ZONE 2 INDEPENDENCE & SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP VOLUME 5 NUMBER 19 JANUARY 28, 1982

Public Evenly Divided on Independence Arcades

by Mike Wilcox

A survey conducted by The Reminder last week shows that Independence Township residents are evenly divided as to whether video arcades should be allowed to set up shop in their township.

The issue has been a volatile one of late as Clarkston businessman Robert Warrington has tried to open video arcades first in downtown Clarkston and then on Ortonville Road adjacent to the Clarkston True Value Hardware.

The Ortonville Road location ended up in court after objections from Independence Township officials. Currently, it remains closed as Warrington waits for the Zoning Board of Appeals to meet so that he may attempt to get variances passed that would enable him to open up.

Warrington abandoned his downtown Clarkston location before he opened up after the landlord, Max Brook, Inc., decided their building was not suitable for an arcade.

Both Warrington's and the Township's positions have been long established. The Reminder decided it was time to poll the people, to see what they felt about having a video arcade or arcades located in Independence Township.

Reminder Telephone Poll

ence Township.

Forty-one percent of the persons polled indicated "yes", they saw no harm in having a video arcade located in the township. However, nearly as many, 35 percent, said "no", arcades should not be permitted. Twenty-four percent had no opinion on the subject.

"It's ridiculous not to have it," said John Duris of Hillside Drive. "Give it a chance. If things aren't run right and it gets out of hand, close 'em down."

Michael Applegate of Middle Lake Road agreed. "I feel the people of Clarkston are being too stuffy about it. It's something good for young people to do if it's supervised properly."

"The guy in Clarkston is getting a raw deal," reasoned James Raisin of Clarkston. "These machines are very sophisticated and to win it's an accomplishment. It takes coordination, a quick mind."

Rudolph Orlick of Snow Apple Drive said, "They should restrict certain hours for school kids. Sometimes there are so many kids in there the older people can't fit in edgewise."

Mrs. Bill Janshek of Dark Lake Drive also answered "yes". "I wouldn't want to see kids skipping school at the arcade but if it's supervised okay it would be all right."

Those voting "no" overwhelmingly stated a fear that an arcade would be a hangout for kids to get into trouble.

Roland Hunt of Deer Hill Drive thinks it would be just "Another place for kids to fool around. Kids congregate like that and get into trouble and waste their money."

Stephen Marsden of Washington Street agreed. "Kids need an outlet, but an arcade isn't a good one."

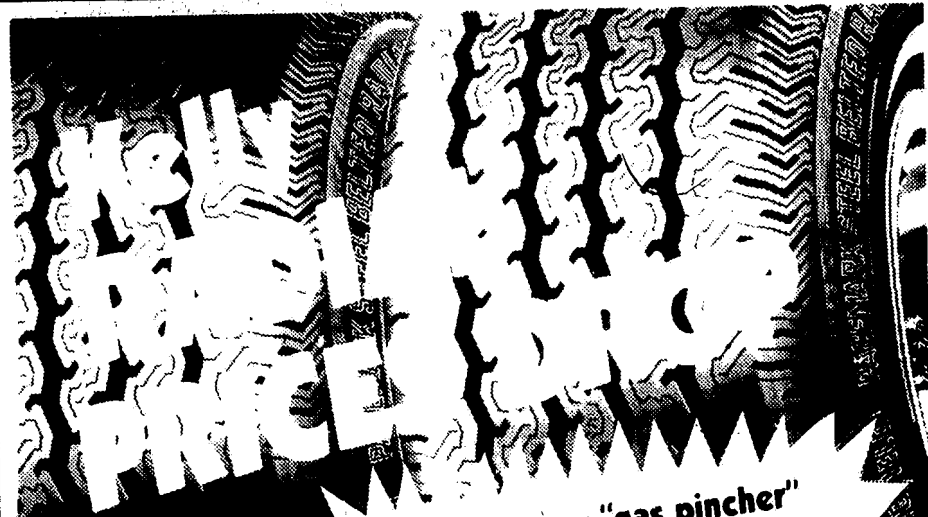

Mrs. G. Hoyt of Holcomb Road said, "The young people should be able to have fun but I wouldn't want it right on Main Street."

