editor's note

The top honchos at Stablex must be wondering what it takes to get all those angry citizens off their backs. Citizens from Groveland, Springfield and neighboring townships were at it again last week, this time picketing the Holly Hotel where Stablex officials were hosting a luncheon for members of the North Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

From what our reporters Dawson Bell and Sue Stephens tell us, it was a typical Stablex extravaganza-lots of subtle, but nice propaganda on why they should be allowed to construct America's largest waste treatment plant in Groveland Township.

But outside, picketers led by Groveland Township Clerk Beth Steele and unsuccessful County Commissioner candidate Maggie Cavanaugh bid Stablex and their controversial Sealosafe waste treatment method good riddance. For pictures and details on this latest episode of the people versus Stablex see Page 20.

Clarkston has had its share of sports heroes but no one has reached the heights of young Steve Howe, who recently was named National League Rookie of the Year. For his pitching expertise, Howe will be honored at halftime of the CHS-Waterford Kettering game this Friday.

His rapid rise to pitching fame is phenomenal. After only two months in the minors, he became the Los Angeles Dodgers top reliever, leading the Major League in ERA for most of the season.

To find out more about Clarkston's latest sports wizard turn to Page 6.

Another hero, at least in the mind of Dale Wilder, of Springfield Township, is Dr. Lawrence Burton. Burton arrested Wilder's cancer in a clinic in the Bahamas-something no other doctor could do. Yet, because his unusual treatment methods meet resistance here in the United States, he must practice his work in exile.

Wilder feels that is unfair and has mounted a campaign on his own in an attempt to get Burton back to the States. For more about Wilder and Burton see Page 10.

Pets Deserve Better Fate

Dear Editor:

A family is gathered in front of the fireplace on Christmas Eve. The tree glows with its beauty. Their pets--a dog and cat--lie on a rug basking in the warmth of the fire. Each family member occasionally speaks to their pets or reaches to pat the dog or stroke the cat. The dog wags its tail, the cat purrs. All are content.

But, outside in the freezing cold, is a cat that has been wild since birth. It searches for food and shelter. Her ears are frostbitten, she is slowly starving. She may be dead by Christmas Day.

And, across town, spending Christmas Eve in the animal shelter, are a mother dog and her five pups. The puppies don't seem to mind being there, but the mother misses her human family. She doesn't understand what she did so wrong that her family would take her to that fearful place full of strange persons, noises and smells. She cuddles her babies close to her and cries through the long Christmas Eve night. She has a terrible fear something dreadful is going to happen to her and the pups. There is the smell of cruel death in the air.

Happiness for an animal is belonging to someone.

What about the hundreds of thousands of animals that each year live and die without hearing a kind word or feeling a gentle hand? Theirs is a pitiful existence of fear, pain, hunger and uncertainty. They die on highways, in fields and woods or are mass killed in animal shelters.

And all because they are born into a ruthless society that doesn't want them and is brutally indifferent to the results of irresponsible pet owners refusing to spay or neuter their dogs and cats.

If we cared enough, every animal would have a home, an owner to love and place it belonged. Each Christmas then would indeed be a truly merry one for all of God's creatures not just the human family.

Animals have rights. They have the right not to be born just to be killed. When is our so-called civilized society going to stop violating that right?

Robert DeWolfe

High Hopes for Tim

Dear Dawson:

Many thanks for sending the nice article and, hopefully, McCormick will continue to improve as the season goes on.

Look forward to seeing you soon.

forecast

We continued our downhill slide into winter during November. Drier and colder than normal conditions persisted over most of southeastern Michigan during the month. Most of the month's precipitation came in the form of light rain showers during the early and middle portions of the month and snow showers during the latter part of the month. November precipitation totals from my raingage network are as follows (with 1980 calendar year totals in parentheses):

Elizabeth Lake/Waterford Township - 1.84" (41.41")

Fenton - 1.18" (32.15")

Sullivan Lake/Tyrone Township - 1.12"

Eastern Clarkston - 1.09" (30.98")

Northern Clarkston - 1.05" (28.38")

Union Lake - 0.99"

Oxbow Lake/White Lake Township - 0.88" (33.45")

