Thendara- Two-Thirds of the Way to Utopia

by Claudia Brazel

Imagine densely wooded land with rolling hills, winding roads, and quiet nights without city lights to detract from the stars.

Although descriptive of Northern Michigan the sentence above refers instead to a small northeastern community of Independence Township called Thendara Park.

Nestled in the gentle hills around Walters Lake, 1½ miles northeast of Pine Knob Ski Lodge, 3 miles from Independence Oaks Park and adjacent to Clarkston Golf Course; Thendara Park offers its 163 homeowners the natural beauty and recreational opportunities common to northern vacation sites.

The homes vary in design, although contemporary styles seem to adapt well to the mounting building sites and rustic setting.

Many of the areas residents came from communities more developed, in a 'city sense, than Clarkston yet from their diverse backgrounds and interests they unite in their common respect and appreciation for nature.

Most of Thendara's residents say that a desire for privacy and peace and quiet, along with a love for the naturalistic beauty of the land prompted their move there.

Resident and Road Association Treasurer, Walter Eidam, summed up the feeling of many Thendara residents when he remarked recently that, "Living in Thendara Park is like being two-thirds of the way to Utopia." The missing one-third is primarily a problem with the roads and differences of opinion it creates for the neighborhood.

Platted in 1925, by Wayland and Louise Stearns, Thendara, "Land of Enchantment," was created without today's development guidelines and restrictions. Neither drainage or road improvements were required by the county or township in their acceptance of the private road system plat.

In the very early years, roads were impassable much of the year. Longtime residents can recall a time when neither mail nor bus service was available to Thendara residents beyond the Eston Road and Algonquin Road intersection. During that time residents often had to park their cars at the neighborhood's edge and walk in.

As the year's passed and more pioneering souls moved into the area, individuals united in their efforts to improve the road system. The fact that the roads were private brought little assistance from local government and none from county services.

Doing their best to grade and plow the roads with private and borrowed equipment these early residents of Thendara realized rather quickly that the improvement of the roads was going to be a big job. Initially, improvement projects were done only as the need arose, which it frequently did.

Overwhelmed by the extensive work needed and the cost involved, several residents began a petition drive to have the roads accepted by the County road system. When county requirements for road conditions, prior to their acceptance, were found to be cost prohibitive and needed signatures could not be acquired, residents again reconstructed their own road maintenance efforts.

Under road presidents Jim Bowles and Jeff Jeffries, an annual program for maintenance and up-grading was initiated. While concentrating on snowplowing and road grading primarily, the Thendara Road Association also began up-grading roads by adding gravel and culverts as they could afford them. The cost was high and progress was slow, further hindered by the failure of some residents to participate in the program.

Serving Oakland County For More Than Seven Years

Still, efforts were successful enough to allow mail and bus service.

During the course of time, efforts were also made by road association members to have the Thendara Park area granted Village status. The creation of Thendara Park Village would have made state gas and weight tax collections available for road improvement and maintenance. It was estimated that around $20,000 would have been made available for Thendara's use.

The move to become a village fell along the wayside, primarily because it would have meant the creation of another government level including at least a full time clerk and several part-time village officials.

Once again denied outside aid, Thendara residents returned to their own self sufficiency. By this time however, more individuals had purchased sites and built homes and the larger areas of undeveloped land had changed hands also.

In the summer of 1959, Jack Raisin began purchasing the vacant land in block pieces from a couple named Zack.

The Zack's had purchased the area from the Stearn's and were operating a hotel and restore clubhouse from the Thendara Park

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE REMINDER THURSDAY, MARCH 3, 1983

Country Club Estates, large white clubhouse that is occupied today by Jack Raisin's son Dick Raisin.

The Zack's had their own experience with Thendara's road system when changes they wished to make took them to the State Supreme Court. The Zack's were successful in rerouting the areas entrance around clubhouse property rather than through it.

By 1965 Jack Raisin had purchased most of Thendara Park or had the properties under land contract or warranty deed. In 1960, Raisin had begun selling the one thousand or so 40 foot parcels in groups of three for $800. The terms requested were $10 down, $10 a month, at 5 to 6 percent interest.

Dick Raisin, says his father Jack does not believe in absentee owners and moved into the clubhouse in 1961 to oversee Thendara's development personally. Jack Raisin, only recently made a permanent move to Florida, leaving his son Dick to supervise the family's interests in Thendara Park.

Throughout the 1970's individual homeowners increased in Thendara and so did the controversy over the road conditions.

