editor's note

The impact of cable television on Clarkston and surrounding areas is likely to be of great importance and concern in years to come.

That is why The Reminder chose to cover the public hearing in neighboring Waterford Township, where seven cable television companies are vying for that township's franchise.

Although Waterford is not the first Oakland County municipality, (Holly, for one has cable connections) to show interest in cable, the nation's cable companies want the Waterford franchise, because they would expect surrounding communities to make the same choice.

Thus it was interesting to note the sales pitches made by the seven companies. Some promised scholarships, some promised outright grants. Representatives from all over the U.S. flew in to lobby on behalf of their companies.

You can bet, once Waterford has made their decision, Clarkston, will be thrown into the midst of making their choice.

And an important choice it will be. Cable TV can do so many things. It can offer something different on every channel. It can offer educational programs. It can cover local events and sports live. Its technology is improving each and every day and has no limits.

Yes, the development of cable TV and who gets what in Waterford, is sure worth keeping an eye on!

mike morrow's trivia

I've found there are many more guarantees in life than just death and taxes.

For instance, no matter what line I get in at the bank, that's the one that moves the slowest. Everyone in the other lines is out of breath from moving so fast but there I stand waiting for the cashier to count and roll three trillion pennies. Of course you know what happens when I change lines, the cashier goes on break and the new trainee (who can't speak English) takes over.

Another guarantee in life is that when I wash my car or plan on going to the beach it rains. Once I planned to wash my car and go to the beach on the same day. We had a tornado.

One of life's more embarrassing guarantees is the promise that no matter where on Earth I am, when I run to the store looking like a skid row bum I will see at least thirty two people I went to school with whom I haven't seen in years.

Some of the more common things in life I've come to expect are:

1. The phone to ring when I lie down for a nap
2. To trip when walking by a group of people
3. A pimple on the tip of my nose before any important occasion
4. A stain on any new shirt I thought was too expensive but bought anyway because I liked it.

There is one guarantee in life you can avoid by following the simple rule: "Never say never." That's the guarantee that says the minute you utter the words "I'll never..." or "It will never happen to me..." you will and it does.

For example, I used to say "I'll never get fat. I can't understand how people can let themselves go like that." 'nowadays I'm often mistaken for Orson Wells.

If you don't believe me try the theory out for yourself, but please don't do what a friend of mine who didn't believe me did. He said "I'll never get married." He is now living with his wife and three kids in New Jersey. That's a harsh price even for a non-believer.

Mr. Wilcox,

Just had to drop you a note to tell you how very much we appreciated the story you did on our soft ball team the "Clarkston Fuel Pumpers". The charming reporter you sent out did such a delightful story on the "Pumpers", and all of us were thrilled to see the picture on the front of your paper.

We didn't take the State Championship, we came in No. 3 which wasn't all that bad.

These are a special bunch of guys and we are very proud of them.

They have had a terrific summer of soft ball. The State might have rated them No.3, but they're still a big No. 1 with us. We really appreciate your interest and your kindness.

Thank you,

Leonard and Doris Smith

The ducks had a grand old time in August, as much heavier than normal precipitation fell over most of the southeastern Michigan area. Much of the month's rainfall occurred in the form of thundershower activity, which at times was very intense. A series of storms which passed through southeastern Michigan on August 2-3 produced some very heavy rainfall amounts, ranging from 1.10 inches at Fenton to 3.33 inches in Northville. The northern and eastern Clarkston stations reported 1.48 and 1.73 inches of rainfall respectively from these storms.

In the Clarkston area, one of the most intense storms in recent years occurred during the late afternoon hours of August 2th. The eastern Clarkston station recorded 1.02 in-

HOW CAN DEATH BE EXPLAINED TO A CHILD?

In the book Explaining Death To Children, the editor, Dr. Earl A. Grollman states: "In explaining death to children, the parent may proceed from two areas of concern...the interpretative where religious concepts are explained...and the factual area."

Religious concepts would include those that describe the qualities of God as understood in the religion practiced in your family. These should be of a positive nature highlighting the love of God for his children and everyone in the family.

The factual area would include those concepts which explain that death means that life stops; the person will not and cannot return to life, and the body will be buried.

The child will follow your example more than the words you use to explain the post-death procedures. But the primary need of the child is to be listened to and to have the questions answered briefly and with truth and love.

This is a subject you may wish to discuss at length with your minister and funeral director. Both of us will be glad to help.

Clarkston Historians Work Hard to Preserve Past

by Dawson Bell

If you have been passing through the village of Clarkston, and noted that its appearance is neither very much like Drayton Plains nor very much different from the last time you looked, you're right. In fact, the area's association to the past hasn't been overlooked, even in Washington.

After almost eight years of negotiation with various government agencies, the central core of the village has been assigned (in June of this year) to the National Register of Historic Places. As such, Clarkston joins the ranks of Williamsburg, Virginia and Charleston, South Carolina as sites of significance to the national heritage.

