editor's note

I'm not convinced Independence Township officials are doing that bad a job.

Day in and day out, Reminder reporters must work with these officials and thus often times they become frustrated, or feel abused, when phone calls aren't returned (a common tactic) or questions aren't answered in direct fashion. Thus they have a tendency to become critical and cynical about local government.

But to my way of thinking local government is the best form of government we've got going for us. I'd much rather deal with a Whitey Tower than a bureaucrat in Lansing or Washington. You only have to pick up your phone and dial the local government's number, and providing they return your call, your problem is on its way to being solved.

Of course not everyone can agree with the decisions made at township meetings. I, for one, happen to agree with Carol Balzarini when she claimed the township is dragging its feet in regards to several matters--but isn't that a way of life in bureaucracies, whether they be small or large. I don't see our federal government acting quickly to form an energy policy. I don't see the state doing much with the Headlee amendment.

Maybe instead of belittling and berating these officials, we should do a better job of trying to work with them. That is the key to effective change.

The package looked like a good one. There were no obvious frills. It had been formulated by considerable citizen input and there was no organized opposition. But, when it came time to vote, the Clarkston Schools Bond Issue was defeated by a 2 to 1 margin.

What happens next? We strongly suggest the Board re-evaluate its package, if they plan to present it for another vote soon. Nine million dollars seems like a whole lot of money for one junior high school building. A scaled down version would have a greater chance of passing.

If Clarkston Schools think they were the objects of the voters' wrath, pity those poor members of the Holly School Board, that were soundly recalled last week. Five members including President John Sennett were voted out of office, in what constitutes one of the most significant recall votes ever in this area.

The recall was conducted under the auspices of the Holly Education Association. But even they indicated surprise at the number of voters who voted to recall the five members. Apparently people are either fed up with the way their school system is being run, or the Holly Education Association is much too powerful for the good of the school system.

Thanks for the Interest

Dear Mr. Wilcox:

I want to express my sincere appreciation to you for the interest you and your paper have shown through the past school year. To remain credible with the public you serve, the paper has been positive about many issues and has taken exception when the occasion warranted in a tasteful manner.

Needless to say, this opportunity to communicate well is greatly enhanced by your reporter, Carol Balzarini. Best wishes and continued success.

THOUGHTS 'N THINGS

Well, it is that time again--already! It seems that school just started a few short weeks ago, and here it is vacation time again! How does the school year manage to fly by so quickly?

Some mothers are really happy about having the kids home for awhile. They've planned excursions to the zoo and the park and to movie matinees, and have planned to invite some of their friends and their kids over for lunch, or to go swimming, and the summer is spread out before them like it was when they were kids.

Other mothers don't quite look at it that way, however. They hate the long summer months, and having the kids underfoot. In fact, the neighbors are dreading the season of open windows, because they know they are going to listen to a lot of yelling and complaining coming from next door.

Is there really a big difference in mothers who have fun with their kids and mothers who don't? I've never been able to find any basic physical differences. I haven't been able to find any economic differences or educational differences either. In fact, the reason for the difference doesn't really seem to be emotional either. Yelling or not yelling really hasn't anything to do with whether or not the mothers who yell or the mothers who don't yell, love their children. It is more in the mental attitudes of the mothers than anything else.

It seems to me that mothers who do an awful lot of yelling at their kids during summer vacation, are the ones who are under a strain; and yelling is a very normal and healthy release for people who are under a strain. They yell because yelling releases negative energy and they relax a little after they have yelled. They very often feel terrible as a result, however, and that puts them under more strain. That sets up the kind of vicious circle that sends mothers to offices to sit at typewriters all summer while someone else stays home and gets paid to yell at their kids. It seems kind of silly, so I have a suggestion. Mothers who are under a strain should sit down and do a lot of thinking about time and love and their kids and what's important in life, and then start changing a few things--like automatically accepting the burden of responsibility that puts too much strain on them.

In the first place, it is entirely normal for mothers to feel that their homes should be in perfect order at all times, and absolutely shiningly clean like in the commercials on television.

In the second place, it is entirely normal for mothers to feel that their children should be perfect, and that they themselves should be thin, beautifully groomed, and band-box neat at all times.

It is also normal for mothers to feel that they should be prepared to serve three economical, well-balanced, delicious meals a day to their families, and:

That they should be sparkling, witty, understanding, glamorous, thin and beautiful wives at the end of a day when they have scrubbed and polished the house, made the children's clothes, and bathed and dressed those children three or four times, and made and served the wonderful three meals, plus dashing notes off to the in-laws, inviting them to come for the summer.

That's it. It is entirely normal for mothers to feel that they should do all those things. But, is it rational to believe that it is possible? Of course not.

Now, what is rational? Well, understanding that the children will grow up and move away, and that the house will one day be very easy to keep clean--and also will be very empty, is rational. Knowing that a husband is unreasonable who expects absolute perfection from the woman he married, and realizing that he is more no response from the debtors.

Another agency, the Social Security Administration, wrote off a $1,496 debt because the individual pleaded that repayment would create a hardship.

