CLARKSTON

Edgar Clark posts another letter to his wife to let her know he is safe. He is one of only about eight men in his brigade to have survived through the first month of the Union spring offensive. His letter, dated June 8, 1864, comes from a camp near Cold Harbor, Va., north of Richmond.

"My dear wife, you must not worry to make yourself sick which I fear you will do. It will be plenty of time enough to feel bad when you hear I am killed or wounded. We are constantly in danger though for the last two days we have laid still for the first time since we started. I think I am lucky and will come out all safe. One of these days I must tell you how near I come to be taken prisoner the other day. I would have been taken but for a bulky pair of legs. I had to throw away my knapsack with my portfolio and all of my writing papers and my house knife that mother made. I had a nice pair of scissors in it.

"Yesterday there was a flag of truce all day and our boys and the rebels talked. They say they are right sick of fighting and they allow that we are too. We tell them that we are, and that we have no grudge against them but we must preserve the union at all hazards. A good many of them say they hoped we would but that they say they would of given up long ago if it was not for the president's proclamation freeing all their slaves and his proclamation punishing all traitors above the grade of lieutenant colonel. Your loving husband, Edgar Clark."

Wanted: Public input on downtown

BY SUSAN B. TAUBER
STAFF WRITER
stauber@oe.homecomm.net

Interested in having input in the future of downtown Clarkston?

Then save some time Wednesday, Oct. 13, to stop by Independence Township Fire Hall on Citation Drive. Your opinions are wanted at a meeting sponsored by the Downtown Revitalization

Plans for downtown Clarkston's future are in the making. To have some input, you can attend a meeting next week sponsored by the Downtown Revitalization Process Committee and HyettPalma Inc.

Process Committee and HyettPalma Inc. The meeting is from 7-8:30 p.m.

"People will have an opportunity to stand up and give their opinion about what they would like downtown Clarkston to look like in five to 10 years," said project administrator Jack Shubitowski. "We hope people will tell us what kind of businesses they think will be successful, the kinds of images they have for downtown. We want their suggestions."

Clarkston councilman David Savage is head of the process committee.

Dolores Palma and Doyle Hyett from Virginia will conduct other meetings with downtown community leaders, people who work downtown, customers of downtown businesses and others from Oct. 12-15.

"They'll ask questions such as is it convenient to park downtown; what do you do on your lunch hour; what type of business mix would you like to have in downtown Clarkston; what do you envision the downtown looking like," Shubitowski said.

The process committee has already begun a fact-finding process. Its members and other volunteers conducted a Primary Trade Area Resident Survey Sept. 15. They spent two hours telephoning people within a five-mile radius of downtown Clarkston.

They posed specific questions, such as what types of unique and feasible retail business opportunities exist for the downtown area.

"People seemed very receptive to the calls. Everybody loves the downtown," said Shubitowski, who works downtown at Clarkston State Bank.

Fun Daze successful despite rain

Rain may have dampened attendance at the second Clarkston Fall Fun Daze, but the food was still fabulous.

The event in downtown Clarkston Saturday drew 2,000, about the same number of people as last year, said Penny Shanks, executive director of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce.

"It was a great event," she said. "We saw a lot of kids and families downtown and that was our goal."

The Chamber and the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department put on Fall Fun Daze. About $7,500 was raised and after expenses the two groups will split the money to use for community programs.

Shanks had expected many more people this year

Science teacher earns $25,000 national award

"Holy cow!"

That was Keith Cook's reaction after he found out he's a recipient of the $25,000 Milken Family Foundation National Educator Award.

The four-year Clarkston High School chemistry teacher, who lives in Orion Township, will receive the check with 171 other winners from 49 states at the Milken Family Foundation National Education Conference in June in Los Angeles. Recipients can use the money as they choose.

"I'm proud to be here," Cook said enthusiastically to an auditorium filled with Clarkston High science students, teachers and several guests. "I hope you guys are proud to have me here."

Cook didn't know he was being honored at the third-hour assembly Tues-

Longtime Clarkston coach loved children

James Koslosky of Clarkston loved children and showed it by involving himself in far more than his physical education and health classes.

Koslosky, a teacher in the Clarkston Community School district for 33 years, died Sept. 30 of cancer.

Koslosky, 56, taught at Sashabaw Middle School since it opened in 1969. He had been on medical leave since fall 1998. He enjoyed a long coaching career, as well. He stopped coaching and became an avid supporter when his two sons, Michael and John, moved on to high school athletics, said David Reschke, assistant superintendent for elementary and middle schools. Reschke was an assistant principal and principal at Sashabaw from 1984-1991.

"He really put people first. He was a great conversationalist. He liked talking about hunting and fishing," Reschke said.

Koslosky also enjoyed bowling and woodworking. Koslosky and his wife, Sue, were loved at Sashabaw. Some staff members knew Koslosky for all his years of teaching and some went to college with him. Sue Koslosky taught at Sashabaw for years before retiring in June. She was a successful ninth-grade volleyball coach, Reschke said. The Kosloskys volunteered for lunch duty and between that, classes and coaching, they were well-known by many students.

James Koslosky often could be found not only on the sidelines, but anywhere the action was at Sashabaw.

"He was always at the athletic events. He would keep score. He would take tickets, whatever needed to be done. That's just the kind of guy he was," said Clarkston High School principal John Dileggio, who was principal at Sashabaw for two years.

Koslosky is survived by his wife, Sue; children, Michael (fiancee Lori Jacobs) of Montana and John (Cheryl) of Virginia; mother, Adele; father, the late Anthony Koslosky; and a sister, Carole Hoyle of Bay City.

Memorials can be made to the Michigan Cancer Institute or Cranbrook Hospice.

Andersonville Road to close

A portion of Andersonville Road near White Lake Road will be closed Oct. 22-25 to prepare for a much bigger project that will take all of next year's construction season.

The Road Commission for Oakland County plans to straighten out the intersection where White Lake Road restarts off of Andersonville Road, RCOG public information officer Craig Bryson said. It's part of an ongoing White Lake paving project.

White Lake Road is paved to Andersonville Road where it turns into Neasey Road. To get to the other part of White Lake Road, motorists need to turn right onto Andersonville and then left on White Lake. The continuation is now dirt, but will be paved next year for about 1.5 miles to the National Weather Service's White Lake office.

The project, funded with federal money, will cost $3 million, Bryson said.

A large curve greets travelers who turn onto the road. The work will transform the turn into a normal "T" intersection. Bryson said the intersection will be moved 600-700 feet west. The existing entrance won't be accessible from White Lake Road and will become a dead end from the other direction, Bryson said.

The work on Andersonville Road beginning Oct. 23 is to remove a conveyor belt from under the road. The road will be closed 1,000 feet west of White Lake Road. It has to be done before the paving project begins in the spring. Bryson said an area gravel company buried the conveyor belt years ago in a tunnel as a way to get the gravel across the roadway.

Homecoming happenings

Wearing what to school? In honor of Spirit Week, Lena Koop (left) and Brienne Huffman, Clarkston High School freshmen, wear their PJs to school. Their friend, Casi Prining, was too shy to be photographed wearing such silly clothes to class. Spirit Week leads up to Homecoming this weekend, which includes the Homecoming football game at 7 p.m. Friday against Rochester Adams on Clarkston's home turf. Pre-game events go from 4-6 p.m.

STAFF PHOTOS BY ELIZABETH CARNEGIE

The cat's pajamas: Instead of wearing kitty pajamas, the cats are delegated to Chelsea Phillips' feet. Also putting on cozy PJs for Spirit Day is Hillary Moczerad. Both students are Clarkston High School juniors. They probably have something else hanging in their closet in preparation for the Homecoming dance at the high school cafeteria Saturday. More than 1,400 students are expected to attend.

than last, but she said Saturday's blustery conditions may have kept people home. She said organizers are thinking about staging the event earlier in the fall next year. It may still rain, but likely won't be quite as cold, she said.

Fall Fun Daze featured music and dancing on Washington Street, which was closed from Main to Holcomb for the event. The Wolf Pack Running Club hosted 5K and 10K runs. Children played games and did arts and crafts. But the biggest attraction was Taste of Clarkston.

Fifteen restaurants set up booths and tempted residents' taste buds. This year the restaurants were encouraged to dress up their booths for the Best of Show contest. Joe Bologna's Trattoria was the winner.

Rain doesn't dampen bandfest

BY JAN BAKER
SPECIAL WRITER

It's an unspoken rule around these parts: When Clarkston High School hosts a band invitational, rain isn't on its guest list. Ever. Not even as a backdrop for some school band that's performing a musical salute to mushrooms.

So even though the clear liquid pelted leaf-covered lawns here all morning and afternoon Saturday, it abruptly headed for — no offense — Shelby Township around 5:20 p.m. (The first of 13 high school bands was slated to perform on the CHS football field at 5:30 p.m.)

The gray day may have kept a few spectators away from CHS that evening, but all in all, Clarkston's 22nd High School Band Invitational drew quite a crowd, and some outstanding teenage musicians.

Andy Borchers, president of the CHS Band Boosters, called the event a success for several reasons beyond dry nighttime weather and the 2,000 visitors who showed up in the bleachers.

"We had a tremendous volunteer effort — about 150 people,"

Borchers said in a phone interview Sunday. "When band parents were called, they were more than happy to help out. So this year, there were more people doing their part and less need for heroics on the part of a few."

And, of course, the CHS Marching Band did its part by playing well, he said.

Because CHS hosted the invitational, the band did not participate in Flight I of the official competition, but performed in exhibition at the end of the four-hour bandfest. Judges of the event, however, did score Clarkston on its program and returned that verdict to the band privately so it could gauge its own progress.

Clarkston's number was good news: The band earned an overall score of 67.1 — six points higher than its score at the Linden Invitational Sept. 25.

Here are the results of the 13 high school marching bands that attended the Clarkston Invitational — a Michigan Competing Band Association event:

Flight I — Schools of 1,430 students or more

■ First Place — Walled Lake Central; 66.45 points (Best music, best marching, best general effect)

■ Second Place — Westland John Glenn; 59.75 points

■ Third Place — West Bloomfield; 54.35 points

■ Fourth Place — Grand Blanc; 47.08 points

■ Fifth Place — Chippewa Valley; 40.07 points

Flight II — Schools of 1,143 to 1,429 students

■ First Place — Muskegon Mona Shores; 77.45 points (Best music, best marching, best general effect)

■ Second Place — Flushing; 65.09 points

■ Third Place — Waterford Mott; 60.85 points

■ Fourth Place — L'Anse Creuse North; 43.55 points

Flight III — Schools of 1,142 students or less

■ First Place — Avondale; 36 points (Best music, best marching, best general effect)

Flight IV — Schools of 763 students or less

■ First Place — Marysville; 50.04 points (Best music, best marching, best general effect)

■ Second Place — Bad Axe; 37.9 points

■ Third Place — Tawas; 37.7 points

Becky Hart, one of the CHS marching band's three field commanders and a CHS junior, said in a brief phone interview Sunday she was pleased with Clarkston's performance Saturday.

"We went up six points from Linden and that's a significant improvement," Becky said. "It's remarkable about how we're sounding so early in the year."

Becky pointed out, however, that individual performance remains key in boosting Clarkston's overall score. She spoke from her own past experience as a freshman — and then a sophomore — mellophone player.

"Our freshmen and sophomores probably need to take that instrument home to practice during the week because they don't have as much exposure to playing (in special ensembles, like juniors and seniors do)," she said.

For the most part, however, Becky lauded the band's first-year members. "I have to say that this year's freshman class is doing a wonderful job," she said. "They're talented and they're enthusiastic. The band is fortunate for that because there are only 20 band members in the junior class. That means some freshmen are going to have to take on leadership roles next year."

Currently, the band has 90 first-time members — about 70 are freshmen.

Borchers said he thinks that the future of Clarkston's music program looks bright.

"We have a great band, willing volunteers and support from the (school) administration," said the band booster president. "The string program is moving up through the elementaries, and I've heard that we have record enrollment in all of our music classes."

Borchers added that the CHS Marching Band will likely travel to London, England, in January of 2001 for a special performance there.

CHS band parents Mike and Sandy Puente watched the invitational from the waterlogged stands Saturday. While they said they enjoyed all the performances, they held their own — ahem — totally objective opinions about which band was the best.

"Clarkston," Mike Puente said. "They (Clarkston band members) just always sound so much better than the other bands," he said.

Sandy Puente agreed. "Clarkston looked great tonight," she said. "They just keep getting better every time I see them."

Keeping the beat: Melissa Bailey plays the triangle in the Clarkston High Marching Band.

COP CALLS

Following are some of the incidents recently reported to police and fire agencies in Independence and Springfield townships.

Independence Township

Home invasion

On Oct. 3, a 49-year-old man forced his way into his landlady's residence through a stairway door in the area of Sashabaw and Maybee roads. He lives in a basement apartment; she lives on the main floor. The landlady called police after she allegedly found him in her kitchen holding a knife. The man appeared to be intoxicated, according to the police report.

OUIL/DWLS

On Oct. 3, police stopped a 20-year-old man from Burton who was swerving between lanes on southbound Dixie Highway, north of I-75. The man had no driver's license or proof of insurance and smelled of intoxicants, according to the police report. The result of his blood alcohol test was 0.123, above the zero tolerance limit for people under age 21. Police issued him tickets for operating under the Influence of liquor-second offense and driving while license suspended-second offense. They impounded his car, removed his license plate and placed a temporary license plate in the car's rear window.

Retail Fraud

On Oct. 2, a 14-year-old boy from Waterford tried to take two bottles of margarita mix from CVS Pharmacy on Dixie Highway and White Lake Road. He approached the check out and purchased a candy bar. A store employee noticed the bulges in his jacket and asked the boy to remove the stolen property. The boy complied. He's been banned from the store.

Aggravated assault, robbery with a weapon

On Oct. 1, two teenagers, one from Orion Township, one from Independence Township, were taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital following a fight at a party in the area of Sashabaw and Whipple Lake roads. Police found the 17-year-old youth from Orion Township bleeding after other youths hit him in the face and head with baseball bats, rocks, bricks and beer bottles. The boy tried to drive away in his van, but he hit a street sign, saying he couldn't see due to his wounds, according to the police report. The windows were smashed out of his van. His wallet with $90 cash was taken. The other youth was taken to the hospital because he was intoxicated. A test revealed his blood alcohol level was 0.117, above the zero tolerance level for people under age 21. Police are investigating.

Springfield Township

Stolen vehicle

On Oct. 2, someone removed a 1995 Dodge four-wheel vehicle from a business in the 9300 block of Dixie Highway. He damaged the entrance gate. Police later found the vehicle behind the business. They have a suspect.

Larceny

On Oct. 2, someone removed a boat trailer valued at $2,500 from a residence in the 6100 block of Hillsboro Road. The owner discovered it missing.

Independence Fire

Independence Township Fire Department responded to 14 calls Oct. 1-4. These included eight medical calls and one call each for a personal injury, an investigation, a building fire, a complaint and an automatic alarm.

day. He sat in the back of the auditorium with some coworkers, unaware that his parents, Andrew and Joan Cook, and his wife, Shannon Cook, were sitting in the front row. His father is superintendent of Mesick Public Schools.

Local school officials prior to the award ceremony only knew that that Michigan Board of Education Supt. of Public Instruction Arthur E. Ellis was coming to Clarkston High School on Oct. 4 but "we don't know why," Clarkston High principal John Dilleghio said last week.

Now they all know and if the school district were beaming any more than it was after the award ceremony, the school building would have lifted off the ground.

Ellis made the official announcement. He said Cook is one of four Milken award recipients in Michigan. (The other three hadn't received notification by the time of publication.)

"The four individuals we honor this year exemplify what public education is all about," Ellis said. "Each has built a reputation for excellence, which shows in the lasting difference they make in the lives of their students."

"Keith brings an element of fun into a subject which is regarded by most students and even adults as a unique combination of difficult subject matter and boredom," added Dilleghio.

ovation as he approached the podium is an extra testimony to the job he's doing as a teacher.

"It's a lot easier to listen to a guy making learning fun than it is to a teacher who is just doing straight teaching," said Cody Senkyr, an 11th-grade student. Clarkston High senior Pat DeGain chuckles about how Cook, in the middle of class, will challenge him to a wrestling match. DeGain is on the school's wrestling team. Cook coaches the middle school wrestlers.

After the ceremony, Cook admitted he's "shocked."

"I just try to bring some personality into my classroom and make science apply to real life," he explained. "Science has always been my favorite subject in school. It's still my favorite subject in school."

Cook's mother recalls he was very serious when he was younger.

"He was always an achiever and was self-motivated," she said. "You (a parent) never dream your child will be the recipient of such an honor."

Amidst gentle joking about how the Cooks can spend their newly-found $25,000, his wife of three years said, "I've sat in Keith's classroom and watched him teach. He is inspiring and motivating. He doesn't foster a false sense of self-esteem in the students. He lets them earn the self-esteem they feel as they walk out of his classroom."

Charter Township of Springfield

NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS of the CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD will hold a meeting on Thursday, October 21, 1999 beginning at 8:00 P.M. at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway, Davisburg, Michigan, to hear the appeal of:

NEW BUSINESS:

1. Robert A. Shea, 6065 Hillsboro, Davisburg, MI 48350 to allow construction of a deck with a setback from Big Lake of 28 feet rather than 50 feet. The proposed deck would replace an existing deck with a 25.5 foot setback from Big Lake. P.I. #07-28-278-010.
2. AT&T Wireless Service, Inc. C/O Richard Connor Riley & Associates, 30150 Telegraph Road, Suite 420, Bingham Farms, MI 48025 to: 1) replace a 190 foot wireless communications tower with a 230 foot wireless communications tower where the setback from the East Holly Road right of way would be less than the height of the extended tower and the setback from the side and rear property lines would be less than half of the height of the extended tower and 2) to allow construction of an accessory structure with a rear yard setback of eighty-one (81) feet and a side yard setback of eighty-three (83) feet rather than half of the height of the extended tower. This would enable a co-location at the northwest corner of Tindall and East Holly Road, Davisburg, MI 48350. P.I. #07-05-226-007.
3. Miguel and Beverly Valenzuela, 9244 Villa Crest, Clarkston, MI 48346 to allow construction of a house addition with a front yard setback of twenty-seven (27) feet rather than fifty (50) feet. The house currently has a front yard setback of forty-one (41) feet. P.I. #07-26-226-017.
4. John Foster, 3880 Groveland Road, Ortonville, MI 48462 to allow 1392 square feet of accessory floor area where 1000 square feet are permitted at 11950 Rusty Lane, Davisburg, MI 48350. #07-28-351-014.

Should Edison pay for outages?

Dunaskiss says consumers should be able to recover damages

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

"Our area is known as one that will lose power any time the wind blows," says Corrine Kruse of Rochester Hills.

And the cost of "nuisance power outages" can be expensive. Kruse noted she has lost work days due to a lack of electricity, been late to work when alarm clocks didn't go off, had to replace a $110 computer chip, thrown out "countless dollars worth of food," and "been forced to eat meals at restaurants resulting in great expense for our family of four."

Kruse, in a letter to Senate Technology & Energy Committee Chair Sen. Mat Dunaskiss (R-Lake Orion), said her house has lost electricity three times in the past year, twice when there was no severe weather in the area and once for as long as 36 hours.

Dunaskiss said recently he is preparing to introduce legislation which would require Detroit Edison to reimburse customers for losses suffered due to power outages. Although it is still being drafted, Dunaskiss said he envisions a bill which would require reparations for costs suffered by customers if the power goes out and it is not the result of severe weather or a natural disaster.

The senator said he wants to keep the process simple, away from the courts. He would favor claims against the utility being made before an administrative law judge or a quasi-judicial panel, which could determine the validity of the loss and the amount of reimbursement.

