Novi voters face city election Tuesday

Decisions regarding two candidates for mayor, six candidates for three council seats and three bonding proposals face Novi voters Tuesday.

In the mayor's race, incumbent Romaine Roethel has been challenged by James Shaw, a council member since 1975.

Political observers are predicting an extremely close race.

Shaw has engaged in a strong door-to-door campaign and has stumped since the summer months.

Roethel has used the same methods with special emphasis on personal contact in recent weeks.

Leadership and the proper role of the mayor have apparently emerged as issues of the campaign.

Roethel has maintained that since the charter limits the mayor to one vote with no veto power — the same as any other council member — the mayor's responsibilities are largely public relations and promoting the city.

Shaw has told voters he believes it is the mayor's responsibility to establish a process for problem solving and programs to address the goals of the community.

In the council race six candidates are vying for three open seats.

Incumbents Martha Hoyer and Robert Schmid have been working to retain their seats on the council and political observers believe the race is for the third spot on the council.

The third council seat open is up for grabs between four political unknowns. John Chambers, 40604 Village Wood, has made his first bid for local office with this campaign. Chambers has compiled reams of information regarding the city during his campaign and has also gone the door-to-door route to get his name before the voters.

Michael Duchesneau, 42068 Liberte, a former official in Novi Township, has tried his hand at city politics since the annexation of township earlier this year. A resident of northern Novi, he has worked to establish voter recognition with residents in the southern end of the city.

Harry Densmore, 41414 Moreau Court, has been limited in his campaign by an illness. His tactics have largely been to encourage voters to view him as a "tax watchdog."

Dwight Teachworth, 44893 Galway, is another relative newcomer to the community running on a platform of controlled community growth.

Voters also will be asked to approve the sale of bonds for three capital improvement projects: construction of the Patnales Drain, construction of a new community center and improvements for the Novi Fire Department.

The total cost of all three projects is estimated to be in the range of $2.35 per thousand of assessed valuation. That means for a resident with a home market value of $60,000 and an assessed valuation of $30,000, approval of all three bond issues would mean a tax increase of $69.30.

Voters are being asked to approve the sale of $3.5 million to finance construction of the Patnales Drain. If the Patnales Drain project is approved, work could begin on an open channel designed to improve drainage between Eight and Nine Mile.

The drain is currently unimproved and cannot handle the storm water runoff which runs through it.

In addition, two-thirds of the city drains into the Patnales.

Under the community center bonding proposal voters are asked to approve financing for construction of a 34,200 square foot building on the municipal center site at Ten Mile and Taft Road.

The community center is proposed to include large multi-purpose rooms, two meeting rooms, a kitchen and various special activity rooms for residents of the city, as well as four racquetball courts.

Approval of the fire bond issue would allocate some $280,000 for reconstruction of Fire Station I on Novi Road, $300,000 for the relocation of Fire Station II on Thirteen Mile and $170,000 for the purchase of a pumper truck with aerial equipment.

Police suspect arson

Fire destroys abandoned home

A once elegant mansion was reduced to ashes last week in an early evening arson at the William B. Walker Estate on Eight Mile.

The home which once hosted social events for garden clubs and church groups was abandoned and most recently had been the scene of a very different type of entertainment.

Teen-agers of the area had found it a congenial gathering place.

Several youths were among the first to alert police and fire officials of the blaze Tuesday, October 23.

They reported they had seen a light coming from what appeared to be the basement of the home. Others said they had seen someone running from the house, noticed the flames and called police.

Youths who talked to police were from Livonia. They had learned of the parties at the Walker Estate through friends and had been provided with a map showing where to find the home.

Since the home was unoccupied, had no connected utilities and attracted teens, police suspect the fire was set by juveniles and have ruled the blaze to be "definitely arson."

Fire fighters were called to the scene at about 8:45 p.m. They found the entire house in flames. Despite their efforts the house collapsed upon itself. It was about 6 a.m. before the fire fighters were able to bring the fire under control.

Novi fire fighters were assisted for about four hours by the Northville Township fire department.

The size of the blaze made it "quite spectacular" to watch and it attracted quite a few gawkers, according to Fire Chief Arthur Lengahan.

Police were called in to direct traffic away from the neighborhood of the blaze.

Preliminary estimates of damage to the estate caused by the fire have been placed at $25,000. It was situated on the 105 acres originally purchased by Walker in 1934.

The property is now owned by Marathon Oil Company and Haggerty-Eight Associates.

The blaze was the second to occur on the Walker Estate in recent weeks.

Servants' quarters on the estate went up in flames Saturday, October 13.

Fire fighters were called to the scene of that fire while it was still confined to the second story and were able to contain it there.

That fire also has been ruled to be of suspicious origins.

The blazes on the former Walker property are the tenth and eleventh suspicious fires under investigation by police. The latest is the third suspected arson in the past two weeks.

Not all the ghosts live in the musty dungeons of English castles.

Even modern, developing towns like Novi have been known to have a few. Police Chief Lee BeGole says he hasn't met up with any of them personally, but the department gets plenty of calls from people who have.

The ghost of the cleaning woman at the old Methodist Church on Grand River still rings the church bell near midnight.

BeGole first ran into the woman in the flesh one night when he heard the bell ringing at that unusual hour. As he entered the church he saw a figure which appeared to be dressed as a monk.

She turned and BeGole says he found it was a little woman in a shawl and long dress. It was the cleaning woman making her rounds. She died not long after that, but the bell continued to ring just about midnight. BeGole says some people still hear it.

Then there are the disappearing women.

They walk the Grand River sidewalk and when you get close to them they disappear. They used to walk from the tower of the local grain elevator and down the street. No one knew who they were.

"If you took your eye off them they disappeared," BeGole explained.

He said it is likely the construction around Grand River has scared them away and they may have disappeared forever.

Another frequent report police get is of wild-insane screaming heard by residents along the shore of Walled Lake. The police chief is convinced the sounds are the result of some of the tragic accidents that have occurred on the lake.

"Some people say the sounds are made by loons, but I've never seen any

Trick-or-treat time set

Choruses of "trick-or-treat" will fill the air tonight.

And Novi police are suggesting the best time for local goblins and witches to go out for their goodies is between 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Chief Lee BeGole said that this year he is recommending parents limit their children's participation in the traditional trick-or-treat activities to those hours.

Residents who are offering treats for local youngsters are asked to turn on their porch lights at 6 p.m. and extinguish them at 8:30 p.m. or earlier if their supplies of goodies is exhausted, the chief said.

"These are suggested hours and failure of the children to respect them is not an offense. However, we encourage compliance not only for the safety of the children, but also for the peace and quiet of our residents," said BeGole.

Besides the usual trick-or-treating, the Novi Jaycees will conclude their ghastly going-ons tonight at the Haunted House between the I-96 expressway and the old Novi Elementary School on Novi Road.

The house is open at 7 p.m. Visitors are invited to park behind the elementary school and walk to the Haunted House. The Jaycee Auxiliary will offer refreshments at a concession stand near the Haunted House.

Walker home was memorable mansion

By KEN KOVACS

The old place deserved better. Members of the William B. Walker family knew the place they called home for so many years would eventually be knocked down to make room for so-called progress.

But they never imagined that the demise of the memorable old mansion, located at 39900 Eight Mile, would come at the hands of an arsonist.

Until Mrs. Walker's death in 1977, the sprawling 105-acre estate, which stretched from the Apple Crest Orchards to Haggerty, was the site of many gatherings of the Women's Farm and Garden Club, of which Mrs. Walker was a former officer.

The picturesque grounds also were visited by many area residents when it was among the homes on the Presbyterian Women's Association Home Tour in the late 1960s.

The home, which the Walkers had periodically enlarged, at one time contained diverse, well-blended furnishings, including a Victorian, marble-topped oval table, a mahogany grand Maison Hamlin reproducer player piano (said to be Mr. Walker's pride), and a stately grandfather clock — one of Mrs. Walker's many timekeepers.

In addition to its many desirable furnishings, the home had some special features which were installed to assist Mrs. Walker in the early 1970s when she was battling arthritis and heart disease.

These included an electric chairlift connected to the railing of one of two winding stairways and a hydraulic lift in the bathroom to help her get in and out of the tub.

Novi schools approve $7.3 million budget

Novi Schools have approved a $7.3 million budget for the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The board unanimously approved the adoption of the budget after reviewing it in detail during the previous two weeks.

In the newly adopted budget, the district projects revenue of $7.3 million and expenditures of about $7.2 million. Revenues will be generated primarily through the general fund property tax which is expected to net the district more than $6.6 million in the next fiscal year.

Novi Schools also expect to receive about $380,000 in state aid and $190,000 from federal sources.

On the expenditure side of the ledger the schools have budgeted $3.7 million for instruction in grades K-12. That figure includes the cost of teachers' salaries, teaching supplies and materials.

For support services, the district has budgeted $3.2 million.

Salaries for teachers are expected to cost the district about $2.9 million in the upcoming fiscal year, compared to $2.6 million last year.

Executive administration services will cost the district about $154,000 and expenses for principals' services will be about $230,000.

School board members questioned some budget figures before granting final approval.

Inquiries were raised concerning an increased capital outlay budget.

Assistant Superintendent William

Barr explained more money had been budgeted for that fund this year because in previous years the types of equipment paid for from this fund had been purchased with monies from the building and site fund.

Those site fund monies will not be available this year so more funds were earmarked for the capital outlay fund, Barr explained. He added that capital outlay funds are always the last spent and those expenditures would not be made if the district found it could not afford it.

He added that he believed the additional money in the capital outlay fund would be needed to begin replacing equipment which was bought when some of the schools were new.

Trustee Joan Daley questioned what seemed to be an unbalanced allocation of funds for substitute teachers. She said that according to her calculations more money was being earmarked for substitutes at the elementary level and expressed concern that there was an absentee problem.

Barr explained that he tried to properly categorize the monies for substitute salaries, but they might not work out proportionately. He indicated that the total allocated to pay for substitutes should be close.

Trustee Ruth Waldenmayer requested that funds for bike racks at some of the schools be added to the budget as well as a telephone for students in the vocational education program who must telephone purchasing as part of their classroom activities.

Breaking the bank

Novi residents broke the bank — the blood bank that is — at Novi's Church of the Holy Family Monday. Community Blood Bank Coordinator Geraldine Stipp had set a goal of collecting 100 pints of blood — and she had her sights set on the community record of 114 pints which was set in May 1978. She not only reached the goal but also easily surpassed the old record. When it was all over, Novi residents had donated some 177 pints of blood to the community blood bank. Mrs. Stipp said she was grateful for the support from residents of the community.

Twelve Oaks tax dispute settled

A two-year disagreement between the City of Novi and its single largest taxpayer — the owners of Twelve Oaks Mall — has been settled.

City officials said last week that the assessment agreed to by Novi Associates has been set at $14.3 million. That includes a 1978 and 1979 assessed valuation for 21 parcels of land surrounding the mall and Hudson's.

City Assessor John Merrifield said in an agreement issued at the same time that the assessment for the total mall, including all major stores, has been set at $25 million.

Disagreement over the assessment was lodged with the board of review in April 1978. When that body would not reduce the assessment the case was appealed to the state tax tribunal.

While the case was before the tribunal, the 1979 assessment was issued and it also was subsequently appealed.

In its original calculations the city had set the assessment of the mall by determining the cost of replacing the building and then figuring in a depreciation factor.

Negotiators for the shopping center said the city should use the actual cost of construction and disputed the city's figures on depreciation.

To help in the decision on what value should be placed on the mall and surrounding property, the city retained the services of Virginia Tax Specialist Hunter Hogan, who "wrote the book on shopping center development and appraisal" in the words of the city assessor.

Hogan introduced the appraisal method known as capitalization, in which the income generated versus the cost of operation is evaluated to determine the assessment.

Novi Associates first protested their income would not support the assessment, but later accepted the figures reached by Hogan and a compromise was struck.

Merrifield said he believes the settlement will make assessments of the mall easier in the future since it establishes income generated as a criteria for determining the value.

"We have established a basis for the future. From now on if they are going to dispute the assessment they will have to get their income figures in," Merrifield said.

The reduction in the assessment by $1.1 million equates to a loss in tax dollars for the city of about $13,000, according to Assistant City Manager Alex Allie.

He added that the city probably spent in the neighborhood of $10-12,000 in legal and other fees in presenting the case before the Tax Tribunal, though exact expenses will not be known.

For the Novi Schools the loss in tax revenues is about $44,500 according to Assistant Superintendent William Barr.

Both administrators said the reduction was about what was expected.

Office zoning asked north of Twelve Oaks

Plans for the construction of a medical office building on the north side of Twelve Oaks Mall near the Twelve Oaks Mall were revealed to the Novi Planning Board last week.

Specifically, the planning board received a request from Jimmy Ghizon of Plymouth for the rezoning of a five-acre parcel from its existing single-family residential zoning classification to an OS-1 (office-service) district.

The rezoning has been requested to permit the applicant to construct a professional medical office building on the property.

The planners voted unanimously to consider the rezoning request at a public hearing in the Jacob and Rebecca Furst Room of the Novi Public Library on December 5 at 7:30 p.m.

The property is located on Twelve Oaks Mall opposite the Twelve Oaks Mall. Two single-family residences presently are located on the property which lies in the extreme southeast corner of the Oakland Hills Memorial Cemetery.

The property is surrounded by the cemetery on the north and west and by the 160-acre Meyer Farm on the west. The present application marks the second time over the past two years that the owners of the property have asked for a rezoning.

An application to have the property rezoned from its residential classification to a B-3 (general commercial) designation was submitted to the city in the spring of 1978.

Opposition to the general commercial classification was expressed at a May 3, 1978, public hearing of the Novi Planning Board by representatives of Twelve Oaks Mall and the Meyer Farm as well as City Planning Consultant Charles Cairns of Villacian-Leman.

Cairns told the planners at the time that he was concerned approval of the general commercial district may set a precedent for strip commercial zoning up and down the north side of Twelve Oaks Mall.

The planning consultant also remarked at that hearing that an OS-1 district would be a preferable use of the site.

The planning board subsequently recommended denial of the general commercial classification and the rezoning request was denied by the city council.

Cairns has expressed no opinion about the present application for the OS-1 zoning of the property.

Suit filed in federal court

Walled Lake golf star seeks damages from district

Randy Dixon earned All-State honors as a member of the Walled Lake Western golf team last year.

And with his senior year still in front of him, Randy and his parents figured he might be good enough to pursue a career as a professional golfer — or at least earn a scholarship to continue his education and further develop his skills at a major college or university.

But Randy was ruled ineligible and prohibited from playing on the Warrior golf team this year. And his parents charge that his ineligibility was brought about by negligence on the part of the counselors at Western High School.

As a result, they've filed suit in the United States District Court in Detroit for damages against the Walled Lake School District, Western High School and the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

Sever and Yvonne Dixon, parents of the Warrior golfer, are being represented by H. Wallace Parker, a Bloomfield Hills attorney, in the litigation.

Parker did not report the amount of damages that will be sought through the suit, but indicated that the sum could be considerable.

"Golf is a crucial part of this student's education," said Parker. "Being able to compete on the golf team is just as much a part of his education and future career plans as being able to attend classes is for someone who wants to become a teacher."

"To deprive him (Dixon) of his right to play on the golf team is just not right," added the attorney.

Parker initially sought injunctive relief through the Oakland County Circuit Court to permit Dixon to compete on the golf team this year. Specifically, the request for injunctive relief asked the court to permit Dixon to compete in the Michigan High School Athletic Association's state tournament.

The complaint was filed October 16, just two days before the start of the state tournament, and was not acted upon in time to permit Dixon to participate in the tourney.

Parker said Tuesday that the request for injunctive relief has been dismissed on his own motion "because there's no need for temporary relief now that the golf season is over."

Parker also indicated that the suit for monetary compensation in the federal court would follow the same basic arguments as presented in the circuit court case.

In essence, Parker maintains that as a direct result of Dixon's outstanding achievements and accomplishments as a junior golfer, he has a vested right through the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to participate in the school's competition in furtherance of his career as a professional golfer.

According to the circuit court brief, Dixon's eligibility problems arose after he was involved in an automobile accident in his parents' car.

As a result of the accident, he was forced to seek part-time employment in order to reimburse his parents for the cost of the repairs, according to the attorney.

As a consequence of having to take a part-time job, the circuit court brief alleged, Dixon's scholastic average began to decline.

The suit maintains that Dixon notified his counselors that he wished to withdraw from classes, but that the counselors at Western High School negligently failed to notify plaintiff's teachers of his withdrawal in early March.

"As a consequence," the brief continues, "plaintiff was prevented from withdrawing in two of his courses and was compelled to accept failing grades in said two courses."

Parker also told the court that Dixon enrolled in summer school in an effort to improve his scholastic average for the spring term and earned an "A" in the course.

The suit goes on to state: "That despite plaintiff's efforts to give prompt notice of withdrawal from his classes and despite his efforts to improve his scholastic record during the summer session, defendant Michigan High School Athletic Association, Inc., and Walled Lake Western High School wrongfully deprived plaintiff of his right to compete in the Inter Scholastic golf scrimmages, matches and exhibitions in competition with students from other Michigan schools."

Additionally, the suit charged: "That defendants have further deprived plaintiff of his right to compete in the Inter-scholastic Golf Tournament without the benefit of a hearing in violation of his Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment Rights of the U.S. Constitution."

Halloween monsters

Monsters from the Black Lagoon? Doormen at Dracula's castle? Werewolves from some obscure European province? Wrong again. Would you believe fifth graders at the Union Lake Elementary School? Well, that's what—or who—they are all right. Students in Mrs. Morelock's fifth grade room created the facial masks from surgical supplies in special preparation for Halloween last week. And if you think Dan Cahoone, Curt Green and Frank Ball (above, left to right) look frightening, wait until you see some of the visions who come trick-or-treating at your door tonight. Residents are asked to keep their porch lights on and motorists are advised to watch out for youngsters crossing the street.

Appeals conviction

Appointee faces prison sentence

The newest member of the Walled Lake (Zoning) Board of Appeals was sentenced to one to five years in prison in August following his conviction on felony charges of receiving and concealing stolen property. The News has learned.

Charles R. Caldwell, who was appointed to the board October 16, said he is appealing the conviction to the State Court of Appeals. He is free on $5,000 bond pending the appeal.

Following his first meeting as a member of the board Monday night, Caldwell told The News that he feels he is a victim of Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson's organized crime strike force. He said his legal problems are a matter of public record and added, "I haven't tried to hide it."

The News has learned, however, that Caldwell was arrested by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department investigative unit, not the strike force. He was found guilty of the charge in a jury trial before Circuit Judge Robert B. Webster, who handed down the prison sentence August 16. An appeal of the conviction was filed August 29 with the appellate court.

"I feel I am a victim of Patterson's task force," Caldwell said, "and I feel I had an unfair trial."

Caldwell referred The News to his attorney, James H. Ebel, of Farmington. Ebel was unavailable for comment yesterday morning.

Mayor Gaspare LaMarca met with Caldwell briefly before Monday's appeals board meeting.

"I told him that I felt he was innocent until proven guilty," the mayor said. "He said the press had called him and he feels he is not guilty."

LaMarca proposed Caldwell's appeals board appointment to the council October 2, but the council meeting was cancelled due to lack of a quorum. At the October 16 session, the mayor suggested that Caldwell should be named to the plan commission. Caldwell had said his first choice was to serve on the planning panel, but added that he would accept the appeals board post.

Council Member Thomas W. Brookover objected to the mayor's attempt to change the appointment to the planning commission. Brookover said he had talked to Caldwell and felt he would make a good member of the appeals board.

Caldwell's appointment was unanimously approved by the council. Police Chief Wilford G. Hook said he informed City Manager Peter Parker on October 17 that Caldwell was "supposed to be in prison."

Parker asked for further information from the chief and was informed Monday of Caldwell's conviction and prison sentence.

City Attorney Richard J. Poehlman said he should be able to get hooked up and start operations approximately one year after we begin construction (August 1981), he added.

OMNICO is a relatively new cable television company which is headquartered in Plymouth.

The Western Oakland system is the second proposed by the firm. A Western Wayne cable television system which will serve the communities of Plymouth, Northville and Farmington is considerably farther advanced.

Franchise agreements have been approved by Plymouth, Farmington and Northville Township, while the cities of Northville and Farmington Hills and Plymouth Township are expected to act on franchise agreements in the immediate future.

Dorn defined cable television as "the distribution of radio-frequency television signals to subscribers' television sets via a coaxial cable and optical fiber rather than broadcasting the signals over the airwaves."

The coaxial cable provides interference-free signals so a subscriber receives superior audio and video reception, especially in color, even in areas of difficult television reception.

In addition, cable television enables UHF stations to achieve signal parity so that they are received with the same fidelity as those on the VHF band. In the home, the cable is attached to the back of any television set.

Dorn also stated that with the technology of the communications industry changing every day, especially with the advent of optical fibers and the use of satellites, the technical application of cable television is limitless.

Already the industry has grown to the point that it provides distant and satellite programming, educational and governmental services and exclusive sports and entertainment programs.

Also available through the system are data services, security systems, energy conservation systems and two-way communications systems.

Dorn said the proposed Western Oakland Cable Television system would offer its subscribers a total of approximately 35 channels.

In addition to the local television stations (Detroit and Windsor), subscribers would be able to view programs that emanate from Lansing, Toledo, Chicago, Atlanta, New York, Boston and San Francisco.

The use of communications satellites is one of the major factors in the wide coverage area available through cable television.

Installation of cable television also enables subscribers to receive "specialty" channels.

For example, subscribers would be able to see programs on a special sports channel, a channel of children's programs, an upcoming news channel, a religious channel, and channels which carry financial news.

Also available would be a time/weather channel, an educational channel, a governmental channel, and a community channel which can be used to transcribe local programs put on, for example, by high school groups.

For an additional fee, subscribers would be able to obtain two types of movie channels, including uninterrupted first-run movies. Dorn said a lock-box is available for parents who want to regulate which movies their children will be able to see when they are not at home.

In the future, cable television will be able to offer fire, burglar alarm and medical alert services. Individual sets will be plugged into a master computer board which can detect any unusual movement or heat within the home, according to Dorn.

The computer checks the entire network within seconds and is able to notify local emergency officials in the event anything is wrong.

"Theoretically, there can be as little as a 12-second delay between the time an alarm is sensed and emergency vehicles are on the way," he said.

In some areas, participation in the fire and burglar alarm system has led to a reduction in insurance rates, according to the OMNICO representative.

OMNICO representatives must obtain approvals for franchise agreements from local units of government before the system can be installed, however. Initially, the lines will be constructed on power and telephone poles. Dorn added, however, that the cable television industry will follow the lead of other utilities in terms of above-ground versus in-ground service.

Federal funds sought for city projects

By DAVID RAY

Walled Lake has updated its laundry list of proposed projects that may be funded by federal economic development administration (EDA) grants, according to City Manager Peter Parker. In a report submitted October 19 to the Oakland County Overall Economic Development Program (OEDP) Committee, city officials expressed interest in obtaining federal funds for four projects: expansion of the water system plant; revitalization of the central business district (CBD); and construction of a district court house.

Parker emphasized that the city is not committed to any of the projects, but added that, unless they are reviewed by the county and included on the OEDP list, there is little or no chance of receiving the federal grants.

The city submitted four projects to the OEDP panel in June 1978, but those programs were given a low priority by the county. Instead of withdrawing the plans, city officials chose to leave them on file. Parker said county officials asked for the update earlier this year.

