Holly Spring Festival to Benefit Kidney Foundation

The Holly Spring Festival scheduled for May 12 and 13 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. will offer entertainment for the whole family.

The Festival will feature events like tarot card readings, clowns, foreign food prepared by the International Institute, hourly magic shows, a strolling minstrel, and many other events.

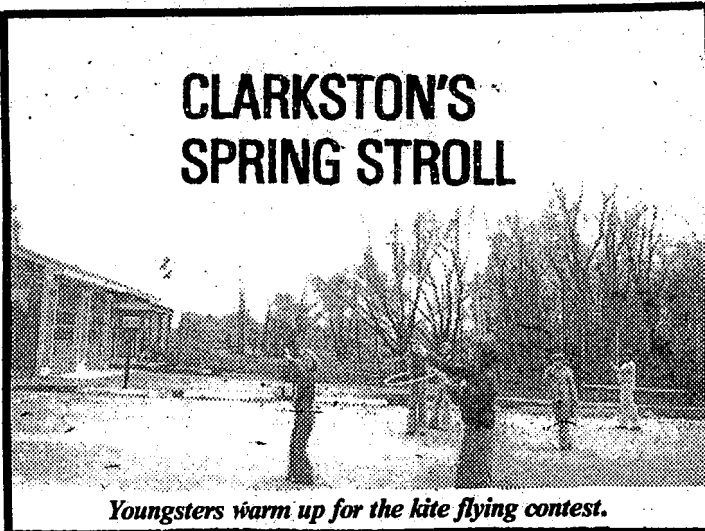

One of the highlights of the festival will be an auction featuring items donated by local merchants and residents. The weekend festival will be kicked off by a dinner dance complete with a cocktail hour at 7 p.m. and dancing to a live band. This will all take place on Wednesday, May 10 at Holly Greens.

The proceeds from the dance and festival will be donated to the Kidney Foundation of Michigan. Contact Ellen Hilty, 634-7711 for dinner dance tickets and festival information.

CLARKSTON'S SPRING STROLL

Youngsters warm up for the kite flying contest.

Everyone enjoys the free ice cream cones given away by Pontiac State Bank.

In a letter to the Independence Township Board, full-time firefighters, who only last fall formed the Independence Township Professional Firefighters Association, announced their affiliation with the International Association of Firefighters, a part of the American Federation of Labor and asked the township to recognize that affiliation. The board responded by sending the letter to the township attorney for consideration.

The board also received a copy of a letter from the Oakland County Health Department to the State Environmental Protection Bureau stating the county has found that complaints received about the Powell landfill on Clarkston Road are unfounded. Operators of the landfill were found in compliance with the rules, running a "good operation," and cooperative as far as the health department was concerned.

A question about CETA employees in the police department was officially answered in a letter stating there may not be an increase in CETA deputies with a township-paid deputy from being transferred to a CETA deputy position.

The township was notified that a petition had been filed in circuit court asking that Lakeview lot lines be redrawn. It is the contention of the petitioner Roy Haeusler that they are not accurate and may be off by as much as twenty feet. Since the area was platted many years ago, the section markers and/or lot lines may be inaccurate.

Two letters of complaint were received from area builders about the township building department. The feeling was that the problem stemmed from the department being "overworked and overloaded."

Two requests for the township's only remaining liquor license were received, one from Pine Knob and the other from Paul Rice, former owner of the Clarkston Cafe.

Independence Has New Sign Ordinance

by Carol Balzarini

Independence Township has a new policy concerning temporary signs despite a recommendation from the Business Association of Independence Township (BAIT) that the present ordinance be more strictly enforced rather than changed. The new policy was the subject of discussion at the Independence

Board Meeting.

The 30-day ter-sign permit will now accompanied by a $150 cash bond, which will be forfeited if the sign is not removed within three working days of the permit's expiration.

Building department director Tim Palulian repeated his defense of cash bonds making the ordinance easier to enforce. Palulian admitted he had very little control over temporary signs at present and needed the additional leverage to assure their removal.

Recreation director Tim Doyle reported his application for Title V funding for the senior citizens' center had been turned down for three reasons, all erroneous.

Reasons given were 1).
The building had burned and was no longer in existence, 2.) The township did not participate in the Title VII hot meal program and 3.) There were no ongoing senior citizen programs. All of these conclusions were reached despite the fact that an on-site inspection had never been made as promised.

Now, a new inspection has been scheduled, but all of the paper work must be redone with a deadline of May 19. The final decision regarding funding may not be known before August.

In the meantime, fire damage work on the seniors' center is nearly complete, the well or the septic field will have to be relocated, and specifications are being drawn up for the road and parking lot.

The township is also interested in acquiring a land-locked piece of property adjacent to the center.
Possession of this property would facilitate building the access road at this time and could serve as the site for further township buildings.

John Helveston, Deer
Wood developer, appeared before the board seeking a "pay back" agreement with the township concerning the sewers he has installed at an estimated cost of $434,000 and which may be tapped into by an estimated 830 home owners.

Basically, Helveston is asking that those who tap in, once an agreement with the township is reached, pay an additional $560 which would go to him as reimbursement of a portion of his investment.

DPW director George Anderson stated his opposition to any such "pay back" agreement while township attorney Richard Campbell's opinion was

We've carefully analyzed the three considerations most important to the average person when selecting a bank. They are, rate of interest on savings, cost of checking and convenience. At Community Bank we call this combination Community's BASIC III, and we submit that when you compare our BASIC III to the same combination at any other bank serving Oakland County, you'll agree that Community delivers the most value. Here are the facts.

I. 5% Savings

Community Bank's regular savings earn 5% which is the highest allowable rate of interest on regular savings in Michigan, and therefore equals the interest rate of any other bank in Oakland County.

II. Check '76

With only a minimum monthly checking balance of $76.00, you can have free checking at Community National Bank. There are no statement charges, no strings, no fuss and your first 76 checks are free. It's the most economical free checking plan in this area.

III. Convenience

Convenience is always foremost when considering where to bank and here, again, Community National Bank leads the list. With 26 branches in Oakland County, no other bank can match Community National for all around convenience.

Consider those facts and then ask yourself, "Shouldn't I be getting the best value in banking, too?" The way to do it is to drop in to any of the Community National Bank branches listed.

I am certain that whoever thought up Mother's Day meant well, but I wish they hadn't. It is just one more of those days that depress me because I get weighed down by guilt feelings.

I not only have guilt feelings about my relationship with my own mother, but I have guilt feelings about my daughters' relationship with me. That is because I am neither an ideal daughter nor an ideal mother.

In the first place, if I send my mother a sweet, mushy card, or a lovely gift, she will think I want to borrow some money from her. After years of telling her all the things she did wrong when she was raising me, it is just too hypocritical of me to send her anything but a funny card!

Actually, we have always had a very good relationship, because I am about twice the size of her (I take after my father's side of the family), and because she always wanted to be tall. That resulted in a homely little bit of philosophy. She kept telling me I was lucky that I could reach the top shelves of everything, so I shouldn't complain that I always had to clean them!

My mother was a career mother, and now she is a career grandmother. There are four children in our family, and we each have three children, so she has twelve grandchildren to fuss about. The oldest one is twenty two, and the youngest one is four, so she has her hands full. That doesn't give her too much time to think about the four of us - which is a good thing, because she can't stand it when we don't all agree on things, and we don't. We never tell each other that, though. Instead, we call Mother and make snide remarks about each other, and she always ends up in the middle of disagreements, and then we blame her for confusing the issue.

I learned a lot at my mother's knee, however. That's because of my guilt feelings. I learned that children feel guilty if their mother spends all day Sunday fixing a big dinner while the rest of the family reads the funny papers and otherwise relaxes. That is why I am not an ideal mother.

My ideal mother is one who does the housework in high heels and nail polish, and remains beautifully groomed the whole time. (My mother didn't, and neither do I, but that is my ideal).

My ideal mother is someone who is always calm and reasonable. (My mother wasn't, and neither am I, but -)

My ideal mother is someone who plans good, nutritious meals for her family (with no junk or fast food) and is up at 5:30 in the morning putting together the homemade soup with all the vegetable cooking water, etc., which she has been collecting in a jar in the refrigerator. At 6:30, the homemade bread is rising, and at 7:30, a delicious, wholesome breakfast, fit for a king, is served on a beautifully set table, with flowers in a vase, to cheer the sleepy family.

By 9:00, all the housework is done, and the new handmade slipcovers are given the final touches before the furniture is carefully and lovingly covered with them, and then on to the hemming of the drapes that have been so lovingly made with those careworn hands.

The sewing machine comes out next, to make costumes for the children's programs at school, a couple of new outfits are made for each child, and Mom's few needs are met by remaking one of Daughter's old dresses, and then it is time for the hand-knitting of sweaters.

By the time those are done, and a long letter has been written to Mom's own mother and several notes have been written, thanking people for gifts to the children, it is time to help the returning children with their homework, while fixing dinner.

