AROUND

THE MILL POND

Watch the birdie

Looks like drivers on I-75 had better keep their eyes on the sky as well as the road. A Flint-area man had a truck/low-flying bird accident on Thursday at about 10:30 a.m., backing up traffic in the northbound lane from M-15 to Clarkston Road for about one-half hour.

After a bird hit his windshield, the man lost control of his small pick-up and rolled it over. The man suffered minor injuries and was taken to the hospital for evaluation, according to emergency personnel. They didn't comment on how the bird fared.

Political faux pas

Michigan Sen. Mat Dunaskiss (R-16th district) caught the wrong name and laughed with it at a public forum for candidates sponsored by the League of Women Voters recently.

A chagrined moderator, in announcing Dunaskiss as Dukakiss, accidentally went back in time to when Gov. Michael Dukakiss was running for president.

Talk about your slip of the tongue! She sort of promoted the senator before his time — and without the benefit of the electorate.

Here's Chip; where's Dale?

We've been watching the "pile that grew" this summer. Someone — we don't know who — put a "wood chips wanted" sign in front of their residence on Ormond Road in Springfield Township earlier this season. The idea apparently worked.

Over time, the public donations have grown from the little to the large.

Talk about making a mountain out of a chip hill!

Summer Jobs

All smiles: Jenae Fonseca is working at music theaters this summer.

Dream job: Clarkston High School senior Jenae Fonseca found a great seasonal job working as a backstage hospitality server at Pine Knob, the Palace and Meadowbrook Theater. Above: Jenae lays out a food table in the star's dressing room at one of the concert venues.

Serving concert bands backstage

Behind the scenes: Jenae works in the dining room at her summer job.

Synthesized guitar licks reverberate in the outdoor pavilion, as "techies" sprint from one side of the Meadowbrook stage to the other.

Instrument cases and amplifiers tumble out of the hands of anxious roadies.

"Check, check, checking one, checking two," sounds one of the workers over the top of a microphone, center stage.

The urgency bears all the signs of performance anxiety.

But, behind the scenes is Clarkston High School senior Jenae Fonseca folding napkins — cool as a cucumber.

Hair neatly tied back in a ponytail, the 17-year-old student has been working as a backstage hospitality server at Pine Knob Music Theater in Independence Township, the Palace of Auburn Hills and Meadowbrook Music Theater in Rochester Hills for just over a month.

At $7 an hour, with the added perk of meeting a few of the music industry's famous faces, she enjoys every minute of her labor.

"It's not bad for a first job," said Fonseca, surveying a row of Personal rights topic at candidate breakfast

■ House and Senate candidates outlined their views on individual rights to business owners during a candidates breakfast hosted by Clarkston's chamber.

Make an informed decision and vote.

The Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce sent that message loud and clear on Thursday morning by holding a candidate breakfast, its second in two years.

Fifty people attended the function at Deer Lake Athletic Club in Clarkston. It was meant as an informative affair to acquaint the public with the politicians aspiring to represent them in Lansing and Oakland County.

"We're doing it as an opportunity to educate voters," said Penny Shanks, the chamber's administrative assistant, adding that the last breakfast was held in fall of 1996.

Candidates included Jeff Gallant, Ruth Johnson, John Lauve and Patricia Woods who are vying in the Aug. 4 primary for the Republican nomination for the 46th District state House seat. Democratic opponent Roxanne LaMontagne did not attend.

Republicans Mat Dunaskiss and Tom Middleton, along with Democrats Michael Odette and David Lillis, are competing for the 16th District state Senate seat.

Oakland County commissioner candidates from Districts 2, 4, and 5 included Republicans David Galloway, Donna Huntoon, Frank Millard, Fran Amos, Jim Keough, and Democrat Mike Kohut. Republicans Karen James and Gene Seets did not attend.

"All the candidates had a chance to express themselves," said Marc Cooper, president of the Clarkston Area Chamber. "People are really more enlightened."

The chamber is a non-profit, non-partisan organization and does not endorse candidates. State Senate and House candidates answered questions from the audience during two 15-minute sessions. Each candidate was given two minutes to respond to each question. Due to time constraints and an attempt to prevent personal attacks, candidates were not granted

Voters to decide safety path millage request

One question voters in Independence Township will be asked Aug. 4 is whether to increase the millage rate that funds the community's safety path program.

If passed, the millage proposal would both renew the township's previously authorized levy of 0.3646 mills and raise the levy by 0.1354, bringing the total rate to 0.5 mills for a period of 10 years.

Currently, the township's safety path millage of 0.3646 mills, which funds construction and repair of the system, does not expire until August 1999. Therefore, if voters fail to pass the proposal, the safety path program would continue to be funded at the current rate.

The increase is being sought because the township's Safety Path Committee has identified more than $6 million in system projects, said Township Supervisor Dale Stuart, who sits on the Safety Path Committee and is acting as the township's spokesman on the issue.

If approved, the new rate would collect an estimated $435,961 in the first year it is levied and approximately $4.5 million over a 10-year period.

Thus, even if the millage proposal is passed, the township would only be able to fund some of the $6 million worth of projects that have been identified at current construction costs, said Stuart.

"We have identified future projects which are priority projects for the Safety Path Committee," he said. "But (the proposed millage rate) isn't sufficient to complete all of the priority projects," he warned residents.

Under the 0.5 millage rate, the average resident, based on the township's weighted residential assessment of $90,379 — equivalent to a house with a market value of about $181,000 — would pay about $45.19 per year. The increase is about $12.24 per year.

According to Stuart, extensions that the Safety Path Committee has identified as high priority are along:

- Clarkston Road to Sashabaw Road
- Clarkston Road to M-15 at I-75

Getting around: Debbie Anderson pushes her son, Andrew, along a ramp that was built by a friend as a surprise.

Coworker builds ramp as surprise for single mom with injured child

Debbie Anderson still believes that "there are some good people out there."

When her 3-year-old son broke his femur bone last month, Anderson said her mind was racing with worry. Spending sleepless days and nights at the hospital with Andrew, the Davisburg resident couldn't help but plan ahead for his recovery at home.

The toddler tripped on a curb and broke his leg on June 29. Doctors described it as a spiral break of the femur, a growth bone. He was immediately hospitalized and doctors spent more than two weeks with him, waiting to see an adequate amount of growth in his leg.

When he was ready for release, the boy had to use a wheelchair which lies flat, rather than upright. In the chair, he weighs approximately 70 pounds, which makes it difficult for his mother to carry him. Anderson knew she would have to build a ramp onto the deck to help him in and out of the house. She didn't have the materials to build it so someone else constructed it for her, as a surprise.

"When I got home, I was flabbergasted," said Anderson. "I had to thank somebody."

That someone turned out to be her co-worker.

linen-clad dining tables located backstage in a cavernous building filled with dressing rooms and administrative offices.

Fonseca, along with two or three other staff members, is there to serve beverages and remove dirty dishes in the dining area while members of Huey Lewis and the News, tonight's act, roadies and local crew members have dinner and relax before the show.

Dinner won't be lengthy, but Fonseca will be up and running through the night, stocking food in the buffet until about 8 p.m. and delivering cold beverages to individuals seated in the band's tour buses and to performers and crew in the wings.

Depending on whether performers choose to hang out and entertain backstage after their concert, the night can be a long one, said Fonseca, who typically works between 20 and 25 hours a week in the catering department.

At least one shift lasted until 3 a.m., she said.

After folding a few more napkins and giving the buffet stand a good once-over, Fonseca heads downstairs for a final look at the stars' dressing rooms.

With 4 p.m. sound check well under way, Huey Lewis and his band will surely arrive soon.

And with every new act comes the pressing details of a new rider, or the portion of an entertainer's contract that specifies, for example, which brand and bottle size of sparkling water needs to be placed in a star's dressing room.

Unfortunately, these requests vary widely and are often quite specific. Take one of Huey Lewis' dressing rooms, for example. Amongst the array of food and beverage items are: three boxes of cereal, one chilled jar of Clausen's Kosher Dill Pickles, a 10-ounce bag of cashews and a couple of six packs of Haacke Beck non-alcoholic beer, iced.

Although Meadowbrook has a shopper on hand to purchase items for finicky stars, even at the last moment, certain items simply aren't available, said Fonseca, explaining that it's her job to tell entertainers an item isn't available and offer substitutes.

"Usually, they're pretty cool about that as long as we did our best," she said. "They're just ordinary people that have a special talent," she said. "They're very pleasing, pleasant people."

But like most human beings, Fonseca has experienced that phenomenon commonly known as being star-struck.

"The Hanson boys came in after their sound check," she recalled, trying to conceal an embarrassed, teenage grin before bursting into a description of the event.

"It was kind of like...not really amazing...but kind of breathtaking because they were like right in front of me, and you only ever see them on TV or in Hollywood. And your eyes just get big," she said.

"That was just a crazy concert. There were so many girls out front holding their signs."

Exciting stuff, Fonseca admits, but a job's a job. "You have to remain calm...You wouldn't want to bug them."

Carol Culvahouse of Holly Anderson stayed in contact with Culvahouse, who was covering for her at work at the Xerox company office in Flint during the first few weeks after the boy was hospitalized.

Culvahouse and her husband, John, had some wood from an old deck available. They went to the Anderson home while the family was at the hospital and built the structure. In less than two hours, the ramp was completed. The couple placed a bag full of toys on the deck and left without anyone noticing.

"When we came down Oak Hill Road, I looked and I said 'Larry, somebody built us a ramp,'" said Anderson. "There was no name, no card. We're sitting here trying to think of friends. Somebody wanted to surprise us and not tell us. I called Carol. She said, 'Have you walked out on your deck?' and I said 'Oh my God, Carol, it was you and John.'"

Andrew returned home last week sporting a green full-body cast that covers one entire leg, and the upper portion of his other leg. A metal bar is placed between his legs to prevent any movement until his recovery. Without the ramp, Anderson could not carry her son in or out of the house.

Recently divorced, Anderson said she was concerned about paying her monthly bills. Buying the materials or installing a ramp would have cost her between $700 and $3,500. She just couldn't afford it.

"We just wanted something to be able to get his wheelchair up and down," she said.

And that's exactly what the Culvahouses constructed.

"She was really having a lot of trouble," said Culvahouse. "My husband works for a pool com-gift: Three-year-old Andrew Anderson, who tripped and broke his leg recently, has to be pushed in a special wheelchair that enables his leg to lie horizontally. Andrew injured his femur, a key bone in the growth process.

pany and does a lot of construction. We just ran over there and put the ramp on."

Andrew has since returned home and now spends afternoons with his caretaker, Larry Terryah, a close family friend. Relatives said he's too young to understand all that has happened.

"He says he's got a boo-boo," said Anderson of her son's perspective on the accident.

Though she wanted to stay home and take care of her son, Anderson said she had no other choice but to return to work. She also has two older sons — Michael, 13, and Matthew, 8 — and was concerned about her family.

"I didn't want to lose everything I have," she said. "I have three kids, a house payment, and a car payment."

Terryah said he wondered what other people on a limited income do when they find themselves in a similar situation.

Culvahouse shared a similar sentiment.

"I think it's sad in a community like this that people don't pull together to help somebody," she said. "Now everything's working out great."

Anderson has thanked Culvahouse a multitude of times for her help.

"That was one important thing I needed and it was there when we got home," she said.

Expanding horizons

Youth group heads to Central America on helping mission

Members of the St. Daniel Youth Ministry are expanding their horizons this summer in an effort to help others.

A group of 14 adults and teenagers from St. Daniel Church in Clarkston will fly to Honduras on Saturday, Aug. 1. The 14-day mission will give participants a chance to learn about a foreign culture while working to enhance the quality of life in a small, Central American village.

"It's an experience where we're growing and we're learning by helping others but also by being introduced to a new culture," said Stan Garwood, a church member and participant.

The group will be building dormitories on the campus of Maximilian Kolbe High School in the village of Las Flores. The village is located in the central valley region of Honduras and has a population of 2,000.

Monsignor Robert S. Humitz said the program provides "a tremendous opportunity" for parish youth.

"(They will) experience people who live in a different culture, a different place, and a different time," he said. "That experience enriches our parish family."

Mission Honduras was founded in 1970 by the Rev. Emil Cook of Kansas. The groups that travel to Honduras work to create an environment for spiritual and academic education. In past years, groups have built an orphanage, a high school and a shelter for abused women and children. This year, the youth ministry will help build additional dormitories to house the students, many of whom travel from around the country to attend the reputable school.

Bob Hadden has worked as a coordinator of youth ministry for the church for the past six years. This is the first out-of-country trip his group will take. Participants will learn about the social injustices which exist in the country, he said, but such experiences also remind people of the importance of quality education and health care.

"We're so very fortunate to live, to be born and to have the things we have," he said.

The mission is funded through the sale of "spiritual stock." Participants sold shares of this stock to members of the community. Each share costs $10. The group raised more than $10,000 in donations, enough to cover the basic costs of flights and insurance for the travelers. Stock purchasers support the mission efforts in Honduras and will receive a follow-up letter explaining the group's progress.

"We are extremely grateful to have the support of our parish," said Hadden.

St. Daniel is the second area church to be part of this mission. Last year St. Mary, Our Lady of the Snows, in Milford, participated in the program.

Jessica Schulte heard about the program from individuals who traveled there last year with St. Mary's Church.

"I think we're going to get a lot of spiritual experience by helping others," said Schulte, who will be attending the trip.

Lisa Carnes, an 18 year-old student who will be attending Madonna University in the fall, considers the trip her first experience in a third world country.

"I told my mom I wanted to join the Peace Corps," she said. "My parents said St. Dan's was going to Honduras and I could get a taste of what it would be like in a Third World country."

The opportunity will also give participants a chance to immerse themselves in another culture. For example, Eileen Harc, 17, said she's looking forward to interacting with the people of Honduras.

Another participant, Shereen Trese, agreed.

"I can't wait to be able to connect with them," she said. "To show them that even across cultures, every person has a connection."

In preparation, group members have done everything from getting the necessary immunization shots and taking photos for their passports to taking an intensive Spanish course.

Each participant may bring two suitcases filled with clothes, medical supplies, and hygienic aids. They will leave all of the goods, including the suitcases, in Honduras for people in need. Participants will carry one backpack of goods filled with their own clothes and supplies during the trip.

"One of the things we're being asked to do when we leave is expect to leave everything there except the clothes on our backs," said Garwood. "Everything we leave there, we can replace. They can't."

To contribute to Mission Honduras, bring new clothing and footwear to St. Daniel Church before Friday, July 31.

"The point is to help them help themselves," said Garwood.

opportunities for rebuttal. People who attended said they left the function better informed. "I think the problem is that people don't know what the candidates stand for," said Cooper. "It's really important that you know what they stand for. If you don't know, don't vote."

Those in attendance expressed their concerns on issues such as abortion, motorcycle and weapon safety, assisting area small businesses and education.

Mark Bombyk of Independence Township raised the issue of personal rights to the panel of state representative candidates. He specifically wanted to know where the candidates stand on the issues of carrying a concealed weapon and wearing motorcycle helmets.

"A lot of people want to protect their personal rights," he said. "Government doesn't take the responsibility of defending me."

And government shouldn't have the responsibility if I injure myself."

Bob Zywicki of Waterford agreed. He was interested in hearing the candidates' views on the constitutional right to bear arms.

"I'd like to see our individual rights granted," he said.

By attending, Zywicki said he was able to distinguish candidates who share his own interests.

Several state representative candidates — including Woods, Johnson and Lauve — supported some form of mandatory helmet use. Johnson proposed that anyone under 18 years old be required to wear a helmet, while individuals over 18 could choose whether to wear one or not.

Gallant openly opposed regulation in the matter.

"I think it's just common sense," he said. "People have a have a right to do what they like."

Another controversial issue, addressed only by the state Senate candidates, pertained to abortion. Dunaskiss stands against abortion. Middleton said he was also pro-life, but cited rape and incest as reasonable exceptions. Lillis considers these as moral issues and is split in his views. Odette clearly stated a pro-choice position.

"It's not the government's business to tell us how to live our lives," Odette said.

Issues aside, organizers encouraged everyone at the function to voice their preferences by voting on Aug. 4.

Dave Wagner, of Independence Township, said his biggest concern was that people do get out and vote. It's important to see the candidates face-to-face, he added.

10-year-old Clarkston chamber reaches goal of 300 members

Marc Cooper, president of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, announced that the chamber's membership rolls have reached 300, the goal set by Cooper at the beginning of his term.

"We are absolutely thrilled," said Cooper, who also served as president in 1993-94. "In 1988 the chamber started with 50 members. Since then we've constantly been growing, though some of the board thought I was dreaming when I said we could reach 300 before the end of my term."

"More members means a stronger chamber," added president-elect Wendy Halsey. "We can afford to do more programs, projects and promotions. The Fourth of July fireworks are an example of what our increasing membership allows us to do."

The chamber has undertaken many new projects in the past two years, including a "welcome, new resident" coupon program which reaches 200 new residents a quarter, an annual community calendar, and the Fourth of July fireworks.

Membership at this time in 1997 was 228. By September of 1997 the fiscal year membership high was 255.

"Increased membership also means a larger network to socialize with, give referrals to and patronize. Our membership is very loyal when it comes to supporting other chamber members," adds Cooper, the owner of Impressive Type.

When asked why so many businesses are turning to the chamber, Cooper explained, "There are a number of reasons: networking, referrals, HMO and other business discounts. It's a great way to promote your business and to achieve a higher visibility within the community. People in our area are loyal to chamber members and go out of their way to support the businesses and individuals that work so hard to make the Clarkston area a better place to live, work and shop."

