4-H Has A Good Thing Going!

A few years back, officials had the foresight to move the Oakland County 4-H fair from the old Perry Street grounds to the new Springfield-Oaks complex on Andersonville Road in Davisburg. It was a move very few people regret.

The crowds have been awesome this past week with things like country-western recording stars, a demolition derby and fireworks to capture attention and attendance.

But, it's not those attention-getting crowd-pleasers that make the 4-H fair the success it is each year. The heart and soul of the fair is actually the children and parents who participate.

Hundreds of youngsters from all over the county spend hour upon hour readying their exhibits or pets for this one week.

Here, at The Reminder, when it came time to pass out assignments for this week, we had no trouble finding someone to cover the 4-H fair. In fact, four out of our six reporters were going to spend the greater part of their week with their kids at the fair.

Nor, did we have any problems finding youngsters willing to pose with their projects.

The exciting atmosphere created by the participants, began to grow upon us as we attended the fair day after day, so say my reporters. They felt, and rightly so, this fair deserved a little better treatment than the average picture story.

Thus, we decided to dedicate this issue to the fair and the hundreds of 4H-ers from this area who participated. As you scan the inside pages, take note of the many happy faces. You can see more smiling faces at this fair in one week, than many people see in a lifetime!

Congratulations, 4-Hers and the Oakland County Fair!

Dear Editor:

In recent issues of your paper you have had articles regarding the pros and cons concerning the affect of the loud music on nearby residents but no where I have seen anything about the damage to persons and property caused by some of the beer imbibing and pot smoking automobile drivers after they leave Pine Knob.

I live in the Walters Lake Area at N. Eston and Clarkston Roads where the screeching of brakes and crunching of metal makes all residents wonder if any of their families are involved with these Pine Knobbers. Most of us avoid going or coming from our hom , when Pine Knob is letting out but at times it is impossible and believe me, traveling at these times is like taking your life in your hands. I'm sure if you will check you will find many, many accidents at this area, to my knowledge many people have been injured and soon I am sure some will be killed. Most people entering Pine Knob enter via I-75 and Sashabaw Road but on leaving some are forced onto Clarkston Road then West to M-15 to I-75 which is not too bad, but those that are forced East on Clarkston Road to Baldwin to I-75 are forced over treacherous curves and if unfamiliar with the area, plus dulled isenses by music, beer, and pot you have a dangerous situation. I enclose a map of this area showing the treacherous curves. Anyone having an accident in this area should file suit against Pine Knob for being forced to drive over a road not meant for this type of traffic. In my opinion when people enter Pine Knob from I-75 and Sashabaw they should leave the same way as it is a familiar route. Let Pine Knob improve this entrance and exit so that our local roads are not completely ruined to cause us all trouble this coming winter.

Another more dreadful thing is happening in the area of the Shopping Area at this same location. (N. Eston Road and Clarkston Road). Many Pine Knobbers loaded with beer and pot start looking for public facilities of which there are none so their favorite spot is behind the stores in the alleyway. I can recall many years ago when the Walters Lake Grocery Store was at this location and they had an outside privy for the public. This was always kept in good shape and caused no neighborhood problem but the Oakland County Health Department; when they obtained their jurisdiction threw up their hands in horror at the outside privy. Well, a well maintained outside privy would be a blessing in this area because right now we have a non-maintained outside privy which will I am sure be quite noticeable to all, local, residents as well as Pine-Knobbers. The other evening my wife, on her way to the store, saw a woman coming out from behind the buildings remarking, "What a: relief," and I am sure she wasn't talking about aspirin tablets or Alka-Seltzer. Someone should do something about this, constant survellance and/or light up the area, although some of these kooks would care about lights when they have to go. I am not advocating an outside privy.

Walter F. Grogan Walters Lake. Clarkston, MI'

Dear Mrs. Allen,

I have long shared your views on "Thoughts 'N Things" and envied your ability to write what I've often Again today upon reading your column, the bond was renewed and I applaud you.

I, too, went through a similar encounter with my 15-year-old son over a journal for English class.

"But Mom, she doesn't care about punctuation or penmanship - just write something every day." 'An English teahcer who doesn't care about grammar or penmanship? Incredible! Irregardless - you should." You can imagine some of the rest that followed.

I still remember the motto of my home high school -'Enter to learn - go forth to serve'' - and if you do - your education will never cease, besides that it's fulfilling and fun. At least I've found that to be true.

You sound like a Virgo - perfection is something to strive for - right on.

Again - I enjoy your style - thanks for your striving.

Letter to the Editor:

The purpose of this release is to, hopefully - once and for all, settle and lay to rest the unfair and unwarranted innuedos and allegations made by the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office against the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

1. The decision to revoke the Special Deputy status of the Oakland County Prosecutor's investigators was done after a great deal of both independent investigation and input from various respected and professional law enforcement practitioners.

Without being able to site specific examples due to the fact that I do not want to jeopardize any ongoing or future court action, the main reason for the revocation dealt with the absence of any type of accountability or input from the Sheriff's Department without which there loomed on any given day a potential for law suits for which the Sheriff could find himself vicariously, civilly, criminally, and even potentially personally liable for actions of individuals - actions of which he has no knowledge, control, supervision or input.

Prior to the Sheriff making public the revocation of the deputation, I was instructed to personally deliver notice of the revocation to the Prosecutor's Office, the County Executive, the County Clerk and County Civil Counsel as both a courtesy and to fulfill necessary legal steps pertaining to the deputation.

