C.A.T. Encourages Clarkston's Gifted

by Claudia Brazel

When William Neff, Elementary Curriculum Director for Clarkston, was asked how to describe Clarkston's rather new program, C.A.T. or Clarkston Academically Talented, he gave this response: "We provide a program for that percent of our student body who is operating at the top end of the scale in ability, so they can achieve as much as they can in our school system."

Neff, who is also Principal of Andersonville Elementary, and Milford Mason, Superintendent of Clarkston Schools began the first initial study into the possibility of a "gifted" child program for Clarkston, eventually formulating the structure for the program that is now in its second year of service.

Neff would prefer to omit the word gifted from discussion of Clarkston's program. He prefers the word "Talented", stressing that from the C.A.T. Programs inception the emphasis was to be on "ability". Particularly the ability to achieve.

The gifted child who may excel in a specific and or limited area is not necessarily singled out in the Clarkston program. In C.A.T., potential is not denied due to lack of expressed achievement. Instead, the child's underlying ability to achieve is examined for an above average level.

Neff credits a national trend in the conscience of educational priorities with retiring the old adage, "if they're bright, they'll get it anyway." He feels there is a keener sense of recognition for the problems of the academically talented and is glad to be able to help dispell some of the 'smart kid' stereotyping that has been made. In fact, the first unit of study in the program is centered around helping the child to see who he is. Attitude, Neff stresses, is a most important issue in the C.A.T. Program.

Other determining factors Neff suggests, in the development of improved study programs is the quality of trained instructors in that field and aware parents. Both are offshoots of the national attention given in the last few years to the above average child.

During the 1982 school year, 120 Clarkston children will benefit from the C.A.T. Program. That is roughly 2% of Clarkstons school population; coinciding with national averages and up from the 81 students involved last year.

It includes children in grades three through seven with a high percentage found in the sixth grade. Neff feels the sixth graders dominate due to their familiarity with testing and to their teachers.

To determine a child's potential for advancement within such a program a compilation of criteria must be met for acceptance into the program.

The criteria consists of three basic elements; teacher identification of a possible candidate by completion of a twenty-two question form that asks questions such as, "Does the child or can the child grasp abstract concepts?" and is answerable by varying degrees of responses: "Disagree, strongly disagree, strongly agree, etc."

Accompanying the form is a written assessment of the child by his/her teacher. And finally, there are of course, the tests. Two tests in particular are used in assessing C.A.T. candidates. They are the Metropolitan Achievement Test and the Otis-Lennon Test. When these three steps are completed they are reviewed as a whole entity to arrive at the School Ability Index, which is a resultant over-view of achievement as compared to ability.

The final stage of the process involves a screening board where the child's records and data are stripped of all identifying information and a numerical identity is given to the file to be reviewed.

All in all, it is a sound and fair method, insuring the absence of any geographical or social barriers in the child's consideration for placement, said Neff.

When asked if any such distinctions had occurred after acceptance procedures had been completed and identifiable data was available, Neff, announced that "NO" none had been found stating, "I couldn't have equalized it better if I had planned it out."

The children in C.A.T. attend their regular in-district schools four days of the week. One day a week however, each school, having its own day, sends its C.A.T. students to Clarkston Elementary where they are instructed in all areas of study by two very dedicated women.

These two women correlate independent subject material into an inter-related experience often utilizing instructors from other institutions such as Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Neff describes them as being close to superwomen and the "cream of the crop." They are Susan Banworth and Joette Kunse. Both had to meet academic and aptitude requirements of their own before becoming a part of the C.A.T. Program.

Both teachers maintain a close working atmosphere with their special students, visiting them each Friday at the child's

CAN CHILDREN UNDERSTAND THE MEANING OF DEATH?

In our experience as funeral directors, we have found that one of the most frequent questions is whether or not children can be helped to understand the meaning of death. Research has shown that children progress through three stages in such understanding.

From ages three through five, nearly all children deny that death is a normal and final event. Children this age often think of death as "sleep."

From five to nine, children can understand that death occurs, but not that it will happen to everyone. At this age, children often believe that they are immortal.

Between the ages of nine and eleven comes the adult realization that death is final and inevitable for everyone.

Psychologists say we should talk to children as naturally as possible about death, emphasizing it as a part of a normal life. Discussions of flowers, which bloom in the spring and die in the fall, can help each child understand death as best as he is able.

