The Independence Township Board approved a motion to grant a permit to the Waterford Hill Race Course at last Tuesday's regular meeting.

The motion, which passed 6-1-1 (Trustee Larry Kozma voting no and fellow trustee Dan Travis abstaining) permits racing to continue on the weekends until July 6, 1982. It prohibits Monday races, of which the race association had two scheduled (Memorial Day and July 4th); and asks that track officials submit a plan to reduce the noise and make the track safer by June 1, 1982.

The passage of the motion was the culmination of a lengthy discussion on the safety and noise levels at the track. Several homeowners in the vicinity of the track were on hand to voice their complaints, as they had been at a public hearing on the issue a week earlier.

The Waterford Hill Race Course and neighboring residents have been at odds with one another for several years.

In fact in 1964, neighbors pooled their money together, hired an attorney, and took the race course to court. A consent judgment was entered into, which is still in effect today.

Township Attorney Gerald Fisher cautioned board members about that judgment, however.

"This is a private lawsuit," warned Fisher, "that must privately be enforced. It is not a document the township can seek to enforce."

Fisher indicated a more appropriate document for discussion and enforceable by the township would be the township ordinance.

Residents in attendance complained exclusively about safety, the noise, and Monday races.

Carol Rudd claimed flying tires had crossed over residential property and damaged homes. The loudspeakers and amplifiers were much too loud, she added.

Robert Hall said the noise was impossible.

"If I'm going to keep my sanity I have to leave. You've succeeded in running me out of town."

"We want the noise held down and we want it safe," demanded Debbie Sebastian. "Is it going to take the death of a kid to get something done?"

Jeffrey Heldt, attorney for the race course, was on hand to defend his client. He said, "We are aware of exactly two incidents in the last 12 years that tires have left the track. That's a mighty good safety record..."

He added, "Ever since the adoption of the township ordinance we have ran on Mondays. We haven't done it under the cover of darkness, either."

"Give us our license. You're not being left with your hands tied. You've got an ordinance. If you think we have violated it, you've got a remedy," said Heldt.

Township Supervisor James Smith informed the audience that the township had been working with track officials for nearly a year in an effort to contain noise and add safety features.

Just last weekend, a consultant from the University of Michigan was at the track to take decibel readings. He is expected to be back in early May. The race course is paying for his services.

In addition, they expect to construct a berm to act as a noise barrier sometime this year. Heldt promised it would be constructed by the end of 1982 "if technically feasible".

"The race course took responsible action in getting a consultant," said Smith. "Now they are trying to create a noise barrier and safety barrier that will do the job."

In summing up why the permit was granted, Trustee William Vandermark noted, "I think there is enough pressure on the people involved (track officials) that they are going to do something."

Independence Approves Race Track License

by Mike Wilcox

The Independence Township Board tabled action on two requests for liquor licenses at last Tuesday's board meeting.

LaPiazza, at the corner of Clarkston and Eston Roads, and Waterford Hill Courts on Dixie Highway, had representatives in attendance in an effort to secure two of the four available liquor licenses.

The township board, along with the Michigan State Liquor Control Commission, must grant approval to all liquor licenses in their jurisdiction. Independence recently received an additional four licenses, because of an increase in population according to the 1980 census. Those four licenses will be the only licenses Independence will have for the next ten years until a new census is completed.

Allie Assad, owner of LaPiazza, presented plans to increase his small pizzeria to 2700 square feet and 50 person capacity. His intent is to create a family-style restaurant complete with Sunday Brunches, fish fries and daily specials.

His application, however, ran into stiff opposition from several members of the audience. In fact, several homeowners in the area had collected 67 signatures of persons who claimed to be against serving beer, wine/liquor at that location.

Their complaints are numerous. One person said it was one of the township's worst corners. A murder and two armed robbery attempts had occurred in the past two years.

Others complained about traffic problems and congestion. Some said they had moved here for peace and tranquility, and a restaurant serving liquor was just another thing that was disrupting their lifestyles.