I returned to my office and had been back for some time when I received notification that an individual was requesting to see me on an important matter. At that point and time, a Mr. Landau informed me that a warrant for the arrest of L. Brooks Patterson and William LeFevre had just been issued by Judge Robert L. Shipper, 52nd District Court - Third Division. I was then handed the original copy of the warrant for the arrest of the above-mentioned individuals.

After reading the warrant several times, I then personally called Judge Shipper and was told that he had, in fact, issued the warrant, that it was valid and ready to be served. Armed with this information, I immediately notified Sheriff Spreen of the situation.

After the noon hour, Lt. Richard Hubble of the Detective Bureau and I went over to the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office to inform either Mr. Patterson or his Chief Assistant Prosecutor, Mr. Thompson, of the fact that we, in fact, had a warrant for Mr. Patterson's arrest and attempt to come to a mutually satisfactory agreement as to how to handle this unpleasant matter.

Mr. Thompson was informed of the warrant and was, in fact, given a copy of said warrant. He then contacted Mr. Patterson by telephone and, while no members of the Sheriff's Department were present in Mr. Thompson's office when the conversation transpired, we were told that:

1. Mr. Patterson had been informed, and

2. Mr. Patterson said, in essence - they are going to have to come and get me.

It had already been decided that this misdemeanor warrant would be processed no differently than any other misdemeanor warrant that the Sheriff's Department handles on a regular basis. As a matter of fact, Mr. Patterson was given every opportunity to voluntarily appear at the Sheriff's Department to clear up this matter at his reasonable convenience. Had there been any desire to arrest Mr. Patterson, his location could have been easily ascertained and his subsequent arrest could have been made.

I was personally aware of the fact that members of the Prosecutor's Office felt the warrant was deficient. I was, also, aware of the fact that members of his staff were getting a copy of the record in the District Court in anticipation of asking the Circuit Court to exercise superintending control in this matter.

On Friday morning, I was personally contacted, first by the Chief Assistant Prosecutor, Mr. Richard Thompson, and told that Mr. Patterson was in his office and that we should "do our duty" and come over and arrest him. I asked Mr. Thompson if this was going to be a rehearsal for a "Playhouse 90" type of production, being quite confident in my mind that the Press had been alerted and that a confrontation was what Mr. Patterson and Mr. Thompson desired.

After the call from Mr. Thompson proved to be of no avail to the Prosecutor's Office, Mr. Michael Izzo, Division Chief of the District Court and Warrants Division, called me back and attempted to tell me what my duties as a law enforcement officer were. He also told me Mr. Patterson was in his office, and we should do our job and come over and arrest Mr. Patterson. I thanked Mr. Izzo for telling me what my job was.

When this call proved to be of no avail, members of the Prosecutor's Office happened to notice a uniformed Deputy Sheriff in the office performing his duties as a Warrant Officer in other cases. Members of the Prosecutor's Office gave a xerox copy of the warrant on Mr. Patterson to the Deputy and attempted to caiole him into serving the warrant. In my opinion, conduct of this type is highly unprofessional and reeks of entrapment-like behavior.

Very shortly after the call from the Deputy, a call was placed to Judge Shipper, and Sheriff Spreen and I were informed by the Judge that the Circuit Court through Judge Templin had, in fact, quashed the warrant. I am sure in my mind that members of the Prosecutor's Office either knew or had strong reason to believe that the warrant was going to be quashed, and yet they were attempting to suggest, cajole, and almost coerce members of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department into coming over and arresting Mr. Patterson.

In closing, it is my sincere hope that this rather detailed summary of the two independent events which occurred last week will clear the air once and for all.

Sincerely, Robert Nyovich Undersheriff

FUNERAL HOME CAN BE EDUCATIONAL

Would your religious, fraternal or civic group like to make a tour of our funeral home facilities? We believe your members would benefit through the discussions with us and each other. Many people have no knowledge of funeral costs or procedures prior to the time of need, so an education tour can be quite helpful

Do you, for instance, know about funeral costs and procedures? Are you aware of the more-than-75 specific details to which we automatically attend? Have you wondered about the formal education and training which a licensed funeral director must have? Are you aware of the many informative books available now on "death-and-dying?"

A tour might satisfy your curiosity about these questions, and others. You'll see how we meet the needs of individual families with the professional expertise our community has come to expect.

If you or your group would be interested in a tour, please call for details.

THOUGHTS 'N THINGS

"BEAUTY IS IN THE EYES OF THE BEHOLDER," is usually considered to be a comment on the fact that we have individual preferences. It also says something which is much more important to parents, however. That is, that we associate feelings and attitudes with choices. Our definition of beauty has to do with emotions that we don't always understand. Psychologists have questioned our preferences, however, and have learned that our emotions are based on learning experiences that occured before we reached the age of reasoning. Emotional learning is then an associative process. As such, parents can do much to see that their children make positive associations that will aid them as they get older.

I am not suggesting mind control. I am only suggesting an accent on the positive, and as much elimination of the negative as possible. That's because it works

I was not always so confident. Our first child was born in 1956, and I didn't read much in the papers that was comforting about parenthood. In fact, I attended some lectures, and heard a lot of warnings about parents adjusting to life as it was among the citizens of the younger generation. Those lectures were to prepare adults for the drug culture, and the "new morality." I remember sitting and worrying about the impossible venture I had embarked on. It wasn't enough that I had to worry about sickness and accidents and perverts attacking my child externally. I also had to worry about all the internal illness and negative behavior that could do damage to my perfect infant.

