The bulldozer at Marlowe's will be pushing garbage around for at least another month as county officials work on landfill purchase plans. A long range solution to the area's disposal needs, however, is liable to be at issue for years.

Solid Waste Problems Pile Up

Task Force Studies Independence Role

by Dawson Bell

WHERE WILL GARBAGE GO? read the headline.

And, after a week of frantic negotiations, county officials and the owners of Marlowe's Landfill in Rose Township agreed that, for another month at least, it would go where it has been going for the past thirty years.

The closing of Northern Oakland County's only landfill, scheduled for January 31, has been put off until February 28 while the county considers the possible purchase of the property.

If the county does decide to go ahead with the purchase they will, in all likelihood, still be faced with the problem of how to operate it under conditions set by the DNR and Rose Township.

And whether they do or not, the current crisis in Oakland County's solid waste disposal is likely to intensify in the coming months.

In the words of more than one official, "We've been sitting on this problem for ten years and we're running out of time."

The problem, simply stated, is what to do with the hundreds of tons of refuse that is generated by the residents of the state's second most heavily populated metropolitan area.

Refuse that Patrick Nowak, County Executive Officer, said could "in two and half weeks...fill a site as large as the Silverdome."

The continued operation of Marlowe's, even if the county or some other new owner applies for and receives the necessary permits and variances, will clearly not solve all the county's solid waste disposal needs.

And that's where Public Act 641 of 1978 and a plan developed by the county under 641 come into play.

The county is expected to unveil the plan, which has been literally years in the making, on February 25.

County officials are keeping a tight lid on specifics, but the plan is expected to include proposals for at least one incinerating plant, a facility which would burn compacted refuse and generate electricity, transfer stations, where the refuse would be collected and compacted for transportation to the incinerator, and several landfill sites -- for both the cinders remaining after incineration and the more traditional, Marlowe kind.

The reason for all the secrecy about the 641 plan -- George Schutte of Oakland County's DPW, said, "We want to publicize the whole thing at one time to avoid misunderstanding" -- is that county officials know they are going to ruffle some feathers, especially over site selection.

Nowak said, "Let's face it, no one wants a landfill."

They also know, from earlier experience, that, unless their plan is defensible, it is likely to not only receive criticism, but suffer from it.

Something like that happened back in 1975 when Independence Township officials

editor's note

Lots of ink has been given to the garbage crisis as of late. Marlowe's Landfill in Rose Township has threatened to close its doors. That plus hard core reactions from area garbage haulers has caused the North Oakland County garbage problem to receive a lot of attention from the Detroit media.

Our cover story also talks about the garbage crisis, but we decided to cover it from a much broader perspective. Whether Marlowe's stays open or not has little to do with the overall problem.

More to the point is a countywide plan that will be unveiled on February 25. The plan, years in the making, will have lots of people in Independence and Springfield townships watching it closely. Already there has been considerable speculation as to whether a landfill operation, or an incinerator, or some other method of garbage disposal will be constructed here.

That speculation and what area officials think is the gist of our cover story. We hope you enjoy it.

The Reminder unveils its Pick a Valentine Contest this week on Page 2. Contestants are asked to cut the coupons out and drop them off at the participating merchants. Each merchant will choose a winner for an in-store prize. Those winners will then become eligible for a grand prize -- a weekend in Las Vegas.

So get your pen and scissors ready. All you have to do is fill out the coupons and take them to the corresponding stores. No purchase is necessary. The contest will only run for two weeks. Winners will be announced on Valentine's Day. So hurry!

We Must Be Americans, First

Dear Editor:

In the decade of the "80's" America and we as American's face perhaps the greatest challenges in our history. It could determine our future as a nation, and the very life style that we have been accustomed to.

Perhaps we as Americans need a set of priorities that our fore fathers possessed during the early history of this country. That we as citizens of the greatest nation on earth must rededicate ourselves to the principals that caused us to be the envy of every other nation in the world.

This did not originally happen by accident, and it is going to take a rededication on the part of every American, from the corporations to the union member, from the attorneys, and accountants to the every day worker, from our teachers to the students they instruct, from the bankers of our society to those on welfare.

We, that is all of us are going to have to put AMERICA as our first priority, everything else must become secondary. Doctors are going to have to be Americans first then doctors, politicians are going to have to learn that they are Americans first and foremost, and politicians second.

Unions and management are going to have to accept the facts that there is more to negotiating a contract than wages and fringe benefits, they are going to have to realize that their first interest is the nation and its survival. That what is good for the company and union is not always in the best interest of their country.

That obtaining the top dollar for your product doesn't necessarily guaranty the future existence of your business. In other words, we are going to have to learn that the United States of America comes ahead of our personal ambitions and profits and that the dollar is only secondary to our survival.

We must realize no matter how many cars we build, what we charge for materials to construct our homes, what it costs to propel our autos, or how much our public utilities increase their rates to insure greater profits. That it makes no difference how high the interest rates will eventually rise, or how much money we as individuals sock away for that rainy day or that retirement, or how high the national debt can be set.

