Springfield Library Sponsors Summer Reading Program

The Springfield Township Library will sponsor its first Summer Reading Program. The theme for this year's program is "Book Treks," and is open to all children who have finished the third through the eighth grades. Registration will begin June 19th. The program is presented free.

As a part of its senior citizens movie program, the library will present the movie, "The Golden Age of the Automobile," June 27, at 7:30, in the Springfield Township Hall. Admission is free, and refreshments will be served.

Volunteer-of-the-month for the month of June is Mr. Alex Valentine.

Injunction Granted Against Deer Lake Farms

by Carol Balzarini

Alan Ronquillo, resident of Southfield and attorney for Chrysler Corporation, filed suit in Oakland County Circuit Court several weeks ago against Deer Lake Farms. Judge Alice Gilbert has granted a preliminary injunction prohibiting the sale of certain lakefront lots in that subdivision. Originally, a temporary restraining order had been requested pertaining to the entire section.

According to Ronquillo, he and two friends had purchased options on certain lakefront parcels late last summer in the, as yet, unplatted second phase of the development. The first offered immediate sale of platted lots and titles to same.

The portion they were interested in was a single undivided parcel, but options could be purchased on particular parcels. Developer Hugh Garner provided option agreements.

Ronquillo and his two friends had their own more detailed option agreements drawn up which included the lot sizes. They agreed to purchase options on contiguous lots on the lakefront. Ronquillo's own measured 162' x 162' x 250'.

When spring came, one of the men returned to check on his purchase, only to find the lot size reduced by approximately 50 percent. Apparently in the meantime, according to Ronquillo, Garner had had some problems with the Department of Natural Resources over a stream running through the property.

Garner was unable to develop two lots as planned. To make up for this, in Ronquillo's opinion, he cut the sizes of other lots. He also contends there are some 60' parcels existing in the subdivision.

Ronquillo said that Independence Township was originally named in the suit to stop approval of the plat. Now only the three (or six) original lots are involved in the injunction.

Ronquillo claims the township attorney does not see any substantial difference between the lot sizes resulting from the original consent decree and the present plat, although Ronquillo obviously does not agree.

"We don't know what he (Garner) has done with the other lots," Ronquillo said. Adding, "This will be substantially reduce the value of the lots. Who wants to build on a 60' lot?"

Fearing the case will be tied up for some time legally and anxious to build in Clarkston, Ronquillo is at this time seeking another building site.

Gary Sanders, salesman for Hugh Garner, has a somewhat different version of the affair.

He says that Ronquillo and his friends were so anxious to buy they were willing to take options on unplatted land, knowing the final lot sizes would not necessarily be the same as the original ones.

"These were the first lots sold," Sanders explained. "We only guessed at sizes. We actually gave them more than they bargained for. One has less land, but it's up on a ridge in a better location."

He went on to say that even though the lots may be 30 percent smaller, they are worth $10,000 more now that curbs and sewers are included. The original plan called for wells and septic.

"I'm ashamed they're so greedy," he said. "They know they're wrong...they got a terrific buy. It's a plain case of whiplash. We were dealing like gentlemen."

Sanders vehemently denied there were any 60' lots in the subdivision. "No ma'am, not one!" and then he added, "The size isn't important, it's where it's located that counts."

Sanders expressed confidence that the case would be found in their favor. As a matter of fact, Garner may even counter sue, according to Sanders.

Vacation Bible School June 19-29

Central Christian Church will conduct a Vacation Bible School, June 19 through June 29, according to Charles Ross of Rochester, Director. Classes for Children of all Ages, under the theme of "Sing a New Song" will be held as well as Special Clinics for Men and Women. All classes will be held weekday evenings from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m.

Activities will include Bible base stories, crafts, recreation, missionary emphasis and music under the direction of Dorothy Ross of Rochester. The school will close with a special family night program June 29 which will include a display of hand-work, bible drama, special music and recognition of achievements.

Helping Mr. Ross will be Shirley Sizemore, of Utica, Assistant Director; Dora Perry of Pontiac, Secretary; and Donald Brown of Pontiac, Recreation Director. Teachers for the school will be Pauline Marsh, Margaret Brown, Nancy Paul, Pat Porter, Cindy Kitchen, Debbi Brown and Bruce Couture, all of Pontiac; Louise Siebert of Clarkston; Debi Ries of Rochester; and Jean Phillips of Southfield.

A Special Feature of this year's school will be a Clinic for Men on Prophecy led by Michael Folkerts of Heart of Hills Christian Church of Rochester, and women's clinic on the Beatitudes led by Lois Ramey of Sterling Heights.

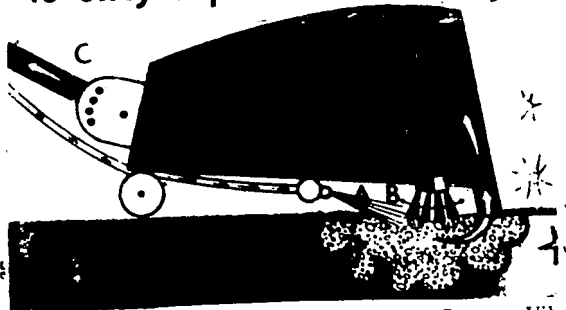

The public is welcome at all meetings which will be held at Central Christian Church, 3246 Lapeer Road, Pontiac. For further information, call 373-8698.

Four Receive MSU Degrees

Kenneth Foster, Susan Funk, William Hagen and Michael Waterbury, all of Clarkston, received university degrees during a commencement ceremony at Michigan State University on June 10th.

Foster received a Bachelor of Science degree in Public Affairs Management; Funk, a Bachelor of Science in Medical Technology; Hagen, a Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering; and Waterbury, a Bachelor of Science degree in Park and Recreation Resources.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Letter to the Editor:

The Artrain Architecture Committee would like to extend its appreciation to all those who contributed to the success of our projects, especially all those who allowed us to display their dollhouses.

Mr. Larry Thibault's Clarkston High students Chris Mills and Don Coppersmith provided us with masterful blueprints of Greek Revival houses. Two other talented Clarkston students deserve credit, Carla Ripley and Sue Ruelle, who drew beautiful pictures of old Clarkston for our walking tour booklet.