■ Andersonville Road between White Lake Road and Bay Court Park

"We have plans to do safety path construction in every quadrant of the township," Stuart said. "It's a key infrastructure and it is a very inexpensive way to provide a recreational opportunity."

Conceptually, the Safety Path Committee's priority is to connect existing paths and move closer towards the goal of having a completely interconnected system, Stuart said.

In 1997, 9,200 lineal feet of safety path was constructed in the community, according to the township's engineering firm Hubbell, Roth & Clark Inc.

Between 1993 and 1996, 3,000 lineal feet of safety path was built and 8,500 lineal feet was designed.

Some residents, however, are opposed to safety path construction in their neighborhoods, Stuart said. "People are sometimes afraid about the effect it might have. People are concerned about their landscaping... and foot traffic."

The township does seek to reduce the system's impact on private property whenever residents are concerned, he said.

For example, path width was reduced from eight to six feet during construction in some areas of the system as a way to accommodate residents, he said.

Also, the township is unlikely to proceed with any proposed extension that residents oppose.

"If the entire neighborhood is opposed ... it's very unlikely we would proceed," he said. "I am for what the people want to happen unless it badly affects the rest of the community at large."

Proposed safety path projects

Safety path extensions that have been identified as possible projects by the Independence Township's Safety Path Committee with estimated costs

- Maybee Road and Clintonville Road, Maybee to Clarkston, $1,200,000
- Clarkston Road, Hawkmoore to the township border, $98,000
- Clarkston Road, Sashabaw to Flemings Lake Road, $550,000
- Flemings Lake Road, Clarkston to Walters Road, $163,000
- Walters Road, Flemings Lake Road to Waldon Road, $170,000
- Sashabaw Road, Waldon planned unit development to Maybee Road west, $270,000
- Sashabaw, Pine Knob Elementary to the Larson Pipe Co. east, $250,000
- Sashabaw, Shell Gas Station to the Rite Aid drug store, $230,000
- Sashabaw, Independence Oaks to Oak Hill Road, $1,140,000
- M-15, Oak Hill Road to Hubbard Road, $1,050,000
- Andersonville Road, White Lake Road to Bay Court, $915,000
- Dixie Highway, Lingor to Waterford Hill Terrace, $400,000

Total estimated cost of above projects combined is $6,431,000.

Breast cancer is focus of ambitious campaign

The American Cancer Society, Great Lakes Division is launching a statewide education campaign designed to reach women in Michigan and Indiana with potentially lifesaving breast cancer early detection information.

The program, called "Tell-A-Friend Tuesday," will take place on October 6, 1998 when an anticipated 20,000 volunteers will each make phone calls to at least five friends and family members encouraging them to get their annual mammograms in accordance with American Cancer Society breast cancer screening guidelines.

More than 100,000 women will be reached with important breast health information in a single 24-hour period, making this the largest initiative of its kind ever conducted.

According to G. Marie Swanson, Ph.D., MPH, and American Cancer Society board member, this year's "Tell-A-Friend Tuesday" effort is being expanded from last year's pilot project held in Michigan that reached roughly 7,500 women.

"We're taking the success of last year's program and expanding it dramatically - into Indiana and other states - because it worked so well and has great potential to reach large numbers of women with breast health information," Dr. Swanson said.

The "Tell-A-Friend Tuesday" program is based on research that shows that roughly 25 percent of all women who get mammograms do so because a friend encouraged them.

"Ninety-seven percent of women survive breast cancer when it is detected early," says Dr. Swanson, adding, "Screening - combining a physical examination of the breast with a mammogram - is an essential component of reducing morbidity and mortality from breast cancer. We need to take advantage of the fact that women listen to other women when it comes to getting screened."

The American Cancer Society is now recruiting women and men to serve as callers.

"It's a really simple concept," says Dr. Swanson, "and it is the perfect project for any woman or man who wants to become active in the fight against breast cancer and be part of the cancer solution."

American Cancer Society guidelines call for annual mammography, annual clinical exam and monthly breast self-exam for all women age 40 and older.

Statistics show that compliance to American Cancer Society breast cancer screening guidelines in Indiana and Michigan is nowhere near where it needs to be. In Indiana, 61 percent of women age 50 and older were receiving annual mammograms in 1994. In Michigan, 65.2 percent of age-qualified women received mammograms in 1996.

"This clearly shows there is room for improvement," Dr. Swanson said. "We must get more women receiving regular screening."

The American Cancer Society, with the help of "Tell-A-Friend Tuesday" and other programs, hopes to see the number of women age 40 and older receiving mammograms in Michigan and Indiana increase by at least 800,000 by the year 2000.

"This won't come easy, which is why Tell-A-Friend Tuesday offers such a good opportunity. Everyone can get involved. This means businesses and the media, as well, can join in the program and create the largest single-day breast cancer education program ever," Dr. Swanson said.

The American Cancer Society provides the information and caller kits to all participants. More information can be obtained by calling any local American Cancer Society office, or 1-800-ACS-2345.

Dental care should begin at early age

Question: I have an infant and a toddler who still use the bottle. I'm not sure how I can prepare them for successful dental visits. When am I supposed to start brushing their teeth if they are going to fall out anyway?

Answer: A child is never too young to be taught good oral hygiene.

Wipe the infant's gums after each feeding with a gauze square to remove plaque and to massage the gums. This also conditions the baby to let you put your fingers in his or her mouth, so you can count the teeth as they erupt and can help with the switch to a toothbrush when the first primary teeth start to erupt.

The lower incisors are usually the first to erupt at somewhere between six and 10 months.

It's helpful to allow the infant to hold the brush very early even though you are the caregiver. The brush then becomes a familiar object to the child, and the baby will even try to imitate what you are doing.

Multiple toothbrushes in all different colors help stimulate interest in brushing. There are also musical brushes available at your local baby store that are fun for infants and toddlers. The key is to start early!

There are many tooth- and gum-care products on the market geared toward infants that are safe if swallowed.

Fluoride toothpastes are recommended by the Food and Drug Administration after the age of two because too much swallowed fluoride could stain teeth permanently. This condition is called fluorosis. Therefore, it's important that your toddler learn to rinse the toothpaste from his or her mouth and not make a habit of swallowing or eating fluoridated toothpaste. Ingesting fluoridated toothpaste can also upset your child's stomach.

The most common mistake that parents make is letting their child fall asleep with a pacifier dipped in sugar or honey, or a bottle containing milk, formula, fruit juices or sweetened liquids. If your child must be put to bed with a bottle, it's best to only fill it with water. During sleep the flow of saliva decreases, allowing the sweetened liquids from the bottle to pool around the child's teeth for long periods. This significantly increases your child's risk for a decay commonly known as baby bottle syndrome. Milk that is left in the mouth from constant breast-feeding throughout the night can also contribute to tooth decay.

In addition to tooth decay problems, children who are given a bottle in bed also have an increased risk for ear infections. Whether you're breast-feeding or bottle-feeding, your infant can learn how to drink from a cup (even if the liquid is just water) starting at approximately six months of age. A child's first birthday is usually a good time to begin weaning off a bottle. Caregivers, other than parents, need to be informed of your baby's oral hygiene routine to insure that proper habits are followed at all times.

Check your child's teeth regularly. If you see white or stained areas on the teeth, take your child to the dentist right away. Otherwise, bring your infant to the dentist when you come for your six-month checkup. Your child can go for a ride in the dental chair and become familiar with the surroundings.

A dental visit should remain a positive experience for your child. Never scare the child by saying anything negative, never let the child know that you have anxiety about going to the dentist and never bribe your child.

Let your child go into the treatment room alone if that's what your dentist prefers.

Preventive measures such as good home care, use of proper hygiene products, regular dental checkups and use of sealants when recommended, decrease the likelihood of cavities.

A child's first actual visit to the dentist should occur by age one, so that the teeth may be checked, evaluated and counted. Your dentist can also make recommendations regarding adverse habits like thumb-sucking or finger-sucking. The use of a pacifier may also be evaluated at this time, but always inform your dentist of your child's oral habits and inquire if they may cause future dental problems. It is sometimes easier on the child to come to the dentist in the morning when he or she is more cooperative and rested.

A child's first cleaning appointment with the hygienist should take place by age three. The frequency of dental visits after age three will partly depend on your child's eating habits, how clean his or her teeth are kept and whether he or she drinks fluoridated water. Children who have grown up drinking water containing fluoride have up to 50 percent fewer cavities. Should you discover that the tap water you use does not contain fluoride, ask your dentist or your child's pediatrician for a fluoride supplement.

By age three, your child should have 20 baby teeth erupted. These teeth are very important to the eruption of the permanent teeth and it is important to start flossing at this time.

The roots of each baby tooth guide the permanent teeth into their proper alignment in the mouth.

For instance, if a baby tooth is lost prematurely, a permanent tooth may erupt in the wrong place and eventually cause crowding, crooked teeth and/or the need for braces.

As the primary teeth begin to develop, your dentist may recommend x-rays to determine if any cavities are present and if the permanent teeth are developing properly. Fluoride treatments, the number one way to help prevent or slow down the formation of cavities, may also be recommended at this time.

It's very important to note that your child's first permanent molars erupt around the age of six. Sometimes parents think that these teeth are baby teeth and as a result they are overlooked until it's too late.

It's also very important for parents to consult with their dentist and hygienist regarding the use of sealants in the prevention of tooth decay.

Sealants are a clear or tooth-colored material applied to the chewing surfaces of back teeth that form an invisible barrier, reducing the risk of decay. You must still maintain proper oral hygiene habits in order to reduce the risk of decay if you have sealants.

Remember that introducing regular dental visits to a child at an early age can help the child establish proper habits and enjoy strong, healthy teeth throughout life.

Taking your child to the dentist on a regular basis can prevent serious dental disease and save time, money and your child's teeth. Preventive services such as fluoride treatments and sealants are less costly than fillings, crowns and other more complicated treatments.

Take proper precautions to avoid skin cancer

People who work outdoors need to take proper precautions to protect against skin cancer, according to one of the Detroit area's most prominent plastic surgeons.

Dr. Michelle Hardaway, a Southfield-based plastic surgeon, says many people who work outdoors - landscapers, construction workers and roofers are leading examples - don't reflect on overexposure to the sun and the potential damage it can do.

"They just don't think about it," Dr. Hardaway said, "and of course young people seem to ignore the risks for good looking tans."

Hardaway also cautions that people pay attention to warning signs like changes in existing moles, lesions or the development of new moles. "Changes in the size of moles or discolorations should be checked out immediately with a doctor."

Hardaway adds that skin cancer generally develops decades after overexposure to the sun. She recommends the following safety precautions:

- Wear hats with large brims.
- Cover exposed skin areas.
- Use sun block with ratings of 15 and over.
- Do not sunbathe for long periods and stay in the shade.

"We see too many cases of skin cancer which could have been avoided easily," Hardaway said.

You can have your cake and eat it, too, with help of baking innovations

Whether as a midnight snack or an after-dinner dessert, most people find cookies, cakes and muffins hard to resist. But these foods can be dangerous for those of us watching our waistlines. However, all foods can be a part of just about everyone's diet as long as they are consumed in moderation.

No one needs to deprive themselves of their favorite foods all the time. If you have a craving, allow yourself a small portion of the food and watch what you eat for the rest of the day. If you deny yourself that craving, you'll likely end up raiding the refrigerator and doing even more damage to your diet.

Baking your favorite treats yourself gives you some control over how much fat is in the recipe. Thanks to recent baking innovations you can have your cake (in moderation) and eat it too!

In most baking, fat plays a major role adding moisture, flavor and tender texture to cookies, cakes, quick breads and muffins. But there are alternatives that can be used in homebaked recipes which provide some of the fat-like characteristics without actually adding fat.

Fruit purees such as prune or banana, and nonfat dairy products like nonfat yogurt or sour cream are excellent substitutions for fat in baking. And by revising your recipes to include fruit purees instead of butter, margarine or oil, you'll be adding a slight boost of vitamins, minerals and fiber while drastically reducing the fat content.

But how does it taste, you may ask? This is the ultimate test and you may have to do a little experimenting, but for the most part baked goods made with natural fat substitutes have comparable flavor to their full-fat counterparts.

For example, a traditional brownie may contain seven grams of fat per serving. By using fruit puree in place of the margarine or butter, the fat is reduced to less than two grams of fat per serving. Much less fat and lots of flavor!

Not all fruit purees are equal. Some fruits taste better in certain recipes than others do. For example, prune puree provides a rich flavor and moist, tender texture. Prunes enhance certain flavors in recipes such as chocolate, cinnamon and orange and therefore may be best used in brownies, chocolate cakes, etc.

Banana purees, on the other hand, may be better suited for cookies, muffins and sweet breads. They have a sweeter flavor but also add moisture to recipes.

In addition to using fruit purees and nonfat dairy products, replacing whole eggs with egg whites or egg substitute trims the fat from your favorite recipes even more. Dropping one egg yolk will save you about five grams of fat!

So there are ways of making your cake and eating it, too. But despite the reduction in fat, there are still calories to consider when you bite into that slice. Just be aware of what you are eating and allot for these special treats every once in a while.

Douglas L. Mayers, M.D., has been appointed head of the Division of Infectious Disease at Henry Ford Hospital.

Dr. Mayers, a resident of Orchard Lake, will be responsible for coordinating a broad-based infectious disease program that includes consultative and inpatient services, travel medicine, and a National Institutes of Health-funded HIV research unit. His clinical interests include antiviral drugs and drug resistance.

Dr. Mayers, who received his undergraduate degree from Penn State University and a medical degree from the University of Pennsylvania, comes to Henry Ford after serving as Director of the Viral and Rickettsial Disease Program at the Naval Medical Research Institute and principal investigator for antiretroviral drug studies at the National Naval Medical Center in Baltimore, Md.

CareFirst

CareFirst, based in Bloomfield Hills, and MedMax are teaming up to provide a free seminar next month in Troy.

The seminar will be conducted at the Troy MedMax store (740 John R. Road) from 7 p.m.-8:30 p.m. The featured topics will include medication interactions (people are encouraged to bring all their medications), the safe and convenient use of medical equipment, ways in which medical equipment can be paid for, and helpful nutritional practices.

Liquid refreshments will be provided.

Call CareFirst at (248) 745-9700 for additional information.

Providence Hospital

Providence Hospital is currently conducting "The Prostate Cancer Series," a program providing educational information and support to patients with prostate cancer.

The series takes place the last Thursday of each month from 6:30 p.m.-8 p.m. at the Franklin Racquet Club, located at 29350 Northwestern Highway in Southfield.

On July 30, Dr. Dana Ohl, a University of Michigan Associate Professor of Surgery and Urology, will discuss "Viagra/Impotence and Prostate Cancer."

In addition, Dr. J.B. Smith will present "Your Prostate and PSA, What Every Man Should Know" on Aug. 27.

For reservations, contact Diane Thompson at (248) 424-3994.

■ Providence Hospital offers a support group to help parents, family members and friends cope with the loss of an infant because of miscarriage, stillbirth or newborn death. The group meets from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. on the third Monday of each month in the Doctor's Dining Room in the DePaul Center of Providence Hospital, located at 16100 W. Nine Mile Road.

The group is lead by a chaplain, social worker and a nurse. Discussions include understanding grief, pregnancy after a loss, coping with guilt, and how men and women grieve differently.

Those who need to speak with someone about grief and loss may call Providence Hospital's Share Line at (248) 424-5342 or (248) 424-3209. A trained professional will return the call within 24 hours.

Walsh honored

Marianne Walsh of Bloomfield Hills was one of six Detroit Medical Center volunteers recently honored for years of exemplary service and dedication.

The volunteers - Walsh of Bloomfield Hills, Jim Weeks of Warren and Darrell Mainor, Ed Grabner, Gregory Williams and Phyllis Smith all of Detroit - were deemed "Volunteers of the Year" for work at their respective DMC hospitals. They received their awards at a recent luncheon in Greektown; Walsh volunteered at Children's Hospital of Michigan.

The role of nutrition

Dr. Martin Tamler, a specialist in the area of fibromyalgia, will present "The Role of Nutrition in Proper Health Maintenance" on Tuesday, July 28 in Livonia.

Scheduled for 7 p.m.-9 p.m. at the Livonia Civic Center Library auditorium, there is no fee or registration required to attend.

Face it: Now is a good time for a tuneup

BEAUTY AND THE BEST

JEFFREY BRUCE

Does she or doesn't she? The question bears scrutiny.

Have you ever seen a good face lift? I hope not. You never want to hear a friend say, "I've always wanted to have my face done. Who's your plastic surgeon?" That's like telling a guy, "Love the toupee."

Plastic surgery has been around forever. When I was a teen-ager growing up on Long Island, almost every girl I knew received a nose job for her 16th birthday. They looked like a tribe of Miss Piggys since they all went to Dr. Diamond who gave them the "Dr. Diamond nose."

When clients ask me if I think that so-and-so has had some work done, my response has always been, "You don't look like that at 50 (or 60 or 70) if you haven't had a tuneup. We all have our suspicions as to who's had some work done (think Raquel, Elizabeth, Joan), and we all know who's had too much (think Joan Rivers, Roseanne, and my personal faves Morey Amsterdam and Rose Marie.)

Personally, I'm all for it. Have I had anything done? Are you kidding? Has Joan Van Ark? When I was 35, I vowed that I would do my eyes if one more person came up to me and said, "Gee Jeff, you look so much younger in person than you do on 'Kelly and Co.'" Lo and behold, 10 minutes later, up she came. When I was back in New York, I went to see a friend of mine who was, and is, one of the city's top surgeons. I had my initial consultation, my "before photos," and within a week, I was "done." Did it hurt? Not at all. How did I look? Like I kissed a truck going 60 m.p.h. Five days later I looked gorgeous! No scars, no puffiness, no discolorations. Just clear, wide-eyed, bag-free eyes. How much? What a rude question!

