Clarkston Professional Plaza Medical and Dental Specialists Open for Business

Dr. Charles Munk, creator of Clarkston Professional Plaza is ready to receive patients

by Dawson Bell

In most cases and with most people the completion of a three year old building project would prompt a celebration, a long sigh of relief and a few days off.

But with Dr. Charles Munk, orthodontist and erstwhile developer, while celebration and relief may be in order, there's no time for vacation. Not when the building project is the Clarkston Professional Plaza and the Munk shingle is moving a few miles north from Drayton Plains and onto the second floor. And not when the end of construction means the beginning for what the doctor thinks could be the finest collection of dental and medical specialists in the state.

The building is something special, no question, but it's when Munk gets inside and starts talking about what is going to be happening there that he starts to get enthusiastic.

Despite its magnitude Munk says the building at 5825 South Main in Clarkston is "nothing more than a structure to house a concept."

Hence, he's not taking any vacation. It's time to realize that concept -- of bringing together under one roof "every dental specialty that there is." And, he says, making it possible for all of those specialists to work as a team.

"In the past," says Munk, "all the specialties have been all spread out. It has been hard to coordinate treatment. Here, all our referrals can be in-house; we can meet and discuss with each other and with the patient the suggested treatments and the sequence of treatments."

If everything goes smoothly this week, that concept will be put into action as Munk and Dr. George Krull, a pediatric dentist, move in. Four other dental specialists are expected to follow suit soon, as are two MDs, a speech pathologist and a prosthetic technician.

But if everything goes smoothly it may come as something of a surprise to Munk. The completion of the Clarkston Professional Plaza has not been without delays and setbacks.

The project is ambitious to begin with, 22,000 square feet of floor space, more than almost any other non-institutional building in the township.

But Munk rejects the suggestion he was bucking the odds by undertaking something on this scale in these times.

"I didn't plan on it being a time of depression when I started," he says ruefully. "But it became a long, tough project."

External economic conditions aren't the only reason the project took so long (two years) he says.

"Internally it takes time to go out and pull all these specialists in. We were being selective and, of course, so were they."

Krull, for instance, had to be lured from Indiana and convinced that the Clarkston Professional Plaza was more than just another local clinic.

"Without a doubt, this concept was a big attraction," he says. "There is an extremely high degree of competence among the people Dr. Munk has brought together here. I think the level of care will be as high as anywhere in the state, maybe even the whole country."

editor's note

This week's cover story brings you inside Clarkston's latest building phenomena -- Dr. Charles Munk's Clarkston Professional Plaza.

As you will see, the building is truly an incredible feat. Dr. Munk says there is nothing like it in America, and that's no exaggeration.

From the start, when it was only a dream, Dr. Munk's continued persistence has seen the project through completion. There were tough times, times when financing was nearly impossible to get, and times when construction deadlines came and went.

But now that it is finished, all of us in Clarkston can rightfully be proud of Munk's monumental accomplishment. He has put together a group of medical specialists that can't be matched elsewhere. And the facilities in which they will practice are the very best.

Like many others in this newspaper, The Reminder wishes to extend its congratulations to Dr. Munk, and we hope this is the start of a long and prosperous practice for all in the Clarkston Professional Plaza.

mike morrow's trivia

by Mike Morrow

After reading in a magazine that a suntan makes you look five pounds thinner, I threw the magazine aside and charged out into the backyard like the house was on fire, yanking my clothes off as I went.

About five minutes later I remembered why I never have a nice suntan. I hate laying in the sun. It's about as exciting as a bland diet.

But the incentive of looking thinner without having to quit eating is a powerful one, so I forced myself to stay out there.

At first I tried to convince myself that I was having a good time, but the reality of lying there on a sticky, plastic chaise lounge, sweating and swatting the flies, while all the neighbors looked out their windows at the big white whale lying there, shot down the "good time" theory quickly.