Scott Simons, spokesman for Detroit Edison, said the utility is taking no position on the proposal presently, since it has not seen the specifics. Still, he believes it is unnecessary since Detroit Edison already provides reimbursement for losses suffered by customers. The program, run by Edison, will pay to cover the cost of losses if it determines Edison is at fault in the power outage.

Dunaskiss' plan would be for an outside panel to determine losses.

Service 'reliable'

Further, Simons contended Edison's delivery of electricity is "reliable." He said that in any given year, half of its customers will experience no service interruptions at all. Of outages that do occur, two thirds are the result of wires downed by falling tree limbs. Edison has been conducting extra line clearance programs for a number of years, and this year expects to spend $40 million trimming back trees, he said.

Simons continued. "We have had eight catastrophic storms in the area in the last 14 months. We define that as one with 110,000 customers out of power. Wind speeds in these storms has typically ranged from 60 to 83 miles per hour. In the previous five and half years, we had only three storms of that magnitude. Now, that shows that the weather is changing, or at least that we have had more severe weather lately."

There are reasons why outages can occur on sunny days, he explained, including accidents in which cars hit utility poles and animals that get caught in Edison equipment.

The company will spend $500 million this year on maintenance and system improvements, Simons said.

Still, some customers are not convinced.

"Ten years ago, we usually had about three outages a year," said one Auburn Hills woman. "This year it has been around 12." She said she must keep expensive medications in her refrigerator, which cost $2,400 for ten doses.

"I think I'm an average customer," said Kenneth Nothhaft of Brighton. "I experience, on average, about six interruptions per year. Most are of short duration; a minute or less. But one or two are very long; one hour to one day. Severe damage to Edison equipment, regardless of how poorly maintained or stupidly administered, is paid by the customers, not the stockholders. So, not only do we customers have to endure the inconvenience of an outage, we have to pay Edison for it ... Edison should be required to compensate customers for consequential losses as a result of power failures, and such costs should not be recoverable in its rates."

The process committee also passed out a business survey to downtown merchants and business people. Shubitowski said those will be collected the end of this week.

"Right now we're in the information-gathering stage. Once we compile the data, we'll give it to HyettPalma. They will take the information and transform it into an action plan to revitalize downtown Clarkston based on the wishes of the people."

"We want to maintain and preserve the integrity of our historic district and utilize this resource to improve our retail economy," added Savage. "We have something here that is unique to the marketplace and an asset to the community at large."

Shubitowski said the Clarkston Downtown Enhancement Foundation is also active in improving the downtown business district.

"The foundation's intent is to help businesses move in," he said.

"One of the initial things we're seeing is that people are getting excited about the revitalization. We hope people show up for our Oct. 13 meeting," Shubitowski added.

ACADEMIC ACHIEVERS

Eileen Hart

Eileen Hart, a graduate of Clarkston High School, was among 15 high school graduates from the metro Detroit area to receive a college scholarship from the H.T. Ewald Scholarship Program. Hart's application stated she planned on attending Kalamazoo College.

The scholarships are awarded for scholastic ability and outstanding character. Financial assistance is continued from year to year for students who maintain their high standards.

Mindi Thompson

Mindi Thompson, a graduate of Clarkston High School and a junior at Kalamazoo College, is one of more than 180 students leaving this fall to study abroad. Thompson will be studying in Quito, Ecuador through March.

Former all-American inducted to hall of fame

Former football player Ken McLean of Springfield Township never expected to be inducted into the Northern Michigan University Athletic Hall of Fame because he only attended the university for two years during 1970 and 1971.

Imagine his surprise, then, when he received a letter this spring from the university's president, Judith Bailey, telling him that he was to be inducted almost three decades after he graduated. Three decades since he last picked up a football for a competitive game.

McLean said he began playing football as a youth growing up in Waterford Township. He was an all-state player while at Waterford Kettering High School in 1967 and an all-American player when he attended Grand Rapids Junior College in 1969.

"It was quite a night," McLean, 50, said recently from the home he shares with his wife and two small sons. "It was pretty emotional."

Reeling from the memories, and suggesting at first that he could not adequately put the ceremony into words, McLean deferred to a video tape he had recorded of his induction. Slipping it into a VCR machine in his family room, he sat pensively with his fingers over his lips and watched while his recorded image spoke to an audience of 600 well-wishers, crediting his family for his achievement.

"It was a great night. I could cry just listening to it again," he said, finally, choking back his emotions. "After 30 years, you know? I think it's just a great honor for our family. It's nice to remember."

McLean's extended family traveled to Marquette with him on Sept. 18 to see the former Waterford School District employee receive his induction and plaque. He was nominated by his former coach Al Sandona, who said during the video-taped ceremony: "This is by far the highest award that can be achieved by any great ball player."

Volunteers hope projects will 'Make A Difference'

Saturday, Oct. 23, marks the ninth-annual Make A Difference Day. It is a day when friends, relatives, neighbors, and co-workers join nonprofit organizations, schools, religious institutions, local businesses and service clubs to take part in community projects.

It is, say backers, a day when the spirit of volunteerism can be rallied into a year-round commitment to making a difference in our communities through volunteering.

Last year, nearly 2 million volunteers nationwide participated in Make A Difference Day projects in communities across the country. Nationally, Make A Difference Day is sponsored by the Points of Light Foundation and USA Weekend Magazine.

In Michigan, sponsors include Council of Michigan Foundations, Michigan Campus Compact, Michigan Community Service Commission (MCSC), MSU Extension, Michigan Family Independence Agency, Volunteer Centers of Michigan, and United Way of Michigan.

"Imagine all of the good that could be accomplished if each of us joined together to give back to our communities through service on Make A Difference Day, and every day," said Michelle Engler, First Lady of Michigan and chair of the Michigan Community Service Commission.

Across Michigan, there are more than 160 Make A Difference Day Projects planned in 115 cities in 58 counties. Projects will involve more than 37,649 Michigan citizens, in service to their communities.

The following are among projects in North Oakland County:

■ Clarkston — Friends and family of children who suffer from Crohn's Disease will join with the Crohn's & Colitis Foundation of America to establish a support group and locate a site in southeastern Michigan for monthly meetings. More than 25 volunteers are expected to participate. For more information call (248) 624-8621.

■ Oxford — Crossroad for Youth Girls Center will host an Oct. 28 Halloween Party for the children at Children's Village. The group will supply games, beverages, snacks and prizes. Other activities include piñatas, face painting, musical chairs and storytelling. About 30 volunteers are expected. For more information call Angela Weedon at (248) 628-2561, Ext. 232.

■ Rochester — Brewster Elementary School and the Community Service Kids Club will coordinate 25 fourth- and fifth-graders who will rake leaves at homes of elderly people. The children will be working in coordination with the Rochester Older Persons Center (OPC). The project will close with a lunch for the student volunteers. The project will take place 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Oct. 23. For more information, call Michael Behrmann at (248) 656-1288.

In south Oakland:

■ Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills — Covington School students will collect new and gently used winter coats, boots, hats, mittens, scarves, and snow pants for the students at Carstens Elementary School in Detroit. Fifty volunteers are expected. For more information, call (248) 855-3838.

Bloomfield Hills School District will fill "court boxes" with goodies for children waiting to testify in abuse cases. The goal is to collect, wrap and fill 200 boxes with games, toys, activity books, puzzles, coloring books and snacks. The boxes will be donated to CARE HOUSE. Different schools will collect items while others will wrap the boxes. More than 4,000 volunteers are expected. For more information, call (248) 932-2866.

■ Franklin — Huda School and Montessori, Huda School Parent Association, the Huda Cultural Center Group will host several activities to spruce up the school. More than 70 volunteers will be participating Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 23-24. For more information, call Roze Kadri at (734) 462-4003.

■ Southfield — Volunteer Impact, Southfield Rotary Club, Southfield Public Schools, the city of Southfield, Southfield Community Foundation and the Southfield Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring a variety of beautification activities to benefit Brace-Lederle School. On Oct. 23, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., volunteers will plant bulbs, rake leaves, rehabilitate a baseball field, paint playground equipment, clear fence line overgrowth and create Halloween greeting cards for local home-bound senior citizens. More than 250 volunteers are expected. For more information, call Kelly J. Masters at (248) 559-4950, Ext. 3.

Volunteer Impact, Southfield Rotary Club, Southfield Public Schools, City of Southfield, Southfield Community Foundation and the Southfield Chamber of Commerce will clear brush and undergrowth, rake leaves, spread wood chips and pick up litter-debris to beautify Bauervic Park Oct. 23 8 a.m.-2 p.m. The project is open to the public. For more information call Masters at (248) 559-4950, Ext. 3.

Other projects

Volunteer Impact and the Cranbrook Institute of Science are sponsoring a day of science activities Oct. 23, 6:30-8:15 p.m. Volunteers will run simple science experiments and pass out goodies to trick-or-treaters at the "Tales from the Cranbrook Crypt." Costumes aren't required, but encouraged. The project is open to the public. For more information call Masters at (248) 559-4950, Ext. 3.

Volunteer Impact, The Light-house of Oakland County, Volunteer Place and Oakland County Hospitals are sponsoring a Diaper Drive to collect necessary newborn items for first-time, low income mothers in areas where the infant mortality rate is too high. Items such as diapers, formula, baby shampoo, soap, etc. are needed. For more information, call Masters at (248) 559-4950, Ext. 3.

For more details on events occurring around the state on this day, call the Michigan Community Service Commission at (517) 335-4295, or visit the group's website at www.state.mi.us/career/mcsc

Autumn 'Tis the season to begin anew

We often think of spring as a time of renewal and autumn as the season of death. But the rhythms of our lives seem to work the opposite way.

It is spring when the school year, the legislative session and the television season come to an end. It is a time when thoughts drift to summer vacations and languid days of doing nothing.

But autumn, that's when life really begins anew. The air becomes crisp, chilly, making feet walk a little faster. The slow, precise pace of a baseball game is replaced by the run and thunder of football.

School children begin another year with anticipation, hope or dread. They acquire new clothes, supplies, books, classmates and teachers. For some it is yet another chance to begin again and get it right.

The pace at work picks up. The vacation season is over and we vow to buckle down, get serious, work harder in that season between the sluggishness of summer and the weariness of winter.

We have rituals for autumn that have a special quality in Michigan, the most autumnal of states. We hold tailgate parties, sip cider and nibble doughnuts at creaky old mills, drive down winding backroads through tunnels of crimson, yellow and amber leaves. We enjoy raking, an activity that has some of the regular rhythms of tai chi. We rally around opposing forces for a showdown of football rivals.

We embrace the coming cold. We know it will only get colder and wetter, so we relish the afternoon sun, we savor the brief days of Indian summer.

Autumn's holiday is Halloween, dressed in orange and black. It conjures images of the dead but as a lark, a statement of the triumph of life. It, too, is about renewal, getting on with life.

This is the season to begin again. Go for it!

Bike safety: More than helmets

A lot of bicyclists may not believe it, but bicycle safety involves a lot more than just wearing a helmet.

Bicyclists of all ages — from youngsters peddling their way to school on up to senior citizens out for a little exercise — also need to obey traffic laws, usually the same laws that apply to motorists.

Yes, bicyclists should stop at traffic signals when the light turns red, and at stop signs. Yes, they should signal their intentions.

And, no, they shouldn't go zooming in and out of traffic, taking for granted that motorists will avoid them. If the sign says "Do Not Enter — One Way Street," then don't enter.

It's just common sense, you say? You'd think these are things parents would teach their kids as soon as the training wheels come off or the tricycle's stored away. Yes, you'd think. But simple observation on our streets and highways often proves otherwise.

A huge flap developed last summer when Oakland County's Farmington Hills attempted to require children to wear a bike helmets. The helmet-law controversy raged in communities across the nation. For supporters, it was a safety issue, pure and simple. For others, it was a more complex issue of parental control.

Critics of helmet laws (the last time we checked, young bicyclists were required to wear helmets in 15 states) argue that bicycle helmet law would be yet another governmental intrusion on parental rights, as well as a financial burden for some parents.

One Wisconsin press report quoted an anti-helmet law parent as saying, "It's my ■ Statistics we've seen on bike accidents are just too compelling. According to one published report, more than 500 children and adults die are killed in bike-related accidents in the United States each year, and upwards of 80 percent of these deaths are due to head injuries.

name on my child's birth certificate, not the city's."

We understand such sentiment and can even sympathize with it. Government is intrusive and getting more so all the time, it seems. Still, we find it difficult to argue against Farmington Hills' helmet ordinance. To us, the issue comes down to preventing unnecessary injuries or deaths.

Besides, statistics we've seen on bike accidents are just too compelling. According to one published report, more than 500 children and adults die are killed in bike-related accidents in the United States each year, and upwards of 80 percent of these deaths are due to head injuries. Wearing bicycle helmets reduces the risk of head injuries by a whopping 85 percent, the study claimed.

So, please, parents, make sure your children wear the safety equipment appropriate to whatever activity they're engaged in. And you'd be smart to use the equipment, too, if you also participate.

As we stated at the beginning of this misadventure, a cyclist's (or a parent's) responsibility doesn't end with the purchase of a helmet. There are the rules of the road to be learned — and obeyed.

LETTERS

Speaker undermined parents

As a mother of four children in the Clarkston School District, I received letters from Superintendent Al Roberts and Assistant Superintendent Pat Brumback stating a speaker would be coming to discuss drugs in assemblies of the middle schools and high school.

When I called for more info as to the credentials of Mr. Creagh and his qualifications to speak as an authority to our children, the secretary basically read the letter saying he was a national speaker, which didn't answer my question.

One thing led to another and my seventh and 10th grader ended up hearing Mr. Creagh. My seventh grader came home in tears. I am a stay-at-home mother and know where my children are at all times. I personally think it is fine to have a speaker come into the community to speak to the parents after school hours. I do not think it is all right to take time out of class for assemblies that deal with things already taught in health. We all know that it is true some parents would fit the profile Mr. Creagh illustrated.

However, it has been my personal experience that illegal drugs, etc. are not affected by tactics such as these, and are best left to law enforcement and lawmakers. To make war on legalized drugs and products that a doctor dispenses, or that can be bought over the counter by an "of age" individual, is counter-productive and has led to hospitals skimping on pain medicines when needed by patients, also terminal patients being told "no" to pain and anxiety medicines because they "could cause addictions." Also, one more point I would like to make is that for a speaker sanctioned by the board of education to come speak to our children regarding their parents' shortcomings unbalances the authority a parent holds over that child. Who then is left to raise and teach?

Wendy Kraus
Clarkston

Support appreciated

I write to express my appreciation for the Eccentric's support of my proposal that Independence Township do a study to establish a system of competitive pay ranges and ultimately performance review for its non-union employees and department heads.

My proposal was intended to benefit these employees and the township by these new widely used management systems. I am confident that such a system would help to retain good employees vital to good government.

Despite the defeat of this proposal, I believe such a system is necessary and appropriate. So, I will continue to strive for this and other modern management techniques to better serve our growing community.

Neil E. Wallace
Independence Township

Vouchers will rob poor

Vouchers are a costly, destructive gimmick that could set public education back decades and put an end to successful school reform initiatives.

Furthermore the voucher proposal is deceptive. It pretends to be about school reform while in reality it is nothing more than a mechanism to funnel public tax dollars into private and parochial schools.

At about $3,500 per student, vouchers will cost Michigan taxpayers more than $700 million per year just for the students currently enrolled in private and parochial schools. The result will be fewer dollars left to educate the vast majority of Michigan's children.

Some people believe that vouchers have been packaged as a plan to help the poorest kids from the poorest school districts. It is really a reverse Robin Hood scheme to rob from the poor to give to the rich i.e. those children presently enrolled in private and parochial schools.

Hopefully, the parents of the vast majority of Michigan children will see through this clever, misleading scheme.

POINTS OF VIEW

Let abatement veto stand

MIKE MALOTT

One man's "reform" often becomes another's "outmoded and obsolete process badly in need of reform."

The latest example to come out of Lansing has to do with tax abatements for industrial facilities. A hot topic in the Capitol is the just-introduced House Bill 4844, sponsored by Rep. Jennifer Faunce (R-Warren), which would eliminate the ability of one community to veto tax abatements in another when a business moves a factory and the jobs that go with it.

Tax abatements can be a powerful incentive for companies planning to put up new industrial plants. If approved by the local city council or township board, the abatement can knock off up to 50 percent from the business' property tax bill for the factory for up to 12 years.

As the law reads now, however, when a company moves inside the state, the municipality from which it is departing has to sign off on the deal. The municipality has to give its approval, not for the factory to move, but for it to get the tax abatement when it gets there.

Proponents of HB 4844 argue the veto allows one municipality to "hold hostage" another when that community has agreed to an abatement which to spur economic growth. Although quite rare — only a dozen cases of vetoes have been reported across the state — it can result in blocking economic development in the same region, supporters argue.

And the economy is quite different today than when that rule was first adopted, those proponents say. Today, the competition is between state and nations, not communities.

The bill would have a laundry list of local effects. For one, it could give the green light to a plan by General Motors to move facilities out of Troy to the GM Tech Center in Warren. Recently, Troy's city council refused consent to the move despite the fact GM wants to spend $1 billion on expansions to the Tech Center. Troy would lose jobs because employees now located there would either be moved to Warren or Pontiac. Reportedly, GM has put the entire project on hold because of the veto.

Another change in the bill would add electric generating plants to those facilities considered to be industrial, and therefore eligible for abatements. That would allow CMS Enterprises, Rouge Steel and Ford to go ahead with a $315 million co-generation power plant in

■ All that economic growth sounds wonderful, but one has to remember that the veto of tax abatements was itself a reform not long ago.

Dearborn. Dearborn's city council would like to go ahead with the plan and the abatement, but the State Tax Commission is likely to rule against it unless the bill is adopted.

And the bill would add convention centers over 250,000 square feet to the list of those facilities considered to be industrial. That would mean that if the Novi Expo Center does indeed decide to move from its present location, it too could be eligible for an abatement.

All that economic growth sounds wonderful, but one has to remember that the veto of tax abatements was itself a reform not long ago. When first enacted in the '70s, tax abatements were intended to give communities a way to compete against other states. Factories, and jobs, were heading in droves for the Sunbelt states back then. And property tax breaks were seen as powerful incentives for new businesses to come here instead.

But it also didn't take long for business people to recognize that they could leverage one community against another. If one community was willing to give 25 percent, perhaps another would increase that amount to get the factory. Cities unwilling to give abatements at all would lose out.

Although the intent was to compete against other states, the effect was to create inter-community competition right here in Michigan.

Simply going back to that now to gain these economic development projects hardly seems like the right course. At a time when state government appears ready to address urban sprawl, such a move would actually appear to be counterproductive. And Michigan could wind up simply waffling between having local vetoes and getting rid of them every 10 years or so.

Wouldn't it be wiser to turn the question over to a regional planning agency, or create some sort of appeals process? Then a judgment could be made on whether the abatement would really result in economic growth, or allow an inter-city raid.

School reform making progress

PHILIP POWER

Theorists may theorize. Policy wonks may pontificate. Politicians may blather. But the stately and uncontrollable passage of concrete events has a wonderful way of cutting through all the fog.

So it was last week on schools, the issue likely to be of top concern to voters in next year's election.

Event 1: Two weeks ago, billionaire Amway President Dick DeVos kicked off the petition drive to get enough signatures to put a school voucher plan on the 2000 ballot. The plan would entitle students in "failing" school districts (where fewer than two thirds of pupils graduate on time) to publicly funded vouchers worth up to $3,100, good at any public or private school.

