AROUNDTHE MILL POND*VIP pizza checker

Some patrons of the Little Caesars on M-15 in Independence Township had their pizzas checked by a very important pizza checker one recent Friday night.

Little Caesars owner Mike Ilitch stopped by the local franchise May 26 to look over renovations of the dining area and while he was there, he spot checked some pizza orders to make sure they were correct.

A fond farewell

Many community members enjoyed food, music and a good visit last week in sending Independence Township Parks and Recreation director Ann Conklin off to her new job in Canton.

Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce executive director Penny Shanks was encouraging everyone to fill out a card for Conklin. On one side it said "Wishing you well" and on the other it said "Reasons you shouldn't go."

The joint's jumping

One of the busiest places around seems to be the lower level of Independence Township Hall. On one recent day, a line had formed because so many people were signing up for all the programs offered by the Parks and Recreation Department.

Here's a tip. While you're waiting, pick up the department's Summer Magazine 2000. It has all the summer and some fall programs listed as well as all kinds of township information.

Creative commuting

Traveling around Metro Detroit is getting trickier by the day. The Clarkston Eccentric is looking for people who take a creative approach to getting to work to avoid the road construction. If you bike, boat, walk or fly to work or have another alternative mode of transportation, call editor Karen Smith at 625-1900 or e-mail her at ksmith@oe.homecomm.net

Group urges voters to OK EMS tax

■ A newly formed committee is pushing for yes votes Aug. 8 on two tax proposals that would improve emergency medical service in Independence Township. Residents soon will see signs, fliers and other information being circulated.

Vote yes, twice.
It's simple, direct and it's the slogan for Independence Fire Department's campaign to pass a millage for improved emergency medical service.

Shortly, the Committee for Improved Emergency Services will be officially logged with Oakland County and can start spending money. Committee members, led by Assistant Fire Chief Steve Ronk and EMS Coordinator Bob Cesario, are busy organizing efforts to get two separate measures passed on the Aug. 8 primary ballot.

The first is a renewal of the existing 2.4-mill tax for fire department operations. The second is up to an additional 1-mill tax to upgrade emergency medical services to residents. The money would be used mainly to hire 12 more people who are trained as paramedics and firefighters. Also part of the package would be to purchase necessary equipment, especially two ambulances.

Now the township relies on a private ambulance company to transport patients to the hospital. The problem is, it often takes 15 minutes or more for the ambulance to arrive on the scene because it is not always close by. The other problem is Independence firefighters are not paramedics and cannot do many life-saving procedures.

They are Emergency Medical Technicians, which means they can give oxygen.

Grads celebrate big day

Graduations are always memorable. But this year's graduating seniors from Clarkston High School are members of the only class for another 99 years who can say they were part of the Class of '00.

And as befitting such a special group of seniors, the weather was perfect for the outdoor ceremony at Pine Knob Music Theatre Wednesday. The 457 graduates walked down the aisle to the traditional processional song, Pomp and Circumstances, and listened to their class motto and song.

Congratulations and best of luck for the future to the Class of 2000.

Navy Blue Angels

Beach grew up in Independence Township, but he graduated from Walled Lake Schools. His father, also named John Beach, said school and his son did not go together. Frustrated by his teenage son, the senior Beach sent him to live with his mom, Marilyn Beach, and he ended up graduating from Walled Lake school district after originally attending Waterford Kettering.

The elder John Beach said his son spent time after high school finding his way. He worked in retail but had not really found anything to stick with. Then at age 30 he enlisted in the Navy.

"He took to Navy life like a duck takes to water. He's had an outstanding career," Beach said.

He and his wife, Peggy, who still live in Independence Township, are proud of Beach's assignment and go see the shows when they can.

The younger Beach said he loves the structured life in the Navy.

"I was a defiant young cuss," he said of his younger years.

When he finished high school and began working, he realized he couldn't afford college without "mooching" off his dad. After working different jobs, he decided to try the service and its promises of education. He found he loved Navy life. He lives in Pensacola, Fla., with his wife, Tracy, and their cat and dog.

While the first four years of Navy service are spent on sea duty, the next four are normally on shore duty. So after his first leg of service was done, he decided to apply for a position with the Blue Angels. Applicants must have an impeccable service record and go through a two-day interview process.

"It's kind of like rushing a fraternity," Beach said.

Because of the stress level involved, pilots of the F-18 Hornets serve with the Blue Angels pick up an extra jet and bring it to wherever the team is, he said.

Beach's job is to help launch and retrieve the No. 2 jet.

"I'm in front of the crowd every week," Beach said.

He makes sure the parachutes and the ejection system work flawlessly. He also ensures oxygen equipment is working correctly.

In a combat situation, he also would make sure the life raft and other survival equipment are on board and operating.

Everything a pilot would need to survive is packed in a small seat.

"A surprising amount of equipment to sustain life in a downing situation" is packed in there, he said.

Blue Angel pilots flying intricate patterns at high speeds close together are under a lot of pressure mentally and physically.

It's normal for them to be under seven or eight "G's," which stands for G-force. For example, one G feels like twice the person's body weight pressing down on him.

Beach is in his third year as a Blue Angel crew member. He said it has been fun even though the schedule is grueling. Normally people don't serve more than once on the squad because the Navy likes to give everyone a chance at the assignment.

His parents will get to see him one last time in his special assignment in Traverse City July 1-2.

1st grader's tooth tale takes 1st place

BY SALLY GIRARD
STAFF WRITER

sigard@ee.homecomm.net

It's wiggling, it's jiggling and a certain 7-year-old just wants that tooth to come out in the worst way. Stubbornly, it hangs on.

But hey, has anyone ever thought about how the tooth feels?

Brienne Fox did. The Springfield Plains Elementary first grader received an award for her story, "Once Upon A Tooth," that looks upon a rite of passage for the elementary school set from the view of that tenacious tooth.

Brienne placed first in the first-grade category of The Reading Rainbow Young Writers and Illustrators Contest. The Detroit Public Broadcasting show has sponsored the contest for six years. Children in grades kindergarten through third write and illustrate stories to submit.

Brienne's parents are Julie and Jim Fox. Julie Fox said 738 children from the WTVS viewing area entered the contest.

Brienne's story had to be between 50 and 200 words. She had no trouble with filling up a page. Fox said they couldn't even put "The End" on it because Brienne was already up to 199 words, and they didn't know if "The End" would count and didn't want to chance going over.

Fox said WTVS had several judges including teachers and librarians. Not everyone read each story, but each story was read by at least two people initially. Eventually the entries were whittled down, and the best were selected.

■ It's going to be fun. It was exciting because I knew soon I would see my video.

Brienne Fox
—Reading Rainbow contest winner

Brienne was home sick last year and caught the afternoon Reading Rainbow show. She entered as a kindergartner last year and received an honorable mention. Fox said her pictures weren't the greatest, though.

This year she worked for about two months on her story, taking a lot of time on the pictures. No computer art was permitted. Only original work was accepted.

"It was such a good story, we knew (she could win)," Fox said.

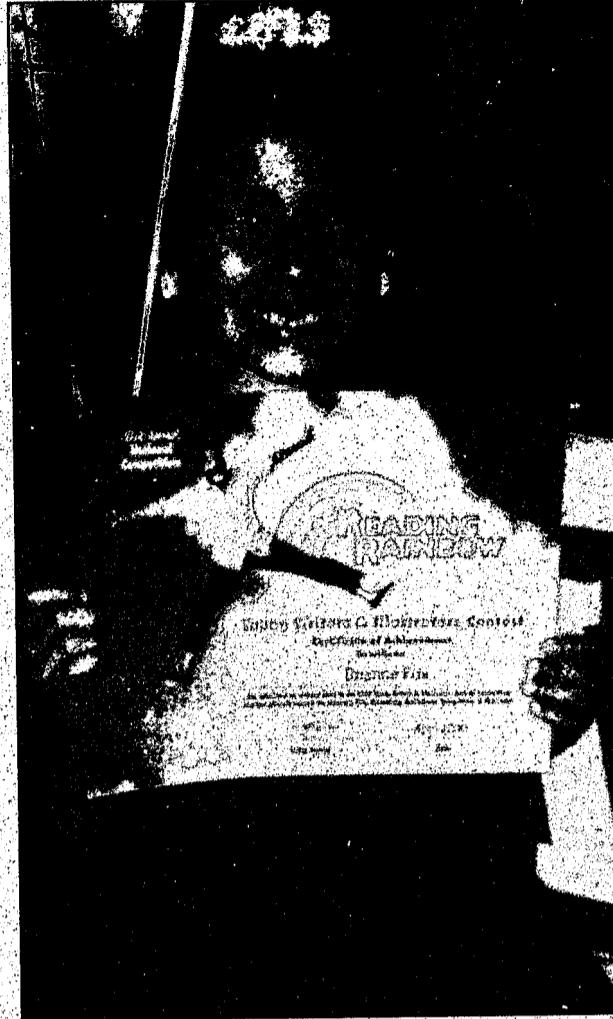

Brienne said she likes to write and draw in school. She got the idea of telling the story from the tooth's point of view because she had a loose tooth and she saw a book at school called "Once Upon A Bicycle."

Her story will be shown in video form with her illustrations on PBS at 9 a.m. June 18 and 1:30 p.m. June 23.

For her efforts, Brienne received $50, an educational CD ROM, a Reading Rainbow book and a flashlight. She also was interviewed about her book by the PBS people and got to go to the studio.

"It's going to be fun," Brienne said about her video debut. "It was exciting because I knew soon I would see my video."

Brienne's story will now be judged at the national level.

Group teaches ropes of boating safety

BY BARB PERT TEMPLETON
STAFF WRITER

Having fun on the water may be a staple of the season but learning "the rules of the road" before leaving the dock is paramount to a good time.

At least that's the way boating safety instructor James DeClaire of Independence Township feels about it. Getting as much information about watercraft safety to new boat owners keeps DeClaire busy.

As a longtime member and current executive officer for a U.S. Power Squadron in Michigan, DeClaire enjoys sharing his knowledge as an instructor of safe boating courses to the public.

DeClaire joined the group in 1981. He said that nationwide there are 25 U.S. Power Squadron districts, which include several in Puerto Rico. District 9, which includes Michigan, has 22 squadrons and will add two more next month.

U.S. Power Squadron was founded in 1914 as a non-profit organization aimed at teaching safe boating to the public. Currently there are some 55,000 members across the nation, DeClaire said.

"We've got districts all over the country and probably the only place where they don't teach a boating safety class is the desert," he said, laughing. "Although there is one place in Arizona that teaches the class to people who are near some water there."

Times have also changed the make-up of the group's membership. Public Relations Officer Julia Hopkins of Lake Orion said in the past it was a "no girls-allowed" outfit.

"A long time ago the squadron was only for men, and you had to be invited to join," she said. She and DeClaire belong to the Warren unit.

Once it became clear that the wives were doing lots of the organizing, paperwork and teaching, the men opened the club to women. Now many attain higher ranks and are just as really interested," he said.

Once the course is finished, DeClaire recommends the boat owners talk to the boating sheriff at the lake where they will be boating because the rules vary from place to place. "There are 65 major lakes in Oakland County and each one has different rules that you have to know," DeClaire said.

He gives each of his students a copy of the list of officials to call.

"I hope that when the people leave our class, they are familiar not only with the preliminary information but with all the rules and rights and wrongs for operating their boats," DeClaire said.

"We also get into some plotting of a course," Hopkins said.

The entire course is taught inside a classroom because insurance laws prevent the squadron from taking their students out on the lake, DeClaire said.

"We are a lot like the coast guard so we try to work real close with them (coast guard), and I always bring them into the classroom to talk with people and answer questions," DeClaire said.

Noting that the class is not required by law, DeClaire said he likes it that way.

"We like people to volunteer to take the class; that way they're

POLICE NEWS

Following are some incidents recently reported to police and fire agencies in Independence and Springfield townships and the city of the Village of Clarkston.

Independence Township

Malicious destruction of property

On June 6, police received a report about a smoke bomb going off inside a mailbox in the 4800 block of Clintonville Road.

No permit.

On June 6, police issued an appearance ticket to two people for selling cleaning supplies door-to-door without a permit from Independence Township.

They were trying to sell in the area of South Hampton and Mayberry roads.

Minor in possession

On June 4, an 18-year-old male received an appearance ticket after he was stopped at the gate of Pine Knob Music Theater, 7777 Pine Knob Road.

The male had a strong odor of intoxicants about him. He registered 0.19 on a preliminary breathalyzer test. The legal limit for people younger than 21 is 0.02.

Springfield Township

No major reports.

Clarkston Police

No major reports.

Independence Fire

Fire calls

Independence Township Fire Department responded to 18 calls June 5-7. These included 18 medical calls, three personal injury accidents, two grass fires, one "other" type of call, one complaint, one lock-out, one investigation and one mutual aid.

gen, do CPR, defibrillate a heart to get it beating normally again, apply a splint and put a tube into the trachea to assist breathing. They cannot start an intravenous line or administer drugs.

"In a nutshell, we're trying to get paramedic service to the township," Ronk said.

Fire personnel cannot use township time or resources to run the campaign so the committee was formed. Ronk said he, Cesario and the firefighters who have offered to help out are doing the work at home or on their lunch hours.

"We can't make a copy here because it's taxpayers' money," Ronk said.

The committee is asking for donations, and Cesario said some community members are already working on fund-raising.

Money is needed for some of the public education that will take place soon. The big push to let people know about the election and what the department is proposing will take place July 4. During the parade, which is sponsored by the Fire Department, magnets will be given out as well as fliers. The department will have demonstrations set up at the corner of Main and Washington, and people can get more information about the proposal at that time, too.

A mailing also is planned. Ronk said the idea is to keep the millage issue in peoples' minds as the election draws closer. Lawn signs will begin to pop up soon.

Ronk said fire department personnel will speak to any community group that wants to hear about the proposal. It also will seek support from community groups.

The longtime fireman was cleaning out his office recently to make way for new Fire Chief Dennis Storrs, a 23-year department veteran who took over the top job June 1.

Taking a moment to look back and examine his career, Yarber reacted with slight shock when he deduced that half of his life has been spent being a Waterford firefighter.

"I never gave it a thought," he said of joining the field during his younger days. However, a friend of his at the department suggested he try out.

"I was working for the gas company then and that was a pretty good job, with security," he recalled. "I said, 'What the heck.'"

He applied but didn't get called in until a couple of years later when the department needed a full-time replacement.

Yarber said he's glad he changed careers. "You get a chance to make a difference — to save people's lives," he said. "You don't know how many people's lives you may have saved with fire prevention programs, which I was heavily involved in," he said.

