THE IRONY OF IT ALL

Remember all that controversy regarding the adult foster care home on Davisburg Road in Davisburg? The developer that owned the surrounding property claimed that the presence of the "home" adversely affected the value of his property and went to court to have the people kicked out.

It seems that the developer has been able to sell some of his property since then. In fact, since the court ruled against him, he has sold property adjacent to the adult foster care home at a price several times more than what he paid for it.

President Jimmy Carter's idea of an oil reserve is a good one. But one has to question the method.

The federal government is currently having oil pumped out of the ground, transported and--you guessed it--put back in the ground someplace else.

According to capitol criteria, Senator Ted (the Phantom) Kennedy is tops. He has influence, ability, importance and knowledge.

The medical health insurance plan that this top notch Senator is pushing (and unofficially is pushing him into the White House) has a 100% failure rate in other countries that have tried it.

So much for capital criteria.

Ms. Aida Berio, a hispanic, went to her employer claiming that her black supervisor was discriminating against her. She claimed her supervisor was evaluating her unfairly and demoting her when she complained.

Ms. Berio's employer did nothing about her complaint so she went to the Civil Service Commission.

The Civil Service Commission ruled in Ms. Berio's favor, finding her supervisor guilty of ugly behavior towards Ms. Berio.

Ms. Berio's employer is, of all people the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. To date the only action they have taken is to promote Ms. Berio's

The Great Escape III

Bigger & Better This Year

Martha Williams, One of the Lucky 1978 Great Escape Winners

Every year this contest seems to get better and better. This year we've got nearly one hundred stores participating and for the first time The Reminder is offering a trip to Acapulco as first prize.

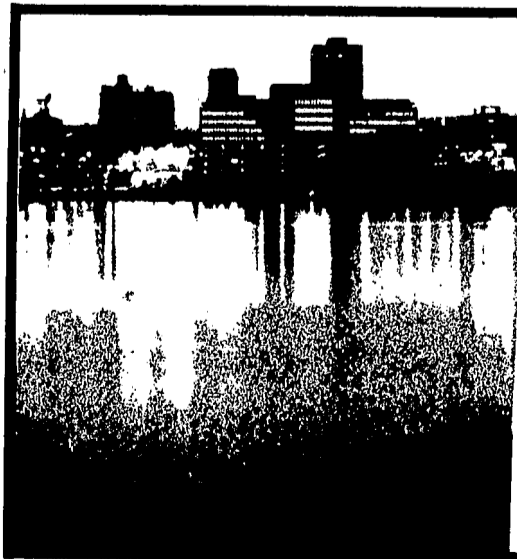

If you don't know what I'm talking about, you soon will--It's called the Great Escape. For the fourth year in a row, The Reminder in conjunction with participating stores, is offering a trip to Acapulco, Las Vegas or New York, to the one lucky person who has their entry drawn.

Here's how it works. A couple pages of coupons-applications can be found in this week's Reminder. In fact they will be there for the next four weeks. Cut the coupons out, fill in your name, address and phone number, and then drop them off at participating merchants. Remember, you can only register at the name of the business listed on the coupon. However, you can enter as often as you like and at as many stores as you like.

Last year over 5000 entries were counted. Winners chose vacations to Las Vegas and Disney World. Here's what one winner had to say in a "thank you letter" to area merchants:

"The show "Fantasy Island" is just how our trip to Las Vegas this past week was. The weather was warm and sunny and everything was wonderful. It will be remembered always. Many thanks to all who made this trip possible. It was unbelievable."

No Sign of Sabotage In Davisburg Train Derailment

"Really there are over 200 variables which could cause a derailment. A veteran railroad man that I know estimates that the variables could run into the thousands..." - J.D. Williams

by Sharon Springborn

A Grand Trunk train derailed in Davisburg at 3:28 a.m. on January 23, according to J.D. Williams of Franco and Associates, the Public Relations firm for the Grand Trunk and Western Railway.

The train of 97 cars, of which 43 were loaded and 54 were empty, was southbound from Flint to Toledo. Auto parts and frames from G.M.'s plant in Flint filled the cars which were loaded, but of the total number of cars in the train, only 20 derailed.

When the 20 cars went off of the tracks, railroad and auto traffic were rerouted and the wreck wasn't cleared up until sometime on January 24.

An investigation of the derailment by the Federal Railroad Administration (FRA), the governmental agency that checks into train wrecks and derailments was made. It was virtually concluded that a mechanical failure in one car, with a brake assembly becoming dislocated, coming down and tangling with the wheel on one of the cars, was the cause of the train coming off of the tracks.