However, the General Accounting Office found that this individual owned a 160-acre farm valued at $1,200 per acre, had cattle and machinery valued at $48,000, and had equity of over $100,000 in farm property based on present value.

Affluent individuals who could afford to pay these just debts are not the only ones making monkeys out of the government and the American taxpayer.

The U.S. Geological Survey collects about $1.2 billion in royalties annually from the oil and gas industry. However, because of the Geological Survey's inadequate financial management system, many of the royalties are not being collected in full or on time.

In a 1977 audit of the Geological Survey, for instance, $12 million was identified as royalty losses; yet the shoddy work of the Geological Survey continues.

The tax burden upon the people is at an excessive level. Yet, when individuals and large oil and gas companies choose to take advantage of inefficiencies in the government's debt collection procedures, the result is the shift of an enormous additional burden onto the backs of the American taxpayer.

The attitude of those in government must also share a large portion of the blame for this problem. There have been too many examples of waste and loss of the people's money for the lack of a sense of fiscal responsibility. For far too long, bureaucrats have looked at the spending of federal funds as no one's money, when they should have been thinking of it as the spending of the people's money.

If we are ever to bring federal spending under control, the government must pay serious attention not only to how the money is spent, but also to how debts are collected. Neither the government nor the people need a continuation of these wasteful practices.

Feature Editor

interested in having a servant than a wife is rational. Recognizing that that is his problem and that he must deal with his unrealistic expectations from life is rational.

On the other hand, we all must have some minimum standards, and kids can learn very quickly what those minimum standards are. What's more, they can help maintain them, and they will, if they are rewarded. Kids shouldn't be rewarded for what they are supposed to do? Don't be silly. How long would your husband stick to his job if he didn't get paid for doing it? The point of doing some things and not others is the reward we get for some of them. There is absolutely nothing wrong with rewards. Punishments, yes. Rewards, no. In this case, the rewards should be fun time with mom. Put it this way. "I get upset when the kitchen isn't clean, so I want to clean it up. If I get it done in time, we can pack a picnic and take a walk, and eat our lunch in the park."

If the kids don't catch on that helping you will get the job done sooner, mention it to them. If they still don't want to help, do the work yourself, and then reward yourself. "I did the work, so I am now going to watch what I want to watch on television." That is also a matter of teaching important things to children. Those who take responsibility and do work get privileges. Those who don't help don't get privileges. That is reality. It is not being "childish" too. Adults just want to be treated fairly. Kids must learn that.

It may take a while for children to adjust to changes if they have been getting away with mistreatment of mom and only having to put up with yelling in return. Behavior modification does work, however, and every mom can learn the techniques. It's easy, and every more important than that, is, it's quiet! We can all use more of that!

Representative Broomfield Reports From Washington

Because of the federal government's shoddy or nonexistent debt collection habits, taxpayers have taken on an extra burden of about $3.5 million in defaults over the years.

Last year alone, bad debts cost taxpayers $500 million, and this was an increase of sixty percent over the previous year.

This casual attitude toward debt collection seems to be prevalent throughout the federal bureaucracy. While the government is great at spending the people's money, it is an abject failure at collecting from its debtors.

The Office of Education alone has $4 billion in accounts and loans receivable, of which $1 billion worth are in default.

The General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of the Congress, looked at some of the education assistance debts written off by the Veterans Administration as uncollectable. They found that 58 percent of the individuals had good credit ratings outside of the government.

Among these cases examined by the General Accounting Office, it found:

- * one person had an automobile loan of over $10,000;
- * another person had a $170,000 home mortgage, but according to the VA, could not pay a $638 debt to the government;

- * other people had sufficient credit to secure mortgages on vacation sites or second homes.

The General Accounting Office found that about ninety percent of their sample of VA cases were determined to be uncollectable after the agency had sent its customary three letters requesting payment and got

WHAT IS THE "SUDDEN-INFANT-DEATH" SYNDROME?

This is the occasion when a child, well cared for and robust, usually between the ages of three weeks and twelve months, is put to bed; a short time later the mother returns to the bedroom to find the child dead. There is no sign of struggle although the child may have changed position.

This type of death is often called "crib death." It is a particularly devastating experience for parents of the child. They suffer feelings of guilt which they shouldn't. If they have used normal care and precaution, there's absolutely no reason for them to blame themselves. In situations such as this, it is recommended that the parents consult their minister, doctor or psychiatrist.

Ongoing medical research has not yet been able to find any reason for this type of death; nor can they predict or prevent it. "Old wives tales" and much misinformation surrounds the sudden death of an infant under these otherwise normal circumstances.

Should this happen to someone you know, try to understand their own helplessness and the lack of knowledge now available.

Voter reaction to the Clarkston Community Schools' request for a $9.1 million bond issue was an overwhelming "no!" Not one precinct in the school district registered more positive than negative votes.

Bond money would have been used to build a new junior high school, added a new library to the high school and made structural changes there to aid the handicapped.

Following announcement of the vote tally, School Board President Robert Walters' first reaction was to warn that building costs would rise by an estimated 10 percent for each year construction was postponed.