The Road Association continued in its efforts to acquire 100% resident participation

by Paul A. Rumph, D.C.

Swelling, redness, and pain in the joints indicates inflammation. Your fingers may swell. Some people can't close their hands in the morning and walk around with pain in their feet and ankles. The above are some of the indications you are suffering from arthritis.

Unless properly cared for, you can expect degeneration of the joints, loss of motion and increasing pain. Drugs only hide the real condition but the arthritis progresses. Chiropractic treatment of relieving nerve pressure has been very beneficial in the treating of arthritis conditions if caught in time.

The Rumph Chiropractic Clinic asks: "Why be sick when you can be well again?" This week only we are offering FREE spinal examination and nerve test as a public service (if you mention this article) to see if your problem can be helped by Chiropractic. Pick up the telephone now and make an appointment with Dr. Rumph. Phone 673-1215 or 636-2190.

DON'T IGNORE THESE DANGER SIGNALS:

- Lower back and leg pains
- Difficulty in breathing
- Recurring headaches and nervousness
- Numbness in hands, legs or feet
- Painful joints and restless nights
- Neck, shoulder or arm pain

If not corrected, these can lead to more serious complications

Clarkston Musicians Present Concert

The Clarkston Community Schools Instrumental Music Department will present the annual pre-festival concert Tuesday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Sashabaw Junior High Gymnasium. The program will include bands representing Sashabaw Junior High, Clarkston Junior High, and Clarkston High schools performing their 1983 festival repertoire.

The Sashabaw Junior High Wind Ensemble under the direction of Mr. Doug Doty will perform "Pageantry Overture" and "Blue Water Bridge" concert march. Clarkston Junior High School's Wind Ensemble conducted by Ms.

Julie Mathews will perform "Three Ayres from Gloucester", the "Naval Sea Cadet March" and "Invicta", a concert overture for winds by James Swearingen.

The High School Symphonic Band and Wind Ensemble, conducted by Mr. Clifford Chapman will present a varied program including Henry Fillmore's march classic; the "Klaxon", "Castle Gap" concert march, and William Schumann's setting of the Revolutionary War hymn, "Chester". Other selections will include the "Folk Song Suite" of Vaughn Williams, "Overture in B Flat", and an American tone poem by Donald Hunsberger entitled "Folk Legend".

CVP Presents "Cheaters" at Racquet Club

Clarkston Village Players are happy to announce a dinner theatre engagement at Deer Lake Racquet Club March 11, 12, 18 and 19. "Cheaters", an adult comedy by Michael Jacobs, will be the featured presentation.

The story revolves around two middle-aged couples who are beginning to wonder if their marriages are right and if they are truly happy. In trying to find the right answers, each begins to dabble in the not so right ways to go about it. The comedy comes to a head when the four meet face to face at a dinner party held by their son and daughter and everyone finds out just who's cheating on who. Although the laughs abound, there is a special message that comes through about morals and values.

Director Cheri Broome has pleasantly combined some long standing members with some new faces in her casting of this Denny Colwell production. Sandy Sanford plays Michelle, daughter of Howard and Grace, portrayed by Bob Cook and Marlene Sewick. Paul Hoffmaster is cast as Allen, son to Sam and Monica played by Bob and Carol Arend.

The evening will begin at 6:00 p.m. with a buffet dinner and a cash bar. Entertainment will begin at 8:30. Tickets may be purchased at Deer Lake Racquet Club, Back Court Restaurant, or Tierra Arts & Design. For reservations call Jane or Judy at 625-6111 or 625-8686.

Funeral Director

Why An Open-Casket Service?

As professional funeral directors, we are often asked about the benefits of an open-casket service. We think it's important that this question be discussed.

The open-casket service provides two important benefits for the bereaved. First, viewing of the body helps them "come to terms" with their loss; in so doing, they fully and finally accept that they have lost a loved one, thereby helping them through the grief process.