"That car jumped the tracks and pulled the other ones after it. The derailment was a kind of 'domino effect', with the first car pulling the others along with it," said Williams, who received the accident report from the Grand Trunk & Western railroad. It is estimated that $125,000 damage was done, mostly to railroad equipment, but including the damage done to the loads carried by the train.

The only reason that the government, in the form of the FRA, became involved in the investigation of the accident at Davisburg is that the agency, as an 'arm of the people, protecting them and their money' is that the law requires that an investigation be made. In the investigation, the Administration makes an effort to determine if the derailment was caused by faulty equipment provided by the manufacturer of the railroad cars and could possibly occur in other cars, or if a human error was responsible for the accident.

Also, if goods are somehow hurt and the manufacturer is determined to be at fault, the shipper of the goods puts in a claim to the holder of his insurance. But if the way the goods were loaded, resulting in the whole load shifting and thus pulling the train's cars off of the tracks, the shippers are notified of this determination, and any claims are settled.

Williams stated that when there is a problem involving a train or train accident, people and newspapers consider either sabotage or that the railroad in question isn't keeping up its roadbed as the first reasons as to 'why' the problem occurred in the first place.

"Really there are over 200 variables which could create a derailment. A veteran railroad man that I know estimates that the variables could run into the thousands, if you consider mechanical failure and human failure as well as problems with the roadbeds and tracks. Also, there are 'hotbox detectors' installed at certain intervals so we know if the brakes are getting too hot. But if the train passes by a detector, it could register that the brakes aren't too hot and a little further down the line, before the next hotbox detector, the brakes could overheat and seize, causing a derailment, so the causes of an accident vary greatly."

Other derailments involving trains belonging to the Grand Trunk and Western railroad have occurred on January 24 in Lansing, and on January 5 at Marrison, Michigan.

THOUGHTS 'N THINGS

It's funny how some sight or sound or odor will trigger our memory so that a tune or a line of poetry or some old adage will be tossed up to the surface of our conscious state. "Children should be seen but not heard" has been at the back of my mind for a couple of days now, but it has suddenly changed in meaning from the interpretation I originally understood.

I don't know who first said those words, or what they intended by them, but I always assumed they were one of the rules of conduct of well-behaved youngsters. I wonder if they weren't coined by a child, originally, however, who had something altogether different in mind.

I'm not unlike other mothers who regret the passing of an era when adults had secrets from their young. Adults had some privacy then, and didn't have to worry about the possibility of the kids knowing more about life than they did. Experience was regarded as the best teacher when I was a child, so adults still had the respect of the younger members of society even if they accomplished nothing more than staying alive! Now respect has to be earned at every age. It's more difficult that way! It does keep us on our toes though, and I guess that's a very good thing in terms of human development.

But to get back to the "seen but not heard" thing. I don't know if there still are parents who refuse to discuss finances, relatives, friends, neighbors and human foibles in front of their children, but when I was a child, a lot of parents were very careful about protecting their children from knowing about life. In those days, a child could silence an entire roomful of grown-ups simply by appearing in a doorway. Talk about power!

"Little pitchers have big ears" was enough to remind an irate husband that he was to appear calm, cool and collected in front of the offspring, even if he developed ulcers in the effort; while his wife ducked into the pantry for a quick sip of cooking sherry (to steady her nerves) so that she too could set an example of perfection for Junior.

"Little pitchers have big ears" was enough to remind an irate husband that he was to appear calm, cool, and collected in front of the offspring, even if he developed ulcers in the effort; while his wife ducked into the pantry for a quick sip of cooking sherry (to steady her nerves) so that she too could set an example of perfection for Junior.

Considering the strain that put on ordinary adult mortals, it is no wonder that children were fed and put to bed early in the evening so that the parents could relax and be nasty if they felt like it! It must have seemed only fair that kids had to bottle everything up too.

On the other hand, if one considers the respect that experience received, it may only have been that young people were not encouraged to spout half-baked opinions until they had had to live with their mistakes like the rest of the working society. There is definitely something to be said for that attitude, though many parents of today are afraid to admit to such narrow-minded child-raising practices.

On the other hand, if "children should be seen but not heard" was advice which was handed from one child to another in the schoolyard, it makes more sense. The child who moved silently through the house, though had been previously seen heading for the playroom, was able to learn all sorts of adult secrets. It was the noisy child, announcing his or her presence, that put mother and her visitors on guard, and began conversations about the weather, or the exchange of recipes. The silent child, busy with coloring book and crayons, was the forgotten child who managed to fade into the background. It was that child who heard about the family skeletons, the tragedies, and the financial disasters that befell the adults of the community.