Administrative Assistant William Neff allowed it had not been an "exciting campaign" but one which had been aimed primarily at parents of junior high age children and younger. He recommended the issue be returned to the ballot "as soon as possible, as often as possible...we still have these needs."

Schools Superintendent Milford Mason stated it was too early for definite decisions but it was a "package that must be returned (to the voters)." He preferred not to make any recommendations. "We adhere to the voice of the people at this time," he concluded.

Later in the week, Mason said there was still no definite decision about what to do next, but that it was a tentative item for the July agenda.

"It's a solid issue," he said, "and critical for the district."

At any rate, school laws govern timetables in such matters. Under the section dealing with bond issues, it states they can be returned to the voters no sooner than six months unless the proposal or the amount of money requested is "substantially" changed. The term "substantially" is apparently open to interpretation by attorneys for school districts.

The six-month waiting period may also be waived if 50 percent of the registered voters in a school district sign a petition requesting another election. That would number some 6,000-7,000 people in the Clarkston district.

According to Mason, special election costs are "minimal" in terms of the overall budget, $3,500-$4,000. Repeats tend to antagonize voters, he said, alluding to defeats in Pontiac, Walled Lake and Lake Orion. School personnel will weigh all possibilities carefully before any definite decisions are made.

In the meantime, the unofficial vote tally showed 65 percent of those who voted rejected the bond issue; only 2,701 votes were cast in the school district's annual election.

Just One of Those Days

The way the mother tells it is that her thirteen year old daughter has developed a real stubborn streak lately, and she is making her mother miserable, trying to "get even" for every imagined slight or "put down" that her mother accidentally inflicts on her.

A couple of Saturdays ago, for instance, daughter was yelling up the stairs to her mother, asking her if she would fix her some lunch. Well, mother was busy, so she yelled back, "fix yourself some lunch. I'm busy--and don't yell at me again. I'll let you know when I'm free!"

It seems that mom was trying to alter a dress and it wasn't coming out right, and she was frustrated, so she did sound crabby and meant to apologize later on, but it slipped her mind. In fact, she didn't think about it again.

Evidently daughter didn't forget the matter that easily, because the next afternoon while she was lying on her bed playing her stereo she had the chance to mimic her mother, and she did. It seems that her little brother entered her room and said, "mom wants you to come downstairs," and sis said, "tell her that I'm busy, and not to send you up again. I'll let her know when I'm free!"

Well, brother carried the message downstairs to mother--and the nice looking boy that had arrived at the doorstep asking to see his sister. That young man looked surprised and started to leave, and it was almost "one of those days" for daughter.

Luckily for her, however, she thought better of her message to mother, and came bounding down the stairs just in time to say she was only kidding, and to turn on the charm for her guest!

DETROIT EDISON OFFERS EIGHT IMPORTANT TIPS TO HELP YOU GET THE MOST OUT OF YOUR AIR CONDITIONER THIS SUMMER.

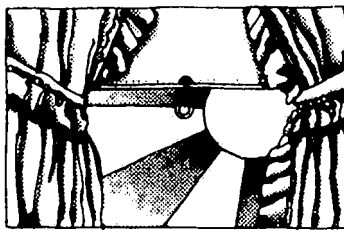

Fortunately, Detroit Edison customers have plenty of electric power available. Now and in the future. It's the result of planning, development and investment and the fact that over 84 percent of Detroit Edison's power is generated from coal, the nation's most abundant fuel. The balance is generated from other fossil fuels.

Even so, none of us should waste energy. So follow these tips and stay cool and comfortable all summer long.

1 Keep your air conditioner on a moderate setting. When leaving home, set the temperature higher.

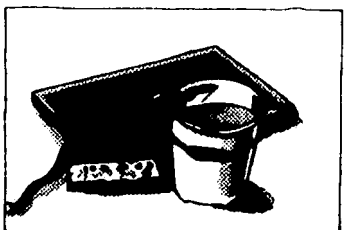

2 Pull down shades and close draperies to keep out the hot sun.

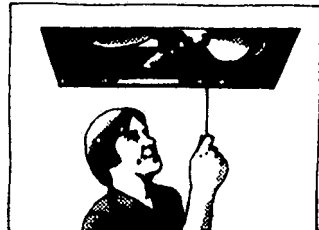

3 Be careful not to block the flow of cool air.

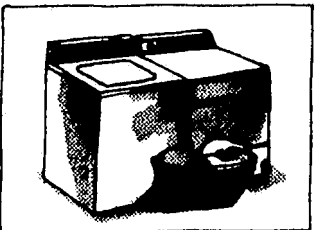

4 Shade windows from outside with ventilated awnings, solar screens, trees or shrubs.

5 Keep air filter, coils, registers and return ducts clean.

6 Cool off hot attic at night with an attic exhaust fan.

7 Use heat and humidity-producing appliances—such as your oven, washer and dryer—early in the morning or in the evening.

GRAVEL OPERATIONS DRAW COMPLAINTS FROM RESIDENTS

By Carol Balzarini

Gravel mining operations in Independence Township are governed by the mineral and soil removal section of the zoning ordinance.

