Road crews prepared for ice, snow

■ The Road Commission for Oakland County, with its six salt domes and numerous snow plows, is prepared for the inevitable this winter. Meanwhile, crews based out of the Davisburg garage brace for another season.

As winter weather approaches — bringing ice, snow and blizzard-like conditions — motorists begin to take precautions for themselves and their vehicles.

And the Road Commission of Oakland County prepares its truck drivers for the slippery conditions to come. Often the first drivers on the road in such weather, Road Commission employees leave their homes, hop into trucks, and take to the snow-covered streets, to make the way safer for other drivers.

At the Davisburg garage in Springfield Township, preparations are ready for the frosty weather. Davisburg houses one of six salt domes in Oakland County. These salt domes store the salt needed to provide traction in the snow. The Road Commission also monitors weather using advanced technology like Doppler radar, and receives faxed alerts from the weather service. Conditions are rated on a one to 10 scale, with 10 as the most hazardous, to determine whether roads will need to be salted and plowed. Craig Bryson, spokesperson for the Road Commission of Oakland County, said employees also monitor the conditions of bridge decks, which tend to freeze more quickly because they are suspended in air. The really tough job, Bryson said, is determining whether to call drivers in when weather is questionable.

"We're stewards of taxpayer money," Bryson said.

Sometimes Sam Bayne feels as though he lives in a fishbowl. People driving down his street slow down to look at the place he and his wife Vickie call home. Trick-or-treaters run up and down the long, unusual bridge leading to the front door of the modern, white home. Passers-by peek into the giant windows with curiosity.

"I think the house in general is very simple," said Bayne, a 49-year-old Independence Township resident and architect.

Joni Catanese just wanted something to call her own.

The Clarkston resident is a wife and mother who spent years working as a dental hygienist. But she and her husband Bill envisioned something even more substantial. That's when Catanese decided to look into the possibility of owning a franchise.

"I was real content working for somebody else," said Catanese, 40. "As you mature ... you want to own something yourself, have some control of your own."

That something turned out to be Country Clutter, a retail franchise located at Great Lakes Crossing in Auburn Hills. She describes the store as a "visual experience" for customers, which feels like "walking into someone's home."

But life wasn't always price tags and packaging.

She attended Mott Community College for dental hygiene. Though she enjoyed her work and had developed a strong patient following, Catanese still wanted more. Through the years she developed a ees at his garage have the most experience working for the Oakland County Road Commission. The road commission spends approximately $7 million each year on winter road maintenance.

Working for the Road Commission, drivers tend to keep a keen watch on the weather so they know ahead of time if they'll be needed on the road. Mark Smith of Holly said he gets to bed early on nights when bad weather is brewing. After 10 years working with the Road Commission, he knows when to expect to be on the roads early, salting and plowing.

Art Themm of Grand Blanc said he too prepares ahead of time. Themm has been working for the Road Commission for eight years. He packs an extra lunch and often lays his clothes out ahead of time on snowy nights.

"We're kind of like firefighters," Themm said, adding that when news reports warn drivers to stay off of the roads, they're the people called into action.

Though driving can be dangerous, Smith said it's not a scary job.

"When it's a sheet of ice, it's really not scary," he said. "It's a little more difficult getting to work."

Most importantly, he said, drivers need to slow down in snowy or icy conditions. They should allow more time to get to any destination.

Themm agreed and added that the frustrating part of his job in the winter is being "cut-off" by vehicles passing him on the highway. Trucks that plow and salt may travel slower than regular traffic, but those are the vehicles that make the roads driveable for others.

"A lot of people get mad at you for being in the way," added Smith. "Sometimes it's frustrating being out there for 15 to 16 hours a day. You're thinking, 'Why am I doing this? They don't appreciate it.' You think, 'Why bother?'"

But the drivers do "bother" to do their part in keeping the roads safe for travel. A single run for a truck can use up to 12 tons of salt. A standard for a two-lane mile of pavement requires 800 pounds of salt. Drivers can work 16 hour shifts and are then required to take five hours off before they can be called back to work.

But drivers can encounter accidents regardless of how well-maintained the roads are during the winter. In an emergency or break-down situation, AAA of Michigan recommends that drivers and passengers stay with their vehicle. Wandering into a snowstorm can be dangerous since people might become lost and police would have difficulty trying to locate them, according to Independence Township police.

When accidents do happen, the next stop is usually a local service station or a trusted mechanic. In Troy, Fisher Refinishing on Maplelawn receives more business during the winter months than when the weather is fair. Kevin Byrnes, general manager of Fisher Refinishing, said that over the years drivers have learned to slow down in snowy and icy weather.

"People tend to be careful in heavier snowfall," said Byrnes. But when the weather is rainy or there is just light snow, he added, drivers don't always take the necessary precautions on the roads.

The most common problems Byrnes sees with vehicles in need of service during the colder months involves the suspension. Icy roads and heavy snow can tear up the bottom of a car, he said. Tires often suffer the most damage.

Though accidents do happen, Byrnes noticed that during the winter it's more common for damage to occur from cars sliding on ice, than for vehicles crashing into one another.

"Because of the technology of cars, with the anti-lock brake system today, less people are getting hurt," said Byrnes. "But when we get a light rain or light snow, people don't respect it."

"Years ago, we would get twice as much business (in the winter)," he said.

Byrnes shared a common misconception about the type of vehicle that is used in snowy weather. He said that drivers of large sport utility vehicles think they are safer in winter conditions because they have four-wheel drive. That's not necessarily the case.

The big sport utility vehicles, the four-wheel drive trucks, slide around in the ice probably two times as much as a little car," he said. "The people driving smaller cars are trying to be careful. The sport utility vehicles pass them. Guess who'll be coming to see us?"

Not the driver of the smaller vehicle," he said.

"Winter is the only time (sport utility drivers) get the opportunity to use four-wheel drive," added Byrnes. "They all turn into adventurers. They need to think about the other guy."

Themm agreed and said that "even four-by-four's don't have better traction than a two-wheel drive vehicle" when it comes to snow-covered roads.

vision of what she wanted to do. Along with her husband's help and support, Catanese has achieved that vision.

"She wasn't out to change careers," said Bill Catanese. "We were looking for a business of our own."

As the owner of Country Clutter, she is now an entrepreneur. The store is part of a California franchise that offers country-themed merchandise. To open her own franchise, Catanese applied for and was granted a loan.

She never imagined she would own such a store. The merchandise, for the most part, is contrary to her contemporary taste.

"I personally don't collect," Catanese said. "This is more of a business move."

But she's knowledgeable about country-style knick-knacks and home decor items. She and a friend had worked for the Homestead Corp., selling similar types of merchandise by going to customers' homes. She said the response was so positive, she knew customers, especially women, like that type of merchandise.

"The attraction was the location," Catanese said, referring to the new mall as a promising opportunity.

The career shift began with a newspaper advertisement and an opportunity. Last May, Catanese began pursuing the idea by researching the type of business she wanted to own. She looked into restaurants as well, but Country Clutter caught her eye.

"It was not a quick decision," said Catanese. "We wanted to make sure the company stood behind their people."

Catanese continued working at the Rochester Hills dental office until the end of September. All the while, she was exploring her options and talking to other franchise owners.

"It's been real, real hectic," she said. "I have two boys at home and I'm never there."

Catanese said her husband has been very supportive. For someone who's been working 13-hour days regularly, that help is not only appreciated, it's necessary.

Bill Catanese said his role in the business is to provide strong moral support, help out at the store, and most importantly take care of their two sons. That translates into long hours for both Joni and Bill Catanese. He works as an automotive engineer for Dimensional Control Systems in Troy. Both he and his wife are new to retail.

But he said Joni Catanese possesses a strong business sense and works well with people, qualities he considers important as a business owner.

Catanese said she depends on her strong staff of about 13 employees.

One of those employees, Kathy Dusenbery of Grand Blanc,

■ 'The responsibility factor is huge. You really care about what's happening out there. Your philosophy is a little different when you become the owner. You have a vested interest. Even though you do the best job as you can when you're working for someone else, when it's time to go home, you leave.'

Joni Catanese
new owner of Country Clutter works as an assistant manager for the store.

"I think she's doing very well," said Dusenbery, who is also Catanese's niece.

Dusenbery said the opening of the store has run smoothly, in comparison to other businesses ventures with which she has been involved.

"She is very excited about it, which makes it easier for the other employees," said Dusenbery. "It gives us the incentive to really try hard."

Opening a store during the holiday rush has proved hectic, but Catanese said despite the long hours and hard work, it's truly the best time of year to open a business.

"I couldn't ask for a better time to open," said Catanese.

Regardless of when a store opens, she said, you still have to be able to pay for the stock. When a store opens in the springtime, when sales are slower, that can be a difficult goal, she said.

Before the store opened all of the merchandise was stored in the Catanese home, filling up her basement and garage. It had to be opened, priced and reboxed before it was moved to the store. That was a "little quirk" she didn't expect.

But for the most part, Catanese was familiar with the ways of retail work. Her father worked as a manager and buyer for a department store. She remembers that he worked from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., with extra long hours around the holidays. But she said just because retail runs in the family doesn't mean she even imagined owning a store. It just meant she knew what to expect. "Coincidental," she called the connection.

"None of this has been surprising," she added.

Catanese said that the biggest difference between working in dental hygiene and owning Country Clutter is her mindset.

"The responsibility factor is huge," she said. "You really care about what's happening out there. Your philosophy is a little different when you become the owner. You have a vested interest. Even though you do the best job as you can when you're working for someone else, when it's time to go home, you leave."

According to Bill Catanese, the couple is "still in the dream phase of a new business."

Chef cooks up national award

By Barb Pert Templeton
Staff Writer

When 19-year-old Jeremy Houston picked up a gold medal in a culinary arts competition in New York last month, his accomplishment was just what his former teacher would have expected.

Houston, who attended the Oakland Technical Center's culinary arts program in Springfield Township for three years, definitely learned from the best: chef and culinary arts instructor Deborah Trudeau, who recently picked up a national honor of her own.

Trudeau received the American Culinary Federation National Chef Professionalism Award. It is one of the most prestigious honors bestowed on those in her field.

As a longtime instructor at the Oakland Technical Center, Trudeau enjoyed a reception in her honor, hosted at the student-run Northwest Inn last week.

The recipe for a national title came about after Trudeau captured the top spot in a regional competition in Chicago. Going on to Anaheim, Calif., in late July, she competed against three other finalists for the national honor. The award is given to those who build, support, create and foster culinary arts programs for young people.

Taking the title was a complete surprise. "I'm still in shock. It's like, 'Is this really happening?'" Trudeau said.

The fact that she captured a national award is no surprise to Principal Dan Manthei. Still, he feels the sheer magnitude of Trudeau's accomplishment is a bit overwhelming.

"To know this is someone that you see and work with everyday and they've won a national honor is humbling but also a source of great pride," Manthei said. "And she's very approachable. She doesn't have a big ego."

A Grand Blanc native, Trudeau has worked in the restaurant industry since she was a teenager and started a cake decorating business while staying at home with her young children.

"I've always been involved with cooking," Trudeau said. "I spent a lot of time with my grandmother, which had a major influence on me ... actually both of my grandmothers, one was from France and the other was Dutch, and they were both excellent cooks."

A return to school saw Trudeau earning an associate degree in food management from Mott Community College. That was followed by bachelor's and master's degrees from Ferris State in education and human resource development.

Trudeau was employed as an instructor for adult education programs in Flint and taught at Mott Community College before taking the culinary arts post at Oakland Technical Center.

The program gives students a chance to learn the inner workings of the restaurant industry while picking up cooking tips. The experience also includes working in the on-site restaurant, Northwest Inn, which is open to the public.

Right now there are 60 students in the program. They follow a rotation that has them working in four different areas. The rotation schedule takes them to the front of the house as waiters or cashiers, the pantry where they deal with cold foods, the back of the restaurant with hot foods and the bakery. The latter area is very popular among staff and students alike.

"We don't use any boxes or mixes or pre-made frostings here — we do everything from scratch," Trudeau said.

Students marking their second year in the culinary arts program enjoy the restaurant rotation but also study more in-depth topics. That list includes menu planning, business and finance and table-side cooking of the type that's popular in upscale eateries, Trudeau said.

Another unique aspect of the program is the fact that enrollment is open to adults and senior citizens who pay tuition or non-high school graduates who may attend free.

"Those without a high school diploma can earn credits towards one," Trudeau said.

"And we have had several adults in the class, including a couple seniors."

Being enrolled in the program also means students are automatically part of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA). An international organization, VICA boasts more than 300,000 members and sponsors competitions for students in culinary, bakery and service aspects of the industry. Membership has proved a great success for Trudeau's pupils.

"The first year her students were involved with the organization they made it to a national level competition," Manthei said. "She really has that ability to take on any new endeavor and be totally dedicated. And she's not a back slapping cheerleader type. She leads by example with a quiet determination."

"Everything I do, I do through a love of teaching the kids," Trudeau said.

"I just hope that when the kids leave the program — even if they don't go into this field — they'll all least have some life skills, personal growth and development and self esteem," she said. "I like to open their eyes to the real world of work and work ethics."

The student restaurant, Northwest Inn, serves a breakfast buffet from 8:30 to 9:45 a.m. and a lunch buffet from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Thursdays. The program also does a small amount of catering and offers takeout with hot microwave meals on Thursday and Friday.

Parks employee ready to make a splash with aquatics program

By Barb Pert Templeton
Staff Writer

Julia Grouix is young, ambitious and ready to take on new challenges, including immersing herself in the local community. As a newly hired programmer for the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, Grouix will be handling the aquatics programs, special events and summer camps.

"I really like working with the community and developing ideas so this is a good opportunity for me," Grouix said.

The recreation department has 16 full-time employees and 200 part-time seasonal employees. They provide service to 30,000 residents in Independence Township and the city of Clarkston.

