Property Owner Holds Out for Right Offer from Levy

by Dawson Bell

Carl Paulsen, above, stands near his home on Sashabaw wondering what will become of his property which stretches a half mile to the west. In the layout presently under DNR review, below, the Levy Company seems to be ready to turn it into shoreline.

Sashabaw Road

A week ago last Wednesday, when more than 200 people gathered at Independence Township Hall for a public hearing on the Edward C. Levy Company gravel mine proposal, Carl Paulsen stayed home.

Not because he wasn't interested, but because he already knew just about everything he needed to know.

Starting with the incontrovertible fact that he owns "free and clear" a ten acre parcel that he thinks Levy should buy before they start mining.

Paulsen's ten acres, where he has lived for almost twenty years with his wife and two sons, wouldn't be of much consequence in a project that covers around five hundred, except for one thing--it's 10 rods wide and 160 rods deep--which means that, under the current configuration drawn up by the mining company, Levy intends to turn Carl Paulsen's property into a long, narrow peninsula.

It's a bizarre possibility. So bizarre that no one seems to acknowledge it.

Even though Levy maps clearly show Paulsen's acreage as not included in the property the company owns or has under option, and clearly show that they are intending to build a lake around him, the question went unmentioned at the public hearing. As it did in published reports both before and after.

So bizarre maybe that no one is taking it seriously.

A lot of people may think, in looking at the maps, that the long narrow strip is a truck ramp into the middle of the pit. Or that Levy just hasn't completed purchase plans.

But, according to Carl Paulsen, they haven't even begun and it's about time somebody pointed out to the DNR, the gravel mine opponents and Levy Company officials that, even if they get a permit for what's on the boards now, they still have him to contend with.

The Levy Company anyway, probably hasn't forgotten Paulsen is there.

He was approached almost two years ago by the company and its purchasing agent. "But" as Paulsen says, "they didn't like my price."

"They said they could go around us, but I don't see how."

And he seems to have a point...

The reason he wouldn't sell two years ago, he says, is because he knew how much the sand and gravel that lies around and under his property is worth.

A few years before Levy came along he was approached by the Army Corps of Engineers, who told him the best pockets of gravel in the area ran right through his backyard.

"Hell, I know that just from digging in the

Mr. and Mrs. James Wallace of Roscommon announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Lynn of Pontiac, to Floyd Anthony Frick of Pontiac, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Frick of Clarkston. A May wedding is planned.

Holly's Battle Alley Plans Valentine Fest

Dressed in the Feathers and finery of the 19th century, the Battle Alley Bordello Girls will make their 20th Century appearance at the annual "Hearts and Flowers Valentine Celebration" on Historic Battle Alley in Holly on February 13th, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and February 14th 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The girls made their first appearance in the 19th Century when Battle Alley was in its heyday as a bustling, brawling street of saloons. The men flush with money from a week's hard work of the railroads and lumbercamps were easy prey for the Hussy's who lured them upstairs to the Bordello, which is now the upper story of the Battle Alley Arcade, a restored building containing 12 shops. Today, Battle Alley is a quiet street of 19th Century Specialty Shops. The girls thought they would come back for Valentine's Day and liven things up a bit. Some of the girls will be selling fresh flowers and candy hearts to their loved ones.

Continuing with this theme each shop will be decorated with lace hearts and flowers, and the shop owners will be attired in their Bordello finery for the upcoming event. Strolling Musicians will add a romantic flavor to the occasion.

As an added attraction on Saturday Evening, February 14 from 7 p.m. through 9 p.m., shoppers will receive a complimentary tasty treat from each shop, which will include Valentine candy, pink heart cookies and hors' d'oeuvres.

The Holly Hotel, hub of the brawny revlry in its earlier days has arranged for a special showing of the renowned artist "John Coffey's Paintings".

Grass Ought to be Legal

Dear Mr. Dawson Bell:

After reading your article "The Drug Scene" I have a few thoughts about the subject.

First some back ground about myself. Age 31, Semi-Professional, earning an average income (always had a job), high school graduate. Sounds about like the average guy! Right?

Well maybe by some standards. I have been smoking Grass since 1966 and still do, as do many of my friends from what you call the "generation gap era". Drugs, "They are a part of life" this statement from your article couldn't be more true and if seventy percent of the students in high school get high what percentage do you think gets high that are from my age group. In the next decade there will be more people in their 30's than any age group then what will the percentage be. It's time for the generation that is in the majority now to finally realize that the scare tactics the Federal, State and Local Governments have used for years aren't and never did work! Films made by F.B.I. like "Reefer Madness" tried to depict grass smokers as Crazy Sex Fiends, are now laughed at by all.

The problem was too obvious. People who smoked pot didn't feel the way the films suggest. I came to the same conclusion in the 60's. It made me start to mistrust a lot of ideas that the establishment said were true. Their ideas on sex, drugs, racism, religion, big business and Government seemed to be disproved by facts. Its a sad case when the government "For The People and By the People" misleads and lies to "The People". My father and mother took the word of the American Government for granted as the truth. When the Government tries to legislate morals as in Prohibition it turns people who are usually law abiding citizens into criminals.