Application for such mining is made to the township planning commission. If the commission approves, the plan goes to the zoning board of appeals (ZBA) which may authorize the township building inspector to issue a permit for such operation.

Presently there are four gravel pits or mining operations in the township. The Waldon Road site near Sashabaw Road is an old non-conforming pit where no activity is taking place at this time, according to Tim Palulian, head of the township building department. Since it does not come under the terms of the new zoning ordinance, there are no reclamation plans for it.

Another operation is located on Oak Hill Road near Dartmouth on the far east side of the township. Salem Construction Company is on its third year of a five-year extension of mining operation under an old consent judgment. It has a reclamation plan to abide by once operation has ceased.

A third site is on White Lake Road operated by the Ann Arbor Construction Company. Although he has not reviewed the files recently, Palulian believed this one to be nearly completed.

The remaining area is on Stickney Road just east of Sashabaw owned by the Stolaruk Corporation, operated by the Bit-Con Corporation. The 23-acre site was an old non-conforming pit for years; the present operation began in 1973.

When the ZBA first granted a permit to mine there were no reclamation plans, Palulian said. Now, however, they have been engineered and approved to be instituted at the end of the mining period.

Originally the operation was allowed for three years; there were two subsequent extensions. The last one was granted in April of 1978, Palulian said, with reclamation to begin in October and completion scheduled for December.

When the township visited the site shortly after December 1, they discovered mining still going on in violation of ZBA requirements and a portion of what had been reclaimed was being remined. At that time, Palulian told Stolaruk to cease operating and to contact the ZBA if he wanted to seek another extension. Mining, however, continued.

The matter was taken to Circuit Court with the township and Stolaruk entering into a consent judgment in February of this year. Mining was allowed to continue for an additional 21 days from May 15. The deadline for total cessation and total reclamation is July 1.

Palulian anticipates another court appearance on July 2 because the Stolaruk Corporation cannot possibly have the land reclaimed in time to meet the deadline. Huge stockpiles remain and extraction continues. Also a representative of the company has told him it can't be done.

Recent problems with the mining operations are just the latest in a series of problems with the gravel site. The file contains complaints from residents about the dust, the noise and encroachment.

Most of the dust and noise complaints have come from residents whose property abuts the mining operation. They have charged the company has ignored the requirements of the zoning ordinance by neglecting to put chloride or oil in some areas to control the dust. They claim operation is not limited to the designated hours of 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Palulian acknowledges that dust control has not been as it should. He has no personal knowledge of operation of the crusher outside the designated hours, but he said a crusher was an "integral part" of any mining operation.

Encroachment has been charged by Janet McCord whose acreage abuts the mining operation on the east. She hesitated to say all that she would like to on the matter because of possible legal proceedings, but did say she was the one who had to notify the township that not only was the company not observing the 10 foot limit but was undercutting her property as well.

Originally, mining was not allowed within 50 feet of a property line, but that has since been changed to 10 feet. McCord feels this is not enough to protect the roots of

Residents Tell How They Feel About John Wayne, New Manager

By Sharon Springborn

During the last week of June 14, two happenings concerning "American institutions" occurred.

In the first incident, in the American institution of baseball, Les Moss was fired as the manager of the Detroit Tigers and was replaced by Sparky Anderson, former manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

John Wayne finally died of cancer in the second incident.

We asked several people in the Clarkston area for their feelings regarding both of these occurrences.

Three women, Ann Everett, Mrs. Ed Falardeau and Kathy Foley, all admitted that they were the wrong persons to ask about any events in the world of baseball, but Mrs. Foley did admit that she supposed the firing "was for the better." Though their baseball acumen wasn't very sharp, all did feel badly that John Wayne had to pass away, even though Ms. Everett said that she "realized he was an old man, and sometimes living with cancer can be worse than dying."

Norma Daniels said almost the same things as the other three women. She said that she does feel badly for anyone who gets fired, and feels badly about John Wayne.

"He's just one more face that we won't see around," said Ms. Daniels. Said Mr. Vernon Eisenhardt, "I think that Anderson is a more aggressive man. In the months that Moss has been manager, when you watch a game on TV or go out to see a game, it seems like the man has no emotion for baseball. The Tigers (in obtaining Anderson's services) were just trying to get the best man for the job." He also said, concerning John Wayne, "I watched John Wayne movies...his political viewpoints I don't always agree with. John Wayne was a good American, believed in the country and how it was run. It wasn't a put on, he really believed it."

Echoing pretty much the same sentiments was Hannah Farnsworth, who feels that Moss' firing is "fine." She said, "I think Sparky Anderson will bring the Tigers to life and make them a champion ball club. He's done it for a lot of other clubs." Concerning Wayne, she stated that he seemed like he would be a nice person, but the pictures that he made were more "men's" pictures, but "if I went to a movie, it would be one of his."