Grants sought by the city a year ago included: $1.5-million to improve the water system; $100,000 to expand the city hall and library; $154,000 to expand the fire station; and $100,000 to improve drainage in the Tri-A Subdivision.

Projects designed to improve commercial and industrial facilities were given top priority last year by the county. Some 25 Oakland County companies submitted applications for more than 60 projects at that time, although county officials said only three or four of the 13 requests selected for further review would be funded.

Parker said the new list of projects submitted to the county would enhance facilities to serve the city's commercial and industrial areas and, therefore, probably stands a better chance of favorable review.

The OEDP, in addition to reviewing the applications, works with local units of government to obtain the EDA and federal public works act funds. A high priority on an application does not necessarily guarantee funding, county officials said.

The city has applied to the federal Farmers Home Administration (FHA) for a long-term, low-interest $1.6-million loan to finance the water system improvements, although the council also is studying the possibility of connecting to the City of Detroit's water system.

Parker said there "appears to be the possibility of dovetailing the FHA loan with an EDA grant."

Walled Lake officials as of Monday still had not heard from the FHA on the pre-application for the 40-year loan at five-percent interest. Parker added, though, that the Michigan Department of Management and Budget and the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) have submitted comments on the water project to the federal agency. Neither agency cited any problem with the application, the manager said.

The loan and/or grant funds would be used to construct a 750,000 gallon overhead water tank and to install new pumps and iron removal equipment.

The other proposed projects include:

• expansion of the sewer plant to its designed capacity.

• a $2-million revitalization of the central business district as defined by the Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce's Walled Lake Area Action Committee. The CBD includes the old downtown area on East Walled Lake Drive, the commercial district along West Maple Road, and Pontiac Trail from Walled Lake Drive to South Commerce Road.

• construction of a new building for the 52nd District Court's First Division. The court facilities are now located in city hall and in the Michigan Department of Social Services building at 1010 E. Maple. With the expected addition of a third district judge next year, Oakland County officials are looking for new facilities to centralize the court operations.

The county department of public works, which administers the court, is preparing specifications for the facility. Novi and Walled Lake city officials have said they are not interested in building the court facilities on municipal property.

County Public Works Director Milton W. Handorf assured the Walled Lake council earlier this year that the county hopes to keep the court in the city, but he later said that decision rests with the county board of commissioners and added that he would review the issue with other officials since a state law requires that the court must be located in the most populous city in the district.

Walled Lake was the most populous city in the district in the 1960s when the court was establishing, but Novi now holds that distinction. Handorf has told Novi officials that the county may look for a court site on the south side of Pontiac Trail, west of Walled Lake, in their city.

25th district seat

Caddell, Montgomery square off in county race

By DAVID RAY

Democrat George F. Montgomery, a veteran of nine political campaigns in the last 15 years, and Dr. G. William Caddell, a behind-the-scenes Republican campaign worker making his first bid for public office, will square off Tuesday in a special election to fill a vacancy on the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

The winner will serve the 14 months remaining on the term of 25th District Commissioner Robert A. McConnell (R-Farmington Hills), who resigned in August for personal reasons. The district is comprised of Commerce Township, Wolverine Lake Village and portions of White Lake Township, West Bloomfield Township and the City of Farmington Hills.

Montgomery, 45, is a resident of Commerce. He teaches political science at Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes campus and serves as a budget analyst and financial consultant to state legislative committees and agencies.

A former state representative from a Detroit district, Montgomery served six years (1967-71) on the House Appropriations Committee and two years (1969-71) as majority floor leader. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1970.

After moving to Commerce seven years ago, he was the Democratic candidate for U.S. Representative from the 18th District in 1972 and 1974, losing both times to long-time incumbent William S. Broomfield (R-Birmingham). In 1978, Montgomery was the Democratic nominee for state representative in the 24th District against incumbent Richard D. Fessler (R-West Bloomfield).

Last year, the Commerce Democrat challenged McConnell for the county board, losing by a margin of 58 to 42 percent.

Caddell, a 44-year-old chiropractic doctor, is making his first bid for public office, although he's been active in GOP politics for several years. He is a resident of Wolverine Lake Village.

He was campaign chairperson for Fessler's successful re-election bid last year and also has worked for County Commissioner Dennis Murphy (R-Nowi), whose district adjoins the 25th District.

In a special primary election earlier this month for the commission seat, Caddell topped a three-candidate field and polled 57 percent of the votes cast for Republican contenders to win the right to face Montgomery, who was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Montgomery hopes that his name recognition and political expertise, especially in a short campaign, will work in his favor. Caddell hopes that a large turnout in traditionally Republican Farmington Hills and West Bloomfield will benefit his candidacy. Farmington Hills, home town of the last 25th District commissioner, has a regular city council election scheduled for Tuesday, while West Bloomfield officials have scheduled a special civic center bond proposal election on the same date.

Both candidates agree that roads and transportation are the major issues facing west Oakland County.

Caddell favors construction of the modified version of the M-275 freeway from I-96 in Novi to I-75 near Holly, as a viable solution to area road problems.

Montgomery, one of the leaders of the Citizens in Opposition to M-275 which led the successful fight to cancel the freeway in 1976-77, opposes the modified freeway. Funds that were earmarked for M-275 should be used to designate and improve new state trunkline roads in the area, he said. Montgomery suggested that the state should designate "a couple" of north-south and east-west corridors as trunklines.

Both candidates favor the county executive form of government, and would like to see day-to-day control of county drains, roads and parks added to the executive's responsibilities. Republicans now hold a 15-11 majority on the county board.

Cable TV proposal gaining steam

Cable television is coming. Or, at least it's trying to.

Plans are underway to create a "Western Oakland" cable television network that would encompass Novi, Walled Lake, Wixom, Wolverine Lake Village and Commerce Township.

Representatives of OMNICO of Michigan, a cable television service company, have been making the rounds of local units of government in recent weeks to obtain the necessary approvals which could make the service a reality.

Two weeks ago, OMNICO representatives presented their proposal to the Novi City Council and Wolverine Lake Village Council. Both councils tabled consideration of the proposal at the present time, but are scheduled to set a public hearing date to consider awarding the franchise in the near future.

And last week, the OMNICO representatives appeared before the Wixom City Council which set a public hearing on Tuesday, December 11, to consider OMNICO's request for a franchise to construct and operate a cable television system in the city.

OMNICO Vice-president Jeffrey Dorn reported that similar proposals will be made to the Walled Lake City Council and the Commerce Township Board in upcoming weeks.

If everything goes well and we are able to secure the necessary approvals, we should be able to begin construction in late summer or early fall next year," commented Dorn.

"We should be able to get hooked up and start operations approximately one year after we begin construction (August 1981), he added.

OMNICO is a relatively new cable television company which is headquartered in Plymouth.

Quiet race in Wixom

Wixom voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to elect a mayor and fill three vacancies on the city council.

The election of a new mayor is just a formality, however, as incumbent Lillian Spencer is unopposed for re-election and is virtually assured of a second consecutive two-year term in the mayor's office.

With an uncontested mayoral race, voters will be able to focus their attention on the race for the city council where five candidates are battling for three four-year terms.

One of three five candidates—incumbent Melvin Green—has announced that he is not a candidate for re-election and has withdrawn from the race even though his name will appear on Tuesday's ballot.

The four active candidates for the three council vacancies are:

• Charles Craig, 44, of 48129 West Road.
• Nancy Dingley, 42, of 2220 Euna.
• Wayne Glessner, 37, of 1950 Hopkins Drive.
• William Wyllie, 42, of 2093 Teaneck Circle.

Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Residents will cast their ballots at three precincts: North Wixom Road Fire Station, the Pontiac Trail Fire Station and city hall on Pontiac Trail.

The three vacancies on the council were created by the expiration of the terms presently held by Green, Robert Dingley and Val Vangieson. Both Dingley and Vangieson have served on the council since 1970.

Commerce 'optimistic' on sewers

Commerce Township officials are optimistic that portions of the township deleted from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments' (SEMCOG) year 2000 sewer map will be added to the plan again before it goes to public hearings in January.

Following a meeting October 23 with representatives of the SEMCOG staff and several Oakland County agencies, Township Supervisor Robert H. Long said the regional agency staff indicated they were wrong in dropping Commerce and White Lake from the sewer map.

Although there are no immediate plans to install sewers in Commerce, the township would not qualify for state or federal funds for sewer construction if those areas are not shown on the SEMCOG map, Long said.

At one point, the SEMCOG staff indicated that the township should present its case at the public hearing in January, the clerk added, but Commerce officials countered that, if the areas belong on the sewer map, they should be designated by the regional agency on the map before the hearing.

Further revision of the sewer map, including the addition of portions of Commerce, is expected at CORD's November 14 meeting. The sewer map will go to the SEMCOG Executive Committee before the public hearing.

Following the hearing process, the plan will go back to CORD and the executive committee before it is sent to the SEMCOG General Assembly for approval.

The seven-county regional agency serves as a clearinghouse for state and federal grant applications. If a public improvement isn't shown on one of the agency's long-range plans, there is little likelihood that state or federal funds will be approved, Long said, short of a state violation for a specific pollution problem.

Also attending last week's meeting with Commerce officials were representatives of the Oakland County Health Department, the county department of public works and the county planning division.

While Commerce has no immediate plans to install sewers, township officials have expressed interest in purchasing capacity in the so-called super sewer regional interceptor and wastewater treatment plant in case local sewer system is needed in the future.

However, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) recommendation on super sewer in a final environmental impact statement calls for construction of the interceptor line only through Canton Township in western Wayne County. The area north of Canton would be studied under a facility planning grant from the EPA at the same time that the scaled-down super sewer facilities are being designed, also under a federal grant.

If the facility planning study justifies extension of the regional system further north, the interceptor and plant design would be geared to handle the extra capacity.

The EPA also has indicated that it may okay a grant for the design and construction of a larger interceptor line for Plymouth, Northville and southern Novi to connect to the existing Rouge

"Pain in the Back?"

Back pains may develop as the result of any number of contortions through which humans go. You reach down to pick up a paper, twisting slightly, and "Yeow!" when you try to straighten up, it feels as if something has hit you in the spine with a 24 pound maul. You reach up to prune a fruit tree, stretching a little to reach the limbs, and "Whoa!" something rips somewhere... or at least it feels like something rips.

And so you hunch around, hunched over against the pain and wincing at every step, until folks want to know what happened to the truck you ran into. Clearly, something went wrong. It sure did. What happened was simple... you pinched a nerve between two misaligned vertebrae and the nerve is screaming for help.

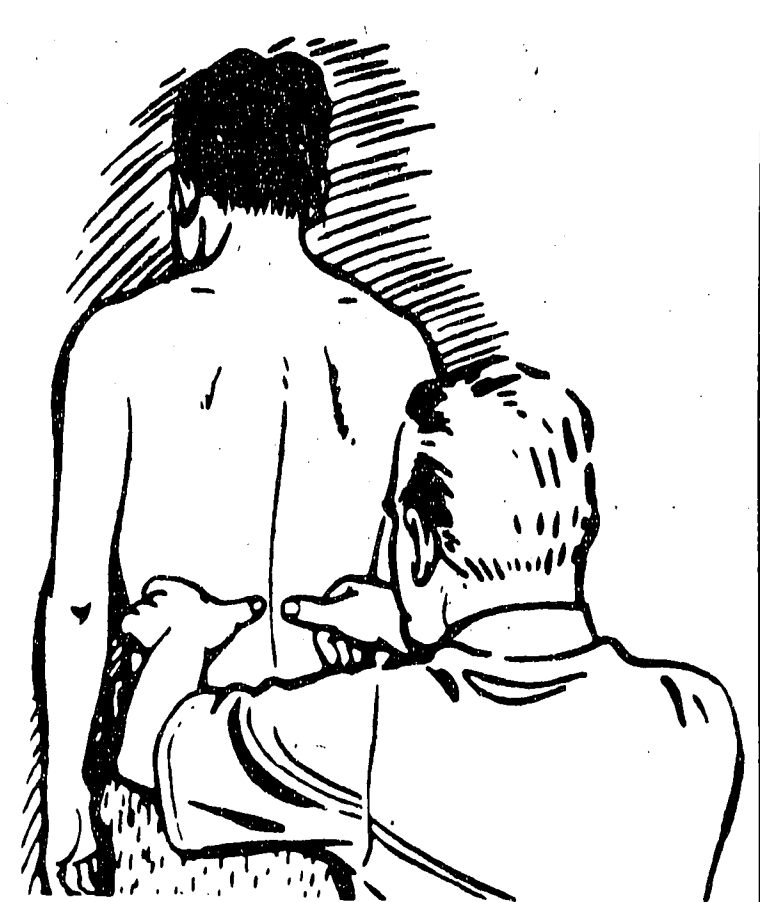

Heat (heating pads, hot water bottles and such) brings temporary relief and helps to soothe the injured nerve, but unless you take steps to remedy the cause, further distress may ensue. The cause, displacement of vertebrae, usually yields quickly to the skilled treatment by your Chiropractor.

Unless the trouble is corrected, it may return quickly and without warning, for once the vertebrae have misaligned it is easier for them to do it again. The Chiropractor's gentle treatment insures against this, by teaching the body to brace and prevent spinal slippages.

Patnales Drain to reduce flooding at Nine Mile

There are some things in life that one takes for granted until they don't work. Electricity is like that, so is drainage.

But when the drainage system fails, water from rain and melting snow runs from high ground to low ground and eventually into a larger body of water.

When drainage fails flooding occurs.

On undeveloped land, water generally finds a natural drainage course. But as land is developed, the area where water used to run is reduced. The result is a concentration of water or more water flowing through the previously established natural drainage courses.

Sometimes the waterways can handle the amount of water generated. At other times it becomes necessary to improve them.

Novi is proposing one such improvement for the Patnales Drain and is seeking the support of Novi voters to finance the project.

The Patnales drains about two-thirds of the city.

Essentially the project would involve improvements in the southeastern portion of the city which will allow that storm water and natural waterways to drain to the adjacent River.

The exact cost of the project will not be known until it has gone out for bid, but the city projects it will cost not more than $3.5 million.

By financing the project over 20 years, the city expects to incur a debt of about $27,000 annually.

To repay that debt local taxpayers would be charged about $1 per thousand of assessed valuation. That means for the homeowner with a home worth $60,000 with an assessed valuation of $30,000, taxes would increase $30 to repay the debt.

With that money the city is required to pay construction costs for an open channel between Old Novi Road and Nine Mile. The channel will be 68 feet wide with gently sloping sides and depth that varies in some places between 10 and 15 feet.

Finally, the Meadowbrook Road bridge over the Patnales drain was constructed as part of the Meadowbrook Road paving project. Since the bridge is part of the drain project its cost will be reimbursed through the drain project.

City officials have said the drain is needed because the drainage course between Eight and Nine Mile now exists in its natural state.

Since all or most of the water courses in the city are tributary to the Patnales, the unimproved sections of the drain cannot handle the water flowing through them.

Flooding at Nine Mile occurs because the streams and rivulets between Eight and Nine Mile are not improved, city officials said. The problem is further compounded by the fact that the existing dam at Nine Mile has inadequate controls for the amount of water it handles.

Construction of the Patnales is the largest drainage improvement which will be necessary in the city for the next 15 to 20 years, according to city officials.

They report that the drain improvements are necessary since existing drainage is inadequate to service the growth the city has undergone in the past 10 years.

But the city policy requiring retention ponds for all new development will handle future drainage demands, they claim.

This is the first time voters will have the opportunity to decide whether or not the city should sell bonds for drainage improvements.

The drainage issue must be placed on the ballot as a direct result of the passage of the Headlee amendment, according to city officials.

The Headlee amendment requires voter approval of all bond issues which pledge repayment through a tax levy on local residents and it prohibits any new tax levy on residents without their consent.

Before the Headlee went into effect, drains such as the Patnales were built by drain commissions throughout the state.

Communities would petition the drain commission to build a project. It would be designed and the cost of the project would be determined. Next the drain commission sold bonds to finance the project.

Cities were notified by the drain commission as to the debt incurred by the project. The city then levied millage to pay off the debt.

Since bonding debts can no longer be incurred without the vote, drain commissions have been "put out of business," as city officials say.

As a result, local governments have assumed the responsibility for such projects. The net effect is that local voters are being asked to approve, a project in which they have never before had a say.

However, city officials point out past city policy has been to regard drainage as a community-wide responsibility. They cite a number of other drains which have been installed at the expense of the entire city.

The drain is a need which has been identified by the city for the past 10 years and city officials say it will be the largest drainage improvement the city will need for years to come.

Mobile home residents in Novi may soon have a forum to bring their concerns to the attention of city hall.

A organizational meeting of a new mobile home park committee which may deal with planning, zoning and other concerns of mobile home residents is scheduled for Friday.

The concept was introduced to 11 local residents who were perceived to be leaders among those in mobile homes in meeting two weeks ago. At that time Michel Duchesneau and Harry Moorcraft were asked to be co-chairpersons of the committee.

Duchesneau said he understood the group to be a citizens' advisory committee which could become a vehicle for mobile home park residents to express their concerns to the city management.

He said he hoped the committee would deal with problems such as those encountered by residents who have had problems for constructing porches delayed by the building department.

Another concern the committee might deal with is one that exists in its own park — Chateau Estates. Duchesneau said in Chateau there has been an identified need for a fire route. He said he hoped the committee would be able to bring that kind of situation to the city administration's attention.

He said that at this point it appears the group's goals are vague. While he is concerned that the group could evolve into a "gripe committee," he said he hopes it will accomplish positive things.

Moorcraft, who lives in the Country

Cousin Mobile Home Park, was named a temporary committee head until the park has a chance to name a representative, he explained.

He indicated the role of the committee will be established at Friday's meeting between representatives of the four local mobile home villages.

Moorcraft said he feels the committee's function is to air "any problems that the city can help resolve."

He said that while the group would not deal specifically with management problems within the individual parks, if problems arose committee members from all four mobile home parks could go to Lansing and speak before the Mobile Home Park Commission to try and resolve the situation.

"We hope to formulate a group which will meet and talk over what is happening in the parks," Moorcraft said. "We would like to determine if there are problems with city services in individual or any of the four parks."

Formation of the committee comes in response to action requested by the city council at its September 24 meeting. At that time Council Member James Shaw said that most council members are aware that the city has problems with its mobile home ordinance and asked for feedback regarding the situation from the administration.

Council members discussed whether the group should become involved in updating the mobile home ordinance or whether it would deal with general concerns of mobile home residents.

City Manager Ed Kriewald said he did not believe the city could undertake a revision of the mobile home ordinance until the first of the year — when the planning board has completed its update of the master plan.

Mayor Romaine Roethel said that it had been pointed out some months ago that if the mobile home ordinance were to be redrafted those who lived in the parks had indicated they wanted input. They also want a say on possible revision of master-planned zoning for mobile home parks, he indicated.

The discussion turned to the possibility of the group dealing with general residents' rights within the park, community health and similar problems. Fried told the council it could initiate a committee with administrative input in order to get the residents' reaction.

Shaw asked that the city administration develop a list of guidelines for the group "rather than let them go off and drift on their own."

Kriewald said the administration would be willing to find out what concerns the residents have and suggested that a questionnaire could be developed.

City Attorney David Fried said the city should first find out the concerns of the mobile home park residents. After concrete ideas have been established, the city can determine how they can best be addressed.

Station replacements part of fire bond package

Fire Chief Arthur Lehanigan has a plan for Novi's future fire protection.

He has seen what he calls the first phase of that plan accomplished with the construction of a new fire station on Nine Mile and replacement of aging fire fighting equipment.

Three years ago Novi voters approved the millage which financed those projects.

On Tuesday, Novi voters will be asked to approve the sale of bonds which Lehanigan says would finance the second phase of the development of the fire department.

The city is seeking approval of the sale of $1 million in bonds to finance the construction of two fire stations and an aerial equipped engine.

For the taxpayer that represents about 31 cents for every thousand dollars of assessed valuation. That means for a home worth $60,000 and assessed at $30,000 a homeowner would pay $9.30 annually for fire department improvements.

Community center support sought

A proposed community center for Novi residents has something for everyone.

At least that's what committee members had in mind when they developed the plans for the $2.85 million building. Novi voters will be asked to approve the sale of bonds for the facility Tuesday.

With financing of the building spread over 20 years, Novi property owners will be asked to pay one dollar per thousand dollars of assessed valuation on their property. That means the owner of a home valued at $60,000 and assessed at $30,000 would pay $9.30 annually to finance construction of the community center.

Members of the community center committee concluded the existing community center on Novi Road is inadequate for long term use by the residents and that the city lacks the land to expand the facility on its present site.

So they set about developing plans for a community center they felt would serve the needs of all residents.

The committee perceives those needs to be facilities for meetings, banquets, fund raisers, showers and various parties.

They also saw a need for places to conduct a senior program, including a hot lunch program; a multi-purpose youth room for the communities' game room; rooms for special recreational programs; a nursery to accommodate and supervise children whose parents are taking part in other programs; active recreation areas which will generate operational funds, and facilities for musical, art and drama programs.

To meet these needs of Novi residents the committee has proposed an estimated 34,230 square foot building.

It would include two large multipurpose rooms for assemblies, dinners, lectures and group recreational activities.

The proposal also calls for two 1,200 square foot meeting rooms, a small commercial kitchen, and a portable stage. They also recommend an arts and crafts area, a game room for teens and a small nursery.

To generate funds for the operation of the building they have suggested a recreation area which would contain four racquet ball courts and locker room facilities.

Administrative offices for the Parks and Recreation Department, Youth Assistance and Community Employment would also be included in the building under the committee's plan.

"The tentative design concept of the center meets the needs and desires of the community as perceived by the committee," their report states. "The cost perhaps is conservative if one compares cost and size of similar facilities in other communities. The important consideration is that the committee can document the cost benefit of the design to the public."

As part of that documentation, the committee reported on the inadequacy of the existing community center.

"Although the existing community center lacks an approved kitchen it remains booked at near capacity levels."

"We agree with the city's plans to renovate this facility for present use, but we do not believe the facility can meet the long term needs of the community," the committee reports.

The existing community center is inadequate for long term use because at 2,500 square feet it is too small, they reported. In addition, expansion of the facility would require more land than the city owns at the existing site.

The building is located in a commercial area. Maintaining such a facility there does not conform with general development of the area and opposes master planning for the area.

Since all adjacent property is commercial it is likely the land on which the building stands is more valuable than the building, they suggested.

In addition, the building is in need of much more extensive renovation than would be financially feasible.

The committee cites the growing demand for the use of this facility as a major consideration in determining the need for a new facility.

They also reported that visits to surrounding communities showed the demand on Novi's community center is equal to those in communities with larger and better equipped facilities.

They also visited communities such as Berkley that has a population comparable to Novi's, and a community center four times the size of this city's.

Berkley's meeting rooms are solidly booked years in advance, they reported.

Community needs are emphasized by the fact the city does not have private developments which lend themselves to community use. The committee noted the many local civic organizations are forced to hold events and even monthly meetings in facilities outside of Novi.

The committee's recommendation is not intended to duplicate any facilities offered by the Novi Schools, they state.

The report in many communities indicate the schools take advantage of municipal community centers for educational purposes.

They also said the demand for recreational programs will continue to expand and facilities will be needed to accommodate this demand. They cited a 30 percent growth in the local parks and recreation program in the past two years.

Further evidence of an increasing demand for recreational facilities is a growing attitude to remain fit and healthy in our society today, they said.

