Election Campaigns Can Be Costly

One last note before we forget the election of 1978. To all those candidates who think campaigning is too expensive and difficult, take a look at this winner:

A citizen of Illinois ran for office and turned in the following absolutely truthful report of what it cost him to get elected: --

Lost 1,349 hours of sleep thinking about the election; lost 2 front teeth and a lot of hair in a personal encounter with the opponent; donated 1 boar, 4 shoates, and 5 sheep to country barbecues; gave away 2 pairs of suspenders, 4 calico dresses and $5.00 in cash; kissed 126 babies; put up 4 stoves; kindled 14 fires; walked 1,076 miles; shook hands with 9,508 people; told 10,101 lies, and talked enough to make in print 1,000 volumes; attended 16 revivals, and contributed $50.00 to foreign missions; made love to 9 widows, 5 grass, 4 sod; hugged 49 old maids; got bit by dogs 39 times, and was elected by 353 majority.

Submitted by Mrs. Harry Burr. Reprinted from "Tony's Scrapbook," 1933-34 edition.

Bulletin Board

Board Approves Community Center Survey

Bruce Shull, representing the Community Center Committee, reported to the Independence Township Board they had met four times and all members agreed a center was needed. They also felt an additional survey would be unnecessary in light of the number of surveys conducted in the past five years.

Supervisor Floyd Tower disagreed saying the situation had changed somewhat in the meantime and pointed to the defeat of the police millage as an indication. Jerry Powell said he, personally, was "surveyed out," that too many of them had been done already.

The Board approved a $5,000 budget for the committee to conduct a survey which will include, among other items, a list of possible facilities people would like to see included in a community center, to be ranked in order of preference, and to select a possible site from the choices given.

Olive Brondige Group Meet

The Olive Brondige group of the Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Swift of Davisburg. A lesson on Wood Burning Stoves was given by Mrs. Milo Hallett. Artex was the craft for the month. The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Howard Chanter.

Bielak Opens Family Practice

Daniel M. Bielak, D.O. recently opened a family practice at 5643 Sashabaw Road, Clarkston.

Free Immunization Clinic

Oakland County Division of Health will offer a free immunization clinic in Clarkston at Independence Center on 5331 Maybee Road on December 7, 1:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Immunizations for measles, German measles, mumps, polio, diphtheria, tetanus, and whooping cough are available.

A parent or guardian must accompany a child under 18 years of age, and bring any previous records of immunizations.

Request to Ban Hunting

The Independence Township Board has received a petition requesting that hunting be banned in the western half of section 27 which includes Camp Oweki, Gulick Lake and Spring Lake, an area extending from Waldon Road south to Maybee Road.

A motion to request the Department of Natural Resources to conduct the required hearings was passed by the board with the possibility of banning all hunting in the township south of I-75 with the exception of waterfowl on Greens Lake.

The DNR would hold two public meetings, one during the day and one at night, to give township residents an opportunity to make their feelings known about the possible ban.

Presently hunting north of I-75 is banned only in DeerWood and Cranberry Lake Estates. Clintonwood Park has yet to be closed to hunting by ordinance.

OU Christmas Concert December 10

The Meadow Brook Estate, Oakland University's student jazz and Broadway show ensemble, will present a Christmas concert December 10 at 8 P.M. in Varner Recital Hall.

The ensemble offers a variety of jazz, popular, and show tunes especially arranged and choreographed for the Meadow Brook Estate.

The first half of the December 10 show will be devoted to popular works and a special jingle medley from the commercials. The second half of the program features traditional Christmas carols.

For ticket information call 377-2000.

Kandahar Has Open House

Kandahar Ski Club located on Foley Road in Fenton has elected Georgie Zinda and Dave Kurtz of Holly to their Board of Directors for the 1978-79 skiing season.

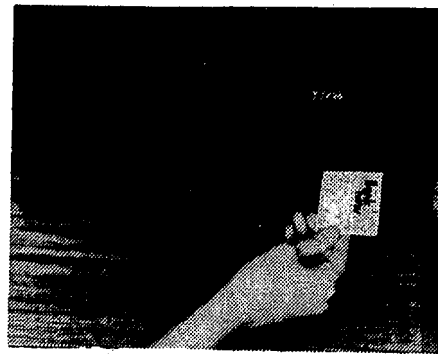

They have been spending a lot of time at Kandahar in preparation for the skiing season. Kandahar is hosting an Open House on Sunday, December 3, from 1-4 P.M. All ski enthusiasts are welcome for a tour of the lodge and facilities.

THOUGHTS 'N THINGS

A friend called me last evening, because she needed some advice about her ninth grader, and hoped that I could help her. Her son, she explained, was doing badly in English class, and she couldn't understand why the teacher was not able to give him more help with the things he doesn't understand. "Instead," she said, "she keeps giving him new papers to write. Then he makes the same mistakes all over again -- and frankly, he is discouraged, and won't even try to succeed in that class now."

"Well," I said, "I guess you'll have to work with him yourself then."

At that, she began to complain about it being the school's job to teach English, and not her responsibility, and asked me what I thought we paid taxes for anyway. I changed the subject.

This game of "who's to blame" doesn't solve any problems. The school systems are having as much trouble identifying the weak link in the educational chain as parents are. In the meantime, however, young people need help with learning problems, and parents are in a better position to help them than teachers, in many cases.