Two Clarkston men, Steve Davidson and Norman Easley, felt that both Les Moss and Sparky Anderson are pretty good managers, but Easley feels that Anderson will prove himself better than Moss. Both felt that it was too bad about Wayne's passing on, because he was "pretty good and all."

It Was A Good Year For CHS Sports

SEVERAL GOAL Championships Won

by Bill Grobbel

For 505 seniors at CHS, high school is over forever. Many of these ex-students were involved in the athletic program at CHS this past year. Let's take a look back at the athletic program at Clarkston High last year.

Starting out the year was football in September. Their season began with a new coaching staff: Bill Valasco as head coach (who has since left for Pennsylvania), Gordie Richardson, Darrell Marsh, and Al Merian; many new players; and a lot of hope. The first game was an absolute disaster losing to Grand Blanc 45-0. Plagued with injuries, the team collected only 2 wins of their total of 9 games, defeating Waterford Kettering and Rochester Adams. There were bright spots in this dismal season, though. Rueben Hutchons led the team in rushing with 417 yards when he was sidelined with a knee injury in a game against Andover.

But as assistant coach Gordie Richardson said, "Rather than dwell on the past, we should be thinking of the future. Last fall is water under the bridge and I can't think of anything that hasn't been repeated a million times. The person you should be talking to is the new head coach (replacing Valasco), Walt Wyniemo. Ask him about next year." Terrific. Unfortunately, Mr. Wyniemo could not be reached for comment.

While Varsity was losing, Junior Varsity football was winning like crazy.

For the first time since 1970, the J.V. went undefeated 8-0. With the leadership of Kurt Richardson and Gary Warner, the team dished it out to their opponents. One of the many highlights of their league winning season, was Mark Hughes who gained an amazing total of 866 yards rushing, an average of over 110 yards per game!

Not doing quite as well, but still having a fairly successful season were the CHS Wrestlers, finishing off their section of the fall sports program with a 7-6 record. They finished 2nd in their league meet and placed 3rd in their league overall. Guided by their new coach, Gary Warner (replacing Toby Carter), Craig Gawette, Claude Gourand, Tim Detkowski, and Paul Carr made it to regional competition, and Craig, Claude, and Tim competed in the state meet.

Also having a disappointing season was the Girl's Varsity Basketball team with a 5-16 record. Miss Jan Modesitt, in her last year as coach (Dave MacDonald from Clarkston Junior High is taking over next year), the Varsity girls recorded 856 points for an average of 40.8 points per game. Co-captains were Jeannie O'Dell and Kay Pearson. Kay, a senior, was awarded MVP honors and 1st team All-League. She was also given a special award for her amazing 1044 points in her "career."

While the girls didn't fare too well, the guys did fantastic. Varsity, led by Gary Nustad in his 3rd year as coach, racked up a 20-3 record and their second consecutive GOAL championship. Piloted by 6 ft. 9 1/4 inch Center Tim McCormick, who received numerous awards (too many to mention) and who had a 31.5 points per game average and 18.6 rebounds per game. The Wolfpack Express (as the team is affectionately called) was helped along the winning path by the super seniors Greg Robertson (co-captain), Dino Rotondo, Reuben Hutchons, and Scott Curry. The "Ice Man," Ed Haddad, made his contribution known with a 10.1 points per game average and John Sheldon "assisted" the team with his numerous assists (he led the team in that department). There were so many super events that happened during the season, but the one that will probably be remembered by most people will be the tension victory over Rochester at home with a standing room only crowd. There were also many "behind the scenes" happenings that will never be told, but they fused 13 individual students into an explosively charged team that couldn't be stopped. They were rated 10th in the state, 4th in Oakland County.

Junior Varsity Boy's Basketball was not to be left out of the winning, they finished their season with a 14-6 record, and they retained their league title. Coach Larry Mahrle considers their season a success, "We set goals and we achieved them. At the beginning of the year we century-old trees lining the cliff overlooking the mine. McCord also resented having to hire her own surveyor to prove her property was being undercut. In the meantime she feared for the safety of local children because of the 40 foot drop from her property to the floor of the mining operation. There was no fence at the time although the zoning ordinance required a 6-foot chain link fence.

It was not until she contacted elected officials that a fence was put up, she said, and then it was on her property because theirs was gone.

McCord is not alone in the fight to control the mining operation. She has been supported by a number of adjacent residents who feel those who live around these pits are "victimized" by all others involved. They all object to noise, dust, encroachment and danger to children.

But McCord goes further in her concerns. She doesn't believe in the senseless destruction of trees, she worries about the hazards to wildlife, and she doesn't believe the reclaimed land should be perfectly flat, except for the steep grade to her property, as she feels it will be one day. She also feels the township should not be exposed to any more gravel operations.

One such proposed operation, recently rejected by the township planning commission, involved some 500 acres on the west side of Sashabaw Road just south of Independence-Oaks county park. If all parcels were acquired it could even abut Clintonwood, the township park on Clarkston Road.

The proposal was a 23-year project with total reclamation at the end, or "at the turn of the century" as Palulian put it. The end result would have been a 300 acre lake with 3 acre plus parcels around it.