None of these events will alter the facts,--- that with the exception of those in minority who can afford them--it will make no sense to build automobiles that we cannot sell, to construct homes that most of us cannot afford, to increase the interest rates to a point that causes inevitable plant closings and mass layoffs, only to be subsidized by the taxpayer thru unemployment and welfare payments, to increase the cost of the utilities to a point where they must be subsidized by ourselves as taxpayers to assist those who cannot afford the high rates.

That unless we have a healthy economy with a minimum of inflation we are in for the worst financial crisis in our history. That if we continue to demand services that we can survive without, a social service program that not only helps those in need but those who refuse to work when its available, will bankrupt any nation.

Above all our government and those individuals who administer it, must be made to understand that their responsibility is to the citizens of this nation, that we as a nation can do well without any future Watergates, Koreagates, ABSCAMS or what have you. That service to this nation and its people is a privilege and trust which must not be abused. That their demand for higher wages at a time when most people find it difficult for just the necessities of life, must come to an end.

We and every individual who resides in this country sooner or later must realize that we obtain nothing for nothing, someone must pay for all of those so called benefits. We must soon realize that love of country and Americanism must not be allowed to die, that we must learn to live and work with but one purpose in mind, A STRONG, RESPECTED, FINANCIAL SECURE AMERICA.

We as citizens of this nation have no alternative, either we make the effort to work out our problems together or most certainly we will perish together. For as a nation we cannot and will not continue to survive unless we learn the lessons of history.

Lighting Fund Deserves Support

Dear Editor:

The Clarkston Chiefs football association, consisting of boys and girls of ages 8 through 13 and their parents, working for the youth of this area, wishes to donate to the Clarkston Football Field Lighting Drive.

The member families of the Chiefs know that athletics are, perhaps, the best means of teaching character development, discipline, health and social development of our youth. Our cheerleaders and football players look forward each year to our only game played under the lights during parent appreciation night.

In the light of the recent projected budget deficit for the coming year, the necessity of funding the Clarkston athletic programs and the success of the Lighting Drive becomes far more important. We encourage participation in this drive by all civic, youth and service organizations of this area and the people of the Clarkston School District to show the youth that we care.

Funds raised by the Chiefs are obtained primarily through our annual beef raffle, candy sale and hard work by the kids. We have experienced the best of cooperation with the Board of Education and the Boosters and would like to donate, with pleasure, $1,000.00 from the kids and members of the Chiefs.

Sincerely yours,
Michael T. Boyer

SJH to Present "Teen"

The Sashabaw Junior High Chorus Department recently announced their 1981 musical entitled "Teen" written by Roger Emerson. The public performances will be March 17 and 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Sashabaw Junior High gymnasium directed by Miss Jan Knapp and Miss Jan Malane.

For ticket information call 674-4169.

Dancers at Music Hall

The Lar Lubovitch Dance Company, riding a crest of current international acclaim, will perform at Detroit's Music Hall during a brief four-day appearance, February 18 through 21.

Lar Lubovitch's choreography is a unique combination of classical ballet and modern dance disciplines, which has led to critical descriptions that range from "exultant" to "sexy" to "cosmic." Not surprisingly, his Detroit programs will be performed to the music of such diverse composers as Mozart, Stravinsky, Duke Ellington and modernists Philip Glass and Steve Reich.

Evening performances are 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, and there is a 2:00 p.m. Saturday matinee. Tickets can be purchased at the Music Hall box office at 350 Madison Avenue, or by calling 963-7680 and using a VISA or MasterCard number. Tickets are also available at any CTC outlet.

Valentine's Workshop

Children ages seven through 10 can participate in the Valentine's Day Workshop at Cranbrook Institute of Science February 14 from 9 a.m. until noon.

Using recycled pulp and vegetable skins, participants can create their own roughly textured paper. In addition, they can learn to make origami shapes and design stained paper cut-outs.

Antique Lecture Feb. 11

The Clarkston Community Historical Society will sponsor a lecture on "Antique Furniture of Williamsburg" on February 11. It will be held at 8:00 p.m. at the Village Hall on Depot Road, Clarkston. Mr. William Lyman, an architect and expert on the subject of antiques, will be showing his slide collection. Non-members are asked to call Mrs. Nancy Haven, 625-3807 for details on joining. Further questions should be directed to Mrs. Denise Symons, 625-8823.

Ars Musica in Concert

Continuing its performances of the complete Brandenburg Concertos by J.S. Bach, the 13-member Ars Musica ensemble will be featured in concert in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium on Thursday, February 5. There will be one performance at 8:30 p.m. on the main floor of the auditorium, which has been especially fitted with an accoustical shell.

Included in the concert will be selections from works by Telemann, Haydn and Mozart.

Tickets may be purchased in advance through the museum ticket office, and, on an availability basis, at the door.

For ticket information and a detailed "Music At The Institute" brochure covering Brunc With Bach, Ars Musica, Karl Haas' concert/talks, Baroque Bistro, and the Keyboard Series, call the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office at 832-2730.

Soccer Clinic Feb. 26

A five-session clinic on soccer rules will be held starting Thursday, February 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the Waterford Parks and Recreation Office, 5860 Andersonville Road.