More and more people are going the plastic route. Why? Because we are, thankfully, living a lot longer than our ancestors. Sixty-five isn't 65 anymore. In fact, my oldest client is 99, lives in Bloomfield Village and has had more work done on her than the Statue of Liberty. She's also a flaming redhead and dates only younger men! Of course, she's loony as a fruitcake, but as she says, "I know I'm not playing with a full deck, but I also know that I look fabulous!"

Now that I'm 51, I am going to do the old eyes again. It's been 16 years since the last procedure. I'm also thinking about the "Ally McBeal" waddle. Isn't that a precious thing to be hanging over your collar? Mine's not too bad yet, but it definitely has to go.

Is plastic surgery for everyone? Of course not. Does everyone want it? You betcha. Here are a few guidelines to help you find the surgeon who is right for you:

- Check medical malpractice suits filed with the clerk of your local Circuit Court. These suits don't necessarily mean that the doctor is bad, but several should be a warning sign for you.

- Ask about credentials and training. Many surgeons advertise "board certified." But the requirements vary greatly depending on the particular board which is cited.

- Ask for references from trusted family physicians or other doctors who are knowledgeable about your local medical community.

- Make sure that the surgeon has hospital admitting privileges in case of complications after surgery.

- Ask if the surgeon carries medical malpractice insurance, and if not, why not.

We have all heard of the horror stories that occurred on the operating table. Liposuction, in particular, gives me the creeps. But the bad is far outweighed by the good. When I see an adult with braces on her teeth, I think, "good for you." Why not feel the best about yourself?

What the world sees first is your face. We can't fight gravity, but we're lucky enough to be able to do something about it. Just be careful, be cautious and be educated.

Sidewalk Stroll Historic Clarkston charms visitors

BY MEGAN SWOYER
SPECIAL WRITER

When Sue Baran orders pizza, nothing but the best will do. For the Baran household that means the cheesy Italian pies at Rudy's grocery store in downtown Clarkston. "Their pizza is fabulous," says Baran, who has lived in Clarkston for eight years and tries to avoid chain pizza shops as often as she can.

Baran, like many who live in or visit Clarkston, is not only endeared to the charming community's local grocery store, but she loves to loiter at the downtown bakery on Main and savor a hot cup of something while watching passersby. "We used to do that a lot more before our daughter was born," says Baran, referring to her 3-year-old energetic toddler, who on this summer afternoon insists on "going higher and higher" on the swings at Clarkston's kid-filled Depot Park.

The Barans and thousands of others enjoy living in Clarkston because of its homespun charm. With a population of 27,500 (only 1,000 or so live in the village of Clarkston), Clarkston is one of few communities with a bustling, quaint downtown, complete with a sports shop, antique emporiums and a nostalgic corner diner.

In addition, Clarkston has a significant past. The village, which was named after the Clark brothers in 1842 when they platted the land, features not only some unique shops today but also a variety of architectural styles. Both the city and township blend Victorian farmhouses with Gothic revival and Greek revival homes.

"We love to ride our bikes around town to look at all the historic homes," says Michelle MacWilliams, a Clarkston resident. "This town is not a suburb. It really is a town," she adds. "I lived in Southfield and Bloomfield and then here and this is the only place I've lived that has a small-town feeling." She and her husband, Steve, and their two sons often dine at downtown's Union Raw Bar, a "trendy spot with a gazillion beers on tap and great buffalo burgers," MacWilliams says. The MacWilliams clan and dozens of others routinely soak up Clarkston's family-style atmosphere at events such as summer's Friday-night concerts at downtown's Depot Park. "When you're in downtown Clarkston, it's like you know everybody, even though you don't," MacWilliams says of her town, which has been designated a National Historical Site.

Conveniently located just off of I-75, historic

Clarkston, which spans about one-half square mile, draws shoppers and antique lovers throughout the year. From points south, take I-75 north to the Clarkston exit (Exit 91). Go south and you will be on Main Street as you head into the heart of downtown Clarkston. On the way, you'll pass the fun and upbeat Mesquite Creek restaurant and a great shop called The Birdfeeder (7150 Ortonville Road) for your fine-feathered friends, with unusual decorative treasures for your yard and garden, including cement figurines and unique wind socks that feature designs such as pink flamingos, pigs and garden watering cans.

On the right-hand side of Main Street as you make your way into town, be sure to look for The Millpond Inn (155 Main St.). Situated near historic homes, window high in rows of pink, white and salmon-colored impatiens and geraniums, the B&B opened in 1995 as the first inn in the area. Built in the 1860s, Millpond was originally a residence. It has been completely renovated and features five guest rooms ranging from a Southwest motif to Victoriana at its prettiest.

At 21 Main St., you'll find a brownish barn-like structure called Main Street Antiques Country Store. It overflows with antiques and accessories and has a special collection of lamps and lamp shades.

The Coach's Corner (12 Main St.) scores with all kinds of sporting goods, including shoes, logoed sweatshirts and more. Racks of casual attire by Woolrich include a woman's sweater vest that's most unusual - it features a basketball pattern along with a three-dimensional basketball hoop!

Speaking of sweaters, the tiniest ones we've seen highlight the front window at Basketful of Yarn hand-knit shop (5 Main St.). Knitters can stock up on a variety of yarns here and catch a glimpse of cute, teddy bear-size sweaters. Hours vary, so call ahead at (248) 620-2491. In the market for a special piece of jewelry? At Tierra, Fine Jewelers (64 Main St.), you'll find gorgeous designs and a friendly staff who can help you choose a customized setting created by talented jewelry experts.

Don't leave Clarkston without a stop at the Parsonage (6 Church St., just off Main). Fresh flowers, decorative flower arrangements, affordable wreaths (an apple-themed one is especially clever) that can give your home a welcoming feel, a variety of framed, floral pictures, gardening utensils and more abound. Connected to the Parsonage is the Country Woodshed, which specializes in country-style furniture and accessories. Two levels of treasures await your keen shopping eye. We especially liked the angel-themed wall hangings with inspirational wording that could make a perfect baby shower gift. A shelf full of green-glass objects - from dishes to candlesticks - also caught our attention. Canoe-shaped shelves, tiny $5 wooden fish, hutchers, candles and a lot more will keep you here for at least an hour.

News of special events for shoppers is included in this calendar. Send information to: Malls & Mainstreets, c/o Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 805 East Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009; or fax (248) 644-1314. Deadline: Wednesday 5 p.m. for publication on Sunday.

What's brewing: Locals love the beer and burgers at Clarkston Union.

Clarkston's vittle statistics

Pull up a turquoise chair or slide into a booth at the Olde Village Cafe, on the corner of Main and Washington, and you can order a hearty breakfast at just about any time. Diners seated along an old-fashioned counter hear the splash of sizzling fries while they watch fast-order cooks create $3.75 tuna melts, $3.50 patty melts and $2.45 hamburgers. In the mood for sweets? Sample the delicious muffins, doughnuts and cookies at the Village Bake Shop, open daily and as early as 6 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Picnickers can spread a blanket or find a table at several scenic spots in downtown's Depot Park, which boasts a pretty river and a precious gazebo. And the best place to find items for your picnic basket is at Rudy's Quality Market (9 S. Main St.). A full deli counter with lots of sandwich fixins lures shoppers to the small grocery store. Specialty take-home foods of interest include Elena's pastas. Produced in Auburn Hills by a family-owned company, the fresh noodles are delicious. Stacked on the deli counter are several jars of Cafe Cortina pasta sauces. The Farmington Hills family-owned restaurant is famous for its delectable pasta sauces and has just recently introduced them at a few retail specialty shops in the area. Rudy's impressive wine collection includes a wonderful variety of Michigan selections. St. Julian, Leelanau Cellars (Summer Sunset is a nice timely choice), Good Harbor and Chateau Chantal winery products fill Rudy's shelves.

The Clarkston Cafe (18 Main St.), which is open every day, serves up a wide range of fare on its green-and-white-checked table cloths, including seafoods, steaks and more. Like a New England roadside inn, the cafe is a comfortable, casual place and now seats diners outside as well.

At 50 Main St., the Union General Store and Sweet Shop Cafe (note: the acclaimed Royal Oak-based Ray's ice cream is available here!), peddles everything from cappuccinos to shampoos and gourmet foods. Next door, at the Clarkston Union, dozens of beer varieties and a great sandwich and entree menu draw a regular local crowd.

On your way into or out of town, be sure to stop at Mesquite Creek (7228 Ortonville Road, which is the same road that turns into Main Street and is the same road you exited onto from the expressway). Big steaks, grilled shrimp, pork chops and chicken dishes, caesar salads and soups get rave reviews.

Judicial evaluation system under scrutiny

After deciding one of three candidates for an open seat on the Oakland Circuit Court was lacking in experience, a committee that evaluates and ranks judicial hopefuls may itself be under review.

"Our system of evaluating and ranking judicial candidates is a public service," Kelly Allen, president of the Oakland County Bar, said. "I've had some comments from a few people about the rankings, but I don't necessarily consider them to be complaints."

Thus, said Allen, looking at the system of evaluating judicial candidates is matter of fine tuning, not a reaction to the rankings released earlier this month by the Public Advisory Committee on Judicial Candidates.

That committee — which is sanctioned by the Oakland Bar, but operates independently — spent weeks evaluating Steven Kaplan, Richard Kuhn Jr. and Colleen O'Brien who are vying to succeed retiring Judge Robert Anderson.

All three are on the Aug. 4 primary ballot. The two top vote-getters will run against each other in the Nov. 3 general election.

The committee ranked Kaplan and O'Brien as "outstanding." But it ranked Kuhn as "not recommended — insufficient experience."

Each of the candidates has a list of endorsements. Kuhn, however, is endorsed by two of the area's most prominent lawyers — L. Brooks Patterson, who was Oakland prosecutor before becoming county executive, and David Gorcyca, the current county prosecutor.

Patterson and Gorcyca were not particularly upset over the ranking. But they attributed Kuhn's unflattering ranking to flaws within the committee — not any weakness on the part of the candidate they endorsed.

"The committee might have done its best," said Patterson. "But its members obviously undervalued Rich's considerable experience. And it clearly didn't recognize Rich's work ethic and integrity."

Gorcyca said letting a committee — rather than the entire bar — rank judicial candidates was a flawed system.

Kuhn himself said he was disappointed with the rankings. He said he had some misgivings about submitting to the committee, in part because some of his campaign advisors said he "might not get a fair shake."

"In my opinion, the committee was very provincial and narrow-minded," Kuhn said. "It operated in secret and was accountable to nobody."

When asked about the committee's rankings, Kaplan and O'Brien each said the evaluation was exhaustive and objective.

Perhaps the most vocal critic was Oakland Circuit Judge Steven Andrews, one of several acting or retired judges who have endorsed Kuhn.

"Unfortunately the committee took the position that his (Kuhn's) four years as a research attorney (for Circuit Judge Rudy J. Nichols) shouldn't be counted as judicial experience. That's nonsense," he said.

Andrews said he has voiced his criticism to Kelly as well as other county bar officials, although with a suggestion that the system be changed.

Allen acknowledged the complaint from Andrews. But she also defended the system under which candidates are evaluated and ranked.

Speaking highly of the committee, its process and rankings is Rochester Hills Mayor Kenneth Snell, one of about 10 non-lawyers who make up the committee along with about 40 attorneys.

"It's a pretty good system," said Snell, a chemist by training. "We spent weeks double checking information submitted by the candidates and verifying everything we could."

Ironically, Allen works in the same law firm as Kuhn, the Adkison Need law firm in Bloomfield Hills.

Secretary of State encourages organ donor awareness

Organ donor registry enrollment cards will be available in all Secretary of State branches by the end of this month.

The message of organ donation will be advanced even further this fall when the Secretary of State's office begins mailing special organ donor registry enrollment cards with driver licenses and personal identification cards. Anyone wishing to place their name on the registry will fill out the enrollment card and place it in the stamped, addressed envelope. The enrollment cards will be formatted for optical scanning so the names and addresses can be transferred to a computer file and sent to Gift of Life for the organ donor registry.

Secretary of State Candice Miller added that the new Michigan driver license and personal identification card already provide residents with a convenient method for making their organ donation wishes known. The new driver license and ID card have space on the back for writing organ donor information, eliminating the need for an organ donor sticker.

With more than 2,400 Michigan residents waiting for an organ or tissue transplant, the need for donors is critical.

In addition to filling out enrollment cards, residents may call the Gift of Life toll free at 1-800-482-4811 to have their name added to the organ donor registry. This number is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The Organ and Tissue Donor Registry is a confidential 24-hour computerized database maintained by the Gift of Life Agency in Ann Arbor. Registry information is available to doctors and hospitals at the time of death when next of kin are asked to grant permission for organ donation. For more information, call the Gift of Life at 1-800-482-4881.

FOR THE LOVE OF FOOD

RICK HALBERG

Put your heart into one really spectacular dish

Being a chef and restaurant owner is no picnic. You work long hours, weekends and holidays. But I love food, I love to eat it, and prepare it. Sometimes, when I'm really in a groove, a dish will come to me like a tropical breeze floating across my body, and I know I just have to make that dish — now!

Recently I was preparing the menu for a dinner I donated to Channel 56 for a fund-raiser, along with my friend Roy Shelef, a fellow food and wine lover. Roy was donating the wines, and I was supplying the dinner and restaurant — Emily's, of course.

I was sitting at my desk looking over the wines and thinking about the menu when pow! I got hit with that breeze, inspiration, an inner-sense that what I was about to prepare would be a true gastronomic masterpiece.

All through the day an electric charge seemed to be running through my body. I was so certain about this dish that I didn't even try a test run. I could taste it in my mind and it was driving me crazy. As I was explaining the menu to the staff at our pre-opening dinner, I felt like I was a kid falling in love when I described "the dish." Now the rest of the menu was really fine too, but this dish was going to be amazing, I just knew it.

"The Dish"

It's 7:30 p.m., and the guests are arriving. We are doing seven courses and "the dish" is number two. The rules in a tasting menu are simple, the flavors and foods should be progressive. Will the rest of the menu be overshadowed by "the dish"? Will the guests feel the excitement I feel? "I'm not nervous," I tell myself. I've done these dinners many times before, but somehow, this was different. It was like I was bringing out something way more personal, like I was showing a deeper side of me.

First course: fresh lobster and mango salad with vanilla mango vinaigrette. They loved it, a great start, light, flavorful, the juices are flowing. And now it's time, it seems too soon, "the dish" needs more of a build up. Here we go, I am going crazy. I can't remember feeling this alive in awhile.

Michael, my co-sous chef, is heating cannellini beans in a little truffled chicken broth, and Sharon, my other sous chef, is searing the pristine natural diver scallop until it is still slightly translucent inside. Sound good so far. This is where it gets exciting. We poach quail eggs in a little lemon water until the whites are just set; pour the beans and broth into a bowl, set the scallop on top, then top that with the quail egg. Now, for the finishing touches — a few drops of lemon juice, a drizzling of white truffle oil, some chopped black truffles, chives and cracked pepper.

I insist on taking this dish out to the dining room myself. The aroma is overpowering, the truffles, the scallops, it's too much. As I set the first bowl in front of a guest and start to explain the components, I tell them about the ethereal fragrance of truffles, the briny, sweet taste of the scallop, and the rich, gamy flavor of the quail egg. I am almost in tears. This is getting really personal. I step back and watch as they start to eat, my mouth is watering, my hands are shaking, tears are in my eyes. Have you ever watched one of your children when they are very young, getting on stage to perform for the first time? That's what I felt.

Not to worry. First I hear some moaning "mmm," I see a certain smile, a nod, and hear a "wow!" More tastes more "mmm's." They are blown away, they want to pick up their

TRIED AND TRUE

If your mom wrote a cookbook, she'd probably have this to say about it — "all the recipes in there are perfect. They're interesting."

That's how Georgia Sekles describes "Yassoo: An Adventure in Greek Cooking," written by the Ladies Philoptochos Society (Friend of the Poor) at St. George Greek Orthodox Church in Bloomfield Hills.

This is their second book, the first was published five or six years ago. "All of the women in St. George's brought in their recipes," explained Sekles who worked on both cookbooks. "These recipes are tried and true."

Rose Kentros of Bloomfield Hills helped compile and test the recipes in the book. "It's got all different kinds of things in there," she explained. "One lady bought a book and went home and tried a lamb recipe for her and her hus-

From their home to yours, "Yassoo: An Adventure in Greek Cooking," is the kind of cookbook that's sure to get a workout in your kitchen. If Opal Flaming Greek Cheese, Greek Salad, and Moussaka, are not your idea of what's for dinner, don't put this paper down yet.

Members of the Ladies Philoptochos Society put a lot of time and effort into this book, and you're sure to find something pleasing. Each recipe was kitchen tested.

There are 10 chapters in the book, everything from appetizers and salads to soups, vegetables, fish, poultry, meat and casserole, pilaf-pasta-pitas, breads, and desserts.

"A lot of people make spinach and rice," said Kentros. The Mixed Vegetable Casserole is one of her favorites. She made it for friends, "they all went bananas. They ate every bit of it."

Baked Macaroni and Cheese, Corn Bread, Baked Fish Fillets, Coney Island Sauce and Barbecue Sauce are some recipes you'll find, but wouldn't expect to, in "Yassoo," which translates "to your health."

