editor's note

The old adage "crime never pays" was certainly true when two would be gasoline burglars were apprehended by Dan Daniel, owner of the Clarkston Theatre.

As Daniel tells the story, a couple of weeks ago he was keeping an eye on his parking lot because he had received some complaints from customers who had found their gas tanks empty after enjoying an evening at the movies.

Well, that particular night, Daniel noticed a couple of teenagers with a long hose running from their car to another. At one end of the hose was an electric fuel pump into which the gasoline was being pumped.

Daniel said he ran towards the vehicle but the teenagers spotted him and began to take off in their car. Daniel then threw his flashlight and hit one of the suspects in the head. According to Daniel, they then came towards him with their vehicle, managing to hit his leg and hand. Daniel then jumped through the open window on the driver's side and started fighting for the steering wheel. The suspects dragged him for another 125 feet before the power steering pump exploded and the car stalled, recall Daniel.

Daniel said he was then able to apprehend the youths, until police arrived and arrested them with felonious assault with a motor vehicle and attempted larceny.

Daniel then went to the hospital with a bruised knee, pulled muscle and lacerations of the hand. He now, fortunately, has recovered from those injuries.

"I'm very perturbed when someone tries to kill me like that," said Daniels, "yet I feel obligated to protect my customers' cars."

It took a lot of courage for Daniel to chase after the youths as he did. Most of us would not have done the same. Maybe this will serve as a warning to those people who seem to think larceny is "a piece of cake."

At least in this instance, we're proud to say crime did not pay!

A YEAR AGO....

One year ago today, these things were happening in Springfield and Independence Townships:

The entire Independence Advisory Library Board, made up of 7 people, resigned today, August 3. In the months before the resignations, there had been problems between the Board and the librarian. Also, the Board alleged that the needed types of books weren't provided, the public lacked interest in the library and it failed to provide stimulating programs for people, the grounds weren't maintained properly, the interior of the library wasn't taken care of, there were personnel problems, budgetary monies were improperly allocated and full use of the offered services was never made.

On August 13, Money for M.D. was collected by the Davisburg Jaycettes. There were 3 different collection points used: Andersonville at Big Lake Road, near the Mill Pond and on Davisburg Road, near Davisburg Elementary.

WE GOOFED!

A statement in "A Year Ago..." was incorrect. It said Iva Sommers Caverly circulated petitions to eradicate the sewer department when in fact the petitions were circulated to use surplus money to pay off some of the sewer debt.

Dear Editor:

Not since the Holocaust has mankind faced a disaster as devastating as the plight of the Indochinese boat people. Over 300,000 have been forced to escape the hunger and oppression of their homelands and seek sanctuary in other nations. Refugee camps in Southeast Asia are dangerously overcrowded and yet the flood of desperate people continues at the rate of 60,000 a month.

Homeless and suffering children are the most heartrending victims of this disaster. Driven to desperation, their families risk the peril of the open seas and face the daily threat of starvation. Many of the refugee children will fall prey to disease unless help reaches them quickly.

Save the Children, an international agency with 47 years experience in emergency relief, has recently announced an emergency appeal for money to help the thousands of Indochinese refugees waiting for help on the offshore islands of Indonesia. Approximately 10,000 are now residing in refugee camps. The remainder are settled on sparsely inhabited islands without access to any organized facilities for food, health care, and shelter.

This emergency assistance program will be a joint effort of Save the Children Alliance, an international consortium of child assistance agencies, in cooperation with the American Council of Nationalities Service.

Time is running out. But there is a way concerned Americans can help. Checks can be mailed to Save the Children, Boat People Emergency Fund, Dept. P, Westport, CT 06880. To obtain an annual report, readers can call our toll free number (800)243-5076.

David L. Guyer

COMMENTARY

VIETNAMESE Aid DOESN'T Make SENSE

FROM THE OFFICE OF
REP. WILLIAM S. BROOMFIELD

While the United States has taken a strong stand, backed by substantial amounts of money, to help the Vietnamese "boat people," our taxpayers' dollars, at the same time, also go to assist the Vietnamese Government whose policies have created the refugee situation.

Direct U.S. aid to Vietnam has been cut off to protest that nation's inhumane policies. However, indirect aid continues through our contributions to the World Bank.

The House recently took action, which I supported, to end this indirect assistance to the Vietnamese Government while it continues to act as an irresponsible and inhumane member of the world community of nations.

In this year's Foreign Assistance bill, the House added an important stipulation that none of our contributions to the World Bank could be used to finance any assistance or reparations to the Socialist Republic of Vietnam.

In previous years, we tried to end this indirect aid, but lost to the Administration's lobbying effort. As a result, Vietnam has continued to enjoy economic assistance from the U.S. and other nations.

Last year alone, Vietnam received from the World Bank, $60 million in new loans and a reactivation of old loans worth $23.5 million.

In response to this generosity, Vietnam has refused to assist us in accounting for our men missing in action from the Vietnam War, invaded its own neighbors, filled its prisons with political prisoners, and followed a policy leading to a mass exodus of its people.

Today, there are more than a quarter of a million Vietnamese who have been willing to pay exorbitant exit fees and risk their lives and futures on overcrowded, unseaworthy ships to flee that nation.

We are all aware of the plight of these unfortunate people, and of their conditions on board those ships and in the refugee camps.

Our Nation, to its credit, has been one of the leaders in a humanitarian effort to help these refugees. Even during a time of slow economic growth and a possible recession, we have doubled the number of refugees we are willing to take in to 14,000 people a month.

We have pledged large amounts of money to ease the plight of the people in the camps, and we have taken the lead in the recent United Nations Conference in Geneva to encourage other nations to increase their assistance.

Private groups in our country have also shown their generosity through substantial contributions and in taking in and helping these refugees to resettle in the United States.

Yet, while these efforts will help the plight of the people who have fled Vietnam, it does nothing to encourage that country to change its policy and treat its own people humanely.

The uncivilized acts of the Vietnamese Government should not be rewarded, either directly or indirectly.

The Administration has insisted that human rights is an important element in its foreign policy. Therefore, I hope that they will finally lend their support to keeping this sanction against aid to Vietnam in the Foreign Assistance bill when the Senate considers it.

It's Time To Reform Welfare

Ken Rogers, President of North Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

Welfare reform! Will it ever happen? This well-worn issue seems to be on the lips of many and as yet remains unanswered. It is mind boggling to think that our Federal and State Legislators have not taken action to control costs and concentrate on helping only the needy through welfare programs. In 1966, 8.4 million Americans received welfare aid. By 1976, 44 million were on the rolls.

Recently, Health, Education, and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano took great pride in announcing the results of a government crack-down on welfare overpayments. During this "get-tough" period, federal and state governments' overpayments were only 535 million dollars. Don't you just love how government "cracks-down"? HEW investigated its own operations and discovered it was taken for between $6.3 billion and $7.4 billion in 1977 through waste, fraud, and abuse and most of it came from welfare.