Lucky Fletcher: Clarkston's Outspoken Watchdog

by Mike Wilcox

He's beaten cancer on a number of occasions because in his words "I refuse to die." He's picketed City Hall because he felt our youth were being shortchanged. He's the self-proclaimed king of the Geritol set.

He's Luther (Lucky) Fletcher, outspoken political watchdog, who has made a career out of "Telling it like it is," or at least how it should be according to the gospel of Lucky.

School boards, village councils and township boards -- none of the local governmental units escape the scrutiny of Fletcher. But it is the township board that receives his closest attention.

And according to Fletcher, the current administration needs a lot of watching.

"They are listening to the wrong people," Fletcher says of the township board. "We need to consider the people of the township, not just the village."

Fletcher holds a special grudge for the Village of Clarkston. He thinks a small group of people within the village control the fates of everyone within the township.

"That small group is running everything," explained Fletcher. "They have got an attitude toward businesspeople and against growth. I don't think that's right, the township has a right to grow."

Then the fast-talking Fletcher adds, "So many people come out here to build their dream home surrounded by virgin timbers, and complimented by a virgin in the bedroom. They seem to want to retire and die, and they want the township to retire and die with them."

Fletcher's had plenty of years to perfect his caustic tongue. He won't reveal his exact age, but does claim to have three-quarters of a century wrapped up.

He has spent his life being a "Jack of all trades", being born on a farm, enlisting in the Army and serving several years, and then working as a carpenter and salesman later on.

Fletcher's career in the Army was cut short when by his own admission, "I was in the wrong place when a bomb went off." The bomb sent him to the hospital for eight months.

After a slow recovery, Fletcher was sent to the Detroit area, Palmer Woods to be exact, to install some cabinets for the Chicago firm he was working for. That was in 1950.

"After two months I still wasn't quite done so they gave up on me," recalled a laughing Fletcher.

He and his wife decided to make Michigan their home anyway, choosing Clarkston because Mrs. Fletcher had grown-up in the community.

In the late 1950's, Fletcher had his first bout with cancer. He was taken to a Chicago hospital where they operated on him, and miraculously, he lived. It was to be the first of many operations -- most at Ann Arbor's University Hospital.

"I refused to die. I have the right of refusal. I took the 5th," joked Fletcher.

Cancer did not keep Lucky out of politics. His heyday was in the mid-60's, when as Waterford Village Democratic Precinct Delegate he was honored as "having the highest turnout in the State of Michigan," during one election.

Fletcher is also proud of the fact that his precinct, which was highly Republican until he became a delegate, voted solidly Democratic.

Fletcher's one attempt at political office came much later when he ran for Supervisor of Independence Township. He stepped in for Jim Harmon who decided to withdraw from the race.

"Believe it or not he still got more votes than I did even though he refused to run," said Fletcher. Maybe one of the problems was that when Fletcher filed his campaign expense report it listed a total of 37 cents spent. Not a whole lot of money to win an election with.

Despite being a devout card-carrying Democrat, Fletcher's loyalties have wavered in his later years. He won't admit it, but some of his favorite people are Republicans.

"I believe in the Democratic Party, but not in the Socialist-Democratic Party," said Fletcher. "I believe in the unions, but I worry that the Michigan Education Association has their hand in everybody's pocket, even their own."

His reference to the Socialist-Democratic Party is a serious one. Fletcher gets dead serious when he talks about Communism and how he feels it is infiltrating our Democratic process.

Fletcher claimed a few years back, guys like Carl O'Brien, a former Oakland County State Representative, were Communist types, who had been successful in gaining influence in our state and local governments. He still claims there are Communists with considerable influence in our government.

"At the rate they are going, they are going to rule this country," said Fletcher in reference to the Communists.

Fletcher recalled taking Political Science courses at Oakland University during the mid-1960's. George Romney was governor of Michigan at the time and Fletcher didn't have a very high opinion of him.

In one Political Science class he made a speech that suggested Governor Romney was a Communist. That faux pas almost got the intensely patriotic Fletcher expelled from the University.

