TV Special Reveals Teenage Alcohol Problems

This week's Special Report reveals the good deeds of Insight an alcohol-drug rehabilitative program at Colombiere Center. One of the most revealing aspects of that interview was the percentage of teenagers and young adults that are receiving treatment for alcoholism. Owen McKenzie, Program Director, recommends a television drama, that helps to publicize the fast growing numbers of teenagers becoming addicted to alcohol. Called "The Boy Who Drank Too Much," the CBS special scheduled for February 6 from 9-11 p.m. is a poignant drama of a young hockey player's struggle to overcome his alcohol addiction.

Its many shocking scenes help bring a social disease that has so often been reserved for adults only, to the forefront. Maybe its showing will help parents become more aware of alcoholism and its possible effects on their children.

Police Reserves Could Be Costly

Where do we go from here? That's what many people were asking after last week's police developments.

Independence Township officials ought to reassess some of their actions and attitudes before they permanently damage this growing area.

What possibly can a township reserve force accomplish above and beyond a county provided reserve force. County reserves have done quite well in surrounding townships-free of charge. If we accept Township Attorney Richard Campbell's ruling a township reserve force would have to be manned by a full-time certified police officer. Reserves would also expect to be paid hourly for each function they participated in. It could add up to over $30,000 a year.

At that rate, Independence would actually be right back into the police business. They would still have a chief, a dispatcher, an animal control officer and several reserves. The only missing parts would be officers Feneley and Cavalier, who expect to join the Sheriff's Department.

However, in addition don't forget, when the township board originally voted to disband the department, they added more Sheriff's Department officers to get full county protection.

Now if the reserves stick we have full county protection and an expensive department of local reserves.

Come on Independence Township. I don't think citizens want to fork out dollars for dual police departments. Quit playing political games and get on with managing our local government efficiently and effectively.

Husband Driving Me Crazy

Dear Carolyn,

My husband has been laid off since before Christmas. It wasn't too bad before Christmas because we were busy with the holidays. It seems worse now, though, because all he does now is sit in front of the TV. He also leaves a trail behind him of half empty coffee cups, slippers, papers, etc. He's driving me crazy! Not to mention the fact that we are broke! Any suggestions??

Crazy

Dear Crazy,

At the risk of being flip, I suggest you get a job. Seriously, you can't call him back from being laid off. You can't force him to go out and get a job.

You can do something to preserve your sanity. Figure out some way to fill your time that helps you feel productive and gives the two of you some time away from each other. Either a paying job or volunteer work could accomplish this. It may not only preserve your sanity, but it may preserve the marriage.

Thoughtfully,
Carolyn

- 2 Added fresh air is introduced to the secondary firebox to
- 3 ignite escaping gases in a super-hot flame,
- 4 permitting little fuel loss out the chimney.
- 5 Cool air near the floor is fan-forced

- 7 exhausted into room or into hot air system.

This intense secondary burn, observable and fascinating to watch on every Volcano, easily demonstrates Volcano's lead in woodfiring technology.

When hooked to forced air or hot water systems (hydronic models available), the Volcano literally provides all the heat a homeowner needs with measurably less wood consumption than even the most modern of competitor stoves. Inside, the Volcano is as new as tomorrow, with the outward appearance of the Quaker Box Stove of yesteryear.

Colombiere Conference Center - Home of Insight

Inside Insight - Where Alcohol is the Enemy

by Mike Wilcox

Alcoholism is meeting a stiff challenge from a unique program in its second year of operation at Colombiere Retreat and Conference Center in Springfield Township.

Called Insight, the non-profit intermediate care facility, maintains 27 beds that are nearly always filled with alcohol and drug abusers attempting to get their addiction under control. Insight's thirty staffers, maintain their wing at Colombiere around the clock, seven days a week. In 1979 alone, they treated 450 people.

"What we are, roughly speaking," explained Owen G. McKenzie, M.S.W., Program Director of Insight, "is an in-patient program without the high expense of a hospital."

He continued, "The direction is away from keeping somebody bedded up in the hospital...It's the direction we'll see in the next five to ten years."

Insight currently charges a patient $100 a day. At a hospital, McKenzie said, a patient would likely have to pay $225-$250 a day. Furthermore, Insight is accredited by the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Hospitals, thus is approved for payment by Blue Cross/Blue Shield.

McKenzie said there are very few facilities like Insight in existence. Two are located nearby--the more publicized Brighton Hospital and Guest House in Lake Orion, which strictly caters to priests.

