editor's note

Battered Wives Now Have Shelter

On the face of it, most of us would probably consider the news that we now have a shelter for battered women in North Oakland County (see Joan Allen's story on Page 8) as trivial and unimportant.

But the federal government has revealed some startling statistics that show a startling number of wives that are beaten and need help.

The National Institute of Mental Health contends that about 1.8 million wives are beaten by husbands. Half of these are beaten two or more times a year. The FBI Uniform Crime Reports show that 25 percent or 4660 of all murders in 1975 were intrafamilial, and that over half of these were spouse killings.

The Civil Right Commission claims in one of their publications "Many battered women report that, when they turn to the authorities for help, frequently it is to no avail. With many domestic assaults, police officers consider arrest too drastic a solution, and their response ranges from admonishing the violent husbands to "cool off" or assisting the wife to leave--all actions displaying an unwillingness to recognize the battered women as the victim of a crime and a failure to protect her accordingly."

Thus emergency safe houses have sprung up all over the country to house and protect battered women. The new shelter in North Oakland County is extremely protective of their residents. They would not let us interview its current residents (despite insuring anonymity) nor did they want to publish their location.

It's a shame battered women must resort to secrecy to protect themselves from their spouses. That doesn't speak well of our criminal justice system. On the other hand thanks to some very resourceful people, battered women are now able to escape their violent husbands to a friendly environment where hopefully they can work out their problems in a peaceful manner.

COMMENTARY

Money is The Bottom Line

by Carol Balzarini

I had vowed at one time never to become personally involved in the police problem which does exist here in Independence Township whether you choose to acknowledge it or not. But lately the situation has become so bizarre, at least from my point of view, that I decided to comment about it.

First of all, Jack McCall, former director of police services, resigned in May, for unspecified reasons, and sought greener pastures (warmer ones, too) in Florida. Perhaps he saw the handwriting on the wall and decided what he wanted, a fulltime police department in this township, was not meant to be.

Second, and no one will admit to being at fault, the question of an additional police mill just to maintain what we have never made it on the August primary ballot. Instead it appeared on the November ballot, a veritable "zoo" of proposals mostly dealing with money.

Add to that the fact no one saw fit to even promote the need for an additional mill, so involved were they in getting themselves elected. They all claim, in retrospect, to have left it up to the news media to spread the word.

Between August and November, two of the members of the Police Advisory Board resigned, one because the board "did nothing" and the other because he retired and left the area. Two of the remaining three members were busy running for office causing one incumbent trustee to refer to it as the "candidate" advisory committee.

Another former trustee, now a fulltime township board member, has indicated our local police agency should operate within its budget which he knows full well is about ninety percent committed to the sheriff's contract.

Since the November election, one of the advisory board members, its chairman to be exact, has been transferred to Chicago leaving chaos behind him because he seemingly lost interest in both the township and the advisory board once he lost the primary and was offered a new job. Part of his attitude is understandable but the chaos he has created in the meantime is not.

Now the advisory board has been expanded to six members instead of the original five and the acting police chief has been made permanent chief, prompting some people to ask, "Permanent chief of what?" A department that is nearly 100 percent CETA employees due to be phased out starting in June? Funded by one mill levied for police protection all but absorbed by the county sheriff's contract?

Now it seems the township supervisor is considering either a special millage election to the tune of some $10,000 to the taxpayers or attaching a millage question to a possible school election in June. Should the latter become a reality, our supervisor had better head for the hills. There just may be more school supporters in this township than police supporters, even though, as the supervisor laments, he only gets 13¢ out of every tax dollar levied.

Nothing will ever be settled this year if we get into the emotional argument of which department is better, the sheriff's department or our own, much as we did last year. It's a simple matter of economics...we need a certain amount of police protection and we need to figure out how to pay for it.

Money is the "bottom line" as far as this situation is concerned. Either Charlie Kimbel has it or he doesn't, either the township residents vote for more millage or they don't, either the township board allots it by special resolution or finds it somewhere else or either we all accept the overwhelming "no" vote on the last millage request or we don't.

We're down to the cliché, you can't have your cake and eat it too.

Just One of Those Days

A very embarrassed friend claims she had just one of those days that she will never forget.

It seems that some new neighbors moved in shortly before Christmas, and there was a delay in their phone service, so they asked if they could give her number for a few important calls. Wanting to be neighborly, she agreed, but after a few days, she got tired of running next door with messages. Luckily, the phone was finally installed and the calls stopped.

By that time, however, the mailpeople and the UPS people, unable to find the new people at home, starting asking if they could leave packages for them, and once more, it was necessary to run next door when she saw them arrive home.

By the Saturday before Christmas, friend was at the end of her rope with all the Christmas rush, and when she opened the door and found one more man standing on the front porch with a big package that she was not expecting, she said, I'm not taking anymore packages for them--leave it on their porch!!

"You don't understand," he managed to blurt out before she could shut the door. "This isn't for us, it's from us!"

At that, friend took a closer look and recognized the gentleman she'd only seen from afar. He put the package down, and beat a hasty retreat.

In the box was a sumptuous collection of Christmas goodies, and a note which said, "We know its been awful but please forgive us for the bother--we've really appreciated your help."

Friend left the door open and went straight over to apologize for her behavior, but she still wishes she could have hung on to her Christmas spirit just one more day!

THOUGHTS 'N THINGS

I would be the first to admit that parenting is a difficult job. To do the job right, it has to come before everything else in life. Sticking to it has been easy for me, because I was raised to believe that assuming the responsibility for another human life was not something I could take lightly. There was never any doubt in my mind that signing on as a parent was signing my own life away. I knew what I was doing when I decided to be a mother, and I have never allowed myself to think about the possibility of escape from the duty that I accepted. I am luckier than a lot of adults I know.

It wasn't just that I learned the truth about parenting—that was the truth I learned about marriage or a career, or playing the piano to perfection, or being a success at anything. Nobody promised me a rose-garden without thorns. I was just taught a basic truth about life. The results of any effort are equal to the time and energy devoted to it. I was taught early in life that I had to pay some sort of price for everything I wanted or expected from life. I was also taught to consider the price before I "bought" anything, so that I wouldn't waste time complaining about its lack of value later, nor be disappointed in the "merchandise."