Next I tried to fall asleep, which is almost impossible when you're afraid that if you do you'll roll off the lounge into a pile of dog doo or that one of the bees buzzing around your head will fly right up your nose. Not surprisingly I did not fall asleep. In fact the only time I've ever fallen asleep while sunning a huge storm blew up. I woke up drenched and with twigs stuck in my hair.

Reading a book didn't work either, because I could not get comfortable. First I tried to read while lying on my stomach and leaning on my elbows. That worked fine until the shooting pains in my neck paralyzed me and my elbows fell asleep and gave out causing me to pitch forward, face first into my book which aggravated the bee up my nose to no end.

When the circulation returned to my arms I tried lying on my back and holding the book on my stomach. This worked for a page and a half until I went sun blind.

When I started getting delirious I realized it was time to come in. As soon as my vision cleared I looked at the clock and realized I had set a new record for myself. I had been lying in the sun for a total of 23 minutes. Next weekend I'm going to shoot for 30, that is if I can get ahold of some sleeping pills before then.

Perry Johnson Fools Us Again

Dear Editor:

Last November Michigan voters rejected a multi-million dollar prison building proposal (Proposal E) that had been placed on the ballot by the Michigan Legislature.

The reasons suggested for the defeat of proposal E in November are varied and complex. However, it seems safe to say that voters did not want to see more tax money used for capital expenditures of questionable public benefit.

In the last week of March the Michigan Senate passed a bill which, among other things, set aside about $17 million to begin construction on two new prisons in our state.

Obviously Perry Johnson, director of the Michigan Department of Corrections, has been working overtime to convince legislators that the will of the people ought to be discounted, because the Department of Corrections knows better.

Interestingly, that same legislative body passed another bill not too long ago called the Prison Overcrowding Emergency Powers Act. That bill calls for the Governor to declare a state of emergency whenever the state prison population exceeds capacity for 30 consecutive days (such a situation exists at this time). The bill delineates a series of measures to reduce overcrowding. These measures include reducing the minimum sentence of certain low-risk offenders by 90 days. At a recent meeting Leonard Esquina, legislative corrections ombudsman, raised serious questions about the need for building any new prisons in the light of this Emergency Powers Act.

The bill allocating $17 million for prison building (H.B. 4135) passed the Senate by a vote of 28 to 2. You fooled them again Perry Johnson!

They Deserve Raise

To the Editor,

I am sick and tired of reading letters from people who are condemning our Independence Township board member for the raise they received. As far as I'm concerned my husband is underpaid. He is a newly elected trustee on the township board and spends a great many hours preparing for each meeting. He will not sit on the board unprepared. Then the meeting may last anywhere from 2 to 5 1/2 hours.

So, for a man who works full time in Detroit to support a family of four daughters and who spends many evening and some weekend hours for the good of the township, there should be thanks and encouragement, not ridicule and condemnation.

By the way, you who have time to complain, what are you doing for the township? Do you attend the meetings that are there for your attendance?

Dental Dialogue

TERRIER ATTACKS DENTURES

Q. Could I have new dentures made using the teeth from an old set? Would you believe my terrier puppy chewed the plastic part away?

A. I believe it! In fact it happens often if you give Fido half a chance. While I don't advise it, if you wish you can use the old teeth. However, the time and money you save would be minimal, and your dentist can duplicate the appearance of your former dentures without using them. In the future it would be wise to store your dentures in a plastic case made expressly for them, and furnish your puppy with less expensive teething bones.

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of Dr. Gary R. Ushman, 55 S. Main St., Clarkston, Michigan 48016. Phone 625-2066.

WHAT DO I TELL MY CHILD WHEN SOMEONE DIES?

If news of a death seems to overwhelm you personally, "lean" on another supportive adult first. Then, approach your child. Get him in close physical contact and share your love, your sadness, and the news. You might say something like this:

"Billy, I feel sad about something that has happened.

Your cousin Fred died. That means he's gone and you won't see him again. No one will see him again."

By expressing your feelings calmly and giving calm support to his expression of feelings, you show him that he can deal with these feelings in himself.

Don't be upset at his expressions of sadness. Children will often turn off their feelings rather than upset their parents.

