Springfield Youth Killed

Fifteen-Hour Search Ends in Frustration

A massive search by Springfield Township firemen, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and dozens of volunteers ended in futility Saturday when the body of Clarkston Junior High student, Anthony Brown, 13, was found near Andersonville and Edgar Roads. Brown had been riding his motorcycle Friday evening. Police speculate he died from injuries suffered when the bike flipped.

A thirteen-year-old Springfield Township youth died last weekend, the apparent victim of a motorcycle mishap.

Anthony Brown, of 8317 Englewood, was found Saturday near the intersection of Andersonville and Edgar Roads almost fifteen hours after he was reported missing. Brown had been the subject of a massive search by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, township firefighters, and Detroit Police helicopters.

The Oakland County Medical Examiner's office had not filed an autopsy report by Monday, but a spokesman said the young man died from head injuries and "trauma" suffered in the accident.

Lieutenant Jack Kratt of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said Brown was apparently riding the bike through a drainage ditch when it flipped and fell over on top of him. The death was listed as accidental pending the outcome of the autopsy report.

Brown, a eighth grader at Clarkston Junior High School, was reported missing by his mother, Dorothy, and stepfather, Carl Salee, at 8:30 p.m. Friday. He had gone out for a ride on the motorcycle at 5:30 p.m. and had been expected back by 7.

By 9:30 p.m. a full contingent of volunteer firemen and sheriff's deputies was in action, combing the wooded and hilly countryside in the area of the Colombiere Center, where the boy was believed to have gone. At 1 a.m., Saturday, they were joined by a police helicopter.

The search broke off in the early morning, then continued until 11:30 a.m. when two other youngsters found the body by a power station off Andersonville Road.

Brown was pronounced dead at the scene. Police speculated the accident took place Friday evening.

According to Bud McGrath, a counselor at CJHS, Brown would be missed by his classmates.

"I've lost some kids in my time," he said. "But this one really bothered me. He was kind of wild sometimes, but he was a good one."

Services were scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Lake Orion.

Dental Dialogue

by Gary R. Ushman, D.D.S.

Q. What is a crown?

A. Crowns are used to restore teeth that are badly broken down and can no longer support a filling, or when a support is needed for fixed bridgework. In some cases crowns, sometimes called "caps", are used to cosmetically restore the appearance of teeth. Crowns can be made of plastic or porcelain and may or may not have to have a metal base. The dentist prepares the natural tooth for the crown by shaping it into the form of a peg. A temporary crown is worn while the final product is being made. Finally the finished product is permanently cemented over the stub of the natural tooth.

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of Dr. Gary R. Ushman, 55 S. Main St., Clarkston, Michigan 48016. Phone 625-2066.

WHEN DOES MOURNING END?

Grief and mourning at the death of a loved one are natural emotions. Both are healthy and serve to heal the bereaved as well as to remember and honor the deceased.

In some cases, though, protracted period of mourning can signal a continuing depression. Some people may continue to mourn as a denial of death, by creating living memorials to the person who died. For others, long mourning is a sign of extreme dependence on the deceased. They have lost a sense of their own separate identity and they will or may need some extra support and guidance from medical or religious sources.

It is important to feel deeply the loss of a loved one. It is just as vital to accept it. The process of mourning helps us to remember the life of the person who died, as well as reaffirming the value of our own lives.

If you would like more information on the mourning process, please stop by to talk with us.

Neighboring residents in the vicinity of this burned out barn on White Lake Road have filed complaints with the township.

Laid-Off Hock Unable to Clear-Up Loose Ends

by Dawson Bell

Independence Township ordinance enforcement officer, James Hock, checked out last Wednesday, on indefinite layoff as the building department tries to stay within budgetary constraints established by the township board.

With Hock's departure the township is left without any policing agent to act on ordinance violations. Building and Planning Director, Ken Delbridge, is expected to fill the post on an interim basis, although how much time he will be able to devote to the task is open to conjecture.

"You can be sure all the people I've sent notices (of violation) to will be laughing it up now," said the now deposed Hock.

One measure he did take prior to departure, however, was the composition of a list of outstanding and unresolved violations. The list was submitted to Delbridge.

interest, even if not likely to become the object of much action.

One, a burned out but undemolished barn on White Lake Road, is further complicated by a vacancy in the township's condemnation office.