The retired chief said he plans to stay in the area in his retirement. He enjoys mountain biking, staying active in the Clarkston Athletic Boosters and plans to do fire inspections for the state on the side.

Yarber pointed out that much has changed in the field of fire fighting since he started in the field.

"When I came in, it was basically a rain coat and hip boots and a helmet," he said of protective gear.

"You knew you had to get out (of a room on fire) when the bottom of your ears started burning."

Today, firefighters have much more to protect them in their jobs, including fire-retardant clothing and light-weight oxygen tanks with face masks.

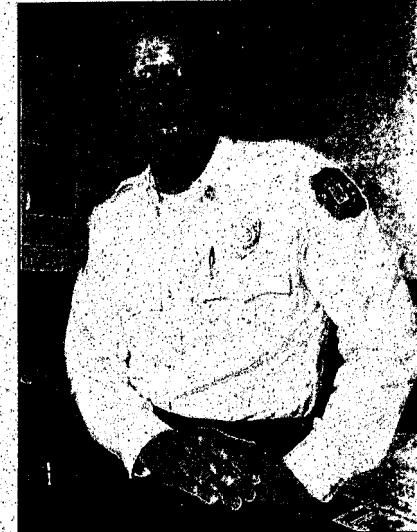

Yarber was also among the first firefighters to attend a police academy to become an officer. He did it so he could attain warrants and make arson arrests.

"We don't do that now," he pointed out. The department now gathers arson inspection information and lets the police department handle the arrests and warrants.

The department has grown with the community, which Yarber said started out rural, but now more resembles the population of a city.

There were only three fire stations during Yarber's young career, compared to five stations now. When he started, there were 18 full-time firefighters, whereas today the department has 58. Today there are also 35 volunteer firefighters.

"We have a lot of dedicated people here," he said, noting the volunteer firefighters are particularly giving since the training they must go through is more stringent than ever.

"The people here do an excellent job," he said of the department. "Ninety-nine percent of them are heroes."

Storrs said he has learned a lot from Yarber, who was chief for three and one-half years.

"I couldn't think of anyone who deserves to retire more," Storrs said.

Park offering free wood chips

Free wood chips will be distributed throughout summer and early fall at Orion Oaks County Park.

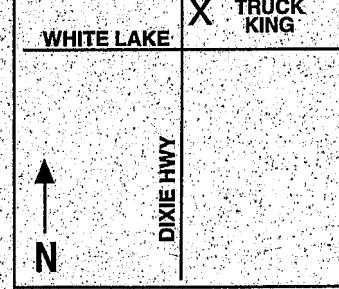

Chips can be picked up 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. the last Saturday of each month through Oct. 28.

Residents must bring shovels, wheelbarrows and buckets to pick up their chips.

Chips come from the Oakland County Parks' annual Christmas tree recycling program. For more information, call 858-0906.

mills for three years: 2000, 2001 and 2002. The 3 mills breaks down to $3 on each $1,000 of taxable property value. This tax would not affect primary residences.

The school district is asking for an increase in the millage so it can continue to levy the full 18 mills allowed by the state against non-homestead and non-qualified agricultural property to provide funds for operational purposes.

Due to the Headlee rollback, the district can currently levy only 16.8375 mills on non-homestead property instead of the 18 mills permissible by law. The difference in dollars over the past two school years between the 18 mills and the 16.8375 mills levied is $400,000.

FREE "LIVING TRUST" SEMINAR "What You Ought to Know About Living Trusts"

(What you don't know could cost your family thousands of dollars!)

If you own a home...or you have assets worth at least $100,000...you owe it to yourself and your family...to get the facts on living trusts. If you think you're protected with a simple Will...think again...A Will guarantees that your estate will go through probate, which means that your family may not be able to take possession of your estate for many months, or even years!

Plus, if your estate is over $75,000, your family may owe estate taxes which could amount to 37-55%.

This means that your family may have to sell some assets just to pay the estate taxes!

A living trust avoids all this by avoiding probate and minimizing estate taxes. Plus, a living trust will protect your estate if you become incapacitated during your lifetime by avoiding a conservatorship. This means that your estate will be managed as you see fit, not as a court-appointed guardian sees fit.

To find out more about the benefits of living trusts, attend one of these free seminars...

Oakland teens mete justice in legal roles

BY PAT MURPHY
pmurphy@oe.homecomm.net

About two dozen teenagers from Clarkston got a taste of the law this week when teen court, the newest innovation from the Oakland County Prosecutor's office, convened before Circuit Judge Joan Young.

For most of the teens — those serving as attorneys or members of the jury — the taste will be pleasant and exciting.

For the teen defendants, however, the experience won't be as much fun. They will have already acknowledged their guilt, but they must face their peers for sentencing.

"We will have three defendants for certain," said Amy S. Allen, coordinator of the teen program that gives young, nonviolent defendants the option of bypassing the regular court system. "We will have a shoplifter, a defendant who went to an illegal party and a teen who smoked marijuana."

Teen court was in session Wednesday in the magistrate's office in Clarkston District Court.

This was the second session of teen court. The first was held May 23 in Troy where 11 students had their day in court.

Actions/consequences

From all indications, teen court was a big success, according to prosecutor David Goryca who initiated the program to give more high schoolers a realistic brush with the law. "We want youngsters to realize that their actions have consequences," explained the prosecutor.

Assistant prosecutor Deborah L. Carley, the program's coordinator, said feedback from students and parents in Troy was overwhelmingly positive.

Lusi Fang, the Troy High School student who served as prosecutor, said she was pleased with her role. "We had to think about the seriousness of the crimes, and appropriate punishment to fit the crime."

pleased with the sentences handed down. "I don't think they were too harsh," he said, "but they (the sentences) made the defendants take notice."

One 16-year-old girl, who admitted shoplifting at a discount store, was ordered to do community service and required to get a job to earn enough money to repay her parents for the fine and court costs.

Her dad, however, thought jurors could have been tougher. "They could have ordered her to pick up trash or something," he said.

Overall, he and his wife were satisfied, however. "She's a good kid, and I think this experience opened her eyes. I'm convinced she'll never do something like this again."

Presiding Judge Edward Sosnick described the Troy session of teen court as a "win, win, win situation. "The kids and the parents learned," he said, "and I certainly learned."

Sosnick said he was impressed with the diligence with which the jurors deliberated while determining the appropriate sentence. "I thought they might go a little easy on their classmates," said the judge. "But in most cases, the sentence was appropriate."

Sosnick could have disregarded any sentence he believed to be excessively light or heavy. "But most of the sentences are about what I would have imposed," he said.

Circuit judge honored for work with children

Judge Arthur Moore, presiding judge of Oakland County Circuit Court Family Division, received one of two Gerald G. Hicks Child Welfare Leadership Awards.

The award is given annually to an individual who exemplifies a special depth of concern for children's well-being, said William F. Long, executive director of the Michigan Federation of Private Child and Family Agencies.

Moore received the award at the Federation's annual luncheon late last month at the Lansing Center, in Lansing. Among the more than 450 guests was Michigan Gov. John Engler.

"I accept this award on behalf of all of the Family Division Judges in the state of Michigan who are so dedicated to our children and families and who strive every day to make this a better world for them," said Moore.

Moore received his undergraduate degree in business administration from the University of Michigan in 1957 and his juris doctor from that same university in 1960.

He was first elected as Probate Judge of Oakland County in November 1966 and has been re-elected for additional terms in 1974, 1980, 1986 and most recently in 1992.

Moore has been a member of the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges for more than two decades. He served as the National Council's President from 1980-91 and was awarded the Council's highest Award for Meritorious Service to the Juvenile Courts of America in 1996.

He has frequently been selected to chair important committees and initiatives. He has served as President of the Michigan Probate Judges Association and was recognized by the Michigan Supreme Court in his previous chairing of the Juvenile Court Rules Committee.

Resale shops offer some dandy deals

Kathryn Zalewski buys two of everything when she shops for her sons.

"I have twin boys," she explains. "When I do go to the malls, I end up spending $20-$30 on drinks and food. So, I try to avoid them."

Instead, she looks for bargains at resale shops. In fact, she spent so much time on her "hobby" and noticed so many women at resale stores, that she opened her own store this week.

Designer Consigner sells clothing, small furniture pieces, candles, frames, jewelry and collectibles. It's located in Oxford Mills Plaza, on M-24, just south of Drahner Road.

"I researched it for five years. I've lived in Indianapolis, California, Mississippi and I noticed that women are the same everywhere."

They like to shop sales and they don't mind if the clothing they buy is quality and used.

"It seems to be a growing trend."

She also sees young couples "moving up" and buying bigger homes they can't afford to furnish.

"This store will have home accent pieces," she notes.

Shoppers will find maternity, women's and children's attire at 60 to 80 percent off the original retail price. Clothing brands include the Gap, Donna Karan, Calvin Klein and Liz, among others.

"I haven't decided if the store will carry men's clothing. Men don't like to shop resale, although women will come in and shop for them. Women shop differently than men. Women may wear a suit once and it's in wonderful condition (for resale)."

Zalewski accepts only clean, quality clothing that is no more than two years old, for consignment sales. Items stay on the sales rack for 60 days and then are donated to charity if the owner fails to retrieve them.

Designer Consigner accepts credit cards and returns within three days of purchase. Clothing tags and purchase receipts must accompany returns.

"It's like a regular store. I'm looking for service here," she says.

Store hours are 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday, except Thursday, when the shop closes at 9 p.m. (248) 628-7532

Max Mara season

The suit is back. And that's good news for Max Mara.

"This is a good season for us. Everything is so Max Mara," said Paul Ava, merchandiser for the Italian designer, which opened its first Michigan store this week at The Somerset Collection in Troy. "It's so suity and that is what we are known for."

This season recalls the fashion of the 80s — with suits, pointy-toe high heels and matching bags — but tones down colors and "screaming styling" with detailing, ruffles, and glamour details for a more refined, elegant look.

Snakeskin and crocodile is back. "We're looking at scarves around the neck. Everything is gold," Ava said, listing fashion trends. "The fabric of the season is rich — cashmere and wool."

"It's a suit season that is back in a very feminine way."

Look for ruffled shirts under clean-cut suits. Silk and chiffon blouses underpin twill and wool suit jackets, which are cropped, boxy and styled with rounded shoulders.

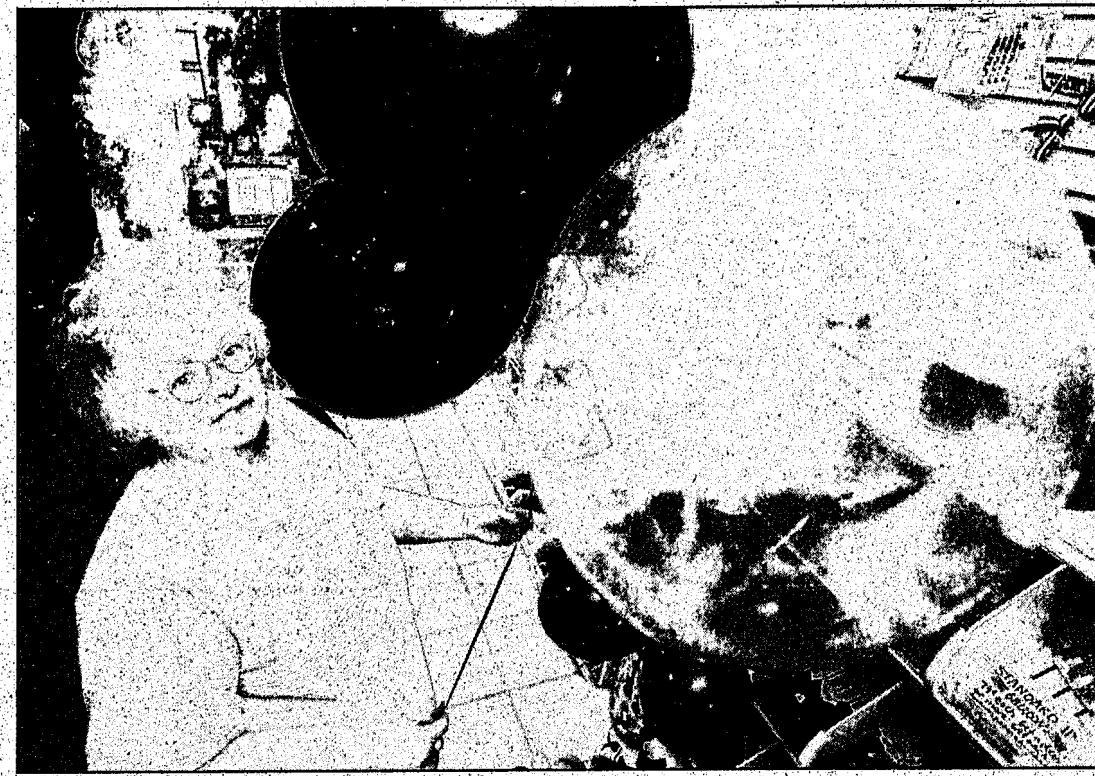

"This is also a season for coats. You'll see a lot in different lengths, but all are luxury coats."

Fur accents collars and cuffs. Skinny belts, in matching fabrics give suit jackets a "lady-like" silhouette.

"Think 80s, but think new 80s," Ava advised.

Max Mara operates about 20 stores in the United States.

Grads like the cash

But merchants say you can still give with a flair

BY SHARON DARGAY
STAFF WRITER

Graduating seniors like green, no matter what their school colors are.

Forget about giving them pens, perfume and other congratulatory tokens. They've got expenses ahead, whether they're off to college or simply setting up their first apartment this fall.

They want money.

Signing a check or stuffing a few bills into a card makes graduation gift-giving easy, but loses the personal touch and fan fare that comes with a wrapped gift.

Local merchants say you can give cash with a flair. Here's how:

All dolled up

They look like graduates. They're dressed like graduates. But unlike most high school seniors, they're made of money.

Eight dollars to be exact.

Creator Betty Konczao says customers could replace the removable $1 scroll on her homemade money dolls with a more generous contribution.

Konczao, owner of Knit Cetera in downtown Oxford, is taking orders for her handiwork, which consists of a currency-covered Styrofoam base, bead-shaped head with eyeglasses and a mortarboard made from a $1 bill.

"There are eight ones and I sell it for $20," Konczao says. "I designed it myself. It's light. One person told me they plan to put it on a cake."

Konczao customizes the figure with the customer's choice of school colors. The doll carries a white rose in one pipe-cleaner hand and a $1 bill, rolled up like a diploma, in the other. She also makes roses from currency.

To order one, call Konczao at her knit shop at (248) 628-5990.

