editor's note

VOTE YES FOR JUNIOR High

During the past six weeks, Reminder News Editor Carol Balzarini has presented the school bond issue in an easily readable and concise manner in her series, The School Scrapbook.

The series was intended only to inform voters on the issue -- we were neither interested in promoting the proposed junior high nor were we interested in siding with its opponents.

But now, after the facts have been presented and we've had time to research the various aspects of the proposal, I encourage voters to cast a "yes" vote on June 11.

Why? What has impressed me the most, is that this has truly been the citizens' decision to pursue a new junior high. An advisory committee made up of a good cross section of the community spent long hours in arriving at their decision to build a new junior high.

It was they -- not the school board, that made the decision. If you're like me, I would like to be quite hesitant to support a bond proposal that came directly from the result of school research. This clearly was not the case.

And then too, no one can accuse Clarkston of overbuilding. Clarkston Junior High is ancient -- much too old and OVERCROWDED for junior high aged children. Look at our debt retirement. We're ranked 24 out of 28 Oakland County school districts. Only four districts pay less!

Don't get me wrong. I'm not particularly pleased with some of the school board's recent decisions.

But on the whole, the system has been relatively free of labor problems, legal hassles or controversy. It has been fairly conservative with its money -- ranking in the lower half of Oakland school districts in millage levied.

Taking these facts into consideration, a "yes" vote is in order on June 11.

Even more important than a "yes" vote, however, is the plain and simple fact that your vote will help shape the future of the school district. Nine million dollars is a large sum of money -- money that should be scrutinized by each and every taxpayer. Whether you see it the way we do or would rather vote a resounding "no", please exercise your right to vote.

Dear Mr. Wilcox,

Because of your wonderful job of printing the Story of the Titanic the TITANIC HISTORICAL SOCIETY has recognized your services to the memory of the ship.

You did an outstanding job on the story and do deserve recognition of this service to the Titanic. So, we are enclosing this certificate of appreciation. We do hope that you do another story about it next year and years to come.

Once again I would like to thank you for doing the story about me and printing my story. My Titanic story is also being sent to the New York Times, Detroit News, Chicago Daily Tribune, Los Angeles Times and the Miami Herald.

Keep up the good work and remember the TITANIC!

Yours truly,

Editor,

I have had an opportunity to observe with great interest, the need for a new Junior High School in the Clarkston area, and the meticulous process in which the school board, the administration and the Citizens group have approached this need and the solution they have recommended. I believe you all know that the recommendation is to construct a new Junior High near the Board of Education offices and utilize the present facility for badly needed elementary space. I believe many people feel that the question is whether or not we need a new versus an old building. This is not the case at all. What we are really addressing is a need for a Junior High building with gymnasium, cafeteria, industrial arts, music and the various rooms and installations that will afford all of the Clarkston junior high students the full programs they so desperately need for a well rounded education. The old school building just does not fulfill these requirements but will suffice for badly needed classrooms for our elementary students.

I believe that the need for a new Junior High is very great and I believe the proposal set forth is very worthy of whole hearted support. Please come out and vote YES on this proposal and ask four of your very close friends personally to accompany you and let's show our school board, administration, and teachers that we support them and put a very high value on their superb efforts with our children.

Sincerely,
James A. O'Neill, M.D.

THOUGHTS 'N THINGS

Sometimes things just seem pretty bad no matter how hard you work to make them better. It's like pushing a big rock up a hill, and you're using up all your energy just staying in one place. Discouragement and depression are normal under those conditions. Then, a good dose of unseasonal cold, cloudy, damp weather can just about push even the most "Pollyannish" of us to the limits of our patience.

The only thing that can make us feel better under the circumstances, is to consider the plight of those who are worse off than we are. It's true that we have done well with programs for the young, the old, the sick, and the poor, and other kinds of help for thier physical circumstances. Mental and emotional help is something else again!

People who have been born into families living at the poverty level have a great deal of difficulty "pulling themselves up by their bootstraps." In fact, it takes almost super-human effort to muster hope, ambition or ideals when you are living in a tired, disillusioned community. The wonder of it all is that some people manage it.

It is a mistake to believe that some kind of "luck" or external influences have been at work when someone manages to climb out of the well of defeat and discouragement. The refusal to be defeated is an inner battle, not an external one. The truth is that we all live within external limits of one kind or another. The difference between individuals is their manner of handling those limits. We do have a choice of how we will handle the circumstances of our lives.

Somehow people who have failed at life manage to make others feel guilty about viewing the world through "rose-colored glasses." Such accusations are confusing to those who are truly concerned with the plight of people who seem to have difficulty reaching any degree of success or happiness. In fact, that confusion sometimes causes people to go to extremes with give-away programs and do-everything charities.

Having life, and having choices is all that we need to move forward in life. We all must learn to live with the storms and bad weather, but we have the freedom to develop ways and means of surviving the storms and even making some gains during the storms, or sitting and wringing our hands and complaining for the duration.

There are programs which have moved beyond that point, however, and are facing the fact that people have more than physical needs. Pride and self-respect and growth of mind and emotions have been rediscovered, and common sense seems to be coming back in style. One such program is being tried out in the Detroit schools right now. It is a simple program. A group of students are working with their classmates (under the guidance and direction of psychologists) with one aim -- to change attitudes.

This may sound ridiculous, but it isn't as easy as it sounds. Our attitudes determine our success and failure, our degree of happiness or unhappiness, and the way we can cope with life in general. Those attitudes are based on our beliefs, and the beliefs are based on emotional learning which may or may not be reasonable too. Many of our "shoulds" that make us feel less than successful or capable or unhappy, could easily be changed to "it would be nicer ifs" and enough energy would be released to make big changes in our lives.