Joan Allen

The fact that the silent children, who overheard adults, were better able to adjust to adulthood, changed some of the attitudes of society. It really is no wonder, either. "To be forewarned is to be forearmed."

Unfortunately, our instincts for self-preservation often cause us to over-react when we sense danger, or seek solutions. The discovery that over-protection in childhood could interfere with the adjustment of adulthood led to the opposite extreme. Parents, in many cases, did away with protection of any kind, and we have seen a generation of kids whose parents "let it all hang out." That has been akin to "throwing the baby out with the bath water." It is high time we become a little more conservative in our outlook where it comes to child-raising techniques!

There has to be a happy medium, between our attempts to set an example that our children cannot possibly achieve (only being human themselves), and teaching them that the search for perfection is a wild goose chase! It is not perfection, after all, that makes life exciting and wonderful, but the glory and the satisfaction of joining in the search. Becoming the best athlete that one can become is a challenge. Being the best athlete one can be is a limitation. It is boredom, unless there is a new challenge, a new sport, a new outlet, a new outlook. To become the best of something is like reaching the top of a mountain after a thrilling climb. Once you reach the top, there is nothing to do but sit there. (More next week)

6th Graders Enjoy Camp Tamarack

Davisburg Elementary School had perfect weather last week for the sixth graders to spend a few days at Camp Tamarack. A dance was held for the students one night, to give them a break from doing K.P., cross-country skiing, ice-fishing and snowshoeing.

One teacher who spent time with the sixth graders said that he received no complaints about the camping, except that the time spent at camp wasn't long enough.

Some of the activities that the kids took part in couldn't have been done during the summertime, such as scent tracking, using a chemical to show the trail of an animal and having the students study the tracks to gain a better understanding of how one animal follows another by its scent alone. They also did experiments on animal 'antifreeze', seeing the ways that animals can survive in the wild.

"How Can a 'Memory Book' Help My Child?"

When a child's father (or mother) dies, talking about the child's concerns and relieving his anxieties about the loss are important in working-through the grief experience. The "Memory Book" is an effective device for this.

It is a scrapbook-and-keepsake in which the children may write down their memories of their parent or, if the children are too young to write, have the parent write as the children "talk it out."

The Memory Book helps because, in it, the children openly relate their shared experiences, feelings and remembrances. The remembering and talking about the deceased parent offers the proper outlet for grieving...and understanding and accepting the fact of the loss.

Photos of the parent may be put in the book, especially if the pictures include the children, thus aiding recall and discussion. The activity, itself, is important. It puts everything out in the open and into family talk. It will assist in providing good and stable remembrances of the deceased parent as the children grow up.

Controversy Continues with Lake Oakland Woods

by Carol Balzarini

Lake Oakland Woods, a controversial development off Maybee Road, is once again in the news but this time threatening to divide the Independence Township Board over disposition of the platting of phase III.

Recently township attorney Richard Campbell gave his written recommendation that platting of phase III be held up until certain conditions were met. Since that time, however, Gene Komarynski of Rose Builders, developers of Lake Oakland Woods, has received a letter from the state platting department advising them on how to expedite the platting problem and offering the opinion Independence Township cannot proceed in the manner they chose as recommended by their attorney. The outlot on Lake Oakland left unplatted was referred to as an "oversight" in the platting process of phases I and II.

Copies of that letter have been received by both Township Supervisor Floyd Tower and the residents of Lake Oakland Woods who have been vigorously protesting the platting of phase III until some of the problems of I and II are straightened out to their satisfaction.

Ron Forbes, one of the spokesmen for the residents, has contacted Vivian Carpenter, whose signature was on the letter, in the state platting office. According to Forbes, she has only been assistant treasurer for about a week and admitted to him she didn't know what she was signing and that she herself had not drafted the letter. Forbes believes that letter was written at the request of someone representing Rose Builders or Kieft Engineering. Forbes has since sent a letter of his own to the State Treasurer and to Governor Milliken asking why the state is interfering in local affairs.

When contacted by The Reminder, Tower stated a rumored special meeting on Tuesday, January 30, was just that, a rumor. He said he would make no decisions until he checked with the township attorney.

He did say, however, the state said the township cannot plat outlot B, the disputed portion of acreage on Lake Oakland itself, because it's not "contiguous" to phase III. The state has recommended it be platted at phase IV. Tower did not find it unusual that the state platting department was attempting to resolve the situation because any plat goes through that office routinely.

Tower said he felt it was "better to go through them (the state) than the court...I think we can accomplish what we want this way."