Strongest opposition came from State Senator Kerry Kammer and Eric Reickel, Director of Parks and Recreation for Oakland County. Kammer has legislation pending which would control wetlands to a certain extent and protect them from misuse. Much of the land in question is a designated wetland area. Application has already been made to the Michigan Land Trust to acquire 300 acres of that land for the purpose of preserving open spaces. Kammer was sponsor of the state's land trust bill.

Reickel opposed the project mainly because of its proximity to the county park and its possible damage to the headwaters of the Clinton River located within the park boundaries.

The planning commission unanimously said "no" to the project citing poor use of the land and having too great an impact on the community.

Palulian did not want to speculate on what course of action the Edward C. Levy Company, proposers of the gravel operation, would take. He said there were several avenues open to them.

The company can petition the ZBA; they have picked up applications already. They may also go directly to Circuit Court. Palulian said he did not know of any decision as yet.

He did speculate they were "a large outfit with a lot of staying power" but it may also not be worth their while to oppose both the county and Senator Kammer.

had 3 goals: defeat all 3 Waterford schools (J.V. is undefeated against Waterford); win the Waterford Mott Christmas tournament; and retain the league title. We got them all."

Individual honors went to Scott McKoin, MVP; Steve Wyckoff, MIP; and co-captains Doug Hagyard and Ric Schebor.

The Girl's Volleyball team, coached by Mrs. Linda Denstaedt, finished with a 7-9 record. The team consisted of mainly young players that were constantly improving up to their last contest. They had a good start, a 4-2 record, then they lost 3 straight. But they fought back to 6-5 record, then again lost 3 straight. It's the old adage of "they tried, but they just couldn't do it."

Despite the absolutely lousy Spring weather ("ye olde flood"), the CHS Boys Track team had a fantastic year.

As Coach Ed Solley put it, "This has been the most enjoyable and rewarding season of my 10 years of coaching track." The team was one of the best track teams Clarkston has come out with in many years, posting a 4-1 GOAL record which was good for 2nd place in that league. The guys also placed second in the GOAL league meet and placed 7th in the Oakland County meet (incidentally, ahead of all other GOAL teams).

This was also a year for records. 6 new track and field records were set this year. Senior Gordon Sanders set a new school record for the 2 mile run with a time of 9:18. Scott Erickson set a new discus record at 158 ft. 9 inches. Steve Wyckoff set a new high jump record at 6 ft. 4 inches. The medley relay of Ellis, Giroux, Ryeson, and Ulasich set a new record at 2:32.5. The shuttle hurdle relay team of Lyons, Wagner, Ludwig, and Foos set a new record with a time of 1:00.4. The heavy man relay team of Rantenen, Lekas, Brown and Erikson won the Lake Orion Relays event, setting a new record with a clocking of 1:45.24. There were many other outstanding performances the past season, all contributed to make the CHS track team what they were: winners.

Another winner was the Varsity Softball team coached by Mrs. Kathy Mahrle with a 20-8 overall record, 8-2 in league good for 2nd place one game behind West Bloomfield in GOAL. Mrs. Mahrle commented on her team's performance, "We did great. We had weak hitting, but we capitalized on the opponent's mistakes. Our defense was good and our pitching was excellent."

Pam Blower was named MVP, Donna O'Dell was named MIP. Given the honor of 1st team all-league were Michelle Dearborn and Kay Pearson. CHS members on 2nd team all-league were Donna O'Dell and Kelly Mason. Honorable mention all-league went to Mindy Haas and Lisa Forsyth. All in all, a terrific season for the

"HAMS" TO COMPETE IN Field Day

Many of the nation's 150,000 Amateur Radio Operators are busily preparing for their June 23-24 Field Day, sponsored by the parent Amateur Radio Relay League. The annual event challenges groups of "hams" to construct temporary radio stations, using portable generator power, and establish two way communication with as many other stations as possible. A point scoring system of the A.R.R.L. regulates the competitive efforts of the teams.

An area group known as the Amateur Radio Mavericks plans a Class A (three or more transmitters) station to be set up on a farm land site near Oxford. Thirty licensed amateurs, including six wives, make up the team which will try to rank high in this national competition.

Twenty-three Maverick team members are from the Oakland County area, and they set aside normal professions and vocations to band together with other amateur radio enthusiasts in the Field Day effort.

John and Florence VanPutten of Davisburg are part of the six husband and wife team members.

The public is invited to visit the site on Saturday from 3 - 7 p.m., and Sunday from 10:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. It is located at 1275 North Baldwin Road between Granger and Hummer Lake Roads. Free off street parking is available.

"Absurd Person Singular"

OPENS SUMMER THEATRE

Alan Ayckbourn's comedy "Absurd Person Singular"

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE REMINDER

will open the Summer Theatre Festival at Wayne State University's Hilberry Theatre Thursday, July 5, at 8:30 p.m. Performances continue Friday and Saturday, July 6 and 7, and the following week Wednesday through Saturday, July 11-14, at 8:30.