The fact is that children grow as a result of experiencing "difficult" feelings with their parents' support. But in dealing with such feelings, be sure your support and love are clearly expressed.

DEIS Ready as M-275 Proceeds

by Dawson Bell

A draft environmental impact statement (DEIS) prepared by the planning division of the State Department of Transportation (DOT) for the on again off again M-275 freeway is near completion and ready for submission to federal highway officials.

The DEIS is concentrated most closely on a route which would link I-96 in Novi with I-75 near Davisburg Road in Springfield Township, according to Fred Diamond from DOT offices in Lansing. Although other alternatives, including a link farther south on I-75 near Clarkston, are also considered.

Diamond said the circumstances under which the DEIS had been prepared were "somewhat unusual".

"Under normal circumstances we would present several alternatives for review and narrow it down from there," he said. "But in this instance the (state transportation) commission directed us to look most closely at this one."

After informal review by federal officials, the DEIS will be formally evaluated by the Michigan Environmental Review Board (MERB) and public hearings will be held. Diamond said no dates had been set for those hearings.

The transportation committee has also endorsed a plan to spend $2.35 million on engineering studies for M-275 in the 1981-82 budget.

Progress on west Oakland north/south highway have been slowed over the years by objections raised by environmental groups over its impact on various wetlands and wild areas. And in January of 1977 the then highway commission decided to scrap the proposal altogether.

But in November, 1979, it was revived and the preference for the modified M-275 freeway was endorsed by the transportation commission.

The modified plan shows the highway entering Springfield Township from the south one mile east of Hillsboro Road. It skirts Big Lake to the west and then angles northeast to I-75, crossing Andersonville Road and Davisburg Road east of Springfield Oaks.

Independence Township's bicycle/pedestrian safety paths took one more step towards realization last Tuesday when the township board unanimously approved a safety path master plan.

The plan calls for the ultimate creation of over 40 miles in safety paths along state and county roads throughout Independence.

At the board's April 21 meeting, William Pfahler, a member of the safety path advisory committee, outlined construction plans for the system which is being financed by a special .5 millage passed by township voters last fall.

The board adopted the plan with the condition that it should be subject to review and revision when need arises.

Deputy Dog Sworn to Prevent Crime

by Dawson Bell

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department added some additional "man" power recently when Sheriff Johannes Spreen deputized a new member in the department's crime prevention unit.

Deputy Sheriff McGruff is the county's representative in the Advertising Council for National Citizens Crime Prevention Campaign, a nationwide effort to "take a bite out of crime".

McGruff will be traveling all over the county with the sheriff's department crime prevention team, visiting elementary schools and community gatherings and presenting programs to youngsters on bicycle safety, drugs, crime prevention, don't go with strangers and other topics.

It is hoped the presentations will make children more aware of the nature of crime and how the alarming rise in crime can be abated.

Spreen says, "(McGruff) can stimulate both the police as well as the people in a very serious but fun manner."

The bicycle safety program features Deputy McGruff, complete with bloodhound ears and trenchcoat, in a demonstration of proper techniques and regulations to follow in bicycle travel.

The crime prevention team, heading up the Enroll in the Sheriff's Crime and Accident Prevention and Education (ESCAPE) program, will also conduct tours of the sheriff's department in the county complex on Telegraph Road in Pontiac.

best in business Dr. Munk: Clarkston Professional Plaza

The Munk "Team" Comes to Clarkston

Dentist, Developer and General Manager

In the past few years Dr. Charles F. Munk, orthodontist, has been moonlighting as a professional developer. The newly created Clarkston Professional Plaza attests to his skill.

But at the same time, Dr. Munk has been wearing another hat too. In assembling the collection of dental and medical talent for the professional plaza he has acted a little like a professional team general manager.

His conversation on the new building and its tenants is peppered with references to the "team" and "the team concept" in medical and dental care.

Although each of the doctors and technicians in the plaza will occupy their own suite and carry on their own practice, one gets the impression that, like Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics, Charles Munk hasn't been looking for individuals so much as he has for a collection of championship calibre team players.