When I was much younger, I thought everyone had learned the same "rules for living" that I had, and I couldn't figure out why people complained so much about the "deals" they had made. It seemed to me that there were a lot of people who disregarded the rules, when they knew very well what they were. Now I realize that many of them were innocent victims of innocent victims. In fact, I know a great number of adults today that were never taught any rules for the "game of life" because their parents weren't taught any rules. In fact, a lot of people don't seem to realize that there are such rules!

I am not being funny! I am truly concerned with the education picture today, and the lack of understanding about what's important in raising and educating our children. Our society is concerned with two things - physical well-being, and money. A careful look at the beautiful rich people will disclose, however, that money and physical well-being are not guarantees of happiness.

It wasn't that my parents sat down and told me that there was a list of rules to learn, and then made me learn them. It was, rather, a number of things that caused me to come to those conclusions. The point is, that I did come to conclusions. It's different today. I talked to a teacher just the other day, who told me that she asked the students in her class (a 9th grade English class) to read a story and draw four conclusions from what they read. Half of the class wanted to know how they could draw something when they didn't know what it looked like. They were not joking. They did not understand the assignment, and thought she wanted sketches of the things they read about.

The truth is that children have very little time to think these days. I, on the other hand, had a great deal of time to think when I was a child. That's because I was often sent to my room to think things over, and I didn't have a stereo or a television to get me off the hook! I also spent a lot of time hiding from my brother's teasing, and my parent's directives to do the dishes or the dusting. Back in the '30's life was real, life was earnest, and escape was often the goal of kids! When we couldn't escape, washing and drying dishes by hand, ironing the family's laundry, and weeding the garden gave one plenty of time to think about life.

Things have changed since then. Kids don't have time to draw conclusions anymore. They have to be told all of the answers. The trouble is that teachers don't have time to tell them the answers, and parents have a difficult time finding the opportunity to talk to the kids. Something has to be done about it or we're going to raise several generations of computers. Then, finally, there'll be nobody left to program them. When that happens, everything will fall apart, and if anyone is left, some thinkers will rise from the ashes of our audio-visual society, and we'll start over again.

I am not being funny! I am truly concerned with the education picture today, and the lack of understanding about what's important in raising and educating our children. Our society is concerned with two things - physical well-being, and money. A careful look at the beautiful rich people will disclose, however, that money and physical well-being are not guarantees of happiness.

Happiness comes from inner harmony. It is the result of comparing oneself with the self of yesterday, and seeing only improvement. It is learning to deal with jealousy, hate, frustration, disappointment, and disillusionment. It is possible to learn to get the most out of life and opportunities, and to achieve success and happiness, but it requires setting goals and working to achieve them. That is not so difficult to learn, nor to understand. Learning and understanding take more than exposure and recitation, however. They take time and a thought digestive process. We can't expect our kids to understand that, nor to plan the time for such activity. We as adults must take the responsibility for planning and putting into action, a schedule that allows for, if not forces, thinking time.

Reading time will make thinking time more valuable, of course, and I know of some Jr. High schools which now allow for a 20 minute reading period each day. All students and their teachers, maintain silence, and read. Schoolbooks are off limits. This is a "reading for pleasure" period, and it is strictly enforced. The results are surprising. Teachers find that the class following the reading period is quieter, better behaved, and more alert than all other classes. Perhaps a return to a family reading hour would help solve some of today's problems. It certainly couldn't do any harm, and the results might be surprising if each family member took a turn reading aloud from a favorite book. It's worth a try.

"How Do I Pre-plan a Funeral?"

First, discuss your wishes with us or any of the other fine funeral homes in the area. We will talk about your preferences as to religious services, the minister, selection of music, readings from scripture, and flowers. Costs for caskets, fixed and optional funeral services, and cemetery fees will also be covered.

Second, a complete pre-arrangement document will be provided. In it, all of your wishes and costs will be recorded. Your copy should be kept in a safe place and/or given to your executor, friend or relative. There are no costs or obligations for preparing this.

Third, may be pre-financing. This is optional and at your discretion. After we record your wishes, it can be arranged in several ways: (1) pre-payment in full; (2) partial payment and provision made for installment payments; and (3) partial pay with balance to be paid by insurance, Social Security, Veterans Administration, etc.

Pre-planning is sensible and realistic. It can be done without stress or grief. It provides great "peace of mind" in knowing that an unpleasant, yet necessary, task has been completed in advance, thereby sparing your loved-ones a difficult task later on.

Charlie Kimbel: New Permanent Chief Of an Impermanent Department

by Carol Balzarini

Charlie Kimbel is married, the father of four grown sons and has a law enforcement background, non of which is very extraordinary. However, he has just been named permanent head of Independence Township Police Services, a department whose future could not exactly be described as bright. That is extraordinary.

It seems ironic that at one time Kimbel gave up his position as a deputy with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department for economic reasons to go into business for himself owning a vacuum cleaner sales and service in Royal Oak. Independence Township Police Services may be short-lived for the same reason and Kimbel may, once again, find himself back in the vacuum cleaner business, now being run by his wife.

At the present time he is sitting and waiting for some direction from the township board, one of whose members has directed him to operate within his budget and another of whom is considering asking for another millage election. In the meantime, he is faced with CETA layoffs beginning in June, ending in October, and leaving only him and Beth Tower in the department.

Since Kimbel has just been named chief and since the township will begin negotiating with the county this month over the sheriff's contract, it seemed appropriate to interview Kimbel and find out what was happening in Police Services.

Kimbel first explained the one mill levied for police services in Independence Township last year generated some $145,000. The sheriff's contract took about $138,000 of that amount. Money to keep the local department afloat for the remainder of the fiscal year came from unused gravel funds and federal revenue sharing.

Now Kimbel is asking himself how he can work out a new budget if he really doesn't have any money to work with and is hoping for further direction from the board.