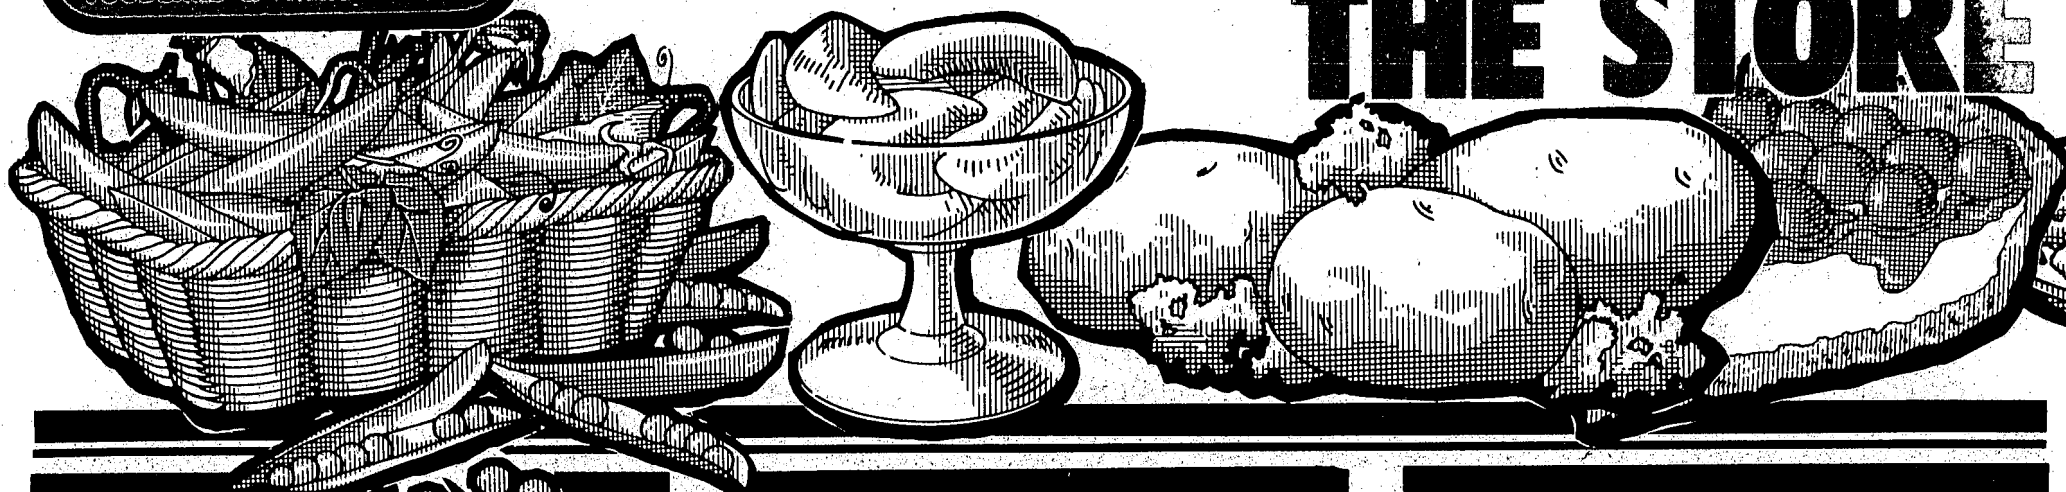

Second, an open-casket service helps the bereaved recall the deceased. Illness or injury may mar the appearance, but proper preparation brings to the deceased a visage acceptable for later recall. This is especially important for children, who may fantasize in their vivid imaginations about the body. By seeing it, their fears are dismissed.

It is generally accepted that the casket be closed just prior to the service and most clergymen prefer this. In the last analysis, the choice is left to the family after discussion with their clergyman.

I really wonder what this world is coming to.

Last week we were treated to news at the national, state, and local level, that make most of us throw up our hands and ask, what next?

Can you believe what is going on with the Environmental Protection Agency? According to news reports the agency has fumbled our money in so many instances, that it has been totally ineffective.

Then there is another report that millions of tons of food staples are being stored in warehouses all over the United States. The cost to warehouse the food is astronomical. Yet right here in Michigan we have many people starving, and literally thousands lining up each week to receive food from middle class donors. Why doesn't the government release some of it's own food, which is surplus bought from farmers, to feed the poor?