The township interviewed nine candidates for the programmer's post that was vacated last February with the departure of Pauline Beckett. Grouix took over the full-time position on Nov. 9 at an annual salary of $28,500.

"Julia's personality fits with what we are looking for and we are excited to have her here," said Ann Conklin, the director of the parks and recreation department.

Originally from Ohio, Grouix graduated from Romeo High School following her family's move to Michigan when she was a teenager. She went on to Saginaw Valley State University, earning a bachelor's degree in fitness management and sports medicine in 1996.

"Aquatics and fitness have always been a big interest of mine," Grouix said.

An avid swimmer since high school, Grouix most recently worked as the aquatics program director for the Romeo Parks and Recreation Department. At the same time, she worked as a part-time fitness director at Chrysler Corp.

"I spent a lot of time at Chrysler, just working with employees to get them involved in fitness and setting up workouts for them," said Grouix, who puts her muscles where her mouth is by working out regularly.

"I'm not super strict, but I do work out at home on a daily basis doing some aerobics and weight lifting."

The possibility of establishing a swimming program for children and adults at the new pool at Clarkston High School could prove to be a great opportunity for the parks and recreation department.

"Julia has an extensive aquatic background, which we need," Conklin said. "We have a good swimming program now but hope to make it even better with the new pool at the high school."

Being able to establish swimming lessons and adult fitness swims is one project Grouix hopes to tackle soon.

"Having programs for the community is very important and so is having something for families to do together," she said. "And while doing the special events planning is new to me, I'm looking forward to expanding my knowledge in that area."

The first special events project Grouix helped out with was the recent mother-son dance, which proved a great success. The next item on her agenda is the annual family holiday festival to be held at Bay Court Park. This year's outing will be a two-day affair and is set for Saturday, Dec. 12, from 6 to 9 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 13, from 2 to 5 p.m.

"There will be a playscape decorated as candy land, a toy land and Santa's workshop," Grouix said. "We'll also have horse-drawn carriage rides, some musical entertainment and even roasted chestnuts."

This is the first time the festival will be held over a two-day period. The Saturday night festivities will include a huge display of Christmas lights.

Beyond the tasks she will tackle in her new post, Grouix enjoys spending her leisure hours with her husband, Scott, and their dog, a Labrador/rottweiler mix named "Peanut." She also enjoys browsing the pages of good mystery novels by authors Mary Higgins Clark and John Grisham.

The band is continuously seeking new members. Anyone interested in joining the Clarkston Community Band or wanting more information on how to become a sponsor should contact the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department at (248) 625-8223 or Jeanne Pierce at (248) 625-3546.

Independence Oaks Park seeks volunteers to serve on ski patrol

If you like to help people, enjoy spending time outdoors and want to keep fit this winter, consider volunteering for the Oakland County Parks Nordic Ski Patrol.

An informational meeting for all those interested is set for 9-11 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 12, at the Lewis E. Wint Nature Center at Independence Oaks County Park.

"We'll explain the duties of the ski patrol. Potential volunteers can meet experienced patrollers and see the park," said Jim Meloche, an 18-year patrol veteran.

Oakland County Parks will offer the National Ski Patrol's Winter Outdoor Emergency Care class for those without first aid training. Ski equipment will be provided for those without it.

"As a first step, we can put you to work as our eyes and ears — keeping a look out for skiers in distress," Meloche said.

Patrollers will work at Addison Oaks County Park near Oxford and Independence Oaks County Park near Clarkston. Both parks have nearly 12 miles of ski trails. On Saturday evenings Addison Oaks offers a lighted 1.5 mile trail.

In exchange for 40 hours of service, volunteers will receive a 1999 Oakland County Parks annual vehicle permit good for unlimited entry to five parks, Fourth of July Fireworks and free entry to Oakland County Parks Day at the Oakland County 4-H Fair.

Addison Oaks County Park is nine miles north of Rochester on West Romeo Road. Independence Oaks County Park is located on Sashabaw Road, 2½ miles north of I-75.

For more information, call Meloche at (248) 641-0044 or (248) 625-8205. Visit the Oakland County Parks website at www.co.oakland.mi.us for park maps and discount coupons.

Bayne put his professional skills to use when he began designing his "simple" residence in 1995. Located on Cecelia Ann, the house was recently recognized with a 1998 AIA Detroit Honor Award, from an Atlanta architecture firm.

"This is the smallest I've ever received an honor for," he said.

A partner and design director at Harley Ellington Design, Bayne has worked for the firm for 25 years. His experience extends to the University of Michigan where he performed both undergraduate and graduate work in the field of architecture. Projects he has worked on include the Wharton Center at Michigan State University.

His residence was a two-year project from the onset of design to the time he and his family moved in. The Baynes relocated from their Brandon Township home to the new house, which was closer to his place of work in Southfield. The property was conducive to what he was looking for, namely privacy.

"There was a lot of property to select from," said Bayne of the site. "These are large lots with lots of trees ... Of the eight homes built in this area, all of them are different. This, I would say, is the most unique."

The home sits upon one sloping acre of land, filled with oak and pine trees. The front yard sinks to 9 feet below street level, a factor which made designing the home a challenge. Rather than fill in the space with fill dirt, Bayne designed the entrance to the home on the second level. A 60-foot-long walkway leads to the front door of the white house.

"It gave the entrance some dramatics and it allowed us to keep the trees," Bayne said of his decision to construct a bridge.

His goal was to "as gently as possible insert the house, tearing down only what trees are necessary."

"We started with the notion of keeping the house fairly open," said Bayne. "It can compromise privacy."

The two-level home contains three bedrooms and two bathrooms upstairs, along with an entryway. The bedrooms are pushed to the far sides of the house to maintain privacy. A staircase leads into a main room downstairs, containing a living room, dining room and kitchen. The kitchen consists of a built-in wall of appliances. Even the refrigerator is hidden from view. A granite-topped island allows for workspace and contains a built-in and barely detectable stove top. An additional bathroom and laundry room can be found near the door adjoining the garage. Closet and bathroom space is located on the street side of the home to allow for large windows looking out to the wooded back yard.

The philosophy behind the home, both inside and out, is simplicity.

As an architect, Bayne must be sensitive to the needs of his clients.

"It's the challenge of dealing with the needs of people and taking what those needs are verbally and translating them into building," he said. "Seeing the success happen is rewarding."

Bayne finds university-related business particularly rewarding because "the buildings are usually built with time in mind."

"You're doing something for the long run, not the short term," he said.

Describing the work he does at Harley Ellington Design, Bayne said there is no definitive style or signature aspect of the designs.

"Our architecture is not stylish," he said. "It's based on issues of quality and the fundamentals of architecture. Everyone has an approach and we approach (projects) as fresh as we can. We obviously can't wipe everything clean. Each owner is different. Each site is different."

Each building distinguishes itself from another. You end up with something unique and different."

The same is true for the Bayne residence.

"Not everyone will like what you do," said Bayne, who's preference for the contemporary shows as much in his own artwork as it does in the house he created.

Dennis King, another of 25 partners in the firm, has known Bayne for most of their professional lives.

"He's probably one of the finest designers in the Midwest," said King. "He's just a very talented person, a very understated individual. I'm pleased to have him as one of my designers."

One hallmark of Bayne's designs, King said, is his ability to listen carefully to his clients' goals and aspirations.

"He's always been a joy to work with," said King. "I think we have a great respect for one another."

Harley Ellington Design is a commercial architecture firm. As such Bayne said his primary goal is to make businesses better. But the rewards come with the aesthetic portion of his work — when a design inspires people, creates an emotion, when someone says "wow," he explained.

"There are a lot of builders who aren't inspirational," he said. "Architecture must fit a need. Hopefully it makes the environment it commercializes better."

As for his own home, Bayne wanted something very simple and basic. After one walk through the home, that aspiration clearly shows.

"He had a lot of fun with it," said Vickie Bayne, his wife. "I think it turned out really nicely."

When she heard about the award, she thought he was joking. When she discovered that he was serious — and that she was an occupant of an award-winning home — Vickie Bayne said, she was really pleased.

Dennis King summed up the atmosphere of the residence while describing Bayne's style.

"The beauty of his work comes out of the purity of his work," said King.

Oakland County names culture chief

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER
pmurphy@oe.homecomm.net

Spreading the word about what Oakland County has to offer in the way of arts and cultural events has taken on a fresh face. Newly appointed Cultural Affairs Director, Nancy Hayden, will step from beyond the footlights to take on the post.

"This is an amazing opportunity for me," said Hayden, who has already set a general goal as Oakland County's top culture buff and facilitator. "I want people to know the great cultural opportunities we have in Oakland County. I want to promote an awareness of what's already here."

Hayden, 32, of Waterford, was appointed director of Arts, Culture and Film within the office of Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson. She replaces Steve Weikal, who resigned to become director of Conferences for the Automotive News Publishing Group.

Weikal's most notable success was the "Arts, Beats and Eats" festival, a four-day affair in downtown Pontiac. He feels other satisfying aspects of the job included "seeing the growth of the Baldwin Theatre in Royal Oak and maturing of the Waterford Cultural Council."

Oakland didn't have a director of arts, culture and film until 1992, when Patterson created the position and appointed Weikal director. The goal: Muster support for culture and the arts from government and private sources.

"It was really an exciting job," said Weikal. "The job is primarily that of a facilitator, a kind of cultural clearing house."

Hayden looks forward to tackling the "facilitator" tasks, including serving on different arts and cultural boards as a representative of the county.

"Oakland residents don't have to go south to Detroit or Wayne County for cultural opportunities," Hayden said, referring to established institutions like the Michigan Opera House and the Detroit Institute of Art (DIA). "Oakland County has wonderful facilities such as the Meadow Brook Theatre and the Waterford Cultural Council."

Hayden should know about cultural opportunities to the south and elsewhere. She was on the cast of Second City in Detroit for more than two years and continues to work with the improvisational company.

She's on the faculty of Michigan State University where she teaches improvisation to graduate students. "Improv is probably one of the most risky art forms because you really never know what's going to happen," she said. "There are never any absolutes, and that's what I love about it."

Hayden was born in Detroit and graduated from Grand Blanc High School in 1986. After enrolling at Western Michigan University, she transferred to and graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in Los Angeles.

She performed Shakespeare and did children's theatre in Chicago before returning to Michigan and subsequently joining the staff of Second City. "Being on the cast of Second City was demanding," Hayden said, "but it was also great experience and great fun."

Hayden has written a play, Blah, Blah Sisterhood, for the Second City Touring Company.

Hayden expects to spend much of her time working with the Oakland County Review Board that administers state funds to local communities. Individual communities — like Waterford and Birmingham — apply for state grants that are administered by the county review board.

"I'll be helping communities complete their grant applications," she said. "I'm not on the review board, but I'll be facilitating the board's review of those applications."

Reporter Barb Pert Templeton contributed to this report.

Engler: That old rust belt shines

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER
trichard@oe.homecomm.net

A decade ago, southeastern Michigan was the economic sick man of the Midwest, the epitome of what scoffers called "the Rust Belt."

Today the auto capital outperforms the nation and even the more diversified outstate regions.

Why? How? Who did it? The Engler administration, says Gov. John Engler.

"Consumer sentiment" and "the many initiatives undertaken by the U.S. motor vehicle industry," coupled with the fact that this region hasn't been hurt by "military base closings and defense industry cutbacks," says a report by SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Government. Economists Jeffrey W. Jones and Abel Feinstein don't even mention Engler's name though they gave some slight credit to his property tax cuts.

Engler, reelected Nov. 3 in a landslide, had his budget director put forth his case for a medal in the opening of his fiscal 1999 budget message:

"Since taking office in January 1991, Gov. John Engler has fundamentally transformed the fiscal and economic landscape of the State of Michigan. For years, Michigan lagged behind the nation in nearly every economic indicator.

"Today, after cutting taxes 24 times, stopping wasteful government spending and reducing both welfare caseloads and unemployment to record-low levels, Michigan drives America's renaissance.

"Michigan's economy is the envy of the nation. Our successful efforts to reduce regulations and taxation have freed businesses, entrepreneurs and workers to create jobs, grow and prosper." (Italics added.)

SEMCOG's case

SEMCOG, in its October "Profile of the Southeast Michigan Region's Economy and Labor Market," agreed it has been "one of the great regional economic success stories of the 1990s ... superlative ... a significant reversal of fortune" for a region which "in the 1970s and 1980s often trailed the national economy, sometimes by a wide margin."

SEMCOG's analysis concentrates on the national market and behavior of the auto companies. Items:

■ "Consumer sentiment has, on the whole, been quite bullish" since 1990. The U.S. economy has grown at a moderate 2.8 percent annual average.

■ The motor vehicle industry "has increased output per hour by 34 percent."

■ Consumer concerns about the low quality of U.S. vehicles versus foreign cars are largely resolved. The Big Three "spent more than $117 billion worldwide on research and development work."

■ American manufacturers targeted the light truck, van and sport utility vehicle market, "the fastest growing segment of the overall vehicle market." By 1997 U.S. companies had captured 82 percent of the sport-ute market compared to 61 percent of the auto market.

■ Michigan doubled its exports from $18.5 billion in 1990 to nearly $38 billion in 1997, with "a significant share" coming from southeastern Michigan.

■ This region has been "insulated from the negative economic events of the 1990s. Military base closings, defense industry cutbacks and the collapse of over-built commercial real estate markets hurt the economies of many metropolitan statistical areas ... Defense spending does not play a large role in the region's economy, and commercial real estate was not subject to the degree of speculative excess evident in other cities."

■ Manufacturing used to be unstable. In the decade of 1979-89, southeastern Michigan lost 144,000 manufacturing jobs. In the 1990s, however, manufacturing added stability, inching up from 493,000 to 496,000 by 1997. Manufacturing work weeks rose from 42.9 hours in 1990 to 45.6 in 1997.