After dinner has been served, the kitchen is cleaned and shining, and it is time to do the laundry. After it has been washed, dried and lovingly folded, Mom sorts it and replaces it in shiny, spotless bedrooms, where curtains are snowy white, and everything smells lemony. Then, my ideal mother goes to bed, happy, but content - because she has lived for love.

My kids don't have a mother like that. No wonder I feel guilty. I want them to have the best of everything, and then I neglect them. I guess I'll never be the type of mother who has long poems written about her, and I may not even bring a tear to anyone's eye when someone sings one of those sweet ballads about "Mother of Mine."

I think it all is due to the fact that everyone I talked to when I was first due to become a mother, got me confused. Every mother had different do's and don'ts to offer on the subject of motherhood. I finally decided that it was anyone's guess as to what would produce the perfect child.

Joan Allen

Feature Editor

Now, I discovered at a young age that people do not use their ability to communicate as it should be used. Very few people make it a habit to consistently say what they mean, and mean what they say. I decided to consult some mothers for advice who would be honest and straightforward about child-rearing. I consulted a mother cat and mother dog, and some other down-to-earth mothers like birds, etc., and I learned something on the subject.

One, it is better not to question whether or not you want the responsibility of children. If you have them, you accept your fate, and do the best you can.

Two, you set a good example for them. The object is to teach them how to obtain food for themselves, and how to protect themselves from danger.

Three, you don't accept backtalk when danger is near, and you don't let them carry foolishness too far when you want to rest. You watch fondly to a certain point, and then you cuff them gently, or growl a little to let them know it is time to stop.

Four, you gain control of them when they are small, so that you can maintain that control when they are as big, or bigger than you are. You don't control them for your benefit, however, but only to hold their attention while you teach them about life.

Five, once you've taught them everything you know, and you've fed and protected them while they were dependant, you take pride in the fact that you have done a good job, and go about your own life, and allow them to do the same.

Six, if you've done your job well, and they want to stick around, they make good friends and neighbors. If they take off, you wish them luck, and you go about your own life.

Now, that is what I've tried to imitate, and it has worked well. I have only said "no" when there was real danger for a child if I said "yes." I have never pretended to know everything (I'm only human) nor have I expected them to know anything that I have never taught them. And I have taught them to care for themselves, and given them the responsibility for their own lives. It has made them more careful what they do with them. As a result, they are all honor students, and we have no drug or alcohol problems, and we have never had to set a curfew. They set their own, based on their need for sleep, and the next day's activities.

On the other hand, I have always been available to help them work out a problem, listen to them talk about things that were bothering them, help them with sewing projects and provided a shoulder for them to cry on when they made mistakes, and reminded them that to be human is to be imperfect, and that life is a series of problems to be solved. A far cry from my ideal mother, but it has worked thus far, and I only have one child left - the other two are adults whose company I enjoy.

Kingswood Offers Summer Seminars

Floor-loom weaving, filmmaking, algebra, environmental biology, computer science, sculpture, typing and photography are among the courses offered by Kingswood Summer Seminars this summer.

Emphasis is on enrichment and learning for pleasure, although students may elect courses for credit at their home schools. Faculty is composed of teachers primarily from the Cranbrook Schools. Most seminars are limited to 10 students to provide a challenging academic experience and individualized attention.

Enrollment is open to adults, and to students who will enter grades seven through twelve in the fall. Two three-week sessions will be held June 26 to July 14 and July 17 to August 4 at Kingswood School, Cranbrook. For a complete course listing, call 645-3423.

Still Time to Register For Operation Waterproof

Parents of Clarkston School District children are reminded there is still time to register them for Operation Waterproof, even though the parents may have been unable to attend the May 9 meeting at Clarkston Junior High School.

Registration forms for each child and checks made out to the Clarkston Jaycees may be sent to school with the children by Thursday, May 11. The children, however, must be at least 4 feet, 6 inches tall or already able to swim.

The swimming program, to be held at the Pontiac Northern High School pool this year, begins Saturday, May 13, and continues on May 20, June 3, 10, 17 and 24.

Bus transportation is provided to and from Pontiac Northern but parents are responsible for getting their children to and from the pickup schools. The Jaycees also request that parents volunteer to supervise the children while in transit according to school bus regulations.

Additional questions may be directed to coordinator Larry Beamer at 394-0321.

Bother Me!

by Mandy Mitts

Dear Mandy,

We moved into an apartment recently because we are retired and didn't want the upkeep of a home. It is a very nice apartment and certainly not cheap!! The problem is the neighbors on either side of us are very friendly to each other and do a lot of running back and forth and we're getting annoyed at all the noise they make saying good-by etc. from one door to the other. My husband is threatening to go out and tell them to shut-up! Do you think that is the best way to handle the situation?

New Neighbor

Dear New Neighbor,

Your problem is not unusual for people who have moved from a home to an apartment. When surroundings have been peaceful, it takes a while to learn to "turn off" strange noises and confusion. Most complaints from apartment dwellers, however, are the lack of friendliness and "coldness" of their neighbors. It sounds as if your neighbors are neither unfriendly nor cold. Rather than appear that way yourselves, why don't you invite them all in for coffee and get acquainted. Perhaps the noise would not bother you as much if it was the comforting noise of friends. If being friends with them does not help the situation, discuss the problem with the building manager. A move to a different apartment might be less upsetting than constant irritation.

Mandy

Dear Mandy,

Before we left on a trip recently, some friends of ours asked us to get a set of glasses from a store we planned to visit. They knew the store carried them but weren't sure of the price so we said we'd pay for them and they could reimburse us. We bought the glasses - and put them in the trunk (they were well packed and we took every precaution against breakage because they were really expensive. On the way home we were hit from behind by a truck and the glasses were broken. Now our friends refuse to pay for them because they never received them - and even hinted that we disposed of them some other way. The sales slip doesn't phase them. I want to drop them but my husband says he can understand how they feel and we shouldn't let it interfere with our friendship. What do you think?

Gypped

Dear Gypped,

I can understand how your friends feel and also how you and your husband feel, and suggest you let your friends order their merchandise from the store itself in the future. However, you were acting as their agent, and the accident was unforeseen, so I believe they should pay you for the glassware anyway. You might offer to split the bill with them since you did take the responsibility for the delivery. In either event, if they did hint to you that there was a possibility that the glasses weren't even in the trunk, I would suggest that you find new friends -- these sound like losers to me!

Reservations must be made in advance by calling Lynda Sorgatz at 625-0759 or Jane Heck at 394-0199.

VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING April 24

Meeting called to order by President Hallman at 7:30 p.m. followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Roll: Present - ApMadoc, Byers, Schultz, Thayer, Weber. Absent - Basinger.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The council discussed providing handicapped parking spaces downtown.

Moved by Byers, seconded by Weber to designate a spot at the southeast corner of the parking lot on Main St. for handicapped parking. Motion carried unanimously.

President Hallman made the following 1978-79 appointments, which were acted on as follows:

Moved by ApMadoc, seconded by Schultz to concur with the re-appointment of Harry Mosher and Bud Yoh to three-year terms on the Board of Appeals. Motion carried unanimously.

Moved by Byers, seconded by Schultz to concur with the re-appointment of Steve Himburg, Robert Sanderson, and Dean Smith to three-year terms on the Planning Commission. Motion carried unanimously.

Moved by ApMadoc, seconded by Schultz to concur with appointing Trustees Basinger and Byers to the Legislative and Planning Committee, Trustees Basinger and Byers to the Legislative and Planning Committee, Trustees ApMadoc and Thayer to the Sewer and Finance Committee; Trustees Schultz and Weber to the Streets and Police Committee, Trustee Weber as Police Commissioner, and Trustee Schultz as Street Commissioner. Motion carried unanimously.

Moved by Weber, seconded by Thayer to concur with the re-appointment of Trustee ApMadoc as President Pro-Tem, Jane Rogers as Deputy Clerk, and Mary Ann Pappas as Deputy Treasurer. Motion carried unanimously. Moved by Weber, seconded by ApMadoc to concur with the re-appointment of Jack McCall as our Police Chief. Motion carried unanimously. Moved by Schultz, seconded by Byers to concur with re-appointment of Frank Ronk as our Fire Chief. Motion carried unanimously.

Moved by Schultz, seconded by ApMadoc to concur with the re-appointment of the firm of Booth, Patterson, Karlstrom, Lee and Steckling as our attorney. Motion carried unanimously.

Moved by Byers, seconded by Weber to concur with the re-appointment of the Independence Township Building Department as our Building Inspectors. Motion carried unanimously.

Chuck Cairns of Vilcan-Leman, village planners; and Ted Thomson, Planning Commission Chairman, presented the Land Use Development Plan to the council. They mentioned that this is a plan for future development and preserving what we have already, not actual zoning. The council and residents in the audience discussed the parking portions of the Plan. A Public Hearing on it will be held at a later date.