Detroit Metropolitan Airport - 0.88" (34.94")

Johnson & Anderson, Inc./Waterford Township - 0.71"

St. Clair Shores - 0.70" (34.30")

Bishop Airport/Flint - 0.66" (28.85")

Snowfall was just slightly below normal in the Clarkston area during November. The eastern Clarkston station reported 3.9" of snowfall during the month, which is 0.6 of an inch below normal. All of the month's measurable snowfall occurred in a 3-day period between Thanksgiving Day and the Saturday after Thanksgiving. The total snowfall for the season now stands at 4.4 inches, which is 0.2 of an inch below normal.

The Clarkston area mean temperature for November was 36.4 degrees, which is 2.5 degrees below normal. Temperatures ranged from a low of 15 degrees on the 26th to a high of 65 degrees on the 3rd. Temperatures did reach into the 60's on 3 days during the month, but they all occurred during the first week of the month. At the other end of the temperature scale, there were 6 mornings on which we experienced low temperatures in the teens.

Next month I will be presenting two reports. One will cover the month of December and the other will review the weather of 1980. Until then have a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

CAN ONE EXPRESS "MEANINGS" THAT ARE HIDDEN?

On a nationally-televised talk show (The Today Show, in 1976), a noted pianist told of an incident while playing classics for 7 and 8-year-olds in Harlem. After a fine rendition of one of Schubert's lovely works, one child asked the pianist, "Isn't he (Schubert) dead?" The pianist answered, "Yes, but he left his music for us." "But...." continued the child, "How do you know what he means?" The Child's concern that the music be played as the dead composer intended it to be played - that is, per his wishes and intent - inspired the pianist to be constantly more aware of accurately interpreting a composer's meaning.

So it is, too, when considering funeral arrangements, that one considers "meaning," the wishes and the intent of the deceased. Better still is it to express your wishes for your own services in advance of need. It is then a true interpretation of your own hand. This helps to lift the burden from the shoulders of your loved ones in a time of great stress.

Just as the pianist became aware of the composer's meanings, you can make your family aware of yours. Call or stop by for more information about pre-arrangements.

From Clarkston to Baseball's Rookie of the Year

by Dawson Bell

If you're planning on attending the CHS-Waterford Kettering basketball game Friday night, don't be surprised if a baseball player steals the show.

Clarkston graduate and National League Baseball's Rookie of the Year, Steve Howe, is to be honored at halftime and at a banquet following the game.

It may be the only time soon that area sport fans get a chance to see Howe. After a brilliant high school career here, in which he led Clarkston to a state championship, and three years at the University of Michigan, Howe packed his bags for Los Angeles. And after a rookie season highlighted by a 2.65 ERA and 17 saves the Dodgers aren't going to be letting him go without a fight.

That doesn't prevent his number one fans in the area, parents Virgil and Barbara, from marking Steve's progress, however. They spent a good share of the summer traveling to Cincinnati, Pittsburg and St. Louis.

Although not the most impartial of sources, Virgil Howe thinks his son can make it big in the bigs.

"Steve's got the right kind of attitude. Pressures never bothered him."

And if the record to date can be believed (in Steve's case even the facts seem incredible), there aren't too many people around who would argue.

In his three years at Michigan, Howe started 35 games and completed 33. His won-lost record was 27-7 with an ERA of 1.46. He lost only once in the Big Ten and chalked up 165 strikeouts. All of which are either Michigan or Big Ten records.

Then, after only two months in the minors, in his first season with Los Angeles he became the club's number one left-handed reliever, led the majors in ERA for most of the season and, in a one horse race, was named National League Rookie of the Year.

Virgil Howe says, "Tommy LaSorda (Dodger manager) called me and said, 'I never imagined he'd have the year that he has had. That kid can really pitch.'"

In fact, he'd have to be surprised. Howe wasn't even on the major league roster in

"I never imagined he'd have the year that he has had...That kid can really pitch."

Tommy Lasorda

Steve Howe in Dodger Stadium

be sorry now.

Steve's dad is less awed.

"Steve started playin' ball when he was 9 and, even then, he was so much more developed than the other ballplayers."