Obviously, HEW is aware of the problem. That being the case, where is the massive effort one expects for immediate re-structure to stop the fraud, waste and abuse within welfare programs? Where are the Legislators uniting in mass as representatives of our nation's people, and leading the fight for reform? On a recent trip to Washington, one Legislator, when questioned on this subject said, "I don't know when we can expect reform-the system is so big." I'm certain he was being candid, but my God, if this feeling is indicative of the Congress, you and I need to contact our politicians and demand that the system be taken on.

The best estimates of welfare spending in 1978 totaled more than $200 billion. To draw this spending into focus, the government hands out more in welfare in one year than the yearly total of all the profits of all American corporations. Ironical isn't it! The government is constantly complaining about the profits of business, yet they spend more on welfare than the corporations of our country make. The typical welfare family of four in 1976 received an average cash and in-kind welfare benefits amounting to $14,960. This was more than the average family income from those of us who work for a living. Is it any wonder that we have established an army of poverty professionals? As the English would say, we are encouraging more and more Americans to "get on the government dole" and restrict the incentive to work.

In retrospect, maybe it is not too confusing to understand governments seeming unwillingness to push for reform. Think of it! Over 44 million Americans on the welfare rolls. Multi-millions of Americans are employed by local, state, and federal governments. When you combine all of the people dependent on the government, in one manner or another, the numbers are overwhelming. This combination of people also represents votes! Votes that can elect or defeat a politician! Votes that are increasing in numbers as government and its social programs continue to enlarge. In other words, the reform conscious legislator faces the possible wrath of government dependent millions. The little guy, Mr. and Mrs. Average American Taxpayer, must now unite to head off the growing hoard.

Proposition 13 had national impact when California voters yelled "enough" to spending and demand restructure in government spending. Michigan's Headlee Amendment has had little effect as our legislature can't decide on what Michigan's voters really wanted done in voting in the Amendment. Suffice it to say-we wanted a limit on spending. If our citizens do not demand reforms from our legislators, things will continue as they are.

The people of England have taken their first step in bringing to an end their Welfare State by electing conservative Prime Minister Thatcher.

Many I talk to feel welfare reform is impossible. I feel it's not only possible but happening now. Never downplay the power of the people. Look at Governor Brown in California. He fought like a tiger against Proposition 13. He said it would ruin the State if passed. Well, it passed! The voters spoke! He then turned 360 degrees and joined the voters. He is now campaigning for a constitutional amendment to put a limit on government spending. If our citizens demand welfare reform from their legislators, the same thing can happen. They will join in the clamor for reform. Let's start now and bring a halt to the "poverty professionals" before they totally take over government.

HAVE FUNERALS CHANGED?

The name of the local newspaper in Tombstone, Arizona, is "The Tombstone Epitaph." The town's famous graveyard, Boot Hill, is a widely known tourist attraction and an American history lesson all in one. Tombstone has purposely secured its niche in western America by clinging to elements of its historic past.

While times and cultures do change, some traditional observances have never altered significantly. Such is the case in the observation of the traditional full-service funeral.

Progress of civilization has brought about improved techniques and products, but the basic reasons for conducting traditional funeral services have remained the same. Dignity, respect and love for the individual; loyalty to high ideals; and expressions of tender sympathy are timeless, universal qualities among advanced societies.

We are experienced and professional funeral directors. As such, you may confidently put into our care all the responsibilities of preparation and conducting of a traditional full-service funeral.

INDEPENDENCE TO Hold Special MILLAGE MEETING

by Carol Balzarini

The Independence Township Board has set Tuesday, August 28, for a special meeting to discuss millage proposals only.

Although Fire Chief Frank Ronk is the only department head to have some specific plan at this time, proposals are anticipated from Charlie Kimbel, head of Independence Township Police Services with other possible suggestions coming from the Safety Path Committee, the library and the Community Center Committee.

Ronk was not present at the July 31 meeting of the board, but said later he would like more millage to supplement the rising costs of medical expenses, to assist a building program, and to acquire additional equipment.

The current two-mill fire levy still has eight more years before requiring renewal. In the meantime, Ronk would like an additional mill for two or three years, two mills for one year, or whatever the board sees fit to grant.

Kimbel, on the other hand, had no specific proposal as yet but reminded board members that his one mill for police operations would expire in 1980 and by April 1 "we'll be back to the same old problem."

Jean Benzing, a member of both the Planning Commission and the Safety Path Committee, said her group would like to "reserve the option" for safety path millage, adding their report should be out in August.

Chris Shull, president of the Friends of the Independence Township Library, said, "Just pick a date and we'll think about it." A new librarian is scheduled to take over Monday, August 13.

Treasurer Fred Ritter reminded board members of his June memo suggesting a coalition of township, county and state people to work toward acquiring the acreage west of Sashabaw Road and north of Clarkston Road to preserve it for "use in the public interest."

The land in question is wanted by one company for use as a gravel operation and by the state and county for park land and to preserve the headwaters of the Clinton River. It abuts both Clintonwood, the township park, and Independence Oaks County Park.

One of Ritter's suggestions for acquisition included millage in addition to condemnation and sale of bonds.

He also noted the area was in the geographic center of the township and might also provide the site for a future proposed civic center.

Clerk Chris Rose said 50 days notice is required to schedule an election putting the earliest possible date at October 18. Any millage issue would have to be a special election as there is no regularly scheduled one this fall. Cost of a special election is about $4,000.

NEW INDEPENDENCE LIBRARIAN Checks in This Week

James P. Hibler checked in this week as the new head librarian of the Independence Township Library. Hibler, 30, has been the head librarian of the John F.

Kennedy Library in Dearborn Heights for the past year. Prior to that he was a reference librarian at the University of Michigan and librarian/archivist for Market Opinion Research, a firm which conducts polls for newspapers and political parties among others.

The new librarian has a Bachelor of Arts in history from the University of Michigan, a Master of Arts in American history from Wayne State University, and a Master of Library Science also from WSU, maintaining a high grade point average through all of school years.

Responsible for selecting Hibler to the $19,000 a year post were Township Treasurer Fred Ritter, Marty Johnston, a former member of the Library Advisory Board, Doug Zyskowski, deputy director of the Southfield Public Library, and June Lee, assistant director of the Farmington Community Library in Farmington Hills.

YOUNG Colombian's Visit To Michigan Has Special Meaning

by Rebecca Roberts

When Luzmila Hernandez was born twenty-one years ago in Colombia, South America, her papa decided to name her after a heroine of a Russian novel he had read. In those days, the Hernandez family was struggling against poverty that was almost tradition in their country, a poverty that still continues to plague the average Colombian.

Today, with hard work and against the odds, Senor Hernandez, in the vernacular of economics, has 'made it'; he is chief mechanic at his place of work. The family owns their own home, and a Volkswagon, luxuries in a country where headhunters still roam a few remote areas of its jungles.