Moved by ApMadoc, seconded by Weber to approve the request for Site Plan approval for Bowen Brook, owner of The Garter Building on S. Main St., as presented. This has already been approved by the planning commission and the board of appeals. Motion carried unanimously.

The council and residents in the audience discussed the fill that had recently been placed in a section of the park. Gar Wilson stated that he had had it placed there from construction work at Clarkston Mills so that that area of the park could be mowed in the future, but that they had dumped some of the fill beyond where they were supposed to, and some of the fill contained concrete and wood, which Clarkston Mills workers were in the process of removing. Being in compliance with flood plain laws on this project was also discussed.

Moved by Schultz, seconded by Byers to contact the Department of Natural Resources to advise us regarding future development of the park area. Motion carried unanimously.

Some Holcomb Street residents wanted to know about how far the portion of Holcomb by the Depot intersection would be widened with the upcoming road improvement there. The county will be widening from 3 to 5 feet for a distance of 150 feet in both directions of the intersection. The plans are presently being drawn up by the village engineer.

The residents also wanted to know about the Traffic Control Order banning trucks on N. Holcomb applying to local deliveries. This is being left up to the discretion of the police department.

Rita Chisholm of Miller Road requested permission from the council to put weed killer in a part of the Mill Pond by her house. She was told to contact the Department of Natural Resources for their permission.

Treasurer Art Pappas presented the proposed 1978-79 budget to the council which he and the budget committee had prepared. They recommended that the budget committee meet every other month this year to update it if necessary, and that the millage levy for 1978-79 be 13 mills, the same as last year.

Moved by ApMadoc, seconded by Schultz to adopt the 1978-79 budget as presented. Roll: ayes - ApMadoc, Byers, Schultz, Thayer, Weber. Nays - none. Motion carried. A copy of this budget is attached to the minutes.

Moved by Byers, seconded by Thayer that general fund millage be levied in the amount of three mills for 1978-79. Roll: ayes - ApMadoc, Byers, Schultz, Thayer, Weber. Nays - none. Motion carried.

Moved by ApMadoc, seconded by Schultz to decrease the levy to ten mills for the ad valorem tax on liquidation of the sewer indebtedness in the village. Roll: ayes - ApMadoc, Byers, Schultz, Thayer, Weber. Nays - none. Motion carried.

President Hallman proclaimed May 15th to June 15th as Muscular Dystrophy Month in the Village of Clarkston.

Moved by ApMadoc, seconded by Weber to approve the Service Agreement for our copy machine from Tri-County Copy, Inc. at the rate of $105 per year. Roll: ayes - ApMadoc, Byers, Schultz, Thayer, Weber. Nays - none. Motion carried.

Moved by Byers, seconded by ApMadoc to authorize the township Parks and Recreation Department to remove the dead tree near the stream in Deer Lake Beach, as per their request. Motion carried unanimously.

Correspondence from Betty Hallman was read, stating her resignation from the Village Band Committee, and recommending that the Band Boosters might be contacted to see if they would be interested in taking on the summer band program in the park.

Moved by Schultz, seconded by Byers to contact the Band Boosters to request that they take over the summer concert program in the park, and to have Trustee Schultz as the council representative to this. Motion carried unanimously.

The council discussed whether to publish the entire minutes or a synopsis of them in the Clarkston News after each council meeting.

Trustee Thayer and Trustee Byers will check into costs of an answering device for the phone in the village hall.

President Hallman declared the meeting adjourned at 11:20 p.m.

WITH A WILL - THERE'S A WAY

If you own anything - a car, house, savings account, anything with monetary value - you should have a will.

With a will, you save your loved ones considerable time and money in the handling of your estate. Further, you are assured that your estate will not be executed by strangers, but by people you know and trust.

How do you make a will? First, see your lawyer. It's not all that expensive for most estate planning. He has the forms, knows the requirements of the state, and probably has enough of your personal affairs to help in preparing for future management of your estate.

You may change your will whenever and however you wish. The important thing is to get started and to do it right away.

You may also include provision for funeral arrangements as part of the will. We can provide counselling, without obligation, on this aspect of your will, but only this particular aspect.

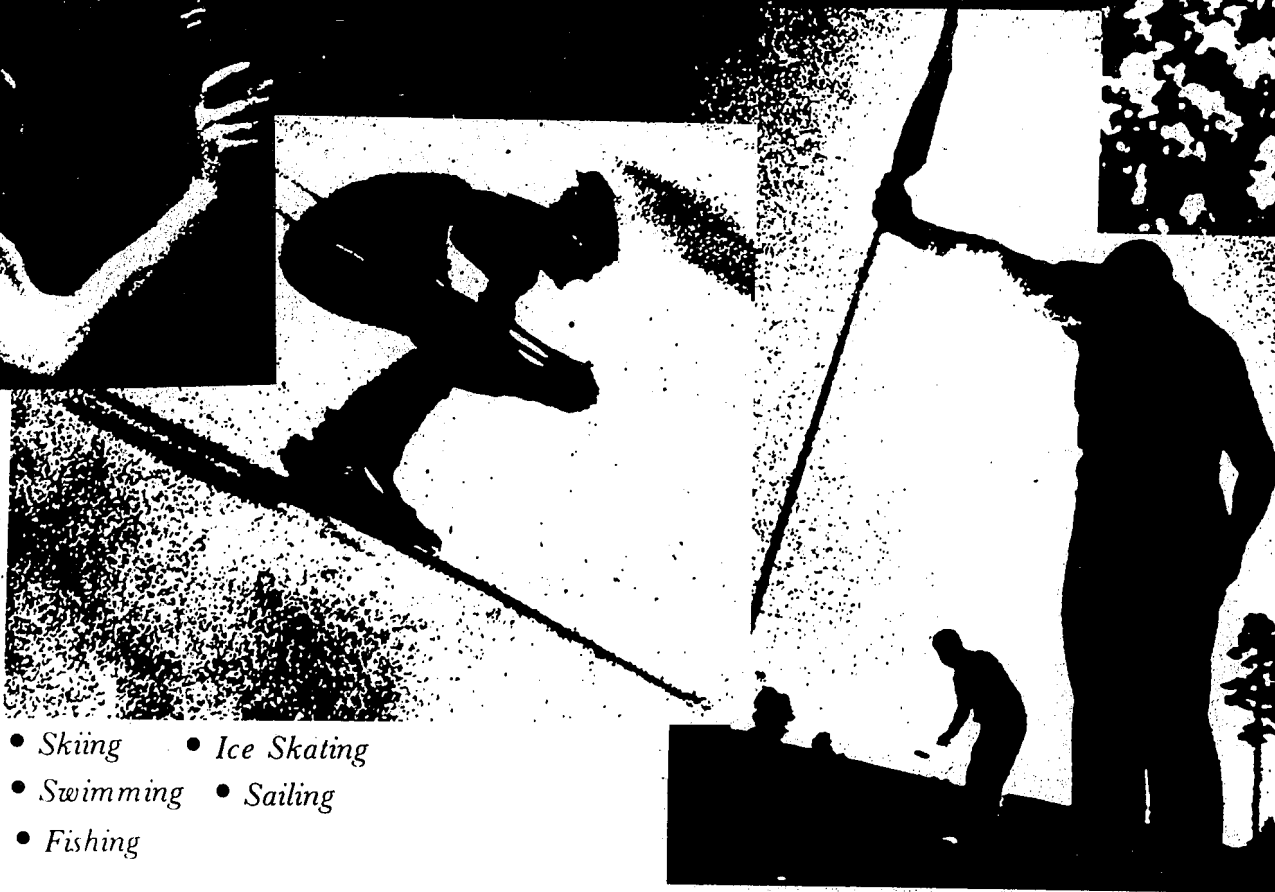

We welcome your questions and comments - privately or publicly, through this column.

Some Thoughts on Motherhood

I must confess I have mixed emotions about the annual observance - I refuse to say celebration - of Mother's Day. That day and my birthday frequently coincide and I'm getting to that stage in life where birthdays are not necessarily a cause for celebration.

Perhaps I'm just reaching that mid-life crisis where the phrase "Enjoy yourself, it's later than you think" is competing with an ad slogan that tells me, "You're not getting older, you're just getting better."

It's probably also significant that I am now reading Gail Sheehy's book, "Passages" which deals with predictable crises of adult life.

One predictable mid-life crisis she does not cover to my satisfaction is the "Mother of Teenagers" crisis. That's when mothers everywhere wish the local secondary schools were surrounded by high-rise apartments so more teenagers could walk to school in the morning and, more importantly, walk home afterward.

It's the after-school hours that tend to bring on the crisis point when mothers not only find it difficult to remember what time practice will be over, but also just which practice it is at any given time. Our house has a calendar that would make a professional baseball team nervous.

