CLARKSTON

Many of the counties throughout Michigan have names that sound as if they were taken directly from Native American words. Though some of them actually were, others were simply made to sound that way.

Around 1840, an author and Indian agent named Henry Rowe Schoolcraft (who does, indeed, have a county named for him), gave names to nine counties throughout the state. He designed the names to sound as if they had been taken from Native American words, but in reality they were just combinations of words and syllables from Native American, Arabian and Latin languages. The names he made up reflected some natural feature of the county he was naming.

For example, Schoolcraft took the Latin word "arena" (sandy) and combined it with the Native American "ac" (earth) and came up with Arenac, meaning "sandy place." Alcona County was also believed to have been derived in this manner: All the words were from the Arabic, "al" (the), "co" (the root word for plain), and "na" (excellent). And Alpena is thought to be from the Arabic and Native American "al" (the) and "pinai" for partridge, or bird.

However, the majority of Michigan county names were actually taken from Native American words. Of Michigan's 83 counties, 32 were taken from Native American words, 29 were named for people (mostly politicians), 16 were named for natural features such as rivers which already had names, and six were given names to reflect geographic features (i.e. Hillsdale).

Knights' site gets office zoning

Time ran out for the Knights of Columbus' plea that Independence Township not rezone its property on Maybee Road. The township board had tabled the proposed rezoning at two prior meetings, but approved the change Tuesday.

Residents near the area of Maybee and Sashabaw roads won't have to face construction of a shopping center along Maybee anytime soon.

The Independence Township Board of Trustees unanimously approved changing the last remaining Planned Shopping Center (C-2) property on the north side of Maybee Road just east of Sashabaw Road to OS-2 (Office Service) at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The property in question is five acres at 5660 Maybee Road owned by Knights of Columbus, Council 5436. The non-profit organization has its meeting hall at that site.

The board made the decision after K of C's representative David Donnellson discussed plans for a shopping center concept on the property.

"The Knights will just sit and wait and continue to operate as it has over the years," said Donnellson after the decision. "We don't have a purchase agreement on the property right now."

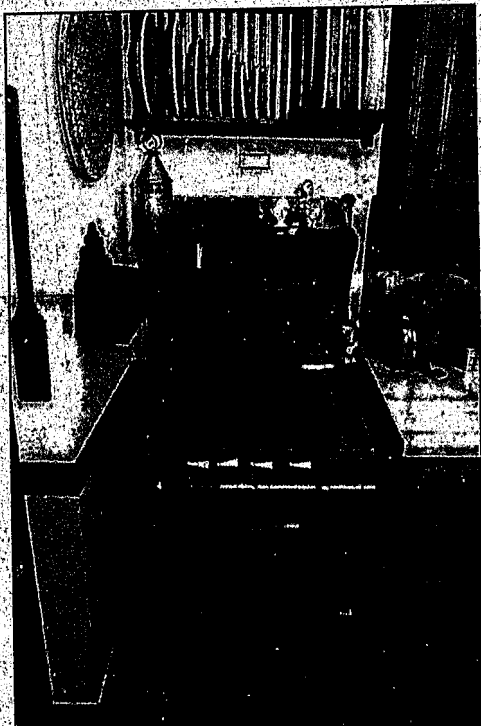

Donnellson is with the architecture and planning firm, Donnellson Swarthout Associates Inc. in Troy.

Trustee Larry Rosso told the Knights it can redress the issue with a site plan proposal or a variance down the road, but right now he couldn't support leav-

Saltbox home recreates New England flair

A carved stone placed outside a front entrance of Fred Klein and Janet Falcon's Independence Township home speaks volumes about the couple and their unusual dwelling.

It reads "simply put."

The couple designed their New England-style saltbox home more than four years ago.

"I want to live with the past, but not in it," said Falcon.

The 5,000-square-foot abode boasts four levels and is surrounded by lush gardens and a spacious, forested lot. A wooden friendship bridge crossing a rock-laden creek bed shows visitors the way to the main entrance, which lies just beyond an iron gate.

When the house was built in 1995, the couple moved from their Rochester Hills home, on what they called "tudor row," into a more secluded neighborhood. Theirs was

Piano tuners strike right key

By SUSAN B. TAUBER

stauber@oe.hometown.net

There are enough pianos in the Clarkston area to keep piano tuners in business for years to come.

"Look at all the subdivisions that are here now," said piano tuner Robert (Bob) Wiegand. "Think about the number of pianos on every street. It's a paradise for piano tuners out here."

Wiegand ought to know. A Clarkston resident, he's been a piano tuner since the early 1960s and was a tuner prior to 1942. In fact, he was a full-fledged piano tuner when he was only 18 years old.

Another professional piano tuner in the community is Jeff Bargeon. He's been working at the profession since his college days at Wayne State University in Detroit, where he was a composition major and studied piano.

"I had to learn how a piano works for composition, so it made sense to go on to learn piano tuning," he said.

He honed his craft at the Detroit School for Piano Technicians. Wiegand learned his skills from his father and grandfather. There are other tuners in Wiegand's family today, including his brother, Jerry, and second son, Dana.

"I had the genes in me," Wiegand professed. "There are born piano tuners just like born musicians. It's such an exact art. Just because the only house on the street at the time. Now that secluded street is peppered with large homes on acre lots. Though the saltbox blends into its natural surroundings, it's easy to find due to its unusual shape; saltboxes are known for their steep-slanting roofs. Under this particular roof, the owners have recreated a feeling of colonial simplicity and style.

Janet Falcon said it's that sense of simplicity that she enjoys most about her home.

"It's back to reality, what life is really about," she said.

Both Falcon and Klein are now retired. Their only son, Bruce Falcon, a 30-year-old financial planner, stays with them when he's visiting from Bay City. Janet Falcon said her son has played a part in developing the home's character too. He clues her in when he finds interesting objects or antique shops that suit her style.

Falcon said her husband is easy-going about her decorating abilities.

"He says 'Whatever makes you happy,'" she explained.

Klein actually designed the home.

"Janet had a lot of pictures and we kind of collaborated," he said. "It's a basic saltbox. We reworked it to fit the furniture and all her antiques. We built the house based on the furniture."

Though an unorthodox concept, that meant placing windows and walls to suit their furniture placement. Klein called it "reverse design."

"It came out well," he said.

They chose the location because it allowed them to be near Interstate-75, and between Detroit and Flint. The lot they chose was very private, shielding them from neighbors in the backyard.

What do friends say?

According to Klein, they comment on how long it must take to clean.

Sue Lestan, a Troy resident and longtime friend, said she finds the home to be nothing less than fabulous.

"It gives you such a good feeling to go through it," said Lestan. "It takes you back a few years."

She said upon first entering the home, she was impressed with how well the home matched the period Falcon wanted to recreate — the 1800s.

"She really did a lot of research," said Lestan. "I find it very relaxing."

Falcon said she's not sure where her passion for collecting antiques and period pieces came from. Her mother was not interested in them at all.

"They're warm," Falcon said of the antiques. "This is like they're giving me a big hug. I feel relaxed."

That feeling transfers to anyone who enters the warm, friendly home. Falcon remembered the comments they received when they first moved to the area.

"Delivery people didn't believe it was just being built," she said. "People would come in and say they had never seen anything like it."

As out-of-the-ordinary as the home may seem in modern-day Clarkston, Falcon prides herself in knowing she uses everything she has acquired.

"We actually do live here," she said. "I want to be able to use what I have."

From the old apple ladder that sits in one corner of the "keeping" room — draped with knobby hanging candles — to the living room corner adorned with a colorful stack of pantry boxes — decreasing in size as they reach for the high ceilings — everything has its place.

Jeanne Kuehn, of Berkley, calls the home "the next best thing to Greenfield Village."

A close friend of the family, she assisted in sewing the curtains and decorating the home.

"It's beautiful," she said. "I love each and every piece she has ... It's a complete picture. The outside is just as beautiful as the inside. The house is as beautiful as the people in it. It just reflects everything about them."

On the first floor of the home lies the spacious kitchen. With cabinets painted slate gray to match the exterior, the kitchen blends utility with antique charm. Dishes rest in a plate rack near the window, and a stove from the 1800s is used to store dish towels. The kitchen is strictly used for cooking.

Fred Klein's favorite room, and probably the most-used room in the home is the keeping room, a place for gathering. Located just off the kitchen, the keeping room is hugged by a large, almost geometrical fireplace on one end, and a giant window to the other. The view reveals the beauty of a natural wooded backyard. A solid oak table and chairs are placed in the middle of the room and rustic painted cabinets display antique redware, wooden bowls and a collection of baskets.

"I've always loved this period in history," said Falcon of her colonial-era collection. Right down to the wide plank pine floor, the home permeates a feeling of simplicity tinged with American history.

For peace and quiet, Falcon slips into her cozy sitting room, which lies between the screened porch and living room. Hand carvings of birds and small animals fill the room, giving a back-to-nature appeal to the secret hideaway.

Whether it be wooden furniture or unusual antiques, Falcon said she's gathered her collection in the Midwest. Most items were found in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. Falcon isn't concerned about the authenticity of all her items. While she enjoys antiques, she isn't above purchasing a replica.

"I buy what I like," she said happily. "Everything has its place."

Some things aren't what they seem. While the home would appear to have four fireplaces, the only true traditional fireplace is in the keeping room. The living room mantle is antique and holds a painted fireboard depicting the home's exterior. Falcon commissioned a painter to create it, as well as a fireboard in an upstairs bedroom showing a village scene.

Above the "true" front entrance, beyond the gate, are five cubes of bulls-eye glass. Votive candles peak through the glass from a ledge above the door. Taking the turning staircase to the second floor, three bedrooms reveal old-fashioned rope beds, antique rotary-dial telephones, and even Irish pine furniture. Rope beds were used before box-spring mattresses. A mattress rested on ropes, which were tightened each week when the bed began to sag. Falcon said her mattresses were custom-made to fit the three-quarter beds. In an upstairs bathroom, a tiny stove — used for heat in colonial days — sits on the floor. A copper boiler holds rolled towels near the bathtub.

In the master bedroom, there is a pencil poster bed and lamps shaded with antique coverlets.

The hardware on the doors is mostly reproduction wrought iron, though a few pieces are authentic.

"I had such a ball doing the whole house," said Falcon. Yet another level above the home, which Falcon refers to as "granny's attic," contains a fourth bedroom and room filled with dolls and stuffed animals.

Shutters cover the window of the bedroom, where Falcon has transformed a walnut-framed hired man's bed into a comfortable couch. Near it is an antique desk where Falcon retreats to write letters to friends. Dolls and stuffed teddy bears grace the delicate table on the other side of the attic rooms.

"My nieces come over here and have themselves a ball," said Falcon. Many of the dolls, some encased in glass, were her own when she was growing up.

Falcon and Klein didn't miss a detail of the home in designing it to fit their New England theme. A half-bathroom on the lower level has a rustic appeal, complete with a portion of a wooden fence against one wall.

Though the home appears perfect enough to be featured in a magazine — and was — Falcon insists she still has a lot to do. The Clarkston-area home was featured in the September/October 1997 edition of Country Home, a national magazine.

For Falcon and Klein the house embodies a sense of warmth and a slice of the past which will stay with their visitors even after they cross beyond the "friendship bridge" to leave.

ing the zoning C-2.

"This OC-2 transition is necessary to provide a buffer to the residential areas," said trustee Daniel Travis. Lake Oakland Woods Subdivision is south across Maybee from the K of C Hall. The township's master plan identified the K of C property as an OS-2 district several years ago.

The township board also unanimously approved supervisor Dale Stuart's request to establish a Full Time Elected Officials Compensation Committee. Its purpose is to recommend wages and benefits of the full-time elected officials. These are Stuart, Clerk Joan McCrory and Treasurer Jim Wenger.

The four elected trustees will sit on the committee because, as Stuart explained, they "are accountable to the public for any action that they take." They are Jeff McGee, Rosso, Travis and Wallace. Their recommendations are due by July 16. Presently the township board sets salaries and benefits.

Stuart appointed an Elected Officials Remuneration Advisory Committee in February 1997 to advise the board on compensation. The committee made a recommendation in May 1997 to freeze the three elected officials' salaries "until they come into line with those of comparable communities." The board ignored the recommendations and gave them raises in early 1998. The committee's been inactive since then.

Stuart assured the current board he'll vote to approve the new committee's recommendations as long as they are supported by three of the four trustees.

Wallace explained he's requested previously that the township appoint a statutory compensation commission. Its decisions would be binding unless two-thirds of the township board voted to reject them.

"The supervisor didn't like this," Wallace said. "He was concerned the commission wouldn't be responsible to the citizens." Wallace described the new committee as a compromise he reluctantly supported.

Community commemorates vets' sacrifices

In honor of Memorial Day, more than 150 Clarkstonites came out to celebrate with dignity and honor Monday morning.

A short parade at 10 a.m. led from the corner of Church and Buffalo streets to Main Street. From there the march continued north to Washington, then southwest to Holcomb where it reached Lakeview Cemetery, 6150 White Lake Road.

Dom Mauti, a Clarkston resident and former council member, attended the ceremony with his wife, Louise. He said the rain held off until the ceremony was over.

"I thought it was pretty good," he said.

Everyone gathered to pay their respects to war veterans who lost their lives fighting for American beliefs. Mauti said the names of veterans from the Clarkston area were read aloud to the crowd and the Clarkston High School band played two numbers.

As an added highlight, the Rev. Jonathan Hejerman of Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church gave the Gettysburg Address during the ceremony, tying Memorial Day back to the time of the Civil War.

Saluting the past: Wayne Fisher and John Linch, of American Legion Post 63, salute during Monday's ceremony.

Condo projects get nods of approval

BY SUSAN B. TAUBER

Kenneth Davis is a familiar face at Independence Township Planning Commission meetings. He's been there numerous times working towards recommendation for the final plan approval for phase eight of the Oakhurst Planned Residential Development at Clintonville and Waldon roads.

He left the commission's meeting last Thursday night with the long-awaited recommendation. Now it's up to the Independence Township Board to give the final nod of approval. It's expected to be addressed at the June 15 township board meeting.

"It's a process — a give-and-take working with the planning commission," said Davis, project manager. "I've been real pleased working with the township staff. We've worked well together and in the end, this leads to a better product for us, the township and the public."

Talnuck will contain 91 attached and detached condominium units. It's part of the larger project which, once completed, will have 495 dwelling units and many recreational opportunities.

The commissioners didn't want to give their approval until certain conditions were met concerning wetlands encroachments. "The whole project has gone very well," said township planner Dick Carlisle. "We've been very pleased with the way Kenneth has responded to our requests for changes. He's made them and ended up with a very good project."

Jack Rosenzweig, president of JAC Construction Co., also got the final recommendation his company needed to proceed with Indianwood Estates on the Lake, a 72-site detached condominium development on 181 acres at the northeast corner of Indianwood and Dartmouth roads.

"We already had a final site approval," Rosenzweig said. "We needed to come back because we had to adjust the location of some of the houses to make them fit better on their lots. The property is very pretty and very steep."

The commission raised questions about recommendations by the township fire department about dry hydrants at locations within the development.

Rosenzweig explained, due to the nature of the topography, the pipes wouldn't fit.

"We've talked with the fire marshal and we're going to put a dry hydrant on the north side of the lake. The pipe will run down into the lake 2 feet below the water level so when the lake freezes, there's still fresh water to pump in case of a fire," he said.

The commission asked Rosenzweig to complete a couple of outstanding projects before he can apply for any additional building permits. These are a bicycle path and a fence between neighbors and the new development.

The developer said he expects to have everything completed within the next couple weeks.

Clarkston High sends care package to Columbine

Clarkston High School students and staff are busy getting ready for the end of the school year, but they still found time out of their already-full days to do a good deed. They worked together to create cards, letters, banners and gifts for Columbine High School in Littleton, Colo., where two students killed several students and a teacher. The gun-wielding students died as well. Judi Medlin, CHS English teacher, organized the efforts of the CHS students and staff.

Japanese teacher Barbara Rice encouraged her students and those in Karen Culley's math classes to create 1,000 paper cranes, based on the story, "Legend of a Thousand Cranes." According to the fable, a victim of Hiroshima was determined to create a 1,000 cranes before she died, but she only completed several hundred. CHS students completed the task.

The cranes and the fable, cards, letters and more are on their way to Columbine High School. Included in the package

People were walking in and then out of the Planning Commission meeting last Thursday night.

They were ready to address the commissioners on what was to be the first agenda item — a proposed rezoning from Recreation (REC) to Suburban Farm Resident District (R-1C) for 34.8 acres of the Clarkston Golf Course for a single family residential subdivision of estate-like homes ranging in price from $400,000 to $700,000.

The public's comments are on ice for now. The potentially controversial rezoning request was pulled from the agenda.

"The developer asked that it be pulled," said Richard Carlisle, township planner. "It will be back on the agenda."

The petitioner has to make a new request, according to the Independence Township Building Department. As of Tuesday, the department wasn't sure when the rezoning would be rescheduled.