Any special meeting called, Tower said, would be a closed meeting because the attorney would be present to decide how to proceed. He said he couldn't put Lake Oakland Woods on an agenda because there was nothing to work with at this point.

"I'm not predicting there will be an automatic meeting," Tower said. "I'm holding all Tuesdays as possible meeting nights with budget time and unresolved problems...I'm not taking the contractor's side but we are costing them money. They only have two houses left in phase II and 27 permits waiting for II. Do we have an excuse for delaying them now?"

Girlfriend Testifies for Prosecution In Wolfe - Conte - Ovegian Murder Trials

The Wolfe-Conte-Ovegian murder trials is one of the most publicized trials in Oakland County. Because it involves the killing of a person in Clarkston, a Reminder reporter filed this report after spending two days in the heavily guarded courtroom last week.

In a courtroom where every movement is observed by at least six armed Deputies, the story of a conspiracy and murder unfolds. The first degree murder trial of Augustino Conte, Gary Wolfe and David Ovegian is in its second week, resuming January 22 after being adjourned last November in Judge Thornburn's Court.

At that time the point was argued whether there was premeditation and the Judge changed the charge from first degree murder to second degree. The prosecution appealed to the appellate court immediately and they subsequently reversed the decision.

The case is the first to be tried with three juries. Each man has a jury to hear his case separately. Each man has his own court appointed attorney.

After hearing arguments as to whether her testimony could be admissible, Mrs. Stevenson took the stand. She lived with Augustino Conte at the time the crime was planned between Gary Wolfe and Conte.

Wolfe shared a jail cell with Ovegian prior to the murder, who was in jail for the murder of John Hamilton. Ovegian allegedly offered Wolfe and Conte $200,000 in jewels to get rid of the witness to his crime.

Wolfe and Conte allegedly killed Barbara Lunsford early July 3, 1977 at Howe's Lanes in Clarkston by shooting her twice with a shot gun in the face and neck.

Mrs. Stevenson was noticeably nervous on the stand and broke into tears at one point. After a short recess, she regained her composure enough to continue.

Mrs. Stevenson was granted immunity from the prosecution in exchange for her testimony.

In the defense cross-examination Conte's attorney La Due, tried to establish Conte as a non-violent person.

On cross-examination by the prosecution it was brought out that Conte commented after the murder to Mrs. Stevenson "$4,000 is a lot of money, but you know what happens to witnesses against murderers."

Just One of Those Days

I would be the last one to support the family of The Reminder's Feature Editor's family in their accusations of her absent mindedness. After all, to write, one must consider a great many more important things than whether the family dinner is coming from McDonald's, Burger King, Arby's, a pizzeria, or some other such convenient kitchen. Since the kids always win on those important decisions anyway, it doesn't pay to get too attached to one or the other. After all, should a mind that is filled with important affairs of society care? I think not!

And so it was, that a day which began like any other day for that lady, ended up being Just One of Those Days.

It was all the fault of the owner of Little Chef, who did not see fit to tell the members of The Reminder staff that they would have to have their Thursday morning coffee somewhere else. He locked the door, and put a Closed sign in the window instead. When Ms. Allen arrived on the scene on a recent cold Thursday, there she was--locked out in the cold.

Quick-thinking as she is, she ducked into Hallman's and bought some masking tape. She wrote a note, telling her friends and co-workers to meet her at Big Boy. That's what the lady in Hallman's suggested as a second best choice for a cup of coffee. She attached the note to the door of the Little Chef, and headed for her car. It was then that she saw one of her buddies approaching from another direction. She called to her. "It's closed, meet me at Big Boy." The problem was that while she was writing the note, and calling to her friend, she was seeing a picture in her mind, and it was the picture of twin golden arches.

Sitting in McDonald's for an hour and a half on a Thursday morning, nursing a cup of cold coffee, and waiting for friends that never come, is less than fun. In fact, one becomes a little doubtful of the value of friends that are so inconsiderate of the importance of one's time. On the other hand, there is a paper to read, and writing that always whiles away the time, so one is patient.

One wonders how many ounces of coffee it takes before the words "Big Boy" begin nagging at one. In this case, it took quite a few!

A hurried exit, a quick drive down Dixie, and a rushing Feature Editor slid into a booth with her friends just in time to say good-bye to them before they hurried off in different directions to take care of the work of the day. They only hesitated long enough to mention that there would be no need to hunt for a "Just One of Those Days" column for this week. There is just nothing like a personal experience column!