■ Construction has generated 20,000 new jobs in the 1990s, a gain of 29 percent and triple the national average. The boom has covered residential, commercial and industrial markets. SEMCOG credits "low mortgage interest rates, reductions in property tax rates and higher levels of transportation and infrastructure spending." (Italics added.)

■ Services added 185,000 jobs, up 15 percent during the 1990s. "Business/management/engineering services, health and miscellaneous services were the leaders in job creation. Wholesale and retail trade also recorded sizable gains."

■ Banking lost jobs with multi-state mergers, but real estate and insurance made up for it.

Buoyant forecast

SEMCOG's forecast was much the same as the University of Michigan economic forecast of Nov. 19-20. The southeastern corner will lead the state, although overall growth will slow.

Has the region succeeded in stabilizing and diversifying? Short answer: yes.

SEMCOG used a mathematical formula to produce a "volatility index." A high number is bad; a low number is good. The region reduced its 1990 index for executives and managers from 3.1 to 1.7; for precision production craft and repair, from 8.7 to 3.5.

Nationally, the index for executives and managers dropped from 2.3 (lower than SE Michigan) to 2.0 (higher); for precision production, craft and repair from 5.8 (lower than SE Michigan) to 6.5 (higher).

SEMCOG predicts that any downturn will be less severe than those of the 1970s and 1980s. The region will face labor shortages. "The region will need to retain workers, attract needed workers with specialized skills, and encourage higher labor force participation."

SEMCOG's report is entitled "Profile of the Southeast Michigan Region's Economy and Labor Market 1997." Copies are available from SEMCOG Information Services, 660 Plaza Drive, Suite 1900, Detroit 48226; phone 313/96104266. Web site: www.semco.org

Dazzle her with jewels, says the gem expert

Love squared: Diamonds and rubies sparkle in Tiffany & Co.'s "Cube" pendant and earrings.

This is the season to shower her with diamonds and rubies. But what's a fine-gem know-nothing to do? How does a jewelry novice choose the perfect precious stone? That's a question for the Jewelry Lady, the area's expert on all aspects of fine jewels. The Jewelry Lady keeps her ring finger on the pulse of what's happening in the world gem-wise. She shares her wisdom, expertise and opinions with you in this guest column.

Dear Jewelry Lady,

Christmas is coming and I'd like to get my girlfriend something special. I know she'd like jewelry, but it's really hard to know what I could get that she'd actually love. How do I pick the right thing?

Baffled in Bloomfield

Dear Baffled,

The Jewelry Lady would like to congratulate you on your sensitivity and your desire to please your significant other this Christmas. (So many of your gender would rather pick something up for her at the Home Depot on the way to the power tool section.) As a local award-winning jewelry designer once said, "Most women like their jewelry either angular with straight lines or rounded with a softer edge." Assuming that your girlfriend already has some jewelry (and this is why you believe that she would enjoy more), take a surreptitious look at what she wears and determine if she is an angular or a rounded person. That takes care of style. Now we move on to jewelry type and color.

Does she have colored gem jewelry to match? Does she have a charm bracelet or charm-bearing pendant that you could add to? Does she have a collection of thin bracelets? If you follow the Jewelry Lady's philosophy - you can't be too thin, too rich or have too much gold or platinum jewelry - chances are she'd love an addition to her collection. Does she change earrings often? If so, she'd probably love another pair. As you can see, this jewelry-buying thing will get easier the more you do it. So be a detective, pay attention to what she wears for a few days and then make a visit to your local jeweler. Chances are that after you've done your homework, the perfect gift will present itself. If not, take heart. Helping the baffled among us choose the right gift is what jewelry sales staff members do best.

Dear J.L.,

Is 10kt gold stronger than 14kt or 18kt gold?

Confused in Commerce Township

Dear Confused,

The Jewelry Lady thinks you have a case of wishful thinking. Did you notice that 18kt gold is significantly more expensive than 14 kt gold, which is significantly more expensive than 10kt gold? Now there are rare cases, such as spotting a long-lost Renoir in a suburban Detroit garage sale, when you can find something dirt cheap that is actually superior to a more pricey purchase. But this is not the case with gold. Ten karat gold has more alloy in it, other metals that make it tougher and stronger than pure gold. (Eighteen and fourteen karat gold also have alloy, but lesser amounts.) Unfortunately, the alloys, such as copper, silver and zinc, are more likely to tarnish and corrode. This tendency actually makes 10kt gold more vulnerable to time and wear than 14kt or 18kt pieces. This is especially true if you are an allergic type prone to hives and other unpleasant skin eruptions. So stick to the good stuff. It's worth the price.

The Jewelry Lady welcomes your questions. Please contact her at (248) 542-4012, FAX (248) 582-9223 or e-mail her at rogers@mich.com.

Holiday books celebrate the best of Michigan

BY LINDA BACHRACK
STAFF WRITER

The sunrise at Pyramid Point overlooking Lake Michigan. A sweeping view of the undulating shoreline from the Empire Bluff hiking trail. Unsurpassed quiet and serenity at Werner Cemetery, nestled along a ridge in Port Oneida. The intense blues and turquoises of Big Glen Lake. An inspirational campfire on the shore of Crystal River.

If these Up North scenes are familiar to you, you'll want to see them captured on color film in photographer Thomas Kachadurian's new book Views from the Sleeping Bear, Photographs of the Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore (Sleeping Bear Press, $39.95). This exquisite collection of images by Kachadurian invites us to protect and preserve our precious natural resources. His work reveals his passion and respect for the land and water in a little corner of Michigan where he vacationed as a child and has since settled with his family.

Kachadurian is the former art director of Traverse magazine, and has photographed the vistas and structures of the Sleeping Bear Dunes area since the early 1990s. He explores the familiar, and the remote locations waiting to be discovered, like the Port Oneida Rural Historic District. Many of these sites are hidden treasures that reveal themselves only to keen-eyed hikers and woods explorers.

"It is our experiences that define the Lakeshore," writes Kachadurian in the book's preface. "The photographs in this book are mostly made from or near public trails and access areas in or near the Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore. These are the places and experiences we all can share."

When you read his text and linger over the vivifying photographs, you will share the awe with which Kachadurian approached this project. And they will stir your own memories of beachside fireworks and sunset dune climbs.

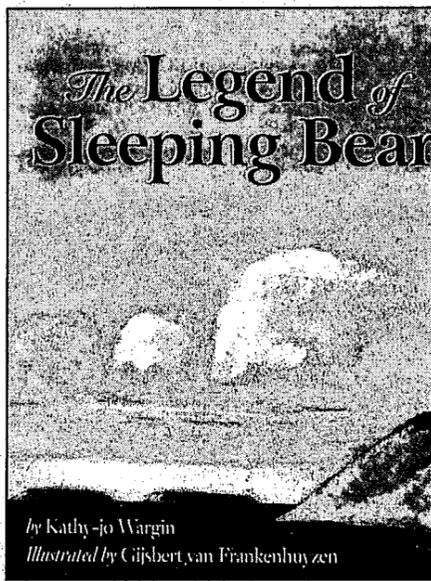

Kachadurian signs his book 3-5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 5 at Borders Books & Music, 30995 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills.

Views from the Sleeping Bear joins several other books, published this season, that celebrate Michigan and Michiganians. Other titles with local interest include The Legend of Sleeping Bear, Behind the Embassy Door

•The Legend of Sleeping Bear (Sleeping Bear Press, $16.95) is an enchanting children's tale by author Kathy-jo Wargin that tells the Ojibwe story of Sleeping Bear and her cubs. The tale originated as a way to explain the sandy dunes on the shore of Lake Michigan. Legend has it that Mother Bear and her two cubs escaped a forest fire in Wisconsin and were forced to struggle across Lake Michigan to find safety. The cubs swam and swam but Mother Bear lost sight of them during the night, and she collapsed on shore, fearing she would never see her cubs again. But Mother Bear stayed high upon a hill overlooking the lake, waiting year after year in the hope that she would spot her cubs in the water. The winds blew blankets of sand upon her, keeping her warm while she slept, and the great spirit of the land felt her sadness and her love and dedication.

"With a tremendous gust of wind, the spirit brought the cubs near shore, placing them forever within the watchful and caring eyes of Mother Bear. The cubs now stand suspended in time as the North and South Manitou Islands."

Wargin creates magic and wonder in the telling of her tale. With a decade of experience as a professional writer, her collection of published works includes poetry and non-fiction. She and her husband, photographer Ed Wargin, recently completed a travel guide titled Scenic Driving Michigan.

Illustrator Gijsbert van Frankenhuyzen, a former art director for the Michigan Natural Resources Magazine, is an artist and educator who gives nature tours at his home in Bath, Mich. His illustrations brim with passionate details and brilliant color.

•Behind the Embassy Door (Sleeping Bear Press, $24.95) is James Blanchard's view of politics and diplomacy at one of the most crucial periods in the history of U.S.-Canada relations. The book is the former ambassador's extraordinary account of how international relations are conducted at the highest level. At the same time, it is a candid account of the everyday life of an ambassador abroad. Blanchard describes the coast-to-coast trip across Canada that he undertook shortly after his arrival. He recalls how President Clinton's mother charmed a thousand women and how Hillary Clinton skated on the famed Rideau Canal.

Blanchard's writing style is very conversational, with intimate descriptions of the people, places and landscapes he came to know during his tenure in Canada. You'll feel as

And from the first day to the last, you'll be privy to the innermost thoughts and feelings of a man who fell in love with a "crazy place" called Canada.

•Here's a novel approach for a children's book: a series of e-mailed monologues between two best friends who are separated for a summer. Sarah's Page by Anna Murray (Sleeping Bear Press, $14.95) relates the adventures and misadventures of a young girl named Sarah who e-mails her best friend Katie in New York about life on her sister's Michigan farm. Sarah's a Big Apple kid whose parents have sent her to live in Michigan. She hates it. But thanks to Internet access, she describes her life to Katie, and in doing so, she eventually learns that home is a place that is all around her and travels with her - just like the Internet she loves. She even has her own

Web site, www.sarahspage.com, which Murray set up so that kids can visit while reading the book.

Sarah's Page, presented in its interesting format, allows young girls to eavesdrop on two friends' deeply personal conversations, all shared through today's most popular realm of communication.

Like Sarah, Murray is a transplanted New Yorker who lives on a farm in Michigan. She has her own Internet company and designs Web sites, such as the home of the Keebler Elves.

Automation Alley paved with hope

BY BARB PERT TEMPLETON
STAFF WRITER

Oakland County may be one of America's "best kept secrets" today, but not for long.

Particularly if County Executive L. Brooks Patterson and his team touting "Automation Alley: Oakland County's High Tech Corridor" have anything to say about it.

During a recent press conference, Patterson and Automation Alley members, which includes a consortium of 45 high tech firms plus government leaders, unveiled a marketing plan designed to propel Oakland County into the national spotlight.

Phase One of the plan introduced "First Class," a 112-page magazine that touts the businesses and technology in the area and is targeted for prospective employees who are considering living and working in Oakland County.

The consortium also introduced a brand new web site, www.autmationalley.com, which gives browsers a look at the new magazine.

Patterson first introduced the idea for marketing Oakland County's High-Tech Corridor last February. The fact that there are 120 companies in the proximity between I-75 and I-696 that have the potential to bring economic growth to the county prompted the formation of the consortium.

Patterson asked the county's Economic Development Corporation for support and ideas about financing a marketing strategy. Soon there were 45 firms committed to the project at a cost of $7,500 for members of the executive board, and $5,000 or $2,500 for members.

The membership touts a virtual powerhouse of business moguls from across Oakland County. A few members of the executive board are Dennis Higgins, president of Quasar Industries, Terry Aderley, president and CEO of Kelly Services, Doug Hoover, vice-president of EDS Corporation and Lawrence Wisne, president of Progressive Tool & Industries.

A research team distributed a survey to the member companies about their hiring habits. Research found one out of every two Automation Alley companies does less than ten percent of their recruiting "outside Michigan."

The survey also revealed that 96 percent of the businesses do not offer potential employees any information about Oakland County during the recruiting process or after a new employee has been hired.

A more in-depth portion of the survey noted that the perceptions of people outside Oakland County included visions of smoke stacks, rust belts and high crime.

"We found out that reality was different from their perceptions," Patterson said. "Oakland County is really a creative, innovative and high tech place."

Keeping that thought front and center brought about the creation of "First Class." The magazine, published under the direction of Denise Sedman, executive director of Automation Alley, includes a wealth of information about everything from technology to quality of life issues.

All the companies in the consortium have advertisements in the publication. There are also plenty of articles about education, training opportunities and general career advice.

"We've got some fun things in there too like information about golfing and fly fishing and different things to do across the county," Sedman said. "And if a company is recruiting an executive this piece promotes the whole county not just Rochester or Birmingham. The firm can just send this one magazine and things are covered."

Plans to publish the magazine on a bi-annual basis may already be altered as members are already clamoring for a second edition in 1999. Nearly half of the consortium's total budget was spent on putting out the magazine which cost $170,000 to create.

"The county hasn't had anything like this before and my 18 years of marketing experience tells me it's going to be a big hit," Sedman said. "The first publication includes 40,000 copies and I think we're going to need more real soon."

"I'm ecstatic about this project and I can't wait to get into Phase Two and I can't wait to get the magazine out there in circulation in the county and across the country," added Patterson.

"First Class" may be purchased for $5 at the Oakland County One Stop Shop or ordered online from the Automation Alley Web site.

Mental health services control due for change

BY BARB PERT TEMPLETON
STAFF WRITER

It's going to be a scramble getting all the details ironed out by Jan. 1, but the process of transferring the Community Mental Health Agency into an "Authority," thus removing it from Oakland County's jurisdiction, is moving right along.