The problem with learning anything can be more involved than just "doing it." Attitude, motivation, and interest can affect the learning of any subject, before a child enters a classroom or opens a book. That's why teachers are often at a loss as to how to deal with the multitude of problems that confront them, and classroom time is spent in simple exposure to the material to be learned.

Parents can deal with the whole child, and not in terms of one subject. The teacher is the "specialist," the parent is the "general practitioner," when it comes to learning ills, and the two must work together for the good of the child.

In the first place, the parent can deal with questions, such as "why do I have to go to school and learn this

Communications are important. Without the ability to communicate with others, and receive communications from them, we would be cut off from our families, our friends, and the greater community, and civilized society would be impossible. In other words, we deal with all other people through the use of our communication skills. The success or failure of those skills is often equal to our success and failure in our dealings with them.

dumb stuff, anyway?"

There are, of course, a number of answers to that question, such as, "the law says you have to go." Needless to say, kids don't react any more positively to that answer than we adults do. If we really want our kids to do well, we have to muster more enthusiasm when we reply, or at least present a logical and objective argument for getting an education.

Since one of the weak points in education today seems to be in the field of written and spoken English, I would like to deliver yet another sales pitch for the development and improvement of communication skills -- not only for the children, but for the adults of the community too. If any parent wishes to borrow part of it in an attempt to inspire their offspring, they are free to do so!

Communications are important. Without the ability to communicate with others, and receive communications from them, we would be cut off from our families, our friends, and the greater community, and civilized society would be impossible. In other words, we deal with all other people through the use of our communication skills. The success or failure of those skills is often equal to our success and failure in our dealings with them.

Other people are able to reach out to us for understanding through writing and speaking, just as we are able to reach out to them. Distance means nothing, and time spans mean nothing when we are able to write and read thoughts, ideas, and dreams. Whole generations of people are able to remain in touch with the past through the written word, and even the spoken word. The messages that we keep, and value, however, are those which have been created by skillful communicators. That does not mean, however, that those messages are, or have been, the best thoughts and ideas of their time. The sad truth is, that no amount of ability or knowledge, and no amount of creativity is worthwhile, if it cannot be expressed so that others may understand it.

Joan Allen

Skillful communications can lead to many more opportunities, and choices. We "sell" ourselves, and our abilities, whether in personal relationships or work relationships, through our communications with those we come to admire and/or respect. Personal, work and educational opportunities are competitive. It is a tragedy when someone with real ability is unable to communicate eagerness to work, to learn, to cooperate, and loses an opportunity to someone less ambitious, but better able to communicate.

Any parent who has observed a young child just on the verge of mastering language has been witness to the anger, frustration, and general unhappiness of the small human who cannot make other people understand him or her. The adult who has difficulty with expression shows the same signs as the child, but they are not so easily understood, in fact, are often misunderstood, and taken for anti-social attitudes and expressions.

Why don't the schools do something about it? Well, that's an interesting point. The fact is, that our education majors get most of their training in their subject matter, with some help in educational psychology and philosophy, but very little training in communication. That means that the responsibility for dragging the information out of the teacher sometimes falls to the student. Needless to say, only the most aggressive and most motivated students will bother to do that. Add to that, that many textbooks are poorly organized and written, and the problem of the student is magnified. The inability to communicate well becomes a vicious circle.

Not every parent is an English major, and the best of us have forgotten much of what we learned in elementary and high school. On the other hand, most people have no need for a knowledge of advanced English grammar when it comes to teaching a child the basics of simple communication. (More about that next week)

But the whole thing is summed up by Robert Clark, who says "Basically, we have all of our family together, and we also have a small party for our friends."

So, there's something to be said in defense of tradition, after all.

Question Of The Week

Have Time Honored Customs Faded Away?

by Sharon Springborn

What is tradition besides a nine letter word? It means doing something every year--something that comes to mean a lot to us and those we care about. But, according to the ads seen in newspapers, tradition will soon go the way of the buffalo.

Not so, if those called on the phone are to be believed. Most, if not all, mentioned as part of their tradition seeing family and friends during the holidays. But these people think of a 'family get-together' as something so usual it doesn't even deserve mentioning.

I look at the whole subject a bit differently, after seeing all of the ads for restaurants screaming 'Open Thanksgiving' or 'Give the cook a treat--go out for Thanksgiving dinner.' Of course, even though the ads state 'Thanksgiving', I imagine that the word 'Christmas' could be substituted just as easily.

The view of tradition is held by Allen Dyer, who doesn't think that he, or his family, do anything 'traditional' for the holidays. "We do the same old stuff, over and over." Doing such things all the time makes tradition, doesn't it?

"The routine" is followed by Betty Cunningham and her family. "We do just the routine. With the turkey and cranberries, pumpkin pie, the works. We have relatives over from out-of-town. We don't do anything out of the ordinary...."

Going to church with their family is part of the holiday celebration for Mary Hughes and Kathleen Coates, who thinks of the holidays as a family time. Now that the children of both of the women have grown up, the celebrations have changed somewhat from when the kids were small.

