else entirely?

The mass-marketing of deceased pop icons raises interesting issues about art, commerce and the shallowness of a culture where artists are considered pseudo heroes for once displaying a stylish defiance.

Ironically, what may have been considered cutting-edge, or shockingly inventive about these artists, now passes as "establishment cool."

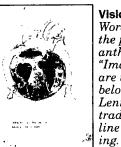

Could the same yuppies who today boast about their diversified stock portfolios relate to Lennon's right-eousness, Davis' sound of overcoming static musical forms, or Garcia's sense of alienation?

While few other trios of musicianartists could attract such a diverse popular audience, there's more of a curiosity than critical acolaim about their visual artwork.

What made the music of Lennon, Davis and Garcia so compelling was the honesty and unique personalities of the messengers.

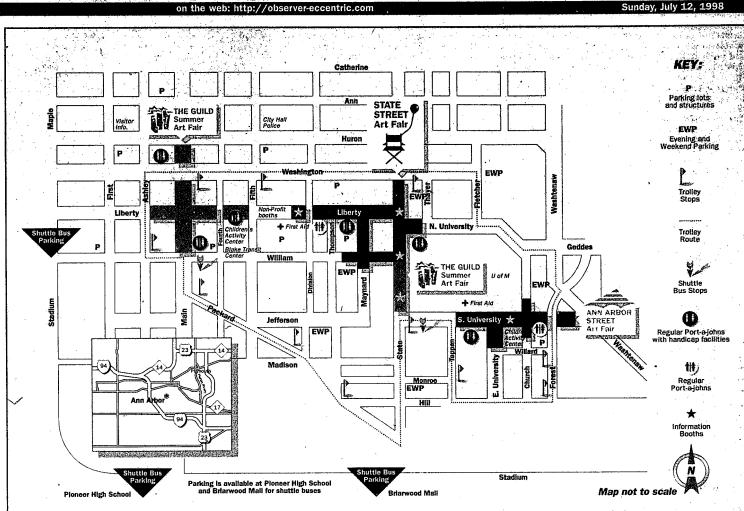

In the vapid age of celebrity, these musicians seemed like the real thing immensely talented and visionary. (Perhaps Lennon and Davis more than Garcia. Sorry, Deadheads.)

They railed against the crass com mercialism of labels and sloganeering. But in the pervasive market-mentality of the 1990s, even these seminal musical artists with ethereal address es can't escape the stark reality: art and commerce are inseparable

Visionary: Words from the peace anthem "Imagine" are written below John Lennon's trademark line draw-

Playin' along Obviously, these aren't your typical amateur visual artists. Lennon, Davis and Garcia's power of expression aren't contained to the aural realm. Respectively, their artworks reflect the depth and resonance of their music Lennon's line drawings are simple. sentimental, but unflinchingly candid. Davis free-floating forms depict an artist capable of deconstructing, then reconstructing a melody. And Garcia's cathartic rush of lines and colors reveal a common man's hedonistic sensibility. But as long as Lennon's self-caricature appears in his drawings and Davis and Garcia sign their paintings, it's unlikely that their collective

Like the sense of balance in his glass sculptures. Megdall moves with an efficient sense of purpose in his sweltering studio, located a few yards away from his home in a sylvan area of West Bloomfield.

For the last six years, Megdall has been a one-person creative dynamo. His product line of glass flowers, perfume bottles, vases and bowls developed for gift galleries and art fairs will be displayed at the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, held this Wednesday through Saturday.

Proper timing

Megdall estimates that he has less than a minuteand-a-half to shape, add color or blow into the long pipe holding a gooey liquid glass bubble at its end.

Take too long and the glass will harden. Hurry and the glass will drip like fiery honey.

Unlike other forms of sculpting, proper timing in glass sculpture is the difference between completing a finished piece of art, and trying to piece together broken bits of ice with a blowtorch.

To keep the Ann Arbor Street art Fair fresh and vital, 65 new utists were chosen from nearly 2,000 application entries this -year, Demonstrating artists add to the excitement and education-al aspect of the fairs. Fairgoers are able to not only see the finished product, but the process of creation. This year, artists demonstrate everything from pottery to basket making, glass blowing, painting, and carving in gold.

Instilling an appreciation for the arts in children is among the most important of the art fairs' goals. A free Children's Art Activity Center, run by art teachers from the Michigan Art Education Association, allows children and their parents to create art projects. The center on Church Street (one-half block south of South University) operates 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednes-day, July 15, to Saturday, July 18, The activities are free, but donations will be applied to scholarships.

A variety of performers, from boogie-woogie planist Mr. B to the Ann Arbor Pioneer Theatre Guild, will delight crowds on Church Street, north of South University, and at the intersection of South University and East University.

This is Dave Kronenberg's first year as director of the Summer Art Fair. He worked alongside Shary Brown for seven years before assuming his current position. The 28th annual fair is the largest of the three fairs, boasting more than 550 artists (from 39 states and Canada) who specialize in contemporary American art and fine crafts ranging from traditional baskets and pottery to gold and gemstone jewelry, sculpture, folk art, glass and painting.

"I'm most excited about the fact we're working together with the other two fairs to make it a better event," said Kronenberg. 'It's led to an increase in sponsorship and to a better looking fair to the observer who doesn't know there are three separate fairs. But we'll all keep our identities."

Founded in 1971 as a singleblock showcase for artists from the Ann Arbor community and University of Michigan art stu-dents not allowed to exhibit in the Ann Arbor and State Street art fairs, the Summer Art Fair has grown to six blocks. That early group of artists, which included Risak, eventually became The Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans, organizers of the Summer Art Fair, Greektown Art Fair, and Holiday Art Fair at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills. Origi nally affiliated with the University of Michigan, the Guild now has 1,300 members around the country. LUNG PUMP

Michigan artists will discuss their techniques and creative process while demonstrating their art in a tent near the corner of Main and Liberty Streets. The Imagination Station, a free art activity center for the family, is at Liberty and Fifth. There will also be storytellers and magicians to entertain children. And for the first time, the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum joins with the Summer Art Fair for an activity and display space on Main and Washington.

After years of denigrating references of glass art as "only a craft," Megdall is among the finest local artists who have proven that glass sculpture isn't solely about function and craftsmanship.

His more in-depth playful sculptures demonstrate the con-fluence of light, movement and balance. One of Megdall's proudest inventions – a six-foot grandfather clock - offers an abstract interpretation of keeping time.

To pay the bills and maintain his life as an artist, however, Megdall said creating a trademark glass product line of vases and bowls was necessary to bring in a steady revenue.

"Name a famous painter who didn't have to do portraits to keep doing their own art," said Megdall, who formerly taught at the Center for Creative Studies, Roeper School and the Birming-

"I want to do what I'm doing for a long time," he said. "I guess I have a big survival instinct. Some day, I'd like to focus more on making poetic statements in my sculptures.

It helps to survive, of course, when you have a business partner who handles the marketing and endless tasks of dealing with customers.

And it helps when the business partner, his wife Debbie, is his biggest supporter, said Megdall.

Nearly every day, Megdall starts work by nine and ends by three, before the summertime temperature becomes stifling.