But a major leaguer out of a left-handed little league shortstop?

"Well, he's always known what he wanted to do, and that's play ball. Steve's always had plenty of confidence."

He's confident now that, given the chance, he could start in the majors (until this year Howe had always been a starter). One of the obstacles to that goal has been removed in the last few weeks too, with the departure to Houston of LA's longtime ace Don Sutton.

Rumors have also been circulating that the Dodgers might be interested in making a deal with Boston involving Steve and the Red Sox Fred Lynn.

Although the Howes would like to see their son in the American League, Virgil Howe doesn't think the deal will be made.

So it looks like another summer of weekends in St. Louis and Pittsburgh. And for Howe's less passionate fans, of waiting for the Dodgers to appear on Saturday or Monday's TV games.

Still, if you're willing to settle for a non-league appearance, try this Friday night's fete at the high school. The varsity game gets underway about 7:45. Steve Howe and family will be there for halftime ceremonies and at a post game get together in the high school cafeteria.

Civic Groups Make Christmas Jolly for Needy Families

by Kathy Rush

'Tis the season to be jolly. But it's difficult to be jolly when you're hungry or cold.

To help correct this situation Davisburg and Clarkston civic and church groups will be sharing a theme this Christmas season—to help needy families in their respective communities.

"Because as a society we seem to be less concerned about our neighbors than we used to be," the Davisburg Rotary and area churches remedy for this, is to provide food (Christmas baskets), clothing, transportation and sometimes even heating fuel to needy families in the area, says Norris Walls, Coordinator of Community Services for the Davisburg Rotary.

The referrals are provided primarily through the school system, yet there is also assistance through Oakland County Social Services and the Salvation Army.

"What it (the involvement) really amounts to," said Walls, "is that we are trying to be sensitive to the needs of the community. Every year," since 1968 "it's been a unique and humbling experience," he added.

Likewise, the Clarkston Rotary and Independence Township Firefighters were selling Goodfellow Newspapers last Thursday in an effort to also help needy families in the community.

This tradition, started approximately thirty years ago, was previously limited to providing Christmas Food baskets only. Now as in Davisburg, a number of other provisions have been added to the list of contributions, mainly clothing.

The referrals in Clarkston come, in main, through the school system but Independence Township Firefighters also lend a hand in helping locate and identify those in need.

Stan Darling, President of the Clarkston Rotary Club says although the Rotary was the innovator of the program there are now many other groups actively involved which include the Firefighters and area churches.

"It's a matter of everyone working as a group towards the same goal rather than individuals going off in different directions," said Darling. "We feel it's a great success."

Holiday Planning

by Dawson Bell

In planning for the holidays, it is easy to get carried away. The festivities and the merrymaking become an end in themselves, all with little thought for tomorrow.

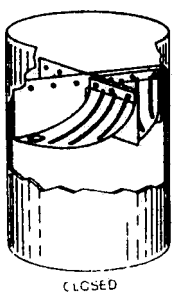

However, if one wishes to insure both a happy Christmas and a Happy New Year (all 365 days) it might be a good idea to follow these guidelines:

1. Wear something fresh and new on Christmas Day—your luck will improve. But don't wear new shoes. At best they will hurt like fury; at worst they will walk you into catastrophe.
2. Don't wash clothes on the Friday before Christmas. And don't wash and press a Christmas present before you give it; you will only wash out the good luck and press in the bad.
3. Don't let a fire go out on Christmas morning. If you do, spirits (evil) will come to you, then and later in the season.
4. If you leave a loaf of bread on the table after Christmas Eve supper, you will be sure to have a full supply until the next Christmas.
5. Eat apples as the clock strikes midnight on Christmas Eve. This will guarantee perfect health for the year ahead.

There—Now you have nobody to blame but yourself.

Cancer Specialist in Exile

Springfield's Wilders Want to Bring Burton Home

by Dawson Bell

You would think a man who had spent the past five months doing battle with an inoperable cancer of the lung would be content to take it easy, enjoy and thank the Lord. Not Dale Wilder of Springfield though—he's making movies.