"I should be accomplishing more," makes us feel guilty and frustrated by the lack of time, or the complications that prevent us from doing all that we would like to do. It puts blame on us for our imperfections, and discouragement and depression often follow such useless feelings. On the other hand, "I am very busy coping with all the things I have to do, but 'it would be nice if' I could grow a little bit each day, and accomplish more of the things that I enjoy, or are important to me" is an acknowledgment of the human state. It is an appreciative statement that the "self" needs.

Consider it carefully. Would your spouse or your children grow under the constant criticism that you sometimes direct at yourself? Women with families often remain entirely aware of their husbands needs, their children's needs, their pet's needs, and even the needs of their plants. They put themselves out for the neighbors, the needy of the community, their friends, their extended families, and even their in-laws, and then forget to say a kind word to themselves.

Having life, and having choices, is all that we need to move forward in life. We all must learn to live with the storms and bad weather, but we have the freedom to develop ways and means of surviving the storms and even making some gains during the storms, or sitting and wringing our hands and complaining for the duration.

The people who survive the storms of life, and the restrictions of life, and the negative circumstances, are the ones who have made the most of every opportunity, rather than complain about the lack of better ones. It is that simple.

Thoughts for the next cloudy, rainy, cold day? Not, "the sun should shine. It should be warm. I can't do anything when the weather is this miserable!" but, "It would be nice if the sun would shine, and it would be warm, and I could do the things I'd prefer to do -- but since the weather is not pleasing to me, I'll get some closets or the basement clean so I'll be free to enjoy the nice weather when it comes!" You know that makes sense, so let your mind start running your attitudes and save your emotions for love.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Dear editor,

As chairman of the Michigan Week Committee in Independence Township, I would like to thank the many people who helped to make this past week the biggest "celebration" of Michigan Week we've had in recent years.

The Michigan week committee has no funds. All events were operated on a "zero budget" basis. The many hours put into the organization of Michigan Week were donated.

There were many groups who contributed their time to help make this week successful.

Among these groups are: Independence Center, Band Boosters, Clarkston Area Jaycees, North Oakland Civitans, Independence Township Recreation Department, Clarkston Women's Club, Friends of the Independence Township Library, Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, Village Business Assoc., and Clarkston Community Schools.

Many individuals also contributed a great deal, not the least of which were the other members of the Michigan Week Committee.

I would also like to commend the two area newspapers for their fine coverage of the Michigan Week events.

HOW CAN I HELP MY NIECE ACCEPT HER MOTHER'S DEATH?

When a parent dies, most young children feel their world has come to an end. They have many questions and new feelings which can cause added pain and sorrow.

Helping your niece realize that others have had to adjust to such great loss may be one way to comfort her--and you!

Learning to Say Goodbye, by Eda Le Shan, is an easy-to-read, excellent book to help you provide the comfort your niece may be seeking. It contains descriptions of how children have felt when they lost a parent under many different circumstances. One of these is sure to be similar to your niece's own experience.

This book is designed so it could be read to or by your niece to give her assurances and lasting comfort.

Your problems are our concern. Please feel free to call on us.

by Carol Balzarini

Two specific areas of education will be affected by the proposed bond issue: the handicapped and the gifted.

Howard Webster, special education teacher for the Clarkston Community Schools, has been working on two projects, one a committee studying the schools in terms of the needs of the handicapped and the other surveying the needs of the gifted and talented. The latter is a part of his internship in an educational specialist program with the subject chosen at Superintendent Milford Mason's suggestion.

As far as the needs of the handicapped are concerned, Webster said, the greatest need is at the high school. Because it is the only high school in the district, it is a primary targets in terms of barrier-free alterations. It is also the most expensive project as the school is "poorly designed" in terms of the handicapped having been built on many levels.

Changes planned for the school, a part of the June 11 bond issue, mainly include ramps between the various levels, an electric chairlift in the hallway to the gym which is too narrow to accommodate a ramp, and adaptations in the bathrooms.

Webster said $200,000 of the total $9.1 million sought by the school district will cover most major changes required but that many others could be made. As plans go now, the gym entrance will be the primary access to the school for the handicapped as it is on the same level as the parking lot. Presently the main entrance can be gained only by a series of steps.

In terms of barrier-free design, Sashabaw Junior High is virtually accessible to all except for some minor changes in such things as curbs, telephones and drinking fountains, according to Webster.

Clarkston Junior High is another situation altogether. Built at a time when no public building was required to take the needs of the handicapped into consideration, the old section is two-story. Although the doorways are the necessary 32" wide, they are difficult to cope with because they are recessed. Many people could not manage a closed door in a wheelchair, Webster said.

The seating area in the gym is also inaccessible to a handicapped person. The library would have to be relocated on the first floor and all classes for a handicapped student scheduled for rooms on that same level.

The new proposed junior high to replace Clarkston Junior High is all on one floor except for one two-story section. However, an elevator makes those upper classrooms accessible to all. School administrators have not considered it feasible to install an elevator in the present junior high.

Under present circumstances, a handicapped student may attend Sashabaw Junior High whether or not he lives in that attendance area because of its ease of accessibility. The same holds true for any of the elementary schools. Not all of them are totally barrier-free at this time but it is likely at least one of them will be completely accessible in the near future and all handicapped students sent to that school.

Many students, however, require therapy and attend other school districts where it is available. Clarkston does not have complete facilities.

Current problems in the schools as far as the handicapped are concerned are mainly economic, Webster said. According to the vocational rehabilitation act of 1973, many changes were mandated. However, the act was not accompanied by funds to assist in making those changes.

Another section of the act requires that all school districts conduct barrier-free surveys and comply with the act by June of 1980 or at least have a timetable established for compliance by that time. The results of the survey conducted by Webster and the rest of the committee should be ready for presentation to the school board at the June or July meeting this year.

What happens if the schools are not barrier-free by the time suggested? Webster wasn't too sure. He said federal funds were tied to the mandates but that no specific rules had been set down as yet.