Last, but certainly not least, my personal gratitude goes to Joan Kopietz, Jennifer Radcliff and Carol Balzarini who always "came to the rescue."

Sincerely,
Susan Basinger

Mr. Steve Dice
c/o The Reminder, Inc.

Dear Steve,

Just a note of appreciation for the commentary in this week's Reminder. I'm voting no on this millage request, and this is the first time I have ever opposed an increase for the schools.

My own objection to the millage increase is that the administration doesn't use good judgment in spending the money they have. After the last millage increase was granted, the teachers in the Holly Area system went for months working without a contract. It is my understanding that for many of those no-contract months, there was no meaningful negotiation on the part of the administration.

Thank you for saying it all so well.

Very truly yours,
Nancy L. Howarth

A child's emotional attitudes about the self, other people, and life itself, are formed in the pre-school years. The family and home experience becomes reality, and determines the child's notion of truth.

It's true that education and experience should affect the early childhood memory, but the emotional attachments formed in those early years very often influence the child to manipulate future experiences so that they "prove" those earlier truths.

That puts a terrific burden of responsibility on parents. They hold the future of a human being in their hands, not only physically, but mentally and emotionally, too.

Unfortunately, many parents regard babyhood and early childhood as being unimportant in other than a physical sense, (though proper physical care is a learning experience for the child, too).

As we grow older, words come to mean something to us - but the way we are handled; the atmosphere in the home; the way our needs are met when we are very small; these are our first lessons in life. If parents respond to a baby or small child in a calm, friendly way, and are sympathetic to discomfort, and make the small person an important part of the family, the truth that the new being will believe, is that life is a pleasant experience. Future unpleasant experiences will then be regarded as exceptions to the rule.

The child will expect life to be pleasant in the expanded world of school and the neighborhood, too - and other humans will normally react in a positive way to the child that expects them to do so. Those positive experiences will, in turn, reinforce the truth learned in the home - which explains "them who's got - gets!"

Naturally, we all enjoy positive, motivated, successful people; so the whole family benefits from members who are like that. The community does too, and even the world seems better for that type of person.

So why aren't all children treated well, and given that kind of a start in life? After all, it is a simple matter of cause and effect!

The reason all children do not get that kind of start in life is quite simple.

Children are born to human beings who are having their own problems with learning truths about life. What's more, babies are usually born to young humans who haven't yet had a chance to sift their own experiences for those elusive truths.

Economic problems, marital problems, personality problems, and a dozen other causes of stress and strain make it difficult for parents to be always calm, and always sympathetic. All of us who have raised children have experienced miserable moments when we have had to get out of a sickbed and drag ourselves to the kitchen to heat a bottle for a crying baby; and we know too well how difficult it is to look kindly at a small creature who screams orders at us under those circumstances.

It is also very difficult to be patient when the weather is in the 90's; the air-conditioner is non-existent; company is due any moment; and your toddler spills the canister of sugar all over the stove.

Part of the truth a child must learn to accept, however, is that living with humans is never boring. Remaining calm under the circumstances I mention is not always possible. The way in which you handle frustration and exasperation, however, will be a learning experience for the child. All you have to remember is to put the blame where it belongs, and it will be a positive one - that is, blame it on the circumstances, and not on the child.

All humans feel anger and annoyance under trying conditions, but it needn't be personally directed at the child. There is a big difference between "I don't like you to do that," and "I don't like you because you did that."

"That is a naughty thing to do" is quite different from "you are bad," and it makes a world of difference in the child's opinion of himself and human relationships.

A child who is judged "bad" by a parent feels that that judgement is a truth which cannot be altered. Refraining from doing a bad thing is quite a different matter, and is something which is within the child's power to control.

Other people are emotional and mental mirrors for a child, and the child will believe in the reflections that come from those mirrors. "How can you be so stupid?" tells the child a "truth" that is destructive. "You're too intelligent to do such a stupid thing," tells a positive truth. It is always wise when dealing with children, to remember that the average human being uses only about 10% of his brain power. Aside from that, however, few parents have had the training necessary to make an educated guess as to the intellectual capabilities of a child, and can do real damage to a child's ego and self-respect with such a label as "stupid."

Joan Allen

Telling a child that he or she is "too intelligent" for negative behavior, however, makes a child wonder how and why the "stupid" action came about, and wondering is a good exercise in thinking. (It is also a mistake to let children use "dumbness" as an excuse, but many parents let themselves in for that kind of problem through a thoughtless word or two). Children should be made aware that they have the ability to expand their thought processes, and are perfectly well able to cut down on future "goofs" in spite of the number of past ones.

So, what does one do if problems with children have not been well handled in the past? Well, the nice thing about parenthood is that you keep getting another chance!

Confession is the best way to turn things around for the child who arrived on the scene during a trying period of one's life.

"There I was, with a 103° temperature, and I heard a crash - and you had broken a half-gallon bottle of milk all over the kitchen floor! When you said, 'Kitty - milk,' something snapped - and I spanked you all the way to bed!" sounds like a story to an older child, but explains the circumstances that caused a break in relationships between parent and child that the child can understand. It also stresses the amount of growth which has taken place for the child. Reviewing that growth and past accomplishment builds confidence and makes the future less scary.

There is another angle to these parenting skills which is important for adults to remember. That is, that these "tips" on child-rearing are the result of a lot of psychological studies that many of our parents knew nothing about. That means, that there are a number of adults walking around out there who grew up with distorted images of themselves, because their own parents accidentally gave them low self-images. Those adults need to look back at their own childhoods, and consider the stress that their parents were under in the child-raising years. If those child-rearing years coincided with the war years, or the depression years, it might explain a few misunderstandings between the generations.

Seeking a personal truth requires a little delving into the past, and more than a little interest in the generations that went before us. Their problems and their solutions were merely stepping stones to our future. We need to understand them to understand ourselves.

WIFE-SAVERS:

Save those child-proof capped prescription containers to store needles, beads, straight pins or sequins, etc.

Pull out dungaree pockets for quicker drying. Use plastic twisters from bread wrappers to keep clothes hangers on outdoor lines.

Temporarily a piece of scotch tape can mend a tear in a plastic tablecloth or shower curtain. Make sure the fabric is dry and tape on the underside.