Children's ages have changed the holidays for Hope Ellis, also. They still spend the time with different relatives, but when her children were younger, Mrs. Ellis said "we did take them to see the parade, and made potato-craft turkeys, and things to put on the windows." But she did say that the parade wasn't an every-year thing, so it never became a full-fledged tradition.

Traveling up North, to see his and his wife's families, has become a regular holiday vacation for Jeffrey Drake and his family. And when they go up North for a good old Swedish Christmas celebration, the Drakes also get in some snowmobiling for good measure.

The family get-together is celebrated by Marie Sibley and Brenda DuPree. The dinner of Mrs. DuPree is affected somewhat by the whereabouts of all of her relatives. "We have relatives scattered all over the country."

What Should I Wear to the Funeral?

Black is no longer the only color worn appropriately for a visitation, wake or funeral.

Today, a visitor may wear colorful clothing which expresses good taste. Gloves and hats may be worn, if desired, but are being worn less and less.

The widow or widower will usually wear something basic or conservative in color and style.

All persons attending the visitation or funeral should wear clothing which will contribute to the atmosphere of dignity and respect for the family and other mourners.

Your attendance at the funeral or visitation is a simple but meaningful way to let the family know that you share their loss, that you wish to be considered as one who cares and will be around to help in the future. It's a one-time opportunity. Postponed condolences become awkward for both parties.

They're fighting for his life.

Each year heart attack accounts for over 350,000 deaths which occur before the victim reaches the hospital. It doesn't have to be that way.

What is done for a victim within the first few minutes after a heart attack may determine survival or death. Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) could make the difference. And you can learn it.

Some day, with CPR, you could save a life. Some day, your own life could depend on it.

CPR is a basic life-saving technique, performed after a person has suffered "cardiac arrest" — that is, after the heart has stopped beating. It provides emergency life support until more advanced support is available, through a combination of chest compression and mouth-to-mouth breathing.

Trained instructors, certified by the American Heart Association, can teach you CPR. It takes several hours. It could mean a lifetime

Our community paper, along with hundreds of other members of the National Association of Advertising Publishers, is conducting a month-long drive to provide funds for the American Heart Association. At this time of the year — when helping others should be foremost in our minds — let's pull together as a community to support this program. Wouldn't it be wonderful if every reader could contribute something to this nationwide program? Please send your check now. Give generously. You'll feel better, knowing that you're helping your family and friends battle the number one killer — heart disease!

If everyone who reads this paper helps, our community can stand proudly!

Help Us Fight Number One Killer - - Heart Disease

Last year, 850,000 deaths in this country were caused by heart attack and stroke, making heart disease our Number One Killer. More people died last year from heart disease than all the other causes of death combined.

Right now, 29 million Americans, many who live in our community, suffer from some form of heart and blood vessel disease. Therefore, we at the Reminder are committing ourselves to helping the American Heart Association raise the funds needed to support the work of 1,400 scientific investigators who are searching to find earlier detection and better methods of treating and preventing heart disease.

In this edition of The Reminder, we are running a public service advertisement asking you to contribute to the American Heart Association. If you chose to do so, return the coupon included in the Advertisement and you will be subsidizing research, public education and professional educational training efforts, in the form of blood pressure screenings, CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) training and nutrition programs, in our own community.

Money Is Well Spent

Seventy-five cents of every dollar donated to the American Heart Association goes directly into research, education and community programs. Twenty-eight cents is earmarked for research, 19 cents for community services, 15 cents for public education and 13 cents goes toward paying the cost for professional training. Only 25 cents of every dollar is spent on administrative services, making a contribution to the American Heart Association one of the most effective in the voluntary health care field.

Heart disease is not something (an ailment) that afflicts only the elderly. More than 25,000 babies are born each year with congenital heart defects. Another 100,000 are afflicted with blood vessel disorders and related heart disease. Thousands of mothers died of cardiovascular disease before the age of 35 last year and an equal number of fathers under age 45 died of stroke.

Though these statistics are alarming, they represent an appreciable decrease in number of deaths by heart disease since American Heart Association funded research began 29 years ago.

Many Results Already

Since 1949, American Heart Association funded research has led to many important discoveries, including:

- *Improvements in controlling high blood pressure;
- *Development of improved artificial heart valves;
- *Creation of artificial pacemakers, implanted electronic devices now being used by about 90,000 Americans to correct heart rhythm disturbances;
- *Advances in surgery to repair congenital and acquired heart defects;
- *Early detection of blood vessel disease through improved blood flow measurement in the heart and brain;
- *Development of myocardial scintigram, an imaging technique that can tell when chest pain means heart attack;
- *New three-dimensional computerized x-rays to learn more about the human heart.

As more is discovered about heart disease, doctors are moving from treating it to preventing it.

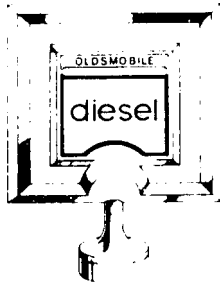

Cut out the coupon and send in your donation. Your contribution will go to your local American Heart Association chapter and help fight this dreaded disease.

Along with the American Heart Association, through our campaign to raise money for more heart disease research and study, "We are fighting to save your life."

Independence Decides Several Property Split Requests

by Carol Balzarini

A request was made to the Independence Township Board to have three lots on Hadley Road combined to create two. The request had originally been turned down by the lot split committee because the lots in question exceeded the recommended width-to-depth ratio and did not have the required road frontage. Approval would create two non-conforming parcels out of three non-conforming ones.