Morals are the fiber of a nation and they cannot be changed by laws.

So why try to change people over night. It took years for our vises to come to this state maybe our environment has something to do with it.

Speed, Reds, what are these? They are the same drugs Mom and Dad take legally. Just go look at the medicine cabinet. Speed for Dad to go fight in the corporate structure of success, Reds (downers) for Mom because of the anxiety of sitting home and raising a family. Drug abuse? What do you think? You say it's tough to be a kid now. How true. The kids now are just preparing for the high pressure business of success at earlier ages than Dad and Mom did. It comes down to the fact that the kids today don't see too much happiness around them. And this is the direction they are headed and they don't like it. Success is not happiness as the rising divorce rate indicates. Dispite the recent affluence in the Clarkston Area the kids don't believe following in their dad and mom's footsteps of success will make them any happier than their parents are.

Finally, in my opinion we should start to bring everything into the open, sex, drugs, everything we can't expect and to educate with out open dialogue. Ignorance and embarrassment about a subject in the past has put us at the point we find ourselves now. And I might say it's a sorry state when our future generation does not believe what it is being told. I know I didn't and I was right.

I will not give my name because of obvious legal reasons, sad isn't it?

BAIT Supports Lights

Dear Editor:

The Business Association of Independence Township at its most recent Board Meeting on January 16, 1981, again reviewed the subject of the community school's "Lighting Project" presented by Conrad Bruce. We scrutinized the project, its merits, the feasibility of the investment and the business communities involvement in this type of endeavor. The Board of Directors has unanimously endorsed the fund drive for this worthwhile cause and appointed me, Bob Olsen, to help obtain funds for this investment.

I have further discussed the business merits of this project with the Administrators of the Clarkston Schools and have determined the following:

Cost savings estimates (interest of eight percent, maintenance and attendance variances)

First year cost saving estimate *10,500

Subsequent years cost savings estimates *6,500 per year

Many area businesses are assisting with this project and subsequently, the construction, material and labor costs are being substantially reduced. My estimate would indicate a five to six year investment/pay back period on a conservative basis.

As businesses in this area, it is normal for us to contribute to the government on a confiscatory basis thru taxation. This is an OPPORTUNITY to contribute on a voluntary basis as was the case twenty five years ago when a voluntary drive installed the now obsolete and demolished lighting system. This is a chance to contribute to the largest business in Independence Township in a time of great need. I think we will all benefit the Clarkston Community Schools and their 591 employees who help us on a daily basis as local purchasers of our products and services - as well as educating our children. If we lack an adequate school system and facilities, we will not attract the type of people we are looking for in Independence Township.

Sincerely,
Robert A. Olsen

Letters about most any subject are welcome. Be sure to include your name. Send them to the address below.

editor's note

This week's Cover Story offers an interesting sidelight to the great gravel controversy in Independence Township. As reported by Dawson Bell, a man by the name of Carl Paulsen owns a small portion of the land Levy hopes to mine.

Now on the surface that seems to be no big deal. But with further investigation one finds that small narrow strip of land is right "smack dab" in the middle of the proposed mining operation. If Levy was to get approval to mine, and was not able to purchase the land from Paulsen, in several year's time that piece of land would be an island in the midst of Lake Levy!

What's even more fascinating is Paulsen's price tag. He claims he's been approached only once by a purchasing agent for Levy. They refused his price then. Now the price has skyrocketed. Paulsen's no dummy. He knows he's sitting on a gold mine, and the Levy Co., if it gets its approval to mine, will probably pay whatever he asks.

But Paulsen should not hold his breath on that final point. Getting approval has not, and will not be very easy for Levy. Members of CREW, a local group formed especially to stop Levy, have been impressive in their efforts. Their presentation at last week's public hearing for the Levy proposal, was according to one political observer, the best he'd seen at the local level. For support purposes, CREW had over 200 people present at the meeting. That's more than any of the Pine Knob Hotel meetings had.

Pine Knob Ready to Compromise?

Pine Knob resort owners, Gary Francell and Joe Locricchio, may be ready to present a new proposal to Independence Township for development of their ski resort and entertainment center on Sashabaw Road in Clarkston.

Sources at the township said that Independence officials met with Pine Knob representatives three weeks ago to discuss possible modification of the controversial proposal to erect a high-rise hotel and ski ramp at the complex.

Discussion is said to have centered around a change in hotel plans, removing from the drawing-board the 600-room high rise as previously presented, and replacing it with a smaller, "executive" style facility connected to the Hamburger Mansion restaurant.

Pine Knob is also said to be willing to drop plans for the "Wonderful World of Pine Knob" amusement park and a multi-million dollar lawsuit pending against the township over the denial of permits for the hotel and ski ramp.