Use hot vinegar to remove paint or labels from new windows or mirrors and avoid the risk of scratching.

Treat yourself to a satchel that you can keep stocked and handy for short or overnight trips. Send for trial sized samples of cosmetics or health products. After use, keep the containers and refill and stash away, ready to go...

Carol Balzarini

The Cookie Monster

by Carol Balzarini

Last weekend, someone asked our would-be Erma Bombeck why she hadn't written anything funny lately. Without even thinking, she replied, "It's hard to be funny when you're tired."

That answer led to still another question. "Why are you tired?" That was harder to answer.

After some thought, she suddenly realized that being tired was one of the symptoms of a disease known as "volunteerism," also known as "committeitis." The prognosis is not good. At this time, there is no known cure.

It all begins in a very harmless way. Americans are chronic joiners. Some join because membership will look good in their obituaries. Others feel a thrill being able to clutch a membership card in their hot little hands and enjoy attending the annual meeting. These are least susceptible to the disease, they never come close enough to catch it.

It's a third group that causes the most concern because they are the most susceptible. Their hot little hands are forever waving in the air whenever the group needs something done.

It usually starts with baking cookies and can progress through more serious stages such as serving on a cookie committee or even, heaven forbid, becoming cookie chairman. This is one of the most advanced stages of the disease.

Once having raised that hand for the first time, there's no stopping our volunteer. The cookie baker becomes the cookie chairman, then a homeroom mother providing cookies for all seasons. From there, it's only another small step to baking cookies for larger groups in the community.

A good cookie chairman is in demand everywhere. Her sphere of influence expands. Flushed with success (and the heat of the oven), she is named "Cookie Person of the Year." Then on to state and national contests. The possibilities boggle the mind.

And where is the family of the cookie chairman? They can usually be found at home eating leftovers - left over cookies from last night's meeting! Or maybe eating cookies that weren't nice enough to take in the first place.

The husband laments that he ever encouraged the cookie chairman to "get involved." The children, too late, realize the harm they did in bringing that little slip of paper home long ago from kindergarten asking mothers to donate cookies for the school party.

Good grief - they've created a monster - their very own cookie monster!

That cookie chairman has, by now, developed an uncontrollable impulse to raise her hand. Psychologists believe such a person may have started on this path at a very early age due to either knowing all the answers in school or having a chronic bladder problem.

Be that, as it may, hand-raising 'does become compulsive. Control is impossible. Many cookie persons have succeeded in volunteering, despite two broken arms encased in plaster. Others have tried to avoid volunteering by skipping the meeting only to be recruited by phone the next morning.

Still others are so hooked they don't even attempt to break the habit. They may have up to a half dozen cookie projects going at the same time. The crisis occurs when all of the cookies are due at the same time.

In a frenzy of activity, our cookie chairman works day and night turning out cookies of all sizes, shapes and descriptions. She has ice box cookies chilling in the refrigerator and chocolate chips baking in the oven while she's mixing up the peanut butter ones.

Suddenly something snaps. Actually, it's in the middle of the ginger snaps. The cookie chairman is no longer in control.

As she is led away by an attendant in a white coat, there is an oddly serene smile on her face. She knows you can't raise your hand while in a straitjacket.

Sharon Springborn

ENERGY CRISIS? A WAY TO GET AROUND ONE?

Question Of The Week

by Sharon Springborn

Have any readers seen movies about England during World War II, and the blackouts that were practiced there? "Lights Out" was practiced for other than energy-saving reasons, but with all of the interest in conserving energy in this country, blackouts might become a necessary measure to save our energy.

Before considering the possibility of something as drastic as blackouts, The Reminder first wanted to find out if some Clarkston-area residents feel that we are facing an energy crisis. Secondly, we wanted to know what, if anything, can be done to alleviate the situation that we may be facing.

Five persons out of the ten questioned, felt that some type of energy crisis is being faced, while three felt that there is no crisis and two people hadn't any answer for the question.

Mrs. Ethel Cleveland believes that an energy crisis exists, and she is using wood as a fuel to conserve energy.

"Apathy is our problem," states Mrs. R. Becker, who feels that we do need to economize when it comes to energy. Even though Ms. Becker is no scientist, she is sure that an energy crisis exists, but we in the States go on accepting the high cost of gas, electricity, etc. Then, when a price increase comes along, everyone pulls together against the increase before accepting it as we always do.

Agreeing with the thinking of Ms. Becker is Mr. Chester Beauregard, who feels that a lot of cooperation will be necessary no matter what course of action is followed. Mr. Ken Allen agrees that an energy crisis is upon us, but he also doesn't feel that we are doing enough to conserve the energy that is available.

Even though Ms. J. Lee feels that our present energy sources may be somewhat in danger, she feels that no energy crisis exists. But even so, she does not want to depend on any other country for anything, and resents government buildings being "all lit up like Christmas trees, morning, noon and night," when they want you to believe that an energy crisis exists. Also, she resents the government telling the consumer to cut down and conserve energy, when the government apparently doesn't.

Also answering our question in the negative were Ms. Evelyn Dark, who hasn't experienced any shortages herself, and Mr. Gene Komarynski, who feels that oil is our best way of handling any energy crisis that we may experience.

Alternative forms of power were discussed along with any problems with energy that may be encountered now. The most popular - or most often mentioned - type of power is solar power. Nine out of ten people mentioned it as "something to look into," and even the woman who uses wood to conserve energy feels that solar power should be explored and possibly used.

Mr. Tom Brancheaw, who feels that there definitely is an energy crisis, feels that solar power should be explored. Though the price of solar heating equipment is high now, Mr. Brancheaw thinks that when the price does come down, solar heating will be practical.

Undecided about an energy crisis or its existence, Ms. Deborah Keith does think that solar energy is interesting, but would have to be looked into. But though it sounds like a good idea and one to be looked into, Ms. Keith is also concerned that we would have to design houses to make the best use of solar power.

The only person out of the ten questioned who didn't mention solar energy as a viable alternative to the oil, gas and electricity that we presently use was Mr. Gene Komarynski, who sees nuclear energy as a way to avoid an energy crisis, if someone can figure out what to do with all of the nuclear waste that would be produced.