Dale is one cancer patient who doesn't feel like the battle is over when the treatment is completed. He and his family are ready to take on the foundations, the hospitals, the doctors and the bureaucrats who are keeping Dr. Lawrence Burton in exile.

Burton is the doctor who developed the treatment that Dale credits with his revitalization. And he is in exile because it became increasingly difficult for him to practice his methods in the United States.

Dale Wilder recently returned from a visit to Burton's clinic in the Bahamas. And he came armed with a video-tape which he hopes can be played in Rotary Clubs around the country to garner support for the "Bring Burton Home" movement.

Dale has a starring role in the tape (and not only because he paid for its production). But because he wanted to offer testimony to the therapeutic effect of the treatment he had received at Burton's clinic and because he wanted to warn people against what he thinks are the very un-therapeutic effects of more traditional cancer treatments.

Wilder's lung cancer was so serious that, when he had an initial operation in July, Doctors said they couldn't remove it all and that only further treatment with radiation and chemotherapy would stop its spread. On the day that Dale Wilder left for the Bahamas he was scheduled for his first dose. He backed out because he became convinced that the cure was worse than the disease.

Now, three months later, he says the only pain he feels is what's left over from the first operation.

To Wilder's way of thinking that's remarkable and he wants to spread the word. Word that he thinks has been suppressed by the multi-million dollar industry which detractors call the "Cancer Establishment".

Burton's work is not new. It began back in the early sixties when he and several colleagues began to experiment with, and achieve remarkable results, in the treatment of tumors in mice with a serum they developed in the laboratories of St. Vincent's Hospital in New York City.

But also very early on in the course of the research, Burton began to meet resistance.

Without question, scientific experimentation that is to be exhaustive enough to warrant consideration for human treatment requires heavy funding.

Unfortunately, for one reason or another, Burton's work has met (both then and now) resistance in the quarters where funding is granted.

Burton says it's because his work is out of the mainstream. That is undermines what the National Cancer Institute, the American Cancer Society, the Food and Drug Administration and others have been telling us about cancer and its treatment and that without funding and without publication of his work (which he says has been rejected so often he's tired of trying) the Cancer establishment will never recognize the efficacy of his treatment.

Burton's treatment itself is not entirely revolutionary. It is based on the notion that both cancer cells and the means to destroy them are present in the system at all times. Cancer becomes manifest only when the balance of attacking agent and immune agents are disrupted. His method is to assess, through blood samples, to what degree that balance has been distorted and to restore it by the injection of blood fractions he has developed.

Betty Little, at the Michigan Cancer Foundation's Information Center, says that immunological experimentation is taking place all over the country.

The reason Burton's treatment has remained on the "unproven" list is that "he has never formally reported his...results."

Nevertheless, the Burton clinic thrives and his activities are perhaps gaining in legitimacy even without published results.

There is a bill presently before Congress which would exempt the blood fractions treatment from FDA regulations for a five year test period. The Burton detection method is presently under scrutiny by a New Jersey testing laboratory, Metpath, and may become widely used after the first of the year.

In the meantime, anyone wishing to take advantage of the Burton treatment will have to go to Freeport, where the cost of living, of not the cure, is exorbitant.

Food and shelter expenses run up to three times what they would in the States. The treatment, too, is not cheap. Between $5000 and $7500 for the recommended period of over a month.

The Wilders think that those costs could be cut if Burton were allowed to set up shop in this country. They also think that Burton's success rate would go up if he were here and could reach patients who weren't at the end of their tether and ready to try "anything".

It is difficult to think of someone who is operating a "cancer cure clinic" (Burton, by the way, does not tout his treatment as a "cure") in the Bahamas as other than an exotic. But Burton takes pains to dissociate himself from the laetrile, megavitamin, aeorbic diet school of thought.

And proven or unproven, published or unpublished, the Wilders say that his treatment is working.

"We're just interested in seeing that Dr. Burton can get back to the states."

news briefs

The Clarkston High School Student Government Council, in cooperation with the School Board, has initiated a new "silent informer" program to cut down on vandalism at the school.

Modeled after programs in schools and communities elsewhere, anyone who sees and reports vandalism to school property would receive 25 percent of the cost of repair if the offender is caught and forced to make reparation. The student council would also get a percentage, money to be used for school projects.