"Kids shouldn't have a congregating place," was the opinion of Cindy McCallum of Parview Drive. "They should be home under the supervision of their parents."

Some of those indicating no opinion did have mixed emotions.

Mrs. Donald Campbell of Northview Drive said that although she was not fond of video arcades, "that the problems of the

Senior Citizens Seek Participants for Lunch Program

by Denise Fox Luczki

If you are 60 years old or over there is a place where you can go Monday through Friday, right here in Clarkston, for a home cooked meal.

The place is the Independence Township Senior Citizens Center, 5980 Clarkston Road. Time: 12 noon. Cost: A suggested donation of 61 cents.

The Senior Citizens Center is always looking for more support of their program. The intent of the lunch program and the center itself is not just for those persons with a financial need, but to fill a social need too.

Marjorie Taylor, food hostess, explains it best: "Just because a person doesn't have an eight hour a day job doesn't mean they have to sit home and watch television all day."

Currently the center serves between 100 and 120 meals a week. Four of those meals are delivered to shut-ins daily. The food is prepared by the Northwest Oakland Vocational Center by students under the close supervision of their instructor. A nutritionist plans the meals to include one-third of the daily minimum requirements.

Most of the people drive themselves to the center for the meals, but transportation is provided for those who need it, utilizing the senior citizens center van. To cover the cost of operating the van a one dollar per way contribution is requested. The meals are subsidized, and the center has applied for subsidies that would help defray the cost of transportation.

The health center tries to provide screening and health services, lunches and recreation. The van is used to drive senior citizens to their doctor's appointment on Friday's and Tuesday is grocery shopping.

Arcade Opens for 6 Hours

For six hours on January 15, Robert Warrington's Video Arcade was open. Being opening is not something Warrington has gotten used to. In fact, he's been fighting with Independence Township officials for nearly three months now in an effort to keep his arcade open. Typically, they obtained a restraining order and were able to shut him down again.

Warrington, who's arcade is located next to the Clarkston True Value Hardware on Ortonville Road in Clarkston, seems undaunted by the latest events.

In fact, he expects to remain closed until at least after a February 10 date with the Zoning Board of Appeals at which he will ask for variances in an effort to build an enclosed mall, one of the requirements Independence Township has for video arcades.

"We will just sit tight and see what happens," said Warrington. "I've waited this long. Two more weeks isn't going to mean anything."

Residents Evenly Divided on Arcade Issue

businessmen trying to run this arcade in Clarkston have been unfair. Kids waste time, energy and money on these things, but still, if they run some arcade games out they should run them all out."

Mrs. Dale Bratt of Church Street echoed those sentiments. "Anyone has the right to open a business if they can make the code, but, sometimes places like that draw a bad crowd."

Pre-School Story Time February 2

Pre-School story time at Independence Township Library is Tuesday, February 2 at 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday, Feb. 3 at 11 a.m. The film for these days is "The Little Rooster who made the Sun Rise" about a rooster who was convinced it was his crowing that started the day.

After School Movie Hour is Wednesday, February 3 at 4:00 p.m. Films for this day are: "Please Look After this Bear," the first of a series of short films about Paddington bear; "Philip and the White Colt," taken from a full length movie "Run Wild, Run Free"; and "Hideout", the sometimes sad experiences of two youngsters trying to build a hideout in the woods.

New books on the junior fiction shelves are: "Mitch and Amy" by Beverly Cleary and "Bus Ride" by Marilyn Sachs.

Three mysteries just in are "Lord Mullion's Secret" by Michael Innes, "Marco Polo, If You Can" by William F. Buckley, Jr., "The Killing Circle" by Chris Wiltz and "Chameleon" by William Diehl.