The designation has been in the works at least since November of 1972 when the Clarkston Community Historical Society was formed. But as Jennifer Radcliff, past president of CCHS attests the realization of the initial goal was no easy matter.

The official stamp of approval only came after verification in triplicate of Clarkston's authenticity. Pains-taking examination of tax records, property abstracts, photographic evidence and site maps all had to be completed and organized before it was possible to make official application to the Department of Interior for national site status.

Mrs. Radcliff says, "We really sweated it out...right up until June 12th, when the letter finally came."

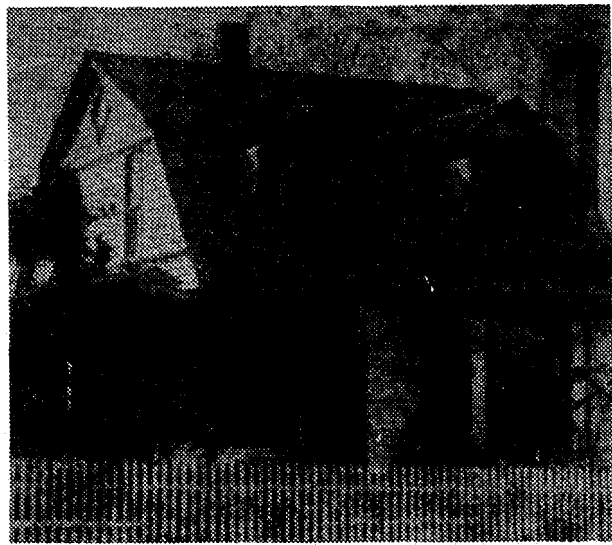

For the uninitiated, Clarkston is not merely old; it is a 19th century milltown (thematic integrity is all important for consideration as an historic site).

The mill, of course, is no longer present and ceased operation soon after the turn of the century. What remains is a collection of buildings (most of them residences) that owe their existence to the bustle of commercial activity the mill once attracted.

For instance, the residence of the Richard Degener's at 58 North Main was constructed in 1852 by Nicholas Smith, owner of one of Clarkston's early and successful general stores.

Or, the former home of William Noyse Tiffany at East Washington. Mr. Tiffany (a relative of current East Washington resident, Susan Basinger) for a time in the late 19th century set up shop in the village as a shoeman. His business, however, flagged when he found it unprofitable to close doors on Saturday--the day he went to Detroit to see the Tigers play baseball and the day the farmers all came to town to buy shoes.

There would be nothing very striking about the setting or the circumstances under which it arose (after all, Michigan is littered with old milltowns, quite a few of which still have mills) if it weren't for a couple of qualifying factors that make Clarkston, if not unique, at least special.

First of all, the area designated for inclusion in the district exhibits a remarkable continuity. All but 25 of the 125 buildings within its boundaries are deemed "contributing" structures. That is to say, they were constructed and initially occupied by the farm billage merchant community.

And secondly, and perhaps equally important, Clarkston has an active group of present day residents who are intent on preservation of things historic--the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

The society can claim a large share of the credit for marshalling the effort that was required to achieve designation.

It was through their initiative that the first group of homes along the Main Street corridor were researched and catalogued. And it was their continuing commitment, when the process was moving too slowly on a strictly volunteer basis (a single residence could take up to 8 hours to research), that engaged village council support and brought Betty Galligan and architect Betty-Lee Francis onto the scene.

Their work, financed in part by CETA and Community Development Funds, made it possible to research enough of the buildings within the boundaries of the proposed site to receive state recognition, in January of 1976, and ultimately to place Clarkston on the National Register.

Initially, formation of a historical society and the drive for historic site status were seen as the most expedient means available for local interests to thwart state highway department intentions of widening M-15 through the village.

Now, although the historic district is still a focal point of society affairs, their larger concerns are with enriching the community historically on all levels.

As Susan Basinger, current president of CCHS puts it, "We want to increase people's awareness of the history all around them...It isn't only on Main Street."

To that end, the society is engaged in a vigorous educational effort.

Last year several members presented slide shows and conducted a walking architectural tour for 3rd and 4th graders at Clarkston Elementary. They have been invited back this year and hope to expand the program to other schools and other age groups (including adults) in the future.

In January, Oakland University professor, Dr. John Cameron, will be offering a class on Michigan architecture which will focus on and be held in the Clarkston area.

One thing Mrs. Basinger and her fellow members wish to stress is that history is not the special province of those who live in old houses. Membership in the society is open to "any person with an interest in the history of the Clarkston community."

But membership isn't required at all to engage in society activity. The classes the society sponsors are open to anyone. And volunteers are always welcome to help with any of the half dozen projects presently underway.

Aside from the continuing work of researching and cataloguing buildings all over the township, CCHS has begun taping and transcribing oral historical accounts from long term residents and is also engaged in transferring the old township tax records to microfiche. Eventually it is hoped that the collected materials will form a permanent collect in some central location in the township, but for now the emphasis is on gathering as many artifacts and records as possible.