Ayckbourn, who has been called the British Neil Simon, has had great success on Broadway, where his current offering is "Bedroom Farce." Ayckbourn constructs his plot like a Chinese puzzle, fitting together each intricate piece in the lives of three different couples to form a unified whole. The characters in "Absurd Person Singular" are revealed on three successive Christmases which are crucial times in their lives. They come dangerously close to destroying each other, not because of malice, but because of their own ineptness. While the characters have trouble dealing with themselves and others, they have worse luck with physical objects, and even replacing a light bulb becomes a funny though almost catastrophic ordeal.

Running through this hilarity is the story of the rise and fall of these couples from vastly different backgrounds, who meet from Christmas eve parties over a three-year period. The working class couple rises to wealth, the aristocrats begin to descent economically and the third couple struggles to stay in the middle. The three marriages are all less than perfect, and the six characters madly attempt to maintain their balance in a changing world.

Tickets and information for the entire Summer Theatre Festival of six productions are available at the Wayne State University Theatre box office. The telephone number is 577-2972.

Mick Monroe hold the 18 1/2 lb. trout son Steve caught near the Arctic Circle.

HE TRAVELS TO COLD ARCTIC TO FISH

By Leona Hutchings

Mick Monroe of Gibbs Road, Clarkston, is an enthusiastic hunter and fisherman having experienced hundreds of interesting trips related to outdoor life. However, recently Monroe and 10 year old son Steve headed for Monroe Lake (no relation) far above the Canadian line in northwest Manitoba just twenty miles from the Arctic Circle in what he considers one of his most memorable trips.

Monroe traveled with several businessmen from Clarkston by 747 to Minneapolis, then on to Winnipeg, and to the last stop known as Thompson, before loading all their gear into a float plane and taking off for the last 200 miles. A thrill for young Steve was the opportunity to set in the pilot's seat and give a hand on the float plane.

The group stayed at Kacey Lodge on Monroe Lake where fishing went on from sun up to sun down each day. It is easy according to Monroe to catch many good sized fish but any under seven pounds are thrown back to let grow for the next fisherman. Lake trout averaged 20 pounds, Northerns about 12 pounds.

The lodge is well equipped to handle groups and offers quick freezing for the fish and up-to-date accommodations for twenty guests. The lake is ideal in size to fish either with a guide or without a guide. It is about 2 to 4 miles wide and at least 25 miles long.

Monroe remarked that he had caught many fish off the Florida coast but to have the opportunity to be with a group of seven local men for several days of fishing was a trip he hopes to take again. Young Steve recalls the many bear tracks around the lake. This part of country is noted for its black bear.

STATE HEARS CITIZEN CONCERN About M-15 Widening

A public hearing was held last week at the Independence Township Hall for citizen input about plans for the proposed widening of M-15 south of Paramus to the Dixie Highway intersection.

The hearing was called by the Michigan Department of Transportation, represented by Jack Morgan, Director of Public Involvement, at the request of the Village of Clarkston. Village residents were not satisfied with the results of an earlier hearing at which only plans for a proposed drain were discussed.

The state, county, and township are considering a combined drain project to relieve periodic flooding in the south M-15 area. The state alone would pay for the road widening but has declined to do so unless the drain project is okayed by the township, the last body to approve the proposal. State and county participation has been assured.

Township Clerk Chris Rose, who attended the meeting, said later the MDT had quoted a set of accident figures for the years 1973-75 which showed the accident rate in that area to be "relatively high" and the number of personal injuries to be "high." On that basis, the MDT had studied further and recommended the two lanes be increased to five.

Residents expressed concern over the point where the five lanes would narrow to two and what might ultimately be planned for the section of road north of Paramus to the Village limits.

Alternate suggestions to the proposed five lanes include:

- *Lowering the speed limit.
- *Putting a stoplight at Paramus.
- *Allowing left turn from southbound Dixie to northbound M-15 to stop use of the A&P parking lot.
- *Elimination of the green arrow onto M-15 to slow traffic.
- *Return the corner to a ninety degree angle, eliminate the green arrow and ban right turns on red lights interrupting traffic flow.

*Indicate access to I-75 by way of the Dixie rather than M-15 through the Village.

Several answers to these suggestions were immediate. There was not enough traffic to warrant a light at Paramus, Morgan said. The same reason ruled out left turns from Dixie. The feasibility of others would be looked into, he promised.

Morgan also said his department wanted to put in curbs and gutters but would do so only if the road were five lanes, not three. He emphasized there would be no widening of M-15 through the Village, one of the residents' greatest fears.

Ted Thomson, chairman of the Village Planning Commission, said later most of the people present appeared to be opposed to the widening, particularly to the five lanes. He agreed there had to be other solutions although Morgan seemed somewhat miffed they would question engineering studies done by professionals.

Thomson said it appeared statistics would dictate any course of action taken by the MDT, but he was encouraged by Morgan's willingness to consider other possibilities. Since statistics seemed to play such an important role in the decisions made, Thomson would like to see some more up-to-date ones.