Fletcher has always had a penchant for speaking his mind. He doesn't mind speaking it when he has something unkind to say about local public figures, either. A few of his favorites are:

Clarkston Assistant Superintendent and former Zoning Board of Appeals Chairman Mel Vaara: "Some of the things he has done just aren't quite kosher."

Township Attorney Richard Campbell: "He carries a whole lot of political wallop in this township...way too much...and I never could take him."

Former Supervisor and now State Tax Commission Chairman Robert Vandermark: "I could never understand why after a month or so after his second election he resigned to spend more time with his family and then he took a job in Lansing that caused him to spend even less time with his family."

Over the years Fletcher has carried the torch for a couple of causes that he considers very important.

Number one, he feels that youth need much more guidance than they are getting. He would like to see the schools and the township pay more attention to helping youth, particularly youth in trouble, than they are doing.

Fletcher felt so strongly about the issue that a couple of years ago he picketed the township. That's right, the precocious Fletcher set up a one-man picket line in front of Township Hall.

"At the time," he remembered, "they had three dog catchers, animal control officers to be polite, but not one officer for the kids. I'm for the kids. Us old people, why it's too late."

His second pet project has been narcotics. Fletcher believes, like he does with Communism, that the big pushers have too much influence in our society, thus they seem to be protected from the law and are able to spread their poison potion to the younger generations.

Fletcher would like to see just once, a politician announce publicly that he would do everything in his power to stop drug trafficking.

"I don't think that will happen, however, because they are afraid of the biggies in the game," said Fletcher.

Fletcher had a few words of wisdom for the sleeping masses.

"People wait until it's too late to get involved. Others yell the loudest and usually don't have the best interest of the general public at heart. People must encourage and do everything they can to get their friends, family and neighbors involved. That's what Democracy is all about."

Fletcher also had a few words for Independence Township officials.

"I sure hope they don't raise my taxes after reading this," concluded a concerned but tongue-in-cheek Fletcher.

LETTERS

In countless editorials I have expounded upon the reasons why you should shop local stores for nearly all of your personal needs.

For it is at local stores that you get the friendliest service, the best bargains, and sometimes even the best selection.

Mrs. Eleanor Harned alludes to another very important reason why local merchants are better. Read what she has to say:

Recently the Clarkston Community Women's Club held a fund raiser square dance in which over $500 was raised to be used for community projects. When the local businesses were solicited for door prizes, there was an overwhelming response.

On behalf of the club, I would like to say "Thank You" to the following business:

The Clarkston Cafe, Foxy's, Deer Lake Racquet Club, Clarkston's Big Boy, Foodtown, A & P, Koop's Garbage Service, Waterfall Jewelers, Alexander's, Pontiac State Bank, Pacesetter Bank, Rudy's, Clarkston Roofing, Tierra Arts & Design, Coach's Corner, Country Cords, Village Sampler, Country Greens, Daisy Chain, Hair Scene, Village Book Store, The Quiltery, Inc., Village Bake Shop, Patti's New Image, Hallman's Apatheca, Drop 'n Stitch, Spring Lake Golf Course, Quiltworks, Captain Dick's Seafood Market, The Essence Boutique, Dunkin Donuts, Dave & Sons Fire Extinguishers, Mr. Deli, Pine Knob Warehouse, Clarkston Cinema, Cecile's, Speedy Print and The Flower Adventure.

How gratifying it is (especially with our economy) that local businesses continue to help the community. I urge everyone to "Buy Locally" and support our local businesses.

Sincerely,
Eleanor Harned

I couldn't have said it better. When it comes to community involvement, local stores, whether it be in Clarkston or Davisburg, Waterford or Drayton Plains, are tops.

Have you ever tried to get a donation out of a large chain store? It's nearly impossible. You have to work your way through a dozen chain of commands before you even get to the person you need to talk to.

Not so at local stores, and no one could have said it better than Mrs. Harned.

Mike Wilcox

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to the "Open letter to Claude Trim" which appeared in The Reminder on September 23 written by Marie E. Remmert. The fact that she is running for the same seat in the House of Representatives sheds a different light on her criticisms of Claude Trim.