The effort is, as one might imagine, tremendously time consuming. But it is a labor of love by people who hope their work can help Clarkston and Independence Township from becoming "another Rochester".

The historic district designation is a powerful weapon in that fight. It does not preserve Clarkston (or even prevent the widening of the highway) by law for good, however.

Besides offering some attractive tax and lending incentives to residents of the district the designation provides only that any development projects which might affect the

Cable TV Companies Seek Waterford Franchise

Waterford citizens got a chance to hear from Cable TV companies who are viewing for the township's cable franchise at a public hearing held September 10 in the township hall.

Seven Cable TV companies had submitted written proposals and filed the necessary papers to be considered for the Waterford Township Cable TV franchise. They were: Omnicom, Michigan Cablevision, Mid-America Cablevision, Metrovision, MacLean-Hunter Ltd., Oakland Cable, and Warner-Amex-Van Amem, Inc.

Each company was allowed a fifteen minute presentation, and order of appearance was determined by drawing numbers from a hat.

The representations came, prepared with, varied audio-visual materials, including signs, architects drawing of proposed TV studio videotapes of present and projected programming, TV monitors and recorders, a 2-way hand held remote control unit and a patented live interference monitoring device.

Peter Christiano, Vice-President and General Manager of Omnicom (a subsidiary of Capital Cities Communications, owner of WJR Radio and The Oakland Press) said his company stressed "local origination" and "local community involvement" and that 1 percent in grant funding would immediately become available for a community project. He, also, suggested a collection of video programs for the Waterford Public Library, Omnicom would, also, "make available" a "state-of-the-art color studio" in Waterford.

Steve Peterson of WPON, spoke for Michigan Cable Vision, a partnership of WPON Radio, and American Television Communications. Citing "25 years in Waterford Township (WPON), his company would provide, among other things, 17 television sets to the school district as well as 15 scholarships per year for 15 years. The scholarships would be used to send local students "to the school of their choice" to learn TV and Cable TV.

Mid-America Cablevision officials said their philosophy was government and community "service". Mid-America stressed local origination "communication between government and the people" and proposed 2 "earth stations", a "50 plus system" and "2-way interaction TV units in all homes."

Metrovision offered a number of channels for local programming originations, including use by senior citizens, etc. A "universal service" was proposed, programming certain channels free of charge. Metrovision would offer funding for one full-time coordinator, where all classrooms in the school district, and train at least 25 students per year.

Stanley Kurzman, local attorney, spoke of his pride in bringing a company of MacLean-Hunter, Ltd.'s stature to Waterford. An official of the Canadian Company listed among "strengths of the company" its diversification and Multi-National affiliations and the fact that MacLean-Hunter, Ltd. was presently installing cable in 8 contiguous communities in the downriver Detroit Metro area. He made reference to "$400,000 on wheels", the mobile unit brought to the meeting, and said it was estimated that $6.5-7 million dollars to build the (Waterford) system.

Ron Hammer, Oakland Cable Company official broke the mounting tension of the long evening with his humorous comparisons between the previous presentations.

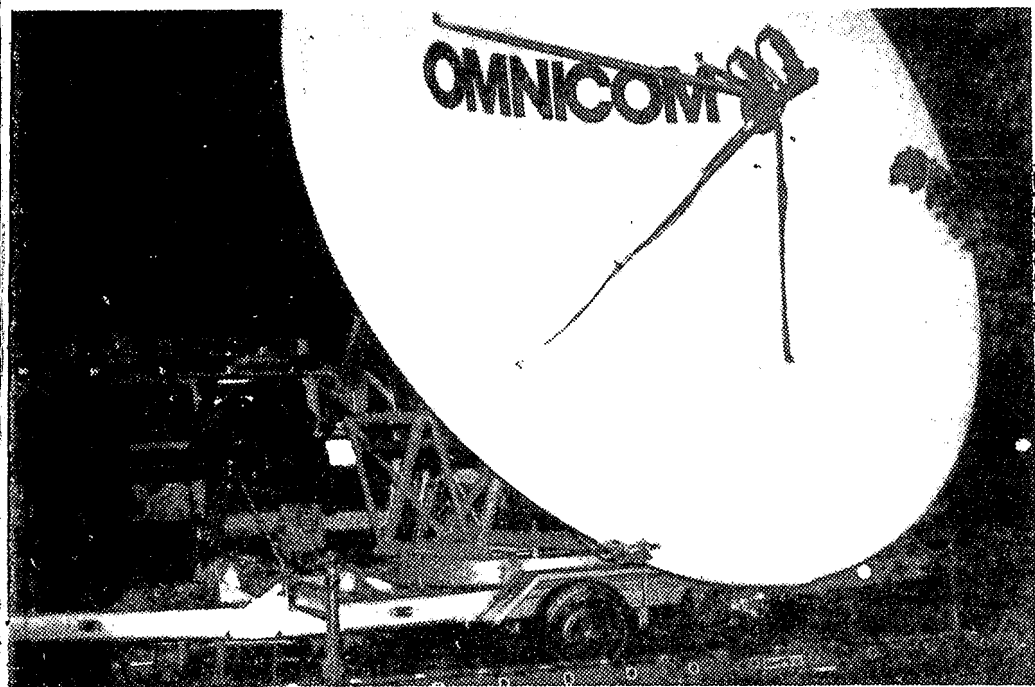

He said, "the hardware is all basically the same" and that his company would offer "the number of channels desired." What he felt was unique about his proposal was that the cable TV grants would go to athletics, since "Waterford is a sports-oriented community." He proposed going to the "sports fields." Local residency of company officials was also stressed.

