AROUND

THE MILL POND

Flying snowman?

We staffers at the Clarkston Eccentric noticed a snowman in the front yard of a Holcomb Road house several days before Monday's surprise snow. We did a double-take, wondering how anyone made a snowman before it had snowed. After figuring out it must have been made of realisticlooking synthetic material, we smiled at how natural it looked when it finally did snow. Then late this week, we noticed it was gone! Knowing it couldn't have melted, we wondered if it took a little boy on a worldwide flying trip just like the snowman in the beloved book, "The Snowman."

Enjoy the season

Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart complimented the community on the array of holiday light displays. At Tuesday's regular township board meeting, he encouraged families to take time to enjoy the decorations in their neighborhoods.

Treasurer Jim Wenger also reminded residents that the township offices will be closed on Dec. 24, 27 and 31, He said people paying their taxes at the last minute on Dec. 31 to get a benefit on their 1999 income tax return can pay at the several area banks that accept tax payments.

Clarkston's various school parent groups are now united under one new organization, the Parent Advisory Team, in their efforts to make a positive difference in the education of their children.

For whatever reason, Clarkston Community Schools parent groups are either Parent Teacher Associations or Parent Teacher Organizations

The high school has a Parent Teacher Student Association.

Presidents of the groups have met monthly for about eight years with the PTA Council. But in the past couple of years, there's been some questions about how the PTO presidents fit in with the council since it follows PTA rules and regulations.

Now, there's a new organization in Clarkston called the Parent Advisory Team. The group held its first meeting Thursday.

Its purpose is to promote a united approach to issues that relate to our children's health and education in the public schools," said Joyce Nienhuis, PTA president at Bailey Lake Elementary School. "This is an opportunity for round table sharing — whether a group is a PTO or a PTA so we can impact district operations."

The Council

The idea behind the PTA Council, according to president April Copeman, is for representatives from each of the schools' parent groups to meet, share information and lend support to each other wherever possible

It meets the third Thursday of the

New signal: Ron Richardson (above) and John Ward of the Road Commission for Oakland County install a new signal at Dixie Highway and White Lake Road.

have an easier time turning left from White Lake Road onto Dixie Highway any time now.

The Road Commission for Oakland County began installing a new traffic signal with a dedicated green arrow for left turn lanes last week. Once it's fully operational, the signal will benefit motorists turning left onto Dixie Highway from either westbound or eastbound White Lake Road.

This updated traffic signal also means vehicles won't need to travel through downtown Clarkston to get to northbound M-15. Instead, they can easily turn left from White Lake Road onto northbound Dixie Highway to get to the I-75 entrances.

"This is Phase One for getting trucks to avoid driving through Clarkston," said Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston. "Their weight on the streets causes his toric buildings to vibrate, which can damage them.

Phase Two could be completed this summer when Michigan Department of Transportation may install a traffic light with a left-turn signal at the southbound ramp of I-75 at M-15.

Once the second light is installed, vehicles will enter

Craig Bryson with RCOC said installing the light at White Lake Road and Dixie Highway is a complex operation.

"The extra left-turn signal requires additional power and that means rewiring the signal," he explained. He said RCOC is installing the $51,000 light for MDOT, which ordered it.

"It's routine for RCOC to install lights for MDOT," he said. "MDOT is responsible for that portion of Dixle Highway. We're just helping them out."

License to fly: Jack Thompson Jr. of Independence Township recently obtained his pilot's license at Oakland International Airport in Waterford.

Independence teenager soaring high with new pilot's license

BY CAROLYN WALKER STAFF WRITER

cwalker@oe.homecomm.net

Waterford Kettering 12thgrader Jack Thompson Jr. took a childhood flight of fancy and made it a reality recently.

On Dec. 2, he received his official private pilot's license.

"I can fly single engine airplanes, under 200 horsepower, anywhere I want to go," he said from his Independence Township home last week.

Thompson's pilot license does not permit him to fly over the ocean or to transport people for hire — such as photographers or parachutists — but that is not a problem for the young man, who has a dream of going to Embry Riddle Aeronautical University after high school. After graduation from college, he intends to enter the U.S. Air Force, where he hopes to attend the Air Force flight school.

"I'd have to do it all over again, but I don't mind," he said, referring to the flight education process.

"I'm going to become an aerospace engineer. I've been interested since I knew what fly-ing was. It's always been my life. I didn't expect to do it until I went in the Air Force. It makes everything a little more realistic by doing it now.

Thompson began his pilot's training in February with instructor Keith Bryan. In order to become a pilot he had to do book work and ground courses, take tests and log at least 40 hours in the air, which had to include solo time, night and day flying, and three hours of simulated instrument flying.

Thompson met Bryan through his grandmother and, after doing some work for him, signed on to learn flying, using Bryan's Piper

Cherokee 140 airplane. "I feel safer than anything else once I get in the air," Thompson said. "My instructor said I haven't had a big scare yet;

that's why I'm not afraid."
For their part, Thompson said

his parents support his effort.
"Once they fly with me, they relax," he said. Thompson recently flew his mother, Jacqueline, to lunch in Jackson, to dessert in Ann Arbor, and then flew her home.

"Obviously, we're very proud," said his father, Jack Sr., "especially (of) the ambition he's shown in working with this gentleman who's become his mentor. He's really shown a lot of matu-

"It's something he's always wanted to do since he was 3 or 4 years old."

In addition to school, flying and working at the World Gym, Thompson belongs to the Civil Air Patrol, based in Waterford.

The air patrol is an auxiliary of the Air Force and offers its young members education, search and rescue, and leadership training.

Thompson, a second lieutenant and cadet commander of the Oakland Composite Squadron, is certified in search and rescue and recently helped search for a man whose plane was lost in northern Michigan.

"It's kind of like a pre-ROTC program," he said of the air patrol. "A lot of people, myself included, like to think of it as a way to quench our thirst to go in the military."

As far as flying goes, Thompson says his favorite flight time is at night.
"I like to fly at night. It's real calm and it's beautiful," he said. "Especially around Detroit."

As much as he likes being in the air, when Thompson is on

Springfield OKs land purchase, salary increases

By Sally Slaughter Stapp Writer

sslaughter@oe.homecomm.net

Negotiations and plans for the new Springfield Township Civic Center are ongoing, and officials are hoping residents should be able to visit the facility in about 18 months.

The township has received preliminary approval from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to use land off Davisburg Road across from Davisburg Elementary School for the building.

There had been a months-long hold up while the DNR pondered the switch. Springfield wants to use 7.5 acres of land it had acquired 15 years ago through the Michigan Land Trust Fund for the civic center. It had to get permission because that land was supposed to be used as park land. In exchange, the township had suggested buying 78 acres west of Long Lake to replace the civic center land. The 78 acres would be left untouched.

The board gave Supervisor Collin Walls and the township attorney permission to negotiate the land purchase. Strole said. The township received a document from the property owners late Thursday that contained provisions not in keeping with the township's plans. However, some of the land owners were at Thursday's meeting and expressed that what was in the document was not in line with their wishes

"It would appear that their intent is consistent with the needs of the township," Strole

So talks will proceed. Meanwhile, the township approved a $3,800 contract with Anderson Eckstein & Westrick to complete septic system plans for the site. Also approved was a $9,960 contract with Carlisle/Wortman to complete the building's site plan.

Salary increases

Officials also set salaries for 2000 for staff members and elected officials. Strole said although township budgets must be set by Nov. 1, salaries do not have to be agreed upon until the end of the year.

Staff members received a 5 percent raise. A year ago the township commissioned a study that found employees were underpaid. The 5 percent represents enough to get the 12 staff members up to an average salary plus cost-of-living increases for 1998 and 1999, she said.

The highest paid staff person is the assessor, whose salary for 1999 was $45,000. The new salary is $47,250. The fire chiefs salary will go from $34,000 to $35,700. The planning coordinator's salary will go from $25,000 to $26,300.

The elected officials didn't take a 5 percent raise.

"We provided a range and picked one," Strole said.

Walls' salary will go from $49,000 to $51,500, about a 3 percent increase. Salaries for Strole and Treasurer Lois Stiles will increase from $43,700 to $45,100, also about 3 percent. Trustees decided to keep the same salaries. They make $1,040 per year plus $80 per meeting. In other action, the site plan for a car wash addition to the East Holly Mobil gas station was approved. The station is at Holly Road and I-75.

5 new commercial buildings approved for development at Sashabaw-Waldon

BY SALLY SLAUGHTER STAFF WRITER

sslaughter@oe.homecomm.net

By the end of the summer, parents should be able to drop off their children at a new day care center in the long-awaited Independence Town Square development.

A conceptual site plan and PUD designation were approved by the Independence Township Planning Commission for the 11.5-acre parcel Thursday. The site on Waldon Road near Sashabaw behind the Farmer Jack grocery store was originally zoned single-family residential. The property is owned by Ed Adler, and five commercial buildings are planned, said Chuck Hamann, broker for the project.

"The zoning we need lines up perfectly with the Vision 2020 (township strategic) plan," Hamann

The plan calls for clustered residential, commercial and office uses in the area.

Discussion on the development was tabled in January 1998. Township Building Director Beverly McElmeel said Adler had not submitted anything further until now.

The development calls for five commercial buildings totaling 80,000 square feet. Each building will overlook a man-made pond. One building will have 22,400 square feet of space; two will be 14,000 square feet, and one will be 13,000 square feet. The smallest will be 7,800 square feet. Hamann said they may have room to increase the size of two of the medium-sized structures.

The smallest and one of the 14,000-square-foot buildings are already leased. One will be a day care center, and the other will be general office

"We expect to break ground quickly," he said.

The day care will be constructed first. There is a time element to it because the big registration time for centers is late summer.

Hamann also said he is working on getting a tenant in the largest structure. Hamann added it isn't unusual for developments of this size to take several years to go from an idea to finished prod-

Clarkston Foundation has role in ballet

By Susan B. Tauber Staff Writer

stauber@oe.homecomm.net

Two people who see the importance of the arts from different perspectives share much of the credit for bringing "The Nutcracker" to Clarkston

Terri Newman is founding director of the Lakes Area Civic Ballet Co. Her dancers are performing the holiday ballet. A Clarkston resident, she also has a dance studio, The Dance Shoppe, in Waterford. She lives and breathes dance, even with having two athletic sons, Tom and Dan Newman, at Clarkston High School.

Todd Moss, on the other hand, is a father who has watched his daughter, Allison, 16, practice dance several times a week without much recognition for many years

"I see my daughter and her friends working so hard at her dance, but there never seems to be any visibility for these dancers," said Moss.

So he approached the Clarkston Foundation board to sponsor the Lakes Area Ballet so it could bring its Nutcracker to Clarkston. The foundation raises money for arts and sciences in the K-12 curriculum for Clarkston public and private schools. Moss is the foundation's treasurer. and president-elect, think Terri had a similar idea. We both see this as a way for the community to show its support of the arts," Moss

The Clarkston Foundation board took a vote, and a partnership was formed. Neither Möss nor Newman could be more pleased:

"I've always gotten behind my sons' sports, and now they can see how the com-munity is getting behind the arts," she

While neither of her sons dance, they and her husband, Scott, help out at company performances. "One of our goals of 'The Nutcracker' is to expose younger people to the ballet," she said. That's why the company and the foundation are sponsoring performances for school groups Wednesday and Thurs-

The only thing we can't offer that 'The Nutcracker' performances have in down-town Detroit is a live symphony. We do have beautiful professional sets, which we purchased from Ballet Arizona," Newman

Add to that the beautiful costumes and exceptional dancers, and she said the outcome is one to remember. Newman is so thankful to the Clarkston Foundation for giving the ballet company a chance to perform at Clarkston High

"They made it possible financially for us to come to the high school," she said.

The Clarkston Foundation is selling 100 tickets for $100 each.

These are selling fast," Moss said. "The foundation is also producing the playbills and is responsible for the large banner pro-moting "The Nutcracker" that's hanging over Main Street. "The foundation is really excited," he added. "These are the types of projects we want to promote."

dents an opportunity to see a live performance of "The Nutcracker" and a chance to watch familiar faces on stage.

Michel Faigaux and Daniela Sodero from the Alberta Ballet in Canada will dance the roles of the Prince and Sugar Plum Fairy respectively. Faigaux is a principal dancer with Alberta Ballet: Both have performed as lead dancers with prominent ballet companies in the United States and Canada.

Local members of the Lakes Area Civic Ballet are working with the professional ballet dancers. The Nutcracker was choreographed by ballet mistress Christine Bove of Clarkston. They've been practicing for weeks at Newman's Dance Shoppe studio in Waterford.

"I decided it would be fun to do this with Allison," Moss

Al Bartlett, a retired Clarkston High School English teacher, has the role of Clara's grandfather. Independence Township Assessor David Kramer will be on stage as a party guest.

"I love 'The Nutcracker,'" Kramer said. "I've taken my whole family, grandchildren included, to see The Nutcracker' with the Detroit Symphony and decided performing in the ballet would be fun."

He said the men do dance steps that aren't "athletically challenging.

"We do have to be in step rhythmically," he added.

Senate moves to ban 'wolf-dogs' and other exotic pets

BY MIKE MALOTT HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE mmalott@homecomm.net

Sale and possession of dangerous animals, including wolf-dog crosses and other "large carnivores" such as bears or undomesticated cats, would be illegal under a set of bills approved by the Michigan Senate.

