Buffy Blum

by Mike Wilcox
Imagine a petite, 15 year old girl taking up the sport of powerlifting. Then imagine her setting two state records the very first meet she competes in. Imagine no more. Adrienne (Buffy) Blum, of Rattalee Lake Road, Springfield Township, in a little over six months' time has become one of the world's premier powerlifters. And it all happened by accident. Buffy was a rising young track star for Holly High School. But in late September of 1981 she had a leg injury resulting in torn cartilage and ligaments.

Her doctors suggested she take up powerlifting as a means of working her leg back into shape. Buffy contacted Bill Stiff of Fenton, who was coach of a powerlifting team, and he consented to let her workout with the team in his gym.

Well, it wasn't long before Buffy began showing some ability in the sport and on January 16, 1982 she entered the Flint Olym-

IS EMBALMING NECESSARY?

Customs and laws surrounding the practice of embalming vary widely across the country. Long a human tradition, embalming has become law in many parts of the United States. Even in places where the procedure is not required, most funeral services still include embalming.

The practice is usually performed for two reasons: (1) to eliminate any chance of communicable disease; and (2) to help keep the deceased looking as natural as possible. The latter is of particular importance in open-casket services.

In our experience, we have found that such restorative art is one way of paying proper respects to the departed loved one. People who can pay their last respects to a lifelike body seem to more easily accept the death.

If you have questions or comments on this or any aspect of funeral service, please call us or stop by.

A chain saw can be a handy helper for yard chores - or a hazard - depending on how it is used. If you're about to buy a chain saw, it's wise to shop where you'll get knowledgeable help in making your choice. You'll do best with the smallest size saw that meets your cutting needs.

Be sure to read the manufacturer's manual and any other literature available before you use your saw. Work slowly and deliberately. Wear safety goggles; hard hat (to protect from falling branches) and a tough plastic mask are a good idea, too. Wear heavy gloves and footwear.

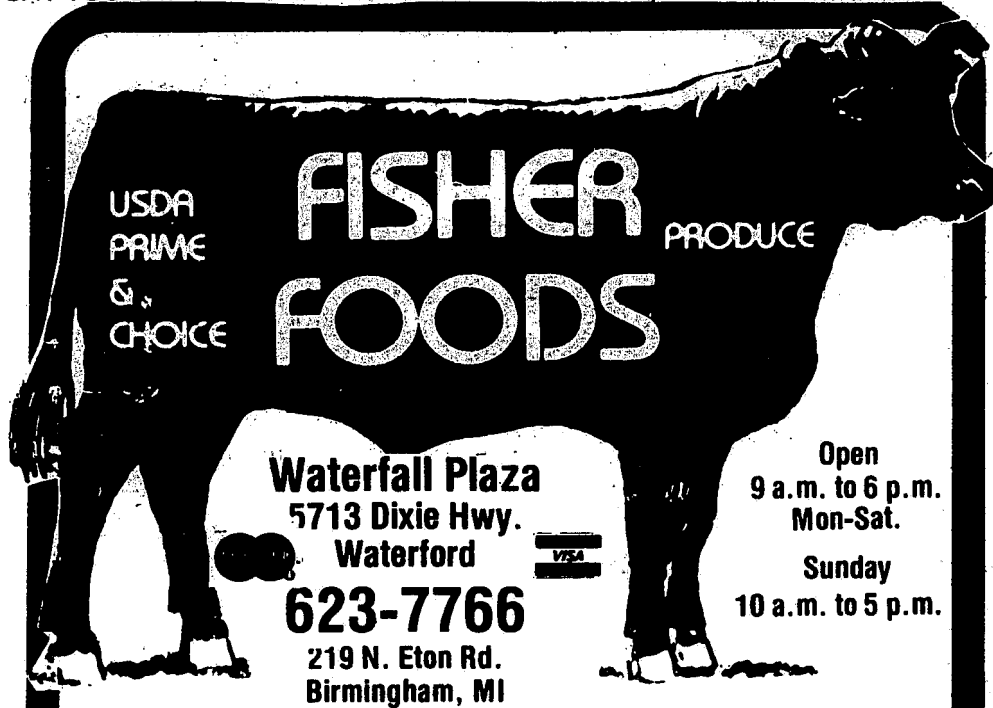

Stop the engine before moving to a new location. Don't make any adjustments while the bar or chain is running. Stop the saw frequently and take a rest period. Don't handle the saw when you're tired.

For safety's sake, let a gasoline saw cool down before you refuel - and don't smoke while you fill it!

Wood to be cut should be placed below waist level; keep the saw parallel to the ground, with your legs apart or to one side of the saw.

We care about your safety. Protection is our business at

"Buffy" Nears World Record

pian Games to see what she could do.