"It's not just a traditional Greek cookbook," said Ann Morrin of Rochester Hills who also worked on the book. "These are recipes from families associated with the church. They're recipes that have been passed down generation to generation — family recipes compiled into a book. The Greek recipes are authentic."

The mother of two boys ages 10 and 13, Morrin cooks nearly everyday. "With some of the recipes

Dinner in the fridge is like money in the bank — it takes away some of your worries. There's no reason to sweat about what's for dinner when you know it's ready and waiting.

Hot Chicken Salad and Make-Ahead Salad are two of Rose Duganne's "very favorite anytime recipes."

Hot Chicken Salad can be made ahead, and takes only 20-25 minutes to bake. "I usually serve it with Make-Ahead Salad and a Cinnamon Apple Pie," said Duganne who lives in Livonia.

HOT CHICKEN SALAD

- 4 cups cooked chicken
- 2 cups chopped celery
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- 2 pimentos, chopped fine
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon Accent, if desired
- 1 can sliced mushrooms, drained, (use as much as you like)

Topping

- 1 1/2 cups crushed potato chips
- 1 cup grated cheese (mild Cheddar or your favorite)

2/3 cup toasted almonds

Combine all ingredients, except topping ingredients, and put in greased rectangular baking dish. Combine potato chips, cheese and almonds to make topping. Top casserole with topping mixture. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Uncover and bake at 400°F for 20 to 25 minutes. Serves 8.

MAKE-AHEAD SALAD

- 1 small head lettuce, torn into pieces
- 2 ribs celery, chopped
- 1 small onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, cooked
- 1 can (8 1/2 ounces) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
- 2 cups mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 3 tablespoons freshly grated Parmesan cheese
- 8 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled

In a 9- by 9-inch baking dish, or wide mouth bowl, spread lettuce pieces evenly. Layer with celery, onions, cooked peas and water chestnuts.

Spread mayonnaise evenly over top of salad. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and crumbled bacon. Cover and refrigerate allowing at least 3 hours or overnight to "season" before serving. Makes 6-8 servings.

Pretty soon you'll be wondering what to do with all those tomatoes flourishing in your backyard garden. Anne Deising's Herbed Tomato Cheese Bread is a tasty solution for people wondering what to do with all their tomatoes, or people who simply love tomatoes, and can't get enough of them.

"I've had the recipe for 20 years, and my mom had it before me," said Deising, a Plymouth resident. "I had an abundance of tomatoes, but you can only eat so much of them. This bread is delicious. It's pretty healthy, too, unless you eat the whole loaf, which I sometimes do."

Deising serves this bread with soup on Saturdays, or cuts it up into small pieces, and serves it as an appetizer.

HERBED TOMATO CHEESE BREAD

- 2/3 cup milk
- 2 cups Bisquick
- 3 medium tomatoes, peeled and sliced 1/4-inch thick
- Paprika to sprinkle on top of bread
- Sour Cream Topping
- 1 medium onion, minced
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3/4 cup sour cream

SPINACH AND RICE

2 large onions, chopped fine
2 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 hot pepper, minced
1/4 cup olive oil
4 ripe tomatoes, chopped
1 large can tomato sauce (8 ounce)
1 cup rice
1 pound fresh spinach, washed, dried and chopped
Salt and pepper to taste
Lemon wedges

Saute onion, garlic, and hot pepper in oil. Add tomato products and water and simmer for 5 minutes. Add rice and cook until almost tender. Season with salt and pepper. Add chopped spinach to rice and continue cooking until rice is fully done. Add more water 1/2 cup at a time to prevent rice from sticking to the pan. Serve with lemon wedges.

Variation: This recipe is vegetarian as it is, but for a different taste add chicken broth instead of water.

PASTICHIO

1 pound ground chuck

1 large onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 (6 ounce) can tomato paste
1/2 cup red wine
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon allspice
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon oregano
1 pound ziti
1/4 pound butter
3 eggs, slightly beaten
6 ounces Romano cheese, grated
Béchamel Sauce
1/4 pound butter
1 cup flour
5 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
4 eggs beaten

To make Pastichio: In a frying pan, brown meat, drain off fat and add onion, garlic, and spices. Sauté for 5 minutes. Add tomato paste and wine, simmer for 10 minutes. Remove from heat and set aside. Boil pasta using directions on package, drain and rinse.

Mix pasta with melted butter, beaten eggs and cheese. Put 1/2 of pasta on bottom of a baking dish, cover with meat sauce and add the other 1/2 of pasta on top of this.

To make Béchamel sauce: Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and mix well. Slowly add milk and salt and cook on low heat until thickened to consistency of a heavy white sauce. Stir continuously to prevent scorching. Remove thickened sauce from heat. Beat eggs, well and slowly add to white sauce, whisking quickly. Cover with Pastichio with Béchamel. Sauce, sprinkle with a little more cheese and bake for 45 minutes at 325°F until golden brown. Serves 8.

MOUSSAKA

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 large onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
4 tablespoons tomato paste
4 ounces tomato sauce
1/2 cup red wine
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon allspice
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon oregano
2 large eggplants
2-3 potatoes
1/2 cup Romano cheese

Brown meat in a skillet and add onion and garlic. Add tomato paste, tomato sauce, wine and spices. Cook for 10 minutes, set aside.

Slice potatoes and eggplant in 1/4-inch slices. Salt eggplant and allow to sweat, wipe with paper towels. Place eggplant under broiler and brown on each side. Line bottom of an oiled baking dish with potato slices, then layer eggplant slices. Sprinkle with cheese and layer with meat sauce. Continue layering eggplant and meat sauce until baking dish is 3/4 full.

Top with Béchamel Sauce (see recipe above), sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 375°F for 45 minutes until golden brown. Serves 6.

SPINACH PIE

2 pounds spinach or 4 packages of frozen or chopped spinach, thawed
1 bunch of green onions, finely chopped

1/4 cup olive oil
1 pound feta cheese
3 ounce package cream cheese
6 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon dill, chopped
White pepper to taste
1 pound phyllo pastry sheets
1/2 cup butter, melted

If using fresh spinach, wash well and dry well by using a salad spinner or by rolling washed spinach in a large clean kitchen towel. Sauté onion in oil for 5 minutes, and add it to the dry chopped spinach.

Blend egg yolks and cream cheese in a mixer or blender. Add to the spinach mixture. Add green onions, dill, white pepper and feta cheese to the mixture.

Just before pouring into the prepared pan, whip egg whites until foamy and then add to the spinach mixture. Mix well. Line a 12 by 19-inch oblong pan with 10 buttered sheets of phyllo. Pour in spinach mixture. Top with eight buttered sheets of phyllo. Cut through the top layers to mark the pieces. Bake at 350°F for 45-60 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pan in pieces to serve. Makes approximately 40 pieces.

YOGURT SALAD

1 cup yogurt
1 cup sour cream
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 cloves garlic, chopped
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
2 cucumbers, peeled, seeded and diced
1 teaspoon fresh mint or dill, chopped

In a bowl blend together yogurt and sour cream. Add oil, vinegar, garlic, salt, pepper and cucumbers and mix thoroughly. Chill and sprinkle with dill.

Health Hint: Omit oil and substitute yogurt and sour cream with 2 cups of plain fat-free premium yogurt.

1/3 cup mayonnaise (Anne uses Hellman's)
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon oregano
Pinch of sage

To make bread. Preheat oven to 400°F. Butter a 9- by 13- by 2-inch baking dish. Stir milk into Bisquick to make a soft dough. Turn dough onto a well floured board and knead lightly 10-12 strokes.

Pat dough over bottom of buttered baking dish, pushing dough up sides of dish to form a shallow rim. Arrange tomato slices over dough.

To make Sour Cream Topping, sauté onion in butter until soft. Blend with remaining topping ingredients. Spoon Sour Cream Topping over bread and sprinkle with paprika. Bake 20-25 minutes. Let stand about 10 minutes before cutting. Makes 12 servings.

bowls and lick up every drop. I encourage this behavior, gladly. It's perfect, as perfect a dish as I have ever prepared. I couldn't be more content. This is why I love what I do. I realize that it's not often one can be so rewarded by their work. I am really a lucky guy.

Extra effort

Not every dish can be "the dish," but when you are entertaining it's worth a little extra time and effort to create one dish that stands from the rest. Think of the dish as an expression of yourself, the kind of food you really love.

What is your best dish? Think about textures, colors, contrasts and flavor, and then tweak it even more. Your passion will make "the dish" a memorable one.

My favorite summertime dinner for friends is herb skewered seafood served with a great salad and an easy pasta with an uncooked sauce. It's simple, rustic and flavor packed.

It can be assembled ahead of time so all you have to do is the last minute grilling, and toss the ingredients together for the pasta and salad. Your guests will be oohing and ahing.

HERB SKEWERED SHRIMP AND SCALLOPS

8 (6-inch) sprigs of rosemary
8 (6-inch) sprigs of thyme (you may have to bunch a few sprigs together if they are very thin)
16 medium shrimp, peeled and deveined
16 medium sea scallops, preferably natural and unsoaked, side muscle removed and discarded
Mushrooms, the type and size will depend on availability. Look for fresh porcini, chanterelle or cremini. They should be about the same size as the scallops and shrimp
Sun-dried tomato paste
Black olive paste
Cracked black pepper to taste
Kosher salt to taste
Strip the sprigs of herbs from their leaves, leaving about 1-inch still at the top.
Alternate the mushrooms and scallops on the thyme sprigs and do the same with the shrimp and rosemary sprigs. Brush the scallops with the sun-dried tomato paste and the shrimp with the black olive paste.

Prepare a medium fire on a charcoal grill, season the skewers with a generous amount of cracked black pepper and kosher salt to taste.

Grill over the fire for just a couple of minutes on each side, until cooked through.
Serve with a fresh green salad with a simple dressing and room temperature angel hair pasta tossed with lots of fresh chopped tomatoes, capers, a bit of garlic, and chopped fresh basil. Serves 8.

Keep food on ice until your power is restored

Tuesday's thunderstorms knocked power out in a lot of homes. Hopefully, your power's been restored, and you're cleaning up.

"If you know your power is going to be out for a prolonged period of time you need to take precautions," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the MSU Extension, Oakland County.

"Group large items together in the refrigerator. Go out and buy a couple of bags of ice, and put the ice next to them."

Generally, a full free-standing freezer will keep things cold for about two days. The freezer section of a fridge will stay cold 10-12 hours.

"After two hours of no power, milk, eggs, cheese, leftovers and other perishables will start to spoil. Food must be kept at 40°F," said Treitman.

Turkeys and other large pieces of meat that are partially thawed can be refrozen. "If the food in the freezer is still hard, has ice crystals on the outside, or is refrigerator cold to the touch, you can refreeze it," said Treitman. "Throw out frozen fish, seafood and leftovers. Check small packages of meat, TV dinners and vegetables, which thaw faster. Ground meat is pretty risky, throw it out if it's not frozen. Frozen vegetables that are ice cold, but not frozen, can be used in soup. There's a quality loss."

Condiments such as mustard, ketchup and jelly will keep without refrigeration for a few days. "Check the jelly for mold. If there's no mold, it's ok," said Treitman.

When in doubt, throw it out. "They tell you to keep your refrigerator and freezer closed when there's a power outage, but you need to check it. Some people haven't opened their freezer for three days. The crucial time to check is before the power goes back on so you know what's frozen and what isn't."

Majestic drive: Barry Rowe's "Bossoua Cottage" is among the artworks on exhibit at Concoors d'Elegance.

Tom Hale: inventor of a new genre of automobile expression

When Tom Hale was employed as a stylist for American Motors, his job was to create the look of a future product, a.k.a. cars, Jeeps, trucks.

There wasn't a computer program to approximate the design. Hale of Farmington Hills drew sketches, developed a concept, then worked on a clay model of the vehicle.

Back then, the future was invented slowly.

But faster than you can say "American Motors was swallowed by Chrysler which merged with Daimler-Benz," Hale transformed his interpretations from a drawing board onto a canvass.

Today, Hale is a full-time artist. In less than 20 years, he's become one of the top artists in the world analyzing automobiles for more than gas mileage and engineering proficiency.

Quite simply, Hale is at the artistic vanguard creating an emerging genre inspired by what he calls "America's greatest invention."

Hale's swirling, organic interpretations of inorganic automobiles will be displayed this upcoming weekend along with 15 other international artists at the 20th annual Meadow Brook Hall Concoors d'Elegance Invitational Art Exhibit.

played this upcoming weekend along with 15 other international artists at the 20th annual Meadow Brook Hall Concoors d'Elegance Invitational Art Exhibit.

Waxing nostalgic

In the days before the invitational exhibit, however, Hale is exasperated.

Over the past month, he's been in art shows in Chicago, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Cleveland and withstood the repressive heat of the flesh-and-bone logjam known as the Ann Arbor Art Fair.

Despite the travel lag and a mid-summer cold, Hale's enthusiasm rises like a tidal wave from a placid pond when talking about his favorite subject — automobiles.

He readily recalls the details of waxing his first car, a 1950 army green Plymouth.

"People forget about how incredible it is that you can get into your car and go anywhere in this country. There's something magical about that."

"Automobiles represent a great sense of freedom."

Paying homage to automobiles isn't simply admiring the synthesis of design and utility.

For Hale, it's a testament to what distinguishes the American spirit for adventure and independence.

A love affair

In 1982, after the Concoors d'Elegance had been attracting crowds to its exhibit of classic cars for four years, then-chair Dick Teague persuaded Hale to put together the first Invitational Art Exhibit.

He invited a dozen artists, each with a distinctive style. Unlike an assembly line, Hale's goal was to assemble artists with no areas of duplication.

By the mid 1980s, Hale organized many of the artist who participated in the Concoors d'Elegance Invitational Art Exhibition the Automotive Art Society of America.

Today, the Concoors d'Elegance

But it's not just the physical vestiges of an area once known as Paradise Valley facing the wrecking ball. It's the relentless march of time that is erasing memories of a milieu that many claim as the most fertile

"We're about to lose a generation of people who lived in one of the city's most thriving sections," said Kimberly

Camp, director of the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History in Detroit.

NOTE: Exhibit touring the U.S. under the direction of the Consulate General of Israel and the Public Affairs Division of the Israel Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

On the surface, the basic premise of the colorful allegorical images in the "Peace Through Humor" exhibit at the Janice Charach Gallery seems flawed.

Is it possible to think that peace can be achieved while warring parties share a good laugh? And isn't an exhibit about "peace" based on the drawings of youngsters, ages 8-11, inherently naive?

After all, isn't "peace" an intricate accord negotiated by serious-minded diplomats who throw around contingencies with lawyerly obfuscation?

Perhaps it's time to set aside the cynicism. Step back and allow for yet another truism from the mouths and minds of babes.

Time for peace

"Peace Through Humor" is inspired and curated by Maureen Kushner, a New York City teacher who spent two years traveling throughout Israel, capoling young Jewish, Arab, Druze and Bedouin students to express their feelings about war and peace.

From the Lebanon border in the north to the Sinai Peninsula in the south, Kushner traveled to 24 Israeli schools, using word games, limericks and jokes to encourage students to explore the origins of Hebrew and Arabic words associated with war and peace.

Worlds apart: Sylvia Nelson, director of the Janice Charach Gallery, contends the exhibit shows the different views about peace and violence of Israeli and local children.

The result of Kushner's two-year project is a series of simple images with both endearing and frightening meanings. Images of people of multicultural backgrounds holding hands, a peace bus, menacing terrorists, brides left waiting for their grooms lost in action, unfurled webs of razor wire, a Happy Tree and dancing eyes, dancing mosques and synagogues.

Collectively, the effect of the bold and surrealistic imagery in "Peace Through Humor" is a blend of innocence and gritty realism.

Kushner's travels were sponsored by the Israeli Ministry of Education, which selects an annual theme. Peace, according to Kushner, seemed like a natural choice as hopes were bolstered by the Israeli-Palestinian Peace Accord, signed by PLO leader Yasser Arafat and the late Israeli Prime Minister Itzak Rabin.

"You just hope in the children's memory bank that this exhibit will be an anchor," said Kushner, who teaches in the urban war zone of the Bronx and Washington Heights.

"Maybe one little wave can lead to a bigger wave."

The humor in the summer exhibit at the Jewish Community Center's gallery doesn't fall anywhere near traditional visual comedy, nor does it land anywhere close to the funny-bone.

Rather, the humor in the JCC exhibit can be found in a playfulness with words and a fantasy-like visual lexicon refreshingly devoid of ideology.

1950s. On Saturday, the museum opened two exhibits that evoke memories of the former black Detroit communities along with an installation that reflects the celebratory spirit of an after-hours speakeasy in rural North Carolina.

Together, "Detroit's Black Bottom & Paradise Valley: Help Us Collect Your Past" and the narrative sculpture "Juke Joint" offer local stories as part of the broader American story," said Camp.

"Detroit's Black Bottom & Paradise Valley: Help Us Collect Your Past" is the first exhibit curated by the staff since the new museum opened in spring 1997.

The first of the two-part exhibit includes the display of about 1,500 photographs of Paradise Alley and Black Bottom, an area once located between Lafayette and Gratiot avenues. Many of the photos are from the personal collection of a local real estate appraiser who found the pictures at flea markets and estate sales.

The museum is encouraging anyone who has photos, memorabilia or a story about Paradise Valley and Black Bottom to come forth and have their memories included in their expanding archive.

In the few days prior to opening, the curatorial staff already had received nearly 100 calls from people interested in recording their oral stories of growing up in Black Bottom, a name given to the area because of the rich black soil.