I am not a worrier by nature, but I think having one's first child when one is in the late twenties makes it seem first child when one is in the late twenties makes it seem more of a miracle than producing a child in the teens does. The twenties are full of experience, and awareness that life is not as safe, nor as full of happy endings as childhood might make us believe. To add to my concern was my experience as a secretary in an elementary school. I had had experience with a wide variety of children. I had known crippled children, and deaf children, and chronically ill children. I had seen neglected children, and confused children, and I'd seen all sorts of behavior problems, and unhappiness that spilled out of the eyes of seven and eight year olds. I had good reason to be frightened at my lack of experience and knowledge! I wondered that I had dared to take on the responsibility of another human being's life before I had really managed to handle my own intelligently and efficiently!

It wasn't all fun and games, of course. There was illness, and accidents, and asthma, and the emergency room at the hospital, and orthodontia, and expense, expense and more expense - and no mink coats or trips to Europe, or fine china and sterling silver flatware, or Cadillacs. On the other hand, there were no drug problems, or new morality problems, or discipline problems. We simply paid the price of "cause and effect."

There were experts to help with health problems, of course, and would-be experts to tell new mothers how to help their children learn, and behave. They were too general for me however, and some of those experts were not even parents. I wasn't at all sure I could trust them.

I realized that I had a lot to learn, and I discovered that the way to learn how to do something right, is to admit that you don't know anything about a subject. You start from scratch that way, and if you feel that you are holding a time-bomb in your hands, you don't waste time finding out the right way to handle it!

I was fortunate in that my father had been a speech correctionist for a number of years, and had done a lot of study as to how stuttering and stammering were caused, as well as a number of other childhood emotional problems. That is, I started parenthood with a basic list of don'ts that convinced me that I had to develop a great deal of self-control while my child was an infant. I had been around while Dad worked with other children and their parents, and I knew that if you didn't do the child-raising thing right the first time, doing it over was a time consuming, difficult project!

I had learned a lot of theory in college too, and combined with what I had learned at home, I was able to convert it to practical use. One of the things I learned was "cause and effect," a second was "association," and a third was about time and space. That is a difficult concept in theory, but practical sense can be made of it. When space is filled with positive matter, there is no room for negative matter; and when time is spent on positive activity, there is no time for negative activity. Children cannot be expected to understand those things, nor to control them, but caring parents can.

I had been an absent-minded sort of student who daydreamed a lot. As a result, I was a fair-to-middling student who only paid attention to the things that caught my imagination and interested me. I studied in spurts, and just managed to slide by with C's in a good many courses, then raised my average to A's in the courses I liked. I had a smattering of D's too, but managed to avoid failing anything. Many of my teachers considered me "dumb," but the more generous ones referred to me as an under-achiever. Since I was "only a girl," nobody really worried about it. The pressure was only on my brother.

My child, however, was a girl! I would not accept the judgement that she was to be "only a girl." I wanted her to consider herself every bit as important as the boys in her class. Thankfully, society was moving in the same direction I was!

Now, since I knew that "beauty" or positive attitudes would come from emotional association, I held our daughter and read to her every time I had a few minutes alone with her. Books were among her first playthings, and every birthday and Christmas, she was given hard-cover books from among my old favorites, as well as the new writers. When we went shopping, she got a treat - not a sucker, but one of the "Little Golden Books." When she was old enough, she read to me, and we both read to her sisters when they were old enough to share the stories and books.

There were also records, and jigsaw puzzles that taught patience, and an awareness of sizes and shapes, and how a whole is made of many little parts. I spent time coloring with her, and finger-painting, and working with play-doh and clay. Learning and love were associated in her mind, as well as in the minds of our younger children. I devoted the same kind of time and energy to them as I did with the oldest child, but by then it was too late to turn back - I had chosen a way of life.

I say that, because I could not fill my time and space with other things. I had to listen to people tell me I was "spoiling my children." Their father and I had to have faith in the importance of time spent with the kids. We had to eat haphazard meals around clay models that were drying, or wet finger paintings, and the dishes sat in the sink until morning because after-dinner time was spent in a reading and singing session.

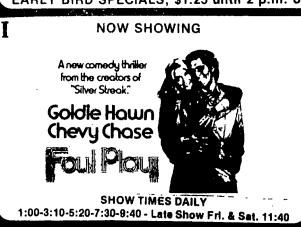

Our social life has had to come second to 5th and 6th grade band concerts, and high school musicals, because our lives had been directed that way, as our parents' lives were directed - to the hope of the future, which lies in a solid foundation for our children.

It wasn't all fun and games, of course. There was illness, and accidents, and asthma, and the emergency room at the hospital, and orthodontia, and expense, expense, and more expense - and no mink coats or trips to Europe, or fine china and sterling silver flatware, or Cadillacs. On the other hand, there were no drug problems, or new morality problems, or discipline problems. We simply paid the price of "cause and effect."

This fall, however, our oldest daughter and my brother's oldest child, a son, will be classmates in law school. When you're "almost fifty," those things make you happy!