She did the incredible. Buffy placed first in her division, setting two state records the very first time she had ever competed in powerlifting.

Buffy's father, Art, was overjoyed with the accomplishment. "She was doing it for therapeutic purposes and then all of a sudden it started taking off," said Blum. "It's amazing after $5-6000 worth of medical bills, she walks into Flint and does it."

This spring Buffy had to choose between track, her first love, and powerlifting. She chose powerlifting because, "I like it better than anything I have ever done."

In mid-May Buffy competed in the Michigan Teenage Powerlifting Championships in Swartz Creek. There she was judged the overall best while setting three state records in the bench press, dead lift and total accumulated points for girls 14-16. Her total score was also higher than anyone in the 17-19 age group.

Buffy has rejected the typical powerlifter stereotype. She appears neither masculine nor muscular. Many of her competitors grunt and groan as they attempt to lift the weights, but, Buffy goes about her lifting with nary a sound.

"I can't do that," said Buffy. "To get myself psyched up I just sit and relax and tell myself I have to get it."

Buffy claims there are a lot of misconceptions about powerlifting. The sport is dominated by men. Women, often times feel it's unfeminine to lift weights. Buffy disagrees.

"A lot of women don't get into it because they don't want to develop big ugly muscles. Look at me. My muscles aren't big or ugly," said Buffy.

Next competition for Buffy will be the nationals in Greenberg, Pennsylvania August 6. The best from the country will be on hand to contest Buffy for national medals.

With her new state records, Buffy stands a good chance of becoming the national champion. Her scores are in fact better than previous national champions. Her 545 overall total scored at Swartz Creek is only 45 pounds short of a world's record.

Buffy's father, Art, figures the world's record is well within reach. "Why a 25 pound improvement in the deadlift and fifteen pound improvement in the squat and bench press and she'll have it," said Blum.

Reapportionment has put Clarkston/Davisburg right in the center of what should be one of the most exciting congressional elections ever held.

Finally, after many months of litigation, the 1980 census mandated reapportionment has been established. Congressional districts, as they are every ten years, have been adjusted to meet changing population patterns.

Our district for the past ten years (19th) has been represented by William Broomfield. But now the area has been tossed into a new configuration that stretches from Lansing to Pontiac.

The current incumbent in the new 6th district is Lansing Republican James Dunn. He is being challenged by the man he narrowly defeated two years ago, former Congressman Bob Carr.

The two, who are already campaigning feverishly may be challenged by a candidate or two from Oakland County. County Executive Dan Murphy is expected to decide this week whether he will contest Dunn in the Republican primary. Oakland County Drain Commissioner George Kuhn has also shown interest.

But what makes this contest worth writing about is the political composition of the district. It is believed to be nearly 50 percent Democratic and 50 percent Republican. It is also believed to be a true test of President Ronald Reagan's popularity because Dunn has been a true blue Reagan supporter and Carr just the opposite.

Already the race for the 6th District seat has received nationwide attention. The "Dallas Morning News" calls it "Dogfight in Michigan" and says "few congressional races across the country can epitomize so well the national debate over President Reagan's economic policies of tax cutting, budget cutting and defense increases."

For that reason, most of the national media will be focusing on the 6th District. And because of its national focus and competitiveness, the campaign coffers of Dunn, Carr, and possibly Murphy, will be swelling.

In 1980 when Dunn unseated Carr, both spent nearly $300,000 on their campaigns. This year they anticipate spending even more.

And if Murphy does decide to enter the race one of the major reasons will be because Oakland VIP's feel, since Oakland County makes up the bulk of the 6th District's population, the congressman should come from here and not Ingham County, home of both Dunn and Carr.

So for the first time since Congressman Broomfield faced off against then Congressman Jack McDonald, after reapportionment in 1970, this area is in the midst of a real congressional battle. It should be interesting to watch.

SMALL TALK

by Rebecca Roberts

I've been putting up posters for Words Against Weapons, the anti-nuclear arms benefit coming up Monday, June 7, at the Birmingham Unitarian Church at Lone Pine and Woodward (see page 5 of this issue).

It's an amazingly effective conversation-starter.

The thought of nuclear war is not a thought easily translated; it is a thought wrapped in fear, illusion, and a feeling of hopelessness.

But it is not really hopeless. There is work to be done. And people seem to want to do it. Even a simple act like putting up a poster helps alleviate the sense of hopeless frustration that goes along with the issue. I had the feeling people knew that however fleeting or temporary a thing like taping up that poster was, it was something. And it mattered.