Hock said he had been under pressure from neighboring residents to the barn, who claimed it was a public hazard in its present state, but that he was hampered by the absence of condemnation authority.

The other, an unlicensed "landfill" in operation at the Pine Knob Resort, was equally troublesome.

The landfill, which covers less than an acre on the northeast corner of the resort along Pine Knob Road, had been closed earlier this summer after Hock contacted Pine Knob owner, Gary Francell.

He said at that time the township was not likely to vigorously pursue the violation because much of the debris buried there was from an old farmhouse the township had pressured Francell and his partner, Joseph Locicchio, to tear down.

Hock said then, "If we got after them, we'd have to prosecute every builder in the township; they all bury waste building material."

After a letter to Francell in mid-August, the site had been bulldozed over and, Hock thought, permanently closed.

In recent weeks, however, it has been in operation again.

Land in Litigation

Board to Reconsider Park Property

A decision to purchase 14 acres off Maybee Road for a new Independence Township park was scheduled for reconsideration at Tuesday night's meeting of the township board.

The park purchase was returned to the agenda following revelations last week that the land developers with whom the township had been negotiating, Leo Sklar and Manny Ravet, did not hold clear title to the property.

The board had approved the acquisition and authorized treasurer Fred Ritter to submit a purchase agreement to Ravet and Sklar on August 4. That agreement has not been signed, however.

Ritter said last Friday that he still considered the proposed park site a good one and that he expected the offer to be accepted by whichever of the litigants (in the title dispute) ends up in a position to sell.

"The way I look at it is when the smoke clears our offer will still be there," he said.

The township's offer to purchase the land for $126,000 is based on two independent appraisals of its value.

Ritter also confirmed that township attorney, Richard Campbell, had known about a foreclosure suit that had been started against Ravet, Sklar and a third partner, Ida Warshaw, before the board authorized the purchase agreement.

The property had, in fact, been foreclosed two months before the board made its latest offer. Ravet, Sklar and Warshaw have until December 5 to redeem it. They have been unable to do so thus far because of internal disagreements about the property's disposition.

Township clerk Chris Rose also said he thought the acquisition would go through as planned. "Looking back on it I would like to have been told (the title was at issue). But I don't think it changes anything," he said.

Rose said he had been warned by Campbell to avoid making a hasty judgement which might embroil the township in the legal quarrel between Warshaw and Ravet and Sklar.

Another land developer, township resident Michael Clark, was expected to ask the board to drop the negotiations on Maybee Road altogether and consider the acquisition instead of 16 acres he holds on Pine Knob Road adjacent to Sashabaw Junior High School.

1st Class Increases Don't Make Sense

There will be a lot of grumbling, no doubt, in the coming months over last Wednesday's decision by the U.S. Postal Service Board of Governors to institute raises in the postal rate structure.

It was the second such action in the last seven months and the seventh increase in first class rates in the past thirteen years. Mailing Christmas cards in 1981 will cost more than three times what it did in 1968.

The action is regrettable for a number of reasons, chief among them is its indication of the continuing de-emphasis on the traditional role of a government operated post office -- that of providing an essential service, at a moderate cost, to its citizens.

Postal authorities, despite internal bickering over exactly how necessary, have argued that some increase was necessary to offset rising deficits in the system.

Those arguments are to be credited to a degree; inflation is hurting everyone.

But the premises are questionable.

At the same time the postal board implemented March increases in first and second class, they actually lowered the rates for a certain variety of third class bulk mailing. Since March, much of the mail that regularly fills ones box with inducements to buy this or join that has been traveling at a rate below what it had previously.

The justification for the move was propounded as "good business." The service, it was claimed, can move this kind of mail relatively easily because it is sorted to the order in which carriers deliver. And lowering the cost of mass mailings would induce more of those mailings and result in higher revenues for the service.

When much of the highly touted deficit the postal service is experiencing is a direct result of an astronomical increase in the volume of mail it handles, the subsequent requirement for more sophisticated mail handling equipment, the wisdom of attracting more volume is questionable at best.

Especially when it is possible to contend that even as the postal service practices "good business", private industry (except for the government monopoly on the mailbox) could do it better.

The increased emphasis on bulk mailing is unfortunate, too, because it comes at the expense of the first and second class categories, the mail privileges that are most important to a free and informed society.

Increases in those categories, which carry personal mail, newspapers and periodicals, have been based on a desire to make them more self-sufficient.