The School Board has agreed to set aside $2,500 for the reward system which is expected to go into effect immediately.

The Clarkston School Board approved $6,500 in funding for the first phase engineering study on a new lighting system at the high school football field at their Monday, December 8, meeting.

The project, has an estimated full price tag of $60,000, which an independent lighting fund group is attempting to raise in community pledges.

But leader of the group, Eric Reickel, has requested the board to consider funding the engineering study in anticipation of pledge money pay back, in order to get the bidding for the system underway.

As of early last week, pledges of over $5,000 had already been received.

Acting on the recommendation of Clarkston School District Superintendent, Milford Mason, the Clarkston School Board approved funding for installation of an energy conservation system at the high school on Middle Lake Road.

The Energy Management System would regulate operation of the schools boilers, fans and air intake equipment by computer, thus eliminating the guesswork involved in manual control.

The board approved money not to exceed $25,000 be spent to buy the hardware and software necessary for installation. The installation itself would be performed by school personnel.

Administrative Assistant, William Dennis, estimated the pay back period on a system of this kind at approximately two and a half years.

FUEL OIL 26¢ gal. PROPANE 18¢ gal.

If you are heating with an efficient TETCO forced air furnace, your fuel savings would be equal to buying oil or propane at the above prices.

If you are heating with oil, the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE) says -- For every dollar spent for heating oil, only 40¢ worth is actually used. The rest is wasted up the chimney, and from oversizing and cycling losses.

Stop and ask for a TETCO demonstration at our Rochester store. It also qualifies for energy tax credits.

Post Office Braces for Christmas Rush That May Not Come

by Dawson Bell

If you've waited until now to get your Christmas card list together; if your dining room table is covered with packages that are nearly ready to be mailed; if you're beginning to dread the kind of reception you will receive when you walk into the post office and set the whole lot on the counter-take heart.

The Christmas postal rush ain't what it used to be.

To be sure, the army of sorters and carriers at USPS still get their fill of overtime duty in December, but--in contrast to years past--the volume is down.

Inflation, as in almost every other area of American life, is taking its toll. Inflation in the form of 15 cent first class mailing for Christmas cards. Inflation that makes some of the presents you buy more expensive to mail than to purchase. And inflation and recession that make the holiday pleasure of sending greetings and gifts the kind of luxury that a lot of people can't afford anymore.

The total volume (in number of pieces handled) at the Clarkston Post Office is down 231,510 from last year to this, says Postmaster Donald Stoll. That represents a decrease of about 20 percent.

"I think a lot of it has to do with the economy," says Stoll. "Mailing is expensive, but so is everything."

Even with the big drop, the post office still handles a lot of mail in December, something like 50 or 60 percent more than at any other time of the year.

But long experience has helped postal employees learn how to handle it.

Stoll says window sales increase first,

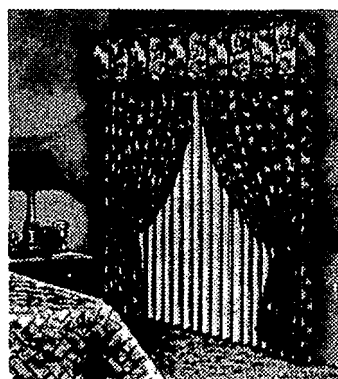

Don Auten

"We used to work 10 and 12 hour days. This year I've only been working an extra 40 or 50 minutes."

Lynn Woodard

with people picking up stamps in anticipation of card mailing. Then the packages start coming in. They build up and then drop off about a week before Christmas. Cards, however keep coming in...sometimes even after the 25th.

Another, perhaps unexpected, change has occurred in recent years too.

"People don't wait as long as they used to," says Stoll.

"A lot depends on what day Christmas falls. If it's early in the week people seem to get everything done a little sooner. If it's later, they may wait and try to squeeze it in on Monday and Tuesday."

This year it is hard to gauge how much of early December's drop off is from late mailers and how much is from no mailers, but Stoll and his employees agree that so far, while it hasn't been a cake walk, traffic is down.