Insight receives referrals from doctors, hospitals and agencies in twelve different counties. Thirty-eight percent come from Genesee County and another thirty-four percent from Oakland County.

five years and has worked with substance abuse for seven years.

He said, "You can tell alcohol has become a problem when it messes you up physically, emotionally, legally, or your marriage or your work."

"Most people who have alcohol problems won't admit it until after the fact," he added.

McKenzie claimed a major goal of the program was to keep the patients' mood altering substance free forever. Often times people feel a need to replace their addiction to liquor with marijuana or another mood altering drug.

"That's really dangerous," said McKenzie. "People who are addicted to alcohol--using any mood altering substance as a substitute may lead them right back (to alcohol addiction)."

There is no such thing as a typical alcoholic. In fact if you consider statistics accumulated by Insight since it began, 18% of those admitted to Colombiere facility were under 24 years of age. Another 36% were between 25-34 and 26% between 35-44. Only 20% were over 45 years old.

Eighty-eight percent of those admitted were males. McKenzie accounted for the huge discrepancy by explaining, "The woman seems to be protected more by society and families."

But whatever their sex or age, they all seem to agree their stay at Insight was well worth the money.

"Of the 560 who have been through, there isn't one person who has said he wouldn't send someone to the program," added McKenzie.

For more information about Insight, call the Administrative Manager Judy DeShetler at 625-0400.

"Somebody just doesn't come here because he's drunk coming home from a party and knocks on our door," added McKenzie. He has either got to be referred or commit himself through proper channels. Right now Insight has a 2½ week waiting period, but at other times, a patient can get in immediately.

A typical stay at Insight can last from ten days to four weeks. Once inside patients are treated to therapy sessions, group discussions, lectures and a never ending variety of social activities.

Insight considers the latter to be a vital part of the program because according to McKenzie, "People don't have any idea what to do with their time if they don't have a six pack and deer rifle in their hands."

Well, at Insight, the people are taught to enjoy activities like basketball, volleyball, art classes, yoga and ceramics. They're also treated to a balanced diet.

Families are encouraged to get involved at evening classes and lectures. "We try and get the family involved right from the beginning," said McKenzie.

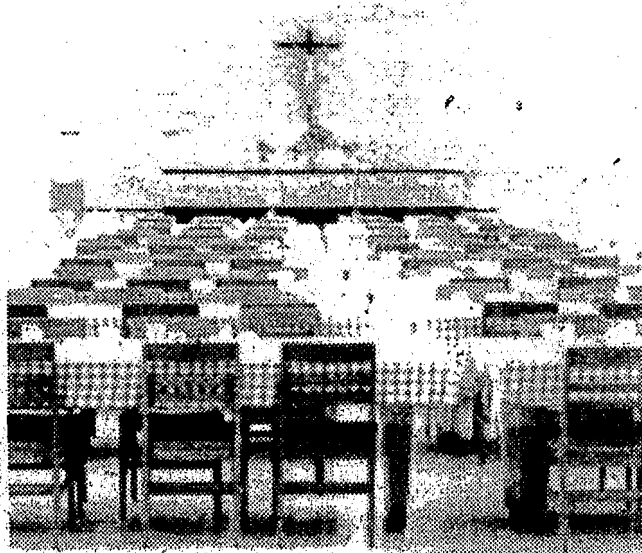

The Insight program doesn't end once a patient leaves the facility. Rather, Insight officials try to tie the alcohol or drug abuser with an outpatient facility like Alcoholics Anonymous. They are also invited back to Colombiere frequently to participate in group sessions and alumni functions (i.e. New Year's Eve Party, Labor Day Cookout).

Insight is actually an offshoot of Insight Inc., which began in Flint nearly ten years ago. It was originally conceived by the Substance Abuse Coalition of the U.A.W. in Genesee County.

Program Director McKenzie has been with Insight for

Village Nixes County Police Contract, Township Undecided About Reserves

by Carol Balzarini

Police protection in Independence Township continues its up and down course with the latest development coming in the Village of Clarkston's decision to discontinue participating in the contract with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department after March 31, when the current contract expires.

Village president Fontie ApMadoc said, "We've taken the do-nothing approach. We're not signing up with the sheriff and we're not going with a one-man police force."

The village council had, for a time, considered initiating their own one-man force with former township police chief Charlie Kimbel as that one man.

Mrs. ApMadoc explained that plan would have cost the village about $24,000, a rough estimate, including the crossing guard for school students, a new car and new equipment. The one man would have had two back-up reserves. She said the village could have anticipated some $23,000 in parking and speeding fines.