The first criticism is of House Bill No. 5930 which she said Claude Trim and his committee introduced. The bill requires that a citizen or group of citizens who want to recall an elected official must pay 1/2 the cost. She then says that Claude Trim is afraid of the people and indicates that he is not doing a good job. I say two things in response: 1. I believe the bill was introduced to counteract several frivolous and repeated recall efforts aimed at local officials in some townships Claude Trim has represented. These recall elections are too expensive and too disruptive to the governmental process to be entered into lightly. 2. In my opinion Claude Trim has done a superb job of representing his constituents. He cares about people and their problems and is a man of honesty and integrity.

The second criticism is of the legislators putting in short and few working days. She indicated that the Legislature was in session for one hour and two minutes on September 1, 1982 and that as of August 31st the House convened only 83 out of 160 possible working days. The bulk of the work of a legislator must be done in his office, in conference, and elsewhere. I know that Claude Trim also receives numerous phone calls at home and is constantly handling Legislative business and constituents problems at home. For Claude Trim the short and few working days is a myth. Claude Trim is a hard working Representative.

Finally I would like to say that I have no axe to grind. I am writing this letter to counteract some unjust criticism. I live in Rose Township which is no longer part of Claude Trim's District. I have known Claude Trim for many years and I have seen him work effectively at the State level. I encourage the voters in the newly redrawn 61st District to vote for Claude Trim in November for State Representative.

To Whom it May Concern:

It's a shame that some of the homes in the Historical District have been aluminum sided. It detracts from the originality and charm of these homes. These homes were built with great care and attention to detail, using superior woods and hardware. To hide all of this with a man made fabrication is a travesty to the original design of the home.

These homes should be treated the same as cherished antiques. One wouldn't dream of putting formica on top of a valuable antique table.

In order to preserve the quaintness and quality of our village we need a good watchdog committee such as the Clarkston Historical District Commission. This committee has obviously researched such matters as historical exterior design. The residents of the historic district have a responsibility to maintain and preserve our village. It seems the Clarkston Historical District Commission can help us achieve this goal.

Historical District Residents,
Irene & James Russell

Dear Editor:

The Board of Clarkston Community Historical Society would like to thank the following community members and services for contributing to the 8th Annual Crafts and Cider Festival. Appreciation goes to the Catello's of E.F. Hutton, who graciously sponsored our advertisement, and to Mr. Parker and the Lakeview Cemetery crew for all their help. A "Thank You" also goes to Mr. Smith of Smith's Disposal Service, who graciously donated his services throughout the weekend. Also, please note Mr. Jackson Byers and the Village of Clarkston, who's cooperation and involvement make "Crafts and Cider" possible.

Denise Symons, President
Clarkston Community
Historical Society

Mike,

Enclosed is a letter to me showing the effectiveness of ads in your weekly paper. This letter is from Florida of a customer for my bittersweet.

Retired Michiganders apparently enjoy reminders of home.

SMALL TALK

by Rebecca Roberts

Beauty, it seems, is less these days in the eye of the beholder than it is in the purse of the buyer.

And let not the word "purse" mislead you--makeup (in case you haven't noticed) is no longer strictly a female fetish. Cosmetics as an industry is a multi-billion dollar boondoggle, supported increasingly by men and children as well as women.

It used to be that 'cosmetics' meant a little rouge, a dash of lipstick, maybe some pancake; and except for a few social strays, or actors, cosmetics were thought to be an exclusively female prerogative.

Today there is a babel of products that would confound us were we not so well indoctrinated--from Grecian Formula to conceal (oh, lord) grey hair, to blushers, polishes, night creams, day creams...

If we were to gather together in one gargantuan pile just the varieties of creams available, it would appear that the civilized world is trying to soften itself to death.

My first glimpse into the glassy world of Narcissis was as the child of a Beauty Counselor. My mother had a brief fling as seller of that line of cosmetics, and my sisters and I got to play grownup with her unused samples. Beauty Counselor had a thick pink potion called Party Pickup. I always figured the name meant the user would be transformed into a party princess, or something equally enchanting.

Party Pickup came with a tiny spatula that had a serrated edge; this little gizmo was designed to plaster the cream on, then when the magic moment came, the serrated edge would serve to scrape it off. There wasn't much finesse in the cosmetics industry back then.

For years, those creams, lotions and potions have promised youth, delivering little more than empty or half-used bottles and jars.

The wizards of cosmetology know of our ageless desire to be ageless, and they, literally, trade on it.