McCallum Stars in "Deathtrap"

David McCallum will star in "Deathtrap" at the Birmingham Theatre starting February 2. Ira Levin, author of such hit novels as "Rosemary's Baby", "The Boys from Brazil" and "The Stepford Wives", doesn't miss a beat in keeping the audience guessing and screaming between giggles. This comedy thriller will play a four-week engagement through February 28.

Scottish actor David McCallum stars as Signey Bruhl. Trained at London's Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts, McCallum has appeared in such feature films as "The Greatest Story Ever Told", "The Great Escape" and "Freud", although he is perhaps best known for his television role as the Russian heartthrob Illya Kuriakin in "The Man from U.N.C.L.E."

Tickets are on sale at all CTC outlets or may be ordered through the Birmingham Theatre box office at 644-3533.

Dental Dialogue

by Gary R. Ushman, D.D.S.

DENTAL ROBBERY SUSPECTED

Q. In the past I've spent a small fortune in my mouth. Now my dentist wants to replace my old silver fillings with gold. Who's the robber, my teeth or my past dentistry?

A. Sounds as if your teeth are the culprits, but I wouldn't call them robbers. Worn fillings need to be replaced just like worn tires on a car. Gold restorations have great durability, withstand the forces of chewing, and resist acid erosion. These restorations will help insure your continued dental health and are a sound economic move. Remember, what was good dentistry yesterday may be inadequate tomorrow.

This column is presented in the interest of better dental health. From the office of Dr. Gary R. Ushman, 55 S. Main St., Clarkston, Michigan 48016. Phone 625-2066.

In Meadow Brook Theatre's forthcoming production Jody Broad plays a leading role in "End of Ramadan". Opening January 28, at Oakland University.

"End of Ramadan" Opens

"End of Ramadan" by Charles Nolte, will open a four week run on Thursday, January 28 at 8:30 p.m. on the campus of Oakland University near Rochester.

Opening week performances of "End of Ramadan", which will run through Sunday, February 21, are scheduled at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, 2 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. on Saturday and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday. Performances will be offered during the following three weeks at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 6 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. on Saturday, 6:30 p.m. on Sunday and 2 p.m. on Wednesday afternoon.

Preparing for a Pageant — What it's Really Like

by Denise Fox Luczki

The last several weeks have kept Sonya Funck, Clarkston's representative in Michigan's Junior Miss Pageant, very busy. Sonya has rehearsals to attend, shopping to do and exams to study for (last week was exam week at Clarkston High School.) All of this was in preparation for the final Junior Miss competition, held in Marshall last weekend.

The thirty-two girls in the competition arrived in Marshall last Tuesday night for a dinner with their host families and parents. The rest of the week was spent in rehearsals for the physical fitness routine and last minute preparation. Friday night was talent competition and Saturday night's competition included interviews, poise and appearance.

Dress code requirements for the girls are strict. Sonya explained that no jeans are allowed, even casually. Sweatsuits and black ballet shoes were required for all physical fitness rehearsals.

Mrs. Barbara Hamacker, chairman of Clarkston's Junior Miss has coached Sonya as she practiced for talent night. Sonya plans to sing the same song that won her the Clarkston competition - "If I Had A Voice."

Sonya was not worried about her nervousness. "I'm always nervous on stage," she explained. "you do better when you're nervous because you're more alert." The most difficult competition would be the interviews. "Ten to fifteen judges sit around and ask you about yourself," Sonya said. Of course, the interviewing is held off stage privately.

During the week Sonya and another of the girls in the competition stayed with their host family. The host family is responsible for the girls meals, driving them as necessary and to act as chaperones. The girls are not allowed to see or speak to any member of their families until after the competition Saturday night is complete. Family members are not allowed to stay at the same hotel as the judges, either.