This clinic will be preparatory of taking the USSF referee certification test. Because all the laws of the game will be covered, in depth, this will be a good opportunity for coaches and other interested parents to learn the game. For reservations call the Parks and Recreation Office 623-0900 or Ken Winkle 623-6414.

HOW SHOULD I PROVIDE FOR MY PET?
We would like to address a question in this column which concerns many people, though it isn't dealt with very often. What is the best way to provide for one's pet after one dies? We hope this information will be of help to those of you who have animals you love and want to see cared for.
The simplest method is to give your pet and, if necessary, sufficient funds to take care of it during the pet's life to a reliable friend who wants the pet.
You can also set up a trust for the lifetime of the trustee (not the pet) by which you leave a certain amount of money for the support of the animal. A third method is to direct your executor to arrange for the care and maintenance of your pet after your death, leaving sufficient funds to do so.
We suggest you ask your lawyer about this and other legal matters concerning your will. We welcome all your questions through this column.

Where Will Our Garbage Go?

learned that one part of the county's conceptual plan called for a landfill on property north of I-75 on M-15.

The "Whipple Property" as it came to be known was zoned for single family residential use. Concerns arose over the impact a landfill on that site would have on what the township considered a non-commercial area.

Dennis Kacy, a township resident, headed a group called the Independence Township Homeowners Association that opposed the county plans.

"They came to us and said that the pin (marking the Whipple property) was going to stay in that map."

Kacy said the county claimed that they had conducted extensive research on site selection and that the Independence site was the most "cost effective" available.

"But basically what we found was that their in-depth study wasn't in-depth at all."

After examining the county's figures, IHOA discovered that an alternative site (the property since purchased by GM for their new Lake Orion assembly plant) would have literally "saved millions".

When the proposal came before the County Board of Commissioners it was rejected on a 24-0 vote with instructions to the DPW to go back and re-formulate.

And re-formulate they have.

On a budget in excess of $400,000 the county commissioned the firm of Camp, Dresser and McKee to develop a plan for solid waste disposal. The new plan must be submitted to the state by July 1.

What concerns Independence Supervisor Jim Smith, and what prompted him to form a citizen's task force on solid waste, is the possibility that the county could, under Act 641, move this time to force compliance on the township over a site that had been selected without regard to zoning or the welfare of Independence residents.

Smith and Kacy, who now head up the task force, don't think that it is likely they will once again have to defend the Whipple property.

The county's own studies, which members of the task force have examined by application of the Freedom of Information Act, indicate that the soil structure on that site is unsuitable for landfill use.

But they are worried because the county's new formula, even if it was made in equal disregard for local interests, can, under the new statute, be forced down their throats.

"We pray that the 'You're stuck with it' attitude has changed," said Kacy. "But 641 is so powerful..."

DPW's Schutte contends that local opinion will be very important in the final decision making.

He said the plan would have to go before the county board of commissioners again and that, even if they do OK it, approval must also come from 2/3 of all the participating municipalities.

As of right now, Independence is not an official party to the plan at all, having withdrawn in the wake of the previous controversy. That doesn't, however, mean that the township can't still be tagged for a site.

Kacy said it is not his intention to create an adversarial relationship with the county, nor is he ruling out the possibility of Independence providing some kind of dumpsite.

"We'll take our share of the responsibility," he said. "But we also want our overall commitment (to planned development) adhered to. We want the county to work with us."

"This whole process requires intelligent cooperation."

How much cooperation will be forthcoming depends to a great degree on the nature of the county plan.

If it calls for the incineration plant as a central feature, Kacy suggested that, while the plant itself should be located close to whatever industry it would provide power for, the post-incineration waste might be acceptable for disposal on a township site.

Supervisor Smith has already been in contact with some of the people who own property with a suitable zoning classification for that purpose.