But critics were concerned some family dogs might be confused for wolf-dogs. Members voted 33-2 on Senate Bill 782, sponsored by Sen. Bill Bullard (R-sponsored by Sen. Leon Stille (R-Spring Lake) outlawing the dangerous animals Thursday, Dec. 2.

Both bills would allow those who already own such exotic animals to keep their pets, but they would be subject to of new rules. Current owners would be required to post their property to warn passers-by that a dangerous animal is housed there, would not be allowed to leash their animals unattended in the yard, and would have to get an annual permit from local animal control officers. Both bills allow for destruction of those animals if they harm a human

Sen. David Jaye (R-Macomb) argued that both bills would erode personal liberties, but he was especially concerned about the ban on wolf-dogs.

You're going to condemn a lot of inno-cent people to lose their pets, their loyal family dog, and people with modest incomes will not have enough money to contest the claims by others that their dog is not a wolf dog," he said. "There is no scientific way to visually, medically, or any way through DNA testing to identify what is a wolf dog ... I wonder now many of you would think that the Siberian husky is or isn't a wolf dog? What about an Alaskan malamute?"

Sen. John Cherry (D-Clio) noted that there are characteristics which can be used to identify wolf-dogs.

"A wolf tracks in a straight line," he said. "Hardly any dogs do that. Is the tail curled or straight?" Dogs' tails are

Cherry offered an amendment to the bill to identify wolf-dogs that have all of four traits mentioned in the law. Previously, the bill defined an animal as a wolf-dog if it possessed any one of the four traits. "Every wolf-dog is a danger," he said, explaining why they should be outlawed

All local senators voted for the measures, except Sen. Joanne Emmons (R-Big Rapids) who was absent.

Holiday gift comes early for HAVEN

HAVEN (Help Against Violent Encounters Now), the Pontiac shelter for abused women and children, received an early Christmas present Friday when Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson was to hand over checks totaling $115,000 to the organization's Executive Director

"I can't thank these corporate citizens and organizations enough for responding to my call to assist HAVEN in its hour of greatest need," Patterson said. "Their generosity, especially at this time of the year, is greatly appreciated and will help HAVEN rebound from the tragedy which temporarily closed its door last month."

During the Holiday Party, Patterson was to present 10 other charities with checks totaling $22,000.

The beneficiaries include Give-A-Christmas Fund ($5,000); Pontiac Rescue Mission Children's Village ($2,500); Community Services of Oakland ($2,500); Child Abuse Neglect Council of Oakland County ($2,000); North Oakland Medical Center-Neo Natal Intensive Care Unit ($1,500); Leader Dogs for the Blind ($1,500); Greater Pontiac Community Coalition ($1,000); Koats for Kids ($1,000) and Vietnam Veterans of America Oakland County 133 ($1,000).

Since Patterson established the Casual Day Fund in 1993, more than $165,000 has been distributed to local charities. The fund is made possible by the generosity of county employees who contribute $1 to the jean jar every Friday for the opportunity of being able to wear casual clothes to work. Another highlight of the party was to be the announcement of grand prize winners in the annual Employee Suggestion Program. Those employees who submitted ideas to save the county the most money were awarded trips to Hawaii, Cancun and Toronto, while several others won cash prizes. The Employee Suggestion Program is funded entirely through the County Executive's Annual Golf Outing and no taxpayer dollars are used. Since the program began almost seven years ago, suggestions submitted by county employees have saved taxpayers more than $3 million.;

The romance of diamonds is alive for New Year's

THE JEWELRY

Where do you plan to be on the 31st? And what do you plan to wear?

Ringing in the New Year has taken on more significance than the bicentennial moments we celebrated back in 1976.

Then again, we're not talking centuries. We're talking about a millennium, which does tend do put a little pressure on the celebration and on the idea of New Year's Eve gift-giving

After all, we won't have another chance for this kind of celebration for another 1,000 years. Even if you think you'll be around in the year 2999 for the next media overkill, that's a long

That said, the gifts of choice to celebrate the millennium make perfect sense: diamonds and platinum. Could anything else be more beautiful, versatile and enduring?

While I intend to ring in the New Year by watching the Times Square ball drop from the comfort of my bed, I will be wearing diamonds!

Don't believe me? Read on. Romance is alive and well for the millennium.

One man who is taking romance seriously this New Year's Eve is Kevin Burke, of Birmingham. He purchased a diamond engagement ring from Frank Yanke of Yanke Designs in Franklin.

"He plans to spend New Years Day with his girlfriend in Chicago, where they met," said Yanke. The prospective groom also has an elaborate day planned. He'll begin with brunch and a romantic walk to the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Once there, he'll light candles and propose to his girlfriend in the glow of the dawn of the new millennium. Now that sounds like a plan to me. Not to mention, it includes diamonds!

We're expecting a lot of proposals for New Year's," said David Norman, executive vice president of ijewelry.com, a Troy-based Internet jewelry seller that debuted this fall. The site features 2,000 pieces of jewelry, including officially certified diamonds, and the company plans to double their web site offerings in their first months of operation.

Alexia Bongiorno, of Alexander J. Bongiorno Creative Jewelers in Troy, shared another romantic tale from his customers. It's about the lasting love and friendship of three couples, who have been celebrating New Year's Eve together for the past 42 years.

This year, they plan to do add some dazzle to the celebration; each of the three men in the group has commissioned Bongiorno to create a small, diamond-set platinum cross for their wives. Each piece will be presented, as these special friends ring in the new century and millennium together.

But perennial diamond favorites, like diamond stud earrings and diamond tennis bracelets, also are getting notice when it comes to celebrat-

At Skyline Diamond Setters in Troy both are being purchased as Christ-mas gifts for recipients to wear on New Year's Eve, said Skyline's Jennifer Cleveland.

Also, many customers are upgrading their stud earrings to impressive sizes. One in particular was sized up to an ear-dragging total weight of 3.18 carats, she said. Then again, the size of engagement ring diamonds seems to be getting larger, too, said Cleve-

Time piece: The millennium has more people buy-ing diamonds this holiday season.

Parent's helpers

Retailers keep kids busy this holiday

nstafford@oe.homecomm.net

Joshua Smith and his mother Catherine waited two hours in line at the Somerset Collection in Troy to visit with Santa Though Catherine felt the wait, two-year-old Joshua was too busy playing games and watching holiday performers.

"He was entertained all the way through," Smith said of Somerset's efforts to make the wait as easy as possible. "The parents will feel the wait, but the kids won't."

But anything local malls and retailers can do to keep kids busy and upbeat during the holiday shopping season is helpful, said Smith, who lives in Birmingham. "It's a tough time of year. You're trying to run errands and you want to spend time with your kids."

While time and patience have always been a part of parenting, most of today's mothers and fathers have less of both to spare. Holiday shopping and traditional activities, like taking the kids to see Santa, only makes parents' schedules more hectic. To keep families coming out, malls and retailers are finding ways to make visits less stressful and more enjoyable.

At the Somerset Collection, children waiting in line to visit Santa can play checkers, read books, explore Santa's castle, catch and throw oranges and interact with performers dressed in medieval from a massive treasure trunk.

St. Nick: Nicolas Rabah, 4, of Farmington Hills, sits and talks with Santa while his mother takes a break.

Little extras: Jordan Hliebay, 1, of Sterling Heights, takes in all the fun at Santa's castle at the Somerset Collection in Troy. After visiting Santa, children select coins from a treasure trunk worth 75 cents at several nearby stores. Helpers and performers at the castle make the wait less stressful for kids, and thus, parents.

"It's organized, they don't rush you with Santa, and it really sets up the tone and ambiance for the kids," said Smith. "And, it really gives us a break."

Several other area malls and retailers are helping parents cope with the rigors of the holiday season in other ways.

This year, Oakland Mall in Troy introduced Kid's Clubhouse, a supervised activity center where parents can leave children, age three and up, while they shop.

Conveniently located in the J.C. Penney corridor, the center is staffed by certified teachers and computer instructors, and offers storytelling, arts and crafts projects and educational computer games for a cost of $8 an hour per child. Better yet, parents who spend $150 or more while shopping receive an hour free at the Kid's Clubhouse.

"In today's time-starved society, we're all multitasking," said Shelley Darmetko, Oakland Mall's marketing manager. "It's one less thing that parents have to do - find a baby-sitter - in order to come out and shop."

While Darmetko admits the mall is trying to attract shoppers who have children, she said the result is a more meaningful, and less commercial, shopping experience. "You do something that includes kids and something that the whole family can do together, and it becomes an outing, a special trip, something more unique," she said.

Another offering aimed at helping busy parents get through the holiday shopping season is a pager and two-way radio service being offered by a private company at Great Lakes Crossing in Auburn Hills. Inside Fairlane Towne Center's holiday shopping relaxation room, activities keep children busy while parents put up their feet. At Wonderland Mall in Livonia, there's a new tree house on which kids can play and a full-sized carousel they can ride. And, for a second year, Hudson's at the Somerset Collection in Troy has put up the Little Door Store, a colorful, kids-sized castle where children can shop for holiday gifts on their own.

Located on the third floor near the store's youth departments, the shop is filled with inexpensive gifts for family and friends and manned by shop-

The service not only gives parents a break and makes children a part of the holiday shopping experience, but also resurrects a tradition, said Michelle Shulman, Hudson's regional public relations director.

Many of the parents and grandparents who today come to the Little Door Store recall when they were kids and visited the children's holiday shop Hudson's had at their old, downtown Detroit

"It's not only the children that have warm memories but also the parents," said Shulman of Hudson's take on making the holidays warm and fuzzy in the world of retail. "This is how memories and traditions start ... and, hopefully, we're establishing some of those warm memories."

On their own: Tommy Rayle, 5, of Birmingham, shops for holiday gifts for his friends at Hudson's Little Door Store.

Lost in space

Lego poses robotics challenge for Oakland students

By KEN VAN STEENKISTE STAFF WRITER

As an anxious earth awaited news about the fate of NASA's Polar Lander, some intrepid explorers closer to home were learning lessons by planning fictional space missions

More than 300 middle school students from Oakland County recently took command of an imagined journey into space while experimenting with high-

The kids were part of the FIRST Lego League competition, a national program which pits teams of middle schoolers against each other in high-tech competition. After months of building robots with parts sup-plied by FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science), the kids met at the University of Detroit Mercy to test their inventions on Dec. 4.

For the competition, the teams of 8 to 12 students are given an imaginary scenario: Two astronauts are stranded in a oxygen-deprived space ship that is beyond the aid of earth-bound

For the details of the scenario, the kids fill in the blanks .

How did the astronaut's ship get stranded in space?

Tying up the loose ends in an imaginary but feasible way is up to the competitors and worth points in the final judging.

The kids are also given the tools to help the ill-fated space explorers: a robot which they must construct and program with instructions to deliver the astronauts canisters of oxygen.

"The kids are given a mission to create a latch-release device that will release the astronauts from a chamber and deliver canisters of oxygen," explained Christine May, a mathematics teacher at Berkley High School who oversees a FIRST team of robot builders.

Of course, the robots aren't life size, and the astronauts aren't really stranded in space. But. much like NASA and its failing that sometimes the best way to learn something is by doing it, despite the results.

Oakland man picked for state board

Birmingham resident Ralph E. Deeds Jr. has been appointed by Gov. John Engler to the Michigan Employment Security Board which hears and decides appeals on a variety of matters pertaining to unemployment compensation.

Deeds, a retiree, has extensive experience in unemployment matters. He previously served as a special assistant to the chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, a post to which he was appointed by President Bill Clinton.

Deeds replaces Kay Hansen of Detroit. His term expires Dec. 31, Reappointed by the governor to the commission was Neal A. Young of Grand Rapids.

III ... much like NASA and its failing Mars probe, the kids found out that sometimes the best way to learn something is by doing it, despite the results.

Take, for example, Jeffrey Ferman and his team of robot builders. Ferman, an eighth grader at the Berkley district's Norup Middle School in Oak Park, spent several months helping to put together different robot models. Finally, the group struck upon a design they believed would get the job done. "We built three different ones.

First we built a basic model, then we made it better but we checked the rules (of the competition) and found out it wasn't right and we had to build a third one," Ferman explained.

Ferman said the competition was a great way to meet other kids in the area from his school

"There were kids from high school on our team that helped us and made sure we were doing everything right. We met a lot of people from other middle schools, it was neat because we're going to be going to high school with them next year," he

Jay Pliskaw, another Norup Middle School student, said the benefits of FIRST far outweighed the extra work it requires.

Our team may not have ranked the highest in the end but it was a lot of fun and we learned a lot," Pliskaw said. Our program for the robot didn't work out because the batteries were running low.

Ferman and Plikaw's group came up with a perilous scenario for their space rescue: a faulty engine, firing too long, had sent spacecraft and its crew hurtling toward an asteroid field near Mars.

Ban on principals' unions is limited to Detroit schools only

BY MIKE MALOTT HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE @homecomm.net mmalott

Principals and supervisory personnel in local school districts dodged a legislative bullet Wednesday. They'll retain the right to form unions and engage in collective bargaining ... but not those in the City of Detroit.

Republican lawmakers voted to narrow a proposed ban on unionization of school district administrators to the City of Detroit only.

That drew a furious response from Democrats.

This bill is both racist and union busting, and the people of this state will not forget," Rep. Lynne Martinez (D-Lansing) said in anger during the debate on the House floor.