The winner of the competition will compete in the National Junior Miss pageant in Mobile, Alabama. She will also make appearances throughout Michigan, representing the Junior Miss scholarship program. The winner will also receive a full scholarship to the college of her choice.

The pageant is trying to steer itself away from the old "beauty contest" image. The highest determining factor on final scoring is the interviewing which counts 35% of the score. School grades are also counted in at 10%.

The pageant also offers other competitions the girls can compete in, if they choose; the prizes are partial scholarships. Sonya entered two of these contests; she planned a party for the Kraft contest and styled a skirt for the Simplicity contest.

"The best part is the people you meet," Sonya said. "You get to meet a lot of other people from all different backgrounds."

By the time this article is in print the final decision will have been made, the contest will be over and Sonya will be back at home, with her very proud parents. Sonya's mother, Gwen Funck, said it best: "Regardless of how it turns out it will be a marvelous experience for her. It's not something too many young ladies will ever get to do."

Another regular attendee is Chet Rule. "We have a small group here, and we get to know the people better. We have a good lunch all the time."

The only requirement to participate in the food program is age: 60 and above. To qualify for home delivered meals a doctor's note is required.

"We need the program to be supported so it can continue on. We want to get people out of the house," program director Rena Chemin said.

Ms. Taylor extended the invitation: "It's a very good meal here served every day. Come and join us."

During the week Sonya and another of the girls in the competition stayed with their host family. The host family is responsible for the girls meals, driving them as necessary and to act as chaperones. Family members are not allowed to stay at the same hotel as the judges, either.

The winner of the competition will compete in the National Junior Miss pageant in Mobile, Alabama. She will also make appearances throughout Michigan, representing the Junior Miss scholarship program. The winner will also receive a full scholarship to the college of her choice.

EDITORIAL

Despite blizzard conditions for the third weekend in a row, residents of North Oakland County did themselves proud as hosts of Super Bowl XVI.

It might have been below zero temperature-wise, but in the hearts and minds of everyone involved it was hotter than most summer days in the Sahara Desert.

The "heat" began for many Super Bowl revelers Thursday night on the Michigan Host Committee's sponsored Super Crawl. The Crawl was aptly named, for very few of the partiers were sober after stops three and four.

Bourbon Street North, normally known as Saginaw Street in downtown Pontiac, could only be described "unbelievable". On the Crawl, our bus would not take us onto Bourbon Street because the driver feared the crowds. Thus we had to walk from "Lupe's", on Widetrack, to get to the action.

Once on Bourbon Street North, we quickly understood why the bus driver wished to avoid the crowded street at all costs. People were everywhere. If you made it in to one of the two dozen makeshift taverns, you had accomplished something. And out on the cold, cold street vendors were hawking everything all types of Super Bowl souvenirs.

Next night we headed farther south. Detroit was our destination. We expected it wouldn't be quite as crowded there, as it was on Bourbon Street North.

Surprise! We had to wait nearly an hour to get off the Chrysler Freeway on to West Jefferson. Our first stop was the Auto Show. Unlike next door where a packed house was enjoying the McEnroe-Vilas tennis exhibition or across the street where thousands listened to Detroit's own Diana Ross, the Auto Show had not attracted a big crowd.

In fact we saw everything we wanted to see within an hour's time and then headed east to the Renaissance Center where the Super Ball was being held.

Again, the crowd situation was unbelievable. People were everywhere. It took us at least a half an hour to get a drink at one of the numerous serving bars inside. The Teen Angels, a local Top 40 band, had to delay their performance for nearly an hour because people would not clear the stage area.

Out in the corridors we noticed an illegal crap game being played in a secluded area. Spotters were posted around the area in case a security guard happened to pass by. Remarkably, for the twenty minute duration we watched, security never did come by, or maybe they just were content in ignoring the situation.

That night more rain, ice and wind made roads and streets slicker than they have been all winter. The parade in Pontiac went off well despite the absence of key people like Vice President George Bush who was unable to make it to downtown Pontiac because of the hazardous roads.