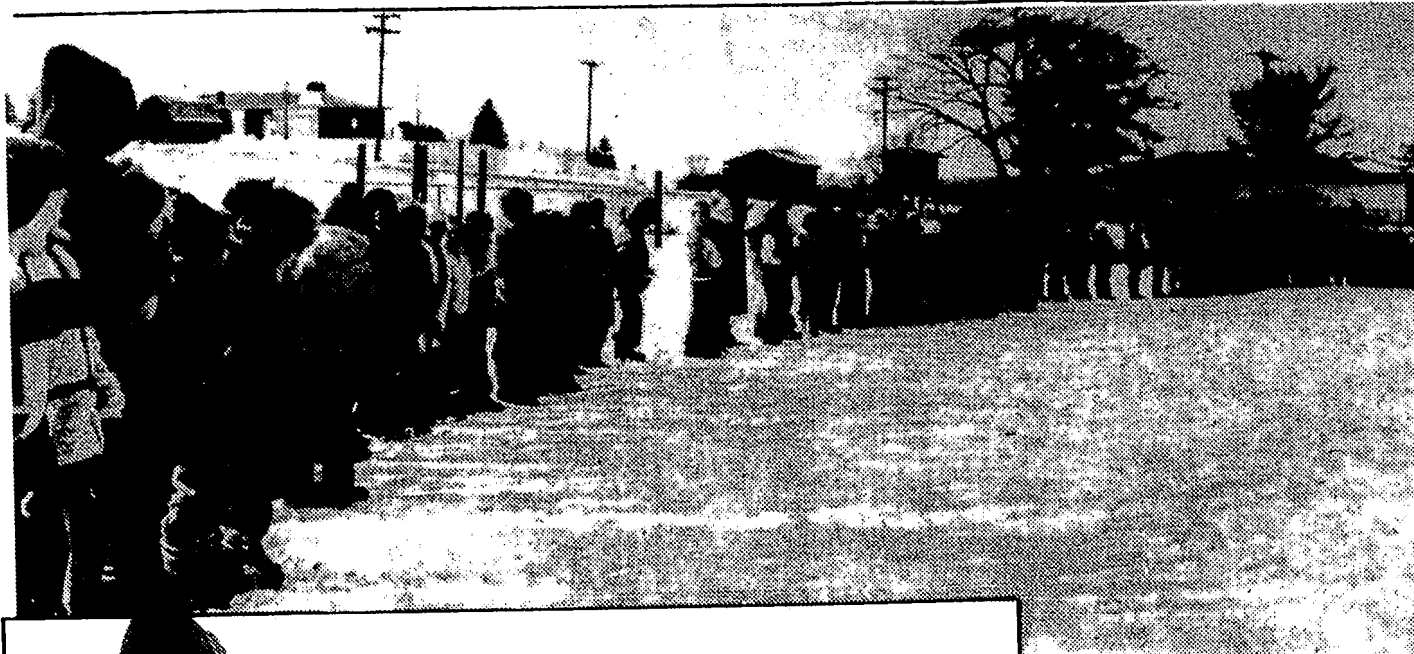

But if the county plan doesn't feature the incineration plant, or if it proposes a lengthy interim phase-in to plant use (and consequently lengthy continued need for ordinary landfill space), Independence Township, as one of the townships with lots of open space left, could be forced into an adversarial relationship.

And this time in the face of a $400,000 study and Public Act 641.

County officials remain tight-lipped about that possibility. But given the cost of an incineration plant, and the massive management problems associated with running one, the chances are pretty good that the 641 plan will call for some new landfills. If not here, then somewhere else in the northern tier of townships.

Kacy said that it is the intention of the task force to collect as much information as they can so that, if the township board is forced to make a move, they will be making it from a position of strength.

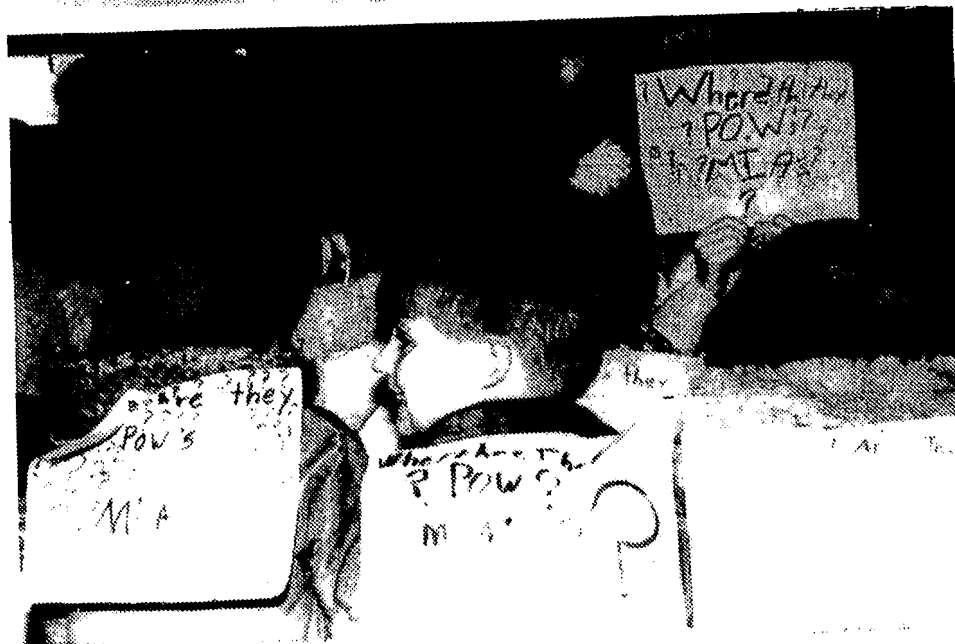

As Jim Smith put it, "We all recognize that we're headed for some kind of waste disposal different from what we've known. We just want to have something to say about what it is."

Davisburg Elementary Sings in Celebration of Hostages' Return

As part of the National Day of Thanksgiving celebrating the return of hostages from Iran, Davisburg Elementary School students gathered on the playground to sing "Tie A Yellow Ribbon" and "God Bless America". 1200 feet of yellow ribbon was donated for the occasion and Ed Farley is shown below left cutting pieces for the children to take home. Gravel Mine Decision Not Expected Soon

by Dawson Bell

In the words of one DNR representative "it's likely to be a long, long time" before any decision is reached on a permit the Edward C. Levy Co. is seeking for sand and gravel mining privileges on the property it holds in Independence Township.

That decision hinges on the resolution of a dozen or more issues brought before a three-man DNR team and an audience of more than two hundred people at a public hearing held last Wednesday in the township hall.