On most days, when he walks into the cool compress of his airconditioned home, his wife is busily keeping track of orders, billing and the ever-present "to do" list. When he's not shaping glass in his studio, Megdall is packing his art work in boxes, or preparing to travel to one of the 30 annual art fairs around the

But then, would any of these pieces be considered by mass audiences if they were created by unknown musicians? Not likely.

There's no separating the art from the celebrities. And that's not as insipid as it may sound. That, as they say, is just the way it is.

Part of the proceeds from the exhibit go to the Ann Arbor Art Fairs. And Yoko Ono has donated money paid for Lennon's art to AIDS research and other nonprofits around the country.

If the artworks of Lennon, Davis and Garcia can enlighten audiences about issues of peace, human rights, individuality, and protection of the environment, then perhaps their visual artistry may one day be considered as powerful as their music.

Perhaps the way to break through the game of crass commercialism is to play along. The long, strange trip just keeps getting

Annual event addresses donation issues

a new year, but the goal remains he same

The praiseworthy Just Zoo It! event, featuring a competitive five-kilometer run that attracted a record field of just inder 1,200 participants last year, returns to the Detroit Zoo on Saturday, July 18. This is the fourth year the Michigan Coalition on Donation, the Motor City Striders and a host of local sponsors have joined to stage Just Zoo It!, which is designed to raise public awareness of organ donation issues and expose participants to the option of organ and tissue donation. The whole point is to make people aware of this issue," said Mark Gravel, the event director for Just Zoo It!. "It's not so much about the race, though people enjoy really doing that. We want all people to be educated about donation." The Michigan Coalition on Donation, founded in 1993, is a non-profit alliance of numerous professional, patient, health, science, transplant and voluntary organizations. Its purpose is to increase public awareness of organ and tissue donation, correct misconceptions about donation, and create a greater willingness to donate.

As for the popular five-kilometer run, will be conducted on a USAT&F certified and sanctioned loop course adja-cent to the Zoo in Huntington Woods and Royal Oak. Aid stations will be provided at the start/finish and one- and two-mile points.

A timed 1% mile fun walk through the Zoo will also be available for non-runners

People of all ages and athletic abilities are encouraged to participate in the 5K run or fun walk. No pets, roller blades, baby strollers or baby joggers are allowed however.

Registration is $20 now until race day. Race day registration will take place from 7 a.m.-8:30 a.m, but race rganizers suggest arriving early. Packets will be mailed to all registered participants the week before the race. These include race number, hat or T-shirt coupon, course map, registered participant wristband and directions. Late entrants may pick up their packets on race day.

Each paid participant will receive a short-sleeve T-shirt on race day, in addition to two tickets to the Detroit Rockers Soccer 1998 home opener in November at the Joe Louis Arena.

The 5K run starts at 9 a.m. followed 10 minutes later by the fun walk. Only the top 500 run finishers will be officially scored. You must listen for your time as you cross the finish line. Times will be displayed on a large digital clock at the finish.

Awards will be presented to the 5K top five overall finishers. Awards will also be presented to the 5K top five male and female finishers in each age group. A special awards ceremony will take place at the Zoo's Picnic Grove area following the conclusion of the race. Door prizes will be drawn during the awards ceremony. You must be present to win a door prize.

David Chomet clocked a time of 15 minutes, 31 seconds, edging Farming-ton Hills' Guy Murray by five seconds, to capture last year's top honors. Jodi Buck of Northville was the women's champion and her time of 17:41 knocked 33 seconds off the previous women's record of 18:14. Just Zoo It! participants also receive free admission to the Detroit Zoo for the day. You must be wearing your registration wristband for admission. Additional discounted tickets may be purchased in advance at the reduced rate of $5.00. All children 12 years and under receive free admission tickets to the zoo prior to 10 a.m. on race day courtesy of the Michigan Coalition on Donation. If possible, please request free children's' tickets prior to the event, or indicate number of children who will attend with you when you preregister.

The I-696 service drive will be closed at 8:15 a.m. until the race is finished. After it is closed, participants must use the Woodward Avenue Zoo Entrance. Limited parking is available at the Zoo, but do not park at area businesses: you may be towed or ticketed.

For additional race information, call the Motor City Striders at (248) 544-9099 or visit the Michigan Coalition on Donation - web site

Fitness embodies exercise ...

TALK TO THE

MIRROR

I'm afraid that all that aerobic jumping is going to cause a bunch of problems for me. What do you think? Got any suggestions for me? Answer: Wait a minute! What does "all that aerobic jumping" mean? The word "aerobic" doesn't signify that there has to be a lot of jumping involved. To the contrary, there are many aerobic exercises designed to get the heart numping without causing significant knee damage. Lowimpact aerobics, for instance, combine dance with other movements to music to achieve a great cardiovascular workout. Other aerobic exercises include step-aerobics (I wouldn't recommend this to you), swimming, power walking and bicycling. Furthermore, the term "fitness" means different things to different people during various stages of life. While fitness may decline with age, such as when the bones become less dense and the metabolism slows, it has also been shown that an exercise program can minimize these losses.

However you choose to achieve your own personal best is up to you and what your body can tolerate. I suggest a slow and cautious start. Pick an exercise that won't put a strain on "sensitive" areas - like the knee. Start with swimming or walking and perhaps you can try some low-impact aerobics at an accredited studio. You don't even have to do the whole class in the beginning. Try perhaps 20 minutes, three times a week to start, then work your way into a longer session for a great cardiovascular workout. You won't believe the results in even just one month, in not only the way you feel but in physical appearance as well. Good luck!

What can I do to decrease dental problems during my pregnancy? Also, I heard that the baby will DR. DAVID steal calcium from me during BANDA the pregnancy and cause my teeth to soften. Is this true?

Answer: It is very common to experience red, swollen and even bleeding gums during pregnancy. This condition is called "pregnancy gingivitis" and affects to some degree the majority of pregnant women. This exaggerated inflammatory response of the gingiva is thought to be triggered by hormonal changes associated with pregnancy. Even a women with adequate dental hygiene habits prior to her pregnancy may develop areas of gingival inflammation. Generally starting in the second month and continuing throughout the pregnancy, the gingival tissue become more susceptible to irritation because of hormonal changes. The dental team should review oral hygiene procedures with mothers-to-be and remember to schedule dental check-ups and cleanings throughout the duration of the pregnancy. Gingivitis should be resolved early on with a

Pregnant mothers need to watch for dental problems

Ouestion: recently became ASK THE DENTIST pregnant and noticed that my gums are starting become red and swollen. Is this normal?

This may be attributable to one one or more factors. Gingival or gum tenderness may cause a pregnant patient to avoid brushing and flossing as thoroughly as necessary, resulting in plaque accumulation Stomach acids produced from vomiting (morning sickness) may lead to weakening of the enamel on teeth. Although this occurs only in extreme cases, the patient should be advised to rinse her mouth with a baking sola solution to neutralize the acids.

Stomach capacity decreases as the pregnancy advances. Mothers-to-be often compensate by eating smaller quantities of carbohydrate-containing food more often, thus exposing the teeth to frequent acid attacks.

First trimester

During the first trimester, the patient should be scheduled for one dental visit. The patient should be counseled on the importance of proper oral hygiene and informed of any changes in her gingival condition that may occur during the pregnancy. Routine preventive procedures, including a cleaning may be performed.