County Commissioner Fran Amos, who chairs the Community Mental Health Board, recently gave the Board of Commissioners a report on the progress. The change officially takes effect Jan. 1.

Amos said a special task force was formed 18 months ago to figure out why or why not the transfer should be made. She said a change in the Michigan Health Code promoted the idea of mental health agencies becoming authorities, Managed Care Capitalization, which puts a cap on spending for patients, became law on Oct. 1 and that also played a role in the need for the change.

"If we were an agency and part of Oakland County and we had to spend more money on those who need individual care, who do you think would end up paying for that?" Amos said. "The taxpayers of Oakland County, and I don't think they should have to pay for Community Mental Health money that should come from the state."

'If we were an agency and part of Oakland County and we had to spend more money on those who need individual care, who do you think would end up paying for that?'

county commissioner*

As an authority, CMH would simply be required to pay for the services, and if they went over the costs and didn't have the money, the state would step in and help out.

Tackling all the details involved in transferring the agency from the county's control includes removing its records from the computers at Oakland County and transferring over 270 contracts and leases out of the county's name.

"We took bids and are in the final stages of selecting an outside vendor for that part," Amos said. "We also have to decide what equipment is ours and we have to separate the software licenses that have been set up."

Beyond computer discs and terminals, establishing the authority also means moving more than 370 employees off the county payroll.

"That's what took 18 months," Amos said. "The employees didn't want to be harmed by this move in any way."

The CMH board is currently looking for vendors to provide medical coverage for the employees and also some type of retirement plan which could perhaps be arranged through the county, Amos said.

All the moving about of names and data will end at the door of the current CMH facility in the county complex, as the agency is unlikely to move out of its established building. The building is one that the federal government provided the funds for so CMH feels ownership is already theirs. While that issue has brought about some debate, Amos said she doesn't see the offices moving anywhere, they will likely end up leasing the facilities from the county.

"This is going to be a lot better for Community Mental Health," Amos said, adding that details like hiring personnel will now be matters for the CMH board to decide rather than going through seven committees at the county level. "This is going to cut out the bureaucracy and make things a lot easier for us."

Families share 'A Slice of Life' to help children

Imagine what it feels like to be 6 years old, and always get tagged because you run slower than everyone else in your class. Or to not be able to carry your school books because it's too painful.

Having juvenile rheumatoid arthritis is like "taking the will and spirit of a child and imprisoning it in the body of someone who is 60 or 70 years old," said Wendy Nicholls of Sterling Heights, who with Lori Lipshaw of West Bloomfield wrote "Slice of Life," a cookbook to benefit children with arthritis.

"They're little kids - children cannot retire from school or life, no matter what. There is no escape." Children who suffer from juvenile rheumatoid arthritis are often in pain, but it's not visible and not understood that children can get arthritis too. Lipshaw's 6-1/2-year-old son, Eric, suffers from the disease, as does Nicholls' 11-

All proceeds from "Slice of Life," which sells for $12.95, will be used to benefit the quality of life for these children through family support groups, weekend family camp, and assisting families who wish to attend regional and national conferences.

Lipshaw and Nicholls also want to increase awareness of juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, a disease that affects 250,000 children in the United States.

"What Leah goes through is devastating," said Nicholls. "She accepts pain every day. The disease can really

Pomegranates

CREATE A FESTIVE MOOD FOR THE HOLIDAYS

BY ELEANOR HEALD
SPECIAL WRITER

Pomegranates come just once a year - in time to add holiday cheer!

Need some festive new ideas to brighten your holiday cooking? Both pomegranate seeds and juice make tasty, colorful additions to many preparations.

"Pomegranates are in peak season and this year, due to weather conditions, have deeper-colored red seeds with above normal sugar levels," said Kosai Elsamawi, produce manager for Vic's Quality Fruit Market in Beverly Hills.

Joe Azar, produce manager for Nino Salvaggio in Troy, noted that "the best way to choose a good pomegranate is by color. It should be deep red, feel firm to the touch and have no bruises. When a pomegranate begins to turn yellow, it's over-ripe."

Pomegranate derives from the French pomme garnette or "seeded apple" and is sometimes called a Chinese apple. It originated in tropical Asia, but has been cultivated throughout the Mediterranean and Middle East. Over 200 years ago, the Spanish mission fathers brought the fruit to California, the principal source of pomegranates sold in the U.S. market.

A translucent scarlet pulp surrounds 800 arils (seeds), compartmentalized between shiny, tough membranes. Pure pomegranate pleasure comes from the seeds. Removing seeds and releasing juice are simple techniques. While working with pomegranates, wear an apron to protect clothing from juice stains.

Removing seeds

Cut the crown end of a pomegranate, removing with it some of the white pith, taking care not to pierce seeds within. Lightly score skin in quarters, from stem to crown. Following score lines, firmly, yet gently, break sections apart. Bend skin back and gently scoop seed clusters into a bowl. Remove any pith.

Refrigerate seeds up to three days or freeze on trays in single layers, then pack in airtight containers to freeze for up to 6 months.

Releasing juice

To obtain 1 cup of juice, place 1-1/2 to 2 cups of seeds in a blender. Blend until liquefied. Pour through a cheesecloth-lined strainer or sieve.

Pomegranate juice, which can be refrigerated for up to 3 days, lends special qualities to seasonal preparations. It can be frozen for up to 6 months to add unique properties to recipes, from beverages to desserts, throughout the winter months.

Fill one-cup airtight containers with juice, allowing some room for expansion as the liquid freezes. Seal and freeze at zero degrees or below. To have available smaller amounts of juice, freeze cubes in an ice tray and store in resealable plastic bags.

Pomegranate juice gives flavor and color to a variety of preparations. It can be made into jelly or used in marinades, salad dressings, cake, homemade ice cream or sorbet. If you enjoy Chicken Dijon, freshen up flavors with pomegranates. Make a pomegranate margarita or pomegranate pink lemonade.

Homemade grenadine (pomegranate syrup) adds distinctive flavor and festive holiday color to drinks, fruit mixtures, sauces and desserts.

For a festive aperitif, add 1 or 2 tablespoons of homemade grenadine to sparkling wine. Drop a few fresh or frozen pomegranate seeds into each glass before serving.

Chubby baby bear breads fun to make and give

Few things express the spirit of the holiday season better than a homemade gift, and what better way to directly involve children in the gift-giving process than to help them bake a homemade treat? While baking something special for grandma and grandpa, a favorite teacher or scout leader, they'll also be creating long-remembered holiday traditions.

Baby Bear Breads with Honey butter are as fun to make as they are to receive and eat. It's a recipe the entire family can lend a hand with. Older children can measure the quick or old-fashioned oats and other ingredients and put them in the correct order into the bread machine.

If the bread is prepared by hand, younger bakers can help stir together the ingredients. Then everyone, no matter what their age, can help knead the dough and roll it into the balls used to create the adorable chubby bears.

One taste of these whole grain breads and you'll appreciate that this recipe makes four bears - three bears to give away and one to enjoy at home. After cooling, give each baby bear gift a festive ribbon "tie," and wrap individually in clear cellophane or plastic wrap. For an extra-special touch, present the bread on a cutting board with a spreader or small knife and a little crock of honey butter.

When time is limited, or your child has a lengthy list of special people, bake several batches of Maple-Nut Granola. Each takes just minutes to assemble, then requires just 30 minutes in the oven. Again, young and old can help measure ingredients and stir everything together.

People on your gift list will enjoy the granola as a breakfast cereal, a delicious, nutritious snack or sprinkled over frozen yogurt for dessert.

For gift giving, pour the granola into a clear glass container with a tight-fitting lid. Or spoon into cellophane bags that can be closed with a twist tie or ribbon. And don't forget, a copy of the recipe is a nice touch.

cripple you," said Lipshaw. "On the outside you wouldn't know anything was wrong. Every child has a challenge, they get fatigued more easily and have regulated activities."

Lipshaw envisioned a small cookbook, something like the one her subdivision put together, and set a goal of 200 cookbooks containing a minimum of 130 recipes. "We ended up with 340 recipes and printed 2,000 copies. One thing led to another. It really has been fun and rewarding for both us," said Lipshaw.

"We've gone from being distant friends to great friends who talk to each other every day," added Nicholls.

They began the project in August and started talking it up with friends, family members, doctors and social workers. "Everybody was interested in contributing recipes," said Lipshaw. "People contributed their favorite, treasured, family recipes."

To give people added incentive to buy the cookbook, the women asked popular metro Detroit area chefs including Chef Marcus Haight of the Lark restaurant, Executive Chef Randy Smith of Big Rock Chop and Brew House, and Chef Tim Cikra and Pastry Chef Andy McGrath of Morels, A Michigan Bistro, to contribute recipes. They also sold ads to local businesses to help pay printing costs.

"It's a great cookbook with great recipes from people in the community that everyone can make," said Lipshaw. "You're getting two things for the price of one — a collection of recipes everyone will cherish, and you're helping children with arthritis."

"Cookbook proceeds will go directly to Michigan children and their families," added Nicholls. "The money won't be for any adult projects."

Family tested

Although the recipes are not kitchen tested, Lipshaw and Nicholls carefully proofread each one to make sure they were complete. "A friend would never give you a bad recipe, especially when their name is on it," said Nicholls. "We have some dynamite recipes."

From soups, salads & sauces to cakes, cookies & desserts, "A Slice of Life" offers a variety of homey recipes sure to make your holidays bright, and enliven your weekday menus.

There are helpful cooking tips and recipes kids can make and learn from, such as Fishing with Pretzel Rods and Dirt Cups.

Concerts herald start of holiday season

If fighting the after Thanksgiving shopping crowds has left your holiday spirit as cold as "Frosty the Snowman," join the fun by singing along with local choirs and orchestras as they greet the season. You'll be surprised how fast the blues disappear when you're humming "Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer."

John Gajec and assistant conductor Dr. Joseph W. Lewis, Jr. of West Bloomfield lead the Redford Civic Symphony in playing excerpts from "The Nutcracker," traditional Christmas carols and a sing-a-long in the opening concert of its 43rd season Sunday, Dec. 6 at Thurston High School. Guest artists are vocalists Pat Mussin and Marilyn Churchill.

years and never tires of them. In fact, he can't decide which he enjoys more — conducting or playing cello with the orchestra. The group of 50 musicians began rehearsing "Sleigh Ride," "Silent Night" and the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah" in September.

"Conducting is the ultimate experience in performing the music the way I think it should be," said Gajec. "Being a conductor is a special sport. You're dealing with the music and the performers. But on the other hand as a musician, you're performing for the audience. The concert is when we give our best performance but rehearsals are when we perfect the craft."

The holiday season is a time for music and there's plenty of it around the area. Here's where sleigh bells will be jingling and people singing:

■ Oakland University's Department of Music, Theatre and Dance presents its popular show choir, The Meadow Brook Estate, in an International Holiday Spectacular 10 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 3, 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Dec. 4-5; 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 6 in Varner Recital Hall on the campus in Rochester. Tickets are $12 general, $10 seniors, and $6 students, call (248) 370-3013 or Ticketmaster (248) 645-6666.

Music from the 1930s to the present day and representing the countries of Mexico, Austria and Ireland, in addition to the U.S., will be featured in the program.

The show choir is accompanied by Robert Sanders of Southfield on piano, Dylan Dunbar on electric guitar, and Jeremy Grenier of Troy on bass. Synthesizer is played by Philip Metzler and drums by Mike Gerbino.

Ideas for holiday giving

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

STAFF WRITER

lochomin@oe.homecomm.net

Animation cels, Native American bear carvings, jewelry, and accessories for the home, are popular gift-giving items this holiday season.

When you give a gift of art, it's one-of-a-kind.

In addition to galleries and gift shops, non-profit art associations host a number of holiday shows. Among the largest are:

■ Birmingham Bloomfield Arts Center — The 17th annual Holiday Shop of ceramics, glass, jewelry, wood, fibers, ornaments, and prints runs Monday, Nov. 30 to Saturday, Dec. 12 at 1516 South Cranbrook (Evergreen) and 14 Mile Road, Birmingham. Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday to Thursday, until 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free. Preview Party 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 29, tickets $25; (248) 644-0866.

■ Detroit Artists Market — Holiday Sale, featuring 110 artists exhibiting jewelry, glass, ceramics, prints, photographs, paintings, furniture, and sculpture, continues to 1 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 24 at 300 River Place, Suite 1650, on Joseph Campau by the Detroit River. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday to Saturday, and until 8 p.m. Friday. (313) 393-1770.

■ Pewabic Pottery — Earthly Treasures offers tiles, vessels, jewelry, ornaments, and ceramic functional and sculptural ware by Pewabic and local artists as well as artists from across the country through Dec. 31 at the pottery, 10125 East Jefferson, four miles east of downtown Detroit. For collectors, Pewabic's released its fourth design of the woodland series along with a 6- by 6-inch reindeer tile. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Saturday, noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Christmas and New Years eves. (313) 822-0954. Pewabic is requesting donations of canned and dried food throughout the holidays for the Capuchin Soup Kitchen.

You can spend as little as $3 for an ornament or hundreds of dollars for a piece of children's story book art. For the hard-to-please on your list, a gift certificate makes it nearly impossible to go wrong.

If you're looking for hand-crafted decorations, Don Schneider's York Street Glassworks studio and gallery, 875 York St., west of Liberty, (734) 459-6419, offers a selection of round and spiral-shaped ornaments in clear and gold fumed glass. Best known for his bead making, Schneider sells a variety of individual beads, earrings, and necklaces at the Plymouth gallery. Vessels, paperweights, and gazing globes are lovely gift items for the home. An internationally-exhibiting glass artist, Schneider's work is currently featured along with 24 bead makers at the Glas Museum in Ebeltoft, Denmark. Schneider is also exhibiting his work in the Detroit Artists Market Holiday Show continuing through Thursday, Dec. 24.

the third annual Village Potters Guild Holiday Show and Sale Thursday-Saturday, Dec. 3-5 at 340 North Main, south of Mill St. (Lilley), behind the Plymouth Landing Restaurant, (734) 207-8807. Twenty members of the Guild will sell their platters, tiles, bowls, ornaments, jewelry as well as hand-built and raku decorative and functional wares. Prices range from $3 for an ornament to $150 for a ceramic art work. Hours are 6-9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 3, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Dec. 4-5. For a preview of the ceramic objects visit the Plymouth Library 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 29.