I have also come to the conclusion that all of those athletic award ceremonies should include some additional categories like "Most Valuable Mother" or "Most Improved Mother" or even "Sports Mother of the Year." After all, if it weren't for mothers, those little athletes wouldn't be there in the first place.

I suppose every mother dreams of her child becoming another Reggie Jackson or Bruce Jenner or Chris Evert and encourages her child to participate in athletics. Kids can take tennis lessons, swimming lessons, skating lessons. They can participate in gymnastics on Saturday, ski in the winter, play baseball in the summer. In school they get basketball, soccer, track, volleyball, whatever.

We look at them with pride and delight at how busy they are. Suddenly, we realize they really are busy, sure they are, but so are we. We're busy getting them to and from practice, keeping dinners warm, cheering them on in spite of the weather, and always having their uniforms clean.

These conclusions I've reached did not come to me in the quiet, creative atmosphere of my office but in my car where I seem to spend a great deal of time these days. As a matter of fact, my last will and testament stipulates that I am to be placed behind the wheel of my car and buried beneath the junior high school parking lot.

They say mothers should enjoy their children while they have them, because they are with us such a short time. But, good grief, will we survive that brief period of time? There are days when I'm not so sure I will.

One final note - you will observe there's only one day set aside each year for mothers and only one dedicated to fathers. Does it follow that the other 363 belong to children?

What to do About Ormond Road? Several Alternatives

by Steve Dice

What to do about the unpaved portion of Ormond Road. How can travel along this scenic route be improved. How can living along the road be made more pleasant.

There are several basic alternatives:

1. Continue the increased maintenance program that Ormond Road has received of late.
2. Pave it, making a two-lane route.
3. Create a six-lane parkway and major north-south route.

Because roads are for the benefit of people (to drive on), some of "the people" were asked to give their opinions of Ormond Road.

Beverly Beecher feels that Ormond Road should be a paved two-lane road and that dust is a big problem.

A delivery route driver says that if Ormond were paved, it would provide a needed route to White Lake. As it is, the road is quite often a mess.

Mrs. Vivian Deaver said she had nothing good to say about Ormond Road and would like it to be a paved two-lane road.

Mrs. Lloyd Kim gave a definite no on a six-lane parkway, but feels two lanes of pavement are needed.

Mary Nall doesn't mind the gravel road as long as it is taken care of - which it isn't. She, too, is not in favor of a six-lane parkway.

Mrs. Henry Cook lives on the paved portion of Ormond Road, but feels sorry for the people who don't. Nice homes are being ruined by the dust, she claims. She is against the parkway, but feels that two lanes of pavement should be put down even if Springfield Township has to pay for it.

The general consensus seems to be that it's time for Ormond Road to be paved. There were comments and opinions to the effect that 1.) cars are allowed to go too fast, 2.) a six-lane parkway is needed, and 3.) leave it the way it is so maybe people will go someplace else.

But the vast majority of those who live on and drive on the unpaved portion of Ormond Road agree it should have been a two-lane paved road a long time ago.

Bird Walks and Bike Hikes

Bird walks and bike hikes are offered by Cranbrook Institute of Science during May.

Bird enthusiasts, from novice to experienced, can join a birdwalk, cosponsored by the Oakland Audubon Society, at 7 a.m. May 20. The outing is free, but registration is necessary. To register, call 645-3201.

Focus of the birdwalks is on spring migrants, territorial behavior and species identification. Participants should take binoculars and, if desired, field books.

Dr. James Wells, Institute of Science botanist, will lead two 15-mile bicycle tours to study local tree species. Bike tours are 8 a.m. to noon on May 14 and 21.

Enrollment is limited to 15 persons who are at least 16 years old. For information, call 645-3134.

Artrain Committees Need Essential Items

Artrain committees are still in need of two very essential items - money and talent - and both must be donated.

So far, Martha Wheeler, chairman of the finance committee, has received $275 in contributions and a lot of promises of support. Personal contact with all of those who have promised is planned.

Time slots during all days of the train's visit are still available, Thursday through Tuesday, June 1-6. The Village Business Association is also looking for talented musicians to entertain in the downtown area on Friday evening. Contact Carol Balzarini at 625-5948 or 627-2843.

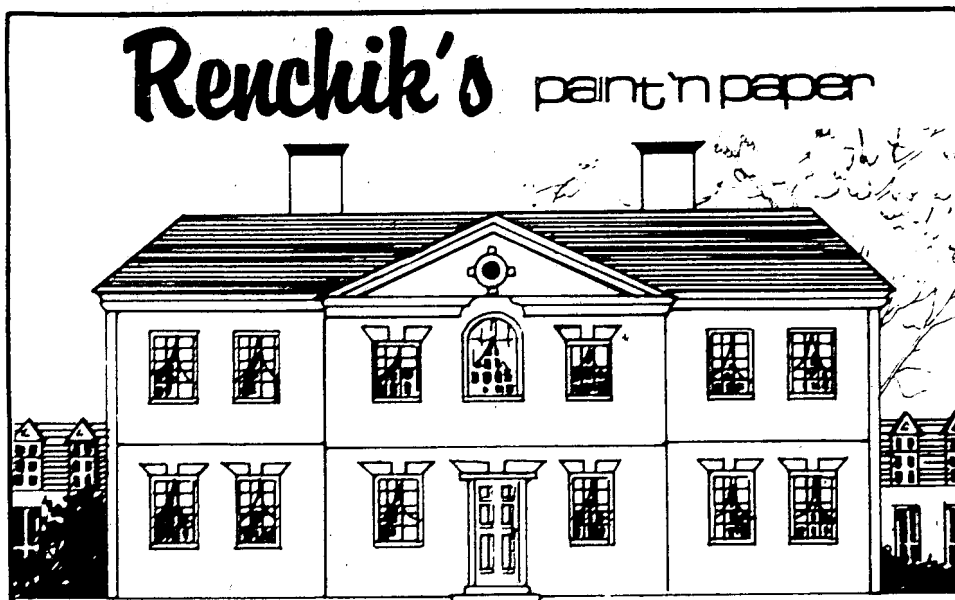

The opening ceremonies Thursday evening will feature Joe Falls, Detroit Free Press sports writer, as emcee with entertainment being provided by Clarkston High School's Madrigal Singers. Mrs. William Milliken, the governor's wife, has been invited to attend as have county, township, and village officials.

Following the opening ceremonies a champagne and hors d'oeuvre reception will be held at Clarkston Mills hosted by developer Marc Alan.

The reception is open to Artrain workers, invited guests and all those people who have contributed $25 or more to help defray the train's expenses. A sneak preview of the new shopping mall plus the reception itself should provide some incentive to donate to the cause.

Buttons and bumper stickers for Artrain are available at Tierra Arts and Design for a minimum contribution of $3.

The Independence Center Players, who have presented so many delightful children's plays recently, are planning a repeat performance of "Peter Rabbit and the Carrot Patch" to be held both Friday evening and Saturday morning. The location will be either Independence Center or the Village Park, depending on the weather.

Sharon
Springborn

SEMTA???

Question of the Week

by Sharon Springborn

If you wanted to go someplace, say to shop or keep an appointment, wouldn't it be nice if a convenient means of transportation, besides the private car, existed? But after paying for the ticket that would entitle you to ride on this bus, train, trolley, subway or whatever, how would you feel if part of the money that you or your spouse paid for license plates or tabs went to finance this system?

These two questions, concerning Oakland County and its involvement in SEMTA (South East Michigan Transportation Authority) were asked of 10 Clarkston area residents this week, with very mixed results.

When asked whether they felt Oakland County should be a part of SEMTA, only one person voted yes, three said no, and six stated that they hadn't given the subject enough thought to vote yes or no.

No one elaborated on just why they did or didn't favor Oakland County being part of SEMTA, but when we asked if the person favored part of the monies paid in license fees going to subsidize a transportation system that would mostly benefit larger metropolitan areas, the responses became longer and more elaborate.

The five "no" votes did outweigh the "yes" votes by 5 to 2, and the "undecideds" by 5 to 3, and the people who were against financing this transportation system didn't hesitate to state their reasons for voting no.

Ms. Mildred Thompson feels that "We're paying, and paying, and paying, and we don't get anywhere. So a transportation system would just add taxes to us and we wouldn't profit."

Another area resident who expressed a similar point of view was Ms. Bernadine Green, who feels that most transportation is provided by private cars.

"I object to financing a transportation system that me and my family won't use. I feel that the people who will use it should finance it."

None of the people who expressed opposition to Oakland County's involvement with SEMTA feels that there are many people in this area who are commuters and would use such a system. Ms. Ruth Briggs mentioned such an opinion after stating that she didn't think that financing such a system is right.

But along with saying that she feels that we should take care of our own citizens first before trying to help out others, Ms. Eunice Palmiter ended her statement with "Of course, we should do our best to help others, but we should hold up our own end first."

The two "yes" votes came from Ms. S. Basinger and Mr. G.W. Anderson.