Jaycettes Present Puppets To Springfield Library

Pat Pfenning (left), chairman of the Davisburg Jaycettes' puppet project, and committee member Ina Golden were at the Springfield Township Library last week to present librarian Gail Fleming with six hand puppets to be checked out by children on a one-week basis. Each puppet has its own little bag to carry it in and to keep it clean. The puppets are high quality, washable, colorful and just plain fun to play with. Three-year old Karen Golden preferred the monkey. The puppets are displayed on a special stand made by Karen's father.

Center Tim McCormick, Oakland County's leading basketball scorer, isn't afraid of the big bad wolf when he's the team's new mascot.

John Sheldon had no trouble making these two points.

Ed Haddad scores two on a layup.

Wolfpack "Cool" Despite Increased Attention

by Carol Balzarini

Despite increased attention from talent scouts and newspapers outside the Clarkston area, Tim McCormick and the rest of the Wolfpack are remaining cool when it comes to publicity but hot when it comes to basketball. The Clarkston High School team is now 12 and 2 overall, 4 and 1 in Greater Oakland Activities League (GOAL) play, having lost to Lakeland and Rochester.

Coach Gary Nustad is also low-key on the subject of publicity but admits, "we are better known than some people realize...he's getting a lot of attention," referring to Tim McCormick, his 6'9½" junior center. In reference to the great number of schools who have sent letters of interest in McCormick, Nustad said next year would be the true test of interest because the schools can't contact a player until he's finished his junior year. In the meantime, he's just enjoying the attention the whole team is getting.

McCormick is taking his notoriety in stride, too. "They can say all the nice things they want but if you don't live up to them, they don't mean anything," he said, adding, "We've had a pretty good season. We all work good together."

During the game with West Bloomfield, McCormick scored 45 points coming the closest ever to breaking Dan Fife's school record of 52 in one game. He said, however, he's not really trying to break it. "If it happens, it happens," he said philosophically, "but I'm not really trying."

Nustad responded to a question about personal goals saying, "They all have goals...One could score 60 points in a ballgame but if they lose the game...It's good when personal goals correlate with team goals."

Nustad's total involvement in every game was discussed, particularly his tension which is apparent to everyone at the games. His players generally conceded that his tension motivated them to play with a similar intensity they might not have were it not for Nustad's own intensity.

"If they didn't respond positively," Nustad said, "I'd change my tactics. The fans are just watching, we're playing. Certain situations call for certain tactics. My kids know I love them. It's never a personal criticism."

"We just want to know we did the best job we could," McCormick said. Teammates John Sheldon and Ed Haddad agreed.

Sheldon warned, "We haven't even peaked yet. People had better watch out."

Haddad referred to McCormick, "He leads all-county in scoring. He's the leader, he gets the crucial baskets."

"We go to the kids who can get the job done. We have kids who can score from all positions," Nustad said matter-of-factly. McCormick, he said, was currently shooting 65 percent from the floor and 80 percent from the free throw line, last year he set a school record of 62 percent from the floor.

Nustad has goals of his own. He'd like to win the GOAL championship three years in a row and get beyond the district level in the state tournament due to start in another month.

The nice thing about the tournaments, he said, is "everybody's even starting at zero wins and zero losses." Who the Wolves will play in their first game at Pontiac Central will depend on what school's name is drawn out of the hat, literally. That's how tournament competition is decided.

Basketball fans have only six more opportunities to catch "Wolfpack Fever" and only one of those is at home when the Wolves play Rochester on February 23. All other games are away.

Andover "Easy Pickins" For Wolfpack Quintet

by Bill Grobbel

The Wolfpack struck again last Friday night defeating Andover 62-41.

Clarkston scored first on two free throws by Reuben Hutchons, and from then on they could do no wrong. They led 18-8 after the first period (8 of those points by Ed Haddad, who played super all night). It was 35-19 at half time.

In the second half, their strong defense continued to dominate the boards and held Andover to a game total of 41 points.

The key of the game was defense. Even though Tim McCormick was held to only 20 points, the big guy pulled down a fantastic 18 rebounds and blocked 5 shots.

While McCormick was doing mostly defensive work two other players showed the fans that they could shoot: Ed Haddad and Reuben Hutchons. Ed with 14 points and Reuben with 12 points and 8 rebounds.

Coach Nustad discussed Reuben's performance, "It's the kind of game we've been looking for in him, he played super, super ball."

He also talked about the game and future plans, "Teamwise, it's our best game of the year. Everybody contributed. They did a nice job on defense, they ran the zone well, and proved they all could come through, I'm looking forward to the championship in 4 weeks against Rochester; it will be played here (Clarkston High School), and I'm looking forward to it."

This victory raises the Wolfpack league record to 4-1, their overall record is 11-2.

