Whipple Residents Protest Ditch

The 3-foot drainage ditch along Sashabaw Road that angry residents are calling a public safety hazard. The Oakland County Road Commission contends the creation of the ditch is a normal maintenance decision as a result of cars swerving to miss water and going off the road.

"Biggest Drunk's" Return to Sobriety Made Possible by Insight

by Kathy Rush

"I was the biggest drunk at the shop at one time," Larry declared, exhaling a long string of smoke from his cigarette.

"For the past twelve years, I've been working at the Ford plant in Mt. Clemens, a 45-minute drive from my home. There were so many times," remembers Larry, "that I would get home and not have the slightest idea how I got there. In fact, one time I made it home in 25 minutes...to this day I still don't know how.

Blackouts like this and an increased intake of liquor are a couple of the most prevalent warning signs of alcoholism.

Today, thanks to Insight, Larry is a pretty average kind of guy. Works at the shop, married for ten years, six kids, two cats, a Seven Whipple Lake residents have filed a petition with the Oakland County Road Commission protesting a 3-foot deep drainage ditch dug in front of their yards the first week of this month. The petition states that a ditch would "be a very dangerous public safety hazard for cars that have had a tendency to veer off the curve of our road." The ditch would also be a danger to school children who have to walk the length of the 550 foot ditch to the bus stop on the narrow shoulder of the road, exposed to 50 MPH traffic.

Fred Houghton, Chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission explained that the ditch digging was a normal maintenance decision because of water on the road. "Our records indicate people swerving to miss water and going off the road."

Residents are baffled by this decision. Treat March, 9412 Sashabaw, has lived in his home for ten years and has only seen water on the road one time and he felt that was because of ice.

Martin Bakken, 9370 Sashabaw, the backbone of the petition drive, attributes cars running off the road to "people driving who are tired or intoxicated and not to water on the road."

Keeping mailboxes has been a problem for several of the families as cars veering off the road have knocked mailboxes down on numerous occasions. Now it is feared if cars run off the road they will face the possibility of turning over in the ditch.

Residents feel that the "supposed drainage problem could have been solved by putting in a tile drainage field for the same cost of less, or by raising the culverts under the driveways."

"Twenty years ago ditches were dug along the side of roads for drainage," Bakken said. "Now there are residents on the road and three times as much traffic."

On Monday, the Road Commission staff will present their recommendation to the Road Commission based on their investigation of the problem; normal procedure dog, and a home in Pontiac Township.

Insight, for the unaware, is a residential and aftercare program located at Colombiere Center in Clarkston which has a primary goal of teaching people to understand and deal effectively with alcoholism.

In Larry's case, he began drinking heavily approximately sixteen years ago, gradually increasing his intake just to get himself through each day.

"It began with beers after work with the boys. Then I was drinking a pint of rum every day during lunch."

"It got to the point where I would buy a bottle of Coke and pour a fifth of rum or whiskey into it and walk into work and nobody knew the difference." Also there were always the six to eight beers after work and always the bottle under the seat of the car.

The amount of liquor increased for Larry while the quality decreased. He no longer cared what he drank just as long as the shaking subsided.

Then the violent spells began. On one occasion Larry tried to wash the dishes in the trash compactor. "I was so mad I threw the Kirby downstairs and the TV across the room. I literally wrecked the house."

This is the straw that broke the camel's back. Maria, his wife, relates, "I became very scared when he started to get violent. The children and myself were so afraid to rock the boat...it was like living with Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

In desperation, Maria took the children and left for several days, then, realizing this would not solve the problem, called Al-Anon (a support group for the families of alcoholics).

They taught her to face the situation of Larry's alcoholism, ways of inducing him to seek help, to stop blaming herself, and how to attain peace of mind while living with an alcoholic.

"Al-Anon teaches the concept that you can find happiness and still live with someone who is drinking excessively," related Maria.

"My friends and co-workers," said Larry, "had been expressing their concern and telling me that I did have a problem but I would not accept it. That is, until about two years ago. I looked for about a year for a treatment center that would help me. Then my neighbor's father told me about Insight at Colombiere, a program he had already been through."

Larry went through the 28-day treatment program at Insight in October, 1980 and has just celebrated his 13th month of complete sobriety.

Insight's residential program specializes in short-term, intensive treatment through structured therapy and aftercare programs -- including Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon family groups.

"Insight dug things out of me that I never realized before like the Love/hate relationship I have with my father, how much I drank in my second marriage and between marriages plus the good relationship I've had at home for the past ten years but never realized."