Luzmila Hernandez, or Luce, as she likes to be called, visited this reporter and family for five days, arriving July 25. How she came to visit the United States, and ultimately, with the Roberts, reads a little like that old song, "I'm My Own Grandpa," for its complexity.

In writing, as in swimming, it is often better to plunge right in, so...

These are the pivotal characters: Bill Youmans, this reporter's second cousin; Donna Youmans, Bill's wife; Edward and Jerry Youmans, two of their sons; Beverly Youmans, a daughter; Rita Schoeppe, Beverly's cousin; Marty, the Youmans' youngest son; Mama' and Papa' Hernandez; Maria, their youngest of five; Emilean, their third daughter; and, of course, Luzmila.

The Hernandez family live in Medellin, a coastal city second in size to Bogota, Colombia's capital. Luce first met Jerry and Edward Youmans back in 1973. Jerry was nineteen, Ed twenty, Luce was fifteen. In June of that year, the brothers traveled from their home in Jackson, Michigan to Central American, where they set forth on a backpacking trip, through Central and South America, destined for Chile; once in Chile they planned to visit a family they knew.

Several months into the journey, the boys found themselves in Medellin, Colombia, broke. Not a comfortable situation for two young men who knew little Spanish and who found themselves among a Spanish-speaking people. What had they to offer the people of Medellin? The boys came up with an ingeniously simple solution to their financial dilemma. They set up an English tutoring service in the apartment where they were living.

Luce, who has had one year of high school English, and a scant two months' practicing our language during her visits, nevertheless had little difficulty relating the story to me—in English:

"Jerry and Edward Youmans came through Central and South America into Chile, hitchhiking. There is a teacher of English class, from the United States, in (my

The Farmer's Night Sidewalk Sales in Clarkston will be held on August 10 - 11. Tentatively they will be held Friday from 6 - 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. - 6 p.m.

The Clarkston businesses will sell their own sale merchandise on tables outside of their stores.

According to one of the business people, those with produce to sell should contact a Clarkston merchant before the day of the sale. No one aids in the selling of the produce, so the "farmer" may keep all of the money from the sale.

"We (the merchants) supply the sidewalk and they supply everything else (including a table to display the produce)," said Joan Kopietz, a Clarkston businesswoman.

If you would like more information about Farmer's Night, call Ms. Kopietz at 625-2511.

BOARD REJECTS POLICE RAISES, PROMOTIONS

by Carol Balzarini

Charlie Kimbel, Director of Independence Township Police Services, was once again unsuccessful in his attempt to win board approval for new classifications and raises for two of his employees.

He had requested Beth Tower be reclassified as executive secretary or administrative assistant at $6 per hour and Linda Richardson as clerk/dispatcher at $5.45 per hour, both on non-union positions. Tower is presently a clerk/dispatcher and Richardson a clerk.

Kimbel maintained Tower is a qualified police officer doing some police work during the day when she is a clerk/dispatcher, duties not called for in the union classification. He said she found it difficult to be a secretary from 8-4 and a police officer after that. "You just can't separate the two," Kimbel said.

Kimbel was successful, however, in getting approval for a new CETA-funded dispatcher to replace one both recently hired and recently departed. He is presently the Pine Knob dispatcher.

Treasurer Fred Ritter expressed unwillingness to take on a new dispatcher particularly CETA-funded for the next eighteen months.

"I'd like to see us get out of the police business and go with the county totally," he said. "We need to sit down and take a look at the Police Advisory Board report and decide where we're going."

Ritter and Supervisor Floyd Tower disagreed over whether or not that report had been evaluated.

As far as the other two employees were concerned, Clerk Chris Rose said he was not sure the township could create non-union positions with no change in duties. He said he saw no justification for either a change in classification or in a raise, adding that creating an administrative assistant in one department would lead to similar requests from others.

Kimbel countered that his department did not operate like any other, his was on an emergency basis.

Trustee Rudy Lozano, too, was not in favor of expanding or promoting the department. He agreed the board had not "brain stormed" the advisory report but that some decisions should be made.

The motion to deny the request passed unanimously with the supervisor abstaining.

TENNIS TO BENEFIT HOSPITAL

A party to thank the hostesses of the upcoming fall Tennis and Crumpets tournament was held at the home of Gretchen Lyon (Mrs. Lyman), in Bloomfield Hills. Attending the party from Deer Lake were Barb Zabel, Jan Lyall, Ralnee Strickland and Carol Plautz.

The Round Robin Mixed Doubles tournament will begin in Oakland County on September 8. In this area, 4 courts for the doubles are available in Clintonwood Park, and all players play according to their ability. The "C" classes are mostly for fun, the "B" classes are for a little better player, and the "A" classes are for the really good players and players stay in their ability level through the Round Robin finals.

All of the money made by the tournament will go to the Department of Psychiatry at Children's Hospital in Detroit. In past years, the proceeds from the tournament went to benefit different departments at the hospital.

More than 120 private and public courts throughout Oakland County will be available for the 1,300 players expected to compete in the tourney. Area finals are scheduled September 22 and the super finals--the playoff for division champions--on September 23. The guest celebrity at the finals will be Wimbledon player Wendy Turnbull.

For more information concerning being a hostess or in playing tennis in the Clintonwood area, call Barb Zabel at 625-2762.

"WE DON'T WANT YOU THERE" Woodhull Residents Tell Township

by Carol Balzarini

Independence Township's plans to condemn property in the Woodhull Lake area for eventual use as a neighborhood park were met with opposition by a delegation of property owners at the July 31 board meeting.

"We don't want you there," said one angry resident. "We'll take care of our own children."

Another resident indicated another park area would only add to the problems they now face with vandalism, motorcycles, and lack of maintenance of property the township currently owns. That was acquired some years ago but never developed into a park because the lots were too small.

Supervisor Floyd Tower answered still another objection by explaining the land in question was vacant, that no one's home was being condemned.

The owner of those four plus acres had taken the township to court because he wanted the land rezoned multiple, but township officials say they were never approached about rezoning. They, then, offered to buy the property but the asking price was $55,000. Fair market value as estimated by township attorney Richard Campbell was between $20-30,000. Condemnation of the property would assure the township of a more equitable price.

Tower referred to the property as "unbuildable" because it apparently lacks road frontage. After some 20-30 feet the road becomes private and the owners are unwilling to have it used by anyone else.

Tower said he felt the township had three options: to purchase the land for the asking price, to proceed in court, or to condemn for a more equitable price.

Criticism about lack of maintenance of this and the two township lots brought explanations from both Tim Doyle of the recreation department and Tim Palulian of the building department.

Palulian said the township had control over the four acres in question because it was an acreage parcel, the owner could not be forced to cut the weeds.

Doyle explained he had done nothing with the two small lots because they were just too small. He hoped to acquire a larger parcel before going ahead with plans to establish a neighborhood park using Land and Water Conservation funds. He told the homeowners he had a petition signed by 57 people asking for a park area.