Gonzo rock star Ted Nugent did make it and afterwards he and his friend and escort State Senator Kerry Kammer talked to us about Pontiac's super effort and Ted's favorite pastime, hunting.

The Super Bowl game was almost anti-climatic. As far as games go, there was very little to cheer about. Anderson did connect with Collinsworth on a couple of long passes, but one was fumbled. Montana was not spectacular, but in truth, didn't have to be because his 49ers were only interested in running out the clock after going ahead by 20 points in the second quarter.

One unescorted lady sitting next to us was just glad to be at the game. While waiting in line to get through the ticket takers into the stadium her ticket was stolen from her hand. Somehow she was able to convince a security guard to take her to the Main Event where she knew someone in authority who accepted her story and found the lady a seat.

One person who had no such trouble getting in and seemed to thoroughly enjoy the game was Cathy Lee Crosby, star of "That's Incredible". Ms. Crosby, watching from a private 49ers box that also contained O.J. Simpson and Governor Jerry Brown, was ecstatic as the game progressed.

At halftime she stepped out of the private box, was met by an overzealous 49er fan, who promptly planted a kiss on her lips. Undaunted, Ms. Crosby said thank you, and began to sign autographs and cheer on her beloved 49ers.

SMALL TALK

by Rebecca Roberts

The writing and/or reading of poetry nowadays seems tantamount to being involved in subversive activities.

I don't wish to overthrow any governments (not single-handedly) but I would like, as poet E.E. Cummings would put it, to "say my say," to chalk one up for poetry.

In case you think poetry is only about flowers, trees and love, love, love, let's talk. Good poetry has always been at the forefront of social change, and can hardly be seen as a mealy-mouthed beggar of mawkish sentiment when we look at such poets as:

Allen Ginsberg. A real renegade, Ginsberg is also known as the Beat Poet of the sixties. In his hair-raising epic "Howl", Ginsberg called the Establishment every name in the book. He denounced Government (any government), protested nuclear war (and other war), spoke out against human bondage, and generally upset a lot of people. His poetry is profane, profound, mean, proud, and totally disruptive. He was (and is) Peck's Bad Boy, and boy did he love it. From these, his very own lines from "Howl," he was "...the madman bum and angel beat in time, unknown, yet putting down here what might be left to say in time come after death..."

And there was another poet-dissident who set the Establishment's teeth on edge, who was dubbed by a satirist of the day "the dirtiest beast of the age." He was Walt Whitman, author of "Leaves of Grass." Published in 1855, the volume which included the now classic "Song of Myself" dared hold the Self as sacred, and dared say that sex is not a dirty word. "Leaves of Grass" was banned from the classrooms of a wide-eyed America. Whitman wrote in "Song of Myself" what was in 1855 pretty heretical stuff: "...I hear and behold God in every object yet understand God/not in the least/ Nor do I understand who there can be more wonderful than/Myself/Why should I wish to see God better than this day?..." And "...In the faces of men and women I see God, and in my own/face in the glass..."

I'm not suggesting that poetry, in order to be good, has to rattle cages and make social mayhem, but it's a start.

Another thing poetry does, maybe even the main thing it does, is love language.

Remember E.E. Cummings? He played around with the way poetry looks on the page. He liked to mess up language's hair, so to speak, and one of the ways he did it was to use lower case a lot and put quirky grammatical stuff in his poetry, like half a parentheses in a title: "i carry your heart with me (i carry it in)." That was also the first line of the poem, which was followed by "my heart) i am never without it (anywhere..."

Emily Dickensen, perhaps the finest poet that ever lived, was a nineteenth century poet who often dangled her lines with the dash, and punctuated her words with capital letters. She tackled all of her subjects: death, work, love, to name a few, with great intensity and a sharp sense of the absurd.