Andrew Milia, president of Franklin Property Corp. in Southfield, is the developer. He said he's resubmitting the application to include another parcel on the property. He originally requested the rezoning of the nine-hole public golf course for single family dwellings on a minimum of 1-1/2 acres. Milia hopes to build 28 homes on about 40-plus acres of the closed golf course while leaving at least 20 acres undeveloped. Clarkston Golf Course is owned by Dean and Feather Buchanan.

"I think people will be pleased with what we are going to build there," Milia said.

Ben Rybicki was one of the neighbors prepared to address the commission. He prepared a single-spaced, two-and-half page research paper on the importance of keeping the Clarkston Golf Club in the community. Its importance, he said, comes from several aspects. One is that it caters to a segment of the golfing community often ignored by high-priced 18-hole courses. He defined this segment as composed of women, seniors on fixed incomes and juniors.

His graph showed it had cost only $12 to pay nine holes of golf at Clarkston Golf Club on a weekday, as compared to as much as $26 at other places.

Rybicki and several other residents expect to be back when the rezoning is once again on the Planning Commission's agenda.

Free summertime events scheduled in park

Family entertainers Janet Marie and m'Arch McCarty will present "Summertime Showtime" in Clarkston's Depot Park for three Thursday evenings this June.

The program, free to the public, is sponsored by Hilton Mortgage in Clarkston.

The schedule of events for this summer is:

SEMOG REPORT ON DEVELOPMENT

Strong economy to further spur urban sprawl

BY MIKE MALOTT
STAFF WRITER
mmalott@oe.homecomm.net

Builders will have to put up about 300,000 new homes in southeast Michigan over the next 20 years to house some 600,000 new residents.

Think of it this way: It's like constructing a city essentially the size of Detroit and shoe-horning it into the existing metropolitan region, according to Donn Shelton, communications director of Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

To accomplish the task, developers will "fill in" with homes between existing towns and subdivisions. Then they'll spread the rest out around the urban fringe.

Twenty-four percent more land in the region will be developed by the year 2020 as a result.

And the cause of all this growth will be just that: growth. According to Paul Tait, executive director of SEMCOG, urban flight will play much less of a role in development over the next 20 years than it during the last few decades.

Rather, it's the region's economy that will attract the population increase, Tait said. The projections were made in a recent SEMCOG report entitled "Land Use and Land Development in Southeast Michigan." In the report, SEMCOG planners looked at the area's economy and the community master plans to predict how much and where development will occur by the year 2020.

Contained in the report is a map showing development that was completed by 1965, development that was done by 1995, and where the future growth will likely occur between now and the year 2020. Areas shown on the map for future development should not be read as site-specific, Tait explained. The growth patterns are intended to be "generalizations" of where the growth will occur.

The impact on some communities is startling, like Green Oak Township in Livingston County and Oakland Township in Oakland County. By 1995, those townships had very little development. By 2020, they'll be nearly built out.

"These are the key impacts on the growing communities — congestion, traffic on the roads, water pressure concerns, pressure on sewers, pressure on septic and on the groundwater supply. All those things come into play for the growing communities and the question is how the communities can prepare for that growth," Tait said.

SEMOG's map predicts built out by the year 2020 for communities like Novi, Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Auburn Hills and Rochester Hills.

That might not be surprising considering the development those communities had already seen by 1995. But now the construction industry will now turn its attentions to communities that have previously seen little development.

Along with Green Oak and Oakland townships, communities such as Marion Township, Hamburg Township and Howell Township in Livingston County are expected to come under heavy development pressure.

In Oakland County, Oakland Township, Orion Township, Oxford Township, White Lake Township and Milford Township are expected to see the heaviest development pressure.

In Wayne County, builders will be moving on to Huron Township and Brownstown Township. In Macomb County, Shelby Township will be built out while homebuilders will turn the bulk of their attentions to Macomb Township, Chesterfield Township and Washington Township.

According to the report, 43 percent of this new growth will come from a simple population increase in this area, the result of job gains in the metropolitan area. Population growth accounted for only 17 percent of the development seen in the region between 1965-95.

Smaller household sizes were the leading cause of development during the 1965-95 period, accounting for 43 percent of the construction.

"This was a time when many more households were formed as the 'baby boom' generation left home creating more 'empty nest' households. Also increasing were one-parent and elderly households. All these added, smaller households were the largest factor contributing to land development in the region," the report states.

But that trend will drop off to 29 percent over the next 20 years.

Urban flight, the replacement of homes in older communities by residences in new suburbs, accounted for 10 percent of the growth from 1965-95. But it will account for only 6 percent in the next 20 years, SEMCOG projects.

Commercial, office and industrial buildings made up 18 percent of growth in the last 30 years. They'll be only 14 percent of growth in the coming 20. And replacement of job losses from commercial, office and industrial buildings in older communities, which once accounted for 5 percent of growth, is expected to drop off to 1 percent in the next two decades.

The report concluded that by 1995, 33 percent of the entire region's land had been developed, and 24 percent more land will be needed for development over the next 20 years.

Since new, suburban growth tends to use more land per home, SEMCOG took note of housing densities. Overall, the region had a density of 2.18 homes per acre in residential areas. The most densely developed was Wayne County, with 3.8 homes per acre. Macomb followed with 2.57, then Oakland with 1.73. Livingston was the least dense county, with .87 homes per acre.

Since it is the economy which is expected to spur the growth, SEMCOG also looked at density in business areas as well. Oakland lead the way, with its businesses producing 14.01 jobs per acre. Washtenaw County followed with 12.27 jobs per acre, and then came Wayne, with 11.08 jobs per acre. Livingston ranked fifth by producing 5.56 jobs per acre.

someone learns to tune pianos doesn't mean he can do it. You have to just turn off your mind and tune."

For a long while, however, Wiegand's mind was tuned to playing the horns.

His father started him out in music, he said, when he was 6 years old. He studied saxophone and clarinet. He toured for almost 20 years as a horn player with the big bands, including the Jimmy Dorsey band.

But his dad knew he'd need a profession to fall back on. "That's why he taught me to be a piano tuner," Wiegand said.

Neither Wiegand nor Bargeon is worried that the electric keyboard will put piano tuners out of work.

"Parents sometimes start their child out with lessons and buy them a keyboard. We see it happen repeatedly that they'll go back to the traditional piano. There's nothing like it. A keyboard can't replace the sound, touch or look of a piano," Bargeon said.

He said there's a place for keyboards, especially for composers. Keyboards give composers a way to hear what they compose for different instruments without having to hire an orchestra or band.

"Every decade something hap-

Performing: Jeff Bargeon is an accomplished pianist as well as a professional piano tuner.

pens that people say will do away with the piano," Wiegand added. "In the '60s and '70s, it was the electric organ. There must have been a million of them sold. But the only one still going is the Hammond organ. The others only lasted about 10 years. Soon we'll see the junk man picking up keyboards at the curb because manufacturers make an updated one by changing a little chip about every three years."

Bargeon and Wiegand both offered advice for piano owners:

■ Keep your piano on an inside wall of your house.

■ Humidity affects the piano's tune and key action. A humidifier in the winter and a dehumidifier in the summer may be necessary to keep the piano in tune.

■ The bigger the sounding board and the longer the strings, the better the piano's sound.

■ If the felt on the hammers and the strings are dried out and the sounding board is cracked, it's better economically to buy a new piano.

■ Before buying a used piano, have a piano tuner inspect it first.

■ An older piano isn't necessarily a better piano. The life expectancy is about 80-90 years.

Piano tuning has been a good profession for both men. They get many clients from referrals, their advertisements and from businesses. They are self-employed, create their own work schedules and meet a variety of interesting people. It's a job that they can continue into their golden years.

"I feel like I've accomplished something if I take a piano that sounds horrible and turn it into a good instrument," Bargeon said.

"It's a great job," Wiegand said. "I was able to raise a family by tuning and my wife, Sophie, and I have traveled all over Europe."

House, Senate to reconcile CCW law

State senators voted last week to give Michigan residents a right to obtain permits to carry concealed weapons.

But the three bill package passed by senators contained a number of amendments to the House passed version. That likely means the bills are headed to conference committee, according to both House Speaker Chuck Perricone and Senate Majority Leader Dan DeGrow.

Because budget bills must be finalized before lawmakers can recess for the summer on June 10, consideration of final passage of CCW reforms could be delayed until after the Legislature's summer break.

Senators voted 25-13 to approve House Bill 4530 — sponsored by Mike Green (R-Mayville) and already passed by representatives — the bill requiring gun control boards to issue CCW permits unless the applicant has been convicted of a felony or is considered a threat.

But senators also adopted Senate Bill 460, 36-12, altering the make up of gun boards and SB 461, 37-0, which raises the age for receiving CCW permits to 21.

The senate package increases requirements on applicants in order to get permits and outlaws all firearms from some locations, such as schools, churches, day care centers, stadiums and bars.

The senate version altered the makeup of county gun control boards, which decide whether to issue permits, to remove prosecutors from the membership. The new membership will include sheriffs, state police and a firearm instructors.

Applicants will have to be 21 years of age, with no history of mental illness and no felonies on their records. Some misdemeanors, such as soliciting a child or illegally selling a firearm, would disqualify an applicant from a permit. The bills also require firearms training for applicants.

On the main bill, House Bill 4530, Sens. Loren Bennett (R-Canton), Bill Bullard (R-Highland), John D. Cherry Jr. (D-Cliff), Mat Dunaskiss (R-Lake Orion), Shirley Johnson (R-Royal Oak), Mike Rogers (R-Howell) and Thaddeus McCotter (R-Livonia) voted yes.

Sens. George Z. Hart (D-Deerborn), Alma Wheeler Smith (D-South Lyon) and Gary Peters (D-Bloomfield) voted no.

OU has new vision for physical therapy

A new multimedia tool will teach physical therapy students at Oakland University a method of showing their patients proper body movement.

Oakland University is the first university to own PT Vision, which is new on the market — clinics don't even have this advanced technology, said Beth Marcoux, director and associate professor, physical therapy, School of Health Sciences.

OU alumnus Michael Grieves just donated the two PT Vision systems. Each system includes a computer with monitor, VCR, microphone, two digital video cameras and a TV/VCR for the patient or student to view their movement.

The system was originally developed to improve golf swings. But with PT Vision, a patient watches a videotape of a model performing a movement such as an exercise.

Such an exercise may be prescribed to strengthen muscles after injury or surgery. The patient is videotaped performing the exercise, then she watches her video displayed on a split screen next to the model's video.

The therapist reviews the video with the patient, circling the image with a special marker to emphasize certain movements and body parts. The patient can even take the videotape home for reference. Eventually, patients will be able to tape themselves at home, then e-mail the video to their physical therapist for review and feedback.

For research, the PT department will use the system to videotape a child with cerebral palsy. PT faculty and students will use the system to analyze his movements and improve his ability to reach and grasp objects, Marcoux said.

Instructors will also use the system to teach PT students correct hands-on manipulation of patient body parts and joints.

"It's truly an awesome system that has tremendous potential for patient care, teaching and research in physical therapy," Marcoux said. "We are very grateful to Mr. Grieves for this donation and very excited about all the possible uses."

Grieves is chair of Interactive Frontiers in Livonia, and chair of the OU School of Business Administrations (SBA) Board of Visitors. He received his MBA from Oakland in 1979. He and Diane Grieves, his wife, also an OU alumna, are longtime Oakland supporters. They established the Diane and Michael Grieves Endowed Diversity Scholarship in the SBA.

Get the spirit Help bring about a rousing Fourth

Now that Memorial Day has piqued your patriotic spirit, it's time to start thinking about the Fourth of July.

The Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce will hold its second annual fireworks display July 3 at Clintonwood Park in Independence Township, but it needs your help. As of Tuesday, the chamber was still $1,800 short of the $5,000 needed to produce the same size show it delivered last year.

Businesses, community organizations and individuals are encouraged to donate.

Corporate sponsors donating $1,000 each are entitled to several perks — corporate logos included in media advertising prior to the show, a business banner hung in the park the day of the event, a display table at the all-day Festival of Fun held in Clintonwood Park before the fireworks display, and four reserved parking passes for the fireworks event. (Talk about getting a lot of bang for your buck!)

Corporate sponsors must respond by June 7 if they want their corporate logos to appear in media advertising prior to the show.

Donors giving $250 each will receive recognition in the chamber's newsletter, a display table at the Festival of Fun and one reserved parking pass for the fireworks event.

Of course, contributions may be in any amount. All donations should be sent to the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, 5850 Lorac, Suite C, Clarkston, MI 48346.

Business owners may also help by placing donation cans in their places of business. Business owners interested in donation cans should call the chamber office at 625-8055.

Youth volunteers will also pass donation cans around to spectators the night of the fireworks display. There is no charge for admission to the fireworks.

Any money collected over the $5,000 goal will either be used to enlarge this year's show or go toward next year's program.

The chamber began the fireworks so that Clarkston-area residents could celebrate the Fourth of July from beginning to end in their hometown, starting with the parade on Main Street in the morning, following with the Festival of Fun in the afternoon and concluding with the fireworks display in the evening.

Prior to last year's show, Clarkston-area residents needed to go outside the area if they wanted to see fireworks.

We would encourage businesses, community organizations and individuals to donate toward this worthy cause — giving Clarkston-area residents a hometown Fourth of July that's worth remembering.

Courts have role in making damage awards reasonable

The holder assumes all risk and danger incidental to the game of Baseball, including specifically (but not exclusively) the danger of being injured by thrown bats and thrown or batted balls, and agrees that the Commissioner and the Participating Clubs, the Agents and players are not liable for injuries...

The next time you buy your way into the old ball park, read the above disclaimer on the flip side of your ticket.

It simply means that, in the extremely unfortunate (and unlikely) event that you get bonked on the noggin by a foul ball or a long homer, or if some other piece of nastiness befalls you in or around the stadium, don't come to team management looking for money.

Fair enough, most of us would say. We're there for a treat, not a tort.

But people who run the recreation facilities — both in and out of officialdom — have to be wondering if that disclaimer wouldn't be sound legal trimming on their equipment or property.

For example, on a piece of playground equipment at Birmingham's Shain Park, it would read:

"The teeter-totterer assumes all risk and danger incidental to the activity of teeter-tottering, including specifically (but not exclusively) the danger of injuring your little boom-ba when your teeter-totter playmate climbs off while you're at the top..."

We're not trying to be frivolous about liability and personal injury. Really, we're not. But the fact is that incidents that would have drawn a hearty laugh just a few years ago are now drawing huge sums of money for the injured party from juries and courts.

Ask any attorney. This is a very litigious age. An Oakland County woman a few years ago was awarded $22,800 after she was hit by a golfer's stray shot. The suit asked for only $3,800 for medical expenses and damages for her trouble.

Now, this accident happened on a private course, but it could just as easily have taken place at Southfield's Evergreen Hills layout or on Troy's Sylvan Glen municipal course.

Such incidents — and awards — have city and township legal eagles worried.

"It might get to the point where golfers are asked to sign waivers before they play," said one concerned city official.

Solutions? Well, recreation people, on and off the public payroll, have to pay more attention to safety. That means more supervision — and inevitably higher prices for some activities. But it'll take more than that.

Local courts have a responsibility not to expand the law in a way that will create unreasonable liability. And the Legislature has a responsibility to prescribe by statute instances when there should not be liability.

If that sort of advice is followed, we're, ah, liable to clean up this litigious society.

Do you feel safe in school?

"I know that I'm safe, but they blew it all out of proportion. I thought nothing of it until they started putting in the cameras."

"Yeah, I feel fine in school. I think it's not a common thing. I don't see it happening here."

LETTERS

We're paying the price for our Godless society

During the recent National Day of Prayer, much was said about accelerated violence in our country and in our schools. As president of the Clarkston Foundation, I believe that in order for our programs to continue, we must all work to ensure a safe learning environment. It's time to look into the heart of the matter.

Neither the Eccentric nor the Clarkston Foundation is endorsing my use of the "G" word. I could write about Nazism or the NRA, or likewise discuss teen pregnancies, drug and alcohol abuse. You might say it's vital for our schools to teach warning signs, symptoms and interventions; just don't display a nativity set during the holidays. It's OK to teach Second Amendment rights to bear arms, but don't use the "G" word.

God. His name is God. Whatever you perceive Him to be, this woman believes He is crying over our use of free will. In 1963, the Supreme Court voted to strike the "G" word from every state book and building, including public school text books. Using an innocent theory that if children are taught their parents' moral values at home, any state-run organization would do harm to influence one secular belief over another, they removed it all — exclusion, beyond separation, of church from state.

Now our children are taught they are nothing more than the result of the random collision of two cells. There is no "before" and no "after." Therefore there are no consequences to one's actions. Feel good for the moment, do whatever you like. Doesn't it sound like today's headlines?

In our infinite quest to find an answer to every question, we adopted Darwinism as our modern mantra. Back in those days, there were no microscopes capable of seeing DNA. Nobody even knew what it was. Technology has shown us the reasons why you can't mate a dog with a cat or a human with an ape. There is a design to the very fiber of our existence. We duplicate our own species and none other. Much to the dismay of the ACLU, scientific evidence cannot prove we evolved by chance. There is a design to our DNA. Therefore, there must be a designer, a God, and perhaps a purpose to our lives after all.