Jennifer Radcliff, president of the Clarkston Community Historical Society, told the Reminder the Village had been forced to call for the hearing because the township had declined to do so. Village residents were unhappy over the fact a notice of opportunity for a hearing two years previous had not been advertised in local papers, an oversight which Morgan apologized.

Radcliff said her organization had not requested the presence of a representative of the Michigan Historical Division, that his visit had been arranged for by the MDT in their behalf.

Radcliff expressed satisfaction with the meeting saying it was like "slowing down a glacier" to get the MDT to stop and listen, but many good suggestions were made at the meeting. She felt the MDT was still ignorant of "actual problems and unique situations" in Clarkston.

She anticipated an official public hearing sometime later this summer in a barrier-free building and a written report to the Village Council in the near future.

BUSINESS BEAT

ONE MORE TIME DEALS

in Quality Used Clothing

Two area women started a unique business venture in Clarkston April 27th, when they opened the "One More Time" Resale Shop.

They are located at 6 N. Main rear, just behind the Clarkston Travel and are open daily. They deal only in good quality used clothing, putting them on consignment with the customer getting 60% of the sale price.

Although the 2 ladies, Carol Eberhardt and Mary Monjeau, have not been in business previously, they report their new venture is doing well, better than they had anticipated. They are very proud of this and are already planning to expand into additional space.

They said, "Clothing is so high priced, people can't afford to just give away things they have outgrown and this is a way to turn it into money."

Carol is a Clarkston resident with a husband, Larry, and 3 children. Larry owns Eberhardt Custom Upholstery.

Mary, with husband and 2 children lives in Gingelville.

SHOE STATISTICS QUITE AMAZING

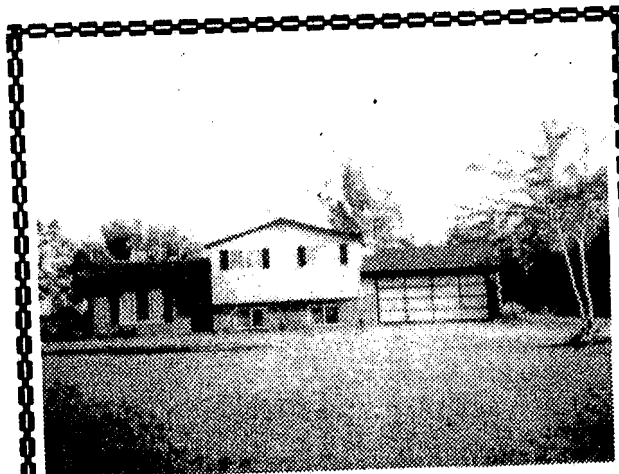

Shoes, too, have a perfect right to wear out. So states the Red Wing Shoe Co. of Minnesota and they back up their claim with some statistics concerning what a shoe goes through in an average day.

Since the average step measures 26 inches, there are 2,437 steps to a mile and if 5 miles are covered during the day, 12,185 steps are taken.

If a person weighs 160 pounds, he has walked 974 tons, plus 1,600 pounds, of meat, bone, etc. into his shoes.

Men buy (on the average) but three new pairs of shoes per year, and give them all of this hard wear. If a hammer weighing 160 pounds was coming down for four months, it would have to be renewed each day and at the end of the four months fished from the deepest hole on earth.

Clarkston Shoe Service, a Red Wing dealer, provided the statistics.

A sales contract is an agreement to buy and is usually accompanied by a deposit on a certain piece of property. In the contract, it is usually also agreed to buy at a stated price, subject to certain conditions. The agreement should specify the purchase price, amount of cash downpayment, method of financing, delivery date of property, right to inspect property, delivery of a clear title and survey. If certain items in the house are to be included as part of the sale, these need to be listed.

When you are considering selling your home your most important decision will be to list your property with BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main Street, next to the Clarkston Post Office. Our knowledge and expertise serves to guide you to your goal of maximizing the selling value of your property. We know the serious buyer versus the Sunday shopper. We know the best way to market your property and, in addition to all else, we know people. Call us today to list your property. You'll be glad you did. Open 9-9, till 6 Friday & Saturday, 11-5 Sunday. Telephone 625-5821.

DID YOU KNOW?

Earnest money is effective only if the seller can show satisfactory evidence of title, and the buyer can qualify for a loan.

While the girls were batting the softball around, the Varsity guys weren't hitting the baseball. The guys started bad, and ended bad, they just couldn't get anything going. Coach Roy Warner tried to explain, "We had no consistent hitting. We were consistently inconsistent, if you understand that. We would get behind early in the game so that we couldn't afford a sacrifice to move the baserunner up, we needed all our outs. We just couldn't afford to lose an out." When asked how bad the team did at batting he replied, "The team batting average was...was...low. We did get good pitching, though, from Chuck Nicolai and Steve Sanders." Nicolai had an ERA of 1.83 and Sanders an ERA of 1.20. The remainder of the pitching staff was around a 5.0 ERA.

Dino Rotundo had the hot bat on the team batting .321 and he was given honorable mention in Region 12 of the Michigan High School Coaches Association as an infielder. He was also named to 1st team GOAL. Jeff Warden was named to 2nd team GOAL.