In exchange, it is reported that the resort owners are asking for the go-ahead on the ski ramp, a 200-foot high structure originally presented in conjunction with the hotel.

Pine Knob's co-owner, Gary Francell, when asked to confirm the report offered only a terse, "No comment".

The Pine Knob high-rise controversy began in the spring of 1979, when the Independence Planning Commission first reviewed site plan proposals for a 22-story, 600-room hotel.

Resistance to the plan mounted and in October a public referendum on the questions of height variances over 35 feet and hotel use in areas zoned for recreation was held. Voters turned down both.

Skirmishing between Pine Knob and the township continued, however, over the hotel question, an amusement park at the music theatre and a new proposal for the ski ramp, sans hotel.

Taxpayers Get Good News

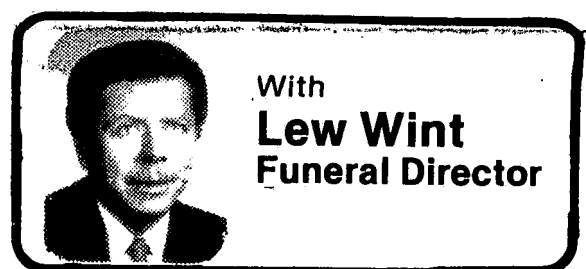

Independence Township residents who are waiting for income tax rebates to pay their property taxes have been given some breathing room by the township board.

In a unanimous vote, the board moved last Tuesday to push back the pre-penalty deadline for eligible parties (Senior citizens and the disabled) from February 17 to February 28.

A 4% interest penalty is customarily assessed to tardy taxpayers.

But Treasurer, Fred Ritter, suggested that anyone who established that they have applied for the rebate and not yet received it be given the deferral.

The rebate program was set up on the premise that those on fixed incomes should not have to pay more than 3½ percent of their annual income in property tax.

Funeral Director

WHAT QUALITIES DO I LOOK FOR IN A FUNERAL DIRECTOR?

If you have been thinking about consulting a funeral director for the purpose of pre-planning a funeral or perhaps just getting answers to some questions, you may be baffled as to how to decide whom to consult.

Because of the nature of our business, funeral homes don't usually advertise in the same fashion as say an automobile dealership might. Therefore, it's a little harder for the inexperienced consumer to know whom to approach. We hope these little guide lines will be helpful to you in choosing a funeral director.

1. A funeral director should be a vibrant member of the community as well as a trustworthy businessman.

2. He should be sensitive to all of his clients' needs as individuals, recognizing the many intricate needs of those seeking his services.

3. He should stand ready to provide quality services on reasonable terms.

4. A funeral director should be willing to do everything in his power to make sure that your wishes are carried out implicitly.

5. His most important responsibility should be to see to the mental, physical and emotional well-being of you, your family and friends in the time of need.

At our funeral home, we try hard to live up to these standards. We welcome you to visit our facilities and we welcome your questions through this column.

Springfield Buys Tanker

The Springfield Township Board has authorized the purchase of a 2,100 gallon tanker truck by the Fire Department to be paid for with Community Development money.

Fire Chief Marlan Hillman requested the board approve the purchase of Springfield's first ever water tanker at their regular monthly meeting, February 4.

He said the township could get the chassis and tanker they wanted much easier now than later, because the chassis, with a 534 cubic inch Ford engine, was a discontinued 1980 model.

Total cost of tanker and chassis, with options added, was quoted by Hillman at $45,195.

Supervisor, Colin Walls, said he would check to make sure CDA funds, left over from 1980 could be used for that purpose, but that he anticipated no problem.

And the board passed Calvin Walters motion to approve the fire chief's request unanimously.

Two New Commuter Lots Expected This Summer

Construction of two new car pooling lots along I-75 by the State Department of Transportation is expected to begin this year.

William J. Schram, car pool coordinator for the DOT, said that a 40-car lot at the Dixie Highway I-75 interchange is scheduled for letting in March.

And that a lot capable of accommodating 100 cars is scheduled for Sashabaw and I-75 sometime this summer, depending on when the north bound on-ramp changes the department is also conducting are finished.

Schram said that funding for the projects is made possible because they are considered a part of the interstate system and therefore eligible for federal monies.

Township, School Bicker Over Property Tax Interest

A fight is brewing over $75,000 in interest Independence Township draws on the property tax money it collects for the Clarkston School District.

School officials have questioned the propriety of the township holding school funds after tax collection and keeping the interest. Especially in light of the district's current economic crisis.

School Superintendent, Milford Mason, told the School Board in January that the district has lost $14,000 to the township in potential interest payments through the December collection period.

But Township Treasurer, Fred Ritter, whose department handles the collection, contends that the practice is both perfectly legal and perfectly sensible business.

Independence Supervisor, Jim Smith, who brought the matter to the attention of the township board, said, however, "I don't think it represents the epitome of good faith in our relations with the schools."

Mason also charged that Ritter was the first Independence Treasurer to hold the money.

Ritter denies he has changed township policy. The only change he says is the one effected by a new disbursement law which was implemented at the schools' request.