Lynn Woodard, who has been a carrier for nine years, says, "It's a lot lighter. We used to work 10 and 12 hour days. This year I've only been working an extra forty or fifty minutes."

Of course, eight years ago postal patrons enjoyed what seems like the impossible dream of 5 cent first class postage and a 2 cent discount for unsealed Christmas mailing.

Quintupling the cost has surely taken some of the zest out of the Christmas mailing spirit.

But then again, the Post Office is running within its budget for the first time in recent memory too.

So go ahead, don't feel guilty, pile it on. What would Christmas be like without a postman toiling away through the snowdrifts up to his elbows in cards and packages?

Postal carrier, Kris Topolnicki, loads up for the morning run. Volumes are down, but December's deliveries are still a chill chore.

Angry Residents Demonstrate at Stablex Sponsored Luncheon

by Sue Stephens

"Stablex Stinks", "Go Home Stablex", and "Groveland Township another Love Canal" were only a few of the pickets seen last week at the Holly Hotel where Great Britain's Stablex Corporation hosted a luncheon for North Oakland Chamber of Commerce members.

About twenty-five Groveland Township, Rose Township and Flint residents turned out in seventeen degree weather to protest the construction of a 200-acre toxic waste disposal plant currently underway in Groveland Township.

Groveland Township Clerk Beth Steele said "The British are coming and they are winning the war; but they have not seen the last fight."

Earlier this year, Oakland County Judge William Beer said Stablex could begin construction of the world's largest waste disposal plant in the township. However, last summer, Groveland Township was granted a hearing for an appeal of that decision. The appeal is still in litigation.

Nevertheless, Stablex broke ground November 18. One of the guests at the luncheon, an attorney representing the Ortonville Chamber of Commerce, Gerald Fisher, said he asked the Stablex representative about ground-breaking during litigation. Fisher said the Stablex representative indicated he was very optimistic about winning the appeal.

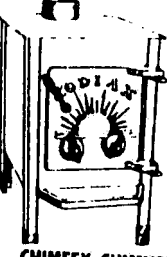

During the luncheon, Chamber of Commerce guests viewed a film demonstrating the Stablex process of turning industrial waste into a concrete-like substance which will be buried underground, covered with topsoil on which Christmas trees will be planted.

Members of the media, including channel Two, Seven and Twelve, and this Reminder reporter were barred from the meeting. Stablex representative, David Wolfe, would not offer any comments or answer any questions about the luncheon inside or the pickets outside.

Several children carried signs and walked with picketing parents who waged war against Stablex on Holly's historic Battle Alley. The cold temperatures outside were equally matched by the heated anger of pickets as they proclaimed "You bet your arsenic we don't want Stablex to lead us into the poisoned land."

mike morrow's trivia

Mike Morrow's opinions do not necessarily reflect those of The Reminder.

Brace yourselves folks, it's here. With the passing of Thanksgiving came the official start of the Christmas Shopping Season.

That's right, it's time once again to fight the crowds, claw and scratch over the last toaster and just generally have a good time.

Oh come on now, put down that bottle of Vodka. It doesn't have to be that bad. Not if you know how to go about it. Here are some pointers on how to live through Christmas shopping.

1. Never drive your car to a shopping center during the Christmas rush. First off, it will take you at least an hour to find a parking place and when you do you will have to fight for it with ten other people many of whom are more experienced at parking lot warfare than you are. You will lose the space and possibly some teeth in the process. Take the bus, it's easier and safer, that is unless you try to bring too many packages back on with you. Your fellow passengers (who are just as cranky as you from shopping) will not take kindly to having a defective Betsy Wetsy doll leaking on them or getting poked in the eye with an Easy Bake Oven.

2. Be firm and direct with everyone. If this means tripping someone who is going for the same sweater you are, so be it, remember this is war. Don't take any guff from the clerks either. If it becomes apparent that you could sprout wings and fly away and the clerk still wouldn't notice you then gently say something like "either you ring up this sale now or I'm going to rip your underwear off and pull them out your nose". This generally works. If it doesn't remember the old trick of pulling a gun. While this may sound harsh, believe me it is effective.