"One member of the board has indicated we will probably have to have another election (for millage). I'm not sure when the next election is at this point, but it will probably be with the school...I believe they have one in June. Of course, that's kind of late, the budgets are supposed to be worked on at this time because our fiscal year ends March 31."

Kimbel said he only wants to "maintain" what he has now. He felt his employees didn't deserve to be "thrown out" just because they were hired under CETA.

"I don't want a 'shoestring' operation," he added. "The people deserve better than that. You need proper funds to run a proper department."

Kimbel was also disturbed by a virtual "blank check" his department feels the recreation department has as far as the board is concerned while Police Services has to fight "tooth and nail" for anything.

"We were tempted to label police equipment as athletic equipment to get it approved by the board," he said.

"We want money to exist," he continued. "I can't see going backwards to, say, 1973 before there was a police department. What are we going to do with all this stuff? We're in charge of the school crossing guard the village hires...the parking enforcement officer at the high school...parking enforcement officer for the village...We're in charge of all the parades, we provide police protection, get the permits to close the roads. We take care of all school functions."

Kimbel said his department had taken care of the Pine Knob Music Theatre traffic for the past two years, adding, "I submitted all of the material needed to the State Highway Department in reference to that ramp out there (the Sashabaw exit of I-75) and it has been submitted to Washington...Due to the fact there's no land acquisition involved...if the money should be there and if they decide it meets their criteria, they will start, hopefully, in the spring on that ramp."

The discussion continued to center around law enforcement activities in the township with Kimbel saying that animal control calls alone totaled 127 for the month of December alone, racking up 1,600 miles for one man in one week. Total calls for the year were 1833 with 557 animals taken to the Humane Society.

"We assisted only four departments last month, the sheriff's department twice and the fire department twice. We turned over 12 calls to other agencies and 25 to the sheriff's department. Complaints recorded by Police Services were 219. There were 366 traffic complaints and, mind you, that's an 8-hour day, five days a week...that much plus the sheriff's department 24 hours a day, seven days a week tells me there's a great need for a police department whether it's Independence Township, the sheriff's department or whatever. We must have a police department regardless of where it comes from.

"But there are things on here (the monthly report) that probably would not be handled by the sheriff's department if we weren't here. I don't know who would handle animal complaints. As I understand it, the county animal control is understaffed. Who would handle our 127 complaints last month?"

"We had 291 traffic violations...how many of those the sheriff's department would pick up I don't know. All the other calls, yes...They would be the ones called.

What To Do After An Accident

Write Down

- Date, time and place of the accident.
- Names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all other drivers in the accident.

The insurance agents and companies of those drivers.

All passengers and where seated.

- Make, model, year and license numbers of all other cars involved in the accident.
- Prevailing weather conditions (clear, foggy).
- Road conditions (dry, icy, wet).
- Your speed - and that (approximately) of the other car when the accident occurred.
- Brief account of accident.
- Evidence (if any) that the other driver might have been drinking.
- Whether the other driver's license lists any restriction that would be relevant. (For example, was he/she wearing glasses as required?)
- Evidence of injury to anyone involved in the accident.
- Location of the cars on the road (on the berm, across the lane, on the divider).
- Name badge number, and station number of the policeman who arrives at the scene.

Remember

- Don't indicate how much insurance coverage you have.
- Don't confess guilt even if you feel you were at fault.
- Don't sign anything which might indicate that you are not physically injured. (Some injuries are not immediately apparent.)
- Call your insurance agent and report the accident even if the damages are minor and you intend to pay for repairs yourself. Your insurance company may require that you report any accident in which you are involved within a certain period of time. If you don't report it, and the accident turns out to be more serious than you originally thought - if the other driver develops a whiplash injury, for example, your insurance company may be able to disclaim coverage.
- After leaving the scene of the accident, refer any inquiries from others involved in the accident to your insurance agent. Don't try to answer them yourself.
- Keep track of any transportation costs you incur while your car is being fixed (car rentals, taxi cabs, etc.).
- Get estimates for repairing your car from two or three reputable auto body shops.

North Oakland Gets Shelter for Battered Women

by Joan Allen

Though there has been little said about it until recently, spouse assault, according to experts, is the single, most underreported crime occurring in this country. Contrary to popular belief, it is not a lower class phenomenon, but the men who beat their wives are from every race, religious and socioeconomic background. According to statistics, however, battered wives, and battering husbands, have themselves, often been battered children.

In the past, according to studies of the subject, women who have reported spouse abuse have failed to get help from others, though they have repeatedly attempted to obtain it. They have found their efforts to be unsuccessful and discouraging, and have even suffered the humiliation of the accusation that they not only provoked the beatings, but actually enjoyed them.

Now, thanks to a number of concerned people, help is at hand. A Domestic Violence Shelter has been established, where women and their children can find a temporary haven from assault. The Shelter, planned to provide a supportive atmosphere where women can explore their options and get information and referrals to community support services, is a program of the Pontiac-North Oakland YWCA.

The program has been in the planning stage since the Spring of 1976. At that time, the National Organization for Women of Oakland County approached the Executive Director of the YWCA about the need for a program, and at the same time, the national YWCA mandated that domestic violence was to be a program, and an issue for both the local and national Y's. Today, however, there are over 90 Y's across the country which have shelters, or are involved with programs dealing with domestic violence. They have been supported by a number of women's groups which agree with the need for such programs.

Seeing a need, and putting a program as ambitious as a domestic violence shelter into action, are two different things entirely, according to Debi Cain of the Pontiac-North Oakland YWCA. "Pulling together the money, and a place, required organization, and the YWCA had national influence, so it was the ideal organization to support it," Ms. Cain stated in a recent interview.

According to Ms. Cain, who has worked on the program for over a year now, the eventual establishment of the present shelter depended on the generosity of the Detroit Free Press, and Dayton-Hudson Corporation.

According to her, the Free Press gives away $25,000 a year to pilot projects. Application was made for the sum of $12,600, for the domestic violence shelter, and after an investigation, the amount was approved. This gift paid for staff training in interpersonal counseling skills, and building security for the shelter; which included special lighting, an inter-com system, double locks on the doors, and physical adjustments to the building so it would meet the fire code.