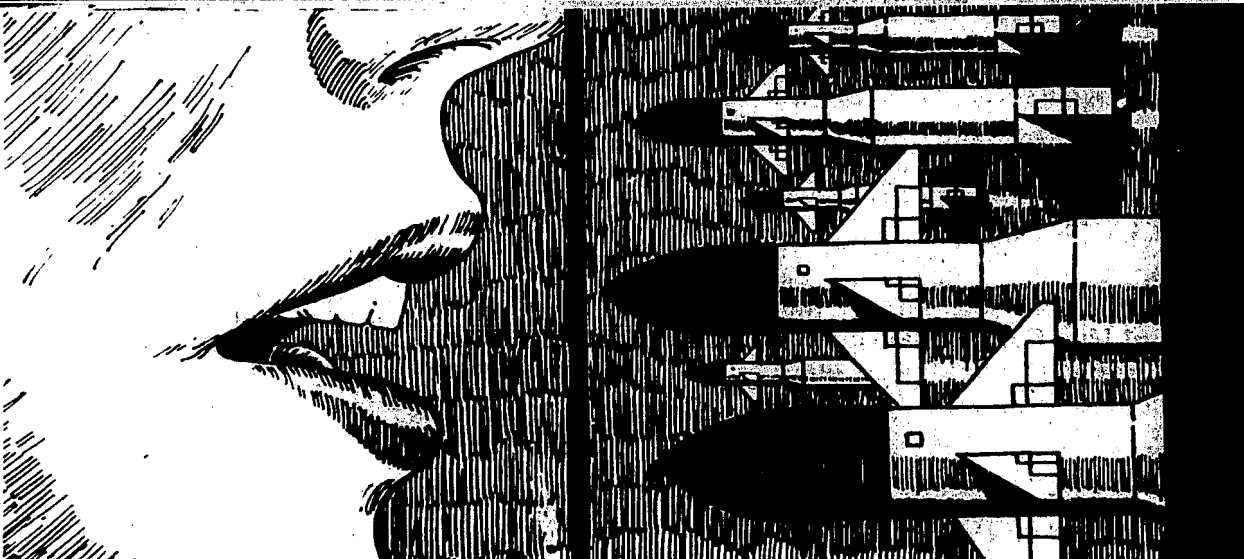

One man, a slender grey-suited man in his mid-thirties, held the poster for what seemed like a long time, all the while nodding at my explanations.

He looked up, worriedly.

"A lot of my clients are pro-nuclear."

I swallowed before I spoke, feeling a sadness move through me at the thought that anyone could be "for" nuclear war.

"That's too bad," I murmured. Dumb as they were, those words were as close as I could get to the truth of what I was feeling.

Then he said, "And I'm a Vietnam vet and kind of on the fence about this thing myself. I saw what went on over there." He kept looking at the poster. I looked past him out the arched window to the street beyond where afternoon sun was underlining everything, making the scene seem surreal. I was telling him lamely how I understood about business vs. controversy, et cetera, when he held up his hand and brightening said, that he could place the poster in an area, an entrance foyer, where people would see it but where its message wouldn't offend his clients.

I thanked him; for I truly was grateful to this person who had had his philosophies forged in the unholy fires of the Vietnam controversy. Grateful for his willingness to push his doubts back under, relinquishing the space to this, the nuclear arms issue, the issue that goes beyond even the dark trenches of Vietnam.

FRIEND OF THE COURT

by Roland C. Francher, Esq.

Most judgments of divorce contain a provision similar to the following: "The custodial parent shall not remove the domicile of the minor child of the parties from the State of Michigan without the prior authorization of this Court." This does not mean that the parent needs permission from the court to take the child on a brief out-of-state vacation.

It does mean that the legal residence of the child cannot be moved outside the State of Michigan without the permission of the court. If you intend to move out of Michigan and you plan on taking the child, obtain permission from the court before leaving.

There are many considerations involved in making such a move, and they are generally much easier to resolve when you are still in the area. The court has a duty to attempt to maintain a relationship between the child and the non-custodial parent. Visitation rights must be defined and clarified. Obviously, weekend visitation may no longer be appropriate, and extended, less frequent visitation in the summer and over holidays should be considered. If the child is moving to California, who pays the cost of sending him back to Michigan for visitation? Should the parents share transportation costs? Should the non-custodial parent pay these costs to insure visitation? If so, should the amount of support to be paid be reduced to compensate for the transportation costs? These questions should be resolved before the move.

Once out of Michigan, the parent and the child are beyond the jurisdiction of the court. If this has occurred without the permission and against the wishes of the non-custodial parent, certain remedies are still available to the aggrieved party. He may petition the court to terminate support until the child is returned to Michigan or until acceptable visitation arrangements are made. He may also seek support credit for transportation expenses, or to lower the support amount.