Under that law the property tax collecting agency is required to turnover school monies collected by the first and fifteenth of every month within ten business days following.

Ritter said he is abiding by those guidelines and that the schools are receiving their money even faster than they had previously.

"This discussion," Ritter told the board, "is putting us in an adversary relationship with the schools. I'm not against the schools, I'm for the township."

Smith suggested the board move to request Ritter to make a 90 percent payment on the funds collected by the first and fifteenth of each month.

Trustee, William Vandermark, agreed.

Collecting the interest, he said, was "like cutting the bottom of the blanket and sewing it on the top. It all benefits the same people."

Trustee Dale Stuart, however, suggested the board table action until the next meeting to allow Ritter time to draw up a justification of his contention that the schools are getting the money faster than before and that to make partial payments in advance of the deadline would be burdensome to his department.

Smith agreed to that suggestion and the matter was tabled.

Broomfield Nominates Two to Naval Academy Competition

Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Birmingham) has announced the nomination of two Clarkston area high school students to competition for the 1981 appointments at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

Broomfield's nominees are:

Peter J. Hooper who attends Clarkston High School and is the son of Mrs. Mary Lynn Hooper of 5303 Winell Drive, Clarkston and Matthew J. Townshend who attends Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes High School and resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Townshend, 7756 North Holcomb, Clarkston.

The two are among twenty nominees for the academy made by Broomfield this year. There are two vacancies.

Englewood Meadows III Wins Compromise Approval

Final preliminary plat approval on developer Gary Adams' Englewood Meadows phase III has been extended by the Springfield Township Board.

The subdivision, located off Dixie Highway and Big Lake Road, first came up for township review in 1971.

Phase III had been platted to join on its northern border with Lake Maria Woods. Roads in both developments have been given the same name. And residents of Lake Maria had run utility lines through Englewood, along roughed in roads.

But construction on phase III has moved slowly and the township's original final preliminary plat approval had expired.

The question was complicated by the adoption, in 1973, of Springfield's Zoning Ordinance which called for lots of 40,000 square feet where developer Adams had platted for a minimum of 18,000.

The question before the board last Wednesday was whether or not it would be reasonable to require Mr. Adams to return to the planning commission for rezoning.

Supervisor Collin Walls suggested that to deny the extension might be considered an "undue hardship", if not on developer

Adams, then on the residents of Lake Maria Woods who had anticipated safer and easier access to their property upon completion of Englewood Meadows.

Delton Lohff, the engineer retained by Adams, also argued for approval. He maintained that to adhere strictly to the zoned lot size would make connection of the roads impossible, and be "detrimental to the public welfare".

Calvin Walters, Township Clerk, however, expressed interest in a compromise, whereby extension would be based upon some alteration of the plat to increase the size of the lots.

"I'm in favor of the extension," he said. "But I'd like to see some compromise."

Walters suggested the combination of some lots and the realignment of others to minimize the number of lots under 20,000 square feet.

A motion by trustee William Whitley to approve the extension, contingent on the submission of the title commitments, deed restrictions and a final engineering report was approved by the board unanimously.

Color Guard Starts '81 Season Walking in Rhythm

by Dawson Bell

Do you know what your kid was doing on Saturday, January 20? That sort of question, usually followed by a report on vandalism at an area school or business, is designed to make parents feel uneasy.

But it wouldn't bother the parents of the 20-member Clarkston High School Winter Color Guard.

Their kids were in Chesterton, Indiana marching in tight formation at the start of the winter color guard competitions, the first of nine such events that lead up to regional, national and international competition in April.

Clarkston placed third in their class at the Chesterton meet, adding to their growing reputation as one of the finest prep guards in the country.

1981 marks the fifth year of existence for the Clarkston Winter Guard, the last three of which the guard has placed among the top ten color guards in the Midwest.

Last year they concluded the circuit in Boston at the Winter Guard International Olympics. The Clarkston group qualified for the event by placing fifth in their division at the Midwestern Finals in Chicago.

Right now they are fine tuning their performance in anticipation of the Clarkston Invitational to be held at the high school on February 21.

Advisor, Paul Little, said they are expecting 20 entrants for the invitation, including the internationally famous Flushing Guard, many of whose members have been guardman for six or more years.

The Clarkston Guard, by contrast, is made up entirely of high school students.

Nevertheless, Little said he expects great things from this year's squad, who he said make up for their relative inexperience with an abundance of enthusiasm.

Members of the Clarkston Winter Guard 1981 are:

Flags: Kelly Bartlett, Jane Coleman, Debbie Dobson, Cindy Hawley, Shari Santala, Karen Soltes, Nancy Soltes, Karen Thomas, Lori Thomas and Sally Vandermark.

Rifles: Dennis Farmer, Laura Little, Shelley Little, Matt Pambid, Debbie Ragatz and Wendy Ripley.

Sabres: Deanna Brewer, Dyane Mandilk, Artha Sans and Kristi Swanson.