In addition, a multi-purpose community center will add a great deal to a "sense of community" since it will allow all age groups to be brought together from all parts of the community, they reported.

The center can offer something for everyone and with its proposed location in the civic center development will offer a town square atmosphere and a significant identity unique to Novi, the committee reported.

They also said a community center will serve as a permanent location for the Parks and Recreation Department, Community Employment Service, Youth Assistance and the Senior Citizens programs.

They concluded that a multi-purpose community center is an essential facility for Novi.

Replacements of Fire Station II on Thirteen Mile is also proposed.

"Station II was built to be a temporary building, it's a pole barn," the chief explained.

He described the building as "just the bare minimum — cement, beams and that's it."

Beams inside the fire station have begun to split. Rivets have popped loose from the roof, which also leaks, the chief reports. At one point the fire department was using a wooden brace to keep the door open.

The city has paved the parking lot for the station and volunteers have done what they can to spruce up its appearance by repainting it and other work, the chief said.

"We've done about as much as we can do. It's just starting to come apart."

Approval of the fire bond issue would also allow the city to purchase an aerial pumper.

The aerial is intended to allow fire fighters to go above a fire or emergency situation. Currently the city's equipment allows it to go just 24 feet in the air.

Under the proposal approximately $280,000 would be allocated for the reconstruction of Fire Station I, about $300,000 would go toward reconstruction of Fire Station II and an estimated $170,000 would be used to purchase the pumper truck with aerial equipment.

Those figures are estimates, city officials note. Detailed plans and specifications which pinpoint cost of the project would be prepared pending city council approval. However, the actual cost of the projects cannot exceed the $731 million proposition as listed on the ballot.

With the approved increase, elementary students will be charged 75 cents, secondary students in grades 5-12 will pay 85 cents and adults will pay $1.30.

Adoption of the new lunch prices came following a lengthy discussion of the quality of food prepared by the schools, (see related story.) School administrators assured the board they would look into complaints regarding quantity and quality of food.

Trustee Robert Schram said that in his recent discussion with parents regarding food prices he found them willing to pay for the lunches "if the quality is there."

Assistant Superintendent William Barr told the board that he believed the quality of Novi lunches was comparable or superior to those of surrounding school districts.

However, he said there could be room for improvement and promised to investigate the complaints aired at Thursday's meeting.

School board members decided to raise the price of lunches after learning that rising costs of food and labor have created a deficit in the school lunch fund for the past two years.

Superintendent Gerald Kratz informed the board that the district lost about $8,000 on lunches last year. When added to the previous deficit, the lunch fund showed a total deficit of more than $14,500.

Kratz told the board it appeared the district was losing between five and seven cents per lunch last year.

He suggested that the ten cent increase could help eliminate the deficit for the coming school year and begin a reduction in the existing negative fund equity of the past two years.

Additional information showed the board that Novi Schools serve an estimated 225,700 meals to students this year. Another 16,400 meals will be served to adults in the schools, he said.

By increasing the hot lunch prices that district could expect an increase in revenues of about $24,200, the superintendent explained.

The district took in about $185,500 from students and adults for hot lunches last year, and the federal government reimbursed the schools $63,600. But the district spent more than $238,000 on lunches last year.

It was brought out at the meeting that under federal guidelines regulating hot lunches, students in grades K-6 may receive smaller portions than those in grades 7-12.

It was moved by Trustee Joel Collium that the board approve the increased lunch prices.

However, Schram sought an amendment to the motion which would have charged fifth and sixth graders at the elementary prices — 75 cents rather than 85 cents.

He suggested that since the government allows smaller portions for those grades the students are probably getting smaller portions and should be charged accordingly.

It was estimated that charging fifth and sixth graders at elementary lunch prices would cost the district about $4,000.

School Board President Ron Milam said he could not support that action.

"While I agree in principle with reducing lunch prices, I think the difference of $4,000 is important. I feel this calls for a prudent business decision, since we need to start reducing the lunch deficit," Milam said.

He added that he believed it would be better for fifth and sixth graders to pay for and be served larger portions than the elementary students.

Schram's motion that kindergarten through sixth grade pay 75 cents and seventh through twelfth grade pay 85 cents was defeated on a 3-4 vote.

His action was supported by Ruth Waldenmeyer and Sharon Pelchat, Collium, Joan Daley, Milam and Ray Murphy opposed the measure.

The board then voted unanimously to increase all lunch prices.

Controversy surrounds Wixom bid

Disregarding the advice of City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli, the Wixom City Council last week voted 4-2 to award the bid for construction of the comfort station in the North Wixom City Park.

Specifically, the council voted to award the bid to the firm of Robert and Orr, Inc., in the amount of $59,700.

The bid was awarded only after considerable debate over the legality of the bidding process, however.

Bulgarelli, the city attorney, cautioned the council that in his opinion Robert and Orr had been permitted to enter their bid for construction of the comfort station and suggested that all bids be thrown out and the project re-bid.

Council Member Val Vangieson, who voted against awarding the bid, said he felt "the whole thing is totally illegal."

Council Member Robert Dingeldey joined Vangieson in opposition to awarding the bid. Affirmative ballots were cast by Dennis Anderson, Melvin Green, Sidney Resner and Gunnar Mettala.

Construction of the comfort station represents the second phase in the three-phase program for development of the 46-acre North Wixom City Park. The first phase of the project—which included construction of ball fields and a tot-lot—was completed earlier this summer.

A total of four bids for construction of the comfort station were received by city officials on September 27. Robert and Orr was the low bidder for the project at $59,700 followed closely by the Sheridan Construction at $59,950. The other two bids were both in excess of $72,000.

Questions about the legality of the bidding process arose at the October 9 council meeting when Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek recommended that the bid be awarded to Robert and Orr.

Robert Sheridan, president of the Sheridan Construction Company, appeared at the meeting and told the council that he felt awarding the bid to Robert and Orr would be a violation of the bidding procedure.

Specifically, Sheridan said that the base specifications called for aluminum fixtures, but that aluminum fixtures are no longer available.

"My base bid provided for aluminum or stainless steel fixtures, but the city attorney, stating that he did not feel the Robert and Orr bid had been altered."

"My concern is to put the limited amount of money we have for this project to the best use," said the mayor's assistant.

Bonczek also opposed the attorney's suggestion that the project be re-bid. "If we have to re-bid this project, the increase in costs will make it unfeasible," said Bonczek.

Other council members agreed with Bonczek that the bids had not been altered.

Council Member Melvin Green said he still was not certain whether aluminum fixtures were available.

Consideration of the bids was further complicated by Sheridan who told the council that he wanted to withdraw his bid of $59,950.

The council defeated a motion to reject all bids and authorize the architect to re-bid the project on a 4-2 vote. A subsequent motion to award the bid to Robert and Orr was approved by the same 4-2 margin.

As a result of the objections expressed by Sheridan at the October 9 meeting, the council directed Bonczek to check with Robert and Orr to determine if aluminum fixtures would be provided.

Edwin Laupmanis, a partner in the architectural firm of Primodig-Laupmanis which designed the park development program, told the council last week that aluminum fixtures are in fact no longer available.

Laupmanis went on to report, however, that Robert and Orr had agreed to provide stainless steel fixtures instead of aluminum at no additional cost to the base bid.

Laupmanis then recommended that the bid be awarded to Robert and Orr, but Bulgarelli advised the council that there was a potential violation of the bidding process because Robert and Orr had been permitted to change their bid.

"We must look at the bids at the time they were submitted," said Bulgarelli. "Three of the four bidders submitted bids on the basis of aluminum fixtures. One of the bidders (Sheridan) said his bid was $59,950 whether it was aluminum or stainless steel fixtures."

"After the other guy (Robert and Orr) discovers that aluminum isn't available, he comes back and says he'll give us stainless steel at the same price as aluminum even though his original bid says stainless steel was $1,950 more."

"As far as I'm concerned, he (Robert and Orr) has been allowed to change his bid," Bulgarelli continued.

"Once the bids have been opened, you can't let somebody come in and change the bid," he said.

He said that while the group would not deal specifically with management problems within the individual parks, if problems arose committee members from all four mobile home parks could go to Lansing and speak before the Mobile Home Park Commission to try and resolve the situation.

"We hope to formulate a group which will meet and talk over what is happening in the parks," Moorcraft said. "We would like to determine if there are problems with city services in individual or any of the four parks."

Apartment complexes slow down Wixom census

It's going to be at least another week before the special census in Wixom has been completed.

That's the word from Chief Enumerator Carolyn Walsh.

It also represents a departure from previous reports that the special population count would be wrapped up last week. Walsh said earlier that she hoped to have finished the census last Friday.

In the meantime, however, problems have arisen that have caused Wixom's chief enumerator to revise her initial estimate. And those problems relate to getting an accurate count in the Village and Golden Gate apartment complexes.

"We're having trouble getting an accurate count out of those two complexes because it's difficult to find people home," explained Walsh.

"We've left call-back cards when we don't find people home, but those have met with limited success due to several factors.

"The windy weather has been a factor because the cards keep blowing off the doors and a lot of the residents just don't get them," she continued.

"The other problem is that there is no incentive for people to return the cards even if they get them in the first place."

Walsh explained that she has attempted to extract a population count from the two apartment complexes by checking back through city records. In several cases, those records have proven to be less than accurate, however.

Wixom's chief enumerator said she now is applying "quality control" measures in an effort to validate the count.

Last week Walsh reported that approximately 2,400 dwelling units have been completed so far and the population count currently reveals some 5,700 residents.

Approximately 800 additional units must be counted before the population can be verified. She added that no new figures will be released until such time as the city can verify their accuracy.

City officials are hoping that the population will top the 7,500 mark so that Wixom can qualify for two additional liquor licenses. Liquor licenses are doled out to municipal governments on the basis of population — one license for every 1,500 residents.

The city's population was verified at approximately 4,800 residents by the Michigan State Transportation Commission at its regular monthly meeting in Lansing.

Six alternatives to the proposed M-275 freeway that was cancelled by the then Michigan State Highway Commission in January 1977 have been studied by the Michigan Department of Transportation. The department's report, recommending construction of a slightly modified version of M-275, was

Response to Wixom fire sparks debate

Questions about the response time of the Wixom Fire and Police Departments to a fire which destroyed a home under construction earlier this month have prompted a reply from the Wixom Volunteer Fire Department.

At issue is the response time of Wixom's emergency personnel to a fire which destroyed the uncompleted home in the Courts of Highgate subdivision.

The debate was sparked by a letter from Tracy Verard of Cranberry Court to a Union Lake-based weekly newspaper in which she charged that it took almost 25 minutes from the time the report was sent in and the time water was pumped on the fire.

Mrs. Verard maintains that the first call was received by the Wixom Fire Department prior to 3:35 p.m. on Friday afternoon. She went on to state that the first police car arrived on the scene at 3:50 p.m. and that the first fire truck did not arrive until five minutes later. She maintains that it was almost 4 p.m. before the first water was pumped on the blaze.

Her letter, which was printed in The Spinal Column, prompted a response from Sergeant Ross Sutherland, a training officer with the Wixom Volunteer Fire Department.

Sutherland provided copies of his response to both The News and The Spinal Column.

Sutherland said documented tape recordings in the fire department show that the first call was placed at 3:40 p.m. and the first police and fire trucks left for the scene at 3:42 p.m.

"At 3:47 p.m. — not 3:55 p.m. as reported — the first fire truck was on the scene and had water to the fire less than two minutes later — not 4 p.m. as reported."

"It would be only human nature to believe that time drags when watching a building consisting of only lumber, tarpaper and shingles burn when no fire stops are included in the construction," continued Sutherland.

He also stated that his representation of the correct response times could be verified by checking Michigan State Fire Reports and the Wixom Police Dispatch Report.

Questions about the response time of the fire department were to the city council at last week's session.

John Brough, a resident of the Courts of Highgate, requested that the city prepare and release an official report on the incident.

"We just want to know what happened," explained Brough.

"In general, I think we've had good response time from emergency service personnel in Wixom, but this one kind of caught us by surprise," he said.

William Wyllie, another Highgate resident and a candidate for the city council in next Tuesday's election, said Mrs. Verard was abundantly aware of the time on her own.

Support for the version set forth by the fire department was expressed by Council Member Melvin Green who said his wife saw the fire trucks pass the Wixom Elementary School on Wixom Road at approximately 3:45 p.m. "I just can't believe it would take them 15 minutes" to get out to the fire from that location," he said.

Wixom EDC established

Wixom now has an official Economic Development Corporation (EDC).

Wixom's City Council officially established the EDC by voting unanimously at a public hearing last week to approve the by-laws for the development corporation.

The newly-established EDC will hold its first official meeting on Wednesday (November 14) in the Wixom Municipal Complex on Pontiac Trail at 7:30 p.m.

And the agenda is expected to include at least one — and possibly two — applications for EDC financing.

Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek reported recently that two firms have taken out applications and hope to complete them in time for consideration at the EDC's first official meeting next week.

The first application is expected to be submitted by the Conklin Forging Company which has announced plans to construct a major industrial facility on a 28-acre parcel east of Beck Road and north of West Road.

The Conklin Forging Company, which is presently located in Detroit, is involved in the manufacture of engine parts for the automotive industry.

A second application for EDC financing is expected to be submitted by Forrest Hubbell and Ray Petty who already have received site plan approval for construction of a motel-restaurant-bar complex on the northwest corner of South Wixom Road and Grand River Avenue.

Bonczek reported that several other firms have expressed an interest in developing in Wixom as a result of the establishment of the EDC, but that no further applications are anticipated in the immediate future.

Both the Conklin Forging and Hubbell-Petty applications would appear to fall within the general guidelines for financing established by the members of Wixom's EDC at a special meeting earlier this month.

Specifically, EDC members decided that combinations of light industrial, recreational and commercial projects would be encouraged to apply for EDC funding.

Legislation creating the EDC concept was adopted by the State Legislature in 1974 in response to a need to provide economic incentives to halt the flow of industry — and jobs — out of Michigan.

An EDC may issue government-backed bonds to help finance a project. Since lending institutions do not have to pay income tax on the interest earned from the loan, they usually can offer an interest rate two to three percent lower than is available under conventional financing.

Even though EDC financing is handled through the sale of government bonds, units of government

At November meeting

Transportation panel to act on M-275 alternatives

By DAVID RAY

A decision on a north-south state trunkline road for western Oakland County will be made November 26 by the Michigan State Transportation Commission at its regular monthly meeting in Lansing.

Six alternatives to the proposed M-275 freeway that was cancelled by the then Michigan State Highway Commission in January 1977 have been studied by the Michigan Department of Transportation. The department's report, recommending construction of a slightly modified version of M-275, was presented to the new six-member transportation commission in August.

All six commissioners said at the October 24 commission meeting that they would be ready at the November session to make a decision on the alternatives for a trunkline facility, according to James Grasman, executive secretary to the commission.

While none of the commissioners stated a preference last week for any of the proposals, Commissioner Weston E. Vivian (D-Ann Arbor) asked the department for additional information on possible north-south corridors several miles west of Haggerty Road. Last year, Vivian requested the department to come up with an alternative that would use existing roads on a corridor generally along Haggerty and Williams Lake roads from I-96 in Novi to I-75 near Clarkston.

Following the commission's September 26 public hearing on the west Oakland trunkline alternatives, the Ann Arbor Democrat indicated that he felt the commission should look into the possibility of establishing two north-south state trunkline roads — one along the Haggerty-Williams Lake corridor and another to the west.

Vivian and Commissioner Hannes Meyers Jr. (R-Zeeland), the chairperson of the transportation panel, joined Peter B. Fletcher (R-Ypsilanti), then chairperson of the highway commission, on the 3-1 vote to cancel M-275 in January 1977. Commissioner Carl V. Pellonpa (D-Ishteping) opposed the freeway cancellation.

In November 1978, Michigan voters approved a constitutional amendment that changed the highway department and commission to the transportation department and commission. The commission was expanded from four to six members. Fletcher resigned from the panel on Election Day.

Three new commissioners — William C. Marshall (D-Lansing), Lawrence C. Patrick Jr. (R-Detroit) and Roger D. Young (R-Rochester) — were appointed to the transportation panel in April by Governor William G. Milliken. Young has indicated that he favors the modified M-275 freeway proposal. Marshall and Patrick have not publicly stated their preferences for a west

Oakland trunkline plan.

Although six alternatives for the trunkline facility were studied by the department, only two plans have drawn much support — and opposition — from public officials and citizens' groups. They are the modified M-275 freeway and the Citizens in Opposition to M-275's scenic drive.

The modified M-275 freeway would connect I-696 in Novi to I-75 near Holly along a route through Novi, Commerce, White Lake and Springfield.

Walker mansion consumed by flames in Novi

The original house, which is more than 130 years old, was built on Eight Mile during the '40s, according to the Walker's daughter, Peg (Mrs. Paul Beard).

It was moved to the middle of the property in 1936, she recalls, two years after the Walker's bought the home.

Mrs. Beard remembers the family gatherings at the home as "very happy occasions spent together."

Those who visited the estate over the years also were very fond of the times spent there and of the Walkers themselves.

They so enjoyed their visits that they nicknamed the estate "Happy Acres."

But the happy times became mere memories as Mr. Walker died in 1977 and the family had to vacate.

Mr. Walker, the owner of Walway Company (a small metal stamping operation in Detroit), had sold the estate to the Levitt Company with a stipulation in the sale agreement which limited his life on the property.

Peg and her husband Paul Beard now live in Spruce, while their daughter, Ida and her husband, Louis Eaton reside in Howell.

The Walkers' only son, William Lee, and his family also recently moved from the area.

William Lee Walker, Jr., grandson of Mr. Walker, and his family now reside in Hartland. "Spills" his friends call him, and his family lived on the Walker estate for a time prior to his grandfather's death.

Some of the Walker home's furnishings were distributed among family members following Mr. Walker's death, while the remainder were sold.

The family business, which was run by Mr. Walker and son William Lee, was sold in 1978.

The buildings on the estate have been vacant since the Walkers turned the property over to the Levitt Company in December, 1977.

Since then the property has changed hands a number of times.

Orchard Hill Place Associates, owners of an 89-acre parcel of the former Walker property bordering on Haggerty, will soon begin construction of the first building in a proposed "office park" development.

The firm hopes to build a major complex which would include a hotel; a series of office buildings; a recreation complex that would include a theatre, bowling alley and racquetball courts; and a series of retail stores that would include a major department store.

Chief recalls horrors loons on that lake," the chief said.

Former residents along Wixom Road, just south of Grand River used to complain they could hear the re-enactment of the death of a state police officer who was shot to death in the neighborhood.

The first state police officer killed in active duty died in Novi Township.

When he arrived one evening after a local farmer had finished auctioning off his belongings so he could go into retirement. That evening he heard sounds outside his home and became convinced it was thieves come to take all the money he had earned from the auction.

He got on the party line and soon state police officers were dispatched to the scene. Two came on horseback, but a third arrived in an early model car.

When he arrived he pulled in behind the suspicious car. He was shot on the spot, BeGole reported. The police officer had unwittingly uncovered a gang of bootleggers.

After the shooting the car took off and residents still complain they can hear the re-enactment of the death of the first state police officer, BeGole said.

Another story is of the woman who was lavishly buried in Oakland Hills Cemetery. Her body was found on the shoulder of Novi Road the next day.

"That one has never been explained satisfactorily," BeGole said.

Other incidents are connected with the cemetery.

The firm hopes to build a major complex which would include a hotel; a series of office buildings; a recreation complex that would include a theatre, bowling alley and racquetball courts; and a series of retail stores that would include a major department store.

They have found persons in mourning who have collapsed over the graves. But they never were responsible for lighting the lights.

Some cemetery occurrences are not quite as eerie.

Three nights before Halloween a number of years ago police received a call of a funeral procession down Eight Mile headed for the Yerkens Cemetery.

The call came from a panic-stricken motorist who at just about midnight reported seeing eight people carrying a coffin. They were dressed in tall hats and black suits in the style of the 1890s.

Police went to investigate the call and found nothing. Not even a track.

The next night two more persons called. They had seen a funeral procession on Eight Mile.

On Halloween night 15 police laid in wait for the "ghosts." At midnight they appeared and were jumped by the whole squad.

The coffin was cardboard and the pallbearers were high school students working on a psychology project, the chief explained.

township, expired in 1972, but the utility company did not seek renewal at that time because of financial reasons, according to Joseph P. Ford, an Edison regional representative for community and governmental affairs.

In exchange for allowing Edison to do business in the community, the agreement establishes local rules and regulations governing the company's operations in Walled Lake.

The city council approved the agreement in September as an ordinance. The charter and constitution require voter approval of the franchise by a three-fifths majority. Edison has agreed to pay for half the cost of the election, estimated at $1,000 for its share.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday for the election. Electors in all three city precincts vote all Walled Lake Junior High School, 615 North Pontiac Trail.

Absentee voter ballots are available for eligible electors at the city clerk's office, 1499 E. West Maple Road.

Novi bond issues sound and justified

Three bonding propositions await Novi voters when they go to the polls next Tuesday. Those three propositions are as follows:

— Shall the City of Novi borrow the principal sum of not more than $3.5 million and issue general obligation unlimited tax bonds for improvements to the Patnales Drain?

— Shall the City of Novi borrow the principal sum of not more than $2.85 million and issue general obligation unlimited tax bonds for acquiring, constructing, furnishing and equipping a multi-purpose community center building?

— Shall the City of Novi borrow the principal sum of not more than $1 million and issue general obligation unlimited tax bonds for the purpose of constructing and equipping two neighborhood fire stations and purchasing a new aerial pumper truck?

We endorse all three propositions. We endorse them with an understanding that residents of most communities are reluctant to vote to increase their taxes.

Nevertheless, we believe that careful study of each individual proposition will lead to the conclusion that the propositions have been well-structured and involve improvements which are important — in some cases, critical — to the future of the city.

We would also point out that each of the propositions involves projects which have been "master planned" for some time and which have evolved as a result of the work performed by citizens' committees.

Additionally, we would suggest that the bonding propositions represent the most economical and equitable means to bring about the needed improvements. Unlike paying for the improvements through specific short-term millages, the bond propositions carry several advantages.

In the first place, bonding for the improvements will enable the city to obtain the necessary funding immediately, thus avoiding the inflated construction costs that would be accrued if the city had to acquire the funds through the length of the millage issue.

Secondly, bonding for the improvements will enable the city to spread the cost out over a greater period of time. Thus, the improvements can be implemented immediately and the cost of those improvements will be paid for by the individuals who reap the benefits in the future. Related to this consideration is the supposition that the cost of the improvements will be doled out to a greater number of individuals as the city's commercial and industrial tax base continues to expand.

Novi voters should weigh these considerations when they cast their ballots on the bonding propositions. Nobody likes more taxes, but these improvements are justified.

Drains are critical need

The proposition to borrow $3.5 million to improve the Patnales Drain is the least "glamorous" of the three bonding propositions, but it may well be the most important.

We support the proposition because we think the drainage improvements are critical to the health, safety and welfare of the city's residents.

City engineers estimate that approximately two-thirds of the city is affected by the Patnales Drain. Although the improvements might possibly be funded through a special assessment district, the city has established the precedent of improving drains on an ad valorem basis.

The total city has contributed to the improvements of other drains in the city. The total city should contribute to the improvement of the Patnales. Several areas of the city already suffer the effects of flooding from the present condition of the Patnales which extends from Walled Lake to the city's southerly limit on Nine Mile.

It is a needed improvement and should be approved. Estimated cost to the owner of a $60,000 home is $30 per year the first year. That figure can reasonably be expected to decline in succeeding years.