John Tisch remembered the last liquor license that was granted on that corner.

"We put in 15 years fighting that last license and over $2000. All we ever wanted out there was a Ma and Pa party store," said Tisch.

He added, "You have no idea what we put up with. I appreciate your (Assad's) intent. But no one, not even God, could give us a guarantee (that the restaurant would indeed cater to families and be a financially successful enterprise)."

Assad answered, "We have enough room to put a 45 foot bar there, but we don't want a bar atmosphere. To the best of my knowledge we will have a Class A family restaurant."

And in Assad's defense, Harry Gavros, owner of Harry's Fruit Basket, located a quarter of a mile from LaPiazza said, "He (Assad) had nothing to do with the establishment of the residential areas (around LaPiazza). He has no control over Pine Knob (many people complained of the traffic after concerts). We are, however, perjuring the man on all points."

Paul Clements, owner of Waterford Hill Courts, said he would be remodeling a portion of his interior to have an area available for light snacks, beer and wine. It would seat 26 people.

Board members, however, indicated they weren't in any hurry to issue liquor licenses. One reason was that there had been nine other applicants, that should be given a chance to present their proposals. But, overall, the feeling, was that neither LaPiazza or Waterford Hill Courts presented an ideal use.

In speaking specifically to the LaPiazza presentation, Supervisor James Smith said, "The township has ten years of growth ahead of us and only four licenses. We are at best gambling at your success, Mr. Assad. I would like to see a track record before I grant anything."

Clarkston Teacher Takes Students to Spain

Easter Sunday afternoon Mrs. Virginia Addis, a Spanish teacher at Clarkston High School, and her husband Daniel Addis, along with Mrs. Eleanor Harned and 17 Clarkston High School students all headed out to Metro Airport to fly to JFK Airport in New York and then to Madrid, Spain for seven days.

On the second day in Spain they went to Toledo which is famous for its steel and swords. On Wednesday the group toured Madrid and its very magnificent buildings.

That afternoon John Kaye and Jim Nichols were shopping in Madrid and a lady asked if they spoke English. They said yes, and she asked them to be in a Spanish TV show. They were there two hours filming one scene. The scene consisted of the two walking through a park.

On Thursday they went to the Valley of the Fallen, which is a temple built into a mountain with a large cross on top of the mountain. They also toured Sevilla that day, and that afternoon had a dish called paella (Pie-a-ya) for lunch. It consisted of yellow rice, pork, chicken, shrimp, peas, clams and squid.

That same night the group went to see Flamenco dancers. On

Salem Gravel Pit to Stay Open

Operators of the Salem Gravel Pit received a reprieve last Tuesday at the Independence Township Board meeting. At a previous meeting township officials indicated they would seek action to close the gravel mining operation April 26, the day a consent judgment between the township and Salem expired.

However, senior vice president of the Blount Corporation, Frank McFadden asked the board to give the company more time in formulating plans for a reclamation project. He said the senior management at Blount was unaware of the seriousness of the situation.

The board granted Blount two weeks in which to submit a land reclamation plan to the township. They also demanded Blount post a $250,000 corporate surety bond in the event they failed to live up to their obligations.

RE-ENGAGING WITH LIFE

It's doubly difficult for the retired person to get a fresh start on life when his or her spouse dies. Without companionship or an occupation to concentrate on, retirees may feel depressed or useless.

The key to that problem, say two Boston University sociologists, is twofold: to love and to work.

The sociologists, Ruth Jacobs and Barbara H. Vinick, studied hundreds of people over age 65 who have gone back to work and who have remarried. They found that remarriage is more socially acceptable now than it used to be. The retirees they interviewed also said the way to meet people is to become involved in a variety of volunteer, social, and paid work projects.

With inflation overtaking private pension benefits, taking on a job is doubly rewarding. Jacobs and Vinick found that many retirees found part-time work in stores, supermarkets and local governments. Volunteers are always needed in dozens of helping organizations, including those geared to aiding senior citizens.