"There is no excuse for this political body to pass bill after bill after bill damaging the people of one city in the state, a city about which you know nothing and wish to have no responsibility." Verbiage from Detroit Democrats was even harsher.

Rep. Irma Clark (D-Detroit) called the proposal "disgusting" and labeled the House of Representatives a "prostitution ring" for considering it.

"Maybe we should pass some legislation for the rest of the state," said Rep. Bob Brown (D-Dearborn Heights).

Republicans bristled at the charge of racism. Sen. Leon Stille (R-Spring Lake) said he had listened to the House debate and found it "embarrassing."

"This is about improving educa-tion in the City of Detroit," Rep. Gene DeRossett (R-Manchester) said. "If we were racist, why would we care?"

As initially proposed, Senate Bill 663, sponsored by Sen. Loren Bennett (R-Canton) would have banned unions for all school principals and supervisors across the state. He said he had been spurred to introduce the bill by last fall's teacher strike in Detroit. Some principals, he said, joined teachers on the picket

Be of good cheer with festive holiday sips

emperaturés are dropping, fes-tive outdoor lights are being hung, trees are twinkling and everyone is getting into the holiday

As a child, I knew Christmas was near when my favorite movie, "It's a Wonderful Life" was being featured on TV, and there was eggnog in our refrigerator. I still refer to eggnog as Christmas milk, and cherish the memory of sipping this thick, lightly fragrant, drink.

Most of our holiday food and drink traditions have come from around the world. The are rich in flavor, taste and often even richer in their history.

Holiday libations are the pre- and post celebration of the event itself. As a holiday buffet brings people togeth-er, its counterpart, the celebratory communal bowl, mug or glass of festive liquid spirits, is warming the way to holiday cheer.

Special gatherings brimming with holiday cheer, and the splendor of all that is familiar would seem to be met by a warm liquid libation this season.

Eggnog is an essential component of an American yuletide feast. Although people have been sipping eggnog for two centuries, the etymology of the word itself extends back even further.

The word "nog" is an old English term for strong beer or ale. Some folklorists believe the word eggnog was derived from "noggin," a small birch cup used to serve tavern patrons versus a large mug given to those who sat by the fire.

Over time eggnog developed into a potent egg- and spirit-based beverage with other added ingredients such as cream, sugar and spices, especially

In England people whisked red wine into their nog. In Colonial America, people added rum, brandy or whiskey. Although eggnog's birth was as an alcohol-based beverage many people drink alcohol-free varieties today.

A toast

"Hail Hail, Wassail" - was the toast the farmers would chant as they grabbed their weapons and headed to their apple orchard in Devonshire, England on Jan. 7. The farmers would circle the oldest apple tree in their orchard and sing songs or chant to praise the tree for its fruit.

Drinking cider and a feast of roast beef accompanied their praise to the orchards. "Ves heill," is Norse for "be in good health." It is an old toast as well as the origin of the word. Wassail is a warm winter drink consisting of ale or sweetened wine steeped with spices and apples, and even garnished with small, roasted apples.

French traditions

The French never to be forgotten in the culinary world, are famous for serving holiday wine as an aperitif. It is prepared by simply infusing red wine with orange and lemon peel, vanilla extract, and cloves. After a two-week rest in a dark place. Framboise berry liqueur or brandy is added to the wine mixture

Without a doubt the French are masters at making champagne, which is always a holiday favorite. Champagne is very versatile, and wonderful with a splash of most citrus juices and sweeter liqueurs. Perhaps a little Chambord and Champagne (Kier Royal) would get the sugar plum fairies dancing at your next holiday brunch.

Non-alcoholic drinks

Don't forget to serve non-alcoholic drinks at your party. Spices often play an important role in many of our warm winter drinks. Good quality mulling spices are a must for any

It's the best gift to give yourself

By PEGGY MARTINELLI-EVERTS SPECIAL WRITER

The holidays come but once a year ... and thank goodness for that. Added to our usual work schedules, deadlines, and children's activities is gift shopping, wrapping, baking and entertaining out-oftown guests. It can turn December into a

"bah humbug" kind of month. That said, it is also the time we receive greetings from so many old friends, take some time to remember the less fortunate, party with those we usually work with, and pause to remember what it feels like to be a child.

Take some time to reflect on your life. Do you feel better today than you did at the beginning of the year? Are you ready to give yourself a holiday present? The best thing you can do for yourself and for your family is to stay healthy.

One important way to stay healthy is to eat healthy. Don't let holiday parties sabotage your efforts. Remember, the three most important points about healthy eating (and per-haps life in general) are balance, variety and moderation

Balance; As the rhythm of the holiday season cranks up, it is important to eat smaller, more frequent meals to keep your energy up. This is surprisingly easy to adapt to during the holiday season since social events tend to be opportunities for "grazing," or eating a little here, a little there. Try to avoid heavy, fatty meals because they can make you feel sluggish. Avoid skipping meals or you'll get too hungry and overeat with abandon later on. Drink plenty of water. It is the best gift for healthy kidneys. Help yourself to holiday treats, but be reasonable about portion sizes and the number of servings you take. (See sidebar on serving sizes - Size Savvy.)

W Variety: Make time for exercise and activity. It can come in many forms. Activity and movement help relieve better. The holidays are a perfect time to try something new. Try different foods. See the recipe for caviar mousse inside; it's a wonderful dish for a special occasion.

■ Moderation: I believe dieting doesn't work. Dieting adds tress and guilt. Focus on habits that contribute to good health. Food and celebrations can be partners. Try to slow down your eat-ing. This allows your body a chance to feel full but not overstuffed.

Listen to your body's internal cues. When you are doing your holiday cooking and baking, substitute lower-fat ingredients for high-fat ones whenever pos-sible. Select recipes that contain whole grains, fruits and vegetables such as pumpkin pie, banana bread, oatmeal cookies, blueberry muffins and carrot cake. It is easy to get caught up in the frenzy of the season. We shop too much, party too hard and eat without restraint or forget to eat at all. Try to stop and cherish the past, give yourself the gift of the present and look forward to the future.

Here are some ideas.

- Cherish the past: Fill your house with the scent of grandma's sugar and spice cookies and grandfather's spiced wine.
- Give yourself a gift: Slow down. When you are preparing food, cook in double batches. You can share with a friend or freeze the remainder for a busy day.
- Look forward to the future: Sign up for a yoga class or calligraphy or something else you've been longing to learn. Find a walking partner. Plan a vacation. Buy a calendar and fill it with all the year's birthdays.

Remember, the best present is the gift of good health. Slow down, enjoy the holidays and have a wonderful, happy New patients' favorite menu choices is Fettuccine Alfredo. Even my fat-loving taste buds tingle at the mention of this Italian classic with its heavy cream, unsalted butter and more than a goodly sprinkle of freshly grated imported Parmesan cheese.

Turkey Alfredo is a tasty, healthy dish

One of the goals of my nutrition counseling is to help patients learn to modify their favorite recipes so that they can continue "Eating Younger" and enjoy what they're eat-

You may remember an earlier recipe I shared with you for an Eating Younger Fettuccine Alfredo. This one, however, is slightly different and has several additional virtues.

You can stock up and have the Fettuccine Alfredo ingredients readily are 6 grams of fiber in a half cup of available on your pantry shelf and in Lo Mein noodles in contrast to only 1 the freezer. Use fresh or frozen veggies. You might try canned varieties. They cut prep time and are similar in nutritional value to fresh cooked or frozen. If carrots and broccoli aren't popular at your house, substitute asparagus, green beans or whole kernel corn.

The turkey might be some of your frozen stash from the Thanksgiving bird. Cooked and skinned chicken breast, ham, cooked shrimp or rinsed tuna fish are other stand-ins. The recipe has enough flavor to make it an interesting all-veggie option.

Do be sure to use freshly grated imported Parmesan or Romano cheese. Don't buy cheese that's already grated. It doesn't provide the necessary flavor spark to create the

1/2 to 2 grams in the same amount of pasta. Besides, I prefer the chewiness of the Chinese noodle. You can find them in the Oriental food section of most markets.

This is one of those recipes that takes longer to eat than it does to make. When your day isn't long enough for all you need to do, this is a recipe you can turn to for smart eating. You can probably have it ready to eat faster than you can 'order in!" Happy healthy holiday

WASSAIL

- 10 small apples 10 teaspoons brown sugar
- 2 bottles dry sherry or dry Madeira
- 1/2 teaspoon grated nutmeg 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 3 cloves
- 3 allspice berries
- 1-inch stick cinnamon
- 2 cups superfine sugar
- 3/4 cup water
- 6 eggs, separated 1 cup brandy

Core the apples and fill each with a teaspoon of brown sugar. Place in a baking pan and cover the bottom with 1/8-inch of water. Bake in a 350°F degree oven for 30 minutes or until tender.

Combine the sherry or Madeira, nutmeg, ginger, cloves, allspice berries, cinnamon, sugar and water in a large, heavy saucepan and heat without letting the mixture come to a boil. Leave on very low heat. Beat the egg yolks until light and lemon-colored. Beat the whites until stiff and fold them into the yolks. Strain the wine mixture and add gradually to the eggs, stirring constantly. Add the brandy. Pour into a metal punch bowl, float the apples on top and serve in 8-ounce mugs. Makes about 10 servings.

ENCHANTED NOG

- 3 cups whole milk
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 8 tablespoons sugar 1.cup Dark rum
- 1 cup heavy cream (whipped until soft peaks form)
- 6 egg yolks
- 1 star anise
- 1 cinnamon stick

Bring 2 cups (out of 3) milk and spices to a boil in medium sauce

Mix egg yolks and sugar in bowl and whisk

Steam warm milk and whisk into egg-sugar mixture, whisking constantly.

Pour back into sauce pan, heat

on low an additional 2-3 minutes

Remove from heat and stir in remaining milk and cream. Chill down quickly in ice bath in an open vessel in fridge.

Add rum and fold in whip

Pour in glass , garnish with sprinkle of nutmeg.

To make drink non-alcoholic, replace rum with 2 teaspoons of rum extract.

BUTTERY RUM

- 4 oz Dark Rum
- Twist temon and orange peel
- 1 cinnamon stick
- 3 cloves 1 star anise
- 16 ounces cider
- 1 1/2 tablespoons whole sweet butter Nutmeg

Warm cider with spices, simmer for 5 minutes. Add rum, strain spices, add whole butter. Divide into four 4 ounce mugs. (Warm mugs with hot water) Garnish with sprinkle of nutmeg.

MULLED WINE

- 16 ounces claret or other dry
- red wine
- Dash Angostura bitters 4 cloves
- 1 cinnamon stick Twist lemon peel
- 1 teaspoon superfine sugar Pinch allspice

Combine all ingredients in a small, heavy saucepan and heat, but do not allow to boil. Strain into two 8 ounce mugs.

SCANDINAVIAN YULETIDE DRINK

There are a number of varia tions of this traditional Scandinavian Yuletide drink. Dry red wine, muscatel and sweet vermouth, with aquavit in place of the brandy, may be used. In another version, 2 bottles of dry red wine, preferably Bordeaux, are used with the quantity of aquavit increased to a whole bottle, which is poured over the flaming sugar.

GLOGG

1 bottle tawny port

- 1 bottle Madeira
- 1 bottle medium dry sherry
- 1/2 bottle dry red wine
- 15 cloves
- 15 cardamom seeds
- 1 stick cinnamon 1/2 pound sugar cubes
- 1/2 cup brandy 1 cup raisins
- 3/4 cup blanched almonds

Combine all ingredients except the sugar, brandy, raisins and nuts in a heavy saucepan and heat slowly. When the wine mixture is hot, place a rack on top of the saucepan so that it covers half of it.

Arrange the sugar cubes on the rack, warm the brandy, pour it over the sugar and set it affame. Ladle the wine mixture over the flaming sugar until sugar is dissolved. Serve in 8ounce mugs, garnished with the almonds and raisins. Makes about 10 servings.

- 1 pint fat-free sour cream
- 1 pinch dry mustard 4 1/2 ounces caviar

Soak gelatin in cold water until soft. Add boiling water; stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. In another bowl combine mayonnaise and sour cream. Pour liquid mixture into this. Add dry mustard and

Mix gently but thoroughly and pour into a 3 or 4 cup mold.

Chill 6 hours. Unmold by dipping the mold in hot water and shaking the contents loose onto a serving plate. Decorate and serve as an hors d'oeuvre or mold in individual molds and serve as a first course. You may wish to "frost" with additional caviar. Serve on toast points, melba rounds or crackers.

BISHOP'S WINE

- 1 bottles red table wine 1/2 bottle water (use wine bottle to measure)
- 1 orange, sliced 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cinnamon stick
- 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg 1/8 teaspoon dried rosemary
- 1 bay leaf 30 cloves
- Sugar to taste

Let everything simmer, except sugar, without boiling for a few hours in a covered pot. Add sugar according to taste, pass through a sieve. Place a sliver spoon in each wine glass and pour hot into wine glasses. The spoon prevents heat breakage.

CAFE DE OLLA

MEXICAN SPICED COFFEE

- 1 cup water
- 3 Tablespoons dark roasted coffee, coarsely ground 1 stick cinnamor

Piloncillo (unrefined dark brown sugar) to taste

In an earthenware pot, bring water to a boil. Add the coffee, cinnamon, and unrefined dark brown sugar. Bring to a boil twice, then strain and serve.