One of my favorite Dickensen poems is "I heard a Fly buzz - when I died -"

Are poets the purveyors of Truth? Well, if they are, it is because they stumble on it along with their search for exact words that say precisely what they want to say. Maybe it would be better to say that, in poetry, truth sneaks in the back door.

There was something Robert Frost said in his "Neither Out Far nor in Deep." He was describing the curious habit beachgoers have of staring out at the water. Or was he? "...The land may vary more/ But wherever the truth may be - /The water comes ashore/And the people look at the sea..." The crusty old New Englander had a way of luring us into his poetry with plain talk and simple language. He called poetry "going a-sentencing." And he claimed his poetry meant just what it said.

I can't duck out without mentioning William Carlos Williams, a doctor who was also a poet. Williams died in 1963, leaving poetry a little unraveled by his poetic theories. He was interested in the poem-as-photograph, a sort of polaroid language. His poem "The Red Wheelbarrow" stops us in our tracks and makes us see: "so much depends/upon/a red wheel/barrow/glazed with rain/water/beside the white/ chickens."

It does indeed.

TRIVIA

by Mike Morrow

I was raised to be polite and say thank-you when receiving a gift.

At times this is hard to do. Like when the gift is an electric shoe warmer or a suit coat with a map of the United States painted on the lapels. Still, I can always manage a smile and a polite "thanks for the...gift". I couldn't even manage that when the gift was two goldfish. All I could say then was "why...?"

What's wrong with goldfish you ask?

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE REMINDER THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1982 PAGE NINE

Nothing, as long as they die before you get them home.

Unfortunately they didn't so now I have two more pets to clean up after. The only one who is glad about the whole thing is my cat Violet. She thinks they are just great and spends hours every day trying to coax them out of their bowl to play. This makes me nervous because I have no desire to pick a flopping goldfish out of her mouth before the cat eats it.

Although at times that doesn't sound like a bad idea. Especially at cleaning time.

Cleaning out a goldfish bowl is not way up there on my list of fun things to do. In fact it ties with getting pinworms.

To start with, you have to catch the damn things. This sounds easy enough as they are confined to a small glass bowl and have few places to hide. They, however, are very fast and have absolutely no desire to be caught. This is why it took me 45 minutes to catch them the first time I cleaned their bowl. At one point in the struggle, when I had water all over the floor, walls and myself, and I could swear I could hear the goldfish giggling, I was tempted to flush the whole mess down the toilet, plastic pagoda and all.

But I kept at it and after snagging them and dumping them into their little home away from home I scrubbed their bowl, and scrubbed and scrubbed. Maybe that's why I took it so hard when I put them back in their shine, crystal clear bowl and within 25 seconds they had pooped all over their plastic pagoda.

I will admit I overreacted and lost my temper but at least Violet had a good time.

Mentally Impaired to Compete in Special Olympics at Independence-Oaks

The fifth annual Oakland County Winter Special Olympics will be held at Independence Oaks County Park on January 30 beginning at 9:30 a.m.

A new team event, broomball, will be added to snow shoe racing, tubing, snowball throwing, nordic skiing and snow sculpture.

Director of Oakland County Special Olympics Nancy Moran said the mentally impaired participants range in age from eight to 50.

The purpose of the Special Olympics is "to have a lot of fun," said Moran. "Competitiveness is kept low key," she said; "we want the Olympians to know they can have fun when it's cold."

Moran said some 350 participants are expected. Spectators are also welcome.

In the case of inclement weather, the games will be held on Saturday, February 6.

Moran will take 46 of the participants to the Michigan Winter Special Olympics on February 10-12 at Sugar Loaf Mountain in Cedar. Events will include cross country skiing, skating, and downhill skiing.

For more information about the Winter Special Olympics, call Nancy Moran at 649-6226.

Wolfpack Slides Past Adams, Drops Heartbreaker to Mott

by Ron Wagner

The Clarkston Varsity Basketball team had an even week last week, defeating Rochester Adams on Tuesday and losing to Waterford Mott on Friday. This gives the Wolfpack a 2-3 record in the Greater Oakland Activities League and a 4-5 record overall.