Another aspect of the Insight program is to help the alcoholic to develop activities and hobbies to replace the time previously occupied with drinking. Now Larry says, "I fill my time by reading, especially during breaks at the shop."

Maria says, "Just prior to the time my husband discovered Insight, I realized I had no control over him. I kept thinking if he wants to help himself, he will."

Larry quickly intervened, "Being able to stop drinking is not simply willpower alone. You must have the support and also become completely involved with licking the problem for this kind of complaint. Bakken plans to attend the meeting. "I want to make it clear that I want to work with the road commission on the problem...I always believe in negotiating."

The residents were given no notice of the ditch digging; several came home from work to find a ditch in front of their homes. They are angry. They want to see the ditch filled in, and have the drainage problem solved another way.

The seven families affected by the ditch have worked hard to maintain well-kept yards, putting in sod up to the edge of the road and keeping it cut and fertilized. Not only will the drainage ditch be an eyesore but it will become overgrown with weeds and will draw insects in warmer weather, they say.

Prior to the ditch, rain water and snow was no problem as the front lawns sloped down to meet the side of the road, providing an even drainage. "Rain and snow will now stand in the ditch, whereas before there was no standing water," says Thelma Ball, of 9350 Sashabaw. "It is really sad that they spent their time and money on this."

Residents fear for their children walking to school and riding their bikes on the narrow shoulder of the road. Residents are also concerned about serious accidents as a result of the kitchen.

States the petition: "This is certainly a case of curing a minor problem by creating a major disaster."

-- it's a really lifelong process."

Both Larry and Maria agree that the communication in their marriage was one of the first things to diminish when the drinking became an obsession for Larry.

Maria says, "I did not realize how much I was tuning him out because I was unable to distinguish between Larry talking and the alcohol talking. The Insight Al-Anon meetings helped me to understand this."

Even today, said Larry, "Our communication is still not down pat, but believe me," as he gently squeezed his wife's hand that had been resting in his, "we're getting better everyday."

"I know Insight is very good and I'm proof that it works. Whenever the occasion arises I always recommend it."

HOW DO I MAKE FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS?

Planning a funeral is among the most individual of arrangements you will ever make. No funeral services are exactly the same, or should be; each ceremony reflects the character and life of the person it honors.

One way to be sure those arrangements will be carefully considered is to make them in advance. This practice, called Pre-Planning, spares your family from making difficult decisions under stressful conditions. When you meet with us to Pre-Plan a funeral, all decisions are made in a quiet, unhurried atmosphere. We devote our full attention to your needs.

You, and your family if you wish, merely sit down with us and decide all the details of funeral services in advance, so these decisions won't have to be made hastily. We record your wishes, and you keep a copy in a safe place. That's all there is to it.

We are here to offer our expertise and advice on these very personal matters. If you would like to talk with us about Pre-Planning, or about any other aspect of funeral service, please stop by.

Pine Knob Manor Approval Delayed

by Carol Balzarini

A decision on tentative preliminary plat approval for Pine Knob Manor East has been put off for another two weeks in an attempt to work out some remaining questions on the proposed plat. Before December 2, the township planner and building department and Borg Warner, the developers, will attempt to resolve problems with the 60 lot, 43 acre development located just off Waldon Road.

One question was raised at the November 17 meeting of the township board about a parcel of land on Waldon Road itself zoned R-1R but seemingly of less acreage than the required three acres for the classification. Planner Richard Carlisle also pointed out that some information had not been provided by the developers in accordance with the township ordinance. Another question was raised about a letter of intent describing gradient plans, how the planned development would fit into the property. There was concern about whether or not certain areas are buildable.

The road layout, done to Oakland County Road Commission specifications, raised some questions in the planner's mind about curves and slopes. In addition, some of the lots are in close proximity to an existing private road raising the possibility of double frontage lots which are not allowed under township ordinance.

The planner also questioned the present condition of Waldon Road and what effect, if any, the proposed development could have on it. Also utilities were not noted on the plat.

Prior to the board meeting, Borg Warner had responded that easements were noted where they could be appropriately, that land grading would be kept to a minimum with contour lines shown, that road grading would be done to county standards but changes had been made in road curves, and that the county and township would have to make the decisions on the condition of Waldon Road.

Supervisor James Smith also questioned the non-conforming lot saying its size was difficult to assess because there were no dimensions on the plat. He was also concerned with possible double frontage lots.