"There aren't fifty-seven homeowners in there," was the angry retort. "They are all welfare or ADC."

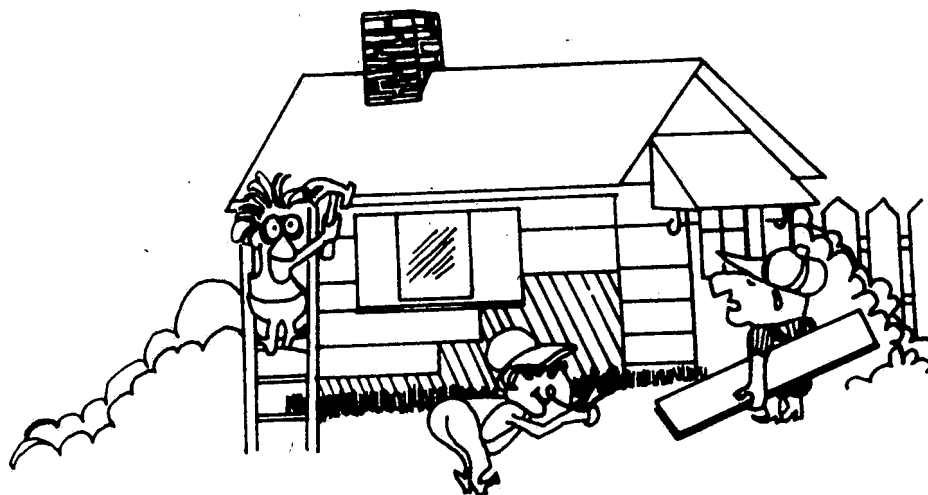

With the additional suggestion from the homeowners that any funds needed to maintain a park be used instead to pay off the sewers or improve the roads or whatever, the board voted to table the item to the second meeting in August giving those opposed time to circulate petitions of their own.

VANDALS Still A PROBLEM AT PRIVATE Woodhull BEACH

Problems are occurring at the Oakland Ridge Subdivision, where some of the property owners have access to a private beach on Woodhull Lake. This lake has been open to many 'outsiders' until this year, when a fence was put up by the homeowners and a sign to the effect that no liquor, etc. was allowed on the premises, and the beach was a private one, was erected.

The beach was used by people as a 'partying' spot at all hours, and wasn't being kept neat and all of the debris picked up, so the advice of local police was sought. Homeowners were informed that, before any actions could be taken, the beach had to be locked and posted with a sign declaring the property 'private'.

This was done, after the residents formed a homeowner's association to give keys that unlock the gate to the appropriate persons, a sign was erected near the water. But on Monday, July 23, the sign was set ablaze and the Independence Fire Department was called to extinguish it.

After the sign burning, things have calmed down substantially at the beach. One homeowner likened the situation to "flames dying down to embers."

This same person stated that "with all of the beautiful parks close by, I don't see why 'unauthorized' kids want to use our beach."

She also stated that sometime during the week, the property owners are going to clean up the beach. It is suspected that 1/2 of a dumpster load of broken glass, dirty diapers and all imaginable kinds of garbage will be sent to the nearest dump site.

In trying to get more information from a law-enforcement standpoint, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department was contacted 3 different times, but the sergeant on the case, Sgt. Riley, was not available.

Officials Ask for Milliken to Veto Bill

Urging Governor Milliken to veto Senate 460--move by the Michigan legislature to mandate programs and services onto local governments without appropriating the funds--are (left to right): Barry McGuire, Executive Director of Michigan Association of Counties; Dick Wilcox, Oakland County Commissioner (Dist. 1); Ron Mardiros, Tax Assessor, City of Livonia; Jim Brennan, Director of Management and Budget, Oakland County; State Representative Claude Trim, Democrat, 60th District (Davisburg) and Richard Headlee, citizen leader of the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment now part of the Michigan Constitution. Local taxpayers will have to pay for new state programs if SB 460 is not vetoed by Governor Milliken, said Headlee. Such a practice was made unconstitutional when Michigan voters passed the Tax Limitation Amendment last November.

INDEPENDENCE BOOKS RATED "EXCELLENT" BY AUDITORS

The Independence Township audit was formally presented to the board on July 31 by John Nantais representing the firm of Doeren Mayhew and Company. Nantais said the township had "an excellent accounting system" earning then an "unqualified opinion, the best you can get."

Certain items of interest pointed out by the auditor included a $150,130 surplus in the general fund bringing the total accumulated excess to $512,000. Nantais pointed out this figure represented the total assets of the township and was not an actual cash figure.

The police fund showed a $24,000 surplus, its revenue being greater than its budget. The overage was explained by the fact revenue sharing funds and anti-recession funds had not been included in the original budget figures.

On the other hand, the fire fund showed a $29,000 deficit of revenue over expenditures being nearly $23,000 over budget in salaries along and another $20,000 over in equipment expenses. It was under budget, however, in such areas as building additions and improvements.

The water fund showed a small loss while the sewer fund experienced a surplus. Nantais was satisfied the library fund was as it should be and would be shown as a separate fund on the next audit.

Copies of the audit report are available at the clerk's office or the township library. Any questions may be directed to Doeren Mayhew and Company through the township clerk, Nantais said.

Audience questions concerning the budget came from Irene Rauth who was concerned with past library funds that had gone unspent and were returned to the general fund. She maintained the township owes the library those unspent funds dating from 1961 when a separate fund was first required.

Nantais said it did not if the library was part of the general fund but promised to do some research on the matter.

Rauth said the township library ranked 25th out of 29 libraries in the county in terms of local support. She maintained the .3 of a mill was appropriated but not spent.

"The library needs a shot in the arm," she told board members. "Give us what we're entitled to and what you owe us."

Without further comment the audit was accepted by the board.

GENEALOGY COURSE AT IC

A beginning Genealogy and Family History class starts September 18, 7 p.m. at Independence Center, 5331 Maybee Road. Because of class size limitations, make reservations early by calling Dorcas 666-4455 or Pat 625-1867.