You Can Cope by "Co-Operating"

by Dawson Bell

You can cut your budget from here to Sunday but ya' still gotta eat.

What you don't have to do though, according to a panel of food cooperative reps who addressed the Waterford branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) last Thursday, is pay $200/year in overhead to the grocery store to cover shoplifting, fill your children up on Wonder Bread or let the retailer dictate all the prices.

The person who joins a co-op, said Louise Kasl of Clarkston Country Cupboard, is saying 'I want to control what's going on in my life. I don't want the A & P to control my destiny.'

Ms. Kasl, along with Kathy McDaid from the Stone Soup Co-Op and Helen Vergin from the Davisburg Economizers spelled out some of the advantages and disadvantages to the cooperative method of food purchasing in a mini-seminar held by the AAUW at St. Trinity's Lutheran Church in Waterford.

Mrs. McDaid, who belongs to and has in the past managed Stone Soup said the biggest plus in their kind of operation was its size.

Operating out of an old tool and die shop in Royal Oak, Stone Soup has over 350 membership families. And because it is so large can maintain a "store-front" where shopping can be conducted in a fairly conventional, come in and pick out what you want, sort of way. Members don't have to pre-order.

Stone Soup has a fairly extensive stock on hand at all times, including just about everything needed to feed a hungry family except for fresh fruits and vegetables.

Mrs. McDaid said they try to stock all "natural" foods and that most common kitchen needs can be filled with them if the consumer is willing to substitute whole grain breads and pasta for the "enriched" kind, and dried fruits for Ding-Dongs.

Kasl's Country Cupboard has no "storefront", but it too stresses natural foods and it too does a large share of business with a cooperative wholesaler in Ann Arbor called People's Warehouse.

The most obvious savings involved in the cooperative approach is that accrued from employing a volunteer work force.

Members of Country Cupboard, limited to sixty households, must share in the responsibilities for packaging, distribution and handling. There are no employees.

Because of their size limitation though, Country Cupboard requires members to pre-order shipments for monthly distribution.

"You need to think about buying a month's worth of groceries at one time," Kasl said, something most people have a little trouble becoming accustomed to.

But the savings are, she said, significant. As much as 30 percent over comparable items from a health food store.

Both Stone Soup and Country Cupboard are the kind of alternative life-style co-ops that most people associate with the "power to the people" movements of the late sixties.

The Davisburg Economizers, on the other hand, are a little simpler.

"We just buy the freshest fruits and vegetables we can in bulk and then divide them up," said Helen Vergin.

Every other week the Economizers head for the Eastern Market in Detroit and fill up a truck with orders from their 50 member families.

The basic purchases amount to a full grocery bag of fruits and one of vegetables for each member at a cost of $3.00 per bag.

After returning to Davisburg, they divvy everything up in their quarters at the old Road Commission building and "in an hour and a half everyone goes home and they know they've saved money and they have fresher food."

Mrs. Vergin said that the cooperative method of purchasing is so effective she's "given up gardening".

And if the reports of flourishing co-ops all over the state and waiting lists are any indication, a lot of other people feel the same way.

Ms. Kasl, who is a representative of a statewide cooperative confederation, said that Michigan is second only to California in number of co-ops. Not only food co-ops but in consumer insurance buying, car repair and all kinds of merchandising.

"It's becoming a very political movement," she said.

The co-ops of the "common people" now face competition from large corporations and, she said, whenever there is a lot of money being transferred the government soon takes an interest.

But even if one's only interest is in lower food bills or in weaning a child from an addiction to Twinkies, these three co-op advocates think they offer hope -- when a spot comes up, that is.

Rose, Kramer Appointed

Township officers from both Independence and Springfield have recently been named to positions in the Oakland County chapter of the Michigan Township's Association.

Christopher Rose, Independence Township Clerk, will serve as the body's Secretary. And Patricia Kramer, Springfield's Treasurer, will assume similar duties with the Association.

Both were selected at a January 22 meeting of representatives of Oakland's 23 townships.

Carl Paulsen Waits for Levy to Call garden," he says, "And I reckon Levy knows it too."

Which is why he says, "If they thought my price was high two years ago, they'll faint when they hear it now."

In one way or the other, it would seem that Paulsen has to be reckoned with.

Although DNR officials say a permit could be issued without his parcel included, there is the possibility that "after looking at the total project and determining if it could be accomplished under the present property configuration, (the DNR) could tell (Levy) that they would have to make additional acquisitions."

Paulsen also has the option of filing for a settlement in civil court if he could prove that the proposed project would adversely affect the value of his property.

He doesn't think Levy would be likely to hold out under those circumstances.

So Paulsen waits, expectantly.

"I really thought it would have been sold by now," he says, they stand to lose more than it would cost to settle with me."

Carl Paulsen won't say exactly how much he wants. But he knows he isn't likely to find a buyer who can pay more than Levy.

The narrow strip he sits on, which he says can't be built on under township ordinances, is worth more to a gravel miner than it would be to most anyone else.