And the as yet incomplete "roster" of the Clarkston Professional Plaza would indicate that he has been pretty successful. Virtually every specialty in dentistry will be brought together under one roof when the building is fully occupied.

Aside from orthodontist Munk, there will be Dr. George Krull, a young pediatric dentist; Dr. James Williams, oral surgeon and specialist in skeletal deficiencies will be downstairs; also downstairs, specialist in prosthetic dentistry, Dr. Gary K. Barrett; Dr. Carl Botvonick and Dr. Allan Jacobs, en-dodontists will treat root canal problems; in addition the Clarkston Professional Plaza will have its own, in-house, maxillofacial prosthetic technician, David Guelde, who will do regular lab work, bridges, dentures etc., and can work with all of the physicians and dentists in the development of prosthetic replacements for cancer and accident patients.

The medical profession will be represented by Dr. Gary Szymanowski, an ear, nose and throat man and specialist in facial orthopedics; and Dr. Joseph F. Heitsch, orthopedic surgeon. Speech pathologist, Karee Weber rounds out the group who will be moving in over the next few weeks.

Munk, however, hasn't finished assembling the team. Although the building is now ready for occupancy and he expected to begin seeing patients himself on Monday, the negotiations continue.

As of last Friday Dr. Munk was "finalizing" negotiations with a periodontist (gum specialist). And said he hoped too that remaining space could be rented to one or two of the medical specialties not readily available in the Clarkston area. He said possibilities included attracting a neurologist, a hand surgeon or a pediatric allergist. Munk said it might be possible to entice several people to share one office on a rotating basis in the specialties for which there wasn't constant call in Clarkston.

CLARKSTON PROFESSIONAL PLAZA

5825 S. Main St., Clarkston

The Munk suite includes 21st century technology - the kind you can't see. All dental instruments are housed out of sight in the self-contained cabinets behind the patient. No drill stands to make patients nervous or block the picture window view.

Teamwork The Key to Best Dental Care

He thinks the combination of doctors, dentists and technicians will enable patients at Clarkston Professional Plaza to enjoy the most complete kind of dental care available. Each specialty will complement another.

The building itself, he says, was designed around that concept. In size it is large enough to accommodate a whole range of specialists. And too in interior design the professional plaza makes it easy for doctors to confer with each other and with their patients.

"It's not the number of specialists we have here that is so important, it's the ability we will have to handle difficult complex and diverse problems all in one place."

To further that process the building is equipped with special patient/doctor conference rooms, where treatment can be discussed and formulated. The doctors themselves have their own medical conference room complete with fireplace and spiral staircase leading to the third floor library.

The assembly is an impressive one, both in personnel and facility, comprising what Munk rightfully calls a kind of "dental hospital" and a "team" which promises to win patients if no superbowl.

Munk says too that, while he may wish things had progressed a little faster, the tremendous amount of research and design that went into each inside suite was time well spent.

Everything will be completely up to date, he says, the design and technology the result of a nationwide study of medical care facilities. Munk himself has toured the country and gone through training courses in office design.

His office incorporates a "dentistry without demons" concept of wide open space, plentiful greenery and inconspicuous technology.

The overall effect in Munk's office is intended to avoid the formidable klieg light, machine shop atmosphere familiar to some dental patients. All of the doctor's instruments are enclosed in a small cabinet behind each chair; the lights are comfortably recessed in the ceiling.

"It seems like some days we'd take two steps forward and one step back, but now I can say that if I had it all to do over I wouldn't change anything," he says.

Munk seems assured that all the time will have been well spent. At his former office in Drayton Plains he says the process of consultation was frustrating and subject to unnecessary complications.

"For instance, the closest Periodontist was in Birmingham or Flint. So when I referred a patient he had to travel a long way for the consultation and I had to either speak to the other doctor over the phone or make a round trip of two hours for what might be a fifteen minute consultation. Here, we can be in the same building."