"With that many potters, it's going to be diverse," said Kathy Sandberg. "There'll be functional and decorative ware, raku, tiles, Christmas ornaments, jewelry, and vessels, anything from a small plate to a large serving piece, in neutrals, pastels and vibrant colors, black and white because every potter has their own trademark glaze."

Native art

Go Southwest with Natiya West gallery, 863 West Ann Arbor Trail, (734) 455-8838, in Plymouth. Nearly all art works are hand crafted by Native Americans. In addition to paintings, sculpture and jewelry, the gallery sells decorative accessories, flutes, tiles, music, books, and sandstone coasters engraved with petroglyphs. Metal candleholders from El Paso feature the sun or buffalo.

"Items for the home are selling very, very well," said Annette Horn, who owns the gallery with her husband Ken. "Bears are real popular whether it's fetishes or sculptures, and we now have Pendleton Bears made in Taos, New Mexico. The metal candleholders are great for the home because the sun means happiness to the Native American and the candlelight brings warmth to the home. The buffalo means abundance."

Ornaments ranging from a Navajo grandmother storyteller to a Santa painted on a chile pepper, spice up a traditional tree. Great little stocking suffers are dot earrings set with different stones. A peridot pair costs $9. Horn said these are popular with people who have more than one hole in their ear.

The best time to visit the Native West is during their annual Holiday Art & Jewelry Festival Thursday-Sunday, Dec. 3-6 when the Horns bring in trader Jonathon Cox with a trunk full of jewelry. Navajo silversmith Jerry Nelson will be available throughout the show to talk about his inlay necklaces, earrings, bracelets, and rings. Michael Atkinson's art continues on display through the end of December.

DANCE

Dancers trumpet arrival of 'Nutcracker'

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

STAFF WRITER

lochomin@oe.homecomm.net

Like Clara dreaming about the Nutcracker Prince and dancing in the "Kingdom of Sweets," Rose Marie Floyd's excitement grows with the approach of the holiday season performances of Tchaikovsky's classic ballet.

Floyd and her Contemporary Civic Ballet Company began performing "The Nutcracker" in 1956. Over the years, the company has presented the ballet, based on a fairy-tale by E.T.A. Hoffman, with a number of orchestras including the Livonia Symphony. The first "Nutcracker" delighted audiences in St. Petersburg, Russia in 1892.

This year, the Contemporary Civic Ballet will be joined by Christopher Stowell of the San Francisco Ballet who will dance the role of the Cavalier and Samantha Shelton, the Sugar Plum, 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 13 at the Scottish Rite Cathedral Auditorium in Masonic Temple, 600 Temple, Detroit. Tickets are $5. A second performance with Stowell, and Emily Hastings as the Sugar Plum takes place 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 19 at Troy High School. Tickets are $8, and available for both shows by calling (248) 641-9063 or (248) 646-7484.

"It gives my advance dancers a chance to perform," said Floyd. "Many have gone on to Broadway, the Joffrey and Houston Ballet."

Sweet dreams: Dawnell Dryja, a dancer with the Cincinnati Ballet, and Tim Smola of the Peter Sparling Dance Company perform the roles of the Sugar Plum Fairy and Nutcracker Prince with the Plymouth-Canton Ballet.

Local dancers from a number of companies in western Wayne and Oakland counties look forward to donning their costumes to twirl across the stage in the "Waltz of the Flowers."

Family affair

Hilari Smith played one of the mice in "The Nutcracker" when she was just three years old. Now age 13, Smith dances the role of Clara with the Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company. More than 150 musicians from the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra and the Plymouth-Canton Ballet come together to perform this classic with guest artists Dawnell Dryja and Cameron Caldwell from the Cincinnati Ballet Company 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 11 and 3 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Dec. 12-13 at the Plymouth-Salem High School Auditorium, 46181 Joy Road, Canton.

Dryja is the daughter of Dawn Green, artistic director of the company. Smith plays the young girl who receives the Nutcracker doll for Christmas from her eccentric uncle Herr Drosselmeyer. This is the eighth year the company joins with the symphony, under conductor Russell Reed, to present this timeless tale.

Tickets are $17 adults, $10 students K-12th grade, $5 Sugar

Plum Tea, and available by calling the symphony office at (734) 451-2112.

The Plymouth Canton Educational Park Madrigal Singers will also perform in "The Nutcracker." Timothy Smola, a member of the Peter Sparling Dance Company in Ann Arbor, dances the role of the Nutcracker Prince.

A special treat is the "Sugar Plum Fairy Tea" hosted by the Plymouth Symphony League following the Dec. 12-13 performances. During the tea, the audience is able to meet and talk with members of the ballet and orchestra.

Dryja, formerly of Canton Township, was Junior Miss Dance of America in 1992. She joined the Dayton Ballet for the 1994-95 season. In her third season with the Cincinnati Ballet, Dryja, after the Plymouth performances, returns to Ohio to dance in "The Nutcracker" there. Greene began her ballet training in Scotland, and eventually became a member of the Severo Ballet Company after coming to the U.S. A dance teacher for more than 25 years, Greene is past president of the executive board of the Cecchetti Council of America and a permanent examiner.

"We founded the company to give the children in the area an idea of how it would be to be in a semi-professional production instead of a recital, the long rehearsals, working a lot of time on pointe," said Greene.

Here are some other "Nutcracker" presentations that will be taking place in metro Detroit throughout the holiday season.

Lakes Area Civic Ballet
With guest artist James Toth of the Winnipeg Royal Ballet in Manitoba, Canada, Saturday, Dec. 12 (school group matinees Thursday-Friday, Dec. 10-11 ($5) at West Bloomfield High School, 4925 Orchard Lake Road. Tickets are $8.50-$10, and available by calling (248) 666-1971.

Michigan Classic Ballet Company

Based in Bloomfield Hills, the company performs the holiday classic 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 5 and 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 6 at Mercy Auditorium, 29300 West Eleven Mile Road, Farmington Hills. Tickets are $15 adults, $12 seniors/children. In a break from tradition, the company is inviting local Girl Scouts to a special 1 p.m. performance of the ballet and a "Behind the Curtain" backstage tour. The troops and leaders will learn about such technical aspects as how the scenes change, how the snow falls and lighting works. They will also meet and visit with the professional soloists. For more information, call (248) 334-6964.

Detroit Symphony Orchestra

With Ballet Internationale d'Ande Dec. 10-13 and Dec. 17-20 at the Detroit Opera House. Tickets range from $16 to $35 and are available by calling (313) 576-1111 or through the DSO Web site: www.detroitssymphony.com

"The Harlem Nutcracker"

The music includes Duke Ellington's arrangements of Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker" dances and compositions by Duke Ellington scholar and arranger David Berger. Tickets $12-$50, call (313) 874-SING or (734) 764-2538.

Father and son team tells how to retire comfortably

You're Retired, Now What? Money Skills for a Comfortable Retirement
By Ronald M. Yolles and Murray Yolles
(John Wiley & Sons, $14.95)
BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER
hgallagher@oe.homecomm.net

YOU'RE RETIRED, NOW WHAT?
Money Skills for a Comfortable Retirement

THE WITNESS PUBLISHING GROUP
SECURITY INVESTMENT ADVISORS
ESTATE PLANNING • INVESTMENT ADVISORS

You've been putting money in an IRA or a 401(k) at work and maybe you've got a pension plan to add to it and your Social Security. Maybe you've got a vague idea about retiring to Florida. Now what?

That's the question that "You're Retired, Now What?" tries to answer with some level-headed advice about investing and using your investments.

Ronald Yolles is a Birmingham attorney and financial analyst and his father Murray Yolles is a Bloomfield Hills tax attorney. They've combined their expertise to present a road map for recent retirees.

The book tries to alleviate some common fears. The writers warn against the twin evils of fear and greed. Fear keeps some people from investing in the stock market because they're afraid of downturns, despite overwhelming evidence that stocks do well over the long haul. Greed makes others rush into foolhardy investments that quickly deplete their resources.

The Yolleses provide common sense advice on what to do with take. They point out that equity funds historically outperform bonds, and money markets, but they also warn that equities still represent a risk and can result in losses.

The Yolleses recommend diversification in no-load mutual funds. They provide a chapter on how to assemble a portfolio of the "best no-load mutual funds." These funds provide a good return at a reduced risk. The Yolleses show how to balance investments and savings.

A chapter on withdrawal strategies provides a guide for how much to withdraw, how much to continue investing and how to delegate the investments.

This is a good book to settle down with just before you're ready to retire to help you understand all your options, be aware of the risks and give confidence that with proper information you can retire comfortably. It is also a good book for those in their late 40s and early 50s to help them prepare a solid base on which to build a retirement.

The Ronald and Murray Yolles will be signing their book 12:30-3:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 13, at the Temple Israel Book Fair, 5727 Walnut Lake Road, West Bloomfield and at the Birmingham Borders at Southfield and 13 Mile Road 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 19.

Meadow Brook is 'Picture Perfect'

(PR Newswire) - Oakland University's Meadow Brook Hall will delight guests of every age with "Picture Perfect Holidays," the 28th annual walk through one of America's largest and most spectacular historic houses aglow with priceless furnishings and holiday decorations.

More than 10,000 visitors will participate in Holiday Walk activities through Sunday, December 6.

Honorary chairs are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Way of Bloomfield Hills and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roettenberger of Troy.

"Picture Perfect Holidays" provides a warm and personal glimpse into the history of Meadow Brook Hall. Original Dodge and Wilson family photographs - many seen by visitors for the first time and showcased among opulent holiday settings throughout the house - capture highlights in the lives of this exceptional family. From formal posed portraits to vacation snapshots, the photographic collection and accompanying enlargements reveal an intimate sense of the people who lived here and the era in which they lived.

Elegant holiday decor throughout the 100-room mansion is created especially for this event by Panache Designs Ltd. of Atlanta. Fresh floral displays and dozens of twinkling trees further enhance the Hall's exquisite interiors.

Santa Claus will greet the young and young-at-heart in Knoke Cottage, the six-room playhouse built to 3/4 scale for heiress Frances Dodge. Designed and completely furnished in the manner of Meadow Brook Hall, Knoke Cottage is also decorated for the holidays and open for touring.

Very special gift shopping can also be part of "Picture Perfect Holidays." The Meadow Brook Hall Gift Shop, stocked with new and unique items, will be open all days of the Walk.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, with additional evening hours until 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Deck the Halls: The Wilson Study is just one of the many rooms featured in the Holiday Walk at Meadow Brook Hall.

Dec. 1, and Wednesday, Dec. 2. Knoke Cottage is open during daytime hours only.

Admission for the Holiday Walk is $12 for adults, $6 for children under 13, $6 for OU affiliates with I.D. and $9 per person for groups of 20 or more with advance reservations. Knoke Cottage admission is $1 for all ages.

Gala Dinner Evenings
Adding to "Picture Perfect" festivities are three gala dinner evenings (black-tie-preferred) Thursday-Saturday, Dec. 3-5. The glamorous celebrations recreate ambience of the many lavish occasions held in past years at Meadow Brook Hall when the family lived here. Gala Evenings begin at 6:30 p.m. with a cocktail reception and informal touring of the beautiful displays.

Superb candlelight dining at 8:30 p.m. is followed by an after-glow and supper-club-style dancing in the Ballroom. Music throughout the house is provided by Detroit Chamber Winds and Strings and includes a harpist in the Great Hall, a pianist in the Living Room, a trombone quartet on the Grand Staircase landing and a swing band in the Ballroom. These gloriously nostalgic parties are fund-raising events for preservation and interpretation of Meadow Brook Hall, and a portion of each ticket is a tax-deductible donation. Reservations are $175 per person for patrons, $250 for benefactors with seating reserved on a first-paid basis.

The annual Holiday Walk is a major fund-raising event for Meadow Brook Hall, and all proceeds are used for the preservation and interpretation of this architectural treasure. Community leaders, corporations and volunteers provide support through sponsorships, Holiday Walk Committee involvement, donations, volunteer service during the Walk, attendance and patron dinner reservations.

OAKLAND NATURALLY

JONATHAN SCHECHTER

Dark wings of the night

To go in the dark with a light is to know the light. To know the dark, go dark.

Go without sight and know that dark too blooms and sings, and is traveled by dark feet and dark wings.

— Wendell Berry

"Do not use your flashlight."

— Schechter.

"Does he know where he is going?"

— A participant, Owling 101.

Wendell Berry said it best. "Dark wings" — one of the many creatures of the West Bloomfield Woods Nature Preserve. Red-backed salamander. Great blue heron. Red fox. Least weasel. Cooper's Hawk. Turkey Vulture. Gray treefrog. Mastodon. All creatures of "the woods," a term of endearment from those that know this nature preserve. For me, it is the night walk, in search of dark wings, alias the owl, that gives the biggest thrill.

A few dozen folks joined me for a dark trek through "the woods," the first site in Michigan to be recognized nationally as an urban wildlife sanctuary. There are 162 acres of woodlands, wetlands, hills, dales and swales. And owls.

The contingent gathered at the edge of the preserve. Call it Owling 101. The battle plan for the hunt was clear. We walk — silently without light — to the top of the ridge. A place where the oak trees grow old and big. A place where massive limbs — torn free by storms — leave cavities in trunks. And it is the tree cavities that provide homes for secretive screech owls.