As far as the gifted and talented are concerned, Webster said their needs, too, are tied to money and space. Better facilities allow for better programs.

In science, for example, Webster felt there were many directions to be taken by gifted students if the programs were there. But where could such a program be housed at Clarkston Junior High when space for "regular" science classrooms is limited? Webster said integration in regular classes is not the answer, anyway, separate programs are.

Mason agreed children and programs need separate space and special teachers, but the prospect of programs for gifted children is "considerably diminished" if there is no space available. He would like to see the district at least establish a "neophyte" program on a small scale to evaluate for eventual expansion.

Another concern of Webster's is intangible. How many potentially gifted and talented students are being lost because they are not challenged? Advanced classes and independent study are not the whole solution as far as he is concerned.

VOTE "YES" MONDAY JUNE 11th. ON THE BOND ISSUE FOR SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What?

Construction of a new junior high school comparable to Sashabaw Junior High School.

Modifications for the handicapped at Clarkston High School.

Why?

Construction of a new library at Clarkston High School. The new junior high will enable all students to have comparable educational programs in science, library science, industrial arts and physical education. These programs and others at Clarkston Junior High are affected by the physical limitations of the present building.

The current Clarkston Senior High School library was built at a time when the enrollment was 700. Current enrollment is 1700 and the North Central Accreditation Committee has been critical of the library during its last two evaluations.

Federal and state law requires accessibility be provided for handicapped students to all areas of the high school.

WITH DECLINING ENROLLMENTS IN NEIGHBORING DISTRICTS DO WE NEED MORE BUILDING?

Yes - The district has been underbuilt with facilities needed at every level. A limited life span exists for Clarkston Junior High, South Sashabaw Elementary and seven portable classrooms.

How will the community benefit from this building?

The new junior high school will provide citizens the facilities for a number of non-school activities of an evening, on weekends and during summer months.

Township meetings
Concerts
Lectures
Drama in the auditorium seating 450
Recreation program in the gymnasium

What will happen to Clarkston Junior High?

It will become an elementary school providing needed space in each elementary school for added classrooms, special programs, art and music rooms.

When will construction begin?

Bonds will be sold in December 1979. Construction will begin in the spring of 1980.

Date of occupation?

Tentatively - September 1982.

Will this millage decrease?

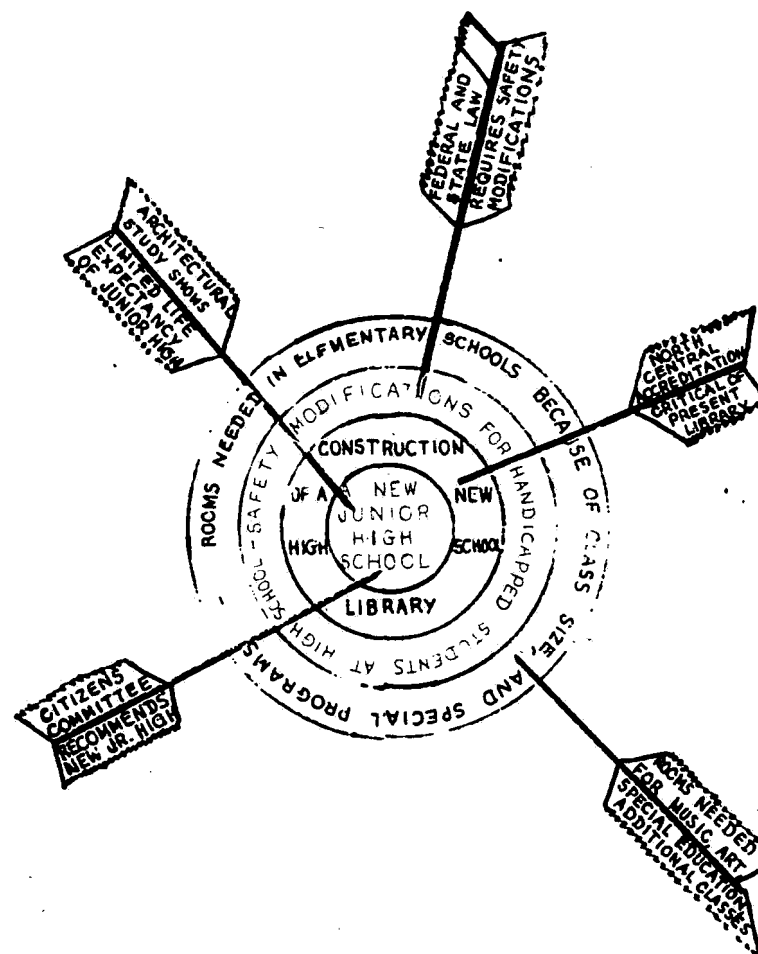

Yes - As the property value increases and with law requiring that only enough money be collected annually to pay the principal and interest, the 3.16 will decrease.

Why this site?

Convenience of paved roads, pedestrian access, sewers and water.

CLARKSTON COMMUNITY SCHOOLS HAS A LONG RECORD OF RESPONSIBLE BUILDING PRACTICES AND FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT.

Just One of Those Days

The Board of Directors of the Condominium Association had called a special meeting at the request of some of the co-owners. It seemed that every trash pick-up day, someone's dog in their immediate area was up and out at daybreak. Needless to say, the obnoxious animal strewed garbage and trash on everyone's lawn.

The spokesman for the group that was complaining listed the grievances of the group, and demanded that something was done immediately to prevent the co-owners who broke the "pet rules" from allowing their animal to run free on the common grounds.

The board had heard about the problem before, and seemingly had done nothing about it, and the group was no longer patient. They hinted that perhaps it was time to get someone else to do the job that needed to be done for the association.