PARTY HONORS YOUNG SUMMER READERS

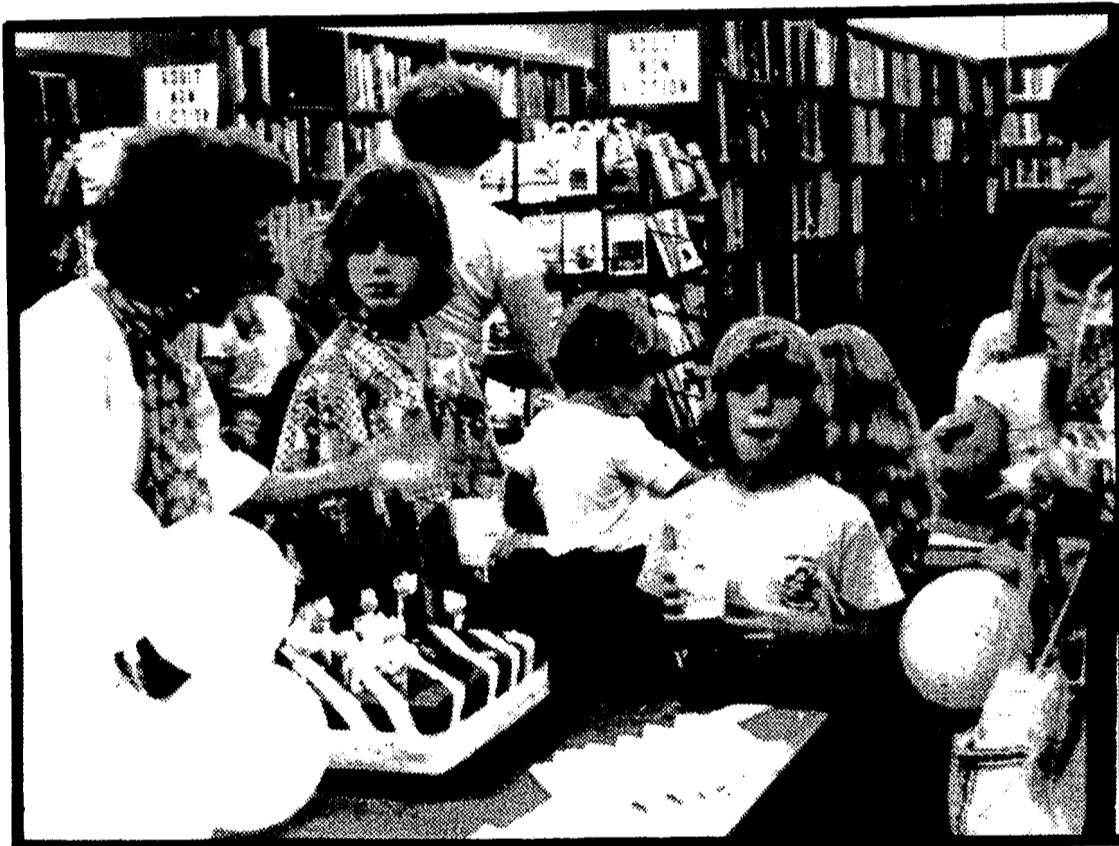

Eighty-two young people signed up for the six-week Summer Reading Program at the Independence Township Library. Altogether they read a total of 482 books for an average of nearly six books per child.

About half of those who participated showed up for the party honoring them recently. Younger readers watched cartoons before all took part in cookies, punch, suckers and balloons provided by the Friends of the Library. These "super" readers were joined by their mothers, brothers and sisters.

Champion reader for the boys was seven year old Derek Hackbardt who read twenty books. Angela Balzarini, 15, led the girls with 37 books. The pair received gift certificates from the Village Bookstore also provided by the Friends.

Although these two were the official winners, they were followed closely behind by other young readers with nearly as many books to their credit. Some were unfortunately not eligible because they turned their reading lists in after the deadline.

The library staff expressed pleasure with this year's participation and anticipates even more young readers next year.

Acting Librarian Lucy Embrey (left) oversees the table of goodies all provided by the Friends of the Library.

Derek Hackbardt (left) was the champion reader for the boys with twenty books. He receives his certificate from library aide turned down Margaret Leightley.

Dognapping Knows No Boundaries

by Betty Good

The well-groomed stranger in the little Northern Michigan resort town was obviously disoriented and lost.

He positioned himself on the street side of a busy gas station. As each car, truck, or camper pulled in, he ran to the driver's door--only to turn away disappointedly when it was not the friend he sought.

The station owner resented his presence. The stranger interfered with business and presented a danger both to himself and the cars he ran to meet.

Observing this scene for, perhaps, twenty minutes--the woman in the yellow station wagon across the side street at a drive-in restaurant could watch no longer.

She got out of her car and approached the attendant, who said, "I wish he'd get out of here...I'm afraid he'll get hurt."

The dog-lover needed no other cue. She bent down to the frightened, confused liver and white Springer Spaniel and said, "Do you want a drink?" He followed her into the gas station, where the attendant gave the beautifully-marked pedigreed pup a pail of water. The dog--realizing he had found a friend, obeyed the woman's every command. He sat obediently while she telephoned the local police and sheriff's departments.

There had been no reports of a lost dog.

Calling her neighbor, who was a year-round resident of the community, the vacationing dog lover received assurances the neighbor would try to locate the animal's owner when local facilities reopened on Monday.

The dog--grateful to have a friend at last, jumped into the back of the yellow station wagon and laid down.

He adjusted quickly to his new--if temporary--home. When the vacationing lady went to visit the spaniel at the neighbor's the next morning, he was playing with a hard rubber ball--enjoying the company of the family's other dog--an Irish Setter.

It was then that the neighbor told her of a heartbreaking scheme perpetrated by some who prey on the emotions and finances of dog lovers. Letting their other Irish Setter out to run in the woods one morning, the resort area residents received a call one-half hour later that the licensed, ID-tagged dog was wandering around town--some five miles away. The owners picked their dog up immediately.

The second time they were not so fortunate. The big Irish Setter vanished without a trace. In attempting to find him through local authorities, the two residents of that quiet little resort town found that a total of twelve beautiful hunting dogs had been stolen from their owners in various parts of the country that same day. The scheme involved selling them to unsuspecting downstate buyers.

The neighbor had an explanation for the appearance of the well-groomed and clipped but unlicensed Springer Spaniel in town. She reasoned that he had been abducted and the license removed. Then, she figured, he had jumped from a window as the vehicle stopped for gas.

Time proved her right. The following Monday evening, the vacationer--who had returned home--received a long-distance call from her friend in the resort town.

Through the help of the animal warden and a local radio program--"Pet Parade"--finders and owner of the lost dog had been put in touch with each other.

The pedigreed Springer Spaniel and, at least, two other valuable hunting dogs had been abducted from their individual kennels in an outlying residential area four days before the vacationing dog-lover had spotted the pup wandering aimlessly in town. Only the Springer Spaniel managed to escape.

The reunion was a satisfying moment for all. Since it represented a rare happy ending to a situation that is happening more and more frequently in various parts of the state, the dog owners involved shared the story with the hope others would realize the importance of keeping their pets both licensed and secured.

The Plant Doctor

Dear Plant Doctor:

We have a decorative stained glass window, and all houseplants do poorly near this window. Why?

S.C.-Novi

Dear S.C.:

The stained glass is reducing the light intensity by a large degree so that even shade tolerant plants will have to struggle. There is also another factor based on the properties of light that is fascinating. Sunlight is a composite of different wavelengths or colors, and plants respond to certain wavelengths and not others. Colored glass not only reduces light intensity but filters out the wavelengths that are required for good growth.