Elective dental treatment - cos metic procedures or fillings - are best avoided during the first trimester because fetal organs and systems are developing. The fetus is particularly vulnerable during this period to the potentially detrimental effects of outside influ-(drugs that night administered to the mother.

shielding the patient's abdomen with a lead apron. Routine x-rays can usually wait until after the baby is born.

Medications

The primary concern in administering drugs to pregnant women is what impact they may have on the unborn child. A conservative approach should be taken, prescribing only the minimum effective dose and duration absolutely essential for the patient's well-being and only after careful exploration of potential side effects; Remember, never take an over-the-counter medication without the advice of your obstetrician. Antibiotics Uncontrolled oral infection in the pregnant patient can travel throughout her body and possibly harm her fetus. There are common antibiotics that are generally regarded as safe during pregnant but a consultation with vour obstetrician is necessary to be sure. Certain antibiotics such as metronidazole and tetracycline should be avoided. Tetracycline when taken by a pregnant mother or by a child up to age 10 can cause a permanent discoloration of the adult teeth. It can make the adult teeth turn dark gray permanently, often requiring extensive cosmetic dental work later in life to improve their appearance.

Pain medicine

If you require pain medication for any reason, it is a must to consult with your obstetrician first. There are some medications that are regarded as safe during pregraer ior safe check with your obstetrician. Nitrous oxide (laughing gas) should not be used by pregnant women.

A sample breakfast that will fill you up and energize you might consist of bran cereal energy to exercise and exerc ing subsequently boosts your metabolism. This allows the ody to burn extra calories both during and after a workout

Extremely low-calorie diets dentive the body of the nutrients that give us the energy needed to get through a workout. On the other hand, high-fat diets drag our bodies down and make it difficult to shift our metabolism into high gear during exercise.

The key to balancing food and exercise is to eat a healthy lowfat diet and to eat the right foods at the right times of day. A high-performance diet should include plenty of carbohydrates to fuel the body for exercise. Carbohydrates are categorized as simple and complex. An example of a simple carbohy-drate is fruit. These are absorbed more quickly into the bloodstream to give a more short-term energy boost.

Complex carbohydrates, which include breads, cereals, potatoes and pasta, are better for a more sustained workout. They provide a steady stream of energy throughout your workout, Even when you're trying to lose weight, you can still eat a carbohydrate-rich diet if you exercising as well. In fact, are the fruits, whole grains, vegetables and legumes power your muscles to give you more ener-

Regardless of how many carbobydrates you have consumed. you must sustain your activity long enough to make the exercise "fat-burning." Aerobic activity should be continuous for about 30 minutes or so to begin converting fat into energy. In other words, if you achieve regular, sustained exercise you will be on the road to burning fat.

The timing of when, what and how much you eat and exercise can play a role in your weightmanagement efforts. Exercising during the day or night is certainly better than no exercise at all, but there may actually be an advantage to exercising and eating early in the day.

If you trade in your large dinner for a hearty, healthy breakfast, it may make calorie-burning more efficient. Studies have shown that the majority of calories burned each day are within the first 12 hours after waking up. Once dinner is over, most people are on the slow track for calorie expenditure. Some people even go to bed right after eating dinner, letting all those calories go unused! This is not a good idea, especially if you're concerned about your weight.

your workout, however Our bodies need plenty of water to keep us hydrated all day. It's important to drink about 16 ounces of water before and after you exercise and an additional four ounces every 15 minutes during the workout. Never wait until you feel thirsty; that is only a sign that your body has already started to become dehydrated

Water also helps produce energy, regulate body temperature, and works as a cushion to protect the organs and tissues from any potential injuries Keep a water bottle by your side all day, whether you're at work, in the car or simply working out. Water nourishes the body and keeps us hydrated.

rigorous plaque control program involving both the dental professional and the patient.

If left uncontrolled, pregnancy gingivitis can become a more severe periodontal (gum disease) situation that may involve more aggressive treatment at your dental office. And keep in mind that dental infections run the risk of spreading themselves in other areas of the body. The mouth is full of bacteria, even more so when pregnancy gingivitis or periodontal disease is present. The bacteria that cause these infections can get into the mother's bloodstream

The developing fetus and mother share many things, and bacteria in the bloodstream should not be one of them.

If the oral infections get severe and drug therapy is indicated, this may also pose a risk to the developing fetus.

To avoid these problems, it's best to have your teeth cleaned regularly and maintain scrubulous oral hygiene at home. Any changes in oral condition such as pain. swelling or inflammation should be examined by a dental professional, not self-diagnosed at home or treated with medications without prior approval of your obstetrician

Although some women experience an increased incidence of cavities during or following pregnancy, evidence suggests that pregnancy doesn't contribute directly to the cavity formation process

Ideally, elective procedures should be postponed until after delivery. But a problematic situation before that time should be scheduled for treatment during the second trimester.

Second trimester

A dental appointment during the second trimester is advisable for preventive oral hygiene to monitor changes in the oral cavity and to check the effectiveness of the patient's home care practices if there were dental problems during the first trimester visit.

Third trimester

Depending on the patient, her home care routine, and the evidence of gingival problems, another dental visit may be scheduled preferably early in the trimester. Appointments for these patients should be kept as brief as possible.

Dental emergencies

To manage pain and treat infec-tion that otherwise could result in increased stress for the mother and endanger the fetus, dental emergencies should be dealt with as they arise throughout the pregnancy.

X-rays Dental x-rays should be taken when it's necessary to diagnose and treat a dental emergency at any time during pregnancy. Although dental x-rays are very low in radiation when compared to many medical x-rays, appropriate precautions should be taken to minimize fetal exposure such as

The infant's baby teeth begin developing between the third and fourth months of pregnancy. It is imperative that the mother's diet supply sufficient levels of needed nutrients including vitamins A, C and D, protein, calcium and phosphorus. Nutritional deficiencies can lead to weak enamel in the baby teeth.

It is also important to dispel a notion that stems from the mis-taken belief that the baby draws calcium from the mother's teeth during pregnancy. The calcium required by the developing fetus is initially supplied by the mother's diet which should include at least three daily servings of dairy products.

Oakland lands 3 more baseball recruits

Greg Porter's been a valiant roadwarrior in his two months as Oakland University's head baseball coach. Porter landed three more recruits in recent weeks and says he's nor through yet as a linear We've signed eleven players 50 far, and we're still looking for a pitcher."

says Forter who officially landed the head coaching lob in mid-May. "You can always use another pitcher." Porter's most "recent 'recruits include Bloomfield Hills Andover graduate Peter Varon, former Rochester Adams standout Chuck VanRobays and Pontiac Notre Dame Prep star Louis Vasquez

Varon, a first baseman, set school marks this season in Slugging percentage (.862), home runs (six) and RBI (38) in his third year as a varsity player for Andover coach Frank Divito. A team captain, Varon finished this past spring with a .457 batting average, a .600 on base mark and committed only two errors to earn co-MVP honors.

"Peter gives us depth at first base and gives us more options as a lefthanded hitter," says Porter. "We think his development this past year in high school was tremendous and we see no reason why that can't contique. We think he has tremendous college potential."

VanRobays played four years of high school ball at Rochester Adams where he was an all-star catcher. In his senior season in 1996, VanRobays posted a .474 average, mustered 38 RBI and scored 26 runs. He spent the past two years improving his game at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn.