Although the attempt to ascertain the specific level of subsidy in the various categories is often ludicrous, there is little question that second class, at least, does not pay for itself.

What is alarming, however, is the suggestion that it should.

Attempts to guard against subsidies in first class mail (which until recently did pay for itself) should also be watched closely, even more when they are tied to attempts to increase the service's patronage from junk mailers.

Former Postmaster General, James A. Farley, once said:

"Reasonable economy is, of course, necessary in efficient management but it should always take second place to the requirements of service."

In other words, if we are to suffer a subsidy (which seems inevitable as long as the government runs the system at all) let it be for something of value, not for a dozen pieces a day addressed to RESIDENT.

Editor:

Recently there appeared in the editorial column of The Spinal Column a statement with regard to my decision as to whether I would switch parties and that that decision should be made in the near future.

My first comment is that in my seven years in public office at the state level, I have never felt that I have been one to play party politics and I have many times felt that I was perhaps more of an independent. I believe my voting record would speak to this.

As I met with people this summer across my district, it was evident without doubt that people are completely turned off on party politics and feel that, in many instances, it has been the determining factor when, in fact, people issues and people concerns should be the major factor.

I would like to make the following observations:

1. My voting record will sustain my philosophy;

2. There have been times when I have even gone against procedural motions by my party because I felt that the result of those procedural motions would be against the wishes of the majority of the people in my district.

3. District lines still have not been resolved. Only the preliminary districts have been laid out.

4. Last, but most important, I feel that whichever party I am affiliated with, my main thrust would be, not which party it is, but through which party can I best serve my people.

I feel that in view of the volume of important bills we are presently dealing with and which my involvement in matters of crucial status for the people of my district, it is too premature to be considering a decision. But I want to give the assurance that at the earliest possible time, a decision will be made. I would hope that this would resolve any speculation at this time.

Dear Editor:

Will rates really go down?
Substantially, this Realtor doesn't think so.

The sooner we accept this possible fact the better off we're all going to be. We can usually predict the future by what has happened in the past.

I remember sitting in a sales meeting nearly 16 years ago when the sales manager announced interest rates are going from 6 to 7 percent effective tomorrow. You could have heard a pin drop! Some didn't think we would ever sell a house again. I was new in the business and didn't let it bother me, probably out of ignorance of the interest rates, and I kept right on selling.

It usually takes time for we Brokers and Salespersons to believe in interest rates so that we can convince buyers to do the same.
Don't wait any longer. Get out there and believe in those rates!

Everything else has gone up. Let the lending institutions make their profit, too. Don't fight them. Help them be successful so we and buyers and sellers can be successful.
Don't wait for it to get better, let's change our attitudes and make it better.

Very truly yours,
Tom Selhost G.R.I.
President

Dear Editor:

The Board of the Clarkston Community
Historical Society, on behalf of its members, would like to thank all those who contributed to the success of the Seventh Annual Crafts and Cider Festival: the craftsmen and civic groups who participated; the Village of Clarkston, the Lakeview Cemetery crew; and especially, all the businesses who sponsored our ads.

Profits from this year's festival will be used for the Society's projects and programs, as well as adding to a fund to establish a Local History Room in the Township Library.

Sincerely,
Susan Basinger, President

mike morrow's trivia

If I had to choose between having a kid and a pet, believe me, I'd pick the pet so fast your head would spin.

People are appalled when they hear this but it's true. They say to me pets can't give you what a kid can. I agree. I have never had a pet give me strep throat, the flu, or a cold.

A good thing about pets is that they are quiet. They don't run around telling the neighbor's your embarrassing secrets like "we got to go shopping today while the bug men came in and sprayed our house." Of course the pets probably brought the bugs in but at least they kept quiet about it.

Pets are a lot friendlier than kids too. I've been bitten by more kids in my lifetime than animals and I've never had a pet tell me he hates me because I refused to give him a candy bar, yet with kids that's the standard operating procedure. If they don't get what they want they turn into little Atila the Huns.

If you don't believe me just go walk around a K-Mart for a while.

I also think pets are neater than kids.
While I do have to admit that dogs like to paw through your garbage, kids do too. At least when a dog goes through the garbage it has the good sense to eat it. A kid just throws it all over the house and yard.

Speaking of messes, let's talk about kids'
table manners. No matter the age of the kid, they're all messy eaters. This isn't true of pets. Two minutes after putting a dog's plate on the floor, everything will be licked clean including half of the floor around the plate.