Why don't we share this with our children? Why don't we, from day one, tell them how important they are? Maybe you already say this to your kids, but many forget. Like substance abuse and pre-marital relations, it's time we teach all children they are uniquely designed with a purpose. And in learning this lesson, each designed with purpose, so are their neighbors. How could they — how dare they even think of — harming another of God's purpose and design?

In at least one community, a disclaimer has been placed on a sticker in the K-12 textbooks that treat evolution as science:

"Evolution refers to the unproven belief that random, undirected forces produced a world of living things. No human was present when life first appeared on earth. Therefore, any statement about life's origins should be considered as theory, not fact. Study hard and keep an open mind. Evolution is one of the many theories of life's origins. Someday, you may contribute to the theories of how living things appeared on earth."

The children of the children raised in a godless society are paying the ultimate price. Their security and very lives are endangered instead of endeared, but you can help to change that message. Tell your elected officials (call - write - FAX - e-mail) we need to include God and a daily moment of silence in every school and state-run venue.

Celebrate the success of your community and its youth by making their activities important. In other words: Pack the stands at student concerts, games, events, (Make friends with your pastor, priest, or rabbi. Most of all, make a habit of "take your family to church day." The doors are open and you are always invited and welcome. Let's work together toward the days we once again celebrate "one (safe) nation, under God."

president, Clarkston Foundation

Reading tutors are tops

The students and staff of Pine Knob Elementary wish to extend their sincere gratitude to the many parents and community members who assisted in our '98-'99 reading programs. Over 30 trained volunteers enthusiastically committed to tutoring as many as three students each week throughout the year. More than 60 youngsters benefited from these individualized programs!

The capable and patient one-on-one instruction the children received helped to increase reading skills, fluency, and confidence. Strategies learned in the classroom were reinforced and practiced at each lesson. Our tutors are remarkably dedicated, sharing the gifts of time and friendship with each student.

We thank each of you for your indispensable contribution to the success of our young readers.

OUR MISSION: "Because we publish community newspapers, we think about community journalism in a fundamentally different way than our bigger competition. We regard ourselves as both accurate journalists and as caring citizens of the communities where we work."

POINTS OF VIEW

Would Richard Thompson fight for people of all faiths?

In your May 23 edition you ran an article about Richard Thompson and the Center for Law and Justice that wrongly implied that the two are fighting on behalf of all people of faith who feel their religious liberties have been violated. The truth of the matter is that Richard Thompson and the Center for Law and Justice are mostly working on the behalf of the fundamentalist agenda that seeks to give fundamentalists dominion over those who hold differing theologies. Nationally, the Center for Law and Justice has strong connections to televangelist/politician Pat Robertson and has championed such discriminatory practices as...

■ Reimposing school-sponsored prayer in public schools, without any consideration for the religious liberties of Jews, Muslims, other non-Christians and atheists.

■ Posting the Ten Commandments in court-houses and thereby creating the image of judicial preferences for Judaism and Christianity over other religions with different sets of religious commandments.

■ Allowing landlords to refuse apartments to people they find religiously objectionable. Depending on the landlord's religion, this could include divorced individuals, interracial couples, people who are or suspected to be homosexuals, unmarried women, unmarried couples and members of unpopular religious sects.

Richard Thompson, according to your article, has been hard at work on this last issue.

Would Mr. Thompson and the Center for Law and Justice stand up for the religious liberties of members of my church who do not want their school-aged children indoctrinated into praying to Jesus, or who would feel like second-class citizens while in a court that posts the Ten Commandments but not the Seven Unitarian Principles, or gay couples at my church (married in the Unitarian tradition) who are systematically denied an apartment to live in? My educated guess is that Mr. Thompson and the Center for Law and Justice would not stand up for our religious liberties. They instead seem to be taking a stand for fundamentalists who want power over those who are not of their own faith.

Let's remind our kids that we love them

"What's going on?" Marvin Gaye sings his song and it makes me think of the crisis we as a nation are facing. What is going on? What has happened that some of our 12-, 14- and 16-year-old children are so angry that they cry out to us only in the most violent ways? And then I think, "Do you know we love you?" And I cry, because I am afraid they don't. Our kids don't always know we love them. Somewhere along the way, maybe we forgot to tell you... we love you, we are proud of you and we have faith in you. Can you have faith in us?

I think about our children walking into that building which is supposed to be safe, a place for learning. These days when they arrive at school, it may be that they are greeted by bomb squads, officers in vests, dogs sniffing for artillery. They are told they can't wear jackets or bring bag lunches. Back packs are not allowed. Safety first and this I understand. I am worried, however. How can we protect while not creating a "war zone" for them to try to live and learn in? I am afraid of the message being sent to the children: We don't trust you; you are not safe.

We know that it is a small portion of the total youth population that is communicating to us in this way. We know that most of you are living your lives, learning what you must learn, teaching what you must teach. We need your help. Please tell us how to better hear you, all of you.

Can we as a community, as a country, do anything to counterbalance the very scary protective actions we must take? I think we can.

We know that there are problems, and we know that there are strengths. There are so many strengths in our youth. Tell us what scares you, but tell us what makes you proud as well.

We may be a country in crisis. We may be afraid. But our kids are not our enemies. As a community we must find a way to heal ourselves through rebuilding our trust in each other. I began this letter by asking our children "what's going on?" I end by asking how can we as a community help ease the fear, the anger and the grief? I think reminding our children we love them is a good first step.

Battle for higher ed funding put through political ringer

It's June and, right on time, the annual tussle over funding for Michigan's universities has emerged from legislative cloakrooms in Lansing.

Last week, the state Senate passed a bill to increase funding for Michigan's universities by 5.4 percent, while rejecting Gov. John Engler's proposal to equalize university spending. The House previously went along with the governor's plan, so the two contending bills will go to a conference committee where some heavy-duty tugging and hauling will eventually result in an agreement.

Here's a peek at what's really going on behind the scenes in this year's version of Michigan's longest-running competitive battle.

Much of it has to do with the close relationship between Gov. Engler and Michigan State University President Peter McPherson. McPherson is an old buddy of Engler's; both are MSU alumni, and was the governor's hand-picked candidate for the MSU presidency. Ever since McPherson arrived in East Lansing, he's been all over the state Capitol looking for money and effectively preaching the doctrine that MSU has been short-changed for years when legislative appropriations are handed out.

It's true: Michigan State is in a financial bind these days. But some of it is self-inflicted.

McPherson got a lot of favorable publicity back in 1995 when he announced that MSU tuition increases would henceforth be indexed to the rate of inflation. That sounded great to Michigan families who were sore at seeing tuition bills that regularly exceeded the cost of living. But it also put MSU's income stream, a big part of which comes from tuition fees, into a straight jacket.

Moreover, MSU has been increasing undergraduate enrollment. Over the past three years, some 4,000 additional students have been admitted to MSU with what amounts to a guarantee that their tuition bills will not exceed the rate of inflation. Assuming the guarantee still holds, that means MSU tuition bill increases this fall will be no more than 1.7 percent, the current rate of inflation.

To make things worse, Michigan State's faculty is getting restive over low salaries. Pay for MSU full professors is dead last among Big Ten schools, while associate professors rank eighth, and assistant professors come in ninth. And even the most other-worldly professor gets grumpy when it's explained that the reason faculty salaries are so low is that the university has decided to link income from tuition to a low rate of inflation.

So the big question facing McPherson has been how to get some extra money out of the Legislature so he can get the faculty off his back and relieve MSU from its increasingly tight financial bind.

Enter Gov. Engler and his budget director, Mary Lannoye, who concocted a controversial scheme that would classify state universities into four tiers according to size and mission and equalize per-student payments for each university within a given classification. For the coming fiscal year, each school would get an appropriation ranging from $4,500 to $8,500 per student, with the lowest funded schools in each tier receiving the largest increases.

Clumped together in the "research universities" tier would be the University of Michigan, MSU, Wayne State University and Michigan Tech University. And (what a surprise!) under the Engler funding plan Michigan State would have received the largest appropriation, increase of 4.5 percent, while everybody else would get 3 percent.

Now the MSU folks have a point. Michigan State gets less money per in-state student than U-M, WSU or MTU. And it's been one of McPherson's highest priorities to make up that difference.

But Sen. Joe Schwarz, a U-M alumnus and the powerful chair of the Senate appropriations subcommittee that deals with university funding, refused to go along.

"It's robbing Peter to pay Paul to fund the consequences of the Michigan State tuition guarantee at the expense of other schools," says Schwarz.

The Senate agreed with him, thus setting up the coming showdown between the Senate and House versions of university appropriations bills.

You'll read about the results in your regular daily newspaper, but now you know what's really going on behind the scenes.

Phil Power is the chairman of the company that owns this newspaper. A veteran observer of university funding wars, he is also a former regent of the University of Michigan and member of the Governor's Commission on the Future of Higher Education that in 1982 proposed another funding formula for Michigan universities. New venue a success as many volunteers take part in walk

On Saturday, May 15, more than 350 people participated in the 17th annual Lighthouse Walk for Hunger to benefit Lighthouse Emergency Services' Clarkston and Pontiac branches. This year's event shined bright in the eyes of the volunteers and participants who helped make the walk possible. The walk was not only highlighted by the addition of new and old sponsors, but it was also the first one to be held at the GM Truck Product Center-Central.

The morning festivities began with Welcome Missionary Baptist Church singing "America the Beautiful" while the Pontiac Police Department Color Guard raised the American flag. Huel Perkins of WJBK FOX 2 was the master of ceremonies who kicked off the walk.

In attendance were the deputy mayor of Pontiac and other dignitaries of General Motors, General Motors Men's Club, UAW Local 594 and Colleen Peters, chair of the 1999 Hunger Walk. After the ceremony walkers stretched and became even more limber with an aerobics instructor from GM Fitness Center. The participants then began the 3.4-mile walk around GM and the Centerpoint Business Campus. Walkers were receptive of the new site and were thrilled to follow a "pace truck" full of donated food from the employees of GM.

Approximately $30,000 was raised for Lighthouse Emergency Services. These monies will be appropriated into programs to benefit low-income people in the Clarkston and Pontiac Emergency Service Areas. Specifically, these funds are used to respond to families and senior citizens who have an immediate need for food, clothing, medicine, transportation or housing. Lighthouse Emergency Services helps to prevent hunger, homelessness and hopelessness for more than 75,000 people each year, half of whom are the working poor. Providing a ray of hope is the main goal of Lighthouse and through the pledges made to the walkers those needs are realized.

The volunteer groups instrumental in implementing this event participated in a variety of ways; for example, some handed out food and beverages at the three pit stops during the walk. Their smiling faces and cheers were much appreciated by the walkers and they helped make the walk more enjoyable for the participants.

In addition to these dedicated groups, other organizations were also integral to the event. The GM Men's Club helped to publicize the walk at GM and registered walkers the day of the event. In addition local merchants were also quite generous by donating food and beverages to the walkers. All of their assistance is much appreciated and will help to provide basic necessities to people in need.

Volunteer opportunities are plentiful at Lighthouse Emergency Services in Clarkston. People are needed to assist in a variety of ways. Some areas include interviewing clients or serving on a planning committee for the Hunger Walk, the Golf Outing, or the Beacon of Hope. Support is also needed with the holiday programs, which include Adopt-A-Family and Adopt-A-Senior, Tree of Caring and Thanksgiving baskets. The donation of one's time is always desired and welcomed in the planning of special events or in assisting clients. Please consider becoming involved and realize how you can make a difference in someone's life. Call 248-673-4949 to become involved with the Clarkston Branch of Lighthouse Emergency Services.

This column space is shared by local community groups. Up next week: Clarkston Community Task Force for Youth.

CAROLYN WALKER

In battles of heart and health, my mom's a winner

My mother pointed to the left of her thin chest — to a spot that was beneath an equally thin sleeveless summer top — and she said, "feel here" as she gave that spot a poke. We were in her green and breezy kitchen. In the gathering room, the safest room in her house.

I reached out gingerly to touch her. Beneath that summer top and her aging skin and one very prominent hard rib that she claims has a knot on it, I could feel her heart galloping away. It was a great, roan steed on mighty legs. It ran fast and loud, furiously, on its way to a lingering war.

The steed and my courageous mother were both short of breath.

"I'm not afraid of the pain," my mother said, throwing her head back a little.

She has fought other, equally arduous battles.

It wasn't until later that I stopped to consider my mother's heart — where all it might have been, what all it might have longed for — and the last time I genuinely felt it. Almost 50 years ago I was nestled alongside it in the comfort of her womb. Her heart was a tangible presence keeping me company, lulling me peacefully, as it ticked away nine months of time.

Back then its soothing rhythms were all I knew of the world.

I remember when my mother could make me roar with her tales of "Gargantua." Gargantua was the name she gave to a blind date she was

Church presents musical 'for everyone'

Mount Zion Church is producing an original musical based on New Testament figures the writer says deserve fuller treatment.

"The Alabaster Vial" has it all — an original musical score and script, a large cast of actors, dancers, vocalists and musicians and a story of "innocence lost, but forgiveness and mercy found."

There will be three performances of this three-act production at Mount Zion Church of Clarkston, 4900 Maybee Road. Show times are 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, June 4-5, and 2 p.m. Saturday, June 5. Tickets are $3. Groups of 10 or more can get group rates. Tickets are available by calling Debbie McClure at the church at (248) 391-6166.

Rick Bruderick is the author of "The Alabaster Vial." The Lake Orion resident is a minister/TV producer for Mount Zion. He described his musical as a play for everyone, whether they're church-goers or not.

I've always loved to read the classic playwrights — Eugene O'Neill, Lillian Hellman and William Shakespeare. I'm truly a hack compared to them.

Bruderick was inspired to write plays after turning Bible stories into skits for children. "I've always loved to read the classic playwrights — Eugene O'Neill, Lillian Hellman and William Shakespeare. I'm truly a hack compared to them," he said.

He credits director Monika Christensen for bringing out the action and meaning that he wrote into the script. Christensen's husband, Richard, is a youth minister at

CHS senior wins poetry contest

"Fallen Apple," a poem by Clarkston High School senior Elizabeth Forbes, won the $100 first place prize in the 1999 Grembos and Rydesky Memorial High School Poetry Contest sponsored by St. Mary's College at Orchard Lake.

Elizabeth's poem was judged the best from among the more than 750 contest entries, according to Dr. Mark Koch, chairman of the college's English Department and chairman of the contest.

Other winners included Clarkston High School junior Elizabeth Mann, who took fourth place ($25) for her poem, "Castles."

Directions: Minister and playwright Rick Bruderick goes over the lines with actor Lori Simon of Clarkston.

Mount Zion. He works behind the scenes of the play, she said, while she's directing.

A student at Oakland University and the mother of three young children, Christensen said the productions by the church members are an outreach to the community.

"We do plays that have some type of morality to them," she said. This one centers around Mary. It's a fictionalization of events that happened in her life, including what happens to Mary when she meets Jesus, according to Christensen.

Although the church seats 1,900, its pulpit makes a large but challenging stage. It doesn't have a back stage area or a place for side entrances and exits. However, the production staff of Mount Zion's Performing Arts Ministry creates elaborate effects with the use of scenery and curtains.

Others responsible for "The Alabaster Vial" are songwriter Ronda Ferguson of Orionville, composer, Rubin Hilario of Clarkston, music arranger Greg Pribe of Rochester and costumer Lois Miller of Orion. Miller also is in the cast.

Lisa Ilitch Murray of Lake Angeles plays Mary. Lori Simon of Clarkston portrays Martha. Playing Lazarus is Randy Shelp of Waterford.

The other Clarkston, Lake Orion and Oxford cast members are Bill Simon, Maria Toth, Andrea Cooley, Tom Shedd, Ryan Carter and Shiloh Christy.

coaxed into and he had, as you can probably imagine, night-mare proportions.

She went out with Buck-toothed Willie, too, although that was with her eyes wide open. She went because he would take her skating. She certainly did not love either man.

I can wonder now what life might have been like with Gargantua or Buck-toothed Willie for a father.

Out in my father's well-kept yard, as my mother turned to walk away from us, I spoke words of comfort to him. Words I used to comfort myself as well.

"She will be all right," I said. "She's in good hands."

My father, wearing a Kelly-green shirt that complimented the grass and flower stalks about him, slouched his hands into his blue jeans' pockets and he said, "Oh, yes" as he looked toward the ground. He went on to mention her previous battles — and victories — without giving their names. I was already familiar with them, and the ways in which they defined periods of our lives.

The brain surgery. The mastectomy. The multiple losses of lesser organs.

My mother spends a lot of time in their basement. She has a cozy family room there and she has used a good portion of their retirement years for organizational purposes. Old family movies are on videotape now. Collectibles and family artifacts have been catalogued. Photographs are in albums that have titles and dates and personas.

My mother has an album she compiled during World War II while my father was overseas. It kept them close when they were distant. It is an album comprised of songs, in sheet form, made popular during the years that they courted. In the top corners of its many pages, she has pasted pictures of them that complement the adjoining songs — and tell their tale of love.

Her pictures are of an auburn-haired beauty. His pictures are of a raven-haired soldier in uniform. Together, they smile their ways toward a promising future.