Mr. Anderson feels that "We (in Oakland County) should have a better means of transportation," and he feels that SEMTA can provide this.

"I feel that although the system will benefit the metropolitan areas the most, we suburbanites can't be exempt from solving problems that we, in part, helped to create," stated Ms. Basinger. "The system will help all of us. I don't think that we can avoid a transportation system forever, and I feel that plans should be made right now. Of course, I don't know enough about it to pass judgement."

All of the people who said they were undecided about the subject stated that they would need some more information in order to cast a vote either for or against SEMTA.

So, judging by the answers received in this poll, Oakland County won't be appropriating land for train tracks, or purchasing a fleet of buses for a long while.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Is this white collar crime? To a patient, the fee for a dermatologist to spend five minutes pricking pimples or burning off warts is $10 a visit. The exact same service will net him $25 if submitted to an insurance company as "Surgery." Who pays when a professional avails himself of this type of practice to increase his own personal coffers? We do, in ever-increasing exorbitant insurance rates. But, he also does in the erosion of his personal integrity and in the compromising of his commitment to the Hippocratic Oath. Fortunately, not all physicians choose to pay that price, just because the opportunity is available.

Someone's in the Kitchen

- And that someone will probably be the kids on this Mother's Day morning. With any luck at all, they'll be up bright and early to fix breakfast for Mom, and deliver it to her in bed for a wonderful start for "her" day. We'd like to help, so here are some easy but delicious extras to go with the bacon, eggs and orange juice!

CINNAMON TWISTS

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1 package refrigerated biscuits (10 biscuits)
- 4 tbs. butter or margarine, melted
- 2 tbs. chopped walnuts

Combine sugar and cinnamon. Roll biscuits, each to a 9-inch rope; bring ends together and seal. Dip in melted butter, then in cinnamon-sugar mixture. Twist; place on greased baking sheet. Sprinkle with nuts. Bake in 450° oven for about 10 minutes. Makes ten.

CARAMEL PECAN COFFEE RING

- 1/2 cup vanilla caramel sundae sauce
- 1/4 cup light corn syrup
- 1/4 cup chopped pecans
- 1 8-ounce package refrigerated butterflake dinner rolls (12 rolls)
- 2 tbs. butter or margarine, melted

Combine sundae sauce and corn syrup; pour into bottom of well-greased 5-cup ring mold. Sprinkle evenly with pecans. Dip rolls on all sides in melted butter; arrange, side by side, in ring mold.

Bake in 400° oven about 20 minutes. Let cool 30 seconds. Loosen sides; invert on serving plate.

OUR BABY

by Glennia Funck

Dimpled cheeks, so soft and sweet
Fuzzy hair, it's never neat.
Baby face, we all adore,
To feed him is never a chore.
That's our baby.

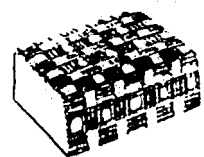

Then, oh yes! They have to walk.
Even so, before they talk.
Of course, at first, they venture out;
Very slow without a doubt.
Our wonderful baby.

Chubby hands, they entwine and cling,
To Mother's fingers, so it seems.
To show its love and trust in her.
You think of a kitten ready to purr.
And he's our baby.

Soon, he toddles here and there,
And he gives us lots of scares,
But he'll be fine, with our love and care.
While he's still our baby.

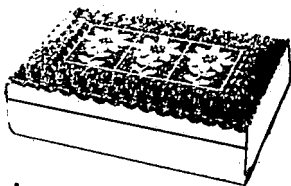

Oh, in time, they start to crawl,
They investigate every crack in the wall
Up the corridors and down the hall.
Yes! Occasionally they fall.
That's still our baby.

We watch him in every phase and age,
On this we could write many a page.
Our love never wavers in any stage.
For he'll always be our baby.

POETRY CORNER

RELEASE

On paper
through helpless nonsense
I release composing desperately poetry...stories... that claim no literary merits

however, mind with coordination of hand demands a meaningless string of expressions
it is self in a small folder
yet always growing...

fear...
mind sliding into a pile of flesh
unable to express the smallest sound
I shudder to think a critic would ridicule and dismiss

I realize achievement through absurd creations.
a satisfaction
an accomplishment
of great value
a step above insanity
a gratifying release
on paper

"Soundstage" Concert on TV

Martin Mull, comedian and star of the nightly talk show "America 2-Night," provides music and laughs on "Soundstage" Monday, May 15 at 9:00 p.m. on Channel 56.

This "Soundstage" concert was recorded two years ago, before Mull's success on "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" and later, "Fernwood 2-Night." For "Soundstage," Mull has assembled an oddball assortment of music and fun entitled "Sixty Minutes to Kill."

Featured in the show is an interview with Mull's favorite performer (Mull, of course) and the "Midnight Satchel," a late-night rock show for hip letter carriers featuring Mailman Jack.

Know-it-All, Grow-it-All

by Bonnie Hale

Terrariums have always been popular and the appeal seems to have no age limit. Small children, especially if allowed to "help" plant are fascinated by growing things and watching them grow. Terrariums are also nice for adults that like plants but don't have much time to devote to their care. Once set up, their care is minimal for months and sometimes years.

To start, you need a scrupulously clean glass container as bacteria also thrive in the high temperature and humidity of a closed container. Terrariums can be created from fish bowls, gallon pickle jars, apothecary jars, brandy snifters, deep glass bowls or an old aquarium.

The plants must be compatible in their light, humidity, and soil requirements. No matter how much you like cacti and foliage plants, they will not grow in the same container, so it would be necessary to make two terrariums, one for cacti and one for foliage plants.

The most important step in setting up a terrarium is providing adequate drainage by using coarse gravel, large pebbles, or aquarium gravel. Depending on the depth, two or three inches should be sufficient. Next, add one inch of horticulture-grade charcoal to keep the terrarium sweet-smelling. This is topped off with three or four inches of potting soil.

No matter what kind of plants you are using, be it tropical, semi-tropical, or desert, always use an odd number of plants. Usually one tall plant and two or four smaller plants will be sufficient.

If the terrarium is to be viewed from all sides, space the taller plant in the middle of the container and the smaller plants on the outside perimeter. If, on the other hand, it is to be viewed from only one angle, the taller plants are arranged toward the back of the container and the smaller ones toward the front.

Some of the taller plants to be considered for a focal point are small schefflera, dieffenbachia, warnecki and gold dust dracaena, palms and aralias. For shorter plants, consider small cuttings of peperomia, pilea, fittonia, strawberry geranium, philodendron, english ivy and arrowhead.

It's always nice to add a ground cover like baby tears, creeping charlie, creeping jenny, or miniature wandering jew, too. These will fill in and cover the bare spots.

After adding the plants, very gently firm the soil around the plants, taking care not to damage the roots. Once the roots have been firmed, give the terrarium a light watering with an atomizer bottle, aiming the spray at the glass. This will not only moisten the soil, but will also wash the dirt particles off the glass.

Be creative and add a decorative touch by adding a small piece of driftwood or some miniature animals or perhaps an artificial flower or two. If a small child is helping, consider adding some small rocks from his collection.

Fertilizer is not generally added to terrariums, as it will cause too much growth and the plants will soon outgrow their container. If fertilizer is used, it should be a very diluted formula and only applied every six months.

After the foliage has been misted, the top can then be replaced. No top? Plastic wrap held in place with a rubber band works nicely. Containers that have tops should not be placed in direct sun, as the solar heat will build up fast, and soon the plants would be cooked.

Should the side of the terrarium become heavily saturated with moisture, remove the top for a few hours. There should be only a faint trace of condensation on the glass at any time. If there is no condensation and the leaves begin to crinkle at the edges, it will need another light watering. Once the system is in balance, the moisture will condense on the sides of the container and run back into the soil where it will be taken up the roots, used by the leaves and evaporated into the air. Thus, a terrarium that is balanced can go for months and even years without water.

Congressman Broomfield Reports From Washington

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimated that last year, $6.3 to $7.4 billion of taxpayers' money was lost through fraud, abuse and waste.

William C. Sibart, a Department of Transportation employee was recently charged with embezzling about $856,000 in federal funds earmarked to assist the City of Atlanta build its subway system.

The daughter of a Civil War widow continued to collect widow's benefits for two decades after her mother died.

Again, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimates that at least 24% of its Medicaid funds had been misspent and that criminal prosecution potential exists in cases involving at least 290 physicians and 245 pharmacists.

The Government had to recover $600,000 from a contractor who had been accused of using scrap metals, rather than new material, for the aircraft launching catapults aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal.

These are only samples of the cases of fraud and abuse perpetrated against the federal government and the taxpayers. An official of the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of the Congress, estimates that these "white collar" crimes may cost the government from $12 to $15 billion a year.

"The history of the federal government and the Congress has been one of allocating billions upon billions of dollars for various programs but never seriously developing the mechanisms and performing the oversight functions to prevent this fraud.