Hold your right fist on top of your left fist. That is bigger than the screech owl. Empty the feathers out of a small feather pillow. They weigh more than the owl. Owls fly on silent wings, edged with tiny fluffy feathers. Nature's mufflers. The talons are sharp. The owl is quick. Certain death for mice and meadow voles that trek the trails after dark.

Owls gulp their meals. After a half dozen hours of digestion the owl coughs out an oblong package of fur and bones — the owl pellet. And it was a cache of owl pellets a decade ago that first led me to that ridge within the nature preserve.

The bait for the owl was basic. Not a mouse, but a tape recording of a screech owl. Play the tape. Wait. Play the tape. Wait. Rub your cold nose. And if nature's way blends with my wish, an owl answers back. I suppose the owl's reply is a territorial response to the mechanized invader. That is what I have been told.

Location number one brought only the wind and silence in response.

Location number two brought only the wind and silence in response.

Location number three brought goose bumps down my spine. . . and a smile.

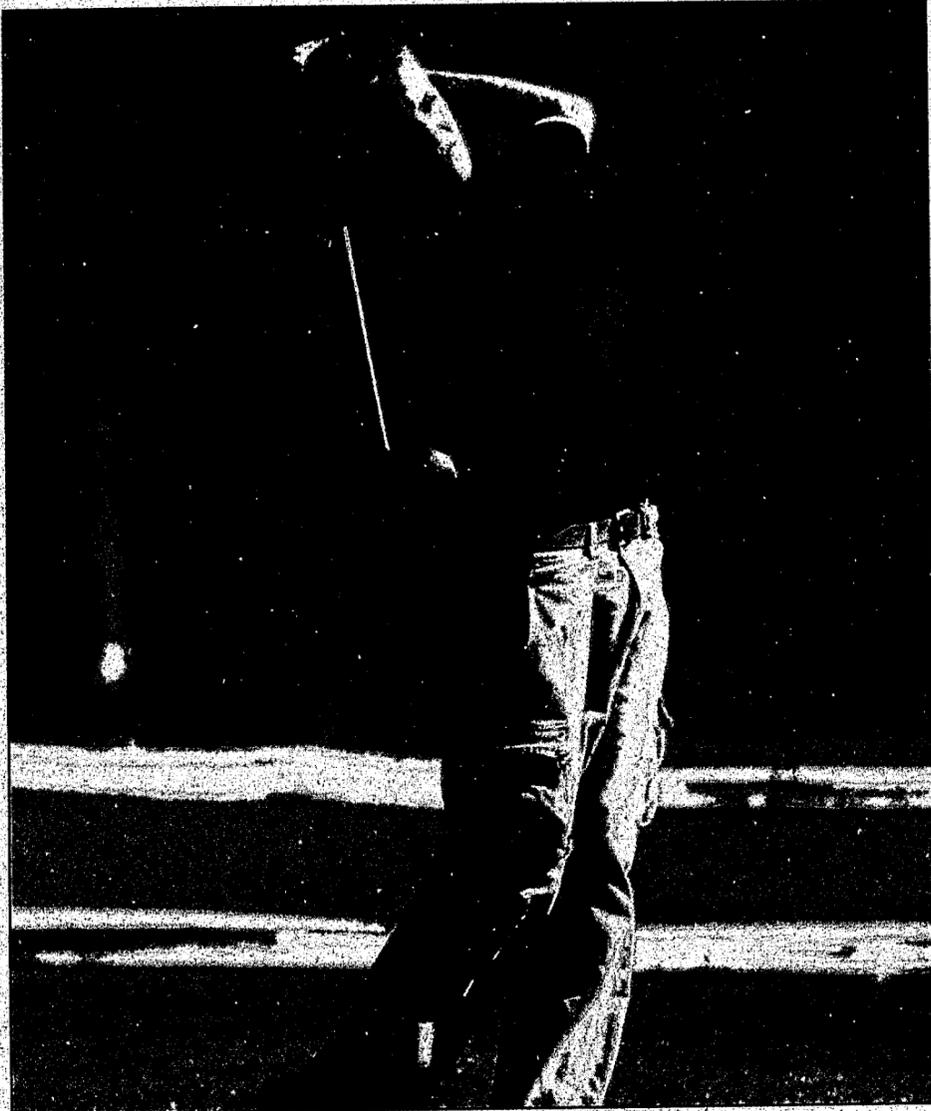

From over the ridge, not one owl, but a pair responded with their characteristic rising and falling whinny. The darkness sung. We had our owls. And we knew the darkness. And that is but one thing this writer does when wearing the hat of park's naturalist.

We are entering winter, the season of the owls. Throughout the county, great horned owls (those are the big guys that go whoop-whoop-whoop-whoop), and the more common screech owls that thrive in some suburban neighborhoods, sing to the darkness. And they sing to you as well. Take the time to listen.

Naturalists share a common bond. An understanding of the words of Wendell Berry. Like the owls, we know the darkness.

Oh yes, the mastodon. They were here too. Big woolly guys. They left

One of the best: Clarkston's Trae Moreen had a solid season for the Wolves, earning himself a spot as a second-team selection on the All-North Oakland Golf Team.

Teeing it up

Area golfers prove they're among best

■ The Oxford Wildcats went to state as a team, and Lake Orion and Clarkston also had the kind of memorable performances that landed them spots on the 1998 All-North Oakland golf squad.

The Oxford Wildcats qualified for the state meet as a team. Clarkston's Mark Churay was a state qualifier. The Lake Orion Dragons had a pair of all-league performers.

Such was the essence of the 1998 prep boys' golf season in this area, and the players who put such seasons together have earned a spot on the Eccentric All-North Oakland Golf Team.

Here's a look at the players:

First Team

■ Ben Ness, Clarkston, senior — The Wolves' captain averaged 40.2 for tournaments and dual meets, leading the Wolves in scoring average.

Ness medaled in three 18-hole tournaments: the Eccentric, the first Oakland Activities Association Division I meet, and the West Bloomfield Invitational. He had two even-par rounds: against Rochester Adams at Katke Couzens and against Rochester at Clarkston Creek.

"He had an exceptional season in the dual matches," Clarkston coach Tim Kaul said. "For most of the season, Ben was our steadiest, most consistent player. He was good as a leader, because he was steady, he encouraged the other kids to do well, and he encouraged them to keep their focus. He was the only senior, so it was important for him to play that role for us."

■ Tim Offer, Oxford, senior — The key to Offer's season, during which he averaged 39.8 for the Wildcats, was his ability to relax. The senior, a two-year captain, fired a 79 in the first Flint Metro League tournament, and managed his most consistent season.

Offer, who is headed to Michigan State University, had one bad round — a 52 against Lapeer East — in leading the Wildcats to the state meet for the second time in three years.

"This year he relaxed," Oxford coach Don Lovell said. "He knew we had four good golfers. He didn't have to shoot good numbers for us to succeed, but he did."

Lovell especially liked Offer's leadership qualities. "The kids knew what to expect of him," Lovell said. "He doesn't do the stand-up, visible things. He's more a behind-the-scenes leader. I really felt comfortable with him in that role."

■ Kevin Smith, Oxford, senior — Smith finished right behind his captain with a scoring average of 40.1, an improvement of about four shots.

"That's pretty dramatic improvement," Lovell said. "It's easy to improve when you're going from 52 to 48. When you're going from 43 to 39, like Smitty did, that's tough."

Smith's biggest improvement may have come in course management, learning where to put the ball and how to get it there. He also improved in one significant area: attitude.

"Smitty had an intensity this year," Lovell said. "You could tell in a quiet way, he was going to do what it took to get the job done. His improvement was a major factor in our performance."

■ Kevin Mattack, Oxford, senior — Mattack was the third of Oxford's Big Three, averaging 40.2 as the Wildcats kept a trio of golfers within half-a-shot of each other on their way to the state meet.

Always the team's biggest hitter, Mattack made his biggest improvement in temperament and course management. He let the bad shots roll off his back this season, and his game showed the improvement for it.

"He began to understand you can't let your temper get in the way," Lovell said. "I think he used to let the bad shots get to him. He's probably the longest hitter on the team, but I was really happy with the way his short game came around this year."

■ Eduardo Garcia, Lake Orion, senior — The Dragons' top golfer got off to a hot start, and overcame a mid-season slump to finish strong, garnering all-OAA II honors in his final season.

Garcia had seven tournaments with scores 82 or better, including the second round of the prestigious Traverse City tournament, where he followed a first-day 80 with a second-round 76 that tied him for second that day with some of the state's best players.

Garcia's biggest accomplishment may have been grabbing the attention of opposing coaches.

"All the other coaches recognized Eduardo as a good player," Lake Orion coach Gary Newcomb said. "They always asked about Eduardo, which I think is a nice compliment."

■ Andy Dewey, Lake Orion, senior — When the Dragon senior avoided the big number, he put together solid rounds in his last season. Dewey's best day came in the OAA II tournament, when he shot 79.

Dewey, who also earned all-OAA II honors, seemed always on the verge of putting together a really good score when one or two bad holes would catch up to him. Still, his coach lauded him for his effort.

"He was always struggling with one bad shot that added four or five shots to his score," Newcomb said. "He played hard all season. His stick-to-it-

College bound: Clarkston's John Drallos (left) will play baseball for Valparaiso University in Indiana after committing verbally to the Crusaders.

Wolves' Drallos commits to Valpo

John Drallos has peered into his future, and it now includes college. Drallos, a senior infielder for the Clarkston Wolves, has verbally committed to play baseball next year at Valparaiso University in Indiana. "Everything seemed to fit," Drallos said of his college choice. "When I visited out there, I just fell in love with the campus. Everything just seemed to fit." Drallos, the son of George and Linda Drallos, considered several other colleges, notably Indiana Tech and Oakland University. But the presence of an engineering program at Valpo drew Drallos' attention. "I've been accepted into their school of engineering, but I'm not sure what branch yet," Drallos said. Drallos, primarily a second baseman for the Wolves, figures to be a utility infielder for the Crusaders. He likes the idea. "I'll play anywhere they want," Drallos said. "That's what I've been doing as long as I've played."

iveness really helped. He showed good leadership.

Second Team

■ Mark Churay, Clarkston, junior — Churay, the Wolves' lone state qualifier, was also one of Clarkston's steadiest performers, averaging 40.9 over the course of the season, including the trip to state. Churay medaled in the first OAA tournament, the Eccentric tournament and at the regional.

He was an all-OAA golfer. "He's got a lot of potential," Kaul said of his junior. "He hits the ball a long way, and he's a very strong player. He just needs to be more consistent. I look for him to be a real leader on this team next year. He's had a taste now of what it's like to succeed, and I think he'll do what is necessary to make the improvement."

■ Trae Moreen, Clarkston, junior — Moreen medaled in just one tournament — the West Bloomfield Invitational — but showed the most improvement among the Wolves, shaving nearly two strokes off his score from the beginning of the season to the end. He averaged 40.7 for the season.

"He improved as the season went along," Kaul said. "When he can get his drives in the fairway, he's in pretty good shape, because he's a good iron player and he's a pretty good lag putter. His confidence got better as the season went along, because he became a steadier player."

■ Brandon O'Neill, Oxford, senior — O'Neill got off to a slow start, but by season's end had steadied himself. He shot 39 on the back nine at the season-ending Flint Metro League tournament, then followed a poor front nine with a 37 on the back at the regional.

"I was very impressed with the last half of his year," Lovell said. "I saw a lot of things I liked."

"His performances in the league meet and the regional showed he has the ability to hang in there and come back."

■ Mike Ruch, Oxford, senior — Ruch, who struggled with keeping his ball in play most of his Wildcat career, finally did that down the stretch this year, and it helped pay off for the Wildcats.

Ruch shot 86-83 at the state meet, and also shot well at the regional. "All four years he struggled keeping his ball in play," Lovell said. "The last half of this year he harnessed that. I was happy with how Mike finished."

■ Adam Hetherington, Lake Orion, freshman — Hetherington, who grabbed an all-OAA II nod in his first varsity season, showed as much promise as any young golfer his coach has seen.

As examples, Hetherington provided a 79 at the second league tournament and shot 82 at the regional.

"I can't think of another freshman who contributed more to his team than Adam did to our team," Newcomb said. "He was a solid player as a freshman."

■ Josh Attwell, Lake Orion, sophomore — Attwell was sort of the forgotten man in the Dragon rotation, the one who put together the consistently solid performances but just missed out on most of the honors.

He was an honorable mention choice for the all-OAA II team, and his best score came at the regional, when he shot 79.

"He was a little up and down," Newcomb said of Attwell. "He put so much pressure on himself to do well. He's just going to get better next year. He's going to be a great golfer for us."

Sonoma from previous page

The Sonoma is a great little truck that has some solid features to count on. It can easily transform from a work truck during the day to a chariot to take you better half out for the evening. Good choice.

Class: Compact pickup truck.
Power: Vortec 2200 4-cylinder engine.