Dear Plant Doctor:

I have a hydrangea bush that has not blossomed since I set it on the north side of the house. The one on the east side still blooms. Why?

M.E.-Oxford

Dear M.E.:

There are a number of reasons that could account for the failure to flower. Perhaps, one of the following reasons will help solve your problem. When hydrangeas are transplanted, several years of adjustment may be acquired before flowering will begin. Too much shade may also prevent flowering. In addition, heavy fertilization with a high nitrogen fertilizer or poor soil such as heavy clay can also prevent flowering. Winter injury or improper pruning may also be the cause but this largely depends on which variety you have. Oakleaf and Hortensias (pink or blue flowers) Hydrangeas set their buds the year before they flower, and either winter injury or pruning during the dormant will stop flower production. Peegee and Hills of Snow Hydrangeas produce flowers on the current season's growth and are not affected. I suggest you correct any conditions mentioned if they fit your situation. Frequently root pruning will stimulate a shrub to flower. To root prune, dig a trench around the shrub about two to three feet from the trunk, and with pruners cut all the roots. Fill the trench with soil and bone meal.

Dear Plant Doctor:

The lower leaves on my tomatoes are developing spots and turning yellow. The problem is spreading quickly. What can I do?

C.A.-Clarkston

Dear C.A.:

Your problem is one of the tomato blight fungi infections. Spraying with Maneb at five day intervals should give you control.

Dear Plant Doctor:

Lately our snap bean plants have started to turn a mottled green and yellow color. The plants are also stunted and not growing. What happened?

J.M.-Southfield

Dear J.M.:

You have two possible causes of this problem. If you have small insects that fly away from the plants when they are brushed lightly, leaf hoppers are your problem. If you find small soft bodied insects on the undersides of the leaves, aphids are the problem. Aphids can also infect the plants with a virus disease that will reduce yields. You could have one or both of the above problems since their symptoms are similar. Malathion sprays will control the insects. Resistant varieties such as Provider, Contender and Tendercrop will prevent virus damage.

Soil SURVEYORS Checking Springfield Land

by Rebecca Roberts

The Soil Conservation Service, under the United States Department of Agriculture, is currently conducting the final phase of the Oakland County portion of the soil survey began in 1975, said James Feenstra, Soil Survey Party Leader.

Feenstra said the major purpose of the soil survey is to serve as a guide for land use. "We develop interpretations for uses ranging from wildlife development to urban development," he said.

The completed survey, scheduled to be available in late 1981, will provide information about soil types for anyone who needs to understand soil characteristics of a particular area in order to make optimum use of the land. The document will provide comprehensive data such as drainage capacity, area water table, type and characteristic of soil (sand loam, clay, etc.) and suitability of soil for crops and pasture. Soil Survey maps, which are shaded and indexed according to soil content, etc., will also be included.

Feenstra said the surveyors work alone in their assigned areas, each with their own field sheet. The soil data is obtained by drilling into the ground with an auger, and analyzing the core sample on the spot, he said. Soil types are classified in orders and suborders, he explained, "much the way wildlife is classified. Each soil series has its own characteristics of color and texture." Even the soil's moisture content can be determined, simply by noting the color. For instance, he said if the soil is a mottled gray, it could indicate how much moisture is present, depending upon the degree of mottling.

A great deal can be told about the soil simply by noting the kind of vegetation growing in the area, he said.

All state and private land is included in the survey, Feenstra said.

Feenstra said they try to notify land owners before doing surveys on private land, but it is difficult to notify all owners, due to time limitations and absentee owners. "We don't do as much as we would like to do, especially for people in subdivisions, and small landowners of two to ten acres."

"Soil scientists would appreciate the cooperation of all landowners in the townships," Feenstra said.

Main distribution points for the completed soil survey document will be at the Soil Conservation Service on Highland Road, and the Extension Service in the County Complex on Telegraph. U.S. Representatives and Senators will also receive a copy. Local Zoning Commissions will find the document extremely helpful in determining future zoning, said Feenstra. Waterford's survey, completed in 1978, includes "health officials, highway officials, engineers and other specialists" among those likely to benefit from the Soil Survey, noting, "Pavements, sidewalks, campsites, playgrounds, lawns, trees and shrubs, and most other uses of land are influenced by the nature of the soil."

The Soil Conservation Service is presently working in Springfield and Rose Townships.

Springfield TO GET Road Improvements

A paving and resurfacing bid was accepted today by the Board of Oakland County Road Commissioners.

The project is in Springfield Township, and includes resurfacing of several segments of Davisburg Road from west of Andersonville Road to Dixie Highway; combined with an intersection improvement at Tindall Road and resurfacing of parking areas in Davisburg. The contract was awarded to the low bidder, Thompson-McCully and Subsidiaries of Belleville for $124,822.

The resurfacing is being paid entirely by the Road Commission, from proceeds of state-collected gas and weight taxes. The parking lot resurfacing is being paid entirely by Springfield Township. The intersection project is shared equally by the Road Commission, the County Board and the Township.

wanted to go and ask them if they could teach us English.

"One day, I visit her, and she show me the apartment where the North American boys live, and we went there.

"At this time, the fashion was long hair, jeans, and marijuana. I wanted that my parents meet them, but I was scared, because they have long hair. For us, it is not usual to see boys (who are) alone, from a different country.

"I told my papa about boys that I meet and he ask me, 'what are you doing here?' I didn't know what to say. But Mama and Papa prefer that we bring the boys our house, and not see the boys in the street, out.

"After my friend and I visit the boys for three times, we are curious, like papa, to know why there are there. Also, for us, it was like investigation. I was fifteen years old, and it was big thing, big experience.

"I invite them to my house. It was in the night, and they make a special rice, and we make a salad. And so my family, and they, had dinner together."

That night seemed to be the point at which the Hernandez family, and the Youmans family, continents apart, cemented a friendship that continues to this day.

At the end of August of that year, the Youmans brothers set off for the south of Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, and finally, to Chile. In February of '74, they returned to Medellin. This time, they stayed three days with the Hernandez. Luce continued:

"One day, one of the boys could not find our house, and Mama wait for him until one in the morning. We laugh at Mama, because they were alone for many countries, and they could not speak Spanish--and Mama worried like she is worried for my brother."

During dinner one night, Maria Hernandez asked the Youmans if they had a younger sister with whom she might correspond. They told her about Beverly, who was then sixteen.

Later, when Ed and Jerry Youmans returned to Jackson, Maria and Beverly began writing. Rita Schoeppe heard about the Hernandez family through her cousin Beverly, and also began corresponding with Maria. In one of her letters, Rita expressed a desire to visit the family in Colombia. In 1976, arrangements were made, and Rita flew to Columbia. Scheduled to land at Medellin, she ended up in Bogotar. She was thirteen, and dismally alone in a very large, unfamiliar city. After a night in a hotel in Bogotar, Rita made her way the next day to Medellin airport, where the Hernandez were waiting. Luce recalled how relieved and happy everybody was:

"(Rita) say 'Papa!' and she began to cry. She has two years of Spanish in High School, not enough to be alone."