We do not know when yet, but probably someday soon, a surgeon will take my mother into battle once again. And he will attempt to fix the heart that isn't really broken.

Accident rate drops almost 4 percent

Decades of making safety the top priority is paying off for the Road Commission for Oakland County (RCOC). The Michigan State Police recently reported that the number of accidents in Oakland County dropped from 1997 to 1998 by 3.8 percent.

According to the State Police, there was a total of 47,445 accidents in Oakland in 1998 compared to 49,330 in 1997.

"Safety is the most heavily weighted criteria in the selection of major road projects," explained RCOC Managing Director Brent Bair.

He added safety has been the number one priority of the Road Commission for more than 20 years. The fact that the number of accidents declined during a period when there was a tremendous amount of new development in the county — and presumably increased traffic — suggests that the roads are actually becoming safer, Bair said.

"Because many of the accidents we see occur at intersections, whenever we can identify funding to improve intersections on county roads with high accident statistics, we do it," Bair said. "We often add center left-turn lanes and turn signals to intersections."

Several examples of this type of intersection improvements that RCOC will complete this year include: 8 Mile Road at Pontiac Trail in Lyon Township, Drahter Road at M-24 in Oxford Township, Hickory Ridge at Commerce Road in Milford Township and Milford Road at Holden, also in Milford Township.

However, Bair pointed out that some of the highest accident intersection in the county are on state highways that are under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

In fact, the first and second ranking intersections in Oakland County, in total number of accidents, are on state highways, according to the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County. The highest number of accidents occurs at Telegraph and 12 Mile, where there were 412 accidents between 1995 and 1998.

The second highest number occurs at M-59 and Williams Lake Road (the north-and south-bound intersections of M-59 and Williams Lake Road are about 1,000 feet apart).

Over this same three-year period, there were 310 accidents at the north-and south-bound Williams Lake/M-59 intersections combined.

"I'm not sure what could be done at Telegraph and 12 Mile, because of the sheer volume of traffic," Bair said. "However, I'm hopeful that the state can come up with some solutions at M-59 and Williams Lake."

Bair added for its part, RCOC will continue to use safety as its number one project selection criteria. "It appears we will never have enough money to address all the traffic problems and alleviate all the congestion in Oakland County. But we will continue to work on the most serious safety problems and, hopefully, see a continued trend of reduced traffic accidents and fatalities," he stated.

Businesses score with financing fair

Oakland County will sponsor an open house which focuses on financing options for small business owners on Thursday, June 17 from 3:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. at Bistro 313's Masters Conference & Banquet Center, 313 E. Walton Blvd., Pontiac. Please call Oakland County at (248) 858-0783 for further information or to attend this free event.

The Small Business Financing Fair will provide small business owners with the opportunity to meet commercial loan officers from a variety of banks as well as representatives of community, state and federal financial programs. Other sponsors include the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), City of Pontiac Economic Development Corporation (EDC), Michigan Small Business Development Center (MSBDC) and Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE).

Oakland Schools unveiling grant winners

The public is invited to the Oakland Schools headquarters 6-8 p.m. Thursday, June 10, to preview the the first Oakland Schools Equity and Excellence challenge grants.

Nearly $3 million in grants was awarded to local school districts by Oakland Schools last October to promote school restructuring initiatives that addressed special needs of students, career preparation and the use of technology in education.

"Our economized operations and responsible fiscal stewardship have given the Oakland Schools Board the opportunity to further promote equity and excellence in education to Oakland County students," said Jim Redmond.

Oakland Schools was able to award a total of $2,989,612 to all 28 local school districts and seven charter schools.

Funded projects range from a new alternative middle school to a computer networking curriculum to sound field amplification installation to technology-enhanced bilingual communication to choice theory instruction to Reading Recovery sharing to interactive video and more.

Proposals were read by Oakland Schools staff and Education Advisory Group members from Beaumont Hospital, Consumers Power, Kelly Services, and New Horizons (non-profit rehabilitation agency that provides workforce development services for the physically and mentally impaired).

RSVP to Sandra Lee, Project Manager, at 248/209-2406 if you wish to view the displays and talk with district representatives about their projects.

TAX CUT UNVEILED

Gov. John Engler was scheduled to unveil plans in Lansing for a new tax cut this week.

The cut, if enacted by the Legislature, would count at the 26th cut adopted under the Engler administration. The last was a trimming of the income tax rate from 4.4 percent to 3.9 percent earlier this year. That cut is to be phased in over the next five years.

Nonetheless, House and Senate fiscal agencies have been predicting rises in Michigan tax revenues due to the state's strong economy.

A Senate Fiscal Agency analysis recently concluded that revenues would be $717 million over estimates drawn just last January. Even with the previous tax cuts, the analysis had concluded revenues would still be up $463 million over January estimates.

SEATBELT BILL SIGNED

Gov. Engler has signed legislation allowing for primary enforcement by police of Michigan's mandatory safety belt law.

"Make no mistake, safety belt use is the best defense vehicle occupants have to prevent death or serious injury," Engler said. "We know this bill will save lives."

Currently, safety belt usage in Michigan is at 70 percent. Under Senate Bill 335, which goes into effect during the spring of next year, usage is expected to improve by 10 to 15 percent. Sponsored by State Sen. Bill Bullard (R-Highland) the bill allows for enforcement of Michigan's seatbelt law as a standard — or primary — action. The enforcement of the safety belt law has been limited as a secondary action, when a driver has been detained for some other traffic violation.

SB 335 requires:

■ The driver and all passengers in the front seat must wear a seatbelt.

■ All children under age 4 must be in a child restraint seat.

■ Violators get a civil infraction, but no points will be assessed.

■ The National Highway

Traffic Safety Administration estimates that primary enforcement of Michigan's safety belt law will save 100 lives and prevent 3,000 serious injuries per year.

LIVINGSTON GROUP ON WEB SITE

The Livingston County Human Services Collaborative Body is among the first local groups to be featured on the state's new human services web site, Putting It Together With Michigan Families, at www.mich.state.mi.us/pit.

The Livingston County Human Services Collaborative Body, an interagency group dedicated to providing family support, prevention and family preservation services, is featured because of its services for children and families. It has been recognized by the state and the federal government for its innovative approach to providing care for families.

"Livingston County's outstanding collaborative efforts are proof that agencies can put aside their own interests and work together for better outcomes for children and families," Engler said.

The PIT Crew (Putting It Together With Michigan Families), author of the web site, was formed as a result of the collaboration of the directors of the state's human services agencies. The web site is intended to share information among those delivering services to children and families at the local level.

The PIT Crew represents the directors of the Family Independence Agency, the Michigan Department of Community Health and the Superintendent of Public Instruction, as well as the Children's Trust Fund, Michigan Department of Career Development, Department of Consumer and Industry Services, Department of Transportation, Office of Services to the Aging, Office of the Children's Ombudsman, and Department of Management and Budget.

It is an on-going interagency group that works to coordinate efforts, collaborate on common issues, and recommend policy to improve services for families and children.

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

Nothing quite like a bass bite

There's nothing quite like the bite and fight from a trophy largemouth bass.

Excitement fills the air when a lunker largemouth inhales your bait and surges deep into the lake.

The fervor continues to build as the drag on your reel buzzes like a swarm of angry wasps while the fish rips line from your reel.

If the bruiser decides to torpedo out of the lake and dance across the surface in an attempt to shake your hook, the adrenaline races through your veins faster than K e n n y

Brack's laps around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The largemouth bass is renowned for its feisty attitude and die-hard resilience.

Add in the fact that largemouth inhabit nearly all inland lakes in the state, and it's easy to see why there has been an increase in the popularity of bass fishing in recent years.

A sunny opener

Anglers were greeted by unseasonably warm temperatures and sunny skies on Saturday as the 1999 bass season opened on inland lakes across the state. (The season opens Saturday, June 19, on Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair and Detroit rivers.)

"Overall I had good reports from fishermen," said Ron Jedlicki, owner of Hook, Line and Sinkers Bait Shop in Lake Orion. "Right now they're catching them along the first drop-off out from the shallows where they were spawning. That's pretty typical for this time of year. They're along the weedy ledges in eight- to 10-foot of water."

Roy King, of Lakeside Fishing Shop in Farmington, also reports that fishing has been great.

He caught five bass on Monday from a private lake in South Lyon in about an hour on the lake.

"Our manager went up north to Alpena for the opener and he said they hammered 'em," said King. "The bass were still on their beds and they caught a ton of 16- to 18-inch fish."

Over at KD Outdoors on Pontiac Lake, Vince Call reports that anglers are catching "a lot of fish," although most seem to be on the small side.

"We've only got one fish registered in our contest," Call said. "It's a 4-pound, 8-ouncer and was caught Monday. They've been catching them on everything, top-water, crankbaits, spinnerbaits, worms. You name it, they've been hitting everything."

Jedlicki suggests anglers try golden shiners for live bait and white or light colors for spinnerbaits.

He also said anglers have been doing well with a new minnow pattern floating Rapala.

Channel 9 or 16?

There has been much confusion lately about the switch by boaters from Channel 16 to Channel 9 for hailing on VHF radios.

The following information should help clear the air and is passed along from the United States Coast Guard, District 9, Cleveland, Ohio.

Channel 9 is to be used only by boaters on Lake Michigan. Boaters on all other lakes should continue to use Channel 16.

(Anglers and hunters are urged to report your success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to: Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax information to (248) 644-1314, send e-mail to bparker@oe.homecomm.net or call Bill Parker evenings at (248) 901-2573.)

Eagles comeback nets MACS diamond title

BY DANIEL STICKRADT
STAFF WRITER
dstickradt@oe.homecomm.net

To say that Temperance Stateline Christian has enjoyed success on the athletic playing surface during the past four years would be an understatement.

The Patriots have won four straight Michigan Association of Christian Schools Division I boys basketball titles, three straight MACS Division I boys soccer titles, the 1998 MACS boys golf title and entered Saturday's MACS state baseball finals having won the last two state championships after finishing second in 1998.

So it's quite understandable that host Clarkston Springfield Christian players were a little nervous Saturday when they met top-ranked Stateline in the 1999 MACS baseball finals.

Nothing was going to ruin Springfield Christian's fairy-tale season, though, as the Eagles weathered an early storm and rallied to upset the top-ranked Patriots 9-2. The win earned the school's first MACS baseball championship since it won back-to-back titles in 1986 and 1987.

Springfield finished only 2-13 last season but turned the ship around to become the unlikely of state finalists. "We had that mind-set going in that 'wow, we have to play Stateline,'" said Springfield Christian second-year manager Pat Wagner. "And when we fell behind 2-0 early and we didn't score in the first three innings, even I was really starting to get nervous. Stateline has a great senior class and they are used to winning in every sport."

The second-seeded Eagles (17-3) erupted for six runs in the fourth inning and freshman right-hander Ben Munce overcame a shaky start as the Eagles pulled off the shocker.

"I'm just elated," said Wagner. "I was hoping before the season that maybe we could finish five-hundred or maybe seven-hundred ball. But this was beyond anyone's expectations."

Munce (7-1) earned the victory on the mound by going seven innings with 11 strikeouts while scattering just five hits and three walks.

Stateline (21-4) scored twice in the first on two singles and a pair of passed balls and held its 2-0 advantage through three innings.

"Ben was very nervous in the beginning," said Wagner of Munce. "But once he settled down and got in his groove he really took control of the

Wolves start with diamond success

Pitching, speed, defense bring pre-district win

BY BRAD KADRACH
SPORTS EDITOR

Speed kills, and the Clarkston Wolves have plenty of it.

So much for Lapeer East's chances in Tuesday's Division I pre-district prep girls softball game.

Clarkston's Melanie Arnold created runs with her feet and took away runs with her glove, and pitcher Candace Morgan was on fire as the

■ PREP SOFTBALL

Wolves bounced the Eagles out of the district tournament with a convincing 3-0 win at Lapeer.

The win advances Clarkston to a 11:30 a.m. Saturday date with Grand Blanc in one district semifinal. Lake Orion and Lapeer East play in the other semifinal.

Morgan was nearly unhittable, spinning a four-hitter and striking out six.

But it was Arnold's speed that stole the show — literally.

The speedy center fielder was instrumental in Clarkston's two-run third inning. Stacy Giroux beat out a one-out single and went to second on Corinne McIntyre's sacrifice bunt. Arnold then laid down a bunt and the Eagles, trying to nip Arnold at first, threw the ball away, allowing Giroux to score all the way from second.

Arnold then stole third and, when catcher Brook Dittich's throw sailed into the outfield, Arnold beat the relay for the second run.

"Melanie sets our table," Clarkston coach Al Land said. "She made some nice catches in the outfield."

None was better than the catch she made on East's Keri Vizona leading off the third inning. Vizona sent a sinking liner to center that Arnold caught on the dead run before sprawling to the turf.

It was the first of several good defensive plays the Wolves made. Sophomore first baseman Mary Warchuck ranged to her left to snag a soft liner by Emily Bell to end the third inning.

And Morgan got the game-ending double play when she snared a liner up the middle by Anne Sherman, then nailed a trapped Sara Kellogg off first base to close it out.

"Candace did a nice job, and we played good defense," Land said. "We didn't hit that well, but we haven't been hitting."

The Wolves, who managed just seven hits themselves, tried to shake themselves out of their offensive doldrums.

Arnold, who was 3-for-3, started the game with a single, but was thrown out trying to steal. Lindsay Simko was safe on an error, but was forced at second by Warchuck's grounder. Warchuck was then thrown out trying to steal.

"We decided we were going to bunt the ball and run around," Land said. "When you're not hitting, you have to be aggressive."

The aggressive base running was a key, but so was the attitude when it didn't work out right at first. "We wanted to play harder than them," said Arnold, who stole two bases. "We forgot about (the throwouts) and kept our heads in the game."

Long ball helps Wolves rout Eagles in opener

The Clarkston Wolves went to Lapeer Tuesday hoping for a tuneup to Saturday's district semifinals and finals.

And that's exactly what they got.

Chris Mitchell and Adam Leech blasted home runs, and the Wolves exploded for seven runs in the first two innings on their way to an 11-1 rout of Lapeer East in a Division I pre-district prep baseball game.

The win sends Clarkston to the district semifinal Saturday. The Wolves play Grand Blanc at 9:30. Lake Orion and Lapeer West play in the other semifinal.

The Wolves turned in exactly the kind of performance first-year coach Phil Price was hoping for Tuesday.

"We wanted to not take chances, get this game over with and play a lot of kids," said Price, whose team is now 21-10. "We put the ball in play, and they made some errors."

The Wolves also got timely hitting, and plenty of it. Mitchell blasted a two-run homer in the third inning, and Leech, who has quietly had an excellent season, poked a solo shot an inning later.

Second baseman John Drallos had a ground-rule double, and catcher Derek Casper smacked a shot off the outfield fence.

■ 'We're just trying to get back to playing some good baseball.'

Meanwhile, Mitchell got the start on the mound and turned in a solid three innings. Junior Ryan Marino was "outstanding" in relief, Price said.

Mostly, the easy win gave the Wolves a chance to work a lot of people into the lineup and to work on the little things Price hopes will net them a district championship.

"We were working on some things," Price said. "(Mitchell) worked on his mechanics and the hitters were working on things. We're just trying to get back to playing some good baseball. It was a good win."

Local teams fare well at Oakland County track meet

BY DANIEL STICKRADT
STAFF WRITER
dstickradt@oe.hometown.com

With the state meet just around the corner, the Oakland County Track & Field meet generally serves as one final tune-up for the state meet of the season finale for others. And the traditional meet rarely disappoints.

Individuals from South Lyon to Oxford and from Ferndale to Holly set school records or personal bests in abundance Friday at Hazel Park, where Southfield and Pontiac Northern repeated as team champions in a field that boasted around 75 percent of the county's track teams and over 200 state qualifiers. Southfield amassed 111 points to win its third straight girls title, with Rochester Adams (69), Clarkston and Southfield-Lathrup (42), and Oxford (36) rounding out the top five.

Meanwhile, Pontiac Northern won its unprecedented sixth straight title with 62 points, edging runner-up Walled Lake Central by a narrow nine points. Walled Lake Western was third with 47, while Milford (38) and Troy (36) concluded the top five.

Lake Orion led all North Oakland Eccentric teams by placing 12th with 19 points and Clarkston tied Royal Oak Kimball for 15th with 16 points.

"The county meet always brings forth a lot of excitement," said Clarkston girls coach Gordie Richardson. "When you have that many great teams at one location, anything can happen."

Clarkston, which had its highest finish since they were third in 1989, placed in nine of 10 events in which they were entered, led by the foursome of Lissa Lukens, Jennifer Rooding, Nicole Fisher and Rachel Uchman won the 3200 relay with a county-best time of 9:42.3.

Rooding came back to place second in the 800 (2:21.7) with Fisher taking fourth (2:23.1) in the same event. Uchman was fourth in the long jump (15-11.5) and sixth in the 400 (1:01.3). Lukens was eighth in the 1600 (5:36.7), Katie Jerge was sixth in the discus (99-0), and Brittani Brewer was eighth in both the 100 hurdles (16.4) and high jump (4-10).