The tired men and women who had been volunteering their time for the good of all their neighbors sat quietly throughout the speech and the constant interruptions of the speaker's backers. Then there was silence for a moment, as one of the board members opened an envelope in front of him, and beckoned the group to approach the table where he sat.

The envelope contained pictures of owner's pets running loose. As each complainer recognized his or her own pet among the group, the excuses of one red-faced owner after another came rolling forth. The president of the board just looked at them, and then said, "Now you know what we're up against. We hope you will take appropriate measures to solve your own problems in the future! We resign."

As they left, one of the other board members said, "Ah, this is just one of those days that you really feel good about yourself." The rest just nodded in agreement.

Oakland County Dog Census in Progress

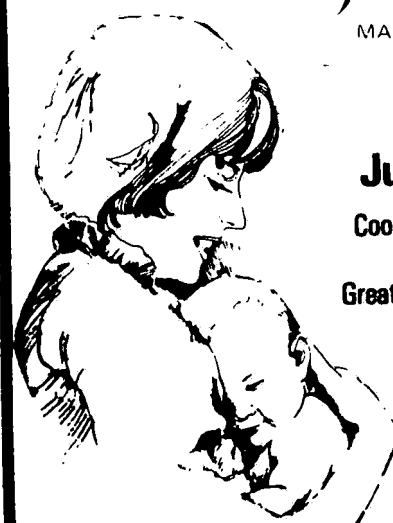

The annual dog census by the Oakland County Animal Control Division began Monday, June 4.

The census, required by state law, will cover all households in the county. Its primary purpose is to insure that all dogs are vaccinated against rabies.

Animal Control Director Carl Anderson said persons owning an unvaccinated and unlicensed dog will be given ten (10) days to obtain vaccinated and licensing for their pet. State law requires that all dogs six months or older be vaccinated and wear the license tags which serve as proof of vaccination. Owners failing to comply are guilty of a criminal offense and subject to a fine or jail sentence, or both.

Additional information on vaccination and licensing can be obtained by calling the Animal Control Division at 858-1030.

CBER's TO CONGREGATE AT LOCAL PARK

The Roaring 20's C.B. Club will be holding their annual Bar-B-Que at McFeely's Park in Ortonville on June 8, 9, 10.

The Bar-B-Que has been held for the last 12 years, and has been drawing more and more people each year. This year, over 1500 people are expected to attend.

No admission to the Bar-B-Que is charged, but it is expected that a 50-50 ticket will be purchased. This ticket will offset the cost of the pigs to be barbecued and will help to pay for the raffle winners' prizes.

The raffle winner will receive a 40-channel Cobra C.B., and you need not be present to win it. The ticket sales will go to offset the cost of the band that will play for 2 of the 3 days.

From Kentucky, the Grass Band of Boone Estep and the Rambling Grass will play for listening or for dancing on Friday and Saturday evenings.

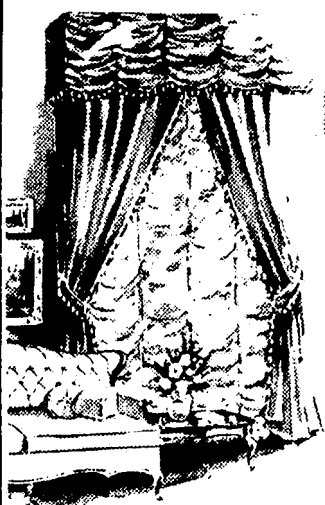

If you want to camp at McFeely's, the campsite will be $6.00 per night. Also, for the Bar-B-Que, you are expected to bring your own table setting and a dish to pass.

Along with the barbecued pork, Pete Wilbanks will be cooking up a huge pot of homemade bean soup. Wilbanks has a very large cast iron pot into which will go the ingredients for bean soup, including one whole ham.

Springfield Youth Crowned 4-H King

by Leona Hutchings

Roy Nelson a 4-H member of the Clarkston Terra Cottas for seven years and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Nelson of Crosby Lake Road, Springfield Township was named Oakland County 4-H King recently.

To achieve this honor it takes many project years in 4-H to be able to answer the fifty questions correctly, have an interview with judges and do a riding pattern for a judge. The riding competition took place at the Brooks Horse Farm near Milford where winners were announced.

You would be surprised with the fantastic results you get from an ad in The Reminder.

Reigning with Roy will be Queen Karen Zimmerman, Prince Mike Shippa and Princess Julie Brooks all of the Los Caballas Danzantes Club of Milford.

Roy has been an active club member participating in campouts, working on committees for snow parties, roller skating parties, money-making projects as well as club president two years and treasurer now.

The family room displays many ribbons for showing dating back to when he was twelve and won Grand Champion in the trail class at Oakland County 4-H fair. Other honors include the Michigan Trail Ride 1974 across Michigan from Tawas to Empire which is 200

Horse King and Queen. On left Queen Karen Zimmerman and parent Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman, right King Roy and parents Mr. and Mrs. Nelson.

Nearly $400 Pledged for Independence Center

By Betty Good

Work at Independence Center, 5331 Maybee Road, Clarkston, should proceed on a much firmer financial footing if participants in the Walk for Independence Center, held May 19th, are successful in collecting sponsors' pledges.

Ninety-nine sponsored walkers checked in, with pledges that totaled $3807.60, the day of the walk. Fourteen additional walkers did not carry sponsor sheets. Elaine Murray, Co-ordinator of Independence Center, said that as of May 29, 1979, only two walkers had returned their collected pledges. A two week deadline had been suggested.

Dedicated to the premise "People Helping People..Help Themselves", Independence Center serves Brandon, Groveland, Holly, Rose and Waterford Townships, in addition to Independence. It is staffed by volunteers from the communities it serves.