But if things don't work out Paulsen also says he won't mind too much. Nor will his wife.

"I love it here," says Helen Paulsen, "it's been a wonderful place to raise two boys."

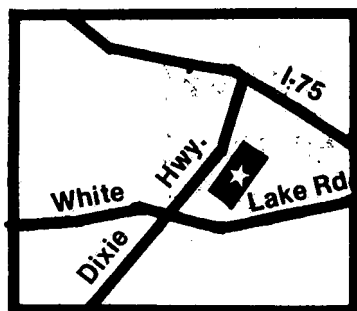

The thing that makes selling attractive is the chance they have now, which may never come again, for real financial security.

As a retired railroad worker, Carl Paulsen, says it would be next to impossible for him to finance a new home, they would have to make enough on a sale to buy something outright.

Or else stay right where they are...even if it means living in the middle of Lake Levy.

mike morrow's trivia

If Attila the Hun were alive today I know where he would be working, at the Dew Drop Inn.* The Dew Drop Inn is a little bar by my house with waitresses who are required by law to register their mouths with the police as deadly weapons. In other words these women are mean.

I don't know why all the waitresses that work there are mean. Maybe they make it a requirement to be hired. I can see their ad now. "Barmaid Wanted. Experience not needed. Surly attitude and nasty disposition a must. Demand to see the manager."

Even with an ad like that a nice one must slip through once in a while. So to make sure there are no pleasant people working there the management gives all prospective employees this test.

WHEN I SEE THAT A CUSTOMER NEEDS A DRINK I:

- A. ask if he or she would like another.
- B. remove the empty glass from the table.
- C. disappear from the face of the Earth.

WHEN SOMEONE DOESN'T TIP ME I:

- A. pout
- B. try harder to be nice.
- C. slash their tires.

IF SOMEONE ASKED ME TO BREAK A DOLLAR FOR A PHONE CALL I WOULD:

- A. do it cheerfully
- B. offer the use of the house phone
- C. sneer and ask who would want to talk to them.

FINISH THIS SENTENCE, CUSTOMERS ARE

- A. my means of support
- B. nice
- C. to be ignored at all costs.

DURING A RUSH PERIOD I:

- A. work harder
- B. get upset

C. go in the bathroom and smoke a cigarette
I GREET CUSTOMERS WITH:

- A. a nice smile
- B. a friendly hello
- C. a slap across the face

If you chose answer C to two or more of the above you could easily work at the Dew Drop Inn. That is as soon as you get out of prison.

*The Dew Drop Inn is not a real bar.

CHS Students Win Awards

Two Clarkston High School students were among 150 award winners in Scholastic Incorporated's recently completed Photography and Art Contest for 1980-81.

Sue Kowakoski received a Gold Key award for her oil painting, "Indian and Reflection".

And Ken Peters took home two Certificate's of Merit in photography for his "City Lights" and "Tall Buildings".

All three works will be on display at the Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield from February 7 through February 22.

Bill Genshaw, photography instructor at Clarkston High School, said the students' recognition indicated "significant accomplishment" in a competition that usually receives upwards of 20,000 entries.

Munk Medical Building Starts to Fill Up

Dr. Charles Munk's medical and dental offices, currently under construction on M-15 in Clarkston, welcomed its first occupant last Friday in the form of a 450-pound brown bear, stuffed.

The bear belongs to Dr. Munk and employees from Hilde's Taxidermy delivered him to his new home on the second floor with a little help from some of the on-site Danash construction workers.

The human occupants of the building are expected to start moving in around the 1st of April.