And if you're in your teens or early twenties, and 'old' is not in your immediate vocabulary, Revlon, Mary Kay, Este Lauder, et al, have something else they want you to buy for: exquisite beauty-flawless face, gemlike nails, leonine hair.

Men have always yearned for youth and beauty, but it is only in recent years that the modern male has fallen into the mold, and begun using makeup openly. They are now frizzing and blushing with the rest of us.

Kids, no longer content to play being grownup, are becoming grownup; they look that way anyway, thanks, in part, to the marketeers.

Despite heady promises or money spent on party pickups or formulas, grecian or otherwise, few of us will ever achieve for these Svengalis, or for ourselves, the beaux ideal.

TRIVIA

by Mike Morrow

Just as you are beginning to enjoy the beautiful Fall weather, here I come to remind you that Winter is just around the corner with my "13 reasons I hate winter".

1. GAS BILLS. It seems that every winter it costs more money for less heat.
2. ROAD SALT. If they don't use enough, you slide all over the road. If they use too much, your car rots out from underneath you.
3. SNOW. Actually, it's not the snow so much as it is where it falls, like on my sidewalk and driveway.
4. ICE WINDSHIELDS. What better way to start the day than by scraping your car windows (and your knuckles) in the cold, dark, early morning before you can go anywhere?
5. NUMB FROZEN NOSE. In reality the nose isn't really frozen. It's working like crazy, you just can't feel it because it's numb.
6. DEAD CAR BATTERY. You know what's more depressing than a dead car battery? Not finding out it's dead until after you've scraped the windshield.
7. WINTER COATS. I don't need any extra padding, thank you.
8. CAR HEATERS. Detroit made car heaters with two basic settings. Melt your hair hot and doesn't dent the frost cold. Neither is comfortable.

9. ICE. Ice's place is in a drink. Not on my sidewalk, eavestroughs or my nose.

10. SLUSH. Slush is that half-melted combination of snow, ice and dirt that usually costs me two pairs of suede shoes a winter.

11. ICE SKATING. The only thing ice skating has ever taught me is that everyone is wrong. My brains aren't all in my rear end because with the number of times I've fallen, if they were, I wouldn't be able to function.

12. GETTING YOUR CAR STUCK. What could be more exciting than getting stuck in a snow drift and gently rocking the car back and forth until it's wedged in up to the trunk?

13. TROPICAL VACATION COMMERCIALS. I really don't need to be reminded how the other half lives when I'm stuck here in the dead of winter worrying about how I'm going to pay for my car's battery charge.

Now that I've reminded you that winter is coming and cheered you up immeasurably, you can start looking forward to my columns on Christmas shopping and holiday guests. Have a nice day.

general education school in addition to the full day spent at Clarkston Elementary.

The Friday visit is for talking. For finding out how the homework is going or friendships or anything the students want to talk about or question. The superwomen are there, expressions of what they teach, how to problem solve by acquiring data, analyzing it and applying it in a related way to the problem.

C.A.T. will begin its 1982 school year October 4th. The total cost for year's program, including staff, administration, and in-service fees such as testing falls below the $50,000.00 mark.

In the minds of the programs participants it is a fair price for the future. In Director Neff's words, "It would be cheating these students to do otherwise."

Community Education Offers Pre-Gymnastics

Clarkston Community Education is now offering a Gross motor/Pre-gymnastics program for girls and boys aged 2 to 7 years. Classes will be held on Saturdays at S. Sashabaw Elem. School, 5275 Maybee Rd., Clarkston.

The program called "Tumble Tot Gymnastics" will be instructed by Kay Riley and staff. Mrs. Riley has been the Director of the Tots Gymnastics Program at The Glen Riley School of Gymnastics, Rochester, for the past 5 years, and is currently the Director of Tots Gymnastics at Steve Whitlock School of Gymnastics, Rochester.

For more information, call 673-7756 or 625-0904. Registrations will be taken thru Friday, October 1. Classes start Saturday, October 2.

Library Corner

Pre-School Story Time at Independence Township Library is Wednesday, October 6, 11 a.m. Movies for this date are "Something Nasty in the Kitchen", about Paddington Bear's efforts to make stew, and "Three Little Pigs".

After-School Movie Hour is Wednesday, October 6, 4:30 p.m. Movies for this time are "Music Box", Laurel & Hardy undertake the delivery of a piano to a house on a hill and "Musicians in the Woods", a fairytale about animals who make their way in the world.