The Board of Directors recently appointed a Citizens Advisory Committee to review and evaluate the services offered by the center. This committee meets the first Tuesday of each month, with Jean Saile and Jean Bray as its chairpersons. A plan of action has been drawn up, and conclusions of the study will be presented at the general meeting in January 1980.

In addition to its use by a variety of local groups and services, Independence Center has a cooperative arrangement with Information and Referral, of North-Oakland United Way; Fish; and the Department of Social Services. It is represented on the North Oakland Inter-agency Council and is a part of the Michigan Human Services Network.

Independence Center will continue to operate during the summer, though office hours will be shorter. Because of vacations and school age children being home, additional volunteers are needed.

Gold Card Honored

Post Office Outlaws Small Envelopes

"Use up your small and undersized envelopes and cards before July 15," Clarkston Postmaster Donald Stoll reminds customers. That is the date when the Postal Service's new size standards become effective.

The Clarkston postmaster said that after July 15, envelopes and cards measuring less than 3 1/2 inches high or 5 inches long will be returned to the sender if mailed.

Stoll said that because the envelope and greeting card industries have had more than three years to prepare for the new standards, few retailers should still be selling undersized pieces.

The regulations also prohibit flimsy cards. In the future they must be at least seven-thousandths (.007) of an inch thick. An official postal card, for instance, has a thickness of nine thousandths of an inch.

Undersized pieces and flimsy cards are being banned because they can become trapped in other mail, tear and jam mail processing machinery. As a result, the letters of others can also be damaged.

The standards also affect oversized and odd-shaped pieces of mail, Stoll said. For first-class mail weighing one ounce or less, there will be a surcharge of 7 cents for pieces more than 6 1/8th inches high or 11 1/2 inches long.

For more information, the postmaster suggests customers check with a post office window clerk.

Up, Up and Away in Their Beautiful Balloons

by Leona Hutchings

If you glance up at the sky on a quiet late afternoon don't be too surprised to see one or several colored hot air balloons. It's a thrill to watch as the oncoming balloons make their way so easy across the meadows, over the small patches of woods, and towards a large open space for landing.

Recently Phillip Empey of Sands Road, Ortonville, and Wayne Warren of Bluewater Drive, Clarkston, left Ortonville headed northeast. They landed just before dusk near Big Fish Lake about a half mile apart. Many onlookers were there to welcome them as they landed safely in open spaces.

As usual those who gathered around asked many questions concerning the sport of hot air ballooning. Some of the most frequently asked questions concern young people wanting to get into the sport.