He reminded the developers the township had gone to great lengths to preserve its natural beauty in a variety of ways but it appeared to him there had been "some pretty violent disruption" in the proposed plat contrary to township standards.

Joseph Galvin, attorney for Borg Warner, explained that the original plat did not contain the odd lot, that it was purchased at the request of the planning commission and added to the plat. That same commission, he said, had also suggested the double frontage lots. "The planning commission brought us to this present configuration," Galvin concluded.

He went on to explain his clients had complied with every township suggestion whether required or not and had acquiesced with every reasonable request, economical or not. He asked, in return, the township be reasonable and grant tentative preliminary plat approval.

Smith's response was to ask if they considered a 3000 foot cul de sac reasonable when the township ordinance allowed 600 feet? Also the road was to have been a public road built to county standards, now it appears to be a private road, and one that seemed none to safe at that, in Smith's opinion.

Trustee Dale Stuart pointed out the real question was how the township's minimum standards were not being met, that was the basis for approval or denial of the plat.

Carlisle pointed out the double frontage lots and the possibility the added lot was less than three acres. Here Ken Delbridge, head of the township building department, pointed out the original non-conforming lot may have been made more so as a result of Borg Warner's purchase.

Clerk Chris Rose was more outspoken in his criticism saying, "When you start with a bad proposal and progress to a moderately bad proposal, the new one isn't necessarily a good one."

Trustee Dan Travis, who also serves on the planning commission, said the original plan had not been acceptable. Two non-conforming cul de sacs had been eliminated from the plat. He said the commission did not suggest the extra property be acquired, just that they take care of the cul de sac problem. But, he added, this plan was "infinitely better" than the original one.

Anthony Locricchio, representing Pine Knob Investment, told the board Borg Warner was attempting to "bend and shape land" not suited to public road access and more suited to private roads. He feared the proposed road would look like a "back alley" to the condominiums. He suggested a return to the private road concept and said a more workable plan was possible. He said he would be willing to work with both the township and the developer toward another solution.

Since rejection of the plat would have sent Borg Warner back to square one and the planning commission, it was decided to table the decision for two weeks and attempt to work out a compromise all parties involved could live with. Before December 2, the planner and building department will "advise and consult" with Borg Warner, which agreed to waive any time restraints that might be involved.

Shopping Local is a Better Idea

The day after Thanksgiving, they say, officially starts the Christmas season. That day is also generally considered the single biggest retail shopping day of the year.

It comes none too soon for local retailers, who, for the most part, have been struggling all year. Statistics just released show our local area with a horrendous unemployment problem - from 16 to 23 percent. Obviously, because of that, families have cut back on their spending, thus, in turn, severely hurting the local businessman's effort to make a living.

Therefore it is very important during these recessionary times, that we do our shopping judiciously. It's easy to be enticed by the comfortable confines of large indoor shopping malls or the television advertising by large department stores.

We suggest that you take a look at what's available locally during this Christmas season. Often times prices are less, and service is much better.

This newspaper specializes in local advertising. Most of our advertisers are small businessmen who pride themselves in providing quality merchandise at competitive prices. They deserve your attention and support.

So we suggest next time you gear up for a shopping spree, that you first take a look at The Reminder, and some of the bargains within it. And if that shopping trip is the day after Thanksgiving or some time next week, check out our special Christmas gift catalogue available inside this week's Reminder.

MIKE MORROW'S TRIVIA

by Mike Morrow

I'm a worrier. A worrier is the kind of person who stands outside on a warm, sunny day and instead of enjoying it, worries about the possible harmful effects of the sun's radiation on future generations.

Let's face it, I'm a drag. Most of my friends just cruise through life never giving anything a second thought. Not me, I give everything a second, third and fourth though and always imagine the worst possible outcome.

I have tried to be carefree and not worry about everything from the effects of floor wax on laboratory animals to Doris Day's health, but it's impossible. It's just my nature to be a worrier. Even at my best I come across about as happy as the Shah of Iran during the last three days of his reign.

Believe me, it's not an easy job having to do the worrying for all my friends and family. Apparently they're just too dumb to realize that in the blink of an eye that innocent looking plane flying overhead could crash into their home in a fiery ball or how easily that one sneeze from their kid could turn into double pneumonia and land them under an oxygen tent in the intensive care ward. It's a thankless job.