When it came to furnishing the shelter, and it was learned that Dayton Hudson donates large sums of money to worthy groups, a YWCA Board Member, Joan Newby, (who also happens to be in charge of minority affairs at Oakland County, and on County Executive Dan Murphy's staff) told the County Executive of the need for help. He, in turn, was instrumental in presenting the needs of the shelter to Joe Bianco of Hudson's. Hudson's then approached the YWCA, said that they heard what was happening, and that they wanted to help. "At the same time, Mr. Murphy approached the Oakland Livingston Human Services Agency for help," said Ms. Cain. "He has really been a great help in getting the program off the ground."

Dayton-Hudson provided $9000.00 worth of equipment and supplies for the shelter (Not retail value - but cost value, according to Ms. Cain) which can house

Public Protectors A Reminder Exclusive

Sheriff's Department Gets More Money, Deputies

by Carol Balzarini

According to Robert Wark, public information officer for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, that law enforcement agency stands to gain some $735,000 in state funds to provide Oakland County with 20 new deputies for traffic enforcement alone. The bill, known as Public Act 416 or Sheriff's Secondary Road Patrol Bill, was recently signed by Governor William Milliken.

Wark said they hope to have the program operational in the spring. The money allocated will train the new deputies and completely equip their new cars. How many of these new men will be seen on the secondary roads of Independence and Springfield Townships will depend on accident statistics currently being compiled by the Traffic Improvement Association (TIA) of Oakland County, a private, non-profit organization working to coordinate traffic-related problems throughout the county. Heavy traffic and high accident areas will determine where the officers will patrol.

Wark also explained that Oakland County was second only to Wayne County in amount of funds received. Allocations were made primarily according to the number of roadways in the counties. The number of deputies was determined by the number of miles and the traffic records of the counties.

The Reminder was interested in pin-pointing high accident areas in the two townships but Wark said such statistics would not be available for 1978 until next summer. He explained that with three law enforcement agencies involved, the county, the state, and Independence Township Police Services, it took six-nine months for the statistics to be collected in one location, the State Police files.

This problem of traffic accident statistics is one currently being solved by the TIA working to reorganize the computer system giving all law enforcement agencies access to the same information.

Wark said the OCSD welcomed the 20 new deputies particularly because of the increase in traffic fatalities in Oakland County in 1978, up over 15 percent from the previous year and the highest of any county in the state.

In contracted areas alone, those which contract with the Sheriff's Department for police protection, there were three more fatalities in 1978 than 1977 and 200 more injury accidents, according to Wark. Other areas, such as Pontiac with its own police force, have their own statistics.

Director of Police Services in Independence Township Charles Kimbel said recently he had no idea how many of the new deputies would be patrolling secondary roads in this area.

He added, "It should put more cars on the road as far as traffic is concerned...But I hope when they do get them on the road, you'll see the tickets go up and the speed go down, and the fatalities go down...and the accident rate...because that's an awful lot of money."

Kimbel went on to say he hoped the increased number of deputies on road patrol would stop some of the local accidents. "We've had some pretty good ones," he said. "Fortunately we haven't had too many fatalities."

several women and children at one time. The OLHS provided $25,000. for some of the staffing of the shelter.

While some of the shelters advertise their existence, the one sponsored by the YWCA of Pontiac and North Oakland County prefers to keep a low-profile, and screen applicants when possible. They do employ a 24 hour emergency staff to give service when needed, however.

According to Ms. Cain, the shelter has received a great many calls from women in Bloomfield Hills, Royal Oak, Rochester, and other areas outside Pontiac. They are usually women who have other options for shelter though, and can make other arrangements with friends or relatives, when necessary. "They are usually shy about coming to Pontiac," she said, "though shelters in Ann Arbor, Kalamazoo, and Windsor often give aid to upper middle-class women." For that reason, the local shelter may deal mostly with lower income applicants. That is, women who have no alternate options for dealing with their problems.

The shelter prefers that applicants go through another agency when seeking help because many women misunderstand the purpose of the shelter, and they often need more involved counseling and help than can be obtained there. A woman who needs immediate assistance may call the center for information at any time, however. The number to call is 334-1274.

When it has been established that a woman should be accepted at the center, she is informed of the rules which must be adhered to, and a contract must be signed with the center. Each woman must take a turn at cooking, and is responsible for the clearing and care of the rooms provided. The women eat communal meals, and share the apartment-like facilities, which are available free of charge.

Since battered women often seek protection when a child's well-being is endangered, the facilities are complete with all types of baby and child-care equipment too. However, when a child shows any signs of mistreatment, the center must report it, and Protective Services must investigate it. This possibility is discussed in advance with shelter applicants. No violence is allowed at the shelter, and if physical punishment or abuse has been used as a normal form of punishing the child, she must refrain from such methods while at the shelter.

For the women who are accepted at the shelter, there are a number of services provided, though it is mainly a place to think things out and get information on possible alternatives to returning home.

The center recognizes that a good many of the women will choose to return home. The staff does not encourage them to make any decisions, but simply offers information and referral services. Women are allowed to stay no longer than 21 days, which is considered to be enough time for them to look at alternatives and take appropriate action to solve their problems.

If a woman chooses to return home, she has two more opportunities to return to the shelter while she is trying to improve the home condition. If she does not choose to return home, she is referred to appropriate agencies which can help her to help herself.

The staff at the Domestic Violence Center has had a great deal of help from existing shelters in the establishment of rules and guidelines. They have also worked out agreements and guidelines with other local agencies so that in case of referral, staff members can tell women what to expect when dealing with them and, the cost of aid when necessary. Their support does not end there, however, the center will also provide volunteer advocates who will actually walk through the systems of aid with applicants. They will even go with them to any necessary court proceedings and/or through the various public services, if public assistance is needed.

Though Dayton-Hudson has supplied the center with carpeting, furniture, linens, baby items and complete kitchen facilities (including a large microwave oven) there will be an ongoing need for donations from women's groups, church groups, and other interested citizens. Food and clothing donations are needed, as well as small care packages like some already donated by church groups, containing such items as soap, shampoo, deodorant, toothbrushes and toothpaste.