"The history of this nation is kept in attics and basements," said Camp. "There are so many Detroit stories that need to be told. In 2000, the museum will incorporate the additional information into an exhibit, which is expected to tour the country.

In recent history, the former location of Paradise Valley was only remarkable because of the profound neglect and crumbling buildings on the site.

But to many in the African American community, the mere mention of the area that stretched a block east of Woodward to what is now I-375 still invokes proud memories of Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Cab Calloway and Ella Fitzgerald coming to town to play their juke jumpin' jazz in smoky nightclubs teeming with people, black and white.

"The 'Black Renaissance' was going on in every major U.S. city, but Harlem and Detroit had the most excitement," said Organ.

"We should remember that Paradise Valley was one of the few places in the country where blacks and whites were coming together because of the entertainment."

Lured by automotive jobs and the promise of escaping Jim Crow laws, thousands of blacks migrated from the south to Detroit. The black population increased rapidly from 5,000 in 1910 to 300,000 20 years later.

Ironically, the decline of Paradise Valley and Black Bottom is usually traced to urban renewal (which some blacks labeled "Negro removal"), and the integration of blacks into formerly all-white areas of Detroit.

With widespread integration came the bitter sweet reality of a lessening of the close-knit community, once held together by common racial heritage. According to Organ, there were more black-owned businesses in Paradise Valley than exist today.

"We wanted to preserve the legacy of this area," said Organ, who noted that Black Bottom was the home of former Detroit mayor Coleman Young, Joe Louis and former Secretary of State Richard Austin, along with many of the city's first generation of black lawyers, professors and physicians.

"This isn't the traditional way to develop an exhibition," said Organ.

"But we saw the opportunity to get the community involved. We want to be the gathering place for history of our area."

By day, Willie Little's father's grocery store was the place to find staples, produce and pickled pig's feet.

But when the sun went down, the store became the socializing center for blacks living in the rural area of Washington, North Carolina.

In a series of eight vignettes using 10 life-size mannequins, Little's sculptural installation, "Juke Joint," tells the story of the personalities and spirit of his father's juke joint. A place of wild dancing, 50 cent cups of gin, an occasional fist fight that, he said, was similar to Harpo's Place, the liquor house in "The Color Purple."

"It's an immersion experience," said Organ. "Visitors will literally walk into the juke joint."

"We live in fast-paced times. It's important to slow down, to imagine what it's like to go back in time."

Little's characters invoke the adult idiosyncrasies as seen from a child's perspective, including a man with a golf-sized goiter suffering from "vomit cough," and a woman with a laugh that sounds like grinding gears.

"I want people to feel like they're in the moment, to see the texture of the life of juke joints," said Little.

As American culture continues to become more homogenized, Little contends sculptural reenactments preserve the tenor and essence of the past.

"Some people never admitted that these juke joints existed," said Little. "This kind of validates that they did."

"I'm sharing a part of my life that doesn't exist anymore. It seems pretty natural. I come from a history of storytellers."

Young at heart? Undoubtedly. But naive? In war, innocence is among the initial casualties.

Rhymes and realities

In the days before "Peace Through Humor" opened in early July, Kushner was in town to work with local students attending day camps at the JCC.

Basically, the campers were given the same assignment to use words and images to express their feelings of war and peace.

In contrast to the collages and imagery of Israeli students, the young campers offered dreamy visions of nursery rhymes.

"For students living in Israel, the issues of peace and war ring more immediate," said Beth Greenapple, director of Judaic enrichment at the Jewish Community Center.

"For our kids, peace is a concept they've heard about, but it's largely theoretical. For the Israeli students, their brothers, cousins and fathers have been involved in the military. Violence has touched everyone in the country."

The stark contrast between the artwork of Israeli and local students reveals the serene life of suburbia, said Sylvia Nelson, director of the Janice Charach Epstein Gallery.

With the Macaabi Games — an athletic competition among 6,000 Jewish children from around the world — to be held at the JCC campus Sunday-Sunday, Aug. 16-23, Nelson thought

"Peace Through Humor" offered an artful complement to appreciate a child's fledgling philosophical perspective.

"Dealing with conflict is scary for children anywhere," said Nelson. "The Israeli children simply have to live with it each day, whereas many of our kids get their ideas from what they see on TV and in movies."

The strength of "Peace Through Humor," according to Nelson, is its ability to deflate the tension of religious zealots and lighten the political rhetoric about what will be required for Arabs and Jews to live peacefully in one of the world's most hostile areas.

Rolling wave

In a word, the exhibit is about trust. Not exactly an easy word for Arabs or Jews, especially since many families in the Middle East have their own tragic stories about the deaths of loved ones at the hands of terrorists or in a military skirmish.

Yet for terminal optimists, "Peace Through Humor" offers hope, albeit a politically innocent vision.

Despite the endless conflict and bloodshed in the Middle East, the exhibit doesn't lose sight of the simple reality: Peace is possible for anyone willing to listen.

And the sound in "Peace Through Humor" resonates like a rolling wave. But what other sound would you expect from the mouths of babes?

LAST WEEK TO NOMINATE

CULTURAL ARTS RECIPIENT

Nomination forms are available for the third annual Birmingham Bloomfield Cultural Arts Award.

The award is presented to the individual or organization who had the greatest impact on art and culture in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area during the past year.

Forms are available at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center, The Community House of Birmingham and the Baldwin Library. Also, please look for nominating forms in the Eccentric newspapers.

Deadline for nominations is Friday, July 31.

Last year, the award went to Birmingham resident John Cynar, co-curator of the Pontiac '97, a sculpture exhibit that brought together nearly 100 local artists. Marshall Fredericks received a lifetime achievement award.

The award will be announced in early September. The formal presentation will be made at the opening of the Birmingham Society of Women Painters Exhibit on Friday, Sept. 18 at the BBAC.

PEWABIC POTTERY NAMES NEW

DIRECTOR

Terese A. Ireland of Birmingham has been named the new executive director at Pewabic Pottery in Detroit.

Ireland had served as vice president for the marketing firm, Bannister and Company. Most recently, she served as a Regional Business Development Manager for HCR: Healthcare and Retirement Corp. of Toledo. She also is a member of the Detroit Metropolitan Preservation League and the Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

Pewabic Pottery was established in 1903. The nonprofit arts and educational center is dedicated to ceramic art. Pewabic produces tiles for commercial and residential use.

DEADLINE APPROACHES FOR ARTS COMPETITION

The Polk Company has announced its call for entries for its second-annual art competition for Michigan artists.

The juried art contest is entitled, "The Polk Competition: Art & Technology."

Awards include four of $1,250 to students of college-level institutions in Michigan; four faculty and/or alumni awards of $3,000 to faculty and alumni of Michigan college-level teaching institutions; and two open awards of $3,000 each to any artist living and working in Michigan who is at least 18 years old.

Deadline is Friday, July 31, 1998.

Works will be displayed Sept. 11-26 at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center. The winning pieces will be included in the Polk Collection.

For information, contact the Preston Burke Gallery, (248) 488-0200.

DSO'S NEW CD

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra featuring conductor Neeme Jarvi has released its 28th recording.

The new CD features Richard Strauss' suite from the ballet "Schlagobers, nine short waltzes and "Memorial Waltz."

Invitational Art Exhibit is considered the preeminent auto art show along with the Pebble Beach Invitational.

Like a luxury car loaded with options, however, collectors were surprised at the sticker price for original paintings and sculptures of automobiles.

Initially, the artists had to overcome the perception that they were merely making pictures of cars, said Hale.

Although that perception has changed, Hale said that many collectors still haven't accepted the automobile as a legitimate subject for fine artists.

Granted, many of the automobile artists have illustration and design experience working in the auto industry. But that shouldn't diminish their work as less than interpretative, said Hale.

"The automobile is all about a captivating experience," he said. "What other piece of art do you get into, literally.

As car designs become more homogenized, there's a growing interest in finding a "personality" in an automobile, said Hale.

"I'm a believer that it takes passion and emotion to create a product or a painting."

These days, however, in the rush to get automobiles to the marketplace, Hale contends, something is lost. Design takes a back seat to marketing. Computer efficiency is considered more important than an interpretative drawing of a stylist.

In essence, the path from the heart is bypassed.

But through it all, Tom Hale's love affair has never subsided. He simply considers his passion for automobiles as an expression of freedom.

'I'm a believer that it takes passion and emotion to create a product or a painting.'

'Art With a View' seeks very special artists

Louise Bego is encouraging artists with disabilities to enter Very Special Arts Michigan's first "Art with a View." Bego, a Birmingham resident who grew up in Westland, is one of the artists volunteering to serve on a steering committee to produce the exhibition of works by professional artists with disabilities. She suffered a closed head injury in a car accident in 1973.

Bego had no interest in art until her mother brought a paint-by-number set to the hospital. Depressed and crying a good deal of the time, Bego refused over and over to pick up a paint brush, but her mother never gave up. Today, Bego's thrown away the numbers, and paints energetic, vibrantly colored original works in styles ranging from Abstract Expressionism to Fauvism.

Since studying painting at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center, Bego has exhibited at The Community House in Birmingham and in the Michigan Fine Arts show at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center. In the last two years, three of her paintings have been published by Allyn and Bacon Publishing. Two made the covers of textbooks and one introduced a chapter in a textbook. Now, she's helping other artists with disabilities to show their work professionally.

"If you know your work is good, you want other people to see it," said Bego, who lived in Livonia for several years. "I like competition too. I was just so proud to have my art hang. A lot of people don't have closed head injuries and do nothing with their life."

So far, Very Special Arts Michigan has identified about 35 artists with disabilities and knows there are more talented people out there. It's hoping to reach those artists before the entry deadline Saturday, Aug. 1. Redford sculptor Sergio De Giusti will juror the competition/exhibition. Artists must submit slides or photographs of the two- and three dimensional art works, a biography/resume, and application form. If artists need assistance producing the slides or photos of their work, Very Special Arts Michigan is there to help, said Susan Minard, coordinator of artist services. Artists must be 18 years or older, be a Michigan resident, and have a disability, which meets Americans With Disabilities Act guidelines. All art must be for sale.

"We don't want it to be about disabled art, but, (about art, and) oh by the way, there's a disability," said Minard. "Most people don't realize it, but there's such a diversity of art created by people with disabilities with rich life experiences to share."

In the past, Very Special Arts Michigan has spotlighted emerging artists in a touring exhibit. The most recent was during a festival hosted by the Southeast Region Committee in May at Wonderland Mall in Livonia.

Art With A View

What: Very Special Arts Michigan is calling for entries from disabled artists for a touring exhibition juried by Redford sculptor Sergio De Giusti. Artists must submit slides or photographs of work, a biography/resume, and application form.

When: Deadline is Saturday, Aug. 1, call (248) 923-1080 for an application form.

"What we want to emphasize throughout, this is a professional exhibit," said Minard. "We want someone who does art professionally, but not necessarily someone who earns a living making art, but has a high level of skill, or a highly developed style."

The exhibit will become an annual one. In addition, Very Special Arts Michigan plans to expand its services to assist artists with disabilities. Eventually, there will be an artists registry, help with writing grants, and a forum for artists to come together and share their experiences.

"For any of us, art communicates our own version of the world," said Minard. "The emphasis of the art show is really on what artists with disabilities can do. They're seen as their abilities. There are people out there who are creating art work, powerful work. It's important for people viewing the art works to have them expand their perceptions about artists with disabilities."

Giving back

Richard Perez, like Bego, is serving on the steering committee for "Art with a View." A disabled Vietnam vet, Perez began studying art at a parochial school in Adrian. The nuns used to exhibit his work and encouraged him to continue in art. After returning from service, he studied at San Francisco Art Academy and San Jose State University before going on to become an illustrator/graphic artist for Apple Computer and several department stores in Los Angeles. Perez has exhibited on a national scale and most recently at the Creative Arts Center in Pontiac and the Woodland Indians Trading Center and Gallery in Redford Township.

Perez joined the steering committee because he wants to give back to the art community and society and frequently works with disadvantaged youth painting murals in Southwest Detroit.

"For me, I want to show the mainstream art world and society that disabled people are capable of creating quality art," said Perez, an Ann Arbor resident. "It's good for the disabled community to show we have the same goals and we can be productive."

ductive. People have the perception that when you're disabled, you're not functional."

That perception is the reason Bob Curtis became involved with Very Special Arts Michigan three years ago. An art educator for 35 years with Wayne Westland Schools, Curtis is on the steering committee. He, Livonia artist Jack Olds, and Charles Steele, a serigrapher and arts educator at Michigan State University juror the touring emerging artists show each year.

"We were concerned when we were looking at the art that we weren't reaching the disabled population who were creating quality work," said Curtis. "We want to provide a vehicle for them to exhibit their work and provide opportunities to sell and become more accepted members of society. We're also hoping to educate society about the ability of artists with disabilities."

History of helping

Very Special Arts Michigan is an affiliate of Very Special Arts, an international organization founded in 1974 by Jean Kennedy Smith, in conjunction with the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, to enrich the lives of disabled people by encouraging creativity. Very Special Arts Michigan and the Southeast Region Committee support and fund programs in dance, drama, music, and visual arts for persons with disabilities.

Very Special Arts Michigan executive director Lora Frankel said until now artists with disabilities have been reticent to come forward to show their work. Most are so busy dealing with their disabilities it leaves little time for much else but creating. And then, of course, there are the "bad days." The nonprofit organization has also found through research that artists with disabilities put a lot of their financial resources into making art work. Bego is one of the artists looking for support to continue painting. Materials can be very costly when you're on a limited income.

"Up until now we've done a lot of work in schools with art therapy programs," said Frankel. "Now, we need to encourage professional artists and give them the opportunity so they can get into the mainstream, so they can exhibit and sell their work."

Changing perceptions

Several of Bego's friends have encouraged her to continue painting including Donika Bardha of Albania, Daria Minui Thomas, West Bloomfield and Barbara Minui, Bloomfield Hills.

"It's important for all of us to express ourselves," said Barbara Minui. "Louise just happens to do that beautifully in paint. By looking at her art work, you'd never know she has disabilities. You only see her ability."

If you have an interesting idea for a story involving the visual or performing arts, call Linda Ann Chomin at (734) 953-2145.

NORTH OAKLAND SPORTS SCENE

Hole in one contest

The Lake Orion Lions Club and Bill Flanders Building Company present the annual "Hole in One" Contest Aug. 22-29 at Mike Weger's Willow Creek Golf and Sport Center on M-24 in Lake Orion.

Qualifying rounds will be held from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Aug. 22-29, with the four golfers closest to the pin qualifying for the Aug. 30 final. Cost is $5 for three balls or seven balls for $10. Additional balls will cost $1 apiece, with no limit being set on the number of tries.

The qualifiers meet in a shoot-out at 1 p.m. Aug. 30.

Grand prize is a home built by Flanders located in the Paint Creek Country Club golf community, valued at approximately $300,000. Prizes will be awarded to all qualifiers.

Punt, pass & kick

The Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Department sponsors the annual local competition for the NFL Punt, Pass and Kick competition Sept. 11 at 5 p.m. at Shiawassee Basin Preserve. All participants must present a birth certificate for age verification. The competition is for players ages 8-15.

Local winners have an opportunity to compete in regional and state championships at the Pontiac Silverdome during halftime of a Detroit Lions game.

Adult softball league on deck

The Oxford Township Parks & Recreation Commission has openings for its fall adult softball leagues, including men's, women's and co-ed leagues that begin either July 31 or August 3. Below is the procedure to sign your team up:

■ June 8: Priority registration for returning teams.

■ June 15: Registration for individuals or new teams, which is done on a first come first serve basis. All sponsor fees are due at time of registration.

■ July 24: Individual and team registration deadline. All player fees are due by 5 p.m. at the Parks and recreation office. (This includes a complete roster with signatures and a minimum of 13 players per team.)

■ July 28: There will be a mandatory managers meeting at 7 p.m. held at the parks and recreation office. All teams must have a representative present at the meeting.

■ July 31: Co-recreational league tentative starting date.

■ August 3: Men's and women's league tentative starting date.

Team and individual fees vary from $165-$230 a team, pending on the number of team in the league and games played. Player fees for residents range from $25-$40 and $35-$50 for non-resident. There is also a $10 charge per game for umpires.

For further information, contact the Oxford Twp. Parks & Recreation Commission at (248) 628-1720.

Nice shot: Tex Criqui, who is Ryan Schmidt's uncle and godfather, makes a shot on the new disc golf course at Baycourt Park. The course was dedicated in Ryan's honor Tuesday night.

ONE FOR RYAN

Family helps dedicate piece of town to son

Ryan Schmidt's family was looking for a way to put some money back into the area, and Independence Township Parks and Recreation Director Ann Conklin had some ideas how to get that done.

The result came Tuesday, when a nine-hole disc golf course at Baycourt Park was dedicated in memory of Schmidt, the former Clarkston High School graduate killed in a boating accident two years ago. The family was on hand, along with approximately 40 friends and family members, as the course was opened in a rain-soaked ceremony.

"It was very nice," said Conklin, who conferred with the Schmidts on how best to fulfill what the family thought Ryan would have wanted. "The family approached me because they had some money that had been donated to the memorial fund, and they wanted it to benefit his hometown."

Conklin and the Schmidts put their heads together trying to find something they believed would have pleased Ryan, who drowned in June 1996. Disc golf was one of the options and, since Ryan was a golf fan, the family settled on it.