Diary of a Frantic 4-H Mother

by Carol Balzarini

SUNDAY: At 5:00 a.m. the Commander (alias Daddy) left to fulfill his annual military obligation. The early part of the day was spent sprinkling louse dust on the rabbit and chickens (also the children), measuring the zucchini and cucumbers for ideal specimins, baking cookies, and finishing photography exhibits. The afternoon was spent watching road racing at Waterford

MONDAY: At 9:00 a.m. Mom, two children and three friends left for Davisburg in the pickup with twelve chickens, one rabbit, feed and food and water containers, one bales of hay and assorted entries. By noon the live exhibits were caged and organized. At one o'clock all waited nervously while the photography and creative writing judges deliberated. Arrived home at 3:00 just in time to change into baseball uniforms, drop off one child, pick up someone else's and get to Clintonwood in time for daughter's softball game at 4:00. Game over, dashed to son's baseball game at 6:00. Left early to attend village council meeting. Picked up children on the way home.

TUESDAY: At 8:00 the children picked and arranged their vegetables and flowers. Arrived at the 4-H fair with friends promptly at 9:30 for rabbit judging. Satin rabbits were scheduled for judging after lunch. My daughter was in line for cookie judging (one of 150) at,\ 12:30 while her brother checked on the progress of rabbit judging. Back to the Exhibition Hall for flowers and vegetables, then back to the rabbit building. At 2:45 Mom left with the girls for the 4:00 softball game leaving brother with the rabbit. Mom returned to the fair. The rabbit was finally judged at 5:30, awarded blue rosette for best of breed and set aside for still further judging.

Fishing for Fun Day

The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission will sponsor a "Fishing for Fun Day" on Wednesday, August 16th, at Independence-Oaks County Park.

"Fishing for Fun Day," for Grandparent/Grandchild teams, will begin at 4:00 p.m. and end at 9:00 p.m. Prizes will be awarded for the largest catch, maximum team catch, with special awards for the youngest and oldest fisherman. Following the contest, a picnic supper will be provided. A fishing demonstration will be given by the Oakland Bass Masters and the Bassin-Buddies.

Registration forms are available at local sporting goods stores. For more information, call Cindy Moon at Mom raced to Clintonwood, the D.Q. and finally found daughter at home. Back to fair. Silver Streak (the rabbit) lost to rabbit of daughter's friend for best of commercial breed. Too late for the township board meeting.

WEDNESDAY: We arrived at the fair at 1:00 after spending the morning running errands. Fed the rabbits and chickens, added new hay to the pens, changed their water. We photographed English pleasure riding in the rain, watched goat showmanship and got home just in time to change into baseball clothes. Arrived at Clintonwood at 3:30 picking up girls enroute. The girls lost their second game in double elimination playoffs. We raced to the boys game at the junior high and made it just in time. They won. Took a truckful of kids to the D.Q., dinner was a hot fudge sundae at 8:30. Home early for a change but missed the Springfield Township

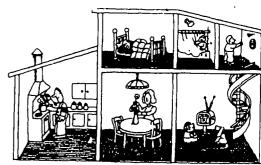

THURSDAY: We went to the fair early to be ready for the 9:30 poultry judging to find instant panic. Not only had the previous night's downpour left the white roosters muddy but they had also been fighting. What a mess! They were awarded "A" in ribbons nonetheless. One child's eggs became contenders for rosettes, the chickens were also possible contenders. Raced to Clarkston for a special meeting at 3:00 paying some bills (1) along the way. Back to Davisburg to collect the kids and check on judging. "Super" chickens of last year were only worth second and third place rosettes this year. Dashed home, showered, ate dinner, dropped kids off at movie, dropped off film for the paper, and went to Candidates' Night at the high school.

FRIDAY: Got up early to have breakfast at the Little Chef and to catch up on the latest happenings with the "round table regulars." Back to the fair to feed and water the critters. Home again to get some writing done. Escaped at 6:30 for some adult companionship at the Garden Club "clam bake."

SATURDAY: The pressure was off now as far as the fair was concerned, but I'm still behind in my writing. The boys' baseball championship game was at 1:00. Dashed to Ortonville before the game with my articles, and back again after the game with my photographs. In the meantime, Temple Plumbing finished in 1st place. It was a long season from Mom's point of view.

SUNDAY: Left for Davisburg bright and early to bring home twelve chickens and one rabbit. Only the rabbit and the hens have a secure future. The roosters are roasters. What more can I say? Today was the day most looked foreward to by 4-H members and their families. It's all over for another year.

JUST ONE OF THOSE DAYS

He is an absent-minded sort of professor, and so he forgot that he was supposed to arrange a ride to the university because he had promised daughter the station wagon to take a group on an outing. His wife said to go ahead and take her new car because she wasn't going anyplace, anyway.

When classes were over, he couldn't remember where he had parked, and even forgot for awhile that he'd been driving his wife's car, but when he spotted it in the parking lot, he remembered. He hadn't remembered locking it, but took out his key and unlocked it, and drove home. Once there, he noticed that his wife had left him a note - she'd been picked up by a friend for an afternoon of bridge. He decided to do some errands that she'd asked him to do a couple of days before, so left a note for her, and headed for town.

He'd managed to get quite a lot done before he was stopped by the police as he returned to the car. It seemed that he was driving a vehicle that had been reported stolen! To make matters worse, he couldn't get the glove compartment open to show the registration which he made it a rule to keep there for each car. Then he remembered his wife's golf bag with identification might be in the trunk - but he couldn't get the trunk open.

One of the policemen drove the car in question, and the protesting professor rode in the police car, and they returned to the university to meet with the university visitor who had reported her car stolen.

It was then that it was discovered that there was an identical car parked near the area where the professor had picked up "his wife's" car. The professor was unlucky enough to have a key that fit the lock and ignition of both cars. The other owner's key, however, would not work in both ignitions, and she knew the other car was not hers by the license plate.