Although Clarkston may have had a younger team, they played much more mature ball than Adams, the home team. The first few minutes of the game showed this. The Wolfpack scored the first two baskets of the contest to go up 4-0. The Highlanders finally tied it up at 6-6, but then missed an easy lay-up. Clarkston's Ray Kubani put in two and it was the Wolves out in front again. Rochester scored another basket, but missed on a three-point play, giving up a second chance to move ahead. The first quarter ended with the score 10-8 Clarkston.

Junior starter Mike Dearborn was the first to score in the second quarter. Those eight minutes saw the Wolfpack steadily increase their lead to eight points and the two teams went to the locker room with Clarkston leading 25-17.

At the start of the third quarter, it looked as if the Highlanders were going to make a come-back. They scored six unanswered points and brought the score to 25-23. It took four minutes for Clarkston to score in the second half. Two by Mike McCormick put the Wolves back in the game. Even though they were outscored 16-13 in the third quarter, the Wolfpack held a 38-33 lead going into the final quarter.

Two free throws by Rick Williams increased the Clarkston lead to ten points at 44-34. The Pack went wild for the rest of the fourth quarter. They scored 24 points, one point less than their entire first half score. The final score was 62-53 Clarkston. Free throws played an important part in this game. Adams out-shot Clarkston in field goals 22-21, but the Wolfpack was 20-23 at the line and the Highlanders were only 9-17.

Clarkston was led by McCormick who had a great all-around game: 19 points, 8 rebounds, 4 assists, and 7-7 at the foul line. Kubani scored 12 and had 10 rebounds, Williams and Sophomore Craig Kulazewski each scored 10 points.

"We came out with the thought that we were going to win the game," reasoned Coach Gary Nustad about the win.

Friday night's game, played at Mott, was less fortunate for the Wolfpack. It was a close game, Mott led by two at the half, 24-22.

At the end of the third quarter, Clarkston was down by six 38-32 and some tough defense held the Corsairs to only four points in the final eight minutes. The Wolfpack brought the score within one point and got the ball with 45 seconds in the game. They worked the ball in, but turned it over and Mott sat on the ball to win 42-41.

"It was quite a ball game," said Nustad, "the kids played really hard." Now that Nustad has his team shooting their free throws, they were 15-19, he needs to get them to score baskets. The Wolfpack shot only 13-40 from the field. Dearborn led the scoring with 15 points and McCormick scored 13 and had 6 rebounds.

Grapplers Win Twice

by Ron Wagner

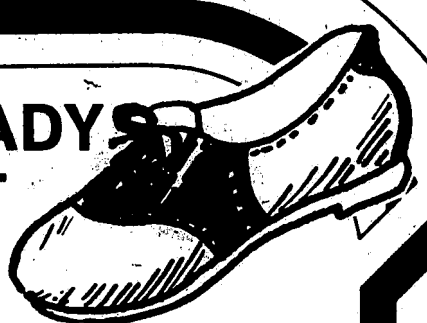

The Clarkston Wrestling team is "going to peak at the right time" according to Coach Rick Detkowski. They beat Rochester on Thursday 42-33 and then took first place at the Southfield Lathrup Invitational on Saturday.

The Rochester meet was the grapplers' first home dual meet. Of the seven matches that they won, all were by pins. Greg Ellis pinned at 5:07, Al Wall at 3:10, Mike Conway in 41 seconds, Jeff Lawrence at 3:29, Jeff Miracle at 1:49, Bruce Burwitz at 3:55, and Tom Hecker at 49 seconds.

In Saturday's tourney, Clarkston won by 44½ points with 190. Edsel Ford had 135½ for second place, Dearborn Fordson was third with 108½, West Bloomfield was fourth with 92, Ypsilanti came in fifth with 72½, Pontiac Catholic was sixth with 68½, Southfield Lathrup was seventh with 62, Southfield was eighth with 60½, and Farmington Harrison was ninth with 52.