The permit the Levy Company has requested falls under the jurisdiction of the DNR's Land, Lake and Stream Protection Section. In general, their determination must be based on an assessment of whether or not the mining would endanger the "public trust or interest".

The company's proposal calls for a twenty year extraction process on a site of 383 acres west of Sashabaw Road. At the conclusion of the mining period a lake of 198 acres will have been formed. The lake's shoreline would comprise 94 additional acres reclaimed for residential development.

Over the lifetime of the mine, nearly 13 million tons of aggregate, with an on-site value of $45,000,000 would be extracted.

Attorney for the Levy Company, Norman Hyman, said that figure was significantly lower than the total reserves available on the full 494 acres the company holds.

He said that the company had, upon the recommendation of their environmental consultant, modified the mining plan (which had originally been presented to the Independence planning commission in May of 1979) to "leave in a totally untouched state the wetlands close to the Clinton River."

The protection of the wetlands on the property, and consequently of the quality of the water in the river, is the major bone of contention between the mining company and conservation and municipal bodies who are opposed to the project.

Hyman said that there were 66 acres "with wetland characteristics" which would be mined under the modified plan, but that they were of a "lower order of significance".

Further, he said, "We don't expect any major or significant adverse environmental impact....our studies indicate that the water quality of the Clinton River will not be affected."

On the questions of groundwater tables, traffic volume and local zoning, Hyman expressed equal assurance that adverse effects would be minimized and well within tolerable levels.

The mining project, he said, would be "less intense development than can be envisioned by any other kind of development on the site."

Opponents to the plan, however, seemed equally convinced that the mining could have catastrophic effects on the river, its floodplain and surrounding residents.

In a series of statements, coordinated by Clarkston resident and former school district superintendent, Leslie F. Greene, representatives from Independence Township, the Village of Clarkston, the Clinton River Environmental Workers, the East Michigan Environmental Action Council, the Detroit and Oakland Audubon Societies, the Clinton River Watershed Council and others outlined objections to the plan.

They took issue with the Levy Company's claims that:

- Clinton River water quality and water levels would not be adversely affected.
- That the area in question, and especially the 66 acres of wetlands, did not represent a significantly "rare" resource.
- That no endangered species depended on the site's habitat for survival.
- That the acreage set aside for acquisition on the Kammer Land Trust Fund (approx. 100 acres of which lies within Levy's boundaries) would be unaffected and still desirable for inclusion in the county park system.
- And that no feasible, alternative sites existed within the market area.

Attorneys for the East Michigan Environmental Action Council, Elizabeth Harris and John Sobetzer, further contended that the mining project would violate three State of make the permit recommendation.

He said that the DNR would almost certainly require the applicant to provide additional information and that if it was decided to recommend approval, an Environmental Impact Statement would probably be also forthcoming.

Haywood also noted, however, that it has been a policy of the DNR not to issue a permit "when the local government is opposed".

Should the Haywood's section deny the application, the Levy Company could request a "contested case hearing" in front of a hearings officer appointed by the State Attorney General.

School Board Sharpens Budget Axe

by Dawson Bell

We knew it was coming, but we don't have to like it seemed to be the preliminary consensus of Clarkston School Board members as they began last Monday to discuss what cuts would be necessary to trim a projected one million dollar deficit from the district's 1981-82 budget.

At January's regular meeting three weeks ago the board had learned from Superintendent Milford Mason that, based on certain assumptions about student enrollment and state aid, the school district would not be able to operate at its present level without depleting all cash equity and running up a million dollars in red ink.

The board's task on Monday was to start formulating a "priority list". Mason has said that some of the cuts must be formalized by March 9, the date of the board's regular March meeting.

Contractual agreements and state law require employees be given between thirty and ninety days layoff notice prior to the end of the fiscal year.

But board members found it even difficult to begin talking about personnel cuts before they were sure that every other avenue had been explored.

And much of the three and one half hour discussion centered around what kind of cuts were in order in non-academic areas.

Athletics, as is so often the case in school budget cutting measures, appeared to be in peril.

Several suggestions were tendered on alternative funding measures for the sports teams, which account for $165,000 annually in school outlays.

A pay-as-you-play system, such as the $50 dollar fees instituted in the Waterford Schools, said board members Mary Jane Chaustowich and Addison Hubbard, was a real possibility.

But some concern was expressed about the consequences a system of that sort would have on poor athletes. And Athletic Director, Paul Tungate pointed out that it would take $143 per student to make the whole program self-sufficient.

Board members also discussed possible cuts in busing, re-supply needs and other extra-curriculars.

Superintendent Mason warned, however, that even with the complete elimination of athletics, activities and severe supply reductions the district would probably still face a deficit of $560,000.

Inevitably then it does come down to layoffs and (academic) program cutbacks," he said.

"Eighty Five percent of our budget is in people and their benefits."

Additional cuts in the non-academic areas (that would bring the deficit below $560,000) would be impossible, Mason said.

"(This is) as bare as I can take it and still handle 6,000 students."

At the earlier meeting Mason said he considered a higher tax rate "the only answer" (to personnel cuts).