Serves one.

Cook's note: To adapt this recipe to a coffeemaker, add piloncillo and cinnamon sticks to the pot. Prepare coffee according to instructions for the pot, although it should be stronger than regular coffee. This is typically served in little red clay cups

But after years of getting beat up in the national press and trying to over-come self-doubts about the cultural offerings of one of the most ethnical-ly diverse regions in the country, it may be time to put the inferiority complex to rest. There's a grass-roots movement building momentum to push for a broader public role for the arts.

And now, they've got their muchneed empirical ammunition

Tool for art advocates

An unprecedent-ed in-depth analy-sis of audiences for cultural activities in the seven-county southeastern Michigan region has revealed that about 2.8 million people or 57,6 per cent of households attend or participate in the arts. That figure is considerably higher than the national average, which stands around 49 percent, according to the National the Arts. · Oakland County residents, according to the report, are significant supporters at cultural events in 🚜 Wayne and other counties. Nearly one-third of Oakland County households partic ipate in the arts, the highest level among the seven

Endowment for

The report, enti-tled "Southeastern Michigan Geodemographic and Database Analysis," was released Monday by South-field-based Art-Serve Michigan, a statewide advocacy and networking agency for artists and arts groups. In less than a week, the 400-page analysis conducted by Artsmarket Consulting of Bozeman, Mont, was received as the ultimate "told-you-so" tool for arts advocates:

"We've been looked at as a blue col-lar town, as not being sophisticated enough to appreciate the arts," said Barbara Kratchman, executive director of ArtServe. "For years, we've been looking for ways to make a convincing argument that the cultural industry is important to our way of life, and now we have it. A thriving culture is good eco-

The exhaustive analysis of the audiences of 59 nonprofit regional arts organizations examines types of participation, and presents an empirical breakdown of the demographical segments who attend cultural events, including concerts, plays, exhibits at arts and historical museums and art associations. Major commercial entertainment venues such as the Palace, Pine Knob, the Fox and Fisher theaters were not included in the report.

"A study like this will make everyone more self-sufficient and independent," said Kratchman. "It also provides information about why arts organizations should collaborate. So many of them share audiences." The study was funded by a $75,000 grant from the Community Foundation of Southeastern Michigan, 🕟 established three years ago with $1-million from the Lila Wallace Foundation.

The Community Foundation is currently in the third year of a five-year, $4.5-million effort to fund local arts, ethnic, and civic orga-nizations working to cultivate culture in the metro area. Not only are the empirical findings of the demogeographic report invaluable for nonprofit arts organizations trying to identify and build audiences in times of reduced public funding, but art advocates contend that the extensive analysis offers a compelling case Detroit is defined regionally.

This is a sign, perhaps, of the perceived wall crumbling between the city of Detroit and the surrounding suburbs.

"There's a tremendous level of cooperation across regional and county lines," said Larry Coppard, senior consultant at the Community Foundation. "We haven't seen the type of parochialism that has plagued other regional issues."

tServe's Kratchman predicts that the findings in the demogeographic analysis will help the campaign to a regional arts tax.

Until now, discussions about the proposal have been contentious among Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties. The latest notion involves a half mill assessment on property in Oakland and Wayne counties. Tax revenue would finance the operating budgets for the area's 14 major cultural institutions. And each county would also receive a block grant to divide among local arts groups.

Dynamic changes

On the surface, cynics could contend that if arts organizations succeed at the business of marketing, then they might need even less public funding. That, according to Louise Stevens of Artsmarket Consulting, fails to consider the inherent difference between art and commerce, and the utter upheaval of arts funding over the last

HOT TOPIC

Behind the controversy of a sensational exhibit JUDITH DONER BERNE

SPECIAL WRITER
NEW YORK – The "Sensation" exhibition of young British artists at the Brooklyn Museum of Art remains a hot topic.

And so it happened, that over the check-out counter at the new DKNY store on Madison Avenue, a rather hip, young salesman, the female cashier and I spent a few minutes discussing it. They particularly wanted to know how someone from the Midwest viewed the exhibition, which runs through Jan. 9.

They weren't aware that Detroit had just gone through an art museum controversy of its own when another exhibit designed to shock closed shortly after it opened in mid-November at the Detroit Institute of Arts .

Once upon a time, New Yorkers weren't interested in anyone from anywhere past Jersey, unless they were from the West Coast. That they expressed inter-est in a Midwesterner's opinion shows progress.

My reaction to "Sensation," I told them, was that over the years, particularly at the Whitney Museum of American Art, I have seen equally shocking art. That includes the current exhibit, "The American Century Art and Culture 1900-2000," part two.

Pulsating: Painter Richard Patterson uses images of plastic toys in his oil and acrylic paintings on canvas. It is one of the many interesting, noncontroversial pieces in "Sensation."

What's all the fuss?

"Sensation," of course, is the exhibit of 86 works by 41 young British artists that attracted a record num ber of visitors in its inaugural presentation at the Royal Academy of Arts in London and is doing the same in New York.

It's the exhibit that New York Mayor Rudy Ginliani attempted unsuccessfully to close down by threatening to cut city funding to the museum.

Basically, "Sensation" is challenging because it comcentrates on controversial works and themes. If worth noting that neither the artists nor their work have stood the test of time. One often unreported aspect of the controversy that museums are venturing into the domain one reserved for galleries, namely showing new art.

But to think that all these pieces by British artists of the 1990s are worthy of being shown in major museums is, at best, a stretch.

Still, "Sensation" has some potentially important

Impressive works

Particularly impressive works in "Sensation" are

Please see EXHIBIT, B5

the paintings of Chris Ofili. Richard Patterson and Jenny Saville and the sculpture of Rachel Whiteread.

The pieces by Ofili, including the much-maligned and infa-mous "The Holy Virgin Mary," are magnificent. Ofili's paintings are intricate, delicate, and dazzling. The precise placement of clumps of elephant dung (the elephant is revered in Zimbabwe where he revamped his style of painting) is his method of grounding them in a cultural as well as a natural landscape.

His paintings are not "smeared" with elephant dung, as described in some media

Jenny Saville's huge oil paintings depict Rubenesque nudes in an apparent statement about the discomfort of contemporary women with their body images. In "Plan," for instance, the amazingly tinted flesh shows markings like that of a plastic surgeon, defining what route to take to reconfigure a body.

Richard Patterson takes cheap, plastic toys, alters them to his taste, photographs then paints them on a monumental scale. Two of his works, "Motor-crossed II" and "Blue Minotaur," bring to mind "Persistence of Memory" by surrealist artist Salvador Dali.

Meanwhile, Rachel Whiteread also turns to everyday objects. such as bathtubs and sinks, which she fashions out of stark white plaster or alabaster-colored polystyrene.

In "Untitled (100 Spaces)," she explores the concept of negative space in a roomful of 100 deliciously tinted, translucent resin sculptures which she molded from the spaces under fourlegged chairs.

Raising questions

"Sensation" raises a lot of questions about what art is. For instance, what is the point of Damien Hurst's exhibit of a shark, a lamb, two pigs and the cross-sections of two cows suspended in formaldehyde? Do these belong in an art or a natural history museum?

After I had viewed one or two of these installations. I vote for the natural history museum.

Another startling piece is Ron Mueck's "Dead Dad," which is an exact replica of his father's naked corpse, perfectly detailed but reduced to the size of a child. Viewers are forced to confront the body (and the notion of death), as it lies on the floor of the exhibition room, The in-yourface immediacy recalls acclaimed photographer Cindy Sherman's mannequin images.

Two walls of photographs of Richard Billingham's dysfunctional family have been exhibited to great acclaim in galleries in New York, Milan, Paris and London. Yes, they, too, are difficult to look at.

"Sensation" isn't an easy exhibit to view or understand. But its place in art history may well rest on the money and control issues raised rather than its emphasis on shock art.

A front page story by David

Barstow in Tuesday's New York Times reports that the artistic demands of Charles Saatchi, the British advertising executive who owns the works, drove up the cost of the exhibition, forcing a ticket price hike and less security, visitor services and educational programs.

The Times' piece also suggests that Christie's auction house pledged $50,000 as a corporate sponsor of the exhibit, hoping to handle the Brooklyn Museum's future art sales on an exclusive basis. Barstow's story was based on information culled from internal museum letters, e-mails, memos and financial records handed over during the legal battle with Giuliani.

Barstow writes: "... the documents provide a rare look at the ethical perils confronting American museums as they stage expensive, blockbuster exhibitions in an era of declining government support. For museum directors, the challenge is to maintain artistic independence and integrity while raising private money that may come from those with a financial stake in their exhibitions."

The issue may be particularly relevant to residents in Oakland and Wayne counties. This August, voters could consider a ballot issue on public funding for our regional arts institutions.

photos of each of the 130 or so works and just enough background copy to make the reading easy and breezy but worthwhile. The text is straightforward, giving the who, what where, when and why of most pieces and occasionally the how. On the last point, Nawrocki give some welcome insight into how some difficult pieces succeed.

David Rubello's Color Cubes, a large mural on the side of the Julian C. Madison Building on Washington Boulevard, works, Nawrocki notes, because the interlocking cubes of color seem to shift and flip "alternatively appearing solid and transparent, two-dimensional and threedimensional and receding and pushing forward."

Such color commentary isn't necessary for the copy of Auguste Rodin's The Thinker at the Detroit Institute of Arts. But John Chamberlain's Deliquescence, which looks like the twisted leftovers from a major auto crash parked at the Patrick V. McNamara Building on Michigan Avenue, calls for the explanation provided by Nawrocki.

There's just enough here to make this a great book to grab on a Sunday and head out for an afternoon of treasure hunting.

Conversations from page B4

After their initial effort won two national Telly Awards for outstanding production and content in a children's program, Yarmy and Daldin were contacted about by a division of ABC/Disney about a full, 13-pro-

Suddenly, what they admitted was a project they did on the side moved front and center. Quickly, they became convinced that there was a future in inspiring kids about the value of "lov-ing your work." (The creators of Bob" both admit to having had jobs they hated - sandblaster and car salesman.)

"The message for kids is: 'Keep reading, do well in school and don't stop dreaming," said Daldin.

In time, "Bob's Job" will try to dispel stereotypes and help kids build a broader awareness of the world around them, said Yarmy.

Pick up the phone

For years, the cash cow at Video Design has been corporate videos. High-end stuff that a stroll through the Louvre.

But then came "Bob."

In a few weeks, "Bob's Job" will air the second episode on WTVS. Doubters should be prepared to get on the Bob Train. The program has the look and feel of an inevitable success.

Meanwhile, Yarmy and Daldin are seeking backers to finance an entire 13-program series.

Eventually, "Bob's Job" might be just the type of program suit-makes looking at a car seem like ed for PBS, Disney or Nickelodeon's newly formed Noggin Network, which is referred to as "thinking television" in the tradition of "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company."

> Maybe when the phone rings in several months, Yarmy and Daldin might want to pick it up.

> There could be a solution on the other end.

dynamic," said Stevens. "They need to find ways to rebuild earned income and build awareness among contributors."

Typically, funding is derived from public, foundation or private donations, and revenue generated from ticket sales, referred to as earned income. Largely because of the explosion in the entertainment economy, nonprofits have been forced to compete in alongside for-profit venues. "We'd like to believe that the arts can stand outside the marketplace, but they don't,'

"Consumers want value for their money. The days of boosterism and supporting the 'arts' because it's the 'arts' are gone.'

Usefulness of report

More entertainment options on any given night of the week is a prime reason for declining season subscription sales and an increase in single-ticket revenue with most arts organizations in the performing arts.

"No matter how much marketing we do, 70 percent of our budget comes from ticket income,' said Doug Koon, marketing director at Meadow Brook The-

With a $3-million annual budget for a seven-play season, that leaves a small margin for failure.

Findings in the "Geodemographic and Database Analysis' indicated that Meadow Brook is not only the "flagship professional theater in Michigan," but its audience represents nearly half of the larger audience for live theater in the region. "Even we were surprised at the level of crossover audiences (for theater)," said Koon.

With a stable audience drawn primarily from the tri-county area, the Birmingham Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra conducted its own audience survey last year and found that "older, more settled and higher income people" attended their concerts, said Carla Lamphere, executive director of the BBSO

"This report will help us when we approach corporate donors," she said. "We can show prospective donors that their customers also are in the cultural world.

While ArtServe will provide ongoing consultations to help arts organizations determine how to use the findings of the geodemographic report, there are established groups like the Detroit Chamber Winds & Strings of Troy that creating the paradigm for success.

In addition to its concert sea on, the Detroit Chamber Winds is the organizing entity behind the acclaimed Great Lakes Chamber Music Festival, held every June.

"The information (in the report) will really help the smaller organizations," said Maury Okun, executive director of Detroit Chamber Winds. "To a certain extent, most arts organizations make an educated guess on who their audience is.

to recreate, in miniature, the railway service that once ran through the town of Farmington.

To guarantee historical accuracy, Golden studied every facet of his topic. His extensive research for the model culminat-

By the 1880s, however, electriciing up all over the Detroit area," writes Golden. Interestingly, in

Lifelong Detroit Red Wing fan

consolidated into the Detroit United Railroad. Among the DUR's numerous clear glimpse of area's past rail lines, one served the towns along Woodward Avenue while another connected western communities such as Farmington. West Bloomfield, Sylvan Lake, and Pontiac.