"I remember (VanRobays) at Adams. He's a very dynamic person _ a fiery kind of guy," says Porter. "He has the kind of dynamic approach to the game that we really like. He's always been a solid catcher and Hthink he's become a much better batter the past couple of years."

Vasquez played infield for ex-Detroit Country Day star and now head coach Brad Thompson at Notre Dame Prep.

In addition to those three players, pitcher Brandon Krieter committed to OU as a preferred walk-on. Rochester High School pitcher Mike Bennion signed earlier with the Golden Grizzlies.

"Mike (Bennion) also has some impressive offensive credentials. He's the career hits leader at Rochester and we're going to give him a chance to swing the bat here at Oakland," Porter says. "It's a nice compliment that there are two local kids from the Rochester community represented on our team."

Coaching vacancies

■ Birmingham Seaholm has a number of coaching vacancies for the upcoming season. Athletic officials are in need of a head boys soccer coach; head girls soccer coach; head boys golf coach; junior varsity girls swimming coaches; assistant varsity boys basketball coach; junior varsity boys basketball coaches; and a girls diving coach. Send letters and resumes to Doug Fraser, Athletic Director, Birmingham Seaholm High School, Birmingham, MI, 48009, or call Fraser at (24) 203-3775.

'Ride of a lifetime' makes splash ome describe it as a "ride of a lifetime." Others refer to it as "the ultimate water toy." Whatever the feeling, performance inflatables are roaring onto American waterways at an eye-catching and curiously-charged pace.

Originating in South Africa some 15 years ago, performance inflatables failed in their first attempt to make, waves in the United States during the early part of this decade. With their second go-around firmly in progress, these uniquely styled boats are having a much different impact on water enthusiasts of all ages.

Case in point Denny Olsen, Nick Wiltfang and Bob Stack. Spending days, nights and sometime entire weekends cruising rivers and lakes on various water vehicles, all three recently found what they collectively describe as the "ultimate water toy." "This is the ultimate water toy, it

"This is the ultimate water toy, it makes every other water toy obsolete," said Wiltfang,18, of Clarkston, who along with Olsen and Stack have made these souped-up looking rafts a big part of their lives by not only achieving a personal rush, but also experiencing competitive thrills as well. "Fve ridden and driven pretty much everything on the water and nothing matches this."

What makes performance inflatables unique and what makes them go? Well, it could be the entire catamarandesigned boat, held together by glue, glue and more glue, running approximately 13 feet long and six feet wide and weighing nearly 165 pounds. Or it could be that, with the right equipment and driver psyche, the boat can reach speeds in excess of 60 mph. Crimeing across the surface of the

Stack, along with co-pilot Bob Grochulski, have enjoyed their share of success so far this racing season, holding down the No. 1 spot in the Bandit Division (inflatables with 40 horse power engines) heading into the weekend. Much of the success, according to Stack, is working together and putting in enough time to know your boat.

"Flat water, 65 degrees, low humidity, a 20-mile per hour headwind and two-foot chop helps make it a driver's race," Wiltfang said.

Keego Harbor, said the popularity has doubled over that of last year mainly because inflatables have shaken off a bad rap that "anything inflatable is a piece of junk and can pop holes." Continuous improvements in style, performance and durability have allowed performance inflatables to gain backing from the American Power Boat Association.

"The product has come a long way," Stack said. "The glue has come the farthest. People are finding that it is safe out there and not only using them for speed and racing, but also for recreation."

Recreation is fine, but Olsen, Wiltfang and Stack all agree that competition, with a touch of hot-dogging, is the ultimate.

"Sure trash talking is there, but it's all just part of the excitement," said Olsen, 36, of West Bloomfield, who along with co-pilot Keith Lifton, will be looking to blow away the rest of the field during this weekend's races on the Détroit River as well as next week when the APBA travels downtriver to Trenton. "We all knoweach other and what we like to do, so we just go out there and do, so we just go out there and lay it all on the line."

Angler wins Kentucky tourney

High winds whipped across the surface of Kentucky Lake and driving rain pelted the anglers fishing along her shorelines and drops. Four-foot waves rolled and tossed even the sturdiest of bass boats but the seasoned competitors battened down their equip-ment and braved the nasty elements nature had dealt. Tournament anglers don't turn and run from Mother. Nature's wrath. At least the successful ones don't. The above elements greeted the participants in the Women's Bass Fishing Association All-American National held last month on Kentucky Lake in Aurora, Kentucky, Among those hardy combatants was Canton's own Linda Bennett. With 97 of the best female bass anglers in the country. breathing down her neck and Mother Nature pounding her from above, Bennett overcame the obstacles and rose to the occasion. She came out of the middle of the pack after the first day of competition and won the three-day tournament with a total of 10 fish that weighed 32.24 pounds. Sheri Glasgow of Oklahoma placed a distant second with 23.81 pounds of fish.

"It was awesome," said Bennett, who won a fully-rigged Tri-ton Bass Boat for her efforts. "After all these years it finally came around."

Bennett, 37, started fishing Michigan Bass'n Gals tournaments in 1988 and after experiencing early success ventured into the national circuit in 1992. Her success continued as Bennett is Michigan's only two-time qualifier for the Bass'n Gals Star Classic, which is the women's equivalent to the BASSMASTER Classic. But until recently, she had never won a national tournament.

After the first day of fishing in the WBFA All-American on Kentucky Lake, Bennett's outlook wasn't very rosy. She managed to catch just one keeper on the first day and found herself floundering in the middle of the pack. But day two proved to be a bit more productive. Fishing the deep side of ledges and drop-offs using Denny Brauer Rattleback jigs tipped with Zoom Salty Chunk trailers: Bennett boated a five-fish limit that weighed 14.16 pounds and moved her into second place. "I threw that jig religiously," said Bennett. "The key was that I had to fish slower than slow. The fish weren't very active and I had to fish really, really slow."

The pattern paid off and the third day turned out even better. Bennet weighed four keepers that totaled 15.95 pounds on the final day of competition to clinch the title. She also had the tournament's big fish in her creel, a 5.14-pounder.

Headed into the final day of fishing Bennett had a total. weight of 16.29 pounds. At the weigh-in on the final day, Glasgow weighed-in first and finished with a total of 23.81 pounds.

"I was a little over seven pounds behind her when I walked up to the weigh-in," said Bennett. "I had the big one that was over five pounds in one hand and another about four pounds in my other hand, plus. two other/nice ones to weigh. I knew right then I had it won." Then came the high-fives and the celebration. "I have to say thanks to my husband, Kalen, my number one supporter, and my mom, for believing in me all along," said Bennett. "I also couldn't have done it without the help and support of my sponsors, especial-Jan's Sports Shop, they've lv been wonderful to me. And a big thanks to Ranger Boats, Motor Guide and Mercury Marine.

According to Bennett, the National Bass'n Gals has disbanded after 21 years and the WBFA has stepped in and taken over the national women's bass fishing circuit. Bennett plans to continue to fish in the WBFA circuit as well as some of the local tournaments like the Michigan Division of the Red Man Tournament Trail.

"If I never fish in another tournament the rest of my life I'll always have this to cherish, added Bennett. "This has been a dream of mine and it can never be taken away."

