Play It Again SAM

GUEST NOTE by REMINDER REPORTER SHARON SPRINGBORN

Most people living in Michigan don't feel that today's 'gas crisis' is as bad as everyone's led to believe, but kind of on the order of 1973's 'crisis'. At that time, we experienced long lines at the gas station and the price of the available gas just seemed to skyrocket.

Then, after we all calmed down about the pump prices, scheduled our driving according to gas supplies and more or less learned to live with the problem, the oil companies came out with an "I fooled you" statement. What was said, in fact, was that there never was a shortage of gas, but 'panic buying' by the public led to a near-crisis. (Notice, please, that in this whole mess, the oil companies are absolved of all wrongdoing and the guilt piled squarely on the public's shoulders.)

Since these companies have done the 'gas crisis' bit once, and did it quite profitably, what is to stop them from using the same ploy another time?

And if it worked for oil companies, what commodity should be sold next? Already, water is advertised on TV and is evidently being sold at a profit.

The next item sold should be, I feel, air. After all, with the correct marketing, packaging, publicity, etc., we could have a really 'hot item' on our hands.

First, the original product wouldn't be expensive, since, after all, the air is free and available to anyone. All that would have to be done is to think of an appropriate package and a catchy slogan to see the air.

The air would be collected out in this area, in the country, so that it could be truthfully advertised as "fresh, pure country air." With this type of sales pitch, the biggest market area would probably be the polluted area of the cities, with the heavy smog that seems to always blanket them.

In fact, as seen right now, the biggest customers for Country Pure Air (the name came up with) would be Los Angeles, Chicago, San Francisco, New York City and Detroit. Hopefully, there'd be other buyers, but these would probably make up the Big Five.

The slogan that could be used to boost sales is "If you care enough about your family's health, give them Country Pure Air to breathe."

With everything else being sold--and at exorbitant prices--air sales doesn't seem too far-fetched.

Help The Kids Who Help The CENTER

GUEST NOTE by REMINDER NEWS EDITOR CAROL BALZARINI

As a parent of two kids who have nearly always participated in walks for either SCAMP or Independence Center, I would like to make a plea in their behalf and for the rest of the walkers.

Please do not pledge money you do not intend to pay after the walk is completed and the kids come back to you to collect.

They are proud of their efforts and those who benefit are proud also. Show them you're proud of them, too, by paying them promptly.

Most of the kids who participate in these walks are busy and involved kids. They have school and sports and jobs and chores to do at home. But they are still willing to devote their time to doing something for others.

It takes time to solicit those pledges in the first place. The sixteen mile walk takes more time. Collecting those pledges afterward often takes the most time of all.

Many times people are not at home. More often than not they're "out of change." The kids are told to come back another time. They are given a million and one excuses for not being given the money pledged.

Alternatives to the problem are to turn in less money than originally pledged, see if their parents will make up the difference or take it out of their own pockets.

As a parent of walkers I've often made up the difference myself. Now I don't even pledge in the first place because I know what will happen. I will be contributing eventually anyway.

This whole situation is unfair. It's unfair to the kids, it's unfair to the organization depending on those contributions and it's not fair to the parents.

Please---help the kids who will help the Center this weekend. Pay what you pledge and pay it promptly. We'll all love you for it!

Dear Carol,

There are a great many people who live in Pine Knob Woods who have positive feelings about Pine Knob Concerts, and this is my response to Mr. Schmaltz's complaint:

What's one man's junk is another man's treasure, and I represent the other segment of Pine Knob neighbors who TREASURE those warm evenings filled with music from Pine Knob. What apparently is unbearable to some is pure joy to others. When we moved to Clarkston five years ago, we were fully aware of the summer concerts, and in fact, it was one of the pluses that drew us here. Where else can you go to bed and hear Neil Diamond or Barry Manilow in the background? That is if we are lucky enough to have the right wind direction and cloud cover.

George White is doing a tremendous job on our behalf, and we appreciate his efforts. As to Mr. Schmaltz and the others who do not appreciate music, close your windows and get an air conditioner, but please don't spoil it for the rest of us. We love it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Beamer
A music lover!!!!

Dear Editor:

We would like to acknowledge the Clarkston McDonalds' for the beautiful carnations and gift cards for a free sundae they delivered to us during Secretaries' Week. We appreciate your thoughtfulness.

Dear Editor:

The Park and Recreation Department along with the Police Department, and Board of Education is deeply concerned about the parking problems that have been created by the Youth Baseball, Softball and Adult Softball.

We would again like to stress the need for cooperation of players and spectators. We have extremely hazardous conditions created around ball diamonds, not to mention the damage to school property when spectators insist on parking around ball fields rather than in the school parking lots.

We do realize that in some instances spectators would be required to walk some distance by parking in school parking lots, but the distances involved compared to the problems and safety hazards created are very minimal. Every ball field that will be used for games this summer lies within 100 yards of a parking lot and in most cases a much shorter distance.