DeVos dismissed school reform efforts in Michigan as "incrementalism," while his wife, state Republican Party chair Betsy DeVos, said current policy, "tinkers around the edges." Both called Michigan schools "underperforming." Event 2: Last week, Republican Gov. John Engler poured cold water on the school voucher plan at, of all places, the big GOP leadership conference on Mackinac Island. Dated?

Citing a recent Detroit News poll that showed only 47 percent support versus 34 percent opposition among Michigan residents (10 percent undecided), Engler argued that any ballot proposal with less than 50 percent support at this point is doomed. His staff said he was also worried a voucher proposal on the ballot would energize teacher unions and various other liberals, thereby threatening Sen. Spencer Abraham's reelection campaign as well as prospects for continued GOP control over the state House of Representatives.

Event 3: Later last week, the Michigan Department of Education released results of last spring's MEAP test. The results showed "steady improvement in MEAP scores," according to State Superintendent Arthur Ellis. The results also indicated some 20,000 students who scored well on the test have potentially qualified for a $2,500 state-funded scholarship to college.

Some 66,000 Michigan high school students took the test last April, up nearly 10,000 from the year before. Introducing assessments (like MEAP) of what students actually learn has been a central component in school reform for years. Dangling a $2,500 state scholarship to college as an incentive for kids to take the test (an idea of Engler's) has evidently turned around what looked like a growing boycott against taking the test.

Well, well! What's going on here?

Ignore for a moment the fact that the very top Republicans in Michigan are dramatically and publicly at odds over education. That's political insider baseball.

Focus instead on the extraordinarily revealing juxtaposition of events: The launch of an incendiary ballot proposal that could threaten public education in Michigan and recent MEAP test results indicating overall gains in student achievement.

I think State Board of Education member Kathleen Straus got it right when she told me, "The things we have been doing to improve our schools are working. Why destroy all that?"

Why, indeed? As I suggested in this column a couple of weeks ago, the issue of reforming education has been improperly framed for years. Instead of looking for some ideologically correct silver bullet (charter schools several years ago, vouchers this year), folks actually interested in improving schools would do well to realize that the education picture in Michigan is actually quite complex.

Many Michigan schools are making real progress; test results are up, graduation rates rising, parents and students satisfied. Reform tools such as MEAP tests, improved curriculum, emphasis on teaching and sustained parental and public attention appear to be working reasonably well. The question is how best to deal with those schools that are not making progress.

Some urban schools such as Inkster or Benton Harbor are in terrible shape. The mess now unfolding in Detroit suggests that the sad realities of urban politics there have overwhelmed any residual interest in taking care of kids. The remedies now being applied to Detroit — pitch out the corrupt-but-elected school board, appoint a competent CEO with the authority to clean house — may well prove appropriate to other failing urban school districts.

The best way to identify an ideologue is to see whether the passage of concrete events has any effect on ideological consistency. In the case of the voucher proposal, it's hard not to conclude that backers are so taken up with their ideology they have lost touch with reality.

Holiday programs offer opportunities for volunteer work

Volunteer opportunities are abundant at Lighthouse Emergency Services and are an integral component to the running of this organization. Volunteers assist by interviewing clients, sorting food, working on mailings and assisting with special events. Each of these roles helps Lighthouse aid its clients in a timely fashion and raise the funds to foster self sufficiency.

Numerous possibilities are available for people to volunteer at Lighthouse in the upcoming months. Volunteers are needed to assist with the registration of clients for the Thanksgiving and Holiday programs. Enrollment for the Clarkston office, 5331 Maybee Road, will occur 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 12. If you are able to help at this time, please call Lighthouse at (248) 673-4949.

The Thanksgiving Food Drive will provide turkeys or turkey rolls and all the trimmings to approximately 300 households in North Oakland County this year. Individuals, families and/or organizations can still become a part of this effort by either providing Thanksgiving food to be included in the distribution, donating money for the purchase of turkeys, or volunteering at one of the sorting and distribution sites. The following items are desired for the Thanksgiving baskets: turkeys, sweet potatoes (yams), stuffing mix, canned cranberries, potatoes, onions, canned vegetables, canned fruit, soup, pumpkin pie filling, pie crust mix, dessert items, (cake mix and icing) and Jell-O.

The Holiday Program furnishes new items including toys and clothing for needy families. Each of these families has the opportunity to receive three items per child. These articles can be acquired through the Christmas Store at the Clarkston Lighthouse branch or from the Adopt-A-Family Program. New clothing for both children and adults is needed as well as unopened toys for children.

Lighthouse Emergency Services in Pontiac will hold registration for the Holiday Program or "The North Oakland Holiday Clearinghouse" Oct. 11-15 in the Howard Dell Community Center, 3345 Edison St., Pontiac. Hours are 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday and 1-8 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. Volunteers are also needed to help during this week of registration. If you are available on these dates, please call Terry at (248) 335-3462.

The Thanksgiving Food Drive and the Holiday Programs provide a perfect opportunity for people who want to volunteer but cannot do so on a regular basis or on the weekends. If you would like to consider becoming involved with either of these programs, please contact Lighthouse at (248) 673-4949.

In addition to volunteering at Lighthouse, people can also help support these programs by attending a Detroit Rockers indoor soccer game at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20. The Rockers will be playing the Cleveland Crunch. Lighthouse will receive a portion of the proceeds from every ticket sold.

Lighthouse Emergency Services would also like to thank the United Way volunteers who helped clean the inside and outside of the building Sept. 18 on the Day of Caring.

This column space is shared by local community groups. Up next week: Clarkston Area Task Force for Youth.

Keep eyes open on Dixie Hwy.

Drive up and down Dixie Highway enough times in your life and, after awhile, you begin to think you've seen just about everything you could possibly see from a car window in heavy traffic. Shops of every shape and description. Vehicles of every shape and description. Fender benders, daring bicyclists, the occasional transient, and so on.

One time, I sat at the intersection of M-15 and Dixie during the lunch hour and watched while some poor teenager — driving a new truck — pulled out of a business driveway directly into the path of an oncoming car. I watched, horrified along with other drivers, while the two vehicles collided, rocked violently into the air, then came to rest: two heaps of twisted metal, glass and broken bones.

Another time, much to my amazement, I saw a confused and frightened but beautiful swan struggling to get up enough momentum (in the crowded southbound lanes of traffic, no less) to lift herself off the ground and into the air.

Drive up and down Dixie Highway enough times in your life and, after awhile, you learn you'd better keep your eyes on traffic. It is no secret among those who traverse that road regularly between Pontiac, Waterford, Independence and Springfield, at least, that Dixie can be a real danger zone — especially on Friday afternoons during rush hour.

So it was that I was driving along Dixie Highway last Friday about 4:40 p.m., in front of several Waterford

Running club blends fitness, friendship

■ The Wolfpack Running Club has met on Saturdays at Clarkston's Depot Park for about 16 years. The club has some serious runners but welcomes anyone.

BY SALLY SLAUGHTER
STAFF WRITER

If you're up early enough this weekend, you might see them trotting steadily through the neighborhood. You might even wonder about their mental status now that mornings are greeted with frost instead of dew.

Members of the Wolfpack Running Club, however, relish their Saturday morning run. President Paul VanKlaveren said the worse the weather is, the better he likes it.

"It's a challenge," he said. The Wolfpack is a group of about 50 runners, mostly from the Clarkston area.

"A lot of people think of us as an elite running club, but we're just average Joes," VanKlaveren said.

Members — men and women — run on their own or maybe with a pal during the week, but every Saturday morning at 8 a.m. they meet at Depot Park for a group run. They usually go at least five miles. Many people extend it to six or even 10 miles.

"It kind of motivates you to go the rest of the week," Wolfpack member Mike McIntyre said.

Each member of the group has a reason for running. McIntyre, 48, was a runner in high school and enjoys the fitness benefits of running. He said knee and back surgeries have kept him from running as much as he would like in the past couple of years. The operations were successful, however, and this summer he started to get back into shape. He said he has already lost 15 of the 35 pounds he gained while he couldn't run. It's hard to tell why McIntyre would want to lose 20 more pounds, but he said he gained weight because he didn't change his eating habits when he wasn't running.

STAFF PHOTOS BY STEVE CANTRELL

Running for fun: Members of the Wolf Pack Running Club participated in the Clarkston's Fall Fun Daze races. A blustery day didn't keep the group from hitting the pavement.

VanKlaveren, 50, started running years ago. He weighed 220 pounds and didn't like it. He said he thinks he is genetically programmed to be overweight and didn't want to stay big. When he started out, it wasn't with any sort of group. VanKlaveren could only go a half-mile at a time, he said. It took three years before he considered himself a real runner. VanKlaveren played football in high school and today weighs less than he did then.

The Wolfpack started about 16 years ago much as it is now, with a group of people who like to run. In addition to the Saturday morning runs, a smaller group runs on Sunday mornings, too, VanKlaveren said. The group of about 10 usually starts at one person's house. The motivation is a good meal when they are done, he said.

Fit friends: The Wolf Pack Running Club has been around for years and is perhaps best known for running with Santa through downtown Clarkston on Christmas Eve.

Dad was biggest hero at the old ball park

As you probably know, last week on Monday we lost a little piece of baseball history. I don't pretend to be a baseball fan, but even I feel a little loss at the closing of that old stadium on the corner of Michigan and Trumbull.

Tiger Stadium held fond memories for many people. During the days leading up to the final game, my favorite radio station was airing little segments with media personalities telling their personal favorite memories of Tiger Stadium. As the days went by, I heard great stories of news reporters who got to interview their childhood baseball heroes; stories of catching the foul ball and later using it to play baseball in the alley with the neighborhood kids. Some favorite memories had nothing to do with baseball. One reporter's most memorable experience in Tiger Stadium was the recent Three Tenors Concert. Another told of the excitement when he got to sit next to a famous actor.

As I listened to these fond memories, I felt a little left out. I had only been to Tiger Stadium once and it was so long ago I could hardly remember it. As I started thinking back, I realized that I couldn't even remember how long ago it was that I went to that one game with my Dad. It must have been more than 30 years ago. I can't remember if it was sunny or rainy, but I remember that my Dad, who was a huge baseball fan, was happy to be there.

We were there on a group outing. I don't remember if it was for school or Girl Scouts or church, but I remember coming home and telling my Dad that we could go to Tiger Stadium and see a real game if he would sign up as a parent volunteer. I don't remember what day of the week it was, but I remember being proud that my Dad was one of the few fathers who had agreed to chaperone.

Did we ride a bus to Detroit or did we car pool? I really don't recall, but I do remember standing in line outside the stadium, holding my Dad's big hand in mine, waiting to go in and wondering what it would be like once we got in there.

I don't remember who the Tigers were playing that day, but I do remember sitting next to my Dad and watching his face light up with each good play and feeling that I had brought him that joy because it was my group's outing. Since we were with my group (whatever group that may have been), I know there must have been other people sitting with us who I knew, but in my memory, it's as if it were just my Dad and me.

The rest of the cheering (or booing) crowd was just background scenery.

Did we have hot dogs and pop? I'm sure we must have, though I can't say I actually remember it. To be truthful, I can't even remember whether the Tigers won or lost that game, but as far as I'm concerned, everything about that day was a winner.

Although I was probably only 10 at the time, I can still remember the feeling that, for that one day, my Dad was all mine. The two of us, out in the world, doing something that he enjoyed and me being the reason he was there.

On that day I didn't realize how few more outings there would be with my Dad since he died only a few years later, but I did know that it was a special day.

Even though I remember very little about that old ballpark, I realize now that my Tiger Stadium memory is better than any interview with a baseball hero or a seat next to a famous actor.

Because, after all, I was there with my own personal hero — my Dad.

Spooktacular to benefit children with Leukemia

BY SALLY SLAUGHTER
STAFF WRITER
sslaughter@oehomecomm.net

The next Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan fund-raiser will feature jousting, hot dogs, crazy costumes and a band that comes outfitted as jesters and other outrageous characters.

It's not exactly the staid, black tie affair one might expect for $150 a ticket for adults and $75 for children. But it makes sense when you realize this party was planned by kids.

The Oct. 30 Boo Ball Spooktacular was planned by and for children and their adult guests, said Dana Fortinberry of Clarkston.

Fortinberry is president of the board of directors of CLF, a non-profit organization started by a group of parents who lost children to leukemia. Today, CLF helps 1,000 Michigan children and adults and their families deal with leukemia, lymphoma and other related blood disorders.

Since its founding in 1952, CLF has raised $6.2 million for research. Each year in Michigan, 4,000 new cases of leukemia or related diseases are diagnosed. It is the second leading killer of children after accidents and the leading cancer killer of adults under age 35.

Boo Ball Spooktacular co-organizer Cindy Obron Kahn of Bloomfield Hills said CLF has been wanting to put on a major event for about six years. She said the response by people all over the state has been wonderful. The process started with a group of children of all ages. They were put in a room with a facilitator and told to talk about what they would want the best party they could attend to include.

Most of their ideas were incorporated into the Spooktacular.

Kathy Cohn, of Huntington Woods, another event coordinator, said a 1995 "non-event" raised $85,000. A non-event means simply seeking monetary contributions from major donors, she said.

"We've had a lot of momentum from that," she said, including a major contribution from Chrysler Financial.

But even with past successful fund-raising efforts, CLF needed a signature event, Fortinberry said. They thought why not throw an event for the whole family.

"We got invited to so many black tie events that take us away from our families," she said.

That's where the children came in. The menu they chose includes hot dogs, pizza, French fries and ice cream. The adults will get a strolling dinner of more sophisticated food, Fortinberry said.

The kids wanted jousting, Moonwalk, remote-controlled race cars, music, arts and crafts and clowns. They got it.

"Our biggest and best thing is the band that's coming in," Fortinberry said.

The 20-member Pink Flamingoes stress fun and audience participation.

"One of them will run off and change costumes between songs," Fortinberry said.

The event will be at Oakland University's Shotwell-Gustafson Pavilion from 6-10 p.m. Organizers are hoping for 600 people to attend.

Please order tickets by Oct. 15 by calling 1-800-825-2536.

Even holidays don't mean a day off for the hardy group. On Christmas morning they meet, of course, with the carrot of good food at the end.

"We run to the grocery stores and sing carols," he said.

The group recently participated in the races in conjunction with Clarkston Fall Fun Daze. A large race they take part in each year is the Great Lakes Relay. Teams of 10 people run a 300-mile relay race over three days. It takes runners from Tawas to Rogers City to Grayling and finishes in Empire at the shore of Lake Michigan.

The group is informal and only last year did it bother having a president or any kind of dues. The nominal fee covers postage for a semi-annual newsletter.

The group takes any runner at any speed. Anyone is welcome to meet up with them on Saturdays.

"It's as much a social thing as anything else," VanKlaveren said.

Runners are serious about their hobby, and it takes lots of paraphernalia to keep out the cold on those chilly days and just the right shoes to get the optimum performance. So, of course, the club has a sponsor — of sorts.

"We are their unofficial headquarters," said Paul Coughlin, owner of Runnin' Gear in Waterford. "The store has been here 21 years and all those people shop here. We sort of grew up together."

VanKlaveren said he likes the support the Wolfpack members give each other. VanKlaveren has run the Boston Marathon three times. To get into the prestigious race, runners must qualify in another marathon and finish with a certain time.

VanKlaveren wanted to qualify for the 100th running of the marathon in 1996, but "crashed and burned," within two-tenths of a mile of the finish line on a hot, humid day. He was crushed. The only other marathon he could find after that was in Dayton, Ohio — on a track.

Two fellow Wolfpack members made the trip and ran with him for 26.2 miles for encouragement. He qualified and ran in the marathon. Since then, VanKlaveren has run in marathons in New York and Chicago.

He has qualified for the 2000 Boston Marathon. He doesn't know if he'll go.

"It's up to my wife," he said with a smile.

Walker from page B1

Township businesses, when I happened to notice a single little girl — who could have been no more than 9 or 10, if that — sitting on the curb of the highway with her feet resting out in the road.

As she sat there, a bumper-to-bumper, fast-moving pack of cars and trucks, including semi-trucks and double-tandems, rushed by her, creating wind, spewing exhaust and traveling precariously close to her legs. She sat there where any goon who was sufficiently motivated could have snatched her up by simply reaching an arm out a passenger door.

The little girl was wearing her school bag across her back and she was waiting — her elbows braced on her knees, her hands propping up her face — for what? That was only one of the questions that troubled me as I drove past her.

Other questions were these: Where are that child's parents? Why hasn't anyone from one of those businesses asked her to move a safe distance from traffic? If I, a total stranger, go back and tell her that she is sitting in harm's way, will I be perceived as an adult threat approaching a child who is alone? If I don't go back, will she, in her innocence, get hit by some wayward vehicle?

Will a predator be the one who stops?

It troubles me even today, as I write this, to think that I had to think twice about whether to return to that child. I did think twice though, albeit it fleetingly, before I came to the conclusion that I simply had to return to the girl and tell her to please move away from the traffic. I then drove for about one mile before I could successfully negotiate a lane change and a turn-around to go back.

When I reached her, I found her standing near the curb, looking at her feet, pacing and wondering when there would be a break in traffic so her two girl friends — whom I did not initially see — could cross Dixie.

She explained her predicament and minded politely when I bent over and asked her to please not sit or stand so close to traffic. Then I looked up, after delivering my speech, only to see the two other girls run across the road, skirting trucks on a burst of adrenaline as they did so.

I caught my breath and walked back to my vehicle while the three of them, together at last, threw themselves onto some nearby grass and laughed. They were exhilarated by what had just transpired. Two had successfully crossed the road. The third had finally claimed her friends.

For me, though, I was left to wonder: What were all the other adults thinking who passed that little girl in their vehicles while she sat with her feet in the road? Was there a single other soul who thought to warn her about the potential danger?

Maybe I'm only dreaming when I think that the people who traverse Dixie have seen just about everything. Maybe they are all wearing blinders.

School vouchers issue looms huge to Oakland partisans

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER
pmurphy@oe.homecomm.net

The question of school vouchers will be a controversial — some would say “divisive” — issue in Oakland County and Michigan, according to advocates on both sides of the issue.

“Oakland County is always in a battle ground on public policy question,” said former Farmington Hills resident Patrick Anderson, “and this is a very important one.”

Vouchers on the ballot has the potential of being very divisive, said Brian J. Wiston, president of the Waterford Board of Education and director of legislative affairs for Oakland Schools. “It will have a decided impact on local public schools.”

Anderson and Wiston are on opposite sides of what is shaping up as an explosive battle over changing the state constitution to enable the parents of children in failing public schools to use public funds for tuition at private schools.

Ballot question likely

The issue surfaced at the GOP leadership conference on Mackinac Island recently, when Richard DeVos, president of Amway Corp. and Republican activist, said he is supporting a petition drive to put school vouchers on the ballot in 2000. DeVos is also cochair of Kids First, a group that plans a petition drive to put vouchers on the statewide ballot.

Oakland GOP chair David A. Sebastian attended the Mackinac conference and was on hand when Gov. John Engler responded to DeVos and the idea of vouchers. Engler said he opposes the idea of putting vouchers on the ballot, and the governor predicted that once on the ballot, the proposal would fail.

Sebastian said he has no reason to believe the voucher issue will be “divisive,” although he envisions it generating considerable controversy with Republicans on both sides. “I don’t see this as a political party issue,” the Birmingham lawyer said. “I see it as a debate on what is the better choice for the children of Michigan.”

It is indeed a question of what is the best course for children in Michigan, insisted Wiston, a Republican activist who has no doubt about DeVos and his pro-vouchers allies being successful in getting the issue on the ballot.

“I expect it (the voucher proposal) to be on the Nov. 7, 2000 ballot,” said Wiston. “And I expect there will be serious debate leading up to it.” Wiston said he plans to be active in the campaign to defeat the vouchers.