I guess I really shouldn't be so hard on kids, after all they are just a reflection of their parents, and that more than any other reason is why I'd rather have a pet.

Levy Meets with CREW, Grants Concessions

by Dawson Bell

The Edward C. Levy Company has drawn up an alternative to its controversial gravel mining proposal for Independence Township, but it remains to be seen whether concessions the company seems willing to make will be acceptable to either the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) or are opponents of the project.

The DNR has held up making a decision on the original proposal, a decision that would almost certainly be negative according to DNR officials, while the company tries to come to terms with some of its opponents.

Following a meeting on August 26 between Levy officers and representatives from the Clinton River Environmental Workers (CREW), the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, and the East Michigan Environmental Action Council the company submitted a revised plan for the mining. According to CREW member and Clarkston resident, David Endrezsl, several major points were addressed:

- The company agreed to give up mining on 23 of 383 acres originally slated for development. Twenty-one of those acres surround the previously proposed site for the mine's crushing and screening plant and were not considered acutely sensitive environmentally. The company also offered to remove 2 acres of sensitive wetlands from the proposed mining area.

- The Levy Company also introduced a proposal to create a 9-acre lake in the southwest corner of its property as a public access site from Independence Township's Clintonwood Park.

- Another gesture of conciliation to objections raised over the potential loss of extensive wetlands at the headwaters of the Clinton River was an offer to create, after mining, a man-made wetland area of 19 acres on the site.

- The company attempted to mitigate concerns on the overall affect of mining on water levels and water purity in the river, too, by suggesting a deep well replenishment at times of low flow.

No reply has been formulated to the new Levy proposal by the conservation groups and it has not yet been submitted officially to the DNR.

Endrezsl said some of the other groups and governmental units (including Independence Township) which had expressed opposition to the mining plan at the public hearing held in January before a formal position on the changes was taken. He said additional research on some of the company's claims might also be necessary.

Another member of CREW, Janet McCord of Clarkston, said, "I think that it's obvious (the Levy Company) realizes they have some problems (in getting the plan approved). But it's also obvious they are going to keep trying to put it through."

Brad Wilkins of the DNR said Monday the department would not take any action until either side in the dispute indicated the local discussions were at an end.

He refused to comment on the mitigated proposal, but did say that "significant changes" might require review at another public hearing and that, in any case, no approval would be forthcoming without an environmental impact statement.

Jakus Attends Hawaii Congress

Claudia Jakus of Clarkston Travel Bureau attended the 51st World Congress of the American Society of Travel Agents held in Honolulu, Hawaii September 6-11.

It is an annual convention held all over the world for the purpose of keeping agents abreast of what is happening in the industry and providing educational seminars.

The keynote speaker was former President Gerald R. Ford along with other speakers from all phases of the travel industry.

Another Balloon Found

The Independence Township Library Summer Reading Club had a balloon launch on June 17. Within two weeks, letters came that balloons had been found in East Detroit and Ridgeway, Ontario. The last day of September a call came from Ontario, Canada that the Peter Anderson family had located a balloon caught in a tree, between Ridgeway and Lake Erie. Still legible on the slip that was tied to the balloon was the name of Diane Fugitt, one of the Reading Club members.

Friends of the Library are busy collecting books for the forthcoming annual fall book sale. There is still time to drop off good used paperbacks at the Independence Township Library. Dates for this event are October 19, 20 and 21.

Local Psychic Predicts Milliken Will Not Run, Casino Gambling Will Win

Shirley Lynch, local psychic, made a peck of predictions Thursday evening in her presentation to the Clarkston Schools' adult education "Something Different" series.

One, that the Detroit Tigers wouldn't win a pennant this year, should be at least partially verifiable by now.

Most of the others, however, will have to wait.

Among them--

•Incumbent Governor William Milliken will not run for re-election in 1982.

•Casino gambling will be approved for the city of Detroit. But it will be one of the "cleanest" places to live in the area because of a get-tough police policy.

•Poland should be safe from Soviet invasion for the next ten years unless they "try to cut the ties totally."

•Children who are in grade school now will not have the opportunity to own their own homes; housing will be available on a lease basis only.

•The future of the year 2000 and beyond will generally be "a whole different world. You're going to wonder, 'Where did my freedom go?'"