"The family picked Baycourt Park and came to me with some ideas, we had some ideas and we both settled on disc golf," Conklin said of the

Rams off to slow start at CABC World Series

Things didn't get off to a great start for the Michigan Lake Area Rams at the Continental Amateur Baseball Federation World Series in Cleveland Friday, but that didn't do anything to dim the luster of the experience.

The Rams lost, 15-2, to New York-based team of players from all over the country, a team that includes four potential first-round major league draft picks, to open play Friday morning.

But coach George Drallos is still more than happy to be there.

"It has been a great experience," said Drallos, who saw his Rams limited to six hits. "It was an eye-opener, because (New York) is by far the top team here. But this is a great opportunity. How many kids get to play in a World Series like this?"

aged half a dozen hits, all singles, from six different players.

George Maroulitsas (Lamphere), Jason Pawlak and Matt Mitchell (de la salle), Spencer Hynes and John Drallos (Clarkston) and Tim Clouse (Lake Orion) each had hits.

Pawlak and Maroulitsas drove in the Rams' runs.

The Rams played a doubleheader on Saturday, but results were not available at press time. The team also played twice Sunday, and the tournament continues through the first of the week.

No matter the result, Drallos is happy to be there.

"Win, lose or draw, this is a team full of great kids," Drallos said. "I just wanted them to have the experience."

Local player stars at junior national hoop tourney

Ryan Smith was just as surprised as most observers probably were.

But, surprised or not, Smith is still proud of how his team did when it traveled to the U.S. Eastern Regional basketball tournament in Columbus, Ohio earlier this month.

The Michigan Gold, one of three Michigan teams that qualified for the USA Junior National regional, overcame the odds and finished third in the 34-team field. Smith, a 6-foot-5 center from Lake Orion, was an integral member of the team.

"I was pretty surprised," said Smith, who was graduated from Lake Orion in June. "Anyone who didn't know basketball would look at our team and say, 'no way can they win.' But we all got into a role, and we worked together. I've never been on a team where everyone worked so hard."

Smith was invited to attend tryouts in April at Eastern Michigan, along with about 200 other players. There was enough talent to include three Michigan teams in the field — Blue, Gold and Yellow.

The Blue team, according to Smith, was the best of the lot, with the complete combination of size, speed and talent.

The Blue team was, in fact, a No. 1 seed when pool play started in Columbus. The Gold team was a No. 12 seed to start, then made its way easily through its first two opponents — teams from South Dakota and Kentucky.

Those wins set up a third-round date with Michigan Blue, and a date with tournament destiny.

The Gold team, with Smith playing a huge role, beat the more-talented Blue team, 53-52, on a Smith bucket with 10 seconds left in the game. Smith then went down to the defensive end and made a win-sealing steal.

"We weren't the tallest team, and we weren't the quickest," Smith said. "We just got it done. We were a team, and we were good together."

The Gold followed its upset of Michigan Blue with a win over Georgia to get to the tournament semifinal, then lost to Alabama to tumble into the loser's bracket, where they were faced with a rematch with the Georgia team, something they'd hoped they could avoid.

"Everyone was worn out from playing three or four games every day," Smith said. "The last thing we wanted

$7,000 course, also backed by Carl's Golf Land. "It complements the park well, and the family felt it was something Ryan would really have wanted." Conklin said the turnout was touching, with an estimated 30 or 40 people braving the rain to pay their respects.

"I have heard real positive comments about Ryan throughout this," Conklin said. "So I wasn't surprised by the turnout. It was a wonderful tribute to Ryan."

was another game with a tough team.

While Georgia went on to upend Alabama, and the Michigan Gold team went on to finish third. The Michigan Blue, however, fell victim to Georgia and dropped out of the running.

And now Ryan Smith is running off to college, headed to Western Michigan University to try life as a college basketball walk-on. The Broncos, remember, were a Sweet-16 team in the NCAA tournament last winter.

He had a chance to go to college in Massachusetts, but passed, preferring to stay closer to home.

"I didn't want to leave just yet," said Smith, who chose Western over some of the state's other schools. "I've been to other schools, and it seems like it's a never-ending spring break. I think Western is more mature."

He's been working on his game with basketball guru Dave Guinane of Grosse Pointe, who has been helping Smith develop his footwork.

"He doesn't see people like me as just 'big men,'" Smith said. "He knows what kids need to do to be as good as they can be."

Coming off the heels of his Junior National success, Smith paid homage to the people who helped him get there — dad, grandparents and teammates.

"My grandparents came all the way from South Carolina to see the tournament, and my dad was with me the whole time," Smith said. "And my teammates were all good guys. I have to thank them."

New course plays deceptively difficult

Golfers who approach Blackheath Golf Club with the idea that this 6,800-yard, wide-open course is going to play easily should prepare to be deceived.

Blackheath, designed and built by Kevin Aldridge, is a characteristically built Heathland course that rewards straight, accurate hitters and challenges long-distance drivers with deep, unforgiving rough. Golfers will also find the course rolls along the former farmland it is built on, with large fairway bunkers and even larger greens.

In other words, for Aldridge at least, Mission accomplished.

"At the beginning of the project, I told my crew we were going to build a great classic Heathland Course," said Aldridge, son of Indianwood owner Stan Aldridge. "(I told them) we are not in a hurry, let's take our time."

Blackheath is an 18-hole course built on 150 acres of farmland in Oakland Township, along Rochester Road between Gunn and Buell, some four miles north of downtown Rochester.

In order to give it the rolling look he was looking for, Aldridge moved approximately 750,000 cubic yards of dirt.

The course isn't particularly long, playing 6,851 yards from the black tees, just 4,646 from the reds.

The longest hole from the black tees is the 594-yard par-5 fourth hole, so driving distance isn't necessarily a requirement at Blackheath.

What golfers must do, which is what Aldridge had in mind when he built the course, is hit it straight.

"If you get in the rough, you're not going to get out of it," said Katie Aldridge, Kevin's sister, who is handling some of the public relations for the course since her graduation from Penn State University, where she was a golfer. "It's a great golf course. It's different than people are used to playing, and it's challenging. That was our goal."

The idea in opening Blackheath, which had its grand opening in June, was to bring a course similar to the style of the old course at Indianwood, or other Aldridge courses like The Gales in Oscoda, to the public, giving them an opportunity to play courses unlike the "links"

Deceptively difficult: Like the other holes on the course, the 549-yard par-5 17th hole provides challenges to golfers of every skill level.

although the Aldridges admit the possibility of taking the course private in the future has been discussed.

Either way, the idea behind Blackheath is to give golfers a golf challenge without all the niceties which exist at country-club courses.

"You get people who want the clubhouse, the Americanized version of golf," Aldridge said. "We didn't want it to look like a brand new course. We want it to look like it's been here awhile."

The course itself carries a variety of strategic risks. The first two holes are relatively short par-4's which contain their own set of challenges.

The first par-3 comes at No. 3, a 172-yard hole that carries mostly over deep, marshy rough where the tee shot must be hit through a narrow opening.

Golfers aren't encouraged to rip a drive until they get to the par-5 eighth, which is reachable in two shots if the right drive is hit.

The 11th requires at least two blind shots to be hit, and the finishing three holes are the courses longest and perhaps most challenging.

■ 'If you get into the rough, you're not going to get out of it.'

Katie Aldridge
—Blackheath Golf Club

The greens are large and undulating, providing their own set of challenges. They read true, but speed is difficult to gauge, and the varying levels can sometimes reach up and bite a golfer.

"The putting surfaces themselves are very subtle and complex," Kevin Aldridge said. "We have spent a tremendous amount of time designing various shot strategies."

Blackheath gets a chance to show off a little next month, when it hosts the 1998 Sectional U.S. Amateur Qualifier.

Tournament officials were hoping to land it at Indianwood, but when that Aldridge course was unavailable, they took a look at Blackheath.

"They wanted it at Indianwood but couldn't get it," Katie Aldridge said. "We suggested Blackheath, they came out and took a look, and they loved it."

Fireflies to you — a long journey

Nature and I first became acquainted during my fourth summer of life in a moist, unkempt meadow blessed with black-eyed Susans and wonderful weeds with strange names and wild forms. The field was mowed just once a season. That was the way of things.

During that summer, probably in late July, I wandered off the back porch at dusk clad only in underwear, as also was the way of things in rural Connecticut. I was not allowed to go beyond the giant boulder, a lichen-encrusted beauty I would climb and be king. A boulder dragged from Canada and deposited about 11,000 years ago by the last glacier. When I saw a family photo of the boulder it had shrunk. Memories had not.

I remember the fireflies — call them lightning bugs if you wish — best of all. Those heavenly creatures with tiny lanterns attached to their abdomens twinkled as they danced along above the meadow. Soon they filled my jar.

In the morning I shook my bedside jar to awaken my once flashing companions. To no avail.

My biology professor Dad provided me with a lid with air holes, to be kept separate from the collecting container we used to pick Japanese beetles off the vegetable garden. Back in those days we did not spray things. Glorious bugs and insect safaris made summer a special treat. Much has happened in the four decades since that meadow, that boulder, those bugs and I all became acquainted. Dad's gone. Family dispersed. Nature remains a friend and she has shared a few of her secrets. And although I would not share that boulder with my sisters, I have always enjoyed sharing tales of nature and have come to respect her powers.

OAKLAND — NATURALLY

Now it is time for you and I to get better acquainted, for I hope to be sharing my views on the world of nature for some time to come on these pages.

How did I come to be here? Four years in Vermont at liberal Goddard College, something of a hippie school with a solid education program, brought me in touch with Emerson, Thoreau and Frost. Good men. My book shelves hold their ramblings.

Knowledge and desire gave me a voice. I wrote, and soon penned monthly news briefs for the Goddard Volunteer Fire Department of which I became a proud member. The local paper grabbed one story. I think I got five dollars. I finished my Masters Degree as an intern with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at Malheur National Wildlife Refuge in the high desert country of Oregon. This was back at a time when honking of geese in flight brought smiles. And I smiled when the federal government printed my first wildlife nature brochure.

Then I came to Cranbrook. For seven years that is where I practiced my somewhat peculiar trade. My words appeared from time to time in local papers. But the road of life has many twists and turns. I found myself with a new venture, a paramedic firefighter with Bloomfield Township. But the fire engines did not dampen the "nature bug." On a sultry summer day I eased Rescue-4 to the shoulder. Lugged an egg-heavy, algae-coated snapper out of the road and over the berm. The turtle could not wait for "animal control." Ancient turtles follow ancient rhythms.

I've worked as the naturalist/park ranger for West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation for almost a year. Writing remains a stabilizing keel. I punch words onto my keyboard and look over my Brandon Township hillside. Brandon by the way, is in north Oakland County, close to Ortonville. Not quite like the streets of Birmingham — not yet anyway.

My old barn, hickory woods, beaver swamp and attempts at self-reliance in the country will all play a part in this column. So will you. I want to hear your stories, your thoughts, your observations. In return, I share some of mine.

July is waning. It's just about dusk now. The cicadas are calling and the dew is settling in my flower meadow. A treefrog sings. He hides somewhere on the rough bark of my dead apple tree that is so full of life. In a few more minutes the fireflies will twinkle and dance over the meadow. And it will be time for me to walk off the porch and greet those wonderful beetles with flashing lanterns. Time for me to remember. Time to say thanks.

Jonathan Schechter is the naturalist for West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation and writes on the ways of nature for the Eccentric Newspapers.

In case you've forgotten what a fair price looks like.

A good car at a fair price. At Saturn, those are words we live by—and words we can live with. And with the low monthly payments of this lease, it is something we think you'll be able to live with too. SATURN.

$129/MONTH

36-month lease, $1,874 due at signing
 ($150 refundable security deposit required)

Payments based on 1999 Saturn SL, including 5-speed transmission, AC and transportation, with M.S.R.P. of $11,995. License, title, registration fees, taxes and insurance are extra. First month's lease payment of $129 plus $1,100 down payment, $495 administrative fee and a $150 refundable security deposit required ($1,874 due at signing). Option to purchase at lease-end for $7,197. 36 monthly payments total $4,644. Primary lending source must approve lease. Mileage charge of $.20 per mile over 36,000 miles. Lessee is responsible for excessive wear and use. Payments may be higher in some states. Delivery must be taken from participating retailer by 9/30/98. ©1998 Saturn Corporation. www.saturn.com

You may not want it...

...but, we'll bet someone does.

Is your attic or basement or garage filled with stuff you don't want anymore? Maybe you don't have anything quite as weird as our toy Martian, but like most of us, you may have some odds and ends you can do without.

Our 3-2-1—SOLD! offer is just what you need when you have things to sell for under $200.

Here's how it works:

1. You get 3 lines to describe your item (remember, you have to be asking less than $200)
2. You get to run your ad for 2 days (one week)
3. You get 1 low price—just $19.95.

You could say our 3-2-1 plan is as easy as 1-2-3!

Call us today.

It's all about you!

1999 BMW 328i: Beautifully styled, logically designed

CARreport

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. — My driving partner on this 250-mile test drive of the 1999 BMW 328i through the greater Chicago area and into much of lower Wisconsin wanted to be the first one to drive the car.

So much so that he had the keys in his hand when I approached him — and I was one of the first in line.

This puzzled me because he's not some novice automotive journalist. In fact, this writer/editor/broadcaster has been doing this about 10 years longer than I have. But he insisted that he get the chance to drive first.

We got into the car and I waited for him to adjust every corner of the vehicle to his liking. Finally, we were on the road and he was silent, shifting gears, fiddling with buttons and knobs and just ... well ... being silent. And this is so out of character for Myron.

That's why I like to do ride-and-drive events in new cars with him. He talks a mile a minute and the drive flies by before I know it. But on this day, I couldn't take it anymore.

"What?" I finally blurted out.

"What what?" he responded.

"Talk. Now. The car," I demanded.

"It just feels soooooo good," Myron said.

He went on and on about the ride, the handling, the gear ratios, the overall feel of the car. I didn't appreciate any of what he was saying because he was behind the

The BMW 328i is a refreshingly nimble, and comfortably sports car that will make you smile.

But 50 miles later, I did understand.

This 1999 BMW 328i is the fifth generation 3-series automobile. BMW is doing very, very well in the U.S., by the way. Sales have increased 128 percent in the past seven years.

And I know why. The company is lean. BMW has quality. It has ownership loyalty. Residual prices after three years is about — no, exactly — 66 percent. And it has reasonable prices on its vehicles. This all-new 328i, by the way, will sell $500 less than the previous model, at a base of $33,400. Put everything but the kitchen sink in it and it tops out at just a hair under $40,000.

Heck, the Chrysler M starts out at about that. Don't know about you, but I'd rather have a BMW in my driveway for that price than a Chrysler.

This new BMW 328i sedan has beautiful styling throughout, from its exterior sheet metal down to the smart design of the interior and even the cargo area. Everything is logically placed.

The front of the 328i has a wider stance and larger face, allowing better lighting and making it easier to see what's ahead of you. Look at the front. The wheels are so far in front you start to question where the bumper starts, or ends, for that matter.

BMW pushed the front tires right to the edge of the front to allow more interior room and engine compartment area. The face of the 328i has attitude, but doesn't look overly aggressive.

The wheelbase has been increased by an inch to give it more stability on the road. It's 1.6 inches wider and 1.2 inches higher than the previous model. Cornering and brake control are much more improved because of this.

More metal and crumple zones have been incorporated in the front of the 328i, resulting in a 250 percent increase in energy absorption.

Safety. Pshhh! The 328i has dual front airbags, side airbags and optional head protection and rear airbags. That means there are 8 airbags in this sedan — more than any other on the market.

This is the first time BMW has introduced an all-new vehicle and an all-new engine at the same time. It worked well.

Talk about the power. We were only allowed to drive the 5-speed manual editions, so I can't comment about the automatic and how it performs. But I can tell you that the 5-speed manual does 0-60 in 6.6 seconds.

Powered by a 2.8-liter engine that delivers 193 horsepower, the 328i has increased torque at low to medium rpms. That means it won't disappoint you pulling way from a light or passing on the byways of your local city streets.

This is also a low emission vehicle. The longer-life spark plugs don't have to be changed until 60,000 miles. Oil changes aren't necessary until you hit 15,000 miles. Lifetime transmission fluid. Sooner or later, cars will be maintenance free.

We can only hope.

The handling and ride characteristics exceed the limits of the competition. The 328i is nimble, aggressive, smooth and can really make you enjoy driving.

Comfort, oh, the comfort. Long drives, like the 250-mile hike in just under 6 hours we took, should almost be exhausting. I was more fatigued after spending more than 7

Include the 'buzz' of your field on resume

GEORGE HAYES

Q. A professional person who recently critiqued my resume said I didn't include enough "buzz" words. What does this mean?

A. We receive several resumes each week that are confusing simply because they are so generic.

Candidates naturally try to appeal to the broadest market possible. They point out that many of their skills can be valuable in a variety of jobs or industries and want to avoid appearing "married" to any one field. It sounds good in theory.

Hiring authorities are usually looking for specialists and there is often a tremendous bias against candidates with job titles or responsibilities differing substantially from the opening in question. It can get ridiculous. An accountant coming from a stamping operation can't be an accountant in an assembly plant? Experienced job seekers know this kind of weird thinking prevails and often figure that being vague is the solution. It isn't.

As a marketer, your first task is to get a prospect's positive attention. That means structuring sales literature (resumes and cover letters) in such a way that buyers quickly and easily see information they consider important. If I were crafting an advertisement about, say, a computer product, would I write a rambling narrative describing what a swell system it is or would I highlight some key technical features (memory, processor, monitor, modem)? This is what prospects want to know -- and they won't labor too hard to find it. Prospects (employers) will rarely spend time analyzing your skills, deciphering your story or translating your background into the language of their world. If there isn't an obvious fit, they move on.