Strong Second Half Aids Clarkston in 61-48 Win

by Bill Grobbel

The Clarkston Varsity put themselves back on the track after last Friday's loss by defeating Rochester Adams 61-48.

The Wolfpack started fast taking an early lead in the first period, but Adams fought back to take the lead when Clarkston slowed down. The period ended 17-14, in favor of Adams.

Clarkston temporarily regained their momentum and tied the score 17-17 on a John Sheldon free throw, but lost it seconds later. With 2 minutes remaining in the half, Adams led 30-24. The Wolves pulled within 2 points, 30-28 at the end of the half on 2 field goals, one by Tim McCormick, the other by Greg Robertson.

To start the 2nd half, Ed Haddad tied the score 30-30 with a baseline jump-shot. Then for a few minutes, neither team could hold the ball. Three steals later, Adams led 34-32, but Greg Robertson tied it up again when he shot, missed, but caught the rebound and shot again. This time it was good. Adams took the ball down the court but couldn't score, and Greg Robertson brought the ball back for the Wolves and scored, giving them the lead for the first time since the first period. The period ended with Clarkston leading 40-36.

Early in the fourth period, they expanded their lead with a tremendous dunk by Tim McCormick, 48-42. He enlarged their lead even more mid-way through the period as he slam-dunked another one down the hoop, 57-46, only this time he received a technical foul, for grabbing the rim.

Clarkston outscored Rochester Adams 31-20 in the second half and defeated them with a 61-48 final.

Tim McCormick led the scoring with 32 points (22 in the first half), 17 rebounds, 5 assists and 4 dunks. Other scorers were John Sheldon with 9 points, Ed Haddad with 8 points and 6 rebounds, Greg Robertson also with 8 points, Reuben Hutchons with 3 and Scott Curry with 1 point.

Coach Nustad thought that his team had played half a game. He said, "They were playing flat. I think that they were replaying Friday's game in their heads. But they played much better the second half."

McKoin Leads JV to 58-42 Win

The Junior Varsity was also victorious Friday evening, defeating Andover's J.V., 58-42.

This game was a strong defensive game by the Wolves, taking control early in the first period and holding it throughout the half, going into the locker room with a 28-20 halftime lead.

The second half was the same story, only to a larger extent, as they expanded their lead to 13 at the end of the third period, 43-30. The main catalyst of the team was center Scott McKoin with 31 points and 19 rebounds.

In the fourth period, Clarkston continued on with the momentum they had started in the first half and continued to dominate Andover. Andover simply could not keep up with the tempo of the game and had to settle with shooting low percentage shots; making some, but missing far too many. Clarkston triumphed 58-42, their league record is now 3-1, overall they are 8-5.

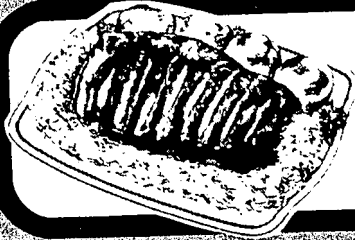

Coach Mahrle said, "They key of the game was that there were only 13 turnovers, which is great for a junior varsity team."

"U" is the Most Important Letter In "Survey"

by Carol Balzarini

On Friday, February 2, you, the residents of the Clarkston School district, will receive in the mail two copies of a survey asking the adults in each household to decide which of the district's selected goals are most important, which are less important.

These goals represent many months of researching, meeting and discussing by school administrators and board members all in an effort to establish clearcut guidelines for the future. They have decided what the goals of the school district should be, now they want to know how important or unimportant each of those goals are to you, the citizens.

In addition to ranking the goals, you are asked to rate the school system on how well, or how poorly, it is doing now as far as the goals and sub-goals are concerned. Think of it in terms of "grading" the school system using very good, good, poor, unnecessary, or don't know instead of letter grades.

William Potvin, Director of Planning and Evaluation, stressed the importance of the survey in terms of long-range planning for the district. The primary purpose of the program, called Project Directions, is to make the best possible use of all of the system's resources.

The first step of setting the educational goals has been completed, step two is about to be undertaken, that of putting these goals in a priority listing. Potvin stressed that each goal was important and that the system would like to reach each one but the problem is where to start. That's where the survey comes in. You, the citizens, are to decide where to start.

Evaluating the school system tells administrators where you think they stand now in terms of those goals and lets them know where you think they need to improve. Evaluation of the surveys, once they are returned, will help administrators effect changes in present programs and to develop new ones. The final stage of Project Directions, putting the results to work, will begin in the summer of 1979 and the 1979-80 school year.