•The General Motors Orion assembly plant will be good for area employment. (She didn't exactly go out on a limb with that one).

•Drug usage will become less of a problem.

•The nation will undergo a period of extensive natural disaster. California and the east coast will be the areas of most intense activity in this category, with the possible physical loss of both.

Remarkably, Mrs. Lynch predicts that none of the foregoing will have a detrimental effect on the quality of life.

"There's going to be a lot of upheaval, and you're not going to like it," she says. "It's going to be a change but it's not going to be that unpleasant."

Human relations will actually improve, according to Mrs. Lynch. The family will develop a more relaxed, accepting attitude with "each (member)...a human being with a purpose of their own."

The threat of world conflict, while still a concern at least through the 1990's, will too lessen as the global community develops.

Mrs. Lynch predicts a continuation of the trend towards internationalization, including the increasing acquisition of U.S. properties by foreign interests.

"The more foreign companies own in the United States the safer we'll be," she says. "They don't want damaged goods."

On the personal level, Mrs. Lynch counseled her audience to "pay attention to your intuitive ability, and develop it as much as you can."

"Don't let ego get in the way...but beyond that--if you follow (the intuitive sense) you won't have to worry about your future."

Not that cultivation of the intuitive sense will insure safety. Mrs. Lynch provides private instruction in psychic development, by she says knowing one's appointed time is near will do nothing to prevent it.

Rather, an increased awareness of the psychic world will allow one to go with relative peace of mind.

No matter at any rate. Another of the principles Mrs. Lynch propounds is reincarnation (or something like it). And one botched life leads irrevocably to the next.

"This world...your life...is a classroom. And you're in this world to learn a particular lesson...But you've got to learn it."

After the broad brush question and answer session, Mrs. Lynch moved onto the individual level, fielding inquiries about sisters and sons, job prospects and love interest.

And, if anything, Shirley Lynch is even more at home with individual lives past and present than she is with world politics.

Members of the audience, whom one assumes she had never met, had only to say, "Am I going to get a job here or do I have to move?"

And Mrs. Lynch, without a moment's hesitation, responds (as if she were reading from some inner encyclopedia), "You could get a job in Texas, but I think you can find it here...in Birmingham." (She didn't name the firm; that would be asking too much and would likely lead to complications if the man wasn't hired).

Another woman asks if she will move out of state. (There was a lot unhappiness with Michigan expressed last Thursday).

The answer--No, but "you're lucky in Bingo or cards...and a man is coming into your life."

Two young women ask a completely unrelated question and find out that they are going out to get an ice cream after they leave the high school. They later said it was true, "We were talking about it in the car on the way here."

After everyone had found out everything they wanted to know, which suprisingly wasn't all that much, Mrs. Lynch gathered her things (no crystal ball among them) and left with these words--"You too could predict your future; you just have to pay attention to yourself."

Too bad for the Tigers.

Independence Township Firefighters responded to this single car accident Sunday night on Waldon Road. The driver of the car, Clark Sparks, 20, of Waterford, and a passenger, David Allen Newman, 17, were taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after their car rolled over and struck a tree. According to police reports, Sparks was arrested for drunk driving.

Safety is All CHS Gridders Can Muster in Homecoming Loss

by Ron Wagner

Clarkston's gridders were still having trouble getting things together as they dropped a tough one to West Bloomfield Friday 6-2.

Junior Kevin Brown played well in his first start at quarterback, but just couldn't generate any serious Clarkston drives.

The defense was awesome with numerous sacks and crunching tackles. One Clarkston assistant noted, "That was our most physical game yet."

The Wolves put the opening kickoff into the endzone allowing no return. The two teams traded punts for a while and Clarkston was intercepted on a weak pass, intended for a wide open Rich Schrader.

Tim Brennan ran for the Wolves' only first down of the quarter, just before it ended. After three more plays, Clarkston was forced to punt. They were thwarted in a fake punt attempt and gave the Lakers the ball on the West Bloomfield 45 yard line.

Hit with a sack, West Bloomfield had to punt, but a fumble gave Bloomfield the ball again on the Clarkston 8. On second down and four from the 4 yard line, the Lakers drew first blood with a touchdown at 9:05 in the second quarter.

The two teams each punted once and then each threw an interception. Steve Nichols picked off the pass for the Wolves. The half ended with the score 6-0.

Bloomfield kicked off to start the second half. Clarkston had to punt and Mike Stefanski showed off his talent. He put the ball out of bounds on the West Bloomfield two yard line.