Ready, alm, fire: Rams shortstop Tim Clouse (left) fields a grounder and makes a throw to first as second baseman John Drallos moves in to back up the play during the Michigan Lake Area Rams' 7-3 win over Mlar-Clouser.

Ram win streak reaches 9

The Michigan Rams won both of their games this week to extend their winning streak to nine games.

The Rams beat the Brighton Tigers, 5-1, at Brighton High School Tuesday, then stopped MLAR-Clouser, 7-3, at Oakland University Thursday.

Rams pitchers are fueling the streak, putting together a run during which the staff has not allowed more than two earned runs or more than six hits in any one game.

Eric Jenks (Clarkston) allowed one run and three hits while striking out eight in the win over Brighton. Offensively, John Drallos (Clarkston) had two doubles and two RBI while Steve Seargeant (Lake Orion), Spencer Hynes (Clarkston), George Maroulitsas (Lamphere) and Jason Pawlak (De la Salle) added doubles. Chris Mitchell (Clarkston) and Matt Mitchell (De la Salle) added two hits apiece.

Jenks was in control on the mound the entire game, allowing two runners in an inning only once, in the fifth. Clouse and Drallos turned a double play to get Jenks out of that jam.

Chris Mitchell put together an outstanding effort in the win over Clouser. He gave up just four hits and one earned run and finished with 11 strikeouts, including the first four hitters of the game.

A standout defensive play made by Jenks in the fifth helped keep Clouser at bay, and the Rams put the game out of reach in their half of the inning. In the top of the fifth, Jenks caught a mid-depth fly ball in center field and threw a perfect strike to the plate, preventing a Clouser run from scoring. Mitchell then struck out the final hitter.

The Rams scored twice in their half of the inning to put the game away. Offensively, Brad McCloskey (Bröther Rice) led the way with a double, single and two RBI, while Spencer Hynes added a long triple to the center field fence.

Explosive and timely hitting, along with solid defense (the Rams have made just two errors in eight games), have the Rams on the roll.

"It's a great time for us to peak as we are getting ready for two big tournaments," coach George Drallos said. The Rams play in upcoming tournaments in Battle Creek and in Cleveland.

SPORTS BRIEFS

MVP performance

Nicole Van Duyn, a 1998 graduate of Troy Athens High School, was named Most Valuable Player of the 1998 Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan 19th Annual All-Star Basketball Festival held recently in Flint.

Playing for the A/B Navy Team, Van Duyn scored 12 points, grabbed eight rebounds and blocked three shots for the Navy Team which defeated the A/B Red Team - coached by Birmingham Marian's own Mary Cicerone – 89-84.

Other local participants included Liz Cibor (Rochester) and Breean Walas (Birmingham Marian).

Marlins win tourney Rochester Hills Little League's boys AA Marlins saved their best for last when they posted five wins in six playoff games to win the post-season championship.

Turning in a seventh-place finish and 7-7 mark overall during the regular season, the Marlins regrouped to run off four consecutive victories in the two-game elimination tournament. Following a loss to the Indians in game five, the Marlins fought back in the decisive sixth game to register a 9-8 triumph over the Indians. With the game tied at 8-8 in the bottom of the sixth inning, Marlins catcher Ricky Aylesworth sent a shot over the left fielder's head and motored his way around the bases for the deciding run In addition to Aylesworth, those players contributing to the

The ML320 is equipped with a 3.2-liter /6 engine with 215 horsepower that can iccelerate from zero-to-60 mph in just 9 econds. It gives you power when you need t, whether you're pulling away from a light n need a nuick boost of power to pass.

(NO)7C

or need a quick boost of power to pass, The ML320 is certified as a 50-state low emissions vehicle. Fuel economy is a heffy 17 mpg in the city and 21 mpg on the highway.

By the way, this car tells YOU when to hange the oil. The minimum service interal is 10,000 miles, but some drivers can go s far as 20,000 miles between oil changes. here's a monitor that checks the actual year on the engine oil. When it senses your ar needs a change, it tells you.

Mercedes also equipped the ML320 with full-time 4-wheel-drive. You don't have to do anything. Get in and drive. That simple.

Earlier I said we went off-roading. We went to the top of a very steep hill, with a backside that was so steep that when I pointed the ML320 down, I couldn't see bottom.

The Mercedes engineer beside me told me to put it in first gear and take my foot off the brake. I looked at him like he was outs. Trust me, he said. So, I did.

The ML320 "crawled" down the rest of the way. All I did was steer. I was really impressed.

Did I talk about value? Look at the standard equipment list: air conditioning with dust and pollen filter, power windows with the express-down feature in both front seating positions, an 80-watt high-performance cassette audio system with a weather band button, a tilt steering column, cruise control, tilt steering column, rear window defroster and wiper, dual heated power side mirrors, alloy wheels, 6-way manual front seats, 4-way head restraints, pre-wiring for CD and phone and roof rails.

And, of course, there are four cupholders – two front, two rear.

All instrumentation is easy to read, easy o understand and easy to operate.

One minor complaint: the cruise control talk is awkward. It's in a really bad spot nd is easy to knock into when searching or the turning stalk.

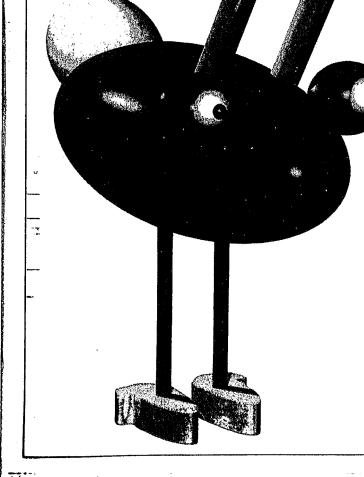

Although it carries a German nameplate, the ML320 is assembled in America. It's made at Mercedes' first vehicle production facility, in Tuscaloosa, Ala. The plant has a capacity of 70,000 ML320s annually — half of which will be exported.

Styling is smart, technology is top notch and the ride and handling are truly Mercedes. It's a great sport utility vehicle, and a very good value.

Whew! I've had a fun week in the 1998 Mercedes-

Benz ML320 sport utility vehicle - oops! - the M-Class all-activity vehicle. What I liked most about it was it was so easy to get into and out of. No assist grips needed here, although they are there on all four outboard seating positions.

Now, to be sure, the ML320 isn't the largest sport ute on the road. But it's not a mini sport ute, either. It's the perfect size. Mercedes considers the Ford Explorer and Jeep Grand Cherokee Limited its main competition. If that's true, then Mercedes has them beat, hands down.

The amount of versatility, technology and performance put into this ML320 would make you think it has a large price tag as well. Well, we are talking Mercedes, where the company's premium model has an MSRP of $135,000 - arguably the price of a modest home in the suburbs.

But sit down. The ML320's price is well below that. Outfitted to the max, it costs under $34,000. Not bad to be able to have a Mercedes in your driveway, I think

When the people from Mercedes Statistic with the Rugged Mercedes truck is a sport brute

The 1998 Mercedes-Benz MLS20 with its smart styling and top notch technology is a great sport utility vehicle at a good value introduced the ML320, they took us to Milwaukee, where we did some off-roading. They set up a course and let us get the truck that turned out to be the North American International Auto Show's choice for Truck of the Year nice and muddy.