"This negligence not only costs the taxpayers in hard-earned dollars, but it also permits the undermining of the integrity and purpose of the system. Stopping the exploitation of this vast amount of money is one important way of controlling the skyrocketing cost of government and, more importantly, of stopping the ripping-off of the people," Broomfield said.

In the past, meager federal resources have been allocated by the bureaucracy toward stopping this costly "white collar" crime. There has been a lack of manpower, deficiencies in the organizational structure, and deficiencies in procedures to stop fraud and abuse, Broomfield explained.

"To provide the necessary mechanism to help put an end to this crime, the House passed legislation, which I supported, that will establish an Office of the Inspector General in 12 federal departments and agencies that, combined spend nearly $100 billion a year and employ over 600,000 people," Broomfield said.

The Inspector General will be appointed by the President with the consent of the Senate, and he will report directly to Congress and the agency heads. With authority to subpoena information, he will be responsible for auditing programs, investigating fraud and abuse, and informing Congress and agency heads of administrative deficiencies.

"This is an important step in providing government accountability. For too long, funds have been distributed without the necessary checks to prevent cheating. This negligence has been to the detriment of the public trust and the health of the economy, and had to be corrected," Broomfield explained.

TV Programs for Camera Fans

Half-hour programs for darkroom experts to pocket camera fans will be presented by Channel 56 beginning Saturday, May 13. The programs, which will include "Cameras, Color and You," "What Makes Cameras Click," and "Color in Nature," will be shown at 1:00 p.m.

The Kelly Gas Pincher 2+2 Steel Belted Radial

It's true. In continued tests using multiple cars, from compacts to full size, at varying speeds over interstate highways, the Gas Pincher squeezed from 14.5 up to 31.7 more miles out of a tank of gas than our non-radial tires. How'd we do it? By building in economy from the ground up. We started with the classic radial design and made it lighter. We used a polyester cord body and made it smooth riding. We put in two steel belts and made it strong. And we added an all-new computer-designed tread to make it handle in the wet.

Today's Craft

Tomorrow's Heirloom

by Robert C. Davis

Relatively cool and dry conditions persisted over most of Oakland County during the month of April. Precipitation totals ranged from a low of 1.14 inches in Fenton to a high of 2.49 inches at Detroit's Metro Airport.

Rainfalls were generally heavier to our south and east, with only the Pontiac/Elizabeth Lake station reporting more than 2 inches of rainfall during April within our 4-township area.

In the Clarkston area, the northern Clarkston station

ROBERT C. DAVIS

FORECAST:

Our weatherman is Robert C. Davis. Bob, an Ohio State graduate in Geology, makes meteorology [the study of the earth's atmosphere, especially weather conditions] an almost full-time hobby. Bob has generously agreed to share his knowledge with Reminder readers, so watch this column for the latest FORECAST.

reported 1.26 inches of precipitation, while the eastern Clarkston station reported 1.48 inches for the month. Average rainfall for our area in April is close to 3 inches, so most of our area averaged more than an inch below normal.

Snowfall during April amounted to less than half of an inch, so our seasonal total remains at 63 inches. Hopefully, we have now seen the end of the snowfall season in our area.

Temperatures during April were again below normal, marking the ninth consecutive month of below normal temperatures. (Are we heading into the next Ice Age?) Based on data from the eastern Clarkston station, the highest temperature recorded during the month was 69 degrees on the 29th, while the lowest was 23 degrees, recorded on three different mornings during the month. Our mean daily temperature during April was 44 degrees, which is about 3 degrees below normal.

With the recent warmer weather in our area, the home gardening fever has struck many residents. Those gardeners who have had an opportunity to run a roto-tiller through their garden recently will notice that the soil is unusually dry for this time of the year.

Through the end of April, our precipitation total since the first of the year is about an inch below normal. While this does not seem like very much, the timing of our precipitation has been most important. We received much more than our normal precipitation in January (including 33 inches of snowfall), but since then, we have been generally drier than normal.

Most avid gardeners are certainly getting impatient with the below normal temperatures. Last year, our first 70 degree day occurred on March 15; as of the end of April, the Clarkston area had not experienced a 70-degree day yet this year. As a matter of fact, our last 70 degree day in the Clarkston area occurred on September 26, 1977, when we hit 71 degrees.

We still have a good chance of killing frosts in our area yet this spring; there is a 50% chance of frost in our area after May 9. The probability drops to only a 10% chance of frost after May 24. (The rainfall map was prepared by Robert C. Davis and Susan E. Rosin, and was sponsored by Johnson & Anderson, Inc., Consulting Engineers).

Davisburg Spring Clean-up

The Davisburg Jaycees Annual Spring Clean-Up will be May 15-20. Dumpsters are available at the Mill Pond all week, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Small steel articles can be taken to Marlowe and Sons on E. Rose Center Road on Saturday, May 20, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Garbage bags will be available at the Township Hall for street clean up.

For further information or pickup, call the Township Hall at 634-3111 or 625-4802.

Thendara Park Roads

by Carol Balzarini

Thendara Park roads were again on the agenda of the May 2 meeting of the Independence Township Board.

Supervisor Floyd Tower reiterated there had been no change in the township's opinion that public funds cannot be used for private roads.

Communication from the township attorney, Richard Campbell indicated that some private roads could be selected for public maintenance, but such action would "open up a Pandora's box" if they chose to do so. The township has no responsibility for Michigame, which belongs to the county.

Trustee Fred Ritter suggested the county be "nailed down" as to why they have not maintained Michigame even though they have jurisdiction.

A spokesman for Thendara Park stressed the residents were not asking for total maintenance, but just matching funds.

Tower explained that as far as road maintenance is concerned, the township draws up a list of priorities and the county road commission goes according to needs.

Trustee Jerry Powell suggested that Algonquin be added to the list of priorities but that it not be pressed to the extent of a lawsuit with the county over whether it is private or public. That suggestion became a motion passed by the board.

The second road issue involved residents of North Holcomb Road who have had it up to their lot lines with gravel and oil applications which have proved ineffectual in keeping that road in reasonable condition.

Dr. and Mrs. Hunt sent a letter to the township board requesting the unpaved portion of North Holcomb Road between Miller Road and the I-75 overpass be blacktopped.

DPW director George Anderson stated one residents had already requested a special assessment district drawing instant response from Holcomb residents who said they did not want that at all. They were requesting a blacktop road but not at their expense alone. It was suggested that if the entire township could be paying for sewers, it was possible for the same situation to apply to roads.

The discussion ended with a statement by Powell that it was time the township took a look at all township road conditions, not just Holcomb alone. The board agreed to look into it, but Tower admitted there were no funds available at this time.

Poppy Days May 18-19-20

The American Legion and Auxiliary Poppy Days are May 18, 19 and 20.

The poppies are hand made by veterans confined in the Veterans' Facility in Grand Rapids and Veterans' Hospitals in Battle Creek and Iron Mountain.

Clarkston-Campbell Richmond Post 63 and its Auxiliary purchase their supply of poppies from these veterans for the annual Poppy Days.

All proceeds from the sale of poppies are placed in a fund to be used solely for "Veterans' Relief and Child Welfare." The use of the fund monies is closely monitored by the American Legion Department of Michigan. In the past, Campbell-Richmond Post has used its Poppy Fund for the direct assistance to Veterans and Children in need to buy food, clothing, and comfortable shelter for them. It has also made donations to other local organizations whose programs guarantee that monies will be spent for the purpose intended.

"With the continued help from the good people of our community, we hope to continue this worthwhile program as effectively as it has functioned in the past," said Ed Bailey, Campbell-Richmond Poppy Chairman.

Clean-Up Day

Pack 126 of the Clarkston United Methodist Church had their annual Cub Scout Environment Clean-up Day, Saturday, April 28. It is known council-wide as "Save Our American Resources Day" (SOAR).

The scouts picked up debris along the creek at the Methodist Church and the area off Waldon and M-15.

Participating scouts are eligible for the SOAR patch earned by the event.

Spring Sports

Donna O'Dell hit a bases-loaded single in the sixth inning that scored what proved to be the tying and winning runs as Clarkston beat Milford, 10-7.

Jane Tatu helped Clarkston up its mark to 7-1, with a home run in the third inning.

Milford upped its GOAL league standing to 2-1 by beating Clarkston 2-1.

Tim Birtsas did a fine job on the mound for Clarkston, coming in as a reliever. In the five innings he pitched, Birtsas allowed only one hit, while fanning 13.

Craig Czinder, who had been out with an injury, came on in relief in the second inning for Clarkston and pitched scoreless baseball to pick up the victory in CHS' 7-4 win over West Bloomfield.

Clarkston trailed 4-0 at one point in the game.

Frank Davis had two hits including a two-run homer. He also had three RBIs.

The victory evened Clarkston's record at 5-5 overall and 1-1 in league play. The loss dropped West Bloomfield to 4-5 overall and 1-1 in league action.