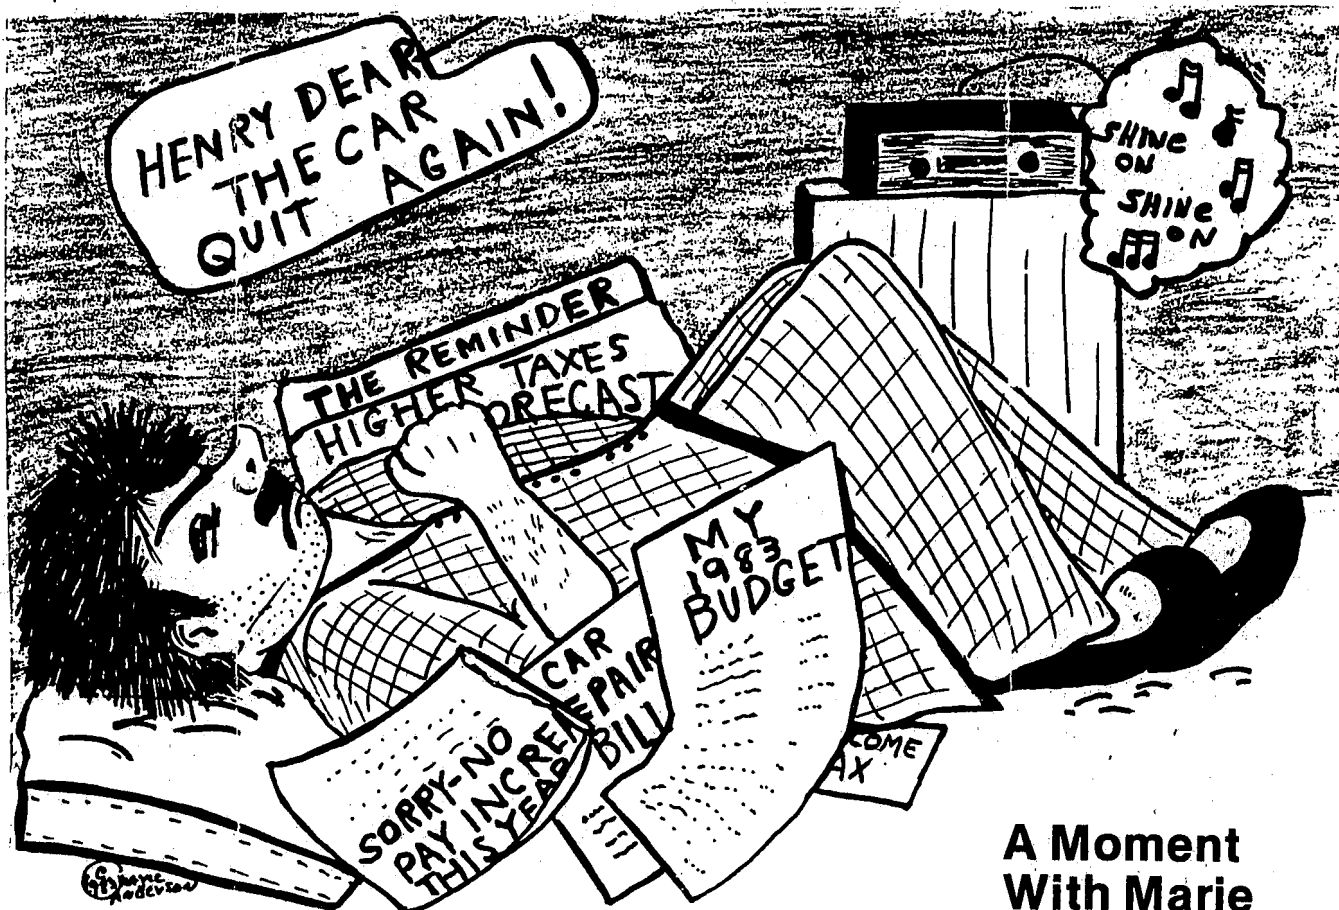

Our state is being accused of bungling the Swartz Creek toxic waste site. A university professor and some lawmakers say the problem could be worse than New York's Love Canal, and that the State better get it cleaned up soon. Yet nothing seems to happen.

One thing that is happening is a healthy increase in our income tax. Governor Blanchard and proteges felt that this is the only way the state will be relieved of its monumental 900 million dollar deficit. I do not share their opinion. The Governor, in my opinion, ought to look at his own state bureaucracy first. Several substantial cuts their would go a long way to leading our State back to fiscal stability.

Locally the unemployment rate hovers around the 30% mark and the lines to pick up food are reportedly quite long. Empty store fronts can be found up and down Dixie Highway, M-59 and similar commercial districts.

Yet despite, all of this, if one were to ask me, what next?, I would confidently answer, economic recovery. I do not own a crystal ball, nor do I belong to the Optimist Club. THE SIGNS ARE THERE, NEARLY EVERYWHERE, AND THEY POINT TO AN ECONOMIC RESURGENCE.

Sign -1-Notice all the new businesses in the area lately. In the last few years new business activity was dormant for the most part. In February, the list seems endless, and March promises to be more of the same. Their are still many that are going broke, but it is an encouraging sign, to see far more starting up.