We can refer retirees to organizations that can help them re-engage with life. Call us or stop by for more information.

Some People Will Do Anything. . .

Steve Hamelin says Robin Ronquillo plays hard to get. He's been wooing her for several months... because, he says, there's something special about her. In February he sent her roses every day for a week, beginning on Monday with one, and adding a rose a day. By Saturday she had received 20 roses.

Last week he came up with the sign scheme and was able to convince Clarkston True Value owners of the sign, to allow him to display his message. We're told Robin's answer was yes.

The Clarkston High School prom is scheduled for May 9.

Periodically, I get asked the questions, "Why don't we ever see anything in The Reminder about the people who publish it? Who are you guys and what kind of qualifications do you have to print a newspaper?"

Well, we're not a big secret. In fact, we're no different than your friends and neighbors...and in most cases probably we are your friends and neighbors.

My name is Mike Wilcox. My wife Kathy, and I own and publish the Independence-Springfield Reminder. We live at 5874 Windward Court, Clarkston.

I attended Brandon High School and Alma College, where I majored in Political Science and Journalism. Upon graduating, I began managing my father's newspaper in Ortonville. We eventually started a paper in Clarkston about five years ago, which I bought from my father two and a half years ago.

While I run around attending meetings, interviewing people, pleading with my sales force to get more advertising, taking delivery complaints, and laying out The Reminder and various other publications we're involved in, my wife is responsible for the real work.

Excuse me if I'm bragging, but there is no one faster or more accurate than her on a typesetter. She's responsible for the majority of our typesetting, which includes not only the newspaper, but a couple of other monthly publications, and typesetting for two printers and several other clients. If that isn't enough, she's responsible for the front office and all bookkeeping chores.

Kathy must work hand-in-hand with our layout artists. Head of our layout department, Renee Volt, is one of the best in the business, despite being only 20 years of age.

Renee, from Ortonville, has been with us for nearly four years. She's responsible for all the tough, creative assignments and has designed several logos and brochures that have included detailed artwork.

She is assisted by Jeff Copes of Clarkston. Jeff, a recent addition to our staff, is experienced in graphic arts, and has proven to be a valuable asset to our newspaper.

Our newspaper wouldn't be in business today, if it weren't for our hardworking sales staff. Betty Kratt, Jackie Nowicki and Carole Platt have proven to be very capable at their jobs, spending long hours and doing everything possible to please their clients.

Betty has been with The Reminder for nearly five years. She, husband Jack, and their two children live on Princess in Clarkston. Jackie, lives with her husband Norman, and two children, in Ortonville. Carole lives with her two children on Paramus in Clarkston.

Of course I would be remiss in not mentioning several other contributors to The Reminder. Ron Wagner has done a splendid job all year as our high school sports correspondent. Chuck Renchik and Sandy Vernet, selling Nitelite and special advertising, having maintained an excellent rapport with their clients. Betsy Paalman has helped Kathy with typesetting chores. Al Wieling has taken hundreds of excellent photographs for us and Jim Nichols has done a fine job developing and printing them. And then there's the delivery people. They have excelled in their efforts to get the paper to you week after week, despite nasty weather conditions.

There you have it. The Reminder staff. In my opinion, there's not a finer group of workers to be found.

TRIVIA

by Mike Morrow

Boy do I feel out of date and it's all the fault of the computer. Computers have invaded every phase of modern day life including public schools. They have passed many of us by, leaving us in a wake of data processed punch cards.

The sad part in my case is that it did not have to happen. I could have learned how to live in the computer world if I had just paid attention in school. Towards the end of my public education computers began to rear their ugly head in the classroom. Not being known for my ability to spot trends, I ignored them. Instead I concentrated on smoking in the restrooms without getting caught.

As it turned out, that was a mistake. Smoking is now considered passe and computers are in vogue.