Just One of Those Days

The two mothers met in a college psychology class. They were both managing to raise children and juggle marriage and the return to school, because both of their husbands felt they were not as aggressive as they should be, and that more education would give them confidence.

Something "snapped" when the psychology professor picked the two of them to conduct an experiment in human behavior.

They were asked to go on a shopping expedition at one of the more exclusive women's stores. One of them was to dress up, and the other one was to dress down, and they were to enter the store separately, and observe the salespeople to see if there was any difference in the way they were treated.

They decided to do the job "in spades."

They tossed a coin to decide who would be the lady, and who would be the tramp, and spent one whole day preparing for their assignment. One of them dressed in all the finery the two of them owned, and the other wore the worst combination of rags they could find in their respective basements. They entered the store separately but one right after the other.

The well-dressed lady was, of course, treated to every courtesy, while her friend was alternately ignored, or viewed with disfavor. In fact, the salespeople tried to get rid of her when she "mixed and matched" the parts of two very expensive outfits, and came out of the dressing room complete with mismatched knee socks and tennis shoes, to view herself in the mirror.

It was then that her "lady" friend heard the manager tell one of the salesgirls to call security - because she was certain that the "tramp" was there to steal something. She felt that the joke had gone far enough, and so attempted to explain to the manager, who then jumped to the conclusion that the two operated as a team.

By the time the two husbands and the psychology professor had been summoned to the scene, the store people were convinced - but the three sheepish men had all agreed that perhaps the two women were better off with their non-aggressive selves than in jail!

Mother's Day

by Sharon Stuffleben

For many women, Mother's Day is traditionally celebrated with breakfast in bed, a day off from chores, pretty cards, and, of course, gifts from Dad and the offspring or "springs." This is a picture of a home with children.

But, in these everchanging times that we are living, there is another picture which arises more frequently. The picture is one of the couple who has chosen for varied reasons to remain childless.

The Reminder decided to probe for Mother's Day both the woman who is a mother and the woman who is not.

How does a couple who have no children spend Mother's Day? In the words of a Clarkston businesswoman, it is spent remembering the couple's mothers with flowers, presents, phone calls, and, in this case, an infrequent visit because of a distance barrier. But Mother's Day is not a lonely day spent wishing for the pitter-patter of little feet and dirty diapers.

Indeed, according to this woman, there are innumerable advantages to a childless life. The childless couple has no one else creating demands upon them, and couples without children see this fact as offering much to a relationship. It is insisted by some who have no children that, for the most part, there is a greater closeness between mates when children are not part of the picture.

Among the childless couples, there are usually fewer financial burdens. Generally, both parties work and are supporting only themselves. The result is time for the theater, ballet, the symphony, trips, and dinner out as often as desired. When at home, their time is their own. They can read. They can sleep. They can do nothing. It is their choice.

As one woman, who at this time has no children but may someday have a family, said, "The life my husband and I have has been great, and we wouldn't trade the years we've had."

A thirty-five-year-old career sales representative is adamant in wanting no children. She and her husband jointly made the choice to remain childless. They are happy in their respective professions, their traveling and their active social life. Even so, certain questions do arise in their minds. She wonders who will take care of her husband and herself when they're old, and she wonders if Christmas will be a lonely time for them in later years.

From the childless couple, let's turn now to look at two women who have chosen to become mothers. One woman, a resident of Heritage Point, who just moved to the Clarkston area with her husband and two young children says she spends Mother's Day with as little fanfare as possible. Her husband gets her a card, but little else is done to celebrate the day. Her children are too little to know of the day, and she still feels that celebrating Mother's Day is to celebrate it with her mother or her husband's mother. This young mother sees her own observance of the day changing as her children become older.

For this woman, the remembrance of childless years is still fresh in her mind, and the four years she and her husband were working and had no children can easily be compared to life today.

It is true, she says, that their style of life has changed. Gone are spontaneous walks and spontaneous evenings out. Long vacations with just the two of them are gone for awhile. Her husband's oil and watercolor painting has been replaced with painting the nursery, and her own piano practice is very much limited.

However, these changes were anticipated by the couple and any sacrifices they may now be making are, in the mother's opinion, far outweighed by the pleasure this couple receive from their children. Her children are a delight to her. Vacations? They will continue to take vacations alone but for shorter periods of time. Long trips will include the children and walks will be with stroller in hand.

Watching the growth of her children both mentally and physically was listed as a source of enjoyment for this woman. She finds she has interests she didn't realize she had. It is interesting to her to listen to her youngster struggle with the whole new concept of verbal communication. Seeing his mind work is amazing to her.

Also mentioned as a source of enjoyment for her is her observance of the children's grandparents. The reaction of both sets of grandparents is one of open affection and overwhelming love. It pleases her to watch them enjoy their grandchildren.

The other woman interviewed, a teacher in the Utica Schools and a resident of Clarkston, is, perhaps, a more seasoned mother as she has six children ranging in age from 9 to 17, but she is no less content with her life.

Again, the typical celebration of mother propped up in bed for her Mother's Day breakfast does not apply. This mother can't stand breakfast, and she let her husband tactfully alert her children to this fact.

She is much happier with a plant or another special gift often given by her children. Her brood gives her a gift that may be different for normal siblings. They give her the gift of a quiet day with no squabbles.

There are many things this woman enjoys about being a mother, but a special source of enjoyment to her is the evening meal hour. Instead of airing out problems as many families may do, this family talks. Often, she enjoys just listening to her six children talk and laugh and share with one another.

She is proud of her children and feels a sense of nostalgia with the knowledge that they are growing so rapidly and that some will soon be leaving home for college.

The children in this family are, according to their mother, independent and capable out of necessity, for she teaches full-time, and the lifestyle of the family is a busy one.

However, occasionally, she gets a pang of desire to be home full-time. She could then be a full-time mother and yet still have time for herself. She enjoys being outside, and particularly likes to garden. As it is, her time for herself is the 45-minute drive to and from school which she drives alone. This is her quiet time and her time for thinking.

As a couple, she and her husband enjoy couple's bridge, an occasional evening out for dinner, and also having a few couples into their home for games and cards.

With six children, even with both parents working, their family life centers mainly around their home in an effort to economize. They have taken two major vacations with their children. They have gone to Disney World and to Cape Cod.

Also, as a family outing, the family will go on "mystery" trips. On these trips, the family loads in the car with only Mom and Dad knowing their destination. They have gone to Cobo Hall at Christmas and Frankenmuth for dinner on such trips.

Although this mother teaches now, she did not work when her children were small. It was important to her to be at home during those years. The ideas she had in the early years of motherhood about basic philosophies in raising children have not changed over the years. She has a good feeling about raising children, and she does not labor over questioning decisions made concerning her children.

In her view, parents should not berate themselves for the decisions they make. They have attempted to do their best. "Right or wrong," she says, "keep on going." Common sense is necessary for mothers and fathers. She has always been supported by her husband who is, in her words, a firm but loving father.

Whether the female readers of The Reminder are going to celebrate Mother's Day by honoring their own mothers or by being honored themselves, we at The Reminder can and do wish all a happy May 14.

"Shakespeare's Playhouses" Lecture at Hilberry

C. Walter Hodges, internationally famous authority on Elizabethan theatres, will give an illustrated lecture, "Shakespeare's Playhouses," at Wayne State University's Hilberry Theatre on Friday, May 19 at 2:30 p.m. The lecture is sponsored by the Department of English and the Department of Speech Communication, Theatre and Journalism.

C. Walter Hodges, a British artist, writer and specialist on Shakespearean theatre, is author of "The Globe Restored," a self-illustrated reconstruction of Shakespeare's theatre. It is generally considered the best existing study on the subject.

His lecture at the Hilberry Theatre is open to the public without charge.

TAKE THE LUCK OUT OF FISHING

While no one can guarantee fishing, it is possible to determine your chances of success if you follow a method suggested by Mercury outboards' fishing department.

They list three things you should do prior to traveling a long distance for fishing: ask someone who knows the conditions, ask the right questions, and make an intelligent decision based upon what you learn.

Having information sources is easy if you cultivate relationships with people who are aware of daily fishing conditions.

These include resort and dock operators, state fish department agents, fishing guides, local business people, and others who live near the lake.

Make it a point to do business with these people. Ask them if you can call in the future for fishing information. Give them your name or find some way for them to remember you.

The next time you consider visiting that lake, a few phone calls to these people should produce a picture of the fishing.

Inquire about success, but go further and ask about water conditions, recent and future weather, kinds of fish being caught, when and where.

With this much information from several sources, you should be able to judge your chances of success under those conditions.

If you don't find fishing suitable at one location, follow the same plan and learn about other areas. It's more productive and less expensive than playing blind man's luck.

Art Work on Display

WHAT'S HAPPENING

The Clarkston Cabaret on Dixie has brought to this area the very talented and unique Dan Schafer Group. They will be appearing at the Cabaret through this weekend.