Center makes sense

We endorse the proposition for a new community building. It has been well thought out and makes a great deal of common sense.

We would point out that the proposal for a community center is part of a long-range plan which has been confirmed on several occasions by various citizen committees over the past two years.

We would also suggest that a community center will be needed at some point in time and that it probably can be constructed at less cost now than in the future if the inflationary spiral continues.

Our endorsement also takes into consideration that the present community building on Novi Road is close to being outdated and has only a limited future. It is located on prime commercial property. If the land is sold, the city can expect to receive a significant profit and at the same time make the parcel productive tax base.

Additionally, construction of the community center will enable the city to consolidate services which currently are in three separate locations. If the community center is built, the city will be in a position to sell the other facilities and apply the revenues toward paying off the community center bonds.

The proposition makes a great deal of sense from a financial viewpoint. Estimated cost to the resident with a $60,000 home is $30 the first year. That figure can be expected to decline in successive years.

Fire improvements needed

The $1 million bonding proposition for construction of two new fire stations and purchase of an aerial pumper truck also strikes us as being close to a critical need.

Stations proposed for reconstruction are the Novi Road and Thirteen Mile stations. Anyone who has visited those buildings should have no questions about the need for the improvements.

The Novi Road station is badly outdated and inadequate to handle the growing needs of the city's fire protection services. The Thirteen Mile station was never intended to be anything more than a stop-gap measure.

Although critics maintain that the need for the pumper has been brought about by the construction of taller commercial structures, members of the fire department have told us that the need has been present for several years, particularly in light of the need to adequately protect apartment and condominium projects.

Estimated cost to the owner of a $60,000 home is a little less than $10 per year. That figure can be expected to decline in succeeding years as the city's tax base continues to expand and the loan payments become smaller.

Novi mayoral race

Jim Shaw rates edge

Novi voters have the enviable task of choosing between two strong mayoral candidates in next Tuesday's election.

On the one hand, there is incumbent Romaine Roethel, a member of the council since 1974 and mayor since 1977. On the other hand, there is James Shaw, a council member since 1975.

Both are strong, well-qualified candidates who have served the city well in the past.

If readers will excuse this lapse from editorial formality, we would confess that this endorsement is perhaps the most difficult we have ever had to make.

The problem is complicated by the fact that this paper has enjoyed a special relationship with Mrs. Roethel that goes back to the time when the present managing editor was a cub reporter at Novi City Council meetings and she was the representative to council meetings from the Village Oaks Homeowners' Association.

It is after much soul-searching that we announce our support for the mayoral candidacy of James Shaw.

While we are cognizant of Mrs. Roethel's many contributions over the past several years, it would be a mistake to overlook the strong positive contributions that Shaw has made from his seat on the council. He has brought an even-handed approach to positive problem-solving that has been a major attribute for the city.

In assessing their respective candidacies, we have arrived at the conclusion that the two candidates must be viewed on their qualifications and abilities at the present time, irrespective of historical considerations.

Shaw maintains that he is capable of providing better direction than his opponent has over the past two years. He asks if direction has been provided by his opponent in terms of the manner in which the bonding propositions were handled prior to being presented to the voters. And he suggests that more direction can be provided in setting goals and priorities.

Additionally, he suggests that the city is presently "fighting fires" instead of attempting to get out in front of them.

Although we do not believe that Mrs. Roethel failed to provide leadership, we accept the premise that Shaw can provide more direction in the future.

Finally, we believe that Shaw will bring a new commitment and a new vigor to the position. In 1977 we sensed that vitality in Mrs. Roethel. In 1979 we sense a greater commitment to make things better in Shaw. He has our support in the Novi mayoral race.

Novi City Council

Schmid, Hoyer and Teachworth

Novi voters will find a generally strong field of candidates when they go to the polls next Tuesday to fill three vacancies on the city council.

We felt the field was strong when we interviewed the candidates prior to the August primary, and we have been impressed by how much the candidates have grown since that time.

Nevertheless, we still believe that the best choices are Robert Schmid, Martha Hoyer and Dwight Teachworth.

As we stated in the primary, the endorsement of Schmid is among the easiest we have ever made. Simply stated, we consider him an outstanding council member.

Also as we stated before, Schmid may well have the clearest vision of what Novi can become through sound planning and comprehensive ordinances.

Since joining the council in 1975, Schmid has been a strong advocate of large-lot subdivisions which help to control density levels as well as retain a rural atmosphere to the city's residential areas.

At the same time, Schmid has recognized the need for commercial and industrial growth as a necessary component of maintaining a tax base that will accommodate large-lot subdivisions and keep the tax base at reasonable levels. In conjunction with this recognition, he has fought for strong landscaping requirements on commercial and business development and for a reduction in building height limitations.

He has proven himself to be an intelligent, articulate council member who does his homework. He strongly merits re-election.

Hoyer also merits re-election to the council. She has proven herself to be both hardworking and dedicated.

To once again refer to our comments at the time of the primary, we believe that she deserves a major portion of the credit for making Novi a part of the city. For many years, northern Novi was a forgotten entity. It was Hoyer who came along some eight years ago and gained representation for the northern section.

It's important to note, however, that she is considerably more than a northern Novi representative on the council. Through hard work and an open mind, she has transcended geographic considerations and become a "city" council member as opposed to a "northern Novi" council member.

Of the remaining candidates for council, our endorsement goes to Teachworth, an attorney and a relative newcomer to the community.

Although we also are impressed with Chambers and Duchesneau, we believe Teachworth is the best choice. He is a well-qualified candidate who is both intelligent and articulate.

We feel he is best equipped to arrive at the decisions which will create a community which is both aesthetically pleasing and fiscally viable.

Walled Lake Council

Hill, Honeyman top selections

Walled Lake voters will go to the polls Tuesday to elect four city council members, three for four-year terms and one for a two-year term.

We feel the electors should make their first choice Heather F.M. Hill, a council member for four years and now the city's mayor pro tem. She has devoted many long hours to her council duties and it is obvious by her performance at council meetings that Miss Hill does her homework before the sessions. She also frequently reminds her colleagues about tabled issues that otherwise might be forgotten.

Our second choice for the council is Hannah F. Honeyman, a newcomer to Walled Lake politics. Mrs. Honeyman is a member of the beautification committee. She has attended many council meetings in the last 18 months and is well informed on the issues that will face the council in the near future.

For the remaining two seats, we find three candidates — Linda S. Ackley, James D. Clifton and Richard A. Crawley — whose interest, education and/or experience seem to qualify them for the council. All three are first-time candidates for public office.

Former Mayor William T. Roberts, who did not seek re-election two years ago after serving 9½ years as a council member, mayor pro tem and mayor, also is running for the council this year. While Roberts is experienced and knows the issues, we are concerned about some of his actions in the past, particularly the infamous gavel incident of 1977 and his too-frequent personality clashes with other city officials.

We regret that we cannot endorse incumbent Council Member Cameron E. Rose, who was appointed to the council late last year.

Rose knows Walled Lake well and we have no quarrel with his actions as a council member. It is unfortunate, though, that he has declined to discuss the issues or provide a position statement to the local newspapers. It appears that Rose is content to run as an incumbent or a "name candidate" instead of making an effort to share his hopes and goals and aspirations for Walled Lake with the voters.

Pass in Wixom

Although it has always been our policy to endorse candidates in Wixom's municipal elections, we're not going to do it this year.

You see, we have a problem. One of the members of our staff — Nancy Dingley — is among the four active candidates for the three vacancies on the city council. As a result, we've decided that the only proper thing to do is "sit this one out" and let the voters decide for themselves.

The other three active candidates are (alphabetically) Charles Craig, Wayne Glessner and William Wyllie. The name of incumbent Council Member Melvin Green also will appear on the ballot, although he has announced that he no longer seeks re-election.

Readers Speak

'Novi needs leaders who'll lead'

To the Editor:

"Constructive criticism is an essential source of strength if it speaks of pride and confidence."

As a former candidate for the city council, I feel inspired to make some comments on the various statements appearing in the newspaper leading to the coming election. They should be interesting to the new voters if nothing more. Space will allow only a limited review.

I have observed the events of Novi for many years and while the results may be as good as can be expected, there are some things that should be improved. It has been the policy of Novi News for many years to appoint the Novi City Council by endorsing certain candidates who are elected by the new residents because they have no other source of information.

In the editorial prior to the primary, the statement was made that Russ Butts "does not understand the needs of Novi as we foresee them." No statement of what those needs are was made. This compares with the "Old West" policy of hanging a man without a trial and it has the desired result.

In a letter to the editor in 1972, I made the statement that "Novi lacks leadership. Not leaders, but leaders the majority will follow." This is true today. Nobody knows what Novi will do next, including Novi.

There are many examples. One is the recent presentation by developers for a $40 million complex. Fifteen minutes before its presentation, Novi changed its setback requirements in their ordinance. A few weeks later Novi changed the ordinance back to where they were in the beginning. The developer hasn't been back since.

Or consider the request for the 10-foot lot split at Twelve Oaks. Novi refused to accommodate this request until faced with a lawsuit, which they could not win.

Or consider the primary election. At a cost of $5,000 Novi promptly eliminated the only candidates with any experience. Through lack of vision, Novi has lost more opportunities than any community around.

Consider Farmington Hills. One remembers that Perkins Engines was originally in Novi and moved out because Novi refused to build one-half mile of road that they needed to get to their plant.

Or look at Wixom. She was smart enough to grab the Lincoln plant that was originally in Novi, and it was only after this loss that Novi did anything to protect herself.

The first thing Wixom did was improve her roads and build her own sewage plant. Novi had this same opportunity and now (Page One, Novi News, September 26, 1979) may have to curtail her growth due to lack of sewage capacity.

After 20 years of fumbling, Novi has put together a partial road program. This has been challenged in court and now (Page One, Novi News, August 22, 1979) Mr. Young is proposing a charter amendment to further cripple what little program we have. Due to foot dragging, litigation and inflation, a proposed 18 miles of road has shrunk to 10 or 12 miles.

As co-author of Novi's three charters, I have never seen Mr. Young at any of the meetings where such an amendment would have been presented. Some years back in The Novi News I wrote: "Novi's road program is a can of worms" and "mile roads should be paved without cost to the residents — residents on Novi, Ten Mile, etc., have enjoyed paved roads for years." No support was received from Mr. Young or anyone else.

I was quite interested in the front page article (Novi News, September 26) where the planning consultant is proposing a ring road around the four corners. Must be someone found a copy of the old master plan presented to the village council by Waring and Johnson 20 years ago. Perhaps if you look further, you will find an easement offered by Russ Butts 15 years ago which would have tied into the expressway and Eleven Mile and given access to the school property.

"A prophet is without honor in his own country."

We hope you will elect a council with vision and leadership on November 6.

A Russell Butts

Novi fire proposal gains support

To the Editor:

With all the effort for the various bonding proposals on the November 6 ballot, let me note that the Chateau Estates Homeowners Association is seriously reconsidering the Fire Department Improvements Proposal (Proposal C). Our position was, and is now, that the Novi Fire Volunteers do exceptionally well.

We also realize that they need the correct equipment to do the job. When you live in a mobile home or in homes surrounding Walled Lake, and the poorly maintained Novi roads that are found there, you become very concerned about the placement of the area's fire station.

When our vice-president (Harry Denmore) questioned the relocation of Fire Station Two, the city administration (so effective and prepared as they are) panicked and removed the issue from the ballot in the city primary election. Now the voters have three issues in November instead of two to vote on.

We meant to oppose necessary improvements in fire protection. We accept the need for adequate equipment and buildings. And now we may be prepared to endorse the fire department proposal because of Mike Duchesneau's extended probing, discussions with Fire Chief Lenaghan, and the meeting between City Manager Kriewall, City Attorney Fried, Denmore and Duchesneau.

A relocation limit of not more than one-quarter mile from its present site was set and I, for one, will support the rebuilding of Fire Station Two with this conditional promise in mind. It is a reasonable compromise.

I believe that the one-quarter mile relocation limit is fair to the city and to the residents of all of north Novi, and opposition based on the logistical issue within the plan under Proposal C is unjustified.

In any event, should the city attempt to renege on the one-quarter mile distance, it can be sure that this citizens group will react.

LWV endorses Novi community center

To the Editor:

The League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi recommends a "yes" vote on the Community Center Building Bonding Proposition as it appears on the November 6 ballot.

The League of Women Voters is a national non-partisan organization whose purpose is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government. The League speaks to issues (not candidates) only after thorough study of the issue and a consensus position has been agreed upon by the members.

In 1975, the Novi unit of the League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi undertook a study of parks and recreation in the community. The purpose of the study was to discover what facilities and services were currently available and the overall plan for meeting the needs of the residents of Novi.

When the study was completed and the Novi members of the League had reached a consensus position on parks and recreation — that consensus position was published in the Novi News in April 1976.

In May 1978 at a public hearing before the Parks and Recreation Commission, The League supported and recommended the adoption of the master plan for parks and recreation because the consensus position states: "The League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi supports in Novi a professional parks and recreation plan as part of a complete municipal master plan."

The Parks and Recreation Master Plan includes the future building of a recreation center. The consensus position of the League of Women Voters also states: "...to meet current recreation needs, we support the development of a community recreation center."

Because the League has taken the above positions, we again urge a "yes" vote on the Community Center Building Bonding Proposition.

Walled Lake planners consider duplex district

The Walled Lake Plan Commission has rescheduled the date for its November meeting, and will hold a public hearing prior to its regular session to consider the possible adoption of a new duplex classification for the zoning ordinance.

Instead of convening Tuesday, November 13, the planners will assemble Tuesday, November 6. The panel usually meets on the second Tuesday of each month at Walled Lake City Hall.

At the public hearing, slated for 8 p.m., the planners will consider the new duplex classification after a request at last month's meeting by Lakeland Hills Estates Subdivision Developer Robert Carey.

When the plan panel discussed the rezoning of 11 commercial parcels as part of a bigger proposed commercial zoning package last month, Carey's property was the only property not recommended for approval by the commission. Carey objected to the proposed re-designation at the southwest corner of Maple and Decker Roads from C-1 general commercial to C-2 community commercial, explaining that he proposed subdivision would be directly behind that parcel and that there consequently would be no buffer zone between the subdivision and a commercial development fronting Maple.

The developer added that he had made plans to build approximately 30 duplex units on his property, and asked the planners to consider a new duplex classification.

The rezoning of the 10 other commercial parcels — along with the adoption of commercial zoning changes that would divide the present commercial district into four separate and more restricted zones — were both recommended by the commission for approval by the city council.

To the Editor:

I am sorry that Judith Schultz objects to my objection to mainstream special education children into lunchrooms for "social" education. Obviously, if a child cannot read what others have written or write what he knows, he won't be very social.

Education is not an experimental science. Everything there is to know about education for the retarded, the slow learner, the average and the gifted has been known for 200 years.

The Special Education Act requires the "least restrictive environment" which schools mistakenly believe is mainstreaming. The best part of special schools for special children is that they never get called stupid. The retarded blossom when they stimulate each other, and so do the gifted.

In the school, a place where superiority offends, the gifted cover up their gift for social purposes. Mainstreaming is doomed to failure.

Aristotle said tragedy is brought about not by the vice of men, but an error in judgment. Sense does not make sense in school.

Flim-flam artists victimize Walled Lake woman

In Novi

A 74-year-old woman was the victim of conartists last week when she turned over about $900 and never saw them again.

The elderly woman met up with two women in the parking lot of Lakeside Shopping Center where they showed her a briefcase full of money which they said contained about $30,000.

The couple told the Walled Lake woman she could get the amount if she followed their instructions.

She went to a bank in Novi where she withdrew $800 and went with the pair to a local department store. She was told that she would meet a partner of the women inside the store who would give her the money if she turned over the money from the bank account and the $100 she was carrying after cashing her social security check.

She left her money with the women and went into the store to find the man they spoke of. He was not in the store and when the woman went to find the woman with her money they were gone.

Police are investigating the incident.

Police are looking into the possibility of a motorcycle theft ring operating in the area after the recovery of several boxes of motorcycle parts along the roadway.

Reportedly three boxes of parts were found by Department of Public Works employees along the side of Eleven Mile and Meadowbrook.

Police determined the parts to be case housings for Harley Davidson motorcycles. They were able to identify three of the housings as being stolen — one from Lincoln Park, a second from Taylor and a third from Allen Park.

All the housings were reported stolen during the summer months. The Taylor and Allen Park bikes were 1979 models.

Police said they suspect the housings were dumped after the internal parts were removed from the case housing which is identifiable.

Police said it appears to be organized because the dump was an assortment of all the same parts from Harley Davidson motorcycles.

An employee of the Faces store in Twelve Oaks Mall was apprehended by police last week on charges of taking merchandise.

Police arrested a Plymouth woman after her employer allegedly noticed her leaving the store with two sacks of merchandise.

The manager told police his suspicions were aroused when he noticed the employee leave the store at closing time, leaving two bags of merchandise inside.

The employee returned with a friend, turned off the lights, closed the store gates and tried to leave with the merchandise, according to police reports.

The woman was stopped by the store manager who later turned her over to police.

She reportedly told police she was the oldest of seven children and had been taking the assorted make-up as Christmas gifts. She was issued a violation for larceny in a building and released on a $50 cash bond.

Police issued 12 citations for minors in possession of alcohol, transporting open alcohol and reckless driving at the last Novi High School football game.

Four plain clothes officers mingled with the crowd at the game to discourage problems with teenage drinking. Police reported they uncovered no narcotics at the game.

The police have patrolled football games this season and will continue to do so in the final games of the season, according to police officials.

In Wixom

A malfunctioning transmitter emitting emergency location signals put the Wixom Air Field on the map Saturday.

Aircraft crossing the area radiated both the Cleveland Air Control Center and Scott Air Force Base to report the signal.

All aircraft are equipped with the transmitter which, on activation, emits a radio signal used to locate downed aircraft. The signal, inaudible to human ears, was being received by commercial, military and private aircraft flying over the area, and dutifully reported by those pilots.

Contact was made by the Cleveland Center with the small Wixom field and a search was instituted for a downed aircraft. Other airfields and the Federal Aviation Administration also were contacted for reports on any over-due aircraft. None were found to have been reported.

A check of the Wixom airfield, hangars, and fields surrounding the airstrip revealed no indication of a plane in distress. Even though that information was relayed to the two contact posts, the signal continued to be picked up and reported throughout the day and into the late evening.

Cleveland Control ordered a second air-ground search to be conducted by the Wixom Police. The department called in the Detroit Police Aviation Section to lend air assistance after being notified by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department that their helicopter was down with mechanical problems.

That air and ground search still turned up negative results. Instituting the use of a small, special receiver, it was learned one of the planes hanging at the field was sending out the emergency signal.

A malfunction of the unit on the plane was determined to be the cause of the alarm.

Union Lake Kmart set to open Thursday

The Commerce Woods Kmart department store will open tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The 84,000-square-foot store is one of three new Kmart stores in the Detroit area that will open November 1 and one of 70 Kmart stores across the nation slated to open next month.

Located on a 12.4-acre site on Union Lake Road at Commerce Road, the Commerce Woods development also will include a Kroger supermarket and a Burger King restaurant.

Construction of the new Kmart started early this year following a lengthy legal battle over the zoning of the property.

Plans for the Kmart were first announced in 1973, but the township board rescinded an earlier commercial rezoning of the site. When the building department refused to issue a permit for a proposed Chatham store in the center, the developers — Ramco-Gershenson Corporation — filed suit against the township.

An Oakland County Circuit judge ruled in favor of the commercial zoning in November 1975 and the state court of appeals upheld that decision in June 1977. The township board, advised by its attorney that further appeal probably would be futile, entered an agreement with the developers in late 1977 that paved the way for issuance of the building permit.

Modern Living

For fascination—enter wonderful miniatures world

By NANCY DINGELDEY

The world of miniatures is fascinating beyond belief. The wildest dreams and desires can be captured. Imagination and perfection can be dampened only by a checkbook balance.

It is a world of collectibles, running a close third in popularity only to stamp and coin collecting. In fact, the popularity has come with a surge that miniature dealers claim it could surpass even those staid hobbies as America's favorite pastime.

It is a world scaled to one inch to suit the desirable doll house size that again matches the dreams and desires of its owner.

It comes in velvets, calicos, silks, mahogany, walnut and pine. Styles range from Victorian and Queen Anne to Chippendale, Shaker and Colonial.

It includes museum reproductions cast in pewter, brass spittoons, checker-boards and handblown lemonade pitchers complete with minuscule ice cubes and citrus slices.

"The world is filled with human interest," said June Byers, proprietress of Byers' Country Store in Commerce Village. "People who enter the world of miniatures are more demanding, more intricate in furnishing their doll houses than they are in their own homes. The desires for their perfect dream home are accomplished through miniatures."

Well-known by antique collectors throughout the area, the Country Store grew into a miniature hunters' dream through Ms. Byers' fondness for designing stage settings. Once hooked on what she enthusiastically terms "a captivity," the store holds a treasure of tiny wonders.

"Miniatures are not an overnight affair," claims the owner. "They offer great exploring possibilities. It opens the door to renewed or perhaps a new-born interest in history. It recaptures a beautiful, warm feeling of the past," she added.

Developing from a recent, growing interest in collecting dolls, doll houses and the miniature pieces held within them have become a family affair.

Leading the way in interest are men. "They usually start with building a doll house for their little girl. It doesn't take them long to branch into miniatures, and then," adding her infectious knowing laugh and quick smile, Ms. Byers added, "the project no longer belongs to the little girl but rather to the adult."

The small daughter may find her doll house but dad will seek out other plans, some of which come in kit form. They will produce ornate Victorian two-story beauties, reproductions of the Wilton, or even a country store.

"Men are my most picky customers," Ms. Byers continued. "They become such enthusiasts that they are the ones who demand perfection."

That perfection leads to rummaging through miniature wallpaper books filled with scaled down renditions of the real thing. Wallpapering a miniature house takes all the patience and skill required of the same task in a full scale room.

To help achieve that special decorator look, carpeting is available, some pre-matched to the wallpaper. The Byers store also offers handmade scale size needlepoint rugs and special crocheted additions especially suited to any room in the house.

A Highland artist, Jan Jello, supplies Byers with handmade miniature, silhouettes and paintings for the walls. Along with those exquisite creations, the artist also makes available teeny gift-wrapped packages topped with minuscule bows and ribbons. She creates a variety of hats decked with flowers and feathers for the women dolls that grace the homes.

To trim the mantle is a collection of candlesticks, mounted guns and kerosene lamps. There are stained glass Tiffany-style shades, perfect for centering over a highly polished tiny table.

There are game tables, rocking chairs, Windsor chairs, roll-top desks, fold-down handkerchief tables and side tables topped with slices of real marble.

Another local artist, Susie Packer, supplies collectors with baskets of fruit to perch on a table or sideboard, jars of canned vegetables to line kitchen shelves, pots of flowers and flower arrangements. Whitmore Lake's Mike McCarthy furnishes matchless two-story Victorian houses.

Captivated by the intricacies demanded by collectors, still other artists provide hand-upholstered furniture complete with tiny tuckled pleats and tufted backs secured with buttons barely visible to the eye.

Victorian pieces carry carved wood backs and rich velvet coverings. Drawers, some one-quarter the size of a postage stamp slide in and out on their runners and come complete with movable gold-colored drawer pulls.

The prices of the furniture match their beauty with one Victorian sofa tagged at $40. Dishes in Delft or embellished with pink roses run $8 a place setting.