Aside from creating a kind of area "dental hospital" Munk has striven to bring in complementary medical professions, like ear, nose and throat specialist, Dr. Romuald T. Szymanowski (lured from prestigious Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit), and other medical specialists not likely to be found in a community of Clarkston's size.

In that effort he has been aided by longtime Clarkston pediatrician, Dr. James A. O'Neill. Munk originally purchased the property on which the Professional Plaza stands from O'Neill and he says that since that time O'Neill has been an invaluable assistant in the development of the plaza's concept.

In addition, Munk is thankful for the support he has received throughout the community. He says, the township (through whose Economic Development Corporation the building was to have been financed) has been "terrific".

"I think they realized that I live in Clarkston and that I want to do the right thing in my hometown; I'm not an outside developer," he says.

"We've tried to show some leadership. I think this community is the best and deserves the best - I hope they'll agree that what we have here is the best."

The community will be welcomed into the Clarkston Professional Plaza, on a non-patient basis, for an open house Munk plans to host sometime this summer.

The attempt by Lake Oakland Woods residents to block an adult foster care home in their subdivision was rewarded in Oakland County Circuit Court last week when Judge Hilda Gage rejected a motion for a summary judgement in the case.

Gage ruled the issue of whether or not the home represents a violation of subdivision deed restrictions must be resolved in trial.

Both parties in the dispute, defendant K-Jan Inc., operators of the home, plaintiffs William Craig, and Diane Kuzak, residents of the subdivision, had asked for a summary judgement.

The suit charges the home violates Lake Oakland Woods deed restrictions which require single family occupants as defined as "one person or a group of two or more persons living together and interrelated by bonds of consanguinity (blood), marriage or legal adoption."

Attorney for Craig and Kuzak, Donald Schuster, claims the deed restrictions are of significantly more specificity than has been the case in other adult foster case home suits. So far no such suit has been upheld in Michigan.

Jon Garret, representing the home, says the deed restrictions are discriminatory and do not take into account "why the people have come together."

The home at 5139 Timberidge Trail off Maybee Road in Independence Township is to be occupied by six or fewer mentally retarded adults. The home was established in January after Circuit Court Judge James Thorburn refused to block occupancy as requested by Independence Township in a suit based on zoning ordinances. Thorburn has not yet, however, made a final ruling in that suit.

Craig said he was pleased after Gage's Wednesday ruling and thought the suit could still be won in trial when attorney Schuster will have an opportunity to present evidence he says will damage the credibility of the foster care home concept.

Craig says affidavits from area representative, Claude Trim D-Springfield, Chairman of the House Mental Health committee, indicate the intention of the legislature in mandating de-institutionalization for the mentally retarded was not to violate deed restrictions.

Jantzen and Walker - In "House Follies"

There is, no doubt, more than one way to build a house. Likewise, there is more than one way not to.

For example...

George and Polly Jantzen signed a mortgage with Standard Federal Savings and Loan of Oakland on May 17, 1979 for the construction of a home on Deer Lake Drive in Clarkston. Three weeks later ground was broken by builders Swanson and Walker. Two years later the Jantzens are living in the home under a temporary occupancy permit.

"One long nightmare" is the way George Jantzen now describes their experience. And it isn't over, even though everyone involved seems to wish it had never begun.

The Jantzens are still waiting for, among other things, a drain in their basement which will be lower than the rest of the floor. And the builder, Frank Walker of Swanson and Walker, is asking himself why he's still going back to a job where he never made any money in the first place.

It would seem that everything that could go wrong, did. Yet not surprisingly whose fault it is depends upon whom you talk to.

George Jantzen dates his misery from the time when, having worked himself for Bob Swanson, he decided to have a house built by Swanson's new partner in the home building business, Frank Walker.

Jantzen says that he had known and liked Walker for 6 or 8 months before he made the decision to use him as a builder. But, lesson number one, he said, "Don't rely on goodwill. Investigate."

Jantzen says he was told his home could be "knocked up in 90 days". And, as his mortgage agreement was for nine months, he thought everything was rosy.

"Ninety days later, I'm still looking at a hole in the ground," says Jantzen.