In addition, many large personnel departments and recruiting firms scan resumes into their data bases. Later, when looking for candidates, they search on key words. People who know this take time to pack their resumes with bulletized jargon or acronyms, usually under the Background Summary. It's important to include all areas of expertise because computers don't read between the lines. They don't know that most quality managers have ISO 9000 exposure or that design engineers are ordinarily familiar with CAD or CATIA. You have to tell them.

Then how are you supposed to go from stamping to assembly or from health care to sales? It can be done, but major career changes are usually effected through networking, where you get an early opportunity to verbally address a need and translate your skills face-to-face. If you're going from social work to merchandising, better leave your resume home so the prospect doesn't focus on the wrong things.

Let me give you real life examples from some of our more recent searches. When looking for an office manager for a small manufacturing facility we wanted to see: Word, Word Perfect, Excel, customer, receptionist, phone system. When recruiting a machine repair person we wanted: PLC's, mechanical, hydraulic, pneumatic, set up. The manufacturing engineer I'm trying to find should have: CNC, processing, troubleshooting, tooling.

We live in a world of sound bites, blurbs and bits. Know the buzz of your prospective field to market yourself effectively.

Q. I'm having difficulty getting past the secretary of an executive who can probably help me out. At this point, she probably thinks I'm obnoxious. How can I do an end-around this person?

A. On occasion, with just the smallest morsel of information, I can make grand predictions. This is one of those occasions. Here is my prediction: You are not going to get past her. In fact, you are not going to meet the executive. You are toast.

Who do you think has this manager's ear, my friend. The loyal secretary of umpteen years who has run interference, been a confidant, gone above and beyond and done the little things to make him or her look good -- or you with the unfamiliar name?

Never underestimate the power of the secretary. Never be disrespectful or condescending. Good salespeople realize that access to decision makers, the way they are received, how they are ultimately viewed and, consequently, their odds of success depend heavily upon their relationship with the secretary.

Wouldn't it have been better to learn her name and express deep remorse for bothering her so many times? Wouldn't it have been wiser to exercise patience and say "I understand" whenever she informed you that "he" wasn't in? Did you ever express any appreciation for her efforts? Would it have hurt you to kiss up a little?

No. You were obnoxious. No soup for you.

JOB SEARCH QUIZ

True or False?

- Most hiring decisions are based on issues of technical competency.
- It's OK to wear my nose ring to an interview.
- Times will always be good. I can easily make a career change later.
- I can't write a good resume in less than six pages.
- Being a little profane in an interview will show that I'm normal.
- Dropping the names of my well-known friends is impressive.
- A person should get at least 10 percent more salary when changing jobs.
- It's always best to turn down the first offer you get.

All answers are false except for the nose ring which, of course, depends entirely upon whether it's gold or silver.

Employees need to consider a few things about mergers

CAREER MOVES

JIM PAWLAK

From the mailbag. Employees from Chrysler, Bank One, First Chicago/NBD, Ameritech and SBC wrote to ask how to interpret the impact of their employers' mergers on individual careers.

Well, here are some things employees need to consider about mergers:

- Don't be fooled by CEOs with golden parachutes and stock option packages saying that there will be no reduction in headcount. They all say that. It's just part of the standard public relations script that requires a positive spin on the announcement. One of the principal reasons for a merger is to consolidate operations to save money. Consolidation means guaranteed headcount reduction. Always has. Always will. Areas likely to feel the first pinch are staff functions like accounting, finance, human resources, information systems and legal. Next on the hit list are the sales organizations. The new company won't need two account managers and two territory managers to call on accounts in one territory. Engineering and R&D take a bit longer to consolidate because their capability to develop new products has to be evaluated.

Rest assured, overlap will be minimized in the surviving company.

- Employees working for the "BIG" partner will have a better survival rate than those with the "little" partner. Why? They already know the procedures by which the new company will be run. They were also hired, not inherited. They are known commodities whose way of doing things is familiar. All of this automatically means bad news for employees of the little partner.
- There's no such thing as dual headquarters. Yes, there are two HQ buildings. Only one is THE real headquarters. It's where the power is housed. The other is no more than a corporate apartment. Executives from the real HQ will have an office there during the consolidation process and executives from the little partner will have a place to work until they pull the rip chords on their golden parachutes. Don't believe it? Just ask the employees at Unisys, the old Bell companies, NBD, etc.

- Getting on a task force assigned to study how to accomplish merging certain functions isn't likely to save your job. All it does is take you away from the job you do best. The one you need to showcase. The one that will get you your next job. So what's an employee to do? Begin your job search ASAP. It's the ideal time because the employment market is crying for experienced people and is willing to pay top dollar for them. It's also a fact of worklife that employed people have a distinct advantage over the unemployed in any job market.

Almost thirty got a new boss three months ago. The boss style clashes with hers. She wants to know if it's time to move on. There are three things that are certain in the business world: 1. Every boss has a unique style. 2. That style won't mesh with the style of every employee. 3. You'll work for all types of bosses during your career. If the boss' style is abusive and demeaning, by all means move on. If not, then it's time to start learning to deal with it. How? Start with your mindset. The positive spin involves treating the situation as a learning experience. One that will take you out of your comfort zone. One that will help you grow. One that prepares you for being a boss.

Begin by understanding where the boss is coming from and where she/he is headed. Start the process by talking with your boss about what she/he wants to accomplish. A good opening line is: "What can I do to help you achieve your goals?" As the conversation unfolds, offer suggestions based on your departmental experience. Avoid using negative words. By the time you're done you should have some good ideas on how to satisfy the boss without losing yourself.

HUMAN RESOURCES

Benefit Administrators

Team up with Buck Consultants, an innovative leader in providing employee benefit and human resources consulting services worldwide. If you share our pursuit of excellent performance, we invite you to join our dynamic Benefit Department at our Detroit office.

In this vital role you will set, maintain and support our Defined Benefit Administration Systems (BEN/CAL/PC and BASIS/DB) for our sourcing implementations.

To qualify, you must have prior Defined Benefits experience including determination of plan benefits, the analytical and systems skills to code/support outsourcing applications, and the ability to assist client needs and to optimize multiple facets of administrative consulting projects. You must be an independent and logical self-starter with strong mathematical/communication skills and a detail orientation. Other benefit disciplines (Health & Welfare, Defined Contribution or Actuarial) would be a definite plus.

Choose Buck for all the impact you'll make on our success and yours. We offer competitive compensation, full benefits and a congenial, team spirit environment conducive to top performance. Send resume and/or fax your resume. Consultant, Inc., Suite 1200, 3000 Town Center, Southfield, MI 48075. Fax: 248-304-2450. EOE M/F/D/V.

ASK THE EXPERT

Clamps can restore electrical grounding

Q: We recently had some plumbing repairs done by a local handyman. He installed some plastic pipe in our domestic water supply system. A neighbor looked at the job and said the repair compromised the main ground connection in our home's electrical system. Do we have a problem, and if so, how can we correct it?

A: Most electrical codes require a home's electrical system to be grounded through the copper or galvanized-iron water supply pipes that lead from the water main to your faucets. This is done by clamping the ground wire from the panel to a pipe. A problem can arise, however, when this continuous ground is disrupted by splicing a length of plastic pipe in the water system.

Though not allowed by code in most areas, plastic water piping has enormous appeal to those uncomfortable with traditional piping materials and methods. If a part of your home's water supply piping has been replaced with plastic, you can still have the protection provided by a proper and legal ground.

To re-establish the ground, simply fasten approved grounding clamps to the metal piping on each side of the plastic splice. Then span the gap with a short length of No. 4 solid ground wire. Bind the wire tightly in the clamps and the job is complete.

Q: Our hot-water storage tank recently leaked and was replaced by another stone-lined tank. My family and I noticed an unsettling change in the feel and texture of the water in the shower and sinks the evening of the installation.

Proven quality is Mission Creek's strength

Folks were waiting in line before dawn to buy detached site condominiums at Mission Creek when they first went on sale just over a month ago.

Inga Cruz, sales representative for the 31-lot community straddling the Farmington Hills/Farmington city limit off Freedom between Drake and Halsted, understands why.

"It's very private. It has a creek. It has a lot of trees. It's in the middle of everywhere, but it seems like you're out in the country. We're close to downtown Farmington, close to expressways," she said.

"The main attraction is space, open space," said Pierre Nona, vice president for Triangle Development, the developer/builder. "Every lot is scenic. No two lots back up to each other. It's absolutely gorgeous, a breathtaking view."

Triangle has acquired a good reputation while building at Fairfield Estates in West Bloomfield and at Pinewoods West and Timbercrest in Farmington Hills, Cruz said.

"We've been very successful in this neighborhood," she said. "People see the quality of work this builder provides. He doesn't cut corners here and there."

"People not able to get in here (Timbercrest) decided to go out there (Mission Creek)," Cruz said.

"We have housing plans that have proven successful, very conducive to today's living style," Nona said. "We have feedback from customers and use that to enhance designs."

"The Triangle name, especially in Farmington Hills, is synonymous with quality construction that can be verified with previous customers and cities we've worked in," Nona said.

Five floor plans are offered at Mission Creek.

They range in price from $274,900 for a ranch of 2,100 square feet with three bedrooms and two baths to $319,900 for a two story of 3,007 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

Standard features at base price in all plans include fireplace, jet tub and separate shower in the master, first-floor laundry, two-car garage, range and dishwasher, basement and carpeting throughout.

Air conditioning ($2,750) is extra. Brick and vinyl siding with wood trim cover the exterior.

Aspen model: This two story of nearly 2,500 square feet with four bedrooms and a fancy kitchen is available at Mission Creek and can be visited at Timbercrest.

The sales model actually is at the Timbercrest development on the east side of Middlebelt just south of 12 Mile in Farmington Hills.

The two story of 2,486 square feet features a room that can be used as a living room or den on one side of the foyer and a formal dining room on the other.

The main living area also contains a kitchen/nook with island and built-in desk, butler's pantry between the kitchen and dining room and a family room.

The upstairs master with cathedral ceiling has a walk-in closet and two-sink vanity. Three other bedrooms and a full bath also are upstairs.

Base price is $286,900, the model with upgrades and extras, about $306,000, excluding landscaping.

Most lots at Mission Creek carry a price premium ranging from $2,500 to $12,000.

The community has attracted a good mix of buyers - couples with children, older folks whose children have grown and couples just starting out, Cruz said.

"They're impressed with the floor plans, that there isn't any wasted space, the quality of materials used, the windows, the appliances, glass block basement windows, ridge ventilation rather than tin cans on the roof," she said.

"We give a 50-gallon hot water tank rather than 40 and 200-amp electrical service rather than 150," Cruz said.

Mission Creek is serviced by city water and sewers. It's within the Farmington school boundaries. There are no sidewalks.

The property tax rate on the Farmington side of the development is $46.77 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. On the Farmington Hills side, the rate is $40.40 per $1,000.

That means the owners of a $286,000 condo there would pay about $6,700 and $5,800, respectively, the first year.

The annual maintenance/association fee is projected at $440.

Renee and Gerry Goodwin ordered a two story.

"It's a sub in its own little world," Renee said. "It's unique. There will be two ponds in the sub, wood-chips (walking path), bridges. The fact that it's a dead-end street on a cul-de-sac, that's a plus.

"The quality of homes, workmanship - that's a plus," she said. "We've been waiting for two years."

The Mission Creek sales office/model at Timbercrest, (248) 473-0999, is open noon to 6 p.m. daily, closed Thursdays.

Expansive porch, unusual nook mark plan

The elegant Greenbriar has a rambling covered porch that spans all 90 feet of its front facade. Classic columns accentuate arched openings, creating an ambience of stately graciousness.

An octagonal nook, far right, is one of the most unique details of this plan. It offers a panoramic view of the surrounding scenery. Display shelves line the passageway that joins with a kitchen designed to accommodate multiple cooks.

In addition to built-in appliances, kitchen features of note include: a huge, angled work island with built-in cooktop and veggie sink; counter space on four sides; a roomy walk-in pantry; and a trash compactor. Pocket doors in the hutch/buffet slide open for easy service between the kitchen and dining room.

Light spills into the den, foyer and dining room through three gabled dormers that face the street. These rooms are already bright. Wide bay windows expand the den and dining room, while sidelights and transom windows surround the door into the vaulted foyer. Plants thrive on high plant shelves that wrap around three sides.

Directly ahead is a barrel-vaulted great room outfitted with a raised hearth fireplace and an entertainment center. French doors at the rear slide open to access a partially covered patio.

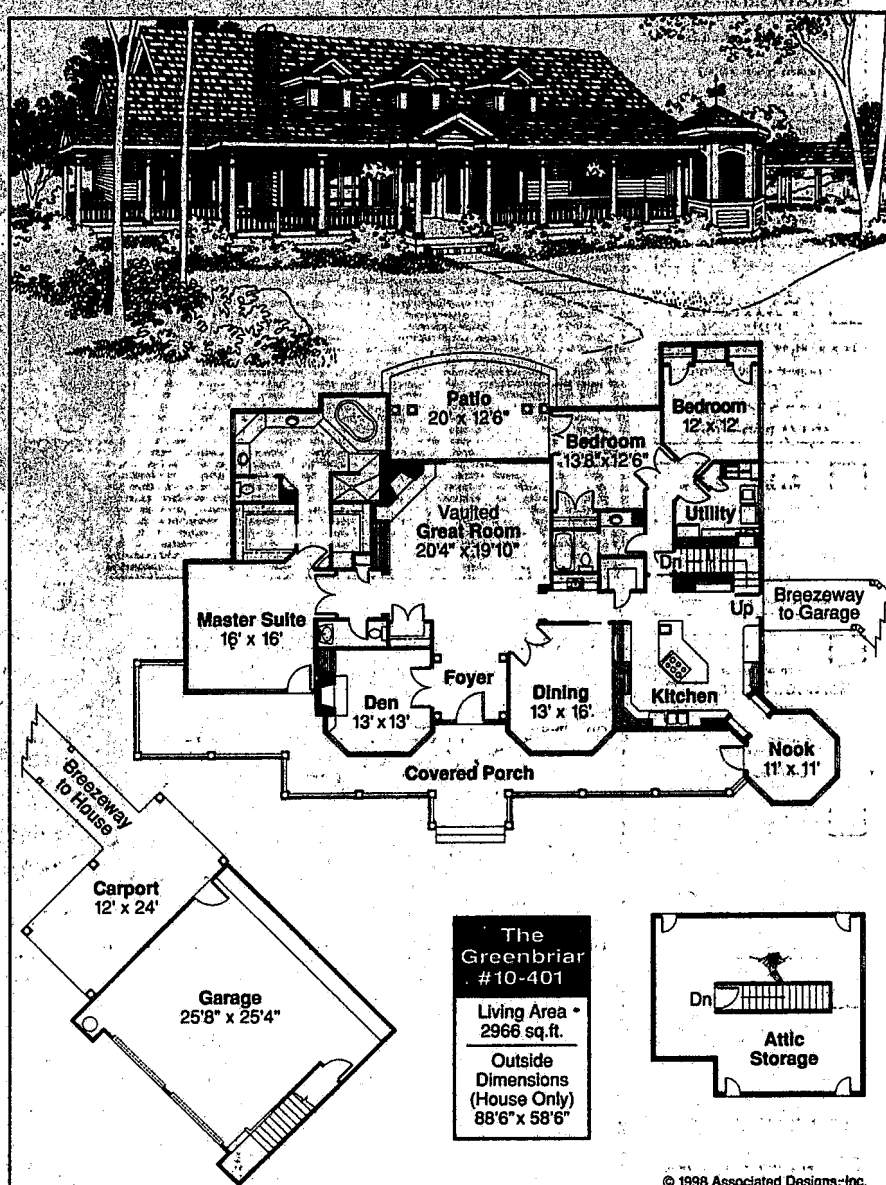

Double doors open into a palatial master suite. Both of the large walk-in closets are lined with cedar, and the private bathroom boasts a walk-in shower, soaking tub, private toilet, two basins and a sit-down corner vanity.

Utilities are in the Greenbriar's opposite wing, close to the kitchen and secondary bedrooms. A long, covered breezeway connects the house to the garage with storage room above.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, Ore. 97402. Please specify the Greenbriar 10-401 and include a return address when ordering.

A catalog featuring over 250 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Remodeling expert discovers problems with home offices

When Guy Bartnik, Wickes Lumber's Cyberspace Handyman, traded in his power tools for a personal computer, he found plenty of books and magazine articles about setting up a home office.

But Guy soon found his biggest home office problem was setting ground rules -- both for himself, friends and family.

Bartnik is a professional builder with 20 years experience as a building trades professional. He works for Wickes Lumber to assist homeowners and builders by answering repair and building questions e-mailed to the company's home page.

Bartnik, a pseudonym, provides advice and direction on everything from hanging doors to selecting siding, typically answering dozens of questions each week from his home office.

"When I moved my office, I figured I'd spend my days drinking coffee in my bathrobe, uninterrupted and leisurely tapping sage advice into the computer," said Bartnik.

"My wife had other ideas and I had a lot of down time when I let myself get distracted. It was a couple of rocky and unproductive months before she called a family meeting to discuss home office ground rules. After a year of working from my home office, the only one who refuses to respect the rules is my dog!"

Bartnik offers the following ground rules and tips to ease the transition from office to home:

- Establish a quiet zone around your office or work space. Everyone should agree that loud talking, vacuuming, riding Big Wheels and playing boom boxes is strictly forbidden during work hours.

- Have a separate telephone line for business calls that only you are allowed to answer.