His opposition against vouchers comes from his association as an active Republican, lobbyist for Oakland schools and president of Waterford schools. “There are very serious public policy questions involved,” he said. “Foremost is impact on local public schools.”

“There’s also the question of whether tax money should be used for private schools.”

Anderson, a political ally of tax foe Dick Headlee, said the voucher proposal does indeed have implications . . . for students. Public school students must have an alternative to a failing school system, he said, “and vouchers would provide that alternative.”

Anderson lived in Farmington Hills until moving to the Lansing area. He was with the Secretary of State’s office briefly, but for the last three years he has been managing director of the Anderson Economic Group, a consulting business with a number of clients, including Kids First.

“I wrote the ballot language on the voucher proposal,” Anderson said.

The Engler factor

As the debate gets under way, Gov. Engler could be an important factor.

“From what I saw on the porch (of the governor’s Mackinac Island residence where Engler talked to reporters about the voucher proposal),” said Sebastian. “Gov. Engler said he does not favor the ballot proposal on vouchers, but I didn’t see him put forth any substantive arguments against vouchers.”

When contacted in Lansing, the governor’s spokesman, John Truscott, reiterated Engler’s position. “The governor is opposed to vouchers,” said Truscott, “and he thinks it will fail (In November, 2000).”

“But the governor is not going to campaign about vouchers,” said Truscott. “He’s got other priorities, including getting Gov. (George W.) Bush elected.”

Slavery is topic of lecture

Daniel C. Snell, professor of History at the University of Oklahoma at Norman, will discuss slavery in a lecture at Oakland University Friday, Oct. 8.

The public is invited to the noon presentation — the Department of History’s annual lecture — in the Oakland Room of the Oakland Center. There is no admission fee.

Snell will discuss the origins of slavery in ancient Mesopotamia and other complex societies, including ancient Greece, Rome and the Middle East plantation complex that eventually dominated the New World. He will also cover abolitionism.

If you qualify for one combined bill for your AT&T residential and wireless services, you must also continue to receive a combined bill to have the AT&T Family Plan. Full terms and conditions are contained in the AT&T Welcome Guide, Rate Sheet or Calling Plan brochure. Offer may not be combined with any other promotional offers.

Cardiologist had all the classic symptoms

The early morning phone call from a cardiologist had a sense of great urgency. I listened carefully. I did not scribble notes. I had heard of attacks like this before. After listening to his tale of odd nighttime pounding and thumping, not in a heart but on his flat roof, I had a tentative diagnosis. A field inspection — call it a house call if you wish — brought confirmation. Another case of black walnuts on the attack.

Some 12,000 years ago glacial ice over one-mile thick covered and crushed Oakland County. The great glacier retreated, leaving pulverized rock, lots of gravel, sand and a landscaped pockmarked with depression soon to become lakes. Lichens and mosses — pioneering plants — grabbed hold. Over the next 9,000 years or so, insects, birds, tiny mammals and big woolly tusked mammals appeared on the scene. Along came spruce and tamaracks and pines.

Another thousand years passed and some soils became fertile and just about begged for more southern trees to colonize. Among those early immigrants were black walnuts. Black walnuts have only begun to attack

OAKLAND... NATURALLY

humans in the last few decades for now conditions are prime for attack, provoked by the ways of nature, gravity, wind and the homestead location of suburbanites. Location is everything.

Black walnut are very special trees. I know. I have a dozen large black walnuts scattered on the hillside that separates my house from the century-old barn. And my hammock is stretched between two of those walnuts. In spring I loved relaxing in that hammock and watching the sky before the leaves appear. Summer winds made the leaves filter light. And the air became scented with walnut in late summer. October arrived and now it is best to abandon the hammock, or at least keep my reflexes sharp.

I too have been attached. On windy autumn days the heavy nuts plummet downward. And it was that noise of the falling nuts that had the cardiologist calling me to determine what sort of "creature" was thumping about his roof.

Black walnut nuts are the size of large plums. And a lot heavier. Two characteristics are memorable. They are deliciously aromatic. That is the good news. The bad news is that the green husks turn brownish-black upon hitting the earth and stain if you crush or pocket them. Squirrels love them. I have already discovered large stashes of black walnuts in amazingly neat rows on my barn rafters.

If you find the interior shell of a chewed black walnut, the gnawing will tell you the species of squirrel. Gray and fox squirrels gnaw from both sides, resulting in two large holes leading to the meaty interior. Four circular cuts indicate the secretive flying squirrel and the red squirrel gnaws from one end only. I kid you not.

Biological warfare

Properly prepared black walnuts are good eating. The tree, however, is toxic and wages biological warfare on its neighbors. A naturally occurring chemical, juglone, is found throughout the plant but is most concentrated in the roots. Many species of plants are susceptible to juglone and if a susceptible species root makes contact with a black walnut root it is permanent "wiltville" time. Kind of plugs up the workings and prevents growth of competitor or kin.

Strange as it may seem, young black walnuts are also susceptible to juglone from the mature walnut trees. And that is where squirrels come to play. For if they bury a black walnut in fertile moist soil, away from the parent plant, in a hundred years or so another stately black walnut will dominate the landscape reaching for the sunlight it loves. And come autumn and a future windy day, nuts from the tree will plummet to the ground to feed squirrels and dance on the roof tops of those who build homes within attack range.

Activist to be honored with spot in Michigan Women's Hall of Fame

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER
pmurphy@oe.homedomain.net

A former Oakland County resident — Elizabeth Giese Homer, an advocate for equal opportunity for women — is among this year's inductees into the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame in Lansing.

Homer, who now lives in the Lansing area, was a resident of Milford from 1968-88, when, among other things, she was chair of the Women's Caucus of the Michigan Democratic Party and state director of PEER (Project on Equal Education Rights), sponsored by the National Organization for Women (NOW).

Homer is listed in the Who's Who in American Women and the Who's Who of Politics.

In the 1990s, she helped initiate a lawsuit by NOW and the ACLU that halted the nationwide movement toward the creation of all-male academies.

She, along with eight other women, will be inducted into the Women's Hall of Fame Oct. 21, during an awards dinner at the Lansing Radisson Hotel.

Homer will be inducted in the hall's contemporary division, meaning the person was alive at the time of being selected. Others in the contemporary division are: Doris DeDecker, a writer and activist from Detroit; Margaret Drake Elliott, an environmentalist and outdoor columnist with The Muskegon Chronicle who died earlier this year, and Sister Ardeth Platte, a Dominican nun who served on the Saginaw City Council, including a stint as mayor pro tem.

To be inducted in the historical division, meaning the person was accepted into the hall posthumously are: Patricia Beeman, 1923 to 1996, a member of the Southern African Liberation Committee; Olympia Brown, 1835 to 1926, a friend of Susan B. Anthony who in 1863 became the first woman minister to be ordained with full ecclesiastical authority by the Universalist Church in the U.S.; Eleonore Hutzler, 1885 to 1978, the first woman to head the Women's Division of the Detroit Police Department; Ella Eaton Kellogg, 1853 to 1920, a dietitian and children's advocate in Battle Creek, and Emily Burton Ketcham, 1838 to 1907, a Grand Rapids woman and tireless advocate of human suffrage.

The Philip A. Hart Award — presented annually by the hall of fame to the man deemed to have demonstrated unique understanding and support of women's issues and concerns — will be awarded to Peter T. Mitchell, president of Albion College.

CraneFest 99

Saturday & Sunday, Oct. 9 and 10, noon to 7 p.m.

A Special Report from the Michigan Audubon Society

Information: Call Mike Boyce at (616) 763-3377 or visit on-line at <http://mas.miaudubon.org/baker-sanctuary/cranfest.htm>

Join the Michigan Audubon Society at the Fifth Annual Sandhill Crane & Art Festival at Baker Sanctuary, Bellevue, Michigan (n.w. Calhoun County within 12 miles of Battle Creek, free parking).

Crane Viewing: Free. 2,000+ sandhill cranes, Michigan's largest bird, up to five feet tall with a seven-foot wing span. Migrating cranes arrive at this staging area beginning around 4 p.m. and activity peaks after 5 p.m.

Art Show and Sale: Free. Paintings, photography, jewelry, pottery, woodworking and more. Noon.

Guided Nature Walks: Free. Enjoy the autumn beauty and explore nature trails with an expert.

Nature Photo Workshop: Free. Learn valuable fundamentals from award-winning photographer Jim Gift. 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday (space is limited).

Crane Origami: Free. Learn the ancient art of paper folding and create your own crane.

Old Time Farm Equipment: Free. Hairdos, rope making and more fun for family.

Plus: Nature crafts, food concessions, snack, sandwiches, beverages, picnic area and super saving bird seed sales.

The Michigan Audubon Society is a non-profit organization that promotes the awareness, understanding, enjoyment and stewardship of the environment and natural resources of the Upper Great Lakes region by educating the public, supporting ecological research, maintaining sanctuaries and by taking part in appropriate advocacy to protect the environment.

FOOTBALL FORECAST

JIM TOTH

Area teams finding success on the ground

There's one common theme among the area's undefeated football teams — run the ball well and success will follow.

That's a great philosophy to adhere to, but it also helps immensely to have some highly talented individuals doing the carrying. Proof can be found in the performances of Sheldon Sofer (Troy), Cody Cargill (Walled Lake Western) and Ron Ramirez (Birmingham Groves), who have each aided their teams in winning all six of their starts.

The 5-11, 195-pound Sofer has been the runaway leader among area ball-carriers in terms of yards and touchdowns. He has already surpassed the 1,000-yard mark and found the end zone 19 times.

Cargill has averaged better than six yards per carry and found paydirt six times, while Ramirez has carried the Falcons to a 6-0 ledger on the strength of 14 touchdowns.

Other backs who have carried their teams to winning records, and probable playoff appearances, include Mark Goebel (Brother Rice), Chris Mitchell (Clarkston), Quenell Williams (St. Mary's), Tyrell Barner (Avondale), Ed Hillery (Rochester) and Maurice Strong (Troy Athens).

All of the running backs will look to add to their season marks and their team's victory total as 19 games involving Eccentric-area teams are slated for Week 7.

Bloomfield Hills Andover at Royal Oak Dondero (7 p.m. Friday): Any team playing the winless Oaks knows they should win. The Barons know it and do it.

Waterford Mott at Troy Athens (7 p.m. Friday): No lead will be safe, no deficit too much to overcome. If only the basketball teams could light up the scoreboard like these two football teams do.

PICK: ATHENS
Southfield-Lathrup at Ortonville-Brandon (7 p.m. Friday): An important game for the Chargers who have an eye on the playoffs. Omari Colen finds the end zone and the Chargers a victory.

County C-C invite set to turn 40

This Saturday will mark the 40th running of the prestigious Oakland County prep cross-country meet and Clarkston's boys team is counted among the favorites in a field that will feature over 40 schools.

One of the nation's largest and most competitive prep cross-country invitational turns 40 this Saturday on the trails of picturesque Kensington Metropark, but is the tradition-rich meet is far from being over the hill.

Close to 45 schools are expected to gather at the 40th Annual Oakland County championships, which fields more teams in one race than any other in the state, including the state finals, and annually boasts some of the state's top teams and individual talent.

"This is the 40th year," said veteran Birmingham Brother Rice coach Bob Stark. "It's gone through a lot of changes, but it's still an exciting meet."

"As of (Tuesday), we had 40 boys teams and 39 girls teams, but we always have 3-4 show up that didn't send in their packets."

After a long stint at Marshbank Park in West Bloomfield, the meet was moved to Kensington, located in Milford Twp. near the I-96 corridor, three years ago. The fourth running at Kensington will begin at 10 a.m. this Saturday with the varsity boys race, followed by the varsity girls race, open junior-varsity race, and the awards presentation.

Troy Athens is the defending girls champion, while Novi won the boys title a year ago.

Although Athens' girls team is down from last year, Novi is favored to repeat in the boys meet.

"I would have to say that Novi is the favorite, they have been running strong, they are the defending (Lower Peninsula) Class A state champion and county champion, and they return a lot of runners," said Clarkston boys coach Mike Taylor. "I think if someone can come in there and beat Novi, they're going to be in good shape."

Many coaches expect Milford, Clarkston, White Lake Lakeland and Walled Lake Central to comprise the other front-runners, while Lake Orion, Rochester, Rochester Adams and Troy should also fare well.

Last year's individual champion, Ben Evans of Brother Rice, has graduated

Total effort lifts Clarkston cagers

Wolves snap four-game losing streak with victory over over Pontiac Central

BY BRAD KADRACH
SPORTS EDITOR
bkadrach@oe.homecomm.net

Ann Lowney has been hoping her Clarkston girls basketball team could put together a full four quarters of basketball, and they finally did it Tuesday.

Senior forward Rachel Uchman scored 10 points and senior guard Lindsey Prudhomme scored nine as the Wolves ended a four-game losing streak with an easy 40-14 non-league win over Pontiac Central. And, in the face of Thursday's upcoming showdown with Waterford Kettering, the effort couldn't have come at a better time.

"I'd like to see that against Kettering," Lowney said after watching her entire team get in on the beating of the Chiefs. "But that place (Kettering) is tough to play in."

The confines of Clarkston's Field House were nothing but friendly Tuesday as the Wolves jumped out to a 21-4 lead

■ '...With everything that we've gone through, they were totally motivated.'

Ann Lowney
—Clarkston girls basketball coach

It was 15-4 at the end of the first quarter and 27-10 by halftime. The Wolves held the Chiefs (2-8) to a field goal by Shalisa Teasley in the third quarter, and Teasley and Arlela Young each hit free throws in the fourth quarter to account for Pontiac Central's second-half scoring.

Meanwhile, the Wolves were hustling. Everyone on the Wolves' bench got into the game, and eight different Wolves shared the scoring.

In a game that easy, one might think motivation would be a problem, but Lowney blew off that suggestion quickly.

"The way things have been going for us, that wasn't a problem," she said. "With everything we've gone through, they were totally motivated."

With the outcome never in doubt after the opening minutes of the second quarter, Lowney took the opportunity to work out some kinks and get everyone some playing time. The Wolves were still hustling after loose balls and rebounds as the clock expired.

"It gave me a chance to work on things and I got to play a lot of kids," Lowney said. "These kids came out and played hard for 32 minutes."

The Wolves travel to Waterford to play the Captains tonight (Thursday). Game time is 7 p.m.

Wolves net season high in goals in 3-1 non-league win

BY DANIEL STICKRADT
STAFF WRITER
dstickradt@oe.homecomm.net

Scoring goals in bunches has been problem for Clarkston, but that wasn't the case for the Wolves on Monday night.

Behind a two-goal effort from senior midfielder Mike Licata, Clarkston edged visiting Waterford Mott 3-1 in an Oakland Activities Association crossover match — the most goals Clarkston has scored in a single game all season.

"We just don't seem to have that one guy that can step up and score in every game, and we have had a hard time finishing in general," said Clarkston veteran coach Dan Fitzgerald.

"It was refreshing to see us actually find the back of the net three times."

"We had our chances to score, as well — 5-6 good chances, but we just didn't finish," said Mott first-year coach Dave Weber. "We haven't played a game in over a week. We had a game canceled last week due to weather, and a couple of idle days. But that is not an excuse. We have been finishing much better."

Clarkston (5-4-2), which climbed above the five-hundred barrier for only the second time this season, posted a 21-14 shots advantage over Mott, including 13-6 with shots directly on goal.

And Licata was the culprit with his trigger.

Licata booted home his fifth tally of the season in the 16th minute when his blast off a feed from classmate Jared Bauer deflected off the hands of Mott junior keeper Scott Rutterbush before trickling inside the far post.

That lead stood until Bauer collected the eventual game winner at 56:31 when he scored off a free kick.

The Corsairs (6-4-1) finally beat Clarkston senior keeper Dustin Coleman when senior midfielder Christopher Klausling scored with 17:20 remaining when his shot from 30 yards out bounced off Coleman.

in a bad goal. But we were finally able to find the back of the net for a change."

For Mott, the loss was a quick step backwards.

"These teams have been playing much better, a lot better than any team they've had in the last 5-6 years," said Weber. "I thought this was a little disappointing but we'll regroup."

Clarkston was back into action Tuesday night, but dropped a 3-1 decision to host Troy in an OAA crossover game.

Clarkston harriers inch towards title

Before the cross-country season began, Clarkston was labeled as the heavy favorite to win the Oakland Activities Association Division I boys cross-country race. So far, the Wolves have lived up to those expectations.

Clarkston inched closer to its second league title in a row by gliding by visiting Troy Tuesday in a 19-40 rout. Meanwhile, Troy returned the favor in the girls meet with a 22-35 decision over the Wolves, which kept the Colts one slot behind Rochester Adams in the six-team standings.

"We moved a little closer to our goal of defending our league championship, but we still have to beat everyone again at the league in a few weeks," said Clarkston boys coach Mike Taylor, referring to the Oct. 21 showdown at Bloomer Park in Rochester Hills. "We've seen everybody once, but Lake Orion still concerns me and so does Rochester. We were fortunate enough to face those two in our first (dual) meet of the season. But we've done everything we've needed to do in the league to stay ahead."

The Wolves (5-0, 5-0) didn't look past Troy by any means, taking six of the first seven positions. Clarkston senior David Sage remained unbeaten in the league by breaking the tape with a 16:14 showing, while classmates Matt Haver was third (16:53), Brett Quantz fourth (17:15), Kevin Breen fifth (17:15) and Dan Burke sixth (17:16) to pace the Wolves.

Nick Gillett led Troy (1-4, 1-4) with a runner-up finish (16:43), while Rodrigo Radderass was eighth (17:55), Adam Wagner ninth (18:00), Brian Karns 10th (18:01) and Paul Socier 11th (18:08) for the Colts.

"We lost one of our top runners earlier in the season and we probably lost a few meets because of it," said Troy coach Kevin Spencer. "We could be 3-2 if we were at full strength."

In the girls' meet, Clarkston's Nicole Fisher led from start to finish, crossing the line in 19:43, but Troy (4-1, 4-1), despite the absence of its top runner, took the next three places and had six finishers inside the Top 10.

"We did really well considering we were missing our No. 1 (Erin Geldhof, who is out sick)," said Spencer. "Our girls ran a very good race. I think we'll be ready for the county meet."

Laura Larivee was second for Troy in 20:16, followed by Dana Larivee in fifth (20:21), Saka Paklaian in fourth (20:53), Amy Fielder in sixth (21:13) and Margaret Bell in seventh (21:34).

Carla DelVecchio finished fifth (21:04), Lisa Gauthier eighth (21:42), Jessica DeFresne ninth (21:42) and Karyn Erkfriz 14th (22:21) rounded out the score for the Wolves (1-4, 1-4).

"We're getting better, we're just a young team," said Clarkston girls coach Deb Zonca. "And this is just a tough conference."

ON THE RUN

WHAT: 40th Annual Oakland County Cross-Country Championships.

along with several other standout runners, leaving the door open for a new county champion. Leading this year's cast of hopefuls are Milford's Tom Greenless, Clarkston's David Sage, Novi's Tim Moore and Walled Lake Central's Todd Mobley.

"It's more wide open this year than it has been in the past," said Stark.

In the girls meet, Adams junior Katie Boyles is gunning for her third county title, as she coasted to a win with a 19:11 clocking last autumn, and has won every race she has entered this year.

"Katie is looking really well, she has put in her miles and has trained hard," said Adams coach Budd Ciccerelli. "I expect that she'll be ready to defend her title."

Adams has been labeled as this year's favorite, as the Highlanders have had four girls break the 20-minute barrier this season. But Novi, Troy, Rochester and Milford should also contend, while Lake Orion, Walled Lake Central, South Lyon, Clarkston, Athens, Bloomfield Hills Lahser and Oxford could crack the Top 10 in the standings.