The inconvenience involved in walking a short distance cannot possibly be justified when looking at the stakes involved. For example: A couple of years ago a car that was parked on the hill behind the main (varsity) diamond was accidentally put into gear by children left in the car after the parents left. As a result the car rolled down the hill, narrowly missing spectators and children, and slammed into the back of one of the concrete dugouts that since has been removed. We have also had numerous cases of cars backing over parked bikes...one of these days there is going to be someone on one of those bikes.

Any time someone drives up on school property to park around a ball field, there is the ever dangerous problem of cars transversing (traveling back and forth) an area where there is no designated road or parking area, consequently anyone can drive wherever they

THOUGHTS 'N THINGS

Every once in awhile I read something that sets off firewords in my mind and/or emotions. It is not that "shocking" that most people react to it, but that my own reaction is not what I'd expect of me, that creates the disturbance. Then I begin to wonder why I've reacted like I have; why my reaction surprises me; and, how other people react to the same information.

The most recent item to appear in print, and set off my confusion, is the recent article about the Dental school in Ann Arbor, and the supposed cheating of the about-to-be-graduated dental students.

Let me say first, that I am against cheating at any time or in any form. I'm not "preaching" when I say that. I am against it on logical grounds, and believe if parents would take the time to discuss the matter with kids in terms of logic (if no other) there would be a lot less of it. From a purely logical point of view, a cheater only cheats himself or herself. That makes the practice really ridiculous, as well as a complete waste of time.

Cheating is a symptom of something else, and to get rid of such a negative, useless habit, its causes must be considered. If the causes that create the need for the action are removed, the symptoms should disappear.

Why would someone feel the need for cheating?

One obvious answer is that cheating is the same as stealing in many cases. It is due to wanting, needing, or craving something that can be obtained in no other way. To do away with the cheating, relearning must take place. Alternatives for obtaining the wants, needs, or cravings must be explored, and new habits and practices must be learned. In a school situation, such as the one at the University of Michigan, the obvious answer would have been to study the material, and know it well enough that cheating would be unnecessary. In this particular case, since it was merely a one credit course (most are three, four, five, or more) in nutrition, it is unbelievable that these about-to-graduate students could not have passed the exam on their own ability.

Sounds like, "Well, I made out great at the supermarket. The check-out girl gave me a dollar too much change! Of course I'm not going back and tell her! She might get in trouble/they charge me too much, it's only fair that I get something back/they wouldn't call me if they charged me too much/etc., etc."

If any of the students was really unable to comprehend the material, then obviously, that student (or students) had had to cheat all the way through college to arrive at the point where the cheating took place. If that is true, how would such a person exist in a field which is competitive--lacking the skills and knowledge to do the required work? I don't mean to pass over the victims of such a person lightly--this is a whole field of morals and responsibility, etc., but I am more concerned with the "cheater's" outlook right now. To spend all that money, and all that time, to prepare to work in a field where one didn't belong would be a waste of a life and a lifetime!

Why would someone do it?

Unfortunately, one of the answers is "parental pressure based on parental ambitions" more often than not. A child who is pressured (outwardly or subtly) to achieve beyond his or her ability or interest, is forced to cheat, in order not to embarrass or disappoint the parent. All of us want to be loved for just "being." A child soon recognizes, emotionally, if not mentally, when the parent is living vicariously through the child, or using the child as an extension of the self. That is bound to cause a hornet's nest in the best of families.

Another answer is "sheer laziness." There are people who simply feel that the easy way to get through life is trickery and dishonesty. Eventually, of course, they are caught, or unable to cheat their way out of a situation, and they end up in jail, or in a position where they have to start all over again, learning how to do things for themselves. That isn't a very encouraging picture--if one who is lazy faces the job in the first place, life will be a lot easier in the future. Otherwise, the job gets harder, and it takes longer.

Now, that is why I'm against cheating from a point of view of its being a worthwhile practice. What surprised me was that I didn't throw up my hands in horror over what happened to these "soon-to-be" dentists. This does not seem to me to be a clear case of "cheating," to get a grade, to pass a course. This was clearly a case of attitudes on the part of a goodly number of young people who expect to take their place in the community as professionals. They are, in fact, supposed to be the "cream of the crop" of our young adults. It is not easy to get into professional school, and it is not easy to get into the University of Michigan. One must be able to comprehend a great deal of course work, and exhibit a great deal of ability in a chosen subject, to graduate from there. It is almost an impossible task to "cheat one's way through undergraduate school," let alone professional school. So, here we have a group of our finest and brightest, and here are their attitudes, presumably.

"It is alright to cheat a computer if the computer is faulty. If the school's computers were cared for responsibly, cheating would have been impossible."