Rita stayed six months with the Hernandez. Emileen, Luce's older sister, stayed with the Youmans until January of 1977.

In June of that year, Jerry Youmans accompanied his sister Beverly to Medellin. Jerry stayed one month. Beverly remained for six months. During the months of Beverly's absence, the Youmans moved to Dunedin, Florida. When Beverly returned to the family's new home, she brought with her Maria Hernandez. Maria stayed with the Youmans for a full year, returning to Medellin in January of 1978.

Luce summed it up by saying, "The last (several) years in my house, we had continual travel from Colombia to the United States, and back."

"This year," she continued, "we didn't imagine to travel, and the Youmans either. Suddenly, we change the mind. Papa wanted to come to visit Youmans'. The trouble, we think, is that only Mama and Papa come. But I could see that my semester at the University (the University of Antioquia, where Luce is a third year student, studying to become a laboratory technician) was finished on time. We come on May 25."

When Luce' parents flew back to Colombia after a short visit with the Youmans, they took with them Marty, the Youmans' fifteen-year old son. Marty will return to Florida in September. Luce plans to leave for Colombia in December.

But we still have a few missing links in this chain of events. How is it that Luce came to visit the Roberts? It will be brief:

In early June, I visited my parents, who live in Breckenridge, Michigan. One afternoon during my visit, Bill and Donna Youmans dropped by on their way to Traverse City where they planned to visit Beverly and Rita. The cousins are working in a medical clinic there.

utilizing their fluent Spanish to serve as interpreters for the migrant Mexicans who work the annual cherry harvest. With Bill and Donna was, of course, Luce. I expressed interest in her coming to stay with us, and tentative arrangements were made. She arrived, as I said, on Wednesday, July 25. For all of us, it was an experience we shall not forget.

That first night, we just relaxed and became acquainted, but on Thursday, Luce and I went with friends to the Ann Arbor Art Fair. If ever there was a head-first way for her to be introduced to the eccentricities of our culture, this was it. She radiated with curiosity, absorbing the somewhat bizarre, but always interesting color, noise, and conglomeration of the Fair. What did she think of it all? "Is ni-ice," she said, rolling the words as though she were tasting a chocolate souffle--which incidentally, we both tried at one of the Fair's outdoor cafes.

"Kafka," Luce said, gesturing toward some small kinetic sculpture displayed in the booth before us. We looked at her quizzically. "These remind me of Kafka." I searched my mind. Kafka, the artist? I asked. No, that wasn't it. He is in literature, she said. I asked her how the sculpture reminded her of him. "His books make your mind work very hard," she answered. "Was he a philosopher?" I ventured. Luce shook her head firmly. "No philosopher." We all made several attempts to find the missing word. Finally, Luce said, "metaphore." Almost immediately, one of us in the group shouted "metaphysics!" "Si, si," Luce cried excitedly. Metaphysics. Whew.

Friday morning, Luce went with me to The Reminder's staff meeting. I asked her later if she could understand all of it, since those discussions are often rapid-fire. Most of it was too fast, she said. Occasionally, she said, she could make out what we were saying--whenever the conversations slowed.

At home during quieter hours, my son, Michael taught Luce to play a card game called Back Alley, a sort of embellished form of Euchre. It wasn't long before she was beating him soundly. Cards, Luce said, carry the same face value in her country as they do here. She told us she learned how to play Solitaire from Jerry Youmans, but, she said, "Jerry always win." She added, laughing, "One way to learn is to lose."

Luce is determined to learn English this summer, so that when she returns to Florida in mid-August, she can prepare to enter a junior college there for the Fall semester. Often, she would correct herself, as her ear became increasingly familiar with English syntax.

Spanish, like many of the Latin languages, often has a sentence structure that is in reverse to English. For instance, 'The pretty flower' would become, in Spanish, 'La flora linda,' or 'The flower pretty.' These reversals mean that Luce has to work very hard at times to think, not only of the appropriate words, but their proper sequence, as well.

That's why it was great fun when, on Saturday evening, during a lull in the activities, everybody told their favorite jokes. I asked Luce if South American humor is like North American humor. She said it is. She told us some 'what-is-this' jokes. We laughed appreciatively at some, but one or two fell flat. She through up her hands in the silence that followed one joke: "That's all there is," she laughed. The familiar phrase, "something got lost in the translation" applied here--literally. Some of our jokes got lost in the language crunch, too.

On Sunday, we went to the movies. I cautioned Luce that the movie, Alien was gross (a word that need little explanation). Eager to test the unfamiliar, she said she wanted to go, despite the film's less than delicate scenes. She understood much of the movie she said later, with the exception of a computerized conversation at the beginning. Yes, it was gross, she agreed, but, like Michael, and his friend Molly McQuire, who were with her, she thoroughly enjoyed Alien. (Faint of heart, I had taken Adam, my eleven year old to see Meatballs, playing next door.)

After the movie, we went for a swim, then for ice cream (Luce said she loves ice cream), after which we took Molly home.

Molly McQuire lives on a farm, near Ortonville. She raises goats. Luce got a first-hand (so to speak) lesson in the art of goat-milking. The goat, Cinnamon, remained cooperative throughout thanks to an adequate supply of grain which kept her preoccupied. Cinnamon got milked, and Luce had another experience to carry back with her to Colombia.

While Luce was here, my husband taught her to play the guitar. Her first song was "I'd like to Teach the World to Sing."

"I try to play the guitar," she said, when later someone asked her to play. Just for the record, she did a pretty fair job of plunking.

Molly McQuire taught her the Hustle. Molly's a dancer with the Detroit City Ballet. It was obvious that Luce, too, had danced a great deal before. At parties in Colombia, she said, dancing is the main event. "First of all, we dance and drink--last is the food."

How long will the Hernandez and the Youmans continue their transcontinental visits? "I think in the future that my niece and Chris's boy (Chris Youmans) will be good friends (the children are both three). I think we will not finish the relation between the two families."

WNFGA To Portray 'Year of The Child' in Flowers at Show

by Betty Good

"The International Year of the Child"--chosen by the United Nations as its theme for 1979--has captured imaginations the world over. It has been designated a U.S. postage stamp issue, depicted in numerous photography exhibits, and--September 17-22, 1979--is to be the subject of a unique portrayal in flowers at the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association's 14th Annual Flower Show at the Pontiac Mall.

The show, "Portrait of the Child in Flowers", will also feature a photography display centered around children. It is co-sponsored by 24 branches of WNFGA and the Pontiac Mall Merchant's Association.

Members of WNFGA branches--including Holly, Milford, Waterford, and Clarkston--have been preparing for the event all summer. On July 13 and 27, they participated in a series of workshops on such topics as table arrangement. A workshop scheduled for August 31 is to be open to WNFGA members statewide.