We're doing a survey on the likability of celebrities in car endorsements. Write us at avanti1054@aol.com to tell us who you'd like to see endorse a car and why, and who you'd never, ever want to see doing a TV commercial for a car company

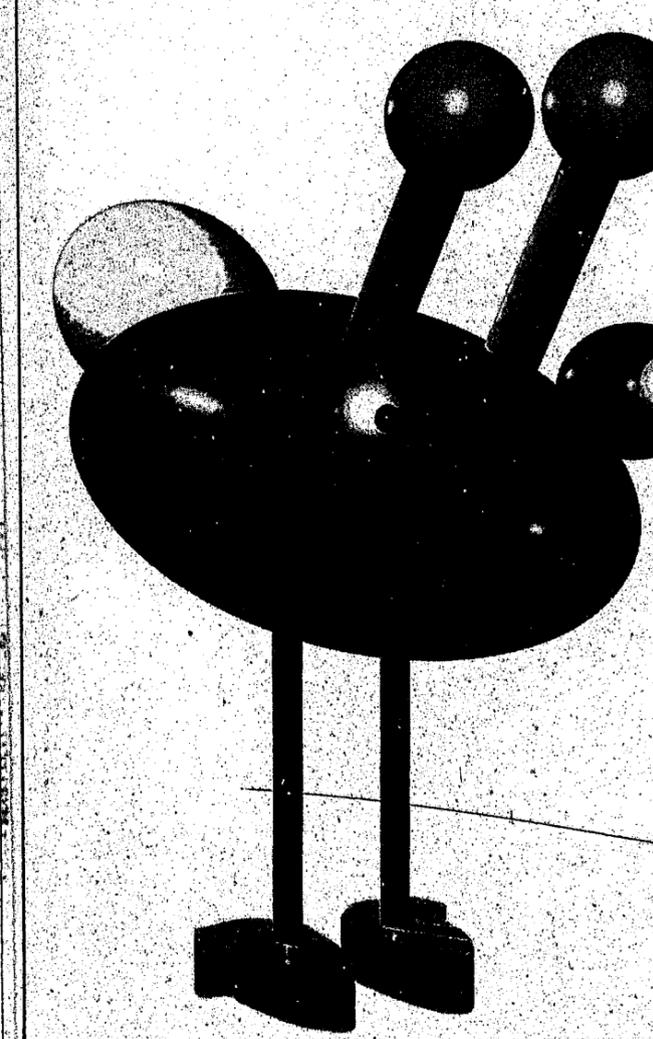

I got to thinking the other day after Penny Davis and I finished doing a car review on "Let's Talk Cars" just how much we spoil ourselves with options on our vehicles. It used to be that our choices were: radio, heater, whitewalls... no, I'm not from the stone age! After World War II that's the way cars and trucks came. Slowly it expanded... windshield washers, turn signals (Manual at first) that attached to the steering column. Power steering, oh was this an instant hit! Cars that weighed 4,000 to 5,000 pounds were like tanks, and when you tried to park one that's about what it felt like. Automatic transmission were also catching on along with power brakes. We were coming of age!

Today air conditioning is the norm and rare is the car without it. Believe it or not, air conditioning was actually around before World War II, yet strangely enough it took a long time to catch on. Try to think of how many late fifties cars have it. The sixties were the real kick-off, along about the time when we got bucket seats. The list goes on. Up until the mid 80s your option list could take up the whole front page of the buyer's agreement. Leather with power seats, power windows, door locks, am/fm stereo - no problem. It was not uncommon to have thousands of dollars in accessories. This still holds true today.
Manufacturers have now taken it one step further and have lumped together options into packages. These packages might include air, tinted glass, rear defroster, am/fm - cd and cassette audio system, tilt steering wheel, speed control and alloy wheels all as one option. The stickler here is that if it's in a package you can't delete it. No, you can't get it separately. Safety groups, convenience groups, lighting groups, you name it, the list seems endless.

What I find most interesting is that today no matter what price vehicle we drive, whether for true luxury or just as a means of transportation, people want them fully optioned. If someone buys or leases a Buick Regal for instance, they want to make it into a mini Park Avenue. To give you an example of how much we take for granted... have you ever taken your car in for service, gotten a loaner and realized that you needed a key to open the door... no keyless remote! Talk about an inconvenience. I don't mean to make light of this subject, but it is surprising how much we have come to expect of our automobiles. It's hard to imagine, here in the Midwest, that a heater would be an option. Southern and western dealers sold a lot of vehicles without heaters, their customers felt it newer got cold enough to need one. Now if we can only get El Nino to keep coming back... we just might not need these heated seats... till next week...

Send your automotive questions to "Let's Talk Cars" c/o Observer and Eccentric or directly to WYUR and Art will answer as many as possible.
Art Cervi of "Let's Talk Cars" can be heard each Saturday 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon on WYUR, AM 1310. 248-433-9987, ext. 356.

Sonoma's versatility makes it a real treat

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti News/Features

What a difference the extended cab makes on the 1999 GMC Sonoma. A fellow journalist had the two-door regular cab sitting in his driveway the same week I was driving the two-door extended cab with third door version.

Took a peak inside his Sonoma for reference and even got inside. Wow! It's teeny. Compared to the extended cab.

But if that's what you need in a small pickup truck, that's fine. The extended cab is much more comfortable and much more practical for hauling people or a couple of Christmas presents.

Lots of stuff had changed since the last model, too, and that's good. On the inside, you'll find a smaller airbag on the steering wheel and on the SLE model, you'll get a nicer dual sun visor.

The outside rearview mirror has been redesigned, giving you a much clearer view of what's in the lane next door. The mirror also has a heated feature this year.

Of course, there's a bunch of new colors to choose from, a content theft alarm is included with the keyless entry feature and there's a flash-to-pass offering on the turning stalk.

What I liked most about the Sonoma is the fact that it's so functional, versatile, smartly styled and has performance that can almost rival a full-size pickup truck.

Providing that performance level is the standard Vortec 2200 4-cylinder or optional Vortec 4300 V6 engines. The 2.2-liter 4-cylinder, mated to either a 5-speed manual or a 4-speed electronic automatic, will give you 120 horsepower. You'll be able to tow 2,000 pounds with this 2-wheel-drive model.

There are two distinct Vortec 4300s available. The first one will give you 175 horses in the 2-wheel-drive model and 180 horses with the 4-wheel-drive model. This engine, standard on the 4-wheel-drive and optional on the 2-wheel-drive, can tow up to 6,000 pounds.

The 1999 Sonoma is a great little truck that can easily transform from a work truck during the day to a chariot for the evening.

The second Vortec 4300, which is the 4.3-liter variety, will give you 180 horsepower with the 2-wheel drive and 190 horsepower with the 4-wheel drive. This engine is optional on most models. Both 4300s can be equipped with 5-speed manual or 4-speed automatic transmissions.

You've got a host of choices when sitting down to buy the Sonoma, which really appeals to a lot of people. You can get the 2-door regular cab, the 2-door extended cab, the 2-door extended cab with what they call rear access if it will be cool and call it the "third door," in the 6' or 7.3-foot bed and in a windside or sportside design.

Lots of applications, lots of options, depending on your specific need or lifestyle with the Sonoma.

If you choose the 4-wheel-drive model, you'll be pleased to find that Insta-Trac shift-on-the-fly is standard equipment. I can't wait until all automakers have shift-on-the-fly equipment. Just cleaner and more efficient that way.

I have to tell you, this is really smart styling on this truck. GMC has really awakened the past few years and I have to believe it's the merger with Pontiac that did it. The styling is crisp, sporty and downright beautiful in some models.

Can I call a truck beautiful? Not if I want a reader to punch me in the mouth. But from my perspective, the styling of the Sonoma is beautiful.

The front of the Sonoma is clean and crisp. The headlights are positioned just perfectly for the sporty look. It can look a little mean, staring you down, but it's really smart-looking. Everything flows around the front fascia from the fog and parking lamps to the headlights and distinctive GMC-logo front grille in its in one fluid motion.

Instrumentation is simple and easy to use, with all controls and gauges in easy reach. There are neat little features that make a difference when choosing a new truck and they include assist grips and two power points mounted just below the ash tray. That's a real nice feature.

Of course, there's an air bag shut-off switch that's operated by the key. No real switch here, but you insert your ignition key and turn it off. Remember to do so when putting anyone under 12 in the front seat.

I'm not necessarily fond of it, but the automatic models have the shifter on the steering column. I would rather see it on the floor, but GMC engineers say they had to allow room in the center consoles for a remote cassette play with dual playback. The console also has a combo CD/cassette storage compartment, a spring-loaded coin release, dual-bin storage under the armrest and adjustable cupholders to accommodate a variety of containers.

Another feature that I hope is incorporated into many new cars and trucks is the lap-belt-to-seat design that allows the belts to travel in tandem with the seat. That way smaller and larger people will have a comfortable seat belt.

GMC also put its new-fangled Truck Body Computer on board the Sonoma.

What's that, you ask? Well, this standard feature controls a bunch of electrical systems like the PassLock theft-deterrent system, remote panic alarm (I've never had to use it for a panic situation; I use it to find the car in a crowded lot), battery rundown protection, accessory power, lockout protection, remote door lock and unlock, automatic headlamp control, exit lighting and the annoying turn signal reminder.

Oh, I almost forgot a 4-wheel anti-lock brakes are standard. And daytime running lights.

Gotta mention the nice ride and handling characteristics on the Sonoma. It's got three unique suspension systems, depending on the model you choose.

For example, the 2-wheel-drive Sonoma buyer can choose from the Smooth Ride suspension (great for any application), the firmer Heavy-Duty suspension (for the work truck and extended cab versions) or the Z88 Sport suspension.

The Sport suspension gives you great handling and a very firm ride. I actually liked it; you'll feel planted firmly to the road and have a bit of fun in the process.

The 4-wheel-drive models have three choices in suspension: Smooth Ride, Heavy-Duty and a HighRider package. That gives you an aggressive high stance, unique wheel flares and provides optimum ride control and off-road capabilities. Good choice if you want to have some real fun.

GEORGE HAYES

JOB SEARCH
Q. While I have been seeing more help wanted ads in newspapers, I haven't seen more that fit me! Also, I'm not getting good results when I do send out resumes. Should I even be responding to ads?

A. Responding to help wanted ads is a basic and important part of any well-balanced job search. Sometimes, just a little fine-tuning in your technique can result in a significantly greater response. Let's review some fundamentals:

- Don't be too selective. Candidates who are new on the market often take ads literally and are too quick to screen out opportunities that could actually be worthwhile. If an ad calls for nine years of related experience and you've only got eight, send a resume anyway. If the stated salary is slightly less than your target, send a resume anyway. If you are turned off by an ad's appearance or by language that smacks of sales hype, send a resume anyway. Don't try to read between the lines. If you meet half the criteria, invest the thirty-two cents.

- Crank up the volume. We occasionally run into job seekers who seem to think that sending out four or five resumes a week is a lot. It isn't. The more lines you put in the water, the more likely you are to get a bite. Sure, you might end up throwing some fish back. But isn't it better to review and reject some opportunities than to keep pounding away with no results at all? The more decisions you can take away from the market, the more control you have.

- Chase your paper. You certainly don't have to follow up every piece of correspondence with a telephone call. In fact, calling Personnel Departments to ask "Did you get my resume?" will only result in frustration. However, when it is possible to get the name of the department head or functional manager in charge of hiring for the position (the person who is feeling the Pain), a well-timed chat can lead to an invitation to interview. Even a well-worded voice mail message can be effective.

- Sell to the need. Ads usually spell out what a company wants, but most job seekers send resumes and cover letters that are standardized and employ the most generic terms possible. Some people try to include every business-related word they can think of, just hoping to hit the right combination. This isn't the lotto. Why not read the ad a few times, define the needs, reflect a bit on how you can meet them, then tweak your cover letter or resume a little to show that you are the living solution? We still get resumes on which the Objective (To become a veterinary professional) has nothing to do with the job (Production Supervisor). That's barking up the wrong tree.

Most outplacement consultants insist that only ten to twelve percent of all applicants get jobs through employment advertising. Among office, clerical and management employees who are conducting selective, pro-active searches, I believe the numbers are much higher.

Q. Many employers haven't called or written me back after an interview and some have given vague or mixed answers to my follow-ups. Maybe I'm just not recognizing 'no' when I hear it.

A. Even seasoned interviewers don't like telling candidates they didn't get the job. I personally have trouble with it when I'm dealing with young people, even though I know it is one of life's lessons. Certainly, not being forthright about bad news isn't doing anyone a favor.

Unfortunately, silence is frequently the way employers tell candidates they are not in the running. The hope apparently, is that a person will uncover another opportunity or simply realize that too much time has passed and fade away. Of course, it isn't correct to conclude that silence means rejection in every case. Sometimes, unexpected business developments knock recruiting down a notch or two on the list of priorities and the employment dance might resume once other matters have been addressed. But when your calls haven't been returned over a period of more than three weeks, it's a good bet that there will not be a deal.

Listen for signals toward the end of the interview or in follow-up conversations. Some interviewers will indicate that other candidates are being considered for the position (the recruiter told you that they haven't talked with anyone yet). Then there is the HR Manager's statement that a decision won't be made until the year 2003. It might be a clue. I occasionally tell people that "it is always prudent to keep looking" in an effort to prepare them. In fact, you should never stop looking. Even when things are looking great and nuptials seem imminent, don't abandon your search. A million things can go wrong between the initial interview and your first day on the job. Whether you are hearing yes, no, maybe, later, soon, or nothing at all, continue to focus on initiating activities. In a job search, nothing is a sure thing.

DUMB THINGS TO DO THIS WEEK:

- Focus on holiday shopping at the expense of your job campaign. Be sure to get those mittens off to Uncle Walter and put off sending resumes until next week.
- Pound egg nog at the office party the night before your big interview.
- Expand your resume: Make it the size of the yellow pages.
- Launch into an animated diatribe about Bill and Monica with a recruiter you just met.
- Show up twenty minutes late for an interview, but don't mention it or apologize. No one will notice.

Some Holiday Gift Suggestions

CAREER MOVES

The holidays are fast approaching. Shoppers are frantically searching for that special gift for friends and family. How about giving gifts that keep on giving long after the holidays are over? Gifts of knowledge, motivation and self-improvement. Gifts they'll thank you for many times. Here are some suggestions.

For those folks you know who can't stand the thought of a woulda-coulda-shoulda worklife here's John Lucht's "Rites of Passage at $100,000+" (Viceroy Press, $29.95). Don't let the $100,000+ scare you; this is the definitive book on career management and job change regardless of collar color. Lucht's advice is for anyone who wants to get ahead and stay ahead. He believes that each of us needs a career plan to make sure we get what we want from our careers. Labor gurus say that the average person will change jobs at least seven times during their career. They also say that most people are unprepared for those changes because most are initiated by employer actions like mergers, acquisitions and downsizings. Read Lucht's book and you'll be prepared to take your next steps. Down the career path, when people ask you how you achieved so much you can respond: I Lucht out.