Project Directions is operating according to a very specific timetable. The surveys are to be delivered to you on the second of February giving you the weekend to fill them out. Pickup will begin the following Tuesday and continue through Thursday with volunteers going door-to-door collecting the completed surveys. Should you not be contacted by Thursday, you are asked to either send the forms to school with their children, drop them off at any school if you have no school-age children, or re-fold the self-addressed forms and drop them in the mailbox.

Potvin also stressed if more than two surveys are needed in a household, you may call him at the board office and additional copies will be mailed out. Also be sure to contact him if your surveys are not received for some reason.

The second SEALOSAFE [SM] facility was constructed in 1977 and has a current operating capability of 120,000 tons per year. Location: Birmingham, England.

"The whole thing smacks of industrial insensitivity and irresponsibility..." - Joe DeCovich

Residents Organize to Oppose British Firm's Waste Proposal

by Mike Wilcox

Opposition is mounting to Stablex Corporation's plans to build a land reclamation center at I-75 and Grange Hall Road in Groveland Township. The British company announced its plans last week, and almost immediately drew unfavorable reactions from some township citizens.

Joe DeCovich of Perryville Road, is the most vocal of those denouncing the reclamation center.

"We have potential for a tremendous amount of ecological damage here," claims DeCovich. "The whole thing smacks of industrial insensitivity and irresponsibility."

The "whole thing" is what Stablex calls the first of its kind in the United States and the largest of its type anywhere in the world. The reclamation center is designed to receive a wide range of industrial wastes, including wastes from the automotive, chemical and plating industries, and convert them to Stablex, a synthetic rock.

According to Stablex officials the process will "safely dispose of otherwise hazardous materials by converting them to a useful end product which will serve not only to help solve Michigan's severe waste disposal problem, but will also offer a much needed solution to the problem of land reclamation in Groveland Township."

The plant will have a capacity of processing up to 500,000 tons per year of industrial waste using Sealosafe technology. Sealosafe technology, according to Stablex turns wastes into a safe, environmentally inert, synthetic rock.

The process was pioneered in England where three plants are now in operation and was introduced into Japan last year, where the first plant is currently under construction.

Stablex said its process has undergone many tests in its native England. Harwell, an independent laboratory performed a series of leachate tests and their conclusion was "I am unable to find any reason as to why permission should not be granted to permit this company to accept toxic wastes and render them physically inert using the Sealosafe Process..."

After finding out, Stablex was interested in constructing a reclamation center in Michigan. The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) suggested independent tests on Stablex be made with several wastes found in Michigan. The results were positive, according to the National Sanitation Foundation of Ann Arbor.

Next, the Commerce Department gave Stablex a list of sites with characteristics necessary for the successful location of a land reclamation center. Stablex chose the gravel pits of west Groveland Township, as the site best fitting those characteristics.

But DeCovich and other residents feel Groveland's thousands of acres of recreational land may be jeopardized by the reclamation center.

"We're (Groveland recreational facilities) a natural repository for over three million people," said DeCovich. "The natural setting and waste reclamation are really incompatible."

DeCovich has several objections to the proposal. He fears depletion of water resources. He claims the new plant will use a tremendous amount of water--water that would normally be used by households in the area. He also fears a breakdown in the Sealosafe process. If that were to happen, possibly every home in a twenty mile radius of the plant might be affected, thinks DeCovich.

DeCovich questions the lack of ancillary services. Factories and transportation will have to be added he claims to support the large plant. There's no limitations, he adds, to disallow other companies with similar intentions to build in Groveland. It could possibly snowball into Groveland becoming one big waste dump, he said.

DeCovich added, "We're going to try to organize everyone we can." One means of achieving this end is a petition drive and DeCovich said he plans to circulate petitions voicing objections to the Stablex project as soon as possible. He said anyone who wishes to help may do so by calling Mrs. Houghtby Shrapnel at 627-2596 or himself at 627-4115.

Meanwhile Groveland Township Supervisor Donald Tittsworth announced a public hearing will be held on the issue on February 7, at 8:00 p.m. at the Oakhill Estates Community Building, 9626 Oakhill Road, Holly. Stablex officials will be present to make a presentation and answer questions.

COMMENTARY

guilty supervisor Acting Director of the Office of Government Employment.

President Carter is imploring business and labor to hold price and wage increases to 7%.

The Department of the Interior recently raised the price of grazing cattle on federal land 25%.

It would do good for federal bureaucrats to set a better example and practice what they preach.

In August of 1977 President Carter presented his plan for ending the welfare mess. After many months of wrangling between the President and Congress the plan was shelved.