3. Don't be picky. This is not the time of year to carefully pick and choose, that was in June. It's now November and time to grab anything that isn't nailed down. My advice is, if it comes in its own box, buy it.

4. Be patient. Don't expect to get out of any larger store in under an hour. For starters it's going to take you at least half an hour to get to the department you want because as soon as you step in the door you will be instantly swept up in the flow of people and carried wherever the crowd is going. This can work to your advantage if you want to go to one of the more popular departments but good luck if you want to get to Fine Jewelry, it might take you all day.

In closing remember this. Keep a smile on your lips, your phone number in your pocket (in case you get trampled) and your cash in hand and you'll do fine.

Wolves Fight Off Lake Orion 46-39, Now 2-1

by John Huttenlocher

The Clarkston Wolves held off a stubborn Lake Orion team last Friday night, 46-39, upping the Wolfpack's record to 2-1. The win was a shot in the arm that the Clarkston Cagers needed, looking ahead to this Friday's Clarkston-Waterford Kettering match, a long standing rivalry.

"We played exceptionally well in the first half," stated Wolves coach Gary Nustad. "We had the real opportunity to come out and essentially put the game away."

But when the Wolves came out for the second half, they lost their motivation. "We let Lake Orion get back into the game. We lack the killer instincts--the knockout punch," said Nustad. Lake Orion got within 3 points during the fourth period, but the Wolves edged them out in the final few minutes.

Scott McKoin, who was a bit under his average with 13 points, was the game's high scorer. McKoin also had 16 rebounds, almost half of the Wolves' 37 total. Senior guard-forward Greg Lane put in 9 points and Ray Kubani, the towering 6'6" sophomore forward, helped out with 6.

Rick Schebor, right, is performing a lot of Coach Nustad's ball handling chores this year. While Brad Sheldon, 22, tries to break into the open.

Greg Lane, 30, draws a lot of attention from the Dragons in last Friday's win. Lane had 9 points on the night.

CHS Grapplers Return 11 From Championship Squad

Favored Again to Top GOAL Standings

When you return a team with three individual league champions and eleven lettermen from the championship squad of the previous year, the least you can expect is to be favored for the crown again.

Unless you're the Clarkston High School wrestling team and the new kid on the block (or in the league), Lake Orion, is a wrestling powerhouse too. In pre-season predictions many are looking to the Goal's newest member to wrest the title away from the Wolves.

But Clarkston coach, Rick Detkowski, isn't very much interested in predictions.

"You just can't know how well the kids will do until the first meet (Clarkston's first was last Thursday at Birmingham Groves)," he says.

"Ultimately, we want to do as well as we can at the state meet--We don't set specific goals below that. But sure, we want to win the league."

Leading the way in the quest for league and state honors will be two juniors, Mike Conway (105 lbs.) and Jeff Miracle (138), and senior, Mike Ogans (145). Ogans lost only 3 matches all last season and all three won weight division crowns at the league meet.

Also returning to the varsity are seniors Lance Jewett, Mark Johnson and Dale Fuchler, and juniors-Tod Thompson, Bruce Burwitz and Tom Hecker, Mark Karrick and Al Wall. A couple of sophomores, Steve Johnson and Brad Mosier are also expected to see varsity action this year. And as if Detkowski's squad wasn't deep enough, he has three seniors out for the first time--Mark Hughes, Damon Butler and Paul Bachor.

It would appear that the work Detkowski has done to promote the wrestling program at Clarkston is paying off.

He can say with confidence, "It seems like we've got a lot of guys back, but we're still young."

And, as he might add, enthusiastic. Practices are spirited; as they have to be to keep the kids minds on wrestling before and after practice when they are either removing or replacing all the tables and chairs in the cafeteria.

The high turnout on the 80-81 squad makes it impossible for the team to use the old wrestling room anymore and the only place left to put the mats is the lunchroom.

What Detkowski is hoping now is that some of the enthusiasm his wrestlers exhibit will wear off on the community. Crowds at the home matches have been up in recent years, but more are always welcome. Fans for this year's matches even stand a chance of winning a case of pop in one of Coach Detkowski's promotional raffles.

It's not a bad bet; those same fans may be seeing the league champions.