Sounds like, "Well, I made out great at the supermarket. The check-out girl gave me a dollar too much change! Of course I'm not going back and tell her! She might get in trouble/they charge me too much, it's only fair that I get something back/they wouldn't call me if they charged me too much/etc., etc., etc."

Sounds like, "Listen, I don't intend to let Uncle Sam get one more penny out of me than I have to. Let me tell you some of the tricks I learned from an accountant friend of mine. Crooked? Well, not when you consider the fact that they won't let me deduct the money I paid for Aunt Bessie's hospital bill!"

Is this really how we raise our kids not to cheat "if and when they get a chance?"

Do you know what my reaction was? Is it really up to those students to prove their innocence? Have we really reached the point that a man or woman is considered guilty until proved innocent? This whole subject should be considered, reconsidered, and discussed thoroughly within the family and community. It is loaded with principles and values that threaten relationships between generations, if not our whole society.

please. This may not seem to be a major problem to you the driver, but to a 5 year old who is at the game watching an older brother or sister play, it is most difficult for them to discern where they can walk or play while attending the game, because there is no paved parking lot or road where they traditionally should play. So consequently, they play all over, in and out and around parked cars.

LET'S ALL PULL TOGETHER and eliminate this problem once and for all before something tragic happens.

Our Umpires are going to be instructed not to start a game unless all cars are parked in designated parking lots. Your cooperation and understanding is vital to help make this transition as easy as possible.

With

Lewis E. Wint
Funeral Home

WHAT CAN I SAY? WHAT CAN I DO?

If you've avoided visiting the home of a terminally ill friend or relative because you don't know what to do or say when you get there, you're not alone. But here are some things you can consider.

DO IT NOW

Visiting them now shows them you're still a friend. Visiting at the funeral shows the widow(er) and family the same thing, but also that you waited too long. Do it now, and show you care.

WHAT TO SAY AND DO:

Say that you've been praying for him and mean it. Say that you've brought a book that might help. Say you've arranged to take that friend to the hospital (or doctor's office) for the regular visit next Thursday, so the spouse can tend other chores. Take his wife's grocery list along with yours when you go marketing next week. Offer to fix a lunch, wash a car, drive the kids or any other special little chore as needed. But, do it now.

DON'T STOP THERE

After the funeral, all of the above are still good examples to follow--and may aid in comforting the family.

SHE'S SETTING HER SITES ON MOSCOW OLYMPICS

When asked why she took up skeet shooting, Ila Hill, Olympic hopeful said, "I realized while going to medical school and working two jobs I needed some recreation, and skeet shooting is what came about." Ms. Hill is the only Michigan person on the U.S. Skeet Team. She works at the Davisburg Medical Center.

There are 4 men and 3 women and 3 Juniors on the United States Skeet team. Three men are from the U.S. Army. With a smile Ms. Hill remarked, "These 3 have the opportunity to train every day."

Weekends find Ms. Hill practicing at one of many gun clubs here in Michigan or in Canada, or just with friends out on the practice range. Her April trips included Mexico City where she captured the championship.

She is looking forward to June when the 1979 U.S. Team will be picked at four days of tryouts at San Antonio, Texas. From there, she hopes to be at the next Olympics, to be held in Moscow in 1980.

In many events in the skeet shooting, Ms. Hill has been the only woman to ever capture some of the International honors bestowed about the United States team.

Among the many awards achieved by Ms. Hill include being the only U.S. woman to win a medal in the International Skeet contests. She was recently on a local TV station from Detroit and will soon be on the cover of national sporting magazines.

Saturday Walkathon to Benefit Independence Center

by Betty Good

Inspired by recent participation in the 12-mile Blue Cross-Blue Shield run to Belle Isle and back—which drew seven Clarkstonites among the crowd of 5,000—Jim Randall is enthusiastic about this year's walkathon for Independence Center.

The Clarkston Jaycee President explained that the event set for Saturday, May 19th, to coincide with

10,000 Meter Run Set for May 19

The Independence Township Parks and Recreation and Runnin' Gear, the store in the Harvard Plaza specializing in the equipment for those into jogging, are jointly sponsoring a 10,000 meter run to be held on May 19.

The Clarkston Jaycees are sponsoring a Walkathon during that time and the Jaycees would like some of their walkers to enter the run. The run is scheduled to start at the Pine Knob parking lot. The runners are to report to the lot between 7 and 9 a.m. on May 19. An entrance fee of $15.00 must accompany the entrant and 300 free T-shirts will be given to the first who enter.

The route of the run will be from the Pine Knob parking lot along the roads of Clarkston. At different points along the route, there will be checkers to see that everything is going smoothly in the race.

People of any age may enter the race.

Ribbons and other prizes will be awarded to the winners. Runnin' Gear will provide most of the prizes that will be handed out, but the Independence Township Parks and Recreation will also provide some of the ribbons, etc.