DRAW DAD

Children up to age 15 can draw a picture of their dad and his favorite furniture on special entry forms at Art Van Furniture stores. Stores will post the pictures and each young artist will receive a flashlight for gift-giving on Father's Day. The program continues through June 17.

MONDAY, JUNE 12

WATCH WEEK

It's time to check out the designer collection of watches at Saks Fifth Avenue in Troy. Special representatives will be on hand from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., in the fine jewelry department to talk about Baume & Mercier and Movado timepieces. Other designers include: Ebel and Omega on June 13, Concord and Raymond Weil on June 14, Chanel and Phillip Charriol on June 15, Tag Heuer and Badat & Co., on June 16 and Gucci on June 17.

DONATE AN INSTRUMENT pen it on the autograph pillow you bought from Terry Floeter of TK's Craft Village in downtown Rochester.

Floeter has three designs in stock — for Rochester High and Rochester Adams grads, as well as a generic Class of 2000 pillow.

"We have an artist who designed the autograph pillows. She can do them in any school name or colors. They have a piece of elastic on them where you can slip in the money and the pen."

Small pillows measure about 10 inches square and cost $10. Large ones, about 20 by 10 inches, are $15.

Floeter also stocks those ubiquitous lawn geese. And yes, she has graduation outfits for them, too.

The small goose stands almost a foot tall and wears a $12 cap and gown. Remove the scroll in its hands, slip in a $50 and you've got a goofy first apartment gift.

TK's Craft Village is located on Fourth just west of Main in downtown Rochester.

Sweet treat

Give them a candy bar for graduation.

But slip a bill between the wrappers first.

Sandy Marulis of Michigan Made, Inc., in Plymouth sells just the ticket for a grad with a sweet tooth.

Her $2.25 candy bars are imprinted with Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools' colors and a greeting. She also carries a generic Class of 2000 bar.

"They are Nestle Crunch bars. It's good chocolate," she says.

Her Monopoly games with college themes are popular gifts, too. Buy one for a soon-to-be Wolverine or Spartan and replace the play dough with real cash.

"It might be a little much, but you could convert the $500 bills to $5," Marulis suggests.

Michigan Made Inc., is located at 830 West Ann Arbor Trail in downtown Plymouth.

Floating cash

Charlene Cline prefers to use phony bills in her balloon creations at Uncle Buck's Party Tyme Rental in Waterford. But she can handle the real stuff, too.

"I did one recently with five real $100 bills. It was a sweet 16 party. I tied the money to the neck of the balloons, like bow ties. I can do the same for graduations and use school colors," she says.

She can stuff the cash inside a balloon, too.

"For a birthday party once I used a crystal-clear balloon, 16 inches high, and used a sticky product inside that keeps the helium from getting out. I shook the balloon so that the bill would open. It was really fun. That twenty inside looked like it was suspended in air."

Balloons can last for up to three weeks. Prices vary — starting from as low as $6 for a balloon with cash inside and trimmings on the outside — depending on the amount of decoration and balloon size.

Call at least 24 hours ahead for balloons and balloon bouquets.

Uncle Buck's is located at 6650 Highland Road in Waterford. (248) 666-2351.

Cash you can hug

Seems like those make-a-teddy bear shops are popping up all over. But Bethany Hickman, a Rochester Hills resident, says her M.T. Bear and Company store at Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights is different. Her locally-designed toys sport a heart and a guardian angel in a fuzzy pocket.

She says that's the perfect place to slip in a few bills, too.

"I had a guy put in $1,000 for his daughter who was going overseas to study," Hickman explains.

She can dress the bears in school colors and embroidered sweaters, as well as other special attire.

Call (810) 532-1234 or visit the store at Lakeside Mall.

Money and laundering

Give them cash in the form of quarters. They'll use it to pay for laundering their clothes on campus this fall.

Fill a piggy bank with coins. Or for a classier touch, buy one of Sharon Lakatos's one-of-a-kind South American purses ($35-$38) at Que Bonito, 101 West Third, in downtown Rochester or a beaded coin purse ($20-$30) at Wrap It Up, in Orchard Mall, 6445 Orchard Lake Road in West Bloomfield.

Unresolved labor dispute clouds OCC Board election

By PAT MURPHY
pmurphy@oe.homecomm.net

An unresolved labor dispute could generate turnout for Monday's election to select two members to the Board of Trustees of Oakland Community College.

At the center of the dispute is the absence of a labor agreement — despite years of negotiations — between OCC and Teamsters State, County and Municipal Workers Local 214, which represents about 110 administrators and managers at the five OCC campuses.

OCC has six bargaining units representing more than 750 full-time employees. But only the Teamsters — which was certified in 1996 in the wake of uncertainty following the firing of Chancellor Patsy J. Calkins — do not have a negotiated contract.

Union officials insist college negotiators — put off by the fact high-ranking administrators chose the Teamsters to represent them — refuse to bargain in good faith.

OCC officials contend the teamsters are demanding too much. "They have very good wages and the Cadillac of benefit packages," said one official who declined to be identified. "But they want more."

Normally these differences might be the subject of intense negotiations. But bargainers haven't met in more than a year, and no sessions are scheduled. Both sides are awaiting a ruling by an administrative judge who in December heard arguments on a Teamsters complaint OCC did not bargain in good faith when it unilaterally implemented its "last best offer" as a de facto labor agreement.

Ruling pending
With the judge's ruling pending, attention is focused on Monday's OCC election, when two incumbent trustees are running against four challengers. The incumbents, Carol L. Crew and Pamela M. Davis, are being challenged by Richard J. Akehurst, Athena Dumas-Lawrence, Marjorie Nanian Mugerian and John A. Wangler.

A letter scheduled to be mailed Friday is asking members and retirees of the AFL-CIO to vote for the union's endorsed candidates.

Carol Crew and Pamala Davis each expressed confidence they would be re-elected because objective voters would realize they had worked on behalf of OCC.

Akehurst and Wangler. The letter specifies reasons the Teamsters have endorsed Akehurst and Wangler, according to Local 214 business agent Sheryl L. Langdon, a former OCC student who complained college negotiators repeatedly referred to her as "little girl."

The reasons are sound, Langdon said. "But I can't release the content of the letter before our members are notified." But the union is supporting Akehurst and Wangler, she said.

Local President Joseph Valenti was more blunt: "We are targeting the two incumbents for defeat because (Crew and Davis) are thwarting the bargaining process."

Crew, director of nursing services at the Huron Valley Center in Ypsilanti, said she is aware she is "targeted" by the Teamsters. But she is confident voters will support her re-election on the basis of her six years as a trustee — when she and her colleagues on the board set parameters for OCC's chief negotiator Edward D. Callaghan, vice chancellor of human resources.

She and her colleagues on the board were not involved in negotiations, Crew said, but they are knowledgeable about developments and support the college's position.

More than fair'
"I'm not antunion," said Crew. "But we have been more than fair, and we are negotiating in the best interests of the college."

Davis, who was head of her bargaining unit — American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), when she was a building inspector for the City of Royal Oak — said she believes in the principles of collective bargaining.

But the Teamsters have not been reasonable, Davis insisted.

Crew and Davis each expressed confidence they would be re-elected because objective voters would realize they had worked on behalf of OCC. To support that claim, each noted they have the endorsement of Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson.

The executive Wednesday acknowledged he has indeed endorsed Crew and Davis. "They have been conducive to efficient operations on the board," said Patterson, who added he considers OCC to be an important component of the areas successful business climate.

"I'm not taking sides in the bargaining dispute with the Teamsters," Patterson said. "But I am supporting Crew and Davis because I believe they've done a good job on the board."

Dunaskiss swipes at critics over utility bill delay

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
malott@homecomm.net

Utility watchdogs pointed the finger of blame at one man Thursday, June 8, for delaying legislation that would cut local telephone bills in Michigan 5 percent — Sen. Mat Dunaskiss (R-Lake Orion).

The delay last week, when

Dunaskiss called off several committee hearings, will cost Michigan consumers $8.3 million, $7 million from Ameritech customers alone, according to Dave Waymire, of Marketing Resource Group, Inc. And it will continue to cost consumers that much each additional month passage of the bill is delayed.

"House Bill 5721 will provide reasonable alternatives to Ameritech's unregulated monopoly in Michigan," said Barry S. Cargill, Vice President of Government Relations for the Small Business Association of Michigan. "It is unconscionable that one senator has been able to delay that."

Dunaskiss

This is a fight between major corporations, a clash between giants. You can't leave one side handcuffed and leave the other unregulated, not if you want competition ... That's what McLellan is after, putting regulation on Ameritech while allowing AT&T to come into the local market uncontrolled.

*Mat Dunaskiss

went out for their summer break. He said the senator was using "every trick in the book" to stall the legislation, including delays and "poison pill" amendments.

But McLellan predicted that ultimately lawmakers will approve the bill, because they now understand they were "burned" when Dunaskiss "misled" them twice before in previous attempts to reform telecommunications law, in 1991 and 1995.

Dunaskiss was furious when he heard of the verbal barrage Friday morning.

"That's absolutely untrue," he said. "Those numbers are coming out of the air."

The alleged monthly cost of delay to consumers is unfounded, Dunaskiss explained, because the current telecommunications act doesn't expire until the end of the year. Any new law could not be effective before next April. And the lack of votes from Democrats for this bill means it could not win immediate effect.

Dunaskiss said he called off the committee hearings because Gov. John Engler would not allow members of the PSC to testify. Engler spokesman John Truscott denied that charge.

Dunaskiss had said earlier in the week he intended to slow down the bill.

"The important thing is to get telecommunications reform right, not to get it done by an arbitrarily set deadline," Dunaskiss said.

Furthermore, Dunaskiss says he neither misled nor burned other lawmakers in '91 and '95. Those bills, which he sponsored, were "model legislation" that served as the blueprint for similar bills in 23 other states.

"I just spent the last three and half years working on electric deregulation," Dunaskiss said. "Everybody seems very happy with that bill. They are giving high fives all around and taking credit. They forgot I was the sponsor of that bill." And McLellan had said the same things about him then.

"Richard McLellan is a highly paid lobbyist for AT&T who apparently doesn't want to talk about the issues but wants to engage in character assassination. He knows that if he talks about the issues, he'll lose," Dunaskiss responded.

Indeed, McLellan confirmed Thursday that AT&T is a member of MCTPA.

"This is a fight between major corporations, a clash between giants," Dunaskiss said. "You can't leave one side handcuffed and leave the other unregulated, not if you want competition." That's what McLellan is after, putting regulation on Ameritech while allowing AT&T to come

HomeTown to publish new daily newspaper in Livingston County

Michigan's fastest growing county will have its first daily newspaper — and the nation's first new daily newspaper since 1997 — when the Livingston County Daily Press & Argus hits newsstands Sept. 6.

The new daily, published by HomeTown Newspapers, will merge the Livingston County Press and the Brighton Argus, two of the oldest and most respected weekly newspapers in the state.

The County Press, based in Howell, is 155 years old. Ten miles to the southeast is Brighton, where the Argus is 120 years old. Both papers currently are published twice weekly — on Wednesdays and Sundays. They will be combined into a single newspaper that will be published in the afternoon Monday through Friday. A weekend edition will be delivered Sunday morning.

The Livingston County Daily Press & Argus will maintain both editorial staffs as well as their offices. The company anticipates the creation of several new positions. Phil Jerome will retain his position as executive editor.

The dynamic growth of Livingston County has created the need for a daily newspaper, according to Rich Perlberg, vice president and general manager of HomeTown newspapers.

"This is an exciting announcement for both the company and the people of Livingston County," he said. "This newspaper will play an important role in unifying the county."

With approximately 150,000 residents, Livingston is the largest county in the state without a daily newspaper. Located west of Oakland and north of Washtenaw counties, the county is expected to grow by another 70,000 people in the next 20 years, according to population

Our objective has always been to be the sole unsubstitutable source of information to people in this country. We will continue to provide the essential tools for living the good life in Livingston County. Those are the values that have brought us this far and they will drive us in the future.

Rich Perlberg
vice president and general manager, HomeTown newspapers projections by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

The county currently has the highest median household income ($58,349) in the state. During a formal announcement to employees June 8, company officials promised that the new daily would be guided by traditional HomeTown values.

"Our objective has always been to be the sole unsubstitutable source of information to people in this country," said Perlberg. "We will continue to provide the essential tools for living the good life in Livingston County. Those are the values that have brought us this far and they will drive us in the future."

The County Press was named the best weekly newspaper in the United States last year by the National Newspaper Association. The Argus has been named the best community weekly newspaper in the state by the Michigan Press Association for the past two years.

The new paper is expected to debut with a paid circulation of more than 20,000. This would make its circulation larger than the combined circulation of all other newspapers that circulate in Livingston County. It would also make it one of the 20 largest of the state's 50 newspapers.

Press & Argus readers will continue to find the extensive local coverage they've come to expect in their HomeTown weekly newspapers. In addition, the new daily will carry state, national and world news as well as a complete sports line-up, nationally recognized syndicated columnists, stock reports and all the other features commonly associated with daily newspapers.

HomeTown Newspapers is a subsidiary of the Livonia, Michigan-based HomeTown Communications Network, which publishes 70 weekly and twice-weekly newspapers in Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky. This will be the corporation's first daily newspaper. HomeTown Communications also published phone directories, specialty publications and the Insider Business Journal of Livingston, West Oakland and Washtenaw counties.

Last month, the corporation announced the formation of HomeTownDigital.com, which will develop Internet solutions for local merchants and manage all web activity for HomeTown Communications Network (www.hometownnewspapers.net)

into the local market uncontested, Dunaskiss said.

House Bill 5721, sponsored by Reps. Mary Ann Middaugh (R-Paw Paw) and Marc Shulman (R-West Bloomfield) has already been approved in the House. It contains that 5 percent cut in local telephone rates, but McLellan, Cargill and Waymire all argue it is only a minor aspect of the bill.

The key point is to spur competition among local providers. HB 5721 would do that by restoring the authority of the Michigan Public Service Commission to act if Ameritech or GTE, Michigan's largest local phone service providers, engage in "anti-competitive behavior." The PSC would retain that power until it concludes true market competition has been achieved here in Michigan.

The bill would also give the PSC specific authority to rule on whether the levying of a $3.28 "universal connectivity" charge is justified and adjust as it sees fit. Utility watchdogs say that charge mirrors a fee allowed by federal law, essentially allowing the phone company to double dip.

Bell break-up

The entire issue dates back to the break-up of the Bell system in the 1980s. The federal deregulation of telephones brought about competition among long distance companies, but there has been no real competition for local phone service despite attempts by the state legislature to open the market in '91 and '95. Court decisions also concluded the PSC had little authority left over telephones after the last rewrite of the law.

Rep. Shulman has argued that the lack of competition is due in part to Ameritech's uncompetitive practices.