Like most of you, I wasn't considered important enough to vote for Truck of the Year at the Detroit show. But if I had a vote for the top truck, it would have gone to the Chevy Tahoe, not the ML320.

Regardless, the ML320 is an outstanding truck. This was demonstrated in one exercise in Milwaukee, when we had one front and one rear tire off the ground. At that time, the ML320 handled progression like a much larger sport ute. In that exercise you can imagine how twisted the vehicle was.

right? They asked us to open all the doors to see if they would close. All four opened and all four closed.

The ML320 is rugged and has a large cargo area in back of the second row of seats. It's quite versatile. Second row seats plop down easily and neatly for big loads. With the seats down, you've got more than 84 cubic feet of cargo room. The cargo area is taller and wider than most.

And the nicest thing about all this is that it's comfortable, has better than average ride and handling characteristics, gets great mileage and has safety features that Mercedes is well known for in the automotive industry.

Some reminders are in order: Mercedes was first to introduce front airbags and side airbags. And the years Mercedes has been nown as one compa ny that focuses on safety first when designing a vehicle. The ML320'is' no exception. I down I It has a welded steel box frame, reinforced steel body cage, crumple zones everywhere, 4-channel, 4-wheel anti-lock brakes, automatic anti-theft alarm, illuminated entry, "central locking system with panic feature, rear wiper, dual front-airbags and front doormounted side-impact airbags.

Next year, the ML320 will be outfitted with a BabySmart Child Seat Detection System, Already on all of Mercedes passenger vehicles, BabySmart detects the presence of a child seat in the front seat and automatically deactivates the passenger airbag.

You've got to purchase BabySmart-equipped infant seat (which costs comparably to other seats). There's a small resonator built into the child seat that allows the vehicle to sense the presence of the seat and turns off the airbag.

This system also alerts the driver that the passenger airbag is off by a light in the center console. There are three different sizes of BabySmart seats: Infant (birth to 20 pounds), toddler (20 to 40 pounds) and booster (40 to 100 pounds).

villians such as age dis-crimination or lack of a degree as the real culprits. Most people become very introspective and analytical when their campaigns start to falter. They frequently seek advice from former associates who are only too willing to encourage a total resume makeover (Offwhite paper is certainly better than that light blue) or liberally spew sage state-ments that begin with "What you should do is...

Look, much of this job hunting stuff is just common sense. Sure, there are some unique situations and legitimate questions about tactical issues that crop up during most searches. The larger que tion - "What should I do with my life?" -- is broad, personal and strategic in nature, and should not be confused with the dayto-day management of your job campaign.

Before you draw any conclusions about what is going wrong (or decide to tape into the wisdom of your neighbor, ex-boss or the kid in the mailroom) make an effort to separate strategic from tactical issues. If you are still convinced that the implementation or execution of your campaign is flawed, compare your efforts to

• Incoherent marketing message. We keep getting resumes and letters from some guy named Jack O. Alltrades. it is not my responsibility as an employer to figure out what Jack wants to do. His versatility is admirable, but I need a specialist. If your name is Jack, you'd be better off defining exactly what you do for a living in ten words or less and attaching a conventional label to it.

excellent skills and, more choices you will have in the end therefore, the problem ... Forget books that talk about taking a must be in their, fills shot approach. All the planning and resumes (Would light , fine-tuning in the world won't net the gray paper be better return of a good shotgun blast than this beige?). Oth-

• Poor communications, No, it doesn't matter if you use blue paper or green (well, don't use day-glo green). But gram-mar and spelling really do count. Thou-sands of books about resumes and cover letters have been written and, presum-ably, purchased. They must have all overlooked the obvious point about checking documents for basic errors. Even the quality of verbal communications seems hit a real low I know of a pre sentable and competent lady who, because the word "don't" always beats out the word "doesn't" in the race to her lips, will never land an A-1 job.

•Inappropriately priced. Few people do their homework in this area. Rather, they target a salary based solely upon what their last employer paid them. What if your last employer was a dolt? Overpric-ing results in fewer offers (sometimes none). People occasionally find it more compatible with their self-image to be unemployed for a long period than to be employed at a somewhat lower rate. Some folks simply have to hold out for a higher-than-market rate because of financial obligations.

General presentation and image problems. Yes, it is summer and a lot of companies have gone "casual." That doesn't mean that you should go casual. I interviewed a lady this week who showed up in shorts and sneakers for a front office job. Even in 1998, image counts. Also, many candidates don't seem to have a particular interest in the job or discipline. Interviewers like the people who really seem to "want it."

Now, here's a positive story ... Sherri S. walked in to our client's Clinton Town-

A number of people is Low volume Many people who com-have written in to plain about a poor return on their search express their frustration investment just haven't invested very fion at not heing able to much There are resumes to be sent, not-land jobs quickly in this working meetings to be sent, not-atrong market. Some ments to be pounded, recruiters to be con-feed, that they have tracted The more things you get going the conversion of the conversation, she smiled a lot, and she was dressed professionally. The company immediately faxed me Sherri's resume and asked me to interview her. I found her to be serious, like-able and focused, although not very experienced (a minor point). She starts tomorrow.

Q. How can I look for a new job when I am working full time? Even after work, taking kids to lessons and doing basic domestic chores has me constantly running.

A. What the heck happened to life in America? My parents were relatively active people, but I seem to remember that they had time to sit on the back porch on summer nights and visit with neighbors. Even though my dad held two jobs, he still had time to watch some sports on TV and throw the ball around with me. My mom read books! It, sounds amazing, but she would actually sit in the evening with a cup of tea for an hour or two and escape quietly into the pages of Robert Ruark or James Mitchner.

I, on the other hand, have to plan mundane activities, such as mowing the lawn or cleaning the garage, well in advance. Fun time is scheduled. My only down time is called sleep. I met some neighbors a couple years ago. They moved. Smell what roses? I didn't have time to plant any.

The good news is that, since most hiring authorities never go home anyway, you will often be able to schedule evening or Saturday interviews. Try blocking off time away from home to conduct search activities such as perusing ads or going through industry directories. The library can be a great place to seclude yourself for a while. In the end, it is a matter of prioritizing. Make follow up phone calls and let the laundry wait until tomorrow.

Q. I went through a long interview ing process just to try out a job that L wasn't entirely sure about. It wasn't for me and I quit after a few days. The employer said that I wasn't ethic cal and wasn't going to pay me. What do you think?