"I know if we run well, we should be one of the top two teams," predicted Ciccerelli. "We've run against schools like Troy and Rochester already, but I still don't know what Novi has in terms of their three, four and five runners. I imagine that part of the lineup is what's going to make a difference for any team."

Boyles, who is also the two-time defending Class A state champion, could receive challenges from Oxford's Karen LeRoy, Rochester's Courtney Meeker and Leigha Christian, South Lyon's Amanda Lee, and Milford's Katie Kramer, who are expected to be among the leaders of a strong pack — most of which hail from either the Kensington Valley Conference or the Oakland Activities Association Division I.

The Top 30 boys and Top 30 girls finishers earn medals. "I think it's kind of been those two conference's that have dominated, at least in the 90s. Both conferences are very strong in cross-country," said Clarkston girls coach Deb Zonca, who used to coach at Athens. "And in terms of the top teams and individuals this year, most will again will come from teams that are members of those two conferences."

Call the Eagles.

PICK: KETTERING

Lake Orion at Pontiac Central (7 p.m. Friday): Who cares if the Dragons look ahead? The Chiefs offer nothing to look to.

PICK: LAKE ORION

North Farmington at Walled Lake Central (7:30 p.m. Friday): Let's see, Central beat Salem and Salem beat North Farmington. That's good enough for me.

PICK: WL CENTRAL

Oxford at Holly (7:30 p.m. Friday): A safe pick every week is the Wildcats.

PICK: OXFORD

Birmingham Brother Rice at Harper Woods Notre Dame (1 p.m. Saturday): Nothing more than a little tune-up for the Warriors, who have their sights set on next week's collision course with St. Mary's.

PICK: BROTHER RICE

Allen Park Cabrini at Waterford Lady of the Lakes (1 p.m. Saturday): The Lakers smell the playoffs and a visit by the Monarchs assures they're in.

PICK: LAKES

Madison Heights Bishop Foley at Orchard Lake St. Mary's (1:30 p.m. Saturday): Like Rice, the Eaglets make short work and look to next week.

PICK: ST. MARY'S

St. Clair at Detroit Country Day (2 p.m. Saturday): Matt Collins and Jeremy Battier team up to trump the Saints.

Keep those questions coming, folks

JOE GAGNON

On the radio show that I did last Sunday I answered a total of 43 questions from listeners. I shouldn't say "I" did because on Sundays my son, Andrew, joins me on the air and adds a new dimension to the Appliance Doctor program.

We love answering consumer questions because we know that each time we do, somebody out there is saving a lot of money. I understand that some questions may sound silly to some folks, but try to understand that not everyone's mechanical aptitude is at the same level.

Let's take the garbage disposal that was recently installed by the neighbor and now the lady's dishwasher doesn't pump out any of the water.

What the poor neighbor forgot to do was knock out the plug inside the drain spout on the side of the disposer. That's the part where the drain hose from the dishwasher hooks up. Inside, there is a plug that you knock out with a long screwdriver.

Now, for all of you reading this, I know that someone out there will install a new garbage disposer and knock out this plug I've just mentioned. Remember, you knock out the plug only if you are hooking up the drain hose from the dishwasher.

Another lady called the show to tell us she had fixed her treadmill when she wiped the touchpad control board with a clean cloth dampened with warm white vinegar. She fixed the product after she had done the same to the touchpad on her kitchen stove.

Her instructions had been to warm some white vinegar in a dish, dampen a clean cloth, not soak it, and wipe off the touchpad on her stove, and follow it up by drying it with a clean Kleenex. Don't use a paper towel because it may scratch the surface of the key pad control.

Strange how something so simple isn't written in instruction books that come with appliances.

A man called to tell us he has no cold water coming into his washing machine and when the washer gets to rinse, it just sits there and doesn't advance to the next cycle.

That's exactly how it works, folks. Unless the pressure switch feels a full tub of cold water, the timer won't advance.

This man's problem was a defective water fill valve that is on the back of the machine where you hook up the two fill hoses. It's not hard to change for any consumer, but I asked him if the hoses were the same ones that were installed 15 years ago when he bought the washer. He replied that they were. In that case I suggested he buy two new hoses while he was at it.

We took several calls on gas ranges that don't ignite when set to bake something in the oven. The most common answer was to ask consumers to change the oven ignitors. Even though it may be glowing bright red, it is still the usual repair made for this kind of problem. Always remember that it is an expensive part and to use extreme care when handling the replacement part.

A man called who hauled his refrigerator up north and hooked it up only to discover that it doesn't cool. It worked fine when he left this area but now it doesn't.

Remember that any time you carry any kind of a refrigeration product such as dehumidifier, air conditioner, refrigerator or freezer, you must always let it stand in its normal position for at least two hours before you plug it in. That's to make sure all the compressor oil migrates back down to the bottom of the compressor. It's a pretty expensive repair bill if you don't know this fact.

I will be at the Fall Remodeling Show coming up Oct. 14-17 at the Novi Expo Center. I hope you stop by and say hello. Better still, stop by and ask a question. Stay tuned.

Joe Gagnon can be heard Saturday and Sunday on 760 WJR. He is a member and past president of the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals. His phone number is (313) 873-9789.

focus on photography

Ah, autumn! Good photos bountiful now

MONTE NAGLER

In the past, I've written about photographing in the fall. But it's such an important time of the year to photograph, I'd like to cover it again and give you some new pointers. After all, fall is truly a color spectacle, a painter's palette, and you with your camera become the artist.

Fall colors can be found everywhere. The countryside is dotted with lovely roads and trails that display rainbows of vibrant hues.

Here are some tips on how you can get better fall pictures:

Contrary to what you might think, try shooting on an overcast day. Contrast is reduced and fall colors will appear much more intense.

Best time of the day to shoot? Early morning or late afternoon. These times produce maximum shadows and textures that will make your shots look more "alive." Try to position yourself to get back or side lighting.

Use whatever lens suits you best, keeping in mind that a wide angle lens gives a greater expanse to your picture, whereas a telephoto will get you in close to isolate one particular tree or capture a splash of color in a cluster of fallen leaves. If you have a macro lens or set of close-up filters, you can highlight the veins in an individual leaf or detail any other intimate subject.

Now's the time to try slide film if you've been hesitant in the past. Slides will produce the most vivid and saturated colors. Exposures need to be more accurate than color negative film, but just bracket your shots and you'll have no problems.

For black and white lovers, don't think fall colors won't give you pleasing results. Shooting under an overcast sky will give you exciting autumn pictures with a full tonal range.

As always, use good rules of composition. "Frame" your pictures with overhanging branches. "Place" your main subject off center for a more dynamic feel in your shot. Use foreground subjects to take advantage of depth-of-field, especially when using a wide angle lens. And use roads, fences and streams to your advantage as "lead-in" lines.

Be aware of other fall picture-taking opportunities. Football games, cider mill activities and patches of pumpkins are only a few.

Monte Nagler is a fine art photographer based in Farmington Hills. You can leave him a message by dialing (734) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then his mailbox number, 1873.

Fall in: Fallen leaves, morning fog, unusually shaped trees and Mel Goldstein's trained photographer's eye all combined to produce this dramatic fall picture for Goldstein's portfolio.

garden spot

Leaf it be: Sign of fall aids compost

MARTY FIGLEY

The leaves keep tumbling down, and they are just waiting to be turned into compost for the gardens. Mother Nature gives us this gift every year, and we mustn't let such a valuable resource be wasted.

If you keep at this chore, it won't loom as such a huge job. A mulching mower is just the ticket to shred the leaves that you wish to let remain on the grass; just don't let them get too deep. If you don't have a mulching mower, a regular mower is the next best thing.

If the leaves do get too deep, go over them with either mower, then again with the bagger on the machine to pick them up. Then dump them on the compost.

By now I hope you have spread your finished compost on the beds and are ready to start a new one - or have already done so. It's a good idea to have two piles so as one gets used up, the other will be starting to "work" and can accept the leaves, grass and other garden debris you have accumulated.

There are lots of "recipes" for compost, but the easiest one is to just pile things on and let it alone. It may be necessary to water it once in a while. This takes about a year or so to make the compost.

If you have the time and energy, you might want to turn it several times a year and keep it spongy-moist to speed up the decomposition. I have found that scraps from the kitchen really get the pile hot. Remember, though: no meat, grease, bones or dairy products that will encourage flies, rodents or other foraging animals and may cause unpleasant odors.

According to the book "Green Thumb Wisdom" by Doc and Katy Abraham of New York - who are both prolific garden writers, radio and TV personalities and much more - coffee grounds seem to be a natural deodorant. They report if an odor does develop, shredded newspapers will take care of it.

This lovely couple was inducted into the Garden Writers Association of America Hall of Fame at our recent annual meeting in Toronto.

Write stuff

I bet that many of you have wonderful stories to tell about gardening experiences. Now there is a chance for your story to be published in a new book, "Chicken Soup for the Gardener's Soul: 101 Stories to Help the Hearts of Gardeners Bloom."

The editors are looking for true stories of 1,200 words or less. The story should make readers laugh, cry or sigh and be written from a positive viewpoint. The "Chicken Soup" books are very popular. It might be a good idea to check one out to see the desired format.

The new book is to be published in 2001, although the deadline to submit your story is Wednesday, Dec. 1, 1999.

Mail your heartwarming or humorous garden or other people-plant story you'd like to share to: Chicken Soup for the Gardener's Soul, 51 N. Cromwell St., Fairfield, Iowa 52556; e-mail it to cbuck@kdsi.net; or fax it to (321) 577-0668. Include your full name, address, e-mail address and telephone number on the story itself.

Manuscripts will be acknowledged within two months. Authors selected will be notified in three months and paid $300 on publication.

Please let us know if your story is selected. Call my voice mail - (734) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then mailbox number 1859!

My friend, Pat Stone, editor of Green Prints, The Weeder's Digest magazine - the only magazine that shares the human, not the how-to, side of gardening - is one of the editors of this new book.

A subscription for Green Prints is $17.97 for one year ($28.97 for two years and $39.97 for three years). To order, write Green Prints, P.O. Box 1355, Fairview, N.C. 28730, or call (800) 569-0602.

Don't miss the free Southeastern Oakland County Resource Recovery Authority composting workshop 7:30-9 p.m. today, Oct. 7, at First United Methodist Church, 1589 W. Maple in Birmingham. Everyone is welcome. This is a perfect opportunity to learn what and how to make and use compost the easy way.

GOODGARDEN TIPS

- Pull dead annuals and add them to the compost.
- Shredded leaves can be spread directly on flower beds to feed the soil.
- Weed flower beds and carefully remove grasses that have grown along the edges.
- When you mulch trees with wood chips, don't mound the chips higher than 6 inches and keep them away from the trunks.
- Be sure to plant bulbs, especially tulips, deep enough, even though it might take more effort.

■ As soon as you dig dahlias, gladiolus, begonias, cannas, lilies or other tender bulbs, spray them with an anti-transpirant like Wilt-Pruf. It prevents excessive drying out while bulbs and tubers are in winter storage.

Dry off the bulbs, shake in a paper bag with a little bulb dust and then spray with Wilt-Pruf. Allow to dry in daylight and then store in a plastic bag with vermiculite or loose in a mesh bag.

Kitchen, bath sale at show benefits Habitat for Humanity

The National Kitchen and Bath Association (NKBA) is having a sale to benefit Habitat for Humanity of Michigan at the Fall Remodeling Show, which runs Thursday-Sunday, Oct. 14-17, at the Novi Expo Center.

"Homeowners will find great deals on cabinets, counters and various discontinued items at the show," said Cindy Mraz, CKD, NKBA committee chair and industry consultant for 20-20 of Flint.

"It's a great feeling knowing all profits go to such a meaningful cause, especially during October's National Kitchen and Bath Month. We've raised over $100,000 in the last two years."

Proceeds will be used to build homes around Michigan and for the 18th annual Jimmy Carter Work Project, which will build homes in Plains, Ga. Habitat for Humanity of Michigan is an organization whose mission is to build simple, decent homes in partnership with people in need.

WJR Radio and The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are sponsoring the sale.

Habitat for Humanity has 82 affiliates in 80 counties throughout the state. More than 1,300 homes have been built in Michigan with the assistance of more than 85,000 volunteers.

Habitat for Humanity was founded in Americus, Ga., in 1976. The nonprofit group seeks to eliminate poverty housing and homelessness from the world and make decent shelter a matter of conscience and action. Habitat for Humanity has built 90,000 houses around the world, providing more than 450,000 people with safe and affordable shelter.

The NKBA display will provide information on project planning and design and will feature information about its members. Habitat for Humanity's display will have books for sale and information on the organization, such as how to volunteer.

Novi Expo Center is located at I-96 and Novi Road. Show hours are 2-10 p.m. Thursday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Admission is $6 for adults, $4 for seniors, $3 for ages 6-12 and free for under age 6. Family tickets for two adults and accompanying children are available at Farmer Jack for $9. Ample parking is available at Novi Expo Center for a fee.

Harmonious convergence: blends beauty,

Down to earth: The McClow kitchen in Franklin. Like other rooms in the house, it is colored in earth tones and shades of red and green. Photos by Lynn Heinzerling Stinson.

The Arts and Crafts style is alive and well at the McClow residence. Photo by Lynn Heinzerling Stinson.

BY MARY KLEMIC

"Have nothing in your house that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful."

That statement by Arts and Crafts designer Gustav Stickley was often followed by Roger and Suzanne McClow as they renovated their Arts and Crafts style house in Franklin. And it could be followed by visitors to the Franklin Community Antiques Show.

The fifth annual show will take place Friday-Saturday, Oct. 22-23, in Franklin Community Church, 26425 Wellington at Normandy in Franklin, south of Maple. Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Oct. 22 and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 23. Admission is $6 per person.

A preview party is scheduled 6-9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 21. Advance reservations are $40 per person. The preview will include readmission to the show. Hors d'oeuvres and cappuccino will top off the evening.

The McClows' house was built in 1917 and was about to be demolished when the couple bought it in 1993. The house is of the American four-square style, with its characteristic tapered columns and open overhangs on the porch. Every room contains Arts-and-Crafts-style furnishings.

Arts-and-Crafts design features simplicity and strength, including clean lines and solid vertical and horizontal planes. Elaborate surface ornamentation is spurned; the grain pattern of the wood adorns a piece instead.

"I just really like the simplicity of the design and the quarter-sewn wood," Roger McClow said of the Arts and Crafts style.

There wasn't anything simple about restoring the house. It took the McClows five years of work, during which time Roger stripped off the paint and did the rewiring.

The McClows had liked the Arts-and-Crafts style long before it became popular. When they were renovating the house in 1993, there were few sources for Arts-and-Crafts artisans, Roger McClow said.

"Now there are hundreds," he said. "It's amazing what you can get now."

The McClows designed their kitchen and sent a chair rung stretcher to a craftsman to match the color. They attended an Arts-and-Crafts conference in Nashville and were in contact with the Stickley company.

Setting style

Everything in the house had been painted white. Earth tones and shades now color the walls. The dining room wallpaper has a leaf pattern. The library is in warm red and green. Walls in a bedroom are covered with a large floral pattern in white and greens; the carpet in the room is dark green.

In the kitchen, the walls are a deep adobe red, and some of them have green tiles. A dark stencil design reaches across the top

Furniture is white oak and flat arm Morris chairs. Furnishings are celebrating family

Healthy alternatives are treats, too

LISA LUCKOW-HEALY

Halloween should have a secondary name: Happy Cavity Promotion Day.

Your children astound you with their sugar-gathering skills on the trick-or-treat trail. The piles coming out of their bags rival Mount Rush-more. No one could possibly eat that many confections before the next Halloween - except your children.

Think about how much sugar leaves the treat bowl before all the cute little princesses and fearless super heroes arrive at your doorstep. You consume it. You find yourself buying treats you know you like and hope the neighborhood children will, too.

You probably spend a fair amount of time helping your family put together just the right Halloween costumes. You might place even more emphasis on the costume you plan to wear to a Halloween party or to your door while you dole out treats.

Healthy doesn't have to be boring. Use some of your creative costume energy to concoct healthier alternatives to your Halloween handouts. As children arrive at your door chanting "trick or treat," don't expect any unenthusiastic thanks when they dive into your creative mix. Try filling a cooler with iced-down juice boxes. Allow each child to pick out a box.

Challenge yourself to decorate your cooler to resemble a witch's brew (complete with dry ice safely stowed aside to give off fog) or a pirate's treasure chest.

Decorate a medium or large shipping box to resemble a prehistoric rock. Fill it with low-fat popcorn sealed in individual sandwich bags. Label the bags with the words "Stegosaurus Snacks."

Send children home with a variety of goodies. One of the biggest challenges in supplying a school Halloween party with the favors is stretching your allocated budget to package the most appealing treats. The next biggest challenge is making the favor a healthy, yet fun, attraction.

Start with a self-sealing sandwich bag or one slightly larger (found at craft or party supply stores) or a paper lunch bag. If you prefer, decorate each bag prior to filling it. Use orange or black markers, glitter pens or Halloween stickers.

For more extensive decorating, try gluing on a pipe cleaner spider or a miniature ghost (made by filling the center of a facial tissue with a cotton ball and tying a piece of ribbon or yarn around the neck; use a black marker for the eyes).

Fill the bag with age-appropriate goodies. A younger student will enjoy receiving a bag filled with a stencil ruler, a ghostly eraser, a individual-size bag of pretzels, Halloween stickers and a Halloween ring or pencil.

Cast a healthy spell on your family. Healthy Halloween alternatives aren't just for the ghosts and goblins at school or on your doorstep. Surprise your family with festive treats they won't forget.

Halloween night always seems so chaotic when you're trying to help the children with their costumes and any facial makeup their disguises require. Dinner might consist of grabbing a slice of pizza before the first child arrives at your door.

This year, try quick-and-easy finger foods your family will enjoy. Cut up fruits and vegetables and serve them with favorite dips. Melt cheese onto flour tortillas. Using a ghost cookie cutter, press the flour tortillas into ghostly shapes and serve on a spooky platter.

Instead of your children ravaging the treat bowl before they set out on their door-to-door journey, fill their hands with special surprises.

Personalized Halloween bags can be filled with items such as gift certificates to a favorite restaurant or movie theater, trading cards, individual-size snack packages (pretzels, carrots, crackers, trail mix), a favorite magazine or comic book, new art supplies and trendy key chains.

These are all fun ways to express "Happy Halloween" without encouraging "Happy Cavity Promotion Day."

Great goblins: It's Halloween time

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

When I was a child, my favorite part of Halloween (outside of the candy) was planning and executing my elaborate homemade costumes.

My mother didn't sew, but my dad always knew just how to get a potato chip carton to look like something else - a TV, a stove, the Alka Seltzer Boy, a silver robot and even a dinner table (completely set with plastic dishware and a vase of artificial flowers).

Spend some precious moments with your children, nieces, nephews, friends or youngsters from the neighborhood, and make and bake some great goblins and other Halloween haunting treats.

"Kraft Halloween" by Meredith Books (Des Moines, 1998) has some really great ideas: Spooky Eyeball Tacos, Creepy Crawly Gelatin (with gummy worms) and Halloween Pizza topped with pepperoni and bat-shaped green peppers. This book is available at the Kitchen Glamor shops along with a great selection of candy molds, sprinkles in orange and black and some nifty Halloween chocolate pretzel molds, easy enough for children to do.

"Roald Dahl's Revolting Recipes" (Penguin Group, Penguin Books, 1994) can be found at Borders outlet shops. It has a fun group of recipes to make with the kids.