At first, I could laugh about computer foul-ups with the best of them. Then suddenly, computers wove their way into my life. Newspapers computerized. Many newspapers also went out of business at about the same time but analysts say the two are unrelated. I'm not so sure. Anyway, what once was a challenging profession suddenly became a video arcade. Video screens popped up all over the place and the phrase "I'll put it into the computer and see how it looks" came into existence. I wanted to die. Now not only would my blood, sweat and tears be subjected to editors and lay-out people, but a stupid machine was getting in to the act.

Realizing that you must adapt to survive, I tried to learn how to work a computer. I failed miserably. Fellow writers do not take it well when you completely erase all their work from the computer's memory, an astonishingly easy thing to do. I still have the pencil scars from that one.

As if that weren't enough, everything else became computerized too. My bills, never a pleasant subject, suddenly came to me straight from the computer, my paycheck did too. Then to add insult to injury, games computerized. Gone were the days of checkers and chess. Suddenly it was Atari and In-

by Rebecca Roberts

It was an unusual sight; the boy looked much younger than eighteen.

He looked, as a friend suggested, as though he'd stepped out of a Norman Rockwell painting.

He seemed the embodiment of America before the political and social waters became so roiled, we could no longer read our reflection.

He was fresh-faced and swaggered a little as he entered the restaurant where I was. And he was with his dad.

He looked just like his dad, the same dark hair, wiry build, square set of his jaw. He even combed his hair like his dad, parting it, pulling the rest over, slick and neat. Except his hair hadn't quite grown back full yet, and a stubborn cowlick remained.

And he wasn't dressed like his dad. He was in uniform. The Navy. Fresh out of Boot.

He looked spit-polish clean and curiously out of place.

Out of place with our cynicism, our disbelief, our confusion with America, our leaders, the promise, the dream.

He wore the Uniform the way Andy Hardy would've. The sailor, the boy-man, home for a few days, showing off just a little, still believing. After his leave, I thought, he'll disappear, into some exotic distance his folks probably never heard of. Disappearing, the boy, the naivete, his youth, innocence. Outfitted in the uniform, he will be transformed into a man. He will see and know the world as he never imagined it could be.

The boy is hunched forward, there in the restaurant, the dark fabric of the uniform hugging his back, the white cap laid carefully at his elbow. Though I can't hear, I imagine he is regaling his dad with funny stories about Boot Camp. He is so earnest.

He is like a breathing ghost, jaunty and full of a pride most of us would be hard put to muster.

I wasn't sure how I felt, watching him. Because I am young enough to remember, indeed to have been a child myself in the fifties, a child who went along, a willing participant of the blind pride, the precarious innocence, lambs unaware, all of us who swallowed it whole; And because I am old enough to realize it wasn't necessarily all to the good, the my-country-right-or-wrong fervor, I am both sad and relieved that what he represents has so changed.

Something was lost when we decided as citizens of this great country to grow up and think for ourselves. There was a security, a sense of everything being taken care of, in those Rockwell scenes.

But a lot was gained too. A real freedom. A freedom not afraid of knowledge. A freedom to bring about change when things seem wrong, unjust.

A country is like its people. It can't stay young forever.

100 Kids Later Rices Honored

Guy and Dorothy Rice of Clarkston were honored by Catholic Social Services of Oakland County (a United Community Services agency) and the Foster Family Organization. A special baby shower was given to honor the Rices as they accepted into care their 100th foster child on April 2.

The couple have been active as foster parents for 12 years and have cared for children ranging in age from newborn to seven years. Mr. Rice, 68, is a retired truck driver who comes from a family of six. His wife, Dorothy, 59, is one of thirteen children.

The Rices have three children of their own -- two daughters and one son, as well as seven grandsons. Married since 1940, they are members of the Dixie Baptist Church in Clarkston.

Sandra Vernot Named State CAR President

Miss Sandra J. Vernot of Clarkston and Mr. Michael Corbin of Waterford, members of Colonel Stephen Mack Society, C.A.R., have been elected as voting delegates to the 87th National Convention of the Children of the American Revolution to be held at the Sheraton Washington Hotel in Washington, D.C. April 23-25.