If any more information is needed concerning the 10,000 meter run, the Independence Township Parks and Recreation office can be contacted at 625-8223.

Michigan Week, is Independence Center's biggest fundraiser. "It furnishes close to 1/4 of the budget," he said.

The Jaycees have sponsored the Walkathon for four years and have raised as much as $2,000 per year through sponsors' pledges to the walkers.

"All ages are welcome," Randall stressed. The youngest walker thus far was four years old; and one of the "pacers" in recent years was seventy years old.

The Walkathon for Independence Center will start at Clarkston High School, 6595 Middle Lake Road, promptly at 8:30 a.m. on May 19, 1979.

Participants should have two copies of their sign-up sheets for sponsors. The Jaycees require one copy at the starting point; the other copy is to be used to collect pledges and accompany funds turned in to Independence Center. Both Jim Randall and Elaine Murray, Co-ordinator of the Center, have requested that pledges be in two weeks after the Walkathon. Sign-up sheets are available at the Center and at Clarkston schools.

This year's route will be similar to previous years. The walkers will leave the high school, go Church Street to Buffalo to Washington. From there, they will proceed down Holcomb to Allen Road, Oakhill, Reese and, then, back to Holcomb. They will retrace the same route back to the high school. Fruit and water will be available for walkers along the way, and they may carry a canteen or candy or rations if they wish. Cars and trucks available for emergency use will, also, be positioned along the route.

Back at the school, orange drink and potato chips will be waiting for those who complete the Walkathon.

Three and one-half hours is considered a "fast time" for the complete 16-mile course, and Randall expects all the walkers to be in within six hours.

There are several new features incorporated into the planning for this year's Walkathon. By "special early agreement" between the Clarkston Jaycees and the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department—according to Randall—runners participating in the 10,000-meter race scheduled for May 19th may, also, accept sponsors. Pledges for the 6.2 mile "around Pine Knob" race would, also, go to fund Independence Center activities.

Mike Luchenbach of the Independence Center Board, has organized special competition between Scouts participating in the Walkathon.

Elaine Murray, Co-ordinator of the Center said that Scouts participating should be sure to mark "Scout" on their pledge sheets. The Center is offering a special incentive to Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Brownies, Girl Scouts, Bluebirds, Campfire Girls, etc., she said. "For each $100 sponsors' fees the walker turns in, he/she will be eligible to choose a $6.00 gift from the Scout catalog."

Clarkston Jaycee President Jim Randall cautions walkers to dress properly for the weather and walking—including appropriate shoes.

The event will be rescheduled for the next day in case of "really bad" weather. Call Jim Randall at 625-8644 or Mike Luchenbach at 623-9469 if there is any question about the event's being held.

The Clarkston-area Jaycees, in addition to sponsoring the "Walk for Independence", will join the Civitan Club and the Michigan Week Committee in sponsoring the Citizenship Awards Dinner at Spring Lake Country Club, on May 24th.

ALL WORK DONE BY SENIOR STUDENTS

Clarkston Hears Results of Historical Home Research

At last week's meeting of the Village Planning Commission, Betty-lee Francis and four of her students from Lawrence Institute of Technology presented the results of their work researching twenty-one homes in the Village of Clarkston. This research is the basis for application to the State of Michigan for historic district status.

The homes worked on, including two belonging to planning commission members themselves, were geographically and architecturally representative of the proposed district. Four of them were selected as "cornerstones" of that district, two on Holcomb, one on Waldon and the other on Wompole.

Mrs. Francis, who not only teaches preservation architecture at LIT but also operates her own business Preservation Planning, Inc., told commission members the information gathered plus a photograph of each house would be entered on a card and sent to the Michigan History Division. Information gathered on each house included a physical description, the use of the building, its significance in an historic district, and bibliographical information taken from interviews, tax assessment records and county deed records.

The first student presented slides of five homes on Holcomb including that of planning commission member Bob Sanderson. That home is the southwest corner of the proposed district. The Denton home was cited as a good example of mortise and tenon construction. The Sinclair home built around 1910 was of solid oak construction. The Hoyt home had unique summer and winter kitchens.

The second set of homes were all on the Mill Pond exclusive of those on Main Street already researched. The third set included houses on East Church and East Washington. The Smith home was built on a large rock mass with four cross beams. The Souby home was cited as having excellent interior detailing and craftsmanship plus a domed ceiling.

The fourth group consisted of seven homes with additions to them. The Hodgkin house had an interesting background having been moved to that site from another and used as a maternity home at one time. The Cole house on Waldon provided the southeast "cornerstone" of the proposed district while houses on Wompole and Orion Road become the northeast corner.

Francis said documentation was necessary for preservation. These homes had been selected partly because of authentic documentation available.

The boundaries of the proposed district follow Village limits on the east, west and north. There are no homes which qualify south of Waldon Road with the exception of three or four just south of the intersection on Main.