Abominable Snowmen

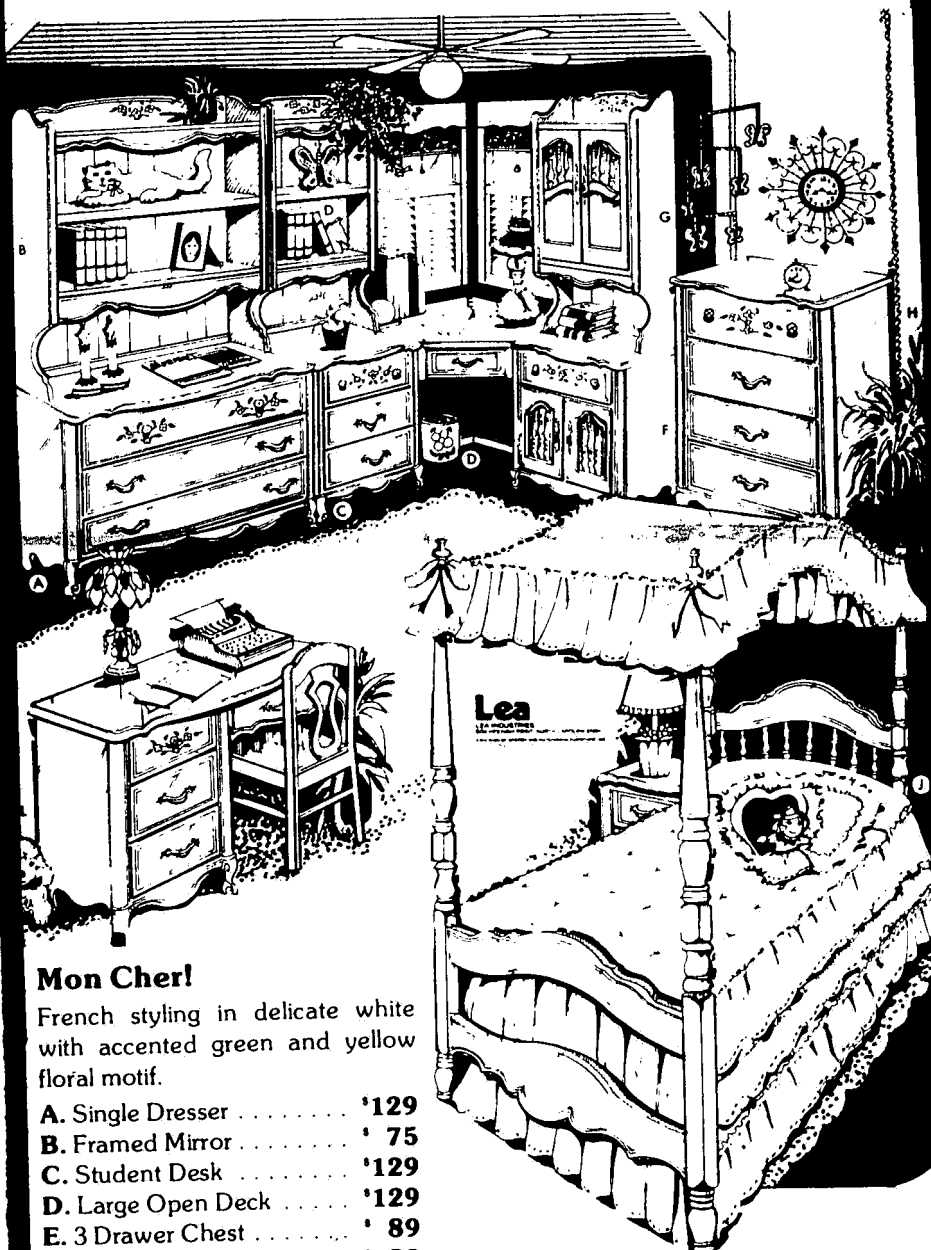

This cheerful fellow rose up out of the remnants of last week's snowstorm at 5359 Cecelia Ann in Clarkston. Creators - Vernon and Eric Johnson and friends.

Peering down on the unwary traveler north of Clarkston on M-15, this giant doffs the country style straw hat.

Skiers Battle Weather, Challenging Course

January was not the best day for a Cross-Country ski race but the Detroit News and Springfield Oaks Golf Course proceeded with their annual event regardless. The biggest problem for most participants was getting to the county park because of the slippery road conditions. The challenging course, which totaled 15KM or about 9 miles, had a variety of snow conditions. For some skiers, the weather proved too challenging, but the skier at right found the finish line and waiting trophy.

Wolves Lose Two Drop Out of First

by Dawson Bell

The Clarkston Wolves haven't got much to be thankful for after last week. But at least they don't have to play any more games in Waterford Township this season.

The Wolves were first consternated and then crushed by Waterford Schools Township and Kettering in basketball action last Tuesday and Friday nights.

Losing first in a hectic squeaker to Township 42-40 and then to Kettering 64-51. The Kettering loss really hurt as it dropped Clarkston out of a tie for the GOAL league lead. Clarkston now stands at 5-3 in the league and 8-6 overall.

The Wolves came close on Tuesday night as Craig Schnable hit a layup with one second to go pulling them to within one at 41-40.

But with one second left on the clock

Clarkston called a timeout they didn't have and, after Ken Hayward sank the technical, there was just no time for further heroics.

Clarkston's high scoring forward, Scott McKoin, was held to only six points on the night by Waterford's Steve Braun.

McKoin figured more prominently on Friday night, leading the Wolves with 16 points and all rebounders with 14, but he had to sit out in the game's late stages with four personal fouls.

It would have taken a half dozen Clarkston players in double figures to offset the Captains' Tom Lloyd anyway.

Lloyd, who contributed much of the damage in Clarkston's earlier loss to Kettering, was red hot again in leading all scorers with 32.

In tandem with Joe Gonzalez, he led Kettering to a 19-4 first quarter lead and they were never headed.

The Wolves were hurt at the charity line as Lloyd hit 10 of 11 and Gonzalez 7 of 9.

Brad Beattie had a season high 15 for Clarkston.

Police Arrest Peeping Tom Suspect

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies have arrested a 23 year old Clarkston man they believe may be the peeping tom who had been frequen-ting neighborhoods south of the village for the last two years.