Harold (Sonny) VanAmem, of Warner-Amex Van Amem, Inc. spoke of his fourteen years as a computer engineer, working with NASA and doing early satellite work. He stressed the size and financial strength of Warner Communications. Mention was made of his company's "Qube" system; that "the state of the art" exists in Columbus, Ohio, and is coming to other large cities.

Warner Communications Vice President Richard Anrillo said "We view cable as a com-

Preserving the Past in Clarkston area and which would utilize federal funds must undergo extensive review.

Jennifer Radcliff thinks it will take continued vigilance on the local level to preserve the area's semi-rural character. "This kind of effort must come from the grass-roots; we can't count on the government," she says.

One measure, which would carry the force of law, at least locally, is a proposed village ordinance which would restrict development and modification of property within the district to some minimum level of historical accuracy.

This action, coupled with the guidelines for downtown restoration drawn up by Mrs. Francis (another project she engaged in under the auspices of the village council with CD funds) would go a long way towards preserving the character of the village, the society feels.

None of the work by the society, however, can be really successful without broad support in the community as a whole. It makes no sense, as Mrs. Basinger points out, for the narrow confines of the village to be the limit of a preservation effort, while the rest of the township is becoming a complex of paved streets, apartment compounds and fast-food stores.

Obviously, the value of Clarkston as a 19th century milltown is no longer literal. For the village to survive as a modern business district at the same time it serves as an historic district many feel is both unlikely and impractical.

But the Clarkston Community Historical Society disagrees. In Mrs. Basinger's words, "historic preservation should be good for business. Instead of each building struggling to be unique, the village as a whole would present a recognizable personality."

"It is not the intention of the society or, I think, the village council that wholesale, expensive, re-modeling should take place at once," she says, "but that when changes are made that they be made with Mrs. Francis' plans in mind."

What the society seems to want least of all is that the group be perceived as a reactionary band of advocates.

Hence Mrs. Basinger says, "We don't want to get involved in any political question that is not directly related to preservation."

The major thrust of society operation, then, remains educational. It is hoped that greater interest generated in history, genealogy and historical values will serve in the long run better than small, special interest group political maneuvering.

There are, everyone agrees, no future certainties in matters of this sort. But while the historical society can know little of what the future holds, they do know a lot about the past...and they want to share it.

For more information, call Mrs. Susan Basinger at 625-0976. Or, better yet, attend the annual society sponsored Crafts and Cider Festival, scheduled September 19-21 in the Village Park.

The Findlay. It's more than a cozy wood burning friend.

It's as dependable as the Conestogo wagon of old but with new ideas. To begin with it's made of heavy steel plate welded into an efficient airtight unit. We lined the inside with fire bricks and then added Thermocord gaskets to the cast iron doors for a positive airtight seal. Then we built in a baffle system for the most efficient burning up to 12 hours. There's a practical ash catch at the front. The doors open wide enough for a 20" log and the 5/16" steel cooktop provides a surface for cooking or warming.

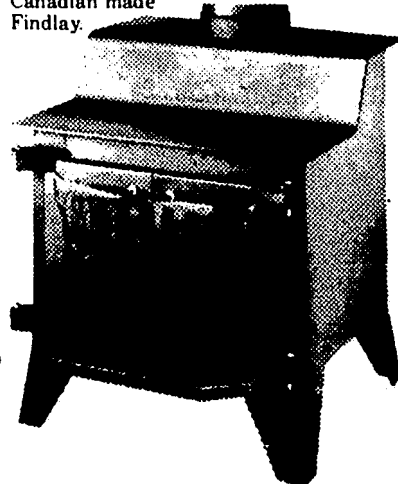

An excellent feature of the Conestogo is that the body of the stove is one piece wrap around body which lessens the chance of weld cracks and air leaks. The decorator, wooden handles, and the cast iron doors are outstanding. The unique Conestogo wagon design is cast in three dimensional detail and the wheels of the wagon are spin type draft controls, which provide for maximum control of the fire for all night burn. The sturdy steel decorator legs add more good looks and when you open the doors for full enjoyment of the fire, the Conestogo is more than a cheerful wood burning friend — it's an all Canadian made Findlay.

munity asset" and "only our company has 2-way interactive TV."

Company official Glen Brown said, "From day one we will give you a 2-way interactive system."