Treasurer Fred Ritter favored sending the case to the Zoning Board of Appeals for their consideration. He felt approval would reduce density and the number of non-conforming parcels at the same time.

"We ought to face it and say it won't fly," Bill Vandermark said. In his opinion sending the case to the zoning board would indicate board approval. Supervisor Floyd Tower disagreed.

However, the board finally agreed to send the case to the ZBA.

Another lot split request was denied for two reasons: an inadequate survey and no one at the meeting to present the survey. The board upheld the denial of the lot split committee. The acreage, located on Whipple Lake Road, also involved a private road.

Hargreaves and Pilarcik, representing a property owner on Hadley Road, requested permission to go before the ZBA seeking a private road and an acreage split.

Previous attempts have been made to satisfactorily split the 80 acres but soil tests made it impossible for acre and a half parcels as proposed by another developer last year.

Under plans drawn up by Hargreaves and Pilarcik, the private road would be maintained by the residents and further property division would be restricted. None of the lots proposed is less than three acres.

Treasurer Fred Ritter sympathized with the owners attempts to develop this parcel while Bill Vandermark was concerned with the issue of private road.

"A 'yes' vote gives tacit approval to private roads," he insisted. "We should not consider it until we have an ordinance."

"We have the same right to take our private road request to the ZBA. This property merits a private road," the developers maintained, adding the board has their offer in writing to assist in the drafting of a private road ordinance for the township.

Another objection to the road by Clerk Chris Rose was that it was proposed to be over 2,100 feet long while the county recommends only 600.

Since the property abuts DeerWood, it was suggested that cooperation between the developers could result in a public road.

The board voted 5-2 to send the request to the ZBA.

New Fire Station Site To be Purchased: "Cash Flow" Problems Recur

The Independence Township Fire Department has negotiated a deal with Mrs. Ed Whipple to purchase lot 26 of the proposed Cotswold development located on M-15 just south of Rattalee Lake Road. The acre and a half lot will be the site of a future fire station.

The purchase price of $29,300 will be paid with $8,700 down and the balance to be paid with interest on a land contract. Of the purchase price, $20,000 will come from the fire budget and $10,000 from revenue sharing funds. The ultimate building is to conform architecturally with surrounding homes.

"Cash Flow" problems have recurred for both the fire and police departments, however. Supervisor Floyd Tower assured new board members the situation was not unusual.

The fire department will receive $30,000 from the general fund to be repaid with an interest rate of 5 percent.

The police department will receive $20,000 from the general fund to be on the same terms. That money is necessary to make the August payment to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department for contracted services. Additional loans may also be necessary.

Tower advised the board negotiations would begin in December for next year's contract, he will represent the township.

The ultimate in steam cleaning is only a phone call away!

Note this bottom-side view of the Rug Doctor Vibra Brush method carpet cleaner in action.

- Hot water and cleaning solution jets into the carpet.
- Vibra Brush (like electric tooth brush) agitates carpet back and forth 3,400 times each minute. This breaks soil loose and polishes each carpet fiber to a clean, brilliant finish. This type of brush does not distort pile.
- Powerful suction extracts hot water and loosened soil back up to waste tank.

Davisburg WWI Veterans and Auxiliary Observe 60th Anniversary of War's End

by Sharon Springborn

A day of reflection was spent by the Clinton Valley Barracks #2803 and Auxiliary by keeping Thanksgiving Day on Saturday, November 11, and having their noon dinner at the Springfield Township Hall, complete with roast turkey and all of the trimmings.

The members also remembered that the day has a special meaning for all World War I veterans, since they were also celebrating the 60th anniversary of the end of the 'War to end all wars.' Some, like Vern Ridgeway, kept track of all of the happenings in the Barracks. "I call quite a few of them (on the phone). We're all getting up in age. I did a lot of calling on these fellows to see how they were feeling."

The Auxiliary of the Barracks, whose publicity chairperson is Iva Landon Leach, aims to support the veterans who are members of the Barracks, and remind a forgetful public and nation of the service rendered by these veterans.

Mrs. Leach, who belongs to the Barrack's Auxiliary, is a past president of the local Auxiliary, and the past District 5 president. Her first husband was a W.W. I veteran, and the quartermaster (that's like a treasurer) of the Clinton Valley Barracks #2803.

The number of veterans who belong to the barracks is slowly shrinking. According to Mrs. Leach, "The Auxiliary will continue on, but the veterans will die out, eventually. They have no way of perpetuating themselves. It'll be like the D.A.R., the Auxiliary for the Revolutionary War veterans."

On the Sunday before November 11, the members of the Clinton Valley Barracks and those in the Auxiliary were guests of the Clarkston Richmond Campbell Post #1978 of the American Legion. Prominent Barrack's officers, and those in the Auxiliary were introduced.

"The Chaplain," said George Bour, past commander of the C.V.B. and the American Legion, "led us in prayer with this very nice Irish anthem. Vern Ridgeway didn't recite 'Flanders Fields', but I think he should have. Then, Bour recited the first few lines of the poem which honors those who served in the War, which go, 'In Flanders Fields the poppies grow/Beneath the crosses, row on row.'"