Jennifer Radcliff, president of the Clarkston Community Historical Society, expressed satisfaction with the work of Francis and her students. Twenty-five students met twice a week for four hours with many additional hours spent on the project.

Councilwoman Ruth Basinger would like to see the research continue to include many other homes which qualify as historic and those which can be restored.

Edison Leads Springfield Taxpayers

The Top Ten Taxpayers in Springfield Township are, says treasurer Pat Kramer, led by Detroit Edison with a total assessed valuation of $3,739,141.

Next comes Consumer's Power, with an a.v. (assessed valuation) of $780,492.

Bavarian Village comes in third, with a total of $665,000.

Larden Plastics' a.v. of $583,800 puts them in fourth place and Syst-M-Ation, whose assets combine to bring them up to $541,800, come in fifth place.

Next in line is Dr. Wayne Good, with the a.v. of $525,900.

He is followed by George Oberer, whose assets total $504,050 and by J.P. Burroughs (gravel pit), assessed at $395,480.

The end of the Top Ten is brought up by Springfield Estates, totaling $390,950 and the holder of Position No. 10 is Pontiac City Beverage, with an a.v. of $390,560.

PLANNING COMMISSIONS HEARS ARGUMENTS FROM BOTH SIDES

Public Split on Pine Knob Hotel

by Carol Balzarini

A public hearing was held last week during the regular meeting of the Independence Township Planning Commission to allow citizen input on a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance to allow structures in areas now zoned recreational.

More specifically, as explained by township planner Tod Kilroy, the text would be changed to allow convention-resort facilities on a minimum of ten acres with a permitted height of 200 feet. Presently zoning allows for 35 feet only, or two stories.

The possibility of a zoning amendment was brought about by an informal appearance of Joe Locricchio and Gary Francell, principal owners of the Pine Knob complex, before an earlier meeting of the planning commission. The partners would like to build a 21-story hotel on the back side of the ski hill. They are presently talking with several large hotel chains about the feasibility of the project.

In his opening remarks, chairman Jim Smith made reference to the impact such a structure would have on the community, that it would provide "an important keystone" in the development of the township.

The first citizen to speak was Bob Hurlburt of Holcomb Road, an attorney with previous experience with structures of this size. He cited the problems that ensued after approval was given to the Five-five-five Building in Birmingham, a precedent-setting structure as the proposed hotel would be.

Hurlburt said he believed in "harmonious" development but the proposed hotel would not be in harmony as far as its height was concerned. He felt it would also mean 24-hour, high intensity use. He stated further a zoning amendment would open the door to "permanent and irrevocable" changes in the area.

Dan Travis of Perry Lake Road expressed "great opposition" to a project that would place a "heavy burden" on the community. "We can't stand this rapid development," he said.

Village resident Ted Thomson worried about skylines, visualizing Clarkston as another Troy. He said Birmingham was now being sued by developers who wanted high rises like the Five-five-five Building.

Larry Kozma of Lake Oakland Woods said "no real benefit" was to be gained by changing a zoning ordinance now providing for large-scale use of the outdoors in a recreation district.

Still another man felt the hotel would be a "risk to the community" which could be left with "an artificial mountain looming over the township" should the project fail.

Chris Kennedy of Clarkston Road opposed high rises just because they were high. He previously lived in Birmingham.

Bob Brumback was the first person to speak in favor of the proposed amendment and the hotel. He noted the village had generally opposed anything large through the years including a swimming pool at one time. The village should not be allowed to make the decisions, he said.

Karen Ohrnberger of Caberfae Trail asked if the amendment applied to the Pine Knob project alone or to other as well.

Smith cited acreage and height requirements which would be allowed, specific approvals would come later. Kilroy said theoretically any project meeting the requirements was a possibility if it was okayed by the Zoning Board of Appeals and subject to public hearing.

Peter Ohrnberger felt something was "technically wrong" with the 200 feet and the ten acres. He felt they were out of proportion.

Ruth Basinger suggested the partners offer something to the community without asking for an amendment to the ordinance.

Iva Caverly expressed support saying the current use was the best use for Pine Knob and the traffic problems could not be blamed on them alone. She reminded people the ski hill had been approved long before Locricchio and Francell took it over. She felt the old Deer Lake Inn and its proximity to the Dixie Highway had been a similar situation to the present one.

John Powe gave the Pine Knob resort complex credit for making it possible for him to develop Bitterbush on Reese Road with such low density and attract buyers for the expensive sites. He felt the partners could be counted on to give the township a "good" hotel.

Virginia Walter of the village said the issue was not Pine Knob but "do we want to change our zoning to allow highrises." Her answer was "no".