Frank Herbert's latest science-fiction, "The White Plague" has been added to the adult section of the library. He is the author of the Dune series. Three non-fiction just in include: "Straight Talk About Small Business" by Kenneth J. Albert, "Polish Cookbook" from the Culinary Art Institute and "Epilepsy" by Allen H. Middleton. This last book is a handbook for patients, parents and teachers as well as health and social workers.

In the junior section, six new mysteries have been added to the "Trixie Belden" series by Kathryn Kenny as well as "The Yellow House Mystery", a Boxcar Children story by Gertrude Chandler Warner. A two-volume set of National Geographic's "Book of Mammals" is just in. These are non-fiction reference books to be used in the library.

A Sneak Preview of GM's New Orion Plant

The new General Motors plant in Lake Orion won't officially begin operation until the Summer of 1983. However, construction crews were putting their finishing touches on the country's largest manufacturing facility last week and in early October experimental production is expected to begin.

Would You Believe...

- The parking lot will hold 3000 cars
- Assembly plant is 3 million square feet under roof.
- The line is built to produce 75 cars per hour
- There will be 2567 units in various forms of production on the assembly line from one end to the other.
- From start it takes approximately 17-20 man hours to produce a final car.
- There is 20,000 tons of structural steel in the plant
- They moved 7 million cubic yards of dirt for production of the plant.

HEADACHES FOR 35 YEARS

Doe Finkbeiner

Doe suffered with headaches for 35 years. She was diagnosed as having migraine headaches, and was given strong pain killers to relieve the pain. The medication upset her stomach and after a time didn't rid her of the problem. At times the headaches were so bad she was immobile for up to a week.

She tried Chiropractic because she was tired of pain killers all the time, and found a lasting relief. Now she is much happier and has no more depression which accompanied the headaches. She only wishes she would have found Chiropractic sooner.

There are many causes of headaches. Some have a simple explanation such as overindulgence in food or drink, but any head pain should send a thinking person to a Doctor of Chiropractic.

One of the most frequent causes of headaches is a misalignment of one or more vertebrae in the neck. When these bones are misaligned they put pressure on nerves which pass between them, and produce pain in the head region.

Your Doctor of Chiropractic is the only doctor trained specifically to realign those bones and take the pressure off the nerve as Mrs. Finkbeiner realized.

Friend of the Court

by Roland C. Fancher, ESQ.

Last year about this time, I wrote an article dealing with statistical information regarding the volume of cases handled by the Office of the Friend of the Court. I recently was provided with some "historical" information of some interest which shows how this volume has increased.

In 1975, the Office of the Friend of the Court handled 20,015 divorce, paternity and family support cases, of which 6,899 involved public assistance. At the end of 1981, the Office bore responsibility for 41,886 cases, of which 14,394 involved public assistance. At the beginning of September, 1982 the active cases numbered 43,250, including 15,221 public assistance cases.

In cases involving public assistance, Oakland County receives fifteen (15%) percent of monies collected by the Friend of the Court. This money is received through payment from the federal government under the cooperative reimbursement program as an incentive for collection of child support. In 1975, the county received $285,155 in these cooperative reimbursement funds. By the end of 1981, this figure had risen to $1,122,444 annually. This money goes into the Oakland County General Fund, and assists in the overall county budget, not only that of the Friend of the Court.

As anyone with a domestic relations case with our office is aware, state law requires that an eighteen ($18) dollar annual service fee be paid on any case involving support payments through the Friend of the Court. These monies also go into the general fund. In 1975, $256,769 was paid in service fees. In 1981, this amount had increased to $419,038.

If a case is taken before a judge and involves court time, the judge may assess court costs. These are usually in the amount of fifty or one hundred dollars. In 1975, $12,975 was assessed in court costs. In 1981, this figure had increased to $31,283. Until recently, this money also went into the general fund. Now, however, this money goes into a Friend of the Court fund. Exactly how these monies will be used has not yet been determined.

In 1978, the federal cooperative reimbursement program began assisting the county with payment of a portion of the administrative costs involved in support enforcement in non-public assistance cases. In that year, the Oakland County General Fund received $165,373 in such reimbursement. By 1981, this figure had increased to $608,840. (While many counties maintain separate employees to handle public assistance cases, Oakland County does not. In Oakland County, the same employees handle both types of cases.)