My favorite Halloween book of the season is from the editors of Country Living: "Handmade Halloween: Ideas for a Happy, Haunted Celebration" (Hearst Communications Inc., 1999, hardcover $19.95). You can find this at all the local book shops.

Here are a few ideas and recipes from the book:

■ Hollow out good-sized oranges by cutting off the tops and scooping out the insides with a serrated-edge grapefruit spoon. With a felt-tip pen, draw a jack-o'-lantern face on each orange. Fill with squares of red Jell-O, bits of the orange segments and cantaloupe chunks. Tell the little party guests that each head is filled with brains.

■ For thirsty revelers, whip up Dracula's favorite, a "blood" milkshake: In a blender, combine vanilla yogurt, frozen strawberries or raspberries, and a few ice cubes. Or blend cranberry and orange juice with a dollop of raspberry sherbet. For creepier slurps, make vampire eyeball ice cubes. The day before the party, pour cranberry juice halfway into ice cube trays. Freeze until the juice is slush, then stick a green grape in the middle and put back in the freezer. Pop one in each drink.

HALLOWEEN COOKIES

Meringue powder, specialty cookie cutters and paste food coloring (which is more intense than liquid coloring) are available at cake decorating stores, or by mail order from Wilton Industries (phone (800) 794-5866).

Makes 2 to 3 dozen cookies
Ingredients:

¾ cup granulated sugar
½ cup (1 stick) butter, softened

1 large egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Ingredients for Royal Icing:

1 1-pound package (3½ cups) confectioners' sugar
3 large egg whites or equivalent amount of meringue powder ½ teaspoon cream of tartar orange, green and black paste food coloring

Directions:

1) In a medium-size bowl with an electric mixer on medium speed, beat the granulated sugar and butter until light and fluffy. Beat in the egg and vanilla until well mixed. Reduce the speed to low and gradually beat in the flour, baking powder and salt. Gather dough into a ball, flatten into a 5-inch round and wrap in plastic wrap. Refrigerate

Clarification

Because of a technological error, part of a Marketplace item in the Sept. 30 At Home was unreadable. The complete item is:

Fall brings the joys of leaves changing color, crisp, cool air, and the children's favorite: Halloween. Here are some items available at Jacobson's for the upcoming holiday. "Skully," the talking skull, comes with a 21-foot cord and microphone so you can do the talking. Or, at the turn of a switch, a motion sensor makes him say "Trick or treat" and sing "Hot, Hot, Hot" as people walk by. The scare-o-lantern retails for $49. These animated Halloween characters play a lively tune and move to the music. Choose from Rockin' Reaper playing "Great Balls of Fire," or Dancin' Dracula playing "The Midnight Hour." The Reaper retails for $29, and Dracula for $24.

return one piece to the refrigerator.

3) Lightly flour the waxed paper and roll out the dough between the paper to 1/8 inch thickness. Remove the top piece of waxed paper from the dough. With different sizes of pumpkin cookie cutters, cut out as many cookies as possible, leaving at least a 1/2 inch space between them. Remove the trimmings and press together to reuse. Invert the waxed paper with the shapes onto a greased baking sheet. Peel off the waxed paper. Reroll the dough trimmings between the floured waxed paper and cut out more shapes. Invert the paper onto the second baking sheet. Peel off the paper.

4) Bake the cookies 10 to 14 minutes (depending on size) or until just golden at the edges. Cool five minutes on the baking sheets. Transfer to wire racks and cool completely.

5) Repeat steps 3 and 4 with the remaining dough, using additional sheets of waxed paper, if necessary.

6) Prepare Royal Icing: In a large bowl, with an electric mixer on low speed, beat the confectioners' sugar, egg whites and cream of tartar until mixed. Increase the speed to high and beat about 5 minutes, or until very thick and fluffy. Cover tightly with plastic wrap to prevent drying until ready to use.

7) Transfer some of the frosting to two small bowls and color with the black and green food coloring. Cover with plastic wrap. Color the remaining frosting orange. Transfer some of the orange frosting to a medium-size bowl and beat in a few teaspoons of water, until it reaches a spreadable consistency.

8) Spread the orange frosting on the cooled cookies with the back of a spoon. Let dry completely.

9) Transfer the orange frosting in the large bowl to a pastry bag fitted with a No. 1 tip. Use to pipe lines and dots on the cookies, leaving space in the middle of some to make jack-o'-lantern faces.

10) Repeat step 8 with the green and black frosting, making stems and facial features.

Clothing puts wrinkle in storage

DIANA KOENIG

Q: I live in an area where the changing seasons bring drastic changes in the weather. I need clothes for each season, and my closets are already packed beyond capacity. I need a solution to this seasonal problem.

A: People tend to fill 100 percent of the space they own. This creates a problem in closets. Most women have clothes bulging out of their bedroom closet and drawers.

Before you make a plan to store off-season clothing, purge your closet and drawers, keeping only items you routinely wear. If you haven't worn it in a year, give it away. To keep from immediately filling the new space, limit the amount of clothing purchases you make.

Most of us have more clothes than we ever wear. The more you own, the more time you will spend creating space for your garments.

If you have plenty of closet space in your room to keep clothes for all seasons, simply organize in-season clothes in the most convenient location. Make a switch when the weather changes.

If space is an issue, you can keep off-season clothes in the closet of a spare room if one is available. Another option is to store clothes in plastic garment bags hung in the basement. If possible, keep your hanging clothing on hangers to save ironing time.

Clothing from dressers can be boxed, folded in plastic storage containers and placed on garment shelves in the basement or on the higher shelves in closets.

You can avoid ironing when you make the clothing switch by fluffing in-season clothes in the dryer with a fabric softener sheet after taking them out of storage. Clothing such as cottons and rayons will need ironing when you remove them from their storage home. Rent a good movie to watch while you iron to make this dreaded task a little more fun.

Buy an old dresser at a garage sale and put it in the basement. This makes a great place to keep off-season clothes. I have two in my basement. Putting clothing in dressers is faster than packing them away in boxes. Nor do you have to worry about the musty smell clothes acquire while they are boxed.

Take the necessary precautions when you store clothing in basements or attics. You need to protect your clothing from moths and moisture. Both will permanently damage your clothes. You will also want to wash or dry clean all clothing before packing in boxes, containers or garment bags. You don't want to seal away dirty clothes, especially with your clean ones.

Removing clothing from closets during the change in seasons provides the perfect opportunity to implement a closet cleaning and reorganization. Vacuum, dust shelves, dust baseboards and hang like-item clothing together. Continue to purge unused clothing from your closet.

Seasons don't usually change drastically in a matter of a few days. You won't need to dress for snow one day and sweltering heat the next. However, we could experience the need to wear long sleeves one day and short sleeves the next. You may need to change seasonal clothing gradually.

If space doesn't permit you to keep all the clothes you own in your closet or drawers, put a laundry basket in the closet temporarily. Clothes you will eventually be packing away can rotate in and out of the basket until the season totally changes.

Don't be tempted to leave clothes lying around your room. Make sure every garment has a home or is visiting another home temporarily.

Today's refrigerator bulletin: "Make a plan to rotate your wardrobe efficiently as seasons change!"

Remodeling show offers inspiration

Bored with your old kitchen? Thinking of an addition to your home? The Fall Remodeling Show is a boon to homeowners looking for change.

The show opens Thursday, Oct. 14, and runs through Sunday, Oct. 17, at the Novi Expo Center.

"All signs show remodeling is a trend that is here to stay," said Peter Burton, president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan (BIA) and of Burton Katzman Development in Bingham Farms.

"Our show brings together the resources homeowners need to guide them through the remodeling process from start to finish."

BIA is the non-profit show sponsor.

For a highlight of the show, Michael Collihole, master artisan and home improvement expert from Britain, will turn walls and ceilings into works of art with his texturing and faux finishing techniques as seen on CNBC, Lifetime and HGTV.

Additional show features will include the National Kitchen and Bath Association members' sale of cabinets, counters and other discontinued items to benefit Habitat for Humanity. The sale is sponsored by WJR Radio and the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Other show highlights will be WJR's "The Appliance Doctor" Joe Gagnon and "The Garden Show" Dean Krauskopf, the pictorial display of the fourth annual Showcase of Distinctive Homes sponsored by BIA, Standard Federal Bank and The Detroit News and Detroit Free Press Classified Marketplace, Detroit Edison safety experts' demonstration of electrical safety and the need to play it safe around power lines and a treasure chest contest with daily prizes.

More than 200 exhibitors will show their most interesting and up-to-date products and services for kitchens, baths, doors, windows, remodeling, interior design, furniture, arts and crafts, spas, decorative accessories, electronics, pet accessories, heating, cooling and appliances.

BIA also sponsors the Builders Home & Detroit Flower Show at Cobo Center, the Macomb Home Improvement Show at Macomb Sports & Expo Center and the Home Improvement Show and the Spring Home & Garden Show at Novi Expo Center.

Novi Expo Center is at I-96 and Novi Road. Show hours are 2-10 p.m. Thursday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Admission is $6 for adults, $4 for senior citizens, $3 for ages 6-12 and free for those younger than age 6. Family tickets for two adults and accompanying children are available at Farmer Jack for $9. Ample parking is available at Novi Expo Center for a fee.

Luxurious kitchens, baths topic of design presentations

Michigan Design Center presents "Luxury Kitchens and Baths," a day of great design presentations by talented industry leaders, 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23.

In addition to the seminars, there will be a keynote address by Ellen Cheever, nationally known kitchen specialist and author.

"Consumer polls have told us that luxurious, livable kitchens and baths have never been more in demand and are a top priority in remodeling and new construction projects," said Susan Zinger, general manager of MDC.

"We hope to offer the information consumers need to make the important decisions facing them including design, materials and resources. This is an excellent opportunity for people to find out what their options are before they begin their project."

After the keynote address, guests may choose from the following presentation topics: "Cabinetry for the New Millennium" by Madison Design Group, "European Bath Plumbing" by Ann Sacks Tile & Stone, "Surfacing Solutions Top to Bottom" by Wilsonart, "Dunis Studios - An American Art Tile Studio" by Beaver Tile Distributors, "Faucets, Fixtures & Spas" by Kohler, "New Directions in Formica" by Arrow Laminates, "American Art Tile for the Next Millennium" by Virginia Tile, "Cabinet Door Designs That Make Your Personal Statement" by MG Sales, "Wine Storage in Kitchen Design" by Sub-Zero, and "Great Outdoor Series from Terry Tiles" by artist Terry Kaplan.

Tickets are $30 and include lunch. To reserve a place, make checks payable to Michigan Design Center and mail to MDC, 1700 Stutz Drive, No. 25, Troy 48064. For more information, call Lisa at (248) 649-2020.

The design center is the resource market for the interior design profession. It is usually open to trade professionals only. Consumers must be in the company of their interior designer, architect or builder.

For help in finding a designer, contact the Designer On Call program for a free one-hour consultation by calling toll-free (888) DIAL MDC.

The Theatre Company opens season with an American classic

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER
fprovenzano@oe.homedomain.net

"Be liked and you'll never want."
—Willy Loman

If there's a single philosopher of the American Dream that is precariously built on faith and fantasy, it's Arthur Miller's most compelling character, Willy Loman, from the playwright's post-war play, "Death of a Salesman."

The American classic has been in continuous production around the world since its debut in 1949. Five decades later, the manners and colloquialisms in "Death of a Salesman" seem dated, but Miller's message about the disillusionment of material success has proven to be eternally timely.

When performed with the proper sentiment, Miller's essentially realistic drama blends idealistic yearnings and middle-age cynicism in revealing the inherent deception of a free-enterprise economy that equates freedom with prosperity.

Appropriately, The Theatre Company at University of Detroit Mercy, a group of some of the area's most established actors and promising undergraduate students, opens their new season with what is arguably the most indelible and significant American play.

On the road: Willy Loman (David Regal, top), and his wife, Linda (Yolanda Fleischer of West Bloomfield), share a blissful moment in a scene from "Death of a Salesman."

Typically, The Theatre Company, which has a reputation of presenting "off beat" plays, performs at least one American classic during its season. In recent years, the company has performed Neil Simon's "Biloxi Blues" and William Saroyan's "Time Of Our Lives."

WHAT: "Death of a Salesman" by Arthur Miller, presented by The Theatre Company of the University of Detroit

WHEN: Through Sunday, Oct. 24. Performances 8 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, 2 p.m. Sunday.

WHERE: McAuley Theatre, University of Detroit Mercy's Outer Drive Campus, one block west of the Southfield Freeway

TICKETS: $10, general, $8, students and senior citizens. Call (313) 993-1130.

"We've been thinking about 'Death of a Salesman' for quite some time," said David Regal, artistic director of The Theatre Company. "It made sense that we would do it for the 50th anniversary year."

The two worked together last season during "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Dynamic duo

While the McAuley Theatre on the U of D Mercy campus doesn't offer the type of intimate venue demanded by Miller's play, it does bring together Regal, the region's most talented and celebrated actor with the meticulous and savvy director, Geoffrey Sherman.

The two worked together last season during "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

JET opens season with true story

The Jewish Ensemble Theatre presents "The Immigrant" 7:30 p.m. Wednesday-Thursday, and Sunday, 8 p.m. Saturday, 2 p.m. Wednesday and Sunday through Sunday, Nov. 7 in the Aaron DeRoy Theatre, in the lower level of the Jewish Community Center, 6600 W. Maple Road, West Bloomfield. Tickets $15-$25. Discounts for seniors and students. Call (248) 788-2900.

BY JULIE YOLLES
SPECIAL WRITER

"As we begin each new season at the Jewish Ensemble Theatre, I feel much like 'The Immigrant,' embarked on a new path in a new land," said JET artistic director Evelyn Orbach.

So it is very appropriate that "The Immigrant," by playwright and actor Mark Harelik, kicks off the Jewish Ensemble Theatre's millennium season. "The Immigrant" will be followed by "The Prisoner of Second Avenue" by Neil Simon (Dec. 22-Jan. 23), "Broken Glass" by Arthur Miller (March 24-April 19), and "The Day We Met" by Birmingham playwright Kitty Dubin (May 24-June 25).

Based on the true story of Mark Harelik's grandparents,

Mark Harelik

Harelik's grandparents, Haskell and Matleh Harelik, "The Immigrant" chronicles the 19- and 16-year-old Russian Jewish couple's arrival at the port of Galveston, Texas in 1909 and their resettlement in a tiny community of Hamilton, Texas.

Matleh Harelik died in 1971 and Haskell Harelik passed away in 1987 at the age of 100, just two years after "The Immigrant" premiered in Denver with his grandson Mark playing the title role of Haskell.

In the JET production, Greg Trzaskoma and Jodie Kuhn Ellison play Haskell and his wife, Paul Hopper and Mary Bremer play the prominent town couple that befriends the Hareliks. John Michael Manfredi directs the play.

"My grandparents came from the 19th Century into the 20th Century in about three weeks and basically plopped down in the most alien territory that they could find, said Harelik, who's also written "The Legacy," a sequel to "The Immigrant," "Lost Highway — The Music and Legend of Hank Williams" and an upcoming musical version of "The Immigrant" scheduled to open in New York this spring. Randal Myler has directed all of Harelik's plays.

"The goal of my grandmother was to be in a place where she was free to continue her traditional way of life."

TELEVISION

PBS to air 3-hour show on social impact of photographs

BY DOUG JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

"Hold still. I'm going to take your picture."

Most people have taken hundreds of snapshots of their families, travel destinations and social events.

But what those images and the millions of others that surround us mean is elusive. The growth of this "picture culture" is the subject of an important PBS broadcast next week.

"American Photography: A Century of Images" will air on Public Television WTVS Channel 56 on Wednesday, Oct. 13, from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m.

The show's producer, John Schott, grew up in Howell and went to the University of Michigan.

"Photography doesn't capture the world. It defines it," Schott said.

The show focuses on four roles photography has played in American social life: The photograph as a recorder of public events, as a recorder of private family events, as a vehicle for artistic expression and as a tool for influencing public opinion.

Schott explained in a phone interview Friday that the three-hour show tells little stories about various photographs, some famous, some merely personal.

Schott, a professor at Carleton College in Minnesota, wanted to do a show on the "social impact ... on the ways photography has crept into so many aspects of our lives." He says he had been thinking about the project for a decade.

"Naturally, you can't tell the entire history (of photography). We've chosen stories that suggest the great sweep of photography in this century."

Photography came to America in 1839 when the Daguerrian process, invented by Louis Daguerre, arrived from France. Those were small, single images on copper. Later paper negatives, then glass negatives and finally plastic-based film allowed multiple copies of a picture to be produced.

Schott's production takes up photography at the turn of the century, and goes through the two world wars, the Great Depression, Vietnam and up through the modern era.

The first hour, "The Developing Image, 1900-1934," will cover family snapshots through World War I. Part 2, "The Photographic Age, 1935 to 1959," shows us views through the Depression and the photographs of the Farm Security Administration, World War II and the great picture layouts as found in magazines, particularly "Life."

Part three, "Photography Transformed, 1960-1999," takes us through the Cuban Missile Crisis, civil rights movement and the Vietnam War, where photographers could take whatever they wanted in the way of pictures. Social historians say the searing images of Vietnam brought the war home and evidently brought it to an end.

Soldier's grief: David Turnley's poignant scene from Vietnam is one of hundreds of still photographs used in the PBS three-hour show, "American Photography: A Century of Images."

Part three also tackles the issues of the 1960s, including the Cuban Missile Crisis, civil rights movement and the Vietnam War, where photographers could take whatever they wanted in the way of pictures. Social historians say the searing images of Vietnam brought the war home and evidently brought it to an end.

Windsor" and "The Rocky Horror Show" at Meadow Brook Theatre, where Sherman was, at the time, the artistic director.

Neither Regal nor Sherman have seen the 50th anniversary revival on Broadway, which starred Brian Denehy and earned the top Tony Awards. For that matter, the England-born Sherman has never seen "Death of a Salesman" on stage. (Actually, he considers Miller's later work, "A View from the Bridge," as a better play.)

Regal, on the other hand, auditioned for a secondary role in the early 1990s television-version of "Death of a Salesman," which starred Dustin Hoffman and John Malkovich.

Set in the late 1940s, "Death of a Salesman" is an unrelenting examination of what constitutes "success" in American life. Miller's choice of a salesman, Willy Loman, as the protagonist demonstrates the slippery connection between faith and fantasy, and self-respect with societal expectations.

The story looks at the last days of a salesman, who fails to meet quota as he tries to hold on to his grasp of success and happiness. True happiness, Loman figures, is to pass along his dream of success to his son.

But beset by memories of his moral and business failures, Miller's Loman confronts the tragedy when the shimmer of disillusionment is rubbed away from the American Dream.

For his role as Willy Loman, Regal didn't do anything different than if he were performing Shakespeare.

"I don't get heavily involved in research," said Regal. "I rely on the other actors."

That sentiment is probably too modest. Perhaps it's his booming voice, or the stalking manner in which he demonstrates his control of a character that Regal's upcoming portrayal should be much anticipated.

Although he concedes that most roles seem to be the "right role at the right time," there's a sense that Regal's interpretation of Loman will be more subtle and likable than Hoffman's overly intense portrayal.

During a recent rehearsal, Regal managed a delicate balance of appearing amiable, yet desperately driven.

"Willy is a complete human being," said Regal. "That's why the play is so timeless. People can relate to him."

Appearing as both teacher and task-master during a recent rehearsal, Sherman has proven that he can blend professional with students on stage.

Two years ago, he directed one of the best productions of the year, "Angels in America," which brought together theater students at Oakland University with professional actors.

Joining Regal will be a talented professional cast, including Yolanda Fleischer of West Bloomfield, Joseph Haynes, and Arthur Beer. Regal, Fleischer and Beer teach at U of D.