Farmington Junction was the site of the powerhouse that supplied the electricity needed to run the trolleys for the Orchard Lake Division.

Located at the intersection of Grand River and Orchard Lake Road amidst the car barn, the tool sheds, and the express office, "this powerhouse, with [its] distinctive smokestack," notes the author, is the only structure that remains today.

Golden's 8-by-11 inch, 58-page, self-published paperback is especially fascinating for its blackand-white photographs of the metro-Detroit area.

One picture of special interest, taken in the early 1900s, reveals trolley rails embedded in an unpayed Orchard Lake Road. It was photographed just north of Walnut Lake Road, about where West Bloomfield High School stands today, and shows the downward slope that is still part of the road's topography. Of equal interest are photographs of turn-of-the-century Northville, the rambling hotel that once stood on the corner of Orchard and Long Lake Roads, Michigan Military Academy (now St. Mary's campus), and many more. Numerous maps that trace the routes the trolleys took are interspersed throughout the book.

Concisely written and well researched, Brain Golden's book brings back an era when Detroiters, anxious to leave the heat and grime of the city, traveled to their summer cottages in Keego Harbor and to a resort suburb called "Venice of the Lakes" by trolley car. Transit companies in other states had to use "different marketing strategies to attract the public to use their services, such as the building of "parks, hotels, and picnic grounds at the end of their lines," the author points out. But the DUR could capitalize on what Mother Nature provided: the picturesque lakes of southeastern Michigan.

You don't have to be a railroad buff to enjoy Farmington Junc-

Curiosity about our local past and appreciation of just how much technology has changed our lives and environment will do. Consider this: dozens of men-folk gathered in downtown Farmington for an historic occasion: the arrival of the town's first trolley. The year was 1899 -merely 100 years ago!

How far will we travel during the next century? Perhaps someone will publish a nostalgic review of the automobile in the vear 2099.

Brian M. Golden's "Farmington Junction" can be purchased at Books Abound on Grand River in Farmington and by contacting the author at P.O. Box 551, Farmington, MI 48332-0551.

Ringing in the millennium on a different course than normal

"What are you doing New Year's Eve?" Even a song was made of that phrase, and the song has been ringing in my head like a New Year's Day

The reason I keep humming the lyrics over and over is that most everyone I meet pops me that question. I'm betting if someone hasn't asked you, then you have probably asked someone, "What are you doing New Year's Eve?"

It has been obvious for some time now that New Year's Eve 1999 will have extra significance because it will mark the end of the millennium and the beginning of a new age in history.

Typically, I have not held New Year's Eve in very high esteem. For me, the pseudo-holiday ranks behind many other celebration days, includ-ing Halloween, Valentine's Day, and Sunday at The Masters. I do understand, though, that many people want to commemorate the millennium by doing something special.

wntown Birmingham, as usual, will be teeming with excited cele-brants. Old Woodward Avenue will probably look like the Champs Elysees on New Year's Eve.

Speaking of Paris, some will travel to party destinations to ring in the new year: Walt Disney World, Las Vegas, Miami and New York City have reportedly been sold-out for over a year. At a price of $85,000 per per-son, the Concorde will jet passengers at supersonic speed from time zone to time zone so that they may experience midnight again and again. Some of the more timid will be locked in their homes with a month's supply of bottled water and Spam, fearing a computer-generated blackout.

Frankly, I have been avoiding the entire matter, and until now have had no idea where I'll be at this turn of the century, and had no thoughts of what I would be doing. I have now, though, carefully made up my mind and if you'll indulge me, I'll share it with you

When deciding how to personally mark the millennium, I considered what in life was most important to me. The thought of being in the middle of a banquet room full of people wearing paper hats and blowing noisemakers was immediately disqualified. So too disqualified was a boisterous place like Mallory Square in Key West or Bourbon Street in New Orleans. Since I imagine Royal Oak will be similar. I ruled it out as

Clarkston netters going for repeat

Clarkston won the OAA Division II vollyeball title last year at 11-1 and the Wolves were 17-2-2 against schools from the 28-school league. Coach Gordie Richardson hopes six returnees will keep them in this year's title hunt

BY DANIEL STICKRADT

When Oakland Activities Association officials dropped Clarkston's volleyball program into Division II of the 28-school mega conference, the Wolves took it as Clarkston, 27-13-3 overall last winter, responded with vengeance, winning Division II with an impressive 11-1 mark. But what was even more impressive statistic was that the Wolves were 17-2-2 against all teams from the OAA.

"We had a good team last year," said veteran Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson. "I don't think the girls took the fact that they were in Division II too lightly.

With that fire under their bellies, the Wolves had a very successful season and Richardson hopes Clarkston will continue to play as an inspired unit despite the loss of six players to graduation and another who elected to them all on the same In all, six players return with varsity experience. The other eight athletes on the 14-member squad performed at the junior-varsity level last year, but Richardson is confident that the new and the old with blend together with time.

"It will take some time, but we'll be all right," he said. "We don't have tremendous size except for a couple of girls, but the positive attitude and the work ethic is definitely there."

Richardson will look to his key returnees for leadership, including 5-foot-6 senior setter Jennie Wind and 6-0 senior middle-blocker Brittani Brewer, who is slated for a big year as one of the league's top players.

Richardson also has high hopes for 5-6 senior defensive specialist Katie Tripi, who saw limited action last year, and three other returnees - athletic 5-9 junior outside-hitters Angela Humphreys and Mary Warchuck, and 5-7 outside-hitter Kristen Falck, another quality junior.

"Mary Warchuck and Angela Humphreys both saw a lot of time last year and did very well," said Richardson, "I think they should see even some more time this year."

As for the newcomers, Richardson is high on 5-3 junior Lisa Ferguson, who will back Winn at the setter position, and 5-10 middle-blocker Lyndsay Vincent. Another player with loads of potential is 6-2 junior middle-blocker Andrea Gower, who is starting to grow into her tall frame.

"She could become a very good player," said Richardson of Gower. "The desire is there

"That's what I like about this team their desire," he continued. "They all want to play volleyball and they want to succeed. But it takes a lot to succeed at this level and these girls must sustain their work ethic and

Although Clarkston is the defending Division II champions, Richardson isn't sure who the favorite is in this year's

"It will be interesting. Both Ferndale and Rochester have new coaches," he said, noting last year's second- and third-place finishers. "And there some other good teams in our division and in the other divisions as well. Everything remains to be seen. But I think we should be very competitive again. And I like to think that we'll be in the hunt

Springfield Christian searching for net gains

BY DANIEL STICKRADT

Melissa Hughes expected her Clarkston Springfield Christian volleyball team to struggle last season. After all, the Eagles' roster was loaded with freshmen and sophomores

But this year Hughes thinks good things are to come as Springfield Christian welcomes back most of its team, which will be expected to challenge defending champion Troy Bethany Christian in the Fundamental Baptist Athletic Conference Red Division.

The Eagles had a strong summer at camps and are poised for a strong campaign.

"We were very young last year and I didn't expect us to be very strong," said Hughes. "Last year we had two key seniors quit at the beginning of the season and we were forced to carry a lot of freshmen on the

Hughes will carry five more freshmen this year, but the Eagles still return five starters from last year's contingent, which finished 9-12-1 and in fourth place in the Red Division. Springfield Christian was also ousted in the regionals of the Michigan Association of Christian Schools Division I state tournament.

"Right now, we are way better than we were last year," said Hughes. "The camps over the summer helped us out tremendously.

"I would like to think that we can compete this year and win a lot more matches. But that all pends on if we continue to work hard and continue to improve.

The five starters back for Springfield include 5-foot-9 senior middle-blocker/ outside-hitter Rachel Conner, 5-5 senior outside-hitter, 5-4 senior setter Sarah Robinson, 5-9 sophomore middle-blocker/outside-hitter Nikki Hortick, and 5-7 sophomore outsidehitter Amanda Vanaman, who can also fill in as a defensive specialist.

The team's sixth starter will likely be 5-2 senior setter/defensive specialist Liz Hamlin, who sat out last year due to an injury.

"We have a lot of experience on this team; we're young but we have experience," said Hughes.

Springfield Christian also has a strong cast of newcomers that could make in impact, especially 5-7 freshman outside-hitter Alicia Weiler and 5-4 defensive-specialist Angela Fornwall, another highly-touted freshman.

Kyra Ling, a 5-7 sophomore outside-hitter, and three more freshmen - 5-3 defensive specialist

Offense-minded first-team had the right stuff to light up the board

Eccentric All-Area Football 1999

All across Oakland County, and Eccentric com-munities in particular, high school football featured a plethora of offensive talent

Size, speed and the determination to power the pigskin into the end zone make the 1999 All-Area first Team Offense one of the finest ever assem-

Those players named to the first team, as select-Those players named to the first team, as selected by area coaches, include linemen Eric Bauer (Clarkston), Jim Grubbs (Birmingham Groves), Mike Preston (Auburn Hills Avondale), Brian Smith (Waterford Mott) and Jason Tueni (Walled Lake Western), tight end Brendan Hart (Birmingham Brother Rice), wide receivers Jeremy Battier (Detroit Country Day) and Mike Crawford (Lake Orion), running backs Cody Cargill (WL Western), Nathan Davis (Waterford Kettering) and Mark Goebel (Brother Rice), quarterbacks Mark Abro (Troy Athens) and Brad Humphrey (Kettering) and placekicker Blake Dobson (Groves).

Following is a brief profile of each player named

ERIC BAUER, Clarkston: Competing in his second varsity campaign, Bauer, a 6-3, 280-pound senior, was the driving force behind the Wolves' potent ground game. Bauer also displayed his talents on the defensive side of the ball the latter half of the year.

"Eric has great upper body strength and is a great drive blocker," Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson said. "He was a leader in the weight room and also played good defense.

JIM GRUBBS, Groves: A 6-1, 190-pound senior, Grubbs excelled both at a guard position and defensive tackle in his second season as starter. Grubbs was instrumental in the Groves ground game that churned up a great deal of yardage throughout the '99 campaign.

"He is one of the hardest working players I have coached," Groves coach Jim McDougall said. "We vere extremely pleased with his performance."

MIKE PRESTON, Avondale: The steadying force up front for the Yellow Jackets, the 6-2, 275pound Preston proved to be a dominant blocker in his second season as starter. A captain, Preston proved to be a leader both on and off the field.

"Mike is a great offensive lineman who possesses reat lateral movement," Avondale coach Tony Messina said. "He worked very hard to become a great blocker.

BRIAN SMITH, Waterford Mott: A junior competing in his second season of varsity play, the 6-3, 265 pound Smith made a smooth transition from tackle to guard for the Corsairs. Smith also displayed great play as a defensive tackle.

"He graded out to 80 percent blocking efficiency," Mott coach Ken Schmidt said. "Brian is strong and 'intense and we ran everything behind him."

Defensive success came in many shapes and forms for first-team

BY JIM TOTH STAFF WRITER

Success came in many shapes and sizes on the defensive side of things for Eccentric-area teams during the 1999 football campaign

Great strength and speed, from the trenches to the backfield, make the 1999 Eccentric All-Area First Team defense a special unit.

Spearheading those sterling efforts were stal-warts Ryan Clement (Clarkston), Mike Godlew (Birmingham Groves), Matt Kroge (Troy), Delore Semaan (Walled Lake Western), Matt Wohlgemuth (Lake Orion), Zak Keasey (Lake Orion), James King (WL Western), Eddie Hillery (Rochester), Garret Weston (Birmingham Brother Rice), Ryan Carruthers (Waterford Mott), Jermaine Gonzales (Orchard Lake St. Mary's), Lorenzo Parker (WL Western), Ron Ramirez (Groves) and Rob Ferns (Troy Athens).

Following is a brief profile of each player selected to the first team by area coaches

RYAN CLEMENT, Clarkston: A mainstay in the middle of the Wolves line the past four years, the 6-foot-2, 275-pound Clement was the force behind a punishing defense that yielded 10 points per game during the regular season.

"He's a great kid and the best lineman we've had," beamed Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson. 'He just started playing defense this year because we wanted to change things up and put our best players on defense."

MIKE GODLEW, Groves: The Falcons' senior co-captain used his 6-3, 225-pound frame to cause havor for opposing ballcarriers. Quickness off the ball allowed Godlew, a three-year starter, to total 10 sacks, including a game-high five against rival Seaholm. Mike worked very hard and became our best lineman," Groves coach Jim McDougail soid, MATT KROGE, Troy: Garnering his second straight first team honor, the 6-1, 210-pound senior lineman combined quickness and strength to cover the whole field. Often double-teamed, Kroge broke free to punish ballcarriers in his second season of varsity play.

"Matt is a tremendous player," Gary Griffith said. "He gets off the ball exceptionally well, is strong and really covers sideline to sideline. One guy, and often two guys, couldn't handle him

DELORE SEMAAN, WL Western: No stranger to the Eccentric First Team, Semaan gained his second consecutive honor after helping his teammates to the Division I state championship, A captain, the 5-11, 225-pound Semaan combined strength and quickness in his third season of varsity play to total 129 tackles (66 solo) and collect seven sacks.

"He's been able to do it all through hard work." Western coach Mike Zdebski said. "He's very

Clarkston puts Southfield on ice, 14-1

BY MIKE SCOTT SPECIAL WRITER

Heading into this weekend's tough pair of games, the Clarkston hockey team needed a breather. And the Wolves got that against Southfield Unified.