One of the reasons was the plan would have provided benefits for over one million people earning over $25,000.00 per year.

Cathy Klender

Deer Lake Celebrates 1st Anniversary

Deer Lake Travel, located at 7150 Dixie Highway in Clarkston, celebrated their first anniversary on January 2nd, 1979. The owner of the travel company is Cathy Klender, and the employees of the company are Laura Negip, Susan Ware and Donna Redwood.

According to Cathy Klender, Deer Lake's owner, being in business alone was "scary" during the first year, but now business has picked up and is going better than expected. Those who work in the agency enjoy dealing with the area people, and everyone has been "very friendly and more than supportive."

Thus far, the agency, which is located just north of White Lake Road and Dixie Highway, has been difficult to find, but Deer Lake is getting a new sign out in front which should take care of that problem.

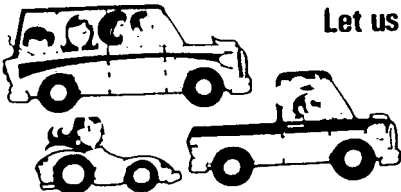

What does Ms. Klender aim to do with her business?
"Our goal is to extend friendly, courteous service."

Land Conservancy to Reveal Major Acquisition at Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Independence Land Conservancy will be held Thursday, February 8, at 8 p.m. in the Village Hall on Depot Road. At this meeting the Conservancy will be presented with a new scenic easement covering twenty of "the most important acres" in the community, according to president Doug Roeser.

The Conservancy presently controls other natural areas in the township, among them one in Poquosin and one in Steeple Ridge, granted by scenic easement to them in the past four years.

In 1975, the James Kasls on Perry Lake Road started developing Poquosin, a rolling swampland of 18 acres along the Clinton River. To protect the natural landscape they gave the Conservancy scenic easements for 12 acres of that land.

This development idea has been so successful the Kasls have purchased 17 adjoining acres and, after careful planning, gave the Conservancy about 9 acres of scenic easement in the new development called Poquosin II.

Roeser said the important point for developers and real estate people to appreciate is that the Kasls have learned that people moving into our Township want assurance the natural beauty around their new homes will be permanent.

In 1975, the first family to buy a home in Poquosin was Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O Murphy Jr. Recently the Murphys purchased just over 15 acres of woodland on Perry Lake Road north of the Clarkston-Orion Road. They plan to develop this land using the same method of permanently protecting its natural beauty as used around their own home. They have given the Conservancy 11 acres of scenic easements, leaving only 4 1/2 for development.

The "steeple" in the name of the development refers to the steeple of the Methodist Church seen across Parke Lake and reflected in the water. There is a pond in the easement area which the Murphys plan to enlarge. Roeser said this development will undoubtedly be one of the most beautiful in our area...permanently beautiful for both the homeowners and the community.

The Independence Land Conservancy is a non-profit corporation whose purpose is "to preserve, forever, natural open spaces of our area; accomplished by purchase, gift or grant, or scenic easements of key parcels of land."

The annual meeting is open to the public, a new board will be elected and refreshments served. The Conservancy welcomes anyone interested in protecting the natural beauty of Independence Township.

Real Estate HAPPENINGS
by Bob & Marvel White

Bob White, Inc.
5856 S. Main Street, Clarkston, 625-5821

Pinpointing property that's just a few years from development takes careful research on population, planning, traffic, zoning, plus a sound hunch. Too close to town and one may be priced out of the market; too far away and appreciation may take a long time. In buying raw land, figure what the same money could earn elsewhere during the same period of time in alternative investments. One possible source of help is income from leasing to someone such as a driving-range, recreational operator, or farmer.

Whatever your needs, BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main Street, your area broker since 1947, can pinpoint the property that will satisfy your desires and meet your financial requirements. We are familiar with the area and local financial institutions. Our reputation in the real estate field is built upon successful dealing with buyers and sellers of all types of property. If you want satisfaction from your next real estate transaction deal with the broker you will be satisfied with, BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE. Open 9 a.m. - 9 p.m., Friday & Saturday til 6 p.m., 11-5 Sunday. Telephone 625-5821.

Helpful Hint:
Good quality land always has value. When selling later, it is best to be able to offer land with pre-approved zoning, drainage and development plans.

THANK YOU

Our thanks to the Brandon, Independence and Waterford Fire Departments for their fast response to our barn fire January 20. As it was, the barn was a total loss, but, had the fire been discovered in time, their fast response would have prevented a disaster.

Our appreciation to all the firemen that responded. Too many times the excellent job you do goes unrecognized.

Thank you again,
Delten Hillman Family