Dunaskiss agrees that competition has not come about after the previous attempts to open the market, but he agrees with McLellan, Cargill and Waymire all argue it is only a minor aspect of the bill.

The solution, Dunaskiss and Cooper contend, is to let Ameritech get into the long distance market. Invading AT&T's market would force that long distance company to come into Michigan and compete against Ameritech for local service.

Shulman agrees "that has been the effect" in other states. In fact, Dunaskiss predicts that is what will happen when the Federal Communications Commission reviews Ameritech's application to get into long distance.

"As soon as the FCC rules eight months from now, you'll see all this competition flooding into the market here," the senator said.

McLellan disagrees. Federal law blocks a local provider from entering the long distance market unless it has already opened its local market to real competition, he said. And Ameritech and GTE could compete against each other now for local services in each other's areas, but choose not to, McLellan noted.

Bleeding consumers

He also said SBC is using Ameritech to "bleed Michigan consumers," to support its operations in other states and to finance its entry into new markets, such as DSL, Digital Subscriber Lines.

Senate majority leader Dan DeGrow (R-Port Huron), said he had received a commitment from Dunaskiss to report the bill out of committee, allowing for a vote on floor, when the legislature returns for a one-day meeting Thursday, June 20.

Dunaskiss said he would indeed report out that bill if meetings between now and then can produce a version that is fair to both sides.

Peace of Mind.
Peace of Heart.

Do something revolutionary on the Fourth

Declare your Independence July 4. Celebrate with a bang instead of a whimper, bury the burgers, lose the dogs, pitch the iced tea, and do something revolutionary.

Focus your menu on ethnic favorites that pay tribute to the American Melting Pot. Fire up your menu with Mexican and Southwest inspired foods.

Tips for extra flavor

Introduce Asian flavor with soy and teriyaki marinades. Try a spicy rub on a steak, ribs or chicken for a taste of the Southwest.

Seafood should marinate for one hour or less; boneless chicken breast for no more than two hours, otherwise the food gets mushy. Lean pork can marinate up to four hours, and beef can soak for 24 hours or more.

Condiments and sauces

These are one of the best ways to dress up a blah burger, chicken or fish. Try barbecue sauce on salmon, or blueberry sauce on your next jumbo burger or chicken breast. A little Italian vinaigrette adds zip to steaks and fish. Most people have an arsenal in their refrigerator of grill-friendly condiments.

Some larger items such as chicken on the bone, or ribs should be par-boiled. Then, finish them on the grill with barbecue sauce.

Foil packets are a nice way to cook delicate fish. You'll retain flavor and keep the fish intact throughout the cooking process.

Preamble of embers

Don't be caught off guard. Prepare to fire.

■ Be organized. Have everything you need for grilling – the food, marinade, basting sauce, seasonings, and equipment – at grillside before you fire up. You don't want to leave the scene to grab a spatula or tongs and take a chance of burning your food.

■ Gauge your fuel. There's nothing worse than running out of charcoal or gas in the middle of grilling. When using charcoal, light enough to form a bed of glowing coals 3 inches larger on all sides than the surface area of the food you're planning to cook. When cooking on a gas grill, make sure the tank is at least one-third full.

■ Preheat the grill to the right temperature; grilling is a high-heat cooking method. In order to achieve the seared crust, charcoal flavor, and handsome grill marks associated with good grilling, you must cook over a high heat.

When using charcoal, let it burn until it is covered with a thin coat of gray ash. Hold your hand about 6 inches above the grate. After 3 seconds, the force of the heat should force you to move your hand away.

When using a gas grill, preheat to high (at least 500°F); this takes 10-15 minutes. When indirect grilling, preheat the grill to 350°F.

■ Don't stab. Turn meat on a grill with tongs or a spatula. Never stab the meat with a carving fork unless you want the flavor-rich juices to drain onto the coals.

■ Keep it lubricated. Oil the grate just before placing food on top, if necessary. Spray the grate with oil, not into an open flame. Use a folded paper towel soaked in oil, or rub the grate with a piece of fatty bacon, beef fat, or chicken skin.

■ Keep it clean. There's nothing less appetizing than grilling on a grate filled with dirty old burnt bits of food. Fresh food will stick to a dirty grate. Clean the grate twice, once after you've preheated the grill, and again when you've finished cooking.

■ Know when to baste. Oil and vinegar, citrus, and yogurt-based bastes and marinades can be brushed on the meat as you cook. If you baste with a marinade that you used for raw meat or seafood, do not apply it.

Have seconds ready: These colorful and delicious South of the Border Turkey Kabobs make the most of favorite Mexican flavors in an entree that is easy to assemble, quick to grill and even quicker to disappear. See recipe inside.

BY PEGGY MARTINELLI-EVERTS
SPECIAL WRITER

The turkey was called "Indian chicken" by the Spanish conquerors, who still thought they were in India when they discovered the bird in Mexico.

Although wild turkeys were once almost extinct, they now thrive in Mexico and the United States. However, most of the turkey we eat is from domestic farms.

In the U.S., the period from Thanksgiving to Epiphany is the time of year when the most turkey is sold and eaten. But turkey isn't just for the holiday season; it's great all year long.

June is National Turkey Month and a good time to learn new ways to prepare and enjoy this nutrient-dense, low-fat, high-protein food.

Just as turkey is served when family and friends gather during the holidays, it can be a crowd-pleaser for summer gatherings as well.

Most people prefer the white meat of the turkey, which has less fat and fewer calories, than dark meat. The dark meat of the turkey is richer in flavor and a great addition to soups and stews.

Ground turkey can be used in pasta sauce, tacos or chili. Ground turkey breast burger or turkey tenderloins are great on the grill, and a whole turkey breast makes a good dinner tonight and excellent sandwiches tomorrow.

Large turkeys (13 pounds and up) are more work than smaller birds (6-12 pounds) or whole turkey breasts. Smaller birds defrost quicker, are easier to cook, and may even be a little less dry.

Grilling is great

Grilled turkey is a delectable treat that's surprisingly easy to prepare.

Whether you're cooking on a charcoal or gas grill, make sure you have plenty of fuel. For gas grills, a full tank should last about 17 or 18 hours, so check your gas gauge before you start. If you have a Weber charcoal grill, you can check their charcoal guide at www.weber.com.

As long as the turkey fits in your grill with your lid down to allow for indirect cooking (large turkeys may not fit under your grill lid), size is not an issue. At least one inch clearance between the turkey and lid is ideal. So think structure.

A broad, flat bird will fit better than one with a high breast bone. Purchase about three-quarters to one pound of raw turkey per person. This will surely be enough for a meal with plenty for leftovers.

Turkey should be completely defrosted in the refrigerator before grilling.

Place the frozen turkey in its original wrapping on a tray in the refrigerator. Allow 24 hours of thawing time for every 4 pounds of turkey. Never thaw poultry at room temperature.

Grill fresh turkey just as you would a completely defrosted frozen one. Since fresh turkey is highly perishable, check the "sell by" date before you buy.

Buy the turkey only one to two days before you plan to cook it and keep it refrigerated.

Nutrition Information

A 3.5 ounce portion of turkey is about the size of a new deck of cards. The following table contains calorie, protein and fat information on various grilled or roasted cuts of turkey.

Breast without skin	161	30	4 not directly beneath it. Heat rises, reflects off the lid and inside surfaces of the grill, and slowly cooks the food evenly on all sides. The circulating heat works much like a convection oven.

On a charcoal grill, arrange hot coals evenly on either side of the charcoal grate. Place food in the center of the cooking grate. A drip pan, placed in the center of the charcoal

Cooking times

The following chart of cooking times for unstuffed turkeys are approximate. Allow more time for cold/windy days.

10-11 pounds = 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 hours
12-14 pounds = 2 1/2 to 3 hours
15-17 pounds = 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours
18-22 pounds = 3 1/2 to 4 hours
23-24 pounds = 4 to 4 1/2 hours

The National Turkey Federation recommends adding about 15 briquettes every hour to maintain a temperature of 250°F to 300°F inside the grill.

grate, helps prevent flare-ups. Always remember to keep the grill lid closed when cooking with this method.

To grill by the indirect method on a gas grill, preheat the grill with all burners on high. Then adjust the burners on each side of the food to the temperature noted in the recipe and turn off the burner(s) directly below the food. If your gas grill won't allow you to turn off burners under the food, place a pan of water under the grate to create indirect heat. For best results, place roasts, poultry, or large cuts of meat on a roasting rack set inside a disposable heavy-gauge foil pan. For longer cooking times, add water to the drip pan to keep drippings from burning.

To avoid spreading dangerous bacteria to other foods, always wash hands, utensils, and work surfaces with hot soapy water after handling raw poultry.

Turkey is fully cooked when a meat thermometer registers 180°F in the thigh or 170°F in the breast (about 11-13 minutes per pound).

Remove turkey from the grill and allow to sit 20 minutes before carving. (If you're slow-smoking that bird, remember that a smoke-cooked turkey may appear a little pink, even when thoroughly cooked.)

Hurry-up chow mein dinner, a San Francisco treat

MAIN DISH MIRACLE

MURIEL WAGNER

Chow mein, so the legend goes, was invented by an Irishman in San Francisco. When I grew up, it was a way of either using up leftover meat and veggies or a hurry-up meal. Bean sprouts, soy sauce and fried chow mein noodles added the necessary oriental ambiance.

But I did enjoy it. So much so that I made it part of my Eating Younger recipe repertoire with appropriate editing.

The veggies are fresh. Canola oil replaces the margarine. A can of bean sprouts retains some of the recipe's heritage, as does my seasoned black iron skillet that doubles for a wok.

Because canned chow mein noodles have 7 grams of fat per 1/2 cup, I substitute a package of high fiber, zero-fat Chinese lo mein needles and use the obligatory soy sauce and ginger. My low sodium soy sauce, as you know, is one half Tamari (Japanese soy sauce) and one half dry sherry. Try the sauce even if you don't make the chow mein. It's delicious.

EATING YOUNGER CHOW MEIN

- 2 teaspoons Canola oil
- 1 onion, sliced into rings
- 1 green bell pepper, cut into strips
- 2 cups celery or bok choy, sliced

1 cup fresh mushrooms, sliced

1 cup sodium reduced fat free chicken broth

1/4 cup sodium reduced soy sauce

1/2 teaspoon minced fresh ginger

2 tablespoons cornstarch

12 oz. cooked skinless and boneless chicken breast strips

1 14-oz. can bean sprouts, rinsed and drained

1 10-oz. package Chinese lo mein noodles, cooked

Heat oil in deep nonstick skillet or wok. Stir fry veggies until tender crisp. Set aside. Mix 1/4 of the broth with cornstarch to a smooth paste. Combine with soy sauce and ginger. Heat until thickened. Add sauce, cooked chicken and bean sprouts to vegetables in skillet.

Reheat to serving temperature. Serve with Chinese lo mein noodles.

Colorful South of the Border Turkey Kabobs bring wonderful taste and texture to summertime meals.

Fresh boneless turkey breast medallions, yellow squash, onions and peppers are coated with a special lime juice-based mixture, then skewered and grilled. These kabobs are a great way to showcase summer's fresh produce and put a little twist on a grilling favorite.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER TURKEY KABOBS

1 package Butterball Fresh Boneless Turkey Breast Medallions
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1/4 cup fresh lime juice
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
2 medium yellow squash, cut into 3/4-inch chunks
2 medium onions, cut into 3/4-inch chunks
2 red bell peppers, cut into 3/4-inch chunks
2 green bell peppers, cut into 3/4-inch chunks

Combine oil, lime juice, salt, chili powder and garlic powder in large bowl. Toss vegetables in oil mixture; stir to coat. Transfer vegetables to separate large bowl. Add turkey medallions to oil mixture; stir to coat.

Thread turkey and vegetables alternately onto skewers, leaving a small space between pieces. Grill over hot coals about 20 minutes or until turkey is no longer pink in center, turning occasionally to prevent burning. Serves 6. Preparation time: 30 minutes

JALAPENO GLAZED TURKEY BREAST

1 bone-in turkey breast half (about 2 1/2 pounds)
1/2 cup water
2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons reduced-sodium chicken bouillon
1/4 cup jalapeno or apple jelly
1 tablespoon fresh cilantro, finely chopped
2 cloves garlic finely chopped
1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
1/4 teaspoon red pepper flakes (optional)

Prepare grill for indirect-heat cooking. Place turkey, skin-side-up, on rack over drip pan. Cover and grill turkey breast 1 to 1 1/4 hours or until meat thermometer reaches 170 degrees F.

In small saucepan, over medium heat, combine water, cornstarch, and bouillon. Stir in jelly, cilantro, garlic, cumin and red pepper flakes. Cook and stir until mixture is slightly thickened.

Brush turkey with 2 tablespoons sauce during last 5-10 minutes of cooking. Serve turkey with remaining sauce. Refrigerate leftovers. Serves 6.

CHICAGO FIRE ITALIAN SAUSAGE SANDWICHES

1 package Butterball Lean Fresh Turkey Hot Italian Sausage
5 large hot dog buns
5 teaspoons yellow mustard
5 tablespoons chopped onion
5 tablespoons pickle relish
10 tomato wedges
10 jalapeno peppers, if desired

Grill sausage according to package directions. Place in buns. Add mustard, onion, relish, tomato wedges and peppers to each sandwich.

Makes 5 sandwiches. Preparation time: 15 minutes.

BARBECUE TURKEY BURGERS

1 package Butterball Fresh Ground Turkey
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup Hunts Hickory & Brown Sugar Barbecue Sauce, divided
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
6 burger buns

Combine ground turkey, onion, 1/4 cup barbecue sauce, bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Mix until thoroughly combined. Form into 6 patties.

Grill over medium coals for 5-6 minutes per side or cook in a large nonstick skillet over medium heat for 10 to 12 minutes. Turn 2 to 3 times for even cooking and browning. Baste with remaining barbecue sauce and serve on toasted buns.

*To make Mexican polenta, cook 1 cup instant cornmeal polenta according to package directions.

Stir in 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 2 cups taco-seasoned cheese.

TURKEY CUTLETS WITH CHIPOTLE PEPPER MOLE SAUCE

1 package Butterball Fresh Boneless Turkey Breast Cutlets
1 can (14 1/2 ounces) chicken broth
1/4 cup raisins
4 cloves garlic, minced
1 chipotle chile pepper in adobo sauce
2 tablespoons ground almonds
2 teaspoons unsweetened cocoa
1/2 cup chopped fresh cilantro
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1/2 teaspoon salt

To prepare Chipotle Pepper Mole Sauce, combine chicken broth, raisins, garlic, chile pepper, almonds and cocoa in medium saucepan. Simmer over low heat 10 minutes. Pour into food processor or blender; process until smooth. Add cilantro, lime juice and salt.