Warner-Amex Van Arnen offered 64 channels, including 3 public access channels for education, the public and government. The company's system is backed up by power generators in case of power failure important where the system also serves as a security service."

Waterford Schools were offered a fully portable control room "so programs can go to all classrooms", and a $10,000 grant allowance from anticipated advertising revenues from game telecasts.

Following questions from the audience, Waterford Township board members expressed sentiment that the cable TV issue should be handled at the most local unit of government.

Supervisor James Seeterlin said, "I'm not afraid of Waterford Township being the leader (in Cable TV) instead of the follower." We have had one year of exposure."

In response to a question, Treasurer Dennis Ritter said, "We hope to make a decision by November 20, 1980, when the new board takes office."

Deer Lake Runner-Ups

Badge IV of Fraser outlasted a tough Adray Appliance team from Dearborn, 14-12, to capture the Men's Class "B" crown. The Click Club from Riverview won the Men's Class "C" championship by defeating Warner's Party Store of Durand, 14-12. A tough team from Flint, Grandwood Apartments, completely dominated the Men's Class

"D" tournament and defeated Vic's Bar of Jackson, 20-0 in the finale.

The Women's Class "B" title was won by Warren Banks of St. Clair Shores 14-5, over Mr. Joe's of Farmington Hills. St. Daniels Breaks Ground for New Church

Father Charles Cushing with shovel in hand breaks ground for a new Catholic church.

A misty rain failed to dampen the spirits of the 75-100 St. Daniel's parishioners who came to watch the Sunday afternoon ground-breaking ceremonies for their new church. As a matter of fact, when the first thrust of the shovel encountered a stone, one quipped, "Upon this rock I will build my church."

Father Charles Cushing anticipates grading for the parking lot extension to begin soon with the actual building construction not long after that. The new church is scheduled for completion in the Fall of 1981.

Enrollment Drops Significantly in Clarkston School District

by Dawson Bell

The preliminary student head count figures are in from the Clarkston Community Schools, and they are not very encouraging.

In a report delivered to the Board of Education at their September 8th meeting, William Neff, administrative assistant, presented numbers which indicate that enrollment in the district may be down as much as 224.

If confirmed by the fourth Friday official state count, to be held September 26, losses in state revenue over administration projections could reach $230,000.

The preliminary information indicates that the school district will lose "143 more (students) than we predicted we would lose," said assistant superintendent Mel Vaara.

Lower attendance is evidenced throughout the district, with some change on the elementary school level due largely to changes in boundaries. On some lower grade levels, figures have even come in slightly higher than projections.

But Vaara termed the losses on the secondary level "staggering".

"We lost ninety students from last year's junior class," he said.

Those students have presumably dropped out, transferred to other districts or entered private schools. But Vaara and Superintendent Milford Mason vowed to trace all ninety to find out exactly why they have disappeared from the Clarkston School's roll call.

Dealing with the potential cut-back of a quarter of a million dollars will be no easy matter for the Board of Education. They have already resolved to keep deficit spending below $500,000, which Mason has said forced him to trim $300,000 from the 80-81 budget.

Mason says that if the state aid is not forthcoming (something he will not be sure of for some weeks), "The Board will have to decide whether to swallow that deficit, too, or to cutback further."

A more positive fiscal note was sounded at the meeting by Business Manager, Stan Darling, who reported that a surplus of $14,000 was left over after final payment on the school district's 1958 bond issue, series II.

He requested the Board to authorize transfer of the remaining monies, as required by state law, to its oldest outstanding bond issue, the 1956 series I.

Although the termination of the '58 bond payments result in only a small reduction of district millage assessment (.0006 mills), Dr. Darling pointed out that the overall debt for the system is a mere 1.7% of its state equalized valuation of $251,000,000 and among the lowest in the county.

Superintendent Mason added that the overall district assessment is the second lowest in the county.

The Clarkston Schools, then, would appear to be cutting a fine line between financial austerity and what one board member, Robert Walters, called "the danger of under-selling our kids".

Students in 3 Grades to Take MEAP Tests

The State Board of Education Michigan Educational Assessment Testing Program (MEAP) will be given to all 4th, 7th and 10th graders in Clarkston Schools between September 17 and October 3.

These tests measure student knowledge of selected basic reading and math skills. Students are given as much time as they need to take the tests, assuring them maximum opportunity to show what they know.

The purpose of the tests is to provide teachers with information used to assist students to acquire skills they may be lacking. Also, evaluators utilize the information in the study of the curriculum.

William R. Potvin, Director of Planning and Evaluation, expects the tests will be scored and the results returned to the district by the end of October.

Committees made up of teachers, principals and various specialists, will then review the building and district assessment results. These committees will:

1. Determine a criterion for an acceptable level of attainment.
2. Identify where objectives are being introduced, taught, or reviewed, and,
3. Examine the curriculum and teaching materials.

Use of the results should then aid in student mastery of basic reading and math skills.