Sign -2-1983 is the year the Orion plant begins producing GM cars. That plant is only minutes away from our back doors. It will mean more commercial development and more money funneled in to our communities. Don't let anyone tell you it won't have any effect on us.

Sign -3- Interest rates. Prime rates is fast approaching single digits. Twelve months ago economic analysts were telling us they would never again be that low.

Sign -4-Look where gasoline is going. On the West Coast it is as low as 95¢. In two weeks it should be below a $1, here. Again some doomsday economists say this is not good, but if you watch Wall Street and other indicators, gas is contributing to the rebirth of our economy in a significant way.

Sign #5-Government economic indicators all seem to point to better times. For the first time in a long time, the cost of living in the Detroit area did not increase one bit last month. Not one one-thousandth of a percentage point. Inflation has stabilized and housing elsewhere in the nation is on an upswing.

Yes, despite all our problems, better days are coming. Mark my words.

SMALL TALK

by Rebecca Roberts

Something -funny's going on. Is it my imagination or are we spending money these days on strange things. Like fancy toilet paper for instance. Now toilet paper gussied up with flowers and doused in a perfume that'll drive you right out of the house may have a certain aesthetic advantage over the plain white paper-smelling stuff, but its function remains limited. Still, we'll spend fifteen to twenty-five per cent or more to get the flowery brand.

This phenomenon of eccentric spending extends to some pretty exotic areas. The Pet Rock marketing explosion awhile back still has me reeling. Are we sitting ducks waiting, indeed begging, to be clipped by the first fast talker that comes down the pike?

And while we're on the subject of wierd purchases, what about some of the services we buy? Dog salons, plush havens where your pedigree (or not) pup can go for lavish bubble baths, Siren Red nail polish, and haute coiffure. Cats too. And pet hotels that would rival the Hilton chain.

The supermarket teams with nonsensical possibilities, beginning with pasta that comes in all sorts of cute shapes for all us grownups that never quite got over alphabet soup. And of course, the designer toilet paper. And speaking of dogs, there is now on the market a beef-flavored drink for our thirsty canine. (Come to think of it, why do we give dogs beef-flavored anything? When was the last time you saw a dog stalk a cow?)

Buying quirky (and almost always more expensive) items with money that in these fragile economic times, let's face it, could be spent on more practical things, is a definite indicator of something important going on—a split in the seam of the national psyche. But why?

It almost seems as if the more crowded things become economically, the more foolish become the ways to spend. The toilet paper thing I think I can understand. It's a mini-luxury, the least, we say as we pass over the blah packages for the showier variety, we can do for ourselves. It's an indulgence those still working can afford. A tiny extravagance that lets a little of the pressure of larger deprivations escape, so perhaps we don't feel the pinch quite so acutely.

As for the pet fetish, that one's beyond me, and it's hard for my farmy soul to work up much empathy there. The rest is grist aplenty for the sociologist's mill.

Friend of the Court

by Roland C. Fancher, Esq.

The time of a divorce is a time of change for all concerned. Well established patterns and routines no longer exist. Two households are created where only one existed before. The money that supported the one home now must finance two, and the life-style of both usually declines, at least temporarily. Attorney's fees must also be paid. There is often a loss of income due to time taken from employment for court proceedings.

Another change which often comes as a shock to separating parents is the loss of the power to control certain aspects of their life. A divorce, by its very nature, involves a civil lawsuit. As in all lawsuits, there are definite procedures established by statute and court rule which must be followed. There will be court orders restricting the activities and behavior of the parties. These orders may be in the nature of an injunction preventing the parties from harassing one another, or from disposing of marital property. Other orders will place guidelines on visitation, establish custody of minor children, and require the payment of child or spouse support. None of these orders can be ignored or disobeyed without the risk of serious consequences.

If a person fails to comply with a court order, that party may be required to "show cause" for this violation. To "show cause" means simply that; to explain the cause of failure to obey. The party must show that the violation was justified in spite of the court order. If the reasons presented do not satisfy the court, the violating party may be held in "contempt of court" for failure to obey the order and punished for the violation. This punishment can be imprisonment, fines, or a requirement that actions be taken to correct the violation.

Contempt penalties are the means available to the court to compel compliance with its orders. These penalties may be used in all cases, not just divorce. Without these penalties, the courts would be powerless to enforce its orders and order could not be maintained.