During the Convention, National Officers for the 1982-1983 C.A.R. year will be elected, reports of State Presidents and National Chairmen will be given, local society awards will be made, and the Nation's Outstanding C.A.R. Society for this year will be announced. Convention activities will also include a candidates' party, a banquet and dance, a party for the outgoing National President, and wreath-laying ceremonies at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery and the Tomb of George and Martha Washington at Mt. Vernon, Virginia.

Newly elected National officers and State Presidents will be installed in ceremonies at Mt. Vernon. Miss Vernot will be installed as Michigan's State President. The Convention will close with a Memorial Service at the Presbyterian Meeting House in Alexandria, Virginia, and the laying of a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the American Revolution.

The Children of the American Revolution is the oldest patriotic youth organization in the United States. Membership is open to anyone who is under age 21 and who is a descendant of a person who rendered aid to the cause of American independence. For further information contact Miss Vernot at 623-7910.

EXTENDED COVERAGE

North Oaks

Insurance Agency

If you qualify for Medicare, a large part of your health care expenses are covered -- but not all. Most people, unless they are eligible for Medicaid, need some private health insurance in addition.

The government does not sell, sponsor, or service insurance that supplements Medicare. The wise shopper will choose a reliable insurance company licensed to do business within the state.

A Medicare-supplement policy will pay some or all of the deductibles and co-payments related to Medicare, and may even cover some services that Medicare does not. Major Medical may not cover Medicare's deductibles and co-payments, but it does stop in to cover catastrophic expenses.

Some health maintenance organizations participate in Medicare. After membership fee or premium is paid, there are no claim forms and no deductibles or co-payments.

Shop carefully. Duplicate coverage is expensive and useless. Look for a policy that can be renewed automatically, or where the company may not refuse to renew on an individual basis.

Ask an expert. We'll help you choose the private insurance that will best meet your needs.

Whitehead Throws No-Hitter; Girls 3-0 After First Week

by Ron Wagner

Solid pitching by Lanette Whitehead and Annette Ulasich has put the Varsity Softball team at 3-0 after two days of play. On Wednesday, the girls faced Milford at Clintonwood Park, their home field. They won their season-opener 10-0 and Whitehead threw a no-hitter and had nine strike-outs. Sandy Mason and Ulasich both hit doubles and Audrey Campe went two for three at the plate, scoring two runs and getting two RBI's. Dawn Willett threw a runner out at home to end the game. The girls jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first inning and coasted from there.

On Thursday, they played a double-header against Brandon at Clintonwood. Whitehead started, but the Hawks got ahead. Ulasich was sent in to relieve her. This was the debut performance for Ulasich as a pitcher. She brought her team around and got the win 7-5. Ulasich continued to pitch in the second game and the girls won 16-5. She helped herself to victory by hitting a two-run homer. Mason got two hits and an RBI and Jeanne Herron hit a single and a triple.

Wolves Open Season With 2-1 Victory

The Varsity Baseball team opened their season with a 2-1 victory over Milford at home on Wednesday. Mark Piazza's pitching led the team as he had nine strike-outs and let up only two hits. The Wolves went up 1-0 in the first inning on a double by Adam Klein. This lasted until the fifth when the Redskins scored on a balk.

The winning run was set up by a walk by Mike Howe and a single by Rich Schrader. With runners on first and second, Joel Schrader bunted and Milford threw it away, allowing Howe to score.

Girls Run Wild Over Kettering

"The girls ran well as a team," said coach Gordon Richardson of his girls track team after their 90-31 romp over Waterford Kettering on Tuesday.

Outstanding performers were Kelley Craig with a first in the high jump, Amy Stark, winning the 880, and Julie Beamer. She won the 110 low hurdles with a record-tying time and won the 220 low hurdles with a record-breaking time of 31.3.