For the do-it-yourselfer, kits have been developed ranging from wood to wood-grained plastics offering the patient person the opportunity to build their own pieces. Again the desire runs only with the gamut of imagination.

"Miniatures offer so much to everyone," Ms. Byers remarked. Pointing to a general store and nearby school house, she said they were created by Commerce Township resident Bob Donahue, Sr. Recovering from open heart surgery, Mrs. Donahue launched her recuperating husband on his new-found interest by buying him a saw to create his buildings.

Now on display in the store, they carry small buckets and barrels, sacks and shelves of all the accoutrements that mark the charm of the old country store. The school house holds a blackboard with miniature chalk along with a schoolmarm on the front steps.

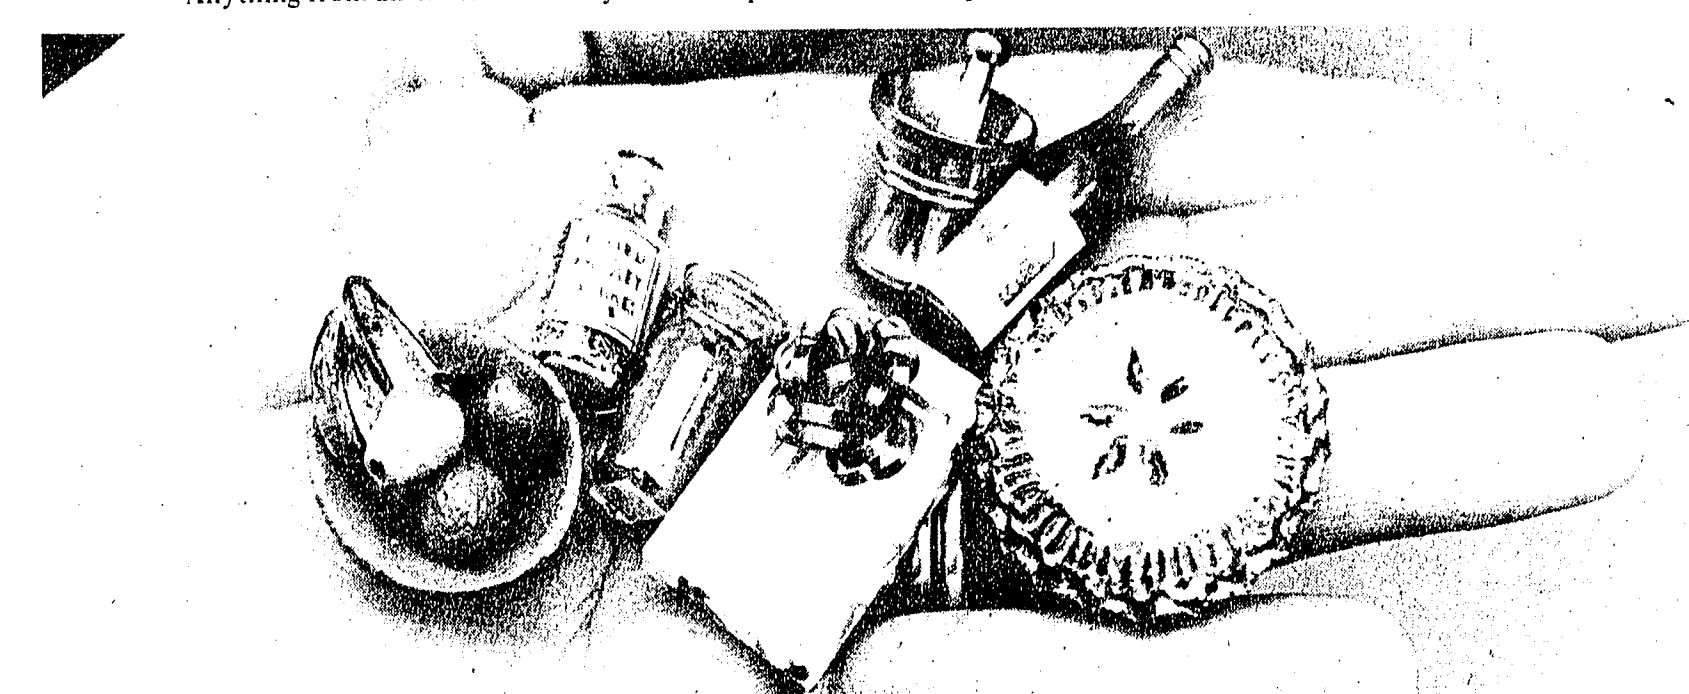

To aid further delight in miniatures, collectors can scan through stacks of catalogs offering anything and everything to the buyer.

Ms. Byers claims miniature collections do not start or stop with owning a doll house. Customers use them to create scenes, shadow boxes or to set in printers type drawers for wall interest.

The small charmers captivate even the eye of the passing shopper. The daintiness of the objects, the perfection of their making, the delight of a Christmas tree totally bedecked in precious ornaments, is one of pleasure. They are enough to peak interest and stir the desire in anyone for a doll house of their very own.

Anything from an old-time country store to a perfect Victorian parlor or Shaker sitting room can be captured.

In miniatures, some one-quarter the size of a postage stamp, complete with labels and trim, and detailed to perfection...

Women's week

Holding the resolution proclaiming National Business and Professional Women's Week are Novi BPW officers (left) Helen Stabler and Nellie Parsons while Shirley Pearl (left) and Judy Moore beam their approval. The resolution was presented last week by Novi Mayor Romaine Roethel honoring women in the business and professional world nationwide. Promoting the activities of those women, the Novi organization meets monthly at the Farmington Holiday Inn to discuss current topics and explore the fields of legislation, financial planning and legal matters. The Novi group extends their interest into community affairs, lending its support to common causes as well as their own service projects. The club gathers on the third Thursday of the month at 7 p.m. with the program at 7:30. All women in business and the professions are cordially invited to attend.

Novi musicians ready to stage Band-o-rama

Novi band students will present their first concert of the season on Wednesday, November 7. The concert, called Band-o-Rama, will be staged in the high school Puertall Auditorium.

Featuring the jazz, symphonic and marching bands, the sounds will range from classical to popular. The full spectrum of sound will include tunes from half-time shows on the football field.

Also performing at the 8 p.m. concert with the bands will be the Rhythmettes and the Silks.

Jazz will come in the form of "Lucretia MacEvil" and the theme from "Lou Grant." "Quincy," a collection of music composed by Quincy Jones, written for movies and TV, will be featured in selections performed by the symphonic band. "Get Used to It," this year's theme of the marching band, will find its place in the program along with "Birth of the Blues," and Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony."

The program is free to the public.

Church Women United set day of observance

Joining thousands of women around the world, Church Women United (CWU) in the Wall Lake area will be observing World Community Day on Monday, November 5, at the Commerce United Methodist Church.

One of three scheduled yearly events celebrated by CWU, the theme this year is "Causeway: This Community, U.S.A." Speaker for the afternoon meeting, slated to begin at 1 p.m., is Patricia Hinz, caseworker for Novi Youth Assistance.

The fall observance will provide nursery care. Coffee will be served following the topic speaker. Mike Dunkey will provide music with guitar accompaniment during the services.

Since 1968, Church Women United have dedicated themselves to an ongoing search in combined action seeking justice and peace. The focus this year is on issues raised by CWU members the world over including poverty, health and social injustices. A free will offering will be taken and shared intercontinentally for sponsored missions and project grants.

Single home buying increases

Young families, traditionally regarded as prime homebuying prospects, are finding increased competition for choice properties from singles — particularly women.

Recent national figures provided by the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR) indicate that single women will buy more than 200,000 homes in 1979.

Included in the sales totals are women who have never married and those who have been widowed, divorced or separated. Last year they accounted for one of every 12 home sales, up from one in 16 in 1976.

The W.W.O.C.B.R. predicts this will climb to one in 10 by the end of 1980. Singles — women, men and unmarried couples — already buy up to 20 percent of homes offered for sale, according to a recent survey.

Single women are particularly active in the condominium market and bought 33 percent of those sold in 1978.

Realtors see three primary factors contributing to the rise in home ownership by single persons:

—A changing social attitude which finds increasing numbers of women electing to stay single. The United States Census Bureau reports the proportion of women age 20 to 24 remaining single increased from 28 percent in 1960 to 43 percent in 1976.

—More women are moving into higher paying jobs and can better afford to purchase a home of their own.

—And, perhaps most important, the Equal Credit and Opportunity Act passed in the mid-70s forbids sex discrimination in the credit market, including housing and housing finance. Thus, single women have been assured equal access to the mortgage market.

Generally, the act says that a creditor may not request any information concerning marital status, spouse, former spouse, birth control practices or intentions concerning child bearing. Nor can a creditor inquire whether or not any income stated in the loan application is derived from alimony, child support or separate maintenance payments.

Singles are moving in to homebuying for much the same basic reasons as families, according to the Realtors. These are stability, a good investment, and tax savings.

Additional information is available from Linda Anderson at 348-9400.

Five 'trips' offered

Travel series set by chamber

Are you one of those people who enjoys travel but just can't scrape up enough money to visit those far-away places?

Don't feel bad. Most of us are in the same boat.

But the Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce is offering the next best thing through its second annual "World Travel Film Series."

A total of five different "trips" are being offered this year, trips to such places as Spain, England, Panama and the Bahamas as well as the United States' own Grand Canyon.

All five shows will be presented on Sunday afternoons at 2 p.m. in the Wall Lake Western High School Auditorium. The World Travel Series is ideal family entertainment, and the Sunday afternoon dates were selected specifically to encourage families to engage in a little "togetherness."

Season tickets are priced at $11.25 ($10 for senior citizens), while tickets for individual shows are priced at $2.75 per person ($2.50 for senior citizens).

"Ticket information and ticket reservations may be made by calling either 624-2868 or 644-2424.

On Sunday, November 11, Dr. Frank Carney will open the 1979-80 World Travel Series with a show entitled "As An Artist Sees Spain."

For centuries, poets, musicians, writers and artists have extolled the fame and beauty of Spain. Today she still possesses this magic. Step anywhere in Spain and you stir up memories of a proud and dignified nation. The lavish golden textures of the medieval cities of Toledo, Avila and Segovia bring Spain's glorious past to life.

From the tranquil gardens of the Moorish citadel at the Alhambra to the dazzling night life of Madrid, this film is a complete panorama of Spain alive with local color.

On Sunday, December 9, Fran Reidelberger will tour "England by Canal Boat." Starting with the Thames River, the film story flows along much of a vast 3,000 mile network that covers England. Industry built these extensive canals before the coming of the railroads.

They are preserved today by history and recreation-loving Britons as a monument to the country's Industrial Revolution. The unusual film will show you England as you've never seen it before.

On Sunday, January 13, Ralph Franklin will explore the depths of "The Canyon." The film discusses the growing pains of the United States' seventeenth national park, tourists, water and ecology.

"The Canyon" also includes a 312-mile trip down the Colorado on a 30-foot raft. En route are hikes up side canyons, Indian ruins, waterfalls, fossils, geological formations, plant and animal life as well as thrills encountered in negotiating turbulent rapids.

"The New Panama" will be shown and discussed by Clint Denn on Sunday, February 10. Panama is more than a canal and more than a jungle. Here is all the color and excitement of a warm tropical playground. Nestled between the blue Pacific and the warm Atlantic, Panama includes nearly 1,000 tropical islands — unusual resorts where pirates once counted their booty.

Panama's historical past mingles with the enchanting present to offer the visitor a colorful, fascinating and impressive vacation.

Dennis Hinz Cooper will conclude the 1979-80 World Travel Series on Sunday, March 9, with a "Bahamas Holiday," the magnificent semi-tropical Bahama Islands (one of the world's newest nations) begin just 50 miles off the east coast of Florida. The "dream islands" are known for their countless miles of powder-soft beaches and crystal-clear waters.

There are more than 700 islands in the Archipelago. "Bahama Holiday" will take you by luxurious cruise ship and commercial airlines to more than a dozen of the islands which are not only the most popular and appealing, but which are best equipped to care for vacation-minded individuals.

Community band meets

All area musicians are invited to join the Northville Community Band under the direction of Bob Williams.

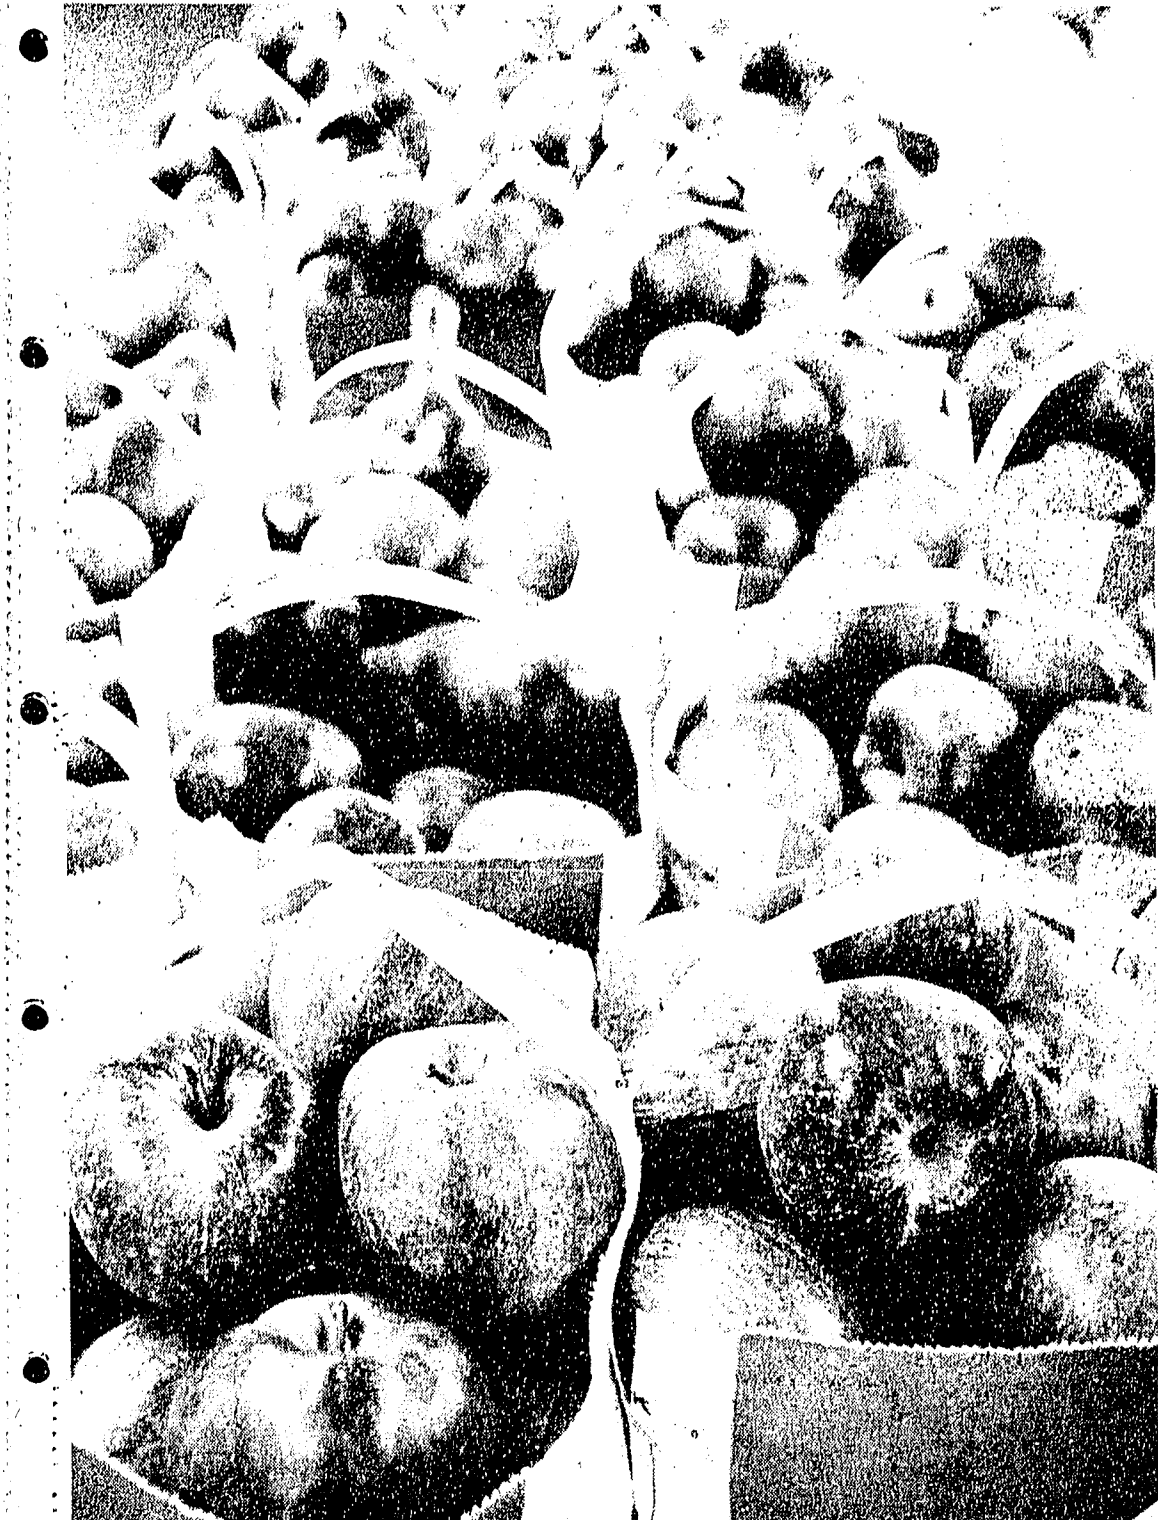

The band meets every Wednesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Cooke Junior High School on Taft Road between Eight and Nine Mile.

The community band offers experienced musicians and spirited amateurs an opportunity to give vent to their musical instincts. Adults who formerly played in high school or college bands are encouraged to get their old instruments down from the attic and join the community band.

"Those old musical abilities come back a lot faster than you think," commented Novi's Ray Murphy, one of the members of the band.

There is no membership fee for joining the band. Additional information is available at 349-6242.

With an apple, taste treats by the dozens can be created

Tart, sweet, juicy, Autumn means apples

"There can be nothing better than a good apple, sweet, tart, hard, soft, cooked or fresh. Autumn brings to Michigan an abundance of the fruit and with them, an even more abundant supply of recipes to please any taste and appetite.

Connie Malloy took blue ribbon baking honors in the recent Wixom Country Fair with her apple pie — picture perfect with a taste to match. She agreed to share her very simple recipe with readers so that they too could produce a prize-winning pie.

Apple Pie
Slice six large, pared, tart apples in an unbaked pie shell. Mix together and sprinkle over the apples, one cup white sugar, two tablespoons flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon and one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg. Dot sugar covered apples with one-half stick butter or oleo cut in slices. Bake in a 400 degree oven for one hour.

Apple Custard
Looking for a good pie crust recipe, gain, Mrs. Malloy offered her recipe which she says "never fails."

Pie Crust
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup shortening
5 to 6 tablespoons water (cold)

Mix together with a fork, turn out on a floured board and roll to desired thickness.

Already have your own favorite apple pie recipe? Maybe you would rather try Apple Belgeet, a favorite dessert carried on the menu of the Vineyards, the Southfield restaurant that gained so many culinary awards under the direction of Fred Gracyk.

Apple Belgeet
Blend in a bowl: two eggs and 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar. Mix in one cup milk and then add one cup flour, stirring constantly to insure smoothness. Add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and one tablespoon melted butter. Let batter stand one hour. Before using, stir batter and adjust thickness, if necessary. The batter should be the consistency of slightly thinner pancake batter.

Peel and core large tart apples and cut into slices. Dip apple slices in batter and fry in deep fat at 350 degrees until golden brown. Remove from fat and drain on paper toweling. Place slices on a dessert plate and sprinkle generously with the following mixture:

Mix together one cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, and 1/4 cup chopped walnuts. Cover belgeets with a large dollop of vanilla ice cream and serve immediately.

The list of apple delights goes on and on. You may wish to try Sugar Custard Apples, a recipe from the Novi Kitchen of Joan Benoit.

Sugar Custard Apples
6 large cooking apples
2/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 egg
3/4 cup apple cider

About 1 1/2 hours before serving: Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Core and peel apples. In a small bowl, mix sugar, flour and cinnamon; then, cut in butter or margarine with pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse crumbs.

In a cup, beat egg slightly; brush on apples; coat with sugar mixture. Place apples in greased, shallow baking dish and fill centers with remaining sugar mixture. Pour cider into bottom of dish. Bake one hour or until apples are tender. To serve, spoon sauce over apples.

Counselors will be available in the lobby to discuss students' needs and future plans.

Parents are welcome to visit with a teacher as long as necessary but ask that the visit be limited to five minutes if other parents are waiting. Follow-up conferences can be scheduled with the teacher during the evening if necessary.

Parents are urged to visit with all the teachers. There is no order given as to teacher visits during the evening.

The evening is designed for open communications between the parents, teachers and school officials. Student teacher lists are available from tables listed alphabetically by student last name.

PTSA memberships at $12.50 will be sold throughout the evening. The organization also will be serving refreshments.

In addition to conferences, tours of the school will be led by the Warrior Leadership Council. Those tours will be leaving every 20 minutes from the lobby area.

'Coping with Widowhood' is seminar topic

Support from friends is what one needs in time of crisis or stress, according to Peggy Price.

Just to know that someone understands and cares is often enough to see us through all kinds of troubles, she says.

Ms. Price is coordinator of the Council on Widowed Services for Southeastern Michigan, which has announced a fifth session of its helpful seminar "Coping with Widowhood."

The seminar is scheduled for the afternoon of November 11 at the Mercy Center on Eleven Mile in Farmington Hills.

"Men and women who have experienced the loss of a spouse face the need to cope with the loss and rebuild their lives—for this they need the support of others," said Ms. Price.

June Shada, a popular and effective public speaker from this area who speaks from personal experience, will be the featured speaker at the seminar. The theme of her address will be the developmental tasks of the widowed at three life stages: the widowed with young children, the widowed with adult children, and the widow alone.

A panel of widowed persons who have participated in the widowed-to-widowed programs will discuss how they have coped with their own widowhood and how these programs have been beneficial to them during this critical time of their lives.

They also will offer suggestions for ways in which friends and relatives could be most helpful and supportive of widowed persons. Question and answer/discussion groups will follow the panel with representatives from community resources available to each group.

A $5 registration fee is required. The fee, along with your name, address, city, zip code and telephone number, may be sent to Coping with Widowhood, 17500 Haggerty Road in Livonia, Michigan 48152. Checks should be made payable to "Widowhood Seminar." Please send a stamped self-addressed envelope if you wish a confirmation of your registration.

Kodak offers photography seminar

So you'd like to be a budding photographer, you have all the equipment but your pictures aren't worth mounting in a photo album.

Not all is lost.

A one-day seminar in photography will be presented by the Eastman Kodak Company on Saturday, November 3, at Mercy College. The sessions will be hosted by the Seaway International Chapter of the Photographic Society of America (PSA).

The fact-filled instructional program is designed to help amateur photographers get the most out of their cameras. Subjects to be covered include cameras, their selection and use, lenses, films, filters and close-up equipment. Composition, depth of field, lighting, and even how to effectively present a slide show will be discussed in detail.

A team of experienced Kodak photo experts will be on hand to stimulate, sharpen and develop visual awareness and broaden the scope of photographic knowledge. Kodak experts will focus on subjects of interest to all.