For information about the shelter, those who wish to volunteer time or financial assistance, or have need of its service, may call the Pontiac-North Oakland YWCA. There is a training program for those who wish to become involved volunteers as advocates or in other positions.

Battle For Top Spot Won By Rochester Balanced Attack 54-45

Well, they lost. It was a battle all the way, with a few slips (and lots of fouls), but Clarkston was defeated by Rochester (who is still undefeated) 54-45.

The first half was extremely tight, being almost all defense, but with Rochester coming out on top 19-18. In the 3rd period, they lengthened their lead to 7, but Clarkston fought back to within 1 point, then lost it in the 4th period.

The Rochester defense held Tim McCormick to only 24 points, 13 rebounds, but could not stop the 6-9½ junior from blocking 7 shots. Continuing his good season was Ed Haddad with 9 points. Reuben Hutchons had 5 points, and Greg Robertson, 4 point.

Coach Nustad was visibly shaken by the loss, because he felt "that they had played good enough to win."

He added, "It's tough to win on the road. Clarkston now has a rivalry going with Rochester. We beat them before in a close game, then now they beat us. But we play them again. We've got a determined bunch of kids now. We'll beat them."

Wolfpack Wins 8th Straight 55-35

Defense was the name of the game last Tuesday as the Clarkston Wolfpack held Lake Orion to 35 points, winning 55-35. Clarkston's record is now 10-1; they have won 8 straight.

Tim McCormick continued his fantastic year with 36 points and 18 rebounds. Ed Haddad also played very well with 11 points and 4 rebounds, Reuben Hutchons, Greg Robertson, John Sheldon and Dino Rotundo each had 2 points.

Commenting on the game Coach Nustad said, "We played very, very well. It was a good game for us, but the big game's Friday. If we win we'll be in the driver's seat for the league title. If we lose we'll just come back."

Parks & Rec Sponsors Baked Goods and Stuffed Animal Show

Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a Bake Show and a Stuffed Animal Show, that will take place on Saturday, February 3. The shows will take place in the Clarkston High School cafeteria, starting at 10:00 a.m. The deadline for entering either of these events is Wednesday, January 31. Ribbons will be awarded to the top three finishers in each category.

The Bake Show will feature categories for the best looking cakes and cookies. The Stuffed Animal Show will have categories open in the following areas: biggest, smallest, largest, best dressed, most unusual, funniest, oldest, and for the biggest feet.

Both of these events are open to people of any age. For further information, contact Independence Parks and Recreation at 625-8223.

Efficient Wood Heat You Can See, and Circulated Hot Air you Can't

The air-tight Russo High-Heat Series wood stove has a special glass window that lets you watch the fire as it heats your home. But you can't see the draft-free hot air the stove circulates. Here's how it works: A baffle deflects hot gases within the fire, swirling them around two internal heat exchange tubes. Cool floor air is heated in these tubes then circulated in all directions by a quiet blower for efficient draft-free heating. To make the fire burn hotter and cleaner, the fire chamber is lined with fire brick and fed pre-heated air through a separate air-intake system. Internal, folding steel doors can also be closed for an even more efficient overnight burn. Several Radiant models are also available. With a Russo Glass-View wood stove, you can get warm just by watching it burn wood...not money.

Permanent Chief of an Impermanent Department

Citizen assists---they probably wouldn't have handled all of those because most of these are found while we're out on patrol ourselves. Larcenies, assaults, b. & e.'s, that would all have been handled by the county because they'd be called if we weren't here."

With enough people "out there," Kimbel agreed the county could handle the township. "They're very capable," he said.

The sheriff's department now has five men in Independence Township, four of them regularly funded deputies, the fifth a CETA officer. Kimbel felt the township would have to pick him up too if CETA ran out because four men can't handle it in three shifts, he said.

"It's putting a strain on the five. Anyone can write a complaint but there's as much work in preventing crime from occurring in the first place. But without an adequate number of patrolmen in the first place, where does preventing come in?" he asked. "If we had more people maybe we could prevent more."

"But if, in fact, we were dissolved...the school, parades, Pine Knob...it would all have to be picked up by someone. There's been no mention made of what would happen to the reserves. I don't know how they would operate without anyone here. They still have to have somebody in charge of it."????

No one seemed to campaign very actively for the police millage. Why not?

"I can't answer that," Kimbel responded. "I did as much as I could through the press which I thought was more appropriate than me standing on a street corner."

What would life in the township without a police department be like?

"You've got to have a police department," Kimbel said. "I wouldn't want to live here without one. They'd go hog wild out there, crime would be rampant."

But no one seems to want to spend any more money than is presently levied.

"They feel the county is sufficient apparently, that what we have is sufficient. I don't see how anybody could ever think you could have any kind of a community without a police department."

Kimbel estimated the county handled some 17,000 calls out here last year and that Police Services handled close to 3,000 even though it's a 40 hour a week operation. He had no statistics for the State Police.

"Even with some people predicting the economy will slow down, I just can't see the township slowing down. As to what the potential growth is, I don't know. I have heard eventually it might be the same population-wise as Pontiac or Royal Oak is now. We're supposed to be

"I feel bad about the situation," Kimbel continued.

"I definitely think there's room for us here, I just wish the money was here...a lot of people here have worked hard and if anybody's been through a concert at Pine Knob, especially one of the sell-outs, to see what these reserve officers go through, they'd be willing to pay them double the price."

second in new roads in the county, Avon is tops...I can't see Independence Township stopping their growth at this point. They've done a lot of good planning, the zoning is in good shape," Kimbel concluded.

One of his main concerns at the present is his employees, "because they're sitting here on a day-to-day basis...they don't have any incentive to put out their best effort...There aren't a heck of a lot of police jobs available in other communities...I'm not going to give up. I'll be here until the last minute. I'm in a much more favorable situation than these fellows. I have a business...but they have no place to go..."

The possibility of a complete shutdown of the department because of the additional millage defeat as suggested by a board member at one time was discussed.