It was finally straightened out, and a foolish-feeling professor had said his apologies by the time his wife appeared on the scene. Seems that security had guessed what had happened in the first place, and reached her on her return home. She was still laughing as they drove away! The poor professor has just had one of those days!

Back then nobody had heard of EEE Award homes.

At one time, when they built a house, one of its best features was a big front porch. And the most popular thing a porch could have was a wide, wooden swing.

Nowadays, the most important feature a house can have is energy efficiency because people are very concerned about keeping heating and cooling costs down.

That's why Detroit Edison presents its Energy Efficiency Excellence (EEE) Award to builders whose homes meet maximum standards in energy efficiency. EEE Award homes are properly insulated and are heated and cooled with an energy-saving heat pump, and could save you more than $260 a year in energy costs compared to homes using oil, propane or electric resistance heating.

Major appliances like refrigerators and freezers in EEE Award homes, if provided by the builder, are also energy efficient. Of course, it's important to use and maintain all major appliances properly so they don't waste energy. If you'd like to visit an EEE Award home, call or stop in at any Detroit Edison Customer Office and ask for the names of builders who have EEE Award homes on display.

Save where it really counts. The power is in your hands.

The following builders have received the EEE Award:

Upset with Township Board, Librarian

Entire Independence Library Board Resigns

by Carol Balzarini

On Thursday, August 3, the entire seven-member advisory board, consisting of Reverend Alex Stewart, Marilyn Hanson, Mary Jane Chaustowich, Joette Kunse, Marty Johnston, Jean Bray and Ralph Thayer, resigned "with regret."

It has been an "open secret" for the past few months that dissension existed between the Library Advisory Board and township librarian Sushil Lahiri. However, it was not until the personnel hearing held two weeks ago that any of the situation was made public, no motion was made to close that meeting as had been done in the past. At that time, Lahiri was given an employment extension to April 1, 1979 with a series of conditions to be complied with in that time.

Their prepared statement read in part: "This action is not prompted solely by the Township Board's final decision concerning the present librarian, but rather by the manner in which the Township Board handled the

The Library Advisory Board is only that - an advisory board. It is comprised of people who have donated their time and energy in a never-ending struggle to upgrade the library's effectiveness in a growing community."

The statement went on to outline the group's frustrations over the failures of township boards, both past and present, to act upon their recommendations and despite library studies pointing out the inadequacies of the Independence Township Library.

The Advisory Board expressed concern over the fact there was no personnel file for the librarian although he has been employed for seven years. There is, apparently, no correspondence from the Advisory Board or the public, including the Clarkston Community Women's Club, which seems to have been "misfiled."

The Advisory Board compiled and submitted to the board written proof to support its allegations about the librarian's failure to do his job properly. They met with both the Township Board and the librarian to discuss these allegations, which include:

1. Failure to provide the type of books needed in the community.

2. The lack of public interest and programs.

3. The lack of grounds maintenance.

4. The lack of interest in the appearance of the interior.

5. Personnel problems between the staff members.

6. The procedures pertaining to the library budget and the ways in which the monies were (or were not) spent.

7. Failure to make total use of the programs and services available through the Wayne-Oakland Federation.

Personnel problems referred to came to a head this week when assistant librarian Lucy Embrey was ordered by Dr. Rockwood Bullard to take a sixty-day sick leave effective immediately. Her illness was termed "job-related."

Expenditures came to light this week also through a Huttenlochers Kerns Norvell, Inc. 1007 W. Huron, Pontiec 681-2100 comprehensive report on the library drawn up by Irene Rauth, township resident and children's librarian for Avon Township, for use by the Friends of the Independence Township Library.

Mrs. Rauth states the law requires a library to receive three tenths of a mill to qualify for state aid. By her calculations, the Independence Township Library should receive about $45,500.

The State Library Services Report lists local contributions at about $49,500 but township treasurer Betty Hallman reports that, according to the audit, the library actually spent less than $39,900. That is less than local spending required for state aid and $18,000 less than its total income.

Further frustrations on the part of the Advisory Board stem from their exclusion from hearings held concerning the librarian although a representative of the Wayne-Oakland Library System was present. They were informed the matter was "under consideration" and, because the Township Board wanted to keep it "all in the family," the Advisory Board was requested to keep publicly silent.

Their statement goes on to say what they know about the library situation is what they have read in the paper, they have no contact with the Township Board concerning the recent decision to retain the librarian. They also allege that Clerk Chris Rose has requested a monthly report apparently directly from the librarian to himself thereby eliminating the need for Advisory Board meetings.

They conclude since they have "no stated policy or powers and because it is obvious we are advisory in name but not in actuality, it reasonable to assume we are superfluous. It is on the basis of not being able to fulfill any useful function, we have placed our resignation before the Township Board."

FORECAST

by Robert C. Davis

Much drier than normal conditions persisted over our 4-township and surrounding area during July. Precipitation averaged between one and two inches below normal for most of the 4-township area. Rainfall totals for July ranged from 0.85 inches in Waterford to 1.56 inches in Union Lake.

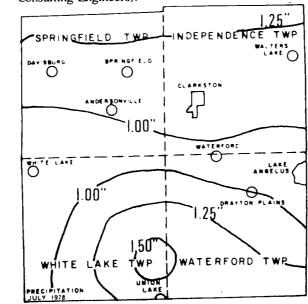

Locally, the eastern Clarkston station recorded 1.05 inches for the month. While we did receive measurable precipitation during each week of the month, most of the storms were of short duration and contributed only minor amounts of rainfall.