Grill cutlets according to package directions. Serve chipotle mole sauce over grilled cutlets with Mexican polenta.*

Serves 7. Preparation time: 20 minutes.

*To make Mexican polenta, cook 1 cup instant cornmeal polenta according to package directions. Stir in 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 2 cups taco-seasoned cheese.

wood can add.

"First I light the coals with an electric starter instead of lighter fluid, so there is no taste or smell," she said. "While they are heating up, I soak some pieces of apple or cherry wood in water. Once the coals are hot, I move them to the sides of the grill, add the drip pan with water and put the fruit wood on top."

Moxon never uses softwood (pine, fir, cedar or spruce) as it gives the food a turpentine flavor and coats it with a black pitch or resin.

Grilling turkey parts

Whether you're feeding a smaller crowd or supplementing the menu for a large one, a turkey breast is a great idea. Grill a 3 to 3 1/2 pound boneless turkey breast by the indirect method for one to two hours until the internal temperature reaches 170°F.

Small turkeys, six to eight pounds, can be quartered before grilling. Grill turkey pieces, turning occasionally, for at least one hour or until the internal temperature reaches 165°F. Kabobs, made with boneless turkey breast medallions and vegetables, are a quick and delicious grilling option.

If you use a marinade or basting sauce, prepare extra to use for dipping. Do not use the same marinade as was used to brush on the raw pieces of turkey.

If you want stuffing, it is best to cook it separately. There are several good reasons for this. First, there is an increased risk of food borne illness with stuffed poultry, especially if it is not heated thoroughly.

Then, for practical purposes, the amount of stuffing needed for the meal is usually more than the turkey can hold. It's easier to serve stuffing from a pan than from a turkey. Finally, the roasting time is less with an unstuffed bird. Cook stuffing in a covered foil pan beside the turkey on the grill.

Use the indirect method, during the last 45-60 minutes of grilling time, to an internal temperature of 160°F.

The result is a juicier, tastier piece of meat.

■ Don't leave the grill. Grilling is an easy cooking method, but it demands constant attention. Once you put something on the grill (especially when using the direct method), stay with it until it's cooked.

■ Never squirt lighter fluid directly into an already lit fire.

■ Let meals rest. Beef, steak, chicken, almost anything you grill will taste better if you let it stand on the cutting board for a few minutes before serving. This allows the meat juices, which have been driven to the center of a cut of meat by the searing heat, to return to the surface.

Orange preserves sweeten pork tenderloin

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This nicely seasoned preparation of roast pork could be added to a buffet or party menu to offer a stylish yet low-fat choice.

The recipe will provide 12 servings, each containing just 4 grams of fat.

Fresh rosemary gives the pork an aromatic herb flavor, and orange preserves adds a sweet-tangy accent.

ORANGE-ROSEMARY PORK TENDERLOIN

3 pork tenderloins (about 10 ounces each)
4 garlic cloves
4 sprigs fresh rosemary
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1/2 cup low-sodium chicken broth
1 ounce (2 tablespoons) dry white wine, or increase broth by 2 tablespoons
1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons orange all-fruit spread

Broil tenderloins 2 minutes, turning once.

Preheat oven to 350°F.

In mini food processor, combine garlic, rosemary, salt and pepper; process until finely chopped. Add oil; process until mixture forms a paste.

Place pork on rack in roasting pan; spread with garlic mixture. Pour broth and wine into bottom of pan. Roast, basting occasionally, 20 minutes. Brush pork with orange spread; roast 10 minutes longer, until meat thermometer registers 160°F. Let stand 10 minutes before carving into 1/4-inch slices. Makes 12 servings.

Give salad dressing, entrees a sprinkle of tarragon

Tarragon, an herb closely identified with the haute cuisine of France, is indispensable in many rich sauces of traditional French cooking. Yet today, tarragon's rich, anise-like, peppery flavor has found a place in many lighter, healthier dishes.

Like other herbs, tarragon contains naturally occurring substances, called phytochemicals, with many health protecting properties, including the ability to fight cancer.

Select fresh tarragon with unblemished, silvery green leaves that give off a licorice-like scent when rubbed between the fingers. Store it wrapped in paper towels and sealed in a plastic bag. It will keep refrigerated for up to one week.

When substituting fresh tarragon for the dried version in recipes — or substituting a fresh herb for the dried variety — use twice the amount of dried herb called for. Finely mince

CHICKEN WITH TOMATO TARRAGON SAUCE
 2 pounds boneless, skinless chicken breasts
 Salt and pepper to taste
 1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
 1/3 cup finely chopped scallions
 1/2 cup dry white wine or chicken broth
 1 28-ounce can tomato sauce
 1 teaspoon fresh tarragon, finely minced
 1 teaspoon fresh thyme, finely minced
 1/3 cup feta cheese (optional)
 Season chicken with salt and pepper to taste. In a large skillet coated with non-stick cooking spray, brown chicken pieces about 5 minutes per side.

Add mushrooms and scallions and cook over medium heat about 3 minutes. Add wine or broth and cook about 2 minutes more, stirring to scrape browned bits from bottom of skillet.

Stir in tomato sauce, tarragon and thyme. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and cook on medium-low heat for 15 to 20 minutes or until chicken is tender. If desired, sprinkle with feta cheese and serve.

fresh herbs before using them in any recipe other than that for a soup stock.

Tarragon's piquant flavor stands on its own or can be combined with the classic French "fines herbes" — parsley, chervil and chives.

Because of its sweetness, tarragon does not blend well with Mediterranean herbs such as oregano, or with strong aromatics like rosemary and sage. Heat brings out the herb's pungency so cooked dishes need less tarragon.

A light sprinkling of tarragon goes well with many simply prepared foods, including peas, spinach, cauliflower and potatoes. Use it fresh with salad dressings and vegetables, or in cooked dishes like fish, eggs, chicken, meats, soups and sauces.

Tarragon-infused vinegar can be made by pouring warm vinegar over the herb and letting it stand, covered, for a week. Serve it over salads or with tropical fruits like papaya, mango and pineapple.

BLUEBERRY BARBECUE SAUCE

1 teaspoon olive oil
 1 teaspoon vegetable oil
 4 tablespoons minced onion
 1 tablespoon minced fresh jalapeno chili, seeded
 1/3 cup ketchup
 1/4 cup rice wine vinegar
 3 tablespoons light brown sugar
 3 tablespoons Dijon mustard
 1 teaspoon mustard powder
 1 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
 1 teaspoon onion powder
 2 cups fresh or frozen blueberries
 Salt and freshly ground pepper

Heat the oil in a nonreactive saucepan. Add the onion and jalapeno and cook over moderate heat, stirring, until wilted, about 3 minutes. Add the ketchup, vinegar, sugar, mustard and Tabasco and bring to a simmer.

Add the blueberries and simmer over low heat, stirring until thickened, about 10 minutes.

Puree the sauce in a blender or food processor until smooth. Pass through a strainer and season with salt and pepper.

Serve at room temperature with pork, chicken or a hearty fish. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

TEQUILA CHICKEN

1/4 cup vegetable oil
 3 tablespoons fresh lime juice
 2 tablespoons fresh orange juice
 3 tablespoons tequila
 2 tablespoons Triple Sec
 1 large jalapeno chili, seeded minced

1-1/2 teaspoons grated lime peel
 1 tablespoons brown sugar
 1/2 teaspoon coarse salt
 Pinch of pepper

Mix all ingredients in small bowl. Let stand 15 minutes. (Can be prepared a day ahead.) Cover and refrigerate.

Marinate poultry 1 to 3 hours and seafood 30 minutes in refrigerator. Drain (do not pat dry) and grill.

Boil remaining marinade in heavy, small saucepan 1 minute.

Drizzle some of marinade over poultry or seafood just before serving.

HERB CHILI GARLIC PRAWNS

12-16 large fresh prawns
 1 onion, small
 8 garlic cloves
 1-inch piece of ginger
 1 teaspoon red or green chili paste or red chili powder
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 tablespoon lime juice
 1/8 cup olive oil
 3 tablespoons favorite barbecue sauce

Shell, devein, clean and butterfly the prawns with tails left on.

Mix the remaining ingredients together and marinate the prawns in this mixture, covered in the refrigerator, for 1-2 hours.

Grill until prawns are cooked, brushing with marinade and turning twice. (Do not overcook the prawns as they will get tough. It is better to rather slightly undercook them.)

Toss doggie bags in the refrigerator within 2 hours

It's not uncommon to still have enough food left on your plate at a restaurant for another meal. Many box up or put leftovers in a "doggie bag" to take home and eat later.

But doggie bag leftovers always run the risk of causing food poisoning and certain precautions must be taken to reduce the risk.

The outside temperature is also a consideration, especially if the food might be sitting in a warm car even for a short time. It's always safer to go directly to the refrigerator. Then, before re-serving, the food should be reheated to about 165 degrees.

FRANK PROVENZANO

A look at how collaboration will shape our cultural future

ast Tuesday, a barrier was taken down. And few noticed. Subtle changes seldom make headlines.

With a grant from the Community Foundation of Southeastern Michigan, representatives from New Detroit and Casa de Unidad, a Latino cultural organization from southwest Detroit, traveled to Cranbrook Art Museum.

New Detroit, it's worth noting, was established in the wake of the 1967 riots to help build bridges among the various ethnic cultures in the metro area.

For an afternoon, inner city neighborhood met affluent northern suburb for a forum on how the organizations could work together.

An unlikely alliance?

More like a sign of the times.

Doing the cha-cha

To most visitors of museums, little changes from year to year. Sure there's a list of new exhibits that fit alongside permanent collections.

But in the staid museum corridors, any dramatic change would be hard to find.

Some find it surprising that in the last 10 years, museums have fundamentally changed the way they conduct themselves.

No longer is the sole focus on collecting and preserving historical works, but on serving as a place for public education.

Having a blockbuster exhibit and receiving plenty of philanthropy doesn't hurt. (Thank you, Vincent van Gogh.)

Today, the secret to surviving for museums depends on successful collaboration.

The cultural forum between Casa de Unidad and Cranbrook Art Museum offers a glimpse at the region's cultural future. Two organizations coming together in an attempt to broaden their respective audiences.

As museums search for new audiences, the ability to reach across cultural boundaries has become paramount.

Last Friday, Cranbrook co-sponsored a Benny Cruz concert of salsa, cha-cha and mambo music.

Through the spirit of collaboration, a new vibe was introduced on the Cranbrook grounds.

Shifting paradigm

Speaking of new vibes ...

Wittkopp could hardly contain his excitement over the collaboration among nine museums and galleries for an upcoming project, Video Culture: Three Decades of Video Art, planned for the fall.

Besides Cranbrook, participants include the Detroit Institute of Arts, University of Michigan Art Museum, University of Windsor and Detroit Artists Market.

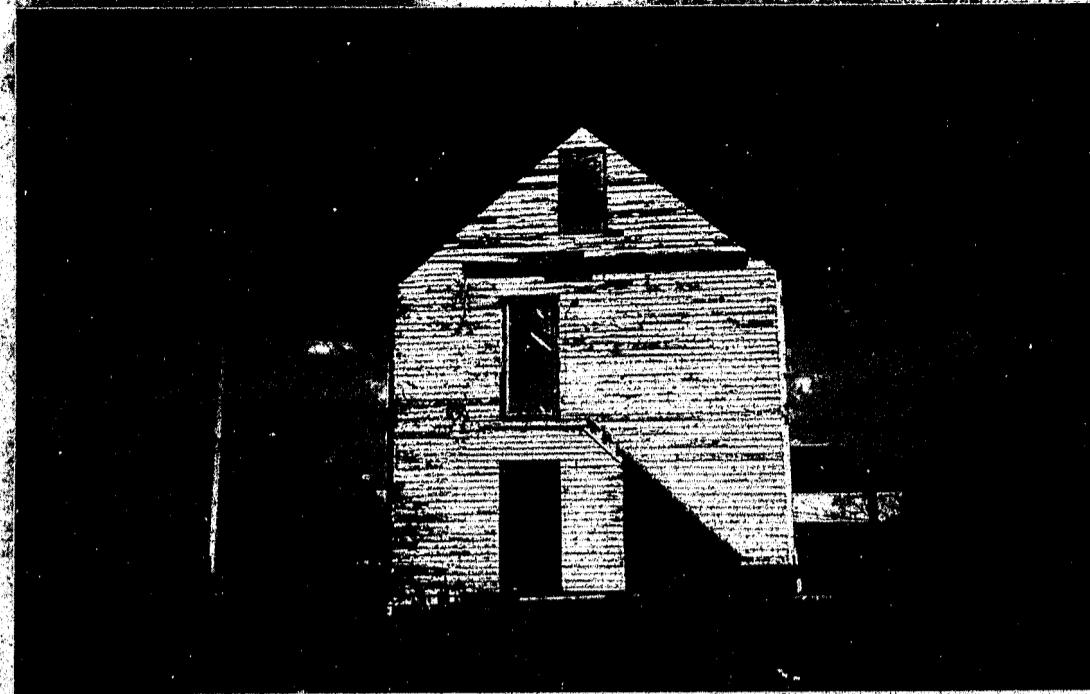

While the video exhibits do not fall under a single curatorial umbrella, they will be coordinated to complement each other.

And that, according to Wittkopp, is a sign that collaboration — rather than cutthroat competition — is another sign of the times.

"For a while, collaboration has been superficial," said Wittkopp. But now, it's something deeper. We all realize that it takes time to build meaningful relationships."

Of course, relationships are easier to build when the bridge is in place.

Storied tradition: A two-story, clapboard house built around 100 years ago on the east side of Detroit served as the place for a recent 18-month archaeological examination into architectural space and building materials.

Two Cranbrook grads take an archaeology trip...to the east side of Detroit

Somewhere between the realm of the theoretical and stark everyday realities, Lorella DiCintio and Jonsara Ruth earned their post-graduate degrees.

And much more.

For two years, the Cranbrook students worked to meet the requirements for their master's degree in architectural archaeology from Cranbrook Academy of Art. To say the least, the lessons derived from the uncommon path taken to complete their thesis doesn't quite fall within traditional architectural studies.

Both DiCintio and Ruth are interested in urban settings and believe in quietly honoring a place before introducing ideas for renovation or reconstruction.

"We both believe that before you change something (architecturally), you need to learn what a place is first," said Ruth, who grew up in upstate New York, and most recently lived in New York City.

DiCintio and Ruth share more than an architectural sensibility. In style and temperament, they are meticulous, precise and unassuming, yet quietly confident. Not to mention gutsy.