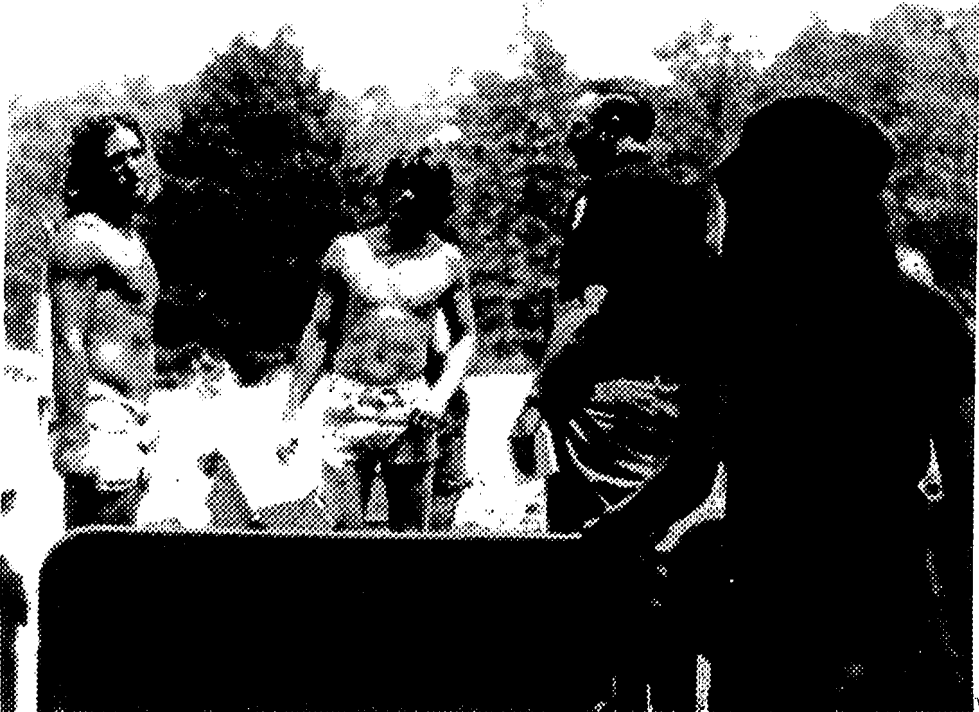

"The board is the rule over there," Kimbel said. "They tell us what to do. Naturally, nobody's going to be happy about it...One board member stated that if, in fact, this millage was not passed, they should lay off a couple deputies and shake the people up...He made that statement at one of the board meetings...Fred (Ritter) has also said that, in the future, when submitting a budget, I should stay within the limits of my income...I just wonder what he was trying to tell me. I imagine that's one of the reasons he opposed my appointment to a permanent position. They don't know exactly what they're going to do with this department. I think that was Mr. Rose's same theory, that they should have waited as far as a permanent appointment of a chief as to whether they're even going to have a police department or not..."

"I feel bad about the situation," Kimbel continued. "I definitely think there's room for us here, I just wish the money was here...a lot of people here have worked hard and if anybody's been through a concert at Pine Knob, especially one of the sell-outs, to see what these reserve officers go through, they'd be willing to pay them double the price."

And what is the new permanent chief doing while waiting for the sheriff's contract to be settled, the advisory board to get organized and complete its deliberations and the township board to make a final decision about the future of police protection in Independence Township?

"I just keep hoping some miracle will happen and we'll continue," Kimbel sighed.

as "Doc" Good.

In July of 1973, Dr. Wayne Good saw while reading the "Michigan State Medical Journal," an ad placed by Marlan Hillman and Norris Walls asking for a doctor to practice in the Davisburg area.

Dr. Good said, "That's not really so far away, maybe I'll have a look."

Not only did he look, but he has erected a complete medical clinic.

Dr. Good started his Davisburg practice in November, 1973; in a trailer situated on a corner of the Methodist Church parking lot.

"We got so busy and so many people needed care, that the trailer was no longer able to handle it," stated Good.

A clinic or other such medical facility seemed the solution; the only problem was a place to put it.

"At first we wanted to put it across from the school, but the property wasn't available, so Karalynne Burns talked to Chum and Bea Rundell to see if they would sell the farm and we bought it," Dr. Good recalled. This was June 1975.

In 1977 construction began and the clinic opened in March of 1978, offering a full line of medical care and services. Specialists staff the clinic, including Dr. Ahmad-Internal medicine and pulmonary diseases; Dr. Panah - Obstetrics and Gynecology; Dr. Ramirez - Gastroenterology; and Dr. Good himself- General Surgeon.

A pediatrician and dentist will be coming in the near future, said Dr. Good. Dr. Good has also talked about acquiring an ophthalmologist and an otologist to complete the picture for now.

Dr. Good said that they now offer facilities for limited out patient surgery.

A quick tour of the physical therapy section and a chat with the therapist, revealed a complete but compact facility; including a whirlpool and exercise programs. They treat most acute problems, such as bursitis, tendonitis and other like conditions. Sports injuries are the most common treatments.

Also included in the facility is Davisburg's first bank (complete with a drive in window) and a pharmacy.

WWI Vets Meet

Clinton Valley Barracks #2803, Veterans of World War I, and Auxiliary held their first meeting of 1979 on Saturday, January 13th, in the Springfield Township Hall, Davisburg. However, the group enjoyed a delicious potluck dinner at noon.

The tables were decorated with silver bells representing the New Year. The birthdays this month of Mrs. Eva Lucas and Mrs. Eunice Tremper were celebrated with ice cream and a birthday cake with candles. Mrs. Hilda Hansard, who also has a January birthday, was unable to be present. President, Mrs. Minnie Schneller, has just returned home from being in the hospital for ten days.

Three granddaughters have recently been accepted into the membership of the Auxiliary, bringing the membership to thirty-eight.

Next meeting will be Saturday, February 10.

"You Can" at a Variety of Schools

by Betty Good

Some of us get most of our exercise by using our minds--or our hands--or a combination of both. WE are the ones who are being told "YOU CAN" by Adult Community Education; and we are directed--as one school district puts it--to "pick a school, any school" or "pick a course, any course." We have a wide variety to choose from. Waterford Schools Adult & Community Education states, "You do not have to be a resident of the Waterford School District to attend classes." Non-residents are welcome in most other areas, as well.