Temperatures during July were again below normal; that now makes 12 consecutive months of near or below normal temperatures.

Based on data from the eastern Clarkston station, temperatures during July ranged from a low of 43 degrees on the mornings of the 11th and 12th, to a high of 95 degrees on the 20th. Temperatures averaged about 3 degrees below normal per day during the month, with our daily mean temperature being 69 degrees.

The "no turn on red" signs on each side of Washington and Main Streets are regulation size, but for some reason, drivers choose to ignore them. Those right turns are a traffic hazard.

U of M fans that have been hunting down the 1978 Michigan maps that include "Goblu" and "Beatosu" just across the Ohio border should know that once discovered, they were "recalled" and a new one prepared, minus the fictituous terms.

Meantime, some avid Ohio State boosters in the Highway Department in Columbus sought to include 'Woodyville' and 'Beat-U.M." on the Ohio maps but their boss caught them at it, and according to one of them, was too "chicken" to allow retaliation.

The Oakland County 4-H fair is a unique event with its assortment of rural, urban and suburban participants. But why is it necessary to have a carnival with its trouble-making workers? Does it really make that much of a difference in attendance?

The Jaycees are known to work at a snail's pace and the Village has shown great patience up to now as far as the community sign is concerned. But couldn't the council have waited just a little longer before deciding to get rid of it? The $200 plan drawn up for a new one promises to be a great improvement. Besides that sign is a never-ending topic of conversation.

If you've been hoping for a return to the "good old days" of movies, when a story could stand on its own without sex, violence, or obscenity, yet wasn't produced by Walt Disney, go and see "Heaven Can Wait."

This remake of an old movie does not suffer by comparison, but stands on its own. Warren Beatty is surrounded by a good cast, and there's someone in it that will appeal to every age of movie goer.

As for the plot - hearing about it makes it a lot less believable and enchanting than seeing the picture! In this presentation, a football player is lifted up to heaven by a new "escort" who was too eager, and took him before it was time to "go." Nothing will do, but to send him back. Alas, however, his remains have been cremated, so he must find another body. That's when the story really begins, and it is full of humor and pathos, and always entertaining. The scenery is a show

"A Slap in the Face....."

by Carol Balzarini

In the conference following presentation of a prepared statement, the seven members of the Library Advisory Board gave their reactions to the current situation.

Their feelings were summed up by Jean Bray. "It's a slap in the face to us rather than a reprimand for Lahiri," she said.

'The Township Board never had the courtesy to notify us of their actions...we assumed Lahiri had been warned a year ago but we couldn't find anything in his file about it," said Mary Jane Chaustowich.

When asked how they felt their resignations would affect the library, Chaustowich said, "It won't. I think the board will be relieved."

"I don't think the people of the community really care." Bray said.

Marty Johnston added, "We've never been high on their list of priorities.'

The members of the advisory board were all interested citizens appointed by the township for indefinite terms and without pay. Their goal was to improve the library. "The people who have the interest are being ignored," Bray said. 'We have some library experience," Chaustowich said. "It's not as though we have no concept of what's going on.'

Joette Kunse responded, "They want citizen input in government and then they won't listen to those citizens."

Chaustowich admitted she had "ambivalent feelings about resigning saying, "We'd like to stay and fight, but...they've destroyed the credibility of the advisory board...we just wanted him (Lahiri) to do his job that we've been forced to do up until now. Joette has looked into federal funds, Marty got the carpet fixed, Jean's bought the furniture...'

The Women's Club, responsible for the library's existence in the first place, no longer supports it. Marty Johnston, one of the original fundraisers for that building, said, "It just breaks my heart when I see the list of people who originally contributed to the library and to see how much people really cared then."

Advisory board members all agreed that the Township Board has the ultimate authority in this matter but "we believed we were of some value and could make recommendations. The total exclusion of the advisory board has created this situation. We could have lived with the decision if they had met with us previously."

Davisburg Jaycettes to Collect Money for M.D.

The Davisburg Jaycettes (assisted by the Jaycees) will be running a toll road in Springfield Township on Sunday, August 13 from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. All of the club will participate in this venture, which will mean that 15-20 people - or enough people to man each toll road and change at two-hour intervals.

All of the monies collected at the three donation points (Andersonville Road at Big Lake Road, Davisburg Road near the Mill Pond, and Davisburg Road near Davisburg Elementary) will be given to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The Jaycettes are hopeful of making over $200.00, but Mrs. Sandy Chester wouldn't mind more being made. She guesses that "how much we make will depend on how many people drive through Springfield that day, and if it's before or after payday."

Clowns and balloons will be at each point, and the clowns will be Jaycettes (or Jaycees) - whoever can be persuaded to don a clown suit. They'll be there with balloons for any kids who happen to be in any car that stops.

The Jaycettes got permission from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department to run the toll road, but were told that they can't actually make people stop, or force them to make a certain size donation. So the group will erect signs just before the place that cars are supposed to stop, and will just hope that the drivers will have telethons, walkathons and carnivals for M.D. on their minds and donate.

Needing your support are the Davisburg Jaycettes, and Mrs. Chester says, "We're just going to be out there that day, and hoping everybody will stop."

Golf Tourney at Springfield-Oaks

The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission will sponsor a Men's and Women's Open Golf Tournament, Saturday and Sunday, August 12th and 13th. The tournament will be held at both White Lake-Oaks and Springfield-Oaks County Golf Courses.