In the name of first-hand experience, DiCintio and Ruth spent 18 months in a microscopic study of the spatial relationships and materials used in the construction of a two-story, 100-year-old clapboard house on the east side of Detroit, a few blocks from the dilapidated former Packard Assembly Plant designed by Albert Kahn.

Their findings, displayed with archival precision, are currently on exhibit at the Susanne Hilberry Gallery in Birmingham.

No running water

Together, DiCintio and Ruth worked inside the vacant house, which did not have electricity, running water or locks on the doors. The 1,200-square-foot house had been hastily constructed as a duplex in a "working-class neighborhood," with bedrooms barely large enough to fit a dresser and single bed.

Flood of images reveal the cost of power

Stephen Benson thought about calling his exhibit that opened last Sunday at Cranbrook Art Museum Atlantis.

But surveying the 81 black-and-white images that compose the show, the Lake Orion artist slowly nodded his head back and forth: "That would be too romantic," he said.

In fact, there is little to be starry-eyed about in The Cost of Power in China: The Three Gorges Dam and the Yangtze River Valley Recent Photographs by Steven Benson.

Wistful, perhaps. Bittersweet, yes.

Sad, most definitely.

What Benson chronicled on his five-week trip last year to China were the ancient towns, cities and villages that will be literally drowned when the Three Gorges Dam — named for the massive misty limestone chasms that have been the subject of Chinese lore for centuries — floods 400 miles of the Yangtze River Valley beginning in 2003.

Flood of history

Though there has been heated debate about the dam project for more than 30 years, it was approved in 1992 by the National People's Congress under China's second-most powerful communist leader, ex-Prime Minister Li Peng.

Upon completion in 2009, the 6,860 foot dam — five times the span of the Hoover Dam — will generate power to match 18 nuclear power plants, and create a reservoir 50 miles longer than Lake Michigan.

It will also flood 13 major cities, 140 large towns, hundreds of villages along the river's banks, ancient archeological sites and thousands of farms and orchards that have been in families for centuries.

"I was amazed at the notion that an area with such an incredible history is going to disappear from the planet," said Benson, who has served as a lecturer at Detroit's Center for Creative Studies.

dissected the construction and architecture of the house as part of their graduate thesis. DiCintio examined surfaces of walls, ceilings and floors, meanwhile Ruth meditated on the spatial arrangement of the house.

Some weeks, they spent 80 hours scrapping and peeling away decades of paint, examining the two-by-fours between the walls, and lifting the linoleum floor, where they discovered a newspaper dated May 1967.

"There are so many levels in studying a house," said Ruth. "We learned about how the materials relate to architecture of the time, and the social and artistic attitudes."

House condemned

During the painstaking process of sorting through piles of paint shavings, rusted nails, and photographs of the house and mounting their artifacts on long pins from their 18-month excavation, DiCintio and Ruth got word that dramatically changed their plans for the exhibit.

After six years without occupants, the house along Warren Avenue was condemned by the city of Detroit. The condemnation no longer made it possible for visitors to the gallery to also tour the house.

As a result DiCintio and Ruth added photographs of the house and narrative text to their exhibit. But in many ways, their hopes faded to transplant the sensibilities of a eastside Detroit house into an upscale Birmingham gallery.

Ironically, the most indelible memories of the 18-month inspection may have been the people they met in the neighborhood.

"We realized right away that we were visitors to the area, and respected the surroundings," said DiCintio, originally from Toronto.

"After a few months, people on the street would wave to us," she said. "We built a rapport with the children on the street."

On some days as many as a dozen kids would show up to help scrape paint from the walls. DiCintio and Ruth worked on projects such as rock painting with the neighborhood kids.

And then, there were other days when DiCintio and Ruth didn't get out of their car. Days when they were working on the second floor when they heard footsteps on the first floor and realized they weren't alone in the house.

And they recall with a sense of relief finding a caring neighbor in the house to check on them.

The documentation from DiCintio and Ruth's archaeological study is inseparable from what they learned about the profoundly different way of life far removed from the rolling landscape of Bloomfield Hills.

In the near future, they expect to apply for grants to fund the publishing of their findings. And clearly, explaining their theory is only the beginning of the story.

"People asked us all the time, what are you doing here?" said Ruth.

"We just wanted to learn from being in the space."

That doesn't sound so theoretical at all.

accompanied by an interpreter, set out to photograph the area from Chongqing, terminus of the rising water, to the construction site in Sandouping.

Stand our ground

"There's an overall sadness in the valley, and I responded very strongly to that," said Benson, whose first solo exhibition was at the famed Georges Pompidou National Center of Art and Culture in Paris.

Indeed, a series of photographs taken at the tiny village of Dragon Gate shows a group of children mugging for the camera in front of their modest home while a poster on a cliff high above states 175 M — the point at which the water level will be once the flooding is complete.

The Chinese government has made token efforts to relocate citizens and pay restitution, but the process is fraught with corruption and many villagers are simply unwilling to leave the land they consider spiritual.

said Benson.

But by harnessing the tumultuous waters of the Yangtze, said Benson.

Price of progress: The Three Gorges Dam cuts into mountainsides that many Chinese consider sacred.

the Chinese government predicts that the Three Gorges Dam will generate enough electricity to power much of eastern and central China and prevent thousands of pounds of pollutants from being spilled into the atmosphere from coal-burning plants.

It will also allow ocean-going ships to navigate all the way to Chongqing, a major industrial city.

But critics, who are concerned with the stability, construction and environmental outcomes, liken the dam project to Three Mile Island, Chernobyl and Love Canal combined.

"Experts don't believe that the dam is going to accomplish anything," said Benson.

There is also much concern about the spread of diseases associated with a reservoir that doesn't have proper water treatment.

And environmentalists are worried about the river dolphin and other endangered species whose lives will be further degraded by the dam.

Bulldozing dreams

Part documentary, part surreal, haunting images, Benson's exhibition shows the landscape, buildings and factories that will be underwater in less than a decade.

But his most poignant images are those of the people who inhabit these impending ghost towns.

"I wanted to honor the people who live here and have it serve as a warning to future generations," said Benson. "I photographed a lot of children. Just what do they know about what the future holds?"

Spa joins golf as jewel of Bay Harbor resort

By JOE BAUMAN

Northern Michigan's newest luxury resort has added another jewel to its crown with the opening of the Spa at The Inn at Bay Harbor.

Nestled on Little Traverse Bay near Petoskey, the spa is owned by Boyne USA Resorts, as is the Inn at Bay Harbor and the nationally renowned Bay Harbor Golf Club.

Opened in February, Inn at Bay Harbor General Manager Bill Quisenberry said the spa is available to inn guests as well as nearby residents and tourists.

"The spa is an outstanding addition to our inn and offers an unmatched amenity to our guests," he said. "It is a perfect fit for what we are trying to accomplish here at Bay Harbor."

The spa is phase one of a two-part project that includes a fitness center and full-service salon. The spa is 2,300 square feet and has seven treatment rooms.

Spa director Marie Saunders was affiliated with one of the Manhattan area's most popular spas. She has national certifications as both a personal trainer and aerobic instructor, and is both a national and international aerobic gold medalist. Spa supervisor Cynthia Gomes worked at the Aveda concept spa in Phoenix.

"We try to supply our guests with the ultimate experience in relaxation therapy," said Gomes. "We want our guests to leave

Expectant moms can treat themselves to a pregnancy massage, a Swedish massage on a specially designed table with a cut-out section to accommodate a growing stomach.

Although rooms and suites at The Inn at Bay Harbor are privately owned, they are available for rental through Boyne USA Resorts. In addition to the spa, the inn features both a fine dining restaurant and a more casual grill, croquet on the grounds, a life-size chess board and fantastic views of Little Traverse

Oxford's LeRoy to race for CMU

During the past four years, Karen LeRoy has been one of Oxford's greatest athletes. Next fall, the graduating senior will take her talents to the next level.

LeRoy recently announced that she will race in both cross-country and track next school year at Central Michigan University, becoming the third Oxford senior this school year to sign with a Division I school.

Oxford 6-foot-1 basketball star Liz Holbrook will head to Clemson in the fall and football standout Eric Ghiaie is also headed to CMU.

"I'm excited about it," said LeRoy. "I've thought about possibly running in college for quite a while and now I'm going to get my chance."

During her four-year varsity career in both CC and track, LeRoy has broken and tied several school records, or is ranked in the top three on Oxford's all-time list.

In cross-country, she holds the mark on a 3.1-mile course with a time of 18:41, and in track she is the school record-holder in the 1600 meters (5:08.3), 3200 meters (11:21.1) and as a member of the Wildcats' 3200-meter relay unit (9:45.0). She also ranks second in the 800 meters (2:19.0) and third in the 1600 relay (4:16.0).

At her final race for Oxford, coming at the Lower Peninsula Division II state championships on June 3, LeRoy was sixth in the 1600 run and teamed up with Megan McTaggart, Caryn Inman and Payne Salquist for a seventh-place showing in the 3200 relay, both of which were the school record-setting marks.

Troy Athens breaks the Lake Orion glass slipper to end the Dragons' Cinderella-type run, 5-0

BY DANIEL STICKRADT
dstickradt@oe.homecomm.net

For a good luck charm, Tim Storch wore a flamboyant shirt and tie Friday with several Disney and Warner Brothers characters pleasantly displayed on them. But as it turned out, the veteran Troy Athens girls soccer coach didn't need any luck.

The second-ranked Red Hawks continued their offensive onslaught Friday night, blanking Lake Orion 5-0 in a Division I regional final at Rochester High School.

Athens (20-2), which won its first regional crown since 1993, moves onto Wednesday's 7 p.m. state semifinal at Utica's Swinehart Stadium against Saturday's Troy-Traverse City Central winner. Lake Orion, making its first-ever regional finals appearance, bows out with a 10-7-4 record.

"It's been a while," said Storch. "And I think that Foley game taught us a lesson because we've been playing very well since that loss."

Foley, ranked second in Division II, upset Athens 1-0 less than three weeks ago, but since then the Red Hawks have been on a roll. After concluding the regular season with two wins, Athens has exploded for four wins in the tourney, where they have outscored the opposition 21-2.

"Losses are great teachers," said Storch. "I think they can teach you tactical things about your team, they can teach you technical things about your team, and they can teach you emotional things that affect your team. That Foley game did just that."

In the loss to Foley, the Ventures packed the backfield to reduce the chances for Red Hawks' attack and the plan worked. Lake Orion tried the same tactic Friday and it worked for nearly a half.

"We held with them for about the first 30 minutes or so, and then Athens scored a couple goals and kind of took the wind out of our sails," said Lake Orion first-year coach Josh Gottlieb. "We came out kind of weak in the second half, and they scored two more quick ones. We played well after that, but by then it was much too late."

Athens sophomore Melissa Latvis scored the game's first goal, as she scooped up a deflection just outside of the penalty box and blasted a low shot through traffic that caught Orion junior goalkeeper Sarah Poisson off guard with 8:27 left before halftime. Athens sophomore forward Jessy Barrett added a second goal just before the break.

Senior Tiffany Laskowski set up junior midfielder Erin Brown for another tally 55 seconds into the second half to up the lead to 3-0, and then Laskowski scored on the

Clarkston's Mitchell commits to Georgia Southern

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
STAFF WRITER
bmonastiere@oe.homecomm.net

Chris Mitchell is proving you can go home again.

The recently graduated Clarkston High School senior signed to play baseball next year at South Georgia Junior College after a stellar four-year varsity career for the Wolves.

Mitchell and his family moved to Clarkston from Georgia in 1996, prior to his freshman year of high school. He started his freshman year on Clarkston's junior-varsity baseball team, was called up to varsity shortly thereafter, and has been a key player ever since.

Mitchell said the decision to attend South Georgia came down to the quality of the program, and the ability to play year-round.

"I should get a lot of playing time there right away, and their program has been awesome the past few years," he said. "I will get to face live pitching all year, and that's the best way I'm going to improve. It will make me a lot better than I would have been playing in the gym over the winter."

Mitchell, a left-handed starting pitcher and outfielder for Clarkston, is an outstanding contact hitter who can hit to all fields. He does possess college-level power and an excellent arm. Mitchell said he will be given a chance to pitch for South Georgia, though outfield will be his primary position.

"Pitching is an option for me," he said. "The coaches down there said they won't hold me back, and will give me a chance to pitch for them. But I will mainly play in the outfield."

Mitchell's coach for two years, Clarkston varsity coach Phil Price, said he will succeed at the college level because of his skills and love for the game.

"Chris has excellent bat speed and the arm to be a very good outfielder in college," he said. "He's got good bat control and does a nice job of putting the ball in play. Plus, he just loves baseball."

Mitchell led Clarkston in batting twice in his four-year career, and helped the Wolves to the 1998 district title. He was a starting pitcher for three years and recorded a complete-game win over then-nationally ranked Troy this past April.

He was also a standout football player, leading Clarkston to the Division I state semifinals in 1999, rushing for more than 1,900 yards from his tailback position. He led the Wolves in rushing both years on varsity and set Clarkston's all-time single-season rushing leader last year.

Mitchell said it will be fun to return to his Georgia roots, where several of his friends from eighth grade

Lake Orion infielders Brandon Bullock, Justin Hanning double-up to give Dragons sturdy defensive play up the middle

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
bmonastiere@oe.homecomm.net

One of Sparky Anderson's mantras as baseball manager was that a team needs to have good defense up the middle in order to be successful. With a defensive lineup of catcher Lance Parrish, second baseman Lou Whitaker, shortstop Alan Trammell and center fielder Chet Lemon, the Tigers of the mid-'80s were among the best both defensively and as an overall team.

The 2000 Lake Orion baseball team has followed that example, and is having similar success on the baseball diamond. Although the Dragons' deep pitching staff and power-packed lineup gets much of the ink, Orion's defense up the middle has been a main reason why the team won its first district title in six years and — if victorious in their two games on Saturday — had a solid chance to go to Battle Creek, site of the Final Four, for the first time in school history.

The Dragons line up junior catcher Jim McMahon, senior second baseman Brandon Bullock and junior shortstop Justin Hanning in the middle of their defensive lineup. The results have been spectacular, helping Lake Orion to a 25-5 record and a spot in Saturday's regionals (results were not available at press time).

Lake Orion coach Andy Schramek said Bullock and Hanning have performed above expectations and have been a reason why the Dragons rarely beat themselves.

"They know pitchers aren't going to strike out everybody, so they have to be ready at all

■ Brandon and Justin have been as good defensively the last four weeks as anyone has anywhere.'

Andy Schramek
—Lake Orion baseball coach

times," Schramek said. "Brandon and Justin have been as good defensively the last four weeks as anyone has anywhere."