Students in the production include Bryan Barter of Farmington Hills, Drew Parker of Ferndale, Dax Anderson of Portage, Sherie McDaniel of Utica, James Mio of Berkley, Lessa Bouchard and Rashida McElvene of Detroit, Danielle Antonio of Sterling Heights, and Travis Reiff of Royal Oak.

Reiff, who portrays Biff, could be the most pleasant surprise of the production. During rehearsals, Reiff demonstrated the restrained righteousness that dramatically balances Loman's spiraling decay.

life," said Harelik, who can currently be seen as the character Topanga's father on "Boy Meets World" (ABC, 8 p.m. Friday nights). "And the goal of my grandfather was to find the freedom to make a new life — which put the two in opposition to each other for awhile. They both had to make adjustments in that way. From talking with people, the impression that most people get after seeing this play is almost a creepy familiarity with the story. They're seeing their own family story — it may be one of the most common stories we have, being a nation of immigrants." And growing up in that rural Southern Baptist town of Hamilton, Texas, until he went to college, Harelik had an abundance of stories to choose from as seeds for his plays. First, they were a three-generation family living together in the same house. Then in elementary school, they lived in two separate houses. "The town is so tiny that you could practically throw a rock from one side to the other so, essentially, we lived together and saw each other virtually everyday," said Harelik. "I was always very curious about my sweet, funny grandparents with the funny accent. My grandfather Haskell was very adept at telling anecdotes about the little town that he came from, so we were just showered with stories all the time."

To enhance his grandparents' arduous journey and help connect time passages in the play,

Harelik created a family slide-show montage with the sepia-toned instamatic backyard snapshots, and the old photo album prints with the mounting corners. To supplement the pictures, Harelik rifled through hundreds of back issues of the "Hamilton News-Herald" which were stacked and bundled in the attic of the newspaper's building. He uncovered old advertisements, including Grandfather Haskell's original ad for his Harelik Fruit Store, which later became a clothing store run by Mark Harelik's father. "In the play 'The Immigrant,' I think the gain exceeds the loss," Harelik adds. "The sum total is a sensation of a rich and full life in which you come out in the positive column."

surrounding pictures taken digitally and how they can be altered. The show takes on "Time" magazine's manipulation of a picture of O. J. Simpson after he was arrested.

In some ways digital photographs are as fragile as Mathew Brady's glass plates from the Civil War because they can be so easily lost, manipulated or erased.

Image-driven celebrity and the controlled photo-op of current politics are also covered in the third segment. Yes, they even talk about Monica Lewinsky.

Schott said they obtained permission to use 3,000 still photographs, a task that proved monumental. "No wonder no one had attempted this before," he said. About 1,000 pictures were used in the final show. Rights to the pictures cost more than $200,000.

Kodak helped underwrite the project, and there was also help from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Arthur Vining Davis Foundations, Public Television viewers, PBS and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

"We tried to look at the power of images," Schott said. "We were not as interested in photography as an art form, as such."

For example, in World War I there was complete censorship of the war. We look at this relationship between war, photography and censorship. We explain how it was loosened until during the Vietnam War, when there was no censorship. Then the government came full circle and controlled every image coming out of the Gulf war," Schott said.

Among the pictures will be a still of the crash of the Hindenberg. Dorothea Lange's picture of a Depression-era bread line, Robert Capa's war pictures, Eugene Smith's pictures for Life, and Ansel Adams' landscapes are all part of the program. Pictures from Kosovo are included as well as a woman weeping at the Vietnam Memorial.

A book was released this month to go with the show, "American Photography: A Century of Images."

JAIL & BAIL

Help the March of Dimes save babies by taking part in Jail & Bail.

- For $25, you can arrange to "arrest" a friend, family member or business colleague on a trumped-up charge of your choosing.
- The March of Dimes Police will pick up your jailbird and bring him or her to one of several jail sites. There a "Judge" will sentence the accused to one hour of hard labor, raising "bail" in the form of pledges to the March of Dimes.
- YOUR JAILBIRD WILL BE ALLOWED MORE THAN ONE PHONE CALL. In fact, he or she can make lots of phone calls to friends and co-workers to raise pledges. Pledges help the March of Dimes reduce infant mortality and birth defects through research, community services, advocacy and education. IMPORTANT! All inmates are released after raising their bail or spending one hour in jail — whichever comes first.

COMEDY

'Darwin's Creek': Funnier than television drama

The Second City-Detroit presents "Darwin's Creek: You Say You Want An Evolution," the current Alternative Monday comedy-theater series presentation. The show starts at 8 p.m. and is followed by improvisation at 9 p.m. Monday's through Oct. 18, at Second City, 2301 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Tickets $8. Call (248) 645-6666.

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
STAFF WRITER
scasola@oe.homecomm.net

Maybe it's his warm personality, his trustworthy demeanor, or his uncanny ability to impersonate a long-lost Kennedy — whatever the case — PJ Jakobs is one of those people who can't help but make others feel comfortable.

A hearty sense of humor can do that to a person.

Jakobs, a Farmington Hills resident since second grade, can be spotted in downtown Detroit Monday nights making people laugh — on purpose. He's writing for and performing in "Darwin's Creek: You Say You Want An Evolution," the latest installment in Second City's Alternative Monday revue. One of six multi-talented cast members, the 22-year-old University of Michigan senior diversifies his performances to portray a host of comical characters he created on his own.

Jakobs joined Second City's training center in January 1997 and has pursued comedy and improvisation ever since. He was a member of the Second City all-improv newscast, "The McLaughlin," and is an understudy for the Second City Touring Company, which performs across Michigan.

Jakobs is accustomed to the limelight as a bassist for the local band Olupus, which he describes as a cross between Elvis Costello and older Bare Naked Ladies material. It wouldn't be unusual for him to incorporate music into his act at Second City; he's been known to grab an acoustic guitar while on stage.

In "Darwin's Creek," his characters range from Jesus on the cross, to a near-hysterical job applicant being interviewed for the position during an armed robbery, to the last man on Earth.

The show is a fast-paced and ever-changing mix of vignettes dealing with pop culture, religion and racism, mixed with plenty of social and political commentary. It's all set to music. Second City's signature brand of sarcasm and satire must be his specialty.

"Both my parents have wonderful senses of sarcasm," he said. "I like to be sarcastic. One of the rules (at Second City) is to play to the height of your intelligence. I try to make it so it's funny to anybody."

Other members of the cast achieve the same level of comedic wit, packaged for the masses. Adam Burkett cleverly depicts what would happen if Anne Geddes' babies grew up maddened with revenge. Gary Linley McKenzie opened the show with a dialogue probing all facets of a relationship, using only words that begin with the letter P. Frank Zieger III jolts across the stage with enough volatile presence to make any parent think twice before leaving a child with a new baby-sitter and the once-harmless game "Chutes and Ladders."

But the cast wouldn't be complete without Courtney Jo Dempsey and Lisa Sodman Elzinga. Dempsey displayed a most-empowered female who would rather allow humans to become extinct than spend more than a few moments with the last man on Earth. And Elzinga profoundly explores the boundaries of the open relationship, complete with the necessary emotional-rollercoaster conversation.

Jakobs said that Monday's series allows them to "push the envelope a little further."

"I like to make people think," said Jakobs. "The small stuff, when people get that, it's really a pleasure."

His material is the sum of experience and imagination. The audience might not be able to draw lines between the two. In one scene, his character is being held up at a Pizza Hut. Jakobs claimed it really happened to him. He took that experience and added a little extra pizzazz and it all made for a hilarious skit.

"I try to use personal experience whenever I can," he said. "I'll put people in odd places or situations."

Cast member Burkett, a Dearborn Heights resident, said the Monday revue gives him an opportunity to experiment on stage.

"I feel like a scientist," he said.

Burkett's been performing for two years with Second City. "We get to do all our own material. It's very rewarding."

He considers the essence of improvisation to be capturing a moment in time. "It's a great feeling when you connect with someone," said Burkett. "You're so true, so in the moment; it's off the cuff."

Dempsey, a Grosse Pointe resident and Second City performer, said she had a great time working with the cast.

"It was wonderful to be able to both write and perform the material we wrote, working it out in the performance. I'd never done that before."

The Monday night series is an evolution of sorts for its performers. Staying current with popular culture and relevant with references to places that all metro Detroiters will know, the show is worthy of a look, and a lot of laughs.

REVIEW

MOT's 'Barber of Seville' — well-groomed, irresistible

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER

fprovenzano@oe.homecomm.net

Part of the reasoning behind opening Michigan Opera Theatre's season with "The Barber of Seville" was the expected popular appeal of one of the most performed operas in the repertoire. Perhaps the selection is also an attempt to balance the rest of the MOT season, which presents three never-seen-before operas on the local stage, including the upcoming "Werther" with Andrea Bocelli.

Consider MOT's reasoning like a compelling aria — quite sound and hard to forget.

Indeed, "The Barber of Seville" hits every comic and operatic cue. If anyone has resisted opera or thought it was a cacophonous rapture among those sharing a bout of indigestion, the MOT production offers a joyous ride and plenty of reasons to return to the opulent Detroit Opera House.

What: The Barber of Seville, an opera in two acts by Gioacchino Rossini, presented by the Michigan Opera Theatre
When: 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9, and 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 10
Where: Detroit Opera House, Madison Ave. at John R, Detroit, one block east of Woodward Avenue.
Tickets: $18-$98. Call (313) 237-SING

House.

Rossini's playful opera about a charming matchmaker barber, Figaro, is the aural and dramatic opposite, for instance, of Wagner's laborious "Flying Dutchman."

"The Barber of Seville" is an enduring, melodic opera that blends a contemporary comic sensibility with Rossini's utterly ethereal composition.

After a sterling opening-night performance, there was little doubt that "The Barber of Seville" under the direction of Dorothy Danner, is an irresistible version of how to dress a centuries-old opera with irony and self-deprecation.

Without exception, the cast proves that no one part is greater than the whole. The production also proves that choreography is too often understated in many operas. To her credit, Danner has turned and twisted the slapstick plot until it wrings with the type of lovable characters that are found in the films of Buster Keaton, and Laurel and Hardy.

But there's nothing silly about the opera.

Earle Patriarco reprises Figaro, a role he sung at Opera Pacific Metropolitan Opera and the San Francisco Opera. Patriarco's showmanship persuades the audience to join along in his attempt to help Count Almaviva win the heart of the beautiful Rosina, who is also being courted by the ill-intentioned Dr. Bartolo.

Vivica Genaux's is a stunning presence as Rosina, demonstrating the dexterity and color that has quickly made her one of the foremost mezzo-sopranos in the world.

Meanwhile, Bruce Fowler as Count Almaviva and Donato Di Stefano as Bartolo recall the heroic flair of Erroll Flynn, and the bungling lecher of a Marx Brothers film, respectively.

And Mary Callaghan Lynch in the secondary role of Berta the maid delivers a delightful performance. In picking up after her boss, Dr. Bartolo, Lynch doesn't fail to tuck in the edges of a comic situation with her superb soprano.

But there's no slack with this cast.

"The Barber of Seville" is a contemporary opera for the mainstream. MOT's production is both utterly entertaining because of its choreography and set design, and brilliantly engaging for the depth and talent of the cast.

'Three Kings' paints a graphic picture of war

BY JON KATZ
SPECIAL WRITER

It's a fun romp behind enemy lines as Americans rip off the gold. That's what the makers of "Three Kings" would have you believe about it to get you in the door. Unfortunately that description is about "Kelly's Heroes," the 1970 World War II comedy starring Clint Eastwood and Don Rickles.

"Three Kings" is fun if your idea of fun is graphic torture, vicious murder and perhaps the first-ever interior view of a bullet causing bile to bubble and lungs to collapse. Yes, it's a great date flick if your date is Xena, Warrior Princess.

It is March 1991. Operation Desert Storm is over. We kicked Saddam's butt and now President Bush is encouraging Iraqi civilians to rise up against Hussein, saying, "We'll help you do it." At the same time our ground forces are packing up to go home, bemoaning the fact that they never fired a shot. The president, in fact, has no intention of keeping them around for the carnage to come.

While stripping some prisoners, a map to a network of underground bunkers is discovered by three army reservists: Sergeant Barlow (rapper/actor Mark Wahlberg), Staff Sergeant Elgin (rapper/actor Ice Cube) and Private Vig (director/actor Spike Jonze). They don't know what's in the bunkers, but Special Forces Captain Gates (George Clooney) has a good idea: a stash of Kuwaiti gold bullion, stolen and now guarded by Saddam's troops.

The four pile into a Humvee at dawn, intending to be back by lunch and set for life. Not so fast. Finding the gold proves no problem. Finding that the Iraqis are people, too, and that they're now slaughtering each other, is something they hadn't counted on. The four have found their war at last; do they take part or take a powder?

At this early juncture, "Three Kings" writer/director David O. Russell (maker of independent hits "Spanking the Monkey" and "Flirting With Disaster") turns the film into a political documentary. The we-were-deserted-by-your-President-Bush point is made several more times. An Iraqi mother has her brains blown out in front of her husband and small daughter. One of the four Americans is captured, wired up with electrodes and asked, "What's the problem with Michael Jackson?" before being zapped.

This is not the "Goldfinger" kind of torture ("Do you expect me to talk?" "No, Mr. Bond, I expect you to die."). This is an otherwise-civilized member of the Republican Guard first telling the American about how his own family was butchered and then turning up the juice. It's intense. But it achieves the director's intent of saying to us, "There's a human being behind the barrel of every gun."

There's a lot of action packed into the plot, and Clooney and Company are just the guys to handle it. George is John Wayne brave, and not exactly gung-ho about wiping out everyone in a burnoose. Wahlberg is actually the most memorable of the four; he's a family man who finds a cache of cell phones and calls the wife back home in Detroit. Ice Cube's character is also a Motown native, which at least shows that Hollywood filmmakers are thinking of us if not shooting here.

MURRAY CLOSE

Russell can be applauded for attempting a "M*A*S*H"-like mix of comedy and anti-war message. However, too many self-indulgent special effects dilute the result. If we want almost every body that blows up to be dismembered in slow motion, we'll wait six months, rent the tape and push the slo-mo button on our remote, thank you. And as for that far out, innovative developing process that bleaches out colors to give the audience a sense of surreal oneness with the scene - it just looks like the projectionist had a few before coming to work.

Film heads into teen territory

BY CARRIE COOPER
SPECIAL WRITER

Everyone knows how tough high school is. Those of us who went through it and those who are going through it right now know what it is like to be labeled. It is assumed that most teens want to be in the "in crowd." That assumption may be far-fetched.

Or is it? The romantic teen comedy, "Drive Me Crazy," presented by Twentieth-Century Fox, directed by John Schultz ("Bandwagon"), produced by Amy Robinson ("With Honors") and written by Rob Thomas ("Dawson's Creek"), takes a realistic look at stereotyping in high school.

In "Drive Me Crazy," which takes its title from the third single off of Britney Spears album, "Baby, One More Time," Nicole Maris (portrayed by Melissa Joan Hart of television's "Sabrina, The Teenage Witch") and Chase Hammond (portrayed by Adrian Grenier of Woody Allen's film "Celebrity") were childhood friends who grew up next door to each other and now are "worlds apart." What happened? High school.

Nicole has plenty of school spirit. She participates in several committees, as well as pep rallies and sporting events, and she hangs around with the "right" people. To top that off, she is organizing the school's centennial dance, which she hoped to attend arm in arm with star basketball player, Brad (Gabriel Carpenter of the film "Kids"), who dissed her.

Chase, on the other hand, doesn't buy into the hype of high school. He doesn't take anything, including himself, seriously. He even calls himself a "disaffected youth."

While Chase has a very smart and pretty girlfriend, Dulcie (Ali Larter of the film "Varsity Blues"), he ends up getting dumped as well.

Now Nicole and Chase find themselves in similar situations. Realizing they have something in common, Nicole sets a plan in motion to make the objects of their affections jealous. To do this they must date each other. The results are exactly as they planned. Chase becomes popular and opens himself up to new things, and Nicole gets her peers' attention - while learning that everyone can't be labeled as "cool" or "geek."

But what they didn't expect was to fall for one another.

For four years Hart has played a teenager on television. Now, for her feature film debut, she is able to bring that knowledge to the big screen. Many teen films separate the smart-girl from the pretty-girl roles, but Nicole has both of those qualities.

Grenier, still relatively new to the silver screen, comes across as a veteran film actor when portraying Chase. He is so real and so normal, which may make it easy for teens to relate to the character.

"Drive Me Crazy" is definitely designated for teens. It attempts to reach teenagers with its wide variety of characters ranging from "cool" to "geek" by making them as real as possible. If anything, the film shows that you shouldn't stereotype people and that what matters is what's inside.

Then and only then will you discover who your true friends are.

Workshop helps novice authors

BY LEE SNIDER
STAFF WRITER

LSNIDER@OE.HOMECOMM.NET

In this age of personal computers and desktop publishing, just about everyone, it seems, has an urge to sit down and write. That creative impulse, though, is usually offset by an equally strong dread of planning a manuscript.

"The Writer's Workshop: Let's Write a Book," a 12-hour seminar for would-be authors, is designed to take some of the fear out of starting a literary project.

The workshop will be held at Marian High School, 7225 Lahser Road in Bloomfield Hills, from 9 a.m. to noon over two weekends, Oct. 9-10 and Oct. 16-17.

"If you talk to people and ask them if they've got a story to tell, nine out of 10 of them will say 'yes,'" said Robert L. Fenton, the successful entertainment attorney and author who will head up the workshop. "The trouble is they don't know how to start off."

Fenton, who has written three best-selling books, produced films and served as an agent for writers and actors, was recently hired as an adjunct professor at Marygrove College, whose Division of Continuing Education and Community Services is sponsoring the workshop. He is currently busy completing an outline for his new book, "Speakeasy."

Fenton said he'll begin the workshop by telling some stories about his encounters with the Hollywood film-making industry, then get down to business and assign writing exercises.

"If you want to teach someone to swim, you plunge right in but don't let the water be so deep that they drown," he said. "They'll be getting immediate feedback."

Fenton is currently working on many projects, and was recently contacted by "Writers Digest" magazine about conducting writers' workshops on cruise lines.

"Let's Write a Book" will focus on the planning and forethought that go into writing a manuscript, and provide pointers on how to approach publishers, hiring an agent and options for self-publishing.

Robert L. Fenton

The fee for the workshop is $150 and participants are eligible to receive continuing education credits from Marygrove. For more information or to register, call (313) 927-1230.

Marygrove is an independent, Catholic liberal arts college located on W. McNichols in northwest Detroit.

STREET SCENE

Print to broadcast: Moonlighting on the airwaves

STEPHANIE A. CASOLA

Monday 10:25 a.m.
Just received E-mail confirmation that I'll be guest DJing at 88.1 FM WSDP Plymouth-Canton this week. It sounded like a good idea in August. Now that the time has almost come, I'm re-evaluating that decision. I don't even like recording my own voice on the answering machine. Do I really want to subject the entire listening area to the squeaky, giggly sounds that fall from my mouth?

I guess so.
Wednesday 8:14 p.m.
Sifting through my CD collection at home. It's so hard to choose what to play. Absolutely necessary are songs by Ben Folds Five, Beck, Jane's Addiction, and Filter. Toss in some quality local acts like Rooster and Domestic Problems. Cross my fingers and hope it blends well.
Thursday 2:20 p.m.
T-minus 40 minutes and counting. Hoping I don't stumble over my words or draw a complete blank. For some reason I dressed up today. To be on the radio.
Thursday 4:54 p.m.
I can breathe again. And while I had a fabulous time spoiling my own ears with a host of my favorite songs, I don't think I'll be switching careers anytime soon. But I wouldn't mind trying again sometime.