This reporter had the opportunity to hear Schafer perform last Thursday during his opening night at the Clarkston Cabaret. The Dan Schafer Group is made up of Bill Vigelius on bass guitar, Phil Turkington on keyboard, Paul Raab on drums, and Dan Schafer as guitarist and lead vocalist.

I was highly impressed with the group's wide range of music. They played rock and roll (oldies and current), jazz instrumentals, blue grass and country. Primarily, though, the Dan Schafer Group plays original songs written by the multi-talented Mr. Dan Schafer.

Schafer's show is not what you normally find in bars. They are more than just a dance band or easy-listening group. Schafer puts on a show with musical numbers quite artistically arranged to highlight the talents of each member of the band. They are not too loud and their wide range of music should offer something for everyone.

Schafer took some time during his break to talk to me. I found him to be a very likeable young man, but over-all very professional and aware of his image as a performer.

Q. How long have you been in the entertainment business?

Schafer - Since I was 7 years old. (Schafer is 25). My parents played country western music in bars. I've been playing the guitar and writing music since I was 9 years old.

Q. Where are you from?

Schafer - Beal City, Michigan, which is up by Mt. Pleasant. My parents own a music store in Mt. Pleasant. I live in Dearborn now.

Q. How did you get started?

Schafer - I've played in dance bands for so many years, places like the 300 Bowl in Pontiac. All the people want to do is dance; they don't care who is playing. I think entertainment should be something more special.

Q. How long have you been with this group?

Schafer - We formed 8 months ago. There have been many Dan Schafer Groups. I like to change on occasion. I get energy working with different people. These are the best guys I've worked with.

Q. Where are some of the places you've played recently?

Schafer - The Inn Between in Pontiac, Wagon Wheel in Troy, Your Moustache in Dearborn. We have also played in clubs in Lansing, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo.

Q. If you weren't an entertainer, what would you be?

Schafer - I don't know, because I'm really into full-fledged entertainment. I'd like to get into acting and making people happy. I'd like to be noted for making good music and relating to people.

Q. Have you done any acting?

Schafer - I've done voice-over and instrumental work for commercials in radio and television, like, "It's easy as KFC" for Kentucky Fried Chicken, and also for Buick. In order for someone in music to really get into acting, you have to be a superstar. [Reporter's Note: With Schafer's talent and determination, he'll probably make it].

Q. Who are your favorite entertainers?

Schafer - Area entertainers I like are Tom Powers and the rock band Mugsy. As far as big name entertainers, my favorite is Gino Vanelli. But the biggest influences on my own music have been The Byrds, The Beatles and the Carpenters. I really admire Jim Freeman (Detroit area entertainer). We did a show with him one time, and

Q. In your act, you do a lot of original material. Have you ever cut a record?

Schafer - Two years ago, RCA released "A Day Without You, Dear," which got a lot of radio play. I just recently recorded, again for RCA, "Baby Now That I've Found You."

Q. How did you end up with RCA?

Schafer - My manager, Gary Lazar arranged it. He also manages the Rockets, who just cut a new RCA album.

Q. How would you describe your act?

Schafer - We do tasty bar material, something you don't hear all the time. We don't talk much between numbers. We feel our music is entertaining without the old cliches thrown in. I consider our music aggressive pop, with country, jazz and even Indian influence thrown in.

The interview for all intents and purposes was over, but with Schafer's agreement, I asked a few more questions that harked back to the days when I used to read fan magazines. So, for you lovers of Photoplay and The National Inquirer -

Q. Are you married?

Schafer - Never!

Q. Any children?

Schafer - Not yet.

Q. What's your favorite color?

Schafer - Greenish-blue.

Q. What sign are you?

Schafer - Libra - October 5, 1952.

Q. What's your shoe size?

Schafer - 9.

Q. Do you believe in Reincarnation?

Schafer - No! I was going to be a priest when I was in high school.

Q. What are your hobbies?

Schafer - Women and roller skating.

Q. Do you sleep in the nude?

Schafer - Yes!

One last serious question - Do you enjoy playing at the Clarkston Cabaret?

Schafer - Yes. It's a new club and we enjoy working it. One of our biggest fans is here tonight. He came all the way from M-15.

I encourage you to stop in the Cabaret and see The Dan Schafer Group. If you haven't already, you'll be in for a treat. While you're there, try one of the Cabaret's bacon-cheeseburgers. They are almost as tasty as Mr. Schafer's music.

Why Arlie Bingham Left Town
Arlie Bingham Left Michigan
Arlie Bingham Quit His Job
Arlie Bingham is Unemployed

by James Stone
 President N.O. C of C

Arlie Bingham is an individual who worked in Michigan for nine months in 1969, but then quit his job and returned to his home in Kentucky. Arlie was offered his Michigan job back, but he refused. He filed for Michigan Unemployment benefits and his employer disputed his right to unemployment benefits since he had quit his job and when re-offered the job, refused.

The Michigan Supreme Court heard the case and Justice G. Mennen Williams wrote the court's majority opinion. Justice Williams stated the court's majority found Mr. Bingham entitled to unemployment payments. They found that he was not disqualified from payments since the offer of re-employment was too far from his home. In reviewing the circumstances, the court's decision seems highly questionable. Mr. Bingham left Kentucky, found a job in Michigan, then quit his job, went back to Kentucky, was re-offered his Michigan job and refused, then he was deemed qualified for Michigan unemployment benefits because his Michigan job was too far away from his home. This situation highlights one of the areas of concern many Michigan employers have regarding Unemployment Compensation.

It must be noted that Michigan employers are not opposed to unemployment compensation. However, it is critical that the payment of benefits return to the basic guidelines of the legislation that established this program. The Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act was passed on December 24, 1936. The act called for the accumulation of funds to be used for persons unemployed through no fault of their own.

Michigan pays unemployment benefits to those who voluntarily quit their jobs, assault others, steal from their employers and to those who choose to retire early. Partly because of payments to persons in these categories, the Unemployment Fund in Michigan is bankrupt and $571 million in debt. It has been estimated these persons cost the State $100 million per year. Many have been under the misconception that both the employee and the employer contribute to this fund and, therefore, those claimants who receive benefits from quitting their jobs, etc., are only receiving "what they are entitled to." The facts are that the fund is solely supported by a tax on Michigan employers.

Many are concerned with the abuses in our Unemployment Compensation system for several reasons. First of all, those persons who have legitimately lost their job through no fault of their own are harmed by abuses in the system. The money accumulated in the fund should be used on their behalf. They have lost employment by circumstances and not by their behavior or choice. By eliminating the abuses, more attention can be given to the needy. A Michigan Association of School Administrators recent survey showed that 41 percent of the unemployment benefits paid by school districts went to employees who had voluntarily quit their jobs or retired. The School Administrators survey showed that nearly $560,000 was spent to pay benefits to voluntary quits and retirees.

Another area of concern is the job market in Michigan. Many employers have left our State and a number of businesses have chosen not to establish themselves in Michigan because of the concern over costs for Unemployment and Workers Compensation. Each time a business leaves or decides against locating here, jobs are lost. Governors from Ohio and other states are wooing our employers to their states and they are making employers aware of what they believe to be a healthier economic climate and a lack of the abuses discussed. Each time a job is lost, the money that would have been spent in a community is lost. Another car is not purchased. Restaurants lose a customer. Cities lose a taxpayer. Directly or indirectly, we are all affected.

We should be greatly concerned about the abuses of unemployment compensation because all of us pay for it.

Each time an employer is taxed more for his payment into the unemployment fund, it is passed on to all who purchase his goods or services. Rising costs mean higher prices. It seems unfair that because a person quits his job or chooses to retire early and receive unemployment benefits, that we must absorb the cost in the way of higher prices.

In order for us to remove these abuses, retain and attract business to Michigan and hold prices, we must let our legislators know of our dissatisfaction and demand legislative reform. The legislation for Unemployment Compensation is involved and reform must be done responsibly. Write or call your legislator and let them know your concerns and request reform on abuses. The Chamber of Commerce office will be glad to supply you with the name, address, and phone number of your legislator. If we do not express our concern, who knows, Arlie Bingham may be back!

only that the board may do so if they so choose.

The matter was postponed to the first meeting in June as none of the board members were prepared to deal with the problem at the time.

Marv and Carol Barnhart, developers of a three-lot plat called Parkeview Ridge on Clarkston Road were given final plat approval. Under a special ordinance they were exempted from another ordinance requiring a central water system for subdivisions with lot sizes of less than one acre.

In personnel matters, the board accepted the resignations of Beth Hock, community service officer who will be attending law school, Dan Bullard of the recreation department, and Kim Doyle of the building department.

They also officially hired Carol Sutton as clerk-dispatcher and Alfred Cole as animal control officer in the police department, both CETA funded.

Board members additionally proposed creation of two positions within the township offices, that of treasurer's assistant, not to be confused with deputy treasurer, and payroll clerk.