One statistic Schramek loves to point out is the number of double plays Orion has turned this year. The team failed to turn a single double-play in 1999, but has upped that number to nine this year, and either Bullock, Hanning, or both, have been in on most of them. Their quick gloves and accurate arms have helped pull the Dragons out of several potentially disastrous innings.

Neither player has a spot high in the batting order, although both seem to come through with big hits when the team needs them most. Hanning is hitting over .400 this season, and Bullock, one of the most likable and popular players on the team, rarely hits his way into a bad situation.

"Everyone on the team appreciates what those guys bring to us," Schramek said. "Our motto is to play dry, and those guys, along with Jim Kelly, always have dirt on their uniforms at the end of the game."

Bullock's range at second is just phenomenal. He always gets a glove on the ball and keeps it in the infield. Justin can turn the double play as quick as anyone. He's smooth and technically very sound. Both those guys have developed leadership roles on our team also."

Orion faced Utica Eisenhower in the regional semifinals, and a rematch with Rochester Adams was favored in the regional finals. If the Dragons win, it would put them in a very good position to advance to the state semifinals for the first time, because state-ranked Saginaw Heritage and Auburn-Bay City Western were knocked out of the playoffs prior to the Flushing regional. The Lake Orion regional winner faces the Flushing regional winner in the quarterfinals Tuesday at Saginaw Nouvel Catholic High School.

Oxford Volleyball Camp

The annual Oxford Wildcats Volleyball Camp is scheduled for Aug. 7-11 at Oxford High School. The camp will be open to both boys and girls who will be entering grades 9-12 in the fall.

The camp will be conducted by current Oxford varsity girls coach Lori Campbell and her staff. Tuition is $55 per person, and it will run from 8:30 a.m.-1 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 7, and from 9 a.m.-

1 p.m. on Tuesday through Friday that same week. All campers must have a physical and permission slip turned in to Campbell by June 15.

or sacrifice Arnold over to third, with Mary Warchuck and Candace Morgan bringing their big bats to the plate. One of those two power hitters is sure to line a shot through the infield and bring Arnold home, giving Clarkston an immediate 1-0 lead.

Clarkston coach Al Land said something very interesting in one of our first discussions about the 2000 season. "We should be able to score a run in the first inning of every game because of Mel's speed."

For a coach to count on a run being scored in the first part of any contest makes them amazingly optimistic (coaches being the glass-is-half-empty types). But in this case, the statement holds a great deal of realism. Arnold is the fastest softball player I have ever seen.

One of the best plays I saw from anyone all season came from Lake Orion catcher Kathy Robinson, who threw Arnold out trying to steal second in a regular season contest last month. Robinson is one of the few catchers in the state who can say they threw out Arnold trying to steal.

The speed Arnold brings to Clarkston's lineup is irreplaceable, and nearly indefensible. She is the main reason why the Wolves had an excellent chance to get by top-ranked Waterford Kettering and advance to its first-ever Division I state quarterfinal. Morgan's pitching has been nearly perfect the past couple weeks, and Clarkston is a team poised to move even further in the tournament.

■ Prediction Time
The Stick Man and I have sat at our desks many a night lamenting the apparent lack of statewide respect the OAA Division I receives. In baseball and softball, no league has the kind of quality depth this league does, and that will be shown by this weekend's regionals.

Case in point: Berkley, the seventh-place team in the OAA I was matched up with Warren Mott in the first round of districts. Mott entered the game with a 20-4 record and was ranked ninth in the state. Berkley destroyed Mott 10-4, proving once again, that the best baseball in the state is played here.

Look for All-OAA I matchups in the regional finals in both baseball and softball. Lake Orion and Adams will lock horns for the third time, easily getting past their Macomb County opponents. Adams holds two close regular-season wins over the Dragons, including a rain-soaked 5-3 win at Lake Orion last month. This is the time when "could have" turns into "did" for Orion. Pick: Lake Orion 7, Adams 4.

In softball, Clarkston and Kettering are the prohibitive favorites to meet in the regional finals. The Wolves have a psychological edge against the Captains most teams don't: that being they know Kettering is mortal and can be beaten. The Captains are playing extremely well right now, and it's going to take a perfect game to beat them. With their defense, speed and pitching, the Wolves are capable of delivering one.

In districts, I picked Clarkston to lose and it went on to win. Maybe that will happen again. Pick: Kettering 2 Clarkston 1.

and prior will be his teammates in college. Yet, he knows he will miss Clarkston.

"It will be fun, because some of my best friends I played with in Georgia will be there," he said. "But I learned a lot in Clarkston. Coach Price taught me a lot about staying in shape and not to get mad at the little stuff. Hard work does pay off for you."

game's prettiest goal, as she spun around a defender in the corner of the box near the endline and lofted a shot over Poisson that curved inside the far post.

Freshman forward Lisa Bera scored the Red Hawks' final goal at the 73-minute mark. Sophomore goalkeeper Andrea Przybysz collected the shutout, stopping just one first-half shot by Lake Orion senior forward Erica Whatley.

"The Detroit News picked Lake Orion to win and we really wanted to prove ourselves," said Laskowski, who, along with Livonia Stevenson senior sweeper Andi Sied, Foley junior forward Nicole Breger and Plymouth Canton junior forward, are the leading candidates for this year's Miss Soccer award.

"That loss to Foley really gave us a chance to refocus, because before that we thought we were unstoppable and we are. We are really playing well right now and we're looking forward to the semifinals."

Gottlieb expects his team will be back sometime in the near future.

"Athens is a very good team. They do so many things very well," he said. "We are not a state championship team quite yet, but we hope to reach that level in the future."

"We had a good season," he continued. "We are a very young team and we bring back a lot of people next season. We have a lot of potential."

Troy Athens 8, Sterling Heights 1

In a regional semifinal game Wednesday at Rochester, the second-ranked Red Hawks scored five first-half goals and tacked on three others after halftime to cruise to the win. Tiffany Laskowski scored two goals and assisted on two others to lead Athens (19-2). Nina Mastracci, Jessica Martin, Jessy Barrett, Laurie Ewald, Mandi Jasky and Andrea Weslosky also tallied for the Red Hawks.

Lake Orion 2, Utica Eisenhower 1 (OT, SO)

Every year, there's always a couple of teams that find the magic to slide on the glass slipper. This spring in the girls soccer Division I state tournament, Lake Orion is one of those contingents on a fairytale mission.

Despite playing the last third of the season without several key players on the sidelines with injuries, the Dragons still posted a minor upset on June 3 by topping Utica Eisenhower 2-

1 in a shootout at Utica High School to win the school's first-ever district title.

Lake Orion edged Eisenhower 4-3 on penalty kicks for the decisive goal.

"Can you believe it," said Lake Orion first-year coach Josh Gottlieb. "We weren't favored to win this game but we came through. We had to score with 1:30 left in (regulation) to do it, and then we held them off until the shootout."

Eisenhower, which controlled play throughout the contest, scored with just under 10 minutes left in regulation, and seemed poised for a berth in the regional round. But the unheralded Dragons (9-6-4) staked a late-game rush and netted the equalizer.

Junior Heather Purcell scored the game-tying goal off a breakaway pass from sophomore Erica Weaver to send the game into the two sudden-death, 15-minute overtime periods, where little offense was created.

During the shootout, both teams missed their first opportunity, but Elizabeth Balten, Megan Noll, Weaver and Beth Martin found the back of the net on their penalty-kick opportunities for the Dragons, and Orion junior goalkeeper Sarah Poisson came up with saves on Eisenhower's first and third attempts.

Poisson, who had over 20 saves in the match, also received stellar help from the defensive unit of Martin, Balten, freshman Andrea Crimando and sophomore Chelsea Russell. Both Crimando and Russell were promoted to the varsity ranks late in the season to fill in for injured players.

"That's the amazing thing about it. We had two players starting back there that I had to pull up from the (junior-varsity) because of injuries, and they've been doing a great job," praised Gottlieb. "Our defense played a great game. They packed it in and held us in the game."

"Eisenhower is a very good team and my hat goes off to them because I thought they kept the ball in our end for most of the game," he continued.

"Can you believe it," said Lake Orion first-year coach Josh Gottlieb. "We weren't favored to win this game but we came through. We had to score with 1:30 left in (regulation) to do it, and then we held them off until the shootout."

 Huntington

Banking. Investments. Insurance.

Member FDIC. *The Annual Percentage Yield (APY) for Premier Money Market Accounts is current as of 5/24/00. The APYs for this account are 5.58% for balances of $25,000 or more, 5.13% for balances of $10,000 to $24,999.99, and 1.50% for balances of $0 to $9,999.99. For balances of $0 to $3,999.99 the interest rate and APY may change at any time at our discretion without notice to you. For balances of $10,000 or more, the interest rate and APY will change automatically without notice to you on each Wednesday. Each such day is a "Rate Change Day". The index we use for the new rate(s) on each Rate Change Day will be the "coupon equivalent" rate of the most recent immediately prior 13-Week Treasury Bill auction. This is the "Index Rate". For balances of $10,000 to $24,999.99, the new interest rate is the rate that produces an APY of 65 basis points below the current Index Rate. For balances of $25,000 or more, the new interest rate is the rate that produces an APY of 40 basis points below the current Index Rate. The new interest rate will be in effect until the next Rate Change Day. Interest is compounded monthly. Fees could reduce the earnings on the account. The minimum deposit to open a Premier Money Market Account is $1,000. We reserve the right to limit acceptance of deposits greater than $10,000. Maximum balance to open and obtain Annual Percentage Yield (APY) for CDs is $10,000 ($2,000 for IRA CDs). A penalty will be imposed for early withdrawal. For personal accounts of less than $10,000, fees could reduce earnings on the account. APY is accurate as of 6/4/00 and subject to change without notice. Not valid with any other offer. Offer good until 7/15/00. Minimum Total Relationship Balance requirements must be met. • Huntington and e-Bank are federally registered service marks of Huntington Bancshares Incorporated. When Greg Wikaryasz of Milford is biking, his wardrobe is pretty laid back. "A good pair of boots, blue jeans — denim's a pretty tough material in case you do take a fall — and a leather jacket," he said.

He has the classic biker look — fitting in with a recent survey by J.D. Power and Associates, a global marketing information service based in California. Their 1999 Motorcycle Apparel Study says, overall, style, fit and comfort are more important than price for the well-dressed biker.

"The fact that motorcycle owners place more importance on style rather than price when choosing a new motorcycle jacket demonstrates that the appeal of motorcycle apparel goes well beyond its obvious role as protective gear," said Gil Niv, manager of motorcycle studies at J.D. Power.

"Selecting riding apparel is also about having the 'right look,' as riders wish to make a statement that will complement the image that comes with owning a motorcycle," Niv added. Brands receiving the highest

Second in a two-part series about motorcycles satisfaction ratings include Aerostich, BMW, Dainese, Firstgear, Harley Davidson and Vanson.

However, the study — which polled 4,600 new motorcycle owners and examined their buying behavior — said there's nothing like the plain leather jacket to make the well-dressed biker man (or woman).

Eighty-six percent of those surveyed supported the traditional look of leather, with 70 percent preferring the conventional "all-black" leather look. Sixteen percent preferred leather in different colors and 14 percent opted for non-leather or textile jackets, a growing trend.

According to J.D. Power, 80 percent of riders surveyed purchased their motorcycle jackets at established retail stores, 50 percent at motorcycle dealerships and 30 percent at accessory-only stores. Another 11 percent ordered their jackets through the mail and the remaining nine percent bought their jackets at rallies or similar events.

On the local level, shoppers buy traditionally at Motorclothes, a spacious store located within ABC Harley Davidson, a motorcycle dealership in Waterford. "Most people buy a leather jacket and helmet. Quite a few buy chaps and leather pants," said co-owner Ed Adler.

A look around the shop revealed items as unique as rings and clocks. But it also carries staples-like polish, oil filters and corrosion protectant. "We have everything from pool tables to leather pants for ladies. It's a cornucopia," Adler said.

Licensed products (many with the genuine Harley logo) are "an industry in themselves," Adler added.

"It's a big segment of our sales — from outfits for baby bikers to watches." Like Wikaryasz, his threads for the road are conservative: "my khaki pants, chaps and a leather jacket."

His biking partner, Dennis Atherton, agrees the store has just about everything to outfit any age rider. "We do a really big clothing business. It's as big as the motorcycles are. If it's anything to do with a motorcycle, we have it," Atherton said. "We buy direct from Harley. The quality is excellent."

Of course, some of the merchandise is pretty pricey, said salesperson Ava Esmacher.

"We have people come in and buy bikes. Then they will spend anywhere from $3,000 to $11,000 for all the accessories. And they say it's worth it. It's so much fun."

Best dressed bikers in town!

STAFF PHOTOS BY GARY MAYER

The right look: Judi Latreille, employee at "Motorcycle" fashions today's biker apparel for style, comfort and fit. Make a statement that will complement your personal image.

She has even seen biker wedding receptions. "What they do is change their clothes," Esmacher said. "Then they go to the reception in biker wear — with a 'just married' sign on the back of the Harley."

Assistant manager Judi Latreille said many famous people shop at the Motorclothes store, including professional athletes. "We get a lot of the Red Wings in here, the Lions and the Pistons," she said.

And during a recent Palace concert, "Wynonna Judd borrowed a bike from here for the gig," Latreille added.

The Judds concert, which also featured her mother Naomi, had Wynonna rising from the stage, clad in black leather on a Harley.

"We also do a lot of overseas and military sales," Latreille said. An experienced biker herself, she said "I always wear my full-leather helmet, chaps (for protection), jacket and gloves."

All in basic black, of course.

Currently featured at the store is a new "Cycle Club" jacket. It's for summer, although all leather jackets are fairly heavy, made from high-quality leather. It comes with matching chaps, which are laced up around the side to complement the laced-up-the-arms jacket. Latreille models the jacket, with a Harley Davidson logo emblazoned across the back.

"Women will wear a lot of different things," said Latreille of the store's merchandise. "But boots, a black T-shirt, black leather jacket and jeans — that's the genuine outfit for a guy Harley rider."

Eric Pferman, a sales person at USA Wheels in Oxford, which carries Yamaha and Suzuki motorcycles, said accessories are also a big part of his business. His customers like the products to complement their cycles.

T-shirts with the bike logos are popular, as well as hats and gloves. Nitrous oxide systems, "to enhance (bike) performance," are another top seller. So are all the hardware and decorative ornaments you would put on a bike, Pferman said. "We have a full-service department to put just about anything on a bike anybody wants."

Hip "CHIPS" police

As they say, there's nothing like a man in uniform.