These costs are opposed to the $19,000 plus currently paid to the township. That gave them the parking enforcement officer and the crossing guard in addition to an animal control officer, the entire township force and the sheriff's deputies. Mrs. ApMadoc said the village's portion of the contract was based on a percentage of the village's state equalized valuation.

The Monday night meeting, labeled a public hearing, was attended by Rick Huttenlocker who has been advising the village council on liability insurance, township treasurer Fred Ritter who made the original motion to disband the local police department, Jim Brueck who served on the Police Advisory Board and Kimbel, nominee for the one-man department.

Mrs. ApMadoc pointed to the seeming lack of interest in police protection, saying the village residents may have been more motivated if it had been July and the park on Depot Road had been crowded with young people.

As it stands, the village will keep its crossing guard and its parking enforcement officer paying for themselves. An attempt is being made to have any tickets issued paid at 52nd District Court eliminating the need for paperwork on the village's part. The costs of manpower will be coupled with additional costs for liability insurance.

Mrs. ApMadoc regretted only one thing--if the village ever changed its mind and wanted a one-man force, Charlie Kimbel might not be around to take the job. Their own force, she said, would have given them greater individual attention.

After the current contract expires March 31, villagers will have to rely on the Oakland County Sheriff's Department to answer all their calls.

The village council will just wait and see what happens. Should the number of complaints be great, they plan to take another look at the situation, Mrs. ApMadoc said.

On the other hand, according to Lt. James Curtis of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the situation is not quite as simple as Mrs. ApMadoc indicated.

Curtis said there is no law that says the OCSD must respond to calls. State law originally said they were responsible for the maintenance and operation of the county jail and civil process such as repossessions.

Recent legislation makes them responsible for traffic safety on secondary roads in townships and unincorporated areas and traffic enforcement in other areas upon request.

Curtis said after the current contract expires, "attempts" will be made to handle village calls. In Holly and Groveland Townships, which do not contract with the department, he said the deputies only respond to emergency calls. Minor calls made in the evening were referred to the circle car on the day shift.

As far as their agreement with the township was concerned, Curtis said the deputies would remain at their station at Colombiere and not move the police services building as planned.

When that agreement was reached, Curtis said, there were to be no township reserves; they were to have been disbanded along with the regular police force. Later, however, the majority of board members had a change of heart and voted to keep the reserves.

Curtis said the building was not large enough to house both the deputies and the reserves. There was not enough locker space for all of the equipment.

He reported that former township officers Dirk Feneley and Tom Cavaliere were undergoing service training with the OCSD. At the end of six months, they will be given a competency exam. If they place in the top five percent, they will become deputies.

Township Clerk Chris Rose agreed with Curtis that the situation with the village was not as simple as the council seemed to believe. He said they were trying to "get something for nothing."

He said the village was currently paying the salaries of the crossing guard and the parking enforcement officer only, and that the township was paying the administrative costs, the cost to the village only $4,000. An additional $12,000 was paid for actual police protection.

Rose said the village wants to pay the two men themselves, have the township continue administration, and to discontinue participation in the county contract. He said the board would make the final decision.

A second recent development in the police issue is Township Attorney Richard Campbell's opinion that the township reserves cannot, under state law, operate without a full-time police officer. With the dissolution of the full-time department February 2, only one certified officer will still be employed full-time by the township, Supervisor Floyd Tower's daughter Beth. She is the dispatcher for the animal control officer.

The original plan was to have the animal control officer and the dispatcher supervised by the township DPW and housed in that building. Tower, instead, has allowed them to remain in the Police Services building.

This situation, not space, is the primary reason for the county deputies' reluctance to move their sub-station from Colomiere to the township, in Rose's opinion.

It would seem that many of the changes Ritter had hoped to bring about by eliminating the local department and contracting solely with the sheriff's department are gradually slipping away.

First, the reserves were eliminated. Then they were reinstated as some board members apparently had a change of heart.

Second, the animal control officer Joe Armstrong and Beth Tower were to be in the DPW office. Instead, with the supervisor's approval, they will remain in the Police Services building.

Third, the county sub-station that was supposed to have been relocated in the township will not be because the reserves, Armstrong and Tower, still occupy the building the deputies were supposed to have under their mutual service agreement.

The only things that appear to have gone as planned is that Dirk Feneley and Tom Cavaliere are in training with the sheriff's department and a mutual service agreement between the county and the township was drawn up, whatever that may be worth at the present time.