Potvin stressed that the MEAP scores should not be used to compare schools or school districts or as the basis for making sweeping judgments about the overall quality of the educational program of the district.

All parents and citizens with questions or concerns about testing in the Clarkston Schools can call Potvin at 625-4402, for further information.

A Preview of Clarkston High School Varsity Sports

Photos by Jim Nichols and Kathy Rush

Written by Dawson Bell

Swartz Creek, Clintondale Early Victims

Clarkston Begins GOAL Campaign with 2-0 Record

by Dawson Bell

Two games into the 1980 football season and one would think that varsity coach, Walt Wyniemko, would be smiling.

Well, he is—but not from ear to ear.

Friday night Clarkston came home from Clintondale with the season's second consecutive win, 14-7.

But Wyniemko would not be lured into false optimism.

"Sure, it's nice to win," he said, "But the season starts all over again next week."

Last year at this time the Wolves were not 2-0, but 0-2. So obviously they are doing something a little different, and a little better, in Coach Wyniemko's second season.

But he won't take much credit for it.

"These kids are real hard workers," he says.

"I can't single anyone out. They're all tough."

After Friday night that goes without saying.

Clintondale, wherever it is, is a long, unfriendly way from Clarkston. Winning there was a distinctly more difficult test than the Wolves home opening rout of Swartz Creek.

In that game, Clarkston was in control from the opening moments, scoring on a long pass-run from Brad Sheldon to Kevin Krause.

At Clintondale, however, the tables were turned. The Dragons took Clarkston's opening kickoff and proceeded to march, all the way to the end zone and a 7-0 lead.

And there, for the rest of the first half, the scoring ended.

In the second half Clarkston went to work. Behind some fine blocking, which ultimately allowed the Wolves to control if not dominate the line of scrimmage, Sheldon and running back Mark Hughes began to pick up first downs.

Aided by costly face-mask and holding penalties the CHS offense held onto the ball for much of the third quarter, scoring once on a pass to Kevin Krause. A two-point conversion at that point gave the Wolves a one point lead.

Then, in the fourth quarter, when it appeared that Clintondale might be preparing to get back into the game, another costly mistake—this time a fumble punt that Clarkston recovered on the one—enabled the Wolves to put the game away, Mark Hughes going around right end.

So, after eight quarters of 1980 action, Wyniemko's squad has given up only a single touchdown while scoring nine of their own. Pretty good?

"Let's see what happens the rest of the way," says Clarkston's stoical head coach.

The rest of the way starts next week with Rochester at home, their first GOAL league encounter.

Leading the 50-man team onto the field for the fall campaign are senior co-captains Mike Schumborg, Mark Hughes and Bryan Rexford.

39 Turn Out for CHS Golf Squad

Aggressiveness Key to Hoop Fortunes

Dave MacDonald, Clarkston girls varsity basketball coach, is used to winning. His teams at Bloomfield Hills Roeper never lost more than five games in any of the three seasons he coached there.

So one might expect him to be little discouraged after sitting through a 3-17 season in his first campaign back in Clarkston last year.

But that is not the case.

"Last year," he says, "I knew going into the first game that there were still a lot of things that we needed to work on."

"This year I'm trying to find things to do so we don't peak before the season starts."

His optimism is based largely on the return of every starter from last year's team. That group, of four sophomores and one junior, was really a junior varsity squad playing a varsity schedule, he says.

MacDonald is also pleased with the overall upswing in interest his program is generating. In 79-80, he says he barely had enough bodies to field a team. This year, 40 girls turned out for the opening practice, August 11.

Coach MacDonald and Carla Teare, his junior varsity assistant, expect to see more enthusiasm on the court this year, too.

"We're going to play an aggressive man-on-man defense as much as possible," he says.

His aggressive "men" include seniors, Jane Acton and Lisa Forsyth and juniors, Lynn McCormick, Michelle Vlasich, Tracy Antos and Lynette Whitehead.

Clarkston High School golf coach, Jim Chamberlain, needs an assistant. But not as badly as he needs a bookkeeper.

He admits he's a little behind on his statistics. And with good reason.

Coach Chamberlain is trying to keep track of the scores and handicaps for an incredible 39 student golfers.

It's even more remarkable when one considers that only 6 of the 39 can participate in each match on the varsity level.

Chamberlain says it takes a lot of tenacity for some of the younger kids to stick around long enough to work their way into competition.

"I have to spend so much time with the varsity that they (the juniors and sophomores) tend to get overlooked."

He is happy to have them around, though.

Ever since Waterford Hill closed the golfers coming up through the ranks have suffered from the lack of a summer golf program. Many of the sophomores turning out for the team now are playing golf regularly for the first time.

Without a youth program to provide him with experienced golfers, Chamberlain has seen the scores rise in the ten or so years he has been associated with the team.

But he can't complain about his teams' attitude. He says they're "scrappers", all 39 of 'em.