The program will be held at the college located on Southfield and Drive, Detroit. Cost of the day, including lunch and program Kingsville, Detroit, for notes, is $20. Contact G. W. Buchanan, 19186 availability.

Learning isn't something that only happens in school. It's a lifelong process. At that, that's the way we feel. For when a person is taught, he or she is not only learning, but also is being taught to learn. And learning new ways to make what we are truly taught to learn.

Novi City Council 2/3-F
Walled Lake Council 4/5-F
Wixom City Council 6/7-F

ROMAINE ROETHEL, 54, is a wife and a mother.

Was appointed to city council in April 1973 and elected to a four-year term in November 1973. She served as mayor-pro-tem the last two years of her council term and was elected mayor in 1977.

In City of Novi

It's Roethel versus Shaw for mayor

1. Do you feel that considerable growth in Novi is desirable?

ROETHEL: Adequate but controlled growth is needed in commercial and industrial development to provide tax base needed to supply city services to residents of Novi.

SHAW: Growth for Novi is inevitable, but rapid growth in any form tends to be destructive to the integrity of the community and shouldn't be encouraged.

2. What factors do you believe are important in dealing with growth in Novi?

SHAW: Growth must reflect a benefit for those of us who will be living here. Criteria must be established to insure orderly development that reflects not only land use relationships, tax base and what is possible, but also traffic congestion, impact on services, crowding and impact on our living environment. Emphasis must be on residential integrity which requires commercial-industrial development to prove its worth as tax base versus any negative impact on our residential environment.

ROETHEL: Proper controls written into ordinances and codes, then strict enforcement of same. This is being done. Master plan revision is important factor; presently being updated to reflect controlled and quality development. The aforementioned is important as the city does not have an adequate tax base to purchase undeveloped land to hold for open space. Stringent requirements relating to trees, berms, landscaping, open space, are now placed on all development.

3. Do you feel that residents along mile roads should be assessed for paving and improvements? Why or why not?

ROETHEL: Yes. This issue was taken to the voters in Novi. The majority supported the paving program as presented. Only 10 percent of the cost of paving is specially assessed. The remainder is on an at-large basis — so all taxpayers are picking up 90 percent of the paving costs.

SHAW: Residents along mile roads should be assessed, as are all property owners, on the basis of benefit derived and not excused from payment other criteria: improvement of service, a community should contribute a much greater percentage of cost.

4. Do you feel Novi should have city-wide trash collection? Why?

SHAW: The city should provide city-wide trash collection only through a private agency carefully regulated by the city, and if it meets the following criteria: improvement of service, a

Six candidates seeking three vacant seats on Novi City Council

1. Do you feel that considerable growth in Novi is desirable?

CHAMBERS: No. Growth must be controlled by city council. Novi should be predominantly a residential community, not a community overrun by commercial buildings such as Southfield.

DENSMORE: Yes, if gradual growth located in accord with an up to date master plan. A healthy balanced approach is imperative for the new Novi.

DUCHESNEAU: We all expect growth in Novi. However, the city must not grow so fast that we lose the things making this a pleasant community.

HOYER: Realistically it is inevitable due to our geographical location, in proximity to a major, metropolitan, freeway, accessibility, our railroad and our regional shopping center.

SCHMID: Novi's growth is inevitable. How to deal with it is the question.

TEACHWORTH: As growth is inevitable, the challenge of local government is to make sure that it occurs orderly and in a way which develops our potential.

2. What factors do you feel are important in dealing with growth in Novi?

CHAMBERS: City council must first establish the future direction of Novi. Foremost, the master plan must be protected, not undermined, by council. Residents should be considered most important. Residential zoning must be protected from commercial intrusion. The master plan and zoning ordinance must be stringently followed. Residential property should have compatibility in design and be well buffered from commerce. Neighborhood parks should be planned. Light and pollution ordinances should be enacted to protect residential living environment.

DENSMORE: Novi needs a better planned tax foundation upon which to build city services. Decent public services should not tax people out of their homes. Let's properly develop our business needs and encourage industry to locate here through tax incentives. Our master plan needs revision for the 1980s to prevent congestion. Novi needs innovative economical government and I will demand efficiency and competency. Set priorities, analyze cost-benefits, and achieve reasonable results for the entire city.

DUCHESNEAU: Zoning is the key to controlling growth in the city. Growth can be increased or decreased based upon rezoning parcels of land. Novi's growth must be controlled to prevent overloading of our roads. Also, Novi should encourage office development over other commercial developments. A good master plan with clear objectives is essential for proper growth.

HOYER: Complete and total control. In my opinion, the present city council has exercised its prerogative of control as evidenced by responses to requests for rezoning, amendment of or even total redrafting of seemingly weak or ineffective growth-related ordinances and rigid review of plans or site plans over which we have ultimate power of decision. Many studies are complete and the revised master plans should soon be ready for adoption by the planning board.

SCHMID: Proper planning and stringent zoning ordinances provide the assurance of a viable, lasting community. I have consistently opposed zoning changes that would infringe on existing residential development. I have supported large-lot development in order to control density and preserve unique community living that Novi offers. I will continue to fight for quality development. Through proper planning we can have the best of two worlds—a viable business community while maintaining our rural atmosphere.

TEACHWORTH: We must grow in a way which continues to attract commercial and industrial development, as well as residential development. Balanced growth is necessary so that we will have a sufficient tax base to provide adequate city services at a reasonable cost. I favor more emphasis on quality commercial development than presently planned because of Novi's location along major highways, the ensuing tax advantages and aesthetic considerations. We must improve on present master plan.

3. Do you feel that residents along mile roads should be assessed for paving and improvements? Why or why not?

CHAMBERS: The city charter allows council special assessment privileges on property that abuts road improvements. However, council must ascertain that the properties have benefited in greater proportion than the general public. Particular attention should be paid to obvious increases in benefits enjoyed by owners of commercial and industrial properties.

DENSMORE: Yes, but probably a lower portion of the cost than non-mile roads. Fairness means reducing the price they pay for the heavier traffic, noise and nuisances. Non-mile road residents don't face the huge amount of traffic like they do. The county should pay more, to make up the difference.

DUCHESNEAU: This is a very difficult question. The owners should be assessed some fee, but it does not appear fair to assess farmers the same $10 a front foot that a 300-home subdivision developer pays. The farmer benefits from paving, but ironically only if he sells or subdivides his property.

HOYER: Charter words "specially benefited" are the key. Formulation of current road program involved hours of research, planning and compromise at equitable proportionate share to be paid by abutting property owners and share of city-at-large. Could not conscientiously vote yes on special assessment districts unless felt benefit was derived.

SCHMID: Mile road residents were assessed for road improvements as part of the road program approved by voters, spring 1976. The assessment was a small percentage of the total cost. Residents received a benefit but were subject to double payment. I believe future mile road improvement should be a total community commitment.

TEACHWORTH: As the special assessments to affected property owners are only about 20 percent of the actual costs involved, they appear to be fair. There is no question that such improvements increase property values or that most Novi residents have already paid such costs when they bought their original improved subdivision lot.

4. Do you feel that Novi should have city-wide trash collection? Why?

CHAMBERS: No. A city-operated program will increase bureaucracy and homeowner costs. Both the 1967 master plan and the 1977 Needs and Priority Committee recommended that Novi stay out of trash collection. The recent limited survey was inconclusive. The city's involvement should be in setting collection days and in ordinance enforcement.

DENSMORE: Not by another bureaucratic city department; not without fair and enforceable ordinances; not if the rates will remain the same or higher under a city contract; and not if private employers will be forced out of business. We don't need fewer jobs available, nor unnecessary interference with good working businesses.

DUCHESNEAU: Yes, Novi should have city-wide trash collection. The city is now large enough to contract trash collection for its residents. The city, however, should not establish a department of public works. This would be too costly to the taxpayers.

HOYER: Yes. Was recommendation of Needs and Assessment Committee. It has become increasingly difficult for associations and individuals dealing privately with contractors to maintain a satisfactory level of service. However, at this point in time I prefer a city contract with a private enterprise to the tax burden incurred with a city department.

SCHMID: As a present councilman, I have given this topic a great deal of thought. Alternatives to our present system are now under council study. I will support a change only if improved service and financial savings are assured.

TEACHWORTH: I favor the city's present plan of negotiating private services for those subdivisions who need better collection at a lower cost. I do not feel that a city-wide service is necessary or economical at this time. Government services are rarely as cost-effective as private enterprise.

5. Do you think a volunteer fire department will continue to adequately serve Novi in the future?

CHAMBERS: The dedication and excellent record manifested by our fire department indicates the Novi

Volunteer Fire Department serves the needs of the city. In the foreseeable future this should continue to be true, provided adequate equipment and facilities are provided. Community welfare and cost should be evaluated when alternatives are considered.

DENSMORE: Yes, but to keep it that way in the expanding future, let's hire just nine full-time firemen, one for each eight-hour shift at the three stations. That way one can drive an engine to the scene of a fire and have the others meet him there in less time.

DUCHESNEAU: A volunteer fire department can continue to adequately serve Novi as long as we have adequate equipment and concerned citizens willing to volunteer their time and effort. Also, a continued program of fire training with a few full-time qualified people is essential to a good volunteer fire department.

HOYER: Yes, as evidenced by their excellent record to date. The City of Troy with a population of 90,000, office plazas, industrial parks and large commercial centers is serviced very well by a volunteer department with four full-time people. Good equipment and proper station location are musts for efficiency.

SCHMID: The Novi Volunteer Fire Department is one of the finest departments in the Tri-County area. Given proper equipment, existing strong leadership and professional volunteer firemen, we can continue to provide Novi with exceptional protection in the foreseeable future.

TEACHWORTH: Our volunteer fire department should be maintained because it has proven effective and is economical. Larger cities such as Troy are able to provide adequate protection without a paid fire department. With adequate planning, there is no reason that Novi cannot follow that cost-saving example.

6. Why are you running for council?

CHAMBERS: I believe my seven years of community activities and my 10 years of experience in finance, as CPA and administrator, can benefit the residents of Novi by adding a necessary balance to council. As a councilman, I will fight for the best utilization of your tax dollars.

DENSMORE: I've got the guts to be your tax "watchdog" at city hall. I support cost saving measures and will keep an eye on spending. As your tax watchdog, I oppose efforts to burden our residential and commercial taxpayers. Resolve to eliminate wastefulness and seek constructive alternatives reasonably together.

DUCHESNEAU: I am running for council because I want to represent the residents of Novi by maintaining a rural community and by establishing orderly growth. I want to continue my involvement in the community and I hope to better represent the feelings of the city residents. After all, Novi is beautiful.

HOYER: Interest in future of community and the people for whom I serve. My interpretation of my role does not limit my service to within the boundaries of the city but involves me with regional and state organizations that could and do influence home rule.

SCHMID: I was elected to council because I was concerned with how Novi would develop and the quality of life that would exist. I have listened to concerns of individuals and subdivisions and represented them to the council. I will continue to provide the leadership that will assure a quality community.

TEACHWORTH: Our rapid growth and the problems associated with growth require a city council which will act in a positive and aggressive manner. I believe I have the education, work experience and ability to keep our city a nice place to live. We have the potential to be a prestigious community.

Candidates address issues

CHARLES CRAIG

Tax Abatement: I believe the abatement is a good tool to have. I believe each case should be handled on its own merit. We should not be either for or totally against it. It could be used to keep a company in the city or from going under.

EDC: A good program to have to invite industry into the city with low interest loans. We do need more industry in Wixom to create a broader tax base.

HOW program: Since the Smoker incident, I feel that we do need something to help govern the building industry. Our building department should be stricter on their inspections. I think right now our department is adequately staffed.

Garbage Collection: I foresee within the next four to five years the city having its own sanitation department for garbage collection. The cost of sanitation is continuing to rise every year. We would have better control if we had our own department.

Summary: I foresee within the next 10 years the possibility of the City of Wixom having its own water system to go along with the present sewage system. Our police and fire departments will have to be enlarged to give adequate protection. I believe we have the finest police department in Oakland County. Downtown revitalization along with historical revitalization is essential — they go hand in hand. A city has to have a link with its past heritage in order to grow.

NANCY DINGELDEY

The coming years for any Wixom administration will be trying ones. Officials will have to deal with rising costs, increasing demands for service, tax limitations demanded by the Headlee Amendment and the ever-shrinking dollar. These are grave problems that must be dealt with, issues that will require sound fiscal management. They are issues that will generate debate, cause concessions to be made, even possible animosity.

The question of garbage collection, replacement of capital equipment, water, sewer, services, all point to the number one problem that faces Wixom — money. How and where do you get it?

Of prime importance is developing an atmosphere that draws new business to the area, the kinds of business that will serve the residents well and be a credit to the community. The city must begin to take steps to improve the downtown business district before it can begin to dream of drawing in new commercial ventures. We must prove our city to be a choice location. This may take dedication, determination and effort, but it can be done.

The city must begin to demand quality before it can expect to draw quality to its area. It must begin to demand maximum, not minimum, standards in all phases of development from single family residential to the industrial complex. It must grant fewer variances from the set rules and regulations. If variances are granted, they must be for shorter lengths of time. No longer can the city afford to take the role of the "nice guys." They must become extremely "picky" as to what is allowed to happen in the city.

We must set our sights on a higher plane, develop a better self-image, create the atmosphere that can command the quality development, quality commercial and good industrial.

To examine ourselves and our goals will determine whether the city will remain at status quo or move forward with deliberation.

WAYNE GLESSNER

I believe that the most significant issue which will face Wixom residents in the next five years will be reflected by the capabilities and performance of the city to satisfy the needs of the people — in terms of services — in view of increased costs, inflation and consistent increases for services and personnel contracts required by the city. Additional stress could result if a tax abatement scheme is implemented for business and industry.

A positive approach to solving part of this issue would be to expand our tax base by actively pursuing business and industry to locate in Wixom. Optimistically, the enactment of the Economic Development Corporation is a step in the right direction offering a positive incentive to business and industry. The continued revitalization of the central business district would be an additional attribute and is a necessity if Wixom is to succeed as a city.

Present problems involving the building department, contractors, and homeowners can be resolved by strengthening the building department. The department must be capable of enforcing all existing building codes and city ordinances applicable. Large projects may require a full-time on-site inspection to insure quality work. Requests were made for additional personnel but the administration has been reluctant to respond. The HOW program is not an adequate solution.

A review of the city indicates that a "get tough" attitude as suggested by the planning commission must be taken by all responsible boards and commissions. Irrevocable letters of credit or performance bonds should be required of builders as the present quality and past experience of the city is incompatible with the best plans and beautiful renderings presented to our boards for consideration and approval.

A position of "no consideration given" on tax abatement to business and industry should be adopted by council as a policy statement and position. We should not give away our city's tax base.

My only qualification for councilman is a sincere interest in bettering our community for its citizens and a capacity and personal tenacity to succeed in this endeavor if elected.

WILLIAM WYLLIE

The city of Wixom is faced with a future of continued growth which has really just begun. The city administration and council will be charged with the responsibility to see that this growth is controlled in order to ensure that the tax base grows in a healthy way, that city services keep pace or improve, and that the city continues to be a desirable community in which to live and work.

Typical situations include the increased demand for, and cost of trash removal, sewage disposal, water supply, environmental preservation and police and fire protection.

Solutions to these issues require a council that can establish priorities, analyze various alternatives, balance the availability of financial resources against the increased demands for services, and above all keep abreast of the concerns and needs of the citizens.

I believe that my business experience and community activities have prepared me to deal with these matters in a way that will be beneficial to the residents of Wixom. I have been responsible for both developing forward plans as well as for managing operations to carry them out throughout my career. I have been active in community and church volunteer groups for many years.

The experiences gained from these two different areas, along with my most recent activity as president of a Wixom homeowner's association, have provided me with the qualifications needed to represent the citizens as a council member of Wixom.

Bond issue not to exceed $1 million dollars, to be repaid over a period of 15 years by a .31 mill (31¢ per thousand dollars of evaluation) tax increase.

For Better Fire Protection

Capital Improvements Will Be:

1. Reconstruction of Stations I and II approximate cost $700,000.00.
2. Purchase of one pump-aerial equipped approximate cost $170,000.00.

Why Are These Improvements Needed?

1. Current Stations are old and in need of costly renovations.
2. For better availability of equipment.
3. In order to improve response time.
4. A centrally located Headquarters Station is needed to house specific emergency equipment.
5. The City does not have an aerial truck which is necessary and critical to go above a fire or for an emergency situation.

real savings to residents, and the individual needs of residents in single family dwellings and multiples are met.

ROETHEL: No. Results of the survey taken indicate that a majority are satisfied; plus the fact that many would only approve of city-wide collection if it could be provided at less or no cost. This has not yet been established. Administrative proposal precludes commercial and multiple.

6. Do you think that a volunteer fire department will continue to adequately serve Novi in the future?

ROETHEL: Yes, we have an excellent volunteer department. Plans are presently underway to solicit volunteers from local businesses to service Novi during daytime hours. Costs full-time cannot be met with present tax structure. Novi's fire chief is doing a remarkable job in professionalizing volunteers.

SHAW: A volunteer fire department can continue to provide adequate protection. However, to ensure success, we must provide continued support of professional leadership and training programs and address present concerns for the future, including means of improving response time and the difficulties of recruiting additional daytime volunteers of the present caliber.

6. Why are you running for mayor?

SHAW: I am running for mayor because of my strong commitment to this city and its future. I believe I have demonstrated qualities of leadership and can provide the process necessary to give direction to this city, to establish sound programs and criteria for dealing with such issues as growth, finance and zoning.

ROETHEL: Position is challenging. Need still present for experienced leadership as city progresses. Great strides have been made in establishing rapport with outside agencies and legislative bodies. These contacts are not made overnight. I've developed and will continue to represent Novi's interests in these areas of concern.

7. What do you feel is the function of the mayor in Novi?

ROETHEL: Charter limitations make the mayor's position basically one of public relations. Office requires persuasive abilities. Availability is a prime requisite. Residents deserve an opportunity for personal contact with their elected mayor. Mayor should represent Novi's interests through personal contacts with legislative representatives at county, state and federal level.

SHAW: The mayor's primary function is to provide strong and effective leadership in process and direction. It is essential that leadership be directed toward providing constructive solutions to problems, establishing guidelines under which city administration can function and creating policy that addresses community needs before they become tomorrow's problems.

Spiritualist says ghosts are for real

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Is there such a thing as psychic power, extrasensory perception, karma, ghost chasing? Can incantations, tarot cards, crystal balls or meditation rid a house of a ghost, a body of an ill, a mind of a problem?

Can a person be clairvoyant, foresee the future? Can that person hear and see things others cannot?

According to Elvira Hiner, the answer to all questions is a definite yes, without a doubt, if you are a spiritualist.

There are such things as ghosts—they do exist, claims Mrs. Hiner, the former leader of the St. Anne First Spiritual Church of Light in Brighton.

She prefers to call them "ghosties," and says they are not sent by the devil. Rather, she says, they are the souls of people who have died but whose souls refuse to leave this world.

As a spiritualist, her goal is to help those souls by communicating with them, explaining why they should "pass to the other side," and then locate a "guide," a secretary or messenger of God, to help those souls relocate.

Mrs. Hiner also commented that there is a great difference between her beliefs, which have a distinct connection with a strong faith in God, and those who believe in demonology and the devil. "I do not believe in the devil or in evil possessions. It frightens me to think of devil worship."

She attributes her ability to communicate with the spirit world, to heal, to help people with their problems, to an extremely strong trust in God. "He gives me my power. If I used my power to do evil, He would remove it immediately," she claims.

Through her God-given powers, Mrs. Hiner says she has been chosen to teach others their inherent powers of ESP and psychic healing and to help those who do not wish to develop their own powers. She stresses the fact that the powers are definitely not an evil gift.

Ghost chasing, she says, takes an enormous amount of intense prayer, of meditation, of concentration, to rid an area of an unwanted ghostie guest.

"I must first seek out the ghost and convince it that it is beautiful on the other side. It must pass over to find rest, ultimately to return through reincarnation to reach karma."

Mrs. Hiner says if she does go out on a ghost chasing mission, she will take her husband along. While in Brighton, she would be accompanied by her sister Nancy, also a spiritualist.

The spiritualist explained that she can see auras, the energy matter that surrounds any person or a thing, alive or dead. She also claims to feel psychic vibrations in areas that may be inhabited by a ghostie.

After reaching the ghostie through ESP, she and her husband or sister will enter deep prayer for the soul to go to rest.

Mrs. Hiner explained the reason a ghost remains with a house or certain object is that it did not want to die in the first place. Usually, Mrs. Hiner pointed out, death came too early, possibly through crime or accident. As a result, the soul feels trapped in a certain area.

Tax relief declared dead

By WARREN M. HOYT

A legislative proposal to provide $450 million in property tax relief with the additional revenue coming from an increase in the personal income tax rate, has been declared dead for the remainder of the 1979 legislative session.

Representative George Montgomery (D-Detroit), proposal sponsor and chairman of the House Taxation Committee, said the plan was dead after the Michigan House refused to tie-bar the remaining parts of the plan to the main bill.

These two pieces of legislation would have exempted utilities and telephones from sales and use taxes.

The only way the so-called tax shift plan could be renewed, Montgomery suggested, is if Republicans come forward with a list of specific proposals that could be adopted onto the plan.

Montgomery had asked the House to tie-bar the two bills exempting the utilities and telephones from use or sales taxes to legislation increasing the income tax from its current 4.6 percent rate.

It was suggested the income tax would have to be increased to make up $100 million, the cost of the two other bills.

Republicans, however, criticized the tie-barring proposal, saying it was like trying "to hit a moving target" because no income tax increase had yet been established.

Representative Paul Henry (R-Grand Rapids) said they did not feel a tax shift was a bad idea per se, but they needed more specific information before committing themselves to the plan.

The plan was introduced last winter with high anticipation that it would pass into law by spring. It was one legislative proposal devised to counter the Tish property tax cut constitutionally amendment which was narrowly rejected by voters in November.

Originally, the plan would have shifted $450 million in revenue by increasing the property tax credit and the personal exemption and then increasing the income tax rate.

It ran into opposition early as Republicans claimed it was a backdoor attempt to create a progressive income tax — an issue off rejected by Michigan voters.

Legislation requiring that the language of insurance policies be simpler is being drafted by the state Insurance Bureau, according to Insurance Commissioner Richard Hemmings.

Currently, only lawyers can understand insurance policies, he said noting that legislation to simplify policy language is just one of several goals mapped out by the bureau for 1980.

Hemmings said that while the legislation will not guarantee that insurance policies are suddenly fun to read, it should make policies easier for people without legal or insurance training to understand.

The legislation will have standards regarding readability, size of print, text organization and language.

Other goals of the insurance bureau include preparing rules for consumers before they buy health and life insurance.

The bureau will also take steps to protect consumer privacy.

Last year, the state Supreme Court upheld the no-fault insurance law but said both availability and rates must comply with due process requirements.

The homeowners' insurance provisions of the bill also limit rating territories in the voluntary market to three in an effort to eliminate insurance redlining in central cities.

Separate territory provisions apply in the residual pool, which has been used for high-risk coverages, and where attempts failed to make each territory no smaller than a county.

The agreement of the ad hoc committee will be placed in the legislation by a Senate-House conference committee which would not be subject to amendment after a final agreement is reached.