No Solutions Yet for School Space Problems, Redistricting

by Carol Balzarini

Members of the Clarkston Board of Education met in an informal session last week, the second in as many months, to discuss options open to them in resolving the "space needs" of the school district. Any final decisions will be made at a regularly scheduled board meeting.

To a person, board members, administrators, teacher representatives, and citizens present agreed space problems existed and would continue to exist despite a temporarily declining enrollment. There was no clear-cut consensus as to how the situation should be remedied.

Options thrown out for discussion included a repeat of last June's unsuccessful request for a bond issue to build a new junior high school to replace Clarkston Junior High plus improvements to the high school, a repeat of still another unsuccessful request for a new elementary school plus multi-purpose rooms added to the existing ones, and finally, an entirely new high school.

Coupled with space needs is a renewal of operating millage due in June. These three mills will be followed by a series of renewals between then and 1986.

Trustee Carolyn Place said, "Things are tough and things are going to get tougher," indicating she would go along with the consensus of the board when the time came to make a decision.

Trustee Fernando Sanchez suggested meeting with building administrators to get their views. "They're in those buildings all day," he said. "It's their job."

Trustee Eric Rejckel questioned the "ultimate feasibility" of Clarkston Junior High, how many years of use it had left.

Board treasurer Vince Luzi felt they hadn't pointed out the life expectancy of the junior high in the last election. Since the voters said "no" to the package, he suggested a re-evaluation before repeating it.

Board secretary Mary Jane Chaustowich said the space problem was "critical" and the enrollment decline would be brief before the district would be back to the same old problems.

"We can't lay out the same thing again. The community doesn't perceive the same needs the board and the administration do," she said.

Board vice president Janet Thomas suggested a series of smaller issues to achieve what was needed. "We must make people aware of the space needs."

Board president Robert Walters proposed another package, one "more palatable to the voters," such as a new high school. He reasoned that would touch every family in the district.

Superintendent Milford Mason said a new high school as a 9-12 building using the old high school as a 6-8 middle school would result in an excess of classrooms only in certain areas such as industrial arts and vocational education.

Mason then read a statement prepared for board members reiterating events of the past three years including PTA surveys, the work of the Citizens Advisory Committee and bond issue failures.

"The issue of future facility needs will not go away; two junior high schools will always be needed; the high school will never have excess space in the next two decades," he stated.

Then Mason put forth his recommendation of a possible "short-term/long-term plan" before going back to the voters with a proposal. He suggested a professional, independent study such as the one done in the Oxford Schools when the school board reached an impasse. Such a study could take six months to complete.

Following more input from the school personnel present and the two parents from Andersonville School, the board voted unanimously to contact the Bureau of School Services at the University of Michigan to get an idea of what they could and could not do for the district. It would be an informational meeting only to explore the scope of their services.

The second item to be dealt with in this informal session was the question of the three Andersonville sixth grades housed at Clarkston Junior High because there is no room for them in the elementary building.

Andersonville parents had requested the board do something to remedy the situation at the November board meeting. That was followed by a meeting at Andersonville early in December at which time all arguments were heard and a report promised in 60 days.

Mason presented the board with four alternatives: a boundary line change, four more portable classrooms, additional bus runs, and no decision at all leaving things as they are. Mason recommended the boundary change.

The first alternative would involve about 105 students living in the Dixie Highway corridor roughly from Foster Road to Davisburg Road. Half of them would be shifted to Pine Knob Elementary which is able to absorb about 50 students at this time. The remaining students would go to Clarkston Elementary leaving room for the sixth graders to return to Andersonville. Clarkston sixth graders would then walk across the road to classrooms at the junior high.

The second alternative of portable classrooms at Andersonville would involve expenditure of about $100,000. The school currently has three portables.

The additional bus runs necessary to transport the Andersonville sixth graders at a different time and separate from the older students would cost some $15,000 each in total costs per year.

Mason reminded board members the Andersonville parents had a "credible issue." There is space at Pine Knob for about fifty students. Clarkston students can go to the junior high "easily." He said he could not find any good rationale for not changing the boundary lines.

"It is not a question of quality of education but what is best for kids," he continued.

Express Meet Champs at Home

Contests against 1979 Soccer Bowl Champion Vancouver Whitecaps and 1978 Soccer Bowl Champion New York Cosmos highlight the Detroit Express 1980 home schedule of North American Soccer League (NASL) action.

Reigning champ Vancouver comes to Detroit Saturday, May 31 in the tenth game of the season, the fifth home date for the Express. The game will mark the Whitecaps' Silverdome debut. The Express played in Vancouver in 1978. The teams did not meet in 1979.