Listed below are some sources of Adult Enrichment Classes and the telephone number to call for information. Most classes start the last week of January or the first week of February, with mail registrations being accepted as we go to press. Some districts allow registration the first night of class. Classes in Adult Education are already underway at Northwest Oakland Vocation School, but their number is listed as summer school plans are being made.

The Business Beat

Lumberjack Builders Celebrate Grand Opening

Lumberjack Builders recently celebrated their Grand Opening in downtown Davisburg. Formerly known as Lumberjack Products, the store has been completely remodeled with many new lines of merchandise added. The store now carries hardware, home decorating supplies, chain saws, power tools, plumbing, heating and glass. Automobile supplies will be a part of the Lumberjack store in the near future, also.

A new unisex hair salon has opened its doors in the Plaza Mall in Ortonville. Clippers, owned by Connie Fabean, a resident of Ortonville, said the store has extended hours for busy families.

Penthouse Fashions, located on the Dixie Highway in Waterford, will begin a series of bridal fashion shows on February 11th at 2 p.m. in the store. There is no charge to attend the shows and refreshments will be served.

Northern Heating & Cooling Opens

Ray Adham, the former owner of Sun Control Home Improvement Company, and Glen Jermalowicz, both own Northern Heating and Cooling, Inc., on M-59. The showroom opened on December 18th, and provides customers with professional advice on plumbing, heating and cooling. The Grand Opening provided much in the way of do-it-yourself advice in an unusual showroom displaying plumbing, heating and cooling supplies.

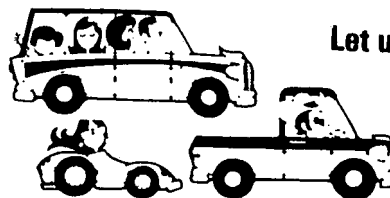

Top Salesperson

The salesperson of the month of December at LHR Evans and Associates Realtors in Waterford is Isabelle Bansen.

She has been a sales associate since 1972 and has attended a number of real estate schools specializing in real estate fundamentals, sales techniques and human relations. Isabelle is a resident of Clarkston.

Changing Membership Stalls Police Advisory Board Progress

by Carol Balzarini

Since its inception last April, the Police Advisory Board has had two of its original members resign, is about to lose another, has had one elected to the Independence Township Board, and has recently named one replacement.

The first to resign was the board's secretary Marty Newsted who indicated a lack of progress being made in the work of the group. Sometime after Ray Hoppengartner, formerly with the Michigan State Police, resigned when he moved from the Clarkston area. Board chairman Bruce Walker will be resigning soon due to a job transfer to the Chicago area. At the last meeting of the Independence Township Board, Dan Daniels was named to the board. Daniels, new owner of the Clarkston Cinema, has a background in police work. Bill Vandermark was elected township trustee in November but will continue to serve on the board. The final member of the board is Jim Brueck.

The Police Advisory Board met twice in April and concerned itself primarily with organization and objectives.

They met with outgoing Director of Police Services Jack McCall on May 15. McCall provided the board with background information on the creation of Independence Township Police Services in 1973, explaining how the program grew as the demand for services increased. At that meeting McCall, according to the minutes of the meeting, recommended the establishment of a township department even though it would be more expensive than contracting with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

At the May 31 meeting, the board began drafting a questionnaire to be sent to comparable municipalities seeking information on other police and fire services. A letter to the township board was also drafted with recommended criteria for selecting a police administrator to replace Jack McCall.

On June 12, the board met with Lt. James Curtis of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department with seventeen years of police experience to his credit. Curtis reported on the services provided by the OCSO in addition to road patrol. According to the minutes, Curtis briefly reviewed the conflict occurring between his and the local department in recent years.

Lt. George Gedda, Commander of the Pontiac Post of the Michigan State Police, was present on June 21 outlining the structure of his post and the territory covered. He recommended the board look into the "dual department" (public safety) concept but did not personally favor it.

The June 28 meeting was spent revising the questionnaire. Two suggestions were made at that time, one, to hold a public hearing before preparing the board's final report and, second, to meet with acting Chief Charles Kimbel.

On July 17, the questionnaire was approved. It was decided to have 150 copies printed to be mailed with a cover letter and a self-addressed stamped envelope to better assure its return. Each member was to bring a list of 25 municipalities to receive the questionnaire to the next meeting.

The questionnaire included general questions about the size and organizational structure of the municipality, type of police/fire departments and number of personnel, selection criteria, services provided, cost and financing and other cooperating agencies.

On July 24 the Police Advisory Board met with State Representative Claude Trim in an informal, off the record session with no notes taken.

The October 30 meeting centered around costs of a township department. Also discussed was the possible resignation of Ray Hoppengartner. Three surveys returned from local municipalities were reviewed. Meeting dates of November 13 and 27 were set with acting Director of Police Services to be present on the 13th.

At this point the available minutes ended. Subsequent minutes, returned surveys, and letters were in the possession of board chairman Bruce Walker who was commuting between Clarkston and Chicago. To this date, the papers are still not in the hands of present board members but should be in the near future.

On Thursday, January 18, six advisory board members, four of them newly appointed, met at the township hall. Jim Brueck was elected to serve as chairman, Bill Vandermark was secretary. Both are original members of the board.

The four new members include Dan Daniels, an investigator with the county prosecutor's office, formerly with the sheriff's department, and new owner of the Clarkston Cinema; Eldon Aderholt, deputy public safety director for Bloomfield Hills; Everett Gard, a Pontiac policeman, formerly with the Michigan Department of the Treasury; and Charles Whitlock, now with the civil division of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department with 25 years experience in law enforcement.

Among items agreed upon were consideration of the township's needs as far as law enforcement was concerned, services now provided that could not or would not be provided by the sheriff's department alone.

For their next meeting on February 1, Aderholt will prepare a report on the Bloomfield Hills public safety department including both positive and negative aspects. Gard will research a similar set up in Oak Park. Daniels will tackle Beverly Hills. Whitlock will research the costs of the Oakland County Sheriff's contract and the Independence Township Police Services budget. Vandermark will gather facts and figures on population and growth projections. All will bring a list of "needs for the townships".