If you are a party in a divorce or other civil action, and you feel that an order is unrealistic or inappropriate, you do not have the right to ignore the court. If you do so, you may find yourself in grave difficulty. The judge will not look favorably upon you if you take the law into your own hands. The proper course is to ask your attorney to seek modification of the order. Your attorney can assist you in changing an inequitable order by showing you the proper means of working change.

LETTERS

Dear Editor:

Two informational meetings were held regarding Stablex, 2/17/83 at Holly High and 2/21/83 at Brandon Middle School.

At these meetings area residents showed a Channel 7 video tape of English facilities, in which people interviewed complained of plant emissions which they allege caused their children to become sick. Discussing of trucking routes included the possibility of a truck spillage or accident on Grange Hall Road and especially on Dixie Highway along Dixie and Susin Lakes, and the lack of equipment to save the lakes from contamination. The likelihood of air and ground water contamination were major topics. Road usage through other communities and the fact that Michigan is currently importing from other states as far away as Florida, toxic and hazardous waste to our water wonderland was discussed. One speaker noted that over 1,000,000 people enjoyed the area state land and recreational facilities with fears regarding their safety if this facility was to obtain site approval. The local group concluded that responsible methods and appropriate locations for toxic and hazardous waste facilities are of the utmost importance. The local residents concluded that the proposed Stablex location is not responsible or with safety as a high priority, proving that this proposed location is an unacceptable location to this group.

Thendara Utopia?

and maintain road service but differences in opinion split neighborhood support.

Some residents felt the township was remiss in its lack of service to private road residents and objected to the townships allowance of unrestricted development regarding drainage and roads. A few residents began a move to legally question Raisin and township officials methods of land development. Like the village attempt, legal measures never fully culminated.

Other residents refused to participate in the road association because state taxes, that they pay like every other Michigan citizen, were unavailable for use on private roads. It was a matter of principle to then, regardless of how that belief affected their road conditions.

In recent years the Road Association has collected between 12 and 15 thousand dollars a year from less than 70% of the homeowners. Present road dues are $135 a year; an unfair bite into many homeowners pockets when full neighborhood participation is non-existent.

A few weeks ago, Thendara residents were again confronted with their road system. Most received a phone call or note from the Clarkston School District Transportation Department stating that bus service along Algonquin would be terminated unless the road was improved. Stops along Algonquin service most of Thendara's school age children.

Rumblings among neighbors were heard, but like many times before one or two concerned residents quietly took their shovels in hand and began repairing the deeply chucked road. In this particular case it was the Road Association President Steve Wicklund and a neighbor Al Bane. Bane has no school aged children himself but believes in doing his share as a resident. Bus services has been reinstated because of their efforts.

Steve Wicklund, will be leaving this post as Association President effective April 1 and the search had already begun for a replacement. Wicklund had written a letter to State Representative Mat Dunaskiss asking him to consider the areas road problems keeping in mind the estimated $300,000 in property taxes Thendara residents pay, as well as state gas and weight tax collections. Wicklund also mentioned the lack of tax credit for road dues and the fact that normal public services such as mail and school bus runs are not reliable guarantees to Thendara residents. Wicklund hopes Algonquin could become a county road without costly upgrading by the residents having to be done.

Algonquin presents an additional problem because a portion of it lies in private road section belonging to the Sunnybeach neighborhood. Sunnybeach residents were not especially fond of the Thendara development and its residents use of Algonquin as their entrance into the neighborhood.

Until recently, Sunnybeach residents have refused to participate in any road maintenance programs for Algonquin-Thendara. Efforts to grade and plow Algonquin have been met with resistance from Sunnybeach residents and Clarkston Golf Course owners, who say they recognize no benefits from Algonquin maintenance and do not like the roads use as a Thendara entrance.

Dick Raisin, has stated that in the past his dad has contributed time, money and equipment to benefit Thendara roads and will do it again. Dick adds that his father has not participated, recently because of neighborhood conflicts that attempted to shift the entire burden of road improvement on Jack Raisin.

Dick is willing to contribute financially to the road fund in respect to his family's property holdings and had offered the use of their road grader to residents, adding that he would even deed it to the Association for one dollar.

Township officials who were contacted last week also stated willingness to help solve the "private road" problem of Thendara Park. In the past, the Township had been approached by Erica Eidam, representing several Thendara residents, seeking information on having a special assessment applied to the neighborhood.

The special assessment would allow the township to collect, on the tax rolls, monies from Thendara residents that would be channeled through township levels and into the private road system. Collection by special assessment would mean 100% resident participation.