I will agree that I worry too much sometimes, but I believe that most people don't worry enough. After all, just because that suspicious looking man in front of me in the bank today turned out to be the mayor and didn't rob the bank like I thought he was going to, doesn't mean the next person won't. I'm willing to bet that if it does happen, I'll be the only person in line prepared for it. The rest of them will just be standing there with their money in their hands ready to be plucked while mine will be safely sewn into the lining of my coat (of course that makes the tellers mad when it's my turn but that's not too hard to do since they don't start the day any too happy).

In any event, I'm not going to stop worrying. The rest of the world can keep blindly stumbling along, unworried by the fact that at any moment the world's temperature could shift either freezing us to death or melting the polar ice caps causing us to drown. I will remain concerned. It's the least I can do for humanity.

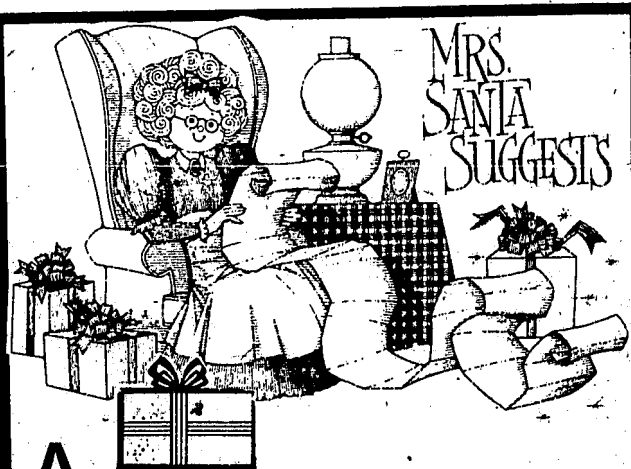

I have to close now. I hear a plane outside in the distance and I have to find my hardhat. I hope the plane is one of ours.

Student Council Takes Education Concerns to Senator Levin

by Ron Wagner

Thursday, a staff member from Senator Carl Levin came to Clarkston to answer questions, listen to complaints, and get a general feeling of the thoughts of the Senator's constituents.

Mark Trujillo, a community development specialist, was present at the Village office on Depot Road. Among the people that came to voice their opinions was a delegation from the Clarkston High School Student Council, who took an hour off school to come.

Seniors Bob Cattin, Melissa Savas, Karin Karlstrom, Cindy Larkin, Eric Beamer, Junior Michelle Phaup, and Sophomore Julie Beamer presented Mr. Trujillo with 534 petitions which were signed by students from their school. The petitions dealt with education and its financing. They read:

I am concerned about the decreasing level of state and national funding of education.

The quality of Michigan's education is being threatened by continued decreases in funding. We cannot allow this to happen, for education is the birthplace of tomorrow's leaders. We will be unable to reverse the present trend in our state and nation's recovery without adequate leadership in business and government. Without continued support for quality education, there is little hope for the future.

In answering the series of questions that followed, Trujillo explained that the federal government was not responsible for the funding of general education. Rather, they had authority over special things such as busing, lunches, and bilingual education.

Trujillo recommended that the Student Council contact State Senator Kerry Kammer for better answers to their questions. Upon their return to school, the students reported to the Student Government class and immediately made plans to invite Senator Kammer to visit the school.

Deerhunter Wounded in Independence

A deerhunting accident that left a Independence Township man with a serious head wound occurred before hunting season officially started, Oakland County Sheriff's deputies have said.

Jerry Blevins, 18, is in stable condition following surgery to repair a wound left by a 3 1/4-inch slug fired from a 12-gauge shotgun, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital authorities reported.

Deputies said another hunter apparently shot Blevins by accident. They said five hunters had taken up positions in a woods near a field three-fourths of a mile east of M-15 south of Hadley Road early Sunday morning, apparently to wait for the 7 a.m. start of deer season.

About 5:30 a.m., though, three deer ran into the field, stopped halfway across, turned and ran back toward the woods. According to sheriff's department reports, hunters said it was still dark but the deer were visible by moonlight.

The report said that two shots were fired, one of them striking Blevins.

"At the time of the shooting, hunting season was not open," said Sheriff's Department Information Officer Ken Hurst.

DNR law enforcement officials say there is little chance they will do anything beyond writing a report to accompany the investigation.

No arrests have been made in the case. If an arrest is made, Hurst says the toughest charge that could be brought would be careless use of a firearm.