STAIR UP-OPEN RAIL BOTH SIDES

PLAN OFFERS OPTIONAL SECOND FLOOR

By W. D. Farmer

Attractive entrance foyer allows view to open rail stair, activity room, and formal dining room. The activity room includes attractive bay window and fireplace with ash dump and gas jet. The dining room offers excellent wall space and direct access to foyer and kitchen. Wall space is well provided throughout the house.

There is a large bedroom on the first floor with walk-in closet. Central full bath services this room, guests and daytime use.

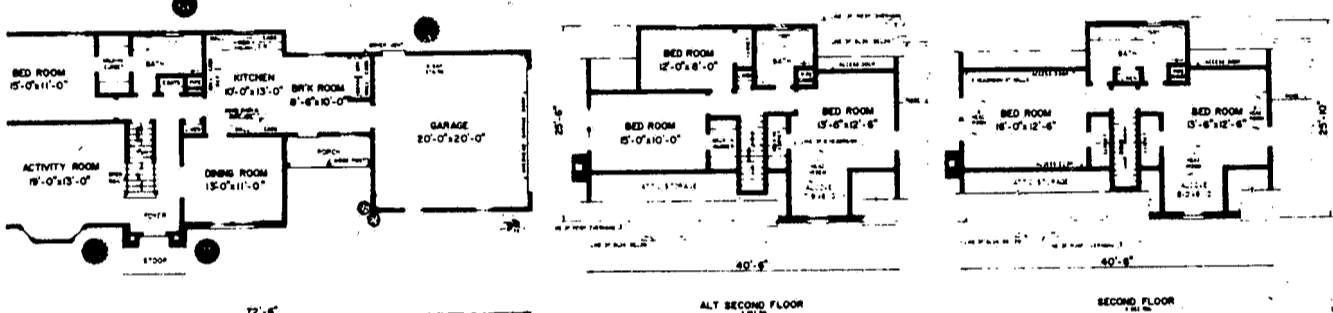

The kitchen is endowed with cabinets, countertop work surface and built-in appliances. The adjoining breakfast room is well sized and has access to recessed porch, laundry facilities, and double side-entry garage.

Bonus storage is via disappearing stair from garage, coat and linen closets are central. Very little space is consumed by hall in this plan.

There is a choice of two or three bedrooms up. A central bath services these rooms and plumbing is stacked to lower bath. Upstairs closets are plentiful.

The traditional exterior is enhanced by combination brick and horizontal frame, recessed entry, steep gable roof, and multi-lite shuttered windows. All W. D. Farmer plans include energy conservation construction details.

The plan is Number 875. It includes either 1,869 square feet or 1,893 square feet for alternate second floor. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 49463, Atlanta, Ga. 30359.

HAPPENINGS
by Bob & Marvel White

Bob White, Inc.

5856 S. Main Street, Clarkston, 625-5821

Families move through their life cycle at varying rates and with varying numbers of moves. When moving is not caused by new employment or upgrading accommodations, turning points usually come during the times when the family expands or contracts. In all these moves, however, home ownership is achieved oftenest by means of mortgages. The average time required to pay off a mortgage on a house has increased to about 25-30 years, about the same time as it takes to raise a family. If a family moves several times during this period, finally owning a home free and clear of debt may be accomplished by enlarging the equity on succeeding homes.

Real estate rules and guidelines are changing as rapidly as prices. The professional staff of BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., next to the Clarkston Post Office, is fully experienced and capable of keeping up to date with these changes and ably assisting you in your selection. When you are seeking to buy real estate, come to BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE. We are the real-estate professionals whose reputation and qualifications will always be top notch. Open 9-9, til 6 Fri. & Sat., 11-5 Sun. Tel. 625-5821.

DID YOU KNOW?

A long-term mortgage makes higher total costs and a slower build-up of equity, but more affordable lower monthly costs.

This week, Meadow Brook Music Festival offers something for everyone. Symphonic buffs have a choice of three different classical concerts...jazz fans can enjoy Della Reese and Woody Herman...youngsters will be entertained at a Saturday morning Children's Concert...organist Virgil Fox is scheduled for a special variety program...and Barbara Cook will sing "The Great Songs" at the Sunday Pops Concert.

On Thursday and Saturday, August 9 and 11, conductor Neville Marriner, Meadow Brook's new Artistic Director, will make his first 1979 Festival appearances. Marriner, one of the most recorded conducts in the history of music, has earned wide international acclaim for his great conducting of orchestras throughout the world. In addition to his summer directorship of Meadow Brook Music Festival, this Englishman also serves as Artistic Director of the Minnesota Orchestra.

Thursday's program will feature the return of French pianist, Philippe Entremont. Saturday's concert will highlight one of the world's foremost violinists, Itzhak Perlman.

The Variety Series program on Wednesday, August 8, offers organist Virgil Fox with his "Heavy Organ" show featuring David Snyder's "Revelation Lights."

Songstress Della Reese steps into the Meadow Brook spotlight on Friday, August 10. A native of Detroit, Della has become a favorite throughout the country for her jazz-blues-gospel style of singing. She has had numerous recording successes and has appeared on television in musical, dramatic and comedy roles. On the same bill, is one of the liveliest big jazz bands of all times, Woody Herman and his Thundering Herd. Leader/clarinetist Herman is currently celebrating his 42nd year as a performer.

A Children's Concert, designed to introduce young people to ballet, is scheduled for Saturday morning, August 11. Entitled "The Gingerbread Man--A Ballet for Children," the concert features professional chamber music ensemble, The Pastiche Wind Quintet. State Senator Jack Faxon, of Detroit, will narrate. The concert begins at 11 a.m. and will run approximately an hour without an intermission.

To end the week, Meadow Brook's Sunday Pops Concert on August 12 offers "The Great Songs" by one of Broadway's most outstanding vocalists, Barbara Cook. Hailed as "The Toast of Broadway," Miss Cook will sing a medley of her most famous musical hits.

All programs begin at 8:30 p.m., except the Sunday Pops Concert which starts at 7:30 p.m. and the Saturday morning children's program. Concerts are held in the outdoor Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus in Rochester.

Tickets may be purchased at the Meadow Brook Box Office or at any Hudson's, Sears, Grinnell's or Discount Records ticket services. For additional information, call 377-2010.

POET'S CORNER

MY DREAM

Last night I dreamed about her-

Her eyes were shining bright;
We walked along the lakeside
She held my hand so tight.

She wore the dress I made her
And smiling up so proud;
We wished together silently
But it was not allowed.

We knew our time was over
And as she waved "Good Bye"
I saw the tear drops glissen
Down the corners of her eye.

I did not want to wake up
I tried so hard to sleep;
My heart was tearing out of me
To see that baby weep.

She thinks that I'm her mommy-
She has none of her own;
This little girl I dream of Who's waiting all alone.

If only I could find her
And wipe those tears away-
Somewhere there's a little girl
Who's longing for that day.