Clarkston (5-1-0) scored early and often in a 14-1 pounding of Southfield Wednesday night in an Qakland Activities Association crossover match on the road

Almost every regular Clarkston forward found his scoring touch. Anthony Facione, Jon Bemis, Bill Kalush and Derek Hool all scored twice for the Wolves, who played at Brighton late Friday night and hosted Royal Oak Unified Saturday at Lakeland Ice Arena.

Alan Marchio, normally a forward, split time as goalie with Jordan Conley against Southfield, which is a team comprised of players from Southfield-Lathrup and Southfield high schools. This is only the second year the team is in existence and most players on the team are in their first or second year of organized hockey, and it showed against the Wolves.

Clarkston coach Bryan Krygi-

er said there is little he can do as a coach when encountered with an overmatched team, because he wants his players to have fun although he would prefer not to run up the score.

"The guys want to score goals and make some moves that they normally wouldn" try," said Krygier. "I don't want our guys to stop playing and lose their edge so it can be a tough situation."

At Thursday's practice, Clarkston worked on forechecking, a skill the Wolves have been steadily improving with this year. Krygier wants to limit the number of breakouts opposing teams are able to get on the Wolves. He said getting off to a good start in the first period is a key to winning many of the upcoming matches.

The concern about sending an inexperienced defense on the ice has subsided somewhat because of the strong play of the three freshmen defenders, Myles Purdy, Jim Lattanzi and Ron Knoebel: Not only have they been strong at the blue line in limiting opposition scoring chances, but also at times, they have been involved in the offensive rush.

"I don't mind it when our defensemen jump up into the play because they are good skaters and can get back if they need to," said Krygier. "Everyone understands that (for a defender) the first responsibility is protecting our zone. But if they can contribute offensively, I encourage it."

Sophomore forward Adam Postal has been one of the most consistent offensive performers early in the season. Postal is leads the team with seven goals in six games and is working hard on both ends of the ice. Krygier likes the way Postal uses his body to check opposing players and admires his work ethic.

The focus for Clarkston is on maintaining control of the puck and ensuring tight coverage. And the depth of the Wolves makes it easier for all of their players to give full effort during every shift. Unlike many teams they face, Clarkston legitimately plays four forward lines and six defensemen. "Our guys are starting to gel pretty well and I'm not afraid to play a lot of people," said Krygier. "But we have a tough stretch of games coming up and there is no question we'll be tested."

Clarkston matmen pin loss on Falcons

By David Saunders Staff Writer

Rochester came into Wednesday's wrestling match undefeated at 2-0 and Clarkston winless after two matches, But both teams knew the Oakland Activities Association Division I match was going to be close.

Rochester coach Jediah Kramer thought the Falcons had to pile up the points early because the lower weight classes were the Rochester's strength.

Clarkston assistant coach Frank Lafferty knew he had two aces in the hole — two-time state champion Pat DeGain at 215 pounds and heavyweight John Robinson, who placed seventh in state last year.

When DeGain's brother, Clint, just a freshman, pinned senior Ryan Krammer in the 160 weight class, Lafferty knew they had the match, with four weight classes left and their first lead at 30-27. He felt R.J. Booker's pin in the second round over Rochester's Mike Phillips clinched it even though it was still mathematically possible that Rochester could still win.

Rochester's Jesse Navarre pinned his man to close Clarkston's recently gained lead to 36-33 but DeGain and Robinson did what was expected by the Wolves as they both pinned their opponent, which gave Clarkston (0-2, 1-0) a 46-33 triumph

Most pleasing for the two-time state champ DeGain was watching the performance of his brother, Clint. Pat hasn't lost a match since his freshman year and has gone 81-0 the past since his sophomore year. And Pat expects a third in a row for him:

"I don't expect Clint to win state, but he has all the potential in the world," said Pat about his younger brother. "He gives me one of the better workouts. He has a lot of technique." Pat paced the mat and yelled instructions to his younger brother. And he loves his brother teaming up with him.

"During the first meet I was talking to him and he said, I'm so nervous. I don't know what to do, I've been waiting for high school wrestling all my life.'

"It's brought us so much closer," said Pat, who signed a scholarship with indiana University Nov. 17. "Now we're talking. Before we were fighting. That's like broth-

While Clint may become the future leader of the Wolves wrestlers, since there are 30-plus freshman on this year's team, Pat is the leader now. But both lineups were leaded with freshman. And the match was full of it was freshman James Campbell of Rochester who pinned freshman Blake Harlow with a freeze pin. Rochester freshman Matt Merian pinned Jason Spencer in the 112 weight class for a 12-0 Rochester lead. The Falcons (2-1, 0-1) extended their lead when junior Biran VanEman pinned Jeff More-eearti. But a freshman for Clarkston, Nate May at 125, got the Wolves their first points, when he pinned Rochester's Ken Handyside and dislocated Handyside's shoulder at the same time. Rochester freshman Joe Miller pinned Brenton Place in the second round of the 130-pound match to extend Rochester's lead to 24-6, but Clarkston's Dave Endress! (135 pounds), Dave Walenko (140 pounds) and Brett

Gove (145 pounds) strung together back-to-back-to-back pins to knot the score at 24-all. Rochester's Jake Miller won on points to give the Falcons their last lead.

"We're real young below," Lafferty said. "As the year goes on they'll get better. We have some tough guys up at ton."

Rochester coach Kramer knew they were tough in the upper weight classes and he hoped they'd point enough in the lower weights to hold on. But the stragedy didn't apy off for the Falcois.

"We have a lot talent in ninth grade, and our middle school is even stronger," Hughes boasted. "That bodes very well four our future."

As for the present 1999-2000 season, Hughes expects to see major improvements over the next three months.

"Last year we made a lot of mistakes," recalled Hughes. "And with a young team, that will happen: Hopefully, a lot of these girls learned from them. I expect us to much more competitive this year. I think we can win the matches that we are supposed two and maybe give some of the better teams a good game."

I needed to settle this with myself. What would I want to remember doing when I thought about this supposedly momentous occasion? Where would I be the most happy to mark the moment? Where would I feel totally satisfied that I had not missed an opportunity or made the wrong choice. I needed a quality location.

The answer then came to me like a welcome invitation from an old

"The golf course," I thought. "I am happiest and most content on the golf course."

When the big ball falls in Times Square and the clock reaches midnight on New Year's Eve 1999, I plan to be alone with the game, hitting shots and chasing them, and hitting them again. Yes, it will be dark, and yes, it may be very cold, but it is home to me, and golf is a consistent friend that has never failed me, neither in the last millennium or the one to come.

When I think about the emotions that golf evokes in me, I can think of no better exercise than to drive, chip and putt my way into the new millennium under the light of the moon, and in the kind of peaceful still that allows the mind to truly reflect upon what the passing of time means.

As I hit trusting shots into the darkness, I'm certain that the "old acquaintances" that I have met through the game of golf will come to mind, because despite the lyric of the traditional New Year's Eve song, I think they should not be forgotten. Some of those people are gone, some remain in my life and gone, some remain in my life and some are merely silent, but remembered. Golf has given me a livelihood, and a life well lived in some of the finest and most interesting locations on earth. For me, golf has created friendships and even fixed a few broken ones. It has challenged me, rewarded me, and sometimes confounded me, but wherever I was, and no matter what the circumstances, golf was there for me.

It taught me honor, etiquette, honesty and sportsmanship. It taught me that even though sometimes the breaks don't go your way, you still have to play the ball where it lies. Golf taught me to respect nature. It taught me to be a gentleman. I've learned to breathe the history and significance of the 500 years all game.

history and significance of the 500-year-old game.

I should say that I am not yet certain what local golf course I plan to stage this little pilgrimage on, and even if I knew I don't think it would be wise to publish it here since none of the area courses will expect a player that evening.

Indeed, I fear a request like this would lead all but the most sentimental of golf course operators to think me mad! Alas, this experience will likely have to happen in a clandestine fashion, which, in truth, makes it all the more delicious.

I expect the moment of midnight, when it comes, to be just as breathtaking in a very personal and soulful way. I imagine it will be very silent at midnight on the golf course, except, perhaps, for the honking of passing cars or maybe the popping of distant firecrackers. Maybe, if I listen hard, I will hear the nearby singing of "Auld

Lang Syne."
Maybe, if I listen even harder, I will hear myself.

JASON TUENI, WL Western: Not the biggest of offensive linemen at 5-11 and 240 pounds, Tueni emerged onto the starting scene and helped the Warriors run over 14 consecutive opponents and earn the Division I state crown.

"Jason was our most improved player," Western coach Mike Zdebski said. "He just put in the time and hard work and became a great player for us."

BRENDAN HART, Brother Rice: A force on the Warriors' offensive side of the football the past three seasons, the 6-3, 220-pound Hart proved to be a solid target at his tight end position. In addition to hauling in some 30 passes and scoring five touchdowns, Hart did a stellar job of blocking to help trigger the ground game.

"Brendan did a great job and was one of our leaders," Brother Rice coach Al Fracassa said. "He caught some big passes for first downs and certainly had his best all-around year.

JEREMY BATTIER, Country Day: One of the state's premier wide receivers, Battier concluded a stellar three-year varsity career by leading his teammates to the Division 5 state crown, Standing 6-5 and weighing 200 pounds, Battier, a tri-cap tain, provided a reliable target for Yellow Jacket quarterbacks, in addition to turning in clutch performances in the defensive secondary.

"Jeremy always rose up in big games," DCD coach Dan MacLean said. "He's up there with the best receivers we've had. His goal always was to be a part of a state championship team."

MIKE CRAWFORD, Lake Orion: A threat to go the distance anytime he got his hands on the football, Crawford, a 6-3,175 pound senior, hauled in 51 passes for 704 yards and eight TDs. Crawford also patrolled the secondary for three years.

"Mike is one of the most talented all-around athletes I've coached," Dragons coach Chris Bell said. "He was always a threat and was definitely our go-to guy."

CODY CARGILL, WL Western: The 6-0, 210pound Cargill got a little taste of the championship flavor in '96 as a freshman. That enjoyment overflowed this year as the Warriors' senior running back gained 1,444 yards and scored 19 touch downs. If that wasn't enough, Cargill was also a vital cog in the stingy Warriors defense.

Cody hadn't played running back since the eighth grade, so we didn't know really what to expect," Zdebski said. "Everyone on the team had great respect for him because of his work ethic."

NATHAN DAVIS, W. Kettering: A junior in his second season as starter, the 6-2, 218-pound Davis amassed 809 yards on the ground and scored five TDs, despite missing some time with a shoulder injury. His talents also earned him time on defense at linebacker.

"I would match him up against anybody," Ketter-ing coach Al Duff said. "He knows how to run behind the shoulder pads and did a better job of holding onto the ball."

MARK GOEBEL, Brother Rice: The power behind the Warriors' potent ground game, Goebel, a 6-2, 204-pound terror committed to Michigan State, earned team MVP honors on offense by rushing for 1,500 yards and 15 touchdowns.

"Mark is a very dedicated player who worked hard in the off-season and was a real leader," Fra-cassa said. "He had the ability to make one move and then get all he could."

MARK ABRO, Athens: Elusiveness and sheer determination were two of the ingredients mixing to produce one of the greatest single seasons for a Red Hawk quarterback. A junior standing 6-1, 185 pounds, Abro earned team MVP honors after totaling 1,833 passing yards, 531 rushing yards and accounting for 20 TDs. He set school marks in most TDs in a game, most TDs in a nine-game season, passing yards in a game and passing yards in a nine-game season

"Mark is a great leader and a great competitor," Athens coach John Walker said. "We saw him grow as the season went on and he wasn't afraid to play with the big boys. He played with a lot of poise."

BRAD HUMPHREY, W. Kettering: A senior competing in his third season of varsity play, the 6-4, 205-pound Humphrey used a quick release and strong arm to throw for 1,213 yards and nine TDs. Humphrey, a captain, finished with 21 career touchdowns.

Brad has a strong arm and a quick release,

BLAKE DOBSON, Groves: Concentrating solely on football this season, the 6-1, 175-pound junior placekicker converted 9 of 11 field goal and 32 of 34 extra points.

"Blake played wide receiver and defensive back, so he never came off the field," McDougall said.

strong and has great quickness."

MATT WOHLGEMUTH, Lake Orion: The Lake Orion senior défensive end became a "dominant, dominant football player," according to Drag-ons coach Chris Bell, in his third season as a

He eliminates half the field for us." Bell said. "He has exceptional speed for a player his size and also played well as a tight end this year."

ZAK KEASEY, Lake Orion: A force on both sides of the football, Keasey used his 6-1, 215pound frame to total 31 solo tackles and 62 assisted tackles. Included were three interceptions, two sacks and one blocked punt. As a fullback, the Dragon senior rushed for 398 yards and four touchdowns.

"Zak is the best all-around player I've coached," Bell said. "He's a violent hitter who is always around the ball making plays. He's the heart and soul of our defense and been the attitude behind

JAMES KING, WL Western: Competing in his third varsity campaign, the 6-2, 190-pound senior linebacker used his ball-hawking talents to be credited with 72 solo tackles and 48 assists. His on-field quickness enabled him to set a schoolecord in sacks with 21.

"James has a great passion for the game," Zdebski said. "He's a competitor who plays with a lot of emotion. He's very coachable and became much more self-disciplined this season.'