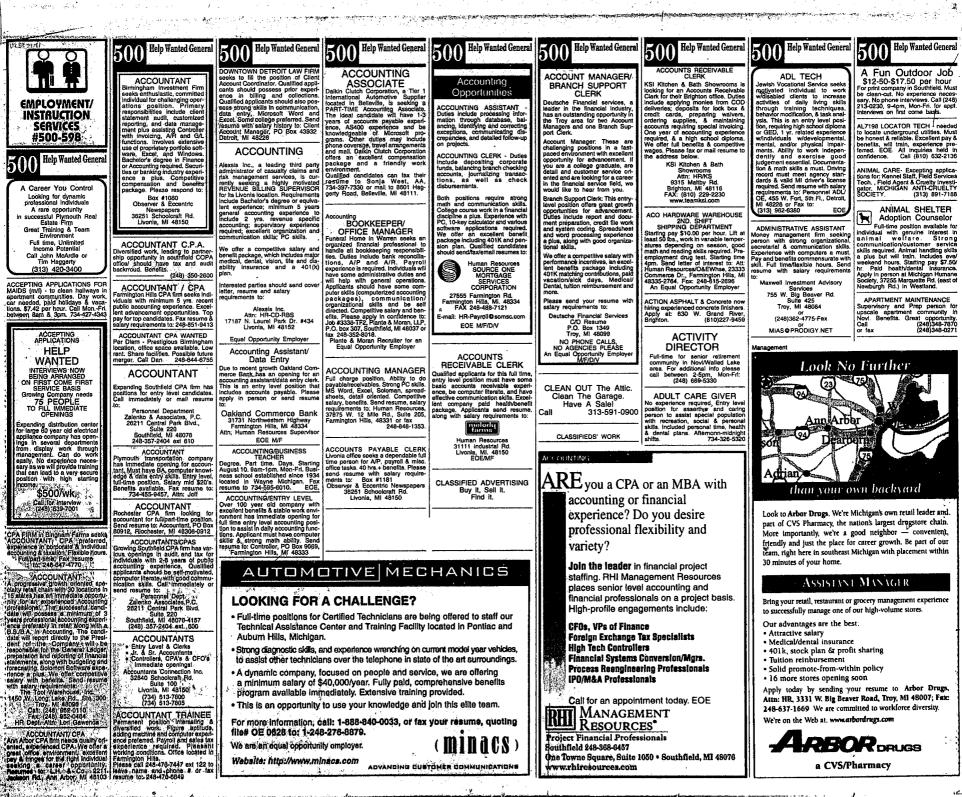

A. You're the kind of person who really tees me off. I put all of this effort into recruiting you, interviewing you, testing you and checking your references. I intro-duce you to people and even stick up an announcement on the bulletin board. announcing your arrival. And then you; quit after a few days because you don't LIKE it?

Let me ask you a question, bub. What do you think would have happened if after a few days or weeks, I determined that you really weren't the person for the job? Should I just live with it? Should I let you continue being mediocre and illsuited to the work without a chance for: real advancement? Should I carry you and let more appropriate people stay on the street? As a good business person and an ethical human being, what should I do? I should be thankful that I saw it. early and terminate you.

You didn't do anything wrong. If youasked good questions and did your best to understand what you were getting into: before accepting the job, you have the high ground. Personally, I think it might have been wise to give it a little longer, but perhaps you knew down deep that it wasn't a match. If so, it was better for everybody.

ASK THE EXPERT Cookie sheet can replace reflector of electric grill

By POPULAR MECHANICS FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Q: I have an electric grill that has a rusted bottom reflectorgrate. I have called and written the company for a replacement but they seem to be out of business and I can't get a replacement anywhere. Must I buy a new grill?

A: No, you still can keep your present grill in service. Just buy a cookie sheet about the same size as the reflector-grate and cut it to shape with a pair of tin snips

Q: I cannot get paint to stay on the exterior clapboard siding of my house. It constantly peels. I have followed the directions on the paint can, yet after a few years, the paint peels off. I even tried high-pressure water blasting to clean the surface to be painted and still the paint peels off.

A: It sounds like the problem is not the application of the paint, but exces sive moisture in the house that is migrating through the exterior walls. To correct the problem, you will have to control the moisture buildup in your house and reduce the moisture migration through the exterior walls

The migration can be reduced by painting the inside of the exterior valls with a moisture-resistant paint. Two coats of aluminum paint plus two coats of decorative paint are best for a sand-finished wall. On a smooth wall, a primer-sealer and at least one coat of alkyd semigloss paint should be applied.

Ŷou can control the moisture buildup in your house by ensuring that the attic and crawl space are adequately insulated and ventilated. The ground in a crawl space should be

Ranch, two-story condos sell quickly

Walden Pond, 62 condominiums clus tered together in pairs, has drawn a lot of attention on 14 Mile east of Novi Road in Commerce Township. Half of the units sold before the model was open and less than 20 remain for sale on the 11-acre site. Location is the number one thing," said David Steuer of Steuer & Can-vasser, the developer/builder. "I think ranch living is the second big issue. The third issue is they're under $200,000. That's a good combination Empty-nesters and retirees seem especially attracted to the community.

said Barney Robb, sales representative. "They're looking for a first-floor master, first-floor laundry, two-car garage and a basement," he said. "You can give them anything else, as long as you give them those four items.

"Thirty-five percent of the people here are using this as a second home and living in Florida," Robb added. "The rest want to be able to turn the key and travel."

It's an opportunity to move into one story living," Steuer said. "They no longer have children living at home. They don't need a yard. By the same token, they want a new place ... they don't have to take care of.

"I think the M-5 corridor has a role to play," Steuer said. "We're getting a lot of people out of the west end of Farmington Hills and West Bloomfield. You've got two shopping meccas near here – Twelve Oaks and Haggerty Road up and down," he added. "It's the old location, location, location thing."

The easily accessible, I-96, I-275 and U.S.-23 freeways can launch Walden Pond residents anywhere they want to go fairly quickly.

And within the community, itself, there's an added dimension of security with only one oval road running around the perimeter and a single entry/exit point to 14 Mile, Steuer said.

Then there's the price. "Basically, they (visitors) are kind of in awe of what we have to offer for the money," Robb said. Three plans are available.

A ranch of 1,656 square feet with three bedrooms and two baths; $193,900; a ranch of 1,656 square feet with two bedrooms or one bedroom and library with a bigger kitchen. $195,900; and a two-story of 2,379 square feet with the two bedroom one bed/library option on the first floor plus a loft and two full bedrooms upstairs, Hot condos: Buyers at Walden Pond, mostly empty-nesters, can select either a ranch or a two-story living arrangement.

$223,900.

All plans include at base price twocar garage, first-floor laundry with tub, basement, separate tub and shower in the master, range and dishwasher in the kitchen, carpeting throughout and landscaping.

Upgrades include fireplace ($975-$1,200); air conditioning ($1,875-$2,070); jet tub ($900) and deck ($3.000).

Two models have been constructed. The ranch features a two-story foyer, great room and dining room with sloped ceiling, a master suite with sloped ceiling, walk-in closet, two-sink vanity and compartmentalized commode, plus two secondary bedrooms and a full bath . Base price is $193,900.

The two-story includes a guest room/library with cathedral ceiling, full bath (half-bath is standard), great room with sloped ceiling, dining room, kitchen/nook with island and a master similar to the ranch.

A loft, two bedrooms, full bath and a storage closet are upstairs. Base price is $223,900.

Primary exterior materials are brick

Walden Pond is serviced by city water and sewers and is within the Walled Lake school boundaries. There are no sidewalks.

The property tax rate currently is $26.37 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $194,000 condo would pay about $2,550 the first year.

The monthly association fee for exte rior maintenance, grass cutting and snow removal is $94

William and Phyllis Hellman ordered a two-story for the extra room when the children and grandkids visit.

"We stumbled upon it," William said. "We liked the floor plan - the layout, space. The master on the first floor was very important to us. We checked around. It seemed to be a better-priced

"It's a small development. It's manageable. You'll know most of the people there eventually," he said.