Phil Negip, owner of the Palace Restaurant, lives in the township also. He said many of the problems citizens felt Pine Knob would create had to be solved anyway. He

The Junior High Schools: Comparable? No Way!

by Carol Balzarini

Duane Lewis, principal of Clarkston Junior High School, and Bill Potvin, former principal and now Director of Planning and Evaluation for the school district, feel if every taxpayer in the district were to visit the two junior high schools and compare them, the proposed bond issue would be passed overwhelmingly. Construction of a new junior high "comparable" to Sashabaw was one of the recommendations of the Citizens Advisory Committee. The new building would leave the old one free for use as an elementary school to relieve overcrowding in the lower grades.

It was not the intent of the Advisory Committee to simply equalize the two junior high school facilities for the sake of having matching buildings; but for the sake of offering comparable educational opportunities, opportunities not possible in a school with limited facilities in some very key areas.

Clarkston Schools has put together an information packet with all data pertinent to the bond issue. One portion of it is a sheet comparing the educational facilities of each junior high school. At first glance, they're a set of rather dry statistics. A second look is more revealing if one tries to visualize what the words and numbers mean in terms of kids, teachers, equipment and space. These are specific measurable conditions which exist in each of the two schools.

Fact number one: the average academic classroom at Clarkston is about 600 sq. ft. At Sashabaw it's 900 sq. ft. Room sizes vary, class size don't. Each school still averages some 30 pupils per class. Sashabaw also has a large group instruction room of some 2,600 sq. ft. with a soundproof portable divider wall to create two rooms if needed.

Fact two: facilities affect curriculum especially in the field of science. Science is based on a "hands on" philosophy, a student learns by doing not by reading.

Limited facilities at Clarkston make learning by doing very difficult. There is one lab which also functions as a classroom making it necessary to juggle its use among the science teachers. The room itself is about 700 sq. ft., adjacent storage space is a closet. There is one other science classroom with no storage space; there is no "hands on" work here.

Sashabaw, on the other hand, has two labs of 11,000 sq. ft. each which are never used as classrooms. There are six other science classrooms with water, gas, and built-in storage space making "hands on" work possible in a total of eight rooms. These classrooms are comparable in size to the lab at Clarkston. Sashabaw has an additional 400 sq. ft. in storage space.

Fact three: school libraries are no longer just libraries, they are media centers in keeping with the philosophy that books are not the only route to knowledge. Media centers have film strips, tapes and movies for student use.

Clarkston has a 966 sq. ft. library which will accommodate a maximum of 30 students at one time. For a classroom as a whole to use the library, it must be closed to all others. There is one table with four stations for use of tapes, film strips, etc. It is in constant use. Potvin and Lewis feel limited use of the facilities results in many students not knowing how to use the library properly.

Sashabaw's library-media center has over 2,700 sq. ft. accommodating twice as many students at one time. In addition there is a 900 sq. ft. library classroom for 35 more students. There is no comparable room at Clarkston.

Fact four: Clarkston has one music room for use by both vocal and instrumental students and by grades six through nine. No more than seven classes may be scheduled during the day. Three hours are set aside for vocal, three for instrumental, and the seventh hours is for sixth graders for both Andersonville and Clarkston Elementary. The room is 1250 sq. ft. in size. Next year an eighth hour is planned to separate the sixth graders into smaller groups.

Sashabaw has an instrumental music room measuring some 2,000 sq. ft.; its vocal music room is some 1,000 sq. ft. Together they double the number of music classes offered.

Virtually every student at Clarkston who wants a music class gets one although it may not be as specialized as desired, such as boys' chorus, ensemble or beginning or advanced music. The greatest problems are with the students who take lessons outside school and are more advanced than the others. The resulting large classes also reduce the amount of individual attention.

Fact five: limited facilities result in limited materials which, in turn, results in limited projects in art. Projects must be those which require little space to create and little space to store. Clarkston's art room has 696 sq. ft., allows a maximum of 20 students, has no counter work area, and has 130 sq. ft. of storage space.

Sashabaw, on the other hand, has a 1484 sq. ft. art room accommodating 30 students. It has large work areas and nearly 500 sq. ft. in storage space not including cabinets.

Fact six: even sewing and cooking require some classroom work; there is no special room for that at Clarkston. Stacks of chairs are set out in a small space at the end of the room during these times. Potvin and Lewis agree these classes could be more interesting and

NOTICE SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that the Springfield Township Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, June 5, 1979, beginning at 7:30 p.m., in the Township Hall, 650 Broadway Street, Davisburg, Michigan, to hear comments regarding the proposed creation of the R-1-A Suburban Estates Residential District as an amendment to the Township Zoning Ordinance Number 26, as amended:

1. Amend Article V -- to add the following provisions to establish the R-1-A Suburban Estates Zoning District as follows:

Section 5.05 - Intent: "The R-1-A Suburban Estates Residential District is intended to provide an environment suitable for families who typically will have children. To achieve this goal, uses are basically limited to low-density one-family dwelling units, together with certain residentially-related facilities which will help provide a satisfactory neighborhood environment. Commercial and other uses which tend to be incompatible with this intent are prohibited.