Tee-off time is 7:30 a.m. with awards for the first three places.

For more information and registration call 698-2700 or 625-2540.

Eighty Receive Library Reading Certificates

On Wednesday, August 2, about 80 boys and girls enjoyed cookies and punch to mark the culmination of the Summer Reading Program held at the Independence Township Library.

The Reading Program had the space-oriented theme of "Book Trek," and the theme was carried on to 3 dimensional table displays.

Certificates were presented to those who participated in the program by Floyd (Whitey) Tower, Township Supervisor.

The afternoon program included two Dr. Seuss films. According to librarian Sushil Lahiri, "I was gratified by this year's enthusiastic response to the program."

Whales, Dolphins, Sea Lions, Otters and Vic

by Marilyn Bridgeman

Vic Charfauros is the manager of training at Sea World of Ohio. Vic has been with Sea World since he was a 14-year-old boy growing up in San Diego, Vic explained how he got involved in animal training. "The San Diego Sea World opened in 1964. I was in a science club in Junior High and was required to find a guest speaker. I asked an employee of the new Sea World to speak and my interest began then.'

He told how he started out working part time cleaning the tanks, until he finally moved up through the ranks. Vic described the "ranks" as such: "First you care for the food. Then you are put in charge of caring for the non-show animals. Next you move up to helping with the show but you are not responsible for a part in the show. Finally you learn the show's script and how to work the animals through their behaviors correctly. And if you qualify you take over the entire show area.'

Vic has achieved all of this and he is only 28 years old. Charfauros has very definite feelings towards the animals he trains. One of his favorites is a sea lion named Gabby who performs in the sea lion and otter show at Sea World this year. "Gabby has been with me for nine years," Vic said. "He is like one of the family."

Charfauros explained how each animal has a different personality. "As trainers, our intent is not to show dominance over the animal," Vic stated. He continued, "Our main function is to keep the health and attitude of the animal good. The trainers and animals are viewed as team members.'

The three things Sea World strives for in presenting its marine mammal shows according to Vic are "To educate the public to what the animals are and to their value. Hopefully this will decrease the killing of different animals. To entertain the public. And to maintain the animals as humanely as possible.

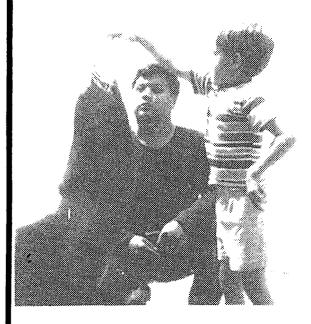

When asked which animal he most enjoyed working with, Vic replied, "Sea lions or killer whales." He is especially fond of Little Shamu, "because he is so people-oriented."

The reason for the Little tacked onto Shamu is because the star performer at Sea World in Aurora, Ohio this year is only 31/2 years old. He is only 13 feet long and weighs only 2200 pounds. This is pretty small for a killer whale which can easily reach 25 ft. and 7,000 pounds. Vic explained that Little Shamu was captured in the North Atlantic and has only been in training nine

Vic also explained that Little Shamu is no different than 31/2-year-old children. "He is curious and playful and sometimes does not behave orders.'

Charfauros likened the animals to children again when he explained the teaching of "Behaviors" (trainers do not teach animals "tricks," they teach behavior modification). "There are many different ways to train an animal," said Vic. "The trainer has to understand the mechanics of each behavior and the personality of each animal. If an animal misbehaves, you look for the motivation for the action; similar to handling a child."

The behaviors are triggered by hand signals by the trainers. Every behavior is naturally well-rehearsed before being put in a show. But Vic explained that the trainers vary the behaviors and teach new ones to each animal so that the animal will not become bored. Again so like children.

Vic cited an example of teaching by telling of a recent experience in training Gabby for the new show. Gabby was to learn to push a trainer into the water with his front flippers. Gabby was confused by the hand signals used and could not understand that he was to actually touch the trainer with his flippers. So first Vic taught Gabby to jump up and touch a wall with both flippers. After that, it was easy to substitute the trainers behind for the wall.

The Aurora, Ohio Sea World is only open until September of each year. Then the animals are taken to San Diego for the winter months. According to Vic, Sea World uses a cargo plane called the Orc Arc (Orca is the Latin name for the killer whale) to transport the animals.

"Each animal has its own specially made sling to keep it in an upright position during the trip. All of these animals are mammals so they can stay out of water for 12 to 14 hours. Upon arrival the animals are kept in shallow pools and walked around to reacclimate their equilibrium. They are then observed for 24 hours."

Vic also returns to his home town of San Diego with his wife (who was a trainer at the Florida Sea World) and his small child where he will keep a good eye on his family of animals until April when all will arrive back in Ohio for another season at Sea World.

Setcreasea purpurea, or the purple heart derives its name from the color of the leaves. This trailing plant is effective as a table plant but is much more showy in hanging baskets where the stems can cascade gracefully over the edges. The purple tones on the top surface are highlighted by the barely visable, very fine hairs that glisten in the sun. Four or more hours of sun a day are needed to keep the leaves brightly colored. With sufficient light, the plant produces lavender-colored flowers. Insufficient light will produce a leggy plant, and the lower leaves will yellow and drop off.

The purple heart will do well in average home humidity, although higher humidity levels are better. A minimum of 50-60 degrees at night and a maximum daytime temperature of 75 degrees during the winter are ideal.