Let me explain.
I got into the field of journalism partly because of the sense of adventure and constant change it offers. As a career, it's provided me with opportunities to see and experience things first-hand that I might never have known. I learned to rock climb on an assignment. I understand the art of aromatherapy and can use it to my advantage. I've seen some people overcome additions and others fight to go on after life-threatening circumstances. All of these events translated into stories that - I hope - brought those experiences to life for readers.

I enjoy the journalistic process: meeting people daily, attempting to communicate new or different thoughts to an audience, the ability to rework my words into meaningful order. I've taken it all for granted.

I realized that the moment I found myself standing in front of a big, soft microphone, expected to speak. No notes, no sense of timing. When the opportunity to step in as guest DJ at 88.1 FM came about, I happily - and a little hesitantly - accepted. I'll jump at the chance to play my favorite songs on the air. But talking to an invisible crowd of who-knows-how-many - that makes my knees a little weak.

I'm a behind-the-scenes kind of person. I've always known it.

One of the reasons I love writing is because I have that ability to edit and rewrite. Nothing is ever a true final copy in the newspaper business. While in radio, you get one shot to say what you need to say. There's no mercy. But it does make for a certain adrenaline rush. I'll give you radio people points for that.

Everyone at The Escape did a great job of making me feel welcome and encouraging me to be comfortable. I thank Bill Keith and his friendly staff for taking the time to speak with me about a common love, music. And for as fast-paced and frantic as the world of radio looks to the outside eye, Keith does it all with patience and grace.

But I think I'll stick to my trusty, familiar tools - pens, notebooks, a phone and computer. They're easier to hide behind. Ahh, the comforts of home.

Our Lady Peace fishes for happiness with new CD

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
STAFF WRITER
scasola@oe.homecomm.net

Happiness - that elated state of being everyone strives to achieve - is noted in the forgettable title of Our Lady Peace's recent release "Happiness... Is Not A Fish That You Can Catch." The Canadian-based quartet is now touring in support of that album and its first single, "One Man Army." Modern rock radio has adopted the song, which could be construed as a reflection on feelings of alienation and the ways to overcome it. It is but a beginning journey into the deep waters of Our Lady Peace's third musical effort.

"We're really proud of it," said bassist Duncan Coutts of Our Lady Peace during a phone interview on Sept. 13. "I'm more proud of it than anything I've ever done." Coutts is the newest member of the band; he didn't play on the band 1995 debut "Naveed," which spawned Our Lady Peace's first radio darling, "Starseed."

"On this record we sound really energized," he said. Our Lady Peace felt no pressure to match the success of their 1997 sophomore release "Clumsy," Coutts added.

"We never wrote the last album to sell well," he said. "We just wanted to be better musically and better songwriters... We just tried to make a complete album."

He believes strongly that musicians should avoid "cheating" their fans. "When I go spend $17-$18 on a CD, I get angry if it only has one or two good songs on it," he said.

On "Happiness... Is Not A Fish That You Can Catch," Coutts couldn't choose a favorite track. He compared it to a parent attempting to choose "a favorite child." Working on the album was a positive experience for the band, he said.

As in the past, the song writing was a collaborative effort between Our Lady Peace and its producer, Arnold Lanni, who's often referred to as the "unofficial fifth member of the group." Coutts credited Lanni for discovering the band while it was working on a demo tape in one of his studios.

"Arn poked his head and saw something there, a spark," said Coutts. "He became our producer. It's been really organic right from the beginning. He's like a fifth member of the band. He's our George Martin in a way... I don't know what we'd do without him."

Lanni wasn't the only influence to Our Lady Peace's sound on the latest CD: Jazz great Elvin Jones contributed to the groove this time around.

"It was really cool recording with Elvin Jones," he said. "I was not a huge jazz fan until I got in the band. Just to meet a legend, a 74-year-old guy who looks like he's 20. He plays with passion like a kid with a new toy."

CD REVIEW

"Juxtapose" - Tricky

Island Records Ltd.
Add the following ingredients: hard-hitting guitar riffs, mesmerizing lyrics and a hip-hop beat to Tricky's throaty voice, blend well and you have "Juxtapose," the latest effort by the English rap artist who made a name for himself as a member of Massive Attack.

Born Adrian Thaws, Tricky's music is not easily defined. Overlapping laid-back lyrics to intense musical beats, or conversely matching speeding rhymes with idle beats, he offers a collection of 10 songs which could each stand on its own. This album features the work of D.J. Muggs and Grease.

Songs such as "I Like The Girls" exemplify Tricky's ability to rhyme at such a light-speed, the words stream in and out of the listeners' brain almost too quick to register. Somehow the trailing beats let those ideas linger, or bring them bouncing back.

"Hot Like A Sauna" is presented in both a hip-hop version and metal mix, which show off that steamy style and are punctuated with vocals by Mad Dog and Koika.

With "Wash My Soul," Tricky's haunting voice and echoing lyrics and guitar leaves you dazed, even disturbed, but hardly unsatisfied. "Juxtapose" is an ambient recipe for success.

Area restaurants win awards for wine lists

BY ELEANOR HEALD
SPECIAL WRITER

If you judge by the Sept. 30 issue of the Wine Spectator, a number of Detroit-metro area restaurants have top wine lists. They received recognition in the magazine and can be considered among the best.

Annually, the Wine Spectator receives wine list submissions between Jan. 1 and April 1. In September, it publishes both its award-winning restaurants and those honored by Distinguished Restaurants of North America (DiRoNA). According to the magazine, awards are divided among three categories.

Grand Award winners' wine lists generally feature more than 800 selections, but also reflect savvy buying, exhibit depth in mature vintages, and are in harmony with the menu. Best of Award of Excellence recognizes restaurants with very fine wine lists. The Award of Excellence honors a list with many good wines, but lacking the breadth or depth characteristics of the other two categories.

A total of 42 awards were earned by Michigan restaurants, 22 of which are in the metro-Detroit, Detroit, and Ann Arbor areas of southeast Michigan.

The two top wine lists are at The Golden Mushroom, Southfield, and The Lark, West Bloomfield, both earning Best of Award of Excellence and DiRoNA citation.

Café Cortina, Farmington

Hills; Opus One and the Rattlesnake Club in Detroit, were spotlighted for Award of Excellence and DiRoNA distinction.

The Earle, Ann Arbor, and Mac & Ray's, Harrison Township, hold Best of Award of Excellence.

New to the Award of Excellence list this year are: Big Rock Chop & Brew House, Birmingham; Duet, Detroit; Forté, Birmingham; Giovanni's Ristorante, Detroit; Morels, Bingham Farms; and No. VI Chophouse & Lobster Bar, Novi.

This is quite good because according to Wine Spectator's New York Bureau Chief Thomas Matthews, 492 new restaurants submitted their lists this year and only 389 garnered awards.

Retaining an Award of Excellence from previous years are: The Capital Grille, Troy; Ristorante di Modesta, Southfield; Five Lakes Grill, Milford; The Lord Fox, Ann Arbor; Pike Street Restaurant, Pontiac; Sparky Herbert's, Grosse Pointe Park; Sweet Lorraine's Café, Southfield; and Valente's Little Italy Ristorante, Northville. The Whitney, Detroit, was honored by DiRoNA only.

Frequenters of the lively metro-Detroit restaurant scene may wonder why the astute lists at Tribute, Farmington Hills; Mon Jin Lau and Charley's Crab, both in Troy, are among the missing.

"We didn't apply," Tribute's Maitre d' Mickey Bakst said. "I compose a list that our diners applaud and I'm not looking for other recognition."

"I didn't submit our list, either," Mon Jin Lau's owner Marshall Chin remarked. "But I plan to next year. It never hurts to be recognized in a national publication." Chin knows this well having been headlined recently in the trade periodical Restaurant Wine as "Asian Restaurant is a Bona Fide Wine Destination."

Charley's Crab general manager Mark Hinds will also apply next year.

"For the past two years, we've been working hard to build our wine list so that it is award-winning," he said. "If we do get an award, we will respect it as coming from a group of pros."

First blush enthusiasm was obvious with Big Rock Chop & Brew House General Manager Vera Rizer who was assisted by Got Rock's Maitre d' Lew Weidemann in constructing the award-winning list. "We have made it a priority to offer both an innovative menu, featuring the freshest ingredients, as well as a diverse selection of the finest wines produced in North America," Rizer said.

Big Rock's wine list features more than 250 selections, almost all of which are North American-produced wines. The only exceptions are bottles of Champagne.

Among local restaurants under one ownership, Matt Prentice's Unique Restaurant Corporation won the most awards. Wine & Beverage Director Madeline Triffon, a Master Sommelier, described the difference among the food and wine emphasis.

American cuisine with regional influences is the menu focus at Duet.

"The wine list is a good example of wine types that perform well at the table," Triffon noted. The list at Morels offers premium selections by the glass. "Here comfort labels, well-known brands, is hugely important for our repeat diners," she added. "I'm pleased that this list was recognized for an award. It's not big, but it is sleek."

No. VI Chophouse list is basically great red wines at all price levels with emphasis on cabernet sauvignon. "It's a good example of a well-thought-out steakhouse wine list," Triffon concluded.

Triffon recently won Santé magazine's 1999 Wine & Spirits Professional of the Year. While she appreciates honors, Triffon modestly and professionally brushes them aside. She considers her mentoring role most important at URC.

Currently, she's guiding three URC aspiring wine professionals through the three-stage Master Sommelier examination. They are Michelle DeHayes of Northern Lakes Seafood Company, Kristin Zangrilli of Morels, and Rick Rubel of No. VI Chophouse & Lobster Bar. In the three restaurants, Madeline's "kids," as she calls them, construct the wine list with her guidance.

Dearborn.

■ Matt Prentice's Unique Restaurant Corp. concentrates energies with eye on the future. On Saturday, Sept. 25, Prentice closed two of his casual eateries: Fusion in Farmington Hills and Flying Fish in West Bloomfield.

"Our catering business is expanding. All off-premise catering was done from the kitchen at Morels (Bingham Farms) and we were busting at the seams," Prentice said. "We've now moved it to the kitchens at Fusion, where the lower level has been a successful banquet venue for a long time, especially for corporate functions. There was more demand for banquet space than we had space to fill and closing Fusion as a restaurant just made business sense.

"There's a staffing crisis in the restaurant business. On the Monday after Labor Day, we were short 147 people to fully staff all our casual dining because many young staff returned to school. Flying Fish (13 Mile, Birmingham) is going gangbusters, but has been understaffed. Closing the West Bloomfield Flying Fish and transferring staff to Birmingham made sense."

But is Prentice slowing down? "I now have a bid going for a Deli Unique in the new Metro Airport facility," he continued. "The Deli Unique concept is counter service and does not require large staff. A lease for two URC restaurants is pending review at the new Palladium project in Birmingham. One will spin off of an existing concept at No. VI Chophouse (Novi) and the other will be an innovation. And I am looking at Ann Arbor."

Good going: Pat Stokes (left), Louise Bisogni and Marcia Gies have been selected as Realtors of the Year.

Top Realtors hard workers

They're dedicated. They're productive. They're involved.

The Realtors of the Year for the three boards serving the Observer & Eccentric coverage area are all that — and more.

They've been singled out for service to their associations and service to the industry, as well as their professional accomplishments.

Patricia A. Stokes, an associate broker and Plymouth office manager for Weir, Manuel, Snyder & Ranke, is Realtor of the Year for the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors.

Louise Bisogni, a Realtor with Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Clarkston, is Realtor of the Year for the North Oakland County Board of Realtors.

Marcia Gies, an associate broker and Birmingham office manager for Coldwell Banker Schweitzer, is Realtor of the Year for the Birmingham Bloomfield Rochester South Oakland Association of Realtors.

The three share similar thoughts on lots of topics, including what makes for a successful Realtor.

"First of all, I think an extremely positive attitude, a commitment you're able to renew each year," Stokes said. "And then, communication skills. Communication and attitude are probably 50/50."

"One other thing is adaptability," she added. "If you can't adapt, you'll be out of the business. We're on call seven days a week."

"You have to have the support of your family with the hours you work, and you have to change your schedule in the middle of the stream so often," Bisogni said.

"You have to be self-sufficient, to take the ball and run with it," she added. "You're self-employed. You have to be disciplined. Organizational skills help, too."

"You have to be able to go in different directions," Gies said. "To survive in this business, you have to know what's out there. You have to stay in touch, communication. You have to call back today, not tomorrow."

Gies, 44, has been a Realtor for nine years. She worked as a facilities manager for 15 years before turning down an out-of-town transfer and changing careers.

"I didn't look at it as being in sales, but helping people," she said.

Bisogni, 64, an 11-year veteran, was a medical assistant before a relative urged her to give real estate a shot. Bisogni said she "hit the floor running and hasn't stopped since" after an initial reluctance to get into the game.

Stokes, 58, worked as a nurse before switching to real estate 28 years ago. "Two of my neighbors were going to create a real estate company, and I decided to try it for two years," she said.

The rest is history. The Realtors of the Year know what it takes to start from scratch and pass on these tips to beginners.

"New people are starting a business," Bisogni said. "They are self-employed. They need (financial) reserves for six months to 18 months, sometimes."

"I think I'd tell new agents to pace themselves, give themselves time to learn the market," she said. "And your personal life — you have to have a balance."

Finding a mentor already successful in the business to help learn the ropes also is invaluable, Bisogni added.

Stokes picks up on the balance theme.

"When I'm interviewing people, I try to ask them where their family support is going to come from," she said. "You will go through cycles, ups and downs. I ask them what they do to relax. A lot of people don't have a system in place for self renewal."

Stokes said she organizes her life into five segments — church, family, profession, community and herself.

Technology is great, Gies said, but in the end, you're still dealing with people.

"You can get a lot more done (with computers), but you still need a business plan — how to work — and be face-to-face with buyers and sellers," she said. "I see agents working with computers all the time and I'll say, 'Go meet people, go talk to people.'"

Stokes, who lives in Plymouth Township, finds time to bowl, play bridge and regularly enjoys the company of a dining club when not concentrating on buying and selling houses.

She's married to Al and mother to Becky and Russ.

Gies, a Troy resident, loves to get away by riding her motorcycle. She's married to John and mom to Jacki and Nicki.

Bisogni, who lives in Clarkston, is a golfer and reader. Married to Ezio and mother to Frank, Mike, Steve and Tom, she also enjoys family fun activities and is involved in community volunteer work.

"I enjoy helping people and seeing results at the closing table," Gies said. "I like challenges."

"It's seeing the contentment on faces, knowing you've matched a house and a family," Stokes said. "You have to see the whole picture."

"Definitely I'm working for money, but that's not the bottom line," Bisogni said. "I get personal satisfaction out of helping people make a investment decision."

"I've been as tired as can be and someone will call and wants to see a house," she said. "The adrenaline starts rushing."

Help for battered credit

DAVID C. MULLY

Borrowers with slightly impaired credit who currently do not qualify for a lower-cost conventional mortgage could benefit from a new product announced by Fannie Mae, the nation's largest source of financing for home mortgages.

Under the Timely Payment Rewards mortgage program, borrowers who qualify will be able to finance their home at a mortgage rate as much as 2 percent lower than what credit-impaired borrowers typically pay, said Fannie Mae chairman and CEO Franklin D. Raines. Borrowers will be guaranteed a mortgage rate reduction of an additional 1 percent after 24 monthly payments without a delinquency.

Fannie Mae is working to expand the "A" loan market by enabling more lenders to approve a larger number of families with lower cost options for homeownership through Timely Payment Rewards Program. Borrowers who qualify for the Timely Payment Rewards mortgage will have a higher interest rate than the standard conventional mortgage. However, after 24 months of paying the mortgage on time, the borrower is guaranteed a 1 percent interest rate reduction.

For example, with the Timely Payment Rewards, a borrower with slightly impaired credit may be eligible for a 30-year, fixed-rate $100,000 mortgage at an initial interest rate of 9.5 percent and the monthly payment of $841.

After two years without delinquency, the borrower's interest rate then would be reduced to 8.5 percent for a reduced monthly payment of $769. This compares to an average interest rate of 11.5 percent with a monthly payment of $990 for a loan originated in the subprime market.

More than 20 lenders are working with Fannie Mae to make Timely Payment Rewards available in many markets in the coming months.

"Borrowers who have credit that is mildly impaired should have an opportunity to have a mortgage at a reasonable cost and to own a home," said Bill Schenck, chairman and CEO, Fleet Mortgage. "Timely Payment Rewards puts us in the position of being able to say 'yes' to borrowers, and to give them an opportunity to get an even lower mortgage rate once they further established that they should be considered an excellent credit risk."

"Timely Payment Rewards allows borrowers to qualify for a mortgage which, until now, they wouldn't have been eligible for," said Erik Sorensen, senior vice president of Irwin Mortgage.

City may be liable when sewage backs up

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

We have had sewage and water from our city sewer back up into our basement.

I am wondering if we have any basis to pursue the city for the problem that we believe is clearly the responsibility of the city.

First, let's assume that the city acknowledges that it owns the sewer system and that it is responsible for maintaining, installing and repairing sanitary sewers.

If that is the case, the city may well be held liable under a trespass nuisance theory notwithstanding alleged governmental immunity.

Appellate courts have indicated that a trespass/nuisance is a trespass or interference with the use and enjoyment of land caused by physical intrusion that is set in motion by the government or its agents and resulting in personal or property damage.

In order to establish a trespass/nuisance, a plaintiff must show (1) a condition premises nuisance or trespass; (2) cause (physical intrusion); and (3) causation or control by the government.

It is not necessary for you to establish negligence as a necessary element to the trespass/nuisance claim which should survive any claim of governmental immunity by the municipality.

This may well result in much litigation being brought in behalf of property owners against their municipality.

Southfield, Troy firms will merge

Harley Ellington Design of Southfield and Ellis/Naeyaert/Genheimer Associates of Troy have announced plans to merge operations.

In metro Detroit, the combined firms will staff more than 300 architects, engineers and professionals in real estate, design and construction. An additional 200 people are employed at affiliate offices around the country.

No personnel reductions are anticipated as a result of the merger, but a name change is likely, a spokeswoman said.

Combined annual revenue is expected to reach $40 million.

"We are creating a full cycle of facilities services that is unprecedented in Michigan," said Dennis King, CEO at Harley Ellington Design.

"An increasing number of our customers are striving to create long-term efficiency and productivity in their facilities," he said. "As a result, they are looking for expertise to not only design the environment but to plan, build and proactively manage day-to-day facility operations."

"It is our combined vision to become a leader in facilities development and management in the Midwest," said James Page, CEO at Ellis/Naeyaert/Genheimer Associates.

"Our ability to understand the complex business needs of technically advanced facilities positions us well in this arena," he said. "We are confident we have the resources and expertise to create a presence regionally and beyond."

The merger is expected to be completed in January 2000.

Both firms are known for expertise in planning and developing highly advanced research and testing facilities.

Recent projects include William Beaumont Hospital Research Building expansion in Royal Oak, the General Motors Noise and Vibration Analysis Laboratory in Milford and a major renovation of the Ford Motor Scientific Research Laboratory in Dearborn.

The new organization will also be the parent company of subsidiary units operated by both firms. Those include Harley Ellington Design's Spectrum Strategies, a real estate planning and management firm, and Ellis/Naeyaert/Genheimer's ENG/6A, an architectural/engineering office in Asheville, N.C.

Harley Ellington Design was founded in 1908. The firm also has an office in Toledo and affiliate offices in Denver, Los Angeles, Seattle and Orlando.

Ellis/Naeyaert/Genheimer was founded in 1962.