Nine of Clarkston's thirteen matmen made it to the finals. Winning by pins were Ellis at 3:24, Conway at 1:58 and Hecker in an amazing 31 seconds. Wall won by a 12-2 decision and was voted the Most Outstanding Wrestler of the tournament by the coaches. He beat the grappler who finished second in the state at the same weight class last year. Others winning by decisions were Miracle 8-0, Burwitz 7-1 and Mark Karrick 6-1. Todd Thompson and Lawrence both finished in second place.

"It was probably the best we've wrestled this year," said Detkowski. "They've pulled together as a team and have the right attitude going into the last part of the season when it really counts."

Ski Team Undefeated

by Ron Wagner

Clarkston's ski team seems to be the team to watch this winter. The boys raised their record to 4-0 with two wins last week and the girls went to 3-0 with one win.

On Tuesday, the guys beat Waterford Kettering 13-27. Leading the skiers was Andy Balzarini in first place with a time of 31.94. Fred Roeser was second at 33.05, Bob Cattin fourth at 33.67 and Craig McLeod sixth at 35-23. Kettering did not have a girls team.

On Thursday, the boys plowed through Pontiac Catholic 10-35. Balzarini was again in first with a time of 40.94. He was followed by Roeser, 2nd, 41.33; Cattin, 3rd, 41.89; and McLeod, 4th, 42.89. The girls also beat Pontiac Catholic 12-27. Angela Balzarini took first place honors with a time of 43.85. Petra Dziallas came in second at 44.38. Amy Bruce was fourth at 53.09 and Sara Pidd was fifth at 54.71.

Peters Named B-Ball Assistant

NWOVEC Electronics teacher Don Peters was officially appointed as Gary Nustad's coaching assistant last Wednesday, although he was on the Clarkston bench for Tuesday's Rochester Adams game.

Peters has not previously coached basketball, but is the JV girls softball coach, so he is not totally new to the field of coaching. Since he has come in at mid-season, Peters' role has been defined as assisting Nustad for both teams until he gets the feel for coaching basketball. There has been no time schedule set as to when or if Peters would take over the reins of the JV team. It is planned to work him in a little at a time.

Coach Nustad is optimistic about Peters, describing him with words like enthusiastic and interested. Nustad cited his "willingness to learn" as a prominent factor towards his success as a coach.

Volleyball Team Runs Into Trouble

The Clarkston Volleyball team started out the week on the right foot, beating Birmingham Groves, but then dropped matches to Fenton, Dearborn Fordson and Flint Hamady.

On Monday, they traveled to Birmingham and beat Groves 14-16, 15-12, 15-17. According to Coach Linda Denstaedt, Jamie Howenstine "had the best night she's ever had" in the area of hitting. Kathy Weber and Lanette Whitehead turned in good blocking performances and Shaun O'Brien and Sandy Mason led the team at the serving line.

The girls backed off at Fenton on Wednesday. They lost 9-15, 13-15. The defeat was partly due to some confusion at the end of the second game concerning a call by the umpire.

On Friday, the girls hosted Fordson and Hamady in a tri-meet. They played Fordson first and although they lost 9-15, 15-6, 8-15, Denstaedt said it was the "best game the girls ever played." Annette Ulasich showed some good serving, Mason, Weber, and Whitehead excelled in hitting, and Michelle Ulasich did well at setting. Clarkston sat out while Fordson took Hamady. They then lost to Flint 15-11, 12-15, 14-16. It was a tough loss as the girls were ahead 11-3 in the second game and then were beaten.

"The loss to Fordson, then having to sit had an effect," said Denstaedt. "We can't maintain momentum. When they get ahead, they relax; when they relax, the passing goes; when the passing goes, the rest goes."