Frank Walker says the problem was -- money. The mortgage the Jantzen's procured was an end term loan; no funds could be drawn until completion. But apparently that condition was not clearly understood by some of the parties it concerned most.

"When we started neither he (George Jantzen) nor I knew that the money was going to be withheld until completion," says Walker.

That claim is contended by the Jantzens. They say they knew all along what kind of mortgage they had signed and that it can hardly be their fault if the builder didn't.

But they do agree that their problems really started when Swanson and Walker began building a house they couldn't afford to finish.

Walker says it isn't unreasonable for subcontractors to expect to be paid and he was forced to take out a loan of his own to accomplish that end.

Nevertheless, the home was not finished in 90 days. Nor was it finished when the Jantzen's mortgage ran out in February, 1980. They asked for and received an extension from Standard Federal. But this time at .25 percent higher than before.

At the end of the extension the home still wasn't done. Another extension carried them over to June 25. The terms on the second extension were raised two full percentage points. What had been an 11.25 percent mortgage had ballooned into 13.5 percent.

George Jantzen says the two points now cost him $145 per month. "That figures out to more than $30,000 over thirty years," he says.

The Jantzens moved into the house on a temporary occupancy permit after the last

Break In Foiled in Independence

Foot Chase near Pine Knob Nets Suspect

A Mt. Clemens man was in Oakland County jail last week after being arraigned on charges connected to a suspected breaking and entering on Waldon Road in Clarkston last Tuesday.

Police say the man, identified as 27 year old Kenneth Cory of Mt. Clemens, is charged with burglary of an occupied building and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony and is also named on two outstanding warrants in Washtenaw County and in Centerline. Bond was set at $100,000 in 52nd District Court, Rochester.

Cory was arrested on Waldon Road between Pine Knob and Sashabaw Road after police received a call from a resident of the area who had apparently slipped out a bedroom window when the would be burglars kicked in his back door.

According to Sheriff's Detective Kerry Krupsky, the 20 year old Clarkston resident, son of the home's owner, was in a back bedroom typing when the breakin occurred. He left out a window and, on his way next door to phone police, removed the keys from a car in the driveway.

When Krupsky arrived at the scene he found two men in business suits walking down Waldon Road. As he stopped to identify himself they fled in opposite directions.

Krupsky pursued one man and made the arrest. A 3-1/2 hour search of the surrounding area failed to turn up the other alleged burglar.

Krupsky said the Clarkston man, "used extremely good judgement under extenuating circumstance."

Cal Walters Graduates

Springfield township's J. Calvin Walters was among five Oakland township clerks in Oakland County who recently completed a three year university level program designed to improve the service of the clerk's office to the community.

Graduation certificates were handed out to the five clerks by Oakland County Clerk, Lynn D. Allen, at an April 10 ceremony at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center for Continuing Education.

The three year program is part of the Michigan

Municipal Clerks Institute, taught by MSU faculty and state officials, and sponsored by the Michigan Townships Association and the Municipal Clerks Association of Michigan.

The Basics

Army Private Tracy L. Mayo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Mayo Jr. of 6872 Bluegrass, Clarkston, has completed basic training at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

During the training, students receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Pit Bulls Maul Springfield Girl

A seven year old Springfield township girl was recovering in St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Pontiac over the weekend after being severely bitten by two pit bull terriers.

Stacey Secatch, of 8612 West Ellis Road, Davisburg, was playing with a friend, ten-year-old Sandra Sugden, last Tuesday afternoon when she was attacked by the two dogs owned by Willard Turk, 10227 King Road. Turk was out of town at the time.

According to Steven Secatch, Stacey's father, the girls were playing in the neighborhood with several other children and the dogs, which were in Turk's fenced back yard, became excited.

The girls apparently entered the yard to quiet the dogs and for some reason Stacey was attacked.

Secatch said that when he arrived his daughter was lying face down on the ground and that both dogs were after her. Sugden was also bitten as she tried to shield her friend with her own body.