The unit of Brewer, Rooding, Fisher and Uchman was third in the 1600 relay with a 4:10.0 showing.

"We ran really well at the county, no question about it," said Richardson. "Just about everybody ran their best times of the year, especially the relays. And I think placing third behind Southfield and Rochester Adams says a lot about the OAA Division I."

In the boys meet, Lake Orion senior Jordan Desilets had the top performances from the area, emerging from a tough field to win the 1600 in 4:20.3. He also won the 800 by placing third with a school-record 1:57.0 clocking.

"I've been trying all year so it's nice to finally get a record," said Desilets, who will compete in the 800, 1600 and 3200 runs at the Class A state meet. "Now, I'm hoping to go into the state meet and break the mile record and lower my 800 record even more."

Clarkston also placed in three events as the unit of Matt Haver, David Sage, Brett Quantz and Kevin Breen took third in the 3200 relay (8:05.7).

Breen, Quantz, Cody Senkyr and Matt Carlson also took sixth in the 1600 relay (3:30.3), while Sage set a personal mark in the 3200 by finishing in 9:26.9.

■ Oakland County Freshmen Meet — At Milford on Saturday, Clarkston's Lindsay Hawley took second in the shot put (30-8") and third in the discus (85-5) to lead the Wolves. Carla Delvecchio was third in the 3200 (12:47.6), while teaming up with Sarah Stolk, Chelsea Bryan and Maureen McIntyre for a sixth place showing in the 3200 relay (10:49.4).

Bryan, Kelly Drobst, Andi Warner and Allison Spindwebber were sixth in the 1600 relay (4:38.1).

Springfield tripped up in MACS soccer final

BY DANIEL STICKRADT
STAFF WRITER
dstickradt@oe.hometown.com

The feat of winning three consecutive championships has become more of a rare gem in the arena of athletics these days, especially when one must face the same rival three years running.

But that did not prevent Davison Faith Baptist's girls soccer team from pulling off the hat-trick Saturday under sizzling temperatures.

Top-ranked Faith scored three second-half goals to break a close game wide open and upended Clarkston Springfield Christian 4-1 in the state finals of the Michigan Association of Christian Schools Tournament in Davison.

Springfield, seeded second heading into the third annual tournament, held its own during the first 40 minutes and went into intermission tied 1-1, but were forced into the defensive in the second half.

The loss marked the third straight year that Faith defeated Springfield in the MACS finals, winning 5-0 in 1997 and 1-0 in 1998.

"Faith has three really good players and they were able to get the best of us again," said Springfield coach Dennis Hopkins. "We were able to score on them this year unlike the past two, but we just didn't have enough against them in the second half."

Faith (12-2-2) only outshot Springfield 11-7, but really went on the offensive after halftime. Freshman forward Annette Robinson scored the eventual game-winner in the 48th minute when she intercepted a clearing attempted and rifled a shot into the upper corner from 22 yards out past Springfield sophomore keeper Holley Vanaman.

Hopkins decided to gamble and put Vanaman in the field for the final 15 minutes to help bolster the offense, but Faith scored on a couple of counterattacks to put the game away.

Senior midfielder Shannon

Garrett gave Faith a 3-1 when she stole the ball at midfield and went in all alone on Springfield backup Suzanne Rydman before beating her to the far post. Freshman forward Annette Robinson added the fourth goal at 77:42 on another one-on-one situation.

"We had to make some changes because we weren't generating any kind of offense," said Hopkins. "We new it would be a risk, but we had to push as many people forward as possible."

"This was a good season though. We are still a young team with only three seniors so hopefully we can have another go at it next year."

game. He's only a freshman but he pitched strong.

Munce led off the fourth inning with a single to left, and later scored on junior Matt Christie's two-run double that knotted the score at 2-2.

Junior Matt Lontene laced a RBI single two batters later with the for the eventual game-winner while junior Greg Irish capped the six-run inning with an RBI.

Stateline senior right-hander Todd Weber — the MACS version of Mr. Soccer, Mr. Golf and Mr. Basketball already this school year — suffered his first loss of the season, lasting only 3 2/3 innings.

Springfield (17-3) later padded its lead with one run apiece over the final three frames off Stateline senior reliever Dave Dalton. Christie led the attack by going 3-for-4 with two singles and two RBI, while Irish added a pair of RBI for the Eagles.

"To beat Stateline is unbelievable, and to beat them by that much is great," said Wagner. "We only lose two seniors so we're hoping that we can make it back (to the finals) again next year and win it again."

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q: I have lived in my condominium for four years and, until recently, I had no water in my basement. I then had six inches of water in my basement, which caused substantial damage.

I called the association emergency number, waited several hours until the handyman could come and survey the damage. The drain was plugged.

I asked the manager what they were going to do. I have not seen any action, but my insurance company has paid for the damage to my contents. I have also had other problems with ice dams on the roof and that damage hasn't been repaired.

I have had another flood in my basement with more damage to my windows and foundation. The property manager ignores me.

I would sell my condominium, but these damages would have to be disclosed. What should I do?

A: Your horror story isn't unusual, unfortunately, as many associations and/or property managers don't address the problems of the co-owners in a timely fashion.

In defense of the property manager, they may be inhibited by the board of directors from spending the money to do so. Or the property manager may be overburdened with other commitments and may be derelict in his duties.

It would appear that legal representation by an experienced attorney will be of benefit to you to advise you of your legal rights and warn the association and its property manager and the board of directors of their liability for failure to redress your problems.

Successful Realtors learn to organize their days to balance job and home

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER
dfunke@oe.hometown.com

Every day has 24 hours. Yet, some Realtors kiddingly maintain that they seem to spend a lot more time than that on the job.

Between scrambling for listings, showing houses to buyers, spearheading paperwork, arranging inspections, taking care of 101 details that surface during the business day and having any kind of personal life, well ...

It can be done. But, ironically, it takes time — and an awareness — to get organized.

"Some (Realtors) are totally consumed," said George Glinski, affiliated with Century 21 Chalet in Livonia. "They run seven days a week and then they have to go talk to a psychiatrist or get medication to slow down. To me, that's not the way to do it."

"It is a very time-intensive business," said John James, a Realtor with Prudential Chamberlain Stiehl in Troy. "I see some Realtors, frankly, who aren't organized. Everything seems to be in disarray. They forget this or that."

Gloria Hogan, a Realtor with Real Estate One in Lathrup Village, said she still struggles with time management after 13 years in the trenches.

"I do need to get a grip on it," said Hogan, adding that she loves the work. "I'm giving, giving. There's nothing left for me."

So what's a Realtor to do? "You always need to be conscious of your time and how little time you have to devote to one task," James said. "Keep current on everything. Don't let things slide."

"Keep a clean desk," he added.

"When something comes in, take care of it directly so it doesn't pile up."

"I do make it a point to take at least one day a week I'm physically not in the office," James said. "It may not be a Saturday or Sunday."

But that doesn't mean he isn't reachable those days via telephone, fax or beeper.

"You have to keep a balance," James said. "If you wanted to, you could work seven days a week, 24 hours a day. It's all a matter of balance. You absolutely have to make time for yourself."

James said he also returns telephone calls while he's driving to and from appointments and errands.

For Glinski, who changed careers a couple of years ago after a long involvement in the restaurant business, it's all a matter of setting priorities.

"I arrange my real estate schedule pretty much around my personal life," he said. "My wife doesn't drive, so I drive her to work. I have a child active in sports. I work that in."

Glinski writes everything down in a planner as far in advance as possible. "I want to put my family first as long as I can. It doesn't always work."

He also likes to feed two horses with one bale of hay.

"I try to combine trips. If I know I'm going by a listing that needs some feature sheets, I'll look for new clients, for sale by owners," Glinski said.

Hogan, who admits to working to excess, finds that making a list and checking it twice helps her keep track of what she wants to accomplish.

"I do a lot of stuff in the morning, the best time spent at home," she said. "I just lay out my week. I have to write it down in a journal. I have a to-do list every day. I write it down."

"Each task I complete, I cross it off. What's left at the bottom, I start out the next day," Hogan said.

Theresa Shrader, affiliated with RE/MAX on the Trail in Plymouth, suggests that Realtors just have to get into a mindset that the job requires a lot of grunt work and attention to detail.

"Routine helps," she said. "I go to bed at the same time every night. I get up at the same time every morning. I do the same thing every day."

"I guess I take care of details as they occur and don't let them pile up ... follow up when the mortgage company needs information, the appraiser needs information, transfer utilities," Shrader said.

"Make the list every day what you're going to do tomorrow. Then follow that list," she said.

Shrader also admits to watching very little television.

Beware of the conversational time stealers in the office and on the phone, advises Joan Stern, a Realtor with Cranbrook Associates in Bloomfield Hills.

"Some people just want to bend your ear," the nine-year veteran said. "You can't let them waste your time when there are things you have to be doing. I'm guilty sometimes, too."

Stern daily prepares and carries a little card in her purse "my go list — things I absolutely have to do today," she said. And she can never just watch TV or idly wait for meetings to materialize.

"If I'm going to watch something, I'll do it while I'm organizing a drawer, putting stamps on envelopes. I can't just sit there. I'll take reading material if I have to wait for an appointment. I'll review listing tickets."

FHA may insure your mortgage

MORTGAGE SEARCH

DAVID C. MULLY

HUD's FHA has mortgage insurance to help you become a homeowner. FHA doesn't actually make loans. Instead, it insures loans so that if buyers default, lenders will get their money. This encourages lenders to give mortgages to people who might not otherwise qualify for a loan. You may be able to get an FHA loan for 3 percent down, or even less.

Talk to an FHA-approved lender about this to see if an FHA loan might be right for you (My company provides a list of FHA-approved lenders at www.RateUpdate.com. Click on the HUD link on the related links Web page.)

When a homeowner fails to make the mortgage payments, a default occurs and the home goes into foreclosure.

Both the homeowner and the mortgage insurer lose in a foreclosure. The homeowner loses the house and all of the money put into it. The mortgage insurer will then have to pay the lender's claim on the defaulted loan.

For this reason, it is crucial that the family buying the home can really afford it — not only at the time it is purchased but throughout the time period of the loan.

Although the cost of the mortgage insurance is paid by the home buyer or borrower, the mortgage insurer works with the lender. Mortgage insurance is available to commercial banks, savings and loans and mortgage bankers, all of whom offer mortgage loans to home buyers.

Don't be confused. Mortgage insurance is not the same as credit life insurance, also called mortgage life insurance. Mortgage life insurance is merely a life insurance policy that will pay off the mortgage balance upon the death of the person who took out the insurance policy. Mortgage life is traditional life insurance with a declining balance.

FHA maximum mortgage limits in southeast Michigan are as follows:

Up to $156,258 in Lapeer, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair and Wayne counties. Up to $162,902 in Livingston and Washtenaw counties.

These are healthy loan limits and can help many new and existing homeowners obtain a new home with very little as a down payment. The qualifying criteria is more flexible than conventional mortgages. The interest rates and closing cost are very competitive to normal conventional loans.

It is important that the lender you work with have experience in doing FHA loans, so do not hesitate to ask your lender if they specialize in FHA loans. If they do not or sound inexperienced, find another FHA lender.

David Mully's company, Mortgage Search Services, surveys lenders and provides updates on mortgage rates for homeowners. His survey and weekly column can be accessed online at www.rateupdate.com. The survey report appears inside Thursday and Sunday's Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. The company provides consumers with a Mortgage Search Hot line at 1-877-MTG-SHOP (684-7467). Canton man wins big tree contest

Garrett Stone of Canton won the Wayne County division of the Michigan Big Tree Hunt with an eastern cottonwood that is 249 inches in circumference.

The tree is on his property. Stone, 88, used to run a Texaco gasoline station on what is now the union hall at Canton Center and Joy on the dividing line between Plymouth and Canton.

Stone said he helped measure the tree so it could be entered in the contest. The contest seeks the largest previously unknown tree in the state and the largest tree in each county.

The contest is sponsored by Global ReLeaf of Michigan and the Michigan Big Tree Hunt Committee.

Awards will be presented Saturday, June 19, at the Wayne County RESA Auditorium in Wayne.

Grand prize winner for the largest tree entered in the contest was Richard Pomorski. He entered a 307-inch weeping willow tree in Oakland County.

Grand prize winner for the largest white pine (Michigan's state tree) entered was Joel Skok. The winning white pine is 141 inches and is in Ottawa County.

The contest has uncovered 27 potential new state champion trees. The locations of these trees will be forwarded to Elwood Ehrle, state coordinator of the State Champion Tree Register for final verification.

Participants were asked to search their communities to find the tree with the widest girth. Prizes are awarded to the individual who nominates the largest tree entered from his or her county.

Additional prizes are awarded to the person who found the largest white pine (Michigan's state tree), individuals nominating the largest tree of 13 predetermined families and anyone who finds a tree larger than the current Michigan State Champion of that species.

Entries are accepted year-round, and forms may be obtained by calling Global ReLeaf of Michigan at (800) 642-7353.

The Michigan Big Tree Hunt Contest is a cooperative effort of Global ReLeaf of Michigan, the Michigan Big Tree Hunt Committee, the Michigan Botanical Club/Big Tree Project, the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association and local Soil/Water Conservation District and MDNR offices.

Keep your home secure whether you are buying or selling

(NAPS) - Almost one in every five people will move this year, and many will be buying or selling one of the 19 million U.S. homes with a security system. As a result, more homeowners than ever are asking questions about what to do with their systems when they move out... or move in.

According to security experts, planning ahead can make your move easier, save you money and help secure your home before, during and after your move.

"Home sellers ask questions about when their systems should be disconnected and whether service can be re-established at their new homes," said Tony Byerly, general manager at SecurityLink from Ameritech. "Home buyers face a tougher challenge: They're moving into homes with systems already in place but don't know how to re-establish service or who to call for help."

The questions will increase as the home security market grows 22 percent to $18.4 billion by the year 2000.

What can movers do? Byerly recommends these tips:

For Sellers:

■ Review your monitoring contract. You may be required to pay the balance of the contract before you move. Also, many homeowners aren't sure whether they own their system. Check your contract if you're not sure.

■ Call your security company two to four weeks before you move and provide a firm moving date. Arrange to have your system monitored through moving day and ask if the company offers any moving programs or incentives.

■ Discuss the system with your home's new owners. Ask if they want to keep the system and sign up for service with your security company. If they do, your security company may offer incentives for passing on the names of the new owners.

■ Should you have the system removed? Unless you own the system, leave it in place so the new owners have the option of re-establishing service.

■ Give the new owners your security company's name, contact numbers and information on your system, so they can re-establish service and learn how to operate the system.

■ If you'd like a system in your new home, ask the company if you can re-establish service at your new address. If your new home is vacant, make arrangements to meet with a sales consultant and have the system installed before you move. Ask about any incentives for re-establishing service.

For Buyers:

■ If your new home has a system, the first step is to find out who provides the service. If there's no information from the previous owners, look for contact information on the system keypad or control panel.

■ Call the company and ask to re-establish service under your name, or ask to have the system removed.

■ If you re-establish service, make sure family members understand how to use the system. Ask your security company if a technician could visit your home for some basic training.

Helpful facts you ought to know

JOE GAGNON

Here is a list of facts which I would like to have you keep at your disposal.

1. The manufacturers of hot water tanks in this country build a tank with a dip tube in them. This tube supplies cold water entry at the top of the tank and directs the water into the bottom of the tank. This defective dip tube story is rapidly spreading across the country. Let me ask you why the tank must have a dip tube in it to begin with. I will have an answer from the plumbing industry by the time you read this column. Fact: In Canada, I saw with my own eyes a hot water tank which has no dip tube in it. It's made in that country and many consumers own it. The cold water entry pipe is hooked up at the bottom of the tank. The life expectancy of that tank is average of 20 years, why is the life span of our tank from three to seven years.

2. The stores in this country sell dryer vent line made of plastic which has been proven to be the cause of dryer fires. Many deaths and over 14,000 fires have been blamed on dryer fires and improper vent lines. This annual number should be enough to alarm the country about using plastic vent line, but it's not. The State Code Construction Law bans it from usage and yet it continues to be sold. Fact: The insurance industry is looking into it. What if your house burnt to the ground and the insurance company refused to pay your claim because you used plastic vent line. Only then will every homeowner in this country use the solid metal vent line.

3. Refrigerator repairs will increase three fold during this year's Michigan summer. Condenser fan motors will be the most common component to fail causing a typical service invoice to exceed $125. Thousands of dollars in food loss will occur and thousands of consumers will buy new refrigerators. Fact: Many of these problems would not happen if the homeowners would clean the condenser underneath the refrigerator.

4. Some consumers will be buying new central air conditioning for their homes because the repair costs for fixing the old unit is too high. You will see and read stories all summer long on the unethical air conditioning business who scammed the homeowner. Fact: There are many good honest and reliable heating and air conditioning companies out there. You just have to make sure you're dealing with one of them.

5. Most homes in this country have food left over in the refrigerator which has been there too long. Some of this food will cause consumers to suffer food poisoning. Fact: You are lucky if you can get close to freezing and keep foods for up to seven days. Today, use the rule of three to four days at the most.