A higher tax rate could be gained, he said, in one of two ways--either a rollback of the Headlee Amendment (which has cost the district $895,000 over two years) or with the passage of an additional millage request.

Neither of those options was likely to be very popular with voters, he noted.

But board member, Robert Walters, said, "I think it would be irresponsible of us to make these cuts...without a millage option."

Mason pointed out that the results of a millage election, if one were held, would still not be known until June. And the cuts had to anticipated even if it did become possible not to make them.

Without a millage, however, the prospects for some of Clarkston's 311 member instructional staff are not bright.

Mason said that it was too early to begin to discuss layoffs in terms of numbers of years of seniority. But it was obvious that given the projected "bare bones" deficit of $560,000, the number would be significant.

The board's only official budgetary action Monday was the formation of a Citizens Committee, set up to provide the board with community input on the cutting process.

"You Mean Us Supporting Our Employers?" a Teacher Asks

Contractual obligations require the Clarkston School Board to address the question of layoffs ninety days prior to the end of the fiscal year.

But they also figure significantly in a couple of other measures discussed by the board--pay hike freezes and un-paid days off for school employees.

Attempts in other districts to institute belt-tightening measures of that sort have met with limited success.

But it seems likely that the Clarkston Board may ask district employees to consider them anyway.

Clarkston's Superintendent, Milford Mason, has said that next year's projected budget increases of more than one and one half million dollars are largely due to the upgrading of employee contracts. A single day's payroll in the district amounts to $53,100.

Members of the largest employee union in the Clarkston Schools, the teachers, expressed reluctance to speculate on what stand the union might take in the event of pay cut requests.

Ron Jacobson, head of the high school Math Department, said, "I think that would have to be left up to the negotiating team."

He did say, however, that the district (teachers included) had already made some sacrifices.

"I don't think teachers salaries are out of line....in fact, we're one of the lower paid districts in the area."

That sentiment was echoed by an ex-teacher/administrator, who said, "It's the community's problem, not just the teachers."

"Individuals might do it (give up pay to save layoffs) but collectively, 'I don't know.'"

He said union negotiators would have to consider the effects, not just on Clarkston, but on other districts in the area and the state.

"They would be very bad on that idea."

With or without pay or personnel cuts, Jacobson said the district's financial position was going to hurt his academic program.

"It's just going to be impossible for us to get the equipment we need," he said.

Open House February 8

The week of February 8 through the 15 has been designated as Vocational Education Week with the national theme of: "Vocational Education: Know How for the 80's."

The staff and students at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (NWOVEC) join in this observation through an Open House on Sunday, February 8, from 1-4 p.m.

This year marks the tenth anniversary for the Center's operation and special activities are being planned in recognition.

An invitation is extended to the people in the communities served by NWOVEC, Brandon, Clarkston, Holly and Waterford, to visit their Center and see first-hand what's happening locally in vocational education.

Activities and demonstrations for the Open House include:

Guided tour of the greenhouse
Diesel engine tested in dynamometer room

Numerical control tape machine in operation

Commercial art work on display
A full scale printing operation

Student demonstrations of word processing equipment

Chairside procedures used in dentistry

Winter Special Olympics at Independence Oaks

Some 350 Special Olympians are expected to participate in the fourth annual Oakland County Winter Special Olympics at Independence Oaks County Park in Clarkston on February 7.

The Special Olympians are mentally impaired residents of Oakland County, ages 8 and older. Many come from group homes, work activity centers and school special education programs.

They will be participating in events including tubing, sled pulling, snow shoe racing and snowball throwing, as well as nordic skiing, and snow sculpture, according to Robert Moran, games chairperson for the Oakland County Special Olympics.

The purpose of the games is "for the kids to have a good time, and for residents of Oakland County to interact with Special Olympians, said Moran.

Opening ceremonies begin at 9 a.m., with events taking place to 2:30 p.m. (in case of inclement weather, the games will be held on February 14.)

First through sixth place ribbons will be awarded for each event, with distinctions for age group, sex and ability.

Although the Oakland Winter Special Olympics is a preliminary meet for the Michigan Special Olympics, Moran said this is more of a "winter fun day" with less emphasis on competition.

$100 Million in Damages Sought by Springfield Toxic Waste Victims

Three Davisburg couples, in conjunction with two other couples and the estate of a third from Rose Township, have filed a $100 million lawsuit for damages stemming from the dumping of toxic wastes near their property.

They say the dumping, of PCB, cadmium and other wastes, led to the contamination of their water supplies, and lowered the value of their property.

The well water of at least ten families near the dumping sites on Shindler and Demode Roads was declared dangerous by the DNR after testing in the summer of 1979.

The suit was filed in Oakland County Circuit Court by Paul and Barbara Kozar, 12720 Shindler Road; Ronald and Karen Fraley, 13000 Shindler Road; Paul Robinson and Lee Ann Oliver, 12680 Shindler Road; Egbert and Barbara Jean Henry, 8440 Fish Lake Road; William Booker, Jr. and Arlene Booker, 8460 Fish Lake Road; and the estate of Fannie May and William Booker, owners of property near 8440 Fish Lake Road.