Previous champ New York makes its Silverdome appearance also on a Saturday, July 12 for the twenty-second game of the season, the eleventh home date for the Express. Though the Cosmos have played the Silverdome before, this summer's date is their first contest of official NASL season competition.

"In Vancouver, we host the NASL's best, victors over the Tampa Bay Rowdies this past September in a championship match played before 54,000 in Giants Stadium," noted Executive Director of the Express Roger Faulkner in reviewing the schedule.

"In New York, we face the ever formidable Cosmos—no doubt out to avenge their 8-2 drubbing at the hands of Trevor Francis (who scored six goals) and the Detroit Express in the preseason exhibition contest last April.

Have Bordine's Design Your Master Landscape Plan Now!

A beautiful landscape doesn't happen overnight. The master plan of nature develops through the seasons and matures to the delight of our senses. We are a part of that plan, not alone, but immersed in life itself — living plants that give us air to breathe, brilliance to lift our spirits, cool shade for comfort, and a softness to touch.

There is a beautiful landscape for you at Bordine's. It starts with a master plan from the experience of a Bordine's designer, then grows from the healthiest nursery stock into your personal outdoor retreat.

Bordine's can balance your landscape in a single planting or through successive plantings over a period of years — you can plant your own, at your own pace, simply follow the plan. So it's not a question of cost but of having a master plan.

Put a Bordine's award winning landscape designer to work for you today.

Whether or not they're wearing a WIN button, most Americans now are actively fighting inflation in all areas of their lives over which they have control.

Local women are no exception. The Reminder asked several of them what ideas they are using to fight inflation's inroads on the family food budget.

Their strategies included doing bulk grocery shopping on a regular basis and avoiding unnecessary trips to the store. Husbands are often partners in the decision-making regarding grocery purchases. Watching for any buying "specials" is another common activity which usually results in substantial savings at checkout.

"Use leftovers" seemed to be the most popular bit of advice shared by area cooks. Some of their recipes and ideas follow in this article.

new food processor and microwave oven.

She uses a product called "Soup Starter", which eliminates one step in making homemade soup. "Soup Starter" contains stock, vegetables and seasoning—cutting down on the cooking time required. A Pontiac General Hospital Volunteer and choir member at her church, Pat laughingly gave her recipe for "Clean-out-the-refrigerator Soup."

"CLEAN-OUT-THE-REFRIGERATOR-SOUP"

Add called-for water to Soup Starter, bring to boil
Add other liquid ingredients, ie, 1 quart homemade tomatoes
Add frozen peas or any other leftover vegetable
Add leftover chicken or roast beef, or both
Add extender, ie, leftover noodles
Again bring just under boil then let simmer 2 hours on low heat.

Pam Brown, of Clarkston, is another inflation-fighter who watches for specials and uses up leftovers. Her casserole recipe can be varied by changing the ingredients. She even changes the name accordingly! An active churchwoman who, additionally, enjoys couples club dinners and outings with her husband, Vic, Pam shared this recipe:

"INFLATION-FIGHTER CASSEROLE"

Ingredients:

1 can cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup of milk or broth
2 cups cooked turkey or chicken, cubed
1 1/2 cups cooked noodles
1 cup frozen peas or green beans
1 teaspoon minced onion
Blend together soup and liquid
Add remaining ingredients
Pour into 1 1/2 qt. casserole
Top with cracker crumbs or sliced tomatoes
Bake at 400 degrees 25-30 minutes

"Start from scratch" sometimes is good advice when baking—especially where quantity is desired.

Mary Ann Moore, of Clarkston, made a pumpkin bread at Christmastime for gift-giving to friends. The recipe makes four loaves and can be made ahead and frozen.

This is important to Mary Ann since, as a minister's wife, she is involved in many activities outside the home. The church the Moores serve—Pine Knob Missionary Baptist—continued a seven-year tradition at Christmastime by presenting the elderly residents of Beverly Manor Nursing Home, in Pontiac, with Christmas gifts at a special party. This is Mary Ann's recipe:

PUMPKIN BREAD

2 cups pumpkin	1/2 tsp. salt
3/4 cups water	1 tsp. cinnamon
3 1/2 cups sugar	1/2 tsp. ginger
1 cup oleo or veg. oil	1/2 tsp. cloves
4 eggs	1/2 tsp. nutmeg

3 1/2 cups flour
2 tsp. soda
Cream sugar and eggs. Add oil. Sift dry ingredients, add to batter. Pour into one pound coffee can to 1/2 full or use loaf pan. Add nuts if desired. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

Judy T., of Clarkston, who earlier shared a recipe with Reminder readers, also offered one which took advantage of fruits in season—in this case, winter pears. This pie tastes just like apple pie, she says, and could be used when apples are not available.