In any event, the court is not likely to look with favor upon a custodial parent who has ignored the court order by leaving the state without permission. In extreme cases, the court has been persuaded to find the custodial parent in contempt and issue a warrant for his or her arrest. The court may also issue a writ of habeas corpus for the child. Then, if the custodial parent and the child return to Michigan, the parent can be arrested and the child placed in protective custody until a hearing can be held.

If you are a custodial parent and plan on moving out of state, contact the Friend of the Court. The attorney to whom your case is assigned will advise you as to what actions are necessary before making such a move.

If you have any questions concerning the operations of the Friend of the Court, address them to Roland C. Francher, in care of The Reminder. Questions concerning individual cases should be sent directly to the Oakland County Friend of the Court, 1200 North Telegraph, Pontiac, MI 48053.

Cable Firm Opens Office

He Wants Clarkston to Take Notice

by Mike Wilcox

It's a far cry from New York's city lights or Hollywood's ritzy Rodeo Drive, two locations displayed prominently on posters hanging on his office wall, but for Gilbert Clark, Clarkston is where he wants to be.

Clark is chief operating officer of Multi-Cablevision, one of three firms vying for Independence Township's cable television franchise.

Unlike his two competitors, Omnicom and Concord, Clark has begun to familiarize himself with the community and vice versa. He has established an office in downtown Clarkston and is running paid advertisements in The Reminder, asking people to drop by and get acquainted.

All this despite the fact that not one public hearing has yet to be held on the subject of Cable TV.

Explains Clark, "We feel very confidently that we have the best proposal. We want to make the public aware of that before the hearings."

The flagship of the proposal is Multi-Cablevision's claim to wire 100 percent of the township. Omnicom and Concord intend to wire 70-80 percent, leaving out some of Independence's more rural areas.

Another feature of Multi-Cablevision's proposal is their community/educational TV and radio studio they hope to locate at Clarkston High School. Fulltime program director Terri Surbrook, a graduate of Oakland University, is already on the job making contact with community organizations and school faculty who might be utilizing the facility.

Multi-Cablevision's basic monthly charge would be $5.95. Additional pay TV services, which are optional, could bring your cable bill to $30 a month.

What's different from their competitors, said Clark is the addressable converter that Multi will install initially, and Omnicom and Concord promise later. The addressable converter will allow Multi subscribers to watch closed circuit events like the Holmes-Cooney or Hagler-Hearns fights.

If Multi-Cablevision has a weakness, it may be its track record, or lack of.

Concord is fairly well known, as it recently won the Oxford franchise. Omnicom, a subsidary of Capital Cities, which also owns The Oakland Press, has systems in operation all over the U.S.

Multi-Cablevision was just formed to capture the Independence franchise. However, Clark claims the principals behind the company are old hands at operating cable TV.

Gilbert Clark Sr. built the first cable TV system in Michigan. That was in Petoskey.

His son has been in the business since 1966 as a technician, service manager, director of acquisition, program manager and part owner of a Manistee Cable company.

The third partner, Richard Leslie, has been involved with cable TV since 1964.