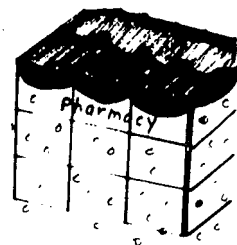

Also, in November of this year, the Drum and Bugle Corps of the Sault Ste. Marie Barracks went to Paris to participate in the Veteran's Day celebration on November 11. The Clinton Valley Barracks, as well as others, donated money to help defray the cost of the trip. While in Paris, the Barrack's members "visited the graves of their buddies," said Mrs. Leach, and were "treated royally."

Many of those who are in the Barracks have been members for many years. Vern Ridgeway belongs to the Barracks and has been a member of the American Legion for 34 years. "When I moved to Clarkston, I transferred from Cadillac to Clarkston. I also belong to the D.A.V. (Disable American Veterans), and the Red Arrow Division." George Bour is a past commander in the C.V.B. and the American Legion, which both Iva Leach and her first husband were officers in the Barracks and Auxiliary, and Mrs. Leach remains active in the Auxiliary after the death of her husband and subsequent remarriage.

"The vets are OK, now. We try to keep in touch. We have so few of the vets (4) that they meet with the Auxiliary." So states Mr. John Tremper, while he does hope that the C.V.B. and its Auxiliary can continue to meet, honor and perpetuate the memory of those who served honorably in W.W.I.

The Reminder To Sponsor Holiday Art Contest

The Reminder is looking for young artists to help make our December 21 Christmas edition extra special. We're having a contest to see who can submit the best holiday drawing.

The contest is open to three age groups, one for children 5-9, another for children 10-14 and still another for "big" kids ages 15-18. There will be one winner from each group with one of the winning drawings used on the front page and the other two inside the paper.

Drawings submitted to the Reminder should be no larger than 10" wide by 11" high. Colors don't really matter because the paper is only black and white with one other special color for the holiday issue.

Prizes for the three winners will be two free passes to an area theatre, their photograph and an article about them in the paper, and, of course, their artwork featured.

To be eligible drawings must be received by the Reminder no later than Friday, December 15.

Clarkston Mills Holds Its First Fashion Show at Old Mill

Debi Gemmel of Oxford from Merle Norman of Clarkston Mills. Debi did the make-up for the fashion show.

by Marilyn Bridgeman

On November 15, the noontime diners at the Old Mill Restaurant were treated to a fashion show by the merchants of Clarkston Mills, Independence Township's new shopping mall.

The merchants participating in the fashion show were Timberline, Ladies Delight, Christie's of Clarkston Mills, The Generator, Merle Norman Cosmetics, The Lions Head, Merry Miller and Coverts Saratoga Trunk. Dan Kelly, manager of Coverts Saratoga Trunk was the main coordinator of the show.

The models involved in the show were for Timberline Bev Hummelspace of Clarkston, Beth Barnett of Clarkston, and owner Ted Remke. For Ladies Delight, Shirley Wollerman of Clarkston and Lucinda Axler of Rochester modeled. Nancy Avery of Walled Lake modeled for Christies of Clarkston Mills. Saratoga Trunk was represented by Dan Kelly, Doug Peterson of Keatington, and Dr. James McCafferty of Oxford.

Jerry Robinson owner of the Generator did the hair styles for the models. Debi Gemmel representing Merle Norman handled the make-up.

Fashion show commentator Wendy conversing with model Bev Hummelspace (fashions by Timberline).

Lucinda Axler modeling fashions from Christies of Clarkston Mills.

Jerry Roberson owner of the Generator Hair Salon at Clarkston Mills. Jerry supplied the models hair styles for the fashion show.

Nustad and Players Hope to Spread "Wolfpack Fever"

"Catch Wolfpack Fever" is the rallying cry of coach Gary Nustad and his thirteen Clarkston High School basketball players. Nustad's apparently not superstitious about that number either, he's looking forward to a good season.

How good, he said, depends on two key points: how quickly his players mature and how much help the rest of the team gives Tim McCormick. McCormick, a 6'9½" junior who played varsity ball last year, should be a candidate for the all-county and all-state teams this year.

The Wolves, co-champions in the Greater Oakland Athletic League (GOAL) last year, anticipate tough competition from Rochester and Andover. Nustad also figures West Bloomfield will be good. How good Clarkston will be depends on improvements.

Helping to spread "Wolfpack Fever" will be some great halftime activities at the games, pompom girls, biddy basketball teams, the color guard, and gymnastic exhibitions.