SHOULD MY WIFE HAVE A WILL, TOO?

If your wife owns property, solely or jointly, or if she is heir to an estate, she should have a will of her own. This applies in quite a few other cases, too.

Husband and wife may be double victims of a fatal accident. The husband may have designated his wife as major beneficiary in his will. Without the wife's having a will of her own, distribution of her share of the estate will not have been provided for. Her share may be subject to state laws, tying it up for long periods right when it may be needed.

If the wife is a business partner in a family business, it is to the firm's advantage to have its business continuity assured by her having a will.

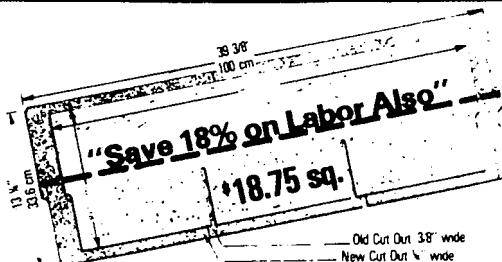

After the man has made his will, he should discuss with his lawyer a separate will for the wife. Above all, be sure to consult your attorney. We've seen bad situations arise because no wills were made or because they were drawn up by amateurs.

Know-It-All Grow-It-All

by Bonnie Hale

The weeping fig, the fiddle leaf fig and the rubber tree are all in the ficus family, even though there is little or no resemblance between the three. Some of the more uncommon in the genus includes Chinese Banyan, creeping fig, and the mistletoe fig. Ficus are found in many areas of Asia, Central America, Australia, Africa and the Mediterranean region.

All ficus do best in bright indirect or curtain-filtered sunlight. An east, west or south window that has a sheer panel between the plant and the window will do nicely. If grown under artificial light, 400 foot candles for 12 hours a day is needed.

The soil should be kept barely moist at all times. When the top 2" of the soil has dried, water is needed. Ficus can be fed on a monthly basis from April through October.

Ficus species do very well in relatively small containers that keep their roots slightly crowded. Transplanting is indicated when the plant becomes over crowded, as evidenced by smaller than average new leaves. Any transplanting that needs to be done should wait until spring. Plants that become too big for their space can be cut back to within a few inches of the soil in the spring.

Any sudden rise or lowering of the temperature or a draft from a heat register or air conditioner will cause the plant to completely defoliate. Although the plant looks bad for the time being, and as long as the roots aren't damaged, if moved to a draft-free location, it will make new leaves. Water sparingly until new leaves form. Gradually increase the water. Weeping Fig has 2 to 4" long, oval-shaped, pointed, shiny, leathery leaves. The many twiggled branches arch very gracefully. Weeping figs can easily grow into 6 to 8 foot trees.

Rubber Tree has large, oblong, glossy, dark green leaves that are 4 to 10" long and 2 to 3" wide. Rubber trees eventually reach 8 feet and touch the ceiling at which time they are air layered into a smaller plant.

Fiddle Leaf Fig is so called by the shape of the leaves which look like fiddles. They have large, dark, leathery leaves that are 12 to 18 inches long.

Two Area Newswomen Open Advertising Firm

Two well-known area newswomen have combined talents to open a public relations and advertising firm. Jean Saile, award-winning former editor of The Clarkston News, and Rhea Lodge, former editor of The Lakeland Tribune, have opened the Main Street agency in Clarkston.

The two will handle promotion, public relations and advertising for The Clarkston Mills, newest Marc Alan development, due to open in August in downtown Clarkston.

Long time residents of the area, the partners will specialize in small accounts in the north Oakland County area with emphasis on personalized service.

Jean Saile started her career as a reporter for The Saginaw News in 1947. From 1966 to 1971, she handled general assignments and county government for the Pontiac (now Oakland) Press and was named editor of The Clarkston News in 1971.

Her experience also includes radio news reporting and writing in Houston, Texas, and in Saginaw. She also edited The Rochester News.

Rhea Lodge served as copy editor, telegraph editor and women's editor at the Pontiac Press, was director of public relations for Oakland University's Division of Continuing Education and president of Viator-Lodge Associates, advertising and public relations firm.

She was an account executive with A. R. Gioster agency in Detroit and until last year served as public information specialist and executive assistant to the director of the Michigan Department of Labor.

Jean is married to commercial artist James R. Saile. The couple have six children.

Rhea Lodge is the widow of former Senator L. Harvey Lodge.

The Court for 1978 for the Oakland County Horse Clubs were presented to the public in a brief but very inspiring ceremony at the Horse Show last Sunday, held at Springfield Oaks.

Prince is Paul Oaks and Princess, Jill Stack, both from the Davisburg Hoofbeats 4-H Horse Club. Both are students at Holly schools. They will reign with the King, Steve Suddeth of Oxford and Queen Chris Opdenhoff of Union Lake for the coming year.

The court are chosen from a field of many older youth enrolled in horse projects from Oakland County. They have a written test and a riding test to compete in. Both young people take an active part in many 4-H Youth activities in this area of Michigan. They will be seen at several parades including the Annual Oakland County parade preceding county fair days in early August.

Service Clubs Asked to Donate To Homebound Meal Program

Service clubs who are looking for ways to spend their money are being asked by Cheryl MacQueen, Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency Elderly Nutrition Program director, to consider donating funds to the homebound meal component of the program.

Under the program, meals are served at noon to seniors aged 60 years of age or older or the spouse of someone aged 60 or older in 33 congregate sites where other supportive services such as nutrition education, socialization, information and referral and counseling are also offered.

Eighty-five therapeutic meals are served daily through Pontiac General Hospital, Oakland County Medical Facility Center and Farmington Hills Mercy Center. There are 40 persons on the waiting list and it is these 40, plus others that OLHSA is looking for assistance in serving.

Mrs. MacQueen defined a homebound person as one "who is genuinely incapacitated by illness or age and is unable to move out of his/her home to participate in the program at one of the sites."

To qualify such a person must have a doctor's, V.N.A. or hospital note for regular or special diet, she said.

More information may be obtained from Mrs. MacQueen at 858-5192.