TIA Keeps Track of Oakland's Traffic

The Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County is a private, non-profit agency dedicated to just what its name implies, traffic improvement in the county. Under the leadership of managing director Bruce B. Madsen, it was formed in 1967 and funded by contributions from industry and federal and state grants for special projects. The association works with the Oakland County Road Commission community officials and county-wide police departments.

The statistical data center analyzes all traffic accidents in the county as to location and cause and gives information gathered to various police departments. They, in turn, use the data to determine problem areas and use selective enforcement.

A current major project of TIA is in traffic engineering now in the final year of a four-year program with traffic engineers working with various officials in Oakland County. Key features of the program are: "Early bird" meetings with community officials and the TIA, getting them to list their own traffic engineering priorities and to look at the county road network as a whole; photologing of every roadway sign in the county to bring them up to conformance with state standard and helping communities apply for federal funds to implement the project.

The TIA also holds seminars and short courses for traffic authorities to improve traffic performance.

The association is presently reorganizing its computer system so statistical data will be more readily available to all law enforcement agencies in the county.

Among the data compiled for 1978 is that Oakland County records 175 traffic deaths in 1978, an increase of 15.1 percent over 1977 and a five-year high. State-wide traffic deaths were up only 4.7 percent in that same period. The fatality figures are termed "provisional" because of what is described as "delayed deaths", those which may still occur as a result of 1978 accidents.

Madson, in a recent press release, was unable to account for the increase in the number of fatalities, but said, "TIA's traffic data center will subsequently give us a better insight into the factors involved..."

He was, however, willing to speculate on probable causes.

1. Improved economy in the area; studies show a definite correlation between an improved economic climate and an increase in fatals, more leisure driving.

2. Increase in population growth, which could account for as much as a 10 percent increase.

3. High incidence of drunk driving; especially among youth; more than one half of the fatalities were alcohol-related.

4. Slight increases in speed; fewer are observing the 55 MPH speed limit or posted limits.

5. Decreasing use of safety belts; studies have shown public acceptance of safety belts is not improving with usage at a new low of 14 percent.

6. Increase in number of small, less "crash-worthy" vehicles mixing with larger cars on roadways.

Union Negotiation Stall Process Sheriff's Contract Not Ready for Townships

Negotiations with Oakland County over the annual contract with the Sheriff's Department were scheduled to begin around the middle of January, but as yet have not.

John Foster, a spokesman for the budget division, said they were "wrapping up new cost estimates now" which he set at eight percent over last year's figures. He cautioned, however, that figure was "very preliminary." The final figures will be released shortly. This would set this year's rate at $32,000 as compared to last year's $29,900, per deputy, using the same base rate.

Once the budget division has completed its work, the figures will be sent to the public service committee of the County Board of Commissioners. Once they set the final rate, it will be reviewed by County Executive Daniel Murphy and contracting communities will be notified.

Township Supervisor Whitey Tower said that, by request, Sheriff Johannes Spreen had met with the supervisors at their January meeting. Spreen told them, too, there was no contract as yet because they were stalled with union negotiations, according to Tower. Tower also said he was led to believe the new contract could show as much as a 10-12 percent increase over last year.

Tower was somewhat reserved on the subject of another millage election, saying he was "looking for direction from the board." He did, however, say the county had to have 60 days notice if the township intended to hold a special election in the spring. The cost of that election could run between $8-10,000.

A second possibility, Tower said, was to combine a police millage request with a possible school election in June saving the township the cost of a special election.

A third possibility would be a referendum asking the people of Independence Township if they wanted a local department or not. Tower, however, said he didn't really believe the people do want a local department.

A fourth possibility would be to just wait for the recommendations of the Police Advisory Board meeting last week for the first time in some months. The board has been reorganized and expanded to six members.

BISE Donates $100 to Independence Center

In the month of December, the B.I.S.E. donated $100 from their treasury to the Independence Center. The donation was accepted by the coordinator and the volunteers at Independence Center, a non-profit organization to help people in Independence, Springfield and Brandon Townships to help themselves.

The B.I.S.E. or Brandon, Independence-Springfield Exchange is a group of local real estate brokers who joined together a few years ago to provide a better real estate service for the residents of the 3 townships. The Exchange members discuss their ideas and try to keep up on real estate matters. In order to become an Exchange member, your main office must be located in Brandon, Independence or Springfield Township.

The brokers meet each month at Howe's Lanes on Dixie Highway. The B.I.S.E. President is Mac Trabue who is with Bob Swanson & Assoc. and Marvel White of Bob White Real Estate is the Secretary-Treasurer. The members of B.I.S.E. are Foote Realty, Sheldon Realty,

Century Old Downtown Davisburg Building Burns

Fire departments in Independence, Brandon, Holly, and Groveland responded to Springfield Township's call for assistance when a fire broke out in a 100-year old building in Davisburg last week.

The fire was confined to the end building owned by the Moore family and occupied by Charles Moore, Letha Williams, and her four children. One son Grover and a neighbor boy were working with a grinder in the basement and, Chief Martin Hillman speculated, sparks from the grinder set off some papers. By the time it was discovered it was too late for a fire extinguisher. Steve Dice turned in the alarm as the two boys ran from the building.

Dice and Grover along with Springfield firefighter Pat Hillman were credited with getting Donald Williams out of the smoke-filled apartment where he had been sleeping. The rest of the occupants were away at the time.

While this fire was being fought another one broke out in a small barn on Bigelow Road. Animals, equipment, and hay belonging to Dave Hart were lost in the blaze.

Hillman said of the fire in town the main problem was the "potential hazard to the whole block." He expressed gratitude to the other departments who responded according to their mutual aid agreement.

- Hot water and cleaning solution jets into the carpet.
- Vibra Brush (like electric tooth brush) agitates carpet back and forth 3,400 times each minute. This breaks soil loose and polishes each carpet fiber to a clean, brilliant finish. This type of brush does not distort pile.