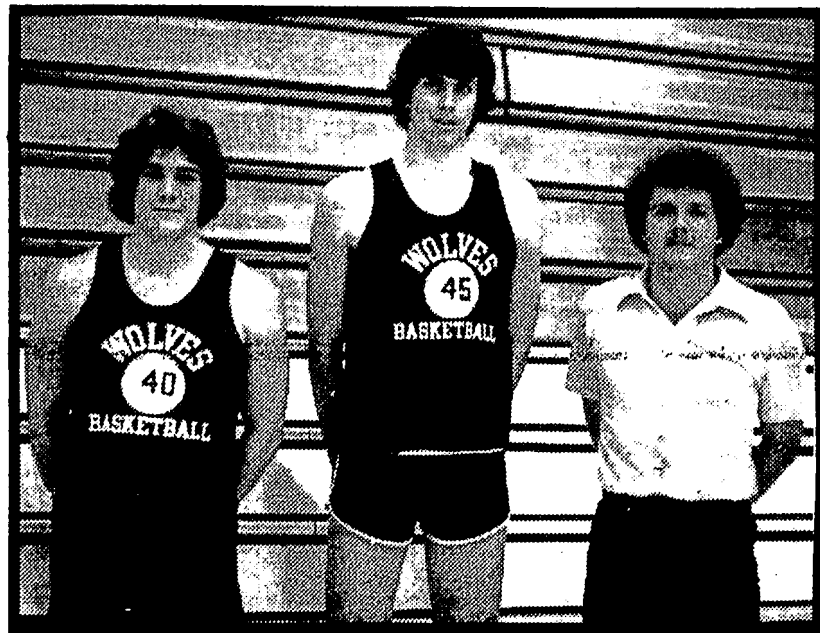

"We have a good, vital program," Nustad said. "It's an exciting team and Tim makes us just that much more exciting. We want fan support, adults and students."

This year's returning lettermen are Tim McCormick and Greg Robertson, team co-captains, and Rueben Hutchons. Hutchons, however, has a fractured kneecap, injured while playing football. He will begin working out December 1 and should be ready to play by the end of the month, Nustad said.

New to the team this year is Dino Rotundo, a transfer from Warren. Finnish exchange student Jussi (You-see) Rantanen is also expected to see floor time.

Other members of the Wolfpack are senior Scott Curry, juniors Ed Haddad, Chuck Nicolai, Nick Leks, John Sheldon, John Pappas, Mickey Hershey and Rick Boyt. Team managers are Jill Blackett and Lisa Steele.

Nustad's probable starting lineup will be McCormick at center, Curry, Robertson, Haddad and Sheldon. Wolfpack Fever begins Friday, December 1 at Clarkston High School when the Wolves take on Davison High School.

Wolves co-captains this year are Greg Robertson, 6'1" senior, and Tim McCormick, 6'9½" junior. Their coach is Gary Nustad.

"We have a good vital program. It's an exciting team and Tim (McCormick) makes us just that much more exciting."

.... Coach Gary Nustad

Shenandoah's L Series wood heaters have most everything our fancier models have. There's the popular automatic bi-metal thermostat, the specially designed primary and secondary air intake system, and the high, large door for easy access.

There's airtight construction for longer burning, fire-brick lining for longer heat retention, and cast-iron grate for longer life. It's all there, and it all adds up to wood heaters that are basically a lot better.

BOEC Announces New Officers

The Clarkston Chapter of BOEC (Business Office Education Club) sponsors are Mrs. Ann Reeves and Mrs. Joann Eaton. Both are Business teachers at Clarkston.

Navy Data Processing Technician Seaman Recruit Terri L. Gee, daughter of Edmund E. and Patty R. Gee of 5780 Ormond, Davisburg, Michigan, was graduated from Data Processing (DP) School.

During the eight-week course at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, students receive fundamental instruction on electronic accounting machines and the operation of computers. They studied basic data processing terminology, flow chart interpretation and the development of DP system specifications.

She joined the Navy in May 1978.

Selected for training at Sheppard AFB, Tex., in the transportation field after completing basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., is Airman Jerry L. Albright, son of Mrs. Carol E. Feole of 4844 Lake Bern, Davisburg. Airman Albright is a 1978 graduate of Lakeland High School, Milford.

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE REMINDER THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1978 PAGE TWENTY

Just One of Those Days

The very young lady wanted to surprise her mother with cupcakes, because it was Mom's birthday. She called her grandmother and asked her for a recipe, and Grandma gave it to her over the phone. It was dutifully written down, and the ingredients were all located.

The young baker measured and sifted and beat, and greased her cupcake tins as she had seen her mother do it, and even remembered to preheat the oven. When she had the batter ready, she carefully and very neatly divided the batter into the cups, and placed them in the oven. The pans didn't look very full to her, but she remembered that they would rise, so she closed the oven carefully, and set the timer.

It was very hard to keep from peeking, but she'd been warned about cake "falling" when the oven door was opened and closed too often, so she waited out the allotted time.

When she opened the oven door, and took out the muffin tins, she burst into tears. All that she could find in each muffin cup was a little black stuff in the bottom.

About that time, her mother arrived home, and found a heart-broken daughter. A study of the situation revealed that in writing the recipe, the child had mistaken a "c" for a "t," and had used a teaspoon instead of a cup to measure her flour. It was just one of those days -- but mom saved the day. She thought it would be fun if they started over and made more cup-cakes -- together, and that's what they did, so mom had a happy birthday after all.

AD-VENTURES:

Suma Thinks He's Found The Best Water Treatment System

Art Suma has been selling water conditioners for the better half of twenty years and he's finally found a treatment system that he thinks is better than all the rest.

The system is called the Aqua-Mag. It has been installed in several industrial and commercial centers. Suma is so impressed with it, he decided to start a business of his own, featuring exclusively the Aqua-Mag. The business is appropriately named the Suma Pure Water Co. and is housed in his home on Jossman Road between Ortonville and Holly.