Senior Citizen ID Cards

Senior citizens aged 60 years of age and older may have their photographs taken for ID cards during June at various locations in Oakland County. The identification cards enable seniors to received discounts on merchandise from over 850 participating merchants through the Oakland County Senior Discount Program. Discounts range up to 40 percent.

The discount program is being administered by the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency. The OLHSA is seeking new locations for the camera schedule. Agencies, organizations, churches, union halls, service clubs, etc., who would like to have the discount program offered from their locations may telephone Clara Westbrook, OLSHA Field Supervisor, at 858-0152. Hallman and Locricchio Exchange Words About Taxes

The appearance of Joseph Locricchio and Gary Francell before the Independence Township Board last week seeking a liquor license for Pine Knob Country Club resulted in a verbal exchange between Locricchio and Treasurer Betty Hallman over payment of delinquent taxes.

The exchange ended with Hallman saying, "Nobody owes as much as you do!" and Locricchio replying, "Nobody pays as much as I do!"

The two developers of the Pine Knob complex were represented by Lansing attorney Norman Farhat known for his experience in liquor license matters. They are seeking the township's remaining license for use in both the mansion and the so-called "halfway house," which adjoins the tennis courts and swimming pool.

The mansion and the halfway house would be leased to Mansion, Inc. in the person of Alex Bardy. The one license could be used in both buildings because they would be joined by a strip of land included in the lease arrangement.

Board members were assured that the restaurants, to be open to the public, were ready to operate "tomorrow" if they granted the license.

Township Clerk Chris Rose was of the opinion that an investigation by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department was required before the license could be granted. Farhat replied that would be required by the Liquor Control Commission after the township approved the license.

Rose moved to table the matter to the next meeting citing the long list of applicants for that one license although many of them dated back to 1961 and had no definite plans or location. The motion died for lack of support.

Trustee Fred Ritter commented, "It's pretty obvious where it should go whether their taxes are paid on time or not." Pine Knob's plans had been known to the township for some time, he felt.

Ritter moved to grant the license, supported by Powell. The motion passed on a 3-2 vote with Hallman and Rose dissenting.

Two other people were present seeking the license, Paul Rice, former owner of the Clarkston Cafe, and Hugh Garner. Garner had no definite plans for its use.

Rice's plans were for a small restaurant and lounge next to the Pontiac State Bank on Sashabaw Road, to be built by Clark Easley.

Although no formal arrangements have been made between Rice and Easley, Rice said they would begin after the LCC investigation and approval of building plans.

Independence Township is allowed eleven permits, one for every 1,500 residents, based on the 1970 census. Due to population growth, more will likely be available following the 1980 census in two years.

Durbin Opens Clarkston Office

The Durbin Company, Realtors announces the grand opening of its seventh office in Oakland County. The new office is located in downtown Clarkston at the corner of Main Street and Depot.

Michael D. Loszewski is manager. "Mike" has been an area resident for the last ten years and has studied real estate at the University of Michigan. In his years with The Durbin Company, Realtors, he has been instrumental in the sale of millions of dollars worth of real estate in the Oakland County area.

Just One of Those Days

A group of local residents recently headed northward for a canoeing weekend. Some of them left early, and waited for their friends at the campgrounds. One couple was going to be leaving from Waterford later than the five couples who planned to travel together. Four of those couples were traveling by motor home, and two couples were following them in a van. They all left in high spirits.

It was just south of Midland that the motor home tire went flat. Naturally, the van stopped too, and they all pulled over beside I-75 to replace the tire.

It was then that they ran into a couple of problems. First, the motor home owners discovered that the jack their son had borrowed had not been replaced. They tried the jack from the van, and they were so pleased that it would work that they neglected to block the front tires. You guessed it, the motor home rolled forward, breaking the jack off its stand. They blocked the front wheels. They then managed to get the jack propped up so it would work. The problem then was to get the spare tire from under the motor home where it was chained and padlocked. Unfortunately, they couldn't find the key. They had to break the chain to get the spare. It was then that they realized that the lugs on the wheel were so tight, they couldn't get it off. A half hour's work and a lot of oil later, they changed the tire. They all were on their way again, but not without a bump! They forgot to unblock the front wheels.

They were about five miles down the road when they realized something was wrong with the spare tire they'd put on. They all stopped again, and that's when the "later" van from Waterford caught up to them. It stopped, too. It was soon discovered then, that there was a chunk out of the spare tire they'd just put on. There was nothing to do but get off at the Midland exit, and buy a new tire.

The motor home and both vans exited and made their way to a handy service station. It was very busy, and there was just one young man trying to attend the customers. Trying to back into the bay, the driver of the vehicle broke the rear vent off the motor home, but the young man did have tires. He didn't have one to match the other tire though, so it was necessary to buy two tires. He quoted them a price.

It was a very good price. In fact, the travelers suspected that he'd made an error, and they wanted to get the tires on and get out of there before he realized his mistake; so the eight men told him that they would run the station while he worked at replacing the motor home tires.

He replaced one, but didn't have the right tools, so eventually gave up on the other. It was put on the spare tire wheel, but had to be carried in one of the vans. They were ready to be on their way again, when the young man realized his error, and charged them the full price on the tires - but not before those eight men, between them, put in eight man-hours of work in that gas station.

Our heroes pumped gas, washed windows, added oil, worked the cash register, and made out charge slips, as well as doing other odd jobs; and one of the wives has pictures to prove it. Sounds like the kid at the gas station made out like a bandit!

It was almost midnight when "just one of those days" came to an end for the weary troupe, who finally staggered into the campgrounds to meet their worried fellow canoeists. The fun-filled weekend made it all worthwhile, though, according to our informants.

Springfield Township Board Meeting

by Carol Balzarini

Land development and related items dominated the agenda of the June meeting of the Springfield Township Board.

A rezoning request by Ed Masters, which resulted in a 2-2 vote at the May meeting, appeared on the agenda and was approved this time by a 3-2 vote. Approximately 6.8 acres on Rattalee Lake Road, just east of Bridge Lake was rezoned from R-1 (1 1/4-acre lots) to R-2 (40,000 square foot lots).

Thor Olafsson was denied final plat approval for Springfield Pines due to non-conformance with the township's subdivision ordinance, although he had conformed to the requirements of the plat act.