Secatch entered the yard, pulled the dogs off and handed Stacey over the fence to a neighbor. He followed and was running back to his own home with the girl when one of the enraged dogs jumped the fence and again attacked. He warded the dog off a second time while his son came out and carried Stacey to safety.

Both Secatches were transported by Riverside ambulance to the hospital and treated. Stacey had over fifty bites on her legs, back, and stomach. She was in surgery for seven hours, according to her father.

Steve Secatch was treated for his injuries and released. Sandra Sugden was also treated for bites.

The dogs have been quarantined at Springfield Township Veterinary Hospital for ten days of observation. Secatch has sought a court order to have them destroyed.

He said he had been unaware of the pit bulls existence before the incident.

Stacey Secatch was expected to be released from the hospital early this week.

House Follies

extension ran out. Some of the unfinished work was in violation of township building codes and permanent occupancy cannot be granted until they are completed.

The Jantzens initiated a suit which named Walker as liable for the completion of the home, but gave it up when their attorney told them they wouldn't be able to get anything anyway. That cost another $3,000.

They also contacted the township's building department and filed a grievance against the builder, which led early this month to a hearing in front of the State's Department of Licensing and Regulation.

Walker now has until May 15 to complete the house or be in jeopardy of losing his building license.

The Jantzens are bitter. And so too is Walker.

For one thing, Swanson and Walker has gone into bankruptcy and even though the completed work will bring $2,000 (representing the repayment of interest on Walker's loans) he says he'll never see a penny of it because it has to go to the bankruptcy referee.

"I've got other work that's paying me money," he says. "Whatever I do for the Jantzens is going to come out of my pocket."

Nevertheless, he says he's going to do it. And maybe that will be the end of it. Ironically, the Jantzens like their house; they just wish it was finished.

But George Jantzen readily admits he would have done some things, maybe most things, differently if he was starting over.

Like taking the advice of their lawyer, who signed his last correspondence with "the belated lesson to be learned from this is that the important time to consult an attorney in a real estate transaction is before the papers are signed."

Flath Wins Honors in Photography

Barbara Flath of Ortonville and co-owner of The Village Photographer, 385 Mill Street, Ortonville, was awarded Michigan's highest award for photographic color artists at the annual Professional Photographers Convention in Traverse City April 3-7 this year.

A photographic color artist works on direct color photographs to make corrections and enhance them and hand colors black and white photographs to add color to them. Hand coloring of photographs has been a dying art since the advent of natural color photographs because photographs already had color. But hand coloring is becoming more and more popular because of its lasting quality and it is used widely in the restoration of old photographs.

Also entering in the competition from Ortonville was Donna Goodman of Duck Creek Lane.

Why Suffer Needlessly? CLINIC OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

Many have been told, "Your trouble is nerves, just nerves, that's all." Nerves are too important to the body to be dismissed so easily. Nerves make possible all movements, nerves transmit all sensations to the brain. Nerves make possible sight, smell, taste and hearing. Nerves control blood pressure, stomach action, blood flow, speech and breathing. Nerves make the bowels move. Nerves make it possible to swallow. In fact, all functions taking place in the body are under the control and coordination of the nervous system, and when any of the 11 Danger Signals listed begin to appear in your body it is usually the forerunner of a serious condition. Tension or "pinching" of spinal nerves robs your body of vital energy, thus causing the 11 Danger Signals to appear, which in time, if not corrected, is the underlying cause of disease.

Falls, stresses, strains, sprains, slipping, scooping, stooping, shaking, jolts, jars, tension, poor posture, tugging, stretching, twisting, turning, pushing, jumping, sudden impacts, lifting, bouncing, blows, athletic injuries, exertion, stumbling, and bouncing up and down on tractor seats all day long can produce spinal pressure and tension on sensitive, delicate nerves. These nervous system short circuits slow down normal nerve energy flow, and rob your vital organs of their proper controlling force.

Regardless of the health problem you or any member of your family may have, it is entirely possible that your family chiropractor can replace despair and sorrow with glowing health and happiness. Spinal pressure and tension on sensitive, delicate nerves may cause many diseases. (See list above)