Developed by Kjell Water Consultants of Deerfield Wisconsin, the Aqua-Mag meets all EPA standards. Suma has installed his system in Lapeer Plastics, Chateau View Mobile Home and Glastonbury Manor.

Aqua-Mag, according to Suma, "is a major breakthrough in water treatment industry. It makes available for the first time a non-toxic formulation in liquid form specifically designed to tie-up or sequester the soluble iron, manganese, calcium, magnesium, and silica in water."

"This action prevents deposits, unsightly stains, and mostly maintenance common to untreated water bearing these minerals."

It also drastically reduces water conditioner service problems in high iron content areas. It has the ability to hold large quantities of dissolved iron in solution, preventing fouled resin beds or clogging of the control parts," continued Suma.

Suma, who is a member of the American Waterworks Association said his new company will project an image that stresses service. "We're here to help the people," said Suma.

The Suma Pure Water Co. services all makes of water conditioners, softeners and filters.

For more information about the Aqua-Mag call Suma at 627-2987.

ARTHUR W. SUMA 627-2987
WATER CONSULTANT

Suma Pure Water Co., Inc.
P.O. Box 201, Clarkston, MI 48016

Thanks for the opportunity for space in your paper with your new series on views from community, business and civic leaders. I would like to express appreciation from both the Independence Township Board and the citizens, for your coverage of the many state proposals, millage proposals, campaign issues and candidates viewpoints before the election.

While all the CANDIDATES AND CITIZENS are surely glad that the elections are over again, I feel it timely to comment on the duties and responsibilities of Township Board's and the effect of active citizen participation. The electors at our last annual meeting voted to add 2 new trustees making our present Township Board, 7 members. Through a vacancy due to a trustee running for Treasurer, we have 3 new trustees and one carry over on a 4 year term. Like the Supervisor, Clerk and Treasurer, the 4 trustees are members of Township Board, with an equal voice in legislative and administrative governmental decisions within jurisdiction of Township Board. Unlike the Supervisor, Clerk and Treasurer, Trustees are not delegated specific statutory duties and responsibilities.

The Township Board's principal powers are:

1. Raise taxes for ordinary and continued expenses and special services.
2. Create debt.
3. Issue laws and orders regulating township affairs.
4. Acquire and hold real and personal property for public use.
5. Establish and enforce zoning through Planning Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals.

Other administrative and legislative functions include acting as Board of Health, Park Commission, building and maintaining public works, providing police and fire protection, reviewing all submitted plats for approval or rejection, employing all personnel, providing community building, appointing members of administrative and advisory boards, settling all claims against the Township and generally providing policies and operation rules which effect the public's health, safety and welfare.

A miraculous thing happens after every election in a democracy. Once the candidates are elected and certified to take office, they drop their individuality by forming a legislative body. The join 6 other persons, each with their own opinion and beliefs, sit around a table and join forces to provide the best service to the Township. It is a great challenge, but a person's individual feelings, thoughts and opinions are not as important as working together with the rest of the elected members to do what is best for all citizens of the Township, even though it may not be what each would personally prefer.

All Township Board members I'm sure feel complimented to be elected by the citizens to represent them in making decisions and running government. Basically, the public has said by voting for the individuals, we want you to lead and govern according to law, manage our affairs of the Township for the best interest of us. They expect us to do a good and honest job and be fair in doing it.

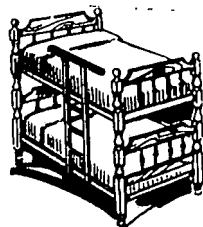

It is an awesome responsibility and not to be taken lightly. You are expected to work and live like it was your last day on earth, criticism runs high and generally the financial compensation couldn't buy the kind of personal satisfaction of a job well done.

Many other Township elected officials throughout the state have left office this year for various reasons, but

Church Bazaar Features Holiday Items

Christmas shoppers will find a wide variety of holiday items for decorating, eating, and giving at the Holiday Bazaar to be held at the Clarkston United Methodist Church on Saturday, December 2, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The church is located on Waldon Road.

Ye Old Country Shop, Ye Old Christmas Shop, Ye Old Needlework Shop, Ye Old Toy Shop and Ye Old Bake Shop are among the little booths loaded with goodies. Grandma's Attic will have antiques and white elephants, Mrs. Santa's Closet is for children only to shop, and the Harmony House is the music committee's booth with assorted items. While parents shop the children can watch cartoons and eat popcorn. The Donut Shop will have coffee and donuts while lunch will be served from 11:30-1:00. Also planned are a cakewalk and games.

It promises to be a lot of something for everyone at the Holiday Bazaar. Church members (and maybe a few elves, too) have been working long hours to prepare for the festive event.

Know-it-All Grow-it All

ALOE

by Bonnie Hale

The Aloe, a medicinal plant, grows naturally around the Mediterranean Sea and in the Dutch West Indies, was once one of the few medicine plants available to the primitive societies. Today, the aloe is still used by these same societies and by people who have turned away from the synthetic chemistry that gives us most of our drugs.

The aloe enjoys widespread use as a treatment for scalds, burn and minor cuts. My aloe stands close by on my kitchen window sill for any small emergency that may occur there. When the need arises, all I do is break off the tip of one of the fleshy leaves and squeeze out the thick sap and carefully rub it over the afflicted area. The pain subsides immediately. The plant heals its injured leaf and stands by for the next emergency.