When Erica made attempts toward special assessment many residents were not in favor primarily because the township would detail improvements to be done and would take bids on the work.

Thendara residents felt this would deny their road improvement goals and priorities and would end up costing them more.

Today, Township Clerk Chris Rose, says it would be possible to "cap" the assessment amount asked for to cover snow removal grading, and set aside defined amounts for road improvements. Rose added that a time limit say eight years could be named as the point in which roads would be up-graded to a level required by Oakland County of acceptance into the County Road System. At that time the special assessment would discontinue.

Rose feels that the present township board would be willing to help in whatever way it can to alleviate Thendara's road problems. The township however is not in a financial position, according to its officials, to undertake maintenance and improvement of the township's thirty miles or so of private roads.

Neighboring Waterford Township does maintain its estimated 28 miles of private roads and has for some time.

Waterford Township does not special assess for this service and only occasionally asks for additional resident support of half the needed finances on cases of extreme repair.

West Bloomfield also services its private roads although it is recognized that characteristic differences exist between Waterford, Independence, and West Bloomfield Township.

On the whole, the future looks somewhat brighter for Thendara residents then it has in the past. Last year 71% of the total monies that could be collected by 100% resident participation were collected.

It is hard for those who pay their dues to see the money used in areas where residents who do not participate live, but the magnitude of their unselfishness shines above the rest. With the presence of those kind of people how can Thendara fail to become the "Enchanted land it is named for?"

A Dream Come True

Diana MacQueen thinks Pine Knob Wearhouse, on Sashabaw Rd. in Clarkston, is a dream come true. Ms. MacQueen purchased the business in early January, and since then has been busy remodeling and stocking the store with inventory.

She shares how she decided to get in the business:

"During a visit to Toronto during 1977, I had the experience of purchasing an outfit in a very small boutique. The woman that owned the shoppe was determined to please me in the selection. The personal service and time spent with me was an inspiration. At no time since have I really been totally satisfied with service, selection and pricing found in other stores."

"After looking for two years, going to New York and various other showings my present store became available. My immediate impression was that this store had the potential to be developed into my idea of what an apparel store should be! Clean uncluttered appearance, excellent location in a pleasant suburban area, and of sufficient size to accomodate a growing clientele."

"Since opening January 1, 1983 some changes have already taken place that I consider very important: New dressing rooms with full doors and locks, full length mirrors and plenty of room."

"Another major change is inventory. I feel it absolutely a must to carry some selection in almost every size from 3-4 petite to plus sizes. I am also updating styling and color selections with coordinates and separates for every taste and age."

"I am also updating and restocking the men's wear section."

"I think the most important aspect of this or almost any other business is the desire to give your customer a reason to come to you, whether it be selection, service, price or just good old conversation. You have to prove to your customers that they will be treated the way you would like to be treated."

"From the response from our customers so far I think I am on the right track."

With that kind of attitude how could one ever get untracked?

Superclips:

Super Hair Care

If rapidly expanding your business is a goal, then you ought to take notice of Super Clips, a family hair care center with 80 locations throughout the United States and Canada.

Super Clips originated in London, Ontario in August 1980. Their first Michigan location celebrated its grand opening in August 1981. Now there are 14 Michigan locations, and one of those is located in the Harvard Plaza.