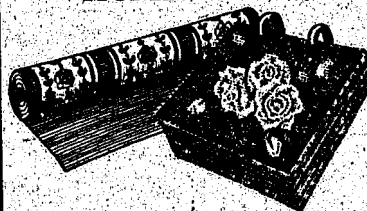

6. The black flies in Northern Canada are very serious in the early months of June. They bite hard and take a little chunk of meat with them when they leave your skin. They will fill your nose and cover the inside of your eye glasses and enter into your ears. They will drive you crazy and keep you inside. Fact: You can buy a hat that has a mosquito net that hangs down to your shoulders. Loose clothing of light color is best, and keep open areas sprayed with a good insect repellent. They only bite Americans. Stay tuned.

Sunrise/sunset photos will have you beaming

MONTE NAGLER

Among the most beautiful and unforgettable images awaiting your camera are sunrises and sunsets. They can be dazzling in color, rich in tones, striking in composition and easier to obtain than you might think.

Here are some tips to help you capture them on film:

■ Use a long telephoto lens when you want to make the sun appear like a giant ball of fire and a normal or wide angle lens when you wish to accentuate spaciousness or show a vast, striking cloud formation.

■ It's important to place foreground subjects in the viewfinder to "frame" your picture and give it a foundation. Subjects can be trees, buildings, boats, even people. Because you meter off the sky, all foreground objects will appear as dramatic black silhouettes.

■ Remember to take your exposure readings off the sky next to the sun. Make an exposure at this setting and take a couple more at progressively smaller apertures. You'll find that by underexposing in this manner, your pictures will have deeper, bolder and richer colors.

■ Try using color slide film instead of color negative film. You'll be pleasantly surprised at the more saturated colors.

Rising to the occasion: Monte Nagler found this dramatic sunrise near Speedway, Tenn. Notice how important the trees and fence are in the overall composition.

Nagler

you'll obtain. Then, have enlargements made from your favorite shots.

■ Pay close attention to horizons. Make absolutely sure that they are running horizontal across the viewfinder. A tilting horizon can be very distracting.

■ While sunrise/sunset photographs in themselves can be excitingly colorful, the use of a colored filter will further enhance your shot. Imagine a descending sun surrounded by a dramatic cloud pattern photographed through an orange, red or even purple filter. You'll be delighted with the results.

■ You don't always have to place the sun in your picture. Wait until the sun dips behind a dark cloud and then capture the sunbeams as they spill through to the ground. Or wait until the sun has totally descended and see how the sky and clouds invite your camera with their gradually deepening color hues.

A caution: For eye safety, avoid looking directly at the sun through the viewfinder. With a little practice, you'll find it easy to place the sun where you desire in the composition without having to look straight at it.

Sunrise/sunset photos are easy to take. The results will make you proud of your photographic abilities and may just give you a sunny disposition!

Power play Hockeytown furnishes of champ

Does the thought of decorating your home have you seeing red? If that's red as in Red Wings, there's a line of furniture just for you.

The Hockeytown Home Collection is a line of authentic Detroit furnishings that score a hat trick of style and design — being attractive, functional and special. The custom-made pieces not only bear the Red Wings logo but components include items of authentic hockey equipment and brand products.

Ron and Kathy Ilitch landed themselves on this cutting edge of home furnishings by scoring the goal of making the idea a reality by meeting such challenges as creating and developing the designs and obtaining licensing.

The Troy couple put samples of the furniture literally on ice when they were interviewed for this article. The pieces were displayed at the Joe Louis Arena, the day after the Red Wings' last playoff game.

"I've been working on this for about four years... using (hockey equipment) to build furniture," Ron Ilitch said.

"It's been a fun challenge, a labor of love," Kathy Ilitch said.

"This is authentic, one-of-a-kind furniture. No one has this particular design and including (equipment)." Ron Ilitch said.

A hall tree from the collection features inverted hockey sticks as legs, resembling a puck. Sticks are also legs in desks, tables and a chair. The head and foot of a bed.

A dresser looks like a giant puck on edge, complete with tread on the exterior. The puck shape also appears in the top of a bar and bar stools.

Signed jerseys or other collectibles may be placed in a display case under an ice rink design under a glass top. A round coffee table features the Wings logo and name and "Joe Louis" etched in glass.

On the cover:

The Hockeytown Home Collection is available at Billy Bob's stores and at Big Beaver and John Troy, which is expected to open in the week.

The furniture can also be ordered by calling (800) WINGS-25; orders can be placed at Joe Louis Arena, or shipping and delivery can be arranged.

Prices at this time range from $199 to $1,999.

Ron Ilitch started with the idea of putting the team's logo on furniture, then thought of incorporating equipment in the design. After working many late nights and early mornings sketching out the idea, he took it to Ross Matuja, general manager and designer of Commercial Cabinet of Fairhaven, who developed the design.

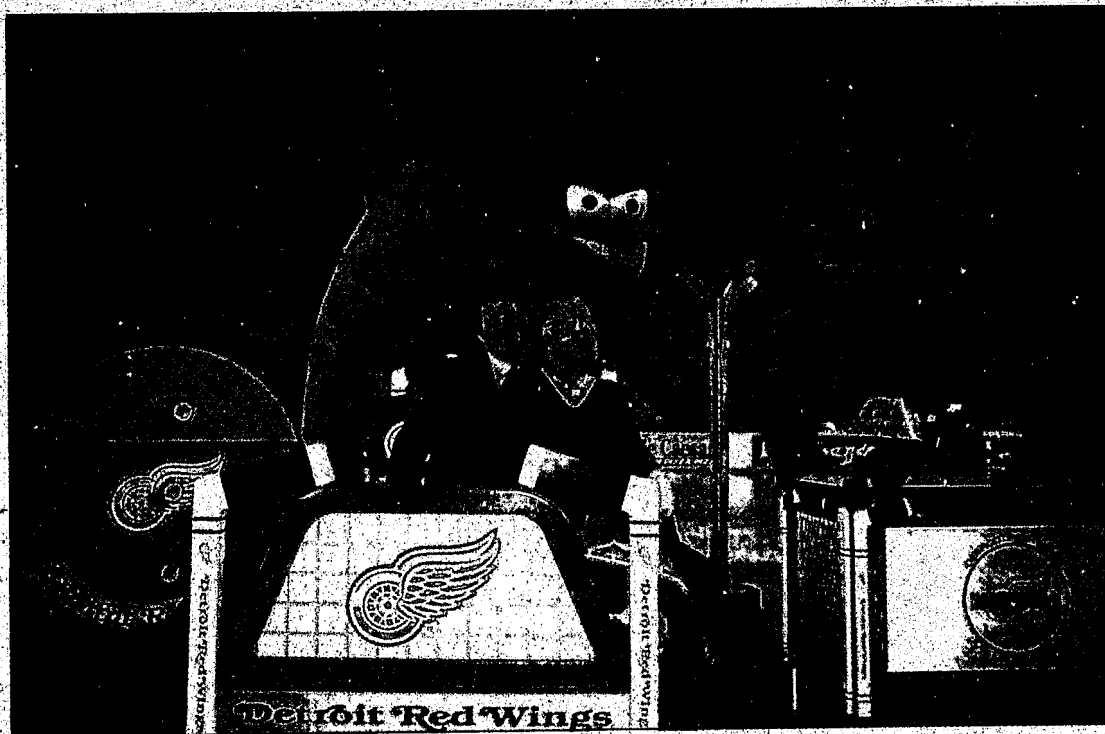

"He's a very, very talented guy," Kathy said of Matuja.

"That was a very good idea Ron came up with," Matuja said.

Future plans include making furniture with baseball, basketball and football motifs as well as hockey, and incorporating the logo from all American teams (permission couldn't be obtained from Canadian teams).

So far the response has been enthusiastic since the line was introduced last hockey season.

"Everyone loves the Red Wings," Kathy said.

A new arena: Ron and Kathy Ilitch (and an eight-armed creature familiar to Red Wings fans) pose with some of the items from the Hockeytown Home Collection, one-of-a-kind furniture that they developed.

Fit right in to container gardening

MARTY FIGLEY

Containers, like people, come in all shapes and sizes, and finding the right "fit" is sometimes a challenge. But don't despair. With the following guidelines you just can't fail!

TV personality Jim Wilson recently conducted seminars at Goldner-Walsh and I have usurped some of his guidelines about container gardening with some of my own ideas thrown in.

Containers should have a 7- to 10-gallon capacity and drainage holes. Alternately, you can mass several small containers in a large shallow one and pack florist moss or sand around them to help secure them and to keep the soil moist. Hanging baskets can be lined with florist moss or coconut husk (coir) fiber.

The potting soil mustn't come from your garden. Use a good quality mix that you buy; the better ones contain slow-release fertilizers (which feed the plants all summer) and an absorbent to help retain water. Avoid excessive water and sand in the mix.

If you are growing fruiting vegetables (tomatoes, peppers, etc.) add one ounce of dolomite limestone to each gallon of potting soil. This will ensure healthy roots.

If the potting mix contains slow-release fertilizer, don't add more. If you do see that the foliage is yellowing, especially on very vigorous plants, feed every two weeks with a water-soluble fertilizer. If you use organic, it may be necessary to feed weekly. Don't add shards to the container.

When planting, tap the sides and bottom of the growing container to loosen the plant and gently remove it.

If the roots have grown round and round (girdled), straighten them out, or if quite congested cut them from the bottom into quarter sections, or pull the bottom of the root ball away from its center. This will ensure the roots can then grow out and into the new soil in the container.

Set the plant at the level it was originally grown (tomatoes can be set deeper).

If the potting mix doesn't seem to absorb the water, add three or four drops of liquid Ivory or Dawn to each gallon of water before watering.

Place hanging baskets in afternoon shade and away from strong winds. Choose plants with like needs, i.e. sun lovers or shade lovers, keeping in mind where you will place them in your garden. Several containers made of similar materials coordinate the arrangement and make a more pleasing show. Generally the best arrangements include tall, mounding and trailing plants.

Color combinations can either make or break your creation. It's best to stick with no more than three colors or tones, otherwise the arrangement is too busy, but keep in mind that green, white and gray help colors blend. Different colors of the same plant such as the fascinating foliage of coleus make a stunning show and the foliage of zonal geraniums is also quite varied. A deep color can "punch up" and add spice.

Take your containers with you to the nursery and experiment with the different colors, shapes and sizes. Don't be afraid to use a tropical once in a while. Stack three different sizes of bowl-type containers one upon the other to make a pyramid.

There are many new annuals available as well as the old standbys that you will find readily available. Don't be afraid to ask for help and/or suggestions from the staff at the nursery. They are there to help and to make sure you are pleased with your choices.

And, no matter what color combination of plants you choose, wild and bright or quiet and subtle, the main idea is to enjoy container gardening.

Helping the hungry

Plant a Row for the Hungry is a people-helping-people program that was begun in 1995 by the Garden Writers Association of America. Nearly 35 million Americans go hungry often, according to a 1998 report by Tufts University Center on Hunger, Poverty and Nutrition Policy. This PAR program is really catching on all over the United States.

You will soon see spots on HGTV encouraging viewers to get involved; and the National Garden Bureau, the Scotts Company, master gardeners, the National Gardening Association, the Community Gardening Association of America, and America The Beautiful are also supporters.

Garden beauty is no mystery here

By MARY KLEMIC

Judy Jacobs jokingly calls some of the plants in her garden "mystery plants."

"I'm very big on letting things grow, waiting to see what they are," she said.

It's no mystery that Jacobs' garden is

GOODGARDEN TIPS

■ Prune hedges. Remember, wider at bottom, narrower at top so sun can reach the lower part.

■ Plant beans, lettuces and carrots — a few days apart.

■ Keep clean water in the bird baths.

■ Drape a layer of cheesecloth over four stakes that surround a new shrub to protect it from the sun's hot rays. It can stay in place for several weeks, until the plant is established.

■ Congratulations to Cranbrook, for winning three awards at Bloomfest:

lovely, almost one acre in size and filled with a voluminous variety of plants, flowers and trees. It is one of five private grounds in the Franklin Village area on this year's Franklin Garden Walk, taking place 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, June 16.

The event will feature baked goods and garden crafts at a gazebo on the "Best Use of Woody Plant Material," "Best Use of Perennials and Bulbs," and, from the American Horticultural Society, "for an exhibit of horticultural excellence which best demonstrates the bond between horticulture and the environment, and inspires the viewer to beautify home and community through skillful design and appropriate plant material."

And congratulations to Bordine Nursery of Clarkston and Rochester Hills, for winning two awards: from the Metropolitan Landscape Association, the "Award for Horticulture Excellence," and "The Landscape Supply Award for Most Unusual Plants."

■ Bordine has a new look after remodeling its Clarkston Garden Store and Patio Shoppe. Go check it out!

Franklin Village Green (just south of 14 mile, two blocks off Franklin Road, behind the Village Hall), and a salad buffet lunch at the nearby Franklin Community Church. For information, call (248) 851-0498.

Jacobs has lived at the site for about 30 years; the house is 65 years old. An apple orchard was on the land originally, and a few apple trees are still present. A juniper hedge is also there from the original site. And Jacobs has planted arrangements that continuously delight.

"I have a little bit of everything," Jacobs said.

"I really love the perennials."

The garden is a peaceful paradise. The singing of birds punctuates the quiet. Rabbits, chipmunks and even a fox are some of the other wildlife that have been seen here.

A pond contains 30 to 40 fish, and half a dozen frogs so merrily noisy they have been heard over the phone.

"The pond is really fun. We started out with three fish."

A cedar gazebo is like a crown in the back yard. With grapevines winding over and around it, it seems as though it grew naturally on the spot. The family often eats here on a glass-topped table. Nearby stands an angel's trumpet, a tropical plant kept inside in a hallway during the winter.

The garden contains such colorful clusters as spirea and bouncing bet. An herb bed includes basil, sage, rosemary, chives and oregano.

Among the climbing plants are thunbergia, and white climbing hydrangea against the house.

Ah, what horticultural harmony! Peonies, Joe-Pye weed, baptisia, Korean fir, oakleaf hydrangea, rhododendrons, azaleas, burning bush, holly, euphorbia, leopards bane, allium, coneflower, dames rocket, coral bells, butterfly bush, silver maple and witch-hazel are just some examples of what can be found here.

The evergreen foliage of hellebores, and ferns and bamboo are present, along with Rodgersia, the green of which turns into bronze. The blooms of viburnum seem to be floating in air. A dogwood forms a pagoda shape.

Whimsical metal sculpture, and a slate path gently winding across the front yard, are other distinctive elements.

Jacobs recommends a lot of compost and never uses fertilizer. She mulches heavily, shredding leaves in the fall, placing the mulch four to six inches

Help create summer job

LISA LUCKOW-HEALY

The encroaching summer school break brings the laziness factor out in full bloom in some children. Others can't wait to join the working ranks to earn extra money to buy their own car, video and electronics equipment, tickets to an upcoming concert, or countless other extras their parents refuse to subsidize.

If your child is the practical, responsible type, she may also be thinking of saving money for her college education.

Help your child out with her summer job search, particularly if she prefers to avoid the job application process in favor of starting her own business. It really isn't as difficult as it may sound.

Begin by brainstorming ideas for a summer job — one that she may even wish to continue into the school year. Share ideas amongst your family at mealtime. Come up with ideas that cater to her talents beyond the lemonade stand so she will look forward to and take pride in her work. Suggestions might include:

Neighbor assistance service. Think of neighbors who could use extra help because they are elderly and somewhat immobile, working with little time for house care, or even stay-at-home parents in need of errand assistance.

Help your child design a flier or simple, home computer-produced brochure. List the services she is offering such as grocery shopping (if she is of driving age with access to a vehicle, or if you agree to drive her to her job errands); house cleaning or yard care, baby-sitting, pet sitting, or a personal shopping service.

Include her name and telephone number, and simple message informing the neighbors they can call to discuss setting up a regular schedule and related fees.

Lawn care service. The fees some lawn care companies charge for weekly service surprise many people. Help your child check into current rates and decide what is a reasonable fee to charge for weekly lawn cutting and trimming.

Help your child create a flier advertising her lawn care service. Run copies at your local copy store. Make sure your child is only distributing fliers to the neighbors within walking distance of your home (particularly if she has to bring the equipment), unless someone in your household will always be available to drive her to and from a job.

If transportation to and from a job is required, recommend to your child that the customer supply their own, easily operable lawn mower and trimming equipment so you don't have to haul your family's equipment around town.

If your child prefers to carry her job on past lawn care season, encourage her to transition to a snow removal service for the winter months.

Baby-sitting service. If your child is old enough to baby-sit and truly enjoys caring for other children, a baby-sitting service is an ideal opportunity to earn extra money and set her own hours around summer and school year demands.

If she isn't already baby-sitting for one or more neighbors who could send more referrals her way, encourage her to contact the neighborhood association to run a small ad in the neighborhood newsletter.

To supplement your child's baby-sitting schedule, suggest she hold summer day camps for children in a given age bracket. The camp could be as simple as a two- to five-day camp catering to a limited number of preschoolers for three hours a day, or a more extensive, arts and crafts or sports camp for grade schoolers lasting four hours per day for a two-week period.