- Have an answering machine pick up calls when you're busy. If you can't answer the phone, don't expect your teenager to take an accurate message -- or even a message!

- Develop a professional support system that allows you to network with peers by e-mail. Bartnik relies on several remodeling contractors who carry the National Association of Homebuilders Certified Graduate Remodeler (CGR) designation and taps their expertise to respond to queries. You can find willing colleagues by using Internet search engines to identify organizations in your field or discussion groups around your area of interest.

- Immediately establish a routine. If you miss the water cooler chats in the morning, set aside ten minutes to network with colleagues by phone. Just remember to set a timer so you're not visiting all morning instead of working.

- Ignore home chores and projects during work hours. The minute you get out your Phillips head to tighten the door handle, one thing leads to the next and you'll lose two hours re-hanging the door. Better not to even get started.

- Resist becoming the family errand person during work hours. Just because you're working at home doesn't mean you can take off two hours to shop for groceries or get the oil changed. Schedule errands for the end of the work day or on a set afternoon each week.

Protect property from water damages

(NAPSI) - Whether the cause is bad weather or broken pipes, there are steps homeowners can take to protect their home from water damage.

Here are a few tips to minimize or eliminate water damage to your summer or year-long home from the experts at

Stanley Steamer carpet cleaners:

- Clean out the gutters -- give that water a clear drainage route.

- Get any leaks in your roof repaired ... now. It will cost more the longer you wait.

- Evaluate the drainage in your yard -- ensure standing water has a place to drain other than into your home. Water should always drain away from your home.

- Check your windows for a tight seal. Will the wind blow water into your home through the windows or under your sliding glass doors?

My wife describes the water as feeling slimy or soft. I thought it felt more silky, such as diluted mineral oil or water that had portland cement residue mixed in with it. Nevertheless, the water was nice and hot.

What can you tell us about stone-lined hot-water storage tanks? Will the residue rinse away with time and is it a health hazard?

A: The term stone-lined is really a misnomer. The storage tank is actually lined with concrete. Probably, the company that manufactured your unit uses a fine sand in the concrete mix, which has the texture of flour.

You were on the right track when you said the water had a cement residue feel to it. Any tank residue should flush out shortly. If it doesn't, contact the manufacturer.

There is nothing inherently unsafe with stone-lined hot water tanks, but if you are concerned, you can have the water tested to see if its mineral content exceeds the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) standard for potable water.

PROPER APPLICATION

Requirements may vary according to lenders, but be sure to have the following documents on hand when applying for a mortgage: 1. A copy of the signed purchase and sale agreement. 2. A copy of the canceled check(s) to verify your deposit. 3. Copies of W-2 forms for at least the past two years (income tax returns for the last 2-3 years, if you are self-employed). 4. Copies of pay stubs for the last 30 days. 5. Copies of bank statements for the last 30 days. 6. If you are presently renting, copies of canceled rent checks for at least the last 12 months. 7. Documentation verifying revenue from such non-employment income as Social Security, alimony, or child support.

Do you know that your Realtor has had the training to assist you with some basic information on financing of the home? Many people assume that they will give a bank a mortgage, but they are amazed to learn that there are many, many types of conventional and other loan packages available to get you into the home of your dreams. To learn about some of the more creative financing options, phone your real estate professional at K.W. PETERSON & ASSOCIATES.

HINT: Mortgage prequalification helps buyers to gauge how much house they can actually afford.

Homeowners should inspect roofs once in a while inside and outside

BY POPULAR MECHANICS
FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Many homeowners rarely think twice about what goes over their heads until raindrops start falling on their heads.

But even if you don't notice any immediate problems, it's wise to make a roof inspection a regular part of your home's exterior maintenance program.

Roof damage arises from a variety of sources.

But many homeowners plant the seeds of roof deterioration from inside the house by not installing adequate insulation, vapor barriers and ventilation in their ceilings or attics.

This permits warm moist air to rise to the underside of the roof. Condensing there, it can rot the rafters and eventually even the roof deck. It also damages the roofing itself. Roofing materials also perish from constant exposure to the elements.

For a thorough roof inspection, the only tools you'll need are a flashlight, screwdriver, putty knife, binoculars and a ladder. After a hard rain, go up to the attic to examine the underside of the roof deck.

Poke with your knife and screwdriver to locate wet, darkened or deteriorating wood on the ceiling beams or rafters.

If you find any, trace the moisture path back to its origin. This may be tough; the steeper the roof's pitch, the farther the moisture can travel from its entry point to where it is collected.

Next, turn off the lights and look for pinholes or cracks of daylight in the roof surface. When you find the leak, measure its location in relation to a reference point, like a chimney or vent stack. This will help in locating it from the top of the roof.

Aside from checking the shingles, you should also inspect the flashing and the rain gear.

Flashing is the thin metal bands that form a watertight seal where the chimneys, vents, dormers, skylights, and vertical walls meet or enter the roof.

Rain gear — the roof's downspouts and gutters — channels water from the roof to the ground. In doing so, it prevents water stains on siding, trim and masonry and reduces the chance of decay and ice damage to those parts.

Rain gear also reduces water dripping from the side of the roof and eroding soil where it lands and from leaking into the basement.

While standing on the ground, search the roof with your binoculars. Look for obvious trouble spots, like missing, cracked or warped shingles.

Then, search for loose flashing or rust stains on the flashing caused by corroding nails.

Pay especially close attention to flashing around chimneys, vent stacks and in roof valleys. Check for cracks in the roofing tar that is often used with the flashing or that has been applied over leaks.

Unclog gutters if necessary.

Different types of roofing show characteristic signs of wear.

Asphalt shingles may crack, warp or show bald spots where mineral granules have worn away.

Wood shingles and shakes often cup and become brittle by exposure to the sun. Tile and slate frequently chip, crack or come loose. Built-up roofs can reveal bare patches from blown-away gravel or curled roofing felt.

Once you find the trouble, how do you decide if it needs a quick patchup or professional attention?

If your exterior inspection turns up a few missing, loose or split shingles, defective flashings or clogged gutters, you can probably handle it, providing the roof isn't too steep or too high.

But you may discover decayed rafters or large areas of bad shingles. In these cases, call in a qualified roofing professional to evaluate the damage and suggest possible cures.

The Weekly Do-It-Yourselfer

Gable shed

Storage. It becomes a problem for every homeowner. This Gable Shed may be the answer. Five sizes are included: 8'x12', 10'x12', 10'x14', 10'x16' and 12'x16'. The plans include three-dimensional cutaway drawings, a truss-cutting template, and wall and roof framing plans. This set of do-it-yourself project plans contains two complete sets of the plans: one for you or your builder and one for the building department. Plans include clearly labeled, detailed drawings along with full framing instructions. Illustrations are drawn three dimensionally with full elevations and cross sectional diagrams. Step-by-step comprehensive instructions are included to aid you in construction. A full materials list will make your trip to a local lumberyard for building materials another easy step toward the completion of your new project.

How to select an exterior paint

(NAPS) Here's a colorful thought: while it may seem like the easiest part of an outside painting project, selecting quality paint that is appropriate for the surface to be painted can sometimes be challenging.

Exterior paints can vary by finishes, formulas and even the length of satisfaction warranties. With all of the choices to consider, do-it-yourselfers can easily invest the better part of a day sorting through paint options.

The experts with Sears, which offers one of the most popular exterior paint brands (Weatherbeater) for do-it-yourselfers, provides the following tips to help homeowners choose the best paint for exterior home painting projects:

■ Consider the finish. Exterior paints are generally available in four finishes: flat, semi-gloss, satin and gloss.

Flat finish paints are low sheen, and best at hiding imperfections on the surface. They are recommended for use as the base paint for the home.

Semi-gloss paints, good for high-traffic areas such as doors and shutters, repel dirt but may highlight surface imperfections.

Gloss finish paints are high sheen and help to accentuate trim, while a satin finish is considered a durable, all-purpose paint finish to be used for base, trim or accents.

■ Select a coverage paint. Look for a paint that covers in one coat. This usually indicates a higher quality paint that will take less time to apply. Then, follow the instructions, including using the right applicator, on the can to help assure one-coat coverage.

■ Seek a good warranty. Look for a paint that offers at least a 10-year warranty. The warranty is a good indicator of how long you can expect the paint to last. Also, be sure to take a minute and read the warranty, looking for details such as "warranty on satisfaction."

■ Note price variances within a brand. Within a paint brand, the price range may vary. In most cases, these price differences reflect the degree of performance to be expected from the paint.

While it is not always necessary to buy the most expensive paint, pay close attention to the different features often associated with price points, such as durability and length of the warranty.

As to which brand to choose? Select a name-brand sold by a reputable company. A long-standing paint brand has had time to develop a quality formula and testing process.

During the past 25 years, Sears has sold more gallons of paint to homeowners, including its Weatherbeater brand, than any other retailer.

Do-it-yourselfers can call (800) 9-PAINTS, from anywhere in the continental U.S. from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. EST, Monday through Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. EST on Saturdays.

What to expect when getting new carpeting installed

(NAPS)—Something's underfoot, and it's helping make your home a beautiful, comfortable place to be. Nothing communicates the style and tone of your home better than carpet.

Proper installation and regular maintenance are essential in enhancing your carpet's performance. The Carpet and Rug Institute offers these tips to help you preserve your carpet investment.

Before Installation

■ Have a clear understanding of the services the retailer will provide and be aware of those that you must handle. For example, while most installers will usually move your furniture, there may be an additional charge. Discuss with the retailer who will remove the existing carpet and cushion and who will be responsible for disposal.

■ Placement of seams is important. Ask that seams be placed in less visible areas. Request that the installer follow the instructions from the carpet manufacturer and/or those set forth in the "Residential Installation Standard, CRI 105."

■ Before the installers arrive, complete other remodeling projects intended in the room, such as painting and wallpapering. Vacuum the old carpet to reduce airborne dust and dirt. After the carpet and cushion are removed, vacuum the sub-floor.

During Installation

■ Upon delivery, inspect the new carpet for proper color, texture and style, and ensure that it is free of visible defects. Carpet should be power stretched to minimize wrinkles and ripples.

doors do not clear, arrange to have them trimmed.

■ It is your responsibility during installation to provide an adequate supply of fresh air. Open windows and doors, use an exhaust fan or operate the fan of your heating or air conditioning system.

After Installation

■ Vacuum your carpet after installation to remove loose fibers.

■ You may notice a slight new carpet smell, which should dissipate quickly. Ventilate the area for 48 to 72 hours, as you would when doing any renovation project.

For more information on carpet installation and maintenance, call the Carpet and Rug Institute at 1-800-882-8846 or visit the Web site at www.carpet-rug.com.

Specialty tools make jobs easier

(NAPSI) — Many Americans find fix-it projects to be stimulating, challenging and fun. Now various home repairs can be safer and easier with the help of specially designed tools and accessories.

Get a grip

Do-it-yourselfers are constantly stuck with the problem of pulling nails out of wood. This task generally calls for a claw hammer, but that implement isn't always effective, especially when the nail has been pounded flush or has been stripped of its head.

One convenient solution is the Bear Claw, a nail puller with a flat claw that won't ruin the wood surface. With its sharp, gripping edges, this device can be hammered onto a sunken nail, even a headless one, locking on for easy extraction.

Bear saw

The saw is one of the most basic implements in the tool box, but one innovative design has given the old cutter a new bite.

A super-thin blade and razor-sharp, triple-edged teeth make the Bear Saw well-suited for both precision carpentry and heavy-duty ripping. The device works only on the "pull" stroke, removing less material than its "pushy" counterparts, for faster sawing. It can cut through logs, heavy lumber, even PVC piping.

HIGHLIGHTING "MELROSE PLACE"

By Jay Bobbin, Tribune Media Services

Many people are moving out of "Melrose Place," but someone is moving back in.

The Fox apartment-complex drama gets a jump on the new TV season by starting its seventh year Monday

(8 p.m. ET). Even the most faithful fans of the Aaron Spelling production may need a score card to track all the comings and goings.

Leaving in the early episodes are Billy (played by founding cast member Andrew Shue), Samantha (Brooke Langton, who's already started the USA Network series "The Net"), Jennifer (Alyssa Milano), Taylor (Lisa Rinna) and Coop (Linden Ashby).

However, a familiar face is returning. Josie Bissett, who played Jane from the premiere of "Melrose Place" until early 1997, will reprise the role. Fox maintains Jane will resurface in the fourth new story, though an earlier reappearance to spook her ex-husband Michael (Thomas Calabro) isn't entirely out of the question.

The two of them will be involved with each other again, in a closer way than "Melrose" devotees might expect. The couple certainly has a lot of unpleasant history, including Michael's cheating with Dr. Kimberly Shaw and his unusually close link to Jane's sister Sydney.

Let Monte Nagler put things in focus for you Don't miss a single edition of AT HOME appearing in your hometown newspaper every Thursday.

Monte Nagler's column, "Focus on Photography", will give some valuable information about taking pictures to be proud of.

Monte has some good advice when you're taking a dream vacation to another country.

He advises us not to pass by an interesting photo subject because it could be a missed opportunity that could later be regretted.

He also strongly suggests that you include people in your shots. "People at work and play are an integral part of any environment."

Look for the obscure, the unusual, the colorful subjects you discover "off the beaten path."

This kind of valuable advice from an award-winning photographer is just one reason to read AT HOME.

appears as Billie's boss, a mogul of "B"-movies.

"Rude Awakening" was created by Claudia Lonow, a teen serial star herself on "Knots Landing." Though Billie is her invention, Fenn had a familiar feeling about the character from the start. "She reminded me of someone who is in my life," Fenn explains, "so I had a clear vision of her in that way. With certain exceptions, this show is about Claudia's life, so she has great insights to offer.

TRIVIA

Theme: "MANY FACES OF MICHAEL"

By JAY BOBBIN, Tribune Media Services

Michael Douglas has an uncharacteristic role Sunday in the ABC airing of "Falling Down" (9 p.m. ET), his movie about a man who lashes out after losing his job and his family. Here's a quiz on some of the actor's many other credits:

QUESTIONS

1) Name the character Douglas played on the TV series

HIGHLIGHTING "RUNNING WILD"

By Jay Bobbin, Tribune Media Services

Anywhere the surf is up, Gregory Harrison is happy to be Even South Africa, the setting of his latest TV-movie.

In "Running Wild" (Sunday, 7 p.m. ET, Showtime), the actor plays a retired Air Force major recruited by the United Nations International Wildlife Organization. He and his children (Cody Jones, Brooke Nevin) go to Zimbabwe, where a park ranger (Themba Ndaba) and a veterinarian (Lori Hallier) help him survey the elephant population.

Soon, they're on the trail of poachers, using high-tech means to foil the criminals. However, the ring's leader (Simon MacCorkindale) is a wealthy philanthropist who's using his riches to finance an arsenal for bigger elephant hunts:

"I had been to South Africa before to surf," Harrison reports, "but I had never been to Zimbabwe, and it was really spectacular. I was there for five weeks, and it was one of those life experiences that stick with you for the rest of your life. It was spiritually uplifting. I'll never be able to walk through a zoo again without cringing.

"Some of today's zoos are terrific, offering much more freedom and a semblance of reality to the animals. Still, once you've seen the same animals wandering around freely in the wild, it's really hard to accept the idea of their being caged up."

HIGHLIGHTING

"TERROR IN THE MALL"

By Jay Bobbin, Tribune Media Services
If you think shopping is a hassle, just wait.
What happens in a new TV-movie should make your next trip to the mall seem like a lark.

A just-opened shopping center becomes a site of suspense in the Fox drama "Terror in the Mall" (Wednesday, 8 p.m. ET). A torrential rainstorm causes a flood that traps patrons, including a doctor — played by former "Savannah" regular Shannon Sturges — who merely wanted to buy her husband a birthday present.

She ends up fighting for her life, and not only against rising water and leaking gas. A killer is loose in the mall, upping the odds for those struggling to survive the crisis. Rob Estes ("Melrose Place") and "Starsky & Hutch" alumnus David Soul also star.

"Terror in the Mall" was filmed on one of the world's largest sound stages, at the Babelsberg Studios in Berlin. "That's where Marlene Dietrich did most of her movies," Sturges reports, "so it was kind of neat to be there. The place was steeped in history."

It was also steeped in nearly 400,000 gallons of water by the time "Terror in the Mall" wrapped filming. "It was difficult to move around," Sturges allows, "so it certainly, was not an easy shoot. It looks pretty great, though."

Still, the demands of the production took their toll on Sturges. "I got hypothermia and an ear infection. The water was my enemy on this, more than anything else. I had to do some scuba diving, and that became quite painful when I had the ear infection. It was a whole new way of working physically for me."

Today's Observer & Eccentric carriers are tomorrow's business leaders.

Did you know that our carriers are in business for themselves? We call them Junior Merchants and they are committed to getting the fruits of a lot of people's labor on your doorstep twice each week. And, like business people everywhere, their goal is customer satisfaction. But their job doesn't end there. Other business skills include keeping accurate records and reporting information on time.

There are a lot of famous names in the Newspaper Association of America's Carrier Hall of Fame—three presidents, Hoover, Truman, and Eisenhower. There are spiritual leaders, Norman Vincent Peale and Martin Luther King, Jr., there are astronauts and poets and entertainers. All of them recognizable not only for their talent, but for their values and character.

We think a carrier route is an excellent way to learn responsibility, respect for others, and a sense of what it takes to earn a dollar these days. If you agree and would like to put your son's or daughter's name on our waiting list to become a carrier, give us a call—who knows? Between us, we may be giving the world another president or poet.