PEAR PIE

Prepare crust for two-crust pie.
Peel 6 or 7 Bartlett pears, depending on size
Slice into bottom crust until full
Mix 2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, pinch of salt and nutmeg, three level tablespoons of flour
Mix and sprinkle over pears; dot with butter.
Add top crust
Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes; reduce to 350 degrees and bake until done.

Wolves Route Kettering, 75 - 41

by John Huttenlocher

The top-rated Clarkston Wolves held off the hot-headed Waterford Kettering Captains Friday night, 75-41. The atmosphere was typical of a league-rivalry game, one side of the gym trying to outcheer the other and people screaming. Both teams were tense, and it showed during the first quarter. Just like all hot-rivalries, there was a lot of shoving, and the first half proved to be the most physical half of basketball the Wolves have played in a long while.

Clarkston's superb fast break brought confusion to the Captains, and what was even more confusing was that they only scored a total of 14 points in the second and third quarters.

Even though Tim McCormick only played about half the game, he still left his mark, scoring 11 points and grabbing 14 rebounds.

The Player of the Game was obviously John Sheldon, senior guard. Sheldon put in 17 points and had 11 assists. Chuck Nicolai, senior forward, put in 13 points and next came senior guard Ed Haddad with 11 points and five steals. Clarkston is now 6-0 in the G.O.A.L. and 13-0 overall.

NOTE: The Clarkston Wolves play the Davison Cardinals at the Pontiac Silverdome on Wednesday, February 13, at 5:15 p.m. Immediately following the Wolves-Cardinals game, the Detroit Pistons will play the Cleveland Cavaliers. Tickets are available at the Clarkston High School Office for $5.00. The tickets are good for both games. If you would like to purchase tickets, phone 625-5841. There is a limited number of tickets left, so hurry.

Tough Defense Proves Successful for JV's

JUNIOR VARSITY

The Clarkston Wolves' J.V. defeated the tough Waterford Kettering Captains Friday, 43-33. The first quarter saw the two teams exchange leads and at the half it was Clarkston 24, Kettering 19. In the second half Clarkston only gave up 6 points in the 4th quarter. Brad Beattie was high scorer for Clarkston with 18 points and Ric Schebor was next in line with 12.

CHS Bombs Central 80-58

The #1 state ranked Clarkston Wolves showed that they really do deserve their top position in the A.P. poll when they routed the physical Pontiac Central Chiefs, 80-58.

There was some controversy whether as to give the Wolfpack the #1 spot in the state, reasoning that Clarkston has failed to play a competitive team.

John Sheldon had a big week with 32 points and great floor play.

Although the Wolves did win by a lot, the Chiefs did prove to be competitive. The down-towners provided the Clarkston Cagers with some quick and physical basketball, the likes of which Clarkston usually sees only when they compete in the playoffs. Sure, the Chiefs were the quickest team Clarkston has played, but they failed to contain their ever-present physical game. That type of game plan got them into foul trouble mid-way through the second period. Central went from a 17-14 first period lead, to a 37-27 half-time deficit.

Clarkston did have a slight edge on Central; the Chiefs tallest player was 6 foot 3 inches, and their average height 6 foot 1 1/2 inches.

Despite Central's classy layups and stylish moves, they had trouble moving towards the basket during the second and third periods.

Clarkston didn't look dull for a minute, either. A series of reverse dribbles and deft ball handling by senior guards Ed Haddad, John Sheldon and Larry Baylis got the ball to the basket. When Clarkston couldn't penetrate, forwards Chuck Nicolai, Scott McKoin and Greg Lane would hit on a 15 footer. Tim McCormick, the talented towering senior center was obviously doing a lot of both. Once Clarkston finally adjusted to Central's type of ball game, they started to set their own game, and soon, the point margin was wide open.

High scorer was Tim McCormick, he put in 26 points and ripped down 20 rebounds. McCormick also blocked 12 shots, and was 10-12 from the free-throw line. Junior forward Scott McKoin was good for 18 points and 10 rebounds, while playmaker John Sheldon had 15. Ed Haddad contributed with 6 assists and 8 points and Chuck Nicolai was next with 6 points.