Agricultural and farming activities may also be permitted within the suburban estates districts on parcels and lots which are of adequate size to accommodate such a use in conjunction and/or separate from single family permitted residential uses."

Section 5.06 - Principal Uses Permitted: The following uses shall be permitted, subject to any limitations described herein:

1. All principal uses as permitted and control as listed in Section 5.01 of the Township Zoning Ordinance.

Section 5.07 - Principal Uses Permitted Subject to Special Conditions: The following uses shall be permitted, subject to the specific conditions hereinafter imposed for each use and subject further to a recommendation of the Township Planning Commission and approval of the Township Board.

1. All Principal Uses Permitted Subject to Special Conditions as listed in Section 5.02 of the Township Zoning Ordinance.

Section 5.08 - Accessory Uses Permitted: Accessory buildings and uses are hereby permitted as controlled in Section 5.03 of the Township Zoning Ordinance.

Section 5.09 - Area and Bulk Requirements: Refer to Article XXIII for the "Schedule of Regulations," limiting the height and bulk of buildings, the minimum size lot or parcel permitted by land use, the maximum density permitted, and providing the minimum yard setback requirements for all land uses as applicable to the R-1 Single Family Residential Zoning District except as modified by the following:

1. Minimum Lot Size per unit in R-1-A: 109,100 square feet or 2.5 acres.

2. Minimum Lot Width per unit in feet in R-1-A: 165 feet.

This Notice of Public Hearing is published pursuant to a Resolution of the Township Planning Commission authorizing said publication which was adopted on April 17, 1979. of better quality if the facilities were not so limited. Arrangement of the cooking areas makes it difficult for the teacher to keep an eye on all students at the same time, they are mostly grouped in the center of the room. Safety can be a factor here. Storage is also a primary problem.

Sashabaw's sewing and cooking rooms are not only much larger, but they are connected by a dining room/classroom. Laying out clothing patterns is much easier in the large sewing room. The cooking stations are around the perimeter of that room making the students visible to the teacher at all times. There is also a demonstration area.

Fact seven: space problems exist for drafting, wood shop, industrial arts and handicrafts classes at Clarkston. The drafting room is about 700 sq. ft. The wood shop has 1,258 sq. ft. Woods and metals are separated by a small classroom which was a finishing room at one time. It can be used by the students only when they fill it up with their chairs one row at a time until all are fitted into it to watch a movie, for example. The room is emptied in reverse order with each student taking his chair with him.

Sashabaw has the same number of students per class but the room dimensions are much different. The drafting room is 1203 sq. ft., the wood shop is 1862 sq. ft., and the industrial arts classroom is 570 sq. ft.

Sashabaw has a special room for handicrafts; Clarkston had to drop one industrial arts class to accommodate a crafts class because the same room is used by both. An offshoot of industrial arts, crafts is very popular with girls and the demand is increasing.

Fact eight: Clarkston students cannot assemble at one time in the gym unless most sit on the floor. As a result, two assemblies are usually scheduled for the sake of comfort but at double the cost. As a result, Lewis tends to avoid assemblies. He stressed that parent attendance is not the primary reason for wanting a larger gym with a greater capacity, the kids are. The gym is 3388 sq. ft. in size and seats 234 people in individual seats.

Clarkston's locker rooms were recently upgraded but are still very small. Gym clothes come in with the student at the beginning of the hour and leave with him at the end to put in his hall locker. There are no permanent gym lockers.

Potvin and Lewis feel too much time is spent watching instead of doing as the students wait for space to participate. In basketball, for example, two teams play while two teams watch and wait their turn. The auxiliary gym is 1,000 sq. ft. and doubles as a classroom. Because of its size it can only be used for activities like tumbling.

Sashabaw's main gym is 7216 sq. ft. in size, has a divider wall to make two smaller gyms, and seats 1,000 people. It has a fully equipped auxiliary gym of 3600 sq. ft., larger than Clarkston's main gym.

The locker rooms are three times the size of Clarkston's with a gym locker for each student.

Fact nine: A new junior high school would not be comparable to Sashabaw in only one way. The plans call for a cafetorium. Basically that means a stage between the cafeteria and the gym usable for either room. Since Sashabaw's construction, that is the primary item found to be lacking; there is no stage or raised area there with the exception of risers in the music room.

It should be stressed that comparable is the key word. Both junior high schools offer the same programs but the facilities do not allow them to be comparable.

Rooms can be measured and equipment can be listed, but what bothers Potvin most is there are no statistics available which relate the quality of learning to the quality of facilities or materials.