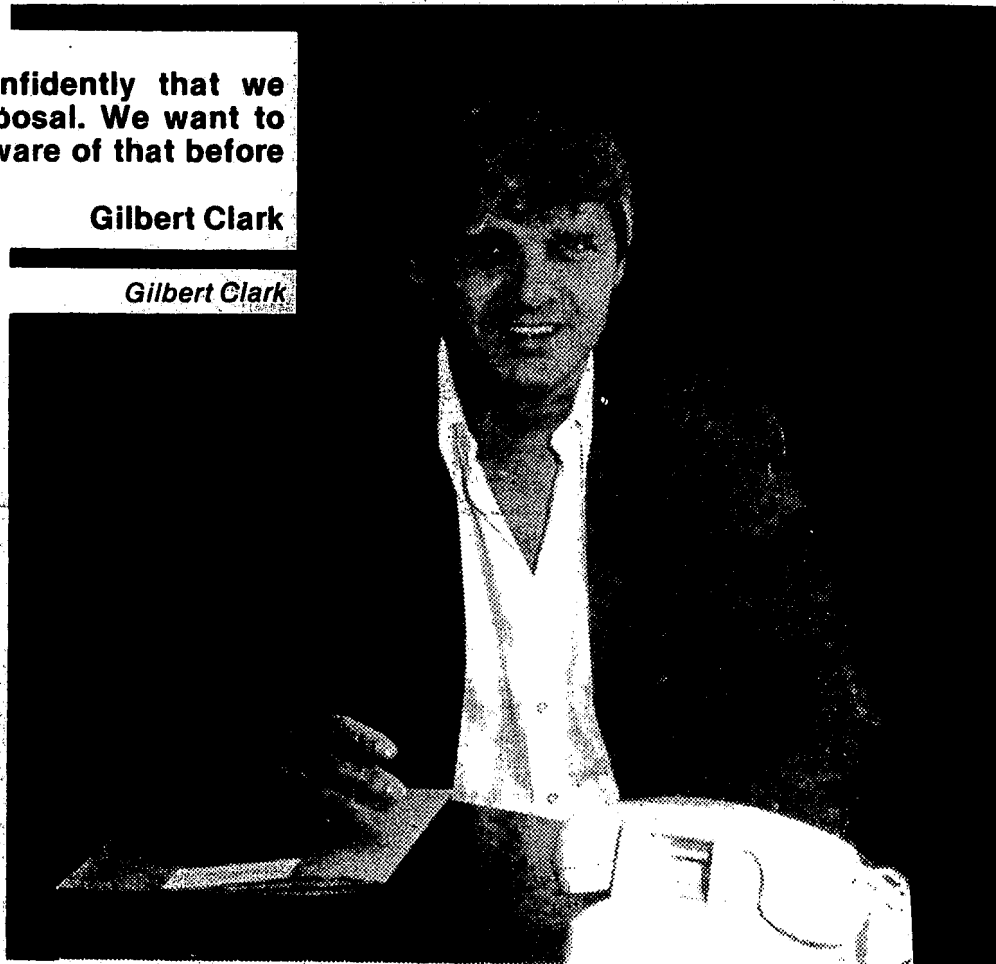

"I think we have got a lot more at stake personally (than the other companies) because we intend to use this as a showcase," said Clark.

Clark said activity has been picking up lately in his Clarkston office located above

"We feel very confidently that we have the best proposal. We want to make the public aware of that before the hearings."

the Clarkston Cafe. He personally mans the office much of the time, telling callers "yes" if his firm gets the franchise, no matter where they live in Independence they'll get cable.

Clark enjoys making that promise, particularly since his competitors can not.

In regards to that, Clark answers, "If you're granted a franchise for the whole community then you ought to service the whole community."

Independence's cable fortunes are now in the hands of a Cable TV Task Force, that was appointed by the Township Board.

The Task Force has been meeting regularly to review the three proposals and is expected, according to Clark, to announce a public hearing within the next month.

Until then, he'll be talking to residents and promoting his proposal in hopes that one day he can bring the "city lights" and "Rodeo Drive" to Clarkston.

Needs Input

Walls Asks Springfield to Get Involved

"Springfield Township is in need of help from its citizens," says Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls. "The Township Board is asking you as residents of this community to share your talents and skills in an effort to help the entire township."

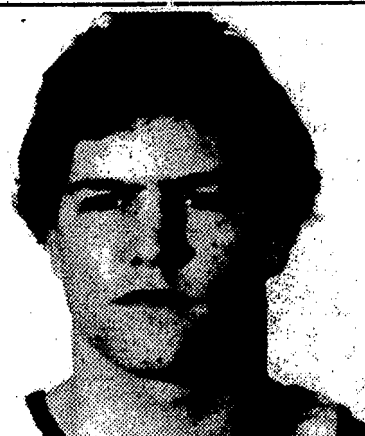

From time to time Springfield needs people to serve on various boards and commissions such as the Board of Appeals, Economic Development Corporation, Park Commission, Library Board, Planning Commission and occasionally even the Township Board. If you might be interested in serving on any of these boards or commission, let Walls know.

Currently the Planning Commission, as an example, is working in an attempt to prepare a new Zoning Ordinance. They are attempting to create an ordinance with some flexibility for the property owner which will protect the character and the natural beauty of the area, said Walls.

"In order for the ordinance to represent the desires of the majority of those of us who live here, we need your help and your input," added Walls.

The terms of two Planning Commission members are expiring the end of June. If you would be interested in serving on the Planning Commission or anywhere, contact the Township Hall at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

Wyckoff Earns SVSC Track Letter

Steve Wyckoff, a graduate of Clarkston High School, has earned a 1982 varsity letter award from Saginaw Valley State College men's track team.

Wyckoff, a freshman, competed in the high jump for the Cardinal squad. His best effort was a 6-foot-nine jump.

The Cardinals recently placed fifth in the NAIA National Outdoor Track & Field Championships, their highest finish ever. In March the Cards became the first team north of the Mason-Dixon line in the past ten years to become NAIA Indoor National Champions.

Wyckoff is the son of Lynn and Carole Wyckoff of Clarkston.

Springfield Attempts to Form Community Group

by Mike Wilcox

Over 30 representatives of organizations and businesses based in Springfield Township met last Monday and decided that the basic principles behind the establishment of the Community Care Council were worth pursuing.

The Community Care Council (CCC) was established last month by a group of citizens led by Helen Vergin. Its purpose is to coordinate and communicate activities amongst organizations as well as pursue long term community projects.