Supervisor Collin Walls said township officials were concerned with the condition of the land located on Andersonville Road across from the new library because it appears low and wet.

Olafsson will be required to show location of utilities in his drawing, produce soil borings for each lot and a tabulated record, furnish a plan of retention basins and show proposed topography.

Tentative preliminary plat approval was granted Gardner-Hall Acres, a 20-acre development located on Bridge Lake Road, with twelve 1 1/2 acre lots.

Springfield Acres, a thirteen-lot development located on Big Lake and Bridge Lake Roads, was granted final plat approval.

A revised Englewood Meadows received final preliminary plat approval. Road alignment had been changed and two building sites eliminated by developer and builder Darell Adams. The sub is located off Big Lake Road.

A request for an extension of a tentative preliminary plat by Doris Underwood was denied because of the amount of time which had elapsed since initial approval in 1975. Under the plat act, it is good for only one year. The planned development is some 16-18 acres with 14 lots ranging in size from 1/2 one half acre to 2 1/4 acres.

Three site plans were on the agenda, two were approved, the third referred.

Approval was given the plan for a Frosty Boy to be located on the Dixie Highway requested by Thurston Dean.

The plan for Creative Woodwork and Millwork was approved, the building to be located on Big Lake Road next to the vocational school.

A requested warehouse addition to Richardson's Dairy on the Dixie Highway was referred to the planning commission and the township engineer.

Two possible ballot proposals were discussed, one dealing with millage for road maintenance and another for an M-275 type road.

The question of one mill for road maintenance and improvement will be studied further for possible inclusion on the November ballot. A similar proposal was defeated in 1974.

One question which will appear on the August ballot will deal with whether or not a north-south limited access road should be built along the approximate lines of M-275 at state or federal expense.

The board approved a liquor license transfer from Joe Borys to CSM Management, Inc. at the Springfield (the old Four Seasons). They did not approve a requested SDM license, carryout beer and wine.

A donation of $100 was made to the North Oakland Firemen's Association to purchase films, film strips, handout material and related items for use in a fire prevention program to begin in the elementary schools in North Oakland County this fall. The association is a cooperative organization of volunteer fire departments with mutual aid agreements.

World Premier Musical

A world premier musical dealing with the many aspects of love from birth to death opens at the Student Enterprise Theatre at Oakland University on June 23.

The work is entitled "Agape" for the ancient Greek Christian word meaning "love festival." The musical will be repeated June 24-25 and the following Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 30 and July 1-2.

The music was written by Darien Martus, an OU alumnus, and the book for the musical is provided by a collection of prose and poetry by Thomas A. Aston, director of Student Enterprises at Oakland University. Aston will direct the musical.

The play will be repeated for a three week public run on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights starting September 8, and during this period it will be reviewed as the university entry in the 1979 American College Theatre Festival competition.

The Barn Theatre productions feature original plays by contemporary American playwrights. "Alice," another Barn Theatre original musical, was selected this season for the American College Theatre Festival regional competition. The best productions across the county are selected each year for a final competition in the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

Curtain time for the June and July performances will be 8:30 p.m. The fall performances on Fridays and Saturdays will be at 8:30 p.m. with Sunday curtains at 6:30 p.m. Sunday matinees are scheduled for September 17 and 24.

All performances are in the Barn Theatre on campus. For information, call 377-2245.

There's No Business Like Show Business

by Sharon Springborn

Spring has finally arrived in Michigan, bringing with it thoughts of June brides, graduations, days off of work to celebrate holidays and, if you have an animal-crazed child, horse shows.

Horse shows can be, if you approach them correctly, a lot of fun. You get to spend an entire day outdoors, without having to perform a task such as weeding the garden or painting the fence. All meals are eaten outside, on blankets or at picnic tables, but if you just want a snack, a concession stand is usually provided.

Constant harping at your kids or your spouse to "keep things picked up" and to "put your stuff away" isn't usually necessary when your whole day is spent outdoors. A gentle reminder once in a while, helping the family recall what garbage bags are used for, is all that's needed.

Though the good parts of a horse show do stand out in the memory, all of the not-so-good parts of the show also remain in the mind. Take the night before, for example. Everything that would possibly be needed at the show had to be packed up, because we were getting up at 4:30 in the morning so that we could load the horse, eat some breakfast and make it to the show site by 7:30.

Also the day before the show, the horse had to be bathed, her hair had to be trimmed, and the parts of her that are white had to be cleaned so well that they almost glistened. Then came the most difficult part. A place had to be found for her to stand so that she wouldn't get dirty by the following morning. Finally, we put her in a small fenced section behind our house and just prayed that she wouldn't find (or make) a spot to roll in.

But the most nerve-wracking part of showing was still awaiting me.

A good friend of mine, who also has a daughter who shows horses, told me that she really has a hard time watching her daughter compete, and wanting her to do well. After she found out that my kid's first show was coming up, she told me, quite smugly I thought, that "my turn was coming" and I'd "know how she feels."

Well, she was absolutely correct, my turn DID come. And I was just like a typical mother, not seeing my daughter make any mistakes when riding and blaming the judge for seeing mistakes that I couldn't.

All opinions I kept to myself, though, and looking around me at other parents, I would say that lots of people had to repress their feelings. So on that score, I wasn't alone.

Well, the show finally ended (without any help from me), and only my four-year-old daughter won a ribbon in a class for very young kids. The nine-year-old will ride in the next show, and will, of course, try again.

After all, someone did say something about "the hope that springs eternal within the human breast." I'll bet any money that he was referring to horse shows!

Deer Lake Travel

France, Italy, Hawaii or even Aruba - which one is most appealing? If any of these places are to your taste, then Deer Lake Travel of 7150 Dixie Highway in Clarkston may be able to help you.

Adjacent to Deer Lake Racquet Club, this new addition to Clarkston is co-owned by Cathy Klender.

Mrs. Klender, her husband and two children have lived in Clarkston for the last two years.

Mrs. Klender, who was with Elkin Travel for 14 years and also with American Airlines, has run Deer Lake Travel since January.

Laura Negip is an assistant with Deer Lake Travel. She was trained as a travel agent through United Airlines.

"The purpose of any travel agency," stated Mrs. Klender, "is to simplify travel for the average individual."