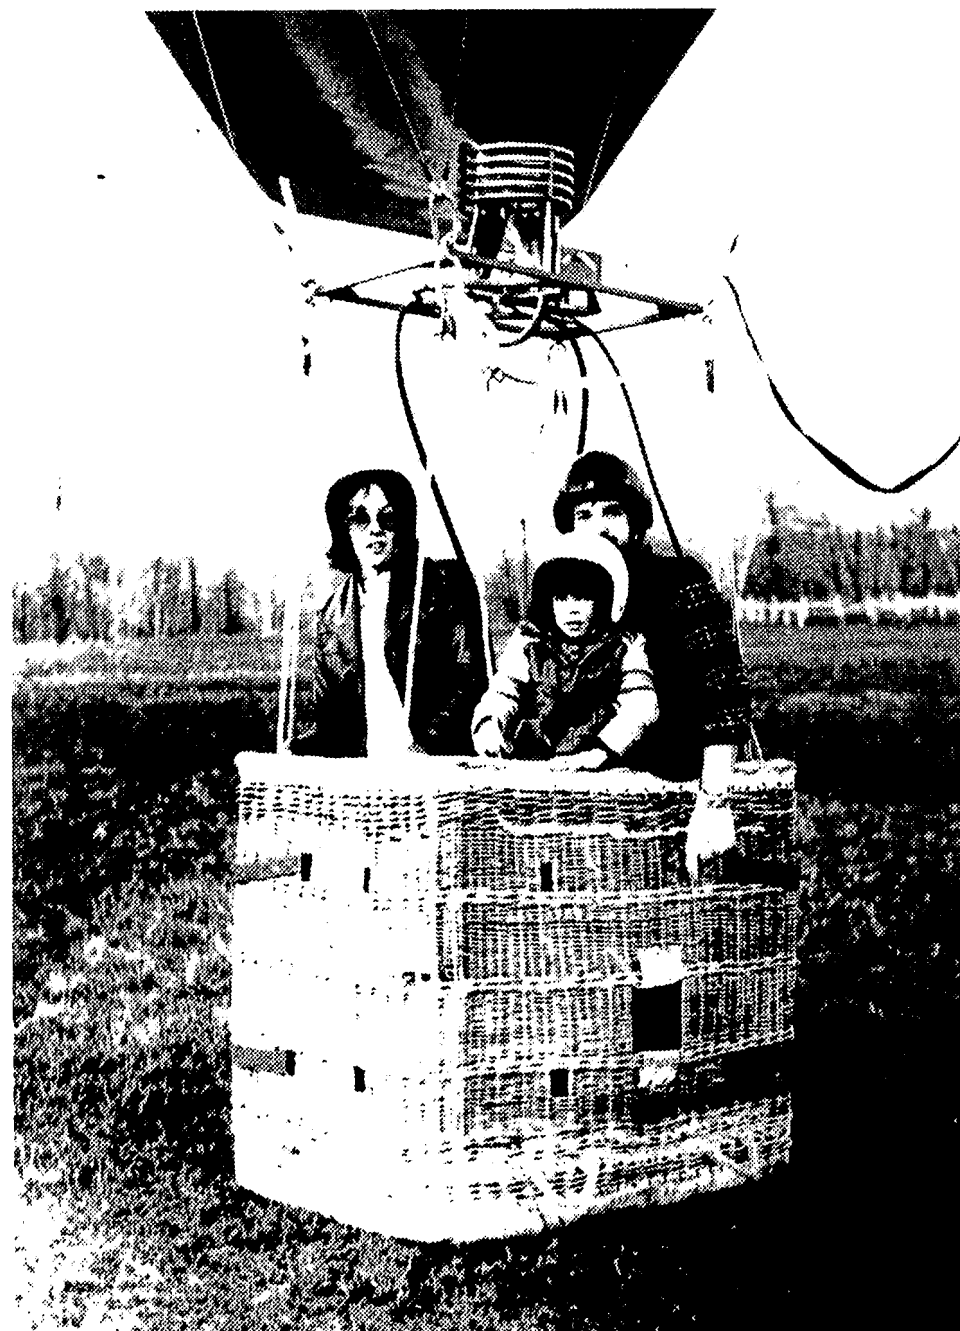

Operation of a modern balloon system consists of three basics: inflation, flight and landing. Inflation begins on the ground as a portable blower fan pushes cold air into the balloon envelope which are fabricated from special ripstring nylon material. When the envelope is about half inflated, the flight burner is ignited and the air heated until the balloon becomes buoyant.

Flight begins when the balloon lifts free of the ground. The burner and a maneuvering vent control the rate of ascent, descent, and the maintenance of level flight. Steering is not always possible as the wind carries the balloon where it goes. However, wind directions vary at different altitudes, allowing the balloonist some ability to alter the direction he wishes to reach.

It takes at least three people to inflate a balloon and it is better to have five or six. If all goes well it takes about 15 minutes to inflate, deflate, or pack the balloon.

A pilots' license is necessary. It is called a Balloon Pilot Certification and this is issued by the Federal Aviation Administration. This is earned after passing the FFA written examination, logging a specified number of hours in a balloon, making a solo flight, making a flight to altitude and passing a flight test.

The letters and numbers on each balloon are registered and belong to the owner or balloonist.

Phillip Empey and son Chris with Phillip's sister Dorrie Palshan pause in the basket.

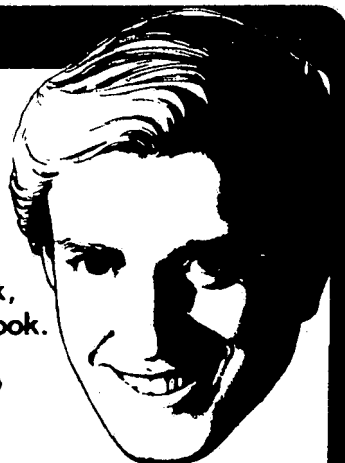

Balloonist Wayne Warren of Clarkston on left and friend Jim Pratt of Fenton standing at top of balloon as they are about to fold it up to carry home. The two balloons landed about a half mile apart.

"ANNIE" COMPLAINT CLOSED Boyd's LAST STAND FIZZLES AT FEDERAL LEVEL

by Carol Balzarini

Contrary to an article published in a local daily newspaper, Clarkston Community Schools has not been reprimanded for the production of "Annie Get Your Gun" staged last March. According to Superintendent Milford Mason, neither the Michigan Civil Rights Commission nor the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has criticized the school district for its handling of the situation.

Just prior to opening night March 22, school officials became aware of objections to the play by Fred Boyd, director of Native American Strategic Services. Boyd charged the play was degrading to Indians and appealed to the state Civil Rights Commission and to HEW in Washington to stop its production.

School officials responded by posting a disclaimer outside the doors of the auditorium to the effect there was no intention to embarrass or degrade any religious or ethnic group. Mason stated simply at that time he felt cancellation would be more detrimental to the students and faculty involved in the show than its performance would be to the general public.

Mason received a letter dated April 19, from the Michigan Civil Rights Commission stating Boyd's allegations the play contained "racially offensive and demeaning dialogue" and that the school district subjected American Indians to "discriminatory" policies.

The letter concluded, however, that since neither Boyd nor any other individual or group had been denied access to the services, activities or programs of the school system, the issue was "not within the Department's jurisdiction" and the complaint was "closed for lack of jurisdiction."

On April 24, Mason sent a letter to the division V director of HEW in Cleveland containing a statement of the disposition of the situation by the school system.

It read, in part: "In fairness to the students and our community, we were in no position to cancel or modify the presentation" and therefore posted the disclaimer.

It stated further: "On behalf of the Clarkston Community Schools, I wish to assure you that any future plays or dramatic productions undertaken by the school district will be selected so as not to offend persons of any race, color or creed."

In response to Mason's letter, O.O. Barr, regional director for elementary and secondary education, stated HEW was considering the matter closed and the concerns of the complainant satisfied.

Mason said he, too, considered the matter closed.

DENTIST HAS NEW LOCATION

Dr. James P. McCafferty has relocated his dental practice to Lake Orion. Dr. McCafferty is now at the Lake Orion Medical Center at 785 Lapeer Road.

Dr. McCafferty has been a family dentist for 7 years. His basic philosophy is "I want all my patients to keep their teeth for a lifetime in good health, comfort, function and aesthetics."

He continues by saying "In order to provide this type of service, I need to perform the most thorough and comprehensive exam on a new patient that I possibly can. I have to have a complete picture of their oral health and general health as the two cannot be separated. Then I devise a treatment plan designed to reach these goals."

Dr. McCafferty illustrated this by explaining his procedure with a new patient. First he talks to the patient about their previous dental experiences and possible dental problems. He tries to get a complete health picture of each patient and explains to them about general dentistry and dental disease.

Next, Dr. McCafferty gets a complete set of x-rays, gets models of the mouth and does an examination of the teeth and soft tissue.

Then he explains "I take these diagnostic tools and study them carefully." After Dr. McCafferty has studied each patient's x-rays and models he presents his findings to the patient. "I explain what their dental health is now, what it could be in the future and together we decide on the course of treatment." (i.e. length of time involved, type of treatment and cost.) "I want the patient to know as much about their oral health as I do so they can make an intelligent decision about their treatment."