Poet's Corner

My Family

Varied Visitors

We stand together in a circle
Facing the storm of life
We love each other and care for each other
And feel each other's strife

We talk of the things that make us happy
Of joy and sorrow and pain
The beautiful times that are always there
Re-live again and again

There are problems and trials that we must face
And sometimes the going gets tough
But we help each other and hold on to each other Till we pass the times that are rough

It isn't easy to be a family
To live together so close
But the joy we feel is special and real
In living each day to the most

In the years to come when we all live apart
We'll remember the times that are past
And though we're apart,
The love in our hearts for each other,
Will always be there

The baby cries
Soft, symphonic bell tones
Staccato to a mighty snore
To a metronome

Tick-tock of wall clock —
Alto snores and stern ticks;
A baby's insistence
Unvaried —

The cacophony
On ice-black
Shakes deepening rest.
Two ears muffle

The inroads of the night
Bored through pillows
And bunched blankets;
Riveters drilling into one's dreams
More with sound than purpose.
The onslaught unweaving
The eyes, to conjure denial —
Soon changed to Utter wakefulness.

Seasons

Seasons.
They've ever evolved with earth and ourselves.

Branches have stemmed from the shelters of soul to blossom...

sometimes to blow away...
but to ever bud forth... trying,
through every season...

to maintain a surviving hold on life...
... blossoming emotions of spring...

the high spirits of fall...
... and the loneliness of winter...
... If the people of the seasons are strong, then strength survives...

... with the seasons turning...
... rain or shine

laughter or tears
a time for all life
throughout all seasons.

and now, before the turn of the day
I find it adding its work to the calendar of time.

Lost alone, forgotten through the rushing waters of memory.
The small hesitant fish beneath the waters seem to show themselves almost as little where reality is sometimes too immense... day after day passing.

Perri's Song

Out of the blue and into the black the pain is hard and she won't come back

But in all our hearts
she will always be there but when we looked she was to be nowhere

She said, babe I'm leaving
I must be on my way
I really don't like it here and I don't really wanna stay

So, Switchboard Susan won't you give us a line we're waiting for her from Perri to see if she's doing fine

I never saw a girl who was such a good friend we all promised to love each other until it was the end

And so we did just that and we still feel the chill
We have hard changes to go through but we love you Perri... still

Bread and Butter

After everything's been written
Of the years we've put to rest,
A memory still lingers
That we rate among the best,
As the kitchen smell on Fridays
Coming out the oven door
Of those crusty loaves of home-made bread
Just made us drool for more

No spread could ever quite approach
The home-made dairy butter
As it melted on a fresh, hot slice —
No words are there to utter
To describe the mellow lusciousness
Of that savory creature,
Enveloped by the kitchen smell
We breathed in great elation!

Dinner-theater planned at Schoolcraft College

Schoolcraft College students will present their dinner-theater production of the mystery comedy "The Real Inspector Hound" this weekend (November 2-3) and again November 16-17 in the Waterman Campus Center.

"The Real Inspector Hound" was written by Tom Stoppard, a British dramatist who has written both dramas and comedies with much success on the London stage. His plays are characterized by absurd ideas and situations which reveal profound ideas from trivial experiences.

Technical Director Larry Rudick describes "The Real Inspector Hound" as a spoof of an Agatha Christie mystery which Stoppard presents with "prankish zest." The play is about Birdboot and Moon, two drama critics at an absurd thriller play who observe and comment and slowly become involved in the action.

Both critics get mixed up in the stage thriller's search with the help of Inspector Hound for a homicidal maniac stalking around Lady Muldoon's Manor. The play moves fast and furious until the real Inspector Hound is identified and the killer is apprehended.

Members of the cast include Marc Harlow, Chris Lindholm, Scott Muszki, Joseph Rohatynski and Larry Wilkin of Livonia, Phyllis Jo Counts of Canton, Kelly Norman of Northville and Tammy Berzath of Westland. Sandy Finelstein is stage manager.

The 7 p.m. dinner will feature a buffet of roast beef and baked chicken, chef's salad, potato, vegetable, roll and butter, beverage and lorie cake.

The play will begin at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are priced at $10 per person and must be purchased in advance at the Schoolcraft College bookstore.

Further information may be obtained by calling the bookstore at 591-4400, extension 265. Schoolcraft College is located on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia.

At Ford Auditorium

Concert honors Sousa

From sea to shining sea, celebrities and fans of the concert band world will assemble in Detroit's Ford Auditorium on Tuesday, November 6, to pay tribute to America's very first musical ambassador to the world — John Philip Sousa — on the occasion of his 125th birthday anniversary.

A documentary concert, written and produced by Director Leonard Smith, will feature the internationally-acclaimed Detroit Concert Band and such giants of the music world as Meredith Wilson of California, whose ever-popular show is being prepared for another run on Broadway with Dick Van Dyke as "The Music Man."

Also featured at the gala birthday celebration will be Lieutenant Colonel William Santelman (former leader of the United States Marine Band), Ronald Demkee (youthful conductor of America's oldest civilian concert band in Allentown, Pennsylvania) and Sousa biographer Paul Bierly.

Two members of the Sousa band also will be present: celebrated clarinetist Edmund Wall and Jan Williams, who not only toured the world with the Sousa band, but whose clarinet artistry graced the metropolitan Orchestra under Toscanini and the New York Symphony Orchestra under Damrosch.

Mike Whorf of WJR "Kaleidoscope" fame will narrate the program.

Counterpart roles of stellar Sousa soloists will be performed by cornetist James B. Underwood and Herbert L. Clarke, soprano Imogene Bird as Estelle Liebling, euphonist Earle Luder as Simone Mantia, tubaist Harvey Phillips as William "Bill" Bell, whose virtuosity embellished the Sousa band and the NBC Symphony Orchestra, and Detroit's own bass drummer Kenneth Baldwin as August "Gus" Heimecke who — in total rapport with Sousa — established the firm and steady beat that distinguished the Sousa band from all others.

Patrons are urged to arrive early for leisurely examination of an exhibit of Sousa artifacts and other memorabilia on display in the lobby of Ford Auditorium. The display was made available for this special occasion by the United States Marine Corps Museum in Washington D.C.

All seats are reserved with tickets priced at $9.50, $8.50 and $7.50. Advance ticket sales for this program are so brisk that it's recommended that anyone wishing to participate in this unique event should act quickly to secure desired tickets. Ticket information is available at 888-0594 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Immediately following the concert, holders of afterglow tickets (available in limited numbers at $17.50 apiece) will have an opportunity to meet and converse with the stars of the Sousa Celebration concert at the Detroit Plaza Hotel.

Also present at the afterglow will be other eminent representatives of the music world from across the country who are coming to Detroit especially for this event. Champagne and hot and cold hors d'oeuvres will be served. Shuttle service from Ford Auditorium to the Plaza Hotel and back is provided.

Western backs blast Redford, 34-22

It's getting hard to tell exactly which team Walled Lake Western is playing these days — football, or "Can You Top This?"

Actually, the Warriors haven't been playing games with anybody in recent weeks. The men of Chuck Appa have been all business, much to the dismay of their last three opponents.

A previously undefeated Redford Union team Friday was the latest victim of a blood-thirsty Western outfit, going prey to the Warrior running line in a shocking 34-22 upset. Three different Western backfield members made life miserable for Redford and its home fans, all of whom watched their Region Four playoff hopes evaporate with the last ticks of the clock.

Angelo Buttazzoni, Bruce Meyer and Quarterback Rob King — who scored four touchdowns — each rushed for 100 yards-plus in the non-league affair. The Redford defense keyed on Buttazzoni, the standout junior linebacker, leaving Meyer and King free to roam as they pleased all evening long. And when those two weren't grinding out the yardage, it was Buttazzoni who rumbled through enemy lines.

Despite Redford's attempts to limit his offensive talents, Buttazzoni still led all rushers with 125 yards on 20 carries. King netted 119 yards on just six running attempts, while Meyer made it a Western hat trick with 109 yards on 22 tries.

The victory was the high point in Western's best season of this decade. The Warriors have now steamrolled over three straight opponents, scoring 111 points in the process. And their current 5-3 record is the school's best since 1969.

The locals are also piling up some pretty impressive individual accomplishments, led by Buttazzoni. The burly back, who shattered the single game school rushing mark (286 yards) the previous week against Waterford Mott, broke the Western season mark with Friday's performance. He now has 955 yards on 156 carries this fall, eclipsing the old standard of 950 set in 1971.

Even more incredible is the fact that Buttazzoni — still just a junior — is only 13 yards away from the Warrior all-time career high. And he'll have all of 1980 to add to that mark.

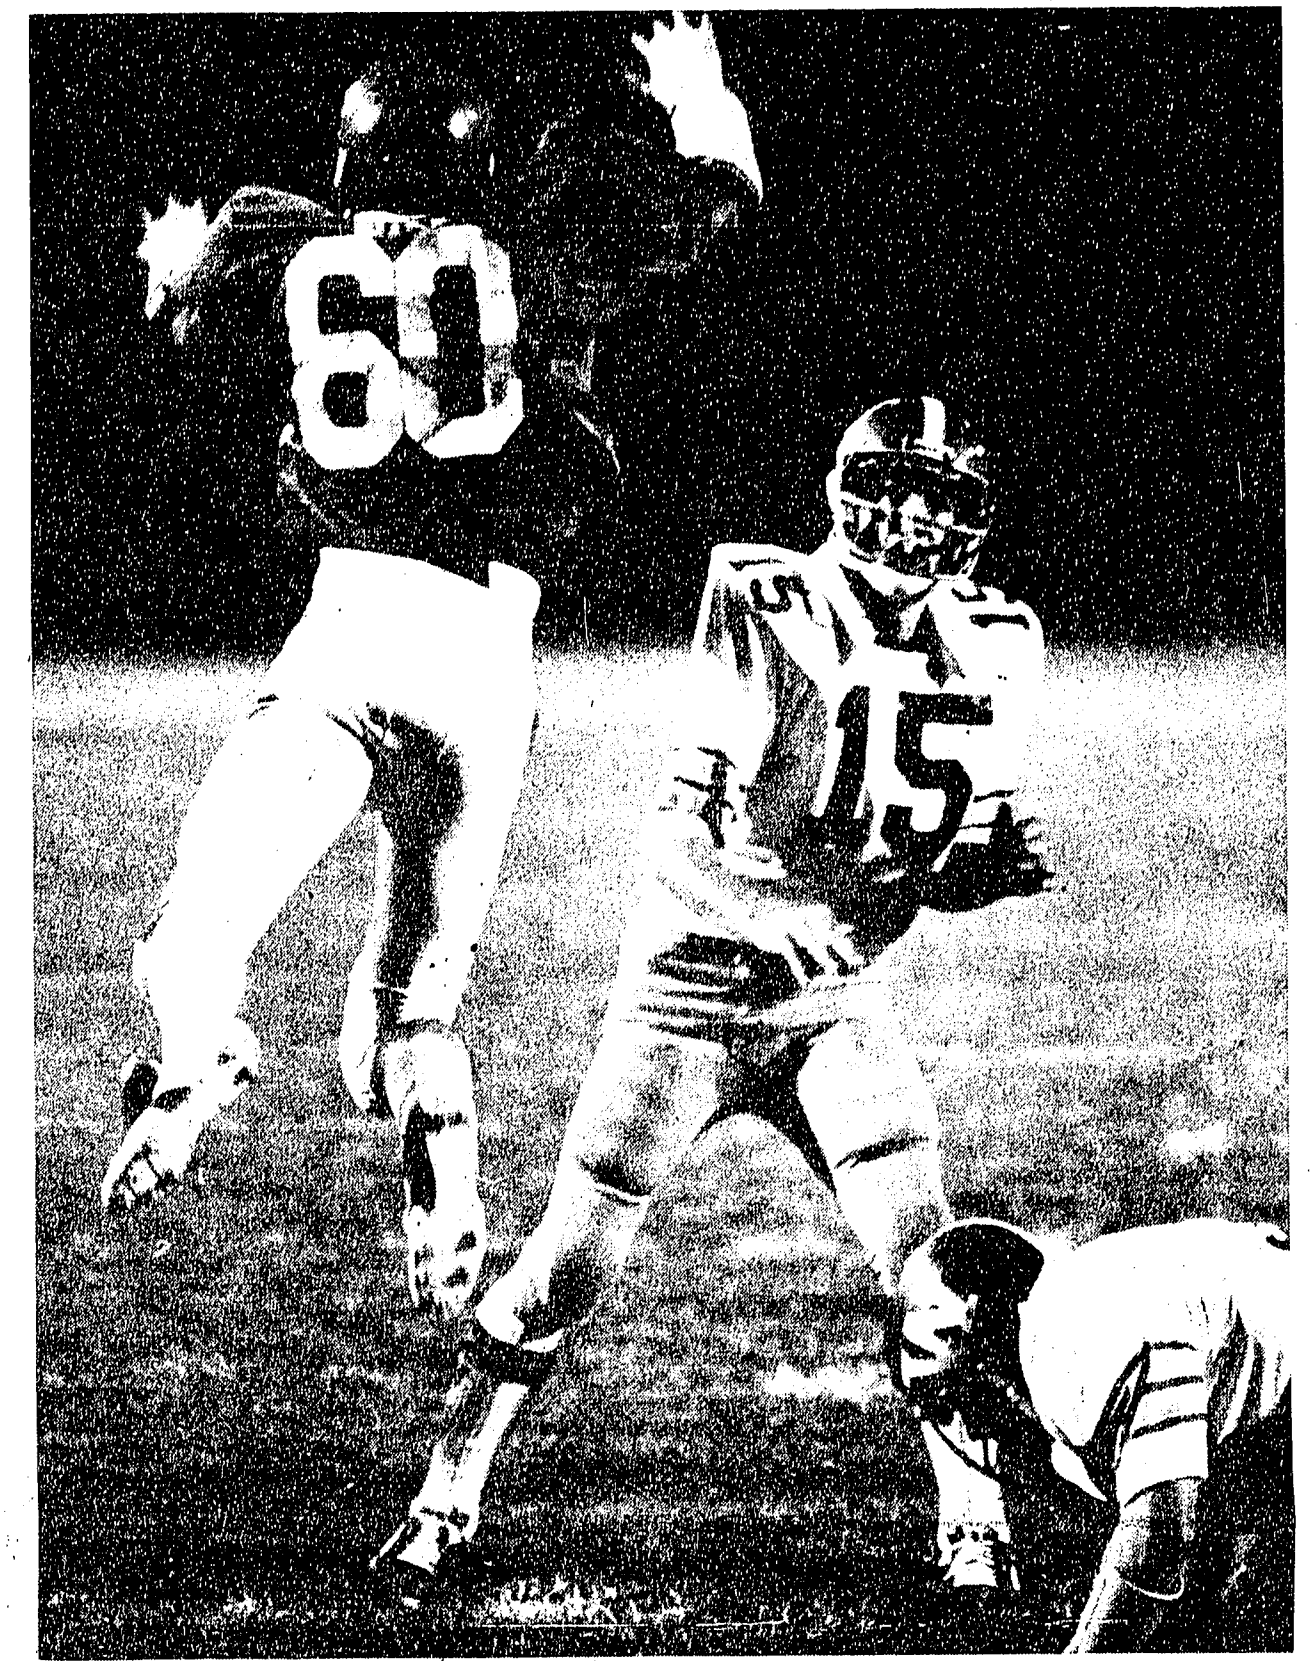

Western simply ran over poor Redford right from the start in the win. Meyer started the game with a 52-yard run for the locals, the key play in the three-play, 65-yard drive that culminated in a 10-yard run by King. A Mike Xenos extra point made it 7-0, Warriors.

Then the Western defense took its bows, with Frank Tozzi running 25 yards for a score after a blocked punt. Meyer ran in a two-point conversion try, and the visitors led 15-0.

However, Redford then began flashing the form that made it the eighth-ranked Class A team in the state prior to Friday. The home team tallied on a five-yard run, finishing off a seven-play, 59-yard drive. A successful pass ended a 10-play, 76-yard Western march. A two-point conversion failure still left the Warriors with their biggest lead of the evening at that point, 27-16.

The scoring pace slowed down somewhat in the period number three. Neither team could mount much of an offensive until the Warriors put something together late in the stanza. It was then — with 13 seconds left in the quarter — that a two-yard King run ended a 10-play, 76-yard Western march. A two-point conversion failure still left the Warriors with their biggest lead of the evening at that point, 27-16.

The Novi varsity football team won its third straight game by downing Dexter 21-7 last Friday. The win evens the Wildcats record at 4-4.

Novi opened the game as if it were going to win running away. On its second possession of the first quarter, Novi put together a 13-play drive that included a 15-yard pass play from Mike Rentner to Jeff Clark and a 15-yard run by Keith Crosslin. Jeff Arbour carried the ball in from the one-yard line for the score. The point-after kick attempt failed and Novi led 6-0.

The Wildcats kicked off to Dexter and then held for three plays. Dexter was forced to punt. Steve Wright rushed the kicker who panicked and got off a weak kick from his 34-yard line. The ball traveled four yards and Novi downed the boot on the Dexter 39-yard line.

On the first play from scrimmage Arbour darted and dashed 31 yards down to the Dexter seven. From there Crosslin bulldozed his way into the end zone for the second Novi score. The try for a two-point conversion failed and the Wildcats led 12-0. "It looked like we were going to rout them," Novi coach John Osborne said.

But Dexter had other ideas. The Dreadnaughts weren't going to die that easily. Novi kicked off and Dexter brought the ball out to its own 43-yard line. A few short plays later Dreadnaught Jeff Otto had smashed into the end zone from three yards out. Jim Vaughn kicked the extra point and Dexter was right back into the game, 12-7.

Novi took over possession with just a couple of minutes left in the half. Rentner tried to surprise the Dexter defense by throwing a bomb but the alert Dreadnaught backfield managed to intercept it.

Then, with just 20 seconds left on the clock, Dexter tried a surprise of its own. Another bomb. And again, the same result. Wildcat Jeff Sauma picked the pass attempt off. On the first play Arbour took a draw-play handoff and burst through the line for a 44-yard jaunt. He went out of bounds on the Dexter 27-yard line. The clock showed just five seconds left.

Rentner dropped back and as the seconds ticked off, spotted Clark alone in the end zone. He fired and Clark caught the ball just as the first half gun went off. The point-after kick failed and Novi retired to the locker room with an 18-7 halftime lead.

The second half was a defensive battle. Both teams mounted drives but except for a field goal neither could capitalize on them. On Novi's second possession of the half, the team drove down to the Dexter eight-yard line but stalled there. Clark kicked a 25-yard field goal to give Novi its 21-7 lead. That closed out the scoring for the game.

The highlight of the half came when Dexter moved the ball down to the Novi one-yard line, where, with first down, the Wildcats threw them back play after play. Novi took over the ball on its own six-yard line after Dexter failed to score in four plays.

Jeff Arbour led the Wildcats in rushing with 119 yards on 20 carries. Crosslin carried the ball 12 times for 63 yards.

"Dexter defended us in pretty good position," Osborne said. "Arbour's two big plays were the result of them trying to shut our outside option off. We just went up the middle."

The Ann Arbor News previewed the game by calling Novi the best 3-4 team in the area. Osborne was inclined to agree. "We have a tough team. It all goes back to that South Lyon game. It went down to the final seconds and they beat us. They end up conference champions and we go on a three-game losing streak. It's somewhat frustrating. We didn't do as well as we should have."

Novi has one game left on its schedule. Friday the Mustangs of Northville will come into town and meet Novi in a rivalry that has gone on since 1971.

"It should be a good game," Osborne said. "I just hope we can stay with them. They are 4-4 also but they play a much tougher schedule than we do." Game time is slated for 7:30 p.m.

The Wildcat JV football team also won last week. The team beat Dexter 14-0. Going into the game, Dexter led the Southeastern Conference JV's with a 6-1 mark.

The big plays for Novi were a nine-yard touchdown run by David Chickowski in the third quarter. Chris Caudell kicked the extra point.

Caudell then threw a four-yard touchdown pass to Vince Buzzelli in the fourth quarter. Caudell kicked the extra point and Novi had a 14-0 lead and the game.

"On defense the whole team played super," coach Brian Howard said of his Wildcats. "I don't want to single any one person out because they all played so well. On offense Peter DeBrule had 65 yards on 10 carries. David Chickowski had 68 in 10." The win gives the Wildcats a 5-2 mark.

The Novi freshman team also won last week. The frosh downed Dexter 14-0. The win raises the frosh record to 5-1. Novi scored both touchdowns within two minutes of each other. In the first quarter Eric Deline scored on a 50-yard run. Two minutes later Vince Meo dashed through the line for a 80-yard touchdown run. Dexter scored on a three yard run in the second quarter.

Vikes lack that competitive edge in costly conference cage setback

After a couple of uninspired losses last week, maybe the Walled Lake Central girls' basketball team would benefit from an "Operation Head Start" program.

No, the women's cage program at Central isn't in any particularly dire financial straits. But according to Viking Coach Ken Butler, his players do need a fresh new beginning mentally.

"We seem to have lost that competitive edge lately," the veteran mentor remarked after conference foe Farmington had dealt Central a costly 57-34 defeat Thursday night. "We're just not reacting the way we should... we need that little extra." To illustrate his point, Butler pointed out that among 14 loose balls up for grabs against Farmington, the Vikings only managed to come away with the final two. "You can drill a team all you want on the technical things and skills it takes to execute," he said. "But no one can make you mentally ready or inspired to play. That has to come from within."

Central's weak play and equally weak shooting (13 of 64 field goal attempts) proved to be the difference Thursday, as the Vikes slipped to 3-2 in the Inter-Lakes conference—a full two games behind leader Livonia Stevenson at 5-0. Ironically, the locals stayed close most of the way, trailing by just one point with seven minutes remaining.

But that's when the Farmington running game got going, and the visitors just out-hustled Central until things got out of hand.

"They (Farmington) really got hot at the end," Butler admitted. "But basketball is a game of spurts. We tried time-out after time-out in those last seven minutes to slow 'em down, but it just didn't do any good."

Speaking from the local standpoint, it also didn't do any good that Viking mainstay Erin Blendim was rendered ineffective by a nagging wrist injury. Without her or Amy Rembliz—who picked up three quick personal fouls in the first quarter—the scoring load fell largely on Wendy Keely. She paced Central with 12 points, while Caryn Lamb contributed six.

The preceding Tuesday, Keely once more led the Vikings with a 20-point night, but it wasn't enough as Detroit Our Lady of Mercy (11-1) showed no such lenient tendencies in a 51-38 decision. In that one, the winners were in control much of the way despite the fact that Central got within nine points with five minutes to go.

But the experienced, well-drilled Detroiters peppered the locals all night with a mean pressing defense, resulting in 26 turnovers. That's the most giveaways ever by a Butler-coached Central squad.

"We didn't play that bad of ball," the Viking boss offered, "but Mercy has experience on its side. They've been doing the same thing for a long time, and have a couple of seniors to lead them. We could use that senior leadership—the best combinations have that."

Still, the news is by no means all bad for the home club. Central now can look forward to playing five of its next six games at home in an attempt to catch the circuit-leading Spartans of Stevenson. That string was scheduled to begin yesterday (Tuesday), with the Vikes taking on the West Bloomfield Lakers.

Central defense startles West Bloomfield, 10-6

By REID CREAGER

Yes, folks — good, old-fashioned, tough defense still wins football games.

The Walled Lake Central Vikings proved that grid fact of life in very convincing style Friday night, upsetting Greater Oakland League co-champion West Bloomfield by a 10-6 count before a happy local throng. It was the second win in the last three outings for the men of Dick Woodworth.