I am slowly becoming resigned to the fact that computers, like the common cold, are here to stay, but that doesn't mean I have to be nice about it. I never have been, or ever will be happy with the fact that computers run everything nowadays including the nuclear missiles we have aimed at Russia.

If I only knew then what I know now, I would have spent less time smoking and more time in class. But I guess you can't go back in time. At least I don't think you can but computers can do everything else. Maybe next week...

J&J Refrigeration Excited About New Geothermal Heat

J & J Refrigeration, Co. has added a new product line to their business, and they expect it to become a big seller in the near future. The line, Carrier Geothermal heat pumps can save homeowners as much as 20 percent to 70 percent in energy savings according to J & J president, John C. DiPietro.

DiPietro claimed additional savings could also be applied for through state and federal tax credits. In addition, the heat pump can be installed to existing forced air furnaces, saving the consumer more money.

The Carrier Geothermal heat pump will be certified by Detroit Edison and the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute. DiPietro said it will be the only heat pump certified by both Edison and the Institute.

J & J Refrigeration has been in business since 1967. Located at 7170 Dixie, just north of the Secretary of State's Office in Clarkston, J & J is owned by three DiPietros -- John C., Greg and John J.

The company installs and services refrigeration and heating units in residential, commercial, institutional and light industrial areas. J & J proudly displays a State Refrigeration license, a State Heating license and product licenses from manufacturers.

"Some businesses say that their product is the best only because they can build it cheap or the manufacturer tells that business it is the best," said Greg DiPietro. "We not only look at price, but the product itself, and the manufacturer's willingness to back the product with guarantees. We even look at the manufacturer's background to see how long they have been in business."

DiPietro said his company specializes in products for do-it-yourselfers. On the other hand, persons who buy products from other firms, but can't install themselves can look to J & J to offer a friendly helping hand.

Along with the new Carrier products, J & J hopes to offer product rebates and senior citizen discounts in the near future.

J & J Refrigeration is open from 8-5, Monday through Friday.

Something's New At Past n' Presents

Cross Stitchers will be pleasantly surprised with a new innovation offered by Past n' Presents, located in Antique Village. During the month of May, old Cross Stitch Books, in good condition, can be brought to the shop and traded in. Customers will receive 40 percent of the book value as a deduction on purchases of new items in the Cross Stitch Department.

The purpose, according to co-owner Linda Allen of Clarkston, is to start a used book library. Customers will then be able to get replacements from the library at 25 percent of the original price with a trade in, or 50 percent of the original price without a trade in. "As a Cross Stitcher, I find that the cost of books makes me careful when purchasing. With our policy, customers can have access to more books and should be able to do patterns they like without feeling they must use the entire book."

The new Cross Stitch Department carries all 328 colors of embroidery floss DMC. Classes are offered in Cross Stitch, Pulled Work, Decorative Decoy Painting and Stenciling.

The owners, Linda, her sister Carole and Barbara Fry, recently attended seminars in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania where they took classes from authorities such as Earlene Lampman, Linda Dennis and Barbara Graham.

Stenciling classes begin May 3 and are scheduled for evenings as well as days. Cost of the two hour class is $20.00 and all materials are included. Techniques for stenciling cloth, paper, walls and wood will be taught, and shading techniques will be demonstrated.

Monthly specials will also be featured. May's Special is all Silk Flowers for $1.49 each, regular prices range from $1.69 to $2.79.

As a service to parents who wish to visit the antique shows and craft shows, Barbara Fry will offer children's classes. These will be on a call ahead basis, and most will cost no more than $5.00, including all materials. Average class length will be one to one and a half hours and children from age seven on up will be accepted. Barbara can be contacted at 391-3502 regarding dates of classes and projects planned.

Downer's Dream Develops Into "Dancer's Dream" — A Novel

by Mike Wilcox

You might consider Richard C. Downer the least likeliest person in the world to be a published author.

His education doesn't extend beyond the ninth grade. Employment-wise, the majority of his life has been devoted to selling a variety of products or driving a cab.