"It's important," Mrs. Klender continued, "for travelers to take advantage of the personal service offered by a professional travel consultant."

Deer Lake Travel reserves charters, individual and route travel.

Not only do they handle transportation to all destinations, they reserve hotels, rental cars, tours, and sightseeing.

Mrs. Klender said, "Laura and I pride ourselves on giving individual attention."

According to Mrs. Klender, most people believe that the services of a travel agent is an extra cost, however, it is a free service.

"Our goal," Mrs. Klender indicated, "is to let people know that one visit or local phone call can take care of all travel needs. You call us, we do the rest!"

Deer Lake Travel has written hundreds of tickets since they opened. People are already booking for Christmas and Easter. They are apparently already aware of the advantage and ease of using Deer Lake Travel.

P & R Needs a Team For Over 30 League

Independence Township Parks and Recreation (Clarkston) is looking for a sixth team to play in its Men's 30 and Over league. The games will be played on Sunday evenings at Clintonwood Park. There is a sponsor fee required for joining the league. The deadline for entry into the league will be Friday, June 9 at 12:00 noon.

POETRY CORNER

SOMEONE'S DAD

I say, "God bless you," to men on the street,
A silent prayer for each one I meet,
The derelict asleep on a bench in the park,
In the day time or after dark,
The man on the bus with face so sad,
Each one of these may be someone's dad.

That one on the sidewalk, minus a leg,
With pencils to sell, yet appearing to beg,
I drop some change into his hat,
"Thanks," he says, "I sure need that."
I hope my "God bless you" will make him glad,
Because, just maybe, he's someone's dad.

Alone and forgotten, the drunk on skid row,
I wonder what burdens have made him so.
Him I bless too, hoping my prayer
Will bring to him some better fare.
Perhaps at one time a family he had
And even now may be someone's dad.

To fathers we know and dads everywhere,
Let's send forth this day a silent prayer,
"God bless you. God bless you with love for you, Contentment and joy in all that you do."
Let all of us give some special touch
That to all dads will mean so much.

Marc Alan Entertained Artrain Patrons

Some 250 Artrain patrons were entertained at an elegant lawn party following opening ceremonies June 1 by Marc Alan on the grounds of The Clarkston Mills. Guests were treated to shrimp, cheese and champagne under a striped awning while a Detroit Symphony trio provided background music.

For many, it was their first opportunity to tour Alan's "street of fine shops" slated to open in August at 20 West Washington. Construction is still under way and visitors were able to get an indication of the quality workmanship displayed in the conversion of the former Hawk Tool Co.

The development is planned to accommodate 16 shops and two restaurants.

Davisburg Baptist Hosts Seminar

The Davisburg Baptist Church is hosting the Master Control Youth Seminar. The seminar is geared to Christian Life Building and Spiritual maturity for Christian young people. Biblical principles for the Christian life is the core of the seminar. The Master Control Youth Seminar is a ministry of Life Action, Inc., Buchanan, Michigan - A Family-Centered Revival Team Ministry.

The seminar will be a two-man teaching effort taught by Reverend Ed Villalba, a professor at Faithway Baptist College, and Jim Kneblak, a graduate of Tennessee Temple College. Some of the seminar topics covered are as follows: "Life's Purpose," "Self Worth," "Relationships," "Love," "God's Will," "Dating and Marriage," and "Spiritual Victory." There will be twelve sessions discussed in all. Every teenager who attends receives a beautiful vinyl covered notebook full of supplementary materials for each session, and twelve colorful posters illustrating the sessions.

The church is located at 12881 Andersonville Road in Davisburg. The seminar sessions will be conducted in the main auditorium of the church. George Davis is the Youth Pastor. Registration begins on Friday, June 16 at 8:30 a.m. with the first session at 9:00 a.m. The sessions will be Friday and Saturday, June 16 and 17 from 8:30-3:00. All young people are encouraged to attend and receive life-changing principles and direction for their Christian lives.

Kramer is being challenged by two Democrats, Mary Jean Cox of 5950 Ware Road, and Margery Kirk, 10387 Big Lake Road, one of whom will be eliminated in the August primary.

Vermilye's opposition is another Democrat, Mark Richard Krajniak, 11751 Ely Road, Davisburg.

Present supervisor Collin W. Walls, clerk Calvin J. Walters, both Republicans, will be unopposed. Charles A. Ball, incumbent Republican constable, also has not been challenged.

There were as many petitions filed for both the library board and the parks and recreation commission as there were vacancies to be filled. These candidates will be elected to the posts barring any successful write-in campaigns.

are incumbent Democrats running for six-year terms. Republican Mary L. Watson of 13450 Rattalee Lake Road, is seeking an unexpired two-year term.

All three positions on the parks and recreation commission are being sought by Republicans. Incumbent Stephen D. Dice is looking for a six-year term as is Charles M. Oaks, 332 Broadway. Dice's unexpired term of two years is being sought by Charles W. Mallett of 9548 Delores Drive, Clarkston.

Approximately fifty people attended "Candidates Night" last Thursday. The event, sponsored by The Reminder, was held to familiarize concerned voters with the five candidates running for the Clarkston School Board.

Four Trustees for Springfield?

by Steve Dice

Springfield Township voters will have the opportunity in August to determine the number of trustees on the township board. There are currently two trustees on the local governing body and those who vote will have the choice of leaving things as they are or expanding the number to four.

Supervisor Collin Walls says that the proposal will be on the ballot to basically follow state statutes. Once a township reaches a certain population size, voters are to be given the opportunity to decide whether to have two or four trustees.

According to Walls, there are both pros and cons to a board with four trustees.

Four trustees could offer a broader scope of community representation, said Walls.

Also, with more people there are on the board there is less tendency for special interest group control.

The supervisor clerk and treasurer would also lose control of the board because of the four vote majority the trustees would have, Walls pointed out, which would be an advantage if the supervisor, clerk, and treasurer were not doing their job.

On the other hand, the supervisor, clerk, and treasurer are the most active members because of their full time positions. Supervisor Walls points out that four trustees could band together and have a negative effect on township operations.

The additional funds required, based on current costs for two additional trustees, would be about $3,600 a year, said Walls.

Supervisor Walls also pointed out that the change would not take place until 1980.