Overcrowded plants can be repotted at any season using a standard potting soil mixture. The soil should be moderately dry between thorough waterings. Fertilizer should be half strength and can be applied monthly.

Cuttings consisting of a three- to four-inch long stem and containing several leaves will not root very easily when inserted in moist sand, vermiculite or perlite.

Mealy bugs will sometimes bother the purple heart and can easily be taken care of by dipping a cotton swab in rubbing alcohol and touching the bug itself or the egg masses which look like pieces of cotton on the leaf axils.

Cap't Kids World at Sea World, Aurora, Ohio.

What's Happening

by Marilyn Bridgeman

During our recent vacation, my family and I visited Sea World in Aurora, Ohio. Just 31/2 hours from Detroit, "Sea World is a beautifully landscaped 75-acre marine life park and oceanarium complex, the only one of its kind in the Midwest and Canada.

Nancy Abrams, Public Relations Representative with Sea World met us at the gate and gave us a very informative tour of Sea World. She explained that Sea World has a 100-day season beginning May 27 until September 10. "Last year we broke all attendance records by having 1.3 million visitors," Nancy told me. "And the attendance has been even better so far this year.'

This fantastic amount of people may scare you from visiting Sea World; but it shouldn't. The complex is big enough and with enough to do that you seldom wait for anything. If you're really concerned about crowds though, Nancy claims the slowest days are Monday and Thursday, and naturally if you attend during the school year, the crowds are even less.

Sea World puts on five continuous shows daily. The most popular is "Little Shamu" starring the famous killer whale. Also there is a seal and otter show, a dolphin show, a water ski show and a Canadian Lumberjack exhibition. You can easily take in all the performances by spending a day at the park.

There are also many displays and exhibits such as the "World of the Sea" Aquarium, Japanese Village and Pearl Diving Exhibition, Japanese Deer Park, Dolphin feeding and petting pools, the Pinniped (Sea Lions) Exhibit, Harbor seal Exhibit and feeding pool, bird displays, sea shell exhibit and a trout fishing and hatchery where Sea World supplies your bait and

My family's favorite attraction is Cap'n Kids World, 'a two-acre fun playland designed just for children.' The play equipment is a far cry from the swings and slides in the usual park.

Just to give you an example, there is a huge cage filled with brightly colored ping pong balls. The feeling when participating is like swimming because it is almost impossible to stand up for the ping pong balls are waist deep on a child. (I had to try this out. I couldn't resist the temptation. Adults are not allowed to play on all these wonderful toys. What a shame).

Sea World is a favorite place of mine. It is extremely clean and the employees are very friendly (not to mention the animals). Parts of the park are so exotic and serene it is hard to believe you're in the middle of Ohio.

Two Specialty Stores Going Strong in Waterfall Plaza

Key West Fragrance and Cosmetic of Waterford, Inc., opened up six weeks ago at 5701 Dixie Highway.

Pat Leitner, owner of Key West Fragrance spent a week in May in Florida with her 17-year-old daughter Laurie, training in sales and operation of the business.

Living with her husband and Laurie in Jayno Heights in Waterford, Mrs. Leitner worked at Pontiac Motors for 14 years in financing.

Mrs. Leitner and her husband, who is general manager of McMullen Pontiac, just returned from a week's vacation in Bergenstock, Switzerland.

Mrs. Leitner has gone to Florida for the last 14 years, and on a recent trip bought some products from Key West Fragrance that contained Aloe, "the medicine plant." She was so pleased with the product results that she decided to open a store in Michigan.

A medical school of one university conducted tests that showed Aloe gel speeds the healing process for burns and cuts.

Other studies incidate it relieves the itch and discomfort of eczema, poison ivy and insect bites.

All of the skin care and suntan items featured at Key West Fragrance contain Aloe.

"We have every type of sun lotion for every type of skin," said Mrs. Leitner.

The all hypo-allergentic products come in the form of body lotions, bath and hair care, body wash and cologne.

If you are planning to build your own home, one thing you might consider is the use of solar energy. Though there is still much to learn about the use of solar energy, home heating systems have been developed that can be fitted to almost any new house, as long as there is some exposure to the sun. Hot water heating systems are also available using solar energy. And while you are building is the best time to consider such an energy system, as it is much less expensive and will be more efficient if the energy systems and the house are designed at the same time. Energy is the problem of the future and solar energy may be one of the solutions.

Indeed, we at BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., right next to the new Clarkston Post Office, 625-5821 have the knowledge and experience to guide you in avoiding the many costly errors inherent in home buying. Dave Fonner of King's Hearth Prefab type fireplaces are sold at Kings Hearth, along with glass screens (displayed) and gas grills.

Some other items available at Kings Hearth are custom made arch doors, fireplace tools, mantels, and decorative accessories.

Kings Hearth offers an installation service and will do stone or brick work for finishing touches.

Ammon was asked why people should come to a specialty shop like Kings Hearth rather than a department store. His answer, "We handle a different quality product. We also have the knowledge, know-how and experience."

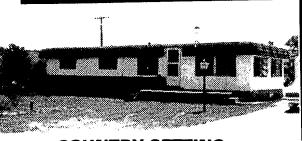

"Everybody is energy concious. Everybody wants to save a buck."

Fonner added, "We anticipate a booming year. Do it now (install your fireplace) before the season hits."

Fonner expects a shortage of fireplaces because of the fall rush.

Asked what he thought of Waterford, Fonner said, "It's a fantastic fast-growing community."