EDDIE HILLERY, Rochester: The Falcon senior found the defensive side of the football as enjoyable as the offensive side. Handling the brunt of the offensive carries the past two seasons, Hillery continued those heroics, but added solid play on the defensive side as well. The 6-2, 215pound co-captain finished with 30 solo tackles and eight sacks at linebacker. His 2,500 rushing yards is No. 1 all-time at Rochester.

"Eddie has been an unselfish, silent leader," Rochester coach Mark Merlo said. "He did anything the team needed to be successful."

GARRET WESTON, Brother Rice: The Warriors' senior linebacker used his 6-1, 205-pound frame to collect 107 solo tackles and two interceptions, en route to gaining team MVP honors on

"He's a smart player who played disciplined football and liked to hit," Fracassa said of his two-year varsity performer. "He made a lot of crucial tackles

and really led our defense

RYAN CARRUTHERS, Waterford Mott: Another multi-talented individual competing on both sides of the line of scrimmage, the 5-9, 170pound senior defensive back collected 13 solo tackles, was in on 40 assisted tackles and had five interceptions. His offensive prowess resulted in a pair of punt returns for touchdowns, one 90-yard kickoff score and eight rushing TDs.

Ryan was a big worker in the weight room," Mott coach Ken Schmidt said. "He was always pretty quick and got a lot stronger this season." JERMAINE GONZALES, St. Mary's: Offensively and defensively, the Eaglets senior did it all in leading his teammates to the Division IV state crown. As a defensive back, the 6-3, 195-pound Gonzales had eight interceptions. On offense, Gonzales threw for 2,400 yards and 29 touchdowns, while not hurling a single interception.

"He's quiet, mild-mannered and a great leader," St. Mary's coach George Porritt said. "Being a quarterback really helped him be a defensive back.

ou really wanted to play for him."

LORENZO PARKER, WL Western: Quite possibly the premier cornerback in the state, Parker, a 5-11, 170-pound senior, totaled 70 tackles (38 solo, 32 assists), had five interceptions, blocked four kicks and returned one kickoff for a touchdown.

"Lorenzo plays with a lot of confidence and could really make plays in the open field," Zdebski said.
"He has a great sense for the game."
RON RAMIREZ, Groves: A three-year starter for the Falcons, the 5-10, 195-pound Ramirez followed up his junior season of seven interceptions with nine in '99. Carrying the football, Ramirez found the end zone 23 times and totaled 802 yards

"He never came off the field," McDougall said.
"He's a great contributor and a great leader. We'll

ROB FERNS, Athens: If his ball-carrying efforts fell short, Ferns turned to his leg to get the Red Hawks out of trouble. A 6-3, 210-pound senior, Ferns averaged 39 yards per punt attempt with a top effort of 71 yards. On offense, Ferns rushed for 323 yards and three scores, while on defense, he collected 80 tackles as a linebacker.

"Rob had a great ability to play everywhere on the field," Athens coach John Walker said. "As our team grew, he grew right along with it."

Thanks to SUVs, Mercedes and Lexus take lead in luxury sales

BY JUSTIN HYDE AP AUTO WRITER

DETROIT (AP) - For the first time in the history of the American auto industry, a year will end with a foreign automaker claiming the title of best-selling luxury brand.

Mercedes-Benz and Lexus are on track to finish 1999 by outselling last year's winner, Lin-coln, and the title holder for the previous 48 years, Cadillac. thanks largely to demand for what was once a uniquely American product - the sport utility

And the success of those models, along with a growing audience of aging Baby Boomers hitting their career peaks, has other automakers aiming at the luxury market,

I don't think there's an irrevocable shift away from domestic manufacturers, but the market is moving away from the prod-ucts domestic manufacturers have traditionally built," said analyst Greg Salchow with Raymond James & Associates.

Mercedes, a division of Daim-lerChrysler AG, had sold 170,319 vehicles through November, 1,294 more than Lexus, an arm of Toyota Motor Co. Cadillac and Lincoln trailed a few thousand vehicles behind.

Mercedes' sales are up 10 percent for the year, with its CLK coupes and convertibles and S-Class sedans picking up the most customers. Ken Enders, the vice president of marketing for Mercedes-Benz USA, said the luxury title would be a nice bonus, but wasn't the company's goal.

"We're really, really very focused on maintaining our business, and we're not willing to jeopardize that part of our strategy to come to some fictitious number," he said.

Cadillac, a division of General Motors Corp., conceded last year that it would probably not gain the title back until after 2001. Cadillac General Manager John Smith said this year's sales were depressed by a number of factors; a switch to longer leases two years ago that cut into renewals, and the slow launch of a redesigned DeVille, its top

"This is a little more difficult year for us than most," he said, suggesting that the brand's strength has been ebbing slowly for the better part of 20 years. We're not going to win it back

The title could have belonged integrity while we grow the to Lexus, but Toyota is straining to meet demand, especially for its RX 300, a $33,000 SUV. Lexus sales are up 21 percent this year, and the company outsold all luxury brands for the first 10 months of 1999.

The RX 300 has proved wildly popular with luxury buyers who want the riding height, interior room and all-wheel-drive of a truck but prefer the smoother ride and seating comfort of a Lexus had imported 65,664 through November, an 80 percent increase over last year, and more than the Mercedes M-Class SUVs built in Alabama. While automakers usually aim to have a 60-day inventory of vehicles, the inventory of RX 300s in the United States had dropped to 3 days at the end of November.

way people are designing SUVs for the luxury market," said Susan Jacobs, an industry analyst who specializes in luxury sales, "Mercedes-Benz made a big breakthrough with their Mclass, but it was still closer to the truck camp than the car camp in concept. For that reason, it wasn't as big a success as the RX 300."

Customers seem to agree.

Joel Irwin of Houston considered about 20 different SUVs before narrowing his choices to the RX 300 and the Isuzu Trooper earlier this year. But he was turned off by the Trooper's spare tire mounted on the rear hatch. and figured the RX 300 had just enough off-road capability to satisfy his needs.

"When I thought about the

"They've really redefined the fact that I'm going to spend a lot of time commuting, the luxury aspect of the RX 300 was more appealing," Irwin said.

Chuck Littig of Milwaukee said he had held off shopping for an SUV until Mercedes came out with its M-Class.

"It seemed to be what I was looking for - a luxury car interior in an SUV with a car-like ride," he said. "But I was disappointed in the appearance, and the interior wasn't what I expected." He bought an RX 300 about two months ago.

Many automakers – including Cadillac, Honda, Volkswagen and Porsche – are all planning their own car-like SUVs in the next few years. Its not just SUVs; Jacobs estimates that of the 113 all-new models coming out in the next four years, 53 will be luxury cars.

When it comes to kids, seat belts won't do

BY KEN VAN STEENKISTE

STAFF WRITER

Consider this scenario: You're taking your two toddlers out for a kids for a quick chomp and a romp at the local fast-food play land. You put them in the back seat of your car, buckle them up, and off you go.

Sounds pretty routine, Right?

Well, perhaps it shouldn't. What you don't know about buckling your children up can hurt them. Ill-fitting safety restrains are a major factor contributing to injuries and deaths when children are involved in car crashes.

Current laws in Michigan are slowly beginning to reflect this fact that has been apparent to safety and medical professionals for years — putting a small body into seat belts designed for adults can be deadly. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 479 children ages 5 through 9 years old were killed in car crashes in 1997. That number shrunk to 196 in 1998, in part due to increased awareness of the do's and don't of seat belt use. But officials know even more lives could be

"A substantial portion of those children could have been saved through better use of safety restraints, explained Tim Hurd, a NHTSA spokesperson.

According to Constance Kangas, a registered nurse at William Beaumont hospital, many parents simply don't know that their children may be in danger.

Current Michigan law states that children under the age of 4 years old must be restrained in a child safety seat. Many children older than four are still too small for seat belts, but because the law makes no further distinction parents assume seat belts are safe, Kangas said.

Kangas, a registered nurse, has spent 12 years working in William Beaumont Hospital's pediatric emergency room in Royal Oak. She's also a NHTSA-certified child restraint safety inspector and has seen first hand the injuries that buckling a small child into a seat belt can cause.

"Belts are designed for adults. The lap belts are made to ride across the strong, solid parts of the body like the hips and thighs," Kangas explained. However, many children are simply too small for adult-sized restraints. The belts end up riding across the children's lower abdomen. "That's when kids get into trouble," Kangas said. If a child is thrown forward in a crash the belt can cut into her belly, causing injuries to any one of many vital organs. Emergency room personnel are all too familiar with these wholly preventable injuries. "Seat belts can cause ruptured spleens and bladders, intestinal injuries and even liver injuries depending on how high they're riding," Kangas said. Another common symptom of ill-fitting seat belts is phenomenon Kangas describes as "submarining." That's when a child slips below the belt and flies right out of the seat," she explained. Revised Michigan seat belt regulations which take effect April 1, 2000 attempt to address these alarming possibilities. Under the new law, children under 40 pounds must be restrained with some type of safety device such as a booster — which adjusts the child's height to fit the regular seat belt — or a safe-

In the meantime, Kangas and others NHTSA safe-ty inspectors are trying "to put the word out" to par-ents that they need to invest in restraint devices. even for larger kids between 40 and 80 pounds. Kangas gives regular clinics on how to use booster seats through Beaumont hospital and said she has been "literally flooded" with request from parents to demonstrate the proper way to utilize the restraints

Parents interested in having their restraints reviewed can call William Beaumont Hospital's Public Relations department at (248) 551-07740 to contact Kangas or another NHTSA-certified inspector.

For more information on the types of safety restraints available and which may be appropriate for your child, call NHTSA at (202) 366-9835, Information is also available online at www.nsc.org or www.nhtsa.dot.gov/ people/injury/childps/index.html.

Four-year carpentry program seeks motivated apprentices

Jobs & Careers

he Detroit Carpentry Apprenticeship Program is looking for a few good men and women who enjoy working with their hands and are willing to invest four years in a comprehensive training

The program is certified through the federal government's Bureau of Apprentice and Training and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of

The work is hard, but the rewards are great: "You have to want it. I can't phrase it any other way. But there's no reason why at the end of four years when you graduate, you can't make between $40,000 and $60,000 a year and upwards of $80,000," said Ron Conrad, director of Detroit Carpenters Apprenticeship School in Ferndale,

According to Conrad, the 58-year-old school has graduated over 6,000 apprentices. It currently enrolls 1,100 students, of whom 26 percent are minorities, including women. Classes start on a quarterly basis, but apprentices are accepted into the program at any time.

The program

Tuition, including books, costs about $140 a quarter. The school is a 501C3 not-for-profit organization. "We only charge what we have to keep the lights on," said Conrad.

The program draws apprentices from all over southeastern Michigan, from the Ohio border to Port Huron and Flint. "We are the only union carpenter school in the area," said Conrad.

The program is conducted under the auspices of the Michigan Regional Council of Carpenters and Millwrights and involves 624 classroom hours and 5,600 hours of mandatory on-the-job training.

Course study includes mathematics for carpentry, builders level and transit, footing and foundations, framing and trim metal studs and drywall, arc welding, and scaffold and safety training.

Apprentice carpenters attend school one day every two weeks. The other nine working days are spent in the field. The school day does not represent lost wages, said Conrad. "The day they come to school, the contractor pays them their full wage with all benefits.

According to the Detroit Carpentry Joint Apprenticeship Committee, during training the apprentice is paid an ascending scale of wages, starting from 44 percent of the journeymen scale to 85 percent for the final period of apprenticeship.

In addition to wages, appren-tices receive the vacation; holiday, pension and insurance benefits included in a carpenter's gross day's pay for attending classes on a regular attendance day.

Graduate carpenters are prepared for several specialties: Commercial and residential, pile drivers, resilient floor layers, millmen, lathers, scaffold erection and dismantling, door-hardware installation, and solid-surface installation (including Corian installation).

Qualifications and benefits

Applicants must be at least 17 years old, have their high school diploma or GED certificate, and present their birth certificate and driver's license. They also must be employed by a union contractor and have a letter of sponsorship from that contractor.

Selection is made on the basis of the letter of sponsorship and qualifications, without regard to race, creed, national origin, sex or occupationally irrelevant physical requirements.

Currently, the school's youngest apprentice is 17 and the oldest is 54. "So you see, it's never too late," said Conrad.

The program wants applicants who know what they're getting into "We don't give them a lot of eyewash. We tell them how it's going to be hot in the summer and cold in winter, but you can take a lot of pride in standing back and seeing what you've built."

The drop-out rate is 20-40 percent in the first year, said Conrad. "But if they make it through the first year, they stay.
After that, we have a 1 to 2 percent rate."
While the Detroit Carpenters Apprenticeship School teaches job-hunting skills and helps its graduates obtain jobs, it's not an employment agency. "You have to get out and hustle and break into a career or you'll be sitting home with mom and dad," said Conrad.

The program is the beginning of a lifelong relationship, he emphasized. "We want them for the duration of the career, all the way to their retirement." Graduates are encouraged to come back to the school for journeymen upgrading.

Carpentry is no longer just about wood. Carpenters now build metal-stud homes, install solid surface materials, lay flooring over computer wires, and use plastics in trim instead of wood.

And, fortunately, employment is no longer seasonal; it's 12 months of the year. "There's always a demand for carpenters as long as people live under a roof," said Conrad.