Dr. McCafferty realizes that fear is the number one reason why people do not seek proper dental care. "The anxiety and stress that people come into the office with can be the main cause of any discomfort," the Doctor explained. "We try to alleviate the fears by making the patient relaxed, thus alleviating some of the stress. I treat my patients the way I would want to be treated."

Dr. McCafferty uses nitrous oxide (laughing gas) to also help patients relax.

"90% of pain is mental, nitrous removes anxiety. When stress is relieved, so is the pain."

Ray's ANNOUNCES GRAND OPENING

To add new color to your home, come to Ray's Floor and Wall Covering at 1469 M-24, for new carpeting, linoleum, tile, ceramic tile or wall coverings. Wall paper window shades are also offered by owners Ray Beaulieu and Rick Henry.

Their business is different from others of the same type because of the service offered customers. Labor is done at the shop instead of being sent out and the shop stands behind its guarantee of satisfaction.

Ray Beaulieu has been in the business for 20 years and Rick Henry was apprenticed to him for 3 years before he went into partnership in the business in February, 1978. They've been in their present Lake Orion store for 2 years this coming June.

The Grand Opening of their new store at 1469 M-24 will be on June 8, and will encompass all of the know-how and follow through found at their present store.

Dan Williams will be in concert Sunday, June 10th, 6 to 7:00 p.m. at the First Missionary Church, 4832 Clintonville Road, Clarkston.

Williams will sing excerpts from his album "Clean Before My Lord"-an American Artists recording. The original sound track will be used during this concert.

Since his degree in music, Williams has directed area choirs and has led the local "I Love America" concerts.

Williams will also be appearing as the guest soloist during a series of meetings to be held that week, Tuesday through Sunday, June 12 to 17th. A community challenge to "Revitalize" is the Missionary Church theme at 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. weeknights.

Williams, the son of Mrs. Gladys Copeman of Independence Township, is a 1966 Clarkston High School graduate and has also earned a degree in surveying from Ferris State College. He is a registered land surveyor and executive with Kieft Engineering of Clarkston. He and his wife Ilah, have two daughters, Tanya and Rachel.

Ralph Chambers, also a local businessman, will be the sing-a-long, song time leader. He is the music director at the church and plans a chorus choir during these special events.

Arnold Schmidt is the pastor and his guest, Stephen Manley will present the challenge to "Revitalize".

Area friends and families are invited to attend. A free will offering will be taken. You may call 673-3638 for information.

"THERE IS A TENDENCY TO NEGLECT THE NEEDS OF THE GIFTED...TO BELIEVE THEY CAN MAKE IT ON THEIR OWN..."WEBSTER.

School Scrapbook

Webster and Mason both agree that no real effort has been made to identify gifted students because it has not been "a pressing need" in terms of priorities. Mason said there had been only "mild" parental pressure mainly in the form of questions about programs.