Other self-employment business opportunities for your young entrepreneur might include painting services, word processing, house sitting, pet walking, pool care, or window washing.

Before you encourage your child to begin any business on her own, discuss the start-up responsibilities.

For instance, once your child earns $400 or more, self-employment tax enters the picture. It's a good idea to do some research with your young entrepreneur at your local library. Seek assistance from the reference librarian to locate resources on ways to set up your child's business and avoid any legal red tape.

The framed display near the entrance to the St. Dunstan's Theater Guild rehearsal space is faded and yellow, the photographs curled at the edge.

Fran Hayes of Birmingham examines the photo and can still point out nearly all the cast members in the 1970 production of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

For the next two weekends, Hayes and Nancy Brassert also of Birmingham will assume the roles as secretaries in the sardonic satire about corporate ethics, just as they did nearly 30 years ago.

"They're playing pretty much the same part as they did," said Ed Grant, the director of both this year's and the 1970 production. "They're older, but sure don't look it."

Thirty years, however, does take its toll.

When composer and lyricist Frank Loesser's award-winning "How to Succeed..." opened on Broadway in 1961, it was the Kennedy administration's Camelot years. America was bright and eager, just like the leading character, J. Pierpont Finch, who manages to rise from window washer to company chairman through the advice of a "How to" book.

Back then, rigid sexual roles dominated — men were executives, women were secretaries. By today's standards, it's (almost) a given that "A Secretary is Not a Toy." But in one of the show's most playfully derisive numbers, it has to be spelled out to the lecherous execs.

The successful Broadway revival in 1995 starring Matthew Broderick paved the way for St. Dunstan's to reproduce "How to Succeed."

While the Broadway show was set in 1961 at the World Wide Wicket Company, the dialogue, lyrics and cast were changed to reflect a more politically correct corporate world.

St. Dunstan's version is closer to the original script.

"In my opinion, the 'p.c.' version took away the barbs and stings," said Grant.

So audiences at Cranbrook's historic Greek amphitheater should expect to hear the punchy words of author Abe Burrows in all their comic glory, and be charmed by the wacky sets reminiscent of a James Thurber cartoon.

"It's definitely a larger-than-life cartoon," said Jamie Mistry of Pleasant Ridge, the show's Finch.

"The set is overblown, as are the characters. It requires a lot of comic timing."

Anyone who has seen the original play or 1967 movie knows that the gap-toothed actor Robert Morse owned the role of Finch. Mistry said what makes the musical work is getting audiences to want his narcissistic character to succeed.

"You have to get them on your side from the beginning," he said.

Cuba Gooding Jr. follows his 'Instinct'

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

Cuba Gooding Jr. is bursting with energy. His laughs are hearty and accompanied by a hand clap. Gooding is only serious when it is absolutely necessary. And he's not one to mince words.

He described Tom Cruise as the quintessential "movie star" (read: ego), Robin Williams as the "most on guy I've ever met," and Rob Reiner, as well, it can't be printed.

Boisterous and loud, Gooding is closer to his Oscar Award-winning character Rod Tidwell than one might think.

"We did this one scene in the movie 'What Dreams May Come' where I'm walking into this church," Gooding said about Williams, while swinging his arms around like Tidwell. "It was 4 in the morning and the actors had been there all day since like 6 in the morning. I was tired and naked with these dots all over me."

"He walked onto the pulpit and held a sermon. He was just bouncing off the walls. It was the funniest thing I've ever seen."

Gooding was in town with director Jon Turteltaub to promote their film "Instinct" which arrives in theaters Friday, June 4. But the panel of journalists talking to Gooding seemed more interested in the "aura" of movie stars and how one creates an aura, his views of African Americans in film, and gossip.

Dressed in a gray shiny shirt, black pin-stripe pants and designer shoes so new that the price tag was still affixed to one sole, Gooding didn't seem to mind. In "Instinct," Gooding portrays psychiatrist Theo Caulder, a resident assigned to explore the mind of Ethan Powell (Anthony Hopkins), a primatologist found guilty of murder deep in the jungles of Rwanda. Caulder meets with Powell, who is unwilling to speak, at Harmony Bay, a rundown maximum security prison in Florida.

Director Turteltaub said he was drawn to "Instinct" for a variety of reasons. "Not only was it a beautifully written screenplay, it also asked a lot of interesting questions about mankind and the world we live in today. I think the film is entertaining and provocative in a way that I hope will inspire audiences to think about what our priorities are to ourselves and to others."

Turteltaub and Hopkins' instincts, however, told them to change a scene in the beginning of the film where Powell talks for the first time. "The way the scene was written, Hopkins had about 12-15 lines of dialogue. Once he got him talking, there's a lot of exchange. Tony came up to me and said, 'I've been looking at this. This is the first time I've spoken in three years. Why am I talking so much? Why

George Strait brings caravan of country artists to Silverdome

Call it Lollapalooza with a twang. A caravan of country artists pulls into the Pontiac Silverdome on Saturday as part of the festival with the longest name — Nokia Presents the George Strait Chevy Truck Country Music Festival.

The eight-hour event includes performances by Strait, the Dixie Chicks, Tim McGraw, Kenny Chesney, Jo Dee Messina, Mark Wills and Asleep at the Wheel, as well as vendors, lifestyle exhibits and recreational games.

Chesney, who hits the stage around dinner time, described the day-long event as "incredible."

"It's a lot of fun. Tim McGraw's on the bill.

It's a lot of fun for me to be out on the road. I've toured a lot with the Dixie Chicks. It's great."

Chesney is touring in support of his fifth album, "Everywhere We Go" (BNA Records). This album has been called one of his best, thanks to his wider vocal range.

"I feel like my voice has grown a lot in the past couple of years and I really wanted to capture that. It's gotten higher, deeper and wider — I don't quite know how to explain it, but it has," Chesney explained.

"It's more of a tempo-oriented record. We wanted to make it that way. That's the only way we recorded differently. We went in and took a bunch of songs into the studio and tried to make something of them."

One of those songs is "You Had Me From can't I indicate these things with movements and gestures and facial expressions and with my eyes?"

"If another actor had said that to me, I might have thought, 'I don't know if you can.' (But) I had Tony Hopkins. The answer was not only, 'Yes I know you can do that,' but, 'Of course, that's exactly how it should be.' He had such insight into this other man's behavior, he could just study him in the little movements in his eyes and know what the other guy was thinking."

Everyday influences

Gooding's film career has been short but sweet. After debuting in John Singleton's film "Boyz n the Hood" in 1991, he has gone on to win an Oscar, and share the silver screen with Jack Nicholson, Tom Cruise, Demi Moore and Williams. But it isn't necessarily the superstars who influence his acting ability.

"Meeting people affects me. Shaking their hands, holding a conversation affects me, especially as an actor. If I was to be a reporter, I would study the way you set the paper on your lap, everything you would say to me, how you hold yourself and your presence. That would stay somewhere in my psyche and the next time I had a call for it I would try to recall that moment," he said.

Gooding's resume transcends the boundaries of acting. He and friend Derek Broes formed the development company Good-Bro Entertainment. Their list of projects includes 1998's "The Murder of Crows," a film in which Gooding starred with Tom Berenger, Marianne Jean-Baptiste and Eric Stoltz. Initially it was meant to be a made-for-HBO movie but he and Broes were convinced they could develop it into a feature film. It never hit the big screen though and instead premiered on Cinemax. That hasn't discouraged Gooding.

"I'd like to create more projects as opposed to just coming on to a project as an actor, even with television. I have TV ideas that I pitched to HBO and stuff. They were very excited about it and then blew it off. I do want to get back into that," he explained.

In talking with Gooding, it seems like his climb to stardom has been one of ups and downs.

"I'll never forget after I did 'Boyz n the Hood,' I did an audition for 'A Few Good Men' - the first time - with Carl Reiner or Rob Reiner or whatever. I'm about to hit him right in the stomach," he explained.

After three reads, Rob Reiner asked him back again, this time, Gooding implied, it was only to harass him.

"I go back in there, I sit down and he goes, 'Thanks for coming back. Let me ask you something, in 'Boyz n the Hood' when those kids disappear on the railroad tracks, why'd you use that? Didn't you know that was from 'Stand By Me?' And the dead body, finding the dead body, that's another thing. What was John (Singleton) thinking?"

Gooding continued with the read even though he was upset. Reiner, who also did "Stand By Me," cast his assistant instead.

He doesn't subscribe, however, to the theories that there are no good roles for African-American actors and the Oscar committee ignores African-American films.

Gooding said there needs to be better material.

"If we're gonna make more films and get a bigger presence at the Academy Awards, we need more opportunities to be creative. Maybe it lies with finding one day, a black studio head who's gonna look past that a little bit and go, 'No, I'm a gambler' and do this. Or not even a black studio head, just somebody wanting to just gamble and do something that hasn't been proven."

Gooding explained that while he's the first one to point out that there's no black nominees, he's "not going to (expletive) boycott the Academy Awards. That's stupid."

"There weren't any nominees because people like me who are voting didn't have anything to vote on. I'm not gonna just say, 'Damn. There's nothing. I'll vote for Ice Cube's 'Playa' just because there's black people in it, or 'Beloved,' said Gooding who quickly put his hand over his mouth in mock surprise.

"I'd like to see something different. I know we were slaves. I know we got beat all the time."

Hello," a tune that Chesney co-wrote with Skip Ewing, based on a line from "Jerry Maguire."

"That song was written from a very personal experience to fit the line which came from the movie 'Jerry Maguire.' I think a lot of people have been in love and gotten hurt and decided that they weren't going to love again," he said.

"Then one day, they meet somebody and decide that maybe they will. That's what that song is all about. It talks about how that love was so intense that it tore down every wall he built around his heart."

For the song "Baptism," Chesney collaborated with his idol Randy Travis.

"It's amazing, the fact that he's on my record and being a part of my career. I've known Randy for a couple years. We were backstage at the CMA awards. I told him what he's meant to me and we just talked about maybe doing something together," Chesney explained.

what was the connection, and the antics of the bumbling blokes around him keep the humor coming.

Finch's nemesis is Frump, the boss's nephew (played by Scott MacDonald of Waterford), who never seems to stay ahead of the hero's devious ruse.

His boss, J.B. Biggley, played by Keith Leppard of Franklin, is perhaps the most innocent leach. Yet he manages to get in plenty of trouble with vivacious Hedy La Rue, a busty femme fatale played by Krystyn Irvine of Royal Oak.

Though she's not the hero's romantic interest (that belongs to Rosemary, played by Jan Casar of Bloomfield Hills), Irvine said her blond, scantily-clad character is a plumb role.

While the show is chock-full of hum-along songs, the only one that ever made it big was "I Believe in You," a love song that Finch sings to his mirror image in the executive bathroom as his colleagues interject "Gotta Stop that Man."

With a young cast and an older script, Grant has had to be as much a history teacher as a director. References to Judith Anderson, an eminent actress of a bygone era, and to General Douglas MacArthur's famous "I shall return" vow are often lost on the twenty-something cast.

"When I try to explain, it's rather amusing. Some of the older people are laughing and the younger kids are sitting there stone-faced," said Grant.

Yet the script is anything but

The bottom line for Chesney is the tour is fun.

"The benefit is you're playing in front of so many people. I think that it helps you instead of going and doing a fair on your own. Plus, the fact that I'm touring with George Strait is awesome."

He added that he has one of the best time slots.

"The show starts at 1 p.m. and George goes on at 8 p.m. I'm kind of like in the middle, while everyone is still sober."

dated. Even today, most of us can relate to a corporation that's just big enough so people aren't really sure exactly what the next guy does.

Certainly since the production first opened, a lot in this world has changed.

"We no longer think of Washington, D.C., as Camelot and the laws of men and women in the workplace have changed," said Grant.

But human nature may be a constant. That's why there's an abundance of humor still to be found in "How to Succeed..." Although 30 years older, the play retains that grin of impetuous youth.

The first time Dennis Cockrum played one of the fathers in "The Fantasticks," he was a student at Eastern Michigan University and dating the woman who played his daughter.

Now he's old enough to be his daughter's father and an award-winning actor.

"It's a shared experience, the first time you fall in love and get your heart broken," said Cockrum explaining why he believes "The Fantasticks" is such a popular show.

He's sharing the stage in the production which opens June 4 with another EMU alumni, and professional actor, Mike McCafferty. "Mike was in my classes," said Cockrum.

On stage and off, they're playing fatherly roles, sharing a little bit about what they know about the "real world of acting."

Dennis Cockrum

"We're teaching workshops about the business, pictures, resumes and agencies," said Cockrum. "We're also doing scene work on camera. Working on camera is different than working on stage."

Cockrum grew up in Plymouth, and graduated from Eastern Michigan University in 1977. He returned in 1984 to earn a master's degree.

Ken Stevens, who is directing "The Fantasticks," directed it when Cockrum was a student.

"He was the person who exposed us to what professional theater would be like," said Cockrum.

"We regularly try to bring professional actors in. If they're alumni it's even better," said Stevens who is managing director of theater at EMU. "It's part of Eastern's general culture to be pretty personal and keep up with alumni. It's the nature of our campus. Mentoring is important part of our mission. We're here to prepare people for work, and I don't think there's a better way than meeting people who are in the profession. It helps the students develop professional relationships so when they move to New York or Chicago they already know someone who can help show them around."

Coming home to work with students and perform has been fun. "I'm actually surprised by the number of people who have not seen 'The Fantasticks,'" said Cockrum. The musical is celebrating its 40th year of continuous production at the Sullivan Street Playhouse in New York this month.

El Gallo narrates the story of neighbors Luisa and Matt who believe they are in love despite being separated by a wall and the "feud" of their fathers. Played by Cockrum and McCafferty, the fathers have been friends all along.

The wall falls, the lovers split up and then discover the true meaning of love.

"It has great songs, 'Try to Remember, it's fun,' said Cockrum. "I like to do theater in the spring. There's an energy you get from a live audience. Unfortunately, it's hard to make a living doing just theater."

When the show closes on June 12, Cockrum will be packing his bags to head back to Los Angeles, which is now home.

"I'll be going for auditions," he said. "It beats working for a living. Working a 9-to-5 job would make me crazy," he said.

"My mom and dad still live in Plymouth, and being here a month gives me time to be around family and a chance to be doing something as well," he said.

"Cheers" fans might recognize Cockrum as the guy who married Carla's daughter. He's also appeared on episodes of "Melrose Place," "Home Improvement," "Northern Exposure" and "ER."

Film credits include "Uncle Buck," "The Glimmer Man," and "Desperate Measures." He also appears in the Showtime version of "Inherit the Wind" which aired Saturday.

"I seem to have done more comedy," he said. "Although I did do a dramatic role in 'Inherit the Wind.'"

He received the Joseph Jefferson Citation for Guildenstern in "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead" at the Court Theatre in Chicago, and the Artisan Award for Jan in the world theatre premiere of "Mr. 80%" at Victory Gardens Theatre in Chicago.

McCafferty, formerly artistic director of Genetti's Little Theatre of Northville, is currently an associate guest artist for the Lamb's Players Theatre in San Diego. He has appeared in five independent films, and as Direct TV's "Answer Man."

On stage: Chuck Ganchorre (left) as the mute, Brandon Burns as Luisa and Tyson Navarre as Matt in the Eastern Michigan University production of "The Fantasticks."

Mamet's 'Winslow Boy' takes close view of family crisis

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER
hgallagher@e.homecomm.net

David Mamet's film version of Terrence Rattigan's "The Winslow Boy" is a gemlike dissection of upper middle class British life suddenly turned upside down over a fight for justice.

Rattigan's 1946 play was based on a true story. In 1912, a young 13-year-old cadet at the Naval College at Osborne is accused of stealing a five-shilling postal order. He is expelled from the academy but maintains he is innocent. His proper banker father believes him and risks all to mount a defense which eventually becomes a national cause celebre when the case is taken by a famous barrister.

The play was made into a fine movie in 1949 by British director Anthony Asquith with Robert Donat, Margaret Leighton and Cedric Hardwicke in the lead roles.

If that film was centered more directly on the central conflict, Mamet's version is centered around the small details of personal interaction that reveal character and motivation. Both films are worth watching for their similarities and differences.

It is easy to see why Mamet (who directs and wrote the screenplay) was attracted to Rattigan's well-made play. The clipped, emotionless, drily witty conversations of the British characters match the deliberately clipped and artificial language of Mamet's plays and yet seem more natural in this context. In addition, the many subtexts, the words not spoken, the repressed emotions revealed by a random look or small gesture are also typical of Mamet's approach. The random dialogue of the opening scene is a wonderful example of Mamet's approach.

In "The Winslow Boy" we become observers of a family life that seems outwardly content, pleasant, structured but not too stuffy. But, in fact, there is a running tension and repression that gets sorely tested through the course of the legal battle that drains family finances and threatens family honor. Though Mamet has opened the action to include several sets, the key scenes are played off screen — the actual crime, a triumphant Parliamentary speech, the trial, the decision. The important matters are what happens around the central story.