According to Capt. Damon Shields of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Sheriff Michael Bouchard just leased 25 motorcycles for his officers from Motor City Harley in Farmington. Two were assigned to Orion.

Lt. Bruce Naille of the Orion substation said the cycles are "very navigable" through traffic and are especially appreciated because they're helpful in an election year when police will be needed for motorcades.

They also remind him of the long-respected standard of "community policing. It seems people are more inclined to speak to you. It's easy to pull up (to them)," he said. "It brings back a lot of memories like the 1970s TV police show CHIPS."

They may not turn heads like Erik Estrada of CHIPS fame, but the threads are similar. "It's a very attractive uniform" with its high-top boots and flared britches, Shields said.

The design is also durable with an approved helmet and standard gloves to protect officers from "June bugs" and crashes.

"If you're going 60 miles per hour and a June bug hits you, it can actually break the skin," Shields said. Add shiny, polished equipment, and you've got the look. "It's very, very sharp," Shields said.

Creative Cover Letters

Be concise:

Cover letter should reveal applicant's personality

By MARGO DEWEY
SPECIAL WRITER

Getting a college degree or experience in a skilled trade are both important when applying for a lucrative job, but an unusual cover letter can often open the door of communication with a future employer.

With thousands of college graduates searching for professional jobs, employers are getting inundated with resumes. The one thing that can help someone stand out from the stack of applicants is a cover letter.

Lorie Lebert, owner of Resumes For Results at 22398 Heatherbrae in Novi, is a certified professional resume writer and certified job and career transition coach. She has helped college graduates as well as many executives obtain their career goals by showing them the importance of writing a creative and professional cover letter.

"A cover letter should say why someone should read your resume," she said. "It should only be one page. It needs to be more interesting than 'enclosed, please find my resume.'

College graduates need to be aware

Good advice: Lorie Lebert of Resumes for Results says a good cover letter should stay why you want someone to read your resume.

of the market trends when applying for a job, she said. Researching a company before applying to a position is very helpful.

"Once you have researched a little about the company, then you can mention in your cover letter, for example, —you understand the company is the second-fastest growing in Michigan, and you want to be a part of that winning team."

Don't repeat what your resume states. Lebert recommends highlighting the strongest characteristics about yourself in the cover letter.

"If you have a college degree in the field you are applying for, then say it in the cover letter. If you graduated in the top 15 percent of your class, definitely point that out. You can also bullet some of your accomplishments so they stand out, especially if you are just graduating and you don't have much work experience. Include any volunteering you may have done."

Lebert offers three-hour workshops to assist individuals in developing interviewing skills. The workshops focus on the following: How to create your 90-second commercial or introduction; a hands-on interview exercise; discussion on interview formats; interview preparation; answering interviewer's questions; questions to ask the interviewer; an application

There are pros and cons in every career move you make

Q. I am currently working from home with no benefits or long term pension plan.

Recently, a competitor offered me an attractive salary at about 20 percent more than I am making now, plus benefits. There is probably no real upward mobility for me in this company. I received another offer with a much larger organization for 15 percent less than I am making now, but with good benefits. In the second company, there is also a much greater emphasis on career and personal development. I am torn. What should I be considering here?

M.C.

A. Another reader asked this question several years ago. I told her there is nothing wrong with taking a small step backward in salary for the sake of growth, especially if there is a verifiable history of promoting employees from that position. On the other hand, when growth projections are based upon a recruiter's optimism, the strength of a relationship with a boss, or anticipated company expansion, a good deal of skepticism is in order.

While all of this is still true, today's market conditions necessitate a little more discussion. Lower unemployment rates have not translated into higher employee retention rates. As far as I know, there is no national measure of turnover. It

NEW HOMES & REAL ESTATE

NO

Sunday, June 11, 2000

Thinking of hiring a home inspector?

If you are looking at a new home, you may be wondering about home inspection.

When do I call a home inspector?

The best time to call in a home inspector is after you've made an offer on the house, and before you sign the contract. Or you can ask your attorney or real estate agent to include an inspection clause in the contract making your purchase obligation contingent upon the findings of a professional home inspection. Most - if not all - purchase agreements have this phrase already in them as a standard part of the contract.

Do I have to be there during the inspection?

It's not necessary but it is a good idea. By following the home inspector around the house, by observing and asking questions, you will learn about your new home and get some tips on maintenance in general.

What if the inspector's report reveals problems?

A negative report doesn't necessarily mean you shouldn't buy the home. It does mean that you will know in advance what type of repairs to anticipate. A seller may be willing to renegotiate the purchase price because of significant or safety-related problems discovered in an inspection.

If your budget is tight, or if you don't want to become involved in future repair work, you may decide that this is not the house for you. The choice is yours.

If the report is good, did I really need an inspection?

Definitely, unless you never worry about making the biggest purchase of your life.

You also may have learned a few things about your new home from the inspector's report. Keep the report for future reference.

Bloomfield House Inspectors can be reached at (800) 750-6660 or at www.inspect-your-home.com.

Subdivision trades drive time for value

If you measure the drive by time rather than distance and look at affordability, Chestnut Hills in Davison Township may just fit the bill for you.

The platted community, developed and built by Larry Cohen, is about 35 minutes up I-75 from the Daimler-Chrysler Technology Center and Great Lakes Crossing.

Forty-five houses are scheduled for phase one, 225 ultimately.

Prices range from $139,375 for a bi-level of 1,140 square feet with two bedrooms and two baths to $168,375 for a two story of 1,560 square feet with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

Cohen described the houses as "componentized." That is, they're partially built in components at a factory in Indiana and assembled in Davison with a garage and other locally built modifications added on site.

The floor plans, exterior designs and construction are a collaborative effort between TVI Interiors, Dominic Tringali Associates and Crest Homes, Cohen said.

The goal at Chestnut Hills, Cohen said, was new construction at the most affordable price.

"We found Davison had all the right stuff - sewer capacity, water capacity. Land cost was right," he said.

"Once we found the site, we started looking at product. We wanted to open in the $120,000-$130,000s and still have a full basement and two-car garages.

Chestnut Hills probably would be especially attractive to younger people who grew up in the Troy, Rochester, Clarkston areas who are just starting their careers and can't afford to buy homes there now, Cohen said.

"We wanted to give people a choice other than renting and that kind of thing (mobile home park)," he said. "We're really trying to keep prices modest."

The commute to automotive, retail and medical-related jobs in north Oakland County wouldn't be that much of a bother, Cohen projected.

"It's pretty convenient to get to the freeway (I-69, then I-75). You don't drive in rush area crunch," he said.

And Chestnut Hills, itself, is across the road from a farm and within walking distance of Davison High School. "There's a lot of nice country out here," Cohen said.

The houses at Chestnut Hills are functional without having added-cost items such as ceramic/wood flooring, fancy fixtures and brick exteriors.

Your choice: This house at Chestnut Hills can either function as a ranch with a large upstairs storage area or finished into a story-and-a-half.

A ranch, bi-level, two story and story-and-a-half plan are available. All contain at base price two-car garage, basement or lower level, dishwasher and range, carpeting throughout, textured ceilings throughout and brick-textured, concrete walls in the basement.

A first-floor laundry is in all plans except the bi-level, where it's placed in the lower level off the garage entrance and a few steps down from the main living area.

A fireplace ($2,500) and air conditioning ($3,500) are upgrades.

Three models have been constructed.

The ranch, 1,320 square feet, includes a living room and dining area with sloped ceiling, den, master with sloped ceiling, shower and large wall closet, a second bedroom and a second bath with combination tub/shower.

Base price is $151,375, the model as is about $155,000.

The story-and-a-half actually is a ranch with a large attic which would make it a story-and-a-half, officially, when finished.

That home, 1,144 square feet, features a living room, dining area, two bedrooms and a bath with combination tub/shower. Base price is $145,375, the model as is about $150,600.

Cohen will finish the upstairs - two bedrooms and a bath totaling 615 square feet - for an additional $24,500.

The two story, 1,560 square feet, contains a living room, dining room, nook and half-bath on the main floor, the master with shower, two other bedrooms and a full bath upstairs.

Base price is $158,375, the model as is about $165,900.

The bi-level, (no model), 1,140 square feet, not including the unfinished lower level, features two bedrooms, two baths and a wide-open living room, dining room, kitchen on the walk-up level.

The lower level will be finished family room, powder room and laundry room - an additional 570 square feet, for $27,500.

Donna Creason is the sales associate at Chestnut Hills.

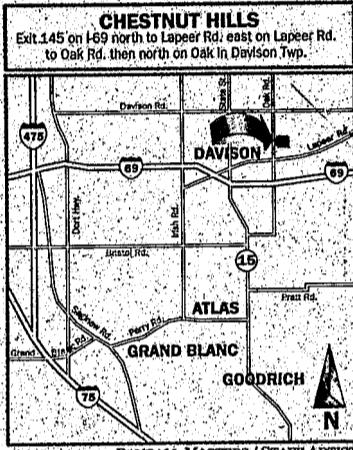

"In the Cape Cod, they like the kitchen - it's nice and big - and they like the upstairs, having the option for us to finish or them to finish," she said.

"In the two story, they like the fact they have two full baths upstairs and a dining area and a breakfast nook (down)," Creason said.

Chestnut Hills is served by city water, city sewers and sidewalks. It's within the Davison school boundaries.

The property tax rate is $.25-.50 per $1,000 of taxable value, half of sales price. That means the owners of a $152,000 home would pay about $1,950 the first year.

Keith and Linda Rogers have ordered a story-and-a-half with finished upper level for themselves and children, Brendan, Austin and Courtney.

"I was looking in Orion," Keith said.

"The house I got now (Chestnut Hills) is probably $40,000 less expensive. That's nice. It's a nice area up there."

The sales office at Chestnut Hills, (810) 653-2348, is open noon to 5 p.m. daily, closed Thursdays. Take I-75 or I-475 to I-69, east on I-69 to the M-15 (State/Ortonville) exit north to Lapeer Road, east on Lapeer then north on Oak.

The Jefferson
Goodison Place has new model offering all the best in custom features.

Vito Anthony Homes is proud to announce the opening of their new 5,400 square foot model in mid-June 2000. The Jefferson takes us into the final phase of our $700,000 and up development at Goodison Place, located in the heart of Oakland Township.

The Jefferson model showcases the best in high end features, such as: "Woodmode" cabinets, upscale appliances, wrought iron rails, custom wood work and paint design, as well as solid mahogany doors throughout.

Our standard features still offer the best in homes from $700,000 to $2,000,000. Our base price includes: 3 car garage, 2 "90 plus" furnaces, Pella windows, complete Kohler fixtures, "Delta-M" 20 year basement water-proof warranty, "Silent Floor" system, "Woodmode-Brook Haven" cabinets, coordinating mailbox and lamp posts. The Vito Anthony trade mark shows in our custom brick and limestone elevations.

Vito Anthony Homes has created city living in the country with side walks, yet the 100 acres offers breathing space with estate size lots.

Goodison Place is close to many popular locations in Oakland County, being only minutes away from 2 major expressways. Shopping, parks, and walking trails are

Compact ranch features 3 bedrooms, large garage

The Gabriel Bay (D8013) is a compact home, ideal for the young couple just starting out. It has 1,392 square feet of open living area. The outside has a brick and wood facade, a covered porch with two pillars and a decorative window.

This home, only 42 feet wide, would be ideal for any of the smaller lots that have become available for building.

Once in the entry, the Gabriel Bay is open to the great room. A large fireplace is on the rear wall of the great room, ideal for heat and for the aesthetic look. There are windows on each side, bathing the room with light and a feel of spaciousness.

On the left side of the great room through an archway is the kitchen and nook. The nook has a large window seat across the back wall and a door that opens to the backyard.

The kitchen has been designed with a large amount of counter space. There is an eating bar, dual sinks, a pantry, and walk-in storage closet.

On the opposite side from the pantry is the utility room, tucked back between the kitchen and the garage.

For convenience, a door to the two-car garage has been added at the end of the kitchen. This helps with unloading groceries, getting kids in from the car, or coming in from working outside and leaving the dirty clothes in the utility room.

The garage is oversized and has an area that could be used storage or as a workbench.

The bedrooms are located on the right side of the Gabriel Bay.

The master suite is in the rear, with a large walk-in closet and a full bath. Extras have been put into the master bath such as an oversized corner tub, a shower, and his-and-hers sinks. For convenience, the linen closet is just outside the main suite door.

Bedrooms two and three have a full bath with a tub between them. Each room has a wall closet behind folding doors and large windows for extra light. There is also a linen closet for these rooms.

The stairs to the unfinished optional basement is located between the master suite and bedroom three. If a basement is not needed, this area would become part of the great room.

Overall, the Gabriel Bay has great potential for the new homeowner. It is not small, nor is it too large. It would fit nicely on several different kinds of lots.

For a study plan of the Gabriel Bay (D8013), send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (specify plan name and number for study plan).

For a collection of plan books, send $20.00 or save by ordering the study plan and collection together for $34.95. For faster processing, call 1-800-562-1151 or visit our Web site at www.landmarkdesigns.com.

Let's Talk About
Real Estate

"WHEN SELLING, LOOK THROUGH THE EYES OF A BUYER"

When you sell your property, you are naturally concerned about your own situation. How long will it take? How much will I receive? What hassles will I have to go through to get it sold? All of these questions are perfectly understandable. I do believe, however, that the best way to accomplish your goal is to look at your home the way a buyer does. Here are the steps:

HOW MANY HOMES SIMILAR TO YOURS ARE FOR SALE?

Does the buyer have many choices in today's market? If times are slow, there may be many homes to consider. If the market is strong, a buyer may have few options.

HOW DOES YOUR LOCATION COMPARE TO THE OTHERS?

Location is the single greatest factor that either heightens or lessens demand for your property. A desirable community, school system, neighborhood and surrounding property will impact the success of your sale. How does your location compete with other homes now for sale?

WHAT IS THE CONDITION OF THE PROPERTIES AVAILABLE?

Most buyers today don't want to put money, time and effort into fixing up a recent purchase. People are in too much of a hurry in their daily lives to find the time and energy necessary to update a property in need of repairs. Is your home in good condition? It could help you win out over another dwelling that competes with your in every other category except condition.

WHAT ARE THE ASKING PRICES OF THE ALTERNATIVE HOMES?

Many sellers base their asking price on recent sales. This can be helpful but is not the only source to consider. Remember, your property will not have to compete against those that have already been sold. It must be attractive from a price perspective when compared with similar homes now for sale. Find out what others are asking and position your property so that it will invite showings. You will never sell it until you can get showings.

ADVICE: Because Realtors work with buyers everyday, they are able to give you the marketing assistance you need to sell for top dollar. Don't sell without using the services of a Realtor.