Downer, who lives in Springfield Township, has been married for 24 years and is the father of four children. He was raised in Pontiac, and spent most of his life there until enlisting in the Army. He spent nearly two years serving his country in Germany.

The bespectacled retired taxi driver, un-stylish in his crewcut, proudly recalls the days of the National Action Group in Pontiac, when he, as a NAG member, worked side by side with Irene McCabe and Brooks Patterson to oppose busing.

Until "Dancer's Dream", the name of his first book, his association with NAG was really Downer's only claim to fame. But now, with a published book, Downer hopes to gain more notoriety.

"I have always wanted to write," said Downer, "but have never had any confidence in myself."

But the confidence came when Downer became close friends with three neighborhood youngsters. According to Downer they gave him the inspiration to write.

And write he has. "Dancer's Dream" is actually part one of a four-part series. His first book was finished within five months' time, but books two, three and four have taken slightly longer.

"The words just pop into my head and keep on coming," explained Downer on his quick writing.

Downer said several of the characters in his books are recreated from the personalities of people he knows.

For instance, Dancer, the book's major character, is actually a recreation of Downer. "I just believed myself to be Dancer," explained Downer. "The way I think and the way I feel...well, that's Dancer."

"Dancer's Dream" is the fictional account of a middle-aged man disillusioned with life and God, who befriends three young neighborhood girls. Dancer and the girls become fast friends, and when he learns they are being abused by their father, he kidnaps them. They hide out in the north woods, where the angry father makes several attempts, including calling in mobsters, in an effort to get his children back.

According to Downer, "The whole novel is rife with incredible and hair-raising incidents. There is the social worker, out to get them, whose father is a powerful judge; there is the plane accident the children's mother is involved in which renders her blind. Dancer's wife, unable to withstand all of these pressures, dies of a heart attack. Then one of the children sustains a concussion during a courthouse battle, and is not expected to survive."

But more than the hair-raising incidents, the book is about love, and how it can cross all boundaries. "The unusual love Dancer has for his extended family is something awesome," said Downer.

Downer claimed 4000 hardcovers of "Dancer's Dream" had rolled off New York's Carlton press in early 1982. It's too early to tell how sales are doing, but Downer is already eagerly awaiting the day he can publish part two.

In addition he thinks it would make a great movie or television series. "I would give my eyetooth for it to be made into a movie," he said.

Currently the book is being sold in four local outlets -- The Book Cellar, The Village Bookstore, Wonder Drugs and Thrifty Drugs. A copy is also available to the public at the Independence Township Library.

CHS Presents Musical

The Clarkston High School Drama Department presents "Paint Your Wagon", a musical of the 1849 California Gold Rush. In this singing, dancing, musical extravaganza, the main characters are portrayed by Scott Siple, Stacy Nichols, Joe Hughes, Sonya Funk and Kevin Rose.

Opening night is April 29th with evening performances on April 30th, May 1st, 5th, 6th, and 8th. On May 1st and 2nd there will be matinees presented. Evening performances are at 8 and matinees are at 2.

Tarkenton Here May 4

Sports celebrity and now television star, Fran Tarkenton, will be the special guest of honor at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital's eighth annual Men of Mercy Celebrity Night on May 4.

In addition to meeting Tarkenton and local sports celebrities, guests to this fundraising event will have a chance at winning a new Pontiac J2000 or a 1982 Pontiac Trans-Am.

WJR personality, J.P. McCarthy, will once again be the master of ceremonies for the evening and "The New Dazzlers", a song and dance group, will provide the entertainment.

Tickets to the Men of Mercy Celebrity Night at the Northfield Hilton in Troy, are available by calling the hospital's resource development department at 332-0745.

"Spokesong" at Attic

Stewart Parker's new play, "Spokesong", which parallels the history of the bicycle with the history of violence in Northern Ireland will run at the Attic Theatre April 16 through May 29.

Performances are Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m., Saturday at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. and Sunday at 6:30 p.m. For information and reservations, call 963-7789.