Arrested and bound over on felony charges, the man was identified out of a photo line-up by Claudia Lambert, 6148 Paramus, as the same man who had entered her home on the night of January 26 while she and her daughter were sleeping on the living room floor.

Mrs. Lambert's description of the man had closely matched those received in a series of window peeping complaints last fall.

Those reports had prompted police to mount an undercover operation in an effort to apprehend the man.

That effort, however, was not successful. And no new incidents, until January 26, had been reported.

Navy Gunner's Mate Seaman Apprentice Michael J. Raymond, son of James L. Raymond of Ortonville Road, Clarkston, Michigan, and Norma S. Raymond of 4740 North Preda, Pontiac, was graduated from Basic Gunner's Mate School.

He joined the Navy in April 1980. His wife, Karen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Palarchio of 5022 Paula, Clarkston.

A HAPPY RETIREMENT

DR. RUMPH SAYS:

CHIROPRACTIC HEALTH CARE Let's You Enjoy It!

Arthritis, Chiropractic And You!

Often the arthritic patient has a poorly functioning nervous system, causing direct or indirect spinal problems. The joints of the body need a strong, normal nerve supply to function properly. When arthritis involves the spinal column or the nervous system, chiropractic helps. Chiropractic is a natural healing science which maintains and restores good health by keeping nerve impulses flowing freely.

How does Chiropractic work?

Electrical change along a nerve membrane is called a nerve impulse. Nerve impulses transmitted along the nerve membranes generate body reactions that control proper body function.

Communication between the brain and the body is transmitted through the spinal cord and then into the individual nerve endings. The spine is composed of 24 bones, which when misaligned, can interfere with the normal flow of power through the body.

Chiropractors are specialists in locating and correcting the abnormal bone misalignment, which eventually affect the body's functions. These are factors that are considered in the case of arthritis.

See your chiropractor when arthritis attacks. Spinal adjustments will have you feeling better soon.

...Arthritis Sufferers Ask This Question...

'How Long Can This Go On??' IT'S UP TO YOU!

THE NATURAL WAY TO GOOD HEALTH

Like every Doctor of Chiropractic, Dr. Paul Rumph has a commitment to the health care of the community.

"You must let people know that you care about them as people and that you have their best health interests at heart," says Dr. Rumph. "You must answer all of their questions with understanding and not with a lot of sophisticated language."

Dr. Rumph is always ready to explain health problems in simple, down-to-earth terms. He'll inform you, not confuse you.

And he'll fully explain the chiropractic principle which details how the brain generates powerful life-giving energy and sends it down the spinal cord, which is housed by the spinal column. The energy then is sent out the spinal nerves to all parts of the body. These life-giving nerve impulses supply the energy required by the body to carry on its normal functional activities.

The body functions properly only if the nerve channels are free and unobstructed. Nerve interference is caused when one or more of the 24 moveable vertebrae is thrown out of its normal alignment.

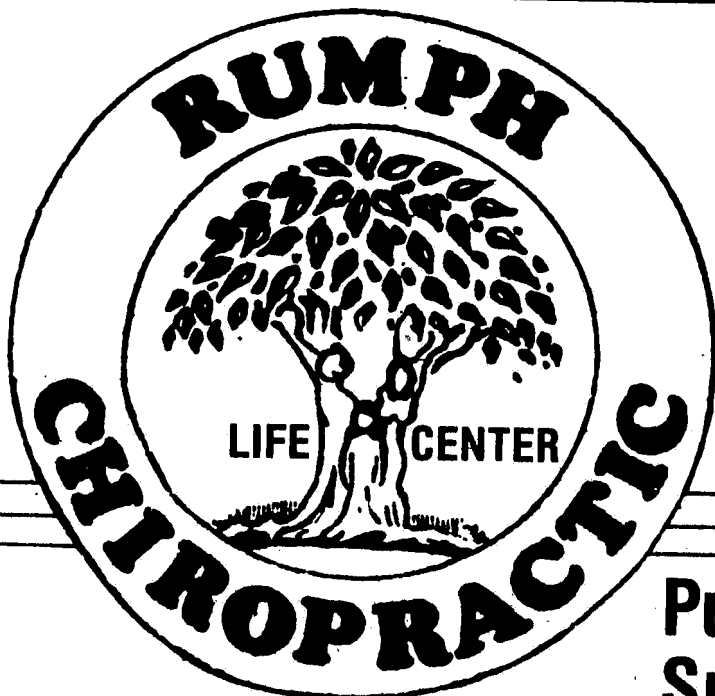

This misalignment, known as a subluxation, can be caused by a sudden jar or jerk. Even nervous tension can twist and contort the spine, causing an interrupted flow of nerve energy.

The Rumph Chiropractic Life Center is a multi-faceted complex designed to meet the varied health needs of today.

Progressive diagnostic tools and x-ray equipment are an important part of the facilities provided for the thorough examination of each patient. Up-to-date adjusting rooms and equipment enable Dr. Rumph to do the most for each patient.