Nigel Hawthorne's father seems warm and jovial. He tries to be firm with his wayward son at Oxford. He is indulgent of his bright suffragette daughter. He clearly loves and respects his wife but maintains his male upper hand. He clearly dotes on his younger son, the pride of the family who finds himself in trouble. A thousand emotions seem to be captured in Hawthorne's eyes as he struggles to decide what to do and how far to push it.

Jeremy Northam plays the barrister Sir Robert Morton, a seemingly cool, emotionless, vain and opportunistic lawyer-politician. He hides a passion for doing the right thing behind his stiff legal manner. Northam perfectly captures the diffident manner and the man of honor. Northam's performance is very similar to Donat's approach in the Asquith film and both actors found just the right balance.

The strongest character is the boy's suffragette sister, Catherine. The character is interesting because it focuses so intimately on the changing role of women in pre-World War I Britain, especially women in the comfortable classes who began to assert their right to equal treatment. Rebecca Pidgeon, who is married to Mamet, gives a beautiful performance, snapping off the clipped dialogue while her face reveals a myriad of conflicting emotions. Though the publicity for the film suggests some love interest, it is as repressed and subliminal as other emotions.

Drama: Jeremy Northam as Sir Robert Morton and Rebecca Pidgeon as Catherine Winslow in "The Winslow Boy."

Other fine performances come from Gemma Jones as the mother who is finally pushed too far, Matthew Pidgeon as the irresponsible but likeable older son and Colin Stinton as a repressed solicitor hopelessly in love with the determined Catherine.

Mamet does a good job of showing the physical look of the period, but he has more successfully captured its emotional tone.

Drama: Held captive in a prison for the criminally insane, primatologist Ethan Powell (Anthony Hopkins, right) who is accused of murder and has not spoken in years, is remanded to psychiatrist Theo Caulder, Cuba Gooding in "Instinct."

Strong performers follow 'Instinct' in morality tale

BY JON KATZ
SPECIAL WRITER

Sir Anthony Hopkins is being held in a maximum-security prison. Convicted of horrendous murders, he's unable or unwilling to communicate with his jailers. A sinister smile conceals whatever it is that has driven him to his own personal madness. Perhaps one specially chosen person can get through and unlock the door to release his terrible secret.

From that description, too many of you will either see "Instinct" or avoid it altogether because it certainly sounds like "Silence of the Lambs, Part II." It isn't, and should it be marketed or perceived that way, this elegant morality tale would be dealt as much an injustice as its lead character.

The convict Ethan Powell (Hopkins) is, in fact, a noted primatologist who spent years living among the mountain gorillas of Rwanda. After brutally killing two park rangers who were hunting the docile animals, Powell was extradited to Florida, and remains imprisoned in the psychotic "Coo Coo's Nest" ward of a facility that makes Devil's Island look like Club Med.

His self-imposed silence and simian behavior come to the attention of ambitious hot-shot psychiatrist Theo Caulder (Cuba Gooding Jr.), who is given thirty days to evaluate the case for the court. Well again, Gooding's Doctor Caulder seems just too close to Jody Foster's Agent Starling. And again, we caution that the similarity stops there.

"It's not the usual therapeutic environment," Caulder tells his mentor, Ben Hillard (Donald Sutherland). "Then don't be the usual therapist," he's advised.

Through flashbacks, Powell transports Caulder and us back to Africa. There, amidst the lush, rolling greenery (actually filmed in Jamaica), we come to understand Powell's attraction to the quite-civilized family of gorillas. "I liked them. I even needed them," he admits. Slowly at first, he eases into their world. "I lived as man did 10,000 years ago, before the takers."

The takers — that's us. And that pretty much boils "Instinct" down to its foundation. We're the guilty ones, don't you see. We've pillaged and plundered and murdered to save our own species. As for the rest of the food chain: tough.

And when the psychiatrist gets too close to the patient, he's reminded, "you're not his defense attorney and you're not his pal."

Hopkins and Gooding have many powerful moments together. They seem to alternately feed off each other dramatically, like two mountain climbers who switch off taking the lead. Sutherland wears the role of yet another pipe-smoking figure of authority like a favorite pair of slippers; perhaps it's better not to get so comfortable that you lose your edge. Maura Tierney ("Primary Colors") is fine as the scientist's estranged daughter; familiar character actors George Dzundza and John Ashton are strong as, respectfully, the prison psychiatrist and head guard.

Ultimately, "Instinct" breaks no new ground, and the balance of footage is tipped too far away from the fascinating jungle world in favor of repetitive prison scenes of brutal guards and defenseless inmates. We'll paraphrase Gooding's signature line: "Show us the gorillas!"

David Garza euphoric over his 'stream of sounds'

CHRISTINA FUOCO

Besides "musician, singer, lyricist," David Garza has a new title — "Best Buy Guy."

For the last few months, Garza has appeared in the store's television commercials singing "Kinder," the first track off his latest album "This Euphoria" (Atlantic). The new-found fame, he said, is pretty cool.

"It could be worse. I guess it could be the 'Taco Bell Guy,'" he said.

The downside is Garza is unable to do everyday things like go to the mall, the ice cream parlor or the book store.

He gets recognized everywhere, "especially in the area of, like kind of for lack of a better word, the mall crowd. When I'm home in Austin, which is rare, I like to reconnect with my roots. Every once in awhile I'll walk around the mall and get some ice cream. You know, do the Americana thing. But the mall is the least hip place you can go."

"I used to walk around the mall unnoticed but I can't go to the mall anymore. TV watchers, they go to the mall."

Garza is enjoying the massive promotion for his "This Euphoria," a collection of indie-rock-inspired pop tunes that meld hip-hop, rock, Spanish and jazz music. He honed in on his sound by "honing out, just kind of trying not to make a certain type of record."

Toronto native: Ron Sexsmith performs at the Magic Bag in Ferndale on Sunday, June 6.

"I'm trying my best not to wear my influences on my sleeve and just letting go of that thought process. By doing that, a lot more of our natural stream of sounds evolved," said Garza.

whose first name is pronounced Da-veed.

"This Euphoria" has been compared to Marc Bolan/T-Rex and Elvis Costello, circa "Imperial Bedroom." Garza thinks it's great but he doesn't necessarily get it.

"Maybe I just kind of have that little thing that happens to be the same thing that Elvis Costello has. Maybe we both listen to the same Buddy Holly record. Maybe we both listen to the same Shirelles record. It's kind of a cool thing, the musical continuum that goes on in American pop music. If you're open to the whole of it, that's where a lot of influences start cropping up."

Garza grew up in a musical family. He began playing piano at age 5, mainly to accompany his mother who would sing Spanish traditional songs and church songs.

"That was all I played or all I heard until I was 10 or 11. Then I would just basically sit in front of the TV and play along with MTV."

"I remember 'Love My Way' by the Psychedelic Furs, 'Stray Cat Strut' by the Stray Cats. I love Adam and the Ants; that kind of stuff. I was really into Motorhead back then and Suicidal Tendencies."

How did his mother take all that?

"I said, 'Hey those guys are Chicanos. That's OK,'" he said of Suicidal Tendencies.

David Garza opens for Three

Fish, featuring members of Pearl Jam, at 6 p.m. Friday, June 4, at the Shelter below St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Tickets are $10 in advance, $13 day of the all-ages show. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT or visit www.961melt.com.

Sexsmith goes 'upbeat'

Toronto singer/songwriter Ron Sexsmith is known for being introspective and shy, both musically and personally. For his third Interscope album, Sexsmith decided to turn things up a notch.

"It was definitely the most lavish production with strings and everything on there. It's the most uptempo as well," he said of "Whereabouts."

That was the first thing that his longtime producer, Mitchell Froom, noticed.

"He said it seemed like I was trying to pick up the tempo a bit. That was kind of the obvious thing. But for me, a fast song wouldn't necessarily be a fast song for somebody else," he said with a laugh.

Sexsmith, whose vocals resemble those of Rufus Wainwright, effortlessly sings and crafts tender pop songs. Simplicity is key to "Riverbed," a subtle roots rock lullaby. The foot-stomping "Feel for You," during which Sexsmith sings "I see your face/It's filled with so much sorrow," is the obvious single.

"Beautiful View" is the most striking with its Faces-like introduction and time signature changes.

"The intro was something that I came up with. I thought I'd get in trouble for it. But it was fun to try something bombastic for a change."

"People would always say that they came away from my records feeling sad, which kind of surprised me," he said. "Some of the time, that was the intention, but I think that I've learned to make people feel comfortable, too. I don't think I could pull off anything angry or cynical, but I do think that I've learned to present a more well-rounded view of things."

Ron Sexsmith and Mike Viola and The Candy Butchers perform Sunday, June 6, at the Magic Bag, 22920 Woodward Ave., Ferndale. Doors open at 8 p.m. for the 18 and older show. Tickets are $8 in advance. Call (248) 544-3030 or visit <http://www.themagicbag.com> for more information.

Hagar brings his Cabo Wabo on stage

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER
cfuoco@oe.homecomm.net

Sammy Hagar's show on Sunday at Pine Knob will be a feast for the senses.

The summer shed will be filled with the scents and tastes of Mexican food, the sights of Hagar's bar Cabo Wabo, and tunes by Hagar, Van Halen and Montrose. And, Hagar hopes, a surprise visit from Ted Nugent.

"I'm totally excited mainly about my stage. I built a replica of the Cabo Wabo Cantina, my bar in Cabo San Lucas. I sent artists and sent designers down there with cameras. They just mapped it out and took pictures of every nook and cranny. They just totally duplicated it."

"I just saw it last night for the first time. They e-mailed it to me. I got to tell you, I've got goosebumps from head to toe."

The traveling cantina has everything down to the neon paintings, "weird crazy things that fans have put on the wall," and a dance floor, where Hagar and his band the WaboRitas will perform. Forty contest winners will sit at cabaret tables on the stage.

"You get a couple shots of tequila and you're gonna think you're in the Cabo Wabo. We're trying to have a Cabo Wabo stand in the audience so they can get WaboRitas, (Hagar's special Margarita-style drinks), and eat stuff, jalapenos and tacos. We're gonna make it just like crossing the border. Once you come through the gates, you're gonna be in Wabo World."

Hagar admitted it's an expensive way to tour.

"You got to do something with that money to give back to the fans. It's my way of saying, 'You can't afford to make that trek down to the Cabo Wabo for my birthday bash every year. I'm bringing it to you this time.'"

Then there will be the music. "We don't really have a set list. We play between two and three hours. It depends on how the night's going," he said.

"We have 56 songs that we know between Van Halen, Montrose and Sammy Hagar and Led Zeppelin. We just go out and we start a certain way and we go through whatever songs we feel like playing. We don't play all the songs. We have 12 Van Halen songs, five Montrose songs and I just pick whatever ones feel right at the moment."

The theme of the concert is reflective of Hagar's latest album, "Red Voodoo" (MCA), one he describes as "all about fun."

"It's more like I did in the early parts of Van Halen, and it's more like what I did before Van Halen. Only it's the new version of it. It's not like it's really '80s driven. It's got the fun, fun, fun in it."

His previous effort, "Marching to Mars," came on the heels of his departure from Van Halen, a band that he fronted for 10 years.

"Marching to Mars" was a serious bitter record, about disappointment and the ugliness that went on in the last year of Van Halen — only the last year. I just want to make that clear that Van Halen was fantastic for 10 years, 9 1/2 maybe. The last year and a half was awful."

The turnabout came after he finished "venting" on "Marching to Mars" and headed out on tour with the WaboRitas.

"We were having so damn much fun. I couldn't believe how great it was being having fun playing music again. Like I said, the last year of Van Halen wasn't fun anymore. We were having a ball and I decided to make a record that's just who and what we are. We turned into this party band."

To Hagar, "Red Voodoo" is a phrase that symbolizes pushing the limit.

"To me 'Red Voodoo' means when you go into the red, when you're almost to the limit. You've had enough to drink, the music's loud enough or you're driving just fast enough. To me, that's where the excitement and fun, where the party is. That's where we're going to take everyone when they walk through the gate at the concert. They're going into the red zone."

"Sammy is celebrating all the success and the happiness that I've had throughout my life. I'm celebrating it with my fans, and I made a record for them to celebrate to, and now I've built a stage for them to celebrate on in concert."

He's also hoping to celebrate with Ted Nugent.

"Tell everybody I'm going to invite Ted down. I want him to sit in my club while I'm playing. But they're going to have to tie his (butt) to the chair because I know he would not be able to sit on stage without jumping over things and coming down and trying to take over. We're going to have to tie him up, gag and bind him, and sit him there on stage — if he's in town."

Sammy Hagar performs at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, June 6, at Pine Knob Music Theatre, 1-75 and Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. Tickets are $24.50 pavilion and $15 lawn for the all-ages show. Call (248) 377-0100 or visit www.palacenet.com for more information.

Enjoy this guide to the area's best outdoor dining

BY ELEANOR HEALD
SPECIAL WRITER

Warm-weather photography of a popular European city pictures locals gathered at outdoor cafes, brasseries or pubs. Each year, Metro-Detroit adds more outdoor dining possibilities. Some of the more popular indoor-in-winter eateries, spring their doors open and put up colorful umbrellas for your summertime dining pleasure.

I checked out a few of the trendy cool-weather haunts to see what they're bringing to the table outdoors as seasonally-styled dishes. Several deck establishments serve drinks only, but all the following serve food in addition to beverages. Unless stated otherwise, these eateries operate on a first-come-first-served policy.

Big Rock Chop & Brew House — 245 South Eton, Birmingham (248) 647-7774, Monday through Saturday 11 a.m.-2 a.m. and Sunday 3-10 p.m., outdoor seating for 140.

Jazz on the Stone Terrace every Wednesday 6-10 p.m. Special menu items include buffalo New York strip, ostrich, grilled romaine salad and oriental chicken salad, but savvy servers at Big Rock will get you anything on the menu. Big Rock is out to please!

The Clever Cooks — 225 E. Maple, Birmingham (248) 644-9868 is Birmingham's newest outdoor eatery. From 11 a.m.-7 p.m. this New York-style deli and gourmet shop has added six tables with four chairs each to an outdoor space next door. You can't miss the green and white umbrellas. Lunch crush is from opening to about 1:30 p.m., but finding a table after that is a lot easier. And you can bring your dog!

Copper Canyon Brewery — 27522 Northwestern Highway, Southfield (248) 223-1700 bills its outdoor eating area "Biergarten" with a menu featuring sandwiches, ribs, pizza, white fish, salads and all the things you like to eat outdoors.

Seating 70, the cigar-friendly deck allows weekend diners to TV view and listen to the indoor live entertainment outdoors. If you believe, as frequent Biergarteners do, that freshly brewed beer tastes even better outdoors, give Copper Canyon a try Monday-Thursday 11:30 a.m.-1 a.m. Until 2 a.m. Friday and Saturday, Sunday until 10 p.m.

East Side Mario's three locations — 2773 Crooks Road (northeast corner of M-59, Rochester Hills (248) 853-9622; 31630 Plymouth Road (just west of Merriman), Livonia (734) 513-8803; and 29267 Southfield Road between 12 and 13-Mile Roads, Southfield (248) 569-9454. Outdoor seating for 65 at Rochester Hills and Livonia; 95 in Southfield. Monday through Wednesday 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Thursday through Saturday until 1 a.m. and Sunday until 10 p.m. Among most-ordered menu selections at these Italian-American eateries are chicken Caesar pizzetta (bagel crust with mozzarella and provolone cheese baked and topped with Caesar salad) and char-grilled chicken.

Fusion — 34555 W. 12 Mile Road, Farmington Hills, between Farmington and Drake Roads (248) 489-8852 has 70 seats available overlooking an incredible garden for al fresco dining. And you can call ahead to reserve one! The bowl concept, one of the hottest dining trends in Fusion in a nutshell. Get just about anything you want matched with noodles, rice or mash and enjoy it outdoors.

Il Posto — 29110 Franklin Road at Northwestern Highway, Southfield (248) 827-8070 has recently covered its outdoor patio, so diners who reserve outdoor seating, won't be disappointed. Tables seating a total of 60 people are available Monday through Friday for lunch 11:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. and for dinner Monday through Saturday 5:30 p.m.-10:30 p.m. The distinguished menu, served with the Italian flare that has made Il Posto so popular, are available for dining pleasure outdoors.

Little Daddy's Parthenon & Coney Island — 32832 Woodward Avenue, Royal Oak (248) 554-8600 has a freshly painted deck covered with its signature blue awnings and welcomes 100 diners daily from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. A limited menu of popular items including cones, 12 different salads, sandwiches, ribs and chicken is offered.

Paint Creek Cider Mill & Restaurant — 4480 Orion Road, Rochester (248) 651-8361, Lunch Saturday from noon-3 p.m. Sunday 10 a.m.-2 p.m. for brunch. Dinner Monday through Thursday 5-9 p.m. Friday and Saturday until 10 p.m. and Sunday 5-8 p.m., outdoor seating for 60. Items such as smoked barbecued ribs, seared rare Ahi tuna with tomato-lime glaze, or grilled salmon with cherry tomato and cucumber salad are served on a deck with the area's best Up North feel. If you wanted to get away, but couldn't spare the time, head north in Oakland County and get a mini-vacation at lunch or dinner.