Under the heading "The more things change, the more they remain the same" are two books written in the 1930's. They are gems and have a special place on my bookshelf. Waty Piper's "The Little Engine That Could" can be found in the kid's section of any bookstore. Prices range from $4.95 to $19.95 for the "executive" pop-up version. But make no mistake, Piper's book isn't kid's stuff. Its "I Think I Can" message of inspiration and perspiration is a lesson adults must learn and apply every day if they want to achieve. "Think and Grow Rich" by Napoleon Hill (various publishers; $7.95 to $20) reveals thirty-three secrets of personal success based on interviews with the giants of American industry like Andrew Carnegie, Henry Ford, King Gillette, John D. Rockefeller and F.W. Woolworth. One key is a written plan that you read aloud each day to focus yourself on what must be done that day to bring you a bit closer to your goals. Keep yours in your daily planner and read it before you leave for work; think about your plan for the upcoming day on your drive to work. Another key is to surround yourself with positive people who cheer you on, advise you and provide honest, constructive feedback. Turning Hill's thirty-three secrets into a rewarding life experience takes hard work and commitment.

For the clutter bug and pack rat in your life, there's "Organizing for the Creative Person" by Dorothy Lehmkuhl and Dolores Cotter Lamping (Crown Trade Paperbacks, $14). The co-authors explain that being disorganized doesn't mean you're unorganized. One of their makes-all-the-sense-in-the-world suggestions is "Divide your work into your time." By breaking down ones work into pieces, the overall time to complete the task doesn't seem so overwhelming. You'll generally find that this organized approach lets you complete the whole task in far less time than you thought initially. Another suggestion is: "Do worst things first." By getting the things one doesn't like to do out of the way first, they won't grow gigantic proportion. Let's apply these two suggestions to the situation of a salesperson who dislikes cold-calling, but has to make twenty cold calls at the beginning of each day is far more manageable and far less painful than making twenty in one day. The quality of the calls will improve and so will the salesperson's productivity.

In the magazine department, $19.75 gives ten issues of "Fast Company" each year; call 1-800-688-1545 anytime. The magazine's sections speak for themselves-Benchmark, Short Course, Fast Companies, In The Loop, Report From the Future, Network.

Mortgage experts say homeowners should consider refinancing now

By BILL BROCATO
SPECIAL WRITER

(AP) — Homeowners should take advantage of low lending rates to refinance their mortgages, and potential buyers also should act quickly instead of waiting for interest rates to fall further, say lenders and housing industry experts.

Mortgage refinancing has become a significant market — capturing about half of the $1.5 trillion in home loans expected in 1998. But consumers should understand that not all refinancing deals are created equal.

"The key is whether refinancing for a lower monthly payment means real savings over the long term," said Frank Demarais, vice president of product marketing for Fannie Mae in Washington, D.C. "Homeowners with adjustable rate mortgages may want to look at locking in at a fixed rate now."

Fannie Mae is the commonly used nickname for the Federal National Mortgage Association, a government-chartered organization that provides money for home mortgages by buying mortgages primarily from the Federal Housing Administration.

Mortgage rates have fallen from an average of 7.6 percent in 1997 to 7.2 percent or less in 1998. Rates were as high as 10.32 in 1991. The Federal Reserve on Tuesday again cut short-term interest rates, which potentially could mean even lower mortgage rates.

"There's optimism in the market that the lowering of the federal funds rate will allow mortgage rates to continue to ease," said John Desmond, chief executive of First Mississippi Capital Corp. in Gulfport, Miss.

Demarais said some homeowners with an adjustable rate will wait too long before refinancing.

"Historically," he said, "consumers wait for the bottom and miss their window of opportunity. Now is certainly a good time to refinance."

How long before rates start rising again is a tough prediction, said Tim Ryan, an economist and dean of business administration at the University of New Orleans. Right now, he said, consumers are benefiting from low inflation and even lower expectations in coming years.

Ryan predicts slightly lower mortgage rates in 1999 but said rates could climb past 7.4 percent by the year 2000.

His advice: Don't wait for the rate to drop further before refinancing.

However, refinancing a mortgage should give homeowners more than just a lower monthly payment. Some lenders may treat a refinanced loan like a new loan, requiring homeowners to have their property reappraised and pay title search fees and other closing costs.

For example, if total closing costs are $3,000 to $4,000, a person may be better off putting that money in other investments such as government bonds that provide better long-term returns.

"It's probably not worth it to refinance based on a quarter-point drop in mortgage rates," Ryan said. "Costs of refinancing can be fairly substantial. It can be like buying a new property all over again."

Suzie Manuel, vice president of Coast Community Bank, said Coast Community charges $58 for a credit report, and all other closing costs are added to the refinanced mortgage. She said the bank does not ask for a new property survey or termite inspection report.

Sunny Satchfield, executive vice president and branch manager of T&N Mortgage Inc. in Gulfport, said a good rule of thumb is to look for a rate that is 2 percentage points below the present rate. She believes the Coast's heated real estate market has attracted a lot of lending competition, giving borrowers an edge not found in other regions of the country. "In today's market, we have lenders paying closing costs on loans," she said. "Some are not charging other fees that add costs to refinancing."

With interest rates so low, consumers with less-than-perfect credit ratings also are benefiting, Satchfield said.

sharp utility knife guided by a straightedge. In spite of this we did break away some of the surface. What's the best way to fix this?

A: To fix the splintered area of the veneer, you'll need to first lift the broken wood away from the door with a putty knife, and then apply glue to resecure the veneer.

Use a small tube of white carpenter's glue or buy a glue injector with a needle applicator at a wall-covering store. The needle applicator will let you reach well under the veneer without damaging any delicate slivers of wood. After applying the glue, clamp the area until the glue dries. Use a strip of wood as a clamping pad to distribute the pressure evenly, and cover the veneer with a piece of scrap plastic sheeting to prevent the wood strip from becoming glued to the door.

When the glue has dried, remove the clamp and apply a coat of latex wood patcher. The latex patcher shrinks a bit when it dries so you may need to repeat this process once or twice to achieve a level surface. Avoid spreading the patcher beyond the repaired area. When the latex patcher is dry, sand with fine sandpaper. Use a sanding block to ensure that the surface stays flat. Check the job for smoothness by gently sliding your hand across the surface.

If the door was originally stained and varnished, buy a stain that matches the original color. If you have a scrap piece of the veneer, bring it to the store to help make an accurate color match. Apply the stain and wipe it with a soft cloth to blend it with the existing finish. After the stain has dried, apply a finish coat of varnish to the area.

Idea home built for magazine open for tours

Idea home: Visitors may tour this New Heartland Classic house in Milford, built by a Farmington Hills builder for Midwest Living Magazine.

James D. Compè Inc. of Farmington Hills has built the Midwest Living Magazine 1998 Idea Home at Hickory Valley Estates in Milford.

The idea home highlights what the magazine considers to be most popular Midwest amenities for the '90s family. The 6,700-square-foot house is a blend of the past and present, casual and elegant.

Visitors may tour 2-8 p.m. weekdays, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekends, closed Thanksgiving Day. Tickets are $7 for adults, $3 for children 6-12.

To get to Hickory Valley Estates, take exit 155 B from I-96 and go north on Milford Road. Turn left (west) onto General Motors Road, and left (south) again onto Hickory Ridge Road.

Stay on Hickory Ridge instead of following the paved curve. About a quarter mile south on gravel is Crestwood Road, the entrance to Hickory Valley Estates.

Tours are available through Thursday, Dec. 17.

Proceeds will benefit the Lighthouse Community Development, a subsidiary of Lighthouse of Oakland County, a social services agency.

With its steep-pitched roof lines and gables for visual impact, along with a large wrap-around porch, the New Heartland Classic feels welcoming upon arrival.

Neo-classical details, such as capped columns, generous moldings, brackets, dentils and bay windows, add simplicity and grace.

The dramatic front staircase provides a focal point linking all three levels of the house. The structure features more than 100 Andersen windows.

The kitchen is a gathering place for family and friends, a place to entertain and enjoy. The adjoining hearth room, sunroom and dining room all radiate from the kitchen's central location.

Spacious kitchen provides lots of work space

Painted columns support the Marion's lavishly windowed front porch, creating an overall impression of warmth and understated refinement. Shutters and a plant shelf add to the charm.

This large two-story home with side-opening garage is designed to fit on a narrow corner lot, but the garage could just as easily open to the front.

Entering, you step into a two-story foyer, brightened by a gabled dormer and two skylights. Plants thrive on the high shelves near the front door.

In the living room, high windows on both sides of the fireplace cap built-in shelves, useful for displaying photos, objets d'art, books, you name it.

Kitchen, eating nook and family room are all of a piece, one function flowing naturally into another. This large area is richly glassed at the rear. The French or atrium door opens onto a breezeway and covered patio supported by more columns.

A work island with built-in range and overhead pot rack is at the center of the spacious kitchen. Counters wrap around three sides. Other features include a large appliance center, walk-in pantry, prep sink, and built-in desk with storage shelves. The dining room and a large utility room are right across the hall.

Amenities in the well-appointed master suite include two large walk-in closets; double vanity, private toilet, custom walk-in shower, and deep soaking tub.

On the Marion's upper level, skylights brighten a library that overlooks the entry. Dormer windows add charm to identical bedrooms. The two large unfinished attic spaces could be left as storage, become more bedrooms, or be put to other uses.

Thomas Ervin Let's Talk About Real Estate

"IMPROVEMENTS WORTH MAKING"

If you have decided to stay in your present home, and are going to make improvements, there are some facts you should consider...

Improvements that compliment the existing design of your home can be worthwhile. If, however, you attempt to add a bedroom that can only be accessed by going through another bedroom...

Improvements must be appropriate to the neighborhood. If, as an example, the house is located in an example, the house is located in an area of homes in the $100,000 price range...

Improvements that increase resale value are those that are visible. If the wiring or plumbing have been updated to meet current city code requirements...

Additional bathrooms can be a good investment if they are located appropriately to the floor plan of the house.

ADVISE: Because money spent on improvements may or may not be a good investment, you may want to consider selling this home and purchasing one that has the features and the location that can justify the amount of money invested.

Tips to help create healthier household environment

(NAPS) - Is your home due for a health checkup?
 According to recent studies by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), indoor air pollution may be two to five times higher - and occasionally more than 100 times higher - than outdoor levels. Given that most Americans spend about 90 percent of their time indoors during the fall and winter months, it's no surprise the EPA identifies indoor air quality as one of the five most urgent environmental problems facing the United States.

 Fortunately, there are ways to reduce indoor pollutants and improve the quality of life for everyone, including the 40 million Americans who suffer from allergies and asthma. Here are some tips from the American Lung Association Health House Project to help you and your loved ones breathe easier:

 ■ Don't permit recycling items such as newspapers, rags, cans and bottles to accumulate in your living space. These products can be the sources of toxic vapors, unpleasant odors and bacteria. Store these items in a covered area in your garage or outdoors and recycle them frequently.
 ■ If you have pets, bathe and groom them often and minimize their access to carpeted areas.

 ■ Never store more than a few pieces of firewood indoors. Drying firewood inside your home can create a large number of mold spores that can contaminate your entire house.
 ■ Check flues and chimneys for blockage and cracks that allow fumes to enter the home. Smoke particles and soot can be back-drafted from a fireplace into living space if a fireplace is not properly vented.

 ■ Furnaces and all other fuel-burning appliances should be checked once a year by a professional to be sure that air intake is adequate and the exhaust system is operating properly.
 ■ Use a high-efficiency filter in your air conditioner or furnace and replace it every three months. Specialized filters cost more and do more.
 3M and the American Lung

Association Health House Project are offering a free booklet filled with more ways to breathe easier at home. Send a postcard or letter with your name and mailing address to: Guide For Creating Healthier Homes, c/o Filtrete Filters, 2982 N. Cleveland Ave., Roseville, MN 55113.
 Or send an e-mail request with your name and mailing address to: 3mfiltrete@3mservice.mon-tagenet.com

Some attention now makes for easy selling later

At the mention of "home improvement," your thoughts may turn to saw horses, contractors, cost overruns and a thick layer of dust covering every square inch of your house.
 According to Ed Hatch, president of the Residential Sales Council, making modest but visually effective improvements can benefit homeowners while they occupy the residence and later when they decide to sell. These projects may increase the value of the home or shorten the time it stays on the market.
 Hatch recommends home owners include these beneficial home improvements to increase the value of their home and make it more appealing to potential buyers:

 1. Hire a cleaning crew: Enlisting a professional cleaning crew for a top-to-bottom cleaning can reveal that certain items, such as the family room carpet, do not have to be replaced.
 2. Replace wall and floor coverings: Homes take on a whole new look if peeled paint, wallpaper and stained floor coverings are replaced. Choose neutral shades; color can be added with fabric, paintings and other accessories.

Remember - potential buyers may not share your love for lilac.
 3. Resurface kitchen cabinets: If the kitchen and bathroom cabinets are in good condition, it is considerably less expensive to resurface than to replace them outright.
 4. Landscape and exteriors: Make sure your yard complements the neighbors' yards. Repair cracked driveways and install new door handles and address numbers. These will make your house look more attractive from the outside.

5. Invest in new windows: Although the cost is significant, there are two reasons to consider installing new windows: 1) They average 69 percent return on investment, and 2) energy efficient triple-paned glass windows can lower monthly utility bills by 20-40 percent.
 You will be amazed at how much a little routine maintenance can improve the look and salability of your home, especially if projects are completed without breaking the bank and covering your house in dust.