"You don't know how much our little area has to offer," said Mrs. Vergin, in moderating the latest meeting. "Yet, as a community, we need to know what each other is doing.

Communication is one of the things we lack."

Harry Kirk voiced support for the concept, but also warned that if the council has too many members or meets too often, it may be ineffective.

"All of us do an awful lot of things and our time is limited, but this organization is important and needs to be put together on a formal basis," said Kirk.

Lewis Wint had similar concerns. "I think you have to be very careful about getting bogged down with too many meetings. I certainly support the concept but there are pitfalls."

Township Supervisor Collin Walls reported that talks had begun with an attorney to draft by-laws for the CCC. One of the hang-ups already encountered was whether to nominate 5, 7, or 9 members to the council.

Walls also asked that the council consider lending assistance to area residents in need. He felt they were just as important as assisting organizations.

Some representatives expressed concern that the lofty goals and purposes of the CCC would be impossible to meet. They feared their efforts may be for naught.

To which Mrs. Vergin retorted, "We need to think more positively. Everybody said our Davisburg Christmas Fest couldn't happen. They just made me more determined."

"I'm a firm believer we can do singularly or collectively, anything we want to do," added Walls.

Some of the projects being discussed by the CCC are:

Community Survey: This survey would attempt to determine the needs and desires of the people in the area.

Two retiring Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commissioners and the parks manager were honored at the annual Recognition Banquet May 10 at Glen Oaks Golf Course.

Retiring parks commissioners Marjorie Walker of Birmingham and Richard Wilcox of Ortonville and parks manager R. Eric Reickel of Clarkston were recognized.

In addition, three employees were honored for 10 years of service.

Marjorie Walker served as an Oakland County Parks commissioner in 1974 and from 1976-1981. She was vice chairman for five years.

She has also served on the citizen-board member branch of the National Recreation and Park Association and on the board of directors of the Michigan Recreation and Park Association.

Richard Wilcox served on the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission from 1973-75 and 1978-81. During his first year he was chairman.

Parks manager Eric Reickel was honored for his 10 years of service to the commission. Reickel was cited for his innovative leadership and projects such as the development of Independence Oaks County Park, the Wave-Action Swimming Pool, Water Slide and other recreational facilities.

Reickel's contributions to the field of parks and recreation were also recognized. For 10 years he has been a member of the SEMCOG recreation advisory committee. Since 1962 Reickel has held a variety of posts with the MRPA including president and member of the board of directors. He is currently chairman of the MRPA public affairs committee. In 1979 he received the MRPA's Fellowship Award.

Reickel is 1982-83 chairman of the Board of Regents of the National Recreation and Park Association Revenue Sources Management School and a board member of the NRPA American Parks and Recreation Society.

Jill Gregory: From Housewife to Author...As Easy as 1, 2, 3

Editor's Note:

Famous author Jill Gregory visited Just Paperbacks last week and Nitelife was on hand to interview her.

Jill Gregory or Jan Greenberg. Take your choice.

Author Jill Gregory has written "To Distant Shores", which sold 350,000 copies and the new "The Wayward Heart", which is expected to be a big blockbuster.

Homemaker and mother Jan Greenberg lives in Southfield with her husband Larry and two-year-old daughter Rachel. She enjoys cooking, housekeeping and taking care of her darling daughter.

Jill Gregory and Jan Jan Greenberg are the same person.

Jill or Jan explains, "When I first started writing I thought, how am I going to write these sex scenes? Everybody will know that I wrote them. So I told myself I would write with a pseudonym and if I get published I won't tell anybody I wrote the book. Yet I knew if I was published I was going to tell everybody in the world. I just had to tell those lies to myself so that when it came time to write those scenes I wouldn't be inhibited."

Apparently the idea was a winner because Jan Greenberg, er, ah Jill Gregory hit the big time with her very first book.

Ms. Gregory grew up in Chicago and earned her degree in English in 1974 at the University of Illinois. Frustrated in her attempts to find a teaching position after graduation, she worked as a secretary. A year later she quit to become a fulltime homemaker and parttime writer.

Inspired after reading Rosemary Roger's bestseller, "Sweet Savage Love", she decided she could write a historical romance as good as any.

"I had never tried to write a book before, never had anything published," related Ms. Gregory. "But right from the start I knew I could do it."

After writing and researching diligently for two years "To Distant Shores" was published by Ace Books in January of 1980. Her second novel, "The Wayward Heart", just recently released is backed by a $100,000 publicity campaign and has the distinction of being the first romance to be published by Ace Books in the trade paperback format.