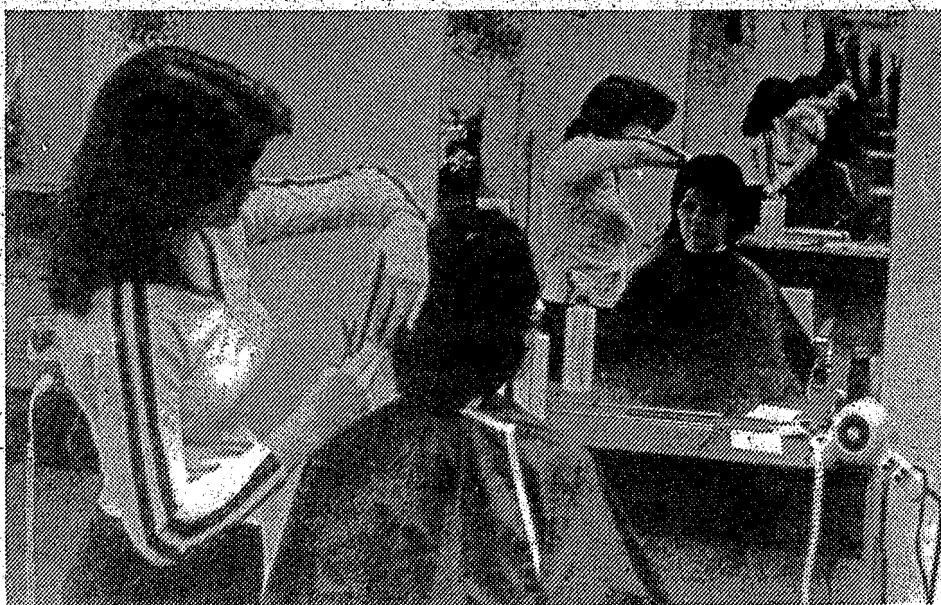

The swift expansion could not have been accomplished without the help of superior personnel. Waterford Super Clips manager Chris Frushour said all Super Clips hairstylists, which are known as Super Clippers, must be licensed and are required to complete advanced course administered by the Super Clips organization.

But superior personnel is not the only ingredient in Super Clips success story. Also playing a major role is the emphasis placed on fast, friendly and convenient services. The atmosphere inside a Super Clips is never stuffy and always comfortable.

In addition Super Clips maintains convenient hours. They are open Monday - Friday from 9 - 9 and on Saturday from 9 - 6.

The Harvard Plaza Super Clips is located on Dixie Highway, just south of Andersonville Road in Waterford.

Springfield Township Board February 9, 1983 Synopsis

The regular meeting of the Springfield Township Board was called to order at 8:00 p.m., Wednesday, February 9, 1983 by Supervisor Walls. All board members were present at the meeting. MINUTES of the January 12, 1983 and January 19, 1983 meetings were approved. TREASURER'S REPORT was accepted. Reports from the Fire Department and Building Department were submitted.

COMMUNICATIONS:

1. Letter from Marlan Hillman, Davisburg Home Builders, encouraging the Township Board and Planning Commission to explore the possibility of reducing the minimum square footage requirement for houses due to the poor economy and the cost of construction.
2. Letter from Deferred Income Plans of American regarding an alternative program for the Township in place of Social Security.
3. Letter from the Toxic Substance Control Commission regarding the cleanup of soils at both the Rose and Springfield Township toxic dump sites.
4. Letter from the Clarkston Community Schools regarding the appointment of Mr. William Jackson as their Business Manager.
5. Communication from the Health Department regarding Robert Bruce Subdivision.
6. Resolutions from the City of Novi and White Lake Township in opposition to pay increases for the legislature. Resolution adopted.
7. Letter from Mr. Steve Dice of Davisburg Building and Landscaping thanking the Township Board for their support of the drainage improvement project for Andersonville Road.
8. News release regarding the removal of contaminants from the Shindler Road dump site.

OLD BUSINESS:

1. The Board acknowledge receipt of the resolutions from Brandon, Holly and Oakland Intermediate School Districts requesting collection of half the school taxes in the summer. Actual costs for collection will be billed to the schools.
2. Ditching and crowning of Ellis Road between King and Davisburg and paving the approach of West Ellis at Davisburg will be pursued under the Tri-Party program in addition to the flashing signs on Dixie Highway at Springfield Christian Academy.

3. The Board voted to waive the 1% administration fee for collecting taxes. A 3 percent penalty will be collected with taxes paid after February 14 except for senior citizens and qualified individuals who have filed for but not received their Homestead Tax Credit and have notified the Treasurer prior to February 14th.

NEW BUSINESS:

1. The Board adopted a resolution in opposition to the location of Stables in Groveland Township.
2. A one-year extension on the final preliminary plat approval of Springfield Golfview Estates was granted.
3. The Board voted to appoint a subcommittee to work with Independence Township in reviewing the development of the Deer Lake Retirement Village. Mr. Walls and Mrs. Kramer will work with Mr. Garner and Independence Township to set up a fee schedule for this project.
4. The Board voted to allocate $1,000 of next year's budget to cover the cost of the publication of a history book of Springfield Township.
5. The action of January 19, 1983 was amended to allocate $40,000 of CDA funds for the Downtown Davisburg project and $6,800 for house number signs.
6. The Board agreed to contract with Oakland County Sheriff Department for two full-time deputies. BILLS as submitted were approved for payment.

ADJOURNMENT: The regular meeting of the Springfield Township Board adjourned at 9:38 p.m.

J. Calvin Walters
Springfield Township Clerk