Among the seventeen defendants named in the suit are both the Ford and Chrysler Corporations, and Marlowe and Sons Ltd., operators of a landfill in Rose Township.

Community Center on the Drawing Board

With Independence Township Board approval January 20, of $1,000 funding for an architect's rendering, plans for a community center are likely to be revealed in the near future.

Chairman of the Community Center Steering Committee, Bruce Shull, appeared before the board to request the allocation from federal revenue sharing funds set aside for the project previously, and said, "We're at the point where we need the services of a professional architect."

The conceptual plan, he said, would provide them with the "input to give people something to talk about."

Trustee Dale Stuart, who also serves on the steering committee, said a plan in hand would also be helpful if the township decided to go ahead with the project and wanted to make a request for federal funding.

Stuart suggested proposed community center sites would also be soon available for public review. The property adjacent to the township park on Clarkston Orion Road, forty acres being purchased on a special millage levy, had been previously suggested for that use.

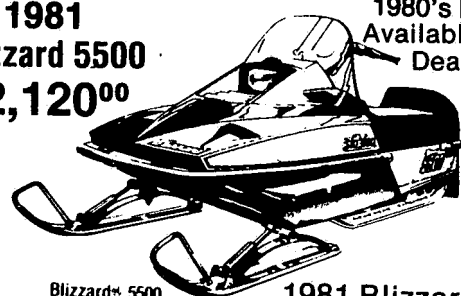

NOTICE SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP

Notice is hereby given that a joint budget training session will be held Monday, February 9, 1981, at 7:30 p.m. at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway, Davisburg, Michigan. The meeting will involve the Township Board, Parks and Recreation Commission and Library Board.

The easiest way for me to ruin my vacation is to sit down and figure out if I can afford it.

Nothing is more depressing than figuring out that I can afford two weeks in Florida only if I don't eat anything once I'm down there. Maybe I'm just picky but part of a vacation does seem to entail some eating because let's face it, it takes all the joy out of sightseeing if you are constantly fainting from hunger.

Along with not being able to afford anything to eat I can't afford a motel room and I absolutely refuse to sleep where I did two years ago on vacation. The trucks kept me awake all night long, not to mention the fact that I kept rolling off the shoulder of the road into a drainage ditch.

Being realistic I ruled out the two weeks in Florida in favor of one week in New York City. But with bank book and bills in hand I quickly figured out that I couldn't afford that either or for that matter even a weekend in Toronto.

So, unfortunately, it looks like I'm going to have to take the same vacation I took last year. Oh sure, the food is good and the natives are nice but lunch at McDonalds is not my idea of a hot vacation.

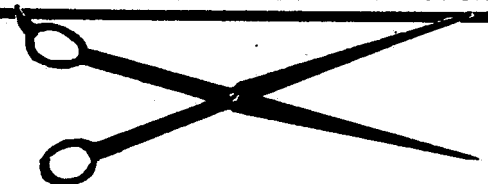

Not being able to afford a vacation wouldn't be quite so bad if I didn't have to listen to stories from everyone else's vacations. One friend is going to the Virgin Islands for a week, another is going to the Bahamas for two weeks and I'm spending the afternoon at McDonalds. I can just hear myself months from now at some party.

"Where did I go on my vacation? Oh I spent a wonderful afternoon at McDonalds, I had a delicious Big Mac and some tender, golden fries. And how was your trip to Europe?"

Frankly the whole thing depressed me terribly, so in an effort to pretend I was on vacation even though I was stuck at home I played motel and did the following things.

First I washed all my bed sheets then put them in the closet for a week while they were still wet for that unmistakeable motel mildew smell. Then I covered all my glasses with paper and put a paper strip across the toilet seat and wrote on both "SANATIZED FOR YOUR PROTECTION". All the full sized bars of soap were replaced with those little, tiny ones that slip out of your hands and onto the floor. Finally I tried to play Room Service. I made a lunch and left it outside my bedroom door but unfortunately my dogs ate it before I could.

Next year is going to be different. I'm going to take a real vacation, to Hawaii. Sure, I'm going to have to cut corners once I get there but I fully intend to get there. Now the only thing I have to find out is if it's illegal to sleep alongside a highway in Hawaii.

Mid-Michigan's Clarkston office.

Bert Boysenen, who was Clarkston's first Michigan National manager, has been promoted to Branch Co-Ordinator for all of Mid-Michigan's seventeen area offices.

Taking his place, as of January 15, is Marion Cheyz, a four year employee of Michigan National and former Oakland County cashier under C. Hugh Dohany.

Mrs. Cheyz says that her reception since taking over the position "has been very warm".

"I'm terribly motivated about working for Michigan National when they are taking such a strong position on interest rates," she says.

"Some of the local realtors are really pleased that we actually have mortgage money and at fifteen percent."

Mrs. Cheyz is a twenty five year resident of White Lake Township, where she and her husband have raised two children.

Just when things seemed to be going smoothly the roof fell in on Clarkston High School basketballers as they lost a seven point fourth quarter lead, the game and sole possession of first place last Friday night in Lake Orion.