In summary, in 1975 Oakland County received $554,899 through the operations of the Friend of the Court. In 1981, $1,161,379 was received. Obviously, this money assists in maintaining the operations of county government. While the primary goal of the Friend of the Court is to insure that minor children receive the support to which they are legally entitled, the taxpayers of Oakland County also receive financial benefits as a result of Friend of the Court operations.

If you have questions involving the operations of the Friend of the Court, address them to Mr. Fancher in care of The Reminder. Questions regarding individual cases should be sent directly to the Friend of the Court, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, MI 48053.

Blagg Named Merit Semifinalist

Clarkston Senior High School Senior, Jeff Blagg was named as a semifinalist in the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

The names of about 15,000 Semifinalists in the competition for some 5,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in the spring of 1983 were announced by National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC). These young men and women represent the top half of one percent of each state's high school senior class.

Over one million students attending some 18,000 U.S. secondary schools entered the competition by taking the PSAT/NMSQT in 1981 when most of them were juniors. Those designated as Semifinalists are being honored publicly as the highest scorers in their respective states; in addition, they are being identified to colleges and universities in the hope of increasing educational opportunities for these academically able young students.

Experience Reigns at Klassy Klip

"Few people can say they enjoy their job. I feel fortunate that I enjoy doing the work I do and it shows in the finished product."

Those are the words of Jill Lutz, who with husband Mel, own Jill's Klassy Klip, a dog grooming shop in Drayton Plains. The Lutz's have combined several years of experience, good personnel and an enthusiastic approach to business to make their shop one of the busiest around.

The shop, located at 4100 W. Walton, is a complete all breed dog grooming service.

According to Mrs. Lutz, "Dog grooming is more than a haircut. Proper brushing, nail trimming, ear cleaning, preparing dogs for a bath, bathing, and a smooth scissor finish, are all part of the grooming process."

The shop speciality is scissor finishing and fluff drying. Mrs. Lutz is also proud of the fact that they do all their grooming without the use of tranquilizers.

At times, that can be risky, but the Lutz's and their able staff have plenty of experience. Before coming to this area the Lutz's owned a grooming shop in Colorado Springs, Colorado, where they fine tuned their craft for fifteen years.

The shop's other groomer, Shirley Rent, has 20 years experience in grooming dogs. The rest of the staff, Alice McCray (animal preparation), Robyn Elmy (bather) and Cammy Gardner (apprentice groomer) have each developed their particular forte successfully.

As well as dog grooming, Jill's Klassy Klip offers a good variety of pet supplies. Hours are by appointment.

Lions Will Visit Tune Saloon

What are the Detroit Lions doing now that they are "on strike"?

Four of them will be at the Tune Saloon October 4th, to sign autographs, talk with fans and generally help business during the store's annual "Meet the Lions Sale".

The Detroit Lions participating in the sale are Al "Bubba" Baker, Dexter Bussey, Ken Callicutt and Ken Fantetti.

Inviting celebrities out to promote his business is nothing new to Tune Saloon owner Tim Lyons. He has been doing it for several years, first as owner of Music Saloons, Inc., with stores in Waterford and Pontiac, then as store manager for Harmony House, and now as owner of the Tune Saloon.

Lyons, who has been in the records, tapes, electronics-video business for 17 years, has plenty of expert help.

Wife, Reggie, who is a former buyer for Perry Drugs, runs the Tune Saloon office. Doug Inscho, who is a partner with Tim in their new home video section, is an expert in that field. Rick Collins, who operates the Tune Saloon Stereo Installation Garage holds a certified mechanics license and has five years car stereo experience.

Two other employees, Kurt Retzloff, who has seven year's of record experience and Ed Moran, who is licensed in television and stereo repair contribute greatly to the business.

According to Lyons, Tune Saloon is an all-purpose store. Customers can buy, trade or sell records and tapes; as well as purchase car stereos, home video games and equipment, movies and accessories.

Lyons explains, "Customers are able to bring in their unwanted car stereos, records, tapes, video games, movies or equipment, to trade for other products or sell for cash." "We go out of our way to meet any product price, or surpass the competitors in personal service for our customers," added Lyons.