The Detroit Carpenters Apprenticeship School is located at 1401 Farrow on five acres between Woodward and John R, two blocks south of Nine Mile in Ferndale. Classes run from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday. For more information, call (248) 541-2740.

How companies can impress good job seekers

Q. Along with advice to job seekers on how best to present them-selves, how about a column for employers addressing the same subject? - M.L.

A. Some employers haven't adjusted to the fact that this is a candidate's market and still expect job seekers to do all the selling. JOB In fact, many of the best potential employees have plenty of options. Questions like: Why should I consider hiring you? smack of an outdated arrogance left over from an era of high unemployment. Today, it is often the employer who stands to lose the most when an interview turns sour. What impresses job seekers about organizations? What can a company do in the hiring process to make sure: that a good candidate will stay inter ested in an opportunity?

First, develop a clear recruiting message. Basic to the idea of selling a product or idea (working for us) is the feature/benefit presentation.
What is it about the way the company operates that could work to the advantage of an employee? How do procedures, processes, policies - as illustrated with real life examples make employees happy? It has to be more than just a good salary. The company down the street offers a good salary, too. Describe positives such as promotion possibilities, opportunities to expand into new disciplines or technologies, a commit-ment to performance reviews and subsequent adjustments to compensation for merit, job security (as evidenced by low turnover or very few lay-offs).

Touch on the unique and positive aspects of your culture such as flexibility in scheduling, professional and friendly communications, a pleasant or up atmosphere, easy access to a responsive boss. Even small companies that can't afford huge salaries can come up with a few good reasons to come on board.

Who is the first person from the comany that a potential new hire meets? Îf it's a senior level applicant, make sure the chief interviewer isn't the nine teen-year-old Assistant Personnel Clerk.

Candidates are very conscious of the level of the employee doing the screen-ing. From this, they draw conclusions about how they are being regarded. If it's an important job or when the candidate is a gem, try to get the big boss involved, even if it's just for a few min-

The facilitator or hiring coordinator needs to have a positive and professional demeanor. This might seem obvious, but many companies still give major recruiting responsibilities to employees who are humorless or completely lacking in charm. Some are even rude or arrogant. When I applied for one job several years ago, the interviewer spent thirty minutes on the phone with a mechanic at his marina while I squirmed uncomfortably at his desk. Select an interviewer who can occasionally cobble together a proper English sentence, show a little enthusiasm and maybe even make a stranger feel com-

Make sure everyone involved in the recruiting process is singing the same tune. Every recruiter can recall an applicant who was told by one interviewer that the company promotes from within, while the next interviewer said that no one had been promoted since

Contradictions make applicants skeptical and frequently kill deals. While everyone doesn't have to say exactly the same thing, try to get general agreement on the major points in the market ing message.

Part of the presentation should include a few statements about the organization's weak points. I usually encourage applicants to exercise extreme caution in broaching negative. subjects in their presentations.

But companies will always impress candidates with a healthy degree of can dor. Here's what's good about us and here are a couple things that might not be to everyone's liking. This is where we are strong and these are the issues we need to work on. Recruits love this. It tells them that they are respected and that no one is trying to hide any thing. It has the practical effect of mini-mizing surprises and helping poor matches screen themselves out.

Take the pressure off. Job seekers hate being forced into a decision with out all the facts or with a limited feel for the culture. Explain that, just as the company is thorough in selecting candidates, you expect them to be thorough in considering the opportunity. As a matter of policy, give them the option of returning for another visit even after they have received an offer. Be clear that your organization would prefer that a person make an informed – no go – decision rather than being under-informed and disappointed later.

Q. What is the single most important point you would make to someone like me who is struggling in her job search?

A. What if I asked my doctor for a single bit of advice to remedy any health problems I might have? He'd refuse and say that he needed to know the specific nature of my condition. In fact, he'd send me out for a bunch of expensive tests at various laboratories owned and operated by his relatives. Thousands of dollars later, when all the data is in, he'd probably tell me to eat more fiber or get some exercise. OK, then. We'll forego the tests and I'll give you my silver bullet formula: Concentrate on ini-tiating activities. Focus on meeting new contacts, sending out new resumes, approaching new industries and making calls to strangers. De-emphasize main-tenance or follow-up activities such as fine-tuning your resume, writing thank you notes, attending an outplacement seminar or buying new shoes so you'll look sharp. These are the easy things and they will get done in good time. Evaluate actions for their power to advance your cause — right now.

It'll get cold⁄| outside soon

Properly winterizing your home is one of the most important things you can do to reduce the chance of weather-related problems later, and checking your furnace should be one of the first items on the list.

A professional should check for signs of improper combustion. In a gas furnace, signs can include soot around the bottom of the furnace and a pilot light with a yellow flame that tends to flicker. A properly burning furnace will have a steady blue flame.

You may want to consider replacing an older furnace. New models probably are more efficient. You could save hundreds of dollars a year off your heating bill by switching to a highefficiency furnace.

If you want to buy a new furnace,we'll be glad to give you a quick referral to a Consumers Energy authorized contractor near you.

Other areas of your home need to be winterized include your attic, doors, and windows, Adequate insulation saves energy. Adding six inches of insulation to an uninsulated attic can save up to 30 percent. Caulk or weatherstrip your doors and windows. During the daytime when the sun is out, keep south-facing window treatments open to take advantage of the heat from the sun.

Here are some other tips to try: ■ Turn your thermostat down one Set humidity between 30 and 40 percent. Proper humidity allows you to be comfortable at lower temperatures, and it also helps prevent your woodwork and wood furniture from drying and cracking.

Clean or replace your furnace filter once a month, especially during the heating season.

If you have any questions about winterizing your home, or you need a referral to a heating contractor in your area, call Consumers Energy at (800) 500-6565 (option 3).

Ted Ykimoff is in the customer solutions department of Consumers Ener-

Birmingham sees another condo conversion

All kinds of apartment-to-condominium conversions have occurred in Birmingham in recent years.

Michigan Condominium Corp., which has been through the drill here before, acquired the former Patterson Square Apartments and substantially renovated the lobby, hallways and individual

The three-story structure, featuring 10 residences at the corner of Oak and Old Woodward, has been renamed 450 Oak Condominium after its address.

Half a dozeñ units are still available. We saw possibilities what we could do with the location and the way the building was maintained over the years," said P. Craig Cubba, vice president for Michigan Condominium.

We did mostly cosmetic changes like we normally do. We redid the lobby, marble floor, fireplace, new furniture, artwork. In the hallways, new carpeting, wall coverings, paint, bright fix-tures. All new landscaping," he added. The units will be repainted and car-

New kitchen appliances - oven, cooktop, refrigerator, microwave and dishwasher - will be installed, as well as cabinets, ceramic tile and Corian countertops in the kitchen.

New vanities and cabinets will be placed in the baths.

The all-brick building was constructed in the late 1950s, Cubba said.

"The previous owner replaced all the windows, put in some new kitchens and replaced some of the water heaters, furnaces and air-conditioning units, all in the last five years," he said.

Owners will find other aspects of 450 Oak Condominium attractive.

You can drive right into the building into the garage and take the elevator right to your floor," Cubba said. There's only three units on each floor.

The building is well secured," said Gloria Phillips, sales representative. The square footage for people coming in from larger homes is spacious. Once they park their cars, they don't have to go outdoors.

"I like the idea it's removed and pretty quiet from the (down)town, itself, but within walking distance," Phillips added. "You're close to everything."

"We've had a cross section of cus-tomers," Cubba said. "Parking was the one thing that attracted many.

Entering, you step into an exceptionally bright living area where living room, dining room and kitchen flow together in one large, comfortable

Generously placed Craftsman-style windows line two walls and fill a wide window bay that expands the dining area. Still more natural light washes down through two skylights, widely

When days are dreary and nights are long, the central fireplace offers solace, warmth and cheer, Some families enjoy savoring the scent and ritual of burning wood, while others prefer the ease and cleanliness of gas-fed flames. The choice is yours.

Storage and counter space are ample in a kitchen where the cooks and clean-up crew need never feel isolated. Work-ing at the angled island, you can keep tabs on everything.

The large walk-in pantry is mere steps away, just outside a large utility room with counters, cabinets and a deep sink. Another walk-in closet at the rear offers additional storage.

The master suite has a wide bank of windows facing the rear yard. One pocket door sections off the bathroom from the sleeping area. Inside, another

Energy supplies adequate as cold season draws near

The outlook for winter fuel prices hinges on world oil prices, and there is considerable uncertainty in world oil markets, according to estimates from the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Overall, energy supplies are in good shape going into winter.

In summary:

Increases in world crude oil prices have caused a sharp increase in gasoline

Michigan gasoline prices have risen considerably since the low point at the beginning of March 1999.

Self-serve unleaded regular gasoline sold in the Detroit area in early October at an average of $1.262, which is 23.6 cents higher than the average price of $1.026 a year ago. Prices remain in the high $1.20s to low $1.30s now.

There will be plenty of gasoline before and after New Year's, and so there is no reason for motorists to "top off" their gas tanks at the end of the year. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) agreed to reduce production earlier this year, and crude oil prices rose sharply.

For the next few months, petroleum markets are likely to volatile. remain Assuming prices hold near current levels, heating oil and propane users will see nuch higher heating bills this winter. This is due to the 25-cent-per-gallon increase in world crude oil prices and the expected return to more normal winter temperatures from the warm temperatures during the last quarter of 1998. Michigan electricity les are expected to grow 3.4 percent for the 1999 calendar year, compared to the 3.0 percent increase seen in 1998.

No supply shortages or transmission constraints are expected to impact the ability of Michigan utilities to meet winter peak electric demand. which is normally about 30 percent lower than the summer peak demand.

For the coming months, new generating units and fewer plant outages in the Midwest place Michigan in a better posi-tion than last year.

Inventory levels should be sufficient to meet neak winter heating demands.

Prices for natural gas in the spot market rose dramatically beginning in late July However, fuel prices have been frozen for gas customers of Michigan's three largest gas utilities (MichCon, Consumers Energy, and Southeastern) and won't be affected.

Trees need safe lights, water

Michigan Department of Consumer & Industry Services Director Kathy Wilbur urged families to enjoy a safer holiday by following these fire safety tips compiled by the CIS Office of Fire

The Crossings

Safety relating to Christmas trees.

1. When purchasing a live tree, check for freshness. A fresh tree is green, needles are hard to pull from branches and the needles do not break when bent

The trunk is sticky with resin, and the tree should not lose many needles when bounced on the ground.

Choose a sturdy tree stand designed not to tip over and be sure to keep the stand filled with water.
3. Carefully plan where your tree will be positioned. Make sure the tree is at least three feet away from any source of heat, and place the tree out of the way of traffic. Don't block doorways.

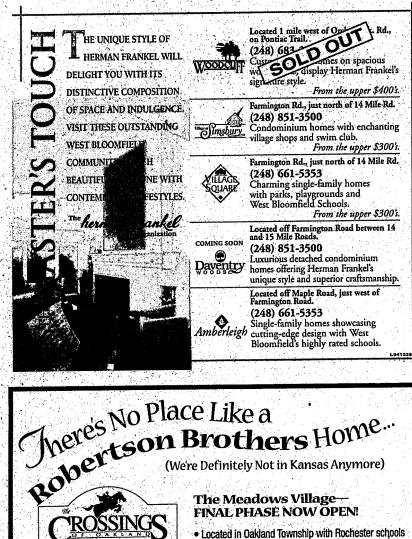

Use only lights that have been tested for safety by a recognized testing laboratory. ollow the manufacturer's instructions on how to use tree lights.

Check each set of lights, new or old, for broken or cracked sockets, frayed or bare wires, or loose connections, and discard damaged sets. Use no more than three standard-size sets of lights per single extension cord.

5. When purchasing an artificial tree, look for the label "fire resistant," and never use electric lights on a metallic

6. Never use lighted candles to decorate a tree

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"THE INVISIBLE SELLER"

If you want to maximize the chances to sell your home, you must become the invisible seller. Over the past twenty years, I have witnessed many showings that have been sabotaged by an over anxious seller. When you have your home listed with a Realtor, you should allow the agent to conduct the tour while you remain available for any questions that my be directed your way. Sellers often feel that their home will not get a thorough review unless the buyers are personally escorted by the seller. As understandable as this is, it should be avoided for the following

TOO MUCH INTIMIDATION

Most buyers don't feel comfortable with a tour of the house that is personally conducted by the owner. Because the seller obviously takes pride in the house, the buyer is hesitant to criticize or communicate openly. Buyers like to stroll around the house at their own pace rather than being dragged along by an aggressive seller. Because of the pressurized uncomfortable atmosphere, the average buyer will want to escape as soon as possible, thus resulting in a failed showing.

ALL BUYERS ARE DIFFERENT

Although the sellers know all the features of their homes, they don't know the approach that is best with each buyer. The Realtor, who has been working with the buyers for a while, better understands the personalities of the buyers. Some buyers want to hear all the reasons why the should consider a certain home while others prefer to make their own analysis. This fact is often confusing to a seller who watches buyers walk through their home without hearing the Realtor® give a lot of descriptive information. As frustrating as this may be for the seller, the Realtor knows how to best relate to the buyers.

There is also another danger. The personality of the buyers and sellers may conflict with each other. Many sales have been lost over the years because of the emotions of both parties. A Realtor can serve as a buffer who can keep the sale moving in the right direction

ADVICE: Let the Realtor conduct the showing. Become the invisible seller.