Part of the U.S. Army Boxing Team, stationed at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, visited Clarkston High School and gave a demonstration of their skills. Here, Sergeant Dennis Pollock, who works out every day by running 4 miles and performing special exercises for 3 hours, checks out the technique of two CHS students, Erin Delp and Mike Kurnachi. ## Some Facts That Will Curl Your Hair

If you've been thinking about giving yourself a home perm, there's something you should know. The reason perms curl your hair is because they literally rearrange the molecules within the hair shaft permanently. Whether you end up with soft waves or frizz depends on how, and how much those molecules are rearranged. At our salon, our stylists are trained in the chemistry of permanent waving. They don't take it lightly. Before each perm, you can ask them to analyze your hair to be sure it can take the chemical change and come through beautifully. So if you want the curl and easy care of a perm, come to our salon. We recommend perms by Redken, the scientific hair care company. So don't risk your hair's beauty. Come into our salon and make a permanent change - for the best!

Football Players Honored at Awards Banquet

by Ron Wagner

The 1981 CHS Football Awards Banquet began with a huge potluck dinner, complete with live music. After eating, those present gradually drifted into the auditorium for the awards.

The cheerleaders and the boosters were the first ones to be recognized.

The floor was then turned over to JV coach Gordie Richardson, who announced his players as they came forward to receive their letters. He explained that he only wanted to give two special awards as those awards were a feature of the Varsity.

He gave a Most Improved Player award to Tracy Flood and Most Valuable Player award to Dave NewBlatt and Craig Kulazewski.

Next was Varsity head coach Walt Wyniemko's turn. His speech was loaded with "Thank You's" and emphasized the fact that the team was in every game; that they were never blown out.

After hearing Wyniemko name the players for their letters, it was shocking to learn the number of players that were hurt at some time during the season.

There were four special awards; each was given by one of the coaches. Coach Kurt Richardson gave the Heart award to Craig Verch. Next came coach Dave Martin, who gave the Most Improved Player award to Eric Beamer.

Coach George Porritt gave the Student Athlete award, in honor of B.J. Hanson, to Duane Cahill. Finally, coach Wyniemko came up to give the Most Valuable Player award. Kurt Norman and Dave Fulcher both received the award.

It was then the players' turn to take the podium. Team captain Mark Karriok presented flowers to Mrs. Wyniemko and the Pom-Pon girls. The coaches were presented with matching warm-up suits for next year and everyone was shown a Varsity jacket that was to be given to Dr. James O'Neill, who had not arrived yet. The ceremony took a lighter turn, as the players brought back their camp memories and handed the coaches a gift-wrapped brick and a bag of marshmallows.

Then, as if on cue, Dr. O'Neill showed up and was given the jacket and a participation award by Athletic Director Paul Tungate. The doctor then gave a well-spoken, inspirational speech to the players.

B-Ballers Win Finale

by Ron Wagner

The girls basketball team won their final game of the season on Tuesday. The game was at home against Rochester and the score was 45-21.

Starting for Coach Dave McDonald were Tracee Antos, Annette Ulasich, Lori Martin, Lanette Whitehead, and Sue Ketvirtis.

Rochester took the opening tip-off, but the ball was stolen by Antos, who then drove down for the first score of the contest. Rochester got one point on a foul shot and then the Wolves dominated the rest of the first quarter. They scored ten unanswered points to finish the quarter ahead 12-1.

With that margin, Coach McDonald felt that he could do some substituting and inserted Michelle Ulasich and Janet Zografos. The second quarter was dominated by fouls, as the two teams had a total of six between them. The Wolves still had time to score 13 points and the Falcons scored their first field goal. Martha Huttenlocher was rotated in midway through the quarter.

At the end of the half, the score was 25-9 in favor of Clarkston.

McDonald went back to his starting rotation to begin the second half, but soon substituted Jeanne Herron, Pam Forsyth, Ulasich and Zografos. The Falcon girls put on a more decent showing, but the Wolves still outshot them 14-8, leaving the third quarter score at 37-17.

Additions of Dawn Willet and Kim Adkins in the fourth quarter finished off a game in which every team member saw action.

"They executed very well," said Coach McDonald of the game. "The defense was excellent."

When asked about his 11-9 season, the coach answered, "We played well all year, and we were in every game but one (with 2nd ranked Oxford). We've had real good defense; shooting was our only problem."

High scorers were Lori Martin with 9 and Sue Ketvirtis with 8. Lanette Whitehead had 12 rebounds and 6 points. Annette Ulasich also had 6. Tracee Antos scored 5, and Michelle Ulasich had 4. Janet Zografos, Martha Huttenlocher, and Jeanne Herron each had 2 points, and Dawn Willet scored one.