Presently playing on or near the varsity level are seniors, Kevin Douglas, Joe Duris, Dale Hurteau, Brian Ladd, Phil Parker, Dave Rousa, Ric Schebor, Paul Schellinger, Rick Selvala, Brian Wallace and Ross Williams and junior Dan Gaulin.

Clarkston Girls Win 1st Ever Tennis Match

Not too many people paid any attention when Becky Craig's CHS girl's tennis team defeated Almont in a match held at the Clintonwood Park last Tuesday, September 9.

Even Kathy Williamson, whose single's win assured the victory, strolled calmly off the court, racket in hand, seemingly unmoved by the experience.

Nevertheless, it was an unprecedented event, the first dual match victory in the "modern" history of girl's tennis at Clarkston.

It was three years ago that the sport was reintroduced on varsity level at the school and establishing a solid program has not been easy.

Coach Craig says that with many of the girls she has had to start with the basics, "rules and etiquette". But, she adds, "We expect to be much better this (her second)

More experienced players are beginning to turn out. Craig says her top three players have all taken lessons and kept active during the off-season.

There are sixteen girls on this year's squad. But, since varsity meets are limited to four singles and three doubles matches, only ten see regular action. Craig has her squad play intra-mural tournaments to compete for the slots.

As of Tuesday the line up included singles players, Mary Smith, Kathy Williamson, Shelly Van Keuren and Linda Runey and doubles pairs, Kim Barden and Michelle Barks, Alex Campe and Julie LePere and Merci Sanchez and Audrey Campe.

These girls may not be ready for a state championship, but they know the rules and, now, they know how to win.

Cross Country Expects to Improve Over '79

Mike Kaul enters his second year as coach of Clarkston High School's cross-country optimistically.

His feeling is based not so much on the raw talent his squad possesses; there aren't any "blue chippers" on this year's team like '79 Clarkston grad Gordon Sanders. But, what he lacks in talent he thinks can be made up in enthusiasm.

Kaul's first year as head coach was something of a disappointment. He fielded a team of only 7 boys and 5 girls and a few times last fall, beleaguered by injuries, was forced to forfeit.

But hope springs eternal. Just getting a meet underway, with this fall's throng at the starting gate numbering close to a dozen for both boys and girls, is a logistical problem.

With a little luck, Kaul says, you can look for "significant improvement" over last year.

And if every opposing squad has as much trouble working out the intricacies of the high school course as the Lake Orion harriers did at last Tuesday's meet maybe you can even look for a little more than that.

The girls are led by juniors, Mary Ann Frericks and Chris O'Rourke (who is closing in on the high school record after recording a personal best 21:42 in Tuesday's meet).

The boys senior co-captains are, Scott Ferguson, Mark Reese and Ed McInnis.

The Cloud

I saw a cloud one night,
The site of it was very sad,
For it was a very lonely cloud
By itself among the stars.

But as the cloud began to travel,
It came upon a friend,
For the moon was standing in the sky,
Standing there and waiting for a cloud to pass it by.

The friendship they had was very brief,
For this cloud had to keep moving.
They said their Hello's and their Good-byes and then,
Then the cloud went on its way,
Not quite as lonely as when it came.

Timothy Cowdrey

I WONDER

I often wonder to myself as I
Kneel down in church;
If God remains upon that cross in the center of the church.

I wonder if God ever goes outside and walks along the street;
And sees all the different people that makes this world complete.

I wonder if God, while walking down the street,
Sees the little boy in the ghetto crying because he hasn't had enough to eat.

I wonder if God sees the agony on a soldier's face
As he is told that his best buddy was blown up and of his body there is left no trace.

I wonder if God sees, while
walking down the street,
The anger and hatred in people's faces
Just because of their different nationalities or races.

I wonder if God sees, while walking down the street,
The young people high on dope
trying to end their strife;

But they learn too late that dope does not end their strife only takes their life.

I wonder if God, after seeing all this,
Doesn't think of the past and reminisce of days of old, where so simple life used to be;
But now life is difficult and hard and filled with agony.

I wonder if God returns to his perch
On the cross in the center of the church.

I wonder if God doesn't raise his head to the skys;
And in the quietness of the church,
Softly cries.

The fuel-saving benefits of Du Pont GAS BOOSTER can be more important than ever with the rising cost of gasoline. A dirty fuel system - including the carburetor, intake manifold, ports and valves - can cause you to lose valuable mileage.

Used as directed, GAS BOOSTER can help pave the way to better mileage.

An extensive 10,000-mile road test of GAS BOOSTER in cars with dirty fuel systems showed an improvement in fuel economy ranging from 0.8% all the way up to 11.5%. Mileage was measured during the last 4,000 miles. The average improvement was 3.6% - an average of 12 extra miles per 20-gallon tank of gas. Actual mileage improvement will, of course, depend on the condition of your fuel system, trip length and driving conditions.

Plus helps give smoother engine performance. GAS BOOSTER helps clean your carburetor and your entire fuel system while you drive. Continued use will help keep your engine clean and help give smoother idling, less hesitation and better acceleration.