From there, Dave Fulcher roared into the backfield for a sack that resulted in a two-point safety for the Wolves.

That was all the scoring on the night.

The Laker's following free kick sparked an unbelievable controversy. The kick was high and short and a West Bloomfield player caught it before it bounced. He was then tackled by the Wolves.

Both coaches took turns arguing their cases, with the referee indicating possession for one team, then the other. Coach Walt Wyniemko must have done the best as the Wolves were finally awarded the ball.

Punts were exchanged to end the quarter and after one of Clarkston's, West Bloomfield started towards the goal line again.

They completed a 30-yard pass to the 8 yard line. Here, the defense really shone as they held the line and kept the Lakers from scoring.

More punting and an incomplete fourth down pass with forty seconds left finished the game for Clarkston. Final score: West Bloomfield - 6, Clarkston - 2.

Becky Craig's girls had a little trouble with Brandon Monday. In what should have been an easy win for Clarkston, Brandon's coach used the stacking technique to make a close 4-3 score in favor of Clarkston. The scores were: Mary Smith (C) def. Tracy Watson 6-0, 6-0; Jennifer Ilg (B) def. Jenny Kithil 6-2, 6-1; Sue Spain (C) def. Kelly Harper 1-6, 7-6, 6-3; Shelly Van Keuren (C) def. JV Wins, 13-8

The J.V. pulled off a 13-8 win in the unplanned Clarkston Homecoming double-header. Originally scheduled to play at West Bloomfield on Thursday, the game was cancelled by the weather and reset for Clarkston on Friday afternoon.

Dan Harken scored the only points of the first half to put the Wolves up 6-0.

After the Lakers kicked off to start the second half, Clarkston drove to a Dave NewBlatt touchdown. Mike Harbaugh kicked the extra point to make the score 13-0. A short punt by Clarkston set up the West Bloomfield touchdown and two point conversion.

Harriers Lose Two

Both cross country teams lost to Rochester, the first place team in the G.O.A.L. last Tuesday. The girls score was 25-31. Sheri Rowland came in first in the 5,000 meter run with a time of 20:03 and Pam Stoecklin came in fourth at 21:22.

The boys were less fortunate, losing 18-44. Paul Burch ran a good race, finishing third with a time of 17:25.

Saturday, the team traveled to the Oakland County meet where the boys finished 18th out of 30 and the girls finished tenth out of 27 teams. Sheri Rowland was Clarkston's star as she ran to a third place overall at 19:55.

Lanette Whitehead battles on the boards.

B-Ballers Lose at Buzzer

The Girls Basketball team had a tough week as they lost close games at the buzzer to two Waterford schools.

Tuesday's (40-42) loss to Township came as the result of a bucket with 2 seconds in the game. Tracee Antos scored 12 points, Lanette Whitehead had 11, and Michelle Ulasich had 10. Annette Ulasich had 11 rebounds.

Against Kettering on Thursday, the score was 40-41. Whitehead had a field day with 20 points and 14 rebounds.

SCA Continues to Roll in Soccer

Springfield Christian's prep soccer team continued to roll last week, downing Orchard Lake St. Mary in a scrimmage Friday at the Colombiere Center.

Junior Rod Phillips scored a hat-trick plus one as he led undefeated Springfield Christian Academy to victory. Pat Clarno scored the other goal.

Ken McCluskey also turned in another fine performance in front of the net with 13 saves, including one on a penalty kick.

Springfield is now 5-0 on the year.

The Academy's junior varsity dropped a close 2-1 game to the John R Rice Baptist School varsity in the preliminary game.

Springfield Christian travels to Dayton, Tennessee, this week for a National Association of Christian Athletics tournament. The team leaves Wednesday and will play games through Saturday at the invitation only tournament.

SCA was rated 9th among small Christian schools nationally last year, and the tournament provides them a rare opportunity to prove themselves against other soccer powers.

Piazza Leads Golfers to Two Victories

The golfers ended up 5-4 after last week's matches. They lost an away match at Mott on Tuesday. Mark Piazza was the team medalist.

In Wednesday's win over Royal Oak Dondero, 165-178, and Friday's victory over Lakeland, 167-187, (both at home) Piazza shared his match medal with Enzo Duva and then Dan Gaulin. Also scoring for Clarkston was Eric Tiahart.