In its native state the aloe can grow up to three feet tall with individual leaves reaching three feet in length. The red to yellow tubular flowers, that rarely appear in indoor culture are borne atop a tall, thin stalk.

Aloes are very simple and undemanding house plants. These rapid growing succulents are usually available in two to four inch pots. Any potting soil that contains a good deal of sand for drainage suits aloes well. A cacti and succulent soil is even better.

An east, west or lightly shaded south window will provide adequate light. They will also do fairly well in the lesser amount of light found on the north window sill. Because the aloe is a succulent and stores water in its leaves, care should be taken to not overwater. Usually a good soaking once every ten days to two weeks is sufficient. One non-medicinal virtue of the aloe is that it prefers to be pot bound and can remain in the same pot for years at a time.

The aloe usually with time, propagates itself by growing offsets on the parent plant. These can either be left on or cut off with a sharp knife when they become large enough to handle. Once removed, if the plantlet has no roots on its own, it should be placed in a cool dry place to callouse over for four or five days. It can then be placed in potting soil and watered lightly. Care should be taken to not overwater as the plant will rot very easily at this point. Once the plant roots the water can be increased and gradually moved into the proper light.

many other things that might not have happened without their efforts.

Even though, with the many pressing issues before the public today and our seemingly endless agendas, we still encourage more citizen attendance at our meetings. Each Board member has to represent all the Township and needs the various views and opinions of the majority to be effective in representing them.

The ones who take an active part in attending meetings, in asking to be on volunteer committees, advisory groups and those who are on various commissions such as Planning Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals, are to be complimented for their efforts and many hours of time for the Township. The many decisions made by the Township Board are final efforts of these group's efforts and wisdom beforehand.

"No government has ever been beneficent, when the attitude of the government was that it was taking care of the people. The only freedom consists in the people taking care of government."

What's Happening

"Tomorrow, Tomorrow, I love ya Tomorrow. You're only a day away." This is one line from a song in Annie the Tony award winning musical playing at the Fisher Theatre.

The song Tomorrow really sums up the feelings Annie generates. Optimism and love are the two motivating forces in Annie and the audience eats it up.

Annie is an adaptation of the comic strip created in 1924 by Harold Gray. The lead character is naturally Little Orphan Annie. Daddy Warbucks and Annie's dog Sandy are also portrayed in the musical.

The story begins in an orphanage in New York during the depression. The opening scene introduces the audience to an enchanting group of little girls. Annie (Kathy-Jo Kelly) at 11 is one of the oldest orphans. The six other girls range in age with the youngest being Molly (Kristin Williams).

Ms. Williams, who appears to be about 6 years old, is a real scene stealer. Her enormous brown eyes and engaging mannerisms tied in with her clear voice makes her portrayal of the moppet, Molly very believable.

Kathy-Jo Kelly who plays the title role is also a very talented young lady. Her voice is like that of Andrea McArdle who originated the role on Broadway. Kathy was in the chorus of Annie in New York, when she was picked to headline the national tour.

The part I enjoyed the most, was that of the head of the orphanage, Miss Hannigan (Ruth Kobart). Miss Hannigan is a middle-aged, gussied up spinster who takes an occasional nip to keep her sanity while amongst her young charges. Her severity on the orphans is important to the story line, but obviously done with humor. Ruth Kobart plays the part to the hilt. The song Easy Street done by Miss Hannigan, Rooster Hannigan (Gary Beach) and Lily (Lisa Raggio) is a show stopper.

Annie's main objective in life is to find her parents who left her on the orphanage step 11 years ago. To find them, Annie tries to run away from the orphanage. On her first escape attempt, Annie meets Sandy (a mutt saved from deaths door at an animal shelter in N.Y.C.). After Annie is returned to the orphanage, she is introduced to Grace Farrell (Jan Pessano) who just happens to be secretary to Oliver Warbucks, one of the worlds richest men. Mr. Warbucks (Norwood Smith) would like to take an orphan home for the Christmas holidays. Naturally Annie is the chosen orphan.

Annie and Warbucks hit it off immediately. Warbucks would like to adopt Annie, but first they must attempt to find her parents. This involves the F.B.I. and President F.D.R. (Sam Stoneburner.)

After many exposed frauds and near crisis', Annie and Warbucks stay together and Warbucks adopts her. This is when he becomes Daddy Warbucks.

The story is delightful. The music is simple yet heart-warming. The sets and lighting, very effective. All in all, Annie is one of the best musicals I have ever seen.

Many communities across the country are concerned about the disappearance of open land and greenery in their vicinity. Especially in areas of rapid growth, the disappearance of non-developed land is becoming a concern. Most communities welcomed growth at first, but are afraid now that too much growth might destroy the very things that made communities attractive in the first place. As a result, communities are attempting to limit growth, or are buying land with the idea of maintaining a green or undeveloped area within or around their community.

When you are considering the purchase of a home, serious thought should be given to analyzing your financial situation. If you are serious minded, then come see the professionals at BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., your area broker since 1947. Our experience and dealing with so many people over the years, combined with our knowledge of the real estate and financial market, allows us to guide you in more accurately evaluating your financial position.