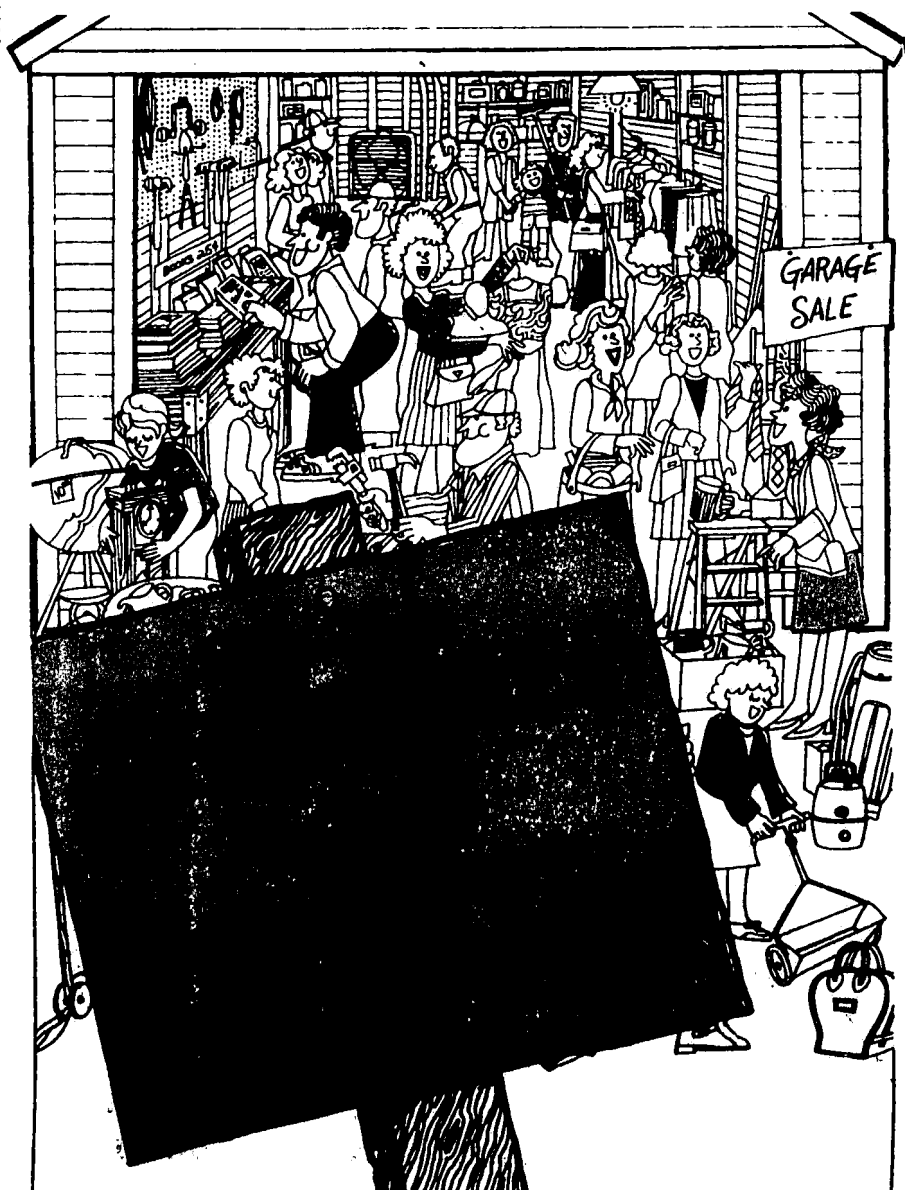

Mason said his suggestion that Webster survey programs for the gifted and talented in Oakland County school districts stemmed from his philosophy of preferring to address a situation before it became a problem. He acknowledged this was a "neglected area of public education."

In the meantime Webster has researched what is going on in Oakland County and came up with ideas which can be implemented if and when space becomes available. He said 18 of the 28 districts responded they offered "specific" programs for gifted and talented students, but he questions how "truly" identified these students are and how "truly" the programs are geared to them. Most systems, he reported, are trying to work with existing funds because grant money is so limited and then may only get a program started.

Webster acknowledged there is a "tendency to neglect the needs of the gifted...to believe they can make it on their own." He feels this is not necessarily true, some students cannot make it on their own and need direction.

In a sense, gifted children can also be considered "handicapped" by lack of provisions for them within a school framework.

FACTS About The Clarkston Bond Issue

What?

Construction of a new junior high school comparable to Sashabaw Junior High School. Modifications for the handicapped at Clarkston High School. Construction of a new library at Clarkston High School.

Why?

The new junior high will enable all students to have comparable educational programs in science, library science, industrial arts and physical education. These programs and others at Clarkston Junior High are affected by the physical limitations of the present building.

The current Clarkston Senior High School library was built at a time when the enrollment was 700. Current enrollment is 1700 and the North Central Accreditation Committee has been critical of the library during its last two evaluations.

Federal and state law requires accessibility be provided for handicapped students to all areas of the high school.

Where?

On a 35-acre site on Clarkston Road between the Independence Township Library and the Clarkston Board of Education office.

Why this site?

Convenience of paved roads, pedestrian access, sewers and water.

Cost?

New junior high school	$7,500,00
High school library	1,300,000
Modifications for handicapped	200,000
Fees, permits, etc.	100,000
Total	$9,100,000

Total mills?

3.61

Time period?

25 years.

Will this millage decrease?

Yes - As the property value increases and with law requiring that only enough money be collected annually to pay the principal and interest, the 3.61 will decrease.

When will construction begin?

Bonds will be sold in December 1979. Construction will begin in the spring of 1980.

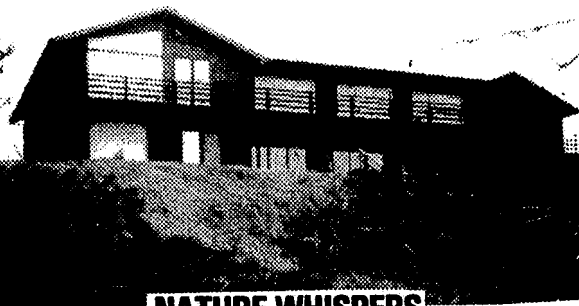

Date of occupation?

Tentatively - September 1982.

What will happen to Clarkston Junior High?

It will become an elementary school providing needed space in each elementary school for added classrooms, special programs, art and music rooms.

With declining enrollments do we need more building?

NATURE WHISPERS

HISTORY OF NEED FOR NEW CLARKSTON JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

1. 1930 - Original building constructed [two-story section].

2. 1954 - Single story addition construction.

3. 1973-1974 School Year:

A. Fall-Administration conducts an informal feasibility study of the junior high school.

B. February-Board of education receives and discusses the study.

4. 1974-75 School Year:

A. Spring-Board decides to do a complete renovation of the locker rooms at the junior high.

B. Spring-Board decides to do a full feasibility study of the junior high and hires an architectural firm. Primary purposes of the study are:

1. To determine life of present buildings, with cost figures on what it would take to bring building up to present educational standards.

2. To determine present costs to build a new junior high school comparable to Sashabaw Junior High School.

5. Summer, 1975:

A. Boy's and girl's locker rooms are completely renovated.

B. The firm of Denyes and Freeman does a thorough feasibility study of Clarkston Junior High School.

6. 1975-1976 School Year:

A. Fall-Board of education receives the junior high study and makes the following decisions:

1. Not to renovate the present building but to do all necessary repairs only and build a new junior high school.

2. To appoint a study committee by 1979-80 to design a new junior high school.

B. December-Board of education meets to discuss facility needs of the district. The final three priorities (in order) were:

1. Media centers in each elementary.

2. Multi-purpose rooms in each elementary.

3. A new Clarkston Junior High School.

7. 1977-78 School Year:

A. Fall-A Citizens Advisory Committee to Study School Facilities is appointed by board of education to research:

1. Ability of the district's present school buildings to house current and future programs and enrollment.

2. The short and long range growth potential of the district for student enrollment.

3. The financial status of the district in operating funds and bonded indebtedness at present and in the future.

B. June-The Citizens Advisory Committee issues their final report to the board of education. After studying seven different options, the committee recommended the following:

1. Construction of a new junior high comparable to Sashabaw Junior High.

2. Use of present Clarkston Junior High as an elementary school (gain some 30 rooms).

3. Enlargement of the high school media center - library - and renovation of other existing space to meet required needs.

8. 1978-79 School Year:

A. Fall-Board holds meetings in school buildings to give public the opportunity to react to the Citizens Advisory Committee recommendations.