Tony Norton plowed into the Laker end zone early in the first quarter, providing the only Central touchdown from a yard out. As things turned out, B. J. Scott's ensuing extra point gave the locals their margin of victory. He then tacked on a 23-yard field goal with 7:20 remaining in the game to close out the Viking scoring.

West Bloomfield, meanwhile, threatened very little offensively. The visitors managed to score with 2:56 left in the game on a one-yard plunge by quarterback Chris Mayone — much to the dismay of an otherwise quiet crowd — and missed on a conversion try that would have left them within field-goal range.

Art Christensen, Tim Green, Todd Flannery and Bob Steverright, who spent a lot of time on the field because of a fine showing by the West Bloomfield defenders, led a fired-up Viking clan. Central has now allowed just eight points in its last two victories.

"Our defense has held up pretty well this season," Woodworth said afterward. "The guys have consistently hit hard, and this was no exception."

"I was especially happy with Chuck Speiser and Dan Stakoe, who's just a sophomore," the Vike boss reported. "I think we've got the makings of a good defense for quite awhile, if these guys can continue improving."

Among the accomplishments of the Central defense was its ability to shut off the Laker passing game. The visitors completed just one of eight aerials for 23 yards, as Laker quarterback Mayone was under the gun all night. The West Bloomfield stadium had led his team to a 4-1 league record and share of the loop crown with Bloomfield Hills Andover, but linebackers B. J. Scott, Tony Norton and Lenny Pasquale didn't appear to be impressed and made life miserable for him.

West Bloomfield (5-3) had no better luck with its ground game. Gary Shroeder, who with Mayone had teamed to provide the enemy with much of their offense this fall, was held in check as the visitors managed just 108 rushing yards in 41 carries.

The grind-it-out affair, which lacked any spectacular offensive fireworks, failed to produce any noise from the crowd until West Bloomfield managed its six-pointer. Many were on their feet as the Vikings valiantly tried to preserve their shutout, but Mayone's offensive line pushed ahead just enough and he scored on a straight-ahead move. Central then controlled most of the rest of the clock, giving the home team its third win to go with five setbacks.

Had Woodworth's men been able to preserve the blank job, it would have marked the second time in 1979 that the Vikings had held an opponent scoreless. Central defeated Milford, 10-0, on the season's opening night September 7.

Now the Vikings must get ready for the campaign's closing night, Walled Lake Western, which has exploded for 110 points in its last three games, figures to provide the ultimate test for Central's steadily-improving defense.

Junior Rick Stevens, who has guided Central to its last two victories, will again by leading the offense against the Warriors. He replaced senior Curt Burstein as the Viking quarterback three weeks ago, and the club now utilizes the versatile number 11 as a rusher-receiver.

Woodworth and Company will enter Friday's 7:30 game with an 8-2 series advantage over Western.

Warriors end nine-game loss skid

If nothing else, the odds were certainly in favor of the Walled Lake Western girls' basketball team last Tuesday night.

After all, the Warriors had lost their last nine ball games, and in Clarkson were playing against an opponent they had never managed to beat before.

But Tom Sczynski's troops gave history a cold slap in the face, epitomizing team basketball in a 55-54 squeaker over the home club. It was the Warriors' second victory of 1979.

Center Cheryl Reiter canned one of two free throw attempts with 13 seconds remaining in the game to give the winners their one-point margin. As things turned out, however, perhaps the most crucial point in the game from the Western standpoint occurred in the first quarter.

The Warriors trailed by 12 at one point during that stanza, and Clarkson was threatening to run away and hide at any early stage. But Western went to a pressing defense, successfully hounding the home club into a series of turnovers, free throws and other giveaways to get back into the game.

The locals managed to knot the score at 32-31 at intermission.

From then on, it was nip 'n tuck the rest of the way. At one juncture in the fourth quarter, however, the Warriors moved to a nine-point advantage and seemed in the driver's seat themselves.

Western then went into a four-corner delay game, hoping to cash in on fouls Clarkson had to commit in order to get the ball back.

But it didn't work. The Warriors missed free throw after free throw, setting up the hectic finish. Reiter's freebie then sealed matters, as Sczynski instructed his girls to let Clarkson score untouched at the buzzer to avoid a possible three-point play and overtime.

"All things considered, it was probably our best game of the year," Sczynski said. "We played as a team, and there was no big standout who had to carry the load by herself."

A look at the game's scoring totals would confirm that belief. For the first time this season, Western has four players score in double figures, led by Tracy Grubb's 14 points. Reiter added 12, while Kris Mellem contributed 11.

Sczynski was still happy after his club's outing two nights later, although it ended up on the short end of a 54-49 state-ranked Redford Union yesterday (Tuesday). Following that contest, the Warriors return to conference action and another shot at Livonia Churchill, this time in Livonia.

Still, Sczynski said he was pleased with the team's overall showing, noting that it had out-rebounded the number-one Chiefs by a 41-27 margin. Western also shot 33 percent from the floor — following a 40 percent showing in the win over Clarkson — perhaps indicating that the Warrior shooting touch is coming around.

"I came out of the game feeling good," Sczynski said. "It looks like the girls have finally started to play together. I'm looking for some more wins in this second half."

Balanced scoring once more highlighted the Warrior offense despite the loss. Reiter had 11 points, Mellem chipped in 10 and Grubb did likewise. The Warriors missed Wilson, who was sidelined for approximately 10 days with a sprained ankle.

The injury to the speedy sparkplug certainly can't help Western, especially since the locals were slated to take on the state-ranked Redford Union yesterday (Tuesday). Following that contest, the Warriors return to conference action and another shot at Livonia Churchill, this time in Livonia.

Novi missing offense in two hoop defeats

Just when it seemed that a little bit of sunshine had hit the Wildcat basketball scene, the storm clouds of two losses appeared to darken the Novi basketball sky.

After winning its second game of the season two weeks ago, the Wildcats seemed to be on their way to a few more wins. They had brought up Kathy Sroka, a sparkling guard who seemed to make the Novi attack click.

But last week the smoothly-iding Wildcat offensive machinery started to sputter and shake again. Novi lost 54-45 to Dexter and 57-46 to South Lyon.

Against the Lions Novi fell behind 8-6 in the first quarter. 21-10 at the half, 39-29 after the third quarter and then 57-46. Tracy Sobkow led the Wildcat attack with 15 points. Lori Giorgio scored 14. Novi had 21 fouls called against it to South Lyon's 15.

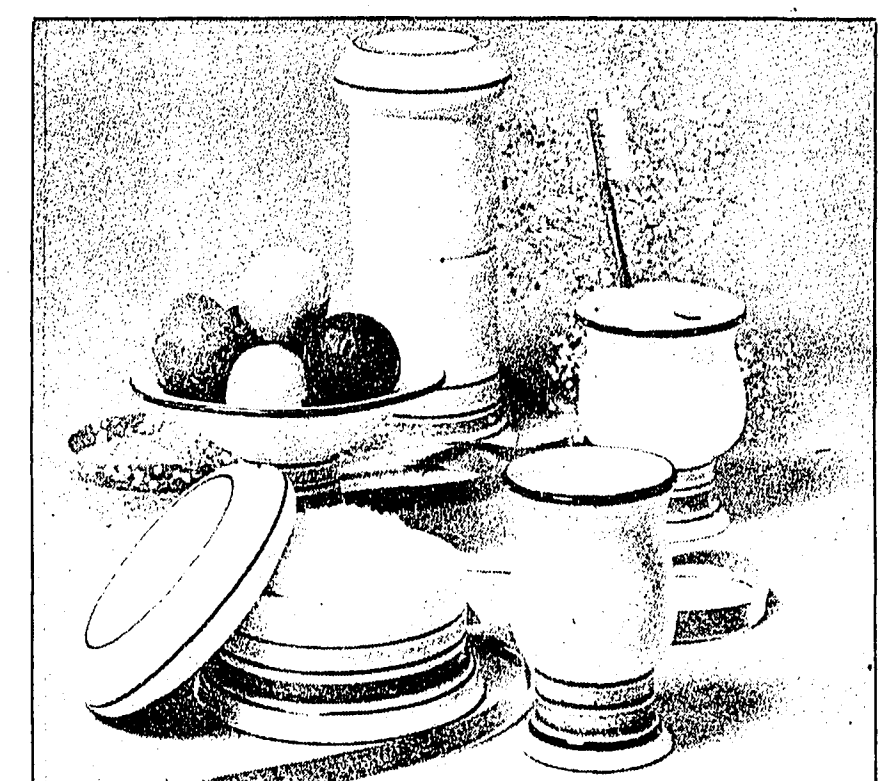

Sandy Snow led South Lyon in scoring. She connected 25 points and had 16 rebounds. Loren Rugel had 11 points and Betty Lakvold scored 10 to help the winning cause. The win gives South Lyon a 7-3 overall mark and a 3-3 tally for the Kensington Valley Conference.

Novi fared little better against Dexter. The Dreadnaughts opened up to a 16-4 first-quarter lead, increased it to 36-22 as Novi came back to score 18 points in the second period, tied 34-34 at the third quarter and went up for good, outscoring the Wildcats 20-11 in the final frame.

Giorgio led the team in scoring as she canned 14 points. Sobkow hit for 10 and Sroka scored eight. Novi gave up 22 fouls and Dexter was called for only 10. Sobkow and Giorgio both fouled out for the Wildcats, which is one reason the Dreadnaughts were able to pull away in the final quarter.

Jane Walsh and Laura Greenway combined for 18 of Dexter's 20 fourth-quarter points. Walsh finished with 12 points and 17 rebounds. Greenway scored 10 points for the winners. Candy Lanni led all scorers with 16 points and added 10 rebounds. Dexter is now 10-2 and 4-1 in the Southeastern Conference.

Novi now stands at 2-10 overall and 0-6 in the Kensington Valley Conference. The Novi JV team beat South Lyon by one point, 40-39, but then lost to Dexter 39-31.

Central has edge in annual cross-town grid clash

Forget last week's Walled Lake Central and Walled Lake Western upset wins. Or anything else that happened during the season's previous seven weeks.

"You can just throw the past out the window," Warrior Coach Chuck Apap said Monday in preparing his charges for the annual Viking-Warrior gridiron clash for the city bragging rights, to be played Friday at Central's field beginning at 7:30 p.m. "This game is for pride, and there should be a close, hard-fighting time of it."

If the past is any indication, Apap's prediction will prove correct. Just last week, the two teams engaged in full-scale war in the season finale, with the Vikings eking out a thrilling 21-19 victory on a touchdown pass from Jeff Dewiler to Don Christenson. Each club finished the season with 4-5 records.

This year, Western has already assured itself of having the best mark in the city with its 5-3 record, while Central is 3-3. But both clubs have played good football of late, dropping just one game between them in the last six contests. And each coach is fully aware of that fact.

"They scare us," Apap said of Central. "We respect them... you're talking about a team that beat the number eight club in Oakland County (the Vikings) topped West Bloomfield last week, 10-6. It would just make their season to beat us, and they know that."

Viking Coach Dick Woodworth responded with the same kind of respect for Western.

"They're getting stronger every week," the Central boss noted. "And they're gonna be hard to stop. We'll just have to play our best ball game and hope for a couple of breaks."

Western has two big reasons for winning this win in the worst way. First of all, the Warriors will be looking to chalk up their sixth win of the campaign, marking their best season since they went 7-2 in 1969, their opening year.

Western's five wins thus far represents the first time the school has reached the 500 mark during this decade.

Western will also be seeking a measure of revenge against Central this week. Last year's Viking win extended the Vikings' lead in the grudge series to 8-2, meaning that the Warriors have some catching up to do. Western's only victories over Central came in their first head-to-head confrontation in 1969, and also in 1977.

The Warriors, who finished the season with a 4-2 record in the tough Western Six Conference, will enter the 1979 wrap-up with a three-game winning streak. Western's offense had been particularly potent during that stretch, totalling 110 points in lopsided triumphs over Northville, Waterford Mott and Redford Union.

But the Warriors will have to escape the clutches of a rapidly-improving Central defense to emerge a winner. The Vikings have yielded just eight points in their last two wins (both non-conference victories) in scrambling back from a 1-4 start.

A lack of offensive punch has been the major Viking deficiency this autumn, although the situation has also shown recent signs of improvement. Junior Rick Stevens has taken over the Central quarterbacking reins and led the Vikes to wins in two of their last three tries. Even in a 20-19 loss at Milford Lakeland two weeks ago, Central rang up the most points it has scored in a single contest this fall.

Friday's affair will mark the final high school game for many Warrior and Viking seniors. Rob King, Andy Juszczak, Bruce Meyer, Ed Kirk, Tom Fedorka, Paul Terrill, Scott Parrish, John Ropke, Vince Kobosh and Steve Sommerville are among the Western standouts making their last appearances, while mainstays Curt Burslein, B. J. Scott, Art Christensen, Jim Scarnegie, Rob Kamenoff, Mike McDole, Bob Stevewright, Todd Flannery and Chris Clark will play their last game for Central.

Novi, Northville heads differ on grid rivalry

This Friday the Northville Mustangs and the Novi Wildcats will compete in their ninth straight annual football clash. Northville has won the last five years, downing the Wildcats last season 20-14.

Since both schools are just minutes apart, and many of the athletes grew up together and played on the same summer sport teams, is there much of a rivalry feeling for the game?

"Yes," Novi coach John Osborne said. "I think there is. The kids' older brothers played for Northville before the schools split off from each other. Many of our kids are neighbors of the Northville players. They've played together on summer teams and I think there is a real sense of rivalry there."

"No, I don't think so," Northville coach Dennis Colligan said. "Maybe once, years ago. But it's not as big as it used to be. We are starting to feel a strong rivalry with Livonia Churchill and Farmington Harrison. But the Novi game isn't as big anymore. At the end of the season it's sort of anticlimactic. We used to play them at the beginning of the season and I think that it was more of a rivalry then."

"I'll tell you though, the JV seem to really be fired up for Novi. I think they feel more of a rivalry with them because many of the JV kids for both schools have played together for the O'Leary football program. But basically, Northville is now going one way and Novi is going another. We don't play the same schools and each is developing different rivalries."

And how do the coaches view the upcoming game. With both teams set with 4-4 records, just how close will the contest be?

"I just hope to stay close to them," Osborne said. "Northville has played a tougher schedule than we have. You can't really compare the schedules. This game will be for the bragging rights of the neighborhood so it will be emotional."

Colligan looks at it a little differently. "I have a lot of respect for John Osborne. There aren't too many coaches who prepare better for a game than he does and you can bet he'll have his kids ready to play us."

"He has a bigger team than us and has good running backs and an experienced quarterback. They've played some tough teams themselves and I really think this will be a tough, low-scoring game. I don't think either team will win in a runaway."

Western's Steve Sutherland will run at the State Meet Saturday

Yuhn, Sutherland advance

Steve Sutherland doesn't have the Walled Lake Western market cornered when it comes to finishing first in cross-country events.

Just ask Judy Yuhn.

The Warrior Junior, also a standout on Western's conference-winning girls' track squad last spring, apparently wasn't satisfied with her first-place showing in the girls' league action last Tuesday. So she repeated the performance in Saturday's regional.

Yuhn won all-league honors by finishing October 23 with a time of 19:12 — far ahead of her nearest competitor. Then she went back to score another lopsided triumph in the regionals, clocking in at 18:38 and besting her nearest rival by some 100 yards.

Now the Western ace goes to the state meet this Saturday in Howell, and Warrior Coach Dennis Keeney likes her chances there, too.

"She'll have a good shot at being in the top three," the first-year boss said. "She has an outside chance of taking it all."

Yuhn won't be going to Howell alone, however.

Sutherland also assured himself of participating in state action Saturday as he finished ninth overall at Northville's tough Cass Benton course. In addition, he turned in an outstanding time of 15:57 — bettering by 25 seconds his effort at the Western Six meet four days earlier.

Sutherland's 16:22 showing was second in the league behind Northville stalwart Harry Couyoumian that day. He and John McCormick (seventh overall with a time of 16:47) notched all-league honors.

Overall, it was a very satisfying conference meet for Keeney's crew.

It finished third in the six-team field — not bad for a squad that won only one dual meet all fall.

The junior varsity squad also finished third in league competition, led by freshman Chris Mein. He was eighth overall.

Novi runners fifth in conference

Behind Craig Braue's 16:10 finish in the regional cross country race, which took place last weekend, the Novi runners finished 13th out of a field of 22 schools. Braue's time gave him a 14th place finish out of 154 runners. It also qualified him for next week's state meet. He was named to the all-regional team.

Brian Jordan also ran well at the regional meet. He ran a 17:23 which placed him 63rd overall. Dave Allman ran an 18:24 and Mark Grimm followed with an 18:25. "I'm very pleased with yesterday," Novi coach Norm Norgren said. "All the way round. I'm not surprised last weekend, the Novi team had a good attitude going into the race."

The Novi girls' squad finished 13th out of 19 schools in the regionals. It marks the first year Novi has entered a girls' team in the event.

Deanna Huotari was the top Wildcat runner. She clocked in at 21:07, which placed her 45th overall. Natalie Colliau ran a 22:52.

Earlier in the week the Wildcats participated in the Kensington Valley Conference race. Novi placed fifth. Brighton won the affair with 20 points, Howell was second with 30, Hartland third with 40, Hartland fourth with 50, and Novi fifth with 60.

Braue placed 12th in this race with a time of 16:51. He was named to the second team all-league squad. Jordan placed 20th with a time of 17:41.

The Novi girls placed fourth out of four teams in the conference that have girls' teams. Brighton took first with 24 points, South Lyon was second with 47, Agarwal swam a 1:07:05 in the 100-yard butterfly for second place and Sayre came back to take second in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 1:02:41.

The Wildcats came in last in the 500-yard freestyle, 100-yard backstroke and the 100-yard breaststroke. The 400-yard freestyle relay squad came in second with a time of 4:41.45.

"We're going through some personnel changes right now," coach Donna Roehmer said. "Some of the girls have other commitments and had to drop out of the program. That hasn't helped us any."

Braue earned all-league and all-regional honors while competing in both races. His time of 16:10 placed him 13th out of a field of 154 runners in the regional meet and he ran a 16:51 to place 12th in the Kensington Valley Conference meet.

Huotari is a ninth-grader who went out for the sport just a month ago. Since that time she has consistently finished first for Novi and has even broken the school record for girls. Huotari ran a 21:07 in the regional meet, which was good for a finish of 45th out of a field of 154 girls. In the league meet she placed 14th and was named to the all-league squad. Her time was 21:38.

Novi got dunked by a powerful Chelsea swim team last week, 108-64. The only bright spots for the Wildcats were the 200-yard medley relay squad, which swam a 2:07.69 to take first place, and Bob Agarwal's first in the 100-yard breaststroke. Her time was 1:18.06.

Colleen Weiland swam a 27:14 to place, and Bob Agarwal's first in the 100-yard breaststroke. Her time was 1:18.06.

Carrie Wasilewski scored 113.70 points in the diving competition, good for third.

CRAIG BRAUE

DEANNA HUOTARI

Craig Braue and Deanna Huotari have labored under the spectre of a losing season but both of the Wildcat cross country runners showed why there is hope for the future when each ran outstandingly last week.

Braue earned all-league and all-regional honors while competing in both races. His time of 16:10 placed him 13th out of a field of 154 runners in the regional meet and he ran a 16:51 to place 12th in the Kensington Valley Conference meet.

Huotari is a ninth-grader who went out for the sport just a month ago. Since that time she has consistently finished first for Novi and has even broken the school record for girls. Huotari ran a 21:07 in the regional meet, which was good for a finish of 45th out of a field of 154 girls. In the league meet she placed 14th and was named to the all-league squad. Her time was 21:38.

Novi got dunked by a powerful Chelsea swim team last week, 108-64. The only bright spots for the Wildcats were the 200-yard medley relay squad, which swam a 2:07.69 to take first place, and Bob Agarwal's first in the 100-yard breaststroke. Her time was 1:18.06.

Vivian Kerpel swam a 2:26:55 for a second in the 200-yard freestyle event. Wendy Sayre then took a second in the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:31.08.

Colleen Weiland swam a 27:14 to place, and Bob Agarwal's first in the 100-yard breaststroke. Her time was 1:18.06.

Carrie Wasilewski scored 113.70 points in the diving competition, good for third.

Agarwal swam a 1:07:05 in the 100-yard butterfly for second place and Sayre came back to take second in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 1:02:41.

The Wildcats came in last in the 500-yard freestyle, 100-yard backstroke and the 100-yard breaststroke. The 400-yard freestyle relay squad came in second with a time of 4:41.45.

Central thinclads top .500 level

If Harry Edgington ever had any doubts about this being a jinxed season for his Walled Lake Central cross-country team, the Viking coach can now lay those doubts to rest.

In a way, the fate that befell Central thinclad ace Jim Owens in Saturday's regional meet typified the team's frustration this fall. The senior co-captain looked to be headed to Howell this weekend for the state meet, as he was leading in the race for the final state berth.

But at the last minute, an unidentified runner passed him and Owens ended his high school career prematurely.

He missed going to the state meet by six inches," Edgington said. "Somebody just zipped right past him at the last second. It was a big disappointment for us."

Indeed, the final turn of events had to be upsetting to Owens, who ran well despite being bothered with a split big toe suffered earlier this autumn. He was 19th overall, clocking in at 16:09.

Senior co-captain Kevin Atkinson, struggling despite bone chips in both ankles, was 45th overall as the team finished eighth in a 22-mile field.

To their credit, however, the injury-ridden Vikings still managed to finish over the 500 mark in dual meets after a 28-30 success over Waterford Kettering last Tuesday. Owens, running in dual competition for the final time, was unsuccessful that day in an attempt to break the school record of 15:20.

Central standstill had clocked in at 15:30 in an earlier dual endeavor.

It just didn't seem to be in the cards for Owens. The weather conditions were miserable, and he'd caught a cold as a result. His time was a still-respectable 16:19, though that effort placed him third instead of first.

Central won the meet, however, thanks to team balance. Atkinson and Larry Turner finished fourth and fifth, respectively, as Edgington tasted victory in his final dual competition as coach of the Vikings. The veteran mentor had announced his retirement the previous week, citing health reasons.

Edgington's departure leaves next fall's cross-country outlook somewhat clouded, especially since Owens and Atkinson will have graduated. Just last year, the Vikings' fortunes peaked as the thinclads went all the way to an Inter-Lake Conference title.

"I'm sorry to see the boys go," the outgoing coach said. "It's going to seem kind of strange next year not being with them. But I've enjoyed the time I spent here, and I'll never forget how nice everybody's been."

Walled Lake approves police cars purchase

The Walled Lake Police Department will receive two new police cars soon, following city council approval October 16 of a bid for the vehicles.

Council members voted to buy the 1980 four-door sedan Chevrolet Malibus, equipped with a police package, through the Oakland County Purchasing Division. The council decided to keep one 1978 Plymouth police car for use by all city departments and to auction off the second 1978-model vehicle.

Trumbull Chevrolet Sales Company, Incorporated, of Detroit, quoted a price of $6,700 per unit for the cars, a total of $13,400 for both vehicles. The council set aside $12,500 in federal revenue sharing funds in its 1979-80 budget to purchase the cars.

The city received a lower bid for two four-door sedan Plymouth Volare police package vehicles, but City Manager Peter Parker recommended against that offer because of the amount of "down time" the department experienced on maintenance of the 1978 Plymouths.

Walled Lake bought two Malibu police cars last year. Police Chief Wilford Hook said the mid-size vehicles have performed well.