...and helps save on tune-up costs. Buy several bottles today and use as directed for best results. For leaded and unleaded gas.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Beginning October 1, 1980, an additional penalty of $5.50 will be added to each 1978 and prior years delinquent tax that appears unpaid on the records of the county treasurer. This amount is added according to the provisions of Section 211.59 and 211.60 compiled laws of Michigan to cover the expense of sale at the next May tax sale.

Immediate payment will save you this additional penalty and keep your property from appearing in the public list of lands to be offered at tax sale.

Hutchison to Celebrate 10th Year in Insurance Business

Annuities, Premiums, Dividends, Securities, Trusts, Stocks and Bonds--All money matters that could cause the average person's head to spin.

Not so for independent insurance agent Kirby Hutchison, who in his business, works with these and related financial matters and has the ability to inform, translate and advise his clients in layman's terms.

January marks the 10th year anniversary in the insurance business for Hutchison.

Hutchison established his current office on Sashabaw Road in Drayton Plains five years ago next month.

Living just two miles from his office enables Hutchison to be affected less by the skyrocketing gas prices than most people.

Another reason, is the fact that Hutchison refers to his business as a "local service". The major portion of his clientele is within a twenty-five mile radius, although he does serve some accounts beyond this.

Kirby Hutchison employs a full-time insurance agency that covers homeowners, businesses, commercial and personal automobiles, life and hospitalization. He is licensed in each of these categories.

The Hutchison Agency is recognized as a member of the North Oakland Builders Association, the North Oakland County Independent Insurance Agents Association and the National Independent Insurance Agents Association.

"We have a very good reputation here which brings about a high rate of recommended or referral business," said Hutchison. "We try to accommodate customers in any way we can."

Hutchison is assisted by Jackie Bennett, a full-time secretary and also, during the summer months by his son Craig, who is currently enrolled at Ferris State College under the insurance program.

Advance Considers the Customer King

"The customer's the boss...without them we wouldn't be here," says Dan Millward, owner of Advance Floor Decorators for the past three years.

Be it carpet, linoleum, ceramic tile, hard wood flooring, wallpaper or window blinds, Advance Floor Decorators have got you covered—carrying all the leading brand names in each type of decorating item listed.

This retail outlet has been in existence for twenty-seven years and at the same location for the past sixteen. Dan himself, has been in the trade for seven years, the first three with a local floor covering firm and then, "spreading his wings" to become President of Advance Floor Decorators.

Millward settled his own business on Walton Boulevard, 1/4 mile from Dixie Highway because, according to him, "I have always liked this location and wanted to stay near the area I was raised in."

"We try to create a sincere, friendly atmosphere here," said Millward. This relaxed feeling is maintained by the lack of a "high-pressure sales staff". Wife, Laura, and Jerry Andrezejewski (sales manager) also assist Dan in the sales department.

"Having on hand what customers are looking for and selling it at the price they will be happy with," is a great concern to Millward. If it is not on hand, Advance Floor Decorators will do their best to obtain it for the patron. "We rely greatly on repeat business," added Millward.

Concerning installation, Advance Floor Decorators "try to suit the needs of the customer. If we're booked up solid for a week and a customer wants immediate installation, we will try to find a way to accommodate them."

Advance carries a custom labor force who are "very experienced". There are four separate crews; a carpet installation crew with 26 years experience, a linoleum installation crew with 12 years experience, a ceramic tile installation crew with 28 years experience and a hard wood floor installation crew with 30 years experience.

"We try to have the best selection and most competitive prices around and so far have been very successful at it," added Millward.

Advance Floor Decorators are open Monday and Friday 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

THREE BEDROOMS, TWO BATHS

FAMILY ACTIVITY AREA FEATURED

© By W. D. Farmer

Despite small square footage, this home for pleasant living contains all the features normally associated with a larger home.

This home revolves around a big activity room. It can be entered from the separate foyer, kitchen or carport. (A two car family carport is optional.) This design allows space for dining, living and all family oriented activities to be centered here. A utility room with storage cabinets and washer-dryer connections is here as well. A rear door also allows entrance to and from the back yard.

The homemaker will find the kitchen a convenient delight. The step-saving design features lots of cabinet, storage and counter space to aid in meal preparation. Convenience appliances such as a dishwasher and double sink are included also.

The rest of the home encloses the sleeping areas. The generous master bedroom has a big closet and a private full bath. Each of the other bedrooms has ample closet space and hall access to a full bath with vanity.

Storage, an often neglected item in homes, is a feature here. This includes storage off the carport and disappearing stairs to the attic.

The modern exterior of the home is reflected by the combination of natural stone veneer and board and batten siding. Stone columns and extended ridge gable roof complete the design.

All W. D. Farmer plans include energy conservation construction details.

The home includes 1,294 square feet.

For further information on plan Number 262-B, write W. D. Farmer, Residence Designer, Inc., P.O. Box 49463, Atlanta, Ga. 30359.