"The Wayward Heart", like her first novel is a historical romance. Its setting is the wild Arizona Territories, Circa 1870. Young and beautiful Bryonny Hill is attending a private school when she learns of her father's death. She inherits his cattle ranch and resolves to live on it.

Bryonny meets her match in arrogant Texas Jim Logan, a gunman-for-hire who shot her father. Bryonny is attracted to Logan, but denies her feelings, and instead turns her attentions to her father's business partner Matt Richards.

She does an about face however when she learns Richards and her father were involved in a cattle rustling scheme that was responsible for a young woman's death (which Logan was honorably avenging). Logan in turn, declares his love for Bryony and announces his intentions of going straight.

So far, "The Wayward Heart" has received several splendid reviews.

"Publisher's Weekly" wrote "Gregory writes a smooth, amply colorful tale."

And "West Coast Review of Books" said "Those who devour these things (romances) should have a banquet with this one."

In explaining how she's able to write at home while also playing the role of mother and homemaker, Ms. Gregory said, "Discipline is really important. I do try to work every day, even when it is the last thing I want to do."

She also noted that once a book was started it was easy to get involved with the book's characters and plot.

"The characters start to take on a life for me. Things do happen that I don't always plan from the beginning," explained Ms. Gregory. "But things do seem to flow together in the end."

Bordello in Birmingham

Edie Adams will assume the role of America's most celebrated madam, Miss Mona, when the "Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" opens its doors June 23-July 25 at the Birmingham Theatre. Henderson Forsythe will re-create his original Broadway role as the sheriff who is forced to close down the infamous chicken ranch.

"Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" which won two Tony Awards and three Drama Desk Awards recently concluded a successful four-year Broadway engagement, but the move was premature. The public response was so enormous, it immediately reopened and the popular Bordello is back in business.

For ticket information call the Birmingham Theatre box office at 644-3533.

Jazz Concert Salutes Grand Prix

A dozen area jazz and big band sound orchestras and other featured instrumentalists and singers, will perform in the largest outdoor one-nighter concert in Michigan history June 2 at Hart Plaza on the waterfront adjacent to the City-County and Renaissance Center.

It salutes Detroit's first International Grand Prix auto race running here June 4 to 6.

Among musical groups represented, and all of them recorded, are: Jack Brokensha and Friends, Austin-Moro Band, Top Brass, Brookside Jazz Ensemble, George Benson Quartet, Jimmy Wilkins Orchestra, Lyman Woodard Organization, Stan Kenton Orchestra, Joe LoDuca Quartet, Fisher Theatre, Larry Nozero Quartet, and a highly regarded Northwestern High School Band.

WXYZ-TV newsmen Jim Herrington and WJZZ Radio personality John Hill will be masters-of-ceremonies for the concert.

OU Theatre Presents "Under the Gas Light"

LIBRARY CORNER

Pre-School Story Time at Independence Township Library is Tuesday, June 8, 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday, June 9, 11 a.m. The film for these dates is "Princess and the Pea", an animated Hans Christian Andersen legend.

Now is the time to register for the Camp Wanna-Read-a-Book Summer Reading Club. This is open to all interested young readers from grades one through six. If participants do not have a library card, it will be necessary to apply for one. Registration will be accepted through June 19 with the first meeting on June 16. A certificate will be awarded to everyone who reads a minimum of eight books.

Vacation planning this summer can have an added zest for members of Independence Township Library. The Clarkston Community Historical Society recently gave the library a gift of unique books. Four of these are "Country Inns of America". These cover upper and lower New England, California and New York and Mid-Atlantic states. Color-plates and pictures show charming 18th and 19th century hotels and inns. Directions and descriptions are given, and in some cases, prices as well.

Available are two guides to architecture in California. One is for "Los Angeles and Southern California" and the other, "San Francisco and Northern California". These contain street maps, descriptions and hours of admission.

Travelers going south or to the tidewater area will find a wealth of beautiful buildings to visit in "The Virginia Landmarks Register". Line drawings show the county location. "Great Southern Mansions" picture homes in nine states. "Maryland: A New Guide to the Old Line State" gives extensive history and description to places of interest in that area.

Superb narration and pictures are found in the most recent update of the National Trust book of "Great House of Britain". The author is Nigel Nicholson.

"Essential New York" includes the history and description of Manhattan's buildings, parks and bridges. David Gebhard's "Guide to the Architecture of Minnesota" completes the list.

POET'S CORNER

You

I've met a lot of princes, that might have stole my heart away,
a lot of knights in their imaginary shining armor.
But none of them were you.

I've shared a many of star filled nights, and a lot of very romantic evenings.
But none of them were with you.

I've had many beautiful cloud nine dreams, day dreams, night dreams.
But I always had my doubts that any of those dreams would ever come true.

I've spend many nights wating, watching and hoping for you.
But, I never thought I'd find you.