Learn to Communicate with Mate

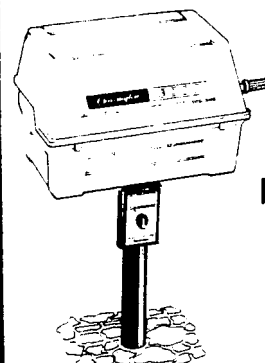

Married couples who have a basically good marriage are invited to spend a weekend to learn a more positive way of communicating with their mate. The experience helps newly-married couples to build sound relationships as well as to revitalize marriages of long duration.

The weekend program will take place at Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church, Winell at Maybee Road, Clarkston.

Registration information may be obtained by calling 627-2944 or 627-4643.

An investment in land is an investment in both today and tomorrow. It must fill your immediate needs, as well as be able to provide for future needs to your satisfaction. If you are buying land to build on, or buying land where there already is a house you will move into, make sure the area you buy in has what you want. Investigate schools if you have children, town or city politics or policies, zoning, recreational facilities, transportation facilities, growth potential, neighborhood trends, etc. The house you buy to live in involves more than just a building and the land - it involves your whole life, check it out.

Another good point to remember is that when the time comes to sell your home, the professionals at BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., right-next to the new Clarkston Post Office, 625-8821 are at your service. We offer extensive exposure to qualified potential buyers for a prompt sale. JUST FOR YOU

Someone's in the Kitchen

Barb Richards is this week's guest cook, and she has chosen as her favorite Clarkston Community Cookbook recipe, Pineapple Cream Cake. The recipe is her mother's.

PINEAPPLE CREAM CAKE

1 (8 oz.) pkg. yellow Jiffy cake mix
1 (No. 2) can crushed pineapple
1 large pkg. cream cheese with 1/2 cup milk
2 pkg. pineapple instant pudding with 2 1/2 cups milk
Small Cool Whip
Nuts if desired

Bake cake mix in 9 x 13 inch pan; let cool. Drain pineapple and spread over cake. Blend cream cheese with 1/2 cup milk until smooth. Beat slowly instant pineapple pudding with 2 1/2 cups milk for 2 minutes. Add cream cheese mixture and stir well. Spread over cake; top with Cool Whip and nuts. May be stored in refrigerator overnight or frozen.

What's cuter than one kitten in a tree?

Now that summer is approaching and small children are getting out of school, parents are looking for summer day care.

The 4C Council (Community Coordinated Child Care) and the Department of Social Services are the places to call for information.

Both the Council and DSS Licensing Department have lists of providers which they can make available to the public. The 4C Council, additionally, can provide personal information such as the hours that the homes are open, ages of children, suggestions as to what questions to ask and what to look for when visiting a potential child care home, and in some cases, recommendations may be made. The 4C telephone number is 858-5169 and the DSS number is 858-1604.

In addition to providing information on child care providers, the 4C Council:

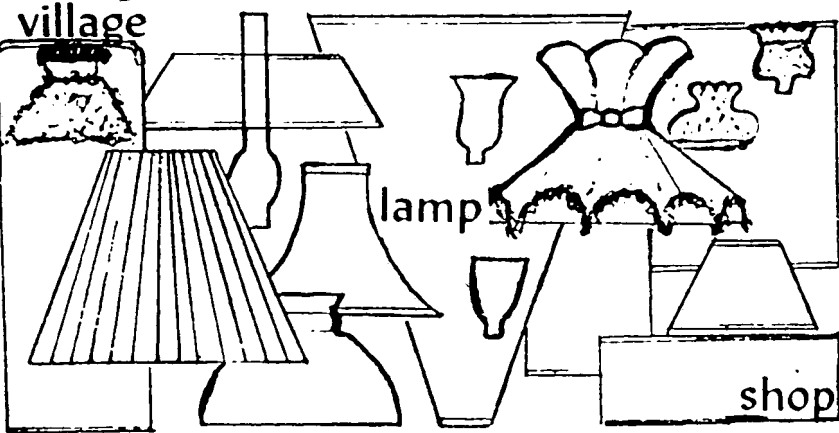

- is a clearing-house for employment in the field of early childhood

Four kittens in a tree.

- provides health, nutrition, child care and parenting information
- provides information on current legislation and regulations
- investigates the needs of children
- gives monthly updates on issues, resources, activities and programs
- gives on-site technical assistance on child care concerns
- runs programming and child development workshops.

Junior Golf Invitational

An invitation is extended to all golfers 19 years of age and under to participate in the Fourth Annual Oakland County Junior Golf Invitational. The tournament is sponsored by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission and will be held at White Lake-Oaks and Springfield-Oaks Golf Courses, Wednesday, June 21st thru Friday, June 23rd.

Competition will be in various age classifications with awards presented to each age group. Boys and girls will compete separately. Age is determined as of June 21, 1978.

An entry fee will include two practice rounds (to be played prior to the 21st), lunch on Thursday and Friday, 36 holes Medal Competition, and all awards.

Deadline for application is June 11th.

For more information, call Jim Mansfield at 698-2700.

Three Scholarships Given

Oxford School of Cosmetology is, for the first time, giving away three scholarships valued at over $2,700 to local seniors.

Denise Hotchkiss, Mark Brown and Dan Butora won the scholarships.

Denise, of 1787 Sashabaw Road, is a Senior at Brandon High School. She majored in Business.

Mark, who was a music major at Clarkston High School, lives on Heath. He was also a member of the school Drama Club.

Dan is a Senior at Goodrich High School. He is interested in barbering and styling.

Ann Romberger, owner of Oxford School of Cosmetology, said, "Dan chose hair styling because it offered more opportunities."

The scholarship pays full tuition for each student. It is a twelve month course, and must be started by June 20 on a full-time basis.

The students will be responsible for registration fees, uniforms, books and kits.

Denise, Mark and Dan were selected after being recommended by school counselors and after interviews with their future school.

Mrs. Romberger indicates that if these three people work out well as students, she may offer the scholarship again and to more people.

Hilda Gage, Oakland County attorney, is the first non-incumbent to file for one of the three newly-created Oakland County Circuit Court judgeships. Receiving her nominating petitions is Elections Specialist George Herstek.