Some teachers can teach successfully in a broom closet, and some kids can learn under those conditions too. Some potential scientists may have learned from books alone and not through laboratory experience in the beginning. Artists may have emerged in spite of limitations put on the projects they created. No one knows how great a good teacher might have been with a little more elbow room and more equipment. And lastly, no one knows for sure if the learning process of a child has been hampered in any way by crowded conditions or turned off to a class because of its limitations.

INDEPENDENCE-Oaks SITE OF LONG DISTANCE RACES

Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission will host a series of three long-distance running events this summer through some of Oakland County's most nature-laden environment.

The first event, called the Hidden Forest Run, is scheduled for 10:30 a.m., Sunday, May 20th at Independence Oaks County park near Clarkston. Independence Oaks, which opened in 1976, features 830 acres of Michigan's plant and wildlife. The race course will wind its way through the hills and lakeshore. The Hidden Forest Run, open to persons of all ages, actually consists of three races: 2.5 miles; 5.5 miles or 8.5 miles. Each runner has a choice of running one, two or all three segments.

The second event, the Mid-Summer's Night Festival race, will be held at Addison Oaks County Park, just north of Rochester in July. Addison Oaks, similar to Independence Oaks with grassy meadows and woodland, features a Tudor-style mansion set near a picturesque lake.

The final leg in the series is the "Ottawa Nation" slated for October. This event attracted 500 participants last year and also will be held at Independence Oaks.

Entry forms are available at the Oakland County Parks and Recreation headquarters, 2800 Watkins Lake Road, Pontiac, 48054. For additional information call 858-0906.

How one family feels about a home may be very different from the way another family reacts. For some, a home is simply a place to hang your hat, while for others, it is the center of all living. The importance placed on housing in the family will play a big part in the choices they make. For example, they may consider the following questions: Is space important? Efficiency? Easy maintenance? How much importance does the family place on how a house looks from the outside? Will the family be entertaining often?

For sound advice as to the best approach to balance your real estate needs with your financial resources, come to BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE. 5856 Main Street, your area broker since 1947. In addition to the experienced advice you will receive, you will be dealing with an office that knows the community and has the staff and experience to seek out and find the property to meet your needs. At BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE we begin thinking about your future today. Open 9 a.m. thru 9 p.m., till 6 Friday and Saturday, 11 - 5 Sunday. Telephone 625-5821.

MARCHING BAND

Best Wishes

From

Christie's

Fine Apparel

In its second full season of competition, the C.H.S. Marching Band established an impressive standard as a finalist in the Bridgeport Open. The fall season included all home football games as well as an active schedule of contests. The C.H.S. Marching Band will continue to support their athletic counterparts as a valuable contribution to school spirit, and represent the community with pride.

Good Luck

From

Larkin

Barber Shop

Dear Supporters,

The Clarkston Band Boosters and students of instrumental music wish to extend their sincere appreciation and thanks to the community for their continued support. This past year has been one of many changes and innovations with the program building at all levels.

Band Day is more than the activities on the schedule. It is the 6th grade band students playing their first concert, the excitement of the first festival appearance in the junior high, and the traveling success of the marching band, and the joy and satisfaction of playing a musical instrument. With your support, we hope to continue our record of success in education, and achievement.

Band Day is also the individual accomplishment of each student, the support and co-operation of every parent, and the collective effort of an entire community demonstrating that culture has no limitations in the educational process. We have much to be proud of in our bands, and with the success of this very special day, the future will be exciting.

Sincerely,

The Clarkston Band Boosters

ABOUT THE JUNIOR HIGH BANDS

S.J.H.S.

Sashabaw Junior High School's Instrumental Music Department includes 134 7th, 8th and 9th grade students divided in four different bands: a beginning band, cadet band, concert band, and a wind ensemble. Under the direction of band director, Mr. Doug Doty, the students are kept busy playing their instruments at everything from football games to formal concerts. The students also get involved with the M.S.B.O.A. Solo and Ensemble Festival, and two of the bands attended the District IV M.S.B.O.A. Festival, rating high in comparison to other junior high bands in the country.

C.J.H.S.

The Clarkston Junior High Wolverine Bands are directed by Barton J. Connors. The bands play in all community parades, 3 concerts, 4 assemblies, all home football games, solo/ensemble festivals, fall band festival and exchange concerts with our sister school. Our green and white groups have been a visible part of our school and in our community.

With the continuing growth of pride and ability of its members, this band will soon be among the finest of its kind.

JAZZ ENSEMBLE

Complimenting the family of bands at C.H.S. is the Jazz Ensemble, a select 19-piece stage band specializing in contemporary big band music and swing style as well. Though young, this group has become popular through a variety of public performances. Other than the school concerts, the Jazz Ensemble has appeared at the Special Olympics at Oakland University, Trenton Festival of Jazz Invitational, and home basketball games. A highlight of the year was the M.S.B.O.A. Regional Jazz Festival at Trenton High School where the band received a second division rating.