Sometimes I wonder if anyone like you existed
Sometimes I came so close to you, in ways of looks or character but,
it was never quite you.

I never believed anyone could really be so sweet, loveable and gentle as I wanted them to be.
I never really believed in fairy tales,
until you.

Now, that my heart believes that I have really and truly found you.
I want to surround you with all the love
I can give.
Now, that my mind knows and understands what my heart is telling it.
What do I do now?

Wolves Pitching Leads Team to 2 Wins

by Ron Wagner

The boys baseball team played two games last week. They first traveled to Orchard Lake St. Mary's and won 3-1. Mike Harbaugh was the winning pitcher, allowing only five hits, three walks and striking out nine batters. Mike Howe went 3 for 4 at the plate and Rich Schrader was 2-3.

In the Gary Tournament, they played against Oak Park. Mark Piazza pitched the whole game as the team won 3-1. Piazza gave up five hits and struck out six. Clarkston got all of their runs in the sixth inning. RBI's were earned by Howe, Piazza and Pete Carpenter.

Beamer Wins Twice at GOAL Meet

by Ron Wagner

The girls track team finished in fourth place behind Lake Orion in the League Meet on Tuesday. Sixth places were won by Pam-Stoecklin in the 800 and Denise Giroux in the long jump. Fifth places were earned by Marina Hamlett in the shot put, Aileen Collins in the 1600 and James Howenstine in the discus. The mile relay finished fourth and the 400 relay finished in third. Seconds were won by Ronnie Barnard in the 200, Kelley Craig in the high jump and Julie Beamer in the 200 low hurdles. Beamer took first place in the 100 lows.

This puts the team in a tie for third in the league standings with Lake Orion.

Softball Team Shutout in District Play

The girls softball team lost its pre-district game against Waterford Township last Friday 7-0. Both teams had four hits, but pitcher Annette Ulasich gave up a lot of walks. Chris Dietz pitched an impressive game for Township, striking out seven CHS batters. Dawn Willett played outstanding defense for Clarkston.

Poolmart Specializes in Water Analysis

"The person that walks into my store is there because he needs help or some service. Whether they are my customer or the competition's, they get the same help and assistance."

Peter Gannon

There are pool stores and then there is Poolmart. Poolmart distinguishes itself from the competition by claiming to have the most extensive pool water analysis laboratory within 25 miles.

And that fact, according to owner Peter Gannon is what makes his store so special. Gannon said a good part of his day is spent solving water problems for customers or education potential customers on water chemistry. He feels it's important for a pool owner to know everything he can about water chemistry.

The water analyzing process goes something like this.

"I do 13 tests and take the results of these tests which are then put into a computer which personalizes the treatment for each individual pool," explained Gannon.

He added, "Each customer who has a test run on a pool through our store has a record chart on each test and we can watch the progression on each pool chemistry to avoid future problems."

Gannon has been in the pool business for 13 years, the last 2½ years at his Clarkston location on M-15 near Dixie Highway.

Besides doing extensive water testing, the store sells swimming pools, supplies, chemicals and accessories.

Gannon said customers should expect top quality service from him whether they bought their pool from Poolmart or elsewhere.

"The person that walks into my store is there because he needs help or some service. Whether they are my customer or the competition's, they get the same help and assistance."

Poolmart, located at 5738 M-15, is open Monday-Fridays 10-9, Saturdays 10-6 and Sundays 11-4.

Machine Shop Makes Waterford Hill Special

"Many customers have confused our remanufacturing with brand new equipment."

Don Jockwig, Jr.

Waterford Hill Automotive offers a little more than the standard auto parts store.

For instance their machine shop is one of the best around. A major portion of the machine business is repairing cylinder heads and rebuilding engines.

According to owner, Don Jockwig Jr., Waterford Hill Automotive "is in this business to provide only the finest remanufacturing and machining available."

In fact, Jockwig says, "Many customers have confused our remanufacturing with brand new equipment."

Waterford Hill Automotive, which is located below Waterford Hill, has a full line of NAPA Auto parts. In addition they have the most advanced repair equipment available.

Owner Jockwig is a lifelong resident of Clarkston and has had training as an electrician, private pilot, aircraft engine mechanic and a machinist. He is also very knowledgeable about vintage cars, having owned a model "T" for several years.

Jockwig stresses quality control, proper procedures and detail, and above all, cleanliness.

"As customers of Waterford Hill will agree, our shop would probably pass inspection at any local restaurant," said Jockwig.

Jockwig said that in the near future customers will be able to expect a marketing campaign from Waterford Hill in an effort to expand customers.

Jockwig, announcing the move, said "In order to introduce more people to our operation, we will be running special price reductions periodically."