The sales office/models at Walden Pond, (248) 489-9900, are open 1-5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, closed Thursdays.

(NAPS) - Caring for children at poolside can be better than a day at the beach if you heed a few safety tips

1. Supervise. The first and most important rule of child safety is adult supervision

2. Teach. The next step to safety is teaching children basic water-safety lessons. These lessons include teaching children that they must have adults with them when they go near pools. 3. Restrict access. Fences that can't be climbed and gates with locks beyond the capabilities of young-to swim, beginning with sters are vital in keeping your pool off-limits to unsupervised children.

4. Equip for rescue. A long pole with a shepherd's loop at one end, a long rope and at least one ringshaped life preserver should always be handy. 5. Patrol for danger. Scan your pool area for child

Clothes dryer vents and exhaust fans from bathrooms and kitchens should all be vented to the outside. Roof gutters and downspouts must be maintained to prevent overflow and to direct the downspout effluent away from the house. Otherwise, water will accumulate around the foundation and seep into the basement and-or crawl space.

Q: We've just bought a house. Not seems to be in good shape.

A: In older houses, built before lumber was graded for strength, sagging floors were a common problem. Fixing them is hard work. but is a possible project for the ambitious remodeler.

First determine how much sag or deflection you have. This can be measured while a helper holds a straightedge that spans the floor from wall to wall. Or measure the distance from the basement floor to the bottom edge of the floor joist, both where the ends of the joist rest on a job in a second stage.

When the joist is level, set a new joist alongside the old joist. The ends of the new joists must be settling atop the foundation on one side and the support beam or wall on the other side. While the jack holds the old joist straight drive the 16d nails through the new joist and into the old one. Nail the two doubled joists together at 16-inch intervals. Remove the jack and check to be sure the joist(s) are now straight.

of a new house will, in large measure, be deter-mined by the skill of the builder who constructs it. That's why you should shop for a builder as carefully as you shop for the features of a home.

By doing so, you will be ably to look with a sense of confidence and knowledge that will help you make the correct decision.

"When you buy a new home, you are not just buying a structure," said Mark Guidobono. president of the Building Indusry Association of Southeastern Michigan and CEO of Cambridge Homes in Northville.

"Along with the structure comes a package of services, and the quality of those services will have an important effect on your the home," enjoyment of Guidobono said.

adjustments and repairs during the first year, you should look for a builder who will provide quali-ty service after the sale.

Where do you find a skilled builder? A good place to start is the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan, (313) 737-4477, which can provide a booklet featuring builders and the locations where they're building

The real estate and homes sections in the local newspaper is another good source of information about builders who are active in your area, the types of homes they are building and the prices you can expect to pay. Also ask friends and relatives for recommendations.

The Observer & Eccentric/ SUNDAY, JULY 12, 1998

If you're buying a house, townhouse or condominium, find out what the builder has recently constructed in the surrounding area. Then visit one or two of those projects and ask residents about their experiences with their homes and the builder.

The best time to visit usually is a Saturday morning when people are out doing yard work or chores.

"Don't be shy about approaching people," Guidobono said. "Even knock on some doors. In most cases, a builder's previous customers will be quite open with you. If they are unhappy with their homes, they will let you know. And if they are happy, they will want to tell you all about working with the builder.

"Try to talk to at least three or Guidobono said.

Check with the Michigan Department of Consumer and Industry Services, (900) 655-8374, to verify whether the builder is licensed and there's a record of work-related violations. Also, touch base with municipal building departments where the builder is working and has worked to see what the record is there.

Don't rush through the process of choosing a builder. Set a rea-sonable timetable for your search, and don't make a decision until you feel comfortable about what you're doing.

After you've happily settled into your new house, you'll real-ize that the homework you did was well worth the effort.

Salt box shed

Everyone needs additional storage space. This salt box shed is just one plan in a series that can help you provide more storage space around your home. The salt box shed package of plans includes five different sizes, which allows you to choose from sizes as small as 8' x 10' to as large as 12' x 16', depending on your needs. Additional features included in the package are trussed roof plans. Options include windows at the gabled ends along with large double doors at the eave entry of the shed.

Two complete sets of the plans are included: one for you or your builder and one for the building department. Plans include clearly labeled, detailed drawings along with full framing instructions. Illustrations are drawn three dimensionally with full elevations and cross sectional diagrams. Step-by-step comprehensive instructions are included to aid you in construction. A full materials list will make your trip to a local lumbervard for building materials another easy step toward the completion of your new project.

shooting tips:

■ If the fan doesn't move, be sure there's power at the outlet. Then check the reversing switch. Push the switch firmly to one side or the other; it should not be in the middle of its throw.

The wiring may be loose. Cut the power to the fan by flipping off the circuit breaker or removing the fuse that controls the power going to it at your home's main service panel. (It's not safe to just turn off the switch.) Then check the wiring connections inside the switch housing. Tighten any that are 100

■ If the fan is noisy, check the motor housing, switch hous-ing, blades and blade irons for loose screws. If there is a light fixture, tighten the thumbscrews holding the bulb in place; they can work loose from the fan's vibration.

Is the fan level? Place a small level atop the motor housing. Make sure the canopy and mounting bracket are tight.

Make sure that the fan is properly mounted. Consult the wner's manual. The fan's electrical box should be secured directly to a joist, a wood cross brace, or an approved metal bracket mounted between joists.

One or more of the blades may be cracked or warped. To check for warped blades, remove the blades and lay them on a flat surface. They should lie flat. If a blade is cracked or warped, repair is probably impossible and may compromise safety. Replace the entire set because blades are matched as a set by the manu facturer.

Examine the blade irons for defects. The irons are set at a factory at a 12-degree angle. The tip of each blade should be equidistant from the ceiling. If they are not, remove the irons and detach the blades. Stack the irons on top of one another. If you find one that doesn't match the others, replace the defective one.

If you still haven't found the problem, balance the blades on the reassembled fan. Some fans come with a balancing kit that includes self-adhering weight strips. Even without a kit, you can balance the blades by a simple trial-and-error procedure

First try switching the position of adjacent fan blades to see if that diminishes or eliminates the wobble. Check the fan at several speeds. If that doesn't work, use tape to temporarily attach small washers to the blades. Run the fan at several speeds. Repeat the test until you find the blades which, when weighted, produce the least wobble. Once the blades are balanced, glue the weights in place. For a four-bladed fan, balance two opposite blades at a time.

You may have a defective motor, but investigate all other possible causes first. To check the motor, remove the blades and irons. Then turn the fan on to its highest setting. It shouldn't wobble. If it does, return it to the manufacturer for repair: most ceiling fan motors are covered by lengthy warranties.

New cutter gets to roots

(NAPS) - Landscapers and gardeners have always found it tough when digging holes near trees where roots are abundant or where surface roots get in the way of the mower.

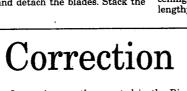

That now may change, thanks to a tool recently introduced to North America. This root cutter has a seven-point per inch, high-quality tempered carbon steel blade with a chisel-type point. As a result, it plunges through ground surfaces with relative ease. It cuts roots and sod cleanly and efficiently.

The Sharksaw Root Cutter is made by Takagi Tools, one of a series of gardening tools marketed under the trade name "Clean Cut." The products are available at most major retailers and home centers