The Wolves, whose strong play in the last few weeks had begun to make them look like a good bet to repeat as GOAL league titlists, went cold in the last few minutes and lost 39-37 when the Dragon's Bruce Ballard hit an 18-footer at the buzzer.

Clarkston, without playing exceptionally well, had notched a comfortable 21-13 half-time lead and seemed headed for their fifth straight league victory.

They held onto most of that lead into the fourth quarter, but suddenly went cold, scoring only four points in the final stanza and none in the last five minutes.

Turnovers plagued the Wolves as they attempted to stall with a five point lead and 4:38 left in the game. They committed 23 turnovers on the night.

Clarkston fell into a tie with Lake Orion and West Bloomfield with the loss. All have 4-2 records. Clarkston is 8-4 overall.

It was a rough night all the way around for the Wolves. Season leading scorer Scott McKoin was the only Clarkston player in double figures with 10 points. Ray Kubani added 9.

guaranteed action ads

Here's How It Works:

If you get NO phone calls after 2 weeks of advertising call us and we will repeat the ad at no charge for two more weeks. If still no phone calls, come to our office and fill out a request for a refund.

Remember we guarantee you will receive phone calls. We cannot guarantee you will sell a particular item because The Reminder has no control over selling price or quality of the item.

3 Ways to Place Your Guaranteed Action Ad

1. Clip the coupon and send with a check.
2. You can now call 625-9346 to place your Guaranteed Action Ad by using M.C. or Visa.
3. Use our convenient Reminder Drop-Off Center at The Lumberyard at Davisburg.

PAUL A. RUMPH D.C.

DR. RUMPH SAYS: 'Good Health is a Family Affair!'

OUR FAMILY PLAN REDUCES THE COST OF HEALTH CARE

We often suggest that patients bring in their families for treatment. The usual reply we would get was "I'll wait until I get better." Perhaps what they were really saying was that they just couldn't afford to have their entire family treated at our regular office fee of $15.00. When this happens, we explain our FAMILY HEALTH CARE PLAN.

This plan is designed to serve the needs of those patients who do not have full family health care insurance. We understand what a burden health care costs can be to those with large families.

Our FAMILY HEALTH CARE PLAN works like this: whenever two or more family members visit us on the same day, the first family member would pay $15.00; the second family member pays only $1.00. After that, bring as many family members as you wish. The maximum cost to your family will be only $17.00 total. Three or a dozen, it makes no difference.

We have a genuine concern that families should stay healthy together. We want to extend good health to everyone. Remember, good health is truly a family affair.

Take advantage of our FAMILY HEALTH CARE PLAN. Call 673-1215 now. You'll be glad you did...and so will your family.

$1⁰⁰ Family Health Care Plan

WE ACCEPT MEDICAID

Laid Off?....Out of Work?

WE CAN HELP YOU THROUGH THE TOUGH TIMES

Some people are going through some belt-tightening these days, with uncertain economic conditions threatening jobs, and shrinking the buying power of those hard-earned dollars.

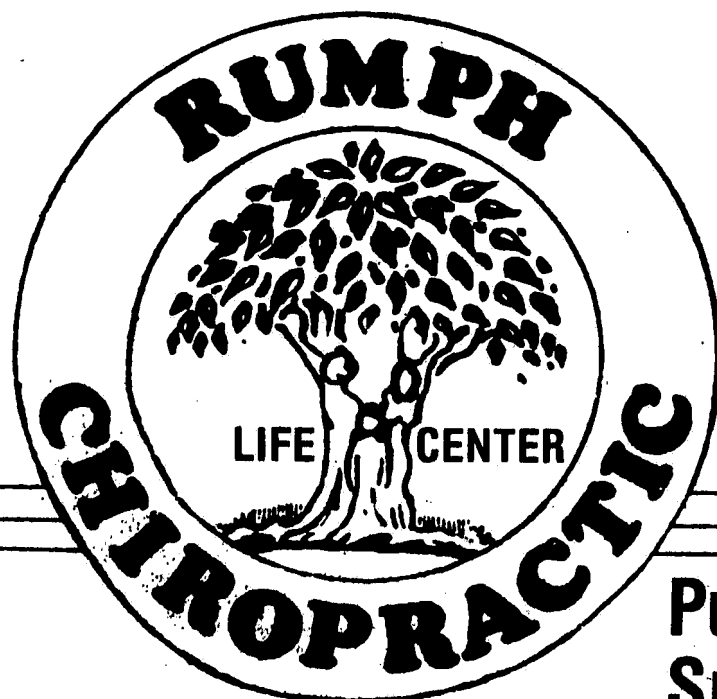

Many people are probably taking stock of their expenses and cutting down on luxuries to make those dollars stretch as far as they can.

We cannot emphasize too strongly, however, the importance of continuing your program of chiropractic care. Your health is a precious commodity.

If you are among those unfortunate enough to be laid off, or are for some reason out of work, and are considering interrupting or cutting down on your chiropractic care to help make ends meet, please talk to us before making so drastic a decision. We'll be happy to discuss the financial problem with you and help work out a solution.

Please, don't interrupt your chiropractic treatment. We made it through the recession in '74 '75; the 1980's recession is no bigger challenge.

Most Insurance Companies Pay For Chiropractic Care
